period from the time of his first visit to Jerusalem (1:18) to the one Paul refers to here, which probably was for the Jerusalem Council (Acts 15:1–22) called to resolve the issue of Gentile salvation. Linguistically, the word “again” need not refer to the next visit; it can just as easily mean “once again” without respect to how many visits took place in between. And in fact, Paul did visit Jerusalem during that 14-year period to deliver famine relief to the church there (Acts 11:27–30; 12:24–25), but he does not refer to that visit here since it had no bearing on his apostolic authority. Barnabas. See note on Acts 4:36. Paul’s first ally who vouched for him before the apostles at Jerusalem (Acts 9:27), and became his traveling companion on his first missionary journey (Acts 13:2–3). Titus. A spiritual child of Paul and a coworker (Titus 1:4–5). As an uncircumcised Gentile, Titus was fitting proof of the effectiveness of Paul’s ministry. See Introduction to Titus: Author and Date.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:2 because of a revelation. This revelation from God was the voice of the Holy Spirit (see notes on Acts 13:2–4). He refers to the divine commissioning of his visit in order to refute any suggestion by the Judaizers that they had sent Paul to Jerusalem to have the apostles correct his doctrine. gospel. See note on Gal. 1:7. those who seemed influential. The three main leaders of the Jerusalem church: Peter, James (the Lord’s brother, 1:19), and John (cf. 2:9). This phrase was typically used of authorities and implied a position of honor. Paul refers to them in a similar way two other times (vv. 6, 9), suggesting a hint of sarcasm directed toward the Judaizers, who claimed they had apostolic approval for their doctrine and Paul did not. They had likely made a habit of exalting these three leaders at the expense of Paul. not running . . . in vain. Paul hoped the Jerusalem leaders would support his ministry to the Gentiles and not soften their opposition to legalism. He did not want to see his ministry efforts wasted because of conflict with the other apostles.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:3 Greek. See note on Rom. 1:14. forced to be circumcised. At the core of the Judaizers’ works system was the Mosaic prescription of circumcision (see notes on Gen. 17:9–14; Rom. 4:9–12). They were teaching that there could be no salvation without circumcision (Acts 15:1, 5, 24). Paul and the apostles denied that and it was settled at the Jerusalem Council (Acts 15:1–22). See notes on Gal. 5:2–12; 6:15; Rom. 4:10–12; cf. 1 Cor. 7:19. As a true believer, Titus was living proof that circumcision and the Mosaic regulations were not prerequisites or necessary components of salvation. The apostles’ refusal to require Titus’s circumcision verified the church’s rejection of the Judaizers’ doctrine (cf. 1–2 Timothy, Acts 16:1–3).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:4 false brothers. The Judaizers, who pretended to be true Christians. Yet, their doctrine, because it claimed allegiance to Christ, was opposed to traditional Judaism, and because it demanded circumcision and obedience to the Mosaic law as prerequisites for salvation, was opposed to Christianity. to spy out. This Greek word pictures spies or traitors entering by stealth into an enemy's camp. The Judaizers were Satan's undercover agents sent into the midst of the church to sabotage the true gospel. freedom. Christians are free from the law as a means of salvation, from its external ceremonial regulations as a way of living, and from its curse for disobedience to the law—a curse that Christ bore for all believers (3:13). This freedom is not, however, a license to sin (5:13; Rom. 6:18; 1 Pet. 2:16). slavery. Conveys the idea of absolute slavery to an impossible system of works righteousness.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:5 we did not yield. Paul and Titus (v. 3) never budged from their position of salvation by grace alone through faith alone. truth of the gospel. The true gospel as opposed to the different (1:6–8) and false one propagated by the Judaizers (see note on Rom. 1:1).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:6 those who seemed to be influential. Another reference to Peter, James, and John (see note on v. 2). partiality. The unique privileges of the Twelve did not make their apostleship more legitimate or authoritative than Paul's—Christ commissioned them all (cf. Rom. 2:11). Paul never saw himself as apostolically inferior (see 2 Cor. 12:11–12).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:7 The Judaizers claimed Paul was preaching a deviant gospel, but the apostles confirmed that he proclaimed the true gospel. It was the same gospel Peter proclaimed, but to a different audience. to the uncircumcised. Paul preached the gospel primarily to the Gentiles (also to Jews in Gentile lands, as his pattern was to go to the synagogue first; cf. Acts 13:5). Peter had been . . . to the circumcised. Peter's ministry was primarily to the Jews.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:8 he who worked through Peter . . . through me. The Holy Spirit, who has but one gospel, empowered both Peter and Paul in their ministries.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:9 grace . . . given to me. The only conclusion these leaders could make was that God's grace was responsible for the powerful preaching of the gospel and the building of the church through Paul's efforts.

James and Cephas and John. This James was Jesus' half-brother (1:19), who had risen to a prominent role in the Jerusalem church (see Introduction to James). Cephas (Peter) and John (the brother of James the apostle, martyred in Acts 12:2), were two of Christ's closest companions and became the main apostles in the Jerusalem church (see Acts 2–12). pillars. Emphasizing the role of James, Peter, and John in establishing and supporting the church. Barnabas. See notes on Gal. 2:1 and Acts 4:36. the right hand of fellowship. In the Near East, this represented a solemn vow of friendship and a mark of partnership. This act signified the apostles' recognition of Paul as a teacher of the true gospel and a partner in ministry. we should go to the Gentiles. Further confirmation of Paul's divine call to ministry and a blow to the Judaizers, since the apostles directed him to continue in his already flourishing ministry to the Gentiles. circumcised. See note on Gal. 2:7.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:10 remember the poor. A practical reminder for Paul and the growing ranks of Gentile Christians. The number of Christians in Jerusalem grew rapidly at first (cf. Acts 2:41–45; 6:1) and many who were visiting the city for the feast of Pentecost (Acts 2:1, 5) remained and never returned to their homes. While the believers initially shared their resources (Acts 2:45; 4:32–37), many had little money. For years the Jerusalem church was economically pressed. See note on Acts 11:28.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:11–13 A brief account of the darkest of days in the history of the gospel. By withdrawing from the Gentile believers to fellowship with the Judaizers who held a position he knew was wrong, Peter had in appearance supported their doctrine and nullified Paul's divine teaching, especially the doctrine of salvation by grace alone through faith alone. See notes on 2 Cor. 6:14–18 and 2 John 10–11.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:11 Antioch. See note on Acts 11:19. The location of the first Gentile church. stood condemned. Peter was guilty of sin by aligning himself with men he knew to be in error and because of the harm and confusion he caused his Gentile brethren.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:12 certain men came from James. Peter, knowing the decision the Jerusalem Council had made (Acts 15:7–29), had been in Antioch for some time, eating with Gentiles. When Judaizers came, pretending to be sent by James, they lied, giving false claims of support from the apostles. Peter had already given up all Mosaic ceremony (Acts 10:9–22) and James had at times held only to some of it (Acts 21:18–26). drew back. The Greek term refers to strategic military withdrawal. The verb's form may imply that Peter's withdrawal was gradual and deceptive. To eat with the Judaizers and decline invitations to eat with the Gentiles, which he had previously done, meant that Peter was affirming the very dietary restrictions he knew God had abolished (Acts 10:15) and thus striking a blow at the gospel of grace. fearing the circumcision party. The true motivation behind Peter's defection. He was afraid of losing popularity with the legalistic, Judaizing segment of people in the church, even though they were self-righteous hypocrites promoting a heretical doctrine.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:13 the rest of the Jews. The Jewish believers in Antioch. hypocritically. The Greek word “hypocrite” refers to an actor who wore a mask to depict a mood or certain character. In the spiritual sense, it refers to someone who masks his true character by pretending to be something he is not (cf. Matt. 6:1–6). They were committed to the gospel of grace, but pretended to accept Jewish legalism.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:14 not in step. Lit., to walk “straight” or “uprightly.” By withdrawing from the Gentile Christians, Peter and the other Jewish believers were not walking in line with God's word. truth of the gospel. See note on v. 5. live like a Gentile. Before his gradual withdrawal, Peter regularly had fellowship and ate with the Gentiles, thus modeling the ideal of Christian love and liberty between Jew and Gentile. force the Gentiles to live like Jews. By his Judaizing mandate, he was declaring theirs was the right way.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:15–16 Paul's rebuke of Peter serves as one of the most dynamic statements in the NT on the absolute and unwavering necessity of the doctrine of justification by grace through faith (see note on Rom. 3:24). Peter's apparent repentance acknowledged Paul's apostolic authority and his own submission to the truth (cf. 2 Pet. 3:15–16).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:15 Gentile sinners. This is used in the legal sense since Gentiles were sinners by nature because they had no revealed divine written law to guide them toward salvation or living righteously.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:16 works . . . faith. Three times in this verse Paul declares that salvation is only through faith in Christ and not by law. The first is general, “a person is not justified”; the second is personal, “we also have believed . . . in order to be justified”; and the third is universal, “no one will be justified.” justified. This basic forensic Greek word describes a judge declaring an accused person not guilty and therefore innocent before the law. Throughout Scripture it refers to God’s declaring a sinner not guilty and fully righteous before him by imputing to him the divine righteousness of Christ and imputing the man’s sin to his sinless Savior for punishment (see notes on Rom. 3:24; Phil. 3:8–9). works of the law. Keeping the law is a totally unacceptable means of salvation because the root of sinfulness is in the fallenness of man’s heart, not his actions. The law served as a mirror to reveal sin, not a cure for it (see notes on Gal. 3:22–24; Rom. 7:7–13; 1 Tim. 1:8–11).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:17 we too were found to be sinners. If the Judaizers’ doctrine was correct, then Paul, Peter, Barnabas, and the other Jewish believers fell back into the category of sinners because they had been eating and fellowshiping with Gentiles, who according to the Judaizers were unclean. servant of sin. If the Judaizers were right, then Christ was wrong and had been teaching people to sin because he taught that food could not contaminate a person (Mark 7:19; cf. Acts 10:13–15). He also declared that all who belong to him are one with him and therefore each other (John 17:21–23). Paul’s airtight logic condemned Peter, because by his actions he had in effect made it appear as if Christ was lying. This thought is utterly objectionable and causes Paul to use the strongest Greek negative (“certainly not”; cf. Gal. 3:21; Rom. 6:1–2; 7:13).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:18 what I tore down. The false system of salvation through legalism (see note on 1:13), done away with by the preaching of salvation by grace alone through faith alone.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:19 died to the law. When a person is convicted of a capital crime and executed, the law has no further claim on him. So it is with the Christian who has died in Christ (who paid the penalty for his sins in full) and rises to new life in him—justice has been satisfied and he is forever free from any further penalty. See notes on Rom. 7:1–6.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:20 I have been crucified with Christ. See notes on Rom. 6:2–6. When a person trusts in Christ for salvation, he spiritually participates with the Lord in his crucifixion and his victory over sin and death. no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me. The believer’s old self is dead (see note on Eph. 4:22), having been crucified with Christ (Rom. 6:3, 5). The believer’s new self has the privilege of the indwelling Christ empowering him and living through him (see notes on Rom. 8:9–10). gave himself for me. The manifestation of Christ's love for the believer through his sacrificial death on the cross (John 10:17–18; Rom. 5:6–8; Eph. 5:25–30).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 2:21 Paul concluded that Peter, by taking his stand with the Judaizers and thus against Christ, was in effect denying the need for God's grace and thereby nullifying the benefit of Christ's death. righteousness. See note on Rom. 1:17. Christ died for no purpose. Those who insist they can earn salvation by their own efforts undermine the foundation of Christianity and render unnecessary the death of Christ.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:1 foolish. This refers not to lack of intelligence, but to lack of obedience (cf. Luke 24:25; 1 Tim. 6:9; Titus 3:3). Paul expressed his shock, surprise, and outrage at the Galatians' defection. Who. The Judaizers, the Jewish false teachers, were plaguing the Galatian churches (see Introduction: Background and Setting). bewitched. Charmed or misled by flattery and false promises. The term suggests an appeal to the emotions by the Judaizers. publicly portrayed. The Greek word describes the posting of official notices in public places. Paul's preaching had publicly displayed the true gospel of Jesus Christ before the Galatians. crucified. The crucifixion of Christ was a one-time historical fact with continuing results into eternity. Christ's sacrificial death provides eternal payment for believers' sins (cf. Heb. 7:25), and does not need to be supplemented by any human works.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:2 Did you receive the Spirit . . . ? The answer to Paul's rhetorical question is obvious. The Galatians had received the Spirit when they were saved (Rom. 8:9; 1 Cor. 12:13; 1 John 3:24; 4:13), not through keeping the law, but through saving faith granted when hearing the gospel (cf. Rom. 10:17). The hearing of faith is actually hearing with faith. Paul appealed to the Galatians' own salvation to refute the Judaizers' false teaching that keeping the law is necessary for salvation.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:3 Are you so foolish? Incredulous at how easily the Galatians had been duped, Paul asked a second rhetorical question, again rebuking them for their foolishness. begun by the Spirit . . . by the flesh. The notion that sinful, weak (Matt. 26:41; Rom. 6:19), fallen human nature could improve on the saving work of the Holy Spirit was ludicrous to Paul.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:4 suffer. The Greek word has the basic meaning of “experience,” and does not necessarily imply pain or hardship. Paul used it to describe the Galatians’ personal experience of salvation in Jesus Christ. many things. This refers to all the blessings of salvation from God, Christ, and the Holy Spirit (cf. Eph. 1:3). if indeed it was in vain? See Luke 8:13; Acts 8:13, 21; 1 Cor. 15:2; 2 Cor. 6:1; 13:5–6.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:5 hearing with faith. See note on v. 2.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:6 As he does in Romans (see note on Rom. 4:3), Paul, quoting Gen. 15:6, uses Abraham as proof that there has never been any other way of salvation than by grace through faith. Even the OT teaches justification by faith.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:7 sons of Abraham. Believing Jews and Gentiles are the true spiritual children of Abraham because they follow his example of faith (cf. v. 29; Rom. 4:11, 16).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:8 Scripture, foreseeing. Personifying the Scriptures was a common Jewish figure of speech (cf. 4:30; John 7:38, 42; 19:37; Rom. 9:17; 10:11; 11:2; 1 Tim. 5:18). Because Scripture is God’s word, when it speaks, God speaks. preached the gospel . . . to Abraham. The “good news” to Abraham was the news of salvation for all the nations (quoted from Gen. 12:3; 18:18). See Gen. 22:18; John 8:56; Acts 26:22–23. Salvation has always, in every age, been by faith.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:9 those who are of faith . . . with Abraham. Whether Jew or Gentile. The OT predicted that Gentiles would receive the blessings of justification by faith, as did Abraham. Those blessings are poured out on all because of Christ (cf. John 1:16; Rom. 8:32; Eph. 1:3; 2:6–7; Col. 2:10; 1 Pet. 3:9; 2 Pet. 1:3–4).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:10 works of the law. Those attempting to earn salvation by keeping the law. under a curse. Quoted from Deut. 27:26 to show that failure to perfectly keep the law brings divine judgment and condemnation. One violation of the law deserves the curse of God. Cf. Deut. 27–28. all things. See James 2:10. No one can keep all the commands of the law—not even strict Pharisees like Saul of Tarsus (Rom. 7:7–12).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:11 no one is justified . . . by the law. Cf. Rom. 3:20. justified. Made righteous before God. See note on Rom. 3:24. The righteous shall live by faith. See note on Rom. 1:17. Paul's earlier OT quote (Gal. 3:10; cf. Deut. 27:26) showed that justification does not come from keeping the law; this quote from Hab. 2:4 shows that justification is by faith alone (cf. Heb. 10:38).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:12 the law is not of faith. Justification by faith and justification by keeping the law are mutually exclusive, as Paul's OT quote from Lev. 18:5 proves.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:13 Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law. The Greek word translated "redeemed" was often used to speak of buying a slave's or debtor's freedom. Christ's death, because it was a death of substitution for sin, satisfied God's justice and exhausted his wrath toward his elect, so that Christ actually purchased believers from slavery to sin and from the sentence of eternal death (4:5; Titus 2:14; 1 Pet. 1:18; cf. Rom. 3:24; 1 Cor. 1:30; Eph. 1:7; Col. 1:14; Heb. 9:12). becoming a curse for us. By bearing God's wrath for believers' sins on the cross (see note on 2 Cor. 5:21; cf. Heb. 9:28; 1 Pet. 2:24; 3:18), Christ took upon himself the curse pronounced on those who violated the law (see note on Gal. 3:10). it is written. The common NT way (61 times) of introducing OT quotes (see note on Rom. 3:10). Deuteronomy 21:23 is quoted.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:14 the blessing of Abraham. Faith in God's promise of salvation. See note on v. 9. promised Spirit. From God the Father. Cf. Isa. 32:15; 44:3; 59:19–21; Ezek. 36:26–27; 37:14; 39:29; Joel 2:28–29; Luke 11:13; 24:49; John 7:37–39; 14:16, 26.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:15–22 Paul anticipated and refuted a possible objection to his use of Abraham to prove the doctrine of justification by faith, that the giving of the law at Sinai after Abraham brought about a change and a better method of salvation. The apostle dismissed that argument by showing the superiority of the Abrahamic Covenant (vv. 15–18), and the inferiority of the law (vv. 19–22).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:15 brothers. This term of endearment reveals Paul's compassionate love for the Galatians—which they may have begun to question in light of his stern rebuke (vv. 1, 3). man-made covenant. Even human covenants, once confirmed, are considered irrevocable and unchangeable, how much more a covenant made by an unchanging God (Mal. 3:6; James 1:17).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:16 promises. Those associated with the Abrahamic

Covenant (Gen. 12:3, 7; 13:15–16; 15:5, 18; 17:8; 22:16–18; 26:3–4; 28:13–14). Because they were made both to Abraham and his descendants, they did not become void when Abraham died, or when the law came. offspring. Cf. Gal. 3:19. The quote is from Gen. 12:7. The singular form of the Hebrew word, like its English and Greek counterparts, can be used in a collective sense. Paul’s point is that in some OT passages (e.g., Gen. 3:15; 22:18), “offspring” refers to the greatest of Abraham’s descendants, Jesus Christ.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:17 430 years. From Israel’s sojourn in Egypt (cf. Ex. 12:40) to the giving of the law at Sinai (c. 1445 B.C.). The law actually came 645 years after the initial promise to Abraham (c. 2090 B.C.; cf. Gen. 12:4; 21:5; 25:26; 47:9), but the promise was repeated to Isaac (Gen. 26:24) and later to Jacob (c. 1928 B.C.; Gen. 28:15). The last known reaffirmation of the Abrahamic Covenant to Jacob occurred in Gen. 46:2–4 (c. 1875 B.C.) just before he went to Egypt—430 years before the Mosaic law was given. a covenant. The Abrahamic Covenant (see note on Gal. 3:16). For a discussion of the biblical covenants, see notes on Gen. 9:16; 12:1–3; Rom. 9:4. previously ratified by God. See note on Gal. 3:15. Once God ratified the covenant officially (see notes on Gen. 15:9–21), it had lasting authority so that nothing and no one could annul it. The Abrahamic Covenant was unilateral (God made the promise to himself), eternal (it provided for everlasting blessing), irrevocable (it will never cease), unconditional (in that it depended on God, not man), but its complete fulfillment awaits the salvation of Israel and the millennial kingdom of Jesus Christ.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:18 Paul again emphasized that there is no middle ground between law (works) and promise (grace); the two principles are mutually exclusive ways of salvation (cf. Rom. 4:14). An “inheritance” by definition is something granted, not worked for, as proven in the case of Abraham.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:19–22 Having shown the superiority of the promise to Abraham (vv. 15–18), Paul described the inferiority of the law, and its purpose.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:19 was added because of transgressions. Paul’s persuasive argument that the promise is superior to the law raises an obvious question: What was the purpose of the law? Paul’s answer is that the law reveals man’s utter sinfulness, inability to save himself, and desperate need of a Savior—it was never intended to be the way of salvation (cf. Rom. 7:1–13). through angels. The Bible teaches that angels were involved in the giving of the law (cf. Acts 7:53; Heb. 2:2), but does not explain the precise role they played.

offspring. See note on Gal. 3:16.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:20 intermediary. Paul’s point is apparently that a “mediator” is required when more than one party is involved, but God alone ratified the covenant with Abraham (see notes on Gen. 15:7–21).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:21 Paul uses the strongest Greek negative (see note on 2:17) to disdain the idea that the law and the promise are at opposite purposes. Since God gave them both and does not work against himself, law and promise work in harmony; the law reveals man’s sinfulness and need for the salvation freely offered in the promise. If the law could have provided righteousness and eternal life, there would be no gracious promise.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:22 imprisoned everything under sin. The Greek verb translated “imprisoned” means “to enclose on all sides.” Paul portrays all mankind as hopelessly trapped in sin, like a school of fish caught in a net. That all people are sinners is the express teaching of Scripture (see note on Rom. 3:19; cf. 1 Kings 8:46; Ps. 143:2; Prov. 20:9; Eccles. 7:20; Isa. 53:6; Rom. 3:9–19, 23; 11:32).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:23 before faith came. From the viewpoints of both the history of redemption and through all times in the area of individual salvation (cf. vv. 19, 24–25; 4:1–4), only saving faith unlocks the door of the prison where the law keeps men bound. held captive under the law. Paul personifies the law as a jailer of guilty, condemned sinners on death row awaiting God’s judgment (Rom. 6:23). the coming faith would be revealed. Again Paul was looking at the coming of Christ, historically and at each believer’s salvation, individually. Faith in Christ alone releases people from bondage to law, whether the Mosaic law, or the law written on the hearts of Gentiles (Rom. 2:14–16).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:24 guardian. The Greek word denotes a slave whose duty it was to take care of a child until adulthood. The “guardian” escorted the children to and from school and watched over their behavior at home. Guardians were often strict disciplinarians, causing those under their care to yearn for the day when they would be free from their guardian’s custody. The law was our tutor which, by showing us our sins, was escorting us to Christ.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:25–26 Believers, through faith in Jesus Christ, have come of age as God’s children. Thus, they are not under the tutelage of the law (Rom. 6:14), although they are still obligated to obey God's holy and unchanging righteous standards, which are now given authority in the New Covenant (Gal. 6:2; Rom. 8:4; 1 Cor. 9:21).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:26 sons of God. While God is the Father of all people in a general sense because he created them (Acts 17:24–28), only those who have put their faith in Jesus Christ are God's true spiritual children. Unbelievers are the children of Satan (Matt. 13:38; John 8:38, 41, 44; Acts 13:10; 1 John 3:10; cf. Eph. 2:3; 1 John 5:19).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:27 baptized into Christ. This is not water baptism, which cannot save (see notes on Acts 2:38; 22:16). Paul used the word “baptized” in a metaphorical manner to speak of being “immersed,” or “placed into” Christ (cf. Gal. 2:20) by the spiritual miracle of union with him in his death and resurrection. See notes on Rom. 6:3–4; cf. 1 Cor. 6:17. put on Christ. The result of the believer's spiritual union with Christ. Paul was emphasizing the fact that we have been united with Christ through salvation. Positionally before God, we have put on Christ, his death, resurrection, and righteousness (see notes on Phil. 3:8–10). Practically, we need to clothe ourselves with Christ before men, in our conduct (Rom. 13:14).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:28 you are all one in Christ Jesus. All those who are one with Jesus Christ are one with one another. This verse does not deny that God has designed racial, social, and sexual distinctions among Christians, but it affirms that those do not imply spiritual inequality before God. Nor is this spiritual equality incompatible with the God-ordained roles of headship and submission in the church, society, and at home. Jesus Christ, though fully equal with the Father, assumed a submissive role during his incarnation (Phil. 2:5–8).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 3:29 Abraham's offspring. See note on v. 7. Not all physical children of Abraham are the “Israel of God” (cf. 6:16), that is, true spiritual children of Abraham (Rom. 9:6–8). Gentile believers who are not physical children of Abraham are, however, his spiritual children in the sense that they followed the pattern of his faith (see note on Rom. 4:11–12). heirs according to promise. All believers are heirs of the spiritual blessing that accompanied the Abrahamic Covenant—justification by faith (Gen. 15:6; cf. Rom. 4:3–11).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:1–7 Paul expands on the analogy of a child's coming of age (3:24–26), contrasting believers’ lives before salvation (as children and servants) with their lives after salvation (as adults and sons). Both Paul’s Jewish and Gentile readers readily understood this imagery, since the Jews, Greeks, and Romans all had a ceremony to mark a child’s coming of age.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:1 child. The Greek word refers to a child too young to talk; a minor, spiritually and intellectually immature and not ready for the privileges and responsibilities of adulthood.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:2 guardians and managers. “Guardians” were slaves entrusted with the care of underage boys, while “managers” managed their property for them until they came of age. Along with the tutor (3:24), they had almost complete charge of the child—so that, for all practical purposes, a child under their care did not differ from a slave.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:3 when we were children, were enslaved. Before our “coming of age” when we came to saving faith in Jesus Christ. the elementary principles of the world. “Elementary” is from a Greek word meaning “row,” or “rank,” and was used to speak of basic, foundational things like the letters of the alphabet. In light of its use in v. 9, it is best to see it here as a reference to the basic elements and rituals of human religion (see note on Col. 2:8). Paul describes both Jewish and Gentile religions as elementary because they are merely human, never rising to the level of the divine. Both Jewish religion and Gentile religion centered on man-made systems of works. They were filled with laws and ceremonies to be performed so as to achieve divine acceptance. All such rudimentary elements are immature, like behaviors of children under bondage to a guardian.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:4 the fullness of time. In God’s timetable, when the exact religious, cultural, and political conditions demanded by his perfect plan were in place, Jesus came into the world. God sent forth his Son. As a father set the time for the ceremony of his son becoming of age and being released from the guardians, managers, and tutors, so God sent his Son at the precise moment to bring all who believe out from under bondage to the law—a truth Jesus repeatedly affirmed (John 5:30, 36–37; 6:39, 44, 57; 8:16, 18, 42; 12:49; 17:21, 25; 20:21). That the Father sent Jesus into the world teaches his pre-existence as the eternal second member of the Trinity. See notes on Phil. 2:6–7; Heb. 1:3–5; cf. Rom. 8:3–4. born of woman. This emphasizes Jesus’ full humanity, not merely his virgin birth (Isa. 7:14; Matt. 1:20–25). Jesus had to be fully God for his sacrifice to be of the infinite worth needed to atone for sin. But, he also had to be fully man so he could take upon himself the penalty of sin as the substitute for man. See Luke 1:32, 35; John 1:1, 14, 18. under the law. Like all men, Jesus was obligated to obey God's law. Unlike anyone else, however, he perfectly obeyed that law (John 8:46; 2 Cor. 5:21; Heb. 4:15; 7:26; 1 Pet. 2:22; 1 John 3:5). His sinlessness made him the unblemished sacrifice for sins, who perfectly obeyed God in everything. That perfect righteousness is what is imputed to those who believe in him.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:5 redeem. See note on 3:13. those . . . under the law.

Guilty sinners who are under the law's demands and its curses (see notes on 3:10, 13) and in need of a savior (see note on 3:23). adoption as sons.

"Adoption" is the act of bringing someone who is the offspring of another into one's own family. Since unregenerate people are by nature children of the devil (see note on 3:26), the only way they can become God's children is by spiritual adoption (Rom. 8:15, 23; Eph. 1:5).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:6 Spirit of his Son. It is the Holy Spirit's work to confirm to believers their adoption as God's children (see note on Rom. 8:15). Assurance of salvation is a gracious work of the Holy Spirit and does not come from any human source. Abba! An Aramaic term of endearment, used by young children to speak to their fathers; the equivalent of the word "Daddy" (see note on Rom. 8:15).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:8–11 While salvation is the free gift of God (Rom. 5:15–16, 18; 6:23; Eph. 2:8), it brings with it serious responsibility (cf. Luke 12:48). God requires believers to live a holy life because they are children of a holy God and desire to love and worship him (Matt. 5:48; 1 Pet. 1:15–18). That obligation was to the unchanging moral and spiritual principles that forever reflect the nature of God; however, it did not include the rituals and ceremonies unique to Israel under Mosaic law as the Judaizers falsely claimed.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:8 when you did not know God. Before coming to saving faith in Christ, no unsaved person knows God. See notes on Eph. 4:17–19 and 2 Cor. 4:3–6. by nature are not gods. The Greco-Roman pantheon of non-existent deities the Galatians had imagined they worshiped before their conversion (cf. Rom. 1:23; 1 Cor. 8:4; 10:19–20; 12:2; 1 Thess. 1:9).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:9 known by God. We can know God only because he first knew us, just as we choose him only because he first chose us (John 6:44; 15:16), and we love him only because he first loved us (1 John 4:19). turn back again. See notes on Gal. 3:1–3. weak . . . worthless . . . slaves . . . once more. See note on 4:3.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:10 days . . . years. The rituals, ceremonies, and festivals of the Jewish religious calendar that God had given, but were never required for the church. Paul warns the Galatians, as he did the Colossians (see notes on Rom. 14:1–6; Col. 2:16–17), against legalistically observing them as if they were required by God or could earn favor with him.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:11 labored . . . in vain. Paul feared that his effort in establishing and building the Galatian churches might prove to be futile if they fell back into legalism (cf. 3:4; 1 Thess. 3:5).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:12–20 Having sternly rebuked the Galatians, Paul changes his approach and makes an appeal based on his strong affection for them.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:12 become as I am, for I also have become as you are. Paul had been a proud, self-righteous Pharisee, trusting in his own righteousness to save him (cf. Phil. 3:4–6). But when he came to Christ, he abandoned all efforts to save himself, trusting wholly in God's grace (Phil. 3:7–9). He urged the Galatians to follow his example and avoid the legalism of the Judaizers. You did me no wrong. Though the Jews persecuted him when he first went to Galatia, the Galatian believers had not harmed Paul, but had enthusiastically received him when he preached the gospel to them (cf. Acts 13:42–50; 14:19). How, he asked, could they reject him now?

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:13 bodily ailment. Some think the illness Paul refers to was malaria, possibly contracted in the coastal lowlands of Pamphylia. That could explain why Paul and Barnabas apparently did not preach at Perga, a city in Pamphylia (cf. Acts 13:13–14). The cooler and healthier weather in Galatia and especially at Pisidian Antioch (3,600 feet above sea level), where Paul went when he left Perga, would have brought some relief to the fever caused by malaria. Although malaria is a serious, debilitating disease, its attacks are not continuous; Paul could have ministered between bouts with fever.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:14 received me. The Galatians welcomed Paul in spite of his illness, which in no way was a barrier to his credibility or acceptance. as Christ Jesus. See notes on Matt. 18:5–10.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:15 blessing you felt. “Blessing” can also be translated “happiness,” or “satisfaction.” Paul points out that the Galatians had been happy and content with his gospel preaching (cf. Acts 13:48) and wonders why they had turned against him. gouged out your eyes. This may be a figure of speech (cf. Matt. 5:29; 18:9), or an indication that Paul’s bodily illness (see note on Gal. 4:13) had somehow affected his eyes (cf. 6:11). In either case, it reflects the great love the Galatians had initially expressed for the apostle.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:16 your enemy. The Galatians had become so confused that, in spite of their previous affection for Paul, some had come to regard him as their enemy. The apostle reminds them that he had not harmed them, but merely told them the truth—a truth that had once brought them great joy (see note on v. 15).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:17 They. The Judaizers (see Introduction: Background and Setting). make much of you. With a serious concern, or warm interest (the same word is used in 1:14 to describe Paul’s former zeal for Judaism). The Judaizers appeared to have a genuine interest in the Galatians, but their true motive was to exclude the Galatians from God’s gracious salvation and win recognition for themselves.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:18 not only when I am present. Paul encouraged the Galatians to have the same zeal for the true gospel of grace that they had had when he was with them.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:19 my little children. Paul’s only use of this affectionate phrase, which John uses frequently (“My little children,” 1 John 2:1, 18, 28; 3:7, 18; 4:4; 5:21). until Christ is formed in you. In contrast to the evil motives of the Judaizers (see note on Gal. 3:1), Paul sought to bring the Galatians to Christlikeness. This is the goal of salvation (see notes on Rom. 8:29).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:20 am perplexed. The verb means “to be at wit’s end.”

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:21–5:1 Paul, continuing to contrast grace and law, faith and works, employs an OT story as an analogy or illustration of what he has been teaching.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:21 under the law. See note on 3:10.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:22 two sons. Ishmael, son of Sarah's Egyptian maid Hagar (Gen. 16:1–16), and Isaac, Sarah's son (Gen. 21:1–7).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:23 according to the flesh. Ishmael's birth was motivated by Abraham and Sarah's lack of faith in God's promise and fulfilled by sinful human means. through promise. God miraculously enabled Abraham and Sarah to have Isaac when Sarah was well past childbearing age and had been barren her entire life.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:24 interpreted allegorically. The Greek word was used of a story that conveyed a meaning beyond the literal sense of the words. In this passage, Paul uses historical people and places from the OT to illustrate spiritual truth. This is actually not an allegory, nor are there any allegories in Scripture. An allegory is a fictional story where real truth is the secret, mysterious, hidden meaning. The story of Abraham, Sarah, Hagar, Ishmael, and Isaac is actual history and has no secret or hidden meaning. Paul uses it only as an illustration to support his contrast between law and grace. two covenants. Paul uses the two mothers, their two sons, and two locations as a further illustration of two covenants. Hagar, Ishmael, and Mount Sinai (earthly Jerusalem) represent the covenant of law; Sarah, Isaac and the heavenly Jerusalem the covenant of promise. However, Paul cannot be contrasting these two covenants as different ways of salvation, one way for OT saints, another for NT saints—a premise he has already denied (2:16; 3:10–14, 21–22). The purpose of the Mosaic Covenant was only to show all who were under its demands and condemnation their desperate need for salvation by grace alone (3:24)—it was never intended to portray the way of salvation. Paul's point is that those, like the Judaizers, who attempt to earn righteousness by keeping the law receive only bondage and condemnation (3:10, 23). While those who partake of salvation by grace—the only way of salvation since Adam's sin—are freed from the law's bondage and condemnation. Mount Sinai. An appropriate symbol for the Old Covenant, since it was at Mount Sinai that Moses received the law (Ex. 19). Hagar. Since she was Sarah's slave (Gen. 16:1), Hagar is a fitting illustration of those under bondage to the law (cf. Gal. 4:5, 21; 3:23). She was actually associated with Mount Sinai through her son Ishmael, whose descendants settled in that region.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:25 corresponds to . . . Jerusalem. The law was given at Sinai and received its highest expression in the temple worship at Jerusalem. The Jewish people were still in bondage to the law.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:26 Jerusalem above is free. Heaven (Heb. 12:18, 22). Those who are citizens of heaven (Phil. 3:20) are free from the Mosaic law, works, bondage, and trying endlessly and futilely to please God by the flesh. our mother. Believers are children of the heavenly Jerusalem, the “mother-city” of heaven. In contrast to the slavery of Hagar’s children, believers in Christ are free (Gal. 5:1; Isa. 61:1; Luke 4:18; John 8:36; Rom. 6:18, 22; 8:2; 2 Cor. 3:17).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:27 Paul applies the passage from Isa. 54:1 to the Jerusalem above.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:28 children of promise. Just as Isaac inherited the promises made to Abraham (Gen. 26:1–3), so also are believers the recipients of God’s redemptive promises (1 Cor. 3:21–23; Eph. 1:3), because they are spiritual heirs of Abraham (see note on Gal. 3:29).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:29 he who was born according to the flesh. Ishmael. See note on v. 23. persecuted him who was born according to the Spirit. Isaac, whom Ishmael mocked at the feast celebrating Isaac’s weaning (see Gen. 21:8–9). so also it is now. Ishmael’s descendants (Arabs) have always persecuted Isaac’s (Jews). So unbelievers have always persecuted believers (cf. Matt. 5:11; 10:22–25; Mark 10:30; John 15:19–20; 16:2, 33; 17:14; Acts 14:22; 2 Tim. 3:12; Heb. 11:32–37; 1 Pet. 2:20–21; 3:14; 4:12–14).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:30 Cast out the slave woman. Quoted from Gen. 21:10 to illustrate that those who are attempting to be justified on the basis of keeping the law will be cast out of God’s presence forever (Matt. 8:12; 22:12–13; 25:30; Luke 13:28; 2 Thess. 1:9).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 4:31 we are not children of the slave. See notes on 4:24, 26.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:1 free. Deliverance from the curse that the law pronounces on the sinner who has been striving unsuccessfully to achieve his own righteousness (3:13, 22–26; 4:1–7), but who has now embraced Christ and the salvation granted to him by grace (see notes on 2:4; 4:26; cf. Rom. 7:3; 8:2). stand firm. Stay where you are, Paul asserts, because of the benefit of being free from law and the flesh as a way of salvation and the fullness of blessing by grace. submit again. Better translated “to be burdened by” or “to be oppressed by” because of its connection with a yoke. yoke of slavery. “Yoke” refers to the apparatus used to control a domesticated animal. The Jews thought of the “yoke of the law” as a good thing, the essence of true religion. Paul argued that for those who pursued it as a way of salvation, the law was a yoke of slavery. See note on Matt. 11:28–30.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:2 circumcision. See notes on 2:3. Paul had no objection to circumcision itself (cf. Acts 16:1–3; Phil. 3:5). But he objected to the notion that it had some spiritual benefit or merit with God and was a prerequisite or necessary component of salvation. Circumcision had meaning in Israel when it was a physical symbol of a cleansed heart (cf. Deut. 30:6; Jer. 4:4; 9:24–26) and served as a reminder of God’s covenant of salvation promise (Gen. 17:9–10). Christ will be of no advantage to you. The atoning sacrifice of Christ cannot benefit anyone who trusts in law and ceremony for salvation.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:3 obligated to keep the whole law. God’s standard is perfect righteousness, thus a failure to keep only one part of the law falls short of the standard (see note on 3:10).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:4 severed from Christ . . . fallen away from grace. The Greek word for “severed” means “to be separated,” or “to be estranged.” The word for “fallen” means “to lose one’s grasp on something.” Paul’s clear meaning is that any attempt to be justified by the law is to reject salvation by grace alone through faith alone. Those once exposed to the gracious truth of the gospel, who then turn their backs on Christ (Heb. 6:4–6) and seek to be justified by the law are separated from Christ and lose all prospects of God’s gracious salvation. Their desertion of Christ and the gospel only proves that their faith was never genuine (cf. Luke 8:13–14; 1 John 2:19). justified. See notes on Gal. 2:16 and Rom. 3:24.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:5 by faith . . . the hope of righteousness. Christians already possess the imputed righteousness of Christ, but they still await the completed and perfected righteousness that is yet to come at glorification (Rom. 8:18, 21).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:6 neither circumcision nor uncircumcision counts for anything. Cf. 6:15. Nothing done or not done in the flesh, even religious ceremony, makes any difference in one’s relationship to God. What is external is immaterial and worthless, unless it reflects genuine internal righteousness (cf.

Rom. 2:25–29). faith working through love. Saving faith proves its genuine character by works of love. The person who lives by faith is internally motivated by love for God and Christ (cf. Matt. 22:37–40), which supernaturally issues forth in reverent worship, genuine obedience, and self-sacrificing love for others.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:7 You were running well. Cf. 3:3. Paul compares the Galatians’ life of faith with a race, a figure he used frequently (2:2; Rom. 9:16; 1 Cor. 9:24). They had a good beginning—they had received the gospel message by faith and had begun to live their Christian lives by faith as well. obeying the truth. See note on 1 Pet. 1:22. A reference to believers’ true way of living, including both their response to the true gospel in salvation (cf. Acts 6:7; Rom. 2:8; 6:17; 2 Thess. 1:8), and their consequent response to obey the word of God in sanctification. Paul wrote more about salvation and sanctification being a matter of obedience in Rom. 1:5; 6:16–17; 16:26. The legalistic influence of the Judaizers prevented the unsaved from responding in faith to the gospel of grace and true believers from living by faith.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:8 This persuasion. Salvation by works. God does not promote legalism. Any doctrine that claims his gracious work is insufficient to save is false (see notes on 1:6–7).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:9 leaven. A common axiomatic saying (cf. 1 Cor. 5:6) regarding the influence of yeast in dough. Leaven is often used in Scripture to denote sin (Matt. 16:6, 12) because of its permeating power.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:10 confidence in the Lord. Paul expresses encouraging assurance that the Lord will be faithful to keep his own from falling into gross heresy. See John 6:39–40; 10:28–29; Rom. 8:31–39; Phil. 1:6–7. They will persevere and be preserved (Jude 24). bear the penalty. All false teachers will incur strict and devastating eternal condemnation. See notes on 2 Pet. 2:2, 3, 9.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:11 still preach circumcision. Apparently the Judaizers had falsely claimed that Paul agreed with their teaching. But he makes the point that if he was preaching circumcision as necessary for salvation, why were the Judaizers persecuting him instead of supporting him? offense of the cross. The Greek word for “offense” can mean “trap,” “snare,” or “stumbling block.” Any offer of salvation that strips man of the opportunity to earn it by his own merit breeds opposition (cf. Rom. 9:33).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:12 emasculate themselves. The Greek word was often used of castration, such as in the cult of Cybele, whose priests were self-made eunuchs. Paul’s ironic point is that since the Judaizers were so insistent on circumcision as a means of pleasing God, they should go to the extreme of religious devotion and mutilate themselves.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:13 freedom. See note on 2:4. opportunity for the flesh. The Greek word for “opportunity” was often used to refer to a central base of military operations (cf. Rom. 7:8). In the context, “flesh” refers to the sinful inclinations of fallen man (see note on Rom. 7:5). The freedom Christians have is not a base from which they can sin freely and without consequence. serve one another. Christian freedom is not for selfish fulfillment, but for serving others. Cf. Rom. 14:1–15.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:14 the whole law. The ethics of the former OT law are the same as those of the NT gospel as indicated in the quote from Lev. 19:18 (see notes on Rom. 7:12; 8:4; cf. James 2:8–10). When a Christian genuinely loves others, he fulfills all the moral requirements of the former Mosaic law concerning them (Matt. 22:36–40; cf. Deut. 6:5; Rom. 13:8–10). This is the ruling principle of Christian freedom (Gal. 5:6, 13).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:15 bite and devour one another. The imagery is of wild animals savagely attacking and killing each other—a graphic picture of what happens in the spiritual realm when believers do not love and serve each other.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:16 walk by the Spirit. All believers have the presence of the indwelling Holy Spirit (cf. Rom. 8:9; 1 Cor. 6:19–20) as the personal power for living to please God. The form of the Greek verb translated “walk” indicates continuous action, or a habitual lifestyle. Walking also implies progress; as a believer submits to the Spirit’s control—that is, responds in obedience to the simple commands of Scripture—he grows in his spiritual life (see notes on Rom. 8:13; Eph. 5:18; Col. 3:16). the flesh. This is not simply the physical body, but includes the mind, will, and emotions, which are all subject to sin. It refers in general to our unredeemed humanness. See notes on Rom. 7:5; 8:23; cf. Gal. 5:3.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:17 opposed to each another. The flesh opposes the work of the Spirit and leads the believer toward sinful behavior he would not otherwise be compelled to do (see notes on Rom. 7:14–25).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:18 led by the Spirit . . . not under the law. Take your choice; these are mutually exclusive. Either you live by the power of the Holy Spirit, which results in righteous behavior and spiritual attitudes (vv. 22–26), or by the law, which can only produce unrighteous behavior and attitudes (vv. 19–21). Cf. 1 Cor. 15:56.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:19–21 These sins characterize all unredeemed mankind living under the impotent commands of the law, which produces only iniquity, though not every person manifests all these sins nor exhibits them to the same degree. Paul’s list, which is not exhaustive, encompasses three areas of human life: sex, religion, and human relationships. For other such lists, see Rom. 1:24–32 and 1 Cor. 6:9–10.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:19 evident. The flesh manifests itself in obvious and certain ways. immorality. The Greek word is porneia, from which the English word “pornography” comes. It refers to all illicit sexual activity, including (but not limited to) adultery, premarital sex, homosexuality, bestiality, incest, and prostitution. sensuality. The word originally referred to any excessive behavior or lack of restraint, but eventually became associated with sexual excess and indulgence.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:20 sorcery. The Greek word pharmakeia, from which the English word “pharmacy” comes, originally referred to medicines in general, but eventually only to mood-and mind-altering drugs, as well as the occult, witchcraft, and magic. Many pagan religious practices required the use of these drugs to aid in the communication with deities. strife . . . divisions. Many of these sins manifested in the area of human relationships have to do with some form of anger: “Enmity” results in “strife.” “Jealousy” (hateful resentment) results in “fits of anger” (sudden, unrestrained expressions of hostility). The next four represent animosity between individuals and groups.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:21 drunkenness, orgies. Probably a specific reference to the orgies that characterized pagan, idolatrous worship. Generally, it refers to all rowdy, boisterous, and crude behavior. do. Here is the key word in Paul’s warning. The sense of this Greek verb describes continual, habitual action. Although believers undoubtedly can commit these sins, those people whose basic character is summed up in the uninterrupted and unrepentant practice of them cannot belong to God (see notes on 1 Cor. 6:11; 1 John 3:4–10). will not inherit the kingdom of God. See note on Matt. 5:3. The unregenerate are barred from entering the spiritual kingdom of redeemed people over whom Christ now rules, and they will be excluded from his millennial kingdom and the eternal state of blessing that follows it. See note on Eph. 5:5.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:22 fruit of the Spirit. Godly attitudes that characterize the lives of only those who belong to God by faith in Christ and possess the Spirit of God. The Spirit produces fruit, which consists of nine characteristics or attitudes that are inextricably linked with each and are commanded of believers throughout the NT. love. One of several Greek words for love, agape is the love of choice, referring not to an emotional affection, physical attraction, or a familial bond, but to respect, devotion, and affection that leads to willing, self-sacrificial service (John 15:13; Rom. 5:8; 1 John 3:16–17). joy. A happiness based on unchanging divine promises and eternal spiritual realities. It is the sense of well-being experienced by one who knows all is well between himself and the Lord (1 Pet. 1:8). Joy is not the result of favorable circumstances, and even occurs when those circumstances are the most painful and severe (John 16:20–22). Joy is a gift from God, and as such, believers are not to manufacture it but to delight in the blessing they already possess (Rom. 14:17; Phil. 4:4). peace. The inner calm that results from confidence in one’s saving relationship with Christ. The verb form denotes binding together and is reflected in the expression “having it all together.” Like joy, peace is not related to one’s circumstances (John 14:27; Rom. 8:28; Phil. 4:6–7, 9). patience. The ability to endure injuries inflicted by others and the willingness to accept irritating or painful situations (Eph. 4:2; Col. 3:12; 1 Tim. 1:15–16). kindness. Tender concern for others, reflected in a desire to treat others gently, just as the Lord treats all believers (Matt. 11:28–29; 19:13–14; 2 Tim. 2:24). goodness. Moral and spiritual excellence manifested in active kindness (Rom. 5:7). Believers are commanded to exemplify goodness (Gal. 6:10; 2 Thess. 1:11). faithfulness. Loyalty and trustworthiness (Lam. 3:22; Phil. 2:7–9; 1 Thess. 5:24; Rev. 2:10).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:23 gentleness. Better translated “meekness.” It is a humble and gentle attitude that is patiently submissive in every offense, while having no desire for revenge or retribution. In the NT, it is used to describe three attitudes: submission to the will of God (Col. 3:12), teachability (James 1:21), and consideration of others (Eph. 4:2). self-control. This refers to restraining passions and appetites (1 Cor. 9:25; 2 Pet. 1:5–6). no law. When a Christian walks by the Spirit and manifests his fruit, he needs no external law to produce the attitudes and behavior that please God (cf. Rom. 8:4).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:24 have crucified the flesh. One of four uses of “crucified” that does not refer to Christ’s crucifixion (cf. 2:20; 6:14; Rom. 6:6). Here Paul states that the flesh has been executed, yet the spiritual battle still rages in the believer (see notes on Rom. 7:14–25). Paul’s use looks back to the cross of Christ, where the death of the flesh and its power to reign over believers was actually accomplished (Rom. 6:1–11). Christians must wait until their glorification before they are finally rid of their unredeemed humanness (Rom. 8:23), yet by walking in the Spirit they can please God in this world.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 5:25 walk by the Spirit. See note on v. 16.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:1 caught. This word may imply the person was actually seen committing the sin or that he was caught or snared by the sin itself. you . . . spiritual. Those believers who are walking in the Spirit (see note on 5:16), filled with the Spirit (see notes on Eph. 5:18–20; Col. 3:16), and evidencing the fruit of the Spirit (see notes on Gal. 5:22–23). restore. Sometimes used metaphorically of settling disputes or arguments, it lit. means “to mend” or “repair,” and was used of setting a broken bone or repairing a dislocated limb (Heb. 12:12–13; see notes on Rom. 15:1; 1 Thess. 5:14–15). The basic process of restoration is outlined in Matt. 18:15–20 (see notes there). spirit of gentleness. See note on Gal. 5:23 (cf. 2 Cor. 2:7; 2 Thess. 3:15). watch. Also “observing.” The Greek form strongly emphasizes a continual, diligent attentiveness.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:2 Bear one another’s burdens. “Burdens” are extra-heavy loads, which here represent difficulties or problems people have trouble dealing with. “Bear” connotes carrying something with endurance. the law of Christ. The law of love which fulfills the entire law (see notes on 5:14; John 13:34; Rom. 13:8, 10).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:4 test. Lit., “to approve something after testing it.” Believers first must be sure their lives are right with God before giving spiritual help to others (cf. Matt. 7:3–5). reason to boast. If a believer rejoices or boasts, it should be only boasting in the Lord for what God has done in him (cf. 2 Cor. 10:12–18), not for what he supposedly has accomplished compared to other believers (see note on 1 Cor. 1:30–31).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:5 bear his own load. This is not a contradiction to v. 2. “Load” has no connotation of difficulty; it refers to life’s routine obligations and each believer's ministry calling (cf. Matt. 11:30; 1 Cor. 3:12–15; 2 Cor. 5:10). God requires faithfulness in meeting those responsibilities.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:6 all good things. Although this expression could refer to material compensation, the context suggests that Paul is referring to the spiritually and morally excellent things learned from the word, in which they fellowship together. Paul uses this same term to describe the gospel (Rom. 10:15; cf. Heb. 9:11).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:7 whatever one sows . . . reap. This agricultural principle, applied metaphorically to the moral and spiritual realm, is universally true (cf. Job 4:8; Prov. 1:31–33; Hos. 8:7; 10:12). This law is a form of God's wrath. See note on Rom. 1:18.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:8 sows to his own flesh. See notes on 5:16–19; Rom. 7:18; 8:23. Here it means pandering to the flesh's evil desires. corruption. From the Greek word for degeneration, as in decaying food. Sin always corrupts and, when left unchecked, always makes a person progressively worse in character (cf. Rom. 6:23). sows to the Spirit. To walk by the Holy Spirit (see notes on Gal. 5:16–18; Eph. 5:18; cf. John 8:31; 15:7; Rom. 12:1–2; Col. 2:6; 3:2). eternal life. This expression describes not only a life that endures forever but, primarily, the highest quality of living that one can experience (cf. Ps. 51:12; John 10:10; Eph. 1:3, 18).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:10 opportunity. This Greek word refers to a distinct, fixed time period, rather than occasional moments. Paul's point is that the believer's entire life provides the unique privilege by which he can serve others in Christ's name. especially . . . the household of faith. Our love for fellow Christians is the primary test of our love for God (see notes on John 13:34–35; Rom. 12:10–13; 1 John 4:21).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:11–17 This closing section of the letter is Paul's final rhetorical attack against the Judaizers' doctrine (see notes on 1:7–9) and motives. It is also a positive statement of his own godly motives in preaching the true gospel.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:11 with what large letters. This can be interpreted in two ways: 1) Paul's poor eyesight forced him to use large letters (cf. 4:13, 15); or 2) instead of the normal cursive style of writing used by professional scribes, he used the large, block letters (frequently employed in public notices) to emphasize the letter's content rather than its form. It was a visible picture that contrasted his concern for the content of the gospel with the Judaizers' only concern: appearances. The expression served as a transition to his concluding remarks. I am writing . . . my own hand. As a good translation of the Greek verb, this indicates that Paul wrote the entire letter by his own hand, not merely penning a brief statement at the end of dictation to a secretary as he did other times (cf. 1 Cor. 16:21; Col. 4:18; 2 Thess. 3:17). Paul wrote this letter himself to make sure the Galatians knew he—not some forger—was writing it, and to personalize the document, given the importance and severity of its contents.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:12 good showing. The Judaizers were motivated by religious pride and wanted to impress others with their external piety (cf. Matt. 6:1–7). force you to be circumcised. See notes on Gal. 2:3 and 5:2–6. may not be persecuted. The Judaizers were more concerned about their personal safety than correct doctrine. By adhering more to the Mosaic law than to the gospel of Jesus, they hoped to avoid social and financial ostracism from other Jews and maintain their protected status as Jews within the Roman Empire.

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:13 circumcised. Specifically, in this case, the Judaizers (see notes on 2:7–8; cf. Acts 10:45; 11:2). boast in your flesh. They zealously worked to win Gentile converts to the law so they could brag about their effective proselytizing (cf. Matt. 23:15).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:14 boast except in the cross. The Greek word for “boast” is a basic expression of praise, unlike the English word, which necessarily includes the aspect of pride. Paul glories and rejoices in the sacrifice of Jesus Christ (cf. Rom. 8:1–3; 1 Cor. 2:2; 1 Pet. 2:24). the world. The evil, satanic system (see notes on 1 John 2:15–16; 5:19). crucified to me, and I to the world. The world is spiritually dead to believers, and they are dead to the world (see notes on Gal. 2:20; Rom. 6:2–10; 1 John 5:4–5; cf. Phil. 3:20–21).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:15 circumcision . . . nor uncircumcision. See notes on 5:6. a new creation. The new birth (see notes on John 3:3; 2 Cor. 5:17).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:16 peace and mercy. The results of salvation: “peace” is the believer's new relationship to God (Rom. 5:1; 8:6; Col. 3:15), and “mercy” is the forgiveness of all his sins and the setting aside of God's judgment (Ps. 25:6; Dan. 9:18; Matt. 5:7; Luke 1:50; Rom. 12:1; Eph. 2:4; Titus 3:5). Israel of God.

All Jewish believers in Christ, i.e., those who are both physical and spiritual descendants of Abraham (see notes on Gal. 3:7, 18; Rom. 2:28–29; 9:6–7).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:17 marks. The physical results of persecution (scars, wounds, etc.) that identified Paul as one who had suffered for the Lord (cf. Acts 14:19; 16:22; 2 Cor. 11:25; see notes on 2 Cor. 1:5; 4:10; Col. 1:24).

GALATIANS—NOTE ON 6:18 Even Paul's final benediction implicitly extols the superiority of the gospel of grace over any man-made system of works righteousness.

Introduction to Ephesians

Title

The letter is addressed to the church in the city of Ephesus, capital of the Roman province of Asia (Asia Minor, modern Turkey). Because the name Ephesus is not mentioned in every early manuscript, some scholars believe the letter was an encyclical, intended to be circulated and read among all the churches in Asia Minor and was simply sent first to believers in Ephesus.

Author and Date

There is no indication that the authorship of Paul should be in question. He is indicated as author in the opening salutation (1:1; 3:1). The letter was written from prison in Rome (Acts 28:16–31) sometime between A.D. 60–62 and is, therefore, often referred to as a Prison Epistle (along with Philippians, Colossians, and Philemon). It may have been composed almost contemporaneously with Colossians and initially sent with that epistle and Philemon by Tychicus (Eph. 6:21–22; Col. 4:7–8). See Introduction to Philippians: Author and Date for a discussion of the city from which Paul wrote.

Ephesus in the Time of Paul (c. A.D. 60)

The city plan below shows those features of the city of Ephesus that archeologists have so far identified as dating from the time of Paul. Many of the notable buildings uncovered in the excavation at Ephesus date from later periods.

Background and Setting

It is likely that the gospel was first brought to Ephesus by Priscilla and Aquila, an exceptionally gifted couple (see Acts 18:26) who were left there by Paul on his second missionary journey (Acts 18:18–19). Located at the mouth of the Cayster River, on the east side of the Aegean Sea, the city of Ephesus was perhaps best known for its magnificent temple of Artemis, or Diana, one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World. It was also an important political, educational, and commercial center, ranking with Alexandria in Egypt, and Antioch of Pisidia, in southern Asia Minor.

The fledgling church begun by Priscilla and Aquila was later firmly established by Paul on his third missionary journey (Acts 19) and was pastored by him for some three years. After Paul left, Timothy pastored the congregation for perhaps a year and a half, primarily to counter the false teaching of a few influential men (such as Hymenaeus and Alexander), who were probably elders in the congregation there (1 Tim. 1:3, 20). Because of those men, the church at Ephesus was plagued by “myths and endless genealogies” (1 Tim. 1:4) and by such ascetic and unscriptural ideas as the forbidding of marriage and abstaining from certain foods (1 Tim. 4:3). Although those false teachers did not rightly understand Scripture, they propounded their ungodly interpretations with confidence (1 Tim. 1:7), which produced in the church harmful “speculations rather than the stewardship from God that is by faith” (1 Tim. 1:4). Thirty years or so later, Christ gave to the apostle John a letter for this church indicating its people had left their first love for him (Rev. 2:1–7).

Historical and Theological Themes

The first three chapters are theological, emphasizing NT doctrine, whereas the last three chapters are practical and focus on Christian behavior. Perhaps, above all, this is a letter of encouragement and admonition, written to remind believers of their immeasurable blessings in Jesus Christ; and not only to be thankful for those blessings, but also to live in a manner worthy of them. Despite, and partly even because of, a Christian’s great blessings in Jesus Christ, he is sure to be tempted by Satan to self-satisfaction and complacency. It was for that reason that, in the last chapter, Paul reminds believers of the full and sufficient spiritual armor supplied to them through God’s word and by his Spirit (6:10–17) and of their need for vigilant and persistent prayer (6:18).

A key theme of the letter is the mystery (meaning a heretofore unrevealed truth) of the church, which is “that the Gentiles are fellow heirs, members of the same body, and partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel” (3:6), a truth completely hidden from the OT saints (cf. 3:5, 9). All believers in Jesus Christ, the Messiah, are equal before the Lord as his children and as citizens of his eternal kingdom, a marvelous truth that only believers of this present age possess. Paul also speaks of the mystery of the church as the bride of Christ (5:32; cf. Rev. 21:9).

A major truth emphasized is that of the church as Christ’s present spiritual, earthly body, also a distinct and formerly unrevealed truth about God’s people. This metaphor depicts the church, not as an organization, but as a living organism composed of mutually related and interdependent parts. Christ is head of the body and the Holy Spirit is its lifeblood, as it were. The body functions through the faithful use of its members' various spiritual gifts, sovereignly and uniquely bestowed by the Holy Spirit on each believer.

Other major themes include the riches and fullness of blessing to believers. Paul writes of “the riches of his [God’s] grace” (Eph. 1:7), “the unsearchable riches of Christ” (3:8), and “the riches of his glory” (3:16). Paul admonishes believers to “be filled with all the fullness of God” (3:19), to “attain to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to mature manhood, to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ” (4:13), and to “be filled with the Spirit” (5:18). Their riches in Christ are based on his grace (1:2, 6–7; 2:7), his peace (1:2), his will (1:5), his pleasure and purpose (1:9), his glory (1:12, 14), his calling and inheritance (1:18), his power and strength (1:19; 6:10), his love (2:4), his workmanship (2:10), his Holy Spirit (3:16), his offering and sacrifice (5:2), and his armor (6:11, 13). The word “riches” is used five times in this letter; “grace” is used 12 times; “glory” six times; “fullness” or “filled” six times; and the key phrase “in Christ” (or “in him”) some 22 times.

Interpretive Challenges

The general theology of Ephesians is direct, unambiguous, and presents no ideas or interpretations whose meanings are seriously contended. There are, however, some texts that require careful thought to rightly interpret, namely: 1) 2:8, in which one must decide if the salvation or the faith is the gift; 2) 4:5, in which the type of baptism must be discerned; and 3) 4:8, in its relationship to Ps. 68:18.

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE

Ephesians

Greeting

EPHESIANS 1 †Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God, To the saints who are in Ephesus, and are faithful [\[1\]](#) in Christ Jesus: 2†Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Spiritual Blessings in Christ

3‡†Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us in Christ with every spiritual blessing in the heavenly places, 4†even as he chose us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and blameless before him. In love 5†he predestined us [\[2\]](#) for adoption as sons through Jesus Christ, according to the purpose of his will, 6†to the praise of his glorious grace, with which he has blessed us in the Beloved. 7‡†In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the riches of his grace, 8which he lavished upon us, in all wisdom and insight 9making known [\[3\]](#) to us the mystery of his will, according to his purpose, which he set forth in Christ 10†as a plan for the fullness of time, to unite all things in him, things in heaven and things on earth.

11†In him we have obtained an inheritance, having been predestined according to the purpose of him who works all things according to the counsel of his will, 12†so that we who were the first to hope in Christ might be to the praise of his glory. 13‡†In him you also, when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and believed in him, were sealed with the promised Holy Spirit, 14who is the guarantee [\[4\]](#) of our inheritance until we acquire possession of it, [\[5\]](#) to the praise of his glory.

Thanksgiving and Prayer

15†For this reason, because I have heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus and your love [\[6\]](#) toward all the saints, 16I do not cease to give thanks for you, remembering you in my prayers, 17‡†that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give you a spirit of wisdom and of revelation in the knowledge of him, <sup>18</sup>†having the eyes of your hearts enlightened, that you may know what is the hope to which he has called you, what are the riches of his glorious inheritance in the saints, <sup>19</sup>†and what is the immeasurable greatness of his power toward us who believe, according to the working of his great might <sup>20</sup>that he worked in Christ when he raised him from the dead and seated him at his right hand in the heavenly places, <sup>21</sup>†far above all rule and authority and power and dominion, and above every name that is named, not only in this age but also in the one to come. <sup>22</sup>†And he put all things under his feet and gave him as head over all things to the church, <sup>23</sup>†which is his body, the fullness of him who fills all in all.

By Grace Through Faith

EPHESIANS 2 † And you were dead in the trespasses and sins <sup>2</sup>† in which you once walked, following the course of this world, following the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that is now at work in the sons of disobedience— <sup>3</sup>† among whom we all once lived in the passions of our flesh, carrying out the desires of the body [\[1\]](#) and the mind, and were by nature children of wrath, like the rest of mankind. <sup>4</sup>† But [\[2\]](#) God, being rich in mercy, because of the great love with which he loved us, <sup>5</sup>† even when we were dead in our trespasses, made us alive together with Christ—by grace you have been saved— <sup>6</sup>† and raised us up with him and seated us with him in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus, <sup>7</sup>† so that in the coming ages he might show the immeasurable riches of his grace in kindness toward us in Christ Jesus. <sup>8</sup>† For by grace you have been saved through faith. And this is not your own doing; it is the gift of God, <sup>9</sup>† not a result of works, so that no one may boast. <sup>10</sup>† For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand, that we should walk in them.

One in Christ

<sup>11</sup>† Therefore remember that at one time you Gentiles in the flesh, called “the uncircumcision” by what is called the circumcision, which is made in the flesh by hands— <sup>12</sup>† remember that you were at that time separated from Christ, alienated from the commonwealth of Israel and strangers to the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world. <sup>13</sup>† But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far off have been brought near by the blood of Christ. <sup>14</sup>† For he himself is our peace, who has made us both one and has broken down in his flesh the dividing wall of hostility <sup>15</sup>† by abolishing the law of commandments expressed in ordinances, that he might create in himself one new man in place of the two, so making peace, <sup>16</sup>† and might reconcile us both to God in one body through the cross, thereby killing the hostility. <sup>17</sup>† And he came and preached peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near. <sup>18</sup>† For through him we both have access in one Spirit to the Father. <sup>19</sup>† So then you are no longer strangers and aliens, [\[3\]](#) but you are fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God, <sup>20</sup>† built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus himself being the cornerstone, <sup>21</sup>† in whom the whole structure, being joined together, grows into a holy temple in the Lord. <sup>22</sup>† In him you also are being built together into a dwelling place for God by [\[4\]](#) the Spirit.

The Mystery of the Gospel Revealed

EPHESIANS 3 †For this reason I, Paul, a prisoner for Christ Jesus on behalf of you Gentiles—<sup>2</sup>††assuming that you have heard of the stewardship of God's grace that was given to me for you, <sup>3</sup>†how the mystery was made known to me by revelation, as I have written briefly. <sup>4</sup>†When you read this, you can perceive my insight into the mystery of Christ, <sup>5</sup>†which was not made known to the sons of men in other generations as it has now been revealed to his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit. <sup>6</sup>†This mystery is [1] that the Gentiles are fellow heirs, members of the same body, and partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel.

<sup>7</sup>†Of this gospel I was made a minister according to the gift of God's grace, which was given me by the working of his power. <sup>8</sup>†To me, though I am the very least of all the saints, this grace was given, to preach to the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, <sup>9</sup>†and to bring to light for everyone what is the plan of the mystery hidden for ages in [2] God who created all things, <sup>10</sup>†so that through the church the manifold wisdom of God might now be made known to the rulers and authorities in the heavenly places. <sup>11</sup>†This was according to the eternal purpose that he has realized in Christ Jesus our Lord, <sup>12</sup>†in whom we have boldness and access with confidence through our faith in him. <sup>13</sup>†So I ask you not to lose heart over what I am suffering for you, which is your glory.

Prayer for Spiritual Strength

<sup>14</sup>†For this reason I bow my knees before the Father, <sup>15</sup>†from whom every family [3] in heaven and on earth is named, <sup>16</sup>†that according to the riches of his glory he may grant you to be strengthened with power through his Spirit in your inner being, <sup>17</sup>†so that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith—that you, being rooted and grounded in love, <sup>18</sup>†may have strength to comprehend with all the saints what is the breadth and length and height and depth, <sup>19</sup>†and to know the love of Christ that surpasses knowledge, that you may be filled with all the fullness of God.

<sup>20</sup>†Now to him who is able to do far more abundantly than all that we ask or think, according to the power at work within us, <sup>21</sup>†to him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus throughout all generations, forever and ever. Amen.

Unity in the Body of Christ

EPHESIANS 4 †I therefore, a prisoner for the Lord, urge you to walk in a manner worthy of the calling to which you have been called, 2†with all humility and gentleness, with patience, bearing with one another in love, 3†eager to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. 4††There is one body and one Spirit—just as you were called to the one hope that belongs to your call— 5†one Lord, one faith, one baptism, 6†one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all. 7†But grace was given to each one of us according to the measure of Christ's gift. 8†Therefore it says, “When he ascended on high he led a host of captives, and he gave gifts to men.”

9†(In saying, “He ascended,” what does it mean but that he had also descended into the lower regions, the earth? [\[1\]](#) 10†He who descended is the one who also ascended far above all the heavens, that he might fill all things.) 11†And he gave the apostles, the prophets, the evangelists, the shepherds [\[2\]](#) and teachers, [\[3\]](#) 12†to equip the saints for the work of ministry, for building up the body of Christ, 13†until we all attain to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to mature manhood, [\[4\]](#) to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ, 14†so that we may no longer be children, tossed to and fro by the waves and carried about by every wind of doctrine, by human cunning, by craftiness in deceitful schemes. 15†Rather, speaking the truth in love, we are to grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ, 16†from whom the whole body, joined and held together by every joint with which it is equipped, when each part is working properly, makes the body grow so that it builds itself up in love.

The New Life

17††Now this I say and testify in the Lord, that you must no longer walk as the Gentiles do, in the futility of their minds. 18†They are darkened in their understanding, alienated from the life of God because of the ignorance that is in them, due to their hardness of heart. 19†They have become callous and have given themselves up to sensuality, greedy to practice every kind of impurity. 20†But that is not the way you learned Christ!— 21†assuming that you have heard about him and were taught in him, as the truth is in Jesus, 22†to put off your old self, [\[5\]](#) which belongs to your former manner of life and is corrupt through deceitful desires, 23†and to be renewed in the spirit of your minds, 24†and to put on the new self, created after the likeness of God in true righteousness and

Walk in Love

EPHESIANS 5 †Therefore be imitators of God, as beloved children. †And walk in love, as Christ loved us and gave himself up for us, a fragrant offering and sacrifice to God.

†But sexual immorality and all impurity or covetousness must not even be named among you, as is proper among saints. †Let there be no filthiness nor foolish talk nor crude joking, which are out of place, but instead let there be thanksgiving. †For you may be sure of this, that everyone who is sexually immoral or impure, or who is covetous (that is, an idolater), has no inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and God. †Let no one deceive you with empty words, for because of these things the wrath of God comes upon the sons of disobedience. †Therefore do not become partners with them; †for at one time you were darkness, but now you are light in the Lord. Walk as children of light †(for the fruit of light is found in all that is good and right and true), †and try to discern what is pleasing to the Lord. †Take no part in the unfruitful works of darkness, but instead expose them. †For it is shameful even to speak of the things that they do in secret. †But when anything is exposed by the light, it becomes visible, †for anything that becomes visible is light. Therefore it says, “Awake, O sleeper, and arise from the dead, and Christ will shine on you.”

†Look carefully then how you walk, not as unwise but as wise, †making the best use of the time, because the days are evil. †Therefore do not be foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is. †And do not get drunk with wine, for that is debauchery, but be filled with the Spirit, †addressing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody to the Lord with your heart, †giving thanks always and for everything to God the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, †submitting to one another out of reverence for Christ.

Wives and Husbands

†Wives, submit to your own husbands, as to the Lord. †For the husband is the head of the wife even as Christ is the head of the church, his body, and is himself its Savior. †Now as the church submits to Christ, so also wives should submit in everything to their husbands.

<sup>25</sup>†Husbands, love your wives, as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her, <sup>26</sup>†that he might sanctify her, having cleansed her by the washing of water with the word, <sup>27</sup>so that he might present the church to himself in splendor, without spot or wrinkle or any such thing, that she might be holy and without blemish. [1] <sup>28</sup>†In the same way husbands should love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. <sup>29</sup>†For no one ever hated his own flesh, but nourishes and cherishes it, just as Christ does the church, <sup>30</sup>†because we are members of his body. <sup>31</sup>†“Therefore a man shall leave his father and mother and hold fast to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh.” <sup>32</sup>†This mystery is profound, and I am saying that it refers to Christ and the church. <sup>33</sup>†However, let each one of you love his wife as himself, and let the wife see that she respects her husband.

Children and Parents

EPHESIANS 6 †Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. ††“Honor your father and mother” (this is the first commandment with a promise), †“that it may go well with you and that you may live long in the land.” †Fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, but bring them up in the discipline and instruction of the Lord.

Slaves and Masters

†Slaves, [\[1\]](#) obey your earthly masters [\[2\]](#) with fear and trembling, with a sincere heart, as you would Christ, †not by the way of eye-service, as people-pleasers, but as servants [\[3\]](#) of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart, †rendering service with a good will as to the Lord and not to man, †knowing that whatever good anyone does, this he will receive back from the Lord, whether he is a slave or free. †Masters, do the same to them, and stop your threatening, knowing that he who is both their Master [\[4\]](#) and yours is in heaven, and that there is no partiality with him.

The Whole Armor of God

††Finally, be strong in the Lord and in the strength of his might. †Put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to stand against the schemes of the devil. †For we do not wrestle against flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the cosmic powers over this present darkness, against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly places. †Therefore take up the whole armor of God, that you may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand firm. †Stand therefore, having fastened on the belt of truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, †and, as shoes for your feet, having put on the readiness given by the gospel of peace. †In all circumstances take up the shield of faith, with which you can extinguish all the flaming darts of the evil one; †and take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God, †praying at all times in the Spirit, with all prayer and supplication. To that end keep alert with all perseverance, making supplication for all the saints, †and also for me, that words may be given to me in opening my mouth boldly to proclaim the mystery of the gospel, †for which I am an ambassador in chains, that I may declare it boldly, as I ought to speak.

Final Greetings

<sup>21</sup>‡So that you also may know how I am and what I am doing, Tychicus the beloved brother and faithful minister in the Lord will tell you everything. <sup>22</sup>I have sent him to you for this very purpose, that you may know how we are, and that he may encourage your hearts.

<sup>23</sup>‡Peace be to the brothers, [5] and love with faith, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. <sup>24</sup>Grace be with all who love our Lord Jesus Christ with love incorruptible.

Study Notes

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:1 apostle. The word means “messenger” and served as an official title for Paul and the 12 disciples (including Matthias, Acts 1:26), who were eyewitnesses of the resurrected Jesus and were chosen by God to lay the foundation for the church by preaching, teaching, and writing Scripture, accompanied by miracles (cf. 2 Cor. 12:12). See note on Eph. 4:11. saints . . . faithful. Designates those whom God has set apart from sin to himself, made holy through their faith in Jesus Christ.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:2 Grace to you and peace. A common greeting in the early church that Paul used in all his letters. God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. From them came the authority with which Paul spoke (v. 1) as well as the blessings of grace and peace to all believers. The conjunction “and” indicates equivalence; that is, the Lord Jesus Christ is equally divine with the Father.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:3–14 This passage describes God’s master plan for salvation in terms of the past (election, vv. 3–6a), the present (redemption, vv. 6b–11), and the future (inheritance, vv. 12–14). It can also be viewed as emphasizing the Father (vv. 3–6), the Son (vv. 7–12), and the Spirit (vv. 13–16).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:3 Blessed. Derived from the same Greek word as “eulogy,” which means to praise or commend. This is the supreme duty of all creatures (see notes on Rom. 1:18–21; cf. Rev. 5:13). God . . . who has blessed us in Christ with every spiritual blessing. In his providential grace, God has already given believers total blessing (Rom. 8:28; Col. 2:10; James 1:17; 2 Pet. 1:3). “Spiritual” does not refer to immaterial blessings as opposed to material ones, but rather to the work of God, who is the divine and spiritual source of all blessings. in the heavenly places. Lit., “in the heavenlies.” This refers to the realm of God’s complete, heavenly domain, from which all his blessings come (cf. Eph. 1:20; 2:6; 3:10; 6:12). in Christ. God’s superabundant blessings belong only to believers who are his children, by faith in Christ, so that what he has is theirs—including his righteousness, resources, privilege, position, and power (cf. Rom. 8:16–17).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:4 he chose us. The doctrine of election is emphasized throughout Scripture (cf. Deut. 7:6; Isa. 45:4; John 6:44; Acts 13:48; Rom. 8:29; 9:11; 1 Thess. 1:3–4; 2 Thess. 2:13; 2 Tim. 2:10; see note on 1 Pet. 1:2). The form of the Greek verb behind “chose” indicates that God not only chose by himself but for himself to the praise of his own glory (Eph. 1:6, 12, 14). God’s election or predestination does not operate apart from or nullify man’s responsibility to believe in Jesus as Lord and Savior (cf. Matt. 3:1–2; 4:17; John 5:40). before the foundation of the world. Through God’s sovereign will before the creation of the world and, therefore, obviously independent of human influence and apart from any human merit, those who are saved have become eternally united with Christ Jesus. Cf. 1 Pet. 1:20; Rev. 13:8; 17:8. holy and blameless before him. This describes both a purpose and a result of God’s choosing those who are to be saved. Unrighteous persons are declared righteous, unworthy sinners are declared worthy of salvation, all because they are chosen “in him” (Christ). This refers to Christ’s imputed righteousness granted to us (see notes on 2 Cor. 5:21; Phil. 3:9), a perfect righteousness which places believers in a holy and blameless position before God (Eph. 5:27; Col. 2:10), though daily living inevitably falls far short of his holy standard. In love. This phrase belongs at the start of Eph. 1:5, since it introduces the divine motive for God’s elective purpose. Cf. 2:4 and Deut. 7:8.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:5 he predestined us for adoption as sons. Human parents can bestow their love, resources, and inheritance on an adopted child, but not their own distinct characteristics. But God miraculously gives his own nature to those whom he has elected and who have trusted in Christ. He makes them his children in the image of his divine Son, giving them not just Christ’s riches and blessings but also his very nature (cf. John 15:15; Rom. 8:15).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:6 to the praise of his glorious grace. The ultimate purpose of election to salvation is the glory of God (cf. vv. 12, 14; Phil. 2:13; 2 Thess. 1:11–12). which he . . . blessed us in the Beloved. “Which” refers to the divine grace (undeserved love and favor) that has made it possible for sinners to be accepted by God through the substitutionary death and imputed righteousness provided by Jesus Christ (“the Beloved,” cf. Matt. 3:17; Col. 1:13). Because believers are accepted in him, then they, like him, are beloved of God.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:7a redemption through his blood. The term used here relates to paying the required ransom to God for the release of a person from bondage. Christ’s sacrifice on the cross paid that price for every elect person enslaved by sin, buying them out of the slave market of iniquity (see notes on 2 Cor. 5:18–19). The price of redemption was death (cf. Lev. 17:11; Rom. 3:24–25; Heb. 9:22; 1 Pet. 1:18–19; Rev. 5:8–10).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:7b–8 the forgiveness of our trespasses . . . in all wisdom and insight. Redemption brings in the limitless grace of God (Rom. 5:20) and forgiveness of sin (cf. Matt. 26:28; Acts 13:38–39; Eph. 4:32; Col. 2:13; 1 John 1:9). It brings divinely bestowed spiritual understanding. Cf. 1 Cor. 2:6–7, 12, 16.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:10 unite all things. At the end of this world’s history, God will gather believers together in the millennial kingdom, called here “a plan for the fullness of time,” meaning the completion of history (Rev. 20:1–6). After that, God will gather everything to himself in eternity future, and the new heaven and new earth will be created (Rev. 21:1ff.). The new universe will be totally unified under Christ (cf. 1 Cor. 15:27–28; Phil. 2:10–11).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:11 we have obtained an inheritance. Christ is the source of the believer’s divine inheritance, which is so certain that it is spoken of as if it has already been received. Cf. 1 Cor. 3:22–23 and 2 Pet. 1:3–4. having been predestined. Before the earth was formed, God sovereignly determined that every elect sinner—however vile, useless, and deserving of death—by trusting in Christ would be made righteous. See note on Eph. 1:4. who works all things. The word translated “works” is the same one from which “energy,” “energetic,” and “energize” are derived. When God created the world, he gave it sufficient energy to begin immediately to operate as he had planned. It was not simply ready to function, but was created functioning. As God works out his plan according to “the counsel of his will,” he energizes every believer with the power necessary for his spiritual completion (cf. Phil. 1:6; 2:13).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:12 to the praise of his glory. God’s glory is the supreme purpose of redemption (cf. vv. 6, 14).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:13 you heard the . . . truth . . . believed. The God-revealed gospel of Jesus Christ must be heard (Rom. 10:17) and believed (John 1:12) to bring salvation.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:13–14 sealed with the . . . Holy Spirit. God’s own Spirit comes to indwell the believer and secures and preserves his eternal salvation. The sealing of which Paul speaks refers to an official mark of identification placed on a letter, contract, or other document. That document was thereby officially under the authority of the person whose stamp was on the seal. Four primary truths are signified by the seal: 1) security (cf. Dan. 6:17; Matt. 27:62–66); 2) authenticity (cf. 1 Kings 21:6–16); 3) ownership (cf. Jer. 32:10); and 4) authority (cf. Est. 8:8–12). The Holy Spirit is given by God as his pledge of the believer's future inheritance in glory (cf. 2 Cor. 1:21).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:15 your love toward all the saints. Love for other believers evidences saving faith (cf. John 13:34–35; 1 John 4:16–18; 4:20; 5:1) and is a cause of thanksgiving (Eph. 1:16).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:17 the God of our Lord Jesus Christ. This is a designation of God that links Father and Son in essential nature as deity (cf. v. 3a; Rom. 1:1–4; 1 Cor. 1:3; Phil. 2:9–11; 1 Pet. 1:3; 2 John 3).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:17–18 a spirit of wisdom . . . hope. Paul was praying that believers will have the disposition of godly knowledge and insight of which the sanctified mind is capable (v. 8), so as to grasp the greatness of the hope (Rom. 8:29; 1 John 3:2) and the inheritance that is theirs in Christ (Eph. 1:3–14).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:18 the eyes of your hearts enlightened. A spiritually enlightened heart, i.e. mind, is the only means of truly understanding and appreciating the hope and inheritance in Christ and of living obediently for him.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:19–20 immeasurable greatness of his power. God's great power, that very power which raised Jesus from the dead and lifted him by ascension back to glory to take his seat at God's right hand, is given to every believer at the time of salvation and is always available (cf. Acts 1:8; Col. 1:29). Paul therefore did not pray that God's power be given to believers but that they be aware of the power they already possessed in Christ and use it (cf. Eph. 3:20).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:21 Paul wanted believers to comprehend the greatness of God compared to other heavenly beings. "Rule and authority and power and dominion" were traditional Jewish terms to designate angelic beings having a high rank among God's hosts. God is above them all (cf. Rev. 20:10–15).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:22 feet . . . head. This is a quote from Ps. 8:6 indicating that God has exalted Christ over everything (cf. Heb. 2:8), including his church (cf. Col. 1:18). Christ is clearly the authoritative head (not "source") because all things have been placed under his feet. See notes on Eph. 4:15 and 5:23.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 1:23 his body. A metaphor for God’s redeemed people, used exclusively in the NT of the church (cf. 4:12–16; 1 Cor. 12:12–27).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:1 dead in the trespasses and sins. A sobering reminder of the total sinfulness and lostness from which believers have been redeemed. “In” indicates the realm or sphere in which unregenerate sinners exist. They are not dead because of sinful acts that have been committed but because of their sinful nature (cf. Matt. 12:35; 15:18–19).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:2 course of this world. See note on John 1:9. This refers to the world order, i.e., humanity’s values and standards apart from God and Christ. In 2 Cor. 10:4–5, Paul refers to these ideologies that are like fortresses in which people are imprisoned, need to be set free, and brought captive to Christ and obedience to the truth (see notes there). the prince of the power of the air. Satan. Cf. John 12:31; 14:30; 16:11; 2 Cor. 4:4.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:4 mercy . . . love. Salvation is for God’s glory by putting on display his boundless mercy and love for those who are spiritually dead because of their sinfulness.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:5 when we were dead . . . made us alive. Far more than anything else, a spiritually dead person needs to be made alive by God. Salvation brings spiritual life to the dead. The power that raises believers out of death and makes them alive (cf. Rom. 6:1–7) is the same power that energizes every aspect of Christian living (cf. Rom. 6:11–13).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:6 raised us up . . . seated us with him. The tense of “raised” and “seated” indicates that these are immediate and direct results of salvation. Not only is the believer dead to sin and alive to righteousness through Christ’s resurrection, but he also enjoys his Lord’s exaltation and shares in his preeminent glory. in the heavenly places. The supernatural realm where God reigns. In 3:10 and 6:12, however, it also refers to the supernatural sphere where Satan temporarily rules. This spiritual realm is where believers’ blessings are (cf. Eph. 1:3), their inheritance is (1 Pet. 1:4), their affections should be (Col. 3:3), and where they enjoy fellowship with the Lord. It is the realm from which all divine revelation has come and where all praise and petitions go.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:7 riches of his grace. Salvation, of course, is very much for the believer’s blessing, but it is even more for the purpose of eternally glorifying God for bestowing on believers his endless and limitless grace and kindness. The whole of heaven glorifies him for what he has done in saving sinners (cf. 3:10; Rev. 7:10–12).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:8 faith . . . this is not your own doing. “This” refers to the entire previous statement of salvation, not only the grace but the faith. Although men are required to believe for salvation, even that faith is part of the gift of God, which saves and cannot be exercised by one’s own power. God’s grace is preeminent in every aspect of salvation (cf. Rom. 3:20; Gal. 2:16).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:10 created in . . . for good works. Good works cannot produce salvation but are subsequent and resultant God-empowered fruits and evidences of it (cf. John 15:8; Phil. 2:12–13; 2 Tim. 3:17; Titus 2:14; James 2:16–26). which God prepared beforehand. Like his salvation, a believer’s sanctification and good works were ordained before time began (see notes on Rom. 8:29–30).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:11–12 Gentiles (the “uncircumcision”) experienced two types of alienation. The first was social, resulting from the animosity that had existed between Jews and Gentiles for thousands of years. Jews considered Gentiles to be outcasts, objects of derision, and reproach. The second and more significant type of alienation was spiritual, because Gentiles as a people were cut off from God in five different ways: 1) they were “separated from Christ,” the Messiah, having no Savior and Deliverer and without divine purpose or destiny. 2) They were “alienated from the commonwealth of Israel.” God’s chosen people, the Jews, were a nation whose supreme King and Lord was God himself, and from whose unique blessing and protection they benefited. 3) Gentiles were “strangers to the covenants of promise,” not able to partake of God’s divine covenants in which he promised to give his people a land, a priesthood, a people, a nation, a kingdom, and a King—and to those who believe in him, eternal life and heaven. 4) They had “no hope” because they had been given no divine promise. 5) They were “without God in the world.” While Gentiles had many gods, they did not recognize the true God because they did not want him (see notes on Rom. 1:18–26).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:13 far off. A common term in rabbinical writings used to describe Gentiles, those who were apart from the true God (cf. Isa. 57:19; Acts 2:39). brought near. Every person who trusts in Christ alone for salvation, Jew or Gentile, is brought into spiritual union and intimacy with God. This is the reconciliation of 2 Cor. 5:18–21. The atoning work accomplished by Christ’s death on the cross washes away the penalty of sin and ultimately even its presence.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:14 he himself. This emphatically indicates that Jesus alone is the believer’s source of peace (cf. Isa. 9:6). the dividing wall. This alludes to a wall in the temple that partitioned off the Court of the Gentiles from the areas accessible only to Jews. Paul referred to that wall as symbolic of the social, religious, and spiritual separation that kept Jews and Gentiles apart.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:15 abolishing . . . in himself. Through his death, Christ abolished OT ceremonial laws, feasts, and sacrifices, which uniquely separated Jews from Gentiles. God’s moral law (as summarized in the Ten Commandments and written on the hearts of all men, Rom. 2:15) was not abolished but subsumed in the New Covenant, however, because it reflects his own holy nature (Matt. 5:17–19). See notes on Matt. 22:37–40 and Rom. 13:8–10. one new man. Christ does not exclude anyone who comes to him, and those who are his are not spiritually distinct from one another. “New” translates a Greek word that refers to something completely unlike what it was before. It refers to being different in kind and quality. Spiritually, a new person in Christ is no longer Jew or Gentile, only Christian (cf. Rom. 10:12–13; Gal. 3:28).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:16 reconcile us both to God. As Jews and Gentiles are brought to God through Christ Jesus, they are brought together with each other. This was accomplished by the cross, where Jesus became a curse (Gal. 3:10–13), taking God’s wrath so that divine justice was satisfied and reconciliation with God became a reality (see notes on 2 Cor. 5:19–21). For more on reconciliation, see Rom. 5:8–10 and Col. 1:19–23.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:17 preached peace. The Greek word for “preached” lit. means “to bring or announce good news,” and in the NT is almost always used of proclaiming the good news that sinners can be reconciled to God by the salvation which is through Jesus Christ. In this context, Christ, the One who “himself is our peace” (v. 14), also announced the good news of peace. far off and . . . near. That is to Gentiles and Jews alike.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:18 access in one Spirit to the Father. No sinner has any right or worthiness in himself for access to God, but believers have been granted that right through faith in Christ’s sacrificial death (cf. 3:12; Rom. 5:2). The resources of the Trinity belong to believers the moment they receive Christ, and the Holy Spirit presents them before the heavenly throne of God the Father, where they are welcome to come with boldness at any time. See notes on Rom. 8:15–17; Gal. 4:6–7; Heb. 4:16.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:19 fellow citizens with the saints. God’s kingdom is made up of the people from all time who have trusted in him. There are no strangers, foreigners, or second-class citizens there (cf. Phil. 3:20). of the household of God. Redeemed sinners not only become heavenly citizens but also members of God’s own family. The Father bestows on believers the same infinite love he gives his Son. See note on Eph. 1:5; cf. Heb. 3:6.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:20 the foundation of the apostles and prophets. For discussion of these gifted men, see note on 4:11. As important as they were, it was not them personally, but the divine revelation they taught, as they authoritatively spoke the word of God to the church before the completion of the NT, that provided the foundation (cf. Rom. 15:20). cornerstone. Cf. Ps. 118:22; Isa. 28:16; Matt. 21:42; Acts 4:11; 1 Pet. 2:6–7. This stone set the foundation and squared the building.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:21 a holy temple in the Lord. Every new believer is a new stone in Christ’s temple, the church, Christ’s body of believers (see note on 1 Pet. 2:5). Christ’s building of his church will not be complete until every person who will believe in him has done so (2 Pet. 3:9).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 2:22 a dwelling place for God by the Spirit. The term for “dwelling” connotes a permanent home. God the Holy Spirit takes up permanent residence in his earthly sanctuary, the church, the vast spiritual body of all the redeemed (cf. 1 Cor. 6:19–20; 2 Cor. 6:16).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:1 For this reason. This refers back to the truths about the unity of believers that Paul has just discussed and introduces the motive for his prayer, which begins in v. 14. a prisoner for Christ Jesus. Although Paul had been a prisoner for about two years in Caesarea and two years in Rome, he did not consider himself to be a prisoner of any government or person. Rather, he knew he was under Christ’s control, and every aspect of his life was in the Lord’s hands. He suffered imprisonment for preaching to Gentiles. See 2 Cor. 4:8–15.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:2–13 In this parenthetical passage, Paul interrupted the thought begun in v. 1 to reemphasize and to expand upon the truths he had just written. He was compelled to affirm his authority for teaching the oneness of Jew and Gentile in Christ (vv. 2–7), a new and far-reaching truth that most of the Ephesians doubtless found difficult to comprehend or accept.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:2 stewardship . . . given to me. “Stewardship” means an administration, or management. Paul did not choose the stewardship of his apostleship or ministry. God had sovereignly commissioned him with the calling, spiritual gifts, opportunities, knowledge, and authority to minister as the apostle to the Gentiles (see Acts 9:1–19; 1 Tim. 1:12–13; cf. Rom. 15:15–16; 1 Cor. 4:1; 9:16–17; Gal. 2:9).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:4 the mystery of Christ. See notes on 1:10–12; 2:11–12; Matt. 13:11; 1 Cor. 2:7; Col. 1:26–27. There were many truths hidden and later revealed in the NT that are called mysteries. Here is one: Jew and Gentile brought together in one body in the Messiah. For others, see notes on 1 Cor. 15:51; Col. 1:27; 1 Tim. 3:16. Paul not only wrote of the mystery that, in Christ, Jew and Gentile become one in God’s sight and in his kingdom and family, but also explained and clarified that truth. He realized that spiritual knowledge must precede practical application. What is not properly understood cannot be properly applied.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:5 not made known . . . in other generations. Though God had promised universal blessing through Abraham (Gen. 12:3), the full meaning of that promise became clear when Paul wrote Gal. 3:28. Isaiah 49:6 predicted salvation to all races, but it was Paul who wrote of the fulfillment of that pledge (Acts 13:46–47). Paul disclosed a truth that not even the greatest prophets understood—that within the church, composed of all the saved since Pentecost in one united body, there would be no racial, social, or spiritual distinctions.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:6 Gentiles are fellow heirs. A summary of 2:11–22. See notes on 1 Cor. 12:12–13 and Gal. 3:29.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:7 made a minister. No man can make himself a minister (lit., “servant”) of God, because the calling, message, work, and empowering of genuine ministry to and for God are his prerogative alone to give. See Acts 26:16; 1 Cor. 15:10; Col. 1:23, 25, 29.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:8 the very least of all the saints. In light of God's perfect righteousness, Paul's assessment of himself was not false humility but simple honesty. He knew his unworthiness. See 1 Tim. 1:12–13 (cf. Judg. 6:15–16; Isa. 6:1–9). the unsearchable riches of Christ. All God's truths, all his blessings, all that he is and has (cf. Eph. 1:3; Col. 2:3; 2 Pet. 1:3).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:9 plan . . . mystery. See notes on vv. 4–5.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:10 rulers . . . authorities. Angels, both holy and unholy (1:21; 6:12; see note on Col. 1:16). God, through the church, manifests his glory to all the angels. The holy angels rejoice (see Luke 15:10; cf. 1 Pet. 1:12) because they are involved with the church (see 1 Cor. 11:10; Heb. 1:14). Although they have no desire or capacity to praise God, even fallen angels see the glory of God in the salvation and preservation of the church. in the heavenly places. As in Eph. 1:3 and 6:12, this refers to the entire realm of spiritual beings.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:11 the eternal purpose. The supreme purpose of the church is to glorify God, which includes the displaying of his wisdom (v. 10) before the angels, who then honor him with even greater praise.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:12 access with confidence. Every person who comes to Christ in faith can come before God at any time, not in self-confidence but in Christ-confidence. See notes on Heb. 4:15–16.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:13 suffering . . . your glory. Through trouble and suffering, God produces glory. See note on Rom. 8:18.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:14 For this reason. Paul repeated what he wrote in v. 1 (see note there as he began his prayer. Because of their new identity in Christ, stated in ch. 2, believers are spiritually alive (v. 5), they are unified into God's household (v. 19), and, as the church, they are the dwelling place of God, built on the words and work of the apostles and prophets (vv. 20–22). I bow my knees. Not an instruction for physical posture during prayer, but suggesting an attitude of submission, reverence, and intense passion (cf. Ezra 9:5–6; Ps. 95:1–6; Dan. 6:10; Acts 20:36).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:15 every family in heaven and on earth. Paul was not teaching the universal fatherhood of God and the universal brotherhood of man (cf. John 8:39–42; 1 John 3:10), but was simply referring to believers from every era of history, those who are dead (in heaven) and those who are alive (on earth).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:16 he may grant you. Paul’s prayers are almost always for the spiritual welfare of others (cf. Phil. 1:4; Col. 1:9–11; 1 Thess. 1:2). according to the riches of his glory. They are limitless and available to every believer. strengthened . . . his Spirit in your inner being. Spiritual power is a mark of every Christian who submits to God’s word and Spirit. It is not reserved for some special class of Christian, but for all those who discipline their minds and spirits to study the word, understand it, and live by it. Although the outer, physical person becomes weaker with age (cf. 2 Cor. 4:16), the inner, spiritual person should grow stronger through the Holy Spirit, who will energize, revitalize, and empower the obedient, committed Christian (cf. Acts 1:8; Rom. 8:5–9, 13; Gal. 5:16).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:17 that Christ may dwell in your hearts. Every believer is indwelt by Christ at the moment of salvation (Rom. 8:9; 1 Cor. 12:13), but he is “at home,” finding comfort and satisfaction, only where hearts are cleansed of sin and filled with his Spirit (cf. John 14:23). through faith. This speaks of Christians’ continuing trust in Christ to exercise his lordship over them. rooted and grounded in love. I.e., established on the strong foundation of self-giving, serving love for God and for his people (cf. Matt. 22:37–39; 1 John 4:9–12, 19–21).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:18 to comprehend. A believer cannot understand the fullness of God’s love apart from genuine, Spirit-empowered love in his own life. with all the saints. Love is both granted to (Rom. 5:5; 1 Thess. 4:9) and commanded of (John 13:34–35) every Christian, not just those who have a naturally pleasant temperament or have great spiritual maturity. breadth . . . length . . . height . . . depth. Not four different features of love, but an effort to suggest its vastness and completeness.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:19 to know the love of Christ. Not the love believers have for Christ, but the love of and from Christ that he places in their hearts before they can truly and fully love him or anyone else (Rom. 5:5). that surpasses knowledge. Knowledge of Christ’s love is far beyond the capability of human reason and experience. It is only known by those who are God’s children (cf. Phil. 4:7). filled with all the fullness of God. To be so strong spiritually, so compelled by divine love, that one is totally dominated by the Lord with nothing left of self. Human comprehension of the fullness of God is impossible, because even the most spiritual and wise believer cannot completely grasp the full extent of God’s attributes and characteristics—his power, majesty, wisdom, love, mercy, patience, kindness, and everything he is and does. But believers can experience the greatness of God in their lives as a result of total devotion to him. Note the fullness of God here; the fullness of Christ in 4:13; and the fullness of the Spirit in Eph. 5:18. Paul prayed for believers to become as Godlike as possible (Matt. 5:48; 1 Pet. 1:15–16).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:20 When the conditions of vv. 16–19 are met, God’s power working in and through believers is unlimited and far beyond their comprehension.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 3:21 to him be glory. Only when his children meet this level of faithfulness will Christ be fully glorified with the honor he deserves from his church.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:1 therefore. This word marks the transition from doctrine to duty, principle to practice, position to behavior. This is typical of Paul (see Rom. 12:1; Gal. 5:1; Phil. 2:1; Col. 3:5; 1 Thess. 4:1). a prisoner for the Lord. By mentioning his imprisonment again (see Eph. 3:1), Paul gently reminded Ephesian believers that the faithful Christian walk can be costly and that he had paid a considerable personal price because of his obedience to the Lord. walk . . . worthy. “Walk” is frequently used in the NT to refer to daily conduct. It sets the theme for the final three chapters. “Worthy” has the idea of living to match one’s position in Christ. The apostle urged his readers to be everything the Lord desires and empowers them to be. calling. This refers to God’s sovereign call to salvation, as always in the epistles. See note on Rom. 1:7. The effectual call that saves is mentioned in Eph. 1:18; Rom. 11:29; 1 Cor. 1:26; Phil. 3:14; 2 Thess. 1:11; 2 Tim. 1:9; Heb. 3:1.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:2 humility. “Humility” is a term not found in the Latin or Greek vocabularies of Paul’s day. The Greek word apparently was coined by Christians, perhaps even by Paul himself, to describe a quality for which no other word was available. Humility, the most foundational Christian virtue (James 4:6), is the quality of character commanded in the first beatitude (Matt. 5:3), and describes the noble grace of Christ (Phil. 2:7–8). gentleness. “Meekness,” an inevitable product of humility, refers to that which is mild-spirited and self-controlled (cf. Matt. 5:5; 11:29; Gal. 5:23; Col. 3:12). patience. The Greek word lit. means long-tempered, and refers to a resolved patience that is an outgrowth of humility and gentleness (cf. 1 Thess. 5:14; James 5:10). bearing with one another in love. Humility, gentleness, and patience are reflected in a forbearing love for others that is continuous and unconditional (cf. 1 Pet. 4:8).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:3 unity of the Spirit. The Spirit-bestowed oneness of all true believers (see 1 Cor. 6:17; 12:11–13; Phil. 1:27; 2:2) has created the bond of peace, the spiritual cord that surrounds and binds God’s holy people together. This bond is love (Col. 3:14).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:4–6 In this passage, Paul lists the particular areas of oneness, or unity: body, Spirit, hope, Lord, faith, baptism, and God and Father. He focuses on the Trinity—the Spirit in v. 4, the Son in v. 5, and the Father in v. 6. His point is not to distinguish between the Persons of the Godhead but to emphasize that, although they have unique roles, they are completely unified in every aspect of the divine nature and plan.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:4 one body. The church, the body of Christ, is composed of every believer since Pentecost without distinction, by the work of the “one Spirit” (see 1 Cor. 12:11–13). one hope. This is the pledge and promise of eternal inheritance given each believer (Eph. 1:11–14) and sealed to each believer by the one Spirit (4:13).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:5 one Lord. See Acts 4:12; Rom. 10:12; Gal. 1:8. one faith. The body of doctrine revealed in the NT (cf. Jude 3). one baptism. This probably refers to the water baptism following salvation, a believer’s public confession of faith in Jesus Christ. Spiritual baptism, by which all believers are placed into the body of Christ (1 Cor. 12:11–13), is implied in Eph. 4:4.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:6 one God. This is the basic doctrine of God taught in Scripture (see Deut. 4:35; 6:4; 32:39; Isa. 45:14; 46:9; 1 Cor. 8:4–6).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:7 But . . . to each one. This could be translated “in spite of that,” or “on the other hand,” contrasting what has just been said with what is about to be said, moving from the subject of the unity of believers (“all,” v. 6) to that of the uniqueness of believers (“each one”). grace. Grace is a single-word definition of the gospel, the good news of God’s offering salvation to sinful and unworthy mankind. God is the God of grace because he is a God who freely gives; his giving has nothing to do with anything we have done, but is unmerited, unearned, and undeserved. See notes on 2:7–10. the measure of Christ’s gift. Each believer has a unique spiritual gift that God individually portions out according to his sovereign will and design. The Greek term for “gift” focuses not on the Spirit as the source like the term used in 1 Cor. 12:1, nor on the grace that prompted it in Rom. 12:6, but on the freeness of the gift. For discussions of the gifts, see notes on Rom. 12:6–8; 1 Cor. 12:4–10; 1 Pet. 4:10.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:8 When he ascended on high. Paul used an interpretive rendering of Ps. 68:18 as a parenthetical analogy to show how Christ received the right to bestow the spiritual gifts (Eph. 4:7). Psalm 68 is a victory hymn composed by David to celebrate God’s conquest of the Jebusite city of Jerusalem and the triumphant ascent of God up to Mount Zion (cf. 2 Sam. 6–7; 1 Chron. 13). After such a triumph, the king would bring home the spoils and the prisoners. Here Paul depicts Christ returning from his battle on earth back into the glory of the heavenly city with the trophies of his great victory at Calvary (see notes on 2 Cor. 2:14–16). led a host of captives. Through his crucifixion and resurrection, Christ conquered Satan and death, and in triumph returned to God those who were once sinners and prisoners of Satan (cf. Col. 2:15). gave gifts to men. He distributes the spoils throughout his kingdom. After his ascension came all the spiritual gifts empowered by the Spirit, who was then sent (see John 7:39; 14:12; Acts 2:33).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:9 ascended. Jesus’ ascension from earth to heaven (Acts 1:9–11), where he forever reigns with his Father. descended. This refers to Christ’s incarnation, when he came down from heaven as a man into the earth of suffering and death. the lower regions, the earth. These are in contrast to the highest heavens to which he afterward ascended (cf. Ps. 139:8, 15; Isa. 44:23). The phrase here does not point to a specific place, but to the great depth, as it were, of the incarnation, including Christ’s descent, between his crucifixion and resurrection beyond the earth, the grave, and death, into the very pit of the demons, “the spirits in prison” (see notes on Col. 2:14–15; 1 Pet. 3:18–19).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:10 that he might fill all things. After the Lord ascended, having fulfilled all prophecies and all his divinely ordained redemptive tasks, he gained the right to rule the church and to give gifts, as he was then filling the entire universe with his divine presence, power, sovereignty, and blessing (cf. Phil. 2:9–11).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:11 he gave. As evidenced by his perfect fulfillment of his Father’s will, Christ possessed the authority and sovereignty to assign the spiritual gifts (vv. 7–8) to those he has called into service in his church. He gave not only gifts, but gifted men. apostles. See note on 2:20. A term used particularly of the 12 disciples who had seen the risen Christ (Acts 1:22), including Matthias, who replaced Judas. Later, Paul was uniquely set apart as the Apostle to the Gentiles (Gal. 1:15–17) and was numbered with the other apostles. He, too, miraculously encountered Jesus at his conversion on the Damascus Road (Acts 9:1–9; Gal. 1:15–17). Those apostles were chosen directly by Christ, so as to be called “apostles of Jesus Christ” (Gal. 1:1; 1 Pet. 1:1). They were given three basic responsibilities: 1) to lay the foundation of the church (Eph. 2:20); 2) to receive, declare, and write God’s word (3:5; Acts 11:28; 21:10–11); and 3) to give confirmation of that word through signs, wonders, and miracles (2 Cor. 12:12; cf. Acts 8:6–7; Heb. 2:3–4). The term “apostle” is used in more general ways of other men in the early church, such as Barnabas (Acts 14:4), Silas, Timothy (1 Thess. 2:6), and others (Rom. 16:7; Phil. 2:25). They are called “messengers [or apostles] of the churches” (2 Cor. 8:23), rather than “apostles of Jesus Christ” like the 13. They were not self-perpetuating, nor was any apostle who died replaced. prophets. See note on Eph. 2:20. Not ordinary believers who had the gift of prophecy but specially commissioned men in the early church. The office of prophet seems to have been exclusively for work within a local congregation. They were not “sent ones” as were the apostles (see Acts 13:1–4), but, as with the apostles, their office ceased with the completion of the NT. They sometimes spoke practical direct revelation for the church from God (Acts 11:21–28) or expounded revelation already given (implied in Acts 13:1). They were not used for the reception of Scripture. Their messages were to be judged by other prophets for validity (1 Cor. 14:32) and had to conform to the teaching of the apostles (1 Cor. 14:37). Those two offices were replaced by the evangelists and teaching pastors. evangelists. Men who proclaim the good news of salvation in Jesus Christ to unbelievers. Cf. the use of this term in Acts 21:8 and 2 Tim. 4:5. The related verb translated “to preach the gospel” is used 54 times and the related noun translated “gospel” is used 76 times in the NT. shepherds and teachers. This phrase is best understood in context as a single office of leadership in the church. The Greek word translated “and” can mean “in particular” (see 1 Tim. 5:17), so the two functions together define the teaching shepherd. He is identified as one who is under the “great shepherd” Jesus (Heb. 13:20–21; 1 Pet. 2:25). One who holds this office is also called an “elder” (see notes on Titus 1:5–9) and “overseer” (see notes on 1 Tim. 3:1–7). See also Acts 20:28 and 1 Pet. 5:1–2, which bring all three terms together.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:12 equip. This refers to restoring something to its original condition, or its being made fit or complete. In this context, it refers to leading Christians from sin to obedience. Scripture is the key to this process (see notes on 2 Tim. 3:16–17; cf. John 15:3). saints. All who believe in Jesus Christ. See note on Eph. 1:1. the work of ministry. The spiritual service required of every Christian, not just of church leaders (cf. 1 Cor. 15:58). building up of the body of Christ. The spiritual edification, nurturing, and development of the church (cf. Acts 20:32).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:13 unity of the faith. Faith here refers to the body of revealed truth that constitutes Christian teaching, particularly featuring the complete content of the gospel. Oneness and harmony among believers is possible only when it is built on the foundation of sound doctrine. the knowledge of the Son of God. This does not refer to salvation knowledge but to the deep knowledge of Christ that a believer comes to have through prayer, faithful study of his word, and obedience to his commands (cf. Phil. 3:8–10, 12; Col. 1:9–10; 2:2; see note on 1 John 2:12–14). the fullness of Christ. God wants every believer to manifest the qualities of his Son, who is himself the standard for their spiritual maturity and perfection. See notes on Rom. 8:29; 2 Cor. 3:18; Col. 1:28–29.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:14 carried about by every wind of doctrine. Spiritually immature believers who are not grounded in the knowledge of Christ through God’s word are inclined to uncritically accept every sort of beguiling doctrinal error and fallacious interpretation of Scripture promulgated by deceitful, false teachers in the church. They must learn discernment (1 Thess. 5:21–22). See Eph. 3:1 and 4:20. The NT is replete with warnings of such danger (Acts 20:30–31; Rom. 16:17–18; Gal. 1:6–7; 1 Tim. 4:1–7; 2 Tim. 2:15–18; 2 Pet. 2:1–3).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:15 speaking the truth in love. Evangelism is most effective when the truth is proclaimed in love. This can be accomplished only by the spiritually mature believer who is thoroughly equipped in sound doctrine. Without maturity, the truth can be cold and love little more than sentimentality. grow up . . . into him. Christians are to be completely yielded and obedient to the Lord’s will, subject to his controlling power and Christlike in all areas of their lives (cf. Gal. 2:20; Phil. 1:21). the head. Given the picture of the church as a body whose head is Christ, “head” is used in the sense of authoritative leader, not “source,” which would have required a different anatomical picture. See Eph. 1:22 and 5:23.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:16 from whom. This refers to the Lord. Power for producing mature, equipped believers comes not from the effort of those believers alone but from their head, the Lord Jesus Christ (cf. Col. 2:19). each part is working properly. Godly, biblical church growth results from every member of the body fully using his spiritual gift, in submission to the Holy Spirit and in cooperation with other believers (cf. Col. 2:19).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:17–19 In these verses, Paul gives four characteristics of the ungodly lifestyles that believers are to forsake.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:17 no longer walk. “Walk” expresses daily conduct and refers back to what Paul has said about the believer’s high calling in Christ Jesus (v. 1). Because Christians are part of the body of Christ, have been spiritually gifted by the Holy Spirit, and are edified through other believers, they should not continue to live like the rest of the ungodly (1 John 2:6). Gentiles. All ungodly, unregenerate pagans (cf. 1 Thess. 4:5, which defines them). the futility of their minds. First, unbelievers are intellectually unproductive. As far as spiritual and moral issues are concerned, their rational processes are distorted and inadequate, inevitably failing to produce godly understanding or moral living. Their life is empty, vain, and without meaning (cf. Rom. 1:21–28; 1 Cor. 2:14; Col. 2:18).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:18 alienated from the life of God. Second, unbelievers are spiritually separated from God, thus ignorant of God’s truth (1 Cor. 2:14), and their willing spiritual darkness and moral blindness is the result (cf. Rom. 1:21–24; 2 Tim. 3:7). They are blind, or “hard” like a rock.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:19 have become callous. Third, unbelievers are morally insensitive. As they continue to sin and turn away from God, they become still more apathetic about moral and spiritual things (cf. Rom. 1:32). sensuality . . . impurity. Fourth, unbelievers are behaviorally depraved (cf. Rom. 1:28). As they willingly keep succumbing to sensuality and licentiousness, they increasingly lose moral restraint, especially in the area of sexual sins. Impurity is inseparable from greediness, which is a form of idolatry (Eph. 5:5; Col. 3:5). That some souls may not reach the extremes of Eph. 4:17–19 is due only to God’s common grace and the restraining influence of the Holy Spirit.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:20–21 learned . . . heard . . . taught. Three figurative descriptions of salvation, the new birth.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:21 as the truth is in Jesus. The truth about salvation leads to the fullness of truth about God, man, creation, history, life, purpose, relationships, heaven, hell, judgment, and everything else that is truly important. John summed this up in 1 John 5:20.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:22 put off. To strip away, as in taking off old, filthy clothes. This describes repentance from sin and submission to God at the point of salvation. See notes on Col. 3:3–9 (cf. Isa. 55:6–7; Matt. 19:16–22; Acts 2:38–40; 20:21; 1 Thess. 1:9). your old self. The worn out, useless, and unconverted sinful nature corrupted by deceit. Salvation is a spiritual union with Jesus Christ that is described as the death plus burial of the old self and the resurrection of the new self walking in newness of life. This transformation is Paul's theme in Rom. 6:2–8 (see notes there).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:23 be renewed in the spirit of your minds. Salvation involves the mind (see notes on Rom. 12:2; 2 Cor. 10:5), which is the center of thought, understanding, and belief, as well as of motive and action (cf. Col. 3:1–2, 10). When a person becomes a Christian, God gives him a completely new spiritual and moral capability that a mind apart from Christ could never achieve (cf. 1 Cor. 2:9–16).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:24 put on the new self. The renewal of the mind in salvation brings not simply a renovation of character, but transformation of the old to the new self (cf. 2 Cor. 5:17). created after the likeness of God. In Christ, the old self no longer exists as it had in the past; the new self is created in the very likeness of God (cf. Gal. 2:20). in true righteousness and holiness. Righteousness relates to the Christian's moral responsibility to his fellow men, reflecting the second table of the law (Ex. 20:12–17), while holiness refers to his responsibilities to God, reflecting the first table (Ex. 20:3–11). There is still sin in the believer's unredeemed human flesh (see notes on Rom. 7:17, 18, 20, 23, 25; 8:23).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:25 put away falsehood. More than simply telling direct falsehoods, lying also includes exaggeration and adding fabrications to something that is true. Cheating, making foolish promises, betraying a confidence, and making false excuses are all forms of lying, with which Christians should have no part (cf. John 8:44; 1 Cor. 6:9; Rev. 21:8). Speak the truth with his neighbor. Quoted from Zech. 8:16. God's work in the world is based on truth, and neither the church nor individual believers can be fit instruments for the Lord to use if they are not truthful.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:26 Be angry and do not sin Quoted from Ps. 4:4. By NT standards, anger can be either good or bad, depending on motive and purpose. Paul may have been sanctioning righteous indignation, anger at evil. This type of anger hates injustice, immorality, ungodliness, and every other sin. When such anger is unselfish and based on love for God and others, it not only is permissible but commanded. Jesus expressed this righteous anger (see Matt. 21:12; Mark 3:5; John 2:15). sun go down. Even righteous anger can turn to bitterness, so it should be set aside by the end of each day. If anger is prolonged, it may become hostile and violate the instruction of Rom. 12:17–21.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:28 no longer steal. Stealing in any form is a sin and has no part in the life of a Christian. Rather, let him work, producing what is beneficial (cf. Ex. 20:15). The alternative to stealing is to provide for oneself, one's family, and others what is God-honoring through honest, honorable means (cf. 2 Thess. 3:10–11; 1 Tim. 5:8). share with anyone in need. A Christian not only should harm no one but should continually endeavor to help those who are in need. See Luke 14:13–14 and Acts 20:33–35.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:29 corrupting talk. The word for “corrupting” refers to that which is foul or rotten, such as spoiled fruit or putrid meat. Foul language of any sort should never pass a Christian's lips, because it is totally out of character with his new life in Christ (see Col. 3:8; James 3:6–8; cf. Ps. 141:3). good for building up. The Christian's speech should be instructive, encouraging, uplifting (even when it must be corrective), and suited for the moment (cf. Prov. 15:23; 25:11; 24:26). grace to those who hear. Cf. Col. 4:6. Because believers have been saved by grace and kept by grace, they should live and speak with grace. Our Lord set the standard (Luke 4:22).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:30 do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God. God is grieved when his children refuse to change the old ways of sin for those righteous ways of the new life. It should be noted that such responses by the Holy Spirit indicate he is a person. His personhood is also indicated by personal pronouns (John 14:17; 16:13), his personal care of believers (John 14:16, 26; 15:26), his intellect (1 Cor. 2:11), feelings (Rom. 8:27), will (1 Cor. 12:11), speaking (Acts 13:2), convicting (John 16:8–11), interceding (Rom. 8:26), guiding (John 16:13), glorifying Christ (John 16:14), and serving God (Acts 16:6–7). sealed for the day of redemption. The Holy Spirit is the guarantor of eternal redemption in Christ for those who believe in him (see note on Eph. 1:13–14).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:31–32 These verses summarize the changes in the life of a believer mentioned in vv. 17–30. “Bitterness” reflects a smoldering resentment. “Wrath” has to do with rage, the passion of a moment. “Anger” is a more internal, deep hostility. “Clamor” is the outcry of strife out of control. “Slander” is evil speaking. “Malice” is the general Greek term for evil, the root of all vices.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 4:32 as God in Christ forgave you. Those who have been forgiven so much by God should, of all people, forgive the relatively small offenses against them by others. The most graphic illustration of this truth is the parable of Matt. 18:21–35.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:1 be imitators of God. The Christian has no greater calling or purpose than that of imitating his Lord (see notes on 3:16, 19). That is the very purpose of sanctification, growing in likeness to the Lord while serving him on earth (cf. Matt. 5:48). The Christian life is designed to reproduce godliness as modeled by the Savior and Lord, Jesus Christ, in whose image believers have been recreated through the new birth (cf. Rom. 8:29; 2 Cor. 3:18; 1 Pet. 1:14–16). As God’s dear children, believers are to become more and more like their heavenly Father (Matt. 5:48; 1 Pet. 1:15–16).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:2 Christ loved us and gave himself up for us. The Lord is the supreme example in his self-sacrificing love for lost sinners (4:32; Rom. 5:8–10). He took human sin upon himself and gave up his very life that men might be redeemed from their sin, receive a new and holy nature, and inherit eternal life (see note on 2 Cor. 5:21). They are henceforth to be imitators of his great love in the newness and power of the Holy Spirit, who enables them to demonstrate divine love. a fragrant offering. Christ’s offering of himself for fallen man pleased and glorified his heavenly Father, because it demonstrated in the most complete and perfect way God’s sovereign, perfect, unconditional, and divine kind of love. Leviticus describes five offerings commanded by God for Israel. The first three were: 1) the burnt offering (Lev. 1:1–17), depicting Christ’s perfection; 2) the grain offering (Lev. 2:1–16), depicting Christ’s total devotion to God in giving his life to please the Father; and 3) the peace offering (Lev. 3:1–17), depicting his peacemaking between God and man. All three of these were a “pleasing aroma to the Lord” (Lev. 1:9, 13, 17; 2:2, 9, 12; 3:5, 16). The other two offerings, the sin offering (Lev. 4:1–5:13) and the guilt, or trespass, offering (Lev. 5:14–6:7), were repulsive to God because, though they depicted Christ, they depicted him as bearing sin (cf. Matt. 27:46). In the end, when redemption was accomplished, the whole work pleased God completely.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:3 immorality . . . covetousness. In absolute contrast to God’s holiness and love, such sins as these exist (also in v. 5), by which Satan seeks to destroy God’s divine work in his children and turn them as far away as possible from his image and will. As do many other Scriptures, this verse shows the close connection between sexual sin and other forms of impurity and greed. An immoral person is inevitably greedy. Such sins are so godless that the world should never have reason even to suspect their presence in Christians.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:4 out of place. These three inappropriate sins of the tongue include any speech that is obscene and degrading or foolish and dirty, as well as suggestive and immoral. All such are destructive of holy living and godly testimony and should be confessed, forsaken, and replaced by open expressions of thankfulness to God (cf. Col. 3:8).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:5 For you may be sure. Paul had taught this truth many times when he pastored the church at Ephesus and it should have been clear in their minds. God never tolerates sin, which has no place at all in his kingdom, nor will any person whose life pattern is one of habitual immorality, impurity, and greed (see v. 3) be in his kingdom, because no such person is saved (see notes on 1 Cor. 6:9–10; Gal. 5:17–21; 1 John 3:9–10). the kingdom of Christ and God. A reference to the sphere of salvation where Christ rules the redeemed. See note on Acts 1:3.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:6 deceive you. No Christian will be sinless in this present life, but it is dangerously deceptive for Christians to offer assurance of salvation to a professing believer whose life is characterized by persistent sin and who shows no shame for that sin or hunger for the holy and pure things of God. They are headed for wrath (2:2) and believers must not partner in any of their wickedness (5:7).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:8 darkness . . . light. “Darkness” describes the character of the life of the unconverted as void of truth and virtue in intellectual and moral matters (cf. 1 John 1:5–7). The realm of darkness is presided over by the “power of darkness” (Luke 22:53; Col. 1:13), who rules those headed for “outer darkness” (Matt. 8:12; 2 Pet. 2:17). Tragically, sinners love the darkness (John 3:19–21). It is that very darkness from which salvation in Christ delivers sinners (see notes on John 8:12; Col. 1:13; 1 Pet. 2:9; cf. Ps. 27:1).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:9 fruit of light. This speaks of that which is produced by walking in the light (cf. 1 John 1:5–7), namely moral excellence of heart, righteous behavior, and truthfulness (honesty or integrity). See notes on Gal. 5:22–23.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:10 try to discern what is pleasing to the Lord. “Try to discern” carries the idea of testing or proving to learn by clear and convincing evidence what is truly honoring to God. The point is that, as believers walk in the light of the truth, the knowledge of the Lord’s will becomes clear. See Rom. 12:1–2 where Paul says the same thing, stating that it is only after presenting ourselves as living sacrifices to God that we can know his acceptable will. This relates to assurance of salvation also (see 1 Pet. 1:5–11).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:11 Take no part in . . . darkness. Paul’s instruction is plain and direct: Christians are to faithfully live in righteousness and purity and have nothing at all to do with the evil ways and works of Satan and the world. The two ways of living are unalterably opposed to each other and mutually exclusive. Cf. 1 Cor. 5:9–11; 2 Cor. 6:14–18; 2 Thess. 3:6, 14. instead expose them. The Christian’s responsibility does not stop with his own rejection of evil. He is also responsible for exposing and opposing darkness wherever it is found, especially when it is found in the church. See notes on Matt. 18:15–17 and Gal. 6:1–2.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:12 shameful even to speak. Some sins are so despicable that they should be sealed off from direct contact and not even mentioned, much less discussed, except in order to contradict and oppose them. Merely talking about them can be morally and spiritually corruptive. Positive proclamation of the pure truth in the light of the word exposes all evil (cf. Prov. 6:23; 2 Tim. 3:16).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:13 anything is exposed by the light, it becomes visible. This phrase should probably be part of v. 14, and is better translated, “for it is light that makes everything visible.” The pure and illuminating light of God’s word exposes all the secrets of sin.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:14 Using this quotation from Isa. 60:1, Paul extended an invitation for salvation to the unsaved, in order that they may be transformed from children of darkness into children of God's holy light (cf. Prov. 4:18). These words may have been part of an early church Easter hymn used as an invitation to unbelievers. They express a capsule view of the gospel. Cf. the invitations in Isa. 55:1–3, 6–7 and in James 4:6–10.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:15 Look carefully then how you walk, not as unwise but as wise. To live morally is to live wisely. Biblically, an “unwise” person is not so named because of intellectual limits, but because of unbelief and the consequent abominable deeds (Ps. 14:1; Rom. 1:22). He lives apart from God and against God's law (Prov. 1:7, 22; 14:9), and can't comprehend the truth (1 Cor. 2:14) or his true condition (Rom. 1:21–22). Certainly believers are to avoid behaving like fools (see Luke 24:25; Gal. 3:1–3).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:16 making the best use of the time. The Greek word for “time” denotes a fixed, measured, allocated season. We are to make the most of our time on this evil earth in fulfilling God's purposes, lining up every opportunity for useful worship and service. See note on 1 Pet. 1:17. Be aware of the brevity of life (Ps. 39:4–5; 89:46–47; James 4:14, 17).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:17 do not be foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is. Knowing and understanding God's will through his word is spiritual wisdom. For example, God's will revealed to us is that people should be saved (1 Tim. 2:3–4), Spirit-filled (Eph. 5:18), sanctified (1 Thess. 4:3), submissive (1 Pet. 2:13–15), suffering (1 Pet. 2:20) and thankful (1 Thess. 5:18). Jesus is the supreme example for all (see John 4:4; 5:19, 30; 1 Pet. 4:1–2).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:18 And do not get drunk with wine. Although Scripture consistently condemns all drunkenness (see notes on Prov. 23:29–35; 31:4–5; Isa. 5:11–12; 28:7–8; cf. 1 Cor. 5:11; 1 Pet. 4:3), the context suggests that Paul is here speaking especially about the drunken orgies commonly associated with many pagan worship ceremonies of that day. They were supposed to induce some ecstatic communion with the deities. Paul refers to such as the “cup of demons” (see note on 1 Cor. 10:19–20). but be filled with the Spirit. See notes on Acts 2:4; 4:8, 31; 6:3. True communion with God is not induced by drunkenness, but by the Holy Spirit. Paul is not speaking of the Holy Spirit's indwelling (Rom. 8:9) or the baptism by Christ with the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. 12:13), because every Christian is indwelt and baptized by the Spirit at the time of salvation. He is rather giving a command for believers to live continually under the influence of the Spirit by letting the word control them (see note on Col. 3:16), pursuing pure lives, confessing all known sin, dying to self, surrendering to God's will, and depending on his power in all things. Being filled with the Spirit is living in the conscious presence of the Lord Jesus Christ, letting his mind, through the word, dominate everything that is thought and done. Being filled with the Spirit is the same as walking in the Spirit (see notes on Gal. 5:16–23). Christ exemplified this way of life (Luke 4:1).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:19–21 These verses summarize the immediate personal consequences of obeying the command to be filled with the Spirit, namely singing, giving thanks, and humbly submitting to others. The rest of the epistle features instruction based on obedience to this command

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:19 addressing one another. This is to be public (Heb. 2:12). Cf. Ps. 33:1; 40:3; 96:1–2; 149:1; Acts 16:25; Rev. 14:3. psalms. Old Testament psalms put to music, primarily, but the term was used also of vocal music in general. The early church sang the Psalms. hymns. Perhaps songs of praise distinguished from the Psalms which exalted God, in that they focused on the Lord Jesus Christ. spiritual songs. Probably songs of personal testimony expressing truths of the grace of salvation in Christ. making melody. Lit., means to pluck a stringed instrument, so it could refer primarily to instrumental music, while including vocal also. to the Lord with your heart. Not just public, but private. The Lord himself is both the source and the object of the believer's song-filled heart. That such music pleases God can be seen in the account of the temple dedication, when the singing so honored the Lord that his glory came down (2 Chron. 5:12, 14).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:20 giving thanks always and for everything. See note on 1 Thess. 5:18; cf. 2 Cor. 4:15; 9:12, 15; Phil. 4:6; Col. 2:7; Heb. 13:15. Believers' thankfulness is for who God is and for what he has done through his Son, their Savior and Lord.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:21 submitting to one another. Paul here made a transition and introduced his teaching about specific relationships of authority and submission among Christians (5:22–6:9) by declaring unequivocally that every Spirit-filled Christian is to be a humble, submissive Christian. This is foundational to all the relationships in this section. No believer is inherently superior to any other believer. In their standing before God, they are equal in every way (Gal. 3:28). reverence for Christ. The believer's continual reverence for God is the basis for his submission to other believers. Cf. Prov. 9:10.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:22 Wives, submit to your own husbands. Having established the foundational principle of submission (v. 21), Paul applied it first to the wife. The command is unqualified, applying to every Christian wife, no matter what her own abilities, education, knowledge of Scripture, spiritual maturity, or any other qualifications might be in relation to those of her husband. The submission is not the husband's to command but for the wife to willingly and lovingly offer. "Your own husbands" limits her submission to the one man God has placed over her, and also gives a balancing emphasis that he is hers as a personal intimate possession (Song 2:16; 6:3; 7:10). She submits to the man she possesses as her own. as to the Lord. Because the obedient, spiritual wife's supreme submission is to the Lord, her attitude is that she lovingly submits as an act of obedience to the Lord, who has given this command as his will for her, regardless of her husband's personal worthiness or spiritual condition. Cf. Eph. 5:5–9.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:23 husband is the head . . . Christ is the head. The Spirit-filled wife recognizes that her husband's role in giving leadership is not only God-ordained, but is a reflection of Christ's own loving, authoritative headship of the church. See notes on 1 Cor. 11:3; cf. Eph. 1:22–23; 4:15; Col. 1:18; Titus 2:4–5. Savior. As the Lord delivered his church from the dangers of sin, death, and hell, so the husband provides for, protects, preserves, and loves his wife, leading her to blessing as she submits. Cf. Titus 1:4; 2:13; 3:6.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:25 love your wives. Though the husband's authority has been established (vv. 22–24), the emphasis moves to the supreme responsibility of husbands in regard to their wives, which is to love them with the same unreserved, selfless, and sacrificial love that Christ has for his church. Christ gave everything he had, including his own life, for the sake of his church, and that is the standard of sacrifice for a husband's love of his wife. Cf. Col. 3:19.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:26–27 sanctify . . . cleansed . . . holy . . . without blemish. This speaks of the love of Christ for his church. Saving grace makes believers holy by the agency of the word of God (Titus 2:1–9; 3:5) so that they may be a pure bride. For husbands to love their wives as Christ does his church, demands a purifying love. Since divine love seeks to completely cleanse those who are loved from every form of sin and evil, a Christian husband should not be able to bear the thought of anything sinful in the life of his wife that displeases God. His greatest desire for her should be that she become perfectly conformed to Christ, so he leads her to purity. See note on 2 Cor. 11:2.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:28 as their own bodies. Here is one of the most poignant and compelling descriptions of the oneness that should characterize Christian marriage. A Christian husband is to care for his wife with the same devotion that he naturally manifests as he cares for himself (v. 29)—even more so, since his self-sacrificing love causes him to put her first (cf. Phil. 2:1–4). loves his wife loves himself. In the end, a husband who loves his wife in these ways brings great blessing to himself from her and from the Lord.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:29 nourishes and cherishes. These express the twin responsibilities of providing for her needs so as to help her grow mature in Christ and to provide warm and tender affection to give her comfort and security.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:30 members of his body. The Lord provides for his church because it is so intimately and inseparably connected to him. If he did not care for his church, he would be diminishing his own glory, which the church brings to him by praise and obedience. So, in marriage, the husband's life is so intimately joined to the wife's that they are one. When he cares for her, he cares for himself (v. 29).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:31 Quoted from Gen. 2:24 (see note there. Paul reinforces the divine plan for marriage that God instituted at creation, emphasizing its permanence and unity. The union of marriage is intimate and unbreakable. “Hold fast” is a phrase used to express having been glued or cemented together, emphasizing the permanence of the union (see notes on Mal. 2:16; Matt. 19:5–9).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:32 mystery is profound. In the NT, “mystery” identifies some reality hidden in the past and revealed in the NT age to be written in Scripture. Marriage is a sacred reflection of the magnificent and beautiful mystery of union between the Messiah and his church, completely unknown until the NT. See notes on 3:4–5; Matt. 13:11; 1 Cor. 2:7.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 5:33 each one of you. The intimacy and sacredness of the love relationship between believing marriage partners is to be a visual expression of the love between Christ and his church.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:1 obey . . . in the Lord. See Col. 3:20. The child in the home is to be willingly under the authority of parents with obedient submission to them as the agents of the Lord placed over him, obeying parents as if obeying the Lord himself. The reasoning here is simply that such is the way God has designed and required it (“right”). Cf. Hos. 14:9.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:2–3 Honor. While v. 1 speaks of action, this term speaks of attitude, as Paul deals with the motive behind the action. When God gave his law in the Ten Commandments, the first law governing human relationships was this one (Ex. 20:12; Deut. 5:16). It is the only command of the 10 that relates to the family because that principle alone secures the family’s fulfillment. Cf. Ex. 21:15, 17; Lev. 20:9; Matt. 15:3–6. Proverbs affirms this principle (see Prov. 1:8; 3:1; 4:1–4; 7:1–3; 10:1; 17:21; 19:13, 26; 28:24).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:2 the first commandment with a promise. Although submission to parents should first of all be for the Lord’s sake, he has graciously added the promise of special blessing for those who obey this command. See note on Ex. 20:12, the verse from which Paul quotes (cf. Deut. 5:16).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:4 Fathers. The word technically refers to male parents, but was also used of parents in general. Since Paul had been speaking of both parents (vv. 1–3) he probably had both in mind here. The same word is used in Heb. 11:23 for Moses’ parents. do not provoke. In the pagan world of Paul’s day, and even in many Jewish households, most fathers ruled their families with rigid and domineering authority. The desires and welfare of wives and children were seldom considered. The apostle makes clear that a Christian father’s authority over his children does not allow for unreasonable demands and strictures that might drive his children to anger, despair, and resentment. discipline and instruction of the Lord. This calls for systematic discipline and instruction, which brings children to respect the commands of the Lord as the foundation of all of life, godliness, and blessing. Cf. Prov. 13:24 and Heb. 12:5–11.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:5 Slaves, obey. See note on Col. 3:22–4:1. Slaves in both Greek and Roman culture had no rights legally and were treated as commodities. There was much abuse and seldom good treatment of slaves. The Bible does not speak against slavery itself, but against its abuses (cf. Ex. 21:16, 26–27; Lev. 25:10; Deut. 23:15–16). Paul’s admonition applies equally well to all employees. The term “obey” refers to continuous, uninterrupted submission to one’s earthly master or employer, the only exception being in regard to a command that involves clear disobedience of God’s word as illustrated in Acts 4:19–20. See notes on 1 Tim. 6:1–2; Titus 2:9–10; 1 Pet. 2:18–20. earthly masters. Human masters, that is, with fear and trembling. This is not fright, but respect for their authority. Even if an employer does not deserve respect in his own right (see 1 Pet. 2:18), it should nevertheless be given to him with genuine sincerity as if one was serving Christ himself. To serve one's employer well is to serve Christ well. Cf. Col. 3:23–24.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:6 eye-service. Working well only when being watched by the boss. people-pleasers. Working only to promote one's welfare, rather than to honor the employer and the Lord, whose servants we really are.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:7–8 Cf. Col. 3:23. God's credits and rewards will be appropriate to the attitude and action of our work. No good thing done for his glory will go unrewarded.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:9 Masters, do the same to them. There should be mutual honor and respect from Christian employers to their employees, based on their common allegiance to the Lord. stop your threatening. The Spirit-filled boss uses his authority and power with justice and grace—never putting people under threats, never abusive or inconsiderate. He realizes that he has a heavenly Master who is impartial (cf. Acts 10:34; Rom. 2:11; James 2:9).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:10–17 The true believer described in chs. 1–3, who lives the Spirit-controlled life of 4:1–6:9, can be sure to be in a spiritual war, as described here. Paul closes this letter with both warning about that war and instructions on how to win it. The Lord provides his saints with sufficient armor to combat and thwart the adversary. In 6:10–13, the apostle briefly sets forth the basic truths regarding the believer's necessary spiritual preparation as well as truths regarding his enemy, his battle, and his victory. In vv. 14–17, he specifies the six most necessary pieces of spiritual armor with which God equips his children to resist and overcome Satan's assaults.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:10 be strong in the Lord and in the strength of his might. Cf. Phil. 4:13 and 2 Tim. 2:1. Ultimately, Satan's power over Christians is already broken and the great war is won through Christ's crucifixion and resurrection, which forever conquered the power of sin and death (Rom. 5:18–21; 1 Cor. 15:56–57; Heb. 2:14). However, in life on earth, battles of temptation go on regularly. The Lord's power, the strength of his Spirit, and the force of biblical truth are required for victory (see notes on 2 Cor. 10:3–5).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:11 Put on the whole armor of God. “Put on” conveys the idea of permanence, indicating that armor should be the Christian’s sustained, life-long attire. Paul uses the common armor worn by Roman soldiers as the analogy for the believer’s spiritual defense and affirms its necessity if one is to hold his position while under attack. schemes. This Greek word carries the idea of cleverness, crafty methods, cunning, and deception. Satan’s schemes are propagated through the evil world system over which he rules, and are carried out by his demon hosts. “Schemes” is all-inclusive, encompassing every sin, immoral practice, false theology, false religion, and worldly enticement. See note on 2 Cor. 2:11. the devil. Scripture refers to him as “an anointed guardian cherub” (Ezek. 28:14), “the prince of demons” (Luke 11:15), “the god of this world” (2 Cor. 4:4), and “the prince of the power of the air” (Eph. 2:2). Scripture depicts him opposing God’s work (Zech. 3:1), perverting God’s word (Matt. 4:6), hindering God’s servant (1 Thess. 2:18), hindering the gospel (2 Cor. 4:4), snaring the righteous (1 Tim. 3:7), and holding the world in his power (1 John 5:19).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:12 wrestle. A term also used of hand-to-hand combat. Struggling or wrestling features trickery and deception, like Satan and his hosts when they attack. Coping with deceptive temptation requires truth and righteousness. The four designations describe the different strata and rankings of those demons and the evil supernatural empire in which they operate. Satan’s forces of darkness are highly structured for the most destructive purposes. Cf. Col. 2:15 and 1 Pet. 3:22. not . . . against flesh and blood. See 2 Cor. 10:3–5. spiritual forces of evil. This possibly refers to the most depraved abominations, including such things as extreme sexual perversions, occultism, and Satan worship. See note on Col. 1:16. in the heavenly places. As in Eph. 1:3 and 3:10, this refers to the entire realm of spiritual beings.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:13 Therefore take up the whole armor of God. Paul again emphasized the necessity of the Christian’s appropriating God’s full spiritual armor by obedience in taking it up, or putting it on (v. 11). The first three pieces of armor (belt, breastplate, and shoes/boots, vv. 14–15) were worn continually on the battlefield; the last three (shield, helmet, and sword, vv. 16–17) were kept ready for use when actual fighting began. the evil day. Since the fall of man, every day has been evil, a condition that will persist until the Lord returns and establishes his own righteous kingdom on earth. having done all, to stand firm. Standing firm against the enemy without wavering or falling is the goal. See notes on James 4:17 and 1 Pet. 5:8–9.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:14 Stand therefore. For the third time (see vv. 11, 13), the apostle calls Christians to take a firm position in the spiritual battle against Satan and his minions. Whether confronting Satan’s efforts to distrust God, forsaking obedience, producing doctrinal confusion and falsehood, hindering service to God, bringing division, serving God in the flesh, living hypocritically, being worldly, or in any other way rejecting biblical obedience, this armor is our defense. fastened . . . truth. The soldier wore a tunic of loose-fitting cloth. Since ancient combat was largely hand-to-hand, a loose tunic was a potential hindrance and danger. A belt was necessary to cinch up the loosely hanging material. Cf. Ex. 12:11; Luke 12:35; 1 Pet. 1:13. Girding up was a matter of pulling in the loose ends as preparation for battle. The belt that pulls all the spiritual loose ends in is “truth,” or better, “truthfulness.” The idea is of sincere commitment to fight and win without hypocrisy—self-discipline in devotion to victory. Everything that hinders is tucked away. Cf. 2 Tim. 2:4 and Heb. 12:1. the breastplate of righteousness. The breastplate was usually a tough, sleeveless piece of leather or heavy material with animal horn or hoof pieces sewn on, covering the soldier’s full torso, protecting his heart and other vital organs. Because righteousness, or holiness, is such a distinctive characteristic of God himself, it is not hard to understand why that is the Christian’s chief protection against Satan and his schemes. As believers faithfully live in obedience to and communion with Jesus Christ, his own righteousness produces in them the practical, daily righteousness that becomes their spiritual breastplate. Lack of holiness, on the other hand, leaves them vulnerable to the great enemy of their souls (cf. Isa. 59:17; 2 Cor. 7:1; 1 Thess. 5:8).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:15 shoes . . . the gospel of peace. Roman soldiers wore boots with nails in them to grip the ground in combat. The gospel of peace pertains to the good news that, through Christ, believers are at peace with God and he is on their side (Rom. 5:6–10). It is that confidence of divine support which allows the believer to stand firm, knowing that since he is at peace with God, God is his strength (see Rom. 8:31, 37–39).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:16 the shield of faith. This Greek word usually refers to the large shield (2.5 x 4.5 feet) that protected the entire body. The faith to which Paul refers is not the body of Christian doctrine (as the term is used in 4:13) but basic trust in God. The believer’s continual trust in God’s word and promise is “in all circumstances” necessary to protect him from temptations to every sort of sin. All sin comes when the victim falls to Satan’s lies and promises of pleasure, rejecting the better choice of obedience and blessing. flaming darts.

Temptations are likened to the flaming arrows shot by the enemy and quenched by the oil-treated leather shield (cf. Ps. 18:30; Prov. 30:5–6; 1 John 5:4).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:17 the helmet of salvation. The helmet protected the head, always a major target in battle. Paul is speaking to those who are already saved, and is therefore not speaking here about attaining salvation. Rather, Satan seeks to destroy a believer’s assurance of salvation with his weapons of doubt and discouragement. This is clear from Paul’s reference to the helmet as “the hope of salvation” (Isa. 59:17; see note on 1 Thess. 5:8). But although a Christian’s feelings about his salvation may be seriously damaged by Satan-inspired doubt, his salvation itself is eternally protected and he need not fear its loss. Satan wants to curse the believer with doubts, but the Christian can be strong in God’s promises of eternal salvation in Scripture (see John 6:37–39; 10:28–29; Rom. 5:10; 8:31–39; Phil. 1:6; 1 Pet. 1:3–5). Security is a fact; assurance is a feeling that comes to the obedient Christian (1 Pet. 1:3–10). the sword of the Spirit. As the sword was the soldier’s only weapon, so God’s word is the only needed weapon, infinitely more powerful than any of Satan’s. The Greek term refers to a small weapon (6–18 inches long). It was used both defensively to fend off Satan’s attacks, and offensively to help destroy the enemy’s strategies. It is the truth of Scripture. See notes on 2 Cor. 10:3–5 and Heb. 4:12.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:18 This verse introduces the general character of a believer’s prayer life: 1) “all prayer and supplication” focuses on the variety; 2) “at all times” focuses on the frequency (cf. Rom. 12:12; Phil. 4:6; 1 Thess. 5:17); 3) “in the Spirit” focuses on submission, as we line up with the will of God (cf. Rom. 8:26–27); 4) “keep alert” focuses on the manner (cf. Matt. 26:41; Mark 13:33); 5) “all perseverance” focuses on the persistence (cf. Luke 11:9; 18:7–8); and 6) “all the saints” focuses on the objects (cf. 1 Sam. 12:23).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:19–20 Paul does not ask for prayer for his personal well-being or physical comfort in the imprisonment from which he wrote, but for boldness and faithfulness to continue proclaiming the gospel to the unsaved no matter what the cost. mystery. See note on 3:4. ambassador. See notes on 2 Cor. 5:18–20.

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:21–22 Tychicus. A convert from Asia Minor (modern Turkey) who was with the apostle during his first imprisonment in Rome, from where this epistle was written (see 3:1). He accompanied Paul in taking an offering to the church in Jerusalem (Acts 20:4–6) and was sent by him on several missions (2 Tim. 4:12; Titus 3:12).

EPHESIANS—NOTE ON 6:23–24 This beautiful benediction sums up the major themes of this very personal letter, reminding readers of the peace (v. 15; 1:2; 2:14–15, 17; 4:3), love (1:15; 4:2, 15–16; 5:25, 28, 33), and faith (6:16; 1:15; 2:8; 3:12, 17; 4:5, 13) from God and Jesus Christ.

Introduction to Philippians

Title

Philippians derives its name from the Greek city where the church to which it was addressed was located. Philippi was the first town in Macedonia where Paul established a church.

Author and Date

The unanimous testimony of the early church was that the apostle Paul wrote Philippians. Nothing in the letter would have motivated a forger to write it.

The question of when Philippians was written cannot be separated from that of where it was written. The traditional view is that Philippians, along with the other Prison Epistles (Ephesians, Colossians, Philemon), was written during Paul's first imprisonment at Rome (c. A.D. 60–62). The most natural understanding of the references to the “imperial guard” (1:13) and the “saints . . . of Caesar's household” (4:22) is that Paul wrote from Rome, where the emperor lived. The similarities between the details of Paul's imprisonment given in Acts and in the Prison Epistles also argue that those epistles were written from Rome (e.g., Paul was guarded by soldiers, Acts 28:16; cf. Phil. 1:13–14; was permitted to receive visitors, Acts 28:30; cf. Phil. 4:18; and had the opportunity to preach the gospel, Acts 28:31; cf. Phil. 1:12–14; Eph. 6:18–20; Col. 4:2–4).

Some have held that Paul wrote the Prison Epistles during his two-year imprisonment at Caesarea (Acts 24:27). But Paul's opportunities to receive visitors and proclaim the gospel were severely limited during that imprisonment (cf. Acts 23:35). The Prison Epistles express Paul's hope for a favorable verdict (Phil. 1:25; 2:24; cf. Philem. 22). In Caesarea, however, Paul's only hope for release was either to bribe Felix (Acts 24:26), or agree to stand trial at Jerusalem under Festus (Acts 25:9). In the Prison Epistles, Paul expected the decision in his case to be final (Phil. 1:20–23; 2:17, 23). That could not have been true at Caesarea, since Paul could and did appeal his case to the emperor.

Another alternative has been that Paul wrote the Prison Epistles from Ephesus. But at Ephesus, like Caesarea, no final decision could be made in his case because of his right to appeal to the emperor. Also, Luke was with Paul when he wrote Colossians (Col. 4:14), but he apparently was not with the apostle at Ephesus. Acts 19, which records Paul's stay in Ephesus, is not in one of the "we sections" of Acts (see Introduction to Acts: Author and Date). The most telling argument against Ephesus as the point of origin for the Prison Epistles, however, is that there is no evidence that Paul was ever imprisoned at Ephesus.

In light of the serious difficulties faced by both the Caesarean and Ephesian views, there is no reason to reject the traditional view that Paul wrote the Prison Epistles—including Philippians—from Rome.

Paul's belief that his case would soon be decided (Phil. 2:23–24) points to Philippians being written toward the close of the apostle's two-year Roman imprisonment (c. A.D. 61).

Background and Setting

Originally known as Krenides ("The Little Fountains") because of the numerous nearby springs, Philippi ("city of Philip") received its name from Philip II of Macedon (the father of Alexander the Great). Attracted by the nearby gold mines, Philip conquered the region in the fourth century B.C. In the second century B.C., Philippi became part of the Roman province of Macedonia.

The city existed in relative obscurity for the next two centuries until one of the most famous events in Roman history brought it recognition and expansion. In 42 B.C., the forces of Antony and Octavian defeated those of Brutus and Cassius at the Battle of Philippi, thus ending the Roman Republic and ushering in the Empire. After the battle, Philippi became a Roman colony (cf. Acts 16:12), and many veterans of the Roman army settled there. As a colony, Philippi had autonomy from the provincial government and the same rights granted to cities in Italy, including the use of Roman law, exemption from some taxes, and Roman citizenship for its residents (Acts 16:21). Being a colony was also the source of much civic pride for the Philippians, who used Latin as their official language, adopted Roman customs, and modeled their city government after that of Italian cities. Acts and Philippians both reflect Philippi's status as a Roman colony.

Paul's description of Christians as citizens of heaven (Phil. 3:20) was appropriate, since the Philippians prided themselves on being citizens of Rome

(cf. Acts 16:21). The Philippians may well have known some of the members of the palace guard (Phil. 1:13) and Caesar's household (4:22).

The church at Philippi, the first one founded by Paul in Europe, dates from the apostle's second missionary journey (Acts 16:12–40). Philippi evidently had a very small Jewish population. Because there were not enough men to form a synagogue (the requirement was for 10 Jewish men who were heads of a household), some devout women met outside the city at a place of prayer (Acts 16:13) alongside the Gangites River. Paul preached the gospel to them and Lydia, a wealthy merchant dealing in expensive purple dyed goods (Acts 16:14), became a believer (Acts 16:14–15). It is likely that the Philippian church initially met in her spacious home.

Satanic opposition to the new church immediately arose in the person of a demon-possessed, fortune-telling slave girl (Acts 16:16–17). Not wanting even agreeable testimony from such an evil source, Paul cast the demon out of her (Acts 16:18). The apostle's act enraged the girl's masters, who could no longer sell her services as a fortune-teller (Acts 16:19). They hauled Paul and Silas before the city's magistrates (Acts 16:20) and inflamed the civic pride of the Philippians by claiming the two preachers were a threat to Roman customs (Acts 16:20–21). As a result, Paul and Silas were beaten and imprisoned (Acts 16:22–24).

The two preachers were miraculously released from prison that night by an earthquake, which unnerved the jailer and opened his heart and that of his household to the gospel (Acts 16:25–34). The next day the magistrates, panicking when they learned they had illegally beaten and imprisoned two Roman citizens, begged Paul and Silas to leave Philippi.

Paul apparently visited Philippi twice during his third missionary journey, once at the beginning (cf. 2 Cor. 8:1–5), and again near the end (Acts 20:6). About four or five years after his last visit to Philippi, while a prisoner at Rome, Paul received a delegation from the Philippian church. The Philippians had generously supported Paul in the past (Phil. 4:15–16), and had also contributed abundantly for the needy at Jerusalem (2 Cor. 8:1–4). Now, hearing of Paul's imprisonment, they sent another contribution to him (Phil. 4:10), and along with it Epaphroditus to minister to Paul's needs. Unfortunately Epaphroditus suffered a near-fatal illness (2:26–27), either while en route to Rome, or after he arrived. Accordingly, Paul decided to send Epaphroditus back to Philippi (2:25–26) and wrote the letter to the Philippians to send back with him.

Paul had several purposes in composing this epistle. First, he wanted to express in writing his thanks for the Philippians' gift (4:10–18). Second, he wanted the Philippians to know why he decided to return Epaphroditus to them, so they would not think his service to Paul had been unsatisfactory (2:25–26). Third, he wanted to inform them about his circumstances at Rome (1:12–26). Fourth, he wrote to exhort them to unity (2:1–2; 4:2). Finally, he wrote to warn them against false teachers (3:1–4:1).

Historical and Theological Themes

Since it is primarily a practical letter, Philippians contains little historical material (there are no OT quotes), apart from the momentous treatment of Paul's spiritual autobiography (3:4–7). There is, likewise, little direct theological instruction, also with one momentous exception. The magnificent passage describing Christ's humiliation and exaltation (2:5–11) contains some of the most profound and crucial teaching on the Lord Jesus Christ in all the Bible. The major theme of pursuing Christlikeness, as the most defining element of spiritual growth and the one passion of Paul in his own life, is presented in 3:12–14. In spite of Paul's imprisonment, the dominant tone of the letter is joyful (1:4, 18, 25–26; 2:2, 16–18, 28; 3:1, 3; 4:1, 4, 10).

Interpretive Challenges

The major difficulty connected with Philippians is determining where it was written (see Author and Date). The text itself presents only one significant interpretive challenge: the identity of the “enemies of the cross” (see notes on 3:18–19).

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE

Philippians

Greeting

PHILIPPIANS 1 †Paul and Timothy, servants [1] of Christ Jesus, To all the saints in Christ Jesus who are at Philippi, with the overseers [2] and deacons: [3]

†Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Thanksgiving and Prayer

†I thank my God in all my remembrance of you, †always in every prayer of mine for you all making my prayer with joy, †because of your partnership in the gospel from the first day until now. †And I am sure of this, that he who began a good work in you will bring it to completion at the day of Jesus Christ. †It is right for me to feel this way about you all, because I hold you in my heart, for you are all partakers with me of grace, [4] both in my imprisonment and in the defense and confirmation of the gospel. †For God is my witness, how I yearn for you all with the affection of Christ Jesus. †And it is my prayer that your love may abound more and more, with knowledge and all discernment, †so that you may approve what is excellent, and so be pure and blameless for the day of Christ, †filled with the fruit of righteousness that comes through Jesus Christ, to the glory and praise of God.

The Advance of the Gospel

†I want you to know, brothers, [5] that what has happened to me has really served to advance the gospel, †so that it has become known throughout the whole imperial guard [6] and to all the rest that my imprisonment is for Christ. †And most of the brothers, having become confident in the Lord by my imprisonment, are much more bold to speak the word [7] without fear.

†Some indeed preach Christ from envy and rivalry, but others from good will. †The latter do it out of love, knowing that I am put here for the defense of the gospel. †The former proclaim Christ out of rivalry, not sincerely but thinking to afflict me in my imprisonment. †What then? Only that in every way, whether in pretense or in truth, Christ is proclaimed, and in that I rejoice.

To Live Is Christ

Yes, and I will rejoice, <sup>19</sup>† for I know that through your prayers and the help of the Spirit of Jesus Christ this will turn out for my deliverance, <sup>20</sup>† as it is my eager expectation and hope that I will not be at all ashamed, but that with full courage now as always Christ will be honored in my body, whether by life or by death. <sup>21</sup>† For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain. <sup>22</sup>† If I am to live in the flesh, that means fruitful labor for me. Yet which I shall choose I cannot tell. <sup>23</sup>† I am hard pressed between the two. My desire is to depart and be with Christ, for that is far better. <sup>24</sup>† But to remain in the flesh is more necessary on your account. <sup>25</sup>† Convinced of this, I know that I will remain and continue with you all, for your progress and joy in the faith, <sup>26</sup>† so that in me you may have ample cause to glory in Christ Jesus, because of my coming to you again.

<sup>27</sup>† Only let your manner of life be worthy [8] of the gospel of Christ, so that whether I come and see you or am absent, I may hear of you that you are standing firm in one spirit, with one mind striving side by side for the faith of the gospel, <sup>28</sup>† and not frightened in anything by your opponents. This is a clear sign to them of their destruction, but of your salvation, and that from God. <sup>29</sup>† For it has been granted to you that for the sake of Christ you should not only believe in him but also suffer for his sake, <sup>30</sup>† engaged in the same conflict that you saw I had and now hear that I still have.

Christ's Example of Humility

PHILIPPIANS 2 †So if there is any encouragement in Christ, any comfort from love, any participation in the Spirit, any affection and sympathy, †complete my joy by being of the same mind, having the same love, being in full accord and of one mind. †Do nothing from rivalry or conceit, but in humility count others more significant than yourselves. †Let each of you look not only to his own interests, but also to the interests of others. †Have this mind among yourselves, which is yours in Christ Jesus, [1] ††who, though he was in the form of God, did not count equality with God a thing to be grasped, †but made himself nothing, taking the form of a servant, [2] being born in the likeness of men. †And being found in human form, he humbled himself by becoming obedient to the point of death, even death on a cross. †Therefore God has highly exalted him and bestowed on him the name that is above every name, ††so that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, †and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

Lights in the World

†Therefore, my beloved, as you have always obeyed, so now, not only as in my presence but much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling, †for it is God who works in you, both to will and to work for his good pleasure.

†Do all things without grumbling or questioning, †that you may be blameless and innocent, children of God without blemish in the midst of a crooked and twisted generation, among whom you shine as lights in the world, †holding fast to the word of life, so that in the day of Christ I may be proud that I did not run in vain or labor in vain. ††Even if I am to be poured out as a drink offering upon the sacrificial offering of your faith, I am glad and rejoice with you all. †Likewise you also should be glad and rejoice with me.

Timothy and Epaphroditus

††I hope in the Lord Jesus to send Timothy to you soon, so that I too may be cheered by news of you. †For I have no one like him, who will be genuinely concerned for your welfare. †For they all seek their own interests, not those of Jesus Christ. <sup>22</sup>But you know Timothy's [3] proven worth, how as a son [4] with a father he has served with me in the gospel. <sup>23</sup>†I hope therefore to send him just as soon as I see how it will go with me, <sup>24</sup>†and I trust in the Lord that shortly I myself will come also.

<sup>25</sup>††I have thought it necessary to send to you Epaphroditus my brother and fellow worker and fellow soldier, and your messenger and minister to my need, <sup>26</sup>†for he has been longing for you all and has been distressed because you heard that he was ill. <sup>27</sup>†Indeed he was ill, near to death. But God had mercy on him, and not only on him but on me also, lest I should have sorrow upon sorrow. <sup>28</sup>†I am the more eager to send him, therefore, that you may rejoice at seeing him again, and that I may be less anxious. <sup>29</sup>†So receive him in the Lord with all joy, and honor such men, <sup>30</sup>†for he nearly died for the work of Christ, risking his life to complete what was lacking in your service to me.

Righteousness Through Faith in Christ

PHILIPPIANS 3 †Finally, my brothers, [1] rejoice in the Lord. To write the same things to you is no trouble to me and is safe for you.

†Look out for the dogs, look out for the evildoers, look out for those who mutilate the flesh. †For we are the circumcision, who worship by the Spirit of God [2] and glory in Christ Jesus and put no confidence in the flesh— †though I myself have reason for confidence in the flesh also. If anyone else thinks he has reason for confidence in the flesh, I have more: †circumcised on the eighth day, of the people of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew of Hebrews; as to the law, a Pharisee; †as to zeal, a persecutor of the church; as to righteousness under the law, [3] blameless. †But whatever gain I had, I counted as loss for the sake of Christ. †Indeed, I count everything as loss because of the surpassing worth of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord. For his sake I have suffered the loss of all things and count them as rubbish, in order that I may gain Christ †and be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but that which comes through faith in Christ, the righteousness from God that depends on faith— †that I may know him and the power of his resurrection, and may share his sufferings, becoming like him in his death, †that by any means possible I may attain the resurrection from the dead.

Straining Toward the Goal

†Not that I have already obtained this or am already perfect, but I press on to make it my own, because Christ Jesus has made me his own. †Brothers, I do not consider that I have made it my own. But one thing I do: forgetting what lies behind and straining forward to what lies ahead, †I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus. †Let those of us who are mature think this way, and if in anything you think otherwise, God will reveal that also to you. †Only let us hold true to what we have attained.

†Brothers, join in imitating me, and keep your eyes on those who walk according to the example you have in us. †For many, of whom I have often told you and now tell you even with tears, walk as enemies of the cross of Christ. †Their end is destruction, their god is their belly, and they glory in their shame, with minds set on earthly things. †But our citizenship is in heaven, and from it we await a Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, †who will transform our lowly body to be like his glorious body, by the power that enables him even to subject all things to himself.

PHILIPPIANS 4 †Therefore, my brothers, [1] whom I love and long for, my joy and crown, stand firm thus in the Lord, my beloved.

Exhortation, Encouragement, and Prayer

<sup>2</sup>†I entreat Euodia and I entreat Syntyche to agree in the Lord. <sup>3</sup>†Yes, I ask you also, true companion, [2] help these women, who have labored side by side with me in the gospel together with Clement and the rest of my fellow workers, whose names are in the book of life.

<sup>4</sup>†Rejoice in the Lord always; again I will say, Rejoice. <sup>5</sup>†Let your reasonableness be known to everyone. The Lord is at hand; <sup>6</sup>†do not be anxious about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. <sup>7</sup>†And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus.

<sup>8</sup>†Finally, brothers, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is just, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is commendable, if there is any excellence, if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things. <sup>9</sup>†What you have learned and received and heard and seen in me—practice these things, and the God of peace will be with you.

God's Provision

<sup>10</sup>††I rejoiced in the Lord greatly that now at length you have revived your concern for me. You were indeed concerned for me, but you had no opportunity. <sup>11</sup>†Not that I am speaking of being in need, for I have learned in whatever situation I am to be content. <sup>12</sup>†I know how to be brought low, and I know how to abound. In any and every circumstance, I have learned the secret of facing plenty and hunger, abundance and need. <sup>13</sup>†I can do all things through him who strengthens me.

<sup>14</sup>†Yet it was kind of you to share [3] my trouble. <sup>15</sup>†And you Philippians yourselves know that in the beginning of the gospel, when I left Macedonia, no church entered into partnership with me in giving and receiving, except you only. <sup>16</sup>†Even in Thessalonica you sent me help for my needs once and again. <sup>17</sup>†Not that I seek the gift, but I seek the fruit that increases to your credit. [4]

<sup>18</sup>† I have received full payment, and more. I am well supplied, having received from Epaphroditus the gifts you sent, a fragrant offering, a sacrifice acceptable and pleasing to God. <sup>19</sup>† And my God will supply every need of yours according to his riches in glory in Christ Jesus. <sup>20</sup>† To our God and Father be glory forever and ever. Amen.

Final Greetings

<sup>21</sup>† Greet every saint in Christ Jesus. The brothers who are with me greet you.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:1–2 First-century letters normally began by identifying the sender and the recipient with a basic greeting. One notable variation here is that Paul includes Timothy’s name because Timothy was an important gospel coworker in and around Philippi and a trusted, corroborating witness to the truths Paul expounded.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:1 Paul. See Introduction to Romans: Author and Date; see note on Acts 9:1. Paul wrote this letter from a Roman prison (see Introduction: Author and Date). Timothy. Timothy, Paul’s beloved son in the faith (see Introduction to 1 Timothy: Author and Date; Acts 16:1–3), was not the coauthor of the letter, but possibly the one to whom Paul dictated it. Regardless, Paul had good reason for including Timothy’s name (see note on Phil. 1:1–2). servants. This denotes a willing slave who was happily and loyally linked to his master (see note on Rom. 1:1; cf. James 1:1; 2 Pet. 1:1; Jude 1). saints. See note on 1 Cor. 1:2. These were believers in the church at Philippi, including those who led the assembly. in Christ Jesus. This describes the Philippian believers’ union with Christ in his death and resurrection (see notes on Rom. 6:2–9; Gal. 2:20), which was the reason they could be called “saints.” Philippi. See Introduction: Background and Setting. overseers. See note on 1 Tim. 3:1. This is a term used to emphasize the leadership responsibilities of those who are elders, who are also called pastors. All 3 terms are used in the NT to describe the same men. deacons. Lit., “those who serve”; see note on 1 Tim. 3:8.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:2 Grace . . . peace. Paul’s standard greeting (see note on Rom. 1:7) reminded the believers of their relationship to God.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:3 I thank my God. Paul’s letters usually included such commendation (see note on Gal. 1:3–5).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:4 making my prayer with joy. The Greek word for “prayer” denotes a petition for, or a request made on behalf of, someone else. It was a delight for Paul to intercede for fellow believers.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:5 partnership. This can also be translated “fellowship” or “participation.” Cf. 2 Cor. 8:4. from the first day. These believers eagerly assisted Paul in evangelizing Philippi from the beginning of the church there (Acts 16:12–40).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:6 he . . . will bring it to completion. The Greek verb translated “began” is used only here and in Gal. 3:3—both times in reference to salvation itself. When God begins a work of salvation in a person, he finishes and perfects that work. Thus the verb “bring it to completion” points to the eternal security of the Christian (see notes on John 6:40, 44; Rom. 5:10; 8:29–39; Eph. 1:13–14; Heb. 7:25; 12:2). day of Jesus Christ. This phrase is not to be confused with the “day of the Lord” (see Introduction to Joel: Historical and Theological Themes), which describes final divine judgment and wrath (cf. Isa. 13:9; Joel 1:15; 2:11; 1 Thess. 5:2; 2 Pet. 3:10). “Day of Jesus Christ” is also called the “day of Christ” (Phil. 1:10; 2:16) and the “day of our Lord Jesus Christ” (1 Cor. 1:8), which looks to the final salvation, reward, and glorification of believers. Cf. 1 Cor. 3:10–15; 4:5; 2 Cor. 5:9–10.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:7 heart. A common biblical word used to describe the center of thought and feeling (cf. Prov. 4:23). defense and confirmation. Two judicial terms referring either to the first phase of Paul’s trial in Rome in which he defended his gospel ministry or in a general sense to his continual defense of the faith, which was the heart of his ministry. partakers with me of grace. See notes on Phil. 1:5. During his imprisonment, the Philippians sent Paul money and Epaphroditus’s services to support the apostle, thus sharing in God’s gracious blessing on his ministry (cf. 2:30).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:8 affection. The word lit. refers to the internal organs, which are the part of the body that reacts to intense emotion. It became the strongest Greek word to express passionate love—a love that involves one’s entire being.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:9 with knowledge. This is from the Greek word that describes genuine, full, or advanced knowledge. Biblical love is not an empty sentimentalism but is anchored deeply in the truth of Scripture and regulated by it (cf. Eph. 5:2–3; 1 Pet. 1:22). discernment. The English word “aesthetic” comes from this Greek word, which speaks of moral perception, insight, and the practical application of knowledge. Love is not blind, but perceptive, and it carefully scrutinizes to distinguish between right and wrong. See note on 1 Thess. 5:21–22.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:10 approve what is excellent. “Approve” in classical Greek described the assaying of metals or the testing of money for authenticity (cf. Luke 12:56; 14:19). “Excellent” means “to differ.” Believers need the ability to distinguish those things that are truly important so they can establish the right priorities. pure and blameless. “Pure” means “genuine,” and may have originally meant “tested by sunlight.” In the ancient world, dishonest pottery dealers filled cracks in their inferior products with wax before glazing and painting them, making worthless pots difficult to distinguish from expensive ones. The only way to avoid being defrauded was to hold the pot to the sun, making the wax-filled cracks obvious. Dealers marked their fine pottery that could withstand “sun testing” as sine cera—“without wax.” “Blameless” can be translated “without offense,” referring to relational integrity. Christians are to live lives of true integrity that do not cause others to sin (see notes on Rom. 12:9; 1 Cor. 10:31–32; 2 Cor. 1:12; cf. Rom. 14; 1 Cor. 8). the day of Christ. See note on Phil. 1:6.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:11 fruit of righteousness. This is better translated, “the fruit righteousness produces” (see note on Rom. 1:13; cf. Prov. 11:30; Amos 6:12; James 3:17–18). that comes through Jesus Christ. See John 15:1–5 and Eph. 2:10. This speaks of the salvation transformation provided by our Lord and his ongoing work of power through his Spirit in us. to the glory and praise of God. See John 15:8; Eph. 1:12–14; 3:20–21. The ultimate end of all Paul’s prayers was that God be glorified.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:12 what has happened. The events in Paul’s life, namely, his journey to Rome and imprisonment there (see Introduction: Background and Setting; Acts 21–28). to advance. This refers to the forward movement of something—often of armies—in spite of obstacles, dangers, and distractions. Paul’s imprisonment proved to be no hindrance to spreading the message of salvation (cf. Acts 28:30–31). Actually, it created new opportunities (see note on Phil. 4:22).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:13 become known . . . imprisonment . . . for Christ. People around him recognized that Paul was no criminal, but had become a prisoner because of preaching Jesus Christ and the gospel (cf. Eph. 6:20). imperial guard. The Greek word is praetorium (see esv footnote), which can denote either a special building (e.g., a commander’s headquarters, the emperor’s palace) or the group of men in the imperial guard. Because Paul was in a private house in Rome, praetorium probably refers to the members of the imperial guard who guarded Paul day and night. Cf. Acts 28:16. the rest. Others in the city of Rome who met and heard Paul (cf. Acts 28:23–24, 30–31).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:14 most of the brothers. With the exception of those detractors identified in vv. 15–16, who were attacking Paul. more bold to speak. Paul’s example of powerful witness to the gospel as a prisoner demonstrated God’s faithfulness to his persecuted children and that their imprisonment would not halt the progress of the gospel. This encouraged others to be bold and not fear imprisonment.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:15 from envy and rivalry. The attitude of Paul’s detractors, who really did preach the gospel but were jealous of his apostolic power and authority, his success and immense giftedness. “Rivalry” connotes contention, strife, and conflict, which resulted when Paul’s critics began discrediting him. from good will. “Good will” speaks of satisfaction and contentment, the attitude that Paul’s supporters had for him personally and for his ministry.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:16 The latter do it out of love. Paul’s supporters were motivated by genuine affection for him and confidence in his virtue (cf. 1 Cor. 13:1–2). put here. The Greek word describes a soldier’s being placed on duty. Paul was in prison because he was destined to be there by God’s will, so as to be in a strategic position to proclaim the gospel. defense of the gospel. See note on Phil. 1:7.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:17 rivalry. This describes those who were interested only in self-advancement, or who ruthlessly sought to get ahead at any cost. Paul’s detractors used his incarceration as an opportunity to promote their own prestige by accusing Paul of being so sinful the Lord had chastened him by imprisonment. not sincerely. See note on v. 10.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:18 I rejoice. Paul’s joy was not tied to his circumstances or his critics (cf. Ps. 4:7–8; Rom. 12:12; 2 Cor. 6:10). He was glad when the gospel was proclaimed with authority, no matter who received credit. He endured the unjust accusations without bitterness at his accusers. Rather, he rejoiced that they preached Christ, even in a pretense of godliness.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:19 my deliverance. “Deliverance” is from the basic Greek term for salvation. But it can also be rendered “well-being” or “escape,” which presents four possible interpretations: 1) it refers to Paul's ultimate salvation; 2) it alludes to his deliverance from threatened execution; 3) he would finally be vindicated by the emperor's ruling; or 4) Paul is talking about his eventual release from prison. Whatever Paul's precise meaning, he was certain he would be freed from his temporary distress (Job 13:16; cf. Job 19:26; Ps. 22:4–5, 8; 31:1; 33:18–19; 34:7; 41:1). Spirit of Jesus Christ. The Holy Spirit (Rom. 8:9; Gal. 4:6). Paul had supreme confidence in the Spirit (cf. Zech. 4:6; John 14:16; Rom. 8:26; Eph. 3:20).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:20 eager expectation. This Greek word indicates keen anticipation of the future, as when someone stretches his neck to see what lies ahead. Paul was very confident and excited about Christ's promise (see Matt. 10:32). not be at all ashamed. See Isa. 49:23; Rom. 9:33; cf. Ps. 25:2–3; 40:15–16; 119:80; Isa. 1:27–29; 45:14–17; Jer. 12:13; Zeph. 3:11.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:21 to me to live is Christ. For Paul, life is summed up in Jesus Christ; Christ was his reason for being. See notes on 3:12–14. to die is gain. Death would relieve him of earthly burdens and let him focus totally on glorifying God (see notes on 1:23–24; cf. Acts 21:13).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:22 the flesh. Cf. v. 24. Here this word refers not to one's fallen humanness (as in Rom. 7:5, 18; 8:1), but simply to physical life (as in 2 Cor. 10:3; Gal. 2:20). fruitful labor. See notes on Rom. 1:13. Paul knew that the only reason to remain in this world was to bring souls to Christ and build up believers to do the same. See note on 2 Cor. 4:15.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:23 hard pressed. The Greek word pictures a traveler on a narrow path, a rock wall on either side allowing him to go only straight ahead. depart and be with Christ. Paul knew if he died he would have complete, conscious, intimate, unhindered fellowship with his Lord (see notes on 2 Cor. 5:1, 8; 2 Tim. 4:6–8). far better. The highest superlative.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:24 more necessary on your account. Paul yielded his personal desire to be with his Lord for the necessity of the building of the church (see 2:3–4).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:25 Convinced . . . I will remain. Paul's conviction—not a supernatural revelation—that their need would determine that he stay on earth longer. progress . . . in the faith. "Progress" pictures trail blazing so that an army can advance (see note on v. 12). Paul wanted to cut a new path for the Philippians to follow to victory; the increasing of their faith would result in the increasing of their joy.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:26 ample cause to glory in Christ Jesus. The Greek word order is “that your confidence of joy may be more abundant in Jesus Christ for me.” The point is, as Paul lived on fruitfully, their joy and confidence would overflow because of Christ’s working in him, not because of anything he himself did by his own ability.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:27 worthy of the gospel. Believers are to have integrity, i.e., to live consistent with what they believe, teach, and preach. Cf. Eph. 4:1; Col. 1:10; 1 Thess. 2:11–12; 4:1; Titus 2:10; 2 Pet. 3:11, 14. one spirit . . . one mind. This introduces Paul’s theme of unity that continues through Phil. 2:4. His call for genuine unity of heart and mind is based on: 1) the necessity of oneness to win the spiritual battle for the faith (1:28–30); 2) the love of others in the fellowship (2:1–2); 3) genuine humility and self-sacrifice (2:3–4); and 4) the example of Jesus Christ who proved that sacrifice produces eternal glory (2:5–11). striving side by side. Lit., “to struggle along with someone.” Paul changed the metaphor from that of a soldier standing at his post (“standing firm”) to one of a team struggling for victory against a common foe. the faith of the gospel. The Christian faith as revealed by God and recorded in the Scripture (Jude 3; cf. Rom. 1:1; Gal. 1:7).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:28 sign . . . of their destruction. When believers willingly suffer without being “frightened,” it is a sign that God’s enemies will be destroyed and eternally lost (see notes on 2 Thess. 1:4–8).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:29 granted . . . suffer. See notes on 3:10; 1 Pet. 2:19–21; cf. Matt. 5:10–12; Acts 5:41. The Greek verb translated “granted” is from the noun for grace. Believers’ suffering is a gift of grace that brings power (2 Cor. 7:9–10; 1 Pet. 5:10) and eternal reward (1 Pet. 4:13).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 1:30 same conflict. The same kind of suffering Paul had experienced (vv. 12–14; Acts 16:22–24). you saw. This refers to what the Philippians witnessed when Paul and Silas were imprisoned at Philippi (Acts 16:19–40).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:1 encouragement in Christ. “Encouragement” is from the Greek word that means “to come alongside and help, counsel, exhort” (see notes on John 14:26; Rom. 12:1), which our beloved Lord does for his own. comfort from love. The Greek word translated “comfort” portrays the Lord coming close and whispering words of gentle cheer or tender counsel in a believer’s ear. participation in the Spirit. “Participation” refers to the partnership, of common eternal life, provided by the indwelling Holy Spirit (1 Cor. 3:16; 12:13; 2 Cor. 13:14; 1 John 1:4–6). affection and sympathy. God has extended his deep affection (see note on Phil. 1:8) and compassion to every believer (cf. Rom. 12:1; 2 Cor. 1:3; Col. 3:12), and that reality should result in unity.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:2 complete my joy. Paul’s joy was tied to concern for the unity of believers (cf. Heb. 13:17). same mind. Cf. Phil. 3:15–16; 4:2; 1 Pet. 3:8. The Greek word means “think the same way.” This exhortation is not optional or obscure, but is repeated throughout the NT (cf. Rom. 15:5; 1 Cor. 1:10; 2 Cor. 13:11–13). same love. Believers are to love others in the body of Christ equally—not because they are all equally attractive, but by showing the same kind of sacrificial, loving service to all that was shown to them by Christ (John 15:13; Rom. 12:10; 1 John 3:17; cf. John 3:16). full accord. This is perhaps a term specially coined by Paul. It lit., means “one-souled” and describes people who are knit together in harmony, having the same desires, passions, and ambitions.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:3 rivalry. This Greek word, which is sometimes rendered “strife” because it refers to factionalism and partisanship (see note on Gal. 5:20), speaks of the pride that prompts people to push for their own way. conceit. Lit., “empty glory.” This word refers to the pursuit of personal glory, which is the motivation for selfish ambition. humility. This translates a Greek word that Paul and other NT writers apparently coined. It was a term of derision, with the idea of being low, shabby, and humble (cf. 1 Cor. 15:9; 1 Tim. 1:15). count others more significant than yourselves. The basic definition of true humility (cf. Rom. 12:10; Gal. 5:13; Eph. 5:21; 1 Pet. 5:5).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:5 Christ is the ultimate example of selfless humility (cf. Matt. 11:29; John 13:12–17).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:6–11 This is the classic Christological passage in the NT, dealing with the incarnation. It was probably sung as a hymn in the early church (see note on Col. 3:16).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:6 he was in the form of God. Paul affirms that Jesus eternally has been God. The usual Greek word for “was” or “being” is not used here. Instead, Paul chose another term that stresses the essence of a person’s nature—his continuous state or condition. Paul also could have chosen one of two Greek words for “form,” but he chose the one that specifically denotes the essential, unchanging character of something—what it is in and of itself. The fundamental doctrine of Christ’s deity has always encompassed these crucial characteristics (cf. John 1:1, 3–4, 14; 8:58; Col. 1:15–17; Heb. 1:3). equality with God. The Greek word for “equality” defines things that are exactly the same in size, quantity, quality, character, and number. In every sense, Jesus is equal to God and constantly claimed to be so during his earthly ministry (cf. John 5:18; 10:33, 38; 14:9; 20:28; Heb. 1:1–3). grasped. The Greek word originally meant “a thing seized by robbery.” It eventually came to mean anything clutched, embraced, or prized, and thus is sometimes translated “held onto.” Though Christ had all the rights, privileges, and honors of deity—which he was worthy of and could never be disqualified from—his attitude was not to cling to those things or his position but to be willing to give them up for a season. See notes on John 17:1–5.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:7 made himself nothing. From this Greek word comes the theological word “kenosis”; i.e., the doctrine of Christ’s self-emptying in his incarnation. This was a self-renunciation, not an emptying himself of deity nor an exchange of deity for humanity (see notes on v. 6). Jesus did, however, renounce or set aside his privileges in several areas: 1) heavenly glory—while on earth he gave up the glory of a face-to-face relationship with God and the continuous outward display and personal enjoyment of that glory (cf. John 17:5); 2) independent authority—during his incarnation Christ completely submitted himself to the will of his Father (see note on Phil. 2:8; cf. Matt. 26:39; John 5:30; Heb. 5:8); 3) divine prerogatives—he set aside the voluntary display of his divine attributes and submitted himself to the Spirit’s direction (cf. Matt. 24:36; John 1:45–49); 4) eternal riches—while on earth Christ was poor and owned very little (cf. 2 Cor. 8:9); and 5) a favorable relationship with God—he felt the Father’s wrath for human sin while on the cross (cf. Matt. 27:46; see note on 2 Cor. 5:21). form of a servant. Again, Paul uses the Greek word “form,” which indicates exact essence (see note on Phil. 2:6). As a true servant (see note on 1:1), Jesus submissively did the will of his Father (cf. Isa. 52:13–14). the likeness of men. Christ became more than God in a human body, but he took on all the essential attributes of humanity (Luke 2:52; Gal. 4:4; Col. 1:22), even to the extent that he identified with basic human needs and weaknesses (cf. Heb.

2:14, 17; 4:15). He became the God-Man: fully God and fully man.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:8 in human form. This is not simply a repetition of the last phrase in v. 7, but a shift from the heavenly focus to an earthly one. Christ's humanity is described from the viewpoint of those who saw him. Paul is implying that although he outwardly looked like a man, there was much more to him (his deity) than many people recognized naturally (cf. John 6:42; 8:48). he humbled himself. After the humbling of incarnation, Jesus further humbled himself in that he did not demand normal human rights, but subjected himself to persecution and suffering at the hands of unbelievers (cf. Isa. 53:7; Matt. 26:62–64; Mark 14:60–61; 1 Pet. 2:23). obedient . . . death. Beyond even persecution, Jesus went to the lowest point or furthest extent in his humiliation in dying as a criminal, following God's plan for him (cf. Matt. 26:39; Acts 2:23). a cross. See notes on Matt. 27:29–50. Even further humiliation was his because Jesus' death was not by ordinary means, but was accomplished by crucifixion—the cruelest, most excruciating, most degrading form of death ever devised. The Jews hated this manner of execution (Deut. 21:23; see note on Gal. 3:13).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:9 Therefore God. Christ's humiliation (vv. 5–8) and exaltation by God (vv. 9–11) are causally and inseparably linked. highly exalted him. Christ's exaltation was fourfold. The early sermons of the apostles affirm his resurrection and coronation (his position at the right hand of God), and allude to his intercession for believers (Acts 2:32–33; 5:30–31; cf. Eph. 1:20–21; Heb. 4:15; 7:25–26). Hebrews 4:14 refers to the final element, his ascension. The exaltation did not concern Christ's nature or eternal place within the Trinity, but his new identity as the God-Man (cf. John 5:22; Rom. 1:4; 14:9; 1 Cor. 15:24–25). In addition to receiving back his glory (John 17:5), Christ's new status as the God-Man meant God gave him privileges he did not have prior to the incarnation. If he had not lived among men, he could not have identified with them as the interceding High Priest. Had he not died on the cross, he could not have been elevated from that lowest degree back to heaven as the substitute for sin. name . . . above every name. Christ's new name, which further describes his essential nature and places him above and beyond all comparison, is "Lord." This name is the NT synonym for OT descriptions of God as sovereign ruler. Both before (Isa. 45:21–23; Mark 15:2; Luke 2:11; John 13:13; 18:37; 20:28) and after (Acts 2:36; 10:36; Rom. 14:9–11; 1 Cor. 8:6; 15:57; Rev. 17:14; 19:16) the exaltation, Scripture affirms that this was Jesus' rightful title as the God-Man.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:10–11 bow . . . confess. The entire intelligent universe is called to worship Jesus Christ as Lord (cf. Ps. 2). This mandate includes the angels in heaven (Rev. 4:2–9), the spirits of the redeemed (Rev. 4:10–11), obedient believers on earth (Rom. 10:9), the disobedient rebels on earth (2 Thess. 1:7–9), demons and lost humanity in hell (1 Pet. 3:18–22). The Greek word for “confess” means “to acknowledge,” “affirm,” or “agree” which is what everyone will eventually do in response to Christ’s lordship, willingly and blessedly or unwillingly and painfully.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:10 at the name of Jesus. “Jesus” was the name bestowed at his birth (Matt. 1:21), not his new name. The name for Jesus given in the fullest sense after his exaltation, was “Lord” (see note on Phil. 2:11).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:11 Lord. See note on v. 9. “Lord” primarily refers to the right to rule, and in the NT it denotes mastery over or ownership of people and property. When applied to Jesus, it certainly implies his deity, but it mainly refers to sovereign authority. glory of God the Father. The purpose of Christ’s exaltation (cf. Matt. 17:5; John 5:23; 13:31–32; 1 Cor. 15:28).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:12 obeyed. Their faithful response to the divine commands Paul had taught them (cf. Rom. 1:5; 15:18; 2 Cor. 10:5–6). work out your own salvation. The Greek verb rendered “work out” means “to continually work to bring something to fulfillment or completion.” It cannot refer to salvation by works (cf. Rom. 3:21–24; Eph. 2:8–9), but it does refer to the believer’s responsibility for active pursuit of obedience in the process of sanctification (see notes on Phil. 3:13–14; Rom. 6:19; cf. 1 Cor. 9:24–27; 15:58; 2 Cor. 7:1; Gal. 6:7–9; Eph. 4:1; Col. 3:1–17; Heb. 6:10–11; 12:1–2; 2 Pet. 1:5–11). fear and trembling. The attitude with which Christians are to pursue their sanctification. It involves a healthy fear of offending God and a righteous awe and respect for him (cf. Prov. 1:7; 9:10; Isa. 66:1–2).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:13 God who works in you. Although the believer is responsible to work (v. 12), the Lord actually produces the good works and spiritual fruit in the lives of believers (John 15:5; 1 Cor. 12:6). This is accomplished because he works through us by his indwelling Spirit (Acts 1:8; 1 Cor. 3:16–17; 6:19–20; cf. Gal. 3:3). to will and to work. God energizes both the believer’s desires and his actions. The Greek word for “will” indicates that he is not focusing on mere desires or whimsical emotions but on the studied intent to fulfill a planned purpose. God’s power makes his church willing to live godly lives (cf. Ps. 110:3). good pleasure. God wants Christians to do what satisfies him. Cf. Eph. 1:5, 9; 2 Thess. 1:11.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:14 without grumbling or questioning. The Greek word for “grumbling” is a term that actually sounds like what it means. Its pronunciation is much like muttering or grumbling in a low tone of voice. It is an emotional rejection of God’s providence, will, and circumstances for one’s life. The word for “questioning” is more intellectual and here means “criticisms” directed negatively toward God.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:15 that you may be blameless. This introduces the reasons believers should have the right attitude in pursuing godliness. “May be blameless” indicates a process—they are to be growing toward something they do not yet fully possess as children of God (cf. Eph. 5:1; Titus 2:1). blameless and innocent. “Blameless” describes a life that cannot be criticized because of sin or evil. “Innocent” describes a life that is pure, unmixed, and unadulterated with sin, much like high quality metal without any alloy (cf. Matt. 10:16; Rom. 16:19; 2 Cor. 11:3; Eph. 5:27). without blemish. In the Greek OT, this word is used several times of the kind of sacrifice to be brought to God, i.e., spotless (cf. Num. 6:14; 19:2; 2 Pet. 3:14). crooked and twisted generation. See Deut. 32:5. “Crooked” is the word from which the English “scoliosis” (curvature of the spinal column) comes. It describes something that is deviated from the standard, which is true of all who stray from God’s path (cf. Prov. 2:15; Isa. 53:6). “Twisted” intensifies this meaning by referring to a person who has strayed so far off the path that his deviation is severely distorted (cf. Luke 9:41). Paul applies this condition to the sinful world system. shine as lights. A metaphorical reference to spiritual character. “Shine” can be more precisely rendered “you have to shine,” which means believers must show their character in the midst of a dark culture, as the sun, moon, and stars shine in an otherwise dark sky (see notes on Matt. 5:16; 2 Cor. 4:6; Eph. 5:8).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:16 holding fast. A slightly different translation —“holding forth”—more accurately reflects the verb in the original text. Here it refers to believers holding out or offering something for others to take. the word of life. The gospel which, when believed, produces spiritual and eternal life (cf. Eph. 2:1). day of Christ. See note on Phil. 1:6. I may be proud. See notes on 2:2; 4:1; 1 Thess. 2:19. run . . . labor in vain. See note on Gal. 2:2. Paul wanted to look back on his ministry and see that all his efforts were worthwhile (cf. 1 Cor. 9:27; 1 Thess. 5:12; 2 Tim. 4:7; Heb. 13:17; 3 John 4).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:17–18 glad and rejoice . . . glad and rejoice. An attitude of mutual joy ought to accompany any sacrificial Christian service (see notes on 1:4, 18, 26; cf. 2 Cor. 7:4; Col. 1:24; 1 Thess. 3:9).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:17 be poured out. From the Greek that means “to be offered as a libation or drink offering.” Some connect this with Paul’s future martyrdom, but the verb is in the present tense, which means he is referring to his sacrificial ministry among the Philippians. drink offering. This refers to the topping off of an ancient animal sacrifice. The offerer poured wine either in front of or on top of the burning animal and the wine would be vaporized. That steam symbolized the rising of the offering to the deity for whom the sacrifice was made (cf. Ex. 29:38–41; 2 Kings 16:13; Jer. 7:18; Hos. 9:4). Paul viewed his entire life as a drink offering, and here it was poured on the Philippians’ sacrificial service. sacrificial offering of your faith. “Sacrificial offering” comes from a word that refers to sacred, priestly service (cf. Rom. 12:1; 1 Cor. 9:13) and was so used in the Greek OT. Paul sees the Philippians as priests who were offering their lives sacrificially and faithfully in service to God (cf. 1 Pet. 2:9).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:19–23 Paul tells the Philippians of his plans to send Timothy to Philippi to set him forth as a model spiritual servant.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:19 Timothy. See note on 1:1.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:20–21 I have no one like him. See notes on v. 2. Lit., “one souled.” Timothy was one in thought, feeling, and spirit with Paul in love for the church. He was unique in being Paul’s protege (see note on 1 Cor. 4:17; cf. 1 Tim. 1:2; 2 Tim. 1:2). Paul had no other like Timothy because, sadly, “all” the others were devoted to their own purposes rather than Christ’s. See notes on 2 Tim. 1:15.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:23–24 Paul was eventually released from prison (cf. Acts 28:30), after which he may have visited the church at Philippi.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:24 in the Lord. Paul knew his plans were subject to God’s sovereignty (cf. James 4:13–17).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:25–30 This passage is a compelling look at love and unity among believers. All the parties show selfless affection for each other.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:25 Epaphroditus. Paul wanted to send Timothy (v. 23) and come himself (v. 24), but found it necessary to send this man, a native Philippian of whom, outside this passage, little is known. His name was a common Greek one, taken from a familiar word that originally meant “favorite of Aphrodite” (Greek goddess of love). Later, the name came to mean “lovely” or “loving.” He was sent to Paul with gifts (4:18) and was to remain and serve Paul as he could (2:30). messenger. This comes from the same word that yields the English “apostle.” He was not an apostle of Christ (see note on Rom. 1:1), but an apostle (“sent one”) in the broader sense (see note on Rom. 1:5) that he was an apostle of the church in Philippi, sent to Paul with their monetary love gift (see note on Phil. 1:7; cf. 2 Cor. 8:23). Paul’s sending him back to the church with this letter needed an explanation, lest they think Epaphroditus had not served Paul well.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:26 distressed. The Greek term describes the confused, chaotic, heavy state of restlessness that results from a time of turmoil or great trauma. Epaphroditus was more concerned about the Philippians’ worry for him than he was about his own difficult situation.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:27 ill, near to death. Perhaps by the time he arrived in Rome, he had become seriously ill, but now was recovered enough to go back home to labor with the church, who needed him more than Paul did.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:28 anxious. Paul had a great burden for all the people in the churches (cf. 2 Cor. 11:2), and he was concerned here because the Philippians were so distressed about Epaphroditus (see note on Phil. 1:8).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:29 honor. Men like him are worthy of honor. See notes on 1 Thess. 5:12–13.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 2:30 nearly died. This refers to the same thing mentioned as sickness in vv. 26–27.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:1 Finally. Paul has reached a transition point—not a conclusion, since 44 verses remain. Cf. 4:8. rejoice in the Lord. Cf. 4:1. Paul’s familiar theme throughout the epistle (see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes), which has already been heard in chs. 1–2. This, however, is the first time he adds “in the Lord,” which signifies the sphere in which the believers’ joy exists—a sphere unrelated to the circumstances of life, but related to an unassailable, unchanging relationship to the sovereign Lord. the same things. What he is about to teach them in the verses that follow, he had previously given them instruction in, regarding their opponents (cf. 1:27–30). is safe. A safeguard to protect the Philippians from succumbing to the false teachers.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:2 dogs. During the first century, dogs roamed the streets and were essentially wild scavengers. Because dogs were such filthy animals, the Jews loved to refer to Gentiles as dogs. Yet here Paul refers to Jews, specifically the Judaizers, as dogs to describe their sinful, vicious, and uncontrolled character. For more on those who taught that circumcision was necessary for salvation, see Introduction to Galatians: Background and Setting; see notes on Acts 15:1 and Gal. 2:3. evildoers. The Judaizers prided themselves on being workers of righteousness. Yet Paul described their works as evil, since any attempt to please God by one’s own efforts and draw attention away from Christ’s accomplished redemption is the worst kind of wickedness. mutilate the flesh. In contrast to the Greek word for “circumcision,” which means “to cut around,” mutilate means “to cut down (off).” Like the prophets of Baal (1 Kings 18:28) and pagans who mutilated their bodies in their frenzied rituals, which were forbidden in the OT (Lev. 19:28; 21:5; Deut. 14:1; Isa. 15:2; Hos. 7:14), the Judaizers’ circumcision was, ironically, no spiritual symbol; it was merely physical mutilation (see note on Gal. 5:12).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:3 we are the circumcision. The true people of God do not possess merely a symbol of the need for a clean heart (see note on Gen. 17:11), they actually have been cleansed of sin by God (see notes on Rom. 2:25–29). worship by the Spirit of God. The first characteristic Paul uses to define a true believer. The Greek word for “worship” means to render respectful spiritual service, while “Spirit” should have a small “s,” to indicate the inner person. See notes on John 4:23–24. glory in Christ Jesus. The Greek word for “glory” means “to boast with exultant joy.” The true Christian gives all the credit for all that he is to Christ (cf. Rom. 15:17; 1 Cor. 1:31; 2 Cor. 10:17; see note on Phil. 3:1). no confidence in the flesh. By “flesh” Paul is referring to man’s unredeemed humanness, his own ability and achievements apart from God (see note on Rom. 7:5). The Jews placed their confidence in being circumcised, being descendants of Abraham, and performing the external ceremonies and duties of the Mosaic law—things that could not save them (see notes on Rom. 3:20; Gal. 5:1–12). The true believer views his flesh as sinful, without any capacity to merit salvation or please God.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:4–7 To counteract the Judaizers’ claim that certain ceremonies and rituals of Judaism were necessary for salvation, Paul described his own lofty attainments as a Jew, which were greater than those his opponents could claim, but were of no benefit for salvation.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:5 the eighth day. Paul was circumcised on the prescribed day (Gen. 17:12; 21:4; Lev. 12:3). of Israel. All true Jews were direct descendants of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Israel). Paul’s Jewish heritage was pure. of the tribe of Benjamin. Benjamin was the second son of Rachel (Gen. 35:18), and one of the elite tribes of Israel, who along with Judah, remained loyal to the Davidic dynasty and formed the southern kingdom (1 Kings 12:21). Hebrew of Hebrews. Paul was born to Hebrew parents and maintained the Hebrew tradition and language, even while living in a pagan city (cf. Acts 21:40; 26:4–5). a Pharisee. The legalistic fundamentalists of Judaism, whose zeal to apply the OT Scriptures directly to life led to a complex system of tradition and works righteousness (see note on Matt. 3:7). Paul may have come from a line of Pharisees (cf. Acts 22:3; 23:6; 26:5).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:6 zeal, a persecutor of the church. To the Jew, “zeal” was the highest single virtue of religion. It combines love and hate; because Paul loved Judaism, he hated whatever might threaten it (see notes on Acts 8:3; 9:1). righteousness under the law. The standard of righteous living advocated by God’s law. Paul outwardly kept this, so that no one could accuse him of violation. Obviously his heart was sinful and self-righteous. He was not an OT believer, but a proud and lost legalist.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:7 whatever gain . . . I counted as loss. The Greek word for “gain” is an accounting term that means “profit.” The Greek word for “loss” also is an accounting term, used to describe a business loss. Paul used the language of business to describe the spiritual transaction that occurred when Christ redeemed him. All his Jewish religious credentials that he thought were in his profit column, were actually worthless and damning (cf. Luke 18:9–14). Thus, he put them in his loss column when he saw the glories of Christ (cf. Matt. 13:44–45; 16:25–26).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:8–11 Paul described the benefits that accrued to his profit column when he came to Christ.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:8 knowing Christ Jesus. To “know” Christ is not simply to have intellectual knowledge about him; Paul used the Greek verb that means to know “experientially” or “personally” (cf. John 10:27; 17:3; 2 Cor. 4:6; 1 John 5:20). It is equivalent to shared life with Christ (see note on Gal. 2:20). It also corresponds to a Hebrew word used of God’s knowledge of his people (Amos 3:2) and their knowledge of him in love and obedience (Jer. 31:34; Hos. 6:3; 8:2). rubbish. The Greek word refers to garbage or waste, and can even be translated “dung” or “manure.”

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:9 be found in him. Paul was “in Christ” (see note on 1:1). His union with Christ was possible only because God imputed Christ’s righteousness to him so that it was reckoned by God as his own (see notes on Rom. 1:17; 3:24). not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law. This is the proud self-righteousness of external morality, religious ritual and ceremony, and good works. It is the righteousness produced by the flesh, which cannot save from sin (Rom. 3:19–20; Gal. 3:6–25). faith in Christ. Faith is the confident, continuous confession of total dependence on and trust in Jesus Christ for the necessary requirement to enter God’s kingdom (see note on Rom. 1:16). And that requirement is the righteousness of Christ, which God imputes to every believer (see note on Rom. 3:24).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:10 I may know him. See note on v. 8. Paul’s emphasis here is on gaining a deeper knowledge and intimacy with Christ. the power of his resurrection. Christ’s resurrection most graphically demonstrated the extent of his power. By raising himself from the dead, Christ displayed his power over both the physical and spiritual worlds. share his sufferings. This refers to a partnership—a deep communion of suffering that every believer shares with Christ, who is able to comfort suffering Christians because he has already experienced the same suffering, and infinitely more (Heb. 2:18; 4:15; 12:2–4; cf. 2 Cor. 5:21; 1 Pet. 2:21–24). like him in his death. As Christ died for the purpose of redeeming sinners, so Paul had that same purpose in a lesser sense; he lived and would willingly die to reach sinners with the gospel. His life and death, though not redemptive, were for the same purpose as his Lord’s.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:11 that by any means. Reflecting his humility, he didn’t care how God brought it to pass, but longed for death and for the fulfillment of his salvation in his resurrection body (cf. Rom. 8:23). the resurrection from the dead. Lit., “the resurrection out from the corpses.” This is a reference to the resurrection that accompanies the rapture of the church (1 Thess. 4:13–17; cf. 1 Cor. 15:42–44).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:12–14 Paul uses the analogy of a runner to describe the Christian’s spiritual growth. The believer has not reached his goal of Christlikeness (cf. vv. 20–21), but like the runner in a race, he must continue to pursue it. That this is the goal for every believer is also clear from Rom. 8:29; 2 Thess. 2:13–14; 1 John 3:2 (see notes there).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:12 Not that I have already obtained. The race toward Christlikeness begins with a sense of honesty and dissatisfaction. press on. The Greek word was used of a sprinter, and refers to aggressive, energetic action. Paul pursued sanctification with all his might, straining every spiritual muscle to win the prize (1 Cor. 9:24–27; 1 Tim. 6:12; Heb. 12:1). make it my own. Christ chose Paul for the ultimate purpose of conforming Paul to his glorious image (Rom. 8:29), and that is the very goal Paul pursued to attain.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:13 one thing I do. Paul had reduced the whole of sanctification to the simple and clear goal of doing “one thing”—pursuing Christlikeness (see notes on 2 Cor. 11:1–3). forgetting what lies behind. The believer must refuse to rely on past virtuous deeds and achievements in ministry or to dwell on sins and failures. To be distracted by the past debilitates one’s efforts in the present.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:14 the goal. Christlikeness here and now (see note on v. 12). the prize. Christlikeness in heaven (cf. vv. 20–21; 1 John 3:1–2). the upward call of God. The time when God calls each believer up to heaven and into his presence will be the moment of receiving the prize that has been an unattainable goal in earthly life.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:15 mature. Since the spiritual perfection of Christlikeness is possible only when the believer receives the upward call, Paul is referring here to mature spirituality. He could be referring to the mature believers who were like-minded with him in this pursuit or he may also have used “mature” here to refer sarcastically to the Judaizers, who thought they had reached perfection. think this way. Believers are to have the attitude of pursuing the prize of Christlikeness. think otherwise. Those who continue to dwell on the past and make no progress toward the goal. God will reveal. The Greek word for “reveal” means “to uncover” or “unveil.” Paul left in God’s hands those who were not pursuing spiritual perfection. He knew God would reveal the truth to them eventually, even if it meant chastening (Heb. 12:5–11).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:16 hold true . . . we have attained. The Greek word for “hold true” refers to walking in line. Paul’s directive for the Philippian believers was to stay in line spiritually and keep progressing in sanctification by the same principles that had brought them to this point in their spiritual growth (cf. 1 Thess. 3:10; 1 Pet. 2:2).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:17 imitating me. Since all believers are imperfect, they need examples of less imperfect people who know how to deal with imperfection and who can model the process of pursuing the goal of Christlikeness. Paul was that model (1 Cor. 11:1; 1 Thess. 1:6). keep your eyes on those who walk. The Philippian believers were to focus on other godly examples, such as Timothy and Epaphroditus (Phil. 2:19–20), and see how they conducted themselves in service to Christ.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:18 often told you. Apparently Paul had warned the Philippians on numerous occasions about the dangers of false teachers, just as he did the Ephesians (Acts 20:28–30). with tears. Paul had a similar response as he warned the Ephesian elders about the dangers of false teachers (Acts 20:31). enemies of the cross. Implied in Paul’s language is that these men did not claim to oppose Christ, his work on the cross, or salvation by grace alone through faith alone, but they did not pursue Christlikeness in manifest godliness. Apparently, they were posing as friends of Christ, and possibly had even reached positions of leadership in the church.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:19 These enemies of the cross could have been either Jews (the Judaizers; v. 2) or Gentile libertines—precursors of Gnosticism, who maintained a dualistic philosophy that tended toward antinomianism, which is a discarding of any moral law. end is destruction. The Greek word for “end” refers to one’s ultimate destiny. The Judaizers were headed for eternal damnation because they depended on their works to save them. The Gentile libertines were headed for the same destiny because they trusted in their human wisdom and denied the transforming power of the gospel. god . . . belly. This may refer to the Judaizers’ fleshly accomplishments, which were mainly religious works. It could also refer to their observance of the dietary laws they believed were necessary for salvation. If the Gentile libertines are in view, it could easily refer to their sensual desires and fleshly appetites. As always, false teachers are evident by their wickedness. See notes on 2 Pet. 2:10–19 and Jude 8–13. glory . . . shame. The Judaizers boasted of their self-effort; but even the best of their accomplishments were no better than filthy rags or dung (Phil. 3:7–8; Isa. 64:6).

The Gentile libertines boasted about their sin and abused Christian liberty to defend their behavior (1 Cor. 6:12). earthly things. The Judaizers were preoccupied with ceremonies, feasts, sacrifices, and other kinds of physical observances. The Gentile libertines simply loved the world itself and all the things in it (cf. James 4:4; 1 John 2:15).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:20 our citizenship. The Greek term refers to a colony of foreigners. In one secular source, it was used to describe a capital city that kept the names of its citizens on a register. in heaven. The place where God dwells and where Christ is present. It is the believers' home (John 14:2–3), where their names are registered (Luke 10:20) and their inheritance awaits (1 Pet. 1:4). Other believers are there (Heb. 12:23). We belong to the kingdom under the rule of our heavenly King, and obey heaven's laws. Cf. 1 Pet. 2:11. await. The Greek verb is found in most passages dealing with the second coming and expresses the idea of waiting patiently, but with great expectation (Rom. 8:23; 2 Pet. 3:11–12).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 3:21 transform our lowly body. The Greek word for “transform” gives us the word “schematic,” which is an internal design of something. Those who are already dead in Christ, but alive with him in spirit in heaven (1:23; 2 Cor. 5:8; Heb. 12:23), will receive new bodies at the resurrection and rapture of the church, when those alive on earth will have their bodies transformed (see notes on Rom. 8:18–23; 1 Cor. 15:51–57; 1 Thess. 4:16). like his glorious body. The believer's new body will be like Christ's after his resurrection, and will be redesigned and adapted for heaven (1 Cor. 15:42–43; 1 John 3:2). subject. The Greek word refers to arranging things in order of rank or managing something. Christ has the power both to providentially create natural laws and miraculously overrule them (1 Cor. 15:23–27).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:1 long for . . . beloved. Paul reveals his deep affection for the Philippian believers. The Greek term for “long for” refers to the deep pain of separation from loved ones. my joy and crown. Paul did not derive his joy from circumstances, but from his fellow believers in Philippi (cf. 1 Thess. 2:19–20; 3:9). The Greek term for “crown” refers to the laurel wreath received by an athlete for winning a contest (1 Cor. 9:25) or by a person honored by his peers at a banquet as a symbol of success or a fruitful life. The Philippian believers were proof that Paul's efforts were successful (cf. 1 Cor. 9:2). stand firm. This Greek word was often used to describe a soldier standing at his post; here it is a military command (cf. Phil. 1:27), which is the dominant expression of 4:1–9.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:2 I entreat. The Greek term means “to implore,” or “to appeal.” Euodia . . . Syntyche. These two women were prominent church members (v. 3) who may have been among the women meeting for prayer when Paul first preached the gospel in Philippi (Acts 16:13). Apparently, they were leading two opposing factions in the church, most likely over a personal conflict. agree. Spiritual stability depends on the mutual love, harmony, and peace between believers. Apparently the disunity in the Philippian church was about to destroy the integrity of its testimony.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:3 companion. The Greek word pictures two oxen in a yoke, pulling the same load. A companion is a partner or an equal in a specific endeavor—in this case a spiritual one. It is possible that this individual is unnamed, but it is best to take the Greek word translated “companion” as a proper name (“Syzygos”). He was likely one of the church elders (1:1). with Clement. Nothing is known of him. book of life. In eternity past, God registered all the names of his elect in that book, which identifies those inheritors of eternal life (see note on Rev. 3:5; cf. Dan. 12:1; Mal. 3:16–17; Luke 10:20; Rev. 17:8; 20:12).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:4 Rejoice in the Lord. See note on 3:1.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:5 reasonableness. This refers to contentment with and generosity toward others. It can also refer to mercy or leniency toward the faults and failures of others. It can even refer to patience in someone who submits to injustice or mistreatment without retaliating. Graciousness with humility encompasses all the above. at hand. Can refer to nearness in space or time. The context suggests nearness in space: the Lord encompasses all believers with his presence (Ps. 119:151).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:6 do not be anxious. See notes on Matt. 6:26–33. Fret and worry indicate a lack of trust in God’s wisdom, sovereignty, or power. Delighting in the Lord and meditating on his word are a great antidote to anxiety (Ps. 1:2). in everything. All difficulties are within God’s purposes. prayer and supplication with thanksgiving . . . requests. Gratitude to God accompanies all true prayer.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:7 peace of God. See note on v. 9. Inner calm or tranquillity is promised to the believer who has a thankful attitude based on unwavering confidence that God is able and willing to do what is best for his children (cf. Rom. 8:28). surpasses all understanding. This refers to the divine origin of peace. It transcends human intellect, analysis, and insight (Isa. 26:3; John 16:33). guard. A military term meaning “to keep watch over.” God’s peace guards believers from anxiety, doubt, fear, and distress. hearts . . . minds. Paul was not making a distinction between the two—he was giving a comprehensive statement referring to the whole inner person. Because of the believer’s union with Christ, he guards his inner being with his peace.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:8 true. What is true is found in God (2 Tim. 2:25), in Christ (Eph. 4:20–21), in the Holy Spirit (John 16:13), and in God’s word (John 17:17). honorable. The Greek term means “worthy of respect.” Believers are to meditate on whatever is worthy of awe and adoration, i.e., the sacred as opposed to the profane. just. The believer is to think in harmony with God’s divine standard of holiness. pure. That which is morally clean and undefiled. lovely. The Greek term means “pleasing” or “amiable.” By implication, believers are to focus on whatever is kind or gracious. commendable. That which is highly regarded or thought well of. It refers to what is generally considered reputable in the world, such as kindness, courtesy, and respect for others.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:9 in me. The Philippians were to follow the truth of God proclaimed, along with the example of that truth lived by Paul before them (see note on Heb. 13:7). the God of peace. See note on Rom. 15:33; cf. 1 Cor. 14:33. God is peace (Rom. 16:20; Eph. 2:14), makes peace with sinners through Christ (2 Cor. 5:18–20), and gives perfect peace in trouble (Phil. 4:7).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:10–19 Paul expressed his gratitude to the Philippians for their kind expressions of love and the generous gift they sent him and thus provides a powerful example of how a Christian can be content regardless of his circumstances.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:10 at length . . . you had no opportunity. About 10 years had passed since the Philippians first gave a gift to Paul to help meet his needs when he was first in Thessalonica (vv. 15–16). Paul was aware of their desire to continue to help, but he realized, within God’s providence, that they had not had the “opportunity” (season) to help.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:11 content. The Greek term means “to be self-sufficient” or “to be satisfied.” It is the same word translated “sufficiency” in 2 Cor. 9:8. It indicates independence from any need for help (cf. Luke 3:14; 1 Thess. 4:12; 1 Tim. 6:6, 8; Heb. 13:5). whatever situation I am. Paul defined the circumstances in the following verse.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:12 brought low . . . abound. Paul knew how to get along with humble means (food, clothing, daily necessities) and how to live in prosperity. facing plenty and hunger. The Greek word translated “facing plenty” was used of feeding and fattening animals. Paul knew how to be content when he had plenty to eat and when he was deprived of enough to eat.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:13 I can do all things. Paul uses a Greek verb that means “to be strong” or “to have strength” (cf. Acts 19:16, 20; James 5:16). He had strength to withstand “all things” (Phil. 4:11–12), including both difficulty and prosperity in the material world. through him who strengthens me. The Greek word for strengthen means “to put power in.” Because believers are in Christ (Gal. 2:20), he infuses them with his strength to sustain them until they receive some provision (Eph. 3:16–20; 2 Cor. 12:10).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:14 Paul adds a word of clarification here so the Philippians would not think he was being ungrateful for their most recent gift, because of what he just wrote (vv. 11–13). share. To join in a partnership with someone.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:15 the beginning of the gospel. When Paul first preached the gospel in Philippi (Acts 16:13). when I left. When Paul first left Philippi approximately 10 years before (Acts 16:40). Macedonia. In addition to Philippi, Paul also ministered in two other towns in Macedonia: Thessalonica and Berea (Acts 17:1–14). except you only. Only the Philippians sent Paul provisions to meet his needs.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:16 Even in Thessalonica. See note on Acts 17:1; see also Introduction to 1 Thessalonians. Paul preached there for a few months, during his second missionary journey.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:17 increases to your credit. The Philippians were in effect storing up for themselves treasure in heaven (Matt. 6:20). The gifts they gave to Paul were accruing eternal dividends to their spiritual account (Prov. 11:24–25; 19:17; Luke 6:38; 2 Cor. 9:6).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:18 Epaphroditus. See note on 2:25. a fragrant offering, a sacrifice acceptable and pleasing to God. In the OT sacrificial system, every sacrifice was to provide a fragrant aroma and be acceptable to God. Only if it was offered with the correct attitude would it be pleasing to him (Gen. 8:20–21; Ex. 29:18; Lev. 1:9, 13, 17). The Philippians’ gift was a spiritual sacrifice (cf. Rom. 12:1; 1 Pet. 2:5) that pleased God.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:19 every need. Paul addressed all the Philippians’ material needs, which had probably been depleted to some extent because of their gracious gift (Prov. 3:9). according to his riches. God would give increase to the Philippians in proportion to his infinite resources, not just a small amount out of his riches.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:20 This doxology is Paul’s praise in direct response to the great truth that God supplies all the needs of the saints. In a more general sense, this is praise in response to the character of God and his faithfulness.

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:21 every saint. See note on 1:1. Instead of using the collective “all,” Paul used the individualistic “every” to declare that each saint was worthy of his concern. brothers who are with me. They certainly included Timothy and Epaphroditus (2:19, 25). Others who were preaching the gospel in Rome were present (1:14). It is possible that Tychicus, Aristarchus, Onesimus, and Jesus Justus were also there (Col. 4:7, 9–11).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:22 Caesar’s household. A significant number of people, not limited to Caesar’s family, which would include courtiers, princes, judges, cooks, food-tasters, musicians, custodians, builders, stablemen, soldiers, accountants. Within that large group, Paul had in mind those who, through the proclamation of the gospel by members of the church at Rome, had been saved prior to his coming. Newly added to their number were those led to Christ by Paul himself, including those soldiers who were chained to him while he was a prisoner (1:13).

PHILIPPIANS—NOTE ON 4:23 The common conclusion to Paul’s epistles (see note on Rom. 16:24).

Introduction to Colossians

Title

Colossians is named for the city of Colossae, where the church it was addressed to was located. It was also to be read in the neighboring church at Laodicea (4:16).

Author and Date

Paul is identified as author at the beginning (1:1; cf. v. 23; 4:18), as customarily in his epistles. The testimony of the early church, including such key figures as Irenaeus, Clement of Alexandria, Tertullian, Origen, and Eusebius, confirms that the opening claim is genuine. Additional evidence for Paul's authorship comes from the book's close parallels with Philemon, which is universally accepted as having been written by Paul. Both were written (c. A.D. 60–62) while Paul was a prisoner in Rome (4:3, 10, 18; Philem. 9, 10, 13, 23); plus the names of the same people (e.g., Timothy, Aristarchus, Archippus, Mark, Epaphras, Luke, Onesimus, and Demas) appear in both epistles, showing that both were written by the same author at about the same time. For biographical information on Paul, see Introduction to Romans: Author and Date.

Background and Setting

Colossae was a city in Phrygia, in the Roman province of Asia (part of modern Turkey), about 100 miles east of Ephesus in the region of the seven churches of Rev. 1–3. The city lay alongside the Lycus River, not far from where it flowed into the Maender River. The Lycus Valley narrowed at Colossae to a width of about two miles, and Mount Cadmus rose 8,000 feet above the city.

Colossae was a thriving city in the fifth century B.C. when the Persian king Xerxes (Ahasuerus, cf. Est. 1:1) marched through the region. Black wool and dyes (made from the nearby chalk deposits) were important products. In addition, the city was situated at the junction of the main north-south and east-west trade routes. By Paul's day, however, the main road had been rerouted through nearby Laodicea, thus bypassing Colossae and leading to its decline and the rise of the neighboring cities of Laodicea and Hierapolis.

Although Colossae's population was mainly Gentile, there was a large Jewish settlement dating from the days of Antiochus the Great (223–187 B.C.). Colossae's mixed population of Jews and Gentiles manifested itself both in the composition of the church and in the heresy that plagued it, which contained elements of both Jewish legalism and pagan mysticism.

The church at Colossae began during Paul's three-year ministry at Ephesus (Acts 19). Its founder was not Paul, who had never been there (Col. 2:1); but Epaphras (1:5–7), who apparently was saved during a visit to Ephesus, then likely started the church in Colossae when he returned home. Several years after the Colossian church was founded, a dangerous heresy arose to threaten it—one not identified with any particular historical system. It contained elements of what later became known as Gnosticism: that God is good, but matter is evil; that Jesus Christ was merely one of a series of emanations descending from God and being less than God (a belief that led them to deny his true humanity); and that a secret, higher knowledge above Scripture was necessary for enlightenment and salvation. The Colossian heresy also embraced aspects of Jewish legalism, e.g., the necessity of circumcision for salvation, observance of the ceremonial rituals of the OT law (dietary laws, festivals, Sabbaths), and rigid asceticism. It also called for the worship of angels and mystical experience. Epaphras was so concerned about this heresy that he made the long journey from Colossae to Rome (4:12–13), where Paul was a prisoner.

This letter was written from prison in Rome (Acts 28:16–31) sometime between A.D. 60–62 and is, therefore, referred to as a Prison Epistle (along with Ephesians, Philippians, and Philemon). It may have been composed almost contemporaneously with Ephesians and initially sent with that epistle and Philemon by Tychicus (Eph. 6:21–22; Col. 4:7–8). See Introduction to Philippians: Author and Date for a discussion of the city from which Paul wrote. He wrote this letter to warn the Colossians against the heresy they faced, and sent the letter to them with Tychicus, who was accompanying the runaway slave Onesimus back to his master, Philemon, a member of the Colossian church (4:7–9; see Introduction to Philemon: Background and Setting). Epaphras remained behind in Rome (cf. Philem. 23), perhaps to receive further instruction from Paul.

Historical and Theological Themes

Colossians contains teaching on several key areas of theology, including the deity of Christ (1:15–20; 2:2–10), reconciliation (1:20–23), redemption (1:13–14; 2:13–14; 3:9–11), election (3:12), forgiveness (3:13), and the nature of the church (1:18, 24–25; 2:19; 3:11, 15). Also, as noted above, it refutes the heretical teaching that threatened the Colossian church (ch. 2).

Interpretive Challenges

Those cults that deny Christ’s deity have seized upon the description of him as “the firstborn of all creation” (1:15) as proof that he was a created being. Paul’s statement that believers will be “holy and blameless and above reproach” if they “continue in the faith” (1:22–23) has led some to teach that believers can lose their salvation. Some have argued for the existence of purgatory based on Paul’s statement, “I am filling up what is lacking in Christ’s afflictions” (1:24), while others see support for baptismal regeneration (2:12). The identity of the “letter from Laodicea” (4:16) has also prompted much discussion. These issues will be treated in the notes.

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE

Colossians

Greeting

COLOSSIANS 1 †Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God, and Timothy our brother, <sup>2</sup>†To the saints and faithful brothers [\[1\]](#) in Christ at Colossae: Grace to you and peace from God our Father.

Thanksgiving and Prayer

<sup>3</sup>†We always thank God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, when we pray for you, <sup>4</sup>†since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus and of the love that you have for all the saints, <sup>5</sup>†because of the hope laid up for you in heaven. Of this you have heard before in the word of the truth, the gospel, <sup>6</sup>†which has come to you, as indeed in the whole world it is bearing fruit and growing—as it also does among you, since the day you heard it and understood the grace of God in truth, <sup>7</sup>†just as you learned it from Epaphras our beloved fellow servant. [\[2\]](#) He is a faithful minister of Christ on your [\[3\]](#) behalf <sup>8</sup>and has made known to us your love in the Spirit.

<sup>9</sup>†And so, from the day we heard, we have not ceased to pray for you, asking that you may be filled with the knowledge of his will in all spiritual wisdom and understanding, <sup>10</sup>†so as to walk in a manner worthy of the Lord, fully pleasing to him, bearing fruit in every good work and increasing in the knowledge of God. <sup>11</sup>†May you be strengthened with all power, according to his glorious might, for all endurance and patience with joy, <sup>12</sup>†giving thanks [\[4\]](#) to the Father, who has qualified you [\[5\]](#) to share in the inheritance of the saints in light. <sup>13</sup>†He has delivered us from the domain of darkness and transferred us to the kingdom of his beloved Son, <sup>14</sup>†in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins.

The Preeminence of Christ

<sup>15</sup>††He is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of all creation. <sup>16</sup>†For by [\[6\]](#) him all things were created, in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities—all things were created through him and for him. <sup>17</sup>† And he is before all things, and in him all things hold together. <sup>18</sup>† And he is the head of the body, the church. He is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, that in everything he might be preeminent. <sup>19</sup>† For in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell, <sup>20</sup>† and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven, making peace by the blood of his cross.

Paul's Ministry to the Church

<sup>24</sup>† Now I rejoice in my sufferings for your sake, and in my flesh I am filling up what is lacking in Christ's afflictions for the sake of his body, that is, the church, <sup>25</sup>† of which I became a minister according to the stewardship from God that was given to me for you, to make the word of God fully known, <sup>26</sup>† the mystery hidden for ages and generations but now revealed to his saints. <sup>27</sup>† To them God chose to make known how great among the Gentiles are the riches of the glory of this mystery, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory. <sup>28</sup>† Him we proclaim, warning everyone and teaching everyone with all wisdom, that we may present everyone mature in Christ. <sup>29</sup>† For this I toil, struggling with all his energy that he powerfully works within me.

COLOSSIANS 2 †For I want you to know how great a struggle I have for you and for those at Laodicea and for all who have not seen me face to face, 2†that their hearts may be encouraged, being knit together in love, to reach all the riches of full assurance of understanding and the knowledge of God's mystery, which is Christ, 3†in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. 4†I say this in order that no one may delude you with plausible arguments. 5†For though I am absent in body, yet I am with you in spirit, rejoicing to see your good order and the firmness of your faith in Christ.

Alive in Christ

6†Therefore, as you received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk in him, 7†rooted and built up in him and established in the faith, just as you were taught, abounding in thanksgiving.

8†See to it that no one takes you captive by philosophy and empty deceit, according to human tradition, according to the elemental spirits [1] of the world, and not according to Christ. 9†For in him the whole fullness of deity dwells bodily, 10†and you have been filled in him, who is the head of all rule and authority. 11†In him also you were circumcised with a circumcision made without hands, by putting off the body of the flesh, by the circumcision of Christ, 12†having been buried with him in baptism, in which you were also raised with him through faith in the powerful working of God, who raised him from the dead. 13†And you, who were dead in your trespasses and the uncircumcision of your flesh, God made alive together with him, having forgiven us all our trespasses, 14†by canceling the record of debt that stood against us with its legal demands. This he set aside, nailing it to the cross. 15†He disarmed the rulers and authorities [2] and put them to open shame, by triumphing over them in him. [3]

Let No One Disqualify You

16††Therefore let no one pass judgment on you in questions of food and drink, or with regard to a festival or a new moon or a Sabbath. 17†These are a shadow of the things to come, but the substance belongs to Christ. 18†Let no one disqualify you, insisting on asceticism and worship of angels, going on in detail about visions, [4] puffed up without reason by his sensuous mind, 19†and not holding fast to the Head, from whom the whole body, nourished and knit together through its joints and ligaments, grows with a growth that is from God.

<sup>20</sup>‡If with Christ you died to the elemental spirits of the world, why, as if you were still alive in the world, do you submit to regulations— <sup>21</sup>‡“Do not handle, Do not taste, Do not touch” <sup>22</sup>(referring to things that all perish as they are used)—according to human precepts and teachings? <sup>23</sup>These have indeed an appearance of wisdom in promoting self-made religion and asceticism and severity to the body, but they are of no value in stopping the indulgence of the flesh.

Put On the New Self

COLOSSIANS 3 †If then you have been raised with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God. †Set your minds on things that are above, not on things that are on earth. †For you have died, and your life is hidden with Christ in God. †When Christ who is your [1] life appears, then you also will appear with him in glory.

†Put to death therefore what is earthly in you: [2] sexual immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and covetousness, which is idolatry. †On account of these the wrath of God is coming. [3] †In these you too once walked, when you were living in them. †But now you must put them all away: anger, wrath, malice, slander, and obscene talk from your mouth. †Do not lie to one another, seeing that you have put off the old self [4] with its practices †and have put on the new self, which is being renewed in knowledge after the image of its creator. †Here there is not Greek and Jew, circumcised and uncircumcised, barbarian, Scythian, slave, [5] free; but Christ is all, and in all.

†Put on then, as God's chosen ones, holy and beloved, compassionate hearts, kindness, humility, meekness, and patience, †bearing with one another and, if one has a complaint against another, forgiving each other; as the Lord has forgiven you, so you also must forgive. †And above all these put on love, which binds everything together in perfect harmony. †And let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to which indeed you were called in one body. And be thankful. †Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly, teaching and admonishing one another in all wisdom, singing psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, with thankfulness in your hearts to God. †And whatever you do, in word or deed, do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him.

Rules for Christian Households

††Wives, submit to your husbands, as is fitting in the Lord. †Husbands, love your wives, and do not be harsh with them. †Children, obey your parents in everything, for this pleases the Lord. †Fathers, do not provoke your children, lest they become discouraged. †Slaves, [6] obey in everything those who are your earthly masters, [7] not by way of eye-service, as people-pleasers, but with sincerity of heart, fearing the Lord. †Whatever you do, work heartily, as for the Lord and not for men, <sup>24</sup> knowing that from the Lord you will receive the inheritance as your reward. You are serving the Lord Christ. <sup>25</sup>For the wrongdoer will be paid back for the wrong he has done, and there is no partiality.

COLOSSIANS 4 †Masters, treat your slaves [1] justly and fairly, knowing that you also have a Master in heaven.

Further Instructions

2†Continue steadfastly in prayer, being watchful in it with thanksgiving. 3†At the same time, pray also for us, that God may open to us a door for the word, to declare the mystery of Christ, on account of which I am in prison— 4that I may make it clear, which is how I ought to speak.

5†Walk in wisdom toward outsiders, making the best use of the time. 6†Let your speech always be gracious, seasoned with salt, so that you may know how you ought to answer each person.

Final Greetings

7†Tychicus will tell you all about my activities. He is a beloved brother and faithful minister and fellow servant [2] in the Lord. 8I have sent him to you for this very purpose, that you may know how we are and that he may encourage your hearts, 9†and with him Onesimus, our faithful and beloved brother, who is one of you. They will tell you of everything that has taken place here.

10†Aristarchus my fellow prisoner greets you, and Mark the cousin of Barnabas (concerning whom you have received instructions—if he comes to you, welcome him), 11†and Jesus who is called Justus. These are the only men of the circumcision among my fellow workers for the kingdom of God, and they have been a comfort to me. 12†Epaphras, who is one of you, a servant of Christ Jesus, greets you, always struggling on your behalf in his prayers, that you may stand mature and fully assured in all the will of God. 13†For I bear him witness that he has worked hard for you and for those in Laodicea and in Hierapolis. 14†Luke the beloved physician greets you, as does Demas. 15†Give my greetings to the brothers [3] at Laodicea, and to Nympha and the church in her house. 16†And when this letter has been read among you, have it also read in the church of the Laodiceans; and see that you also read the letter from Laodicea. 17†And say to Archippus, “See that you fulfill the ministry that you have received in the Lord.”

18†I, Paul, write this greeting with my own hand. Remember my chains. Grace be with you.

The Glories of Christ

The Glories of Christ
“Not that we are sufficient in ourselves to claim anything as coming from us, but our sufficiency is from God . . .” ( 2 Cor. 3:5 )
One of the great tenets of Scripture is the claim that Jesus Christ is completely sufficient for all matters of life and godliness ( 2 Pet. 1:3–4 )! He is sufficient for creation ( Col. 1:16–17 ), salvation ( Heb. 10:10–12 ), sanctification ( Eph. 5:26–27 ), and glorification ( Rom. 8:30 ). So pure is he that there is no blemish, stain, spot of sin, defilement, lying, deception, corruption, error, or imperfection ( 1 Pet. 1:18–20 ).
So complete is he that there is no other God besides him ( Isa. 45:5 ); he is the only begotten Son ( John 1:14, 18 ); all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge are in him ( Col. 2:3 ); the fullness of deity dwells bodily in him ( Col. 2:9 ); he is heir of all things ( Heb. 1:2 ); he created all things and all things were made by him, through him, and for him ( Col. 1:16 ); he holds all things together by the word of his power ( Col. 1:17 ; Heb. 1:3 ); he is the firstborn of all creation ( Col. 1:15 ); he is the exact imprint of God ( Heb. 1:3 ).
He is the only Mediator between God and man; he is the Sun that enlightens; the Physician that heals; the Wall of Fire that defends; the Friend that comforts; the Pearl that enriches; the Ark that supports; and the Rock to sustain under the heaviest of pressures; he is seated at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty on high ( Heb. 1:3 ; 8:1 ); he is superior to the angels ( Heb. 1:4–14 ); better than Moses; better than Aaron; better than Joshua; better than Melchizedek; better than all the prophets; greater than Satan ( Luke 4:1–12 ); and stronger than death ( 1 Cor. 15:55 ).
He has no beginning and no end ( Rev. 1:17–18 ); he is the spotless Lamb of God; he is our Peace ( Eph. 2:14 ); he is our Hope ( 1 Tim. 1:1 ); he is our Life ( Col. 3:4 ); he is the living and true Way ( John 14:6 ); he is the Glory of Israel ( 1 Sam. 15:29 ); he is the Root and Descendant of David, the Bright Morning Star ( Rev. 22:16 ); he is Faithful and True ( Rev. 19:11 ); he is the Founder and Perfecter of our faith ( Heb. 12:1–2 ); he is the Founder of our Salvation ( Heb. 2:10 ); he is the Champion; he is the Chosen One ( Isa. 42:1 ); he is the Apostle and High Priest of our confession ( Heb. 3:1 ); he is the Righteous Servant ( Isa. 53:11 ).
He is the Lord of Hosts, the Redeemer—the Holy One of Israel, the God of the whole earth ( Isa. 54:5 ); he is the Man of Sorrows ( Isa. 53:3 ); he is the Light; he is the Son of Man ( Matt. 20:28 ); he is the Vine; he is the Bread of Life; he is the Door; he is Lord ( Phil. 2:10–13 ); he is Prophet, Priest, and King ( Heb. 1:1–3 ); he is our Sabbath rest ( Heb. 4:9 ); he is our Righteousness ( Jer. 23:6 ); he is the Wonderful Counselor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace ( Isa. 9:6 ); he is the Chief Shepherd ( 1 Pet. 5:4 ); he is Lord God of hosts; he is Lord of the nations; he is the Lion of Judah; the Living Word; the Rock of Salvation; the Eternal Spirit; he is the Ancient of Days; Creator and Comforter; Messiah; and he is the great I am ( John 8:58 )!

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:1 Paul. For details on the apostle Paul, see Introduction to Romans: Author and Date; see note on Acts 9:1. Timothy. Paul’s colaborer and true child in the faith (see Introduction to 1 Timothy: Background and Setting; see note on Acts 16:1) was able to be with him because, although Paul was a prisoner, he had personal living quarters (Acts 28:16–31).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:2 saints. Those who have been separated from sin and set apart to God—the believers in Colossae (see note on 1 Cor. 1:2). faithful. A word used in the NT exclusively for believers. Cf. Col. 1:4. Colossae. One of three cities in the Lycus River valley in the region of Phrygia, in the Roman province of Asia (part of modern Turkey), about 100 miles east of Ephesus (see Introduction: Background and Setting). Grace . . . and peace. Paul’s greeting in all 13 of his epistles (see note on Rom. 1:7).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:3 God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. This designation was often used to show that Jesus was one in nature with God, as any true son is with his father. It was an affirmation of Christ’s deity (cf. Rom. 15:6; 2 Cor. 1:3; 11:13; Eph. 1:3; 3:14; 1 Pet. 1:3).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:4 faith in Christ Jesus. For discussion of saving faith, see notes on Rom. 1:16; 10:4–17; James 2:14–26. love . . . for all the saints. Cf. Col. 1:8. One of the visible fruits of true saving faith is love for fellow believers (John 13:34–35; Gal. 5:22; 1 John 2:10; 3:14–16).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:5 the hope laid up for you. The believer’s hope is inseparable from his faith. See notes on Rom. 5:2 and 1 Pet. 1:3–5. the gospel. See note on Rom. 1:1. The Greek word lit. means “good news,” and was used in classical Greek to express the good news of victory in a battle. The gospel is the good news of Christ’s victory over Satan, sin, and death.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:6 in the whole world. Cf. v. 23, “all creation under heaven.” The gospel was never intended for an exclusive group of people; it is good news for the whole world (Matt. 24:14; 28:19–20; Mark 16:15; Rom. 1:8, 14, 16; 1 Thess. 1:8). It transcends all ethnic, geographic, cultural, and political boundaries. fruit. Refers to the saving effect of gospel preaching and to the growth of the church. See notes on Rom. 1:13; Phil. 1:22; cf. Matt. 13:3–8, 31–32.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:7 Epaphras. The likely founder of the church at Colossae (see Introduction: Background and Setting).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:9 the knowledge of his will. The Greek word for “knowledge” is the usual one, with an added preposition that intensifies its meaning. This is not an inner impression or feeling, but a deep and thorough knowledge of the will of God that is finally and completely revealed in the word of God (3:16; Eph. 5:17; 1 Thess. 4:3; 5:18; 1 Tim. 2:4; 1 Pet. 2:13, 15; 4:19). spiritual wisdom and understanding. “Spiritual” modifies both “wisdom” (the ability to accumulate and organize principles from Scripture) and “understanding” (the application of those principles to daily living).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:10 walk . . . worthy. This is a key NT concept that calls the believer to live in a way that is consistent with his identification with the Lord who saved him. See notes on Eph. 4:1 and Phil. 1:27. bearing fruit in every good work. See notes on Rom. 1:13 and Phil. 4:17. Spiritual fruit is the by-product of a righteous life. The Bible identifies spiritual fruit as leading people to Christ (1 Cor. 16:15), praising God (Heb. 13:15), giving money (Rom. 15:26–28), living a godly life (Heb. 12:11), and displaying holy attitudes (Gal. 5:22–23). increasing in the knowledge of God. Spiritual growth cannot occur apart from this knowledge (1 Pet. 2:2; 2 Pet. 3:18). The evidences of spiritual growth include a deeper love for God’s word (Ps. 119:97), a more perfect obedience (1 John 2:3–5), a strong doctrinal foundation (1 John 2:12–14), an expanding faith (2 Thess. 1:3; cf. 2 Cor. 10:5), and a greater love for others (Phil. 1:9).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:11 strengthened with all power. See notes on Eph. 3:16–20. endurance and patience. These terms are closely related and refer to the attitude one has during trials. “Patience” looks more at enduring difficult circumstances while “endurance” looks at enduring difficult people.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:12 qualified you. The Greek word for “qualified” means “to make sufficient,” “to empower,” or “to authorize.” God qualifies us only through the finished work of the Savior. Apart from God’s grace through Jesus Christ, all people would be qualified only to receive his wrath. inheritance. Lit., “for the portion of the lot.” Each believer will receive his own individual portion of the total divine inheritance (see note on Rom. 8:17), an allusion to the partitioning of Israel’s inheritance in Canaan (cf. Num. 26:52–56; 33:51–54; Josh. 14:1–2). See notes on 1 Pet. 1:3–5. in light. Scripture represents “light” intellectually as divine truth (Ps. 119:130) and morally as divine purity (Eph. 5:8–14; 1 John 1:5). The saints’ inheritance exists in the spiritual realm of truth and purity where God himself dwells (1 Tim. 6:16). Light, then, is a synonym for God’s kingdom. Cf. John 8:12; 2 Cor. 4:6; Rev. 21:23; 22:5.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:13 delivered us. The Greek term means “to draw to oneself,” and refers to the believer’s spiritual liberation by God from Satan’s kingdom, which, in contrast to the realm of light with truth and purity, is the realm of darkness (cf. Luke 22:53) with only deception and wickedness (1 John 2:9, 11). See note on Acts 26:18. kingdom. In its basic sense, a group of people ruled by a king. More than just the future, earthly millennial kingdom, this everlasting kingdom (2 Pet. 1:11) speaks of the realm of salvation in which all believers live in current and eternal spiritual relationship with God under the care and authority of Jesus Christ (see note on Matt. 3:2). his beloved Son. Cf. Matt. 3:17; 12:18; 17:5; Mark 1:11; 9:7; Luke 3:22; 9:35; Eph. 1:6; 2 Pet. 1:17; see notes on John 17:23–26. The Father gave this kingdom to the Son he loves, as an expression of eternal love. That means that every person the Father calls and justifies is a love gift from him to the Son. See notes on John 6:37, 44.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:14 redemption. The Greek word means “to deliver by payment of a ransom,” and was used of freeing slaves from bondage. Here it refers to Christ freeing believing sinners from slavery to sin (cf. Eph. 1:7; 1 Cor. 1:30; see note on Rom. 3:24). Some later manuscripts follow “redemption” with “through his blood.” Cf. Col. 1:20, a reference not limited to the fluid, as if the blood had saving properties in its chemistry, but an expression pointing to the totality of Christ’s atoning work as a sacrifice for sin. This is a frequently used metonym in the NT (see Eph. 1:7; 2:13; Heb. 9:14; 1 Pet. 1:19). The word “cross” (as in Col. 1:20) is used similarly to refer to the whole atoning work (see 1 Cor. 1:18; Gal. 6:12, 14; Eph. 2:16). See note on Rom. 5:9. the forgiveness of sins. The Greek word is a composite of two words that mean “to pardon” or “grant remission of a penalty.” Cf. Ps. 103:12; Mic. 7:19; Eph. 1:7; see notes on 2 Cor. 5:19–21.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:15–20 One component in the heresy threatening the Colossian church was the denial of the deity of Christ. Paul combats that damning element of heresy with an emphatic defense of Christ’s deity.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:15 image of the invisible God. See note on Heb. 1:3. The Greek word for “image” is eikōn, from which the English word “icon” derives. It means “copy” or “likeness.” Jesus Christ is the perfect image—the exact likeness—of God and is in the very form of God (Phil. 2:6; cf. John 1:14; 14:9), and has been so from all eternity. By describing Jesus in this manner, Paul emphasizes that he is both the representation and manifestation of God. Thus, he is fully God in every way (cf. Col. 2:9; John 8:58; 10:30–33; Heb. 1:8). the firstborn of all creation. Cf. Col. 1:18. The Greek word for “firstborn” can refer to one who was born first chronologically, but most often refers to preeminence in position, or rank (see note on Heb. 1:6; cf. Rom. 8:29). In both Greek and Jewish culture, the firstborn was the ranking son who had received the right of inheritance from his father, whether he was born first or not. It is used of Israel who, not being the first nation, was however the preeminent nation (cf. Ex. 4:22; Jer. 31:9). Firstborn in this context clearly means highest in rank, not first created (cf. Ps. 89:27; Rev. 1:5) for several reasons: 1) Christ cannot be both “first begotten” and “only begotten” (cf. John 1:14, 18; 3:16, 18; 1 John 4:9); 2) when the “firstborn” is one of a class, the class is in the plural form (cf. Col. 1:18; Rom. 8:29), but “creation,” the class here, is in a singular form; 3) if Paul was teaching that Christ was a created being, he was agreeing with the heresy he was writing to refute; and 4) it is impossible for Christ to be both created, and the Creator of everything (Col. 1:16). Thus Jesus is the firstborn in the sense that he has the preeminence (v. 18) and possesses the right of inheritance over “all creation” (cf. Heb. 1:2; Rev. 5:1–7, 13). He existed before the creation and is exalted in rank above it. See notes on Ps. 2:7 and Rom. 8:29.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:16 thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities. Cf. 2:15; Rom. 8:38; Eph. 1:21; 3:10; 6:12; 1 Pet. 3:22; Jude 6. These are various categories of angels whom Christ created and rules over. There is no comment regarding whether they are holy or fallen, since he is Lord of both groups. The false teachers had incorporated into their heresy the worship of angels (see note on Col. 2:18), including the lie that Jesus was one of them, merely a spirit created by God and inferior to him. Paul rejected that and made it clear that angels, whatever their rank, whether holy or fallen, are mere creatures, and their Creator is none other than the preeminent One, the Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. The purpose of his catalog of angelic ranks is to show the immeasurable superiority of Christ over any being the false teachers might suggest. all things were created through him and for him. Cf. Rom. 11:33–36. See notes on John 1:3 and Heb. 1:2. As God, Jesus created the material and spiritual universe for his pleasure and glory.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:17 he is before all things. When the universe had its beginning, Christ already existed, thus by definition he must be eternal (Mic. 5:2; John 1:1–2; 8:58; 1 John 1:1; Rev. 22:13). hold together. Christ sustains the universe, maintaining the power and balance necessary to life’s existence and continuity (cf. Heb. 1:3).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:18 head of the body. Cf. 2:19. Paul uses the human body as a metaphor for the church, of which Christ serves as the “head.” Just as a body is controlled from the brain, so Christ controls every part of the church and gives it life and direction. Cf. Eph. 4:15; 5:23. For a detailed discussion of the church as a body, see notes on 1 Cor. 12:4–27. the beginning. This refers to both source and preeminence. The church had its origins in the Lord Jesus (Eph. 1:4), and he gave life to the church through his sacrificial death and resurrection to become its Sovereign. the firstborn from the dead. See note on Col. 1:15. Jesus was the first chronologically to be resurrected, never to die again. Of all who have been or ever will be raised from the dead, and that includes all men (John 5:28–29), Christ is supreme (see notes on Col. 1:15; Phil. 2:8–11).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:19 all the fullness. A term likely used by those in the Colossian heresy to refer to divine powers and attributes they believed were divided among various emanations (see Introduction: Background and Setting). Paul countered that by asserting that the fullness of deity—all the divine powers and attributes—was not spread out among created beings, but completely dwelt in Christ alone (cf. 2:9).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:20 reconcile to himself all things. The Greek word for “reconcile” means “to change” or “exchange.” Its NT usage refers to a change in the sinner’s relationship to God. See notes on Rom. 5:10 and 2 Cor. 5:18–21. Man is reconciled to God when God restores man to a right relationship with him through Jesus Christ. An intensified form for “reconcile” is used in this verse to refer to the total and complete reconciliation of believers and ultimately “all things” in the created universe (cf. Rom. 8:21; 2 Pet. 3:10–13; Rev. 21:1). This text does not teach that, as a result, all will believe; rather it teaches that all will ultimately submit (cf. Phil. 2:9–11). making peace. See note on Rom. 5:1. God and those he saved are no longer at enmity with each other. the blood of his cross. See note on Col. 1:14.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:21 alienated . . . hostile. The Greek term for “alienated” means “estranged,” “cut off,” or “separated.” Before they were reconciled, all people were completely estranged from God (cf. Eph. 2:12–13). The Greek word for “hostile” can also be translated “hateful.” Unbelievers hate God and resent his holy standard because they love “evil deeds” (cf. John 3:19–20; 15:18, 24–25). Actually, there is alienation from both sides, since God hates “all evildoers” (Ps. 5:5).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:22 reconciled . . . by his death. Christ’s substitutionary death on the cross that paid the full penalty for the sin of all who believe made reconciliation possible and actual. See notes on 2 Cor. 5:18–21; cf. Rom. 3:25; 5:9–10; 8:3. reconciled. See note on Col.1:20. present you holy. “Holy” refers to the believer’s positional relationship to God—he is separated from sin and set apart to God by imputed righteousness. This is justification (see notes on Rom. 3:24–26; Phil. 3:8–9). As a result of the believer’s union with Christ in his death and resurrection, God considers Christians as holy as his Son (Eph. 1:4; 2 Cor. 5:21). Christians are also “blameless” (without blemish) and “above reproach” (no one can bring a charge against them; Rom. 8:33; cf. Phil. 2:15). We are to be presented to Christ, when we meet him, as a chaste bride (Eph. 5:25–27; 2 Cor. 11:2).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:23 continue in the faith. Cf. Acts 11:23 and 14:22. Those who have been reconciled will persevere in faith and obedience because, in addition to being declared righteous, they are actually made new creatures (2 Cor. 5:17) with a new disposition that loves God, hates sin, desires obedience, and is energized by the indwelling Holy Spirit (cf. John 8:30–32; 1 John 2:19). Rather than defect from the gospel they heard, true believers will remain solid on Christ, who is the only foundation (1 Cor. 3:11), and faithful by the enabling grace of God (Phil. 1:6; 2:11–13). For discussion on perseverance of the saints, see note on Matt. 24:13. proclaimed in all creation. Cf. Mark 16:15. The gospel has no racial boundaries. Having reached Rome, where Paul was when he wrote Colossians, it had reached the center of the known world.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:24 my sufferings. Paul’s present imprisonment (Acts 28:16, 30; see Introduction to Ephesians: Background and Setting). for the sake of his body. Paul’s motivation for enduring suffering was to benefit and build Christ’s church. Cf. Phil. 1:13, 29–30; see notes on 2 Cor. 4:8–15; 6:4–10; 11:23–29; 12:9–10. filling up what is lacking. Paul was experiencing the persecution intended for Christ. In spite of his death on the cross, Christ’s enemies had not gotten their fill of inflicting injury on him. So they turned their hatred on those who preached the gospel (cf. John 15:18, 24; 16:1–3). It was in that sense that Paul filled up what was lacking in Christ’s afflictions (see notes on 2 Cor. 1:5; Gal. 6:17).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:25 stewardship. Cf. 1 Cor. 4:1–2; 9:17. A steward was a slave who managed his master’s household, supervising the other servants, dispensing resources, and handling business and financial affairs. Paul viewed his ministry as a stewardship from the Lord. The church is God's household (1 Tim. 3:16), and Paul was given the task of caring for, feeding, and leading the churches, for which he was accountable to God (cf. Heb. 13:17). All believers are responsible for managing the abilities and resources God gives them (see note on 1 Pet. 4:10). the word of God fully known. This refers to Paul's single-minded devotion to completely fulfill the ministry God gave him to preach the whole counsel of God to those to whom God sent him (Acts 20:27; 2 Tim. 4:7).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:26 mystery. Cf. 2:2; 4:3. See notes on Matt. 13:11; 1 Cor. 2:7; Eph. 3:4–5. This refers to truth, hidden until now, but revealed for the first time to the saints in the NT. Such truth includes the mystery of the incarnate God (Col. 2:2–3, 9), Israel's unbelief (Rom. 11:25), lawlessness (2 Thess. 2:7), the unity of Jew and Gentile made one in the church (Eph. 3:3–6), and the rapture of the church (1 Cor. 15:51). In this passage, the mystery is specifically identified in Col. 1:27.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:27 Gentiles . . . Christ in you. The OT predicted the coming of the Messiah and that the Gentiles would partake of salvation (cf. Isa. 42:6; 45:21–22; 49:6; 52:10; 60:1–3; Ps. 22:27; 65:5; 98:2–3), but it did not reveal that the Messiah would actually live in each member of his redeemed church, made up mostly of Gentiles. That believers, both Jew and Gentile, now possess the surpassing riches of the indwelling Christ is the glorious revealed mystery (John 14:23; Rom. 8:9–10; Gal. 2:20; Eph. 1:7, 17–18; 3:8–10, 16–19). the hope of glory. The indwelling Spirit of Christ is the guarantee to each believer of future glory (Rom. 8:11; Eph. 1:13–14; 1 Pet. 1:3–4).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:28 mature. To be perfect or mature—to be like Christ. See notes on Rom. 8:29; Phil. 3:12–14, 19–20; 1 John 2:6; 3:2. This spiritual maturity is defined in Col. 2:2.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 1:29 I toil, struggling with all his energy. Here is the balance of Christian living. Paul gave the effort to serve and honor God with all his might. "Toil" refers to working to the point of exhaustion. The Greek word for "struggling" gives us the English word "agonize" and refers to the effort required to compete in an athletic event. At the same time, he knew the effective "struggling" or work, with spiritual and eternal results was being done by God through him (see notes on Phil. 2:11–13; cf. 1 Cor. 15:10, 58).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:1 great a struggle. The word means "striving" and comes from the same root as in 1:29. Both the Colossians and Laodiceans were among those for whom Paul struggled so hard in order to bring them to maturity. Laodicea. The chief city of Phrygia in the Roman province of Asia, located just south of Hierapolis in the Lycus River valley (see Introduction: Background and Setting; see note on Rev. 3:14; cf. 4:13).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:2 full assurance of understanding. “Understanding” of the fullness of the gospel, along with inner encouragement and shared love, mark mature believers who, thereby, enjoy the “assurance” of salvation (see notes on 2 Pet. 1:5–8). mystery . . . Christ. See note on Col. 1:26. The mystery Paul referred to here is that the Messiah Christ is God incarnate himself (cf. 1 Tim. 3:16).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:3 all the treasures. Cf. vv. 9–10; 1:19. The false teachers threatening the Colossians claimed to possess a secret wisdom and transcendent knowledge available only to the spiritual elite. In sharp contrast, Paul declared that all the richness of truth necessary for salvation, sanctification, and glorification is found in Jesus Christ, who himself is God revealed. Cf. John 1:14; Rom. 11:33–36; 1 Cor. 1:24, 30; 2:6–8; Eph. 1:8–9; 3:8–9.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:4 that no one may delude you. Paul did not want the Colossians to be deceived by the persuasive rhetoric of the false teachers, which assaulted the person of Christ. That is why throughout chs. 1–2 he stressed Christ’s deity, and his sufficiency both to save believers and bring them to spiritual maturity.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:5 absent in body . . . with you in spirit. Because he was a prisoner, Paul was unable to be present with the Colossians. That did not mean, however, that his love and concern for them was any less (cf. 1 Cor. 5:3–4; 1 Thess. 2:17). Their “good order” and “firmness” of faith (both military terms depicting a solid rank of soldiers drawn up for battle) brought great joy to the apostle’s heart.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:6 walk in him. “Walk” is the familiar NT term denoting the believer’s daily conduct (1:10; 4:5; Rom. 6:4; 8:1, 4; 13:13; 1 Cor. 7:17; 2 Cor. 5:7; 10:3; 12:18; Gal. 5:16, 25; 6:16; Eph. 2:10; 4:1, 17; 5:2, 8, 15; Phil. 3:16–18; 1 Thess. 2:12; 4:1, 12; 2 Thess. 3:11; 1 John 1:6–7; 2:6; 2 John 6; 3 John 3–4). To walk in Christ is to live a life patterned after his.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:7 the faith. The sense here is objective, referring to the truth of Christian doctrine. Spiritual maturity develops upward from the foundation of biblical truth as taught and recorded by the apostles. Cf. 3:16. This rooting, building, and establishing is in sound doctrine (cf. 1 Tim. 4:6; 2 Tim. 3:16–17; Titus 2:1).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:8 takes you captive. Here is the term for robbery. False teachers who are successful in getting people to believe lies, rob them of truth, salvation, and blessing. philosophy and empty deceit. “Philosophy” (lit., “love of wisdom”) appears only here in the NT. The word referred to more than merely the academic discipline, but described any theory about God, the world, or the meaning of life. Those embracing the Colossian heresy used it to describe the supposed higher knowledge they claimed to have attained. Paul, however, equates the false teachers’ philosophy with “empty” or worthless “deceit.” Cf. 1 Tim. 6:20; see note on 2 Cor. 10:5. the elemental spirits of the world. See notes on Col. 2:20 and Gal. 4:3. Far from being advanced, profound knowledge, the false teachers’ beliefs were simplistic and immature like all the rest of the speculations, ideologies, philosophies, and psychologies the fallen satanic and human system invents.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:9 the whole fullness of deity. Christ possesses the fullness of the divine nature and attributes (see notes on 1:19; John 1:14–16). bodily. In Greek philosophical thought, matter was evil; spirit was good. Thus, it was unthinkable that God would ever take on a human body. Paul refutes that false teaching by stressing the reality of Christ’s incarnation. Jesus was not only fully God, but fully human as well. See notes on Phil. 2:5–11.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:10 been filled in him. See notes on vv. 3–4; cf. John 1:16; Eph. 1:3. Believers are complete in Christ, both positionally by the imputed perfect righteousness of Christ (see note on Col. 1:22), and the complete sufficiency of all heavenly resources for spiritual maturity (see notes on 2 Pet. 1:3–4). the head of all rule and authority. Jesus Christ is the creator and ruler of the universe and all its spiritual beings (see note on Col. 1:16), not a lesser being emanating from God as the Colossian errorists maintained (see Introduction: Background and Setting).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:11–12 circumcision made without hands. See note on Gen. 17:11. Circumcision symbolized man’s need for cleansing of the heart (cf. Deut. 10:16; 30:6; Jer. 4:4; 9:26; Acts 7:51; Rom. 2:29) and was the outward sign of that cleansing of sin that comes by faith in God (Rom. 4:11; Phil. 3:3). At salvation, believers undergo a spiritual “circumcision” by putting off the sins of the flesh (cf. Rom. 6:6; 2 Cor. 5:17; Phil. 3:3; Titus 3:5). This is the new birth, the new creation in conversion. The outward affirmation of the already accomplished inner transformation is now the believer’s baptism by water (Acts 2:38).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:13 dead in your trespasses. See notes on Eph. 2:1, 5. So bound in the sphere of sin, the world (Eph. 2:12), the flesh (Rom. 8:8), and the devil (1 John 5:19) as to be unable to respond to spiritual stimuli; totally devoid of spiritual life. Paul further defines this condition of the unsaved in 1 Cor. 2:14; Eph. 4:17–19; Titus 3:3. God made alive together with him. See notes on Eph. 2:1, 5. Only through union with Jesus Christ (Col. 2:10–12) can those hopelessly dead in their sins receive eternal life (cf. Eph. 2:5). Note that God takes the initiative and exerts the life-giving power to awaken and unite sinners with his Son; the spiritually dead have no ability to make themselves alive (cf. Rom. 4:17; 2 Cor. 1:9). forgiven us all our trespasses. Cf. Col. 1:14. God’s free (Rom. 3:24) and complete (Rom. 5:20; Eph. 1:7) forgiveness of guilty sinners who put their faith in Jesus Christ is the most important reality in Scripture (cf. Ps. 32:1; 130:3–4; Isa. 1:18; 55:7; Mic. 7:18; Matt. 26:28; Acts 10:43; 13:38–39; Titus 3:4–7; Heb. 8:12).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:14 canceling the record of debt. This refers to the handwritten certificate of debt by which a debtor acknowledged his indebtedness. All people (Rom. 3:23) owe God an unpayable debt for violating his law (Gal. 3:10; James 2:10; cf. Matt. 18:23–27), and are thus under sentence of death (Rom. 6:23). Paul graphically compares God’s forgiveness of believers’ sins to wiping ink off a parchment. Through Christ’s sacrificial death on the cross, God has totally erased our certificate of indebtedness and made our forgiveness complete. nauling it to the cross. This is another metaphor for forgiveness. The list of the crimes of a crucified criminal was nailed to the cross with that criminal to declare the violations he was being punished for (as in the case of Jesus, as noted in Matt. 27:37). Believers’ sins were all put to Christ’s account, nailed to his cross as he paid the penalty in their place for them all, thus satisfying the just wrath of God against crimes requiring punishment in full.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:15 disarmed. In yet another element of the cross work, Paul tells that the cross spelled the ultimate doom of Satan and his evil host of fallen angels (cf. Gen. 3:15; John 12:31; 16:11; Heb. 2:14). rulers and authorities. See note on Col. 1:16. While his body was dead, his living, divine spirit actually went to the abode of demons and announced his triumph over sin, Satan, death, and hell. See notes on 1 Pet. 3:18–19. open shame . . . triumphing over them. The picture is that of a victorious Roman general parading his defeated enemies through the streets of Rome (see notes on 2 Cor. 2:14–16). Christ won the victory over the demon forces on the cross, where their efforts to halt God’s redemptive plan were ultimately defeated. For more on that triumphant imagery, see notes on 2 Cor. 2:14–16.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:16–17 Paul warns the Colossians against trading their freedom in Christ for a set of useless, man-made, legalistic rules (cf. Gal. 5:1). Legalism is powerless to save or to restrain sin.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:16 food and drink. The false teachers sought to impose some sort of dietary regulations, probably based on those of the Mosaic law (cf. Lev. 11). Since they were under the New Covenant, the Colossians (like all Christians) were not obligated to observe the OT dietary restrictions (cf. Mark 7:14–19; Acts 10:9–15; Rom. 14:17; 1 Cor. 8:8; 1 Tim. 4:1–5; Heb. 9:9–10). festival. The annual religious celebrations of the Jewish calendar (e.g., Passover, Pentecost, or Tabernacles (Booths); cf. Lev. 23). new moon. The monthly sacrifice offered on the first day of each month (Num. 10:10; 28:11–14; Ps. 81:3). Sabbath. The weekly celebration of the seventh day, which pictured God’s rest from creation. The NT clearly teaches that Christians are not required to keep it (see notes on Acts 20:7; Rom. 14:5–6).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:17 shadow . . . substance. The ceremonial aspects of the OT law (dietary regulations, festivals, sacrifices) were mere shadows pointing to Christ. Since Christ, the reality has come; the shadows have no value. Cf. Heb. 8:5; 10:1.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:18 disqualify you. Paul warns the Colossians not to allow the false teachers to cheat or defraud them of their temporal blessings or eternal reward (cf. 2 John 8) by luring them into irrational mysticism. asceticism. Since the false teachers took great delight in it, their “self-abasement” was actually pride, which God hates (Prov. 6:16–17). worship of angels. The beginning of a heresy that was to plague the region around Colossae for several centuries and far beyond—a practice the Bible clearly prohibits (Matt. 4:10; Rev. 19:10; 22:8–9). visions. Like virtually all cults and false religions, the Colossian false teachers based their teaching on visions and revelations they had supposedly received. Their claims were false, since Jesus Christ is God's final and complete (see notes on Col. 2:3–4) revelation to mankind (Heb. 1:1–2). sensuous mind. See note on Rom. 8:6. This describes the unregenerate and is further defined in Eph. 4:17–19.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:19 Cf. 1:18; see note on Eph. 4:15–16. There is no spiritual growth for the body (the church) apart from union with the head, Christ (cf. John 15:4–5; 2 Pet. 1:3).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:20 with Christ you died. Refers to the believer's union with Christ in his death and resurrection (see notes on Rom. 6:1–11), by which he has been transformed to new life from all worldly folly. elemental spirits. See note on Col. 2:8. These are the same as “human precepts and teachings” (v. 22).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 2:21–23 These verses point out the futility of asceticism, which is the attempt to achieve holiness by rigorous self-neglect (v. 23), self-denial (v. 21), and even self-infliction. Since it focuses on temporal “things that all perish as they are used,” asceticism is powerless to restrain sin or bring one to God. While reasonable care and discipline of one's body is of temporal value (1 Tim. 4:8), it has no eternal value, and the extremes of asceticism serve only to gratify the flesh. All too often, ascetics seek only to put on a public show of their supposed holiness (Matt. 6:16–18).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:1 If then. Better translated, “since.” you have been raised. This verb actually means “to be co-resurrected.” Because of their union with Christ, believers spiritually entered his death and resurrection at the moment of their conversion (see notes on Rom. 6:3–4; Gal. 2:20) and have been and are now alive in him so as to understand spiritual truths, realities, blessings, and the will of God. Those glorious benedictions (cf. Eph. 1:3) are the privileges and riches of the heavenly kingdom, all of which are at our disposal. Paul called them “things that are above.” To understand what these are, see note on Col. 2:3. seated at the right hand of God. The position of honor and majesty (cf. Ps. 110:1; Luke 22:69; Acts 2:33; 5:31; 7:56; Eph. 1:20; Heb. 1:3; 8:1; 1 Pet. 3:22) that Christ enjoys as the exalted Son of God (see note on Phil. 2:9). That exaltation makes him the fountain of blessing for his people (John 14:13–14; cf. 2 Cor. 1:20).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:2 Set your minds. This can also be translated “think,” or “have this inner disposition.” As a compass points north, the believer’s entire disposition should point itself toward the things of heaven. Heavenly thoughts can only come by understanding heavenly realities from Scripture (cf. Rom. 8:5; 12:2; Phil. 1:23; 4:8; 1 John 2:15–17; see note on Matt. 6:33).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:3 you have died. See notes on Rom. 6:1–11; 2 Cor. 5:17; Gal. 6:14. The verb’s tense indicates that a death occurred in the past, in this case at the death of Jesus Christ, where believers were united with him, their penalty of sin was paid, and they arose with him in new life. hidden with Christ in God. This rich expression has a threefold meaning: 1) believers have a common spiritual life with the Father and Son (1 Cor. 6:17; 2 Pet. 1:4); 2) the world cannot understand the full import of the believer’s new life (1 Cor. 2:14; 1 John 3:2); and 3) believers are eternally secure, protected from all spiritual enemies, and with access to all God’s blessings (John 10:28; Rom. 8:31–39; Heb. 7:25; 1 Pet. 1:4).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:4 When Christ . . . appears. At his second coming (cf. Rev. 19:11–13, 15–16).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:5 Put to death. See note on Rom. 8:13; cf. Zech. 4:6; Eph. 5:18; 6:17; 1 John 2:14. This refers to a conscious effort to slay the remaining sin in our flesh. immorality. This refers to any form of sexual sin (see note on Gal. 5:19; cf. 1 Thess. 4:3). impurity. This term goes beyond sexual acts of sin to encompass evil thoughts and intentions as well (see note on Gal. 5:19; cf. Matt. 5:28; Mark 7:21–22; 1 Thess. 4:7). passion, evil desire. Similar terms that refer to sexual lust. “Passion” is the physical side of that vice, and “evil desire” is the mental side (see notes on Rom. 1:26; 1 Thess. 4:3; cf. James 1:15). covetousness. Lit., this term means “to have more.” It is the insatiable desire to gain more, especially of things that are forbidden (cf. Ex. 20:17; Deut. 5:21; James 4:2). which is idolatry. When people engage in either greed or the sexual sins Paul has cataloged, they follow their desires rather than God’s, in essence worshiping themselves—which is idolatry (Num. 25:1–3; Eph. 5:3–5).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:6 wrath of God. His constant, invariable reaction against sin (see notes on John 3:36; Rom. 1:18; Rev. 11:18). See esv footnote, “sons of disobedience.” Cf. note on Eph. 2:2. This expression designates unbelievers as bearing the very nature and character of the disobedient, rebellious sinfulness they love.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:7 In these you too once walked. Before their conversion (cf. Eph. 2:1–5; Titus 3:3–4).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:8 put . . . away. A Greek word used for taking off clothes (cf. Acts 7:58; Rom. 13:12–14; 1 Pet. 2:1). Like one who removes his dirty clothes at day’s end, believers must discard the filthy garments of their old, sinful lives. anger. A deep, smoldering bitterness; the settled heart attitude of an angry person (cf. Eph. 4:31; James 1:19–20). wrath. Unlike God’s settled and righteous wrath (see note on Rom. 1:18), this is a sudden outburst of sinful anger, usually the eruption that flows out of “anger” (see note on Gal. 5:20; cf. Luke 4:28; Acts 19:28; Eph. 4:31). malice. From the Greek term that denotes general moral evil. Here it probably refers to the damage caused by evil speech (cf. 1 Pet. 2:1). slander. The normal translation when this word refers to God is “blasphemy.” But here, since it refers to people, it is better translated “slander.” To slander people, however, is to blaspheme God (James 3:9; cf. Matt. 5:22; James 3:10).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:9–10 put off . . . put on. See notes on v. 8; Eph. 4:24–25. These words are the basis for the command of v. 8. Because the old man died in Christ, and the new man lives in Christ—because that is the fact of new creation or regeneration (2 Cor. 5:17)—believers must put off remaining sinful deeds and be continually renewed into the Christlikeness to which they are called.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:9 old self. The old, unregenerate self, originating in Adam (see notes on Rom. 5:12–14; 6:6; cf. Eph. 4:22).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:10 new self. The new, regenerate self, which replaces the old self; this is the essence of what believers are in Christ (cf. Eph. 4:17; 5:1, 8, 15). The reason believers still sin is their unredeemed flesh (see notes on Rom. 6:6, 12; 7:5). renewed. See note on 2 Cor. 4:16; cf. Rom. 12:2; 2 Cor. 3:18. This Greek verb contains a sense of contrast with the former reality. It describes a new quality of life that never before existed (cf. Rom. 12:2; Eph. 4:22). Just like a baby is born complete but immature, the new self is complete, but has the capacity to grow. knowledge. See note on Col. 1:9. A deep, thorough knowledge, without which there can be no spiritual growth or renewal (2 Tim. 3:16–17; 1 Pet. 2:2). image of its creator. It is God’s plan that believers become progressively more like Jesus Christ, the one who made them (cf. Rom. 8:29; 1 Cor. 15:49; 1 John 3:2). See notes on Phil. 3:12–14, 19–20.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:11 Even as individual believers must discard old, sinful habits, the body of Christ must realize its unity and destroy the old barriers that separated people (cf. Gal. 3:28; Eph. 2:15). Greek. A Gentile, or non-Jew (see note on Rom. 1:14). Jew. A descendant of Abraham through Isaac (see note on Rom. 2:17). barbarian. See note on Rom. 1:14. Scythian. An ancient nomadic and warlike people that invaded the Fertile Crescent in the seventh century B.C. Noted for their savagery, they were the most hated and feared of all the so-called barbarians. slave, free. A social barrier had always existed between slaves and freemen; Aristotle had referred to slaves as “a living tool.” But faith in Christ removed the separation (1 Cor. 12:13; Gal. 3:28; cf. Philem. 6). Christ is all, and in all. Because Jesus Christ is the Savior of all believers, he is equally the all-sufficient Lord of them all.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:12 then. In view of what God has done through Jesus Christ for the believer, Paul described the behavior and attitude God expects in response (vv. 12–17). God’s chosen. This designates true Christians as those who have been chosen by God. No one is converted solely by his own choice, but only in response to God’s effectual, free, uninfluenced, and sovereign grace (see notes on John 15:16; Rom. 8:29; 9:14–23; Eph. 1:4; 2 Thess. 2:13–14; 2 Tim. 1:8–9; 1 Pet. 1:1–2; cf. Acts 13:46–48; Rom. 11:4–5). beloved. Election means believers are the objects of God’s incomprehensible special love (cf. John 13:1; Eph. 1:4–5). Put on. See note on Col. 3:9–10. compassionate hearts. It is a Hebraism that connotes the internal organs of the human body as used figuratively to describe the seat of the emotions (cf. Matt. 9:36; Luke 6:36; James 5:11). kindness. Refers to a goodness toward others that pervades the entire person, mellowing all harsh aspects (cf. Matt. 11:29–30; Luke 10:25–37). humility. See notes on Rom. 12:3, 10; Phil. 2:3; cf. Matt. 18:4; John 13:14–16; James 4:6, 10. This is the perfect antidote to the self-love that poisons human relationships. meekness. See notes on Matt. 5:5, Gal. 5:23. It is the willingness to suffer injury or insult rather than to inflict such hurts. patience. See note on Col. 1:11; cf. Rom. 2:4. It is also translated “longsuffering,” the opposite of quick anger, resentment, or revenge, and thus epitomizes Jesus Christ (1 Tim. 1:16; cf. 2 Pet. 3:15). It endures injustice and troublesome circumstances with hope for coming relief.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:13 as the Lord has forgiven. See notes on Matt. 18:23–34; Eph. 4:32. Because Christ as the model of forgiveness has forgiven all our sins totally (Col. 1:14; 2:13–14), believers must be willing to forgive others.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:14 perfect harmony. See notes on Eph. 4:3; Phil. 1:27; 2:2. Supernatural love poured into the hearts of believers is the adhesive of the church. Cf. Rom. 5:5 and 1 Thess. 4:9.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:15 the peace of Christ. The Greek word “peace” here refers to both the call of God to salvation and consequent peace with him (see note on Rom. 5:1), and the attitude of rest or security (Phil. 4:7) believers have because of that eternal peace.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:16 word of Christ. This is Scripture, the Holy Spirit-inspired Scripture, the word of revelation he brought into the world.  dwell in you richly. See notes on Eph. 5:18. “Richly” may be more fully rendered “abundantly or extravagantly rich,” and “dwell” means “to live in” or “to be at home.” Scripture should permeate every aspect of the believer’s life and control every thought, word, and deed (cf. Ps. 119:11; Matt. 13:9; Phil. 2:16; 2 Tim. 2:15). This concept is parallel to being filled with the Spirit in Eph. 5:18 since the results of each are the same. In Eph. 5:18, the power and motivation for all the effects is the filling of the Holy Spirit; here it is the word richly dwelling. Those two realities are really one. The Holy Spirit fills the life controlled by his word. This emphasizes that the filling of the Spirit is not some ecstatic or emotional experience, but a steady controlling of the life by obedience to the truth of God’s word. psalms and hymns and spiritual songs. See note on Eph. 5:19.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:17 do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus. This simply means to act consistently with who he is and what he wants (see note on 1 Cor. 10:31).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:18–4:1 Paul discusses the new self’s relationships to others. This passage is also a brief parallel to Eph. 5:19–6:9 (see notes there).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:18 submit. See notes on Eph. 5:22–23. The Greek verb denotes willingly putting oneself under someone or something (cf. Luke 2:51; 10:17, 20; Rom. 8:7; 13:1, 5; 1 Cor. 15:27–28; Eph. 1:22).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:19 love. See notes on Eph. 5:25–29. This is a call for the highest form of love, which is rendered selflessly (cf. Gen. 24:67; Eph. 5:22–28; 1 Pet. 3:7). be harsh. The form of this Greek verb is better translated “stop being bitter,” or “do not have the habit of being bitter.” Husbands must not be harsh or angrily resentful toward their wives.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:20 in everything. See notes on Eph. 6:1–3. The only limit on a child’s obedience is when parents demand something contrary to God’s word. For example, some children will act contrary to their parents’ wishes even in coming to Christ (cf. Luke 12:51–53; 14:26).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:21 provoke. See notes on Eph. 6:4. This word has the connotation of not stirring up or irritating.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:22–4:1 See notes on Eph. 6:5–9; see Introduction to Philemon: Historical and Theological Themes. Paul upholds the duties of slave and master, of which the modern parallel is the duties of employee and employer. Scripture never advocates slavery, but recognizes it as an element of ancient society that could have been more beneficial if slaves and masters had treated each other properly. Here, Paul followed Christ’s example and used slavery as a motif for spiritual instruction, likening the believer to one who is a slave and servant to Jesus Christ and seeing service to an earthly master as a way to serve the Lord.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:22 Slaves. See note on Rom. 1:1. eye-service. See notes on Eph. 6:6. This refers to working only when the master is watching, rather than recognizing the Lord is always watching, and how our work concerns him (Col. 3:23–24). Cf. 1 Tim. 6:1–2; Titus 2:9–10; 1 Pet. 2:18–21.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 3:24–25 inheritance as your reward. See note on Eph. 6:7–8. The Lord ensures the believer that he will receive a just, eternal compensation for his efforts (cf. Rev. 20:12–13), even if his earthly boss or master does not compensate fairly (Col. 3:25). God deals with obedience and disobedience impartially (cf. Acts 10:34; Gal. 6:7). Christians are not to presume on their faith in order to justify disobedience to an authority or employer (cf. Philem. 18).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:1 Masters. See note on Eph. 6:9.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:2 Continue. The Greek word for “continue” means “to be courageously persistent” or “to hold fast and not let go” and refers here to persistent prayer (Acts 1:14; Rom. 12:12; Eph. 6:18; 1 Thess. 5:17; cf. Luke 11:5–10; 18:1–8). being watchful. In its most general sense this means to stay awake while praying. But Paul has in mind the broader implication of staying alert for specific needs about which to pray, rather than being vague and unfocused. Cf. Matt. 26:41; Mark 14:38; Luke 21:36.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:3 a door. An opportunity (1 Cor. 16:8–9; 2 Cor. 2:12). the mystery of Christ. See notes on Col. 1:26–27 and 2:2–3.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:5 outsiders. This refers to unbelievers. See notes on Eph. 5:15–16. Believers are called to so live that they establish the credibility of the Christian faith and that they make the most of every evangelistic opportunity.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:6 gracious. To speak what is spiritual, wholesome, fitting, kind, sensitive, purposeful, complimentary, gentle, truthful, loving, and thoughtful (see notes on Eph. 4:29–31). seasoned with salt. Just as salt not only flavors, but prevents corruption, the Christian’s speech should act not only as a blessing to others, but as a purifying influence within the decaying society of the world.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:7 Tychicus. The name means “fortuitous” or “fortunate.” He was one of the Gentile converts Paul took to Jerusalem as a representative of the Gentile churches (Acts 20:4). He was a reliable companion of Paul and a capable leader, since he was considered as a replacement for Titus and Timothy on separate occasions (2 Tim. 4:12; Titus 3:12). He had the responsibility to deliver Paul’s letters to the Colossians, the Ephesians (Eph. 6:21), and Philemon (Col. 4:9).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:9 Onesimus. The runaway slave whose return to his master was the basis for Paul’s letter to Philemon (see Introduction to Philemon: Background and Setting).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:10 Aristarchus. The Greek name of a Jewish (cf. v. 11) native of Thessalonica (Acts 20:4; 27:2). He was one of Paul’s companions who was seized by a rioting mob in Ephesus (Acts 19:29) and also accompanied Paul on his trip to Jerusalem and his voyage to Rome (Acts 27:2). Mark. See notes on Acts 13:5, 13; see Introduction to Mark: Author and Date. After having fallen out of favor with Paul for some time, Mark is seen here as one of Paul’s key helpers (cf. 2 Tim. 4:11).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:11 Jesus who is called Justus. Possibly one of the Roman Jews who believed Paul’s message (Acts 28:24). kingdom of God. See note on Col. 1:13.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:12 Epaphras. See Introduction: Background and Setting. mature and fully assured. His goal for the Colossian believers was the same as Paul’s (cf. 1:28–2:2).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:13 Laodicea. See note on 2:1. Hierapolis. A city in Phrygia 20 miles west of Colossae and 6 miles north of Laodicea (see Introduction: Background and Setting).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:14 Luke. Paul’s personal physician and close friend who traveled frequently with him on his missionary journeys and wrote the Gospel of Luke and Acts see Introductions to the Gospel of Luke and Acts: Author and Date. Demas. A man who demonstrated substantial commitment to the Lord's work before the attraction of the world led him to abandon Paul and the ministry (2 Tim. 4:9–10; Philem. 24).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:15 Nympha and the church. A church met in her house, probably in Laodicea.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:16 when this letter has been read among you. This letter was to be publicly read in the churches in Colossae and in Laodicea. letter from Laodicea. A separate letter from Paul, usually identified as the epistle to the Ephesians. The oldest manuscripts of Ephesians do not contain the words “in Ephesus,” indicating that in all likelihood it was a circular letter intended for several churches in the region. Tychicus may have delivered Ephesians to the church at Laodicea first.

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:17 Archippus. Most likely the son of Philemon (Philem. 2). Paul's message to him to fulfill his ministry is similar to the exhortation to Timothy (2 Tim. 4:5).

COLOSSIANS—NOTE ON 4:18 with my own hand. Paul usually dictated his letters to an amanuensis (recording secretary), but would often add his own greeting in his own writing at the end of his letters (cf. 1 Cor. 16:21; Gal. 6:11; 2 Thess. 3:17; Philem. 19). Remember my chains. See note on Phil. 1:16; see Introduction to Ephesians: Background and Setting. Cf. Heb. 13:3.

Introduction to 1 Thessalonians

Title

In the Greek NT, 1 Thessalonians is listed literally as “To the Thessalonians.” This represents the apostle Paul’s first canonical correspondence to the church in the city of Thessalonica (cf. 1:1).

Author and Date

The apostle Paul identified himself twice as the author of this letter (1:1; 2:18). Silvanus (Silas) and Timothy (3:2, 6), Paul’s traveling companions on the second missionary journey when the church was founded (Acts 17:1–9), were also mentioned in Paul’s greeting (1 Thess. 1:1). Though Paul was the single inspired author, most of the first person plural pronouns (we, us, our) refer to all three. However, during Timothy’s visit back to Thessalonica, they refer only to Paul and Silvanus (3:1–2, 6). Paul commonly used such editorial plurals because the letters came with the full support of his companions.

Paul’s authorship has not been questioned until recently by radical critics. Their attempts to undermine Pauline authorship have failed in light of the combined weight of evidence favoring Paul such as: 1) the direct assertions of Paul’s authorship (1:1; 2:18); 2) the letter’s perfect correlation with Paul’s travels in Acts 16–18; 3) the multitude of intimate details regarding Paul; and 4) the confirmation by multiple, early historical verifications starting with Marcion’s canon in A.D. 140.

The first of Paul’s two letters written from Corinth to the church at Thessalonica is dated c. A.D. 51. This date has been archeologically verified by an inscription in the temple of Apollo at Delphi (near Corinth), which dates Gallio’s service as proconsul in Achaia to A.D. 51–52 (Acts 18:12–17). Since Paul’s letter to the churches of Galatia was probably written c. A.D. 49–50, this was his second piece of canonical correspondence.

Background and Setting

Thessalonica (modern Salonica) lies near the ancient site of Therma on the Thermaic Gulf at the northern reaches of the Aegean Sea. This city became the capital of Macedonia (c. 168 B.C.) and enjoyed the status of a “free city,” which was ruled by its own citizenry (Acts 17:6) under the Roman Empire. Because it was located on the main east-west highway, Via Egnatia, Thessalonica served as the hub of political and commercial activity in Macedonia, and became known as “the mother of all Macedonia.” The population in Paul’s day reached 200,000 people.

Paul had originally traveled 100 miles from Philippi via Amphipolis and Apollonia to Thessalonica on his second missionary journey (A.D. 50; Acts 16:1–18:22). As his custom was upon arrival, he sought out the synagogue in which to teach the local Jews the gospel (Acts 17:1–2). On that occasion, he dialogued with them from the OT concerning Christ’s death and resurrection in order to prove that Jesus of Nazareth was truly the promised Messiah (Acts 17:2–3). Some Jews believed and soon after, Hellenistic proselytes and some wealthy women of the community also were converted (Acts 17:4). Mentioned among these new believers were Jason (Acts 17:5), Gaius (Acts 19:29), Aristarchus (Acts 20:4), and Secundus (Acts 20:4).

Because of their effective ministry, the Jews had Paul’s team evicted from the city (Acts 17:5–9), so they went south to evangelize Berea (Acts 17:10). There Paul had a similar experience to Thessalonica with conversions followed by hostility, so the believers sent Paul away. He headed for Athens, while Silvanus and Timothy remained in Berea (Acts 17:11–14). They rejoined Paul in Athens (cf. Acts 17:15–16 with 1 Thess. 3:1), from which Timothy was later dispatched back to Thessalonica (3:2). Apparently, Silas afterwards traveled from Athens to Philippi while Paul journeyed on alone to Corinth (Acts 18:1). It was after Timothy and Silvanus rejoined Paul in Corinth (Acts 18:5), that he wrote 1 Thessalonians in response to Timothy’s good report of the church.

Paul undoubtedly had multiple reasons for writing, all coming out of his supreme concern for the flock from which he had been separated. Some of Paul’s purposes clearly included: 1) encouraging the church (1 Thess. 1:2–10); 2) answering false allegations (2:1–12); 3) comforting the persecuted flock (2:13–16); 4) expressing his joy in their faith (2:17–3:13); 5) reminding them of the importance of moral purity (4:1–8); 6) condemning the sluggard lifestyle (4:9–12); 7) correcting a wrong understanding of prophetic events (4:13–5:11); 8) defusing tensions within the flock (5:12–15); and 9) exhorting the flock in the basics of Christian living (5:16–22).

Historical and Theological Themes

Both letters to Thessalonica have been referred to as “the eschatological epistles.” However, in light of their more extensive focus upon the church, they would better be categorized as the church epistles. Five major themes are woven together in 1 Thessalonians: 1) an apologetic theme with the historical correlation between Acts and 1 Thessalonians; 2) an ecclesiastical theme with the portrayal of a healthy, growing church; 3) a pastoral theme with the example of shepherding activities and attitudes; 4) an eschatological theme with the focus on future events as the church’s hope; and 5) a missionary theme with the emphasis on gospel proclamation and church planting.

Interpretive Challenges

Primarily the challenges for understanding this epistle involve the sections that are eschatological in nature: 1) the coming wrath (1:10; 5:9); 2) Christ’s return (2:19; 3:13; 4:15; 5:23); 3) the rapture of the church (4:13–18); and 4) the meaning and time of the day of the Lord (5:1–11).

THE FIRST LETTER OF PAUL TO THE THESSALONIANS

1 Thessalonians

Greeting

1 THESSALONIANS 1 †Paul, Silvanus, and Timothy,

To the church of the Thessalonians in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ:

Grace to you and peace.

The Thessalonians' Faith and Example

<sup>2</sup>†We give thanks to God always for all of you, constantly [\[1\]](#) mentioning you in our prayers, <sup>3</sup>†remembering before our God and Father your work of faith and labor of love and steadfastness of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ. <sup>4</sup>†For we know, brothers [\[2\]](#) loved by God, that he has chosen you, <sup>5</sup>†because our gospel came to you not only in word, but also in power and in the Holy Spirit and with full conviction. You know what kind of men we proved to be among you for your sake. <sup>6</sup>†And you became imitators of us and of the Lord, for you received the word in much affliction, with the joy of the Holy Spirit, <sup>7</sup>†so that you became an example to all the believers in Macedonia and in Achaia. <sup>8</sup>†For not only has the word of the Lord sounded forth from you in Macedonia and Achaia, but your faith in God has gone forth everywhere, so that we need not say anything. <sup>9</sup>†For they themselves report concerning us the kind of reception we had among you, and how you turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God, <sup>10</sup>†and to wait for his Son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, Jesus who delivers us from the wrath to come.

Paul's Ministry to the Thessalonians

1 THESSALONIANS 2 †For you yourselves know, brothers, [\[1\]](#) that our coming to you was not in vain. †But though we had already suffered and been shamefully treated at Philippi, as you know, we had boldness in our God to declare to you the gospel of God in the midst of much conflict. †For our appeal does not spring from error or impurity or any attempt to deceive, †but just as we have been approved by God to be entrusted with the gospel, so we speak, not to please man, but to please God who tests our hearts. †For we never came with words of flattery, [\[2\]](#) as you know, nor with a pretext for greed—God is witness. †Nor did we seek glory from people, whether from you or from others, though we could have made demands as apostles of Christ. †But we were gentle [\[3\]](#) among you, like a nursing mother taking care of her own children. †So, being affectionately desirous of you, we were ready to share with you not only the gospel of God but also our own selves, because you had become very dear to us.

†For you remember, brothers, our labor and toil: we worked night and day, that we might not be a burden to any of you, while we proclaimed to you the gospel of God. †You are witnesses, and God also, how holy and righteous and blameless was our conduct toward you believers. †For you know how, like a father with his children, †we exhorted each one of you and encouraged you and charged you to walk in a manner worthy of God, who calls you into his own kingdom and glory.

†And we also thank God constantly [\[4\]](#) for this, that when you received the word of God, which you heard from us, you accepted it not as the word of men but as what it really is, the word of God, which is at work in you believers.

†For you, brothers, became imitators of the churches of God in Christ Jesus that are in Judea. For you suffered the same things from your own countrymen as they did from the Jews, ††who killed both the Lord Jesus and the prophets, and drove us out, and displease God and oppose all mankind †by hindering us from speaking to the Gentiles that they might be saved—so as always to fill up the measure of their sins. But God's wrath has come upon them at last! [\[5\]](#)

Paul's Longing to See Them Again

†But since we were torn away from you, brothers, for a short time, in person not in heart, we endeavored the more eagerly and with great desire to see you face to face, <sup>18</sup>† because we wanted to come to you—I, Paul, again and again—but Satan hindered us. <sup>19</sup>† For what is our hope or joy or crown of boasting before our Lord Jesus at his coming? Is it not you? <sup>20</sup> For you are our glory and joy.

1 THESSALONIANS 3 †Therefore when we could bear it no longer, we were willing to be left behind at Athens alone, <sup>2</sup>†and we sent Timothy, our brother and God's coworker [1] in the gospel of Christ, to establish and exhort you in your faith, <sup>3</sup>†that no one be moved by these afflictions. For you yourselves know that we are destined for this. <sup>4</sup>†For when we were with you, we kept telling you beforehand that we were to suffer affliction, just as it has come to pass, and just as you know. <sup>5</sup>†For this reason, when I could bear it no longer, I sent to learn about your faith, for fear that somehow the tempter had tempted you and our labor would be in vain.

Timothy's Encouraging Report

<sup>6</sup>†But now that Timothy has come to us from you, and has brought us the good news of your faith and love and reported that you always remember us kindly and long to see us, as we long to see you— <sup>7</sup>for this reason, brothers, [2] in all our distress and affliction we have been comforted about you through your faith. <sup>8</sup>†For now we live, if you are standing fast in the Lord. <sup>9</sup>†For what thanksgiving can we return to God for you, for all the joy that we feel for your sake before our God, <sup>10</sup>†as we pray most earnestly night and day that we may see you face to face and supply what is lacking in your faith?

<sup>11</sup>†Now may our God and Father himself, and our Lord Jesus, direct our way to you, <sup>12</sup>†and may the Lord make you increase and abound in love for one another and for all, as we do for you, <sup>13</sup>†so that he may establish your hearts blameless in holiness before our God and Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus with all his saints.

A Life Pleasing to God

1 THESSALONIANS 4 †Finally, then, brothers, [\[1\]](#) we ask and urge you in the Lord Jesus, that as you received from us how you ought to walk and to please God, just as you are doing, that you do so more and more. <sup>2</sup>For you know what instructions we gave you through the Lord Jesus. <sup>3</sup>†For this is the will of God, your sanctification: [\[2\]](#) that you abstain from sexual immorality; <sup>4</sup>†that each one of you know how to control his own body [\[3\]](#) in holiness and honor, <sup>5</sup>†not in the passion of lust like the Gentiles who do not know God; <sup>6</sup>†that no one transgress and wrong his brother in this matter, because the Lord is an avenger in all these things, as we told you beforehand and solemnly warned you. <sup>7</sup>†For God has not called us for impurity, but in holiness. <sup>8</sup>†Therefore whoever disregards this, disregards not man but God, who gives his Holy Spirit to you.

<sup>9</sup>†Now concerning brotherly love you have no need for anyone to write to you, for you yourselves have been taught by God to love one another, <sup>10</sup>for that indeed is what you are doing to all the brothers throughout Macedonia. But we urge you, brothers, to do this more and more, <sup>11</sup>†and to aspire to live quietly, and to mind your own affairs, and to work with your hands, as we instructed you, <sup>12</sup>†so that you may walk properly before outsiders and be dependent on no one.

The Coming of the Lord

<sup>13</sup>††But we do not want you to be uninformed, brothers, about those who are asleep, that you may not grieve as others do who have no hope. <sup>14</sup>†For since we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so, through Jesus, God will bring with him those who have fallen asleep. <sup>15</sup>†For this we declare to you by a word from the Lord, [\[4\]](#) that we who are alive, who are left until the coming of the Lord, will not precede those who have fallen asleep. <sup>16</sup>†For the Lord himself will descend from heaven with a cry of command, with the voice of an archangel, and with the sound of the trumpet of God. And the dead in Christ will rise first. <sup>17</sup>†Then we who are alive, who are left, will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so we will always be with the Lord. <sup>18</sup>†Therefore encourage one another with these words.

The Day of the Lord

1 THESSALONIANS 5 † Now concerning the times and the seasons, brothers, [\[1\]](#) you have no need to have anything written to you. 2 † For you yourselves are fully aware that the day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night. 3 † While people are saying, “There is peace and security,” then sudden destruction will come upon them as labor pains come upon a pregnant woman, and they will not escape. 4 † But you are not in darkness, brothers, for that day to surprise you like a thief. 5 † For you are all children [\[2\]](#) of light, children of the day. We are not of the night or of the darkness. 6 † So then let us not sleep, as others do, but let us keep awake and be sober. 7 For those who sleep, sleep at night, and those who get drunk, are drunk at night. 8 † But since we belong to the day, let us be sober, having put on the breastplate of faith and love, and for a helmet the hope of salvation. 9 † For God has not destined us for wrath, but to obtain salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ, 10 † who died for us so that whether we are awake or asleep we might live with him. 11 Therefore encourage one another and build one another up, just as you are doing.

Final Instructions and Benediction

12 † We ask you, brothers, to respect those who labor among you and are over you in the Lord and admonish you, 13 † and to esteem them very highly in love because of their work. Be at peace among yourselves. 14 † And we urge you, brothers, admonish the idle, [\[3\]](#) encourage the fainthearted, help the weak, be patient with them all. 15 See that no one repays anyone evil for evil, but always seek to do good to one another and to everyone. 16 † † Rejoice always, 17 † pray without ceasing, 18 † give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you. 19 † Do not quench the Spirit. 20 † Do not despise prophecies, 21 † but test everything; hold fast what is good. 22 Abstain from every form of evil.

23 † Now may the God of peace himself sanctify you completely, and may your whole spirit and soul and body be kept blameless at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. 24 † He who calls you is faithful; he will surely do it.

25 Brothers, pray for us.

26 † Greet all the brothers with a holy kiss.

<sup>27</sup>† I put you under oath before the Lord to have this letter read to all the brothers.

Later he served in Ephesus (1 Tim. 1:3) and spent some time in prison (Heb. 13:23). Paul’s first letter to Timothy, while he was ministering in the church at Ephesus, instructed him regarding life in the church (cf. 1 Tim. 3:15). In his second letter, Paul called Timothy to be strong (2 Tim. 2:1) and faithfully preach as he faced death and was about to turn his ministry over to Timothy (2 Tim. 4:1–8). God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. Since Paul’s initial converts were Jewish, he made it unmistakably clear that this “church” was not a Jewish assembly, but rather one that gathered in the name of Jesus, the Son of God (Acts 17:2–3), who is both Lord God and Messiah. This emphasis on the equality between God and the Lord Jesus is a part of the introduction in all Paul’s epistles (cf. 1 John 2:23).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:2 our prayers. Paul and his companions prayed frequently for the entire flock, and three of those prayers are offered in this letter (1:2–3; 3:11–13; 5:23–24).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:3 work of faith. The threefold combination of faith, hope, and love is a Pauline favorite (5:8; 1 Cor. 13:13; Col. 1:4–5). Paul refers here to the fulfillment of ministry duties that resulted from these three spiritual attitudes (cf. 1 Thess. 1:9–10).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:4 he has chosen you. The church is commonly called “the elect” (cf. Rom. 8:33; Col. 3:12; 2 Tim. 2:10; Titus 1:1). In salvation, the initiating will is God’s, not man’s (cf. John 1:13; Acts 13:46–48; Rom. 9:15–16; 1 Cor. 1:30; Col. 1:13; 2 Thess. 2:13; 1 Pet. 1:1–2; see notes on Eph. 1:4–5). Man’s will participates in response to God’s promptings, as Paul makes clear when he says the Thessalonians received the word (1 Thess. 1:6) and they turned to God from idols (v. 9). These two responses describe faith and repentance, which God repeatedly calls sinners to throughout Scripture (e.g., Acts 20:21).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:5 our gospel. Paul called his message “our gospel,” because it was for him and all sinners to believe and especially for him to preach. He knew it did not originate with him, but was divinely authored; thus he also called it “the gospel of God” (2:2, 9; Rom. 1:1). Because the person who made forgiveness possible is the Lord Jesus, he also referred to it as “the gospel of Christ” (1 Thess. 3:2). only in word. It had to come in word (cf. Rom. 10:13–17), and not word only, but in Holy Spirit power (cf. 2 Cor. 2:4–5) and in confidence (cf. Isa. 55:11). what kind of men. The quality of the message was confirmed by the character of the lives of the preachers. Paul’s exemplary life served as an open book for all men to read, establishing the credibility of the power and grace of God essential to making the message of redemption believable to sinners (see note on 2 Cor. 1:12).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:6 imitators. The Thessalonians had become third generation mimics of Christ. Christ is the first; Paul is the second; and the Thessalonians are the third (1 Cor. 4:16; 11:1). joy of the Holy Spirit. Cf. Rom. 14:17. Joy in the midst of suffering evidenced the reality of their salvation, which included the indwelling Holy Spirit (1 Cor. 3:16; 6:19).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:7 example. The Greek word was used to describe a seal that marked wax or a stamp that minted coins. Paul commended the Thessalonians for being model believers leaving their mark on others. in Macedonia and in Achaia. The two Roman provinces that comprised Greece, Macedonia being to the north and Achaia to the south.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:8 sounded forth. The idea is to reverberate. Wherever the Thessalonians went, the gospel given by the word of the Lord was heard. It resulted in a local outreach to Thessalonica, a national outreach to Macedonia and Achaia, and an international outreach to regions beyond. we need not say anything. Though it may appear that this church developed such a testimony in only three Sabbaths of preaching (cf. Acts 17:2) spanning as little as 15 days, it is better to understand that Paul preached three Sabbaths in the synagogue before he had to relocate elsewhere in the city. In all likelihood, Paul spent months not weeks, which accounts for: 1) the two collections he received from Philippi (Phil. 4:16); 2) the time he worked night and day (1 Thess. 2:9; 2 Thess. 3:8); and 3) the depth of pastoral care evidenced in the letter (1 Thess. 2:7–8, 11).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:9 turned. This word describes what the Bible elsewhere calls repentance (Matt. 3:1–2; 4:17; Acts 2:38; 3:19; 5:31; 20:21). Salvation involves a person’s turning from sin and trusting in false gods to Christ. See notes on 2 Cor. 7:8–11. to serve the living and true God. Those converted to Christ abandoned the worship of dead idols to become willing slaves to the living God.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:10 to wait. This is a recurring theme in the Thessalonian letters (3:13; 4:15–17; 5:8, 23; 2 Thess. 3:6–13; cf. Acts 1:11; 2 Tim. 4:8; Titus 2:11–13). These passages indicate the imminency of the deliverance; it was something Paul felt could happen in their lifetime. delivers us from the wrath to come. This can mean to evacuate out of a current distress (Rom. 7:24; Col. 1:13) or to exempt from entering into a distress (John 12:27; 2 Cor. 1:10). The wrath can refer either to God’s temporal wrath to come on the earth (Rev. 6:16–17; 19:15) or to God’s eternal wrath (John 3:36; Rom. 5:9–10). First Thessalonians 5:9 develops the same idea (see note there). The emphasis in both passages on Christ’s work of salvation from sin favors this being understood as the deliverance from the eternal wrath of God in hell because of salvation.

The Spread of Christianity in the First Two Centuries

The stability, relative safety in travel, and universal system of laws and government of the Roman Empire helped in the spread of the gospel throughout the first few centuries of the Christian church. Christianity first centered around Jerusalem and Syria, but soon spread to Asia, Achaia, and even Rome. Despite persecution, Christians during the second century a.d. continued to carry the gospel to places as far as Spain, Gallia, and North Africa. Eventually even Roman emperors came to recognize Christianity as a legal religion and sponsored many of its activities.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:1 not in vain. Paul’s ministry among the Thessalonians was so fruitful that not only were people saved and a vibrant, reproducing church planted, but the church also grew and flourished even after Paul left (cf. 1:5–8).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:2 shamefully treated at Philippi. Paul and Silas had been brutalized in Philippi before coming to Thessalonica (cf. Acts 16:19–24, 37). They suffered physically when beaten (Acts 16:22–23) and incarcerated (Acts 16:24). They were arrogantly mistreated with false accusations (Acts 16:20–21) and illegally punished in spite of their Roman citizenship (Acts 16:37). much conflict. Like their treatment in Philippi, Paul’s team was falsely accused of civil treason in Thessalonica (Acts 17:7) and suffered physical intimidation (Acts 17:5–6).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:3 error or impurity . . . deceive. Paul used three distinctly different words to affirm the truthfulness of his ministry, each expressing a contrast with what was characteristic of false teachers. He first asserted that “his message” was true and not erroneously false. His “manner of life” was pure, not sexually wicked. His “method of ministry” was authentic, not deceptive (see notes on 2 Cor. 4:2).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:4 approved by God. It could be that some false teachers came into the church to discredit Paul’s ministry. This would account for his emphasis in vv. 1–12 on his divine appointment, approval, integrity, and devotion to the Thessalonians. Cf. Acts 9:15; 16:9–10.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:5–6 words of flattery. Paul used three disclaimers to affirm the purity of his motives for ministry: 1) he denied being a smooth-talking preacher who tried to make favorable impressions in order to gain influence for selfish advantage; 2) he did not pretend to be poor and work night and day (cf. v. 9) as a pretense to get rich in the ministry at their expense; and 3) he didn’t use his honored position as an apostle to seek personal glory, only God’s glory (cf. 1 Cor. 10:31).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:7–8 gentle . . . like a nursing mother. Paul may have had in mind Moses’ portrayal of himself as a nursing mother to Israel (cf. Num. 11:12). He used the same tender picture with the Corinthians (cf. 2 Cor. 12:14–15) and the Galatians (cf. Gal. 4:19). Paul’s affection for the Thessalonians was like that felt by a mother willing to sacrifice her life for her child, as was Christ who was willing to give up his own life for those who would be born again into the family of God (cf. Matt. 20:28).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:9 worked night and day. Paul explained this in 2 Thess. 3:7–9. He did not ask for any money from the Thessalonians but rather lived on what he earned and what the Philippians sent (Phil. 4:16), so that his motives could not be questioned, unlike the false teachers who always sought money (cf. 1 Pet. 5:2). the gospel of God. Cf. Rom. 1:1. The good news from God that Paul preached included these truths: 1) the authority and truthfulness of Scripture (1 Thess. 2:13); 2) the deity of Christ (Rom. 10:9); 3) the sinfulness of mankind (Rom. 3:23); 4) Christ’s death and resurrection (1 Cor. 15:4–5); and 5) salvation by God’s grace through man’s faith (Eph. 2:8–9). Paul’s summary of the gospel is in 1 Cor. 15:1–5.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:10 You are witnesses. Under OT law it took two or more witnesses to verify truth (Num. 35:30; Deut. 17:6; 19:15; 2 Cor. 13:1).

Here Paul called on both the Thessalonians and God as witnesses to affirm his holy conduct in the ministry. Cf. 2 Cor. 1:12.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:12 exhorted . . . encouraged . . . charged. Paul used these three words to describe his fatherly relationship with the Thessalonians since they were his children in the faith. They emphasized the personal touch of a loving father (cf. 1 Cor. 4:14–15). his own kingdom and glory. This speaks of the sphere of eternal salvation (cf. Col. 1:13–14) culminating in the splendor of heaven.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:13 the word of God. Paul's message from God is equated with the OT (Mark 7:13). It was the message taught by the apostles (Acts 4:31; 6:2). Peter preached it to the Gentiles (Acts 11:1). It was the word Paul preached on his first missionary journey (Acts 13:5, 7, 44, 48–49), his second (Acts 16:32; 17:13; 18:11), and his third (Acts 19:10). Cf. Col. 1:25. which is at work. The work of God's word includes: saving (Rom. 10:17; 1 Pet. 1:23); teaching and training (2 Tim. 3:16–17); guiding (Ps. 119:105); counseling (Ps. 119:24); reviving (Ps. 119:154); restoring (Ps. 19:7); warning and rewarding (Ps. 19:11); nourishing (1 Pet. 2:2); judging (Heb. 4:12); sanctifying (John 17:17); freeing (John 8:31–32); enriching (Col. 3:16); protecting (Ps. 119:11); strengthening (Ps. 119:28); making wise (Ps. 119:97–100); rejoicing the heart (Ps. 19:8); and prospering (Josh. 1:8–9). All this is summarized in Ps. 19:7–9 (see notes there).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:14 imitators. Not only were the Thessalonians imitators of Paul and the Lord (cf. 1:6), but also of the churches in Judea in the sense that they both were persecuted for Christ's sake (cf. Acts 4:1–4; 5:26; 8:1). They drank Christ's cup of suffering (Matt. 26:39) and walked in the way of the OT prophets (Matt. 21:33–46; Luke 13:34).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:15 who killed . . . the Lord Jesus. There is no question that the Jews were responsible for the death of their Messiah, though the Romans carried out the execution. It was the Jews who brought the case against him and demanded his death (cf. Luke 23:1–24, 34–38), just as they had killed the prophets (cf. Acts 7:51–52).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:15–16 oppose all mankind. Just as it is God's will that all men be saved (1 Tim. 2:4; 2 Pet. 3:9), so it was the will of the Jews that no one find salvation in Christ (1 Thess. 2:16). Paul at one time had embraced this blasphemy of trying to prevent gospel preaching (cf. 1 Tim. 1:12–17).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:16 wrath has come upon them. God’s wrath (cf. 1:10; 5:9) on the Jews who “fill up the measure of their sins” (cf. Matt. 23:32; Rom. 2:5), thus filling up the cup of wrath, can be understood: 1) historically of the Babylonian exile (Ezek. 8–11); 2) prophetically of Jerusalem’s destruction in A.D. 70; 3) eschatologically of Christ’s second coming in judgment (Rev. 19); or 4) soteriologically in the sense that God’s promised eternal wrath for unbelievers is so certain that it is spoken of as having come already, as does the apostle John (cf. John 3:18, 36). This context relates to the fourth option.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:17 torn away. Paul had been forcedly separated from his spiritual children (cf. Acts 17:5–9). His motherly (1 Thess. 2:7) and fatherly instincts (v. 11) had been dealt a severe blow. Lit., the Thessalonians had been orphaned by Paul’s forced departure.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:18 Satan hindered us. Satan, which means “adversary,” continually attempted to tear down the church that Christ promised to build (cf. Matt. 16:18). He was said to be present at the churches of Jerusalem (Acts 5:1–10), Smyrna (Rev. 2:9–10), Pergamum (Rev. 2:13), Thyatira (Rev. 2:24), Philadelphia (Rev. 3:9), Ephesus (1 Tim. 3:6–7), and Corinth (2 Cor. 2:1–11). He thwarted Paul in the sense that a military foe would hinder the advance of his enemy. This could very possibly refer to the pledge that Jason made (Acts 17:9), if that pledge was a promise that Paul would not return to Thessalonica.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:19 crown of boasting. The Bible speaks of eternal life like a wreath awarded for an athletic victory. It is spoken of in terms of: 1) the imperishable wreath that celebrates salvation’s victory over corruption (1 Cor. 9:25); 2) the righteous wreath that celebrates salvation’s victory over unrighteousness (2 Tim. 4:8); 3) the unfading wreath of glory that celebrates salvation’s victory over defilement (1 Pet. 5:4); 4) the wreath of life that celebrates salvation’s victory over death (James 1:12, Rev. 2:10); and here 5) the wreath of exultation, which celebrates salvation’s victory over Satan and mankind’s persecution of believers. at his coming. “Coming,” or parousia, lit. means “to be present.” It can be understood as: 1) actual presence (Phil. 2:2); 2) moment of arrival (1 Cor. 16:17); or 3) expected coming (2 Cor. 7:6). In regard to Christ and the future, it can refer to: 1) Christ’s coming at the rapture (1 Thess. 4:15), or 2) Christ’s second coming prior to his 1,000-year millennial reign (Matt. 24:37; Rev. 19:11–20:6). Paul referred directly to Christ's coming four times in 1 Thessalonians (see also 1 Thess. 3:13; 4:15; 5:23) and once indirectly (1:10). Context indicates Paul most likely refers here to Christ's coming for the rapture of the church.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:1 bear it no longer. The agony of separation between spiritual parent Paul and his children in Thessalonica became unbearably painful (cf. v. 5). at Athens alone. Paul and Silas stayed behind while Timothy returned (v. 2). This would not be the last time that Timothy went to a church in Paul's place (cf. 1 Cor. 4:17; 16:10; Phil. 2:19–24; 1 Tim. 1:3).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:2 establish . . . exhort . . . your faith. This was a common ministry concern and practice of Paul's (cf. Acts 14:22; 15:32; 18:23). Paul's concern did not focus on health, wealth, self-esteem, or ease of life, but rather the spiritual quality of life. Their faith was of supreme importance in Paul's mind as evidenced by five mentions in 1 Thess. 3:1–10 (see also 3:5–7, 10). Faith includes the foundation of the body of doctrine (cf. Jude 3) and their believing response to God in living out that truth (cf. Heb. 11:6).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:3 destined. God had promised Paul future sufferings when he commended him to ministry through Ananias (Acts 9:16). Paul reminded the Thessalonians of this divine appointment so that they would not think that: 1) God's plan was not working out as evidenced by Paul's troubles, or 2) Paul's afflictions demonstrated God's displeasure with him. To think that way would upset the church's confidence in Paul and fulfill Satan's deceptive purposes (1 Thess. 3:5). Cf. 2 Cor. 4:8–15; 6:1–10; 11:23–27; 12:7–10.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:4 suffer affliction. Paul had told them to expect him to suffer as he had already suffered before his Thessalonian experience (2:14–16; Acts 13–14). During (Acts 17:1–9) and following (Acts 17:10–18:11) his time at Thessalonica, Paul also knew tribulation.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:5 the tempter. Satan had already been characterized as a hinderer (2:18) and now as a tempter in the sense of trying/testing for the purpose of causing failure (cf. Matt. 4:3; 1 Cor. 7:5; James 1:12–18). Paul was not ignorant of Satan's schemes (2 Cor. 2:11; 11:23) nor vulnerable to his methods (Eph. 6:11), so Paul took action to counterattack Satan's expected maneuver and to assure that all his efforts were not useless (cf.

1 Thess. 2:1).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:6 your faith and love. Timothy returned to report the Thessalonians' trust in God, their response to one another, and to Paul's ministry. This news convinced Paul that Satan's plans to disrupt God's work had not been successful, and settled Paul's anxiety (v. 7).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:8 standing fast. Pictured here is an army that refuses to retreat even though it is being assaulted by the enemy. This is a frequent Pauline injunction (1 Cor. 16:13; Gal. 5:1; Eph. 6:11, 13–14; Phil. 1:27; 4:1; 2 Thess. 2:15).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:9 joy. Paul, like John (3 John 4), found the highest sense of ministry joy in knowing that his children in the faith were growing and walking in the truth. It led him to the worship of God in thanksgiving and rejoicing.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:10 pray. As to frequency, Paul prayed night and day just as he worked night and day (2:9). As to fervency, Paul prayed superabundantly (cf. Eph. 3:20). lacking. Paul was not criticizing the church but rather acknowledging that they had not yet reached their full potential, for which he prayed and labored (1 Thess. 3:10). The themes of chs. 4–5 deal with areas of this lack.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:11 direct our way. Paul knew that Satan had hindered his return (2:18). Even though Timothy had visited and returned with a good report, Paul still felt the urgency to see his spiritual children again. Paul followed the biblical admonition of the Psalms (Ps. 37:1–5) and Proverbs (Prov. 3:5–6) to entrust difficult situations to God.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:12 love for one another. With over 30 positive and negative “one anothers” in the NT, love appears by far most frequently (cf. 4:9; Rom. 12:10; 13:8; 2 Thess. 1:3; 1 Pet. 1:22; 1 John 3:11, 23; 4:7, 11; 2 John 5). It is the overarching term that includes all of the other “one anothers.” Its focus is on believers in the church. for all. In light of the fact that God loved the world and sent his Son to die for human sin (John 3:16), believers who were loved when they were unlovely (Rom. 5:8) are to love unbelievers (see notes on Matt. 5:43–44). Other NT commands concerning all men include pursuing peace (Rom. 12:18), doing good (Gal. 6:10), being patient (Phil. 4:5), praying (1 Tim.

2:1), showing consideration (Titus 3:2), and honoring (1 Pet. 2:17).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:13 blameless in holiness. Paul prayed that there would be no grounds of accusation because of unholiness. Cf. 1 Cor. 1:8; 2 Cor. 11:2; Eph. 5:25–27; 1 Pet. 4:16–17; Jude 24. his saints. Since this exact term is not used elsewhere in the NT of angels (see note on Jude 14), but is commonly used for believers, it is best to understand the coming of the Lord to rapture all his church (see notes on 1 Thess. 4:13–18) and take them to heaven to enjoy his presence (see notes on John 14:1–3).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:1 in the Lord Jesus. To give added weight to his words, Paul appealed here to the fact that he wrote with the authority of Christ himself (see vv. 2, 15; 5:27; 2 Thess. 3:6, 12). please God. Cf. 1 Thess. 2:4, 15; 2 Cor. 5:9; Eph. 5:10, 17; Col. 1:10; Heb. 11:6; 13:15–16; 1 John 3:22. This is done by obedience to the word of God (cf. 1 Thess. 4:3).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:3 the will of God. All of God’s word contains God’s will—both affirmations and prohibitions. Specifically, God’s will includes salvation (1 Tim. 2:4); self-sacrifice (Rom. 12:1–2); Spirit filling (Eph. 5:18); submission (1 Pet. 2:13–15); suffering (1 Pet. 3:17); satisfaction (1 Thess. 5:18); settledness (Heb. 10:36); and particularly here—sanctification, which literally refers to a state of being set apart from sin to holiness. In this context, it means being set apart from sexual impurity in particular, holding oneself away from immorality by following the instruction in 1 Thess. 4:4–8.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:4 control his own body. (See esv footnote.) Two interpretations are usually offered. The term can mean: 1) the wife (cf. Ruth 4:10 lxx; 1 Pet. 3:7), which one acquires, or 2) the body (2 Cor. 4:7; 2 Tim. 2:21), which one possesses. The latter is most likely since: 1) the reference in 1 Pet. 3:7 is used only in a comparative sense (“someone weaker”) referring to general humanity, not femaleness; 2) being married does not guarantee sexual purity; 3) Paul would be contradicting what he taught in 1 Cor. 7 about the superlative state of singleness (cf. 1 Cor. 7:8–9); and 4) if taken in the sense of marrying a wife, Paul would be talking to men only and ignoring how women were to stay pure. Cf. note on 1 Cor. 9:27.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:5 the Gentiles. Used here in a spiritual sense referring to non-Christians, and indicated by the defining statement, “who do not know God.” See notes on Eph. 4:17–18.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:6 wrong his brother. The context, which remains unchanged throughout vv. 1–8, demands that this refer to all the destructive social and spiritual implications of illegitimate sexual activity. See notes on Matt. 18:6–10. avenger. This means it is God who ultimately works out just recompense for such sins (cf. Col. 3:4–7; Heb. 13:4).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:7 called us. Whenever the epistles refer to the “call” of God, it is always a reference to his effectual, saving call, never to a general plea. It is linked to justification (cf. Rom. 8:30).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:8 gives his Holy Spirit to you. God’s Spirit is a free gift to all who believe in the Lord Jesus Christ for salvation. Cf. Acts 2:38; Rom. 8:9; 1 Cor. 3:16; 12:13; 2 Cor. 6:16.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:9–10 taught by God to love. Through God’s word (Ps. 119:97–102) and by God himself, they were loving believers (cf. Rom. 5:5; 1 John 2:7–11; 3:14; 4:7–8, 12).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:11 live quietly. This refers to one who does not present social problems (see note on 1 Tim. 2:2) or generate conflict among those people in his life, but whose soul rests easy even in the midst of difficulty (cf. 1 Pet. 3:4). Paul later deals with those who did not “mind their own affairs” at Thessalonica (cf. 2 Thess. 3:6–15). work with your hands. Greek culture looked down on manual labor but Paul exalts it (see note on Eph. 4:28).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:12 outsiders. Non-Christians are in view here (cf. 1 Cor. 5:2; Col. 4:5; 1 Tim. 3:7).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:13–18 Even though Paul’s ministry in Thessalonica was brief, it is clear the people had come to believe in and hope for the reality of their Savior’s return (cf. 1:3, 9–10; 2:19; 5:1–2; 2 Thess. 2:1, 5). They were living in expectation of that coming, eagerly awaiting Christ. Verse 13 of 1 Thess. 4 (cf. 2 Thess. 2:1–3) indicates they were even agitated about some things that were happening to them that might affect their participation in it. They knew Christ’s return was the climactic event in redemptive history and didn’t want to miss it. The major question they had was, “What happens to the Christians who die before he comes? Do they miss his return?” Clearly, they had an imminent view of Christ’s return, and Paul had left the impression it could happen in their lifetime. Their confusion came as they were being persecuted, an experience they thought they were to be delivered from by the Lord's return (cf. 1 Thess. 3:3–4).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:13 those who are asleep. Sleep is the familiar NT euphemism for death, which describes the appearance of the deceased (see note on 1 Cor. 11:30). It describes the dead body, not the soul (cf. 2 Cor. 5:1–9; Phil. 1:23). Sleep is used of Jarius's daughter (Matt. 9:24) whom Jesus raised from the dead and Stephen who was stoned to death (Acts 7:60; cf. John 11:11; 1 Cor. 7:39; 15:6, 18, 51; 2 Pet. 3:4). Those who sleep are identified in 1 Thess. 4:16 as "the dead in Christ." The people, in ignorance, had come to the conclusion that those who die miss the Lord's return and they were grieved over their absence at such a glorious event. Thus the departure of a loved one brought great anguish to the soul. But there is no reason for Christians to sorrow when a brother dies as if some great loss to that person has come.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:14 God will bring with him. As Jesus died and rose, so also will those who die believing in him rise again so they can be taken to heaven with the Lord (see notes on John 14:1–3; 1 Cor. 15:51–58). These texts describe the rapture of the church, which takes place when Jesus comes to collect his redeemed and take them back to heaven. Those who have died before that time (called "those who have fallen asleep") will be gathered and taken back to heaven with the Lord.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:15 a word from the Lord. Was Paul referring to some saying of Jesus found in the Gospels? No. There are none exact or even close. The only explicit reference to the rapture in the Gospels is John 14:1–3. Some suggest that Jesus had said the words while on earth, their substance being recorded later in such places as Matt. 24:30–31 and John 6:39–40; 11:25–26. Similarities between this passage in 1 Thessalonians and the Gospel accounts include a trumpet (Matt. 24:31), a resurrection (John 1:26), and a gathering of the elect (Matt. 24:31). Yet dissimilarities between it and the canonical sayings of Christ far outweigh the resemblances. Some of the differences between Matt. 24:30–31 and 1 Thess. 4:15–17 are as follows: 1) in Matthew the Son of Man is coming on the clouds (but see Mark 13:26; Luke 21:27), in 1 Thessalonians ascending believers are in them; 2) in the former the angels gather, in the latter Christ does personally; 3) in the former nothing is said about resurrection, while in the latter this is the main theme; and 4) Matthew records nothing about the order of ascent, which is the principal lesson in Thessalonians. On the other hand, did he mean a statement of Jesus that was spoken but not recorded in the Gospels (Acts 20:35)? No. There is reason to conclude this since Paul affirmed that he taught the rapture as a heretofore hidden truth (1 Cor. 15:51), i.e., “a mystery.” Apparently, the Thessalonians were informed fully about the day of the Lord judgment (cf. 1 Thess. 5:1–2), but not the preceding event—the rapture of the church. Until Paul revealed it as the revelation from God to him, it had been a secret, with the only prior mention being Jesus’ teaching in John 14:1–3. This was new revelation of what had previously been an unrevealed mystery. we who are alive, who are left. This refers to Christians alive at the time of the rapture, those who live on this earth to see the coming of the Lord for his own. Since Paul didn’t know God’s timing, he lived and spoke as if it could happen in his lifetime. As with all early Christians, he believed the event was near (cf. Rom. 13:11; 1 Cor. 6:14; 10:11; 16:22; Phil. 3:20–21; 1 Tim. 6:14; Titus 2:13). Those alive at the rapture will follow those dead who rise first (1 Thess. 4:16).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:16 the Lord himself will descend. This fulfills the pledge of John 14:1–3 (cf. Acts 1:11). Until then, he remains in heaven (cf. 1 Thess. 1:10; Heb. 1:1–3). archangel. Very little is known about the organization or rank of angels (cf. Col. 1:17). While only Michael is named as an archangel (Jude 9), there seems to be more than one in the archangelic ranks (Dan. 10:13). Perhaps it is Michael, the archangel, whose voice is heard as he is identified with Israel’s resurrection in Dan. 12:1–3. At that moment (cf. 1 Cor. 15:52, “twinkling of an eye”), the dead rise first. They will not miss the rapture, but be the first participants. trumpet of God. Cf. 1 Cor. 15:52. This trumpet is not the judgment trumpets of Rev. 8–11, but is illustrated by the trumpet of Ex. 19:16–19, which called the people out of the camp to meet God. It will be a trumpet of deliverance (cf. Zeph. 1:16; Zech. 9:14).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:17 caught up. After the dead come forth, their spirits, already with the Lord (2 Cor. 5:8; Phil. 1:23), are now being joined to resurrected new bodies (see notes on 1 Cor. 15:35–50); the living Christians will be raptured, lit. “snatched away” (cf. John 10:28; Acts 8:39). This passage, along with John 14:1–3 and 1 Cor. 15:51–52, forms the biblical basis for “the rapture” of the church. The time of the rapture cannot be conclusively determined from this passage alone. However, when other texts such as Rev. 3:10 and John 14:3 are consulted and compared to the texts about Christ’s coming in judgment (Matt. 13:34–50; 24:29–44; Rev. 19:11–21) at the end of a seven-year tribulation, it has to be noted that there is a clear difference between the character of the “rapture” in that there is no mention of any judgment, while the other texts feature judgment. So then, it is best to understand that the rapture occurs at a time different from the coming of Christ in judgment. Thus, the rapture has been described as pre-tribulational (before the wrath of God unfolded in the judgments of Rev. 6–19). This event includes complete transformation (cf. 1 Cor. 15:51–52; Phil. 3:20–21) and union with the Lord Jesus Christ that never ends.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 4:18 encourage one another. The primary purpose of this passage is not to teach a scheme of prophecy, but rather to provide encouragement to those Christians whose loved ones have died. The comfort here is based on the following: 1) the dead will be resurrected and will participate in the Lord’s coming for his own; 2) when Christ comes the living will be reunited forever with their loved ones; and 3) they all will be with the Lord eternally (v. 17).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:1 Now. Paul used familiar Greek words here to indicate a change of topics within the same general subject of prophecy (cf. 4:9, 13; 1 Cor. 7:1, 25; 8:1; 12:1; 16:1). The expression here points to the idea that within the broader context of the end time coming of the Lord Jesus, the subject is changing from a discussion of the blessings of the rapture of believers to the judgment of unbelievers. times and the seasons. These two terms mean the measurement of time and the character of the times respectively (cf. Dan. 2:21; Acts 1:7). Many of them expected the Lord to come in their lifetime and were confused and grieved when their fellow believers died before his coming (see notes on 1 Thess. 4:13–18). They were concerned about the delay. Apparently, the Thessalonians knew all that God intended believers to know about coming judgment, and Paul had taught them what they hadn’t known about the rapture (4:13–18), so Paul exhorted them to live godly lives in light of coming judgment on the world, rather than to be distracted by probing into issues of prophetic timing. They could not know the timing of God’s final judgment, but they knew well that it was coming unexpectedly (5:2).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:2 day of the Lord. There are 19 indisputable uses of “the day of the Lord” in the OT and four in the NT (cf. Acts 2:20; 2 Thess. 2:2; 2 Pet. 3:10). The OT prophets used “day of the Lord” to describe near historical judgments (see Isa. 13:6–22; Ezek. 30:2–19; Joel 1:15; Amos 5:18–20; Zeph. 1:14–18) or far eschatological divine judgments (see Joel 2:30–32; 3:14; Zech. 14:1; Mal. 4:1, 5). It is also referred to as the “day of vengeance.” The NT calls it a day of “wrath,” day of “visitation,” and “the great day of God the Almighty” (Rev. 16:14). These are terrifying judgments from God (cf. Joel 2:30– 31; 2 Thess. 1:7–10) for the overwhelming sinfulness of the world. The future “day of the Lord” that unleashes God’s wrath falls into two parts: 1) the end of the seven-year tribulation period (cf. Rev. 19:11–21), and 2) the end of the Millennium. These two are actually 1,000 years apart and Peter refers to the end of the 1,000-year period in connection with the final “day of the Lord” (cf. 2 Pet. 3:10; Rev. 20:7–15). Here, Paul refers to that aspect of the “day of the Lord,” which concludes the tribulation period. a thief in the night. This phrase is never used to refer to the rapture of the church. It is used of Christ’s coming in judgment on the day of the Lord at the end of the seven-year tribulation, which is distinct from the rapture of the church (see note on 1 Thess. 4:15), and it is used of the judgment that concludes the Millennium (2 Pet. 3:10). As a thief comes unexpectedly and without warning, so will the day of the Lord come in both its final phases.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:3 peace and security. Just as false prophets of old fraudulently forecast a bright future, in spite of the imminence of God’s judgment (Jer. 6:14; 8:11; 14:13–14; Lam. 2:14; Ezek. 13:10, 16; Mic. 3:5), so they will again in future days just before the final day of the Lord destruction. labor pains. The Lord used this same illustration in the Olivet Discourse (see note on Matt. 24:8). It portrays the inevitability, suddenness, inescapable nature, and painfulness of the day of the Lord.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:4 But you . . . brothers. Paul dramatically shifts from the third person plural pronoun (three times in v. 3) to the second person plural. Because the church is raptured before the judgment of the day of the Lord, believers will not be present on earth to experience its terrors and destruction (v. 3). not in darkness. Believers have no part in the day of the Lord, because they have been delivered from the domain of darkness and transferred to the kingdom of light (Col. 1:13). Jesus taught that to believe in him would remove a person from spiritual darkness (John 8:12; 12:46). The contrast between believers and the lost is emphatic, and Paul draws it out all the way through 1 Thess. 5:7. Believers will not experience the wrath of God because they are different in nature. Unbelievers are in darkness (cf. v. 2, “in the night”), engulfed in mental, moral, and spiritual darkness because of sin and unbelief (cf. John 1:5; 3:19; 8:12; 2 Cor. 4:6; Eph. 4:17–18; 5:8, 11). All these people are children of Satan, (cf. John 8:44) who is called “the power of darkness” (Luke 22:53). The day of the Lord will overtake them suddenly and with deadly results.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:5 children of light. This is a Hebrew expression that characterizes believers as children of God, their heavenly Father, who is light and in whom is no darkness at all (1 John 1:5–7). Cf. Luke 16:8; John 8:12:12:36. Believers live in a completely different sphere of life than those who will be in the day of the Lord.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:6 let us not sleep. Because believers have been delivered from the domain of darkness, they are taken out of the night of sin and ignorance and put into the light of God. Because Christians are in the light, they should not sleep in spiritual indifference and comfort, but be alert to the spiritual issues around them. They are not to live like the sleeping, darkened people who will be jolted out of their coma by the day of the Lord (v. 7), but to live alert, balanced, godly lives under control of the truth.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:8 breastplate. Paul pictured the Christian life in military terms as being a life of soberness (alertness) and proper equipping. The “breastplate” covers the vital organs of the body. “Faith” is an essential protection against temptations, because it is trust in God’s promise, plan, and truth. It is unwavering belief in God’s word that protects us from temptation’s arrows. Looking at it negatively, it is unbelief that characterizes all sin. When believers sin, they have believed Satan’s lie. Love for God is essential, as perfect love for him yields perfect obedience to him. Elsewhere the warrior’s breastplate has been used to represent righteousness (Isa. 59:17; Eph. 6:14). Faith elsewhere is represented by a soldier’s shield (Eph. 6:16). The “helmet” is always associated with salvation in its future aspects (cf. Isa. 59:17; Eph. 6:17). Our future salvation is guaranteed, nothing can take it away (Rom. 13:11). Paul again combined faith, love, and hope (cf. 1 Thess. 1:3). See notes on Eph. 6:10–17.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:9 wrath. This is the same wrath referred to in 1:10 (see notes there). In this context (note especially the contrast), it appears obvious that this wrath refers to God’s eternal wrath, not his temporal wrath during the tribulation period (cf. Rom. 5:9).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:10 awake or asleep. This analogy goes back to 4:13–15 and refers to being physically alive or dead with the promise that, in either case, we will one day live together (cf. 4:17; John 14:1–3) forever with the Savior who died as the substitute for our sins. Cf. Rom. 4:9; Gal. 1:4; 2 Cor. 5:15, 21.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:12 respect. This means that the people are to know their pastors well enough to have an intimate appreciation for them and to respect them because of their value. The work of pastors is summarized in a threefold description that includes: 1) laboring, working to the point of exhaustion; 2) overseeing, lit. “standing before the flock to lead them in the way of righteousness”; and 3) instructing in the truths of God’s word. Cf. Heb. 13:7, 17.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:13 esteem. In addition to knowing pastors (see notes on v. 12), congregations are to think rightly and lovingly of their pastors, not because of their charm or personality, but because of the fact that they work for the Chief Shepherd as his special servants (cf. 1 Pet. 5:2–4). They are also to submit to their leadership so that “peace” prevails in the church.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:14–15 we urge you. Paul has discussed how the pastors are to serve the people and how the people are to respond to the pastors (vv. 12–13). In these verses, he presents how the people are to treat each other in the fellowship of the church. The “idle,” those out of line, must be warned and taught to get back in line. The “fainthearted,” those in fear and doubt, must be encouraged and made bold. The “weak,” those without spiritual and moral strength, must be held up firmly. Patience, forgiveness, and acts of goodness must prevail among all the people.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:16–22 Paul gave a summary of the Christian’s virtues. These verses provide the foundational principles for a sound spiritual life in brief, staccato statements that, in spite of their brevity, give believers the priorities for successful Christian living.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:16 Rejoice. Joy is appropriate at all times. Cf. Phil. 2:17–18; 3:1; 4:4.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:17 pray. This does not mean pray repetitiously or continuously without a break (cf. Matt. 6:7–8), but rather pray persistently (cf. Luke 11:1–13; 18:1–8) and regularly (cf. Eph. 6:18; Phil. 4:6; Col. 4:2, 12).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:18 give thanks. Thanklessness is a trait of unbelievers (cf. Rom. 1:21; 2 Tim. 3:1–5). “This is the will of God” includes 1 Thess. 5:16–17.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:19 quench. The fire of God’s Spirit is not to be doused with sin. Believers are also instructed to not grieve the Holy Spirit (Eph.

4:30), but to be controlled by the Holy Spirit (Eph. 5:18) and to walk by the Holy Spirit (Gal. 5:16).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:20 prophecies. This phrase can refer to a spoken revelation from God (cf. Acts 11:27–28; 1 Tim. 1:18; 4:14), but most often refers to the written word of Scripture (cf. Matt. 13:14; 2 Pet. 1:19–21; Rev. 1:3; 22:7, 10, 18–19). These “prophecies” are authoritative messages from God through a well recognized spokesman for God that, because of their divine origin, are not to be treated lightly. When God’s word is preached or read, it is to be received with great seriousness.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:21–22 test everything. This call for careful testing and discernment is in response to the command of v. 20. One is never to downgrade the proclamation of God’s word, but to examine the preached word carefully (cf. Acts 17:10–11). What is found to be “good” is to be wholeheartedly embraced. What is “evil” or unbiblical is to be shunned.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:23 God . . . sanctify you. Having concluded all the exhortations beginning in 4:1, and especially from 5:16–22, Paul’s ending benediction acknowledged the source for obeying and fulfilling them all. It is not within human power to be sanctified in all these ways (cf. Zech. 4:6; 1 Cor. 2:4–5; Eph. 3:20–21; Col. 1:29). Only God (cf. Rom. 15:33; 16:20; Phil. 4:9; Heb. 13:20 for references to God as “peace”) “himself” can separate us from sin to holiness “completely.” spirit and soul and body. This comprehensive reference makes the term “completely” more emphatic. By using spirit and soul, Paul was not indicating that the immaterial part of man could be divided into two substances (cf. Heb. 4:12). The two words are used interchangeably throughout Scripture (cf. Heb. 6:19; 10:39; 1 Pet. 2:11; 2 Pet. 2:8). There can be no division of these realities, but rather they are used as other texts use multiple terms for emphasis (cf. Deut. 6:5; Matt. 22:37; Mark 12:30; Luke 10:27). Nor was Paul a believer in a three-part human composition (cf. Rom. 8:10; 1 Cor. 2:11; 5:3–5; 7:34; 2 Cor. 7:1; Gal. 6:18; Col. 2:5; 2 Tim. 4:22), but rather two parts: material and immaterial. at the coming. This fourth mention of Christ’s parousia refers to the rapture of the church as it has previously at 1 Thess. 2:19; 3:13; 4:15.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:24 calls you. This, as every time the divine call is mentioned in the NT, refers to God’s effectual call of his chosen ones to salvation (cf. 2:12; 4:7; Rom. 1:6–7; 8:28; 1 Cor. 1:9; Eph. 4:1, 4; 2 Tim. 1:9; 1 Pet. 2:9; 5:10; 2 Pet. 1:10). The God who calls will also bring those whom he calls to glory and none will be lost (cf. John 6:37–44; 10:28–29; Rom. 8:28–39; Phil. 1:6; Jude 24).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:26 holy kiss. This gesture of affection is commanded five times in the NT (Rom. 16:16; 1 Cor. 16:20; 2 Cor. 13:12; 1 Pet. 5:14) and refers to the cultural hug and kiss greeting of the first century, which for Christians was to be done righteously in recognition that believers are brothers and sisters in the family of God.

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:27 Public reading was the foundation of spiritual accountability (cf. Gal. 4:16; 2 Thess. 3:14).

1 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 5:28 Cf. Rom. 16:20–24 and 2 Thess. 3:18.

Introduction to 2 Thessalonians

Title

In the Greek NT, 2 Thessalonians is listed as “To the Thessalonians.” This represents the apostle Paul’s second canonical correspondence to the fellowship of believers in the city of Thessalonica (cf. 1:1).

Author and Date

Paul, as in 1 Thessalonians, identified himself twice as the author of this letter (1:1; 3:17). Silvanus (Silas) and Timothy, Paul’s collaborators in founding the church, were present with him when he wrote. Evidence, both within this letter and with regard to vocabulary, style, and doctrinal content, strongly supports Paul as the only possible author. The time of this writing was surely a few months after the first epistle, while Paul was still in Corinth with Silas and Timothy (1:1; Acts 18:5) in late A.D. 51 or early A.D. 52 (see Introduction to 1 Thessalonians: Author and Date).

Background and Setting

For the history of Thessalonica, see Introduction to 1 Thessalonians: Background and Setting. Some have suggested that Paul penned this letter from Ephesus (Acts 18:18–21), but his 18-month stay in Corinth provided ample time for both of the Thessalonian epistles to be authored (Acts 18:11).

Apparently, Paul had stayed apprised of the happenings in Thessalonica through correspondence and/or couriers. Perhaps the bearer of the first letter brought Paul back an update on the condition of the church, which had matured and expanded (2 Thess. 1:3); but pressure and persecution had also increased. The seeds of false doctrine concerning the Lord had been sown, and the people’s behavior was disorderly. So Paul wrote to his beloved flock who were: 1) discouraged by persecution and needed incentive to persevere; 2) deceived by false teachers who confused them about the Lord’s return; and 3) disobedient to divine commands, particularly by refusing to work. Paul wrote to address those three issues by offering: 1) comfort for the persecuted believers (1:3–12); 2) correction for the falsely taught and frightened believers (2:1–15); and 3) confrontation for the disobedient and undisciplined believers (3:6–15).

Historical and Theological Themes

Although chs. 1–2 contain much prophetic material because the main issue was a serious misunderstanding generated by false teachers about the coming day of the Lord (Paul reveals that the day had not come and would not until certain other events occur), it is still best to call this “a pastoral letter.” The emphasis is on how to maintain a healthy church with an effective testimony in proper response to sound eschatology and obedience to the truth.

Eschatology dominates the theological issues. One of the clearest statements on personal eschatology for unbelievers is found in 1:9. Church discipline is the major focus of 3:6–15, which needs to be considered along with Matt. 18:15–20; 1 Cor. 5:1–13; Gal. 6:1–5 and 1 Tim. 5:19–20 for understanding the complete biblical teaching on this theme.

Interpretive Challenges

Eternal reward and retribution are discussed in 2 Thess. 1:5–12 in such general terms that it is difficult precisely to identify some of the details with regard to exact timing. Matters concerning the day of the Lord (2:2), the restrainer (2:6–7), and the lawless one (2:3–4, 8–10) provide challenging prophetic material to interpret.

<sup>3</sup>‡We ought always to give thanks to God for you, brothers, [\[1\]](#) as is right, because your faith is growing abundantly, and the love of every one of you for one another is increasing. <sup>4</sup>‡Therefore we ourselves boast about you in the churches of God for your steadfastness and faith in all your persecutions and in the afflictions that you are enduring.

The Judgment at Christ's Coming

<sup>5</sup>‡This is evidence of the righteous judgment of God, that you may be considered worthy of the kingdom of God, for which you are also suffering— <sup>6</sup>‡since indeed God considers it just to repay with affliction those who afflict you, <sup>7</sup>‡and to grant relief to you who are afflicted as well as to us, when the Lord Jesus is revealed from heaven with his mighty angels <sup>8</sup>‡in flaming fire, inflicting vengeance on those who do not know God and on those who do not obey the gospel of our Lord Jesus. <sup>9</sup>‡They will suffer the punishment of eternal destruction, away from [\[2\]](#) the presence of the Lord and from the glory of his might, <sup>10</sup>‡when he comes on that day to be glorified in his saints, and to be marveled at among all who have believed, because our testimony to you was believed. <sup>11</sup>‡To this end we always pray for you, that our God may make you worthy of his calling and may fulfill every resolve for good and every work of faith by his power, <sup>12</sup>‡so that the name of our Lord Jesus may be glorified in you, and you in him, according to the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Man of Lawlessness

2 THESSALONIANS 2 † Now concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered together to him, we ask you, brothers, [\[1\]](#) † not to be quickly shaken in mind or alarmed, either by a spirit or a spoken word, or a letter seeming to be from us, to the effect that the day of the Lord has come. [\[3\]](#) † Let no one deceive you in any way. For that day will not come, unless the rebellion comes first, and the man of lawlessness [\[2\]](#) is revealed, the son of destruction, [\[3\]](#) † who opposes and exalts himself against every so-called god or object of worship, so that he takes his seat in the temple of God, proclaiming himself to be God. [\[5\]](#) † Do you not remember that when I was still with you I told you these things? [\[6\]](#) † And you know what is restraining him now so that he may be revealed in his time. [\[7\]](#) † For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work. Only he who now restrains it will do so until he is out of the way. [\[8\]](#) † And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord Jesus will kill with the breath of his mouth and bring to nothing by the appearance of his coming. [\[9\]](#) † The coming of the lawless one is by the activity of Satan with all power and false signs and wonders, [\[10\]](#) † and with all wicked deception for those who are perishing, because they refused to love the truth and so be saved. [\[11\]](#) † Therefore God sends them a strong delusion, so that they may believe what is false, [\[12\]](#) † in order that all may be condemned who did not believe the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

Stand Firm

[\[13\]](#) † But we ought always to give thanks to God for you, brothers beloved by the Lord, because God chose you as the firstfruits [\[4\]](#) to be saved, through sanctification by the Spirit and belief in the truth. [\[14\]](#) To this he called you through our gospel, so that you may obtain the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ. [\[15\]](#) † So then, brothers, stand firm and hold to the traditions that you were taught by us, either by our spoken word or by our letter.

[\[16\]](#) † Now may our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God our Father, who loved us and gave us eternal comfort and good hope through grace, [\[17\]](#) comfort your hearts and establish them in every good work and word.

Pray for Us

2 THESSALONIANS 3 †Finally, brothers, [\[1\]](#) pray for us, that the word of the Lord may speed ahead and be honored, [\[2\]](#) as happened among you, †and that we may be delivered from wicked and evil men. For not all have faith. †But the Lord is faithful. He will establish you and guard you against the evil one. [\[3\]](#) †And we have confidence in the Lord about you, that you are doing and will do the things that we command. †May the Lord direct your hearts to the love of God and to the steadfastness of Christ.

Warning Against Idleness

†Now we command you, brothers, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that you keep away from any brother who is walking in idleness and not in accord with the tradition that you received from us. †For you yourselves know how you ought to imitate us, because we were not idle when we were with you, †nor did we eat anyone's bread without paying for it, but with toil and labor we worked night and day, that we might not be a burden to any of you. †It was not because we do not have that right, but to give you in ourselves an example to imitate. †For even when we were with you, we would give you this command: If anyone is not willing to work, let him not eat. †For we hear that some among you walk in idleness, not busy at work, but busybodies. †Now such persons we command and encourage in the Lord Jesus Christ to do their work quietly and to earn their own living. [\[4\]](#)

†As for you, brothers, do not grow weary in doing good. †If anyone does not obey what we say in this letter, take note of that person, and have nothing to do with him, that he may be ashamed. †Do not regard him as an enemy, but warn him as a brother.

Benediction

†Now may the Lord of peace himself give you peace at all times in every way. The Lord be with you all.

†I, Paul, write this greeting with my own hand. This is the sign of genuineness in every letter of mine; it is the way I write. †The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all.

Study Notes

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:1–2 See note on 1 Thess. 1:1.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:3 ought always to give thanks. There is a spiritual obligation to thank God in prayer when he accomplishes great things in the lives of his saints. That was the case with the obedient Thessalonians, who had demonstrated growth in faith and love since the first letter. This was in direct answer to Paul's prayers (cf. 1 Thess. 1:3; 3:12).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:4 steadfastness and faith. Nowhere was their growth in faith and love (v. 3) more evident than in the way they patiently and faithfully endured hostilities and suffering from the enemies of Christ. Although there was no need to speak, since the Thessalonians' lives spoke clearly enough (1 Thess. 1:8), Paul's joy before the Lord over their perseverance bubbled up.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:5 suffering. Having a right attitude toward suffering is essential, and that required attitude is concern for the kingdom of God. They were not self-centered, but concentrated on God's kingdom. Their focus was not on personal comfort, fulfillment, and happiness, but on the glory of God and the fulfillment of his purposes. They were not moaning about the injustice of their persecutions. Rather, they were patiently enduring the sufferings they did not deserve (v. 4). This very attitude was positive proof that God's wise process of purging, purifying, and perfecting through suffering was working to make his beloved people worthy of the kingdom (cf. 2:12) by being perfected (cf. James 1:2–4; 1 Pet. 5:10). For believers, afflictions are to be expected (cf. 1 Thess. 3:3) as they live and develop Christian character in a satanic world. Suffering is not to be thought of as evidence that God has forsaken them, but evidence that he is with them, perfecting them (cf. Matt. 5:10; Rom. 8:18; 2 Cor. 12:10). So the Thessalonians demonstrated that their salvation, determined by faith alone in the Lord Jesus Christ, was genuine because they, like Christ, were willing to suffer on account of God and his kingdom. They suffered unjustly as objects of man's wrath against Christ and his kingdom (Acts 5:41; Phil. 3:10; Col. 1:24). "Kingdom of God" is used here in its spiritual sense of salvation (see note on Matt. 3:2).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:6 God . . . to repay. Just as the righteous judgment of God works to perfect believers (v. 5), so it works to “repay” the wicked (cf. v. 8). Vindication and retribution are to be exercised by God, not man, in matters of spiritual persecution (cf. Deut. 32:35; Prov. 25:21–22; Rom. 12:19–21; 1 Thess. 5:15; Rev. 19:2). When God repays and how God repays are to be determined by him.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:7 relief . . . as well as to us. Paul was a fellow-sufferer for the just cause of Christ. He, like the Thessalonians, hoped for that ultimate rest and reward for their suffering for the kingdom that was to come when Christ returned to judge the ungodly. The Lord Jesus promised this twofold coming for rest and retribution (cf. Matt. 13:40–43; 24:39–41; 25:31–33; Luke 21:27–28, 34–36; John 5:24–29). when the Lord Jesus is revealed. This undoubtedly refers to Christ being unveiled in his coming as Judge. The first aspect of this revealing occurs at the end of the seven-year tribulation period (cf. Matt. 13:24–30, 36–43; 24:29–51; 25:31–46; Rev. 19:11–15). The final and universal revelation of Christ as Judge occurs at the great white throne judgment following Christ’s millennial reign on the earth (Rev. 20:11–15). Angels always accompany Christ in his coming for judgment (cf. Matt. 13:41, 49; 24:30–31; 25:31; Rev. 14:14–15).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:8 in flaming fire. Fire is a symbol of judgment (cf. Ex. 3:2; 19:16–20; Deut. 5:4; Ps. 104:4; Isa. 66:15–16; Matt. 3:11–12; Rev. 19:12). inflicting vengeance. Lit. these words mean “to give full punishment” (cf. Deut. 32:35; Isa. 59:17; 66:15; Ezek. 25:14; Rom. 12:19). do not know God. Cf. 1 Thess. 4:5. This speaks to the lack of a personal relationship with God through Jesus Christ (cf. John 17:3; Gal. 4:8; Eph. 2:12; 4:17–18; Titus 1:16). Retribution is not dealt out because of persecuting Christians, but rather because they did not obey God’s command to believe (cf. Acts 17:30–31; Rom. 1:5; 10:16; 15:18; 16:19) and call upon the name of the Lord to be saved from their sin (Rom. 10:9–13; 1 Cor. 16:22; Heb. 10:26–31). Salvation is never obtained by works but always by placing one’s faith alone in the Lord Jesus Christ (Eph. 2:8–10).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:9 eternal destruction. See note on Matt. 25:46. Paul explained the duration and extent of what is elsewhere in Scripture called “hell.” First, it is forever, thus it is not a reversible experience. Second, destruction means ruin and does not involve annihilation, but rather a new state of conscious being that is significantly worse than the first (cf. Rev. 20:14–15). This is described as the absence of God’s presence and glory (cf. Matt. 8:12; 22:13; 25:30; Luke 16:24–26).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:10 when he comes. When the day of the Lord arrives bringing retribution and ruin for unbelievers. As Christ’s great glory is displayed, the result will be rest and relief for believers and the privilege of sharing his glory (cf. Phil. 3:21; 1 John 3:2). This is the glorious manifestation of believers, of which Paul spoke (Rom. 8:18–19). At the time, all believers will adore and worship Christ, including those in the Thessalonian church who believed Paul’s testimony of the gospel.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:11 we always pray. Paul’s prayer life is exemplified four times in this letter (cf. v. 12; 2:16–17; 3:1–5, 16). Here he prayed as he did in 1:5, that they might behave in ways consistent with their identity as Christians (cf. 1 Thess. 2:19; Eph. 4:1; Col. 1:10), living up to their calling to salvation (cf. Rom. 8:30; 11:29; Gal. 4:13–15; 1 Cor. 1:26; Col. 1:3–5; 1 Thess. 2:12) with lives marked by goodness and powerful works of faith.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 1:12 so that. The worthy walk of v. 11 allows God to be glorified in us, the light of all purposes (cf. 2:14; 1 Cor. 10:31; 1 Pet. 4:11).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:1 coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. This is the fifth mention of Christ’s coming in the Thessalonian letters (cf. 1 Thess. 2:19; 3:13; 4:15; 5:23; see note on 1 Thess. 2:19). The aspect of his particular coming in view here is identified by the next phrase “our being gathered together,” which conveys the idea of all believers meeting together with the Lord Jesus, obviously referring to the rapture of the church described in 1 Thess. 4:13–18 and John 14:1–3. Cf. Heb. 10:25 for the only other use of this phrase in the NT. This was the event the Thessalonians were anticipating (cf. 1 Thess. 1:10; 3:13; 5:9).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:2 quickly shaken. This term has been used of an earthquake (Acts 16:26) and a ship at anchor slipping its mooring in the midst of a heavy wind. Along with the word “alarmed,” it describes the state of agitation and distress that had gripped the church. They were greatly distressed because they had expected the rapture, the gathering together to the Lord, to take place before the day of the Lord. They had expected to be taken to glory and heavenly rest, not left to persecution and divine wrath. Paul must have taught them that they would miss the day of the Lord (1 Thess. 5:2–5; cf. Rev. 3:10), but they had become confused by the persecution they were experiencing, thinking they may have been in the day of the Lord. This error had been reinforced by some messages to them claiming that they were indeed in the day of the Lord. Paul noted the source of these as “spirit,” “spoken word,” and “letter.” A “spirit” would most likely refer to a false prophet claiming divine revelation as in 1 John 4:1–3. A “spoken word” would refer to a sermon or speech given, while a “letter” indicated a written report. The powerful but harmful effect of this false information was gained by claiming it was from the apostle Paul (“seeming to be from us”). Whoever was telling them they were in the day of the Lord claimed that it came from Paul, who heard it, preached it, and wrote it. Thus their lie was given supposed apostolic sanction. The result was shock, fear, and alarm. Obviously, they had expected the rapture before the day of the Lord. For if they had expected it after, they would have rejoiced because Christ’s coming was to be soon. Apostolic authenticity in this letter that corrects the error was important and accounts for Paul’s care to close the letter in his distinctive handwriting (2 Thess. 3:17; cf. Gal. 6:11). the day of the Lord. See note on 1 Thess. 5:2 for discussion of this “day.” The idea that the day of the Lord had already come conflicted with what Paul had previously taught them about the rapture. This error, which so upset the Thessalonians, is what Paul corrected in 2 Thess. 2:3–12, where he showed that the day hadn’t come and couldn’t until certain realities were in place, most especially “the man of lawlessness” (v. 3).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:3–4 the rebellion. The day of the Lord cannot occur until a deliberate abandonment of a formerly professed position, allegiance, or commitment occurs (the term was used to refer to military, political, or religious rebellion). Some have suggested, on questionable linguistic evidence, that this refers to “departure” in the sense of the rapture. Context, however, points to a religious defection, which is further described in v. 4. The language indicates a specific event, not general apostasy, which exists now and always will. Rather, Paul has in mind the apostasy. This is an event that is clearly and specifically identifiable and unique, the consummate act of rebellion, an event of final magnitude. The key to identifying the event is to identify the main person, which Paul does, calling him the “man of lawlessness.” Some texts have “man of sin,” but there is no real difference in meaning since sin equals lawlessness (1 John 3:4). This is the one who is called “the prince who is to come” (Dan. 9:26) and “a little horn” (Dan. 7:8), whom John calls “the beast” (Rev. 13:2–10, 18) and most know as the Antichrist. The context and language clearly identify a real person in future times who actually does the things prophesied of him in Scripture. He is also called “the son of destruction” or perdition, a term used of Judas Iscariot (John 17:12). This “apostasy” is the abomination of desolation that takes place at the midpoint of the tribulation, spoken of in Dan. 9:27; 11:31 and Matt. 24:15 (see notes there). This man is not Satan, although Satan is the force behind him (2 Thess. 2:9) and he has motives like the desires of the devil (cf. Isa. 14:13–14). Paul is referring to the very act of ultimate apostasy that reveals the final Antichrist and sets the course for the events that usher in the day of the Lord. Apparently, he will be seen as supportive of religion so that God and Christ will not appear as his enemies until the apostasy. He exalts himself and opposes God by moving into the temple, the place for worship of God, declaring himself to be God and demanding the worship of the world. In this act of satanic self-deification, he commits the great apostasy in defiance of God. For the first three and a half years of the tribulation, he maintains relations with Israel, but halts those (cf. Dan. 9:27); and for the last three and a half years, there is great tribulation under his reign (cf. Dan. 7:25; 11:36–39; Matt. 24:15–21; Rev. 13:1–8) culminating with the day of the Lord.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:5 I told you. The imperfect tense is used, indicating repeated action in past time. Apparently, Paul on numerous occasions had taught them the details of God’s future plans. Here, he reminded them of the issues that proved the false teachers wrong about the day of the Lord. Paul had before told them that the revealing of the Antichrist preceded the day of the Lord; since he has not yet been revealed, they could not possibly be in that day.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:6 restraining. While the Thessalonians already had been taught and thus knew what was restraining the coming of the Antichrist, Paul does not say specifically in this letter; thus many suggestions have been made to identify the restraining force of vv. 6–7. These include: 1) human government; 2) preaching of the gospel; 3) the binding of Satan; 4) the providence of God; 5) the Jewish state; 6) the church; 7) the Holy Spirit; and 8) Michael. Whatever now restrains the Antichrist of vv. 3–4, 8–10 from being revealed in the fullness of his apostasy and evil, must be more than human or even angelic power. The power that holds back Satan from bringing the final apostasy and unveiling of his Satan-possessed false Christ must be divinely supernatural. It must be God’s power in operation that holds back Satan, so that the man of sin, the son of destruction, won’t be able to come until God permits it by removing the restraining power. The reason for the restraint was so that Antichrist would be revealed at God’s appointed time and no sooner, just as was Christ (cf. Gal. 4:4), because God controls Satan.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:7 the mystery of lawlessness. This is the spirit of lawlessness already prevalent in society (cf. 1 John 3:4; 5:17), but still a mystery in that it is not fully revealed as it will be in the one who so blatantly opposes God that he blasphemously assumes the place of God on earth that God has reserved for Jesus Christ. The spirit of such a man is already in operation (cf. 1 John 2:18; 4:3), but the man who fully embodies that spirit has not come. For more on mystery, see notes on Matt. 13:11; 1 Cor. 2:7; Eph. 3:4–5. out of the way. This refers not to spatial removal (therefore it could not be the rapture of the church) but rather “a stepping aside.” The idea is “out of the way,” not gone (cf. Col. 2:14 where our sins are taken out of the way as a barrier to God); see note on 2 Thess. 2:3–4. This restraint will be in place until the Antichrist is revealed, at the midpoint of the tribulation, leaving him 42 months to reign (Dan. 7:25; Rev. 13:5).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:8 then the lawless one will be revealed. At the divinely decreed moment in the middle of the tribulation when God removes the divine restraint, Satan, who has been promoting the spirit of lawlessness (v. 7), is finally allowed to fulfill his desire to imitate God by indwelling a man who will perform his will as Jesus did God’s. This also fits God’s plan for the consummation of evil and the judgment of the day of the Lord. the Lord Jesus will kill. Death occurs at God’s hand (cf. Dan. 7:26; Rev. 17:11) and this man and his partner, the false prophet, will be cast alive into the lake of fire, which burns with brimstone, where he will be eternally separated from God. (Rev. 19:20; 20:10). his coming. The aspect of his coming in view here is not the rapture of the church, but the Lord’s coming in judgment on that day when he conquers the forces of Satan and sets up his millennial kingdom (Rev. 19:11–21).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:9–10 the lawless one. This “lawless one” will do mighty acts pointing to himself as supernaturally empowered. His whole operation will be deceptive, luring the world to worship him and be damned. The career of the coming lawless one is more fully described in Rev. 13:1–18 (see notes there).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:10 those who are perishing. His influence is limited to deceiving the unsaved, who will believe his lies (cf. Matt. 24:24; John 8:41–44). They perish in the deception because of Satan-imposed blindness to the truth of the saving gospel. Cf. John 3:19–20; 2 Cor. 4:4.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:11 strong delusion. People who prefer to love sin and lies rather than gospel truth will receive severe, divine recompense, as do all sinner. God himself will send judgment that insures their fate in the form of a “strong delusion” so that they continue to believe what is false. They accept evil as good and a lie as the truth. Thus does God use Satan and Antichrist as his instruments of judgment (cf. 1 Kings 22:19–23).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:12 condemned. As God has always judged willful rejection by giving men over to impurity and degrading passions (Rom. 1:24–28), so in the last days God will sovereignly seal the fate of those who persist in following Satan and his counterfeit Christ. As in all ages, those who habitually reject the truth are judged by being left to the consequences of their sin.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:13–14 be saved . . . sanctification. Just as there were specific elements in the character of the Antichrist (vv. 10–12), so there are characteristics of the saved. In these two verses, Paul swept through the features of salvation, noting that believers are “beloved by the Lord,” chosen for salvation from eternity past (cf. Rev. 13:8; 17:8), set apart from sin by the Spirit, and called to eternal glory, i.e., the sharing of the very “glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.” Paul’s main point in this section was to remind the Thessalonians that there was no need to be agitated or troubled (2 Thess. 2:2) thinking they had missed the rapture and thus were in the day of the Lord judgment. They were destined for glory, not judgment, and would not be included with those deceived and judged in that day.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:15 stand firm . . . hold. This direct exhortation called for appropriate response to the great truths Paul had just written. In place of agitation should come strength and a firm stand. In place of false teaching should come faithful adherence to the truth.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 2:16–17 Now may. This is one of many benedictions Paul has given in his letters. In it, he invoked God’s power based on his love and grace, as the true source of encouragement and strength (cf. 3:5, 16).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:1 pray for us. Paul frequently enlisted prayer support from the churches for his ministry (cf. Rom. 15:30–32; Eph. 6:18–19; Col. 4:2–3; 1 Thess. 5:25; Philem. 22). In particular, he asked them to pray that the word of God would continue to spread rapidly as it had been already (cf. Acts 6:7; 12:24; 13:44–49), and be received with the honor it deserved.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:2 wicked and evil men. These were Paul’s enemies at Corinth, where he ministered when he wrote (cf. Acts 18:9–17), who were perverse and aggressively unrighteous in their opposition of him and the gospel.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:3 the Lord is faithful. Cf. Lam. 3:23. God is faithful in regard to creation (Ps. 119:90), his promises (Deut. 7:9; 2 Cor. 1:18; Heb. 10:23), salvation (1 Thess. 5:24), temptation (1 Cor. 10:13), suffering (1 Pet. 4:19), and here faithful to strengthen and protect from Satan (cf. John 17:15; Eph. 6:16; 1 Thess. 3:5).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:5 Another of Paul’s benedictions (cf. v. 16; 2:16–17), so common in his letters.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:6 we command you. Paul’s directions were not mere suggestions but rather they carried the weight and authority of a judge’s court order, which the apostle delivered and enforced (cf. vv. 4, 6, 10, 12). Here, he required separation so that obedient Christians were not to fellowship with habitually disobedient believers. This is further explained at v. 14. the tradition. There were false traditions (Mark 7:2–13; Col. 2:8) and true (cf. 2 Thess. 2:15). Paul’s traditions were the inspired teachings he had given.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:7 imitate us. Paul called for them to imitate him (cf. v. 9; 1 Thess. 1:6) because he imitated Christ’s example (cf. 1 Cor. 4:16; 11:1; Eph. 5:1).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:8–10 worked. The specific issue related to working diligently to earn one’s living. Though Paul had the “right” as an apostle to receive support, he chose rather to earn his own living to set an example (cf. 1 Cor. 9:3–14; Gal. 6:4; 1 Tim. 5:17–18).

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:11–12 we hear. Word had come that, in spite of Paul teaching them to work and writing to them about it (1 Thess. 4:11), some were still not willing to work (cf. 1 Tim. 5:13). These were commanded to settle down and begin an ordered life of work.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:13 do not grow weary. The hard-working believers were tired of having to support the lazy, and were ready to stop all help to those in need, giving up all charity. Paul reminded them that the truly needy still required help and that the Thessalonians must not be negligent toward them.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:14 have nothing to do with him. This means to “mix it up” in the sense of social interaction. Blatantly disobedient Christians were to be disfellowshipped (v. 6) to produce shame and, hopefully, repentance if they refused to obey the word of God. See Matt. 18:15–17; 1 Cor. 5:9–13; Gal. 6:1 for additional details on how to deal with those engaged in unrepentant and repeated sin.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:15 enemy . . . brother. The purpose of this disfellowship discipline is not final rejection. While an unrepentant pattern of sin is to be dealt with decisively, it is to be continually kept in mind that the one with whom one deals is a brother in the Lord, so all further warnings to him about his sin are done with a brotherly attitude. For instruction on the manner of church discipline, see notes on Matt. 18:15–20.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:16 the Lord of peace. Paul knew this characteristic of God would be most meaningful to reflect upon in light of the intense spiritual battle that raged all around the Thessalonians (cf. 1:2; 1 Thess. 1:1; 5:23). Cf. Paul’s other benedictions to this church in 2 Thess. 3:5; 2:16–17; 1 Thess. 3:11–13; 5:23.

2 THESSALONIANS—NOTE ON 3:17 sign of genuineness. Paul often wrote through a secretary (cf. Rom. 16:22). When that was the case, as most likely with this letter, Paul added an identifying signature (cf. 1 Cor. 16:21; Col. 4:18) so that readers could be sure he was truly the author (see note on 2 Thess. 2:2).

Introduction to 1 Timothy

Title

This is the first of two inspired letters Paul wrote to his beloved son in the faith. Timothy received his name, which means “one who honors God,” from his mother (Eunice) and grandmother (Lois), devout Jews who became believers in the Lord Jesus Christ (2 Tim. 1:5) and taught Timothy the OT Scriptures from his childhood (2 Tim. 3:15). His father was a Greek (Acts 16:1) who may have died before Timothy met Paul.

Timothy was from Lystra (Acts 16:1–3), a city in the Roman province of Galatia (part of modern Turkey). Paul led Timothy to Christ (1 Tim. 1:2, 18; 1 Cor. 4:17; 2 Tim. 1:2), undoubtedly during his ministry in Lystra on his first missionary journey (Acts 14:6–23). When he revisited Lystra on his second missionary journey, Paul chose Timothy to accompany him (Acts 16:1–3). Although Timothy was very young (probably in his late teens or early twenties, since about 15 years later Paul referred to him as a young man, 1 Tim. 4:12), he had a reputation for godliness (Acts 16:2). Timothy was to be Paul’s disciple, friend, and colaborer for the rest of the apostle’s life, ministering with him in Berea (Acts 17:14), Athens (Acts 17:15), Corinth (Acts 18:5; 2 Cor. 1:19), and accompanying him on his trip to Jerusalem (Acts 20:4). He was with Paul in his first Roman imprisonment and went to Philippi (Phil. 2:19–23) after Paul’s release. In addition, Paul frequently mentions Timothy in his epistles (Rom. 16:21; 2 Cor. 1:1; Phil. 1:1; Col. 1:1; 1 Thess. 1:1; 2 Thess. 1:1; Philem. 1). Paul often sent Timothy to churches as his representative (1 Cor. 4:17; 16:10; Phil. 2:19; 1 Thess. 3:2), and 1 Timothy finds him on another assignment, serving as pastor of the church at Ephesus (1 Tim. 1:3). According to Heb. 13:23, Timothy was imprisoned somewhere and released.

Author and Date

Many modernist critics delight in attacking the plain statements of Scripture and, for no good reason, deny that Paul wrote the Pastoral Epistles (1, 2 Timothy, Titus). Ignoring the testimony of the letters themselves (1 Tim. 1:1; 2 Tim. 1:1; Titus 1:1) and that of the early church (which is as strong for the Pastoral Epistles as for any of Paul's epistles, except Romans and 1 Corinthians), these critics maintain that a devout follower of Paul wrote the Pastoral Epistles in the second century. As proof, they offer five lines of supposed evidence: 1) the historical references in the Pastoral Epistles cannot be harmonized with the chronology of Paul's life given in Acts; 2) the false teaching described in the Pastoral Epistles is the fully developed Gnosticism of the second century; 3) the church organizational structure in the Pastoral Epistles is that of the second century, and is too well developed for Paul's day; 4) the Pastoral Epistles do not contain the great themes of Paul's theology; and 5) the Greek vocabulary of the Pastoral Epistles contains many words not found in Paul's other letters, nor in the rest of the NT.

While it is unnecessary to dignify such unwarranted attacks by unbelievers with an answer, occasionally such an answer does enlighten. Thus, in reply to the critics' arguments, it can be pointed out that: 1) This contention of historical incompatibility is valid only if Paul was never released from his Roman imprisonment mentioned in Acts. But he was released, since Acts does not record Paul's execution, and Paul himself expected to be released (Phil. 1:19, 25-26; 2:24; Philem. 22). The historical events in the Pastoral Epistles do not fit into the chronology of Acts because they happened after the close of the Acts narrative which ends with Paul's first imprisonment in Rome. 2) While there are similarities between the heresy of the Pastoral Epistles and second-century Gnosticism (see Introduction to Colossians: Background and Setting), there are also important differences. Unlike second-century Gnosticism, the false teachers of the Pastoral Epistles were still within the church (cf. 2 Tim. 1:3-7) and their teaching was based on Judaistic legalism (1 Tim. 1:7; Titus 1:10, 14; 3:9). 3) The church organizational structure mentioned in the Pastoral Epistles is, in fact, consistent with that established by Paul (Acts 14:23; Phil. 1:1). 4) The Pastoral Epistles do mention the central themes of Paul's theology, including the inspiration of Scripture (2 Tim. 3:15-17); election (2 Tim. 1:9; Titus 1:1-2); salvation (Titus 3:5-7); the deity of Christ (Titus 2:13); his mediatorial work (1 Tim. 2:5), and substitutionary atonement (1 Tim. 2:6). 5) The different subject matter in the Pastoral Epistles required a different vocabulary from that in Paul's other epistles. Certainly a pastor today would use a different vocabulary in a personal letter to a fellow pastor than he would in a work of systematic theology.

The idea that a "pious forger" wrote the Pastoral Epistles faces several further difficulties: 1) The early church did not approve of such practices and surely would have exposed this as a ruse, if there had actually been one (cf. 2 Thess.

2:1–2; 3:17). 2) Why forge three letters that include similar material and no deviant doctrine? 3) If a counterfeit, why not invent an itinerary for Paul that would have harmonized with Acts? 4) Would a later, devoted follower of Paul have put the words of 1 Tim. 1:13, 15 into his master’s mouth? 5) Why would he include warnings against deceivers (2 Tim. 3:13; Titus 1:10), if he himself were one?

The evidence seems clear that Paul wrote 1 Timothy and Titus shortly after his release from his first Roman imprisonment (c. A.D. 62–64), and 2 Timothy from prison during his second Roman imprisonment (c. A.D. 66–67), shortly before his death.

Background and Setting

After being released from his first Roman imprisonment (cf. Acts 28:30), Paul revisited several of the cities in which he had ministered, including Ephesus. Leaving Timothy behind there to deal with problems that had arisen in the Ephesian church, such as false doctrine (1 Tim. 1:3–7; 4:1–3; 6:3–5), disorder in worship (2:1–15), the need for qualified leaders (3:1–14), and materialism (6:6–19), Paul went on to Macedonia, from where he wrote Timothy this letter to help him carry out his task in the church (cf. 3:14–15).

Historical and Theological Themes

First Timothy is a practical letter containing pastoral instruction from Paul to Timothy (cf. 3:14–15). Since Timothy was well versed in Paul’s theology, the apostle had no need to give him extensive doctrinal instruction. This epistle does, however, express many important theological truths, such as the proper function of the law (1:5–11), salvation (1:14–16; 2:4–6); the attributes of God (1:17); the fall (2:13–14); the person of Christ (3:16; 6:15–16); election (6:12); and the second coming of Christ (6:14–15).

Interpretive Challenges

There is disagreement over the identity of the false teachers (1:3) and the genealogies (1:4) involved in their teaching. What it means to be “handed over to Satan” (1:20) has also been a source of debate. The letter contains key passages in the debate over the extent of the atonement (2:4–6; 4:10). Paul’s teaching on the role of women (2:9–15) has generated much discussion, particularly his declaration that they are not to assume leadership roles in the church (2:11–12). How women can be saved by bearing children (2:15) has also confused many. Whether the fact that an elder must be “the husband of one wife” excludes divorced or unmarried men has been disputed (3:1), as well as whether Paul refers to deacons’ wives or deaconesses (3:11). Those who believe Christians can lose their salvation cite 4:1 as support for their view. There is a question about the identity of the widows in 5:3–16—are they needy women ministered to by the church, or an order of older women ministering to the church? Does “double honor” accorded to elders who rule well (5:17–18) refer to respect or money? These will all be dealt with in their respective notes.

THE FIRST LETTER OF PAUL TO TIMOTHY

1 Timothy

Greeting

1 TIMOTHY 1 †Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by command of God our Savior and of Christ Jesus our hope, 2†To Timothy, my true child in the faith: Grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

Warning Against False Teachers

3††As I urged you when I was going to Macedonia, remain at Ephesus so that you may charge certain persons not to teach any different doctrine, 4†nor to devote themselves to myths and endless genealogies, which promote speculations rather than the stewardship [\[1\]](#) from God that is by faith. 5†The aim of our charge is love that issues from a pure heart and a good conscience and a sincere faith. 6†Certain persons, by swerving from these, have wandered away into vain discussion, 7††desiring to be teachers of the law, without understanding either what they are saying or the things about which they make confident assertions.

8†Now we know that the law is good, if one uses it lawfully, 9††understanding this, that the law is not laid down for the just but for the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and sinners, for the unholy and profane, for those who strike their fathers and mothers, for murderers, 10†the sexually immoral, men who practice homosexuality, enslavers, [\[2\]](#) liars, perjurers, and whatever else is contrary to sound [\[3\]](#) doctrine, 11†in accordance with the gospel of the glory of the blessed God with which I have been entrusted.

Christ Jesus Came to Save Sinners

12††I thank him who has given me strength, Christ Jesus our Lord, because he judged me faithful, appointing me to his service, 13†though formerly I was a blasphemer, persecutor, and insolent opponent. But I received mercy because I had acted ignorantly in unbelief, 14†and the grace of our Lord overflowed for me with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. 15†The saying is trustworthy and deserving of full acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am the foremost. <sup>16</sup>† But I received mercy for this reason, that in me, as the foremost, Jesus Christ might display his perfect patience as an example to those who were to believe in him for eternal life. <sup>17</sup>† To the King of ages, immortal, invisible, the only God, be honor and glory forever and ever. [4] Amen.

<sup>18</sup>† This charge I entrust to you, Timothy, my child, in accordance with the prophecies previously made about you, that by them you may wage the good warfare, <sup>19</sup>† holding faith and a good conscience. By rejecting this, some have made shipwreck of their faith, <sup>20</sup>† among whom are Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I have handed over to Satan that they may learn not to blaspheme.

Pray for All People

1 TIMOTHY 2 ‡‡ First of all, then, I urge that supplications, prayers, intercessions, and thanksgivings be made for all people, <sup>2</sup>‡‡ for kings and all who are in high positions, that we may lead a peaceful and quiet life, godly and dignified in every way. <sup>3</sup>‡‡ This is good, and it is pleasing in the sight of God our Savior, <sup>4</sup>‡‡ who desires all people to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth. <sup>5</sup>‡‡ For there is one God, and there is one mediator between God and men, the man [\[1\]](#) Christ Jesus, <sup>6</sup>‡‡ who gave himself as a ransom for all, which is the testimony given at the proper time. <sup>7</sup>‡‡ For this I was appointed a preacher and an apostle (I am telling the truth, I am not lying), a teacher of the Gentiles in faith and truth.

<sup>8</sup>‡‡ I desire then that in every place the men should pray, lifting holy hands without anger or quarreling; <sup>9</sup>‡‡ likewise also that women should adorn themselves in respectable apparel, with modesty and self-control, not with braided hair and gold or pearls or costly attire, <sup>10</sup>‡‡ but with what is proper for women who profess godliness—with good works. <sup>11</sup>‡‡ Let a woman learn quietly with all submissiveness. <sup>12</sup>‡‡ I do not permit a woman to teach or to exercise authority over a man; rather, she is to remain quiet. <sup>13</sup>‡‡ For Adam was formed first, then Eve; <sup>14</sup>‡‡ and Adam was not deceived, but the woman was deceived and became a transgressor. <sup>15</sup>‡‡ Yet she will be saved through childbearing—if they continue in faith and love and holiness, with self-control.

Qualifications for Overseers

1 TIMOTHY 3 †† The saying is trustworthy: If anyone aspires to the office of overseer, he desires a noble task. † Therefore an overseer [1] must be above reproach, the husband of one wife, [2] sober-minded, self-controlled, respectable, hospitable, able to teach, † not a drunkard, not violent but gentle, not quarrelsome, not a lover of money. † He must manage his own household well, with all dignity keeping his children submissive, † for if someone does not know how to manage his own household, how will he care for God's church? † He must not be a recent convert, or he may become puffed up with conceit and fall into the condemnation of the devil. † Moreover, he must be well thought of by outsiders, so that he may not fall into disgrace, into a snare of the devil.

Qualifications for Deacons

† Deacons likewise must be dignified, not double-tongued, [3] not addicted to much wine, not greedy for dishonest gain. † They must hold the mystery of the faith with a clear conscience. † And let them also be tested first; then let them serve as deacons if they prove themselves blameless. † Their wives likewise must [4] be dignified, not slanderers, but sober-minded, faithful in all things. † Let deacons each be the husband of one wife, managing their children and their own households well. † For those who serve well as deacons gain a good standing for themselves and also great confidence in the faith that is in Christ Jesus.

The Mystery of Godliness

†† I hope to come to you soon, but I am writing these things to you so that, † if I delay, you may know how one ought to behave in the household of God, which is the church of the living God, a pillar and buttress of the truth. † Great indeed, we confess, is the mystery of godliness: He [5] was manifested in the flesh, vindicated [6] by the Spirit, [7] seen by angels, proclaimed among the nations, believed on in the world, taken up in glory.

Some Will Depart from the Faith

1 TIMOTHY 4 ¶ Now the Spirit expressly says that in later times some will depart from the faith by devoting themselves to deceitful spirits and teachings of demons, ¶ through the insincerity of liars whose consciences are seared, ¶ who forbid marriage and require abstinence from foods that God created to be received with thanksgiving by those who believe and know the truth. ¶ For everything created by God is good, and nothing is to be rejected if it is received with thanksgiving, ¶ for it is made holy by the word of God and prayer.

A Good Servant of Christ Jesus

¶ If you put these things before the brothers, [\[1\]](#) you will be a good servant of Christ Jesus, being trained in the words of the faith and of the good doctrine that you have followed. ¶ Have nothing to do with irreverent, silly myths. Rather train yourself for godliness; ¶ for while bodily training is of some value, godliness is of value in every way, as it holds promise for the present life and also for the life to come. ¶ The saying is trustworthy and deserving of full acceptance. ¶ For to this end we toil and strive, [\[2\]](#) because we have our hope set on the living God, who is the Savior of all people, especially of those who believe.

¶ Command and teach these things. ¶ Let no one despise you for your youth, but set the believers an example in speech, in conduct, in love, in faith, in purity. ¶ Until I come, devote yourself to the public reading of Scripture, to exhortation, to teaching. ¶ Do not neglect the gift you have, which was given you by prophecy when the council of elders laid their hands on you. ¶ Practice these things, immerse yourself in them, [\[3\]](#) so that all may see your progress. ¶ Keep a close watch on yourself and on the teaching. Persist in this, for by so doing you will save both yourself and your hearers.

Instructions for the Church

1 TIMOTHY 5 † Do not rebuke an older man but encourage him as you would a father, younger men as brothers, <sup>2</sup>older women as mothers, younger women as sisters, in all purity.

<sup>3</sup>†† Honor widows who are truly widows. <sup>4</sup>† But if a widow has children or grandchildren, let them first learn to show godliness to their own household and to make some return to their parents, for this is pleasing in the sight of God.

<sup>5</sup>† She who is truly a widow, left all alone, has set her hope on God and continues in supplications and prayers night and day, <sup>6</sup>† but she who is self-indulgent is dead even while she lives. <sup>7</sup>† Command these things as well, so that they may be without reproach. <sup>8</sup>† But if anyone does not provide for his relatives, and especially for members of his household, he has denied the faith and is worse than an unbeliever.

<sup>9</sup>† Let a widow be enrolled if she is not less than sixty years of age, having been the wife of one husband, [\[1\]](#) <sup>10</sup>† and having a reputation for good works: if she has brought up children, has shown hospitality, has washed the feet of the saints, has cared for the afflicted, and has devoted herself to every good work. <sup>11</sup>† But refuse to enroll younger widows, for when their passions draw them away from Christ, they desire to marry <sup>12</sup>† and so incur condemnation for having abandoned their former faith. <sup>13</sup>† Besides that, they learn to be idlers, going about from house to house, and not only idlers, but also gossips and busybodies, saying what they should not. <sup>14</sup>† So I would have younger widows marry, bear children, manage their households, and give the adversary no occasion for slander. <sup>15</sup>† For some have already strayed after Satan. <sup>16</sup>† If any believing woman has relatives who are widows, let her care for them. Let the church not be burdened, so that it may care for those who are truly widows.

laying on of hands, nor take part in the sins of others; keep yourself pure. <sup>23</sup>†(No longer drink only water, but use a little wine for the sake of your stomach and your frequent ailments.) <sup>24</sup>†The sins of some men are conspicuous, going before them to judgment, but the sins of others appear later. <sup>25</sup>†So also good works are conspicuous, and even those that are not cannot remain hidden.

1 TIMOTHY 6 †† Let all who are under a yoke as slaves [1] regard their own masters as worthy of all honor, so that the name of God and the teaching may not be reviled. †† Those who have believing masters must not be disrespectful on the ground that they are brothers; rather they must serve all the better since those who benefit by their good service are believers and beloved.

False Teachers and True Contentment

Teach and urge these things. †† If anyone teaches a different doctrine and does not agree with the sound [2] words of our Lord Jesus Christ and the teaching that accords with godliness, †† he is puffed up with conceit and understands nothing. He has an unhealthy craving for controversy and for quarrels about words, which produce envy, dissension, slander, evil suspicions, †† and constant friction among people who are depraved in mind and deprived of the truth, imagining that godliness is a means of gain. †† Now there is great gain in godliness with contentment, †† for we brought nothing into the world, and [3] we cannot take anything out of the world. †† But if we have food and clothing, with these we will be content. †† But those who desire to be rich fall into temptation, into a snare, into many senseless and harmful desires that plunge people into ruin and destruction. †† For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evils. It is through this craving that some have wandered away from the faith and pierced themselves with many pangs.

Fight the Good Fight of Faith

†† But as for you, O man of God, flee these things. Pursue righteousness, godliness, faith, love, steadfastness, gentleness. †† Fight the good fight of the faith. Take hold of the eternal life to which you were called and about which you made the good confession in the presence of many witnesses. †† I charge you in the presence of God, who gives life to all things, and of Christ Jesus, who in his testimony before [4] Pontius Pilate made the good confession, †† to keep the commandment unstained and free from reproach until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ, †† which he will display at the proper time—he who is the blessed and only Sovereign, the King of kings and Lord of lords, †† who alone has immortality, who dwells in unapproachable light, whom no one has ever seen or can see. To him be honor and eternal dominion. Amen.

††† As for the rich in this present age, charge them not to be haughty, nor to set their hopes on the uncertainty of riches, but on God, who richly provides us with everything to enjoy. <sup>18</sup>† They are to do good, to be rich in good works, to be generous and ready to share, <sup>19</sup>† thus storing up treasure for themselves as a good foundation for the future, so that they may take hold of that which is truly life.

Grace be with you. [5]

God is by nature a saving God and the source of our salvation, which he planned from eternity past (see note on 1 Tim. 4:10; cf. 2 Thess. 2:13). Christ Jesus our hope. Christians have hope for the future because Christ purchased salvation for them on the cross in the past (Rom. 5:1–2), sanctifies them through his Spirit in the present (Gal. 5:16–25), and will lead them to glory in the future (Col. 1:27; 1 John 3:2–3).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:2 Timothy. See Introduction: Title. true child in the faith. Only Timothy (2 Tim. 1:2; 2:1) and Titus (Titus 1:4) received this special expression of Paul’s favor. “Child” emphasizes Paul’s role as spiritual father to Timothy. “True” speaks of the genuineness of Timothy’s faith (cf. 2 Tim. 1:5). Timothy was Paul’s most cherished pupil, and protégé (1 Cor. 4:17; Phil. 2:19–22). Grace, mercy, and peace. Paul’s familiar greeting that appears in all his epistles (see note on Rom. 1:7), but with the addition here of “mercy” (cf. 2 Tim. 1:2). Mercy frees believers from the misery that accompanies the consequences of sin.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:3–11 In his opening charge to halt the spread of false teaching in the church at Ephesus, Paul characterizes the false teachers and their doctrine.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:3 going to Macedonia, remain at Ephesus. Before Paul left Ephesus, he likely began the confrontation with the expulsion of Hymenaeus and Alexander (v. 20), then assigned Timothy to stay on and complete what he had begun. charge. This refers to a military command—it demands that a subordinate obey an order from a superior (cf. 2 Tim. 4:1). certain persons. The false teachers were few in number, yet had a wide influence. Several reasons point toward these men being elders in the church at Ephesus and in the churches in the surrounding region: 1) They presumed to be teachers (1 Tim. 1:7), a role reserved for elders (3:2; 5:17). 2) Paul himself had to excommunicate Hymenaeus and Alexander, which implies they occupied the highest pastoral positions. 3) Paul detailed the qualifications of an overseer (3:1–7), implying that unqualified men, who needed to be replaced by qualified ones, were occupying those roles. 4) Paul stressed that sinning overseers were to be publicly disciplined (5:19–22). not to teach any different doctrine. A compound word made up of two Greek words that mean “of a different kind” and “to teach.” The false teachers were teaching doctrine different than apostolic doctrine (cf. 6:3–4; Acts 2:42; Gal. 1:6–7). This had to do with the gospel of salvation. Apparently they were teaching another gospel (see notes on Gal. 1:6–9) and not the “gospel of the glory of the blessed God” (1 Tim. 1:11).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:4 myths and endless genealogies. Legends and fanciful stories manufactured from elements of Judaism (v. 7; cf. Titus 1:14), which probably dealt with allegorical or fictitious interpretations of OT genealogical lists. In reality, they were “teachings of demons” (1 Tim. 4:1), posing as God’s truth (cf. 4:7).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:5 our charge. See note on v. 3, where the verb form “charge” is used (also in v. 18). The purpose of the instruction in vv. 3–4 is the spiritual virtue defined in v. 5. Timothy was to deliver this charge to the church. The goal of preaching the truth and warning of error is to call men to true salvation in Christ, which produces a love for God from a purified heart (2 Tim. 2:22; 1 Pet. 1:22), a cleansed conscience (Heb. 9:22; 10:14), and genuine faith (Heb. 10:22). love. This is the love of choice and the will, characterized by self-denial and self-sacrifice for the benefit of others, and it is the mark of a true Christian (John 13:35; Rom. 13:10; 1 John 4:7–8; see notes on 1 Cor. 13:1–7). In contrast, false doctrine produces only conflict and “speculations” (1 Tim. 1:4; 6:3–5). good conscience. Cf. 1:19; 3:9; 4:2; see note on 2 Cor. 1:12. The Greek word for “good” refers to that which is perfect and produces pleasure and satisfaction. God created man with a “conscience” as his self-judging faculty. Because God has written his law on man’s heart (see note on Rom. 2:15), man knows the basic standard of right and wrong. When he violates that standard, his conscience produces guilt, which acts as the mind’s security system that produces fear, guilt, shame, and doubt as warnings of threats to the soul’s well-being (cf. John 8:9; 1 Cor. 8:7, 10, 12; Titus 1:15; Heb. 10:22). On the other hand, when a believer does God’s will, he enjoys the affirmation, assurance, peace, and joy of a good conscience (cf. Acts 23:1; 24:16; 2 Tim. 1:3; Heb. 13:18; 1 Pet. 3:16, 21).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:6 vain discussion. Cf. Titus 1:10. Refers to speech that is aimless and has no logical end. It is essentially irrelevant and will not accomplish anything spiritual or edifying to believers. False doctrine leads nowhere, but to the deadening end of human speculation and demonic deception (cf. 6:3–5).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:7 desiring to be teachers. The false teachers wanted the kind of prestige enjoyed by Jewish rabbis; but they were not concerned at all about truly learning the law and teaching it to others (cf. 6:4; Matt. 23:5–7). Instead, they imposed on believers in Ephesus a legalistic heresy that offered salvation by works.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:7–8 the law. The Mosaic law is in view here, not just law in general. These were Jewish would-be teachers who wanted to impose circumcision and the keeping of Mosaic ceremonies on the church as necessary for salvation. They plagued the early church (see notes on Gal. 3–5; Phil. 3:1–8).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:8 the law is good. The Greek word for “good” can be translated “useful.” The law is good or useful because it reflects God’s holy will and righteous standard (Ps. 19:7; Rom. 7:12), which accomplishes its purpose in showing sinners their sin (Rom. 3:19) and their need for a savior (Gal. 3:24). The law forces people to recognize that they are guilty of disobeying God’s commands, and it thereby condemns every person and sentences them to hell (see notes on Rom. 3:19–20).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:9–10 strike their fathers . . . perjurers. These sins are violations of the second half of the Ten Commandments—those dealing with relationships among people. These specific sins undoubtedly characterized the false teachers, since they are characteristic behaviors related to false doctrine (v. 10). Killing of “fathers” and “mothers” is a violation of the fifth commandment (Ex. 20:12; cf. 21:15–17), which forbids everything from dishonor to murder. Murder is in violation of the sixth commandment (Ex. 20:13). “Sexually immoral” and “homosexuality” violate the seventh commandment (Ex. 20:14), which prohibits sexual activity outside the marriage bed. Because the theft of children was commonplace in Paul’s day, he mentions “enslavers” in connection with the eighth commandment (Ex. 20:15), which prohibits stealing. Finally, “liars” and “perjurers” are violators of the ninth commandment (Ex. 20:16).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:9 for the just. Those who think they are righteous will never be saved (Luke 5:32) because they do not understand the true purpose of the law. The false teachers, with their works system of personally achieved self-righteousness (in their own minds), had shown clearly that they misunderstood the law completely. It was not a means to self-righteousness, but a means to self-condemnation, sin, conviction, repentance, and pleading to God for mercy (1 Tim. 1:15). See notes on Luke 18:9–14; Rom. 5:20; Gal. 3:10–13, 19. lawless . . . profane. These first six characteristics, expressed in three couplets, delineate sins from the first half of the Ten Commandments, which deal with a person's relationship to God. "Lawless" describes those who have no commitment to any law or standard, which makes such people "disobedient." Those who are "ungodly" have no regard for anything sacred, which means they are "sinners" because they disregard God's law. "Unholy" people are indifferent to what is right, which leads them to be the "profane," who step on or trample what is sacred (cf. Heb. 10:29).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:10 sound doctrine. A familiar emphasis in the Pastoral Epistles (cf. 2 Tim. 4:3; Titus 1:9; 2:1). "Sound" refers to that which is healthy and wholesome. It is the kind of teaching that produces spiritual life and growth, which implies that false doctrine produces spiritual disease and debilitation.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:11 the gospel of the glory. The gospel reveals God's glory; that is, the perfections of his person or his attributes, including his holiness (hatred of sin) and justice (demand of punishment for violations of his law) and grace (forgiveness of sin). Those particular attributes are key to any effective gospel presentation. entrusted. This Greek word refers to committing something of value to another. God entrusted Paul with the communication and guardianship of his revealed truth. Cf. 2:7; 6:20–21; Rom. 15:15–16; 1 Cor. 4:1–2; 9:17; 2 Cor. 5:18–20; Gal. 2:7; Col. 1:25; 1 Thess. 2:4.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:12–17 Paul's testimony of his own salvation in these verses provides a contrast between his proper understanding of the law and the misconceptions of the false teachers, and between the glory of the true gospel and the emptiness of false doctrine.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:12 judged me faithful. God's sovereign purpose for Paul and for all believers works through personal faith. Until Paul was turned by the Holy Spirit from self-righteous works (see Phil. 3:4–7) to faith alone in Christ, he could not be used by God. He was in the same condition as the useless false teachers (1 Tim. 1:6–7).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:13 a blasphemer, persecutor, and insolent opponent. This verse indicates that experience of Paul when he saw himself, in the light of God’s law, for who he really was (see notes on Rom. 7:7–12). A “blasphemer” speaks evil of and slanders God. Paul violated the first half of the Ten Commandments through his overt attacks against Christ (cf. Acts 9:4–5; 22:7–8; 26:9, 14–15). As a “persecutor” and an “insolent opponent,” Paul violated the second half through his attacks on believers. Cf. note on 1 Tim. 1:20. I had acted ignorantly in unbelief. Paul was neither a Jewish apostate nor a Pharisee who clearly understood Jesus’ teaching and still rejected him. He was a zealous, fastidious Jew trying to earn his salvation, thus lost and damned (see notes on Phil. 3:4–7). His plea of ignorance was not a claim to innocence nor an excuse denying his guilt. It was simply a statement indicating that he did not understand the truth of Christ’s gospel and was honestly trying to protect his religion. His willing repentance when confronted by Christ (cf. Rom. 7:9; Phil. 3:8–9) is evidence that he had not understood the ramifications of his actions—he truly thought he was doing God a service (Acts 26:9).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:14 grace. God’s loving forgiveness, by which he grants salvation apart from any merit on the part of those he saves (see notes on Rom. 3:24; Gal. 1:6). faith and love. Attitudes frequently linked with salvation in the NT (cf. Eph. 1:15; 3:17; Col. 1:4, 23). They are gifts of God’s grace in Christ.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:15 The saying is trustworthy. A phrase unique to the Pastoral Epistles (cf. 3:1; 4:9; 2 Tim. 2:11; Titus 3:8), which announces a statement summarizing key doctrines. The phrase “deserving of full acceptance” gives the statement added emphasis. Apparently, these sayings were well known in the churches, as concise expressions of cardinal gospel truth. to save sinners. This faithful saying was based on the statements of Jesus recorded in Matt. 9:13 and Luke 19:10. I am the foremost. Lit., “first,” in rank. Few could be considered a worse sinner than someone who blasphemed God and persecuted his church (see note on Eph. 3:8). Paul’s attitude toward himself dramatically changed (cf. Phil. 3:7–9; see notes on Rom. 7:7–12).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:16 for this reason. Paul was saved so that God could display to all his gracious and merciful patience with the most wretched sinners. an example. Paul was living proof that God could save any sinner, no matter how great a one he might be. The account of Paul’s conversion has been instrumental in the salvation of many. Paul’s testimony is repeated six other times in the NT (Acts 9, 22, 26; Gal. 1–2; Phil. 3:1–14).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:17 God receives all the praise for sovereignly saving Paul. This is one of the many doxologies Paul wrote (cf. Rom. 11:33–36).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:18 Timothy. See Introduction: Title. prophecies previously made about you. The Greek word for “previously made” lit. means “leading the way to,” implying that a series of prophecies had been given about Timothy in connection with his receiving his spiritual gift (see note on 4:14). These prophecies specifically and supernaturally called Timothy into God’s service. wage the good warfare. Paul urged Timothy to fight the battle against the enemies of Christ and the gospel. Cf. 2 Cor. 10:3–5; 2 Tim. 2:3–4; 4:7.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:19 faith . . . faith. The first is subjective and means continuing to believe the truth. The second is objective, referring to the content of the Christian gospel. a good conscience. See note on v. 5. shipwreck. A good conscience serves as the rudder that steers the believer through the rocks and reefs of sin and error. The false teachers ignored their consciences and the truth, and as a result, suffered shipwreck of the Christian faith (the true doctrine of the gospel), which implies severe spiritual catastrophe. This does not imply loss of salvation for a true believer (see notes on Rom. 8:31–39), but likely indicates the tragic loss that comes to the apostate. They had been in the church, heard the gospel, and rejected it in favor of the false doctrine defined in 1 Tim. 1:3–7. Apostasy is a turning away from the gospel, having once known it. See notes on Heb. 2:3–4; 3:12–19; 6:1–8; 10:26–31.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:20 Hymenaeus and Alexander. Hymenaeus is mentioned in 2 Tim. 2:17 in connection with Philetus, another false teacher. Alexander may be the opponent of the faith referred to in 2 Tim. 4:14–15. Nothing else is known about these two men (see note on 1 Tim. 1:3). I have handed over to Satan. Paul put both men out of the church, thus ending their influence and removing them from the protection and insulation of God’s people. They were no longer in the environment of God’s blessing but under Satan’s control. In some instances God has turned believers over to Satan for positive purposes, such as revealing the genuineness of saving faith, keeping them humble and dependent on him, enabling them to strengthen others, or offering God praise (cf. Job 1:1–22; Matt. 4:1–11; Luke 22:31–33; 2 Cor. 12:1–10; Rev. 7:9–15). God hands some people over to Satan for judgment, such as King Saul (1 Sam. 16:12–16; 28:4–20), Judas (John 13:27), and the sinning member in the Corinthian church (see notes on 1 Cor. 5:1–5). may learn not to blaspheme. See note on 1 Tim. 1:13. Paul learned not to blaspheme when confronted by the true understanding of the law and the gospel. That was what those men needed. God, the inspired text seems to indicate, would teach them and show them grace as he had Paul. But that evangelistic work could not go on at the expense of the purity of the church.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:1–8 The Ephesian church had evidently stopped praying for the lost, since Paul urged Timothy to make it a priority again. The Judaistic false teachers in Ephesus, by a perverted gospel and the teaching that salvation was only for Jews and Gentile proselytes to Judaism, would have certainly restricted evangelistic praying. Religious exclusivism (salvation only for the elite) would preclude the need for prayer for the lost.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:1 supplications. The Greek word is from a root that means “to lack,” “to be deprived,” or “to be without.” Thus this kind of prayer occurs because of a need. The lost have a great need for salvation, and believers should always be asking God to meet that need. intercessions. This word comes from a root meaning “to fall in with someone,” or “to draw near so as to speak intimately.” The verb from which this word derives is used of Christ’s and the Spirit’s intercession for believers (Rom. 8:26; Heb. 7:25). Paul’s desire is for the Ephesian Christians to have compassion for the lost, to understand the depths of their pain and misery, and to come intimately to God pleading for their salvation. See notes on Titus 3:3–4. all people. The lost in general, not the elect only. God’s decree of election is secret—believers have no way of knowing who is elect until they respond. The scope of God’s evangelistic efforts is broader than election (Matt. 22:14; John 17:21, 23; see note on 1 Tim. 2:4).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:2 kings and all who are in high positions. Because so many powerful and influential political rulers are hostile to God, they are often the targets of bitterness and animosity. But Paul urges believers to pray that these leaders might repent of their sins and embrace the gospel, which meant that the Ephesians were even to pray for the salvation of the Roman emperor, Nero, a cruel and vicious blasphemer and persecutor of the faith. a peaceful and quiet life. “Quiet” refers to the absence of external disturbances; “peaceful” refers to the absence of internal ones. While it remains uncompromising in its commitment to the truth, the church is not to agitate or disrupt the national life. When it manifests love and goodness to all and prays passionately for the lost, including rulers, the church may experience a certain amount of religious freedom. Persecution should only be the result of righteous living, not civil disobedience (see notes on Titus 3:1–4; 1 Pet. 2:13–23). godly and dignified.

“Godly” is a key word in this letter (1 Tim. 3:16; 4:7–8; 6:3, 5–6, 11; cf. 2 Tim. 3:5; Titus 1:1), indicating that there needed to be a call back to holy living, which had been negatively affected by the false doctrine. Godliness refers to having the proper attitude and conduct before God in everything; “dignified” can be translated “moral earnestness,” and refers to holy behavior before men.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:3 God our Savior. See note on 1:1.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:4 desires all people to be saved. The Greek word for “desires” is not that which normally expresses God’s will of decree (his eternal purpose), but God’s will of desire. There is a distinction between God’s desire and his eternal saving purpose, which must transcend his desires. God does not want men to sin. He hates sin with all his being (Ps. 5:4; 45:7); thus, he hates its consequences—eternal wickedness in hell. God does not want people to remain wicked forever in eternal remorse and hatred of himself. Yet, God, for his own glory, and to manifest that glory in wrath, chose to endure “vessels . . . prepared for destruction” for the supreme fulfillment of his will (Rom. 9:22). In his eternal purpose, he chose only the elect out of the world (John 17:6) and passed over the rest, leaving them to the consequences of their sin, unbelief, and rejection of Christ (cf. Rom. 1:18–32). Ultimately, God’s choices are determined by his sovereign, eternal purpose, not his desires. See note on 2 Pet. 3:9. the knowledge of the truth. Meaning “to be saved.” See note on 2 Tim. 3:7.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:5 there is one God. There is no other way of salvation (Acts 4:12); hence there is the need to pray for the lost to come to know the one true God (cf. Deut. 4:35, 39; 6:4; Isa. 43:10; 44:6; 45:5–6, 21, 22; 46:9; 1 Cor. 8:4, 6). mediator. This refers to someone who intervenes between two parties to resolve a conflict or ratify a covenant. Jesus Christ is the only “mediator” who can restore peace between God and sinners (Heb. 8:6; 9:15; 12:24). the man Christ Jesus. The absence of the article before “man” in the Greek suggests the translation, “Christ Jesus, himself a man.” Only the perfect God-Man could bring God and man together. Cf. Job 9:32–33.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:6 a ransom. This describes the result of Christ’s substitutionary death for believers, which he did voluntarily (John 10:17–18), and reminds one of Christ’s own statement in Matt. 20:28, “a ransom for many.” The “all” is qualified by the “many.” Not all will be ransomed (though his death would be sufficient), but only the many who believe by the work of the Holy Spirit and for whom the actual atonement was made. See note on 2 Pet. 3:9.

Christ did not pay a ransom only; he became the object of God's just wrath in the believer's place—he died his death and bore his sin (cf. 2 Cor. 5:21; 1 Pet. 2:24). for all. This should be taken in two senses: 1) there are temporal benefits of the atonement that accrue to all people universally (see note on 1 Tim. 4:10), and 2) Christ's death was sufficient to cover the sins of all people. Yet the substitutionary aspect of his death is applied to the elect alone (see above and notes on 2 Cor. 5:14–21). Christ's death is therefore unlimited in its sufficiency, but limited in its application. Because Christ's expiation of sin is indivisible, inexhaustible, and sufficient to cover the guilt of all the sins that will ever be committed, God can clearly offer it to all. Yet only the elect will respond and be saved, according to his eternal purpose (cf. John 17:12). at the proper time. At the appropriate time in God's redemptive plan (see note on Gal. 4:4).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:7 For this. Paul's divine commission was based on the truths delineated in vv. 3–6. preacher. The Greek word derives from the verb that means "to herald," "to proclaim," or "to speak publicly." Paul was a public herald proclaiming the gospel of Christ. apostle. See note on 1:1. I am telling the truth . . . not lying. Paul's emphatic outburst of his apostolic authority and integrity is to emphasize that he was a teacher of the Gentiles. teacher of the Gentiles. The distinctive feature of Paul's apostolic appointment, which demonstrates the universal scope of the gospel. Paul's need to make this distinction suggests he was dealing with some form of Jewish exclusivism that had crippled the Ephesians' interest in praying for Gentiles to be saved.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:8 men. The Greek word for "men" as opposed to women. God intends for men to be the leaders when the church meets for corporate worship. When prayer for the lost is offered during those times, the men are to lead it. every place. Paul's reference to the official assembly of the church (cf. 1 Cor. 1:2; 2 Cor. 2:14; 1 Thess. 1:8). lifting holy hands. Paul is not emphasizing a specific posture necessary for prayer, but a prerequisite for effective prayer (cf. Ps. 66:18). Though this posture is described in the OT (1 Kings 8:22; Ps. 28:2; 63:4; 134:2), so are many others. The Greek word for "holy" means "unpolluted" or "unstained by evil." "Hands" symbolize the activities of life; thus "holy hands" represent a holy life. This basis of effective prayer is a righteous life (James 5:16). without anger or quarreling. "Anger" and righteousness are mutually exclusive (James 1:20; cf. Luke 9:52–56). "Quarreling" refers to a hesitant reluctance to be committed to prayer.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:9–15 Women in the church were living impure and self-centered lives (cf. 5:6, 11–15; 2 Tim. 3:6), and that practice carried over into the worship service, where they became distractions. Because of the centrality of worship in the life of the church, Paul calls on Timothy to confront the problem.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:9 adorn . . . respectable apparel. The Greek word for “adorn” means “to arrange,” “to put in order,” or “to make ready.” A woman is to arrange herself appropriately for the worship service, which includes wearing decent clothing that reflects a properly adorned, chaste heart. with modesty and self-control. “Modesty” refers to modesty mixed with humility, which carries the underlying idea of shame. It can also refer to a rejection of anything dishonorable to God, or refer to grief over sin. “Self-control” basically refers to self-control over sexual passions. Godly women hate sin and control their passions so as not to lead another into sin. See notes on 1 Pet. 3:3–4. braided hair and gold or pearls or costly attire. Specific practices that were causing distraction and discord in the church. Women in the first century often wove “gold or pearls” or other jewelry into their hair styles (“braided hair”) to call attention to themselves and their wealth or beauty. The same was true of those women who wore “costly attire.” By doing so they would draw attention to themselves and away from the Lord, likely causing the poorer women to be envious. Paul’s point was to forbid the preoccupation of certain women with flaunting their wealth and distracting people from worshipping the Lord.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:10 Those women who have publicly committed themselves to pursuing godliness should support that claim not only in their demeanor, wardrobe, and appearance, but by being clothed with righteous behavior.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:11 Let a woman learn. Women are not to be the public teachers when the church assembles, but neither are they to be shut out of the learning process. The form of the Greek verb translated “learn” is an imperative: Paul is commanding that women be taught in the church. That was a novel concept, since neither first-century Judaism nor Greek culture held women in high esteem. Some of the women in Ephesus probably overreacted to the cultural denigration they had typically suffered and took advantage of their opportunity in the church by seeking a dominant role in leadership. quietly . . . submissiveness. “Quietly” and “submissiveness” (“to line up under”) were to characterize the role of a woman as a learner in the context of the church assembly. Paul explains his meaning in v. 12: women are to be silent by not teaching, and they are to demonstrate submission by not usurping the authority of the pastors or elders.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:12 I do not permit. The Greek word for “permit” is used in the NT to refer to allowing someone to do what he desires. Paul may have been addressing a real situation in which several women in Ephesus desired to be public preachers. to teach. Paul used a verbal form of this Greek word that indicates a condition or process and is better translated “to be a teacher.” This was an important, official function in the church (see Acts 13:1; 1 Cor. 12:28; Eph. 4:11). Thus Paul is forbidding women from filling the office and role of the pastor or teacher. He is not prohibiting them from teaching in other appropriate conditions and circumstances (cf. Acts 18:26; Titus 2:3–4). exercise authority over. Paul forbids women from exercising any type of authority over men in the church assembly, since the elders are those who rule (1 Tim. 5:17). They are all to be men (as is clear from the requirements in 3:2, 5). remain quiet. See note on 2:11.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:13–14 A woman’s subordinate role did not result after the fall as a cultural, chauvinistic corruption of God’s perfect design; rather, God established her role as part of his original creation (v. 13). God made woman after man to be his suitable helper (see note on Gen. 2:18; cf. 1 Cor. 11:8–9). The fall actually corroborates God’s divine plan of creation (see notes on Gen. 3:1–7). By nature Eve was not suited to assume the position of ultimate responsibility. By leaving Adam’s protection and usurping his headship, she was vulnerable and fell, thus confirming how important it was for her to stay under the protection and leadership of her husband (see notes on 1 Tim. 5:11–12; 2 Tim. 3:6–7). Adam then violated his leadership role, followed Eve in her sin, and plunged the human race into sinfulness—all connected with violating God’s planned roles for the sexes. Ultimately, the responsibility for the fall still rests with Adam, since he chose to disobey God apart from being deceived (Rom. 5:12–21; 1 Cor. 15:21–22).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:15 she. That Paul does not have Eve in mind here is clear because the verb translated “will be saved” is future, and he also uses the plural pronoun “they.” He is talking about women after Eve. will be saved. The Greek word can also mean “to rescue,” “to preserve safe and unharmed,” “to heal,” or “to deliver from.” It appears several times in the NT without reference to spiritual salvation (cf. Matt. 8:25; 9:21–22; 24:22; 27:40, 42, 49; 2 Tim. 4:18). Paul is not advocating that women are eternally saved from sin through childbearing or that they maintain their salvation by having babies, both of which would be clear contradictions of the NT teaching of salvation by grace alone through faith alone (Rom. 3:19–20) sustained forever (Rom. 8:31–39). Paul is teaching that even though a woman bears the stigma of being the initial instrument who led the race into sin, it is women through childbearing who may be preserved or freed from that stigma by raising a generation of godly children (cf. 1 Tim. 5:10). through childbearing. Because mothers have a unique bond and intimacy with their children, and spend far more time with them than do fathers, they have far greater influence in their lives and thus a unique responsibility and opportunity for rearing godly children. While a woman may have led the human race into sin, women have the privilege of leading many out of sin to godliness. Paul is speaking in general terms; God does not want all women to be married (1 Cor. 7:25–40), let alone bear children. if they continue in faith and love and holiness, with self-control. The godly appearance, demeanor, and behavior commanded of believing women in the church (1 Tim. 2:9–12) is motivated by the promise of deliverance from any inferior status and the joy of raising godly children.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:1–13 Paul’s purpose in writing this letter was to instruct Timothy regarding the church (vv. 14–15). Of primary importance to any church is that its leaders be qualified to teach and set the example for the rest. These verses delineate those qualifications for pastors and deacons (see also notes on Titus 1:5–9).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:1 The saying is trustworthy. See note on 1:15. aspires . . . desires. Two different Greek words are used. The first means “to reach out after.” It describes external action, not internal motive. The second means “a strong passion,” and refers to an inward desire. Taken together, these two words aptly describe the type of man who belongs in the ministry—one who outwardly pursues it because he is driven by a strong internal desire. overseer. The word identifies the men who are responsible to lead the church (cf. 5:17; 1 Thess. 5:12; Heb. 13:7). In the NT the words “overseer,” “elder,” and “pastor” are used interchangeably to describe the same men (Acts 20:17, 28; Titus 1:5–9; 1 Pet. 5:1–2). Overseers (pastors, elders) are responsible to lead (1 Tim. 5:17), preach and teach (5:17), help the spiritually weak (1 Thess. 5:12–14), care for the church (1 Pet. 5:1–2), and ordain other leaders (1 Tim. 4:14).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:2 must. The use of this Greek particle stresses emphatically that living a blameless life is absolutely necessary for church leaders. above reproach. Lit., “not able to be held” in a criminal sense; there is no valid accusation of wrongdoing that can be made against him. No overt, flagrant sin can mar the life of one who must be an example for his people to follow (cf. v. 10; 4:16; 5:7; Ps. 101:6; Phil. 3:17; 2 Thess. 3:9; Heb. 13:7; 1 Pet. 5:3). This is the overarching requirement for elders; the rest of the qualifications elaborate on what it means to be blameless. Titus 1:6–7 uses another Greek word to mean the same thing. the husband of one wife. Lit., in Greek a “one-woman man.” This says nothing about marriage or divorce (for comments on that, see note on 1 Tim. 3:4). The issue is not the elder’s marital status, but his moral and sexual purity. This qualification heads the list, because it is in this area that leaders are most prone to fail. Various interpretations of this qualification have been offered. Some see it as a prohibition against polygamy—an unnecessary injunction since polygamy was not common in Roman society and clearly forbidden by Scripture (Gen. 2:24), the teaching of Jesus (Matt. 19:5–6; Mark 10:6–9), and Paul (Eph. 5:31). A polygamist could not even have been a church member, let alone a church leader. Others see this requirement as barring those who remarried after the death of their wives. But, as already noted, the issue is sexual purity, not marital status. Further, the Bible encourages remarriage after widowhood (1 Tim. 5:14; 1 Cor. 7:39). Some believe that Paul here excludes divorced men from church leadership. That again ignores the fact that this qualification does not deal with marital status. Nor does the Bible prohibit all remarriage after divorce (see notes on Matt. 5:31–32; 19:9; 1 Cor. 7:15). Finally, some think that this requirement excludes single men from church leadership. But if that were Paul’s intent, he would have disqualified himself (1 Cor. 7:8). A “one-woman man” is one totally devoted to his wife, maintaining singular devotion, affection, and sexual purity in both thought and deed. To violate this is to forfeit blamelessness and no longer be “above reproach” (Titus 1:6–7). Cf. Prov. 6:32–33. sober-minded. The Greek word lit. means “wineless,” but is here used metaphorically to mean “alert,” “watchful,” “vigilant,” or “clear-headed.” Elders must be able to think clearly. self-controlled. A “self-controlled” man is disciplined, knows how to properly order his priorities, and is serious about spiritual matters. respectable. The Greek word means “orderly.” Elders must not lead chaotic lives; if they cannot order their own lives, how can they bring order to the church? hospitable. From a compound Greek word meaning “love of strangers” (see notes on Rom. 12:13; Heb. 13:2; cf. 1 Pet. 4:9). As with all spiritual virtues, elders must set the example; their lives and homes are to be open so all can see their spiritual character. able to teach. Used only here and in 2 Tim. 2:24. The only qualification relating to an elder’s giftedness and spiritual ability, and the only one that distinguishes elders from deacons. The preaching and teaching of God’s word is the overseer/pastor/elder’s primary duty (1 Tim.

4:6, 11, 13; 5:17; 2 Tim. 2:15, 24; Titus 2:1).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:3 not a drunkard. More than a mere prohibition against drunkenness (see note on Eph. 5:18). An elder must not have a reputation as a drinker; his judgment must never be clouded by alcohol (cf. Prov. 31:4–5; 1 Cor. 6:12); his lifestyle must be radically different from the world and lead others to holiness, not sin (Rom. 14:21). See note on 1 Tim. 5:23. not violent. Lit., “not a giver of blows.” Elders must react to difficult situations calmly and gently (2 Tim. 2:24–25), and under no circumstances with physical violence. gentle. Considerate, genial, gracious, quick to pardon failure, and one who does not hold a grudge. not quarrelsome. “Peaceful,” “reluctant to fight”; one who does not promote disunity or disharmony. not a lover of money. Elders must be motivated by love for God and his people, not money (cf. Titus 1:7; 1 Pet. 5:2). A leader who is in the ministry for money reveals a heart set on the world, not the things of God (Matt. 6:24; 1 John 2:15). Covetousness characterizes false teachers (Titus 1:11; 2 Pet. 2:1–3, 14; Jude 11), but not Paul’s ministry (Acts 20:33; 1 Cor. 9:1–16; 2 Cor. 11:9; 1 Thess. 2:5).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:4 manage his own household well. The elder’s home life, like his personal life, must be exemplary. He must be one who “manages” (presides over, has authority over) “his own household” (everything connected with his home, not merely his wife and children) “well” (intrinsically good; excellently). Issues of divorce should be related to this matter. A divorced man gives no evidence of a well-managed home, but rather that divorce shows weakness in his spiritual leadership. If there has been a biblically permitted divorce, it must have been so far in the past as to have been overcome by a long pattern of solid family leadership and the rearing of godly children (v. 4; Titus 1:6). submissive. A military term referring to soldiers ranked under one in authority. An elder’s children must be believers (see note on “believers” in Titus 1:6), well-behaved, and respectful.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:5 care for God’s church. An elder must first prove in the intimacy and exposure of his own home his ability to lead others to salvation and sanctification. There he proves God has gifted him uniquely to spiritually set the example of virtue, to serve others, resolve conflicts, build unity, and maintain love. If he cannot do those essential things there, why would anyone assume he would be able to do them in the church?

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:6 not be a recent convert . . . conceit. Putting a new convert into a leadership role would tempt him to pride. Elders, therefore, are to be drawn from the spiritually mature men of the congregation (see notes on 5:22). fall into the condemnation of the devil. Satan's condemnation was due to pride over his position. It resulted in his fall from honor and authority (Isa. 14:12–14; Ezek. 28:11–19; cf. Prov. 16:18). The same kind of fall and judgment could easily happen to a new and weak believer put in a position of spiritual leadership.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:7 well thought of by outsiders. A leader in the church must have an unimpeachable reputation in the unbelieving community, even though people there may disagree with his moral and theological stands. How can he make a spiritual impact on those who do not respect him? Cf. Matt. 5:48 and Phil. 2:15.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:8 Deacons. From a word group meaning “to serve.” Originally referring to menial tasks such as waiting on tables (see notes on Acts 6:1–4), “deacon” came to denote any service in the church. Deacons serve under the leadership of elders, helping them exercise oversight in the practical matters of church life. Scripture defines no official or specific responsibilities for deacons; they are to do whatever the elders assign them or whatever spiritual ministry is necessary. dignified. Serious in mind and character; not silly or flippant about important matters. not double-tongued. Deacons must not say one thing to some people and something else to others; their speech must not be hypocritical, but honest and consistent. not addicted to much wine. Not preoccupied with drink (see note on 1 Tim. 3:3). not greedy for dishonest gain. Like elders (see note on v. 3), deacons must not abuse their office to make money. Such a qualification was especially important in the early church, where deacons routinely handled money, distributing it to those in need.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:9 the mystery. See notes on Matt. 13:11; 1 Cor. 2:7; Eph. 3:4–5. Appearing frequently in Paul's writings (cf. Rom. 11:25; 16:25; Eph. 1:9; 3:9; 6:19; Col. 2:2), the word “mystery” describes truth previously hidden, but now revealed, including Christ's incarnation (1 Tim. 3:16), Christ's indwelling of believers (Col. 1:26–27), the unity of Jews and Gentiles in the church (Eph. 3:4–6), the gospel (Col. 4:3), lawlessness (2 Thess. 2:7), and the rapture of the church (1 Cor. 15:51–52). a clear conscience. See note on 1 Tim. 1:5.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:10 tested first. The present tense of this verb indicates an ongoing evaluation of deacons' character and service by the church. blameless. See note on v. 2.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:11 wives. The Greek word gynē can mean either “wife” or “woman” (see esv footnote). Paul likely here refers not to deacons' wives, but to the women who serve as deacons. The use of the word “likewise” (cf. v. 8) suggests a third group in addition to elders and deacons. Also, since Paul gave no requirements for elders' wives, there is no reason to assume these would be qualifications for deacons' wives. dignified. See note on v. 8. not slanderers. “Slanderers” is the plural form of diabolos—a title frequently given to Satan (Matt. 4:5, 8, 11; 13:39; Luke 4:3, 5–6, 13; 8:12; 1 Pet. 5:8; 1 John 3:8; Rev. 2:10; 12:9, 12; 20:2, 10). The women who serve must not be slanderous and malicious in their speech. sober-minded. See note on 1 Tim. 3:2. faithful in all things. Women servants in the church, like their male counterparts (see note on v. 2), must be absolutely trustworthy in all aspects of their lives and ministries.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:12 husband of one wife. See note on v. 2. managing their children . . . households. See note on v. 4.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:14–16 These verses mark a transition point between the positive instruction of the first three chapters and the warnings of the last three. They reveal the heart of the church's mission (v. 15) and message (v. 16).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:14–15 hope to come to you soon. The Greek grammar suggests Paul's meaning is “These things I write, although I had hoped to come to you sooner.” Delayed in Macedonia (see Introduction: Background and Setting), Paul sent Timothy this letter.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:15 how one ought to behave. The second half of this verse expresses the theme of this epistle—setting things right in the church. household of God. Believers are members of God's household (Gal. 6:10; Eph. 2:19; Heb. 3:6; 1 Pet. 4:17) and must act accordingly. This is not a reference to any building, but to the people who make up the true church. church of the living God. The church is God's possession (Acts 20:28; Eph. 1:14; Titus 2:14; 1 Pet. 2:9). The title “the living God” has a rich OT heritage (Deut. 5:26; Josh. 3:10; 1 Sam. 17:26, 36; 2 Kings 19:4, 16; Ps. 42:2; 84:2; Isa. 37:4, 17; Jer. 10:10; 23:26; Dan. 6:20, 26; Hos. 1:10). pillar and buttress. Paul's imagery may have referred to the magnificent temple of Diana (Artemis) in Ephesus, which was supported by 127 gold-plated marble pillars. The word translated “buttress” appears only here in the NT and denotes the foundation on which a building rests. The church upholds the truth of God’s revealed word. the truth. The content of the Christian faith recorded in Scripture and summed up in 1 Tim. 3:16.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:16 This verse contains part of an early church hymn, as its uniformity, rhythm, and parallelism indicate. Its six lines form a concise summary of the truth of the gospel. mystery of godliness. “Mystery” is that term used by Paul to indicate truth hidden in the OT age and revealed in the NT (see note on v. 9). “Godliness” refers to the truths of salvation and righteousness in Christ, which produce holiness in believers; namely, the manifestation of true and perfect righteousness in Jesus Christ. He was manifested. This reference is clearly to Christ, who manifested the invisible God to mankind (John 1:1–4; 14:9; Col. 1:15; Heb. 1:3; 2 Pet. 1:16–18). in the flesh. Not sinful, fallen human nature here (cf. Rom. 7:18, 25; 8:8; Gal. 5:16–17), but merely humanness (cf. John 1:14; Rom. 1:3; 8:3; 9:5; 1 Pet. 3:18; 1 John 4:2–3; 2 John 7). vindicated by the Spirit. “Vindicated” means “righteous,” so that “spirit” may be written with lowercase “s” indicating a declaration of Christ’s sinless spiritual righteousness (John 8:46; 2 Cor. 5:21; Heb. 4:15; 5:9; 7:26; 1 Pet. 2:21–22; 1 John 2:1), or it could refer to his vindication by the Holy Spirit (Rom. 1:4). seen by angels. Both by fallen (see notes on Col. 2:15; 1 Pet. 3:18–20) and elect (Matt. 28:2; Luke 24:4–7; Acts 1:10–11; Heb. 1:6–9) angels. proclaimed among the nations. Or, Gentiles. See Matt. 24:14; 26:13; 28:19–20; Mark 13:10; Acts 1:8. taken up in glory. See Acts 1:9–10; Phil. 2:8–11; Heb. 1:3. Christ’s ascension and exaltation showed that the Father was pleased with him and accepted his work fully.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:1–5 After already noting the presence of false teachers at Ephesus (1:3–7, 18–20), and countering some of their erroneous teaching with the positive instruction of chs. 2–3, Paul deals directly with the false teachers themselves in this passage, focusing on their origin and content.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:1 the Spirit expressly says. Paul repeats to Timothy the warning he had given many years earlier to the Ephesian elders (Acts 20:29–30). The Holy Spirit through the Scriptures has repeatedly warned of the danger of apostasy (cf. Matt. 24:4–12; Acts 20:29–30; 2 Thess. 2:3–12; Heb. 3:12; 5:11–6:8; 10:26–31; 2 Pet. 3:3; 1 John 2:18; Jude 18). in later times. The period from the first coming of Christ until his return (Acts 2:16–17; Heb. 1:1–2; 9:26; 1 Pet. 1:20; 1 John 2:18). Apostasy will exist throughout that period, reaching a climax shortly before Christ returns (cf. Matt. 24:12). depart from the faith. Those who fall prey to the false teachers will abandon the Christian faith. The Greek word for “depart” is the source of the English word “apostatize,” and refers to someone moving away from an original position. These are professing or nominal Christians who associate with those who truly believe the gospel, but defect after believing lies and deception, thus revealing their true nature as unconverted. See notes on 1 John 2:19 and Jude 24. deceitful spirits. Those demonic spirits, either directly or through false teachers, who have wandered away from the truth and lead others to do the same. The most defining word to describe the entire operation of Satan and his demons is “deception” (cf. John 8:44; 1 John 4:1–6). teachings of demons. Not teaching about demons, but false teaching that originates from them. To sit under such teaching is to hear lies from the demonic realm (Eph. 6:12; James 3:15; 2 John 7–11). The influence of demons will reach its peak during the tribulation (2 Thess. 2:9; Rev. 9:2–11; 16:14; 20:2–3, 8, 10). Satan and demons constantly work the deceptions that corrupt and pervert God’s word.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:2 insincerity of liars. Lit., “hypocritical lie-speakers.” These are the human false teachers who propagate demon doctrine (cf. 1 John 4:1). seared. A medical term referring to cauterization. False teachers can teach their hypocritical lies because their consciences have been desensitized (cf. Eph. 4:19), as if all the nerves that make them feel had been destroyed and turned into scar tissue by the burning of demonic deception. consciences. See note on 1 Tim. 1:5.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:3 forbid marriage . . . abstinence from foods. A sample of the false teaching at Ephesus. Typically, it contained elements of truth, since Scripture commends both singleness (1 Cor. 7:25–35) and fasting (Matt. 6:16–17; 9:14–15). The deception came in making such human works a prerequisite for salvation—a distinguishing mark of all false religion. This ascetic teaching was probably influenced both by the Jewish sect known as the Essenes, and contemporary Greek thought (which viewed matter as evil and spirit as good). Paul addressed this asceticism in Col. 2:21–23 (see notes there). Neither celibacy nor any form of diet saves or sanctifies.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:4 everything created by God is good. The false teachers’ asceticism contradicted Scripture, which teaches that since God created both marriage and food (Gen. 1:28–31; 2:18–24; 9:3), they are intrinsically good (Gen. 1:31) and to be enjoyed with gratitude by believers. Obviously food and marriage are essential for life and procreation.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:5 made holy. Set apart or dedicated to God for holy use. The means for so doing are thankful prayer and an understanding that the word of God has set aside the temporary Mosaic dietary restrictions (Mark 7:19; Acts 10:9–15; Rom. 14:1–12; Col. 2:16–17). Contrast the unbeliever whose inner corruption and evil motives corrupt every good thing (Titus 1:15).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:6 trained . . . words of the faith . . . good doctrine. Continual feeding on the truths of Scripture is essential to the spiritual health of all Christians (2 Tim. 3:16–17), but especially of spiritual leaders like Timothy. Only by reading the word, studying it, meditating on it, and mastering its contents can a pastor fulfill his mandate (2 Tim. 2:15). Timothy had been doing so since childhood (2 Tim. 3:15), and Paul urged him to continue (cf. 1 Tim. 4:16; 2 Tim. 3:14). “Words of the faith” is a general reference to Scripture, God’s revealed truth. “Good doctrine” indicates the theology Scripture teaches.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:7 Have nothing to do with irreverent, silly myths. In addition to being committed to God’s Word (see note on v. 6), believers must avoid all false teaching. Paul denounced such error as “irreverent” (the opposite of what is holy), “silly myths” (muthos, from which the English word “myths” derives). See notes on 2 Tim. 2:14–18. train . . . godliness. “Godliness” (a proper attitude and response toward God; see note on 1 Tim. 2:2) is the prerequisite from which all effective ministry flows. “Train” is an athletic term denoting the rigorous, self-sacrificing exercise an athlete undergoes. Spiritual self-discipline is the path to godly living (cf. 1 Cor. 9:24–27).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:8 some value. Bodily training is limited both in extent and duration; it affects only the physical body during this earthly life. value in every way. In time and eternity.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:9 saying is trustworthy. See note on 1:15.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:10 hope. Believers are saved in hope and live and serve in light of that hope of eternal life (Titus 1:2; 3:7; see note on Rom. 5:2). Working to the point of exhaustion and suffering rejection and persecution are acceptable because believers understand they are doing God’s work—which is the work of salvation. That makes it worth all of the sacrifices (Phil. 1:12–18, 27–30; 2:17; Col. 1:24–25; 2 Tim. 1:6–12; 2:3–4, 9–10; 4:5–8). the Savior of all people, especially of those who believe. Paul is obviously not teaching universalism, that all people will be saved in the spiritual and eternal sense, since the rest of Scripture clearly teaches that God will not save everyone. Most will reject him and spend eternity in hell (Matt. 25:41, 46; Rev. 20:11–15). Yet, the Greek word translated “especially” must mean that all people enjoy God’s salvation in some way like those who believe enjoy his salvation. The simple explanation is that God is the Savior of all people, only in a temporal sense, while of believers in an eternal sense. Paul’s point is that while God graciously delivers believers from sin’s condemnation and penalty because he was their substitute (2 Cor. 5:21), all people experience some earthly benefits from the goodness of God. Those benefits are: 1) common grace—a term that describes God’s goodness shown to all mankind universally (Ps. 145:9) in restraining sin (Rom. 2:15) and judgment (Rom. 2:3–6), maintaining order in society through government (Rom. 13:1–5), enabling man to appreciate beauty and goodness (Ps. 50:2), and showering him with temporal blessings (Matt. 5:45; Acts 14:15–17; 17:25); 2) compassion—the broken-hearted, loving pity that God shows to undeserving, unregenerate sinners (Ex. 34:6, 7; Ps. 86:5; Dan. 9:9; Matt. 23:37; Luke 19:41–44; cf. Isa. 16:11–13; Jer. 48:35–37); 3) admonition to repent—God constantly warns sinners of their fate, demonstrating the heart of a compassionate Creator who has no pleasure in the death of the wicked (Ezek. 18:30–32; 33:11); and 4) the gospel invitation—salvation in Christ is indiscriminately offered to all (Matt. 11:28–29; 22:2–14; John 6:35–40; Rev. 22:17; cf. John 5:39–40). God is, by nature, a saving God. That is, he finds no pleasure in the death of sinners. His saving character is revealed even in how he deals with those who will never believe, but only in these four temporal ways. See notes on 1 Tim. 2:6.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:12 Let no one despise you for your youth. Greek culture placed great value on age and experience. Since Timothy was in his thirties, still young by the standards of that culture, he would have to earn respect by being a godly example. Because he had been with Paul since a young teenager, Timothy had much experience to mature him, so that looking down on him because he was under 40 was inexcusable. set . . . an example. Paul lists five areas in which Timothy was to be an example to the church: “speech” (cf. Matt. 12:34–37; Eph. 4:25, 29, 31); “conduct” (righteous living; cf. Titus 2:10; 1 Pet. 1:15; 2:12; 3:16); “love” (self-sacrificial service for others; cf. John 15:13); “faith” (not belief, but faithfulness or commitment; cf. 1 Cor. 4:2); and “purity” (especially sexual purity; cf. 1 Tim. 3:2). Timothy’s exemplary life in those areas would offset the disadvantage of his youth.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:13 Until I come. See note on 3:14–15. devote . . . teaching. These things were to be Timothy’s constant practice; his way of life. “Reading” refers to the custom of public reading of Scripture in the church’s worship service, followed by the exposition of the passage that had been read (cf. Neh. 8:1–8; Luke 4:16–27). “Exhortation” challenges those who hear the word to apply it in their daily lives. It may involve rebuke, warning, encouragement, or comfort. “Teaching” refers to systematic instruction from the word of God (cf. 1 Tim. 3:2; Titus 1:9).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:14 the gift. That grace given to Timothy and to all believers at salvation, which consisted of a God-designed, Spirit-empowered spiritual ability for the use of ministry (see notes on Rom. 12:4–8; 1 Cor. 12:4–12; 1 Pet. 4:10–11). Timothy’s gift (cf. 2 Tim. 1:6) was leadership with special emphasis on preaching (2 Tim. 4:2), and teaching (1 Tim. 4:6, 11, 13; 6:2). by prophecy. Timothy’s gift was identified by a revelation from God (see note on 1:18) and apostolic confirmation (2 Tim. 1:6), probably when he joined Paul on the apostle’s second missionary journey (Acts 16:1–3). elders laid their hands on you. See note on 1 Tim. 5:22. This public affirmation of Timothy’s call to the ministry likely took place at the same time as the prophecy (cf. 2 Tim. 1:6). His call to the ministry was thus confirmed subjectively (by means of his spiritual gift), objectively (through the prophecy made about him), and collectively (by the affirmation of apostles and the church, represented by the elders).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:15 progress. The word was used in military terms of an advancing force and in general terms of advancement in learning, understanding, or knowledge. Paul exhorted Timothy to let his progress toward Christlikeness be evident to all.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:16 on yourself and on the teaching. The priorities of a godly leader are summed up in his personal holiness and public teaching. All of Paul’s exhortations in vv. 6–16 fit into one or the other of those two categories. you will save both yourself. Perseverance in believing the truth always accompanies genuine conversion (see note on Matt. 24:13; cf. John 8:31; Rom. 2:7; Phil. 2:12–13; Col. 1:23). your hearers. By careful attention to his own godly life and faithful preaching of the word, Timothy would continue to be the human instrument God used to bring the gospel and to save some who heard him. Though salvation is God’s work, it is his pleasure to do it through human instruments.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:1 rebuke. Some translations add “sharply” to the word “rebuke,” which fills out the intensity of the Greek term. An older sinning believer is to be shown respect by not being addressed with harsh words (cf. 2 Tim. 2:24–25). an older man. In this context, the Greek is indicating older men generally, not the office of elder. The younger Timothy was to confront sinning older men with deference and honor, which is clearly inferred from OT principles (cf. Lev. 19:32; Job 32:4, 6; Prov. 4:1–4; 16:31; 20:29). encourage. This Greek word, which is related to a title for the Holy Spirit (paracletos; cf. John 14:16, 26; 15:26; 16:7), refers to coming alongside someone to help. It may best be translated strengthen. We are to strengthen our fellow believers (cf. Gal. 6:1–2) in the same way the Scripture (Rom. 15:4) and the Holy Spirit do.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:3–16 This section supports the mandate of Scripture that women who have lost the support of their husbands are to be cared for (cf. Ex. 22:22–24; Deut. 27:19; Isa. 1:17). God’s continual compassion for widows only reinforces this command (cf. Ps. 68:5; 146:9; Mark 12:41–44; Luke 7:11–17).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:3 Honor. “To show respect or care,” “to support,” or “to treat graciously.” Although it includes meeting all kinds of needs, Paul had in mind here not only this broad definition, but primarily financial support (cf. Ex. 20:12; Matt. 15:1–6; 27:9). truly widows. Not all widows are truly alone and without resources. Financial support from the church is mandatory only for widows who have no means to provide for their daily needs.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:4 widow has children or grandchildren. Families, not the church, have the first responsibility for their own widows. return to their parents. Children and grandchildren are indebted to those who brought them into the world, reared them, and loved them. Fulfilling this responsibility is a mark of godly obedience (cf. Ex. 20:12).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:5 left all alone. See note on v. 3. The form of this Greek word denotes a permanent condition of being forsaken and left without resources. She is “really” a widow, since there is no family to support her. set her hope on God. A continual state or settled attitude of hope in God (cf. 1 Kings 17:8–16; Jer. 49:11). Since she has no one else, she pleads with God as her only hope.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:6 dead even while she lives. A widow who lives a worldly, immoral, ungodly life may be alive physically, but her lifestyle proves she is unregenerate and spiritually dead (cf. Eph. 2:1).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:7 without reproach. See notes on 3:2 and Phil. 2:15. “Without reproach” means “blameless,” so that no one can fault their conduct.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:8 if. Better translated, “since.” Paul negatively restated the positive principle of v. 4, using the Greek construction that implies the condition is true, suggesting that there were numerous violations of that principle at Ephesus. Any believer who fails to obey this command is guilty of: 1) denying the principle of compassionate Christian love (cf. John 13:35; Rom. 5:5; 1 Thess. 4:9); and 2) being “worse than an unbeliever.” Most pagans naturally fulfill this duty, so believers who have God’s command and power to carry it out and do not, behave worse than pagans. Cf. 1 Cor. 5:1–2.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:9 be enrolled. This was not a list of those widows eligible for specially recognized church support (all widows in the church who had no other means of support were; v. 3), but rather those eligible for specially recognized church ministry (cf. Titus 2:3–5). not less than sixty. In NT culture, 60 was considered retirement age. By that age, older women would have completed their child-rearing and would have the time, maturity, and character to devote their lives in service to God and the church. They also would not be likely to remarry and become preoccupied with that commitment. the wife of one husband. Lit., “one-man woman” (cf. 1 Tim. 3:2, 12). It does not exclude women who have been married more than once (cf. v. 14; 1 Cor. 7:39), but it refers to a woman totally devoted and faithful to her husband, a wife who had displayed purity of thought and action in her marriage.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:10 has brought up children. This views the godly widow as a Christian mother who has nourished or reared children who have followed the Lord (see note on 2:15). washed the feet of the saints. The menial duty of slaves. It is used literally and metaphorically of widows who have humble servants’ hearts (see notes on John 13:4–17). every good work. Cf. Dorcas in Acts 9:36–39.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:11 passions. This is an expression that includes all that is involved in the marriage relationship, including sexual passion. Paul saw the danger that younger widows might want to escape from their vows to remain single (see note on v. 12) and be devoted only to God’s service (cf. Num. 30:9); he knew the negative impact such feelings could have on young widows’ personal lives and ministry within the church. Such women were also marked out by false teachers as easy prey (2 Tim. 3:6–7), causing them to leave the truth (1 Tim. 5:15).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:12 abandoned their former faith. This refers to a specific covenant young widows made when asking to be included on the widows' list. Likely, they promised to devote the rest of their lives in service to the church and the Lord. Though well-meaning at the time of their need and bereavement, they were surely to desire marriage again (see v. 11), and thus renege on their original pledge.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:13 gossips. Such people speak nonsense, talk idly, make empty charges, or even accuse others with malicious words. This idleness and talk also made them suitable targets for the false teachers (1:6). busybodies. Lit., “one who moves around.” The implication is that such people pry into things that do not concern them; they do not mind their own business.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:14 bear children. The younger widows were still of childbearing age. Although they had lost their first husbands, there was still the potential privilege and blessing of remarrying and having children (see notes on 2:15; cf. Ps. 127:3, 5). manage their households. The Greek term denotes all the aspects of household administration, not merely the rearing of children. The home is the domain where a married woman fulfills herself in God's design. See notes on Titus 2:4–5.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:15 Some of the young widows had given up their commitment to serve Christ (see notes on vv. 11–12), perhaps either by following false teachers and spreading their false doctrine or by marrying unbelievers and bringing disgrace upon the church. Satan. The devil, the believer's adversary (see notes on Job 1:6–12; 2:1–7; Isa. 14:12–15; Ezek. 28:12–15; Rev. 12:9).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:16 woman. Paul restates the message of vv. 4–8 with the addition that as the situation warrants, Christian women are included in this responsibility for support of widows.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:17–25 The source of much of the Ephesian church's difficulties was the inadequacy of the pastors. So Paul explains to Timothy how to restore proper pastoral oversight. He sets forth the church's obligations in regard to honoring, protecting, rebuking, and selecting elders.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:17 elders. This identifies the “overseer” (3:1) who is also called pastor (Eph. 4:11). See notes on 1 Tim. 3:1–7 and Titus 1:6–9. rule well. Elders are spiritual rulers in the church. Cf. 1 Thess. 5:12–13 and Heb. 13:7, 17. double honor. Elders who serve with greater commitment, excellence, and effort should have greater acknowledgment from their congregations. This expression does not mean such men should receive exactly twice as much remuneration as others, but because they have earned such respect they should be paid more generously. especially. Means “chiefly” or “particularly.” Implicit is the idea that some elders will work harder than others and be more prominent in ministry. labor. Lit., “work to the point of fatigue or exhaustion.” The Greek word stresses the effort behind the work more than the amount of work. preaching and teaching. See note on 1 Tim. 4:13. The first emphasizes proclamation, along with exhortation and admonition, and calls for a heart response to the Lord. The second is an essential fortification against heresy and puts more stress on instruction.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:18 For the Scripture says. A typical formula for introducing biblical references, in this instance both an OT (Deut. 25:4) and NT (Luke 10:7) one. It is also very significant that this is a case of one NT writer (Paul) affirming the inspiration of another by referring to Luke’s writing as “Scripture” (cf. 2 Pet. 3:15–16), which shows the high view that the early church took of NT Scripture.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:19 two or three witnesses. Serious accusations against elders must be investigated and confirmed by the same process as established in Matt. 18:15–20 (see notes there). This process for the whole church also applies to elders. This demand does not place elders beyond accusation, but protects them from frivolous, evil accusers, by demanding the same process of confirmation of sin as for all in the church.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:20 those who persist in sin. Elders who continue in any kind of sin after the confrontation of two or three witnesses, especially any that violates the qualifications to serve (3:2–7). in the presence of all. The other elders and the congregation. The third step of confrontation, established in Matt. 18:17, is to tell the church, so that they can all confront the person and call him to repentance.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:21 God . . . Christ Jesus . . . charge. Cf. 6:13; see note on 2 Tim. 4:1. the elect angels. The unfallen angels, as opposed to Satan and his demons. This indicates that God’s sovereign purpose to choose those beings who would be part of his eternal kingdom included angels whom he chose to eternal glory. Christians are also called “elect” (Rom. 8:33). without prejudging . . . partiality. All discipline of elders is to be done fairly, without prejudgment or personal preference, according to the standards of Scripture.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:22 Do not be hasty in the laying on of hands. The ceremony that affirmed a man’s suitability for and acceptance into public ministry as an elder/pastor/overseer. This came from the OT practice of laying hands on a sacrificial animal to identify with it (Ex. 29:10, 15, 19; Lev. 4:15; cf. Num. 8:10; 27:18–23; Deut. 34:9; Matt. 19:15; Acts 8:17–18; 9:17; Heb. 6:2). “Hasty” refers to proceeding with this ceremony without a thorough investigation and preparation period to be certain of the man’s qualifications (as in 1 Tim. 3:1–7). take part in the sins of others. This refers to the sin of hasty ordination, which makes those responsible culpable for the man’s sin of serving as an unqualified elder and, thus, misleading people. keep yourself pure. Paul wanted Timothy, by not participating in the recognition of unqualified elders, to remain untainted by others’ sins. The church desperately needed qualified spiritual leaders, but the selection had to be carefully executed.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:23 No longer drink only water. “Water” in the ancient world was often polluted and carried many diseases. Therefore Paul urged Timothy not to risk illness, not even for the sake of a commitment to abstinence from wine. Apparently Timothy avoided wine, so as not to place himself in harm’s way (see note on 3:3). use a little wine . . . ailments. Paul wanted Timothy to use wine which, because of fermentation, acted as a disinfectant to protect his health problems due to the harmful effects of impure water. With this advice, however, Paul was not advocating that Timothy lower the high standard of behavior for leaders (cf. Num. 6:1–4; Prov. 31:4–5).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:24 sins . . . are conspicuous. The sins of some people are manifest for all to see, thus disqualifying them out of hand for service as elders. going before them to judgment. The known sins of the unqualified announce those men’s guilt and unfitness before all. “Judgment” refers to the church’s process for determining men’s suitability to serve as elders. later. The sins of other candidates for elder will come to light in time, perhaps even during the scrutiny of the evaluation process.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 5:25 The same is true of good works. Some are evident;

others come to light later. Time and truth go hand in hand. The whole emphasis in this instruction regarding choosing elders, according to the qualifications of 3:1–7, is to be patient, fair, impartial, and pure (5:21–25). Such an approach will yield the right choices.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:1–2 The Ephesian believers may have been struggling to maintain a biblical work ethic in the world of slavery, so these verses form Paul’s instruction on that subject. Essentially, first-century slaves resembled the indentured servants of the American colonial period. In many cases, slaves were better off than day-laborers, since much of their food, clothing, and shelter was provided. The system of slavery served as the economic structure in the Roman world, and the master-slave relationship closely parallels the twentieth-century employer-employee relationship. For more on slaves, see Introduction to Philemon: Background and Setting.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:1 under a yoke. A colloquial expression describing submissive service under another’s authority, not necessarily describing an abusive relationship (cf. Matt. 11:28–30). slaves. They are people who are in submission to another. It carries no negative connotation and is often positive when used in connection with the Lord serving the Father (Phil. 2:7), and believers serving God (1 Pet. 2:16), the Lord (Rom. 1:1; Gal. 1:10; 2 Tim. 2:24; James 1:1), non-Christians (1 Cor. 9:19), and other believers (Gal. 5:13). masters. The Greek word for “master,” while giving us the English word “despot,” does not carry a negative connotation. Instead, it refers to one with absolute and unrestricted authority. all honor. This translates into diligent and faithful labor for one’s employer. See notes on Eph. 6:5–9 and Col. 3:22–25. the teaching. The revelation of God summed up in the gospel. How believers act while under the authority of another affects how people view the message of salvation Christians proclaim (see notes on Titus 2:5–14). Displaying a proper attitude of submission and respect, and performing quality work, help make the gospel message believable (Matt. 5:48).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:2 believing masters. The tendency might be to assume one’s equality in Christ with a Christian master, and disdain the authority related to work roles. On the contrary, working for a Christian should produce more loyal and diligent service out of love for the brethren. Teach. Lit., “to call to one’s side.” The particular emphasis here is on a strong urging, directing, and insisting on following the principles for correct behavior in the workplace.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:3 Paul identifies three characteristics of false teachers: 1) they teach “a different doctrine”—a different teaching that contradicts God’s revelation in Scripture (see notes on Gal. 1:6–9); 2) they do “not agree with the sound words”—they do not accept sound, healthy teaching, specifically the teaching contained in Scripture (2 Pet. 3:16); and 3) they reject “teaching that accords with godliness”—teaching not based on Scripture will always result in an unholy life. Instead of godliness, false teachers will be marked by sin (see notes on 2 Pet. 2:10–22; cf. Jude 4, 8–16).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:4 controversy and for quarrels about words. “Controversy” refers to idle speculation; “quarrels about words” lit. means “word battles.” Because proud, ignorant false teachers do not understand divine truth (2 Cor. 2:14), they obsess over terminology and attack the reliability and authority of Scripture. Every kind of strife is mentioned to indicate that false teachers produce nothing of benefit out of their fleshly, corrupt, and empty minds (1 Tim. 6:5).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:5 deprived of the truth. False teachers are in a state of apostasy; that is, although they once knew and seemed to embrace the truth, they turned to openly reject it. The Greek word for “deprived” means “to steal” or “to rob,” and its form here indicates that someone or something was pulled away from contact with the truth (it does not mean they were ever saved; see note on 1:19; cf. 2 Tim. 2:18; 3:7–8; Heb. 6:4–6; 2 Pet. 2:1, 4–9). a means of gain. Almost always behind all the efforts of the hypocritical, lying (1 Tim. 4:2) false teachers is the driving motivation of monetary gain (cf. Acts 8:18–23; 2 Pet. 2:15).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:6 contentment. This Greek word means “self-sufficiency,” and was used by Stoic philosophers to describe a person who was unflappable and unmoved by external circumstances. Christians are to be satisfied and sufficient, and not to seek for more than what God has already given them. He is the source of true contentment (2 Cor. 3:5; 9:8; Phil. 4:11–13, 19).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:8 have food and clothing . . . be content. The basic necessities of life are what ought to make Christians content. Paul does not condemn having possessions, as long as God graciously provides them (v. 17). He does, however, condemn a self-indulgent desire for money, which results from discontentment. See note on Matt. 6:33.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:9 those who desire to be rich fall into temptation. Greedy people are compulsive—they are continually trapped in sins by their consuming desire to acquire more. ruin and destruction. Such greed may lead these people to suffer the tragic end of destruction and hell. These terms refer to the eternal punishment of the wicked.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:10 love of money. Lit., “affection for silver.” In the context, this sin applies to false teachers specifically, but the principle is true universally. Money itself is not evil since it is a gift from God (Deut. 8:18); Paul condemns only the love of it (cf. Matt. 6:24), which is so characteristic of false teachers (see notes on 1 Pet. 5:2; 2 Pet. 2:1–3, 15). wandered away from the faith. From the body of Christian truth. Gold has replaced God for these apostates, who have turned away from pursuing the things of God in favor of money.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:11 these things. Love of money and all that goes with it (vv. 6–10), along with the other proud obsessions of false teachers (vv. 3–5). man of God. Cf. 2 Tim. 3:17. This is a term used in the NT only for Timothy; as a technical term it is used about 70 times in the OT, always to refer to a man who officially spoke for God (see note on Deut. 33:1). This, along with 1 Tim. 1:2 and 2:1, indicates that the letter is primarily directed to Timothy, exhorting him to be faithful and strong in light of persecution and difficulty—and particularly with Paul’s death near (see Introduction to 2 Timothy: Background and Setting). The man of God is known by what he: 1) flees from (1 Tim. 6:11); 2) follows after (v. 11); 3) fights for (v. 12); and 4) is faithful to (vv. 13–14). The key to his success in all these endeavors is the perfection produced in him by the Scripture (2 Tim. 3:16–17). righteousness, godliness. “Righteousness” means to do what is right, in relation to both God and man, and it emphasizes outward behavior. “Godliness” (see note on 1 Tim. 2:2) refers to one’s reverence for God, and could be translated “Godlikeness.”

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:12 Fight the good fight of the faith. The Greek word for “fight” gives us the English word “agonize,” and was used in both military and athletic endeavors to describe the concentration, discipline, and extreme effort needed to win. The “good fight of the faith” is the spiritual conflict with Satan’s kingdom of darkness in which all men of God are necessarily involved. See notes on 2 Cor. 10:3–5 and 2 Tim. 4:2. Take hold of the eternal life. Paul is here admonishing Timothy to “get a grip” on the reality of the matters associated with eternal life, so that he would live and minister with a heavenly and eternal perspective (cf. Phil. 3:20; Col. 3:2). to which you were called. Refers to God’s effectual, sovereign call of Timothy to salvation (see note on Rom. 1:7). good confession. Timothy’s public confession of faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, which likely occurred at his baptism and again when he was ordained to the ministry (1 Tim. 4:14; 2 Tim. 1:6).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:13 charge . . . God . . . Christ Jesus. Cf. 5:21; see note on 2 Tim. 4:1. before Pontius Pilate made the good confession. Knowing that such a confession would cost him his life, Jesus nevertheless confessed that he was truly the King and Messiah (John 18:33–37). He rarely evaded danger (cf. John 7:1); he boldly and trustfully committed himself to God who raises the dead (cf. Col. 2:12).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:14 the commandment. The entire revealed word of God, which Paul charged Timothy to preach (2 Tim. 4:2). Paul also repeatedly encouraged Timothy to guard it (1 Tim. 6:20; 1:18–19; 4:6, 16; 2 Tim. 1:13–14; 2:15–18). appearing. When the Lord returns to earth in glory (cf. 2 Tim. 4:1, 8; Titus 2:13) to judge and to establish his kingdom (Matt. 24:27, 29–30; 25:31). Because Christ’s return is imminent, that ought to be motivation enough for the man of God to remain faithful to his calling until he dies or the Lord returns (cf. Acts 1:8–11; 1 Cor. 4:5; Rev. 22:12).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:15 at the proper time. The time, known only to him, that God established in eternity past for Christ to return (Mark 13:32; Acts 1:7). Sovereign. This word comes from a Greek word group that basically means “power.” God is absolutely sovereign and omnipotently rules everything everywhere. King of kings and Lord of lords. A title used of Christ (Rev. 17:14; 19:16) is here used of God the Father. Paul probably used this title for God to confront the cult of emperor worship, intending to communicate that only God is sovereign and worthy of worship.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:16 whom no one has ever seen or can see. God in spirit is invisible (cf. 1:17; Job 23:8–9; John 1:18; 5:37; Col. 1:15) and, therefore, unapproachable in the sense that sinful man has never seen nor can he ever see his full glory (cf. Ex. 33:20; Isa. 6:1–5).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:17–19 Paul counsels Timothy what to teach those who are rich in material possessions, those who have more than the mere essentials of food, clothing, and shelter. Paul does not condemn such people, nor command them to get rid of their wealth. He does call them to be good stewards of their God-given resources (cf. Deut. 8:18; 1 Sam. 2:7; 1 Chron. 29:12).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:17 haughty. “To have an exalted opinion of oneself.” Those who have an abundance are constantly tempted to look down on others and act superior. Riches and pride often go together, and the wealthier a person is, the more he is tempted to be proud (Prov. 18:23; 28:11; James 2:1–4). uncertainty of riches . . . richly provides us. Those who have much tend to trust in their wealth (cf. Prov. 23:4–5). But God provides far more security than any earthly investment can ever give (Eccles. 5:18–20; Matt. 6:19–21).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:18 ready to share. The Greek word means “liberal,” or “bountiful.” Those believers who have money must use it in meeting the needs of others, unselfishly and generously (see notes on Acts 4:32–37; 2 Cor. 8:1–4).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:19 storing up . . . a good foundation. “Storing up” can be translated “amassing a treasure,” while “foundation” can refer to a fund. The idea is that the rich in this world should not be concerned with receiving a return on their earthly investment. Those who make eternal investments will be content to receive their dividends in heaven. See notes on Luke 16:1–13. take hold of . . . truly life. See note on 1 Tim. 6:12.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:20–21 The church’s main responsibility is to guard and proclaim the truths of Scripture, so Paul here instructs Timothy on how to guard and protect the word of God.

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:20 deposit entrusted to you. The deposit Timothy was to guard is the truth—the divine revelation that God committed to his care. Every Christian, especially if he is in ministry, has that sacred trust to guard the revelation of God (cf. 1 Cor. 4:1; 1 Thess. 2:3–4). what is falsely called “knowledge.” False doctrine—anything claiming to be the truth that is in fact a lie. False teachers typically claim to have the superior knowledge (as in Gnosticism). They claim to know the transcendent secrets, but actually are ignorant and infantile in their understanding (see notes on Col. 2:8).

1 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 6:21 Grace be with you. Paul’s closing salutation is plural, i.e., “you all”—it goes beyond Timothy to the entire congregation at Ephesus. All believers require the grace of God to preserve the truth and pass it on to the next generation.

Introduction to 2 Timothy

Title

This epistle is the second of two inspired letters Paul the apostle wrote to his son in the faith, Timothy (1:2; 2:1). For biographical information on Timothy, see Introduction to 1 Timothy: Title. It is titled, as are the other personal letters of Paul to individuals (1 Timothy, Titus, and Philemon), with the name of the addressee (2 Tim. 1:2).

Author and Date

The issue of Paul's authorship of the Pastoral Epistles is discussed in the Introduction to 1 Timothy: Author and Date. Paul wrote 2 Timothy, the last of his inspired letters, shortly before his martyrdom (c. A.D. 67).

Background and Setting

Paul was released from his first Roman imprisonment for a short period of ministry during which he wrote 1 Timothy and Titus. Second Timothy, however, finds Paul once again in a Roman prison (1:16; 2:9), apparently rearrested as part of Nero's persecution of Christians. Unlike Paul's confident hope of release during his first imprisonment (Phil. 1:19, 25–26; 2:24; Philem. 22), this time he had no such hopes (2 Tim. 4:6–8). In his first imprisonment in Rome (c. A.D. 60–62), before Nero had begun the persecution of Christians (A.D. 64), he was only under house arrest and had opportunity for much interaction with people and ministry (Acts 28:16–31). At this time, however, five or six years later (c. A.D. 66–67), he was in a cold cell (2 Tim. 4:13), in chains (2:9), and with no hope of deliverance (4:6). Abandoned by virtually all of those close to him for fear of persecution (cf. 1:15; 4:9–12, 16) and facing imminent execution, Paul wrote to Timothy, urging him to hasten to Rome for one last visit with the apostle (4:9, 21). Whether Timothy made it to Rome before Paul's execution is not known. According to tradition, Paul was not released from this second Roman imprisonment, but suffered the martyrdom he had foreseen (4:6).

In this letter, Paul, aware the end was near, passed the non-apostolic mantle of ministry to Timothy (cf. 2:2) and exhorted him to continue faithful in his duties (1:6), hold on to sound doctrine (1:13–14), avoid error (2:15–18), accept persecution for the gospel (2:3–4; 3:10–12), put his confidence in the Scripture, and preach it relentlessly (3:15–4:5).

Historical and Theological Themes

It seems that Paul may have had reason to fear that Timothy was in danger of weakening spiritually. This would have been a grave concern for Paul since Timothy needed to carry on Paul's work (cf. 2:2). While there are no historical indications elsewhere in the NT as to why Paul was so concerned, there is evidence in the epistle itself from what he wrote. This concern is evident, for example, in Paul's exhortation to "fan into flame" his gift (1:6); to replace fear with power, love, and a sound mind (1:7); to not be ashamed of Paul and the Lord, but willingly suffer for the gospel (1:8); and to hold on to the truth (1:13–14). Summing up the potential problem of Timothy, who might be weakening under the pressure of the church and the persecution of the world, Paul calls him to 1) generally "be strengthened" (2:1), the key exhortation of the first part of the letter, and to 2) continue to "preach the word" (4:2), the main admonition of the last part. These final words to Timothy include few commendations but many admonitions, including about 25 imperatives.

Since Timothy was well versed in Paul's theology, the apostle did not instruct him further doctrinally. He did, however, allude to several important doctrines, including salvation by God's sovereign grace (1:9–10; 2:10), the person of Christ (2:8; 4:1, 8), and perseverance (2:11–13); plus Paul wrote the crucial text of the NT on the inspiration of Scripture (3:16–17).

Interpretive Challenges

There are no major challenges in this letter involving theological issues. There is limited data regarding several individuals named in the epistle; e.g., Phygelus and Hermogenes (1:15), Onesiphorus (1:16; cf. 4:19), Hymenaeus and Philetus (2:17–18), Jannes and Jambres (3:8), and Alexander (4:14).

THE SECOND LETTER OF PAUL TO TIMOTHY

2 Timothy

Greeting

2 TIMOTHY 1 1 †Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God according to the promise of the life that is in Christ Jesus, 2 †To Timothy, my beloved child: Grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

Guard the Deposit Entrusted to You

3 †I thank God whom I serve, as did my ancestors, with a clear conscience, as I remember you constantly in my prayers night and day. 4 †As I remember your tears, I long to see you, that I may be filled with joy. 5 †I am reminded of your sincere faith, a faith that dwelt first in your grandmother Lois and your mother Eunice and now, I am sure, dwells in you as well. 6 †For this reason I remind you to fan into flame the gift of God, which is in you through the laying on of my hands, 7 †for God gave us a spirit not of fear but of power and love and self-control.

8 †Therefore do not be ashamed of the testimony about our Lord, nor of me his prisoner, but share in suffering for the gospel by the power of God, 9 †who saved us and called us to [\[1\]](#) a holy calling, not because of our works but because of his own purpose and grace, which he gave us in Christ Jesus before the ages began, [\[2\]](#) 10 †and which now has been manifested through the appearing of our Savior Christ Jesus, who abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel, 11 †for which I was appointed a preacher and apostle and teacher, 12 †which is why I suffer as I do. But I am not ashamed, for I know whom I have believed, and I am convinced that he is able to guard until that Day what has been entrusted to me. [\[3\]](#) 13 †Follow the pattern of the sound [\[4\]](#) words that you have heard from me, in the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. 14 †By the Holy Spirit who dwells within us, guard the good deposit entrusted to you.

15 †You are aware that all who are in Asia turned away from me, among whom are Phygelus and Hermogenes. 16 †May the Lord grant mercy to the household of Onesiphorus, for he often refreshed me and was not ashamed of my chains, 17 †but when he arrived in Rome he searched for me earnestly and found me—

<sup>18</sup>† may the Lord grant him to find mercy from the Lord on that Day!—and you well know all the service he rendered at Ephesus.

A Good Soldier of Christ Jesus

2 TIMOTHY 2 † You then, my child, be strengthened by the grace that is in Christ Jesus, † and what you have heard from me in the presence of many witnesses entrust to faithful men who will be able to teach others also. † Share in suffering as a good soldier of Christ Jesus. † No soldier gets entangled in civilian pursuits, since his aim is to please the one who enlisted him. † An athlete is not crowned unless he competes according to the rules. † It is the hard-working farmer who ought to have the first share of the crops. † Think over what I say, for the Lord will give you understanding in everything.

† Remember Jesus Christ, risen from the dead, the offspring of David, as preached in my gospel, † for which I am suffering, bound with chains as a criminal. But the word of God is not bound! † Therefore I endure everything for the sake of the elect, that they also may obtain the salvation that is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory. † The saying is trustworthy, for: If we have died with him, we will also live with him; † if we endure, we will also reign with him; if we deny him, he also will deny us; † if we are faithless, he remains faithful—for he cannot deny himself.

A Worker Approved by God

† Remind them of these things, and charge them before God [\[1\]](#) not to quarrel about words, which does no good, but only ruins the hearers. † Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, [\[2\]](#) a worker who has no need to be ashamed, rightly handling the word of truth. † But avoid irreverent babble, for it will lead people into more and more ungodliness, † and their talk will spread like gangrene. Among them are Hymenaeus and Philetus, † who have swerved from the truth, saying that the resurrection has already happened. They are upsetting the faith of some. † But God's firm foundation stands, bearing this seal: "The Lord knows those who are his," and, "Let everyone who names the name of the Lord depart from iniquity."

† Now in a great house there are not only vessels of gold and silver but also of wood and clay, some for honorable use, some for dishonorable. † Therefore, if anyone cleanses himself from what is dishonorable, [\[3\]](#) he will be a vessel for honorable use, set apart as holy, useful to the master of the house, ready for every good work.

<sup>22</sup>† So flee youthful passions and pursue righteousness, faith, love, and peace, along with those who call on the Lord from a pure heart. <sup>23</sup>† Have nothing to do with foolish, ignorant controversies; you know that they breed quarrels. <sup>24</sup>† And the Lord's servant [4] must not be quarrelsome but kind to everyone, able to teach, patiently enduring evil, <sup>25</sup>† correcting his opponents with gentleness. God may perhaps grant them repentance leading to a knowledge of the truth, <sup>26</sup>† and they may come to their senses and escape from the snare of the devil, after being captured by him to do his will.

Godlessness in the Last Days

2 TIMOTHY 3 †But understand this, that in the last days there will come times of difficulty. <sup>2</sup>†For people will be lovers of self, lovers of money, proud, arrogant, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy, <sup>3</sup>heartless, unappeasable, slanderous, without self-control, brutal, not loving good, <sup>4</sup>treacherous, reckless, swollen with conceit, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God, <sup>5</sup>†having the appearance of godliness, but denying its power. Avoid such people. <sup>6</sup>†For among them are those who creep into households and capture weak women, burdened with sins and led astray by various passions, <sup>7</sup>†always learning and never able to arrive at a knowledge of the truth. <sup>8</sup>†Just as Jannes and Jambres opposed Moses, so these men also oppose the truth, men corrupted in mind and disqualified regarding the faith. <sup>9</sup>†But they will not get very far, for their folly will be plain to all, as was that of those two men.

All Scripture Is Breathed Out by God

<sup>10</sup>You, however, have followed my teaching, my conduct, my aim in life, my faith, my patience, my love, my steadfastness, <sup>11</sup>†my persecutions and sufferings that happened to me at Antioch, at Iconium, and at Lystra—which persecutions I endured; yet from them all the Lord rescued me. <sup>12</sup>†Indeed, all who desire to live a godly life in Christ Jesus will be persecuted, <sup>13</sup>†while evil people and impostors will go on from bad to worse, deceiving and being deceived. <sup>14</sup>†But as for you, continue in what you have learned and have firmly believed, knowing from whom [\[1\]](#) you learned it <sup>15</sup>†and how from childhood you have been acquainted with the sacred writings, which are able to make you wise for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus. <sup>16</sup>†All Scripture is breathed out by God and profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness, <sup>17</sup>†that the man of God [\[2\]](#) may be competent, equipped for every good work.

Preach the Word

2 TIMOTHY 4 †I charge you in the presence of God and of Christ Jesus, who is to judge the living and the dead, and by his appearing and his kingdom: †preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, and exhort, with complete patience and teaching. †For the time is coming when people will not endure sound [1] teaching, but having itching ears they will accumulate for themselves teachers to suit their own passions, †and will turn away from listening to the truth and wander off into myths. †As for you, always be sober-minded, endure suffering, do the work of an evangelist, fulfill your ministry.

††For I am already being poured out as a drink offering, and the time of my departure has come. †I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. †Henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, will award to me on that Day, and not only to me but also to all who have loved his appearing.

Personal Instructions

††Do your best to come to me soon. †For Demas, in love with this present world, has deserted me and gone to Thessalonica. Crescens has gone to Galatia, [2] Titus to Dalmatia. †Luke alone is with me. Get Mark and bring him with you, for he is very useful to me for ministry. †Tychicus I have sent to Ephesus. †When you come, bring the cloak that I left with Carpus at Troas, also the books, and above all the parchments. †Alexander the coppersmith did me great harm; the Lord will repay him according to his deeds. †Beware of him yourself, for he strongly opposed our message. †At my first defense no one came to stand by me, but all deserted me. May it not be charged against them! †But the Lord stood by me and strengthened me, so that through me the message might be fully proclaimed and all the Gentiles might hear it. So I was rescued from the lion's mouth. †The Lord will rescue me from every evil deed and bring me safely into his heavenly kingdom. To him be the glory forever and ever. Amen.

Final Greetings

†Greet Prisca and Aquila, and the household of Onesiphorus. †Erastus remained at Corinth, and I left Trophimus, who was ill, at Miletus. †Do your best to come before winter. Eubulus sends greetings to you, as do Pudens and Linus and Claudia and all the brothers. [3]

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:1–2 Paul reminded Timothy that, despite their intimate spiritual relationship, the apostle wrote to him with spiritual authority given him by God. This established the necessity that not only Timothy, but also all others, comply with the inspired mandates of the epistle.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:1 apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God. See note on 1 Tim. 1:1. His call was according to God's sovereign plan and purpose (cf. 1 Cor. 1:1; 2 Cor. 1:1; Eph. 1:1; Col. 1:1). promise of the life that is in Christ Jesus. The gospel promises that those who are spiritually dead but by faith embrace the gospel's message will be united to Christ and find eternal life in him (John 3:16; 10:10; 14:6; Col. 3:4).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:2 Timothy, my beloved child. See note on 1 Tim. 1:2. Grace . . . our Lord. See note on 1 Tim. 1:2. More than a standard greeting by Paul, this expressed his genuine desire for God's best in Timothy's life.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:3 I thank God . . . in my prayers. See notes on Phil. 1:3–4. clear conscience. See note on 1 Tim. 1:5.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:4 long to see you. Because of Paul's affection for

Timothy and the urgency of the hour in Paul's life, as he faced death, Paul had an intense yearning to see Timothy again (cf. 4:9, 13, 21). remember your tears. Paul perhaps remembered this occurring at their latest parting, which occurred after a short visit to Ephesus, following the writing of 1 Timothy, and prior to Paul's arrest at Troas (see note on 2 Tim. 4:13) and his second imprisonment in Rome. Years before, Paul had a similar parting with the elders at Ephesus (Acts 20:36–38).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:5 Lois . . . Eunice. Mention of their names suggests that Paul knew them personally, perhaps because he (with Barnabas) led them to faith in Christ during his first missionary journey (cf. Acts 13:13–14:21). The women were true OT Jewish believers, who understood the Scripture well enough to prepare themselves and Timothy (2 Tim. 3:15) to immediately accept Jesus as Messiah when they first heard the gospel from Paul.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:6 fan into flame the gift of God. This seems to indicate Paul was unsatisfied with Timothy's level of current faithfulness. "Fan into flame" means lit. "to keep the fire alive," and "gift" refers to the believer's spiritual gift (see notes on Rom. 12:4–8; 1 Cor. 12:7–11; regarding Timothy's spiritual gift, see notes on 2 Tim. 4:2–6; 1 Tim. 4:14). Paul reminds Timothy that as a steward of his God-given gift for preaching, teaching, and evangelizing, he could not let it fall into disuse (cf. 2 Tim. 4:2–5). laying on of my hands. See notes on 1 Tim. 4:14; 5:22; cf. 6:12. Paul might have done this at the time of Timothy's conversion, in which case it would have corresponded to when Timothy received his spiritual gift. The expression may also refer to an extraordinary spiritual endowment, which was received or enhanced at some point after his conversion.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:7 a spirit not of fear. The Greek word denotes a cowardly, shameful fear caused by a weak, selfish character. The threat of Roman persecution, which was escalating under Nero, the hostility of those in the Ephesian church who resented Timothy's leadership, and the assaults of false teachers with their sophisticated systems of deceptions may have been overwhelming Timothy. But if he was fearful, it didn't come from God. power. Positively, God has already given believers all the spiritual resources they need for every trial and threat (cf. Matt. 10:19–20). Divine power—effective, productive spiritual energy—belongs to believers (Eph. 1:18–20; 3:20; cf. Zech. 4:6). love. See note on 1 Tim. 1:5. This kind of love centers on pleasing God and seeking others' welfare before one's own (cf. Rom. 14:8; Gal. 5:22, 25; Eph.

3:19; 1 Pet. 1:22; 1 John 4:18). self-control. Refers to a self-controlled and properly prioritized mind. This is the opposite of fear and cowardice that causes disorder and confusion. Focusing on the sovereign nature and perfect purposes of our eternal God allows believers to control their lives with godly wisdom and confidence in every situation (cf. Rom. 12:3; 1 Tim. 3:2; Titus 1:8; 2:2).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:8 the testimony about our Lord. The gospel message concerning Jesus Christ. Paul did not want Timothy to be “ashamed” to name the name of Christ because he was afraid of the potential persecution (cf. vv. 12, 16). me his prisoner. See Introduction: Author and Date; see notes on Eph. 3:1 and Phil. 1:12–14. Being linked to Paul, who was a prisoner because of his preaching of the gospel, could have put Timothy’s life and freedom in jeopardy (cf. Heb. 13:23).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:9 to a holy calling. As always in the NT epistles, this calling is not a general invitation to sinners to believe the gospel and be saved (as in Matt. 20:16), but refers to God’s effectual call of the elect to salvation (see note on Rom. 1:7). This calling results in holiness, imputed (justification) and imparted (sanctification), and finally completed (glorification). not . . . works but . . . grace. This truth is the foundation of the gospel. Salvation is by grace through faith, apart from works (see notes on Rom. 3:20–25; Gal. 3:10–11; Eph. 2:8–9; Phil. 3:8–9). Grace is also the basis for God’s sustaining work in believers (cf. Phil. 1:6; Jude 24–25). because of his own purpose. God’s sovereign plan of election (see notes on 2 Tim. 2:10; John 6:37–40, 44; Acts 13:48; Rom. 8:29; 9:6–23; Eph. 1:4; 3:11; 2 Thess. 2:13; Titus 1:1–2; 1 Pet. 1:2). in Christ Jesus. His sacrifice made God’s salvation plan possible, because he became the substitute sacrifice for the sins of God’s people (see notes on 2 Cor. 5:21). before the ages. The same Greek phrase appears in Titus 1:2. The destiny of God’s chosen was determined and sealed from eternity past (John 17:24; cf. Eph. 1:4–5; Phil. 1:29; 1 Pet. 1:2).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:10 appearing. “Epiphany” is the English equivalent of this Greek word, most often used of Christ’s second coming (4:18; 1 Tim. 6:14; Titus 2:13), but here of his first coming. abolished death . . . immortality to light. “Abolished” means “rendered inoperative.” Physical death still exists, but it is no longer a threat or an enemy for Christians (1 Cor. 15:54–55; Heb. 2:14). It was not until the incarnation and the gospel that God chose to fully make known the truth of immortality and eternal life, a reality only partially understood by OT believers (cf. Job 19:26).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:11 preacher . . . teacher. See notes on 1 Tim. 2:7.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:12 I suffer. Cf. v. 8; see notes on 2 Cor. 4:8–18; 6:4–10; 11:23–28; Gal. 6:17; Phil. 3:10. I am not ashamed. See notes on 2 Tim. 1:8; Rom. 1:16; 1 Pet. 4:16. Paul had no fear of persecution and death from preaching the gospel in a hostile setting, because he was so confident God had sealed his future glory and blessing. know whom I have believed. “Know” describes the certainty of Paul’s intimate, saving knowledge—the object of which was God himself. The form of the Greek verb translated “I have believed” refers to something that began in the past and has continuing results (see note on Rom. 1:16). This knowing is equal to the “knowledge of the truth” (2 Tim. 3:7; 1 Tim. 2:4). he is able to guard. See notes on Jude 24–25. what has been entrusted. Paul’s life in time and eternity had been given to his Lord. He lived with unwavering confidence and boldness because of the revealed truth about God’s power and faithfulness, and his own experience of an unbreakable relationship to the Lord (Rom. 8:31–39). that Day. Cf. 2 Tim. 1:18; 4:8; see notes on Phil. 1:6. Also called “day of Christ” (see notes on Phil. 1:10), when believers will stand before the judgment seat and be rewarded (see notes on 1 Cor. 3:13; 2 Cor. 5:10; 1 Pet. 1:5).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:13 sound words. Cf. 1 Tim. 4:6; 6:3. The Scripture and the doctrine it teaches (see notes on 2 Tim. 3:15–17). from me. Paul had been the source of this divine revelation (cf. 2:2; 3:10, 14; Phil. 4:9; see notes on Eph. 3:1–5). faith and love . . . in Christ Jesus. “Faith” is confidence that God’s word is true, and “love” is kindness and compassion in teaching that truth (cf. Eph. 4:15).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:14 the good deposit entrusted to you. The treasure of the good news of salvation revealed in the Scripture (see note on 1 Tim. 6:20).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:15 Asia. A Roman province that is part of modern Turkey; this is not a reference to the entire region of Asia Minor. Phygelus and Hermogenes. Nothing else is known about these two men, who apparently had shown promise as leaders, had been close to Paul, and were well known among the Asian churches, but deserted Paul under the pressure of persecution.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:16 Onesiphorus. One of Paul’s loyal coworkers who had not deserted Paul, but befriended him in prison and was not ashamed or afraid to visit the apostle there regularly and minister to his needs. Since Paul asks

Timothy to greet those in his house (4:19), the family obviously lived in or near Ephesus.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:17 when he arrived in Rome. For notes on Rome, see Introduction to Romans: Background and Setting. Onesiphorus was perhaps on a business trip, and the text implies that his search involved time, effort, and possibly even danger.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 1:18 that Day! See note on v. 12. Ephesus. See Introduction to Ephesians: Background and Setting. Onesiphorus's faithfulness began here many years earlier, when Paul ministered on his third or fourth missionary journey.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:1 my child. Paul had led Timothy to Christ during his first missionary journey (cf. 1 Cor. 4:17; 1 Tim. 1:2, 18). be strengthened. Here is the main admonition in the first part of the letter. Paul is calling for Timothy to overcome his apparent drift toward weakness and renew his commitment to his ministry (see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:2 heard from me. See notes on 1:13; cf. 3:14. During Timothy's many years of close association with Paul (see Introduction to 1 Timothy: Author and Date), he had heard divine truth, which God had revealed through the apostle. presence of many witnesses. Such as Silas, Barnabas, and Luke, and many others in the churches who could attest to the divine authenticity of Paul's teaching—a needed reminder to Timothy in light of the many defections at Ephesus (cf. 2 Tim. 1:15). faithful men who will be able to teach others. Timothy was to take the divine revelation he had learned from Paul and teach it to other faithful men—men with proven spiritual character and giftedness, who would in turn pass on those truths to another generation. From Paul to Timothy to faithful men to others encompasses four generations of godly leaders. That process of spiritual reproduction, which began in the early church, is to continue until the Lord returns.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:3 a good soldier. The metaphor of the Christian life as warfare (against the evil world system, the believer's sinful human nature, and Satan) is a familiar one in the NT (cf. 2 Cor. 10:3–5; Eph. 6:10–20; 1 Thess. 4:8; 1 Tim. 1:18; 4:7; 6:12). Here Paul is dealing with the conflict against the hostile world and the persecution (cf. 2 Tim. 2:9; 1:8; 3:11–12; 4:7).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:4 entangled. Just as a soldier called to duty is completely severed from the normal affairs of civilian life, so also must the good soldier of Jesus Christ refuse to allow the things of the world to distract him (cf. James 4:4; 1 John 2:15–17).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:5 competes according to the rules. The Greek verb (athleo) expresses the effort and determination needed to compete successfully in an athletic event (cf. 1 Cor. 9:24). This is a useful picture of spiritual effort and untiring pursuit of the victory to those familiar with events such as the Olympic Games and the Isthmian Games (held in Corinth). crowned . . . rules. All an athlete's hard work and discipline will be wasted if he or she fails to compete according to the rules. This is a call to obey the word of God in the pursuit of spiritual victory.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:6 the hard-working farmer. “Hard-working” is from a Greek verb meaning “to labor to the point of exhaustion.” Ancient farmers worked long hours of backbreaking labor under all kinds of conditions, with the hope that their physical effort would be rewarded by a good harvest. Paul is urging Timothy not to be lazy or indolent, but to labor intensely (cf. Col. 1:28–29) with a view to the harvest. Cf. 1 Cor. 3:5–8.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:7 Think. The Greek word denotes clear perception, full understanding, and careful consideration. The form of the verb suggests a strong admonition by Paul, not mere advice, to give deep thought to what he was writing.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:8 Remember Jesus Christ. The supreme model of a faithful teacher (v. 2), soldier (vv. 3–4), athlete (v. 5), and farmer (v. 6). Timothy was to follow his example in teaching, suffering, pursuing the prize, and planting the seeds of truth for a spiritual harvest. risen from the dead. The resurrection of Christ is the central truth of the Christian faith (1 Cor. 15:3–4, 17, 19). By it, God affirmed the perfect redemptive work of Jesus Christ (see note on Rom. 1:4). offspring of David. See notes on Rom. 1:3 and Rev. 22:16. As David's descendant, Jesus is the rightful heir to his throne (Luke 1:32–33). The Lord's humanity is stressed.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:9 I am suffering. . . . But the word . . . is not bound. Paul contrasts his imprisonment for the sake of the gospel to the unfettered power of the word of God.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:10 for the sake of the elect. Those of the elect, having been chosen for salvation from before the world began (see note on 1:9), who had not yet come to faith in Jesus Christ (see notes on Acts 18:10; Titus 1:1), the salvation that is in Christ Jesus. There is salvation in no one else (Acts 4:12; cf. Rom. 8:29; Eph. 1:4–5). The gospel must be proclaimed (Matt. 28:19; Acts 1:8) because the elect are not saved apart from faith in Christ (Rom. 10:14). eternal glory. The ultimate outcome of salvation (see notes on Rom. 5:2; 8:17).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:11 The saying is trustworthy. The saying is in vv. 11–13. See note on 1 Tim. 1:15. died with him . . . live with him. This refers to believers' spiritual participation in Christ's death and resurrection (Rom. 6:4–8), including also the possibility of suffering martyrdom for the sake of Christ, as the context would indicate.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:12 endure. Believers who persevere give evidence of the genuineness of their faith (see note on Matt. 24:13; cf. Matt. 10:22; John 8:31; Rom. 2:7; Col. 1:23). reign with him. In his future eternal kingdom (Rev. 1:6; 5:10; 20:4, 6). if we deny him, he also will deny us. Speaks of a final, permanent denial, such as that of an apostate (see note on 1 Tim. 1:19), not the temporary failure of a true believer like Peter (Matt. 26:69–75). Those who so deny Christ give evidence that they never truly belonged to him (1 John 2:19) and face the fearful reality of one day being denied by him (Matt. 10:33).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:13 faithless. This refers to a lack of saving faith, not to weak or struggling faith. Unbelievers will ultimately deny Christ because their faith was not genuine (cf. James 2:14–26). he remains faithful—for he cannot deny himself. As faithful as Jesus is to save those who believe in him (John 3:16), he is equally faithful to judge those who do not (John 3:18). To act any other way would be inconsistent with his holy, unchangeable nature. Cf. Heb. 10:23.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:14 quarrel about words. Arguing with false teachers, i.e., deceivers who use human reason to subvert God's word, is not only foolish (Prov. 14:7) and futile (Matt. 7:6), but dangerous (2 Tim. 2:16–17; cf. 2 Tim. 2:23). This is the first of three warnings to avoid useless arguments. See notes on vv. 16, 23; 1 Tim. 4:6–7; 6:3–5; 2 Pet. 2:1–3. ruins. The Greek word means "overturns," or "overthrows." It appears only one other time in the NT (2 Pet. 2:6), where it describes the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah. Because it replaces the truth with lies, false teaching brings spiritual catastrophe to those who heed it. The ruin can be eternal.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:15 Do your best. This word denotes zealous persistence in accomplishing a goal. Timothy, like all who preach or teach the word, was to give his maximum effort to impart God’s word completely, accurately, and clearly to his hearers. This is crucial to counter the disastrous effects of false teaching (vv. 14, 16–17). rightly handling. Lit., “cutting it straight”—a reference to the exactness demanded by such trades as carpentry, masonry, and Paul’s trade of leather working and tentmaking. Precision and accuracy are required in biblical interpretation, beyond all other enterprises, because the interpreter is handling God’s word. Anything less is shameful. the word of truth. All of Scripture in general (John 17:17), and the gospel message in particular (Eph. 1:13; Col. 1:5).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:16 avoid irreverent babble. See notes on v. 14; 1 Tim. 6:20; cf. Titus 3:9. Such destructive heresy leads only to “more ungodliness.” Heresy can’t save or sanctify. This is Paul’s second such warning. Cf. 2 Tim. 2:14, 23.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:17 gangrene. The word refers to a disease that spreads rapidly in a deadly manner. The metaphor emphasizes the insidious danger of false teaching. It attacks and consumes one’s life. Hymenaeus. See note on 1 Tim. 1:20. Philetus. Alexander’s replacement (1 Tim. 1:20) as Hymenaeus’s accomplice.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:18 the resurrection has already happened. Like the false teachers who troubled the Corinthians (1 Cor. 15:12), Hymenaeus and Philetus denied the reality of believers’ bodily resurrection. They probably taught that believers’ spiritual identification with Christ’s death and resurrection (Rom. 6:4, 5, 8) was the only resurrection they would experience, and that had already happened. Such heretical teaching reflects the contemporary Greek philosophical view that matter was evil and spirit was good. upsetting the faith. This speaks of those whose faith was not genuine (cf. Matt. 24:24). Genuine saving faith cannot be finally and completely overthrown (see note on 2 Tim. 2:12). False, non-saving faith is common (cf. 4:10). See notes on Matt. 7:21–28; 13:19–22; John 2:23–24; 6:64–66; 8:31; 1 John 2:19.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:19 God’s firm foundation. This is likely a reference to the church (cf. 1 Tim. 3:15), which cannot be overcome by the forces of hell

(Matt. 16:18) and is made up of those who belong to him. seal. A symbol of ownership and authenticity. Paul gives two characteristics of those with the divine seal of authenticity. The Lord knows those who are his. This is likely a reference to Num. 16:5. He “knows,” not in the sense of awareness, but as a husband knows his wife in the sense of intimate relationship (see notes on John 10:26–29; Gal. 4:9). God has known his own ever since he chose them before time began. See note on 2 Tim. 1:9. everyone . . . depart from iniquity. This statement is likely adapted from Num. 16:26, and reflects a second mark of God’s ownership of believers, which is their pursuit of holiness (cf. 1 Cor. 6:19–20; 1 Pet. 1:15–16).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:20 vessels. The Greek word is very general and was used to describe various tools, utensils, and furniture found in the home. In this “great house” analogy, Paul contrasts two kinds of utensils or serving dishes. some for honorable. In a wealthy home, the ones made of precious “gold and silver” were used for honorable purposes such as serving food to the family and guests. some for dishonorable. Those made of “wood and clay” were not for any honorable use, but rather those uses which were repulsive—disposing of garbage and the filthy waste of the household. See notes on 2 Cor. 4:7.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:21 anyone. Whoever wants to be useful to the Lord for noble purposes. Even a common wood bucket or clay pot becomes useful when purged and made holy. cleanses himself. See note on v. 19. The Greek word means “to thoroughly clean out,” or “to completely purge.” For any wastebucket in the house to be used for a noble purpose, it would have had to be vigorously scoured, cleansed, and purged of all vestiges of its former filth. what is dishonorable. The vessels of dishonor (v. 20). Associating with anyone who teaches error and lives in sin is corrupting (Prov. 1:10–19; 13:20; 1 Cor. 5:6, 11; 15:33; Titus 1:16)—all the more so when they are leaders in the church. This is clearly a call to separate from all who claim to serve God, but do so as filthy implements useful only for the most dishonorable duties.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:22 youthful passions. Not merely illicit sexual desires, but also such lusts as pride, desire for wealth and power, jealousy, self-assertiveness, and an argumentative spirit.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:23 controversies . . . quarrels. Paul’s third warning to avoid useless arguments with false teachers (see notes on vv. 14, 16).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:24 able to teach. This is one word in Greek, meaning “skilled in teaching.” See note on 1 Tim. 3:2.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:25 his opponents. Primarily unbelievers (captive to Satan, v. 26), but also could include believers deceived by the “foolish” and “ignorant” (v. 23) speculations of the false teachers; and, possibly, the false teachers themselves. God may perhaps grant them repentance. Cf. Acts 11:18; see 2 Cor. 7:9–10. All true repentance is produced by God’s sovereign grace (Eph. 2:7), and without such grace human effort to change is futile (cf. Jer. 13:23). knowledge of the truth. See note on 2 Tim. 3:7. When God, by grace, grants saving faith, it includes the granting of repentance from sin. Neither is a human work.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 2:26 the snare of the devil. Deception is Satan’s trap. He is an inveterate, scheming, clever, and subtle purveyor of lies. See notes on Gen. 3:4–6; John 8:44; 2 Cor. 11:13–15; Rev. 12:9.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:1 the last days. This phrase refers to this age, the time since the first coming of the Lord Jesus. See note on 1 Tim. 4:1. times of difficulty. “Difficulty” is used to describe the savage nature of two demon-possessed men (Matt. 8:28). The word for “times” had to do with epochs, rather than clock or calendar time. Such savage, dangerous eras or epochs will increase in frequency and severity as the return of Christ approaches (2 Tim. 3:13). The church age is fraught with these dangerous movements accumulating strength as the end nears. Cf. Matt. 7:15; 24:11–12, 24; 2 Pet. 2:1–2.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:2–4 This list of attributes characterizing the leaders of the dangerous seasons is a description of unbelievers similar to the Lord’s in Mark 7:21–22.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:5 having the appearance of godliness . . . denying its power. “Appearance” refers to outward shape or appearance. Like the unbelieving scribes and Pharisees, false teachers and their followers are concerned with mere external appearances (cf. Matt. 23:25; Titus 1:16). Their outward form of Christianity and virtue makes them all the more dangerous.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:6 weak women. Weak in virtue and the knowledge of the truth, and weighed down with emotional and spiritual guilt over their sins, these women were easy prey for the deceitful false teachers. See notes on 1 Tim.

2:13–14; 5:11–12.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:7 a knowledge of the truth. First Timothy 2:4 uses this same phrase, equating it with being saved. Here Paul identified those women (2 Tim. 3:6) and men who were often jumping from one false teacher or cult to another without ever coming to an understanding of God’s saving truth in Jesus Christ. The present age, since the coming of Jesus Christ, has been loaded with perilous false teaching that can’t save, but does damn (cf. vv. 14, 16–17; 1 Tim. 4:1).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:8 Jannes and Jambres. Although their names are not mentioned in the OT, they were likely two of the Egyptian magicians that opposed Moses (Ex. 7:11, 22; 8:7, 18–19; 9:11). According to Jewish tradition, they pretended to become Jewish proselytes, instigated the worship of the golden calf, and were killed with the rest of the idolaters (Ex. 32). Paul’s choice of them as examples may indicate the false teachers at Ephesus were practicing deceiving signs and wonders. the truth. See note on 2 Tim. 3:7. opposed. The same word is translated “debased” in Rom. 1:28 (see note there and comes from a Greek word meaning “useless” in the sense of being tested (like metal) and shown to be worthless.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:9 folly . . . plain. Sooner or later, it will be clear that these false teachers are lost fools, as it became clear in the case of Jannes and Jambres.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:11 persecutions. From a Greek verb that lit. means “to put to flight.” Paul had been forced to flee from Damascus (Acts 9:23–25), Pisidian Antioch (Acts 13:50), Iconium (Acts 14:6), Thessalonica (Acts 17:10), and Berea (Acts 17:14). Antioch . . . Iconium . . . Lystra. As a native of Lystra (Acts 16:1), Timothy vividly recalled the persecution Paul faced in those three cities. the Lord rescued me. Cf. 2 Tim. 4:17–18; Ps. 34:4, 6, 19; 37:40; 91:2–6, 14; Isa. 41:10; 43:2; Dan. 3:17; Acts 26:16–17; 2 Cor. 1:10. The Lord’s repeated deliverance of Paul should have encouraged Timothy in the face of persecution by those at Ephesus who opposed the gospel.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:12 all who desire to live a godly life in Christ Jesus will be persecuted. Faithful believers must expect persecution and suffering at the hands of the Christ-rejecting world (cf. John 15:18–21; Acts 14:22).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:13 All the dangerous movements of the false teachers (cf. vv. 1–9) will become increasingly more successful until Christ comes. Cf. 2 Thess. 2:11.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:14 from whom you learned. See note on 1:13. To further encourage Timothy to stand firm, Paul reminds him of his godly heritage. The plural form of the pronoun “whom” suggests Timothy was indebted not just to Paul, but to others as well (1:5).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:15 from childhood. Lit., “from infancy.” Two people to whom Timothy was especially indebted were his mother and grandmother (see note on 1:5), who faithfully taught him the truths of OT Scripture from his earliest childhood, so that he was ready to receive the gospel when Paul preached it. have been acquainted with the sacred writings. A common designation of the OT by Greek-speaking Jews. wise for salvation. The OT Scriptures pointed to Christ (John 5:37–39) and revealed the need for faith in God’s promises (Gen. 15:6; cf. Rom. 4:1–3). Thus, they were able to lead people to acknowledge their sin and need for justification in Christ (Gal. 3:24). Salvation is brought by the Holy Spirit using the word. See notes on Rom. 10:14–17; Eph. 5:26–27; 1 Pet. 1:23–25. faith in Christ Jesus. Though not understanding all the details involved (cf. 1 Pet. 1:10–12), OT believers including Abraham (John 8:56) and Moses (Heb. 11:26) looked forward to the coming of the Messiah (Isa. 7:14; 9:6) and his atonement for sin (Isa. 53:5–6). So did Timothy, who responded when he heard the gospel.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:16 All Scripture. Grammatically similar Greek constructions (Rom. 7:12; 2 Cor. 10:10; 1 Tim. 1:15; 2:3; 4:4) argue persuasively that the translation “all Scripture is breathed out . . .” is accurate. Both OT and NT Scripture are included (see notes on 2 Pet. 3:15–16, which identify NT writings as Scripture). breathed out by God. Sometimes God told the Bible writers the exact words to say (e.g., Jer. 1:9), but more often he used their minds, vocabularies, and experiences to produce his own perfect infallible, inerrant word (see notes on 1 Thess. 2:13; Heb. 1:1; 2 Pet. 1:20–21). It is important to note that inspiration applies only to the original autographs of Scripture, not the Bible writers; there are no inspired Scripture writers, only inspired Scripture. So identified is God with his word that when Scripture speaks, God speaks (cf. Rom. 9:17; Gal. 3:8). Scripture is called “the oracles of God” (Rom. 3:2), and cannot be altered (John 10:35; Matt. 5:17–18; Luke 16:17; Rev. 22:18–19). teaching. The divine instruction or doctrinal content of both the OT and the NT

(cf. 2 Tim. 2:15; Acts 20:18, 20–21, 27; 1 Cor. 2:14–16; Col. 3:16; 1 John 2:20, 24, 27). The Scripture provides the comprehensive and complete body of divine truth necessary for life and godliness. Cf. Ps. 119:97–105. reproof. Rebuke for wrong behavior or wrong belief. The Scripture exposes sin (Heb. 4:12–13) that can then be dealt with through confession and repentance. correction. The restoration of something to its proper condition. The word appears only here in the NT, but was used in extrabiblical Greek of righting a fallen object, or helping back to their feet those who had stumbled. Scripture not only rebukes wrong behavior, but also points the way back to godly living. Cf. Ps. 119:9–11; John 15:1–2. training in righteousness. Scripture provides positive training (originally used in reference to training a child) in godly behavior, not merely rebuke and correction of wrong behavior (Acts 20:32; 1 Tim. 4:6; 1 Pet. 2:1–2).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 3:17 man of God. A technical term for an official preacher of divine truth. See note on 1 Tim. 6:11. competent. Capable of doing everything one is called to do (cf. Col. 2:10). equipped for every good work. Enabled to meet all the demands of godly ministry and righteous living. The word not only accomplishes this in the life of the man of God but in all who follow him (Eph. 4:11–13).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:1 I charge you. Or better, “command.” The Greek has the idea of issuing a forceful order or directive (cf. 2:14; 1 Tim. 1:18; 5:21). in the presence of God and of Christ Jesus. The Greek construction also allows the translation “in the presence of God, even Christ Jesus,” which is probably the best rendering since he is about to be introduced as the Judge (cf. John 5:22). Everyone who ministers the word of God is under the omniscient scrutiny of Christ (see notes on 2 Cor. 2:17; Heb. 13:17). Christ Jesus, who is to judge. The grammatical construction suggests imminency—that Christ is about to judge. Paul is emphasizing the unique accountability that all believers, and especially ministers of the word of God, have to Christ as Judge. Service to Christ is rendered both under his watchful eye and with the knowledge that as Judge he will one day appraise the works of every believer (see notes on 1 Cor. 3:12–15; 4:1–5; 2 Cor. 5:10). That is not a judgment of condemnation, but one of evaluation. With regard to salvation, believers have been judged already and declared righteous—they are no longer subject to the condemnation of sin (Rom. 8:1–4). the living and the dead. Christ will ultimately judge all men in three distinct settings: 1) the judgment of believers after the rapture (1 Cor. 3:12–15; 2 Cor. 5:10); 2) the sheep and goats judgment of the nations, in which believers will be separated from unbelievers (Matt. 25:31–33, for entrance into the millennial kingdom); and 3) the great white throne judgment of unbelievers only (Rev. 20:11–15). Here, the apostle is referring to judgment in a general sense, encompassing all those elements. his appearing. The Greek word translated “appearing” lit. means “a shining forth” and was used by the ancient Greeks of the supposed appearance to men of a pagan god. Here, Paul is referring generally to Christ’s second coming, when he will judge “the living and the dead” (see previous note) and establish his millennial and eternal kingdom (see note on 1 Tim. 6:14).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:2 the word. The entire written word of God, his complete revealed truth as contained in the Bible (cf. 3:15–16; Acts 20:27). be ready. The Greek word has a broad range of meanings, including suddenness (Luke 2:9; Acts 12:7) or forcefulness (Luke 20:1; Acts 4:1; 6:12; 23:27). Here the form of the verb suggests the complementary ideas of urgency, preparedness, and readiness. It was used of a soldier prepared to go into battle or a guard who was continually alert for any surprise attack—attitudes which are imperative for a faithful preacher (Jer. 20:9; Acts 21:11–13; Eph. 5:15–16; 1 Pet. 3:15). in season and out of season. The faithful preacher must proclaim the word when it is popular and/or convenient, and when it is not; when it seems suitable to do so, and when it seems not. The dictates of popular culture, tradition, reputation, acceptance, or esteem in the community (or in the church) must never alter the true preacher’s commitment to proclaim God’s word. reprove, rebuke. The negative side of preaching the word (the “reproof” and “correction”; cf. 2 Tim. 3:16). The Greek word for “reprove” refers to correcting behavior or false doctrine by using careful biblical argument to help a person understand the error of his actions. The Greek word for “rebuke” deals more with correcting the person’s motives by convicting him of his sin and leading him to repentance. exhort . . . teaching. The positive side of preaching (the “teaching” and “training”; cf. 3:16).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:3 not endure. This refers to holding up under adversity, and can be translated “not tolerate.” Paul here warns Timothy that, in the dangerous seasons of this age, many people would become intolerant of the confrontational, demanding preaching of God’s word (1:13–14; 1 Tim. 1:9–10; 6:3–5). sound teaching. See notes on 2 Tim. 1:13; 1 Tim. 4:6; Titus 2:1. itching ears . . . their own passions. Professing Christians, nominal believers, in the church follow their own desires and flock to preachers who offer them God’s blessings apart from his forgiveness, and his salvation apart from their repentance. They want to be entertained by teachings that will produce pleasant sensations and leave them with good feelings about themselves. Their goal is that men preach “to suit their own passions.” Under those conditions, people will dictate what men preach, rather than God dictating it by his word.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:4 myths. This refers to false ideologies, viewpoints, and philosophies in various forms that oppose sound doctrine (see notes on 2 Cor. 10:3–5; 1 Tim. 1:4; 4:7; cf. Titus 1:14; 2 Pet. 1:16).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:5 an evangelist. Used only two other times in the NT (see notes on Acts 21:8; Eph. 4:11), this word always refers to a specific office of ministry for the purpose of preaching the gospel to non-Christians. Based on Eph. 4:11, it is very basic to assume that all churches would have both pastor-teachers and evangelists. But the related verb “to preach the gospel” and the related noun “gospel” are used throughout the NT not only in relation to evangelists, but also to the call for every Christian, especially preachers and teachers, to proclaim the gospel. Paul did not call Timothy to the office of an evangelist, but to “do the work” of one.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:6–8 As Paul neared the end of his life, he was able to look back without regret or remorse. In these verses, he examines his life from three perspectives: the present reality of the end of his life, for which he was ready (v. 6); the past, when he had been faithful (v. 7); and the future, as he anticipated his heavenly reward (v. 8).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:6 already. Meaning his death was imminent. a drink offering. In the OT sacrificial system, this was the final offering that followed the burnt and grain offerings prescribed for the people of Israel (Num. 15:1–16). Paul saw his coming death as his final offering to God in a life that had already been full of sacrifices to him (see note on Phil. 2:17). my departure. Paul’s death. The Greek word essentially refers to the loosening of something, such as the mooring ropes of a ship or the ropes of a tent; thus it eventually acquired the secondary meaning of “departure.”

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:7 The form of the three Greek verbs “have fought, have finished, have kept,” indicates completed action with continuing results. Paul saw his life as complete—he had been able to accomplish through the Lord’s power all that God called him to do. He was a soldier (2:3–4; 2 Cor. 10:3; 1 Tim. 6:12; Philem. 2), an athlete (1 Cor. 9:24–27; Eph. 6:12), and a guardian (2 Tim. 1:13–14; 1 Tim. 6:20–21). the faith. The truths and standards of the revealed word of God.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:8 the crown of righteousness. The Greek word for “crown” lit. means “surrounding,” and it was used of the plaited wreaths or garlands placed on the heads of dignitaries and victorious military officers or athletes. Linguistically, “of righteousness” can mean either that righteousness is the source of the crown, or that righteousness is the nature of the crown. Like the “crown of life” (James 1:12), the “crown of boasting” (1 Thess. 2:19), the “imperishable wreath” (1 Cor. 9:25), and the “crown of glory” (1 Pet. 5:4), in which life, rejoicing, imperishability, and glory describe the nature of the crown, the context here seems to indicate the crown represents eternal righteousness. Believers receive the imputed righteousness of Christ (justification) at salvation (Rom. 4:6, 11). The Holy Spirit works practical righteousness (sanctification) in the believer throughout his lifetime of struggle with sin (Rom. 6:13, 19; 8:4; Eph. 5:9; 1 Pet. 2:24). But only when the struggle is complete will the Christian receive Christ’s righteousness perfected in him (glorification) when he enters heaven (see note on Gal. 5:5). the righteous judge. See note on 2 Tim. 4:1. that Day. See note on 1:12. his appearing. See notes on 4:1; 1 Tim. 6:14.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:9–22 In these closing verses, Paul brings Timothy up to date on the spiritual condition, activities, and whereabouts of certain men and women who either helped or harmed his ministry.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:9 Do your best to come to me soon. Paul longed to see his beloved coworker, but it was imperative that Timothy make haste because Paul knew his days were numbered (v. 6).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:10 Demas. He had been one of Paul’s closest associates along with Luke and Epaphras (see notes on Col. 4:14; Philem. 24). in love with this present world. See notes on James 4:4; 1 John 2:15–17. deserted. This Greek word means “to utterly abandon,” with the idea of leaving someone in a dire situation. Demas was a fair-weather disciple who had never counted the cost of genuine commitment to Christ. His kind are described by our Lord in Matt. 13:20–21; cf. John 8:31; 1 John 2:1. Thessalonica. Demas may have considered this city a safe haven (see Introduction to 1 Thessalonians: Background and Setting). Crescens. In contrast to Demas, Crescens must have been faithful and dependable, since Paul sent him to Galatia, a Roman province in central Asia Minor where Paul ministered on each of his three missionary journeys. Titus. Paul’s closest friend and coworker next to Timothy (Titus 1:5; see Introduction to Titus: Title). Dalmatia. Also known as Illyricum (Rom. 15:19), a Roman province on the east coast of the Adriatic Sea, just north of Macedonia.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:11 Luke. The author of the Gospel of Luke and Acts, and Paul’s devoted friend and personal physician, who could not carry the burden of ministry in Rome by himself (see Introductions to Luke and Acts: Author and Date). Get Mark and bring him with you. Evidently Mark lived somewhere along the route Timothy would take from Ephesus to Rome. The one who was the author of the Gospel of Mark (sometimes called John), cousin of Barnabas (Col. 4:10), and devoted fellow worker (Philem. 24), had once left Paul and Barnabas in shame (see notes on Acts 13:13; 15:36–39), but had become by this time a valued servant (see Introduction to Mark: Author and Date).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:12 Tychicus. Paul had either sent him to Ephesus earlier, or he was sending him there to deliver this second letter to Timothy, just as Tychicus had previously delivered Paul’s letters to the churches at Ephesus (Eph. 6:21), Colossae (Col. 4:7), and possibly to Titus (Titus 3:12; see note on Col. 4:7). Ephesus. See Introduction to Ephesians: Background and Setting; see note on Rev. 2:1.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:13 cloak. A large, heavy wool garment that doubled as a coat and blanket in cold weather, which Paul would soon face (v. 21). Troas. A seaport of Phrygia, in Asia Minor. Carpus. An otherwise unknown acquaintance of Paul whose name means “fruit.” the books, and above all the parchments. “Books” refers to papyrus scrolls, possibly OT books. “Parchments” were vellum sheets made of treated animal hides, thus they were extremely expensive. They may have been copies of letters he had written or blank sheets for writing other letters. That Paul did not have these already in his possession leads to the possible conclusion that he was arrested in Troas and had no opportunity to retrieve them.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:14 Alexander the coppersmith. Probably not the same man whom Paul delivered to Satan along with Hymenaeus (1 Tim. 1:20), since Paul singles him out as the one who was a “coppersmith.” This Alexander, however, may have been an idol maker (cf. Acts 19:24). did me great harm. Alexander opposed Paul’s teaching and likely spread his own false doctrine. He may have been instrumental in Paul’s arrest and may even have borne false witness against him. Cf. Acts 19:23ff. the Lord will repay him. Paul left vengeance in God's hands (Deut. 32:35; Rom. 12:19).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:16 first defense. The Greek word for “defense” gives us the English words “apology” and “apologetics.” It referred to a verbal defense used in a court of law. In the Roman legal system, an accused person received two hearings: the prima actio, much like a contemporary arraignment, established the charge and determined if there was a need for a trial. The secunda actio then established the accused's guilt or innocence. The defense Paul referred to was the prima actio. May it not be charged against them. Like Stephen (Acts 7:60) and the Lord himself (Luke 23:34).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:17 But the Lord stood by me. The Lord fulfills his promise never to “leave or forsake” his children (Deut. 31:6, 8; Josh. 1:5; Heb. 13:5). proclaimed. As he had done in the past (Acts 26:2–29), Paul was able to proclaim the gospel before a Roman tribunal. all the Gentiles might hear. By proclaiming the gospel to such a cosmopolitan, pagan audience, Paul could say that he had reached all the Gentiles with the gospel. This was a fulfillment of his commission (Acts 9:15–16; 26:15–18). the lion's mouth. Cf. Dan. 6:26–27. A common figure for mortal danger (Ps. 22:21; 35:17) and a common occurrence for Paul (cf. Acts 14:19; 2 Cor. 4:8–12; 6:4–10; 11:23–27). Peter pictured Satan as a lion in 1 Pet. 5:8.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:18 will rescue me from every evil deed. On the basis of the Lord's present work—strengthening Paul and standing with him (v. 17)—Paul had hope for the Lord's future work. He knew God would deliver him from all temptations and plots against him (2 Cor. 1:8–10). bring me safely into his heavenly kingdom. Paul knew the completion of his own salvation was nearer than when he first believed (cf. Rom. 13:11; 2 Cor. 5:8; Phil. 1:21).

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:19 Prisca and Aquila. Paul first met these two faithful friends in Corinth after they fled Italy (see note on Acts 18:2). They ministered for some time in Ephesus (Acts 18:18–19), later returned to Rome for a period of time (Rom. 16:3), and had returned to Ephesus. the household of Onesiphorus. See note on 2 Tim. 1:16.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:20 Erastus. Probably the city treasurer of Corinth, who sent greetings through Paul to the church at Rome (see note on Rom. 16:23). Corinth. The leading city in Greece (see note on Acts 18:1; see Introduction to 1 Corinthians: Title). Trophimus. A native of Asia, specifically Ephesus, who had accompanied Paul from Greece to Troas (see note on Acts 20:4). Miletus. A city and seaport in the province of Lycia, located 30 miles south of Ephesus.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:21 before winter. In view of the coming season and the cold Roman jail cell, Paul needed the cloak for warmth. He would also have less opportunity to use the books and parchments as the duration of light grew shorter in winter. Eubulus . . . Pudens . . . Linus . . . Claudia. The first three names are Latin, which could indicate they were from Italy and had been members in the church at Rome. Claudia was a believer and close friend of whom nothing else is known.

2 TIMOTHY—NOTE ON 4:22 Grace be with you. This is the same benediction as in Paul's previous letter to Timothy (see note on 1 Tim. 6:21). The "you" is plural, which means it extended to the entire Ephesian congregation.

Introduction to Titus

Title

This epistle is named for its recipient, Titus, who is mentioned by name 13 times in the NT (1:4; Gal. 2:1, 3; 2 Tim. 4:10; for the nine times in 2 Corinthians, see Background and Setting). The title in the Greek NT literally reads “To Titus.” Along with 1, 2 Timothy, these letters to Paul’s sons in the faith are traditionally called “The Pastoral Epistles.”

Author and Date

Authorship by the apostle Paul (1:1) is essentially uncontested (see Introduction to 1 Timothy). Titus was written between A.D. 62–64, while Paul ministered to Macedonian churches between his first and second Roman imprisonments, from either Corinth or Nicopolis (cf. 3:12). Most likely, Titus served with Paul on both the second and third missionary journeys. Titus, like Timothy (2 Tim. 1:2), had become a beloved disciple (Titus 1:4) and fellow worker in the gospel (2 Cor. 8:23). Paul’s last mention of Titus (2 Tim. 4:10) reports that he had gone for ministry in Dalmatia—modern Yugoslavia. The letter probably was delivered by Zenas and Apollos (Titus 3:13).

Background and Setting

Although Luke did not mention Titus by name in the book of Acts, it seems probable that Titus, a Gentile (Gal. 2:3), met and may have been led to faith in Christ by Paul (Titus 1:4) before or during the apostle’s first missionary journey. Later, Titus ministered for a period of time with Paul on the Island of Crete and was left behind to continue and strengthen the work (1:5). After Artemas or Tychicus (3:12) arrived to direct the ministry there, Paul wanted Titus to join him in the city of Nicopolis, in the province of Achaia in Greece, and stay through the winter (3:12).

Because of his involvement with the church at Corinth during Paul’s third missionary journey, Titus is mentioned nine times in 2 Corinthians (2:13; 7:6, 13–14; 8:6, 16, 23; 12:18), where Paul refers to him as “my brother” (2 Cor.

2:13) and “my partner and fellow worker” (2 Cor. 8:23). The young elder was already familiar with Judaizers, false teachers in the church who among other things insisted that all Christians, Gentile as well as Jew, were bound by the Mosaic law. Titus had accompanied Paul and Barnabas years earlier to the Council of Jerusalem where that heresy was the subject (Acts 15; Gal. 2:1–5).

Crete, one of the largest islands in the Mediterranean Sea, measuring 160 miles long by 35 miles at its widest, lying south of the Aegean Sea, had been briefly visited by Paul on his voyage to Rome (Acts 27:7–9, 12–13, 21). He returned there for ministry and later left Titus to continue the work, much as he left Timothy at Ephesus (1 Tim. 1:3), while he went on to Macedonia. He most likely wrote to Titus in response to a letter from Titus or a report from Crete.

Historical and Theological Themes

Like Paul’s two letters to Timothy, the apostle gives personal encouragement and counsel to a young pastor who, though well-trained and faithful, faced continuing opposition from ungodly men within the churches where he ministered. Titus was to pass on that encouragement and counsel to the leaders he was to appoint in the Cretan churches (1:5).

In contrast to several of Paul’s other letters, such as those to the churches in Rome and Galatia, the book of Titus does not focus on explaining or defending doctrine. Paul had full confidence in Titus’s theological understanding and convictions, evidenced by the fact that he entrusted him with such a demanding ministry. Except for the warning about false teachers and Judaizers, the letter gives no theological correction, strongly suggesting that Paul also had confidence in the doctrinal grounding of most church members there, despite the fact that the majority of them were new believers. Doctrines that this epistle affirms include: 1) God’s sovereign election of believers (1:1–2); 2) his saving grace (2:11; 3:5); 3) Christ’s deity and second coming (2:13); 4) Christ’s substitutionary atonement (2:14); and 5) the regeneration and renewing of believers by the Holy Spirit (3:5).

God and Christ are regularly referred to as Savior (1:3–4; 2:10, 13; 3:4, 6), and the saving plan is so emphasized in 2:11–14 that it indicates the major thrust of the epistle is that of equipping the churches of Crete for effective evangelism. This preparation required godly leaders who not only would shepherd believers under their care (1:5–9), but also would equip those Christians for evangelizing their pagan neighbors, who had been characterized by one of their own famous natives as liars, evil beasts, and lazy gluttons (1:12). In order to gain a hearing for the gospel among such people, the believers' primary preparation for evangelization was to live among themselves with the unarguable testimony of righteous, loving, selfless, and godly lives (2:2–14) in marked contrast to the debauched lives of the false teachers (1:10–16). How they behaved with reference to governmental authorities and unbelievers was also crucial to their testimony (3:1–8).

Several major themes repeat themselves throughout Titus. They include: work(s) (1:16; 2:7, 14; 3:1, 5, 8, 14); soundness in faith and doctrine (1:4, 9, 13; 2:1–2, 7–8, 10; 3:15); and salvation (1:3–4; 2:10, 13; 3:4, 6).

Interpretive Challenges

The letter to Titus presents itself in a straightforward manner that should be taken at face value. The few interpretive challenges include: What is the “blessed hope” of 2:13?

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO

Titus

Greeting

TITUS 1 ††Paul, a servant [1] of God and an apostle of Jesus Christ, for the sake of the faith of God's elect and their knowledge of the truth, which accords with godliness, †in hope of eternal life, which God, who never lies, promised before the ages began [2] †and at the proper time manifested in his word through the preaching with which I have been entrusted by the command of God our Savior; †To Titus, my true child in a common faith: Grace and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Savior.

Qualifications for Elders

††This is why I left you in Crete, so that you might put what remained into order, and appoint elders in every town as I directed you— †if anyone is above reproach, the husband of one wife, [3] and his children are believers and not open to the charge of debauchery or insubordination. †For an overseer, [4] as God's steward, must be above reproach. He must not be arrogant or quick-tempered or a drunkard or violent or greedy for gain, †but hospitable, a lover of good, self-controlled, upright, holy, and disciplined. †He must hold firm to the trustworthy word as taught, so that he may be able to give instruction in sound [5] doctrine and also to rebuke those who contradict it.

††For there are many who are insubordinate, empty talkers and deceivers, especially those of the circumcision party. †They must be silenced, since they are upsetting whole families by teaching for shameful gain what they ought not to teach. †One of the Cretans, [6] a prophet of their own, said, "Cretans are always liars, evil beasts, lazy gluttons." [7] †This testimony is true. Therefore rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith, †not devoting themselves to Jewish myths and the commands of people who turn away from the truth. ††To the pure, all things are pure, but to the defiled and unbelieving, nothing is pure; but both their minds and their consciences are defiled. †They profess to know God, but they deny him by their works. They are detestable, disobedient, unfit for any good work.

Teach Sound Doctrine

TITUS 2 †† But as for you, teach what accords with sound [1] doctrine. † Older men are to be sober-minded, dignified, self-controlled, sound in faith, in love, and in steadfastness. † Older women likewise are to be reverent in behavior, not slanderers or slaves to much wine. They are to teach what is good, † and so train the young women to love their husbands and children, † to be self-controlled, pure, working at home, kind, and submissive to their own husbands, that the word of God may not be reviled. †† Likewise, urge the younger men to be self-controlled. † Show yourself in all respects to be a model of good works, and in your teaching show integrity, dignity, † and sound speech that cannot be condemned, so that an opponent may be put to shame, having nothing evil to say about us. † Slaves [2] are to be submissive to their own masters in everything; they are to be well-pleasing, not argumentative, † not pilfering, but showing all good faith, so that in everything they may adorn the doctrine of God our Savior.

†† For the grace of God has appeared, bringing salvation for all people, † training us to renounce ungodliness and worldly passions, and to live self-controlled, upright, and godly lives in the present age, † waiting for our blessed hope, the appearing of the glory of our great God and Savior Jesus Christ, † who gave himself for us to redeem us from all lawlessness and to purify for himself a people for his own possession who are zealous for good works.

† Declare these things; exhort and rebuke with all authority. Let no one disregard you.

Be Ready for Every Good Work

TITUS 3 ††Remind them to be submissive to rulers and authorities, to be obedient, to be ready for every good work, <sup>2</sup>†to speak evil of no one, to avoid quarreling, to be gentle, and to show perfect courtesy toward all people. <sup>3</sup>†For we ourselves were once foolish, disobedient, led astray, slaves to various passions and pleasures, passing our days in malice and envy, hated by others and hating one another. <sup>4</sup>†But when the goodness and loving kindness of God our Savior appeared, <sup>5</sup>†he saved us, not because of works done by us in righteousness, but according to his own mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewal of the Holy Spirit, <sup>6</sup>†whom he poured out on us richly through Jesus Christ our Savior, <sup>7</sup>†so that being justified by his grace we might become heirs according to the hope of eternal life. <sup>8</sup>†The saying is trustworthy, and I want you to insist on these things, so that those who have believed in God may be careful to devote themselves to good works. These things are excellent and profitable for people. <sup>9</sup>†But avoid foolish controversies, genealogies, dissensions, and quarrels about the law, for they are unprofitable and worthless. <sup>10</sup>†As for a person who stirs up division, after warning him once and then twice, have nothing more to do with him, <sup>11</sup>†knowing that such a person is warped and sinful; he is self-condemned.

Final Instructions and Greetings

<sup>12</sup>††When I send Artemas or Tychicus to you, do your best to come to me at Nicopolis, for I have decided to spend the winter there. <sup>13</sup>†Do your best to speed Zenas the lawyer and Apollos on their way; see that they lack nothing. <sup>14</sup>†And let our people learn to devote themselves to good works, so as to help cases of urgent need, and not be unfruitful.

<sup>15</sup>†All who are with me send greetings to you. Greet those who love us in the faith.

Grace be with you all.

Study Notes

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:1–3 This salutation emphasizes the nature of Paul’s service as an apostle of Jesus Christ. He proclaimed: 1) salvation: God’s purpose to save the elect by the gospel; 2) sanctification: God’s purpose to build up the saved by the word of God; and 3) glorification: God’s purpose to bring believers to eternal glory.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:1 Paul. See Introduction: Title; Author and Date; Background and Setting. servant. Paul pictures himself as the most menial slave of NT times (see notes on 2:9; 1 Cor. 4:1–2), indicating his complete and willing servitude to the Lord, by whom all believers have been “bought with a price” (1 Cor. 6:20; cf. 1 Pet. 1:18–19). This is the only time Paul referred to himself as a “servant of God” (cf. Rom. 1:1; Gal. 1:10; Phil. 1:1). He was placing himself alongside OT men of God (cf. Rev. 15:3). apostle. Cf. Rom. 1:1; 1 Cor. 1:1; 2 Cor. 1:1; Eph. 1:1. The word has the basic meaning of messenger or lit., “sent one” and, though often used of royal emissaries who ministered with the extended authority of their sovereign, Paul’s exalted position as “an apostle” also was an extension of his service to “God,” which came with great authority, responsibility, and sacrifice. See note on Acts 20:24. God’s elect. See notes on Eph. 1:4–5. Those who have been graciously chosen for salvation “before the foundation of the world” (Eph. 1:4), but who must exercise personal faith prompted and empowered by the Holy Spirit. God’s choice of believers always precedes and enables their choice of him (cf. John 15:16; Acts 13:46–48; Rom. 9:15–21; 2 Thess. 2:13; 2 Tim. 1:8–9; 2:10; 1 Pet. 1:1–2). the truth. Paul had in mind gospel truth, the saving message of the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ (1 Tim. 2:3–4; 2 Tim. 2:25). It is that saving truth that leads to “godliness” or sanctification (see Titus 2:11–12).

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:2 hope. This is divinely promised and divinely guaranteed to all believers, providing endurance and patience (cf. John 6:37–40; Rom. 8:18–23; 1 Cor. 15:51–58; Eph. 1:13–14; Phil. 3:8–11, 20–21; 1 Thess. 4:13–18; 1 John 3:2–3). See notes on 1 Pet. 1:3–9. never lies. Cf. 1 Sam. 15:29 and Heb. 6:18. Because God himself is truth and the source of truth, it is impossible for him to say anything untruthful (John 14:6, 17; 15:26; cf. Num. 23:19; Ps. 146:6). before the ages. God’s plan of salvation for sinful mankind was determined and decreed before man was even created. The promise was made to God the Son

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:3 his word . . . preaching. God’s word is the sole source of content for all faithful preaching and teaching. Cf. 1 Cor. 1:18–21; 9:16–17; Gal. 1:15–16; Col. 1:25. God our Savior. Cf. Titus 2:10 and 3:4. The plan of salvation originated in eternity past with God.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:4 true child. A spiritual son, a genuine believer in Christ, like Timothy (1 Tim. 1:2). common faith. This may refer to saving faith or to the content of the Christian faith, e.g., “the faith that was once for all delivered to the saints” (Jude 3). our Savior. Christ is called “Savior” each time he is mentioned after Titus 1:1 (cf. 2:13; 3:6).

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:5–9 God’s standards for all believers are high; his requirement for church leaders is to set that standard and model it. Such leaders are not qualified on the basis of natural ability, intelligence, or education but on the basis of moral and spiritual character and the ability to teach with skill as the Spirit sovereignly has equipped them.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:5 Crete. See Introduction: Background and Setting. put . . . into order. Titus was to correct wrong doctrine and practices in the Cretan churches, a task that Paul had been unable to complete. This ministry is mentioned nowhere else. elders. Cf. similar qualifications in 1 Tim. 3:1–7. Mature spiritual leaders of the church, also known as bishops or overseers (Titus 1:7; cf. 1 Tim. 3:2) and pastors (lit., shepherds; see Eph. 4:11), were to care for each city’s congregation. See also Acts 20:17, 28; 1 Pet. 5:1–2. This ministry of appointing leaders is consistently Pauline (cf. Acts 14:23). directed you. A reminder of past apostolic instructions.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:6 above reproach. This word does not refer to sinless perfection but to a personal life that is beyond legitimate accusation and public scandal. It is a general and primary requirement of spiritual leaders that is repeated (v. 7) and explained in the next verses (cf. 1 Tim. 3:2, 10). husband of one wife. Lit., “a one-woman man,” i.e., a husband who is consistently, both inwardly and outwardly, devoted and faithful to his wife (cf. 1 Tim. 3:2). An otherwise qualified single man is not necessarily disqualified. This is not speaking of divorce, but of internal and external purity in the sexual area. See Prov. 6:32–33. This necessity was motivation for Paul’s commitment to control his body (1 Cor. 9:27). children are believers. This refers to children who have saving faith in Christ and reflect it in their conduct. Since 1 Tim. 3:4 requires children to be in submission, it may be directed at young children in the home, while this text looks at those who are older. debauchery or insubordination. These terms suggest that the reference is to grown children. “Insubordination” carries the idea of rebelliousness to the gospel. Here the elder shows his ability to lead his family to salvation and sanctification (see 1 Tim. 3:4–5), an essential prerequisite for leading the church.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:7 overseer. This is not a hierarchical title, but a word meaning “elder” or “bishop.” Cf. Acts 20:28; Heb. 13:17; 1 Pet. 5:2. steward. The term refers to one who manages someone else’s properties for the well-being of those his master cares for. In this context, one who manages spiritual truths, lives on God’s behalf, and is wholly accountable to him. The church is God’s (Acts 20:28; 1 Tim. 3:15; 1 Pet. 5:2–4) and elders or overseers are accountable to him for the way they lead it (Heb. 13:17). drunkard. Applies to drinking any alcoholic beverage in any way that dulls the mind or subdues inhibitions (cf. Prov. 23:29–35; 31:4–7). By application, it also indicts any other substance, e.g., drugs, which would cloud the mind. greedy for gain. Even in the early church, some men became pastors in order to gain wealth (see Titus 1:11; 1 Pet. 5:2; cf. 2 Pet. 2:1–3).

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:8 hospitable. The word actually means “a lover of strangers.” upright. Serious, with the right priorities.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:9 trustworthy word. Sound biblical doctrine not only should be taught but also adhered to with deep conviction. Cf. 1 Tim. 4:6; 5:17; 2 Tim. 2:15; 3:16–17; 4:2–4. give instruction . . . rebuke. The faithful teaching and defending of Scripture that encourages godliness and confronts sin and error (those who contradict). See notes on Titus 1:10–16; 3:10–11; Acts 20:29–30.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:10–16 The false teachers in the Cretan churches were much like those with whom Timothy had to deal in Ephesus (see 1 Tim. 1:3–7; cf. Rom. 16:17–18; 2 Pet. 2:1–3).

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:10 insubordinate. Because those men were so numerous, Titus’s job was especially difficult, which made the appointment of additional godly elders (v. 5) all the more crucial. Some of the false teachers may have opposed even Paul’s apostolic authority during his brief ministry on Crete. deceivers. Cf. Jer. 14:14; 23:2, 21, 32. the circumcision. Cf. Acts 10:45; 11:2.

These were Jews who taught that salvation required the physical cutting of circumcision (see notes on Gen. 17:9–14) and adherence to Mosaic ceremonies. See notes on Acts 15:1–12; Gal. 3:1–12; Eph. 2:11–12; Col. 2:11–12.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:11 whole families. Cf. 2 Tim. 3:6. shameful gain. False teachers are always in it for the money (1 Tim. 6:5; 1 Pet. 5:2).

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:12 a prophet. Epimenides, the highly esteemed sixth-century B.C. Greek poet and native of Crete, had characterized his own people as the dregs of Greek culture. Elsewhere, Paul also quoted pagan sayings (cf. Acts 17:28; 1 Cor. 15:33). This quote is directed at the false teachers' character.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:13 sound in the faith. True and pure doctrine was to be required of all who spoke to the church. Any who fell short of that were to be rebuked.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:14 myths and the commands of people. Paul reemphasized (see v. 10, “those of the circumcision”) that most of the false teachers were Jewish. They taught the same kind of externalism and unscriptural laws and traditions that both Isaiah and Jesus railed against (Isa. 29:13; Matt. 15:1–9; Mark 7:5–13).

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:15–16 False teachers are corrupt on the inside (“minds” and “consciences”) and the outside (“works” and “disobedient”). Cf. Matt. 7:15–16.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:15 defiled. The outwardly despicable things that those men practiced (vv. 10–12) were simply reflections of their inner corruption. See Matt. 15:15–20. minds . . . consciences. If the mind is defiled, it cannot accurately inform the conscience, so conscience cannot warn the person. When conscience is accurately and fully infused with God's truth, it functions as the warning system God designed. See notes on 2 Cor. 1:12; 4:2; 1 Tim. 1:19–20.

TITUS—NOTE ON 1:16 profess . . . deny. Some of the false teachers in the church were not believers at all. Eventually, even the seemingly noble “works” of unbelievers will betray them. unfit. They can do nothing that pleases God. See note on 1 Cor. 9:27; cf. 2 Tim. 3:8.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:1–10 Sound doctrine for older men (v. 2), older women (v. 3), younger women (vv. 4–5), young men (vv. 6–8), and slaves (vv. 9–10) reflects the duty of everyone in the church.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:1 sound. Meaning “healthy”—Paul uses this word nine times in the Pastoral Epistles (five times in Titus), always in the sense that the truth produces spiritual well-being. The things Paul mentions in vv. 2–10 pertain to truths, attitudes, and actions that correspond to and are based on biblical truth. In order not only to please God, but also to have an effective witness to unbelievers, God’s people must know the truth that leads to spiritual health.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:2 Older men. Paul used this term for himself (Philem. 9) when he was over 60. It refers to those of advanced age, using a different term from the one translated “elders” in Titus 1:5. dignified. This requirement is not limited to reverence for God, which is assumed, but also refers to being honorable. They are to be sensible and spiritually healthy.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:3 Older women. Those who no longer had child-rearing responsibilities, typically around age 60 (cf. 1 Tim. 5:3–10). reverent. Or “dignified.” See note on Titus 2:2. Cf. 1 Tim. 2:9–11, 15. not slanderers. A term used 34 times in the NT to describe Satan, the arch-slanderer. what is good. Those things that please God (cf. Titus 1:16), particularly the lessons in 2:4–5.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:4 train the young women. Their own examples of godliness (v. 3) give older women the right and the credibility to instruct younger women in the church. The obvious implication is that older women must exemplify the virtues (vv. 4–5) that they “train.” love their husbands. Like the other virtues mentioned here, this one is unconditional. It is based on God’s will, not on a husband’s worthiness. The Greek word phileo emphasizes affection. See notes on Eph. 5:22–23.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:5 working at home. Cf. 1 Tim. 5:14. Keeping a godly home with excellence for one’s husband and children is the Christian woman’s non-negotiable responsibility. submissive to. The ideas of radical feminism were an integral part of ancient Babylonian and Assyrian mythology as well as of Greek Gnosticism, which flourished throughout the Roman Empire during NT times and posed a constant danger to the early church. Modern feminism is neither new nor progressive; it is age-old and regressive. See notes on Eph. 5:22. not be reviled. This is the purpose of godly conduct—to eliminate any reproach on Scripture. For a person to be convinced God can save from sin, one needs to see someone who lives a holy life. When Christians claim to believe God’s word but do not obey it, the word is dishonored. Many have mocked God and his truth because of the sinful behavior of those who claim to be Christians. Cf. Matt.

5:16; 1 Pet. 2:9.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:6 younger men. Males, 12 and older.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:6–7 integrity. See v. 2.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:7 in all respects. This rightly goes at the end of v. 6, qualifying young men and emphasizing the comprehensiveness of this admonition. model. Titus had a special obligation to exemplify the moral and spiritual qualities about which he was to admonish others. Cf. 1 Cor. 4:16; 11:1; Phil. 3:17; 2 Thess. 3:8–9; 1 Tim. 4:12; Heb. 13:7.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:8 sound speech. Daily conversation. Cf. Eph. 4:31; Col. 3:16–17; 4:6. nothing evil to say. Again, as in Titus 2:5, the purpose of godly living is to silence the opponents of Christianity and the gospel (see notes on 1 Pet. 2:11–12), and make the power of Christ believable.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:9 Slaves. The term applies generally to all employees, but direct reference is to slaves—men, women, and children who, in the Roman Empire and in much of the ancient world, were owned by their masters. They had few, if any, civil rights and often were accorded little more dignity or care than domestic animals. The NT nowhere condones or condemns the practice of slavery, but it everywhere teaches that freedom from the bondage of sin is infinitely more important than freedom from any human bondage a person may have to endure (see Rom. 6:22). be submissive to . . . masters . . . well-pleasing. Paul clearly teaches that, even in the most servile of circumstances, believers are “to be submissive” and seek to please those for whom they work, whether their “masters” are believers or unbelievers, fair or unfair, kind or cruel. How much more obligated are believers to respect and obey employers for whom they work voluntarily! As with wives’ obedience to their husbands (Titus 2:5), the only exception would involve a believer’s being required to disobey God’s word. Cf. Eph. 6:5–9; Col. 3:22–4:1; 1 Tim. 6:1–2.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:10 not pilfering. A term used to refer to embezzlement. all good faith. Loyalty. adorn the doctrine. Again (cf. v. 5), Paul stresses that the supreme purpose of a virtuous life is to make attractive the teaching that God saves sinners.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:11–13 This is the heart of the letter, emphasizing that God’s sovereign purpose in calling out elders (1:5) and in commanding his people to live righteously (2:1–10) is to provide the witness that brings God’s plan and purpose of salvation to fulfillment. Paul condensed the saving plan of God into three realities: 1) salvation from the penalty (v. 11); 2) the power (v. 12); and 3) the presence (v. 13) of sin.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:11 grace of God. Not simply the divine attribute of grace, but Jesus Christ himself, grace incarnate, God’s supremely gracious gift to fallen mankind. Cf. John 1:14. all people. This does not teach universal salvation. “All people” refers to humanity in general, as a category, not to every individual. See notes on 2 Cor. 5:19 and 2 Pet. 3:9. Jesus Christ made a sufficient sacrifice to cover every sin of every one who believes (John 3:16–18; 1 Tim. 2:5–6; 4:10; 1 John 2:2). Paul makes clear in the opening words of this letter to Titus that salvation becomes effective only through “the faith of God’s elect” (Titus 1:1). See note on 3:2. Out of all humanity, only those who believe will be saved (John 1:12; 3:16; 5:24, 38, 40; 6:40; 10:9; Rom. 10:9–17).

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:12 renounce . . . live. Salvation is transforming (2 Cor. 5:17; Eph. 2:8–10), and transformation (new birth) produces a new life in which the power of sin has been broken (see notes on Rom. 6:4–14; Phil. 3:8–9; Col. 3:9–10).

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:13 blessed hope. A general reference to the second coming of Jesus Christ, including the resurrection (cf. Rom. 8:22–23; 1 Cor. 15:51–58; Phil. 3:20–21; 1 Thess. 4:13–18; 1 John 3:2–3) and the reign of the saints with Christ in glory (2 Tim. 2:10). appearing of the glory. Cf. 2 Tim. 1:10. This will be our salvation from the presence of sin. God and Savior. A clear reference to the deity of Jesus. Cf. 2 Pet. 1:1.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:14 redeem . . . purify. Another expression (cf. v. 12) summarizes the dual effect of salvation (regeneration and sanctification). To “redeem” is to release someone held captive, on the payment of a ransom. The price was Christ’s blood paid to satisfy God’s justice. See notes on Acts 20:28; Gal. 1:4; 2:20; 1 Pet. 1:18; cf. Mark 10:45. a people for his own possession. People who are special by virtue of God’s decree and confirmed by the grace of salvation that they have embraced (see notes on Titus 1:1–4). Cf. 1 Cor. 6:19–20; 1 Pet. 2:9. zealous. Cf. Titus 3:8. Good works are the product, not the means, of salvation. Cf. Eph. 2:10.

TITUS—NOTE ON 2:15 Declare . . . exhort . . . rebuke. These three verbs identify the need for proclamation, application, and correction by the word. authority. “Authority” to command people in the spiritual realm comes only from God’s word. Cf. Matt. 7:28–29. Let no one disregard you. See Titus 3:9–11. Rebellion against the truth has to be dealt with. Cf. Matt. 18:15–20; 1 Cor. 5:9–13; 2 Thess. 3:14–15.

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:1–11 In his closing remarks, Paul admonished Titus to remind believers under his care of their attitudes toward: 1) the unsaved rulers (v. 1) and people in general (v. 2); 2) their previous state as unbelievers lost in sin (v. 3); 3) of their gracious salvation through Jesus Christ (vv. 4–7); 4) of their righteous testimony to the unsaved world (v. 8); and 5) of their responsibility to oppose false teachers and factious members within the church (vv. 9–11). All of these matters are essential to effective evangelism.

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:1 submissive. Submission to the authority of Scripture demands submission to human authorities as part of a Christian’s testimony (see notes on Rom. 13:1–7; 1 Pet. 2:12–17).

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:2 all people. Christians are to exemplify these godly virtues in their dealings with everyone. The admonition applies especially to dealings with unbelievers. The use of this phrase here to refer to mankind in general (particularly those who cross our paths), rather than every person who lives, supports the fact that it has the same meaning in 2:11.

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:3 ourselves. It is not that every believer has committed every sin listed here, but rather that before salvation every life is characterized by such sins. That sobering truth should make believers humble in dealing with the unsaved, even those who are grossly immoral and ungodly. If it weren’t for God’s grace to his own, they would all be wicked. See note on 1 Pet. 3:15; cf. 2 Tim. 2:25. For other lists of sins, see Rom. 1:18–32; 1 Cor. 6:9–10; Gal. 5:19–21; Eph. 4:17–19.

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:4 kindness . . . appeared. As in 2:11, Paul is speaking of Jesus Christ, who was kindness and love incarnate, appearing in human form. Cf. Eph. 2:4–6.

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:5 not because of works. Salvation has never been by deeds, or works (see Eph. 2:8–9; cf. Rom. 3:19–28). according to his own mercy. Cf. Eph. 2:4; 1 Tim. 1:13; 1 Pet. 1:3; 2:10. washing of regeneration. See notes on Ezek. 36:25–31; Eph. 5:26–27; James 1:18; 1 Pet. 1:23. Salvation brings divine cleansing from sin and the gift of a new, Spirit-generated, Spirit-empowered, and Spirit-protected life as God’s own children and heirs (Titus 3:7). This is the new birth (cf. John 3:5; 1 John 2:29; 3:9; 4:7; 5:1). renewal of the Holy Spirit. Cf. Rom. 8:2. He is the agent of the “washing of regeneration.”

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:6 richly. When believers are saved, Christ’s Spirit blesses them beyond measure (cf. Acts 2:38–39; 1 Cor. 12:7, 11, 13; Eph. 3:20; 5:18).

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:7 justified. The central truth of salvation is justification by faith alone. When a sinner repents and places his faith in Jesus Christ, God declares him just, imputes the righteousness of Christ to him, and gives him eternal life by virtue of the substitutionary death of Christ as the penalty for that sinner’s iniquity. See notes on Rom. 3:21–5:21; Gal. 3:6–22; Phil. 3:8–9. heirs. As adopted children of God through faith in Jesus Christ, believers become “heirs of God and fellow heirs with Christ” (Rom. 8:17; cf. 1 Pet. 1:3–4).

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:8 The saying is trustworthy. A common expression in the early church, used five times in the Pastoral Epistles (cf. 1 Tim. 1:15; 3:1; 4:9; 2 Tim. 2:11). profitable for people. That is, for the sake of evangelism. Again “people” (cf. Titus 3:2; 2:11) is general, referring to those who respond by the holy witness to the gospel.

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:9 foolish controversies. Paul again warns against becoming embroiled in senseless discussions with the many false teachers on Crete (see 1:10, 14–16), especially the Judaizers who contended that a Christian must be obedient to “the [Mosaic] law,” a view that assaulted the doctrine of justification by grace through faith alone and, contrary to holy living, which was good and profitable, was “unprofitable and worthless.” Proclaiming the truth, not arguing error, is the biblical way to evangelize.

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:10 have nothing more to do. Anyone in the church who is unsubmitive, self-willed, and divisive should be expelled. Two warnings are to be given, following the basic pattern for church discipline set forth by Christ (see notes on Matt. 18:15–17; cf. Rom. 16:17–18; 2 Thess. 3:14–15).

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:11 self-condemned. By his own ungodly behavior, a factious believer brings judgment on himself.

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:12–14 Paul gives Titus special instructions.

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:12 Artemas. Nothing is known of this man beyond Paul’s obvious confidence in him. Tychicus. This “beloved brother and faithful . . . servant” (Col. 4:7) accompanied Paul from Corinth to Asia Minor (Acts 20:4), carried the apostle’s letter to the Colossian church (Col. 4:7), and possibly his letter to Ephesus (see Eph. 6:21). Nicopolis. The name means “city of victory,” and this was but one of perhaps nine different cities so named because of decisive military battles that were won in or near them. This particular Nicopolis was probably in southern Greece, on the west coast of Achaia, which was a good place “to spend the winter.”

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:13 Zenas. Nothing is known of this believer whose expertise was either in biblical law or Roman law. Apollos. Originally from Alexandria, he was an outstanding teacher of Scripture who was converted to Christ after being acquainted only with the teaching of John the Baptist (Acts 18:24–28). Some of his followers apparently formed a faction in the church at Corinth (1 Cor. 1:11–12; 3:4).

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:14 good works. Again the emphasis is on good deeds as the platform for witnessing effectively (cf. v. 8; 1:13–16; 2:5, 8, 10, 12, 14).

TITUS—NOTE ON 3:15 All who are with me. Cf. 1 Cor. 16:20; 2 Cor. 13:12; Phil. 4:22; cf. also Rom. 16:21–23; Col. 4:10–14, where those with Paul are mentioned by name.

Introduction to Philemon

Title

Philemon, the recipient of this letter, was a prominent member of the church at Colossae (vv. 1–2; cf. Col. 4:9), which met in his house (Philem. 2). The letter was for him, his family, and the church.

Author and Date

The book claims that the apostle Paul was its writer (vv. 1, 9, 19), a claim that few in the history of the church have disputed, especially since there is nothing in Philemon that a forger would have been motivated to write. It is one of the Prison Epistles, along with Ephesians, Philippians, and Colossians. Its close connection with Colossians, which Paul wrote at the same time (c. A.D. 60–62; cf. vv. 1, 16), brought early and unquestioned vindication of Paul’s authorship by the early church fathers (e.g., Jerome, Chrysostom, and Theodore of Mopsuestia). The earliest of NT canons, the Muratorian (c. A.D. 170), includes Philemon. For biographical information on Paul, see Introduction to Romans: Author and Date; for the date and place of Philemon’s writing, see Introductions to Ephesians and Philippians: Author and Date.

Background and Setting

Philemon had been saved under Paul’s ministry, probably at Ephesus (v. 19), several years earlier. Wealthy enough to have a large house (cf. v. 2), Philemon also owned at least one slave, a man named Onesimus (lit., “useful”; a common name for slaves). Onesimus was not a believer at the time he stole some money (v. 18) from Philemon and ran away. Like countless thousands of other runaway slaves, Onesimus fled to Rome, seeking to lose himself in the imperial capital’s teeming and nondescript slave population. Through circumstances not recorded in Scripture, Onesimus met Paul in Rome and became a Christian.

The apostle quickly grew to love the runaway slave (vv. 12, 16) and longed to keep Onesimus in Rome (v. 13), where he was providing valuable service to Paul in his imprisonment (v. 11). But by stealing and running away from Philemon, Onesimus had both broken Roman law and defrauded his master. Paul knew those issues had to be dealt with, and decided to send Onesimus back to Colossae. It was too hazardous for him to make the trip alone (because of the danger of slave-catchers), so Paul sent him back with Tychicus, who was returning to Colossae with the epistle to the Colossians (Col. 4:7–9). Along with Onesimus, Paul sent Philemon this beautiful personal letter, urging him to forgive Onesimus and welcome him back to service as a brother in Christ (Philem. 15–17).

Historical and Theological Themes

Philemon provides valuable historical insights into the early church's relationship to the institution of slavery. Slavery was widespread in the Roman Empire (according to some estimates, slaves constituted one third, perhaps more, of the population) and an accepted part of life. In Paul's day, slavery had virtually eclipsed free labor. Slaves could be doctors, musicians, teachers, artists, librarians, or accountants; in short, almost all jobs could be and were filled by slaves.

Slaves were not legally considered persons, but were the tools of their masters. As such, they could be bought, sold, inherited, exchanged, or seized to pay their master's debt. Their masters had virtually unlimited power to punish them, and sometimes did so severely for the slightest infractions. By the time of the NT, however, slavery was beginning to change. Realizing that contented slaves were more productive, masters tended to treat them more leniently. It was not uncommon for a master to teach a slave his own trade, and some masters and slaves became close friends. While still not recognizing them as persons under the law, the Roman Senate in A.D. 20 granted slaves accused of crimes the right to a trial. It also became more common for slaves to be granted (or to purchase) their freedom. Some slaves enjoyed very favorable and profitable service under their masters and were better off than many freemen because they were assured of care and provision. Many freemen struggled in poverty.

The NT nowhere directly attacks slavery; had it done so, the resulting slave insurrections would have been brutally suppressed and the message of the gospel hopelessly confused with that of social reform. Instead, Christianity undermined the evils of slavery by changing the hearts of slaves and masters. By stressing the spiritual equality of master and slave (v. 16; Gal. 3:28; Eph. 6:9; Col. 4:1; 1 Tim. 6:1–2), the Bible did away with slavery's abuses. The rich theological theme that alone dominates the letter is forgiveness, a featured theme throughout NT Scripture (cf. Matt. 6:12–15; 18:21–35; Eph. 4:32; Col. 3:13). Paul’s instruction here provides the biblical definition of forgiveness, without ever using the word.

Philemon

Greeting

PHILEMON 1 †Paul, a prisoner for Christ Jesus, and Timothy our brother, To Philemon our beloved fellow worker <sup>2</sup>†and Apphia our sister and Archippus our fellow soldier, and the church in your house: <sup>3</sup>†Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Philemon's Love and Faith

<sup>4</sup>I thank my God always when I remember you in my prayers, <sup>5</sup>†because I hear of your love and of the faith that you have toward the Lord Jesus and for all the saints, <sup>6</sup>†and I pray that the sharing of your faith may become effective for the full knowledge of every good thing that is in us for the sake of Christ. [\[1\]](#) <sup>7</sup>†For I have derived much joy and comfort from your love, my brother, because the hearts of the saints have been refreshed through you.

Paul's Plea for Onesimus

<sup>8</sup>†Accordingly, though I am bold enough in Christ to command you to do what is required, <sup>9</sup>†yet for love's sake I prefer to appeal to you—I, Paul, an old man and now a prisoner also for Christ Jesus— <sup>10</sup>†I appeal to you for my child, Onesimus, [\[2\]](#) whose father I became in my imprisonment. <sup>11</sup>†(Formerly he was useless to you, but now he is indeed useful to you and to me.) <sup>12</sup>I am sending him back to you, sending my very heart. <sup>13</sup>I would have been glad to keep him with me, in order that he might serve me on your behalf during my imprisonment for the gospel, <sup>14</sup>†but I preferred to do nothing without your consent in order that your goodness might not be by compulsion but of your own accord. <sup>15</sup>†For this perhaps is why he was parted from you for a while, that you might have him back forever, <sup>16</sup>†no longer as a slave [\[3\]](#) but more than a slave, as a beloved brother—especially to me, but how much more to you, both in the flesh and in the Lord.

<sup>17</sup>†So if you consider me your partner, receive him as you would receive me. <sup>18</sup>If he has wronged you at all, or owes you anything, charge that to my account. <sup>19</sup>†I, Paul, write this with my own hand: I will repay it—to say nothing of your owing me even your own self. <sup>20</sup>†Yes, brother, I want some benefit from you in the Lord. Refresh my heart in Christ.

<sup>21</sup>†Confident of your obedience, I write to you, knowing that you will do even more than I say. <sup>22</sup>†At the same time, prepare a guest room for me, for I am hoping that through your prayers I will be graciously given to you.

Final Greetings

<sup>23</sup>†Epaphras, my fellow prisoner in Christ Jesus, sends greetings to you, <sup>24</sup>†and so do Mark, Aristarchus, Demas, and Luke, my fellow workers.

Study Notes

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 1–2 Following first-century custom, the salutation contains the names of the letter’s author and its recipient. This is a very personal letter and Philemon was one of only three individuals (Timothy and Titus are the others) to receive a divinely inspired letter from Paul.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 1 prisoner for Christ Jesus. At the time of writing, Paul was a prisoner in Rome (see Introductions to Ephesians and Philippians: Author and Date). Paul was imprisoned for the sake of and by the sovereign will of Christ (cf. Eph. 3:1; 4:1; 6:19–20; Phil. 1:13; Col. 4:3). By beginning with his imprisonment and not his apostolic authority, Paul made this letter a gentle and singular appeal to a friend. A reminder of Paul’s severe hardships was bound to influence Philemon’s willingness to do the comparatively easy task Paul was about to request. Timothy. See Introduction to 1 Timothy: Background and Setting; see notes on Acts 16:1–3; Phil. 1:1; 1 Tim. 1:2. He was not the coauthor of this letter, but probably had met Philemon at Ephesus and was with Paul when the apostle wrote the letter. Paul mentions Timothy here and in the other epistles (e.g., 2 Cor. 1:1; Phil. 1:1; Col. 1:1; 1 Thess. 1:1; 2 Thess. 1:1) because he wanted him recognized as a leader and the non-apostolic heir apparent to Paul. Philemon. A wealthy member of the Colossian church, which met in his house (see Introduction: Background and Setting). Church buildings were unknown until the third century.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 2 Apphia . . . Archippus. Philemon’s wife and son, respectively. in your house. First-century churches met in homes, and Paul wanted this personal letter read in the church that met at Philemon’s. This reading would hold Philemon accountable, as well as instruct the church on the matter of forgiveness.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 3 Grace to you. The standard greeting that appears in all 13 of Paul’s NT letters. It highlighted salvation’s means (grace) and its results (peace) and linked the Father and Son, thus affirming the deity of Christ.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 5 In the Greek text, this verse is arranged in what is called a chiasmic construction. “Love” relates to the final phrase “for all the saints.” This love of will, choice, self-sacrifice, and humility (Gal. 5:22) was a manifestation of Philemon’s genuine faith “toward the Lord Jesus” (cf. Rom. 5:5; Gal. 5:6; 1 John 3:14).

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 6 sharing. The Greek word here means much more than simply enjoying one another’s company. It refers to a mutual sharing of all life, which believers do because of their common life in Christ and mutual partnership or “belonging to each other” in the “faith.” effective. Lit., “powerful.” Paul wanted Philemon’s actions to send a powerful message to the church about the importance of forgiveness. knowledge. The deep, rich, full, experiential knowledge of the truth (see notes on Col. 1:9; 3:10).

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 7 hearts. This Greek word denotes the seat of human feelings (see note on Col. 3:12 where the same Greek word is translated “compassionate hearts”). refreshed. This comes from the Greek military term that describes an army at rest from a march.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 8 bold enough . . . to command. Because of his apostolic authority (see notes on Rom. 1:1; 1 Thess. 2:6), Paul could have ordered Philemon to accept Onesimus.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 9 I prefer to appeal. In this situation, however, Paul did not rely on his authority but called for a response based on the bond of love between himself and Philemon (v. 7; cf. 2 Cor. 10:1). an old man. More than a reference to his chronological age (which at the time of this letter was about 60), this description includes the toll that all the years of persecution, illnesses, imprisonments, difficult journeys, and constant concern for the churches had taken on Paul (see notes on 2 Cor. 11:23–30), making him feel and appear even older than he actually was. prisoner. See note on Philem. 1.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 10 my child, Onesimus. See Introduction: Background and Setting. To Paul, he was a son in the faith (see note on 1 Tim. 1:2). became in my imprisonment. While in prison at Rome, Paul had led him to faith in Christ.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 11 useless . . . useful. This play on words carries the same root meaning as the Greek word from which the name Onesimus comes. Paul was basically saying, “Useful formerly was useless, but now is useful”—Paul’s point is that Onesimus had been radically transformed by God’s grace.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 14 own accord. Paul wanted Onesimus to minister alongside him, but only if Philemon openly and gladly agreed to release him.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 15 perhaps. Paul was suggesting that God providentially ordered the overturning of the evil of Onesimus's running away to produce eventual good (cf. Gen. 50:20; Rom. 8:28).

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 16 no longer as a slave . . . a beloved brother. Paul did not call for Onesimus's freedom (cf. 1 Cor. 7:20–22), but that Philemon would receive his slave now as a fellow-believer in Christ (cf. Eph. 6:9; Col. 4:1; 1 Tim. 6:2). Christianity never sought to abolish slavery, but rather to make the relationships within it just and kind. in the flesh. In this physical life (see note on Phil. 1:22), as they worked together. in the Lord. The master and slave were to enjoy spiritual oneness and fellowship as they worshiped and ministered together.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 17–19 Paul offered to pay whatever restitution was necessary for Onesimus to be reconciled to Philemon, following the example of Jesus in reconciling sinners to God.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 19 with my own hand. See notes on Gal. 6:11; Col. 4:18; cf. 2 Thess. 3:17. even your own self. Philemon owed Paul something far greater than the material debt Paul was offering to repay, since Paul had led him to saving faith, a debt Philemon could never repay.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 20 some benefit from you. See note on Phil. 2:2. By forgiving Onesimus, Philemon would keep the unity in the church at Colossae and bring joy to the chained apostle (cf. Philem. 7).

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 21 even more than I say. The more than forgiveness that Paul was urging upon Philemon was either: 1) to welcome Onesimus back enthusiastically, not grudgingly (cf. Luke 15:22–24); 2) to permit Onesimus, in addition to his menial tasks, to minister spiritually with Philemon; or 3) to forgive any others who might have wronged Philemon. Whichever Paul intended, he was not subtly urging Philemon to grant Onesimus freedom (see note on Philem. 16).

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 22 a guest room. A place where Paul could stay when he visited Colossae. I will be graciously given to you. Paul expected to be released from prison in the near future (cf. Phil. 2:23–24), after which he could be with Philemon and the other Colossians again.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 23 Epaphras. See note on Col. 4:12.

PHILEMON—NOTE ON 24 Mark, Aristarchus. See note on Col. 4:10. The story of the once severed but now mended relationship between Paul and Mark (Acts 15:38–40; 2 Tim. 4:11) would have been well known to the believers in Colossae (Col. 4:10). Listing Mark's name here would serve to remind Philemon that Paul himself had worked through the issues of forgiveness, and that the instructions he was passing on to his friend were ones the apostle himself had already implemented in his relationship with John Mark. Demas, and Luke. See note on Col. 4:14.

Introduction to Hebrews

Title

When the various NT books were formally brought together into one collection shortly after A.D. 100, the titles were added for convenience. This epistle's title bears the traditional Greek title, "To the Hebrews," which was attested by at least the second century A.D. Within the epistle itself, however, there is no identification of the recipients as either Hebrews (Jews) or Gentiles. Since the epistle is filled with references to Hebrew history and religion and does not address any particular Gentile or pagan practice, the traditional title has been maintained.

Author and Date

The author of Hebrews is unknown. Paul, Barnabas, Silas, Apollos, Luke, Philip, Priscilla, Aquila, and Clement of Rome have been suggested by different scholars, but the epistle's vocabulary, style, and various literary characteristics do not clearly support any particular claim. It is significant that the writer includes himself among those people who had received confirmation of Christ's message from others (2:3). That would seem to rule out someone like Paul, who claimed that he had received such confirmation directly from God and not from men (Gal. 1:12). Whoever the author was, he preferred citing OT references from the Greek OT (LXX) rather than from the Hebrew text. Even the early church expressed various opinions on authorship, and current scholarship admits the puzzle still has no solution. Therefore, it seems best to accept the epistle's anonymity. Ultimately, of course, the author was the Holy Spirit (2 Pet. 1:21).

The use of the present tense in Heb. 5:1–4; 7:21, 23, 27–28; 8:3–5, 13; 9:6–9, 13, 25; 10:1, 3–4, 8, 11; and 13:10–11 would suggest that the Levitical priesthood and sacrificial system were still in operation when the epistle was composed. Since the temple was destroyed by General (later Emperor) Titus Vespasian in A.D. 70, the epistle must have been written prior to that date. In addition, it may be noted that Timothy had just been released from prison (13:23) and that persecution was becoming severe (10:32–39; 12:4; 13:3). These details suggest a date for the epistle around A.D. 67–69.

Background and Setting

Emphases on the Levitical priesthood and on sacrifices, as well as the absence of any reference to the Gentiles, support the conclusion that a community of Hebrews was the recipient of the epistle. Although these Hebrews were primarily converts to Christ, there were probably a number of unbelievers in their midst who were attracted by the message of salvation, but who had not yet made a full commitment of faith in Christ (see Interpretive Challenges). One thing is clear from the contents of the epistle: the community of Hebrews was facing the possibility of intensified persecution (10:32–39; 12:4). As they confronted this possibility, the Hebrews were tempted to cast aside any identification with Christ. They may have considered demoting Christ from God’s Son to a mere angel. Such a precedent had already been set in the Qumran community of messianic Jews living near the Dead Sea. They had dropped out of society, established a religious commune, and included the worship of angels in their brand of reformed Judaism. The Qumran community had even gone so far as to claim that the angel Michael was higher in status than the coming Messiah. These kinds of doctrinal aberrations could explain the emphasis in Hebrews ch. 1 on the superiority of Christ over the angels.

Possible locations for the recipients of the epistle include Palestine, Egypt, Italy, Asia Minor, and Greece. The community that was the primary recipient may have circulated the epistle among those of Hebrew background in neighboring areas and churches. Those believers probably had not seen Christ personally. Apparently, they had been evangelized by “those who heard” Christ and whose ministries had been authenticated “by signs and wonders and various miracles” (2:3–4). Thus the recipients could have been in a church outside Judea and Galilee or in a church in those areas, but established among people in the generation following those who had been eyewitnesses of Christ. The congregation was not new or untaught (“by this time you ought to be teachers”) yet some of them still needed “milk, not solid food” (5:12).

“Those who come from Italy” (13:24) is an ambiguous reference since it could mean either those who had left Italy and were living elsewhere, or those who were still in Italy and being singled out as native residents of that country. Greece or Asia Minor must also be considered because of the apparently early establishment of the church there, and because of the consistent use of the lxx.

The generation of Hebrews receiving this epistle had practiced the Levitical sacrifices at the temple in Jerusalem. Jews living in exile had substituted the synagogue for the temple but still felt a deep attraction to the temple worship. Some had the means to make regular pilgrimages to the temple in Jerusalem. The writer of this epistle emphasized the superiority of Christianity over Judaism and the superiority of Christ's once-for-all sacrifice over the repeated and imperfect Levitical sacrifices observed in the temple.

Historical and Theological Themes

Since the book of Hebrews is grounded in the work of the Levitical priesthood, an understanding of the book of Leviticus is essential for properly interpreting Hebrews. Israel's sin had continually interrupted God's fellowship with his chosen and covenant people, Israel. Therefore, he graciously and sovereignly established a system of sacrifices that symbolically represented the inner repentance of sinners and his divine forgiveness. However, the need for sacrifices never ended because the people and priests continued to sin. The need of all mankind was for a perfect priest and a perfect sacrifice that would once and for all actually remove sin. God's provision for that perfect priest and sacrifice in Christ is the central message of Hebrews.

The epistle to the Hebrews is a study in contrast, between the imperfect and incomplete provisions of the Old Covenant, given under Moses, and the infinitely better provisions of the New Covenant offered by the perfect high priest, God's only Son and the Messiah, Jesus Christ. Included in the "better" provisions are: a better hope, testament, promise, sacrifice, substance, country, and resurrection. Those who belong to the New Covenant dwell in a completely new and heavenly atmosphere, they worship a heavenly Savior, have a heavenly calling, receive a heavenly gift, are citizens of a heavenly country, look forward to a heavenly Jerusalem, and have their very names written in heaven.

One of the key theological themes in Hebrews is that all believers now have direct access to God under the New Covenant and, therefore, may approach the throne of God boldly (4:16; 10:22). One's hope is in the very presence of God, into which he follows the Savior (6:19–20; 10:19–20). The primary teaching symbolized by the tabernacle service was that believers under the covenant of law did not have direct access to the presence of God (9:8), but were shut out of the Most Holy Place. The book of Hebrews may briefly be summarized in this way: Believers in Jesus Christ, as God's perfect sacrifice for sin, have the perfect high priest through whose ministry everything is new and better than under the covenant of law.

This epistle is more than a doctrinal treatise, however. It is intensely practical in its application to everyday living (see ch. 13). The writer himself even refers to his letter as a “word of exhortation” (13:22; cf. Acts 13:15). Exhortations designed to stir the readers into action are found throughout the text. Those exhortations are given in the form of six warnings:

- Warning against drifting from “what we have heard” (2:1–4)
- Warning against disbelieving the “voice” of God (3:7–14)
- Warning against degenerating from “the basic principles of the oracles of God” (5:11–6:20)
- Warning against despising “the knowledge of the truth” (10:26–39)
- Warning against devaluing “the grace of God” (12:15–17)
- Warning against departing from him “who is speaking” (12:25–29)

Another significant aspect of this epistle is its clear exposition of selected OT passages. The writer was clearly a skilled expositor of the word of God. His example is instructive for preachers and teachers:

1:1–2:4	Exposition of verses from Psalms; 2 Sam. 7 ; Deut. 32
2:5–18	Exposition of Ps. 8:4–6
3:1–4:13	Exposition of Ps. 95:7–11
4:14–7:28	Exposition of Ps. 110:4
8:1–10:18	Exposition of Jer. 31:31–34
10:32–12:3	Exposition of Hab. 2:3–4
12:4–13	Exposition of Prov. 3:11–12
12:18–29	Exposition of Ex. 19–20

Interpretive Challenges

A proper interpretation of this epistle requires the recognition that it addresses three distinct groups of Jews: 1) believers; 2) unbelievers who were intellectually convinced of the gospel; and 3) unbelievers who were attracted by the gospel and the person of Christ but who had reached no final conviction about him. Failure to acknowledge these groups leads to interpretations inconsistent with the rest of Scripture.

The primary group addressed were Hebrew Christians who suffered rejection and persecution by fellow Jews (10:32–34), although none as yet had been martyred (12:4). The letter was written to give them encouragement and confidence in Christ, their Messiah and high priest. They were an immature group of believers who were tempted to hold on to the symbolic and spiritually powerless rituals and traditions of Judaism.

The second group addressed were Jewish unbelievers who were convinced of the basic truths of the gospel but who had not placed their faith in Jesus Christ as their own Savior and Lord. They were intellectually persuaded but spiritually uncommitted. These unbelievers are addressed in such passages as 2:1–3; 6:4–6; 10:26–29; and 12:15–17.

The third group addressed were Jewish unbelievers who were not convinced of the gospel's truth but had had some exposure to it. Chapter 9 is largely devoted to them (see especially 9:11, 14–15, 27–28).

By far, the most serious interpretive challenge is found in 6:4–6. The phrase “once been enlightened” is often taken to refer to Christians, and the accompanying warning taken to indicate the danger of losing their salvation if they “have fallen away” and “are crucifying once again the Son of God.” But there is no mention of their being saved and they are not described with any terms that apply only to believers (such as holy, born again, righteous, or saints). This problem arises from inaccurately identifying the spiritual condition of the ones being addressed. In this case, they were unbelievers who had been exposed to God's redemptive truth, and perhaps made a profession of faith, but had not exercised genuine saving faith. In 10:26, the reference once again is to apostate Christians, not to genuine believers who are often incorrectly thought to lose their salvation because of their sins.

THE LETTER TO THE

Hebrews

The Supremacy of God's Son

HEBREWS 1 † Long ago, at many times and in many ways, God spoke to our fathers by the prophets, <sup>2</sup>† but in these last days he has spoken to us by his Son, whom he appointed the heir of all things, through whom also he created the world. <sup>3</sup>† He is the radiance of the glory of God and the exact imprint of his nature, and he upholds the universe by the word of his power. After making purification for sins, he sat down at the right hand of the Majesty on high, <sup>4</sup>† having become as much superior to angels as the name he has inherited is more excellent than theirs.

<sup>5</sup>† For to which of the angels did God ever say, “You are my Son, today I have begotten you”?

Or again,

“I will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son”?

<sup>6</sup>† And again, when he brings the firstborn into the world, he says, “Let all God's angels worship him.”

<sup>8</sup>† But of the Son he says, “Your throne, O God, is forever and ever, the scepter of uprightness is the scepter of your kingdom.

<sup>9</sup>† You have loved righteousness and hated wickedness; therefore God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness beyond your companions.”

<sup>10</sup>† And, “You, Lord, laid the foundation of the earth in the beginning, and the heavens are the work of your hands; <sup>11</sup>they will perish, but you remain; they will all wear out like a garment,

<sup>12</sup>like a robe you will roll them up, like a garment they will be changed. [\[1\]](#)
But you are the same, and your years will have no end.”

<sup>13</sup>††And to which of the angels has he ever said, “Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet”?

<sup>14</sup>†Are they not all ministering spirits sent out to serve for the sake of those who are to inherit salvation?

Warning Against Neglecting Salvation

HEBREWS 2 <sup>1</sup>Therefore we must pay much closer attention to what we have heard, lest we drift away from it. <sup>2</sup>For since the message declared by angels proved to be reliable, and every transgression or disobedience received a just retribution, <sup>3</sup>how shall we escape if we neglect such a great salvation? It was declared at first by the Lord, and it was attested to us by those who heard, <sup>4</sup>while God also bore witness by signs and wonders and various miracles and by gifts of the Holy Spirit distributed according to his will.

The Founder of Salvation

<sup>5</sup>Now it was not to angels that God subjected the world to come, of which we are speaking. <sup>6</sup>It has been testified somewhere, “What is man, that you are mindful of him, or the son of man, that you care for him?

Now in putting everything in subjection to him, he left nothing outside his control. At present, we do not yet see everything in subjection to him. <sup>9</sup>But we see him who for a little while was made lower than the angels, namely Jesus, crowned with glory and honor because of the suffering of death, so that by the grace of God he might taste death for everyone.

<sup>10</sup>For it was fitting that he, for whom and by whom all things exist, in bringing many sons to glory, should make the founder of their salvation perfect through suffering. <sup>11</sup>For he who sanctifies and those who are sanctified all have one source. [\[2\]](#) That is why he is not ashamed to call them brothers, [\[3\]](#) <sup>12</sup>saying, “I will tell of your name to my brothers; in the midst of the congregation I will sing your praise.”

And again, “Behold, I and the children God has given me.”

<sup>14</sup>Since therefore the children share in flesh and blood, he himself likewise partook of the same things, that through death he might destroy the one who has the power of death, that is, the devil, <sup>15</sup>† and deliver all those who through fear of death were subject to lifelong slavery. <sup>16</sup>† For surely it is not angels that he helps, but he helps the offspring of Abraham. <sup>17</sup>† Therefore he had to be made like his brothers in every respect, so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people. <sup>18</sup>† For because he himself has suffered when tempted, he is able to help those who are being tempted.

Jesus Greater Than Moses

HEBREWS 3 †Therefore, holy brothers, [1] you who share in a heavenly calling, consider Jesus, the apostle and high priest of our confession, †who was faithful to him who appointed him, just as Moses also was faithful in all God's [2] house. †For Jesus has been counted worthy of more glory than Moses—as much more glory as the builder of a house has more honor than the house itself. †(For every house is built by someone, but the builder of all things is God.) †Now Moses was faithful in all God's house as a servant, to testify to the things that were to be spoken later, †but Christ is faithful over God's house as a son. And we are his house if indeed we hold fast our confidence and our boasting in our hope. [3]

A Rest for the People of God

†Therefore, as the Holy Spirit says, “Today, if you hear his voice, †do not harden your hearts as in the rebellion, on the day of testing in the wilderness, †where your fathers put me to the test and saw my works for forty years.

†Therefore I was provoked with that generation, and said, ‘They always go astray in their heart; they have not known my ways.’

†As I swore in my wrath, ‘They shall not enter my rest.’”

†Take care, brothers, lest there be in any of you an evil, unbelieving heart, leading you to fall away from the living God. †But exhort one another every day, as long as it is called “today,” that none of you may be hardened by the deceitfulness of sin. †For we have come to share in Christ, if indeed we hold our original confidence firm to the end. †As it is said, “Today, if you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts as in the rebellion.”

†For who were those who heard and yet rebelled? Was it not all those who left Egypt led by Moses? †And with whom was he provoked for forty years? Was it not with those who sinned, whose bodies fell in the wilderness? †And to whom did he swear that they would not enter his rest, but to those who were disobedient? †So we see that they were unable to enter because of unbelief.

HEBREWS 4 †Therefore, while the promise of entering his rest still stands, let us fear lest any of you should seem to have failed to reach it. †For good news came to us just as to them, but the message they heard did not benefit them, because they were not united by faith with those who listened. [1] †For we who have believed enter that rest, as he has said, “As I swore in my wrath, ‘They shall not enter my rest,’” although his works were finished from the foundation of the world. †For he has somewhere spoken of the seventh day in this way: “And God rested on the seventh day from all his works.” †And again in this passage he said, “They shall not enter my rest.”

†Since therefore it remains for some to enter it, and those who formerly received the good news failed to enter because of disobedience, †again he appoints a certain day, “Today,” saying through David so long afterward, in the words already quoted, “Today, if you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts.”

†For if Joshua had given them rest, God [2] would not have spoken of another day later on. †So then, there remains a Sabbath rest for the people of God, †for whoever has entered God's rest has also rested from his works as God did from his.

†Let us therefore strive to enter that rest, so that no one may fall by the same sort of disobedience. †For the word of God is living and active, sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing to the division of soul and of spirit, of joints and of marrow, and discerning the thoughts and intentions of the heart. †And no creature is hidden from his sight, but all are naked and exposed to the eyes of him to whom we must give account.

Jesus the Great High Priest

††Since then we have a great high priest who has passed through the heavens, Jesus, the Son of God, let us hold fast our confession. †For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sin. †Let us then with confidence draw near to the throne of grace, that we may receive mercy and find grace to help in time of need.

HEBREWS 5 ¶¶ For every high priest chosen from among men is appointed to act on behalf of men in relation to God, to offer gifts and sacrifices for sins. ¶ He can deal gently with the ignorant and wayward, since he himself is beset with weakness. ¶ Because of this he is obligated to offer sacrifice for his own sins just as he does for those of the people. ¶ And no one takes this honor for himself, but only when called by God, just as Aaron was.

¶ So also Christ did not exalt himself to be made a high priest, but was appointed by him who said to him, “You are my Son, today I have begotten you”; ¶ as he says also in another place, “You are a priest forever, after the order of Melchizedek.”

¶¶ In the days of his flesh, Jesus [1] offered up prayers and supplications, with loud cries and tears, to him who was able to save him from death, and he was heard because of his reverence. ¶ Although he was a son, he learned obedience through what he suffered. ¶ And being made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation to all who obey him, ¶ being designated by God a high priest after the order of Melchizedek.

Warning Against Apostasy

¶ About this we have much to say, and it is hard to explain, since you have become dull of hearing. ¶¶ For though by this time you ought to be teachers, you need someone to teach you again the basic principles of the oracles of God. You need milk, not solid food, ¶ for everyone who lives on milk is unskilled in the word of righteousness, since he is a child. ¶ But solid food is for the mature, for those who have their powers of discernment trained by constant practice to distinguish good from evil.

HEBREWS 6 †Therefore let us leave the elementary doctrine of Christ and go on to maturity, not laying again a foundation of repentance from dead works and of faith toward God, <sup>2</sup>†and of instruction about washings, [\[1\]](#) the laying on of hands, the resurrection of the dead, and eternal judgment. <sup>3</sup>†And this we will do if God permits. <sup>4</sup>††For it is impossible, in the case of those who have once been enlightened, who have tasted the heavenly gift, and have shared in the Holy Spirit, <sup>5</sup>†and have tasted the goodness of the word of God and the powers of the age to come, <sup>6</sup>†and then have fallen away, to restore them again to repentance, since they are crucifying once again the Son of God to their own harm and holding him up to contempt. <sup>7</sup>†For land that has drunk the rain that often falls on it, and produces a crop useful to those for whose sake it is cultivated, receives a blessing from God. <sup>8</sup>†But if it bears thorns and thistles, it is worthless and near to being cursed, and its end is to be burned.

<sup>9</sup>†Though we speak in this way, yet in your case, beloved, we feel sure of better things—things that belong to salvation. <sup>10</sup>†For God is not unjust so as to overlook your work and the love that you have shown for his name in serving the saints, as you still do. <sup>11</sup>†And we desire each one of you to show the same earnestness to have the full assurance of hope until the end, <sup>12</sup>†so that you may not be sluggish, but imitators of those who through faith and patience inherit the promises.

The Certainty of God's Promise

<sup>13</sup>††For when God made a promise to Abraham, since he had no one greater by whom to swear, he swore by himself, <sup>14</sup>†saying, “Surely I will bless you and multiply you.” <sup>15</sup>†And thus Abraham, [\[2\]](#) having patiently waited, obtained the promise. <sup>16</sup>†For people swear by something greater than themselves, and in all their disputes an oath is final for confirmation. <sup>17</sup>So when God desired to show more convincingly to the heirs of the promise the unchangeable character of his purpose, he guaranteed it with an oath, <sup>18</sup>†so that by two unchangeable things, in which it is impossible for God to lie, we who have fled for refuge might have strong encouragement to hold fast to the hope set before us. <sup>19</sup>†We have this as a sure and steadfast anchor of the soul, a hope that enters into the inner place behind the curtain, <sup>20</sup>where Jesus has gone as a forerunner on our behalf, having become a high priest forever after the order of Melchizedek.

The Priestly Order of Melchizedek

HEBREWS 7 ¶¶ For this Melchizedek, king of Salem, priest of the Most High God, met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings and blessed him, <sup>2</sup>and to him Abraham apportioned a tenth part of everything. He is first, by translation of his name, king of righteousness, and then he is also king of Salem, that is, king of peace. <sup>3</sup>¶ He is without father or mother or genealogy, having neither beginning of days nor end of life, but resembling the Son of God he continues a priest forever.

<sup>4</sup>¶ See how great this man was to whom Abraham the patriarch gave a tenth of the spoils! <sup>5</sup>¶ And those descendants of Levi who receive the priestly office have a commandment in the law to take tithes from the people, that is, from their brothers, [1] though these also are descended from Abraham. <sup>6</sup>¶ But this man who does not have his descent from them received tithes from Abraham and blessed him who had the promises. <sup>7</sup>It is beyond dispute that the inferior is blessed by the superior. <sup>8</sup>¶ In the one case tithes are received by mortal men, but in the other case, by one of whom it is testified that he lives. <sup>9</sup>¶ One might even say that Levi himself, who receives tithes, paid tithes through Abraham, <sup>10</sup>for he was still in the loins of his ancestor when Melchizedek met him.

Jesus Compared to Melchizedek

<sup>11</sup>¶ Now if perfection had been attainable through the Levitical priesthood (for under it the people received the law), what further need would there have been for another priest to arise after the order of Melchizedek, rather than one named after the order of Aaron? <sup>12</sup>¶ For when there is a change in the priesthood, there is necessarily a change in the law as well. <sup>13</sup>¶ For the one of whom these things are spoken belonged to another tribe, from which no one has ever served at the altar. <sup>14</sup>For it is evident that our Lord was descended from Judah, and in connection with that tribe Moses said nothing about priests.

<sup>15</sup>This becomes even more evident when another priest arises in the likeness of Melchizedek, <sup>16</sup>¶ who has become a priest, not on the basis of a legal requirement concerning bodily descent, but by the power of an indestructible life. <sup>17</sup>¶ For it is witnessed of him, “You are a priest forever, after the order of Melchizedek.”

<sup>18</sup>¶ For on the one hand, a former commandment is set aside because of its weakness and uselessness <sup>19</sup>†(for the law made nothing perfect); but on the other hand, a better hope is introduced, through which we draw near to God.

<sup>20</sup>†And it was not without an oath. For those who formerly became priests were made such without an oath, <sup>21</sup>but this one was made a priest with an oath by the one who said to him: “The Lord has sworn and will not change his mind, ‘You are a priest forever.’”

<sup>23</sup>††The former priests were many in number, because they were prevented by death from continuing in office, <sup>24</sup>but he holds his priesthood permanently, because he continues forever. <sup>25</sup>†Consequently, he is able to save to the uttermost [2] those who draw near to God through him, since he always lives to make intercession for them.

<sup>26</sup>††For it was indeed fitting that we should have such a high priest, holy, innocent, unstained, separated from sinners, and exalted above the heavens.

<sup>27</sup>†He has no need, like those high priests, to offer sacrifices daily, first for his own sins and then for those of the people, since he did this once for all when he offered up himself. <sup>28</sup>†For the law appoints men in their weakness as high priests, but the word of the oath, which came later than the law, appoints a Son who has been made perfect forever.

Jesus, High Priest of a Better Covenant

HEBREWS 8 ††† Now the point in what we are saying is this: we have such a high priest, one who is seated at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in heaven, †a minister in the holy places, in the true tent [1] that the Lord set up, not man. †For every high priest is appointed to offer gifts and sacrifices; thus it is necessary for this priest also to have something to offer. †Now if he were on earth, he would not be a priest at all, since there are priests who offer gifts according to the law. †They serve a copy and shadow of the heavenly things. For when Moses was about to erect the tent, he was instructed by God, saying, “See that you make everything according to the pattern that was shown you on the mountain.” †But as it is, Christ [2] has obtained a ministry that is as much more excellent than the old as the covenant he mediates is better, since it is enacted on better promises. †For if that first covenant had been faultless, there would have been no occasion to look for a second.

†For he finds fault with them when he says: [3]

“Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will establish a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah,

†not like the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt.

For they did not continue in my covenant, and so I showed no concern for them, declares the Lord.

†For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the Lord:

I will put my laws into their minds, and write them on their hearts,
and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

†And they shall not teach, each one his neighbor and each one his brother, saying, ‘Know the Lord,’ for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest.

†For I will be merciful toward their iniquities, and I will remember their sins no more.”

†In speaking of a new covenant, he makes the first one obsolete. And what is becoming obsolete and growing old is ready to vanish away.

The Earthly Holy Place

HEBREWS 9 ‡ Now even the first covenant had regulations for worship and an earthly place of holiness. <sup>2</sup>‡ For a tent [1] was prepared, the first section, in which were the lampstand and the table and the bread of the Presence. [2] It is called the Holy Place. <sup>3</sup>‡ Behind the second curtain was a second section [3] called the Most Holy Place, <sup>4</sup>‡ having the golden altar of incense and the ark of the covenant covered on all sides with gold, in which was a golden urn holding the manna, and Aaron's staff that budded, and the tablets of the covenant. <sup>5</sup>‡ Above it were the cherubim of glory overshadowing the mercy seat. Of these things we cannot now speak in detail.

<sup>6</sup>These preparations having thus been made, the priests go regularly into the first section, performing their ritual duties, <sup>7</sup>‡ but into the second only the high priest goes, and he but once a year, and not without taking blood, which he offers for himself and for the unintentional sins of the people. <sup>8</sup>‡ By this the Holy Spirit indicates that the way into the holy places is not yet opened as long as the first section is still standing <sup>9</sup>‡ (which is symbolic for the present age). [4] According to this arrangement, gifts and sacrifices are offered that cannot perfect the conscience of the worshiper, <sup>10</sup>‡ but deal only with food and drink and various washings, regulations for the body imposed until the time of reformation.

Redemption Through the Blood of Christ

<sup>11</sup>‡ But when Christ appeared as a high priest of the good things that have come, [5] then through the greater and more perfect tent (not made with hands, that is, not of this creation) <sup>12</sup>‡ he entered once for all into the holy places, not by means of the blood of goats and calves but by means of his own blood, thus securing an eternal redemption. <sup>13</sup>‡‡ For if the blood of goats and bulls, and the sprinkling of defiled persons with the ashes of a heifer, sanctify [6] for the purification of the flesh, <sup>14</sup>‡ how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God, purify our [7] conscience from dead works to serve the living God.

<sup>15</sup>‡ Therefore he is the mediator of a new covenant, so that those who are called may receive the promised eternal inheritance, since a death has occurred that redeems them from the transgressions committed under the first covenant. [8] established. <sup>17</sup>For a will takes effect only at death, since it is not in force as long as the one who made it is alive. <sup>18</sup>‡‡Therefore not even the first covenant was inaugurated without blood. <sup>19</sup>‡For when every commandment of the law had been declared by Moses to all the people, he took the blood of calves and goats, with water and scarlet wool and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book itself and all the people, <sup>20</sup>‡saying, “This is the blood of the covenant that God commanded for you.” <sup>21</sup>‡And in the same way he sprinkled with the blood both the tent and all the vessels used in worship. <sup>22</sup>‡Indeed, under the law almost everything is purified with blood, and without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins.

<sup>23</sup>‡‡Thus it was necessary for the copies of the heavenly things to be purified with these rites, but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these. <sup>24</sup>‡For Christ has entered, not into holy places made with hands, which are copies of the true things, but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God on our behalf. <sup>25</sup>Nor was it to offer himself repeatedly, as the high priest enters the holy places every year with blood not his own, <sup>26</sup>‡for then he would have had to suffer repeatedly since the foundation of the world. But as it is, he has appeared once for all at the end of the ages to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself. <sup>27</sup>‡And just as it is appointed for man to die once, and after that comes judgment, <sup>28</sup>‡so Christ, having been offered once to bear the sins of many, will appear a second time, not to deal with sin but to save those who are eagerly waiting for him.

Christ's Sacrifice Once for All

HEBREWS 10 †† For since the law has but a shadow of the good things to come instead of the true form of these realities, it can never, by the same sacrifices that are continually offered every year, make perfect those who draw near.

† Otherwise, would they not have ceased to be offered, since the worshipers, having once been cleansed, would no longer have any consciousness of sins?

† But in these sacrifices there is a reminder of sins every year. † For it is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins.

††† Consequently, when Christ [1] came into the world, he said, “Sacrifices and offerings you have not desired, but a body have you prepared for me; † in burnt offerings and sin offerings you have taken no pleasure.

† Then I said, ‘Behold, I have come to do your will, O God, as it is written of me in the scroll of the book.’”

† When he said above, “You have neither desired nor taken pleasure in sacrifices and offerings and burnt offerings and sin offerings” (these are offered according to the law), † then he added, “Behold, I have come to do your will.” He does away with the first in order to establish the second. † And by that will we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

†† And every priest stands daily at his service, offering repeatedly the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins. † But when Christ [2] had offered for all time a single sacrifice for sins, he sat down at the right hand of God, † waiting from that time until his enemies should be made a footstool for his feet. † For by a single offering he has perfected for all time those who are being sanctified.

† And the Holy Spirit also bears witness to us; for after saying, † “This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws on their hearts, and write them on their minds,”

† then he adds, “I will remember their sins and their lawless deeds no more.”

† Where there is forgiveness of these, there is no longer any offering for sin.

The Full Assurance of Faith

<sup>19</sup>‡‡Therefore, brothers, [3] since we have confidence to enter the holy places by the blood of Jesus, <sup>20</sup>‡‡by the new and living way that he opened for us through the curtain, that is, through his flesh, <sup>21</sup>‡‡and since we have a great priest over the house of God, <sup>22</sup>‡‡let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, with our hearts sprinkled clean from an evil conscience and our bodies washed with pure water. <sup>23</sup>‡‡Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for he who promised is faithful. <sup>24</sup>‡‡And let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works, <sup>25</sup>‡‡not neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another, and all the more as you see the Day drawing near.

<sup>30</sup>‡‡For we know him who said, “Vengeance is mine; I will repay.” And again, “The Lord will judge his people.” <sup>31</sup>‡‡It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

<sup>32</sup>‡‡But recall the former days when, after you were enlightened, you endured a hard struggle with sufferings, <sup>33</sup>‡‡sometimes being publicly exposed to reproach and affliction, and sometimes being partners with those so treated. <sup>34</sup>‡‡For you had compassion on those in prison, and you joyfully accepted the plundering of your property, since you knew that you yourselves had a better possession and an abiding one. <sup>35</sup>‡‡Therefore do not throw away your confidence, which has a great reward. <sup>36</sup>‡‡For you have need of endurance, so that when you have done the will of God you may receive what is promised. <sup>37</sup>‡‡For, “Yet a little while, and the coming one will come and will not delay; <sup>38</sup>‡‡but my righteous one shall live by faith, and if he shrinks back, my soul has no pleasure in him.”

<sup>39</sup>‡‡But we are not of those who shrink back and are destroyed, but of those who have faith and preserve their souls.

By Faith

HEBREWS 11 ‡‡ Now faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen. ‡ For by it the people of old received their commendation. ‡ By faith we understand that the universe was created by the word of God, so that what is seen was not made out of things that are visible.

‡‡ By faith Abel offered to God a more acceptable sacrifice than Cain, through which he was commended as righteous, God commending him by accepting his gifts. And through his faith, though he died, he still speaks. ‡ By faith Enoch was taken up so that he should not see death, and he was not found, because God had taken him. Now before he was taken he was commended as having pleased God. ‡ And without faith it is impossible to please him, for whoever would draw near to God must believe that he exists and that he rewards those who seek him. ‡ By faith Noah, being warned by God concerning events as yet unseen, in reverent fear constructed an ark for the saving of his household. By this he condemned the world and became an heir of the righteousness that comes by faith.

‡‡ By faith Abraham obeyed when he was called to go out to a place that he was to receive as an inheritance. And he went out, not knowing where he was going. ‡ By faith he went to live in the land of promise, as in a foreign land, living in tents with Isaac and Jacob, heirs with him of the same promise. ‡ For he was looking forward to the city that has foundations, whose designer and builder is God. ‡‡ By faith Sarah herself received power to conceive, even when she was past the age, since she considered him faithful who had promised. ‡ Therefore from one man, and him as good as dead, were born descendants as many as the stars of heaven and as many as the innumerable grains of sand by the seashore.

‡‡ These all died in faith, not having received the things promised, but having seen them and greeted them from afar, and having acknowledged that they were strangers and exiles on the earth. ‡ For people who speak thus make it clear that they are seeking a homeland. ‡ If they had been thinking of that land from which they had gone out, they would have had opportunity to return. ‡ But as it is, they desire a better country, that is, a heavenly one. Therefore God is not ashamed to be called their God, for he has prepared for them a city.

‡‡ By faith Abraham, when he was tested, offered up Isaac, and he who had received the promises was in the act of offering up his only son, <sup>18</sup>of whom it was said, “Through Isaac shall your offspring be named.” <sup>19</sup>†He considered that God was able even to raise him from the dead, from which, figuratively speaking, he did receive him back. <sup>20</sup>†By faith Isaac invoked future blessings on Jacob and Esau. <sup>21</sup>†By faith Jacob, when dying, blessed each of the sons of Joseph, bowing in worship over the head of his staff. <sup>22</sup>†By faith Joseph, at the end of his life, made mention of the exodus of the Israelites and gave directions concerning his bones.

<sup>23</sup>††By faith Moses, when he was born, was hidden for three months by his parents, because they saw that the child was beautiful, and they were not afraid of the king's edict. <sup>24</sup>†By faith Moses, when he was grown up, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, <sup>25</sup>†choosing rather to be mistreated with the people of God than to enjoy the fleeting pleasures of sin. <sup>26</sup>†He considered the reproach of Christ greater wealth than the treasures of Egypt, for he was looking to the reward. <sup>27</sup>†By faith he left Egypt, not being afraid of the anger of the king, for he endured as seeing him who is invisible. <sup>28</sup>†By faith he kept the Passover and sprinkled the blood, so that the Destroyer of the firstborn might not touch them.

<sup>29</sup>†By faith the people crossed the Red Sea as on dry land, but the Egyptians, when they attempted to do the same, were drowned. <sup>30</sup>†By faith the walls of Jericho fell down after they had been encircled for seven days. <sup>31</sup>†By faith Rahab the prostitute did not perish with those who were disobedient, because she had given a friendly welcome to the spies.

<sup>39</sup>‡And all these, though commended through their faith, did not receive what was promised, <sup>40</sup>‡since God had provided something better for us, that apart from us they should not be made perfect.

Jesus, Founder and Perfecter of Our Faith

HEBREWS 12 † Therefore, since we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses, let us also lay aside every weight, and sin which clings so closely, and let us run with endurance the race that is set before us, <sup>2</sup>† looking to Jesus, the founder and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is seated at the right hand of the throne of God.

Do Not Grow Weary

<sup>3</sup>† Consider him who endured from sinners such hostility against himself, so that you may not grow weary or fainthearted. <sup>4</sup>† In your struggle against sin you have not yet resisted to the point of shedding your blood. <sup>5</sup>† And have you forgotten the exhortation that addresses you as sons?

“My son, do not regard lightly the discipline of the Lord, nor be weary when reproved by him.

<sup>7</sup>† It is for discipline that you have to endure. God is treating you as sons. For what son is there whom his father does not discipline? <sup>8</sup>† If you are left without discipline, in which all have participated, then you are illegitimate children and not sons. <sup>9</sup>† Besides this, we have had earthly fathers who disciplined us and we respected them. Shall we not much more be subject to the Father of spirits and live? <sup>10</sup>† For they disciplined us for a short time as it seemed best to them, but he disciplines us for our good, that we may share his holiness. <sup>11</sup>† For the moment all discipline seems painful rather than pleasant, but later it yields the peaceful fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it.

<sup>12</sup>† Therefore lift your drooping hands and strengthen your weak knees, <sup>13</sup> and make straight paths for your feet, so that what is lame may not be put out of joint but rather be healed. <sup>14</sup>† Strive for peace with everyone, and for the holiness without which no one will see the Lord. <sup>15</sup>† See to it that no one fails to obtain the grace of God; that no “root of bitterness” springs up and causes trouble, and by it many become defiled; <sup>16</sup>† that no one is sexually immoral or unholy like Esau, who sold his birthright for a single meal. <sup>17</sup> For you know that afterward, when he desired to inherit the blessing, he was rejected, for he found no chance to repent, though he sought it with tears.

A Kingdom That Cannot Be Shaken

<sup>18</sup>‡‡ For you have not come to what may be touched, a blazing fire and darkness and gloom and a tempest <sup>19</sup>‡ and the sound of a trumpet and a voice whose words made the hearers beg that no further messages be spoken to them. <sup>20</sup>‡ For they could not endure the order that was given, “If even a beast touches the mountain, it shall be stoned.” <sup>21</sup>‡ Indeed, so terrifying was the sight that Moses said, “I tremble with fear.” <sup>22</sup>‡ But you have come to Mount Zion and to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to innumerable angels in festal gathering, <sup>23</sup>‡ and to the assembly [1] of the firstborn who are enrolled in heaven, and to God, the judge of all, and to the spirits of the righteous made perfect, <sup>24</sup>‡ and to Jesus, the mediator of a new covenant, and to the sprinkled blood that speaks a better word than the blood of Abel.

<sup>25</sup>‡ See that you do not refuse him who is speaking. For if they did not escape when they refused him who warned them on earth, much less will we escape if we reject him who warns from heaven. <sup>26</sup>‡‡ At that time his voice shook the earth, but now he has promised, “Yet once more I will shake not only the earth but also the heavens.” <sup>27</sup>‡ This phrase, “Yet once more,” indicates the removal of things that are shaken—that is, things that have been made—in order that the things that cannot be shaken may remain. <sup>28</sup>‡ Therefore let us be grateful for receiving a kingdom that cannot be shaken, and thus let us offer to God acceptable worship, with reverence and awe, <sup>29</sup>‡ for our God is a consuming fire.

Sacrifices Pleasing to God

HEBREWS 13 †Let brotherly love continue. <sup>2</sup>†Do not neglect to show hospitality to strangers, for thereby some have entertained angels unawares. <sup>3</sup>†Remember those who are in prison, as though in prison with them, and those who are mistreated, since you also are in the body. <sup>4</sup>†Let marriage be held in honor among all, and let the marriage bed be undefiled, for God will judge the sexually immoral and adulterous. <sup>5</sup>†Keep your life free from love of money, and be content with what you have, for he has said, “I will never leave you nor forsake you.” <sup>6</sup>†So we can confidently say, “The Lord is my helper; I will not fear; what can man do to me?”

<sup>7</sup>†Remember your leaders, those who spoke to you the word of God. Consider the outcome of their way of life, and imitate their faith. <sup>8</sup>Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever. <sup>9</sup>†Do not be led away by diverse and strange teachings, for it is good for the heart to be strengthened by grace, not by foods, which have not benefited those devoted to them. <sup>10</sup>††We have an altar from which those who serve the tent have no right to eat. <sup>11</sup>For the bodies of those animals whose blood is brought into the holy places by the high priest as a sacrifice for sin are burned outside the camp. <sup>12</sup>So Jesus also suffered outside the gate in order to sanctify the people through his own blood. <sup>13</sup>Therefore let us go to him outside the camp and bear the reproach he endured. <sup>14</sup>For here we have no lasting city, but we seek the city that is to come. <sup>15</sup>†Through him then let us continually offer up a sacrifice of praise to God, that is, the fruit of lips that acknowledge his name. <sup>16</sup>†Do not neglect to do good and to share what you have, for such sacrifices are pleasing to God.

<sup>17</sup>†Obey your leaders and submit to them, for they are keeping watch over your souls, as those who will have to give an account. Let them do this with joy and not with groaning, for that would be of no advantage to you.

<sup>18</sup>Pray for us, for we are sure that we have a clear conscience, desiring to act honorably in all things. <sup>19</sup>†I urge you the more earnestly to do this in order that I may be restored to you the sooner.

Benediction

<sup>20</sup>††Now may the God of peace who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep, by the blood of the eternal covenant, <sup>21</sup>† equip you with everything good that you may do his will, working in us [\[1\]](#) that which is pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.

Final Greetings

<sup>22</sup>† I appeal to you, brothers, [\[2\]](#) bear with my word of exhortation, for I have written to you briefly. <sup>23</sup>† You should know that our brother Timothy has been released, with whom I shall see you if he comes soon. <sup>24</sup>† Greet all your leaders and all the saints. Those who come from Italy send you greetings. <sup>25</sup> Grace be with all of you.

Study Notes

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:1 many times. Over the course of possibly 1,800 years (from Job, c. 2200 B.C. [?] to Nehemiah, c. 400 B.C.) the OT was written in 39 different books reflecting different historical times, locations, cultures, and situations. many ways. These included visions, symbols, and parables, written in both poetry and prose. Though the literary form and style varied, it was always God’s revelation of what he wanted his people to know. The progressive revelation of the OT described God’s program of redemption (1 Pet. 1:10–12) and his will for his people (Rom. 15:4; 2 Tim. 3:16–17).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:2 last days. Jews understood the “last days” to mean the time when Messiah (Christ) would come (cf. Num. 24:14; Jer. 33:14–16; Mic. 5:1–2; Zech. 9:9, 16). The fulfillment of the messianic prophecies commenced with the advent of the Messiah. Since he came, it has been the “last days” (cf. 1 Cor. 10:11; James 5:3; 1 Pet. 1:20; 4:7; 1 John 2:18). In the past God gave revelation through his prophets, but in these times, beginning with the Messiah’s advent, God spoke the message of redemption through the Son. heir. Everything that exists will ultimately come under the control of the Son of God, the Messiah (cf. Ps. 2:8–9; 89:27; Rom. 11:36; Col. 1:16). This “inheritance” is the full extension of the authority that the Father has given to the Son (cf. Dan. 7:13–14; Matt. 28:18) as the “firstborn” (see note on Heb. 1:6). world. The word can also be translated “ages.” It refers to time, space, energy, and matter—the entire universe and everything that makes it function (cf. John 1:3).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:3 radiance. The term is used only here in the NT. It expresses the concept of sending forth light or shining (cf. John 8:12; 2 Cor. 4:4, 6). The meaning of “reflection” is not appropriate here. The Son is not just reflecting God’s glory, he is God and radiates his own essential glory. exact imprint of his nature. The term translated “exact imprint” is used only here in the NT. In extrabiblical literature, it was employed for an engraving on wood, an etching in metal, a brand on animal hide, an impression in clay, and a stamped image on coins. The Son is the perfect imprint, the exact representation of the nature and essence of God in time and space (cf. John 14:9; Col. 1:15; 2:9). upholds. The universe and everything in it is constantly sustained by the Son’s powerfully effective word (Col. 1:17). The term also conveys the concept of movement or progress—the Son of God directs all things toward the consummation of all things according to God's sovereign purpose. He who spoke all things into existence also sustains his creation and consummates his purpose by his word. purification for sins. By the substitutionary sacrifice of himself on the cross (cf. Titus 2:14; Rev. 1:5). sat down at the right hand. The right hand is the place of power, authority, and honor (cf. Heb. 1:13; Rom. 8:34; 1 Pet. 3:22). It is also the position of subordination, implying that the Son is under the authority of the Father (cf. 1 Cor. 15:27–28). The seat that Christ has taken is the throne of God (Heb. 8:1; 10:12; 12:2) where he rules as sovereign Lord. This depicts a victorious Savior, not a defeated martyr. While the primary thrust of this phrase is the enthronement of Christ, his sitting might also imply the completion of his atoning work.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:4 having become. The Greek verb used here refers to a change of state, not a change of existence. The Son in his divine essence has eternally existed, but for a while he was made lower than the angels (2:9) and afterward was exalted to an infinitely higher position by virtue of what he had accomplished in his redemptive work (see notes on Phil. 2:9–11). angels. Spirit beings created by God to minister to him and do his bidding. The Jews held angels in very high regard as the highest beings next to God. The sect of Judaism that had established a community at Qumran taught that the archangel Michael's authority rivaled or surpassed that of the Messiah. The writer of Hebrews clearly disclaims any such concept. The Son of God is superior to the angels. name . . . more excellent. That name is Lord (see notes on Phil. 2:9–11). No angel is Sovereign Lord (Heb. 1:6, 13, 14).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:5 Quoting from Ps. 2:7 and 2 Sam. 7:14, the writer presents the unique relationship that the Son has with the Father. No angel ever experienced such a relationship. Son. A title of Christ expressing the voluntary submission of the Second Person of the Godhead to the First Person for the purpose of fulfilling the program of redemption established in eternity past (see note on 2 Tim. 1:9). Cf. Heb. 1:2, 8; 3:6; 4:14; 5:5, 8; 6:6; 7:3, 28; 10:29; 11:17 and many other references in the NT. His sonship was also expressed in the OT (cf. Ps. 2:12; Prov. 30:4). The word "today" indicates that God's Son was born in a point of time. He was always God, but he demonstrated his role as Son in space and time at his incarnation and was affirmed as such by his resurrection (Rom. 1:4).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:6 again. This adverb can be taken with "brings" as a reference to the second coming of Christ or with "says" to indicate yet another quotation from the OT (cf. v. 5; 2:13). firstborn. See notes on Rom. 8:29 and Col. 1:15, where it refers to prominence of position or title, not to the order of time. Christ was not the first to be born on the earth, but he holds the highest position of sovereignty. As “firstborn” he is also set apart to the service of God and, being preeminent, is entitled to the inheritance (cf. Heb. 1:2; Gen. 43:33; Ex. 13:2; 22:29; Deut. 21:17; Ps. 89:27). Let all God’s angels. Quoted from the lxx translation of Deut. 32:43 (cf. Ps. 97:7). Since the angels are commanded to worship the Messiah, the Messiah must be superior to them. Five of the seven OT passages quoted in this first chapter of Hebrews are in contexts related to the Davidic Covenant, which emphasizes the concepts of sonship, kingship, and kingdom. Although Deut. 32:43 is not in a Davidic Covenant context, it has an affinity to the teaching of Ps. 89:6 (a psalm of the Davidic Covenant), which declares that the heavenly beings themselves must recognize the lordship of God. Reference is made to “the firstborn” in the introduction to the Deuteronomy quote. In addition, “firstborn” is mentioned in Ps. 89:27.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:7 Of the angels. The writer continues biblical proofs that the angels are subservient to the Son of God by citing Ps. 104:4. This is the only one of the seven OT quotations in Heb. 1 that has no connection at all to the Davidic Covenant. The quote merely defines the primary nature and purpose of angels.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:8–9 he says. Quoting from Ps. 45:6–7, the writer argues for the deity and the lordship of the Son over creation (cf. Heb. 1:3). The text is all the more significant since the declaration of the Son’s deity is presented as the words of the Father himself (cf. Isa. 9:6; Jer. 23:5–6; John 5:18; Titus 2:13; 1 John 5:20). It is clear that the writer of Hebrews had the three messianic offices in mind: Prophet (Heb. 1:1), Priest (v. 3), and King (vv. 3, 8). Induction into those three offices required anointing (v. 9). The title Messiah (Christ) means “anointed one” (cf. Isa. 61:1–3; Luke 4:16–21).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:9 companions. The term is used only in Hebrews \(3:1, 14; 6:4; 12:8\) and in Luke 5:7, where it is rendered as “partners.” In this occurrence, it might refer to angels or to other men who were similarly anointed for their offices: the OT prophets, priests, and kings. If the “oil of gladness” here is the same as “oil of gladness” referred to in Isa. 61:3, the reference would clearly be to those who had mourned in Zion but who would one day be clothed with praise and called “oaks of righteousness”—references to men, not angels. No matter how noble such men were, Christ is superior.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:10–12 Quoted from Ps. 102:25–27. The Son who created the universe (John 1:1–3), one day will destroy the heavens and earth that he created (see notes on 2 Pet. 3:10–12), but he remains unchanged. Immutability is yet another characteristic of the divine essence. Once again the OT testifies of the Son’s deity.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:13–14 The writer re-emphasizes the lordship of the Son by quoting Ps. 110:1. While Christ’s destiny is to reign (cf. Heb. 1:3; Matt. 22:44; Acts 2:35), the angels’ destiny is to serve the recipients of salvation (see note on 1 Cor. 6:3). This is the seventh and final quotation from the OT to bolster the argument that as Son and Lord the Messiah is superior to the angels.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:13 your enemies a footstool. This quote from Ps. 110:1 is repeated in the NT at Heb. 10:13; Matt. 22:44; Mark 12:36; Luke 20:43; Acts 2:35, and expresses the sovereignty of Christ over all (cf. Phil. 2:10).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 1:14 See note on Matt. 18:10.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:1–4 In order to drive home the importance of the superiority of the Son of God over angels, the writer urges the readers to respond. “We” includes all those who are Hebrews. Some had given intellectual assent to the doctrine of Messiah’s superiority to the angels, but had not yet committed themselves to him as God and Lord. He deserves their worship as much as he deserves the worship of the angels.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:1 closer attention . . . drift away. Both phrases have nautical connotations. The first refers to mooring a ship, tying it up at the dock. The second was often used of a ship that had been allowed to drift past the harbor. The warning is to secure oneself to the truth of the gospel, being careful not to pass by the only harbor of salvation. The closest attention must be paid to these very serious matters of the Christian faith. The readers in their tendency to apathy are in danger of making shipwreck of their lives (cf. 6:19; see note on 1 Tim. 1:19).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:2 since. The Greek term assumes a fulfilled condition and here carries the idea: “In view of the fact that . . .” angels. Angels were instrumental in bringing God’s law to his people at mount Sinai (cf. Deut. 33:1–2; Ps. 68:17; Acts 7:38, 53; Gal. 3:19). transgression or disobedience. The former means to step across the line, in an overt sin of commission. The latter carries the idea of shutting one's ears to God's commands, thereby committing a sin of omission. Both are willful, serious, and require just judgment.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:3 how shall we escape. If disobedience to the older covenant of law brought swift judgment, how much more severe will be the judgment of disobedience to the New Covenant gospel of salvation, which was mediated by the Son who is superior to the angels (cf. Matt. 10:14–15; 11:20–24)? The messenger and message of the New Covenant are greater than the messengers and message of the older covenant. The greater the privilege, the greater the punishment for disobedience or neglect (Heb. 10:29; cf. Luke 12:47). by those who heard. This phrase reveals the succession of evangelism. That generation of Hebrews would not have heard if the previous generation of witnesses had not passed the message along (cf. 1 Tim. 2:5–7).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:4 signs . . . wonders . . . miracles . . . gifts. The supernatural powers demonstrated by Jesus and by his apostles were the Father's divine confirmation of the gospel of Jesus Christ, his Son (cf. John 10:38; Acts 2:22; Rom. 15:19; 1 Cor. 14:22; see note on 2 Cor. 12:12). This authentication of the message was the purpose of such miraculous deeds. the Holy Spirit. The epistle's first reference to the Holy Spirit refers in passing to his ministry of confirming the message of salvation by means of miraculous gifts. Mentioned elsewhere in the epistle are the Holy Spirit's involvement in the revelation of Scripture (Heb. 3:7; 10:15), in teaching (9:8), in pre-salvation operations (6:4, perhaps his convicting work; 10:29, common grace), and in ministry to Christ (9:14).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:5 world. The term refers to the inhabited earth. The reference is to the great millennial kingdom (cf. Zech. 14:9; Rev. 20:1–5). Angels will not reign over the messianic kingdom.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:6–8 Quoted from Ps. 8:4–6 (cf. 1 Cor. 15:27–28; Eph. 1:22).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:6 somewhere. This is not an indication that the writer was ignorant of the source of the quotation that follows. The location of the quotation is not as significant as its divine authorship. Perhaps it is significant that the author of Hebrews is not identified either. The writer may have desired that his readers understand that the Holy Spirit is the real author of all Scripture (cf. 2 Tim. 3:16; 2 Pet. 1:21). man . . . son of man. Both refer to mankind, not to Christ. The passage asks why God would ever bother with man. As the following verses demonstrate (Heb. 2:9–10), the incarnation of Christ is the greatest proof of God’s love and regard for mankind. Christ was not sent in the form of an angel. He was sent in the form of a man.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:7 angels. Angels were given supernatural powers by the Creator. They have continual access to the throne of God (cf. Job 1:6; 2:1; Rev. 5:11) and are not subject to death.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:8 subjection. In spite of the superiority of angels to mankind, God had originally placed the administration of the earth into the hands of mankind (Gen. 1:26–28). Due to the fall (Gen. 3), however, mankind has been incapable of fulfilling that divinely ordained position.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:9 glory and honor. Because Jesus became “obedient to the point of death . . . God has highly exalted him” (Phil. 2:8–9). By his redemptive work, Christ has fulfilled all that is required as the supreme representative of mankind. By his incarnation, substitutionary sacrifice, and victory over sin and death (cf. Rom. 6:23; 1 John 4:10), he has fulfilled man’s original purpose. As the Second Adam (1 Cor. 15:47), he was for a short time lower than the angels. Now he has glory and honor, and all things (including angels) are subject to him. taste death for everyone. Everyone who believes, that is. The death of Christ can only be applied in its efficacy to those who come to God repentantly in faith, asking for saving grace and forgiveness of sins. See notes on 2 Cor. 5:21; 1 Tim. 2:6; 4:10; Titus 2:11.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:10 fitting. What God did through the humiliation of Jesus Christ was perfectly consistent with his sovereign righteousness and holiness. Without Christ’s humiliation and suffering, there could be no redemption. Without redemption, there could be no glorification (cf. Rom. 8:18, 29–30). perfect. In his divine nature, Christ was already perfect. However, his human nature was perfected through obedience, including suffering in order that he might be an understanding high priest, an example for believers (cf. Heb. 5:8–9; 7:25–28; Phil. 2:8; 1 Pet. 2:21), and establish the perfect righteousness (Matt. 3:15) to be imputed to believers (2 Cor. 5:21; Phil. 3:8, 19). founder. The term is also used in Heb. 12:2 and Acts 5:31. It could be translated “pioneer,” “leader,” “captain,” or “originator.” Christ is the source (cf. Heb. 5:9, which has the meaning of cause), the initiator, and the leader in regard to salvation. He has led the way into heaven as our forerunner (6:20).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:11 sanctifies. Sanctification sets a person apart for service through purification from sin and conformity to the holiness of God (cf. 10:10).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:12 my brothers. Quoted from Ps. 22:22. Jesus had taught that those who do the will of the Father in obedience to his word are his brothers and mother (Matt. 12:50; Luke 8:21). He never directly referred to his disciples by the title of “brethren” or “brothers” until after his resurrection (Matt. 28:10; John 20:17). Not until he had paid the price for their salvation, did they truly become his spiritual brothers and sisters. The use of the term demonstrates his full identification with mankind in order to provide complete redemption (Phil. 2:7–9).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:13 The citation of Isa. 8:17–18 (cf. 2 Sam. 22:3) emphasizes the point made in Heb. 2:9–11: that Christ had fully identified himself with mankind by taking a human nature. He demonstrated the reality of his human nature by his reliance upon God during his earthly sojourn.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:14 share . . . partook. The Greek word for “partook” means fellowship, communion, or partnership. “Share” means to take hold of something that is not related to one’s own kind. The Son of God was not by nature “flesh and blood,” but took upon himself that nature for the sake of providing redemption for mankind. death . . . power of death. This is the ultimate purpose of the incarnation: Jesus came to earth to die. By dying, he was able to conquer death in his resurrection (John 14:19). By conquering death, he rendered Satan powerless against all who are saved. Satan’s using the power of death is subject to God’s will (cf. Job 2:6).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:15 fear of death. For the believer, “death is swallowed up in victory” (1 Cor. 15:54). Therefore, the fear of death and its spiritual bondage have been brought to an end through the work of Christ.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:16 helps. The literal meaning is to “take hold of.” The sense of “giving help” is from the picture of a taking hold of someone in order to push or pull them to safety, to rescue them. However, there was no thought in Judaism that the Messiah’s entrance into the world would be to give help to the angels. The contrast, using this translation, is weak in comparison with all that has been previously said about Christ’s superiority to the angels. The context presents the identification of Christ with mankind in his incarnation—he took upon himself a human nature (vv. 9–14, 17). When the writer wished to express the concept of giving help, he chose a different Greek word in v. 18 (also, 4:16). Therefore, the translation, “take on the nature of,” is to be preferred. offspring of Abraham. Christ is that promised descendant (see notes on Gal. 3:16). Since the readers are Hebrews, they would certainly identify themselves with this description. The Messiah had been born in the line of Abraham in fulfillment of the OT prophecies (Matt. 1:1). One of the chief purposes for the incarnation was the salvation of Israel (Matt. 1:21). Yet another purpose was the fulfillment of the Abrahamic Covenant in regard to the promised descendant. Of all peoples, the Hebrews should be first to recognize the significance and importance of the incarnation.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:17 propitiation. The word means “to conciliate” or “satisfy.” See note on Rom. 3:25. Christ’s work of propitiation is related to his high-priestly ministry. By his partaking of a human nature, Christ demonstrated his mercy to mankind and his faithfulness to God by satisfying God’s requirement for sin and thus obtaining for his people full forgiveness. Cf. 1 John 2:2; 4:10.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 2:18 tempted. The genuineness of Christ’s humanity is demonstrated by the fact that he was subject to temptation. By experiencing temptation, Jesus became fully capable of understanding and sympathizing with his human brethren (cf. 4:15). He felt the full force of temptation. Though we often yield to temptation before we feel its full force, Jesus resisted temptation even when the greatest enticement for yielding had become evident (cf. Luke 4:1–13). able to help . . . tempted. See notes on Heb. 4:15–16 and 1 Cor. 10:13.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:1–6 This section presents the superiority of Jesus over the highly revered Moses. The Lord had spoken with Moses “face to face, as a man speaks to his friend” (Ex. 33:11) and had given the law to him (Neh. 9:13–14). The commandments and rituals of the law were the Jews’ supreme priorities, and to them Moses and the law were synonymous. Both the OT and the NT refer to the commands of God as the “law of Moses” (Josh. 8:31; 1 Kings 2:3; Luke 2:22; Acts 13:39). Yet, as great as Moses was, Jesus was infinitely greater.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:1 holy brothers. The phrase occurs only here and in 1 Thess. 5:27, where some manuscripts omit “holy.” The writer addresses believers who have a “heavenly calling” (cf. Phil. 3:14). They are elsewhere described as desiring a “heavenly country” (Heb. 11:16) and as coming to “the heavenly Jerusalem” (12:22). They are “holy” in the sense that they are set apart unto God and identified with the heavenly realm—citizens of heaven more than citizens of earth. calling. The reference, as always in the NT epistles, is to the effective summons to salvation in Christ (cf. Rom. 8:30; 1 Cor. 7:21). consider. The writer asks for the readers’ complete attention and diligent observation of the superiority of Jesus Christ. apostle and high priest. An apostle is a “sent one” who has the rights, power, and authority of the one who sends him. Jesus was sent to earth by the Father (cf. John 3:17, 34; 5:36–38; 8:42). The topic of the high priesthood of Christ, which was begun in Heb. 2:17–18 and is mentioned again here, will be taken up again in greater detail in 4:14–10:18. Meanwhile, the writer presents the supremacy of Christ to Moses (3:1–6), to Joshua (4:8), and to all other national heroes and OT preachers whom Jews held in high esteem. Jesus himself spoke of his superiority to Moses in the same context in which he spoke of his being sent by the Father (John 5:36–38, 45–47; cf. Luke 16:29–31). Moses had been sent by God to deliver his people from historical Egypt and its bondage (Ex. 3:10). Jesus was sent by God to deliver his people from spiritual Egypt and its bondage (Heb. 2:15). of our confession. Christ is the center of our confession of faith in the gospel, both in creed and public testimony. The term is used again in 4:14 and 10:23 (cf. 2 Cor. 9:13; 1 Tim. 6:12). In all three uses in Hebrews there is a sense of urgency. Surely, the readers would not give up Christ, whom they had professed, and reject what he had done for them, if they could understand the superiority of his person and work.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:2 house. The term refers to a family of people rather than a building or dwelling (cf. v. 6; 1 Tim. 3:15). Those who were stewards of a household must above all be faithful (1 Cor. 4:2). Both Moses (Num. 12:7) and Christ (Heb. 2:17) faithfully fulfilled their individual, divine appointments to care for the people of God.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:3–4 builder of a house. Moses was only a part of God’s household of faith, whereas Jesus was the Creator of that household (cf. 2 Sam. 7:13; Zech. 6:12–13; Eph. 2:19–22; 1 Pet. 2:4–5) and, therefore, is greater than Moses and equal to God.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:5–6 servant . . . son. The term for “servant” implies a position of dignity and freedom, not slavery (cf. Ex. 14:31; Josh. 1:2). However, even as the highest-ranking servant, Moses could never hold the position of son, which is Christ’s alone (cf. John 8:35).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:5 spoken later. Moses was faithful primarily as a testimony to that which was to come in Christ (cf. 11:24–27; see note on John 5:46).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:6 we are his house. See notes on v. 2; Eph. 2:22; 1 Tim. 3:15; 1 Pet. 2:5; 4:17. if indeed we hold fast. Cf. Heb. 3:14. This is not speaking of how to be saved or remain saved (cf. 1 Cor. 15:2). It means rather that perseverance in faithfulness is proof of real faith. The person who returns to the rituals of the Levitical system to contribute to his own salvation proves he was never truly part of God's household (see note on 1 John 2:19), whereas the one who abides in Christ gives evidence of his genuine membership in that household (cf. Matt. 10:22; Luke 8:15; John 8:31; 15:4–6). The promise of God will fulfill this holding fast (1 Thess. 5:24; Jude 24–25). See note on Matt. 24:13. hope. See the writer's further description of this hope in Heb. 6:18–19. This hope rests in Christ himself, whose redemptive work has accomplished our salvation (Rom. 5:1–2; see note on 1 Pet. 1:3).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:7–11 The writer cites Ps. 95:7–11 as the words of its ultimate author, the Holy Spirit (cf. 4:7; 9:8; 10:15). This passage describes the Israelites' wilderness wanderings after their delivery from Egypt. Despite God's miraculous works and his gracious, providential faithfulness to them, the people still failed to commit themselves to him in faith (cf. Ex. 17; Num. 14:22–23; Ps. 78:40–53). The writer of Hebrews presents a three-point exposition of the OT passage: 1) beware of unbelief (Heb. 3:12–19); 2) be afraid of falling short (4:1–10); and 3) be diligent to enter (4:11–13). The themes of the exposition include urgency, obedience (including faith), perseverance, and rest.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:7 Today. The reference is to the present moment while the words of God are fresh in the mind. There is a sense of urgency to immediately give heed to the voice of God. This urgency is emphasized by repeating the reference to "today" from Ps. 95:7 three more times (Heb. 3:13, 15; 4:7) and is the theme of the writer's exposition (cf. 2 Cor. 6:2).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:11 my rest. The earthly rest that God promised to give was life in the land of Canaan, which Israel would receive as their inheritance (Deut. 12:9–10; Josh. 21:44; 1 Kings 8:56). Because of rebellion against God, an entire generation of the children of Israel was prohibited from entering into that rest in the Promised Land (cf. Deut. 28:65; Lam. 1:3). The application of this picture is to an individual's spiritual rest in the Lord, which has precedent in the OT (cf. Ps. 116:7; Isa. 28:12). At salvation, every believer enters the true rest, the realm of spiritual promise, never again laboring to achieve through personal effort a righteousness that pleases God. The Lord wanted both kinds of rest for that generation who was delivered from Egypt.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:12 brothers. This admonition is addressed to those having the same potential characteristics as the generation that perished in the wilderness without ever seeing the Land of Promise. They were unbelieving Jewish brethren who were in the company of the “holy brothers” (v. 1). They were admonished to believe and be saved before it was too late. See Introduction: Interpretive Challenges. an evil, unbelieving heart. All men are born with such a heart (Jer. 17:9). In the case of these Hebrews, that evil manifested itself in disbelief of the gospel, which moved them in the opposite way from God.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:13 exhort one another every day. Both individual accountability and corporate responsibility are intended in this admonition. As long as the distressing days were upon them and they were tempted to return to the ineffective Levitical system, they were to encourage one another to identify completely with Jesus Christ. hardened. Repeated rejection of the gospel concerning Jesus results in a progressive hardening of the heart and will ultimately result in outright antagonism to the gospel. Cf. 6:4–6; 10:26–29; Acts 19:9. deceitfulness. Sin lies and deceives, using every trickery and stratagem possible (cf. Rom. 7:11; 2 Thess. 2:10; James 1:14–16). The Hebrews deceived themselves with the reasoning that their rejection of Jesus Christ was being faithful to the older system. Their willingness to hang on to the Levitical system was really a rejection of the living word (Heb. 4:12) of the “living God” (3:12), who through Christ had opened up a “new and living way” (10:20). Choosing the path of unbelief always leads only to death (3:17; 10:26–29; cf. 2:14–15; Jude 5).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:14 The exhortation is similar to that in v. 6. It repeats the theme of perseverance.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 3:15–19 The quotation from Ps. 95:7–8 is repeated (cf. Heb. 3:7). The first quotation was followed with exposition emphasizing “today” and the urgency that word conveys. This second quotation is followed with exposition emphasizing rebellion (vv. 15–16) and presenting the theme of obedience by means of its antithesis, disobedience. Four different terms are employed to drive the point of rebellion home: “rebelled” (v. 16), “sinned” (v. 17), “disobedient” (v. 18), and “unbelief” (v. 19). This initial third (see notes on vv. 7–11) of the writer’s exposition of Ps. 95:7–11 is summed up by the obvious conclusion that the Israelites who died in the wilderness were victims of their own unbelief (Heb. 3:19).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:1–10 The second section of the writer’s exposition of Ps. 95:7–11 goes beyond the description of unbelief and its dire consequences (Heb. 3:12–19) to define the nature of the “rest” that the disobedient had forfeited. The first section had dealt primarily with Ps. 95:7–8; the second section deals primarily with Ps. 95:11.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:1 promise. This is the first use of this important word in Hebrews. The content of this promise is defined as “entering his rest.” his rest. See note on 3:11. This is the rest that God gives, therefore it is called “my rest” (Ps. 95:11) and “his rest.” For believers, God’s rest includes his peace, confidence of salvation, reliance on his strength, and assurance of a future heavenly home (cf. Matt. 11:29). failed to reach. The entire phrase could be translated “lest you think you have come too late to enter into the rest of God” (cf. Heb. 12:15). With reverential fear all are to examine their own spiritual condition (cf. 1 Cor. 10:12; 2 Cor. 13:5) and to actively press for commitment on the part of others (cf. Jude 23).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:2 faith. Mere knowledge of God’s message is not sufficient. It must be appropriated by saving faith. Later in the epistle a much longer exposition will take up this topic of faith (10:19–12:29). The writer’s point of comparison is that, like the Jews who left Egypt (3:16–19), his generation had also received God’s message through the preaching of the gospel—they had been evangelized.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:3 we . . . enter. Those who exercise faith in the message of God will enter into their spiritual rest. This is the corollary of Ps. 95:11, that states the opposite side: that the unbeliever will not enter into the rest that God provides. finished from the foundation of the world. The spiritual rest that God gives is not something incomplete or unfinished. It is a rest that is based upon a finished work that God purposed in eternity past, just like the rest that God took after he finished creation (Heb. 4:4).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:4–5 By way of explanation for the statement in v. 3, the writer cites the illustration of the seventh day of creation and quotes Gen. 2:2. Then he repeats the last part of Ps. 95:11.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:6–7 The opportunity to enter God’s rest remains open (cf. “the promise . . . still stands” in v. 1). It is not yet too late. God had offered the rest to his people in Moses’ time and continued to offer it in David’s time. He is still patiently inviting his people to enter his rest (cf. Rom. 10:21). Quoting Ps. 95:7–8 once again (see Heb. 3:7, 15), the author urges an immediate, positive response. The themes of urgency and obedience are thus combined in a clear invitation to the readers.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:8–10 God’s true rest did not come through Joshua or Moses, but through Jesus Christ, who is greater than either one. Joshua led the nation of Israel into the land of their promised rest (see note on 3:11; Josh. 21:43–45). However, that was merely the earthly rest, which was only the shadow of what was involved in the heavenly rest. The very fact that, according to Ps. 95, God was still offering his rest in the time of David (long after Israel had been in the land) meant that the rest being offered was spiritual—superior to that which Joshua obtained. Israel’s earthly rest was filled with the attacks of enemies and the daily cycle of work. The heavenly rest is characterized by the fullness of heavenly promise (Eph. 1:3) and the absence of any labor to obtain it.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:9 rest. A different Greek word for “rest” meaning “Sabbath rest” is introduced here, and this is its only appearance in the NT. The writer chose the word to draw the readers’ attention back to the “seventh day” mentioned in v. 4 and to set up the explanation in v. 10 (“rested from his works as God did from his”).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:11–13 The concluding third part of the exposition of Ps. 95:7–11 emphasizes the accountability that comes to those who have heard the word of God. Scripture records the examples of those in the wilderness with Moses, those who entered Canaan with Joshua, and those who received the same opportunity in David’s day. It is the word that must be believed and obeyed and the word that will judge the disobedient (cf. 1 Cor. 10:5–13).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:12 two-edged sword. While the word of God is comforting and nourishing to those who believe, it is a tool of judgment and execution for those who have not committed themselves to Jesus Christ. Some of the Hebrews were merely going through the motions of belonging to Christ.

Intellectually, they were at least partly persuaded, but inside they were not committed to him. God's word would expose their shallow beliefs and even their false intentions (cf. 1 Sam. 16:7; 1 Pet. 4:5). division of soul and of spirit. These terms do not describe two separate entities (any more than "thoughts and intentions" do) but are used as one might say "heart and soul" to express fullness (cf. Luke 10:27; Acts 4:32; see note on 1 Thess. 5:23). Elsewhere these two terms are used interchangeably to describe man's immaterial self, his eternal inner person.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:13 exposed to the eyes of him. "Exposed" is a specialized term used just this one time in the NT. It originally meant to expose the neck either in preparation for sacrifice or for beheading. Perhaps the use of "sword" in the previous verse triggered the term. Each individual is judged not only by the word of God (cf. John 12:48), but by God himself. We are accountable to the living, written word (cf. John 6:63, 68; Acts 7:38) and to the living God who is its author.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:14–7:28 Next, the writer expounds on Ps. 110:4, quoted in Heb. 5:6. Not only is Christ as apostle superior to Moses and to Joshua, but as high priest, he is superior to Aaron (4:14–5:10; cf. 3:1). In the midst of his exposition, the writer gives an exhortation related to the spiritual condition of his readers (5:11–6:20). At the conclusion of the exhortation, he then returns to the subject of Christ's priesthood (7:1–28).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:14 passed through the heavens. Just as the high priest under the Old Covenant passed through three areas (the outer court, the Holy Place, and the Most Holy Place) to make the atoning sacrifice, Jesus passed through three heavens (the atmospheric heaven, the stellar heaven, and God's abode; cf. 2 Cor. 12:2–4) after making the perfect, final sacrifice. Once a year on the Day of Atonement the high priest of Israel would enter the Most Holy Place to make atonement for the sins of the people (Lev. 16). That tabernacle was only a limited copy of the heavenly reality (cf. Heb. 8:1–5). When Jesus entered into the heavenly Most Holy Place, having accomplished redemption, the earthly facsimile was replaced by the reality of heaven itself. Freed from that which is earthly, the Christian faith is characterized by the heavenly (3:1; Eph. 1:3; 2:6; Phil. 3:20; Col. 1:5; 1 Pet. 1:4). Jesus, the Son of God. The use of both the title of humanity (Jesus) and of deity (Son of God) is significant. One of the few cases of such a juxtaposition is in 1 John 1:7, where his sacrifice for sins is emphasized (cf. 1 Thess. 1:10; 1 John 4:15; 5:5). hold fast our confession. See notes on Heb. 3:1, 6; 10:23.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:15 tempted as we are. See notes on 2:17–18. The writer here adds to his statements in 2:18 that Jesus was sinless. He was able to be tempted (Matt. 4:1–11), but not able to sin (see notes on Heb. 7:26).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 4:16 with confidence draw near to the throne of grace. Most ancient rulers were unapproachable by anyone but their highest advisers (cf. Est. 4:11). In contrast, the Holy Spirit calls for all to come confidently before God’s throne to receive mercy and grace through Jesus Christ (cf. Heb. 7:25; 10:22; Matt. 27:51; see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes). The ark of the covenant was viewed as the place on earth where God sat enthroned between the cherubim (cf. 2 Kings 19:15; Jer. 3:16–17). Oriental thrones included a footstool—yet another metaphor for the ark (cf. Ps. 132:7). It was at the throne of God that Christ made atonement for sins, and it is there that grace is dispensed to believers for all the issues of life (cf. 2 Cor. 4:15; 9:8; 12:9; Eph. 1:7; 2:7). “Grace to you” became a standard greeting among believers who celebrated this provision (Rom. 1:7; 16:20, 24; 1 Cor. 1:3; 16:23; 2 Cor. 1:2; 13:14; Gal. 1:3; 6:18; Eph. 1:2; 6:24; Phil. 1:2; 4:18; Col. 1:2; 4:18; 1 Thess. 1:1; 5:28; 2 Thess. 1:2; 3:18; 1 Tim. 1:2; 6:21; 2 Tim. 1:2; 4:22; Titus 1:4; 3:15; Philem. 3, 25). to help in time of need. See notes on Heb. 2:16, 18.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:1–4 No angel with supernatural power could serve as high priest. Only men with the weaknesses of humanity could serve as high priest (v. 2; 7:28). The position of high priest in the Levitical system was by appointment only. No man could legitimately appoint himself high priest. The use of the present tense in these verses would seem to indicate that the Levitical system still was being practiced at the time of this epistle (see Introduction: Author and Date).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:1 gifts and sacrifices. The first term might refer especially to the grain offerings under the Old Covenant, which were for thanksgiving or dedication. That would leave the second term to refer to blood offerings for the expiation of sins (see Lev. 1–5). However, “gifts” is used in Heb. 8:4 to refer to all of the various sacrifices (cf. 8:3). The three occurrences of the phrase in the NT (cf. 8:3; 9:9) employ a Greek construction that expresses a closer relationship between the two terms than is normally indicated by the word “and.” This could indicate that no distinction should be made between the terms, and that “for sins” should be taken with both.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:2 deal gently. This verb occurs only here in the NT. It carries the idea of maintaining a controlled but gentle attitude in the treatment of those who are spiritually ignorant and wayward. Impatience, loathing, and indignation have no part in priestly ministry. Such moderation and gentleness comes from realizing one's own human frailty. The priest would be reminded of his own sinful humanity every time he offered sacrifices for his own sins (v. 3).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:4 called by God. A high priest was selected and called by God into service (cf. Ex. 28; Num. 16:1–40; 1 Sam. 16:1–3).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:5–6 With the quotations of Ps. 2:7 and 110:4, the writer demonstrates that Christ's Sonship (see notes on Heb. 1:5) and his priesthood were both by divine appointment (cf. John 8:54). That means that the two titles are titles of subordination—the subordination not being in regard to essence or nature (cf. John 10:30; 14:9, 11), but in regard to the fulfillment of the program of redemption. Neither office diminishes the eternal deity of Christ or the equality of the Trinity. Both offices had a beginning. It is noteworthy that Ps. 2 recognizes the Son as both King and Messiah. Christ is the King-Priest.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:6 Quoted from Ps. 110:4, from which this whole section is expounded (see note on Heb. 4:14–7:28). Melchizedek. As king of Salem and priest of the Most High God in the time of Abraham, he was also a king-priest (Gen. 14:18–20). The Melchizedekan priesthood is discussed in detail in Heb. 7.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:7–8 Having established the first requirement that a high priest be appointed (vv. 1, 4–6), the writer focused on the requirement of being humanly sympathetic (vv. 2–3).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:7 he. The subsequent context makes it clear that this refers back to Christ, the main subject in v. 5. In Gethsemane, Jesus agonized and wept, but committed himself to do the Father's will in accepting the cup of suffering that would bring his death (Matt. 26:38–46; Luke 22:44–45). Anticipating bearing the burden of judgment for sin, Jesus felt its fullest pain and grief (cf. Isa. 52:14; 53:3–5, 10). Though he bore the penalty in silence and did not seek to deliver himself from it (Isa. 53:7), he did cry out from the agony of the fury of God's wrath poured on his perfectly holy and obedient person (Matt. 27:46; cf. 2 Cor. 5:21). Jesus asked to be saved from remaining in death, i.e., to be resurrected (cf. Ps. 16:9–10).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:8 learned obedience. Christ did not need to suffer in order to conquer or correct any disobedience. In his deity (as the Son of God), he understood obedience completely. As the incarnate Lord, he humbled himself to learn (cf. Luke 2:52). He learned obedience for the same reasons he bore temptation: to confirm his humanity and experience its sufferings to the fullest (see notes on Heb. 2:10; cf. Luke 2:52; Phil. 2:8). Christ's obedience was also necessary so that he could fulfill all righteousness (Matt. 3:15) and thus prove to be the perfect sacrifice to take the place of sinners (1 Pet. 3:18). He was the perfectly righteous One, whose righteousness would be imputed to sinners (cf. Rom. 3:24–26).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:9 perfect . . . source of eternal salvation. See notes on 2:10. Because of the perfect righteousness of Jesus Christ and his perfect sacrifice for sin, he became the cause of salvation. obey him. True salvation evidences itself in obedience to Christ, from the initial obedience to the gospel command to repent and believe (cf. Acts 5:32; Rom. 1:5; 2 Thess. 1:8; 1 Pet. 1:2, 22; 4:17) to a life pattern of obedience to the word (cf. Rom. 6:16).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:10 Referring to Ps. 110:4 a second time (cf. Heb. 5:6), the writer mentions again the call of God to the priesthood (v. 4).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:11 About this. An alternate translation would be “of which” (meaning the relationship of Christ's high priesthood to that of Melchizedek). Logically and stylistically, v. 11 appears to introduce the entire section from 5:11–6:12. The same Greek verb “become” forms brackets around the section: “become dull” (v. 11) and “be sluggish” (6:12). dull. The Hebrews' spiritual lethargy and slow response to gospel teaching prevented additional teaching at this time. This is a reminder that failure to appropriate the truth of the gospel produces stagnation in spiritual advancement and the inability to understand or assimilate additional teaching (cf. John 16:12). Such a situation exists also among the Gentiles who have received revelatory truth (natural or general revelation) from God in the creation (Rom. 1:18–20). Rejection of that revelation results in a process of hardening (Rom. 1:21–32). The Hebrews had not only received the same general revelation, they had also received special revelation consisting of the OT Scriptures (Rom. 9:4), the Messiah himself (Rom. 9:5), and the teaching of the apostles (Heb. 2:3–4). Until the Hebrews obeyed the revelation they had received and obtained eternal salvation (v. 8), additional teaching about the Messiah's Melchizedekan priesthood would be of no profit to them.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:12 teachers. Every believer is to be a teacher (Col. 3:16; 1 Pet. 3:15; cf. Deut. 6:7; 2 Tim. 3:15). If these Hebrews had really obeyed the gospel of Christ, they would have been passing that message on to others. The Jews were instructed in the law and prided themselves because they taught the law, but they had not really understood or appropriated its truths to themselves (see notes on Rom. 2:17–23). oracles. These are contained in the OT Scripture, which had laid the foundation for the gospel and had been committed into the care of the Hebrews (Rom. 3:1–2). The ABCs of the law tutored the Hebrews in order to lead them to faith in the Messiah (Gal. 3:23–24). They had also heard the NT gospel (Heb. 2:2–4; 1 Pet. 4:11).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:12–13 milk. Knowledge without obedience does not advance a person. In fact, by rejecting saving faith, the Hebrews were regressing in their understanding concerning the Messiah. They had long enough been exposed to the gospel to be teaching it to others, but were babies, too infantile and unskilled to comprehend, let alone teach, the truth of God.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:13 word of righteousness. This is the message about the righteousness of Christ, which we have by faith (Rom. 3:21–22; 1 Cor. 1:30; 2 Cor. 5:21; Phil. 3:9; Titus 3:5). The phrase is equivalent to the gospel of salvation by faith rather than works.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 5:14 mature. The same Greek root is also translated “maturity” in 6:1 and is elsewhere translated “perfect” (7:11, 19, 28; 9:9; 10:1, 14; 11:40; 12:23). It is used in Hebrews, including this text, as a synonym for salvation. In that sense, it refers to the completion that comes when one becomes a believer in Christ, rather than referring to a Christian who has become mature. Jesus invited unbelieving Jews to the salvation perfection that came only through following him in faith (Matt. 19:21). Paul wrote that those who had come to Christ by faith were thereby mature and able to receive the wisdom of God (1 Cor. 2:6). Paul also declared that the apostles warned and taught everyone “that we may present everyone mature in Christ” (Col. 1:28). trained. The deeper, more “solid” truths about the priesthood of the Lord Jesus could only be given to those who knew him as Savior. Athletic training and competition form the metaphor implied by this particular word (cf. 1 Tim. 4:7–8). The person who has come to Christ for spiritual completion is then trained by the word to discern truth from error and holy behavior from unholy (cf. 2 Tim. 3:16–17).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:1 leave. This “leave” does not mean to despise or abandon the basic doctrines. They are the place to start, not stop. They are the gate of entrance on the road to salvation in Christ. elementary doctrine of Christ. As “the oracles of God” in 5:12 refers to the OT, so does this phrase. The writer is referring to basic OT teaching that prepared the way for Messiah—the beginning teaching about Christ. This OT “doctrine” includes the six features listed in 6:1–2. go on to maturity. Salvation by faith in Messiah Jesus. See note on 5:14. The verb is passive, so as to indicate “let us be carried to salvation.” That is not a matter of learners being carried by teachers, but both being carried forward by God. The writer warns his Jewish readers that there is no value in stopping with the OT basics and repeating (“laying again”) what was only intended to be foundational. repentance from dead works. This OT form of repentance is the turning away from evil deeds that bring death (cf. Ezek. 18:4; Rom. 6:23) and turning to God. Too often the Jew only turned to God in a superficial fashion—fulfilling the letter of the law as evidence of his repentance. The inner man was still dead (Matt. 23:25–28; Rom. 2:28–29). Such repentance was not the kind that brought salvation (Heb. 6:6; 12:17; cf. Acts 11:18; 2 Cor. 7:10). Under the New Covenant, however, “repentance toward God” is coupled with “faith in our Lord Jesus Christ” (Acts 20:21). Christ’s atoning sacrifice saves from “dead works” (Heb. 9:14; cf. John 14:6). faith toward God. Faith directed only toward the Father is unacceptable without faith in his Son, Jesus Christ (Acts 4:12; cf. James 2:14–20).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:2 washings. In the OT Levitical system, there were many ceremonial cleansings, which were outward signs of heart cleansing (cf. Ex. 30:18–21; Lev. 16:4, 24, 26, 28; Mark 7:4, 8). The New Covenant called for an inner washing (Titus 3:5) that regenerated the soul. laying on of hands. Under the Old Covenant, the person who brought a sacrifice placed his hands on it to symbolize his identification with it as a substitute sacrifice for sin (Lev. 1:4; 3:8, 13; 16:21). There could also be a reference here to solemn priestly blessings (cf. Matt. 19:13). resurrection . . . and eternal judgment. The Pharisees believed in the resurrection from the dead (Acts 23:8) but were still spiritually dead (Matt. 23:27). They also believed in the judgment of God and were headed for it. It is significant that all of the doctrines listed in Heb. 6:1–2 can be associated with the Pharisees, who were attracted to and sometimes associated with Jesus (Luke 7:36–50; 13:31; 14:1; John 3:1). Paul was a Pharisee before his conversion (Phil. 3:5). The Pharisees were products of the pursuit of righteousness by works of the law rather than by faith (Rom. 9:30–32; 10:1–3). A portion of the Hebrews to whom this epistle was written may have been Pharisees.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:3 we will do. The writer is likely both giving his own testimony about going on from OT teaching to embrace the New Covenant in Jesus Christ and also identifying himself with the readers. Salvation always requires God’s enablement (cf. John 6:44).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:4–6 See Introduction: Interpretive Challenges. Five advantages possessed by the Jews are yet insufficient for their salvation.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:4 enlightened. They had received instruction in biblical truth, which was accompanied by intellectual perception. Understanding the gospel is not the equivalent of regeneration (cf. 10:26, 32). In John 1:9 it is clear that enlightening is not the equivalent of salvation. Cf. Heb. 10:29. tasted the heavenly gift. Tasting in the figurative sense in the NT refers to consciously experiencing something (cf. 2:9). The experience might be momentary or continuing. Christ’s “tasting” of death (2:9) was obviously momentary and not continuing or permanent. All men experience the goodness of God, but that does not mean they are all saved (cf. Matt. 5:45; Acts 17:25). Many Jews, during the Lord’s earthly ministry, experienced the blessings from heaven he brought—in healings and deliverance from demons, as well as eating the food he created miraculously (John 6). Whether the gift refers to Christ (cf. John 6:51; 2 Cor. 9:15) or to the Holy Spirit (cf. Acts 2:38; 1 Pet. 1:12), experiencing either one was not the equivalent of salvation (cf. John 16:8; Acts 7:51). shared in the Holy Spirit. See notes on Heb. 2:4. Even though the concept of partaking is used in 3:1; 3:14; and 12:8 of a relationship that believers have, the context must be the final determining factor. This context in 6:4–6 seems to preclude a reference to true believers. It could be a reference to their participation, as noted above, in the miraculous ministry of Jesus, who was empowered by the Spirit (see notes on Matt. 12:18–32; cf. Luke 4:14, 18), or in the convicting ministry of the Holy Spirit (John 16:8), which obviously can be resisted without experiencing salvation (cf. Acts 7:51).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:5 tasted. See note on v. 4. This has an amazing correspondence to what was described in 2:1–4 (see notes there). Like Simon Magus (Acts 8:9–24), these Hebrews had not yet been regenerated in spite of all they had heard and seen (cf. Matt. 13:3–9; John 6:60–66). They were repeating the sins of those who died in the wilderness after seeing the miracles performed through Moses and Aaron and hearing the voice of God at Sinai.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:6 fallen away. This Greek term occurs only here in the NT. In the lxx, it was used to translate terms for severe unfaithfulness and apostasy (cf. Ezek. 14:13; 18:24; 20:27). It is equivalent to the apostasy in Heb. 3:12. The seriousness of this unfaithfulness is seen in the severe description of rejection within this verse: they re-crucify Christ and treat him contemptuously (see also the strong descriptions in 10:29). Those who sinned against Christ in such a way had no hope of restoration or forgiveness (cf. 2:2–3; 10:26–27; 12:25). The reason is that they had rejected him with full knowledge and conscious experience (as described in the features of 6:5–6). With full revelation they rejected the truth, concluding the opposite of the truth about Christ, and thus had no hope of being saved. They can never have more knowledge than they had when they rejected it. They have concluded that Jesus should have been crucified, and they stand with his enemies. There is no possibility of these verses referring to losing salvation. Many Scripture passages make unmistakably clear that salvation is eternal (cf. John 10:27–29; Rom. 8:35, 38, 39; Phil. 1:6; 1 Pet. 1:4–5). Those who want to make this verse mean that believers can lose salvation will have to admit that it would then also say that one could never get it back again. See Introduction: Interpretive Challenges.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:7–8 Here are illustrations showing that those who hear the gospel message and respond in faith are blessed; those who hear and reject it are cursed (cf. Matt. 13:18–23).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:8 worthless. See the use of the term in Rom. 1:28 (“debased”); 2 Cor. 13:5 (“fail to meet the test”); and 2 Tim. 3:8 (“disqualified”).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:9 beloved. This term shows a change of audience and a change from a message of warning to a message of encouragement. That the address is to believers is further confirmed by the expression of confidence that “better things” could be said of them (as compared to those who were being warned in the preceding verses). The “things that belong to salvation” are their works, which verify their salvation (v. 10; cf. Eph. 2:10; James 2:18, 26). The very statement implies that the things described in Heb. 5:11–6:5 do not accompany salvation but are indicative of unbelief and apostasy. Though we speak in this way. Though it had been necessary to speak about judgment in the preceding verses, the writer assures the “beloved,” those who are believers, that he is confident of their salvation.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:10 work and the love. See 1 Thess. 1:3–4. for his name. Throughout this epistle “name” has the Hebraic sense of the authority, character, and attributes of the Son of God (Heb. 1:4) or of God the Father (2:12; 13:15; cf. John 14:13–14). saints. All true Christians are saints, or “holy ones” (cf. Heb. 13:24; Acts 9:13; Rom. 1:7; see note on 1 Cor. 1:2).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:11 you. The author is speaking again to unbelievers but appears to intentionally distance this particular group from the would-be apostates of vv. 4–6, who are in danger of being impossible to restore. earnestness. This term can carry the idea of eagerness or haste. It is a plea for unbelieving Jews to come to Christ immediately. If these uncommitted Jews followed the example of the active faith of the saints (vv. 9–10, 12), they would obtain the salvation that gives “full assurance of hope until the end” (cf. 10:22; Col. 2:2). Salvation should not be postponed.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:12 sluggish. See note on 5:11, where the same Greek word is translated “dull.” imitators. This concept is repeated in 13:7 and is inherent in the many illustrations of faith given in ch. 11. inherit the promises. The inheritance and the promises of salvation are a theme of this epistle (cf. 6:13, 15, 17; 1:14; 4:1, 3; 9:15; 10:36; 11:7–9, 11, 13, 17, 33, 39).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:13–20 The persecution and trials that the believing Hebrews faced required patient perseverance. That persevering faith would enable them to inherit the promises of God, which at the time of suffering seemed so distant. Regardless of their circumstances, they were to remember that God is faithful (cf. v. 10) and that in him their hope was secure (cf. v. 11).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:13 Abraham. To encourage the Hebrews to rely upon faith as opposed to holding on to the Levitical system of worship, the writer cited the example of Abraham, who, as the great model of faith (cf. Rom. 4), should be imitated (Heb. 6:12). swore by himself. As recorded in Gen. 22:15–19, God promised unilaterally to fulfill the Abrahamic Covenant.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:14 Quoted from Gen. 22:17, this summarizes the essence of God’s promise. The fact that God had said it assured its fulfillment. It is significant that the quote in Genesis is in the context of Abraham’s sacrifice of Isaac, who was the immediate fulfillment of God’s promise to Abraham. Ultimate fulfillment would also take place through Isaac and his descendants.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:15 patiently waited. Abraham was an example of the patience mentioned in v. 12. He received the promise in the beginning of its fulfillment by the birth of Isaac (see note on v. 14), but he did not live to see all the promises fulfilled (11:13).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:16–18 God’s word does not need any confirmation from someone else. It is reliable because God himself is faithful. People confirm their promises by appealing to someone greater (especially to God) as witness. Since no one is greater than God, he can only provide an oath from himself. By doing so he is willingly (v. 17) accommodating himself to human beings who desire the confirmation because of the characteristic unreliability of human promises.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:18 two unchangeable things. These are God’s promise and his oath. The Greek term behind “unchangeable” was used of a legal will, which was unchangeable by anyone but the maker of the will. fled for refuge. In the LXX, the Greek word is used for the cities of refuge God provided for those who sought protection from avengers for an accidental killing (Num. 35:9–34; Deut. 19:1–13; Josh. 20:1–9; cf. Acts 14:5–6). hope. See note on Heb. 3:6. Hope is one of the themes of Hebrews. It is also the product of OT studies (Rom. 15:4). Hope for the fulfillment of God’s salvation promises is the “anchor of the soul” (Heb. 6:19) keeping the believer secure during the times of trouble and turmoil.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 6:19–20 Our hope is embodied in Christ himself, who has entered into God’s presence in the heavenly Most Holy Place on our behalf (see note on 4:14). By this line of reasoning the writer returned to the topic that he left in 5:10, the Melchizedekian priesthood.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:1–28 Using the two OT references to Melchizedek (Gen. 14:18–20; Ps. 110:4), Heb. 7 explains the superiority of Christ’s priesthood to that of this unique high priest, who was a type of Christ in certain respects (see note on 5:6). Chapter 7 is the focal point of the epistle to the Hebrews because of its detailed comparison of the priesthood of Christ and the Levitical high priesthood.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:1–2 A summary of the account of Melchizedek in Gen. 14:18–20 (see notes there).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:3 The Levitical priesthood was hereditary, but Melchizedek’s was not. His parentage and origin are unknown because they were irrelevant to his priesthood. Contrary to some interpretations, Melchizedek did have a father and a mother. The ancient Syriac Peshitta gives a more accurate translation of what was intended by the Greek phrase: “whose father and mother are not written in genealogies.” No record existed of Melchizedek’s birth or death. This is quite a contrast to the details of Aaron’s death (Num. 20:22–29). resembling. Lit., “made to be like”; this word is used nowhere else in the NT. The implication is that the resemblance to Christ rests upon the way Melchizedek’s history is reported in the OT, not upon Melchizedek himself. Melchizedek was not the preincarnate Christ, as some maintain, but was similar to Christ in that his priesthood was universal (Heb. 7:1), royal (v. 1–2; cf. Zech. 6:13), righteous (Heb. 7:2; cf. Ps. 72:2; Jer. 23:5; 1 Cor. 1:30), peaceful (Heb. 7:2; cf. Ps. 72:7; Isa. 9:6; Rom. 5:1), and unending (Heb. 7:3; cf. vv. 24–25).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:4–28 This section presents the superiority of the Melchizedekan priesthood to the Levitical. The major arguments for superiority are related to the receiving of tithes (vv. 2–10), the giving of blessing (vv. 1, 6, 7), the replacement of the Levitical priesthood (vv. 11–19), and the perpetuity of the Melchizedekan priesthood (vv. 3, 8, 16–17, 20–28).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:4 In antiquity, it was common for people to give a tithe to a god or his representative. Abraham, the father of the Hebrew faith, gave a tithe to Melchizedek. That proves that Melchizedek was superior to Abraham. The lesser person tithes to the greater (v. 7).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:5 By the authority invested in them after the establishment of the Mosaic law, the Levitical priests collected tithes from their fellow Israelites (see note on Num. 18:21–24). The submission of the Israelites was not to honor the priests but to honor the law of God.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:6–7 Melchizedek not only received a tithe from Abraham, he also blessed him. This proves again Melchizedek’s superiority.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:8 one case . . . other case. This refers to the Levitical law whose system was still active at the time (“one case”) and to the earlier historical incident recorded in Gen. 14 (“other case”). The Levitical priesthood changed as each priest died until it passed away altogether, whereas Melchizedek’s priesthood is perpetual since the record about his priesthood does not record his death (cf. Heb. 7:3).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:9–10 In an argument based upon seminal headship, the writer observes that it is possible to speak of Levi paying tithes to Melchizedek. It is the same kind of argument Paul employed to demonstrate that when Adam sinned we all sinned (see notes on Rom. 5:12–14).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:11–28 In this section the argument is extended a step further. Since the Melchizedekan priesthood is superior to the Levitical priesthood (vv. 1–10), Christ’s priesthood is also superior to the Levitical priesthood, since Christ’s priesthood is Melchizedekan rather than Levitical.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:11 perfection. See note on 5:14. Throughout Hebrews, the term refers to complete reconciliation with God and unhindered access to God—salvation. The Levitical system and its priesthood could not save anyone from their sins. See notes on 10:1–4.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:12–14 Since Christ is the Christian’s high priest and he was of the tribe of Judah, not Levi (cf. Matt. 2:1, 6; Rev. 5:5), his priesthood is clearly beyond the law, which was the authority for the Levitical priesthood (cf. Heb. 7:11). This is proof that the Mosaic law had been abrogated. The Levitical system was replaced by a new Priest, offering a new sacrifice, under a New Covenant. He abrogated the law by fulfilling it (cf. Matt. 5:17) and providing the perfection that the law could never accomplish (cf. Matt. 5:20).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:13, 15 another. In both cases, the term is “another of a different kind” (heteros), emphasizing the contrast with the Levitical priesthood.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:16 legal requirement concerning bodily descent. The law dealt only with the temporal existence of Israel. The forgiveness that could be obtained even on the Day of Atonement was temporary. Those who ministered as priests under the law were mortals receiving their office by heredity. The Levitical system was dominated by matters of physical existence and transitory ceremonialism. power of an indestructible life. Because he is the eternal Second Person of the Godhead, Christ’s priesthood cannot end. He obtained his priesthood, not by virtue of the law, but by virtue of his deity.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:17 Quoted from Ps. 110:4 again (see notes on Heb. 5:6, 10).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:18 set aside. See note on vv. 12–14. The law was weak in that it could not save or bring about inward change in a person (cf. Rom. 8:3; Gal. 4:9).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:19 the law made nothing perfect. See note on v. 11. The law saved no one (cf. Rom. 3:19–20); rather it cursed everyone (cf. Gal. 3:10–13). a better hope. See notes on Heb. 3:6; 6:18. draw near to God. See Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes; see note on 4:16. This is the key phrase in this passage. Drawing near to God is the essence of Christianity as compared with the Levitical system, which kept people outside his presence. As believer priests, we are all to draw near to God—that is a characteristic of priesthood (cf. Ex. 19:22; see notes on Matt. 27:51).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:20–21 oath. God’s promises are unchangeable, sealed with an oath (cf. 6:17). The Melchizedekian priesthood of Christ is confirmed with God’s oath in Ps. 110:4. God’s mind on this matter will not change (Heb. 7:21).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:22 guarantor. This is the only use of the Greek term in the NT and could also be translated “surety.” Jesus himself guarantees the success of his New Covenant of salvation. a better covenant. The New Covenant (8:8, 13; 9:15). See notes on Jer. 31:31–34 and Matt. 26:28. The first mention of “covenant” in this epistle is coupled with one of the key themes of the book (“better,” cf. Heb. 7:19; see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes). This covenant will be more fully discussed in ch. 8.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:23–24 See notes on vv. 3, 8, 16.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:23 many in number. It is claimed that there were 84 high priests who served from Aaron until the destruction of the temple by the Romans in A.D. 70. The lesser priests’ numbers were much larger.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:25 uttermost. Virtually the same concept as was expressed in “perfection” (v. 11) and “made . . . perfect” (v. 19). The Greek term is used only here and in Luke 13:11 (the woman’s body could not be straightened completely). who draw near to God. See note on Heb. 4:16 (cf. John 6:37). intercession. The word means “to intercede on behalf of another.” It was used to refer to bringing a petition to a king on behalf of someone. See note on Rom. 8:34. Cf. the high-priestly intercessory prayer of Christ in John 17. Since rabbis assigned intercessory powers to angels, perhaps the people were treating angels as intercessors. The writer makes it clear that only Christ is the intercessor (cf. 1 Tim. 2:5).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:26–28 Christ’s divine and holy character is yet another proof of the superiority of his priesthood.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:26 In his relationship to God, Christ is “holy” (piety without any pollution; Matt. 3:17; 17:5; Mark 1:24; Luke 4:24; Acts 2:27; 13:35). In his relationship to man, he is “innocent” (without evil or malice; John 8:46). In relationship to himself, he is “unstained” (free from contamination; 1 Pet. 1:19) and “separated from sinners” (he had no sin nature that would be the source of any act of sin; cf. “without sin” in Heb. 4:15). See notes on 2 Cor. 5:21. exalted above the heavens. See notes on Heb. 3:1 and 4:14.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:27 daily. Whenever the Levitical high priest sinned, he was required to offer sacrifices for himself (Lev. 4:3). Whenever the people sinned, he also had to offer a sacrifice for them (Lev. 4:13). These occasions could be daily. Then, annually, on the Day of Atonement, he had to again offer sacrifices for himself and for the people (Lev. 16:6, 11, 15). Christ had no sin and needed no sacrifice for himself. And only one sacrifice (by him) was needed—one time only, for all men, for all time. once for all. A key emphasis in Hebrews. The sacrificial work of Christ never needed to be repeated, unlike the OT priestly sacrifices. Cf. Heb. 9:12, 26, 28; 10:2, 10; 1 Pet. 3:18.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 7:28 word of the oath. God confirmed Christ as high priest. See notes on vv. 20–21; 6:16–18. made perfect forever. See note on 2:10.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:1–10:18 This entire section is an exposition of the New Covenant promised in Jer. 31:31–34 and its contrast to the Old Covenant of Law.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:1–5 A brief description of Jesus’ priesthood in the heavenly sanctuary, which is better than Aaron’s because he serves in a better sanctuary (vv. 1–5; cf. 9:1–12).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:1 point. Here the writer arrived at his central message. The fact is that “we have” (current possession) a superior high priest, Jesus Christ, who is the fulfillment of all that was foreshadowed in the OT. seated. See notes on 1:3, 13.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:2 minister. This is the same word used of the angels in 1:7. In Jer. 33:21 it was used of the priests. holy places. Cf. Heb. 9:3. The holiest place where God dwelt (cf. Ex. 15:17; 25:8; 26:23–24; 1 Chron. 22:17). true tent. The definition is given in the phrase “that the Lord set up, not man,” as well as in Heb. 9:11, 24 (cf. 8:5). It refers to the heavenly dwelling place of God.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:3 gifts and sacrifices. See note on 5:1.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:4 not be a priest. Jesus was not qualified to be a Levitical priest because he was not of the tribe of Levi. See note on 7:12–14. Because of its use of the present tense, this verse indicates that the Levitical system was still in operation at the time of writing, indicating it was before the destruction of the temple in A.D. 70 (see note on 5:1–4).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:5 The quote is from Ex. 25:40. copy and shadow. This does not mean that there are actual buildings in heaven that were copied in the tabernacle, but rather that the heavenly realities were adequately symbolized and represented in the earthly tabernacle model.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:6 he mediates. Cf. 9:15. The word describes a go-between or an arbitrator, in this case between man and God. See note on 1 Tim. 2:5 (cf. Gal. 3:19–20). covenant . . . better . . . better promises. See notes on Heb. 7:19, 22; John 1:17–18. This covenant is identified as the “new covenant” in Heb. 8:8, 13; 9:15.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:7 Cf. the same argument in 7:11. The older covenant, incomplete and imperfect, was only intended to be temporary.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:8–12 Quoted from Jer. 31:31–34 (see notes there).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:9 I showed no concern for them. Jeremiah 31:32 says, “though I was their husband.” The NT writer is quoting from the lxx, which uses a variant reading that does not essentially change the meaning.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:10 minds . . . hearts. By its nature, the covenant of law was primarily external, but the New Covenant is internal (cf. Ezek. 36:26–27).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:12 The lxx represents a slight expansion of the last sentence of Jer. 31:34.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 8:13 ready to vanish away. Soon after the book of Hebrews was written, the temple in Jerusalem was destroyed and its Levitical worship ended (see note on 5:1–4; see Introduction: Author and Date).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:1–10 In these verses, the author gives a brief description of the tabernacle, to which some 50 chs. in the OT are devoted, including the tabernacle service (cf. Ex. 25–40). The section is marked off by its beginning with a reference to “regulations” (Heb. 9:1) and closing with a reference to “regulations” (v. 10).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:2 first section . . . Holy Place. This is the Holy Place, the first room of the tabernacle (Ex. 26:33). For the items in the Holy Place, see Ex. 25:23–40; 40:22–25; Lev. 24:5–9.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:3 Most Holy Place. This is the Most Holy Place where the ark of the covenant and the mercy seat dwelt—the place of atonement (Ex. 26:33–34).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:4 golden altar of incense. See note on Ex. 30:1–10 (cf. Ex. 40:5, 26–27). Though it was outside the Holy Place (Ex. 30:6), the writer of Hebrews pictures the golden altar inside the Most Holy Place because uppermost in his mind is its role in the liturgy of the Day of Atonement. On that day, the high priest brought incense from that altar into the Most Holy Place (Lev. 16:12–13). The altar of golden incense marked the boundary of the Most Holy Place as well as the curtain. The high priest went beyond the altar of incense only once a year. the ark. See notes on Ex. 25:11–18 and 26:31–34. golden urn holding the manna. See note on Ex. 16:32–36. Aaron’s staff. See notes on Num. 17:2–10. tablets of the covenant. See note on Ex. 25:16 (cf. 1 Kings 8:9).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:5 cherubim . . . mercy seat. See notes on Ex. 25:17–18. cannot now speak in detail. The writer has no desire to obscure his main point with details (cf. Heb. 8:1).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:7 This was the Day of Atonement. See notes on 4:14; 7:27; Lev. 16:16, 20–22, 30. not without taking blood. See note on Heb. 9:22. This is the first of many references to the blood of sacrifice. The term is especially central to 9:1–10:18 where it identifies the deaths of OT sacrifices and of Christ (cf. 9:12–14). Note, however, that the shedding of blood in and of itself is an insufficient sacrifice. Christ had not only to shed his blood, but to die. Hebrews 10:10 indicates that he gave his body as the sacrificial offering. Without his death, his blood had no saving value. See notes on 9:14, 18, 22; 10:10.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:8 The Levitical system did not provide any direct access into God’s presence for his people. Rather, it kept them away. Nearness had to be provided by another way (v. 12). This is the primary lesson that the Holy Spirit taught concerning the tabernacle. It teaches how inaccessible God is apart from the death of Jesus Christ. See Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes. See the counterpart to this lesson in 10:20. Holy Spirit. See note on 2:4. By the Spirit-inspired instruction given for the Holiest of All, he was indicating that there was no way to God in the ceremonial system. Only Christ could open the way (cf. John 14:6).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:9 symbolic. The Greek word is parabolé, from which the English word “parable” is derived. The Levitical system was a parable, an object lesson, about what was to come in Christ. for the present age. “For” is ambiguous enough to allow for two different meanings and interpretations: 1) “during” the time of the OT, or 2) “until” and “pointing to” the current Christian era. The second interpretation is “according to which” (from an alternate Greek reading) referring to the “parable” rather than to the time. It was an object lesson from the past pointing to the present time. This latter interpretation is preferable because of the explanation in v. 10. “The present age” is “the time of reformation.” gifts and sacrifices. See note on 5:1. perfect the conscience. Again, this term refers to salvation. See notes on 5:14; 7:11; 10:1 (cf. 7:25). The sacrifices of the OT did not remove the offerers’ guilty conscience or provide them with full forgiveness for their sins (cf. 10:1–4). It was only symbolic of something else that would—namely Christ. The conscience is a divinely given warning device that reacts to sin and produces accusation and guilt (see notes on Rom. 2:14–15) that cannot be relieved apart from the work of Christ (cf. Heb. 9:14; 10:22). At the time of salvation it is quieted from its convicting ravings, but it is not deactivated. Rather, it continues its work, warning the believer about sin. Believers should seek a clear conscience (see notes on 2 Cor. 1:12).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:10 food and drink. See notes on Lev. 11:1–47; Deut. 14:3–21 (cf. Col. 2:16). washings. See note on Heb. 6:2. regulations for the body. The Levitical ordinances regulated the visible actions without changing the inner man (cf. 10:4). reformation. The Greek term means “restoring what is out of line.” All things are set straight in Christ. The reformation is the New Covenant and its application. See note on 9:9.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:11 the good things that have come. The reference appears to be to the “eternal redemption” (v. 12). In 10:1, the “good things” refer back to the salvation of 9:28 (cf. Rom. 10:15). In the context, both readings refer to the things of the New Covenant. It is just a matter of perspective: whether from the viewpoint of the Levitical system where the realities of redemption were “to come,” or the viewpoint of those in the Christian era where the realities of redemption “have come” because Christ has completed his work. not of this creation. The phrase is the explanation of “not made with hands”—it is the creation of God alone. The sanctuary where Christ serves is heaven itself (cf. Heb. 9:24; 8:2).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:12 goats and calves. Only one of each was sacrificed on the Day of Atonement (cf. Lev. 16:5–10). The plural here represents the numbers sacrificed as the Day of Atonement was observed year after year. of his own blood. The same phrase is used in Heb. 13:12. Nothing is said that would indicate that Christ carried his actual physical blood with him into the heavenly sanctuary. The Sacrificer was also the Sacrifice. once for all. See note on 7:27. eternal redemption. This word for redemption is found only here and in Luke 1:68; 2:38. Its original use was for the release of slaves by payment of a ransom.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:13–22 Christ’s death was necessary for the fulfillment of the older covenant and the establishment of the new.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:13 ashes of a heifer. See notes on Num. 19. It is said that, in the history of Israel, only six red heifers were killed and their ashes used. One heifer’s ashes would suffice for centuries since only a minute amount of the ash was required. defiled. The Greek term is literally “common” or “profane.” Not that it was ceremonially unclean, but that it was not sanctified or set apart unto God. The word was used in Jesus’ discourse on what defiles a man (cf. Matt. 15:11, 18, 20; Mark 7:15, 18, 20, 23), in the Jews’ complaint that Paul had defiled the temple by bringing Gentiles into it (Acts 21:28), and in reference to the meats that Peter had been invited to eat (Acts 10:15; 11:9). According to the Mosaic regulation, the red heifer’s ashes were to be placed “outside the camp” and used in a ceremony for symbolic purifying from sin (Num. 19:9; cf. Heb. 13:11–13).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:14 how much more. Superior to the cleansing capability of the ashes of an animal is the cleansing power of the sacrifice of Christ. the blood of Christ. This is an expression that refers not simply to the fluid, but the whole atoning sacrificial work of Christ in his death. Blood is used as a substitute word for death (cf. Matt. 23:30, 35; 27:6, 8, 24–25; John 6:54–56; Acts 18:6; 20:26). See notes on Matt. 26:28; Rom. 3:25; 5:9; Col. 1:14. the eternal Spirit. See note on Heb. 2:4 (cf. Isa. 42:1; 61:1; Luke 4:1, 14). Some interpreters argue that the lack of the definite article in the Greek makes this a reference to Christ's own "eternal spirit" (in the sense of an endless life, cf. Heb. 7:16). However, the references to the Holy Spirit in 2:4 and 6:4 are also without the definite article. The use of "eternal" as a qualifier serves to relate the Spirit to the "eternal redemption" (9:12) and the "eternal inheritance" (v. 15) that Christ accomplished by his sacrificial death. offered himself. See notes on v. 7; John 10:17–18. The animals in the Levitical system were brought involuntarily and without understanding to their deaths. Christ came of his own volition with a full understanding of the necessity and consequences of his sacrifice. His sacrifice was not just his blood, it was his entire human nature (cf. Heb. 10:10). without blemish. In the lxx, the term is used for describing acceptable sacrifices including the red heifer (Num. 19:3; cf. Ex. 29:1; Lev. 1:3). A similar reference is found in 1 Pet. 1:19. conscience. See note on Heb. 9:9. dead works. See note on 6:1. The works are dead because the unregenerate are "dead in . . . trespasses and sins" (Eph. 2:1), their works are worthless and unproductive (Gal. 2:16; 5:19–21), and they end in death (Rom. 6:23). to serve the living God. Salvation is not an end in itself. The believer has been freed from sin to serve God, saved to serve (cf. Rom. 6:16–18; 1 Thess. 1:9). The contrast between dead works and the living God (cf. Heb. 3:12; 10:31; 12:22) is basic. Cf. James 2:14–26.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:15 mediator. See note on 8:6. death. In the making of some biblical covenants, sacrifices were involved. When God made the covenant with Abraham, five different animals were sacrificed in the ceremony (Gen. 15:9–10). The Mosaic Covenant was affirmed by animal sacrifices (Ex. 24:5–8). redeems. The term used here is found more frequently than the term used in Heb. 9:12 (cf. 11:35; Luke 21:28; Rom. 3:24). Jesus' death retroactively redeemed all those who had believed in God under the Old Covenant (cf. Rom. 3:24–26). This is in keeping with symbolism of the Day of Atonement. Annually the high priest would atone for or cover the sins that the people had committed in the preceding year (Lev. 16:16, 21, 30). first covenant. See note on Gen. 9:16. The actual first covenant historically was made with Noah (Gen. 6:18; 9:9). Next came the covenant made with Abraham (Gen. 15:18). By context, however, the older covenant under discussion in this epistle is that which is called the Mosaic Covenant or the covenant of law (Ex. 19:1–20:21). "First" in this verse, therefore, means the former, older covenant with which the Levitical system is connected. those who are called. Lit., "the ones having been called," looking back to those under the Old Covenant who were called to salvation by God on the basis of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ to come long after most of them had died. The reference, as always in the NT epistles, is to the effectual calling related to salvation (cf. Heb. 3:1), which in this context refers to OT believers. promised eternal inheritance. That is, salvation in its fullness (see notes on 3:11; 4:1, 9; 6:12; 1 Pet. 1:3–5).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:16–17 A last will and testament illustrates the necessity of Christ’s death. “Covenant” is the same Greek word translated “will,” but the term takes on the more specialized meaning in this context. The benefits and provisions of a will are only promises until the one who wrote the will dies. Death activates the promises into realities.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:18–20 The shedding of blood in the covenant ratification ceremony at Sinai (Ex. 24:1–8) also illustrates the necessity of Christ’s death (see note on Heb. 9:15).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:18 blood. “Death” in vv. 15–16 is replaced by “blood” (see notes on vv. 7, 14). The term is used to emphasize the violent aspect of his sacrificial death.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:19 water and scarlet wool and hyssop. These items were used at the Passover in Egypt (Ex. 12:22) for sprinkling of blood, and in the ritual cleansing for lepers (Lev. 14:4), and in the red heifer ceremony (Num. 19:6). More of those are in view here. These elements were a part of the sprinkling of blood in the covenant ceremony described in Ex. 24:1–8, though not mentioned there. The added details came either by direct revelation to the writer or had been preserved in other records or traditions known to the writer and his readers. the book . . . the people. See note on Ex. 24:8. The consecration of Aaron and his sons to the priesthood is the only other occasion in the OT when any persons were sprinkled with blood (Ex. 29:21; Lev. 8:30; cf. 1 Pet. 1:2). The detail about the book also being sprinkled with the blood is not recorded in the exodus account.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:20 This is the blood. Cf. Ex. 24:8 with Matt. 26:28. The same formula was utilized in the inaugural ceremonies for the Mosaic Covenant and for the New Covenant.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:21 in the same way. The dedication of the tabernacle and its vessels was accompanied by a blood sprinkling ritual similar to that observed at the inauguration of the Mosaic Covenant (cf. Ex. 29:10–15, 21, 36–37).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:22 almost everything. There were a few exceptions. Water, incense, and fire were also used to purify (cf. Ex. 19:10; Lev. 15:5; Num. 16:46–47; 31:21–24). Those who were too poor to bring even a small animal for sacrifice were allowed to bring fine flour instead (Lev. 5:11). blood . . . forgiveness. “The blood . . . to make atonement” (Lev. 17:11). The phraseology is reminiscent of Christ’s own words (Matt. 26:28). “Shedding of blood” refers to death (see notes on Heb. 9:7, 14, 18). “Forgiveness” is the emphatic last word in this section (vv. 18–22) of the Greek NT, and it forms the transition to the next section (vv. 23–28).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:23–28 High-priestly prayer is to be exercised in the perfect tabernacle of heaven. The real high priest who offered the real sacrifice for sin serves in the real tabernacle. He is the complete fulfillment of the shadowy copies in the Levitical system.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:23 copies. See note on 8:5. The earthly tabernacle and its vessels were only symbolic replicas of the true heavenly tabernacle (8:2), and were also made unclean by the transgressions of the people (Lev. 16:16). the heavenly things. As the preceding context indicated, the inauguration of the Mosaic Covenant by sacrifices was necessary (Heb. 9:18–21). That concept is here applied to the heavenly sanctuary—it is dedicated or inaugurated as the central sanctuary of the New Covenant by Christ’s sacrifice. The better covenant required a better sacrifice. better sacrifices. Christ’s superior sacrifice is a major theme in 9:13–10:18. The many sacrifices of the Levitical system were to be superseded by better sacrifices that would be represented in the one, all-inclusive, perfect sacrifice of Christ (cf. 10:12). See note on 7:22.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:24 copies. The term is not the same as that used in v. 23 and 8:5. This is lit., “antitype.” It is used only twice in the NT. The antitype either prefigures the type (as here), or is a later illustration of the type (as in 1 Pet. 3:21). In both cases, the antitype is not the real thing, but only a copy of it. The earthly “holy place” in the tabernacle was only a type of the heavenly abode of God. now to appear. On the Day of Atonement, the high priest entered the Most Holy Place where God made an appearance (Lev. 16:2). The high priest, however, was hidden from the presence of God by the cloud of incense (Lev. 16:12–13). See also “has appeared” (Heb. 9:26) and “will appear” (v. 28). Each verb is a different term in the Greek. The term for Christ’s present appearance in heaven (v. 24) alludes to his official presentation to report to the Father on the fulfillment of his mission. The concept of making an appearance or being revealed is involved in the incarnational appearance in order to die once for sin (v. 26). At Christ's appearing at the second advent (v. 28), the term used stresses the visible nature of the appearance (cf. 2:8; 12:14). All three tenses of Christ's soteriological ministry are also covered: 1) his first advent to save us from the penalty of sin; 2) his present intercessory ministry in heaven to save us from the power of sin; and 3) his second advent to deliver us from the presence of sin. our behalf. Christ is our representative and the provider of our spiritual benefits (cf. 2:9; 6:20; 7:25; John 14:12–14; Eph. 1:3).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:26 since the foundation of the world. This is a reference to creation (see notes on 4:3). end of the ages. All the eras and ages came together and were consummated in the coming of the Messiah. The eschatological era was inaugurated (see note on 1:2; cf. Gal. 4:4).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:27 to die once. This is a general rule for all mankind. There have been very rare exceptions (e.g., Lazarus died twice; cf. John 11:43–44). Those, like Lazarus, who were raised from the dead by a miraculous act of our Lord were not resurrected to a glorified body and unending life. They only experienced resuscitation. Another exception will be those who don't die even once, but who will be "caught up . . . to meet the Lord in the air" (1 Thess. 4:17; cf. Enoch, Gen. 5:24; Elijah, 2 Kings 2:11). judgment. A general term encompassing the judgment of all people, believers (see note on 2 Cor. 5:10) and unbelievers (see notes on Rev. 20:11–15).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 9:28 to bear the sins of many. See note on Isa. 53:12 (cf. 2 Cor. 5:21; 1 Pet. 2:24). second time. On the Day of Atonement, the people eagerly waited for the high priest to come back out of the Most Holy Place. When he appeared, they knew that the sacrifice on their behalf had been accepted by God. In the same way, when Christ appears at his second coming, it will be confirmation that the Father has been fully satisfied with the Son's sacrifice on behalf of believers. At that point salvation will be consummated (cf. 1 Pet. 1:3–5). not to deal with sin. See notes on Heb. 2:17–18; 4:15. This phrase testifies to the completed work of Christ in removing sins by his sacrifice at his first coming. No such burden will be upon him in his second coming. eagerly waiting. See note on Phil. 3:20.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:1–18 Christ’s offering was a once-for-all sacrifice which is superior to all the sacrifices of the Levitical system.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:1 shadow. See note on 8:5. The Greek term translated “shadow” refers to a pale reflection, as contrasted with a sharp, distinct one. The term behind “true form,” on the other hand, indicates an exact and distinct replica (cf. Col. 2:17). good things. See note on Heb. 9:11. perfect. This term is used repeatedly in Hebrews to refer to salvation. See notes on 5:14; 7:11; 9:9. As much as those living under the law desired to approach God, the Levitical system provided no way to enter his holy presence (cf. Ps. 15:1; 16:11; 24:3–4).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:2 consciousness of sins. This is the same word translated “conscience” in v. 22; 9:9; 13:18. See note on 9:9. If sin had really been overpowered by that system of sacrifices, the OT believers’ consciences would have been cleansed from condemning guilt (cf. 10:22). There was not freedom of conscience under the Old Covenant.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:3 reminder. The OT sacrifices not only could not remove sin, but their constant repetition was a constant reminder of that deficiency. The promise of the New Covenant was that the sin would be removed and even God would “remember” their sins “no more” (8:12, quoting Jer. 31:34).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:4 impossible. The Levitical system was not designed by God to remove or forgive sins. It was preparatory for the coming of the Messiah (Gal. 3:24) in that it made the people expectant (cf. 1 Pet. 1:10). It revealed the seriousness of their sinful condition, in that even temporary covering required the death of an animal. It revealed the reality of God’s holiness and righteousness by indicating that sin had to be covered. Finally, it revealed the necessity of full and complete forgiveness so that God could have desired fellowship with his people.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:5–7 Quoted from Ps. 40:6–8.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:5–6 you have not desired. God was not pleased with sacrifices given by a person who did not give them out of a sincere heart (cf. Ps. 51:17; Isa. 1:11; Jer. 6:20; Hos. 6:6; Amos 5:21–25). To sacrifice only as a ritual, without obedience, was a mockery and worse than no sacrifice at all (cf. Isa. 1:11–18).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:5 a body have you prepared for me. Psalm 40:6 reads, “you have given me an open ear.” This does not represent a significant alteration in the meaning of the psalm, as indicated by the fact that the writer quoted the lxx version of the Hebrew idiom, which was an accurate representation for Greek readers. The Greek translators regarded the Hebrew words as a figure of speech, in which a part of something signified the whole, i.e., the hollowing out of ears was part of the total work of fashioning a human body. And ears were selected as the part to emphasize because they were symbols of obedience as the organ of the reception of God’s word and will (cf. 1 Sam. 15:22). Christ needed a body in order to offer himself as the final sacrifice (Heb. 2:14).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:7 to do your will. Cf. Matt. 26:39, 42.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:8–9 The writer quotes from Ps. 40:6–8 again, but in a condensed form.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:9 first . . . second. The old, repetitious sacrificial system was removed to make way for the new, once-for-all sacrifice of Christ, who had obediently done God’s will (cf. 5:8; Phil. 2:8).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:10 sanctified. “Sanctify” means to “make holy,” to be set apart from sin for God (cf. 1 Thess. 4:3). When Christ fulfilled the will of God, he provided for the believer a continuing, permanent condition of holiness (Eph. 4:24; 1 Thess. 3:13). This is the believer’s positional sanctification as opposed to the progressive sanctification that results from daily walking by the will of God (see notes on Rom. 6:19; 12:1–2; 2 Cor. 7:1). body. Refers to his atoning death, as the term “blood” has been used to do (Heb. 9:7, 12, 14, 18, 22). Mention of the body of Christ in such a statement is unusual in the NT, but it is logically derived from the quotation from Ps. 40:6.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:11–12 The old and new are contrasted: thousands of priests versus one Priest; the old priests continually standing versus the sitting down of the new; repeated offerings versus a once-for-all offering; and the ineffective sacrifices that only covered sin versus the effective sacrifice that completely removes sin.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:11 stands. See note on 1:3. In 2 Chron. 6:10, 12, Solomon sat on his throne as king, but stood at the altar when acting in a priestly role (cf. Deut. 17:12; 18:7).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:13 footstool. See note on 1:13. This is yet another reference to Ps. 110:1. This prediction will be fulfilled when Christ returns and all creation acknowledges his lordship by bowing at his feet (Phil. 2:10).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:14 perfected. See note on v. 1. This involves a perfect standing before God in the righteousness of Christ (see notes on Rom. 3:22; Phil. 3:8–9). sanctified. See notes on Heb. 10:10.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:15–17 The writer confirms his interpretation of Ps. 40:6–8 by repeating from Jer. 31:31–34 what he had already quoted in Heb. 8:8–12.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:19–25 For the second time (cf. 8:1–6 for the first), the writer gives a summary of the arguments for the superiority of Christ’s priestly ministry.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:19 brothers. See note on 3:12. As on the earlier occasion, the writer addresses his Jewish brethren with an invitation to leave behind the Levitical system and to appropriate the benefits of the New Covenant in Christ. confidence. An important emphasis in the epistle (see note on 4:16). Because of the high-priestly ministry of Christ and his finished sacrifice, the Hebrews can enter boldly into the presence of God.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:20 new. In Greek, this word originally meant “newly slain,” but was understood as “recent” when the epistle was written. The way is new because the covenant is new. It is not a way provided by the Levitical system. living way. Though it is the path of eternal life, it was not opened by Christ’s sinless life—it required his death. See notes on 2:17–18; 4:16. The Hebrews were invited to embark on this way, which is characterized by the eternal life of the Son of God who loved them and gave himself for them (cf. John 14:6; Gal. 2:20). The Christian faith was known as “the Way” among the Jews of Jerusalem (Acts 9:2) as well as among the Gentiles (Acts 19:23). Those receiving this epistle understood quite clearly that the writer was inviting them to become Christians—to join those who had been persecuted for their faith. True believers in their midst were even then suffering persecution, and those who had not committed themselves to the Way were asked to become targets of the same persecution. curtain . . . flesh. When Jesus’ flesh was torn at his crucifixion, so was the temple veil that symbolically separated men from God’s presence (Matt. 27:51). When the high priest on the Day of Atonement entered the Most Holy Place, the people waited outside for him to return. When Christ entered the heavenly temple, he did not return. Instead, he opened the curtain and exposed the Most Holy Place so that we could follow him. Here “flesh” is used as was “body” (Heb. 10:10) and “blood” (9:7, 12, 14, 18, 22) to refer to the sacrificial death of the Lord Jesus.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:21 the house of God. See note on 3:6.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:22 let us draw near. See note on 7:19. Based on what had been written, this was the heart of the invitation to those in the assembly who had not come to Christ. The same invitation is found in the first NT book to be written (James 4:8), where James reveals the corollary of drawing near to God: God will draw near to you. Asaph taught that it is a good thing to draw near to God (Ps. 73:28). The full restoration of Israel to God’s blessing is dependent upon them drawing near to him (Jer. 30:18–22). In other words, it is an eschatological invitation coming to them in “these last days” (Heb. 1:2). This verse describes the prerequisites for entering the presence of God (cf. Ps. 15): sincerity, security, salvation, and sanctification. true heart. The Greek term behind “true” carries the ideas of being sincere, genuine, and without ulterior motive (cf. Jer. 24:7; Matt. 15:8). This one thing these particular Hebrews lacked: genuine commitment to Christ. full assurance of faith. See note on Heb. 6:11. Utter confidence in the promises of God is intended by the phrase. Such confidence will result in heartfelt assurance or security, which will allow them to persevere through the coming trials. This is the first of a familiar triad: faith, hope (10:23), and love (v. 24). hearts sprinkled. See notes on 9:9, 14; 10:1–4; 1 Pet. 1:2. pure water. The imagery in this verse is taken from the sacrificial ceremonies of the Old Covenant, where blood was sprinkled as a sign of cleansing, and the priests were continually washing themselves and the sacred vessels in basins of clear water. Being “washed with pure water” does not refer to Christian baptism, but to the Holy Spirit’s purifying a person’s life by means of the word of God (cf. Eph. 5:25–26; Titus 3:5). This is purely a New Covenant picture (Jer. 31:33; Ezek. 36:25–26).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:23 hold fast. Holding on, or the perseverance of the saints, is the human side of eternal security. It is not something done to maintain salvation, but is rather an evidence of salvation. See note on 3:6. confession of our hope. Affirmation of salvation. See note on 3:1. without wavering. The idea is not to follow any inclination that leads back to the Old Covenant. In other ancient literature, the same Greek term is used of enduring torture. Persecution will come (2 Tim. 3:12), but God is faithful. Temptations will abound, but God is faithful to provide an escape (cf. 1 Cor. 10:13). God's promises are reliable (1 Cor. 10:13; 1 Thess. 5:24; Jude 24–25). With that confidence, the believer can persevere.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:24 consider. The same verb is used about Jesus in 3:1. The invitation must be responded to individually, but the response also has a corporate side. They are members of a community of Hebrews whose initial attraction to Christ is in danger of eroding. They have been considering a return to the Levitical system of Judaism to avoid the persecution (cf. John 12:42–43). Mutual encouragement to make full commitment is crucial. stir up. The English word “paroxysm” is derived from the Greek term used here. The meaning in this context is that of stimulating or inciting someone to do something. love and good works. An example of such mutual effort in the midst of persecution was to be found at Corinth (cf. 2 Cor. 8:1–7).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:25 not neglecting to meet together. Collective and corporate worship is a vital part of spiritual life. The warning here is against apostasy in an eschatological context (cf. 2 Thess. 2:1). The reference is to the approaching “day” (the second coming of Christ; cf. Rom. 13:12; 1 Cor. 3:13; 1 Thess. 5:4). encouraging. Encouraging takes the form of comfort, warning, or strengthening. There is an eschatological urgency to the encouraging that requires an increased activity as the coming of Christ approaches (cf. Heb. 3:13; cf. 1 Thess. 4:18).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:26–39 See notes on 6:1–8. This warning passage deals with the sin of apostasy, an intentional falling away, or defection. Apostates are those who move toward Christ, hear and understand his gospel, and are on the verge of saving belief, but then rebel and turn away. This warning against apostasy is one of the most serious warnings in all of Scripture. Not all of the Hebrews would respond to the gentle invitation of 10:19–25. Some were already beyond response.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:26 we. The author is speaking rhetorically. In v. 39, he excludes himself and genuine believers from this category. sinning deliberately. The Greek term carries the idea of deliberate intention that is habitual. The sin is rejecting Christ deliberately. These are not isolated acts. According to the Mosaic legislation, such acts of deliberate, premeditated sin required exclusion from the congregation of Israel (cf. Num. 15:30–31) and from its worship (cf. Ex. 21:14). Such sins also excluded the individual from sanctuary in the cities of refuge (cf. Deut. 19:11–13). knowledge. The Greek term denotes specific knowledge, not general spiritual knowledge (cf. Heb. 6:4; cf. 1 Tim. 2:4). Though the knowledge was not defective or incomplete, the application of the knowledge was certainly flawed. Judas Iscariot is a good example of a disciple who had no lack of knowledge, but lacked faith and became the arch-apostate. no longer. See note on Heb. 6:6. The apostate is beyond salvation because he has rejected the only sacrifice that can cleanse him from sin and bring him into God's presence. To turn away from that sacrifice leaves him with no saving alternative. This is parallel to Matt. 12:31 (see note there).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:27 fearful expectation. The judgment is certain to happen, so it engenders fear. judgment, and a fury of fire. The description is similar to that in Isa. 26:11 and Zeph. 1:18 (cf. 2 Thess. 1:7–9). Ultimately, such judgment is that of eternity in the lake of fire (cf. Matt. 13:38–42, 49–50). adversaries. Actual opposition against God and toward the program of God in salvation (see notes on Phil. 3:18–19).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:28 Cf. Deut. 17:2–7.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:29 How much worse punishment . . . ? There will be degrees of punishment in hell. This is also clearly indicated in Matt. 11:22–24 (see notes there). spurned. Lit., “trample under foot.” In the ancient Near East one of the gestures used to show contempt for someone was to “lift up the foot” against or toward them (cf. Ps. 41:9). To walk on top of someone or something was a more extreme gesture showing utter contempt and scorn (cf. 2 Kings 9:33; Isa. 14:19; Mic. 7:10; Zech. 10:5). Such contempt demonstrates a complete spurning of Christ as Savior and Lord. profaned. To reckon Christ's blood as something unclean is the same thing as saying that it is defiled (see note on Heb. 9:13) and implies that Christ was a sinner and a blemished sacrifice. Such thinking is truly blasphemous. blood of the covenant. See notes on 9:14–15. Christ's death inaugurated or ratified the New Covenant. sanctified. This refers to Christ, in that he was set apart unto God (cf. John 17:19). It cannot refer to the apostate, because only true believers are sanctified. See Introduction: Interpretive Challenges. outraged the Spirit of grace. See notes on Heb. 6:4 and 9:14. Compare “a spirit of grace” (Zech. 12:10). Rejecting Christ insults the Spirit who worked through him (Matt. 12:31–32) and who testifies of him (John 15:26; 16:8–11).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:30 Quoted from Deut. 32:35–36 (cf. Ps. 135:4; Rom.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:31 living God. See note on 3:12.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:32–39 In this section, a word of encouragement is presented to counterbalance the preceding grave warning (vv. 19–31). The writer points out that the Hebrews' former experiences should stimulate them, the nearness of reward should strengthen them, and the fear of God's displeasure should prevent them from going back to Judaism.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:32 recall. Carries the idea of carefully thinking back and reconstructing something in one's mind, not merely remembering (cf. Acts 5:41; 2 Cor. 7:15). enlightened. See note on Heb. 6:4 (cf. "knowledge of the truth" in 10:26). a hard struggle. The word is only here in the NT. It is a picture of the struggling athlete engaged in a rigorous contest (cf. 2 Tim. 2:5). After being enlightened, they suffered (Heb. 10:33), became offended, and began to fall away (see note on Matt. 13:20).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:33 publicly exposed. The theater is alluded to with regard to the actors being placed on a stage where they can be observed by everyone. In the context of this verse, the idea is exposure to disgrace and ridicule (cf. 1 Cor. 4:9). partners. These unconverted Hebrews had been close to persecution when it happened to the believers they associated with. They perhaps had actually suffered for that identification, including the seizure of their property, but had not yet turned away because they were still interested in the prospects of heaven (Heb. 10:34). In the NT, there are examples of those who willingly exposed themselves to possible arrest and harassment because they sought to help those who were persecuted for their faith. Surprisingly, on one occasion, the Pharisees were among them. The Pharisees warned Jesus about Herod's pending attempt on Jesus' life (Luke 13:31). Among genuine believers who might be given as examples of helping the persecuted, there was Onesiphorus (2 Tim. 1:16–18).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:34 those in prison. This is one of the supposed indicators used for identifying the author of this epistle as the apostle Paul (cf. Eph. 3:1; 2 Tim. 1:8). However, many other Christians were also imprisoned. joyfully accepted. Cf. Acts 5:41; 16:24–25; Rom. 5:3; James 1:2. a better possession and an abiding one. See note on Heb. 9:15 (cf. Matt. 6:19–20; 1 Pet. 1:4).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:35 throw away. Due to their current persecutions, they were tempted to run away from their outward identification with Christ and Christians and to apostatize (cf. v. 23; Deut. 32:15, 18). reward. They are closer than ever to the eternal reward. It is no time to turn back.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:36 done the will of God. To trust in Christ fully by living daily in the will of the Father. See notes on Matt. 7:21–28; James 1:22–25; cf. John 6:29. receive what is promised. See notes on Heb. 4:1; 6:12; 9:15. If they would remain with the New Covenant and put their trust exclusively in Christ, they would obtain the promise of salvation for themselves.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:37–38 The loose reference to Hab. 2:3–4 (cf. Rom. 1:17; Gal. 3:11) is introduced by a phrase taken from Isa. 26:20. This is the second reference to the Is. passage (cf. Heb. 10:27), which is part of a song of salvation. The passage in Isa. 26 (or, its greater context, Isa. 24–27) is perhaps uppermost in the writer’s mind. The Habakkuk reference is altered considerably so that it is more of an interpretive paraphrase drawing on other OT concepts and contexts. Habakkuk 2:4–5 is descriptive of the proud, who do not live by faith. It is the proud who are self-sufficient and who fail to realize the necessity of patient endurance and trust in God. The proud Jew will be rejected if he does not exercise faith. He will be judged along with the nations.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:38 my righteous one shall live by faith. See note on Rom. 1:17. The opposite of apostasy is faith. This is a preview of the subsequent chapter. It is faith which pleases God. The individual who draws back from the knowledge of the gospel and faith will prove his apostasy.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 10:39 shrink back and are destroyed. The writer expresses confidence that believing readers (“we”) will not be counted among “those” who fall away to destruction. Apostates will draw back from Christ but there are some who are near to believing who can be pulled “out of the fire” (cf. Jude 23). “Destroyed,” also translated “perdition,” is commonly used in the NT of the everlasting punishment or judgment of unbelievers (cf. Matt. 7:13; Rom. 9:22; Phil. 1:28; 3:19; 1 Tim. 6:9). Judas is called the “son of destruction” (a Semitism meaning “destruction bound”; John 17:12). The man of lawlessness is referred to as the “son of destruction,” i.e., destruction bound (2 Thess. 2:3). preserve their souls. Preservation from eschatological destruction is the concept of “preserve” in this context. In the context of Isa. 26:20–21 (Heb. 10:19) the eschatological preservation includes resurrection from the dead. The writer connects faith and resurrection in the example of Abraham (Heb. 11:19).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:1–40 The eleventh chapter is a moving account of faithful OT saints and given such titles as “The Saints’ Hall of Fame,” “The Honor Roll of OT Saints,” and “Heroes of Faith.” They all attest to the value of living by faith. They compose the “cloud of witnesses” (12:1) who give powerful testimony to the Hebrews that they should come to faith in God’s truth in Christ.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:1 This verse is written in a style of Hebrew poetry (used often in the Psalms) in which two parallel and nearly identical phrases are used to state the same thing. Cf. 1 Pet. 1:7—God tests our faith in the crucible. assurance. This is from the same Greek word translated “exact imprint” in Heb. 1:3 and “confidence” in 3:14. The faith described here involves the most solid possible conviction, the God-given present assurance of a future reality. conviction of things not seen. True faith is not based on empirical evidence but on divine assurance, and is a gift of God (Eph. 2:8).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:2 people of old. In this context, the term refers to all saints, both men and women, under the older covenant, a select few of whom are described in vv. 4–40. commendation. Lit., “were testified to” or “had witness given about them” (cf. vv. 4, 39). God bears witness on the behalf of these saints that they lived by faith and divine approval is granted to them.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:3 By faith. Each example of faith in vv. 3–31 is formally introduced with this specific phrase. True saving faith works in obedience to God (see notes on James 2:14–25). we. This refers to the writer and all other true believers, present and past. universe. The physical universe itself, as well as its operation and administration. was created. The concept involved in this verb (used also in Heb. 13:21) is that of equipping so that something might be made ready to fulfill its purpose. word of God. God’s divine utterance (see, e.g., Gen. 1:3, 6, 9, 11, 14). not made. God created the universe out of something that cannot be seen. There is the possibility that the invisible something was God’s own energy or power. For more on creation, see notes on Gen. 1:1–31.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:4–40 Adam and Eve are passed over in this portion regarding creation because they had seen God, fellowshiped with him, and talked with him. Their children were the first to exercise faith in the unseen God.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:4 Abel. See Gen. 4:1–15. more acceptable. The precise reason for the superiority of Abel’s sacrifice is not specifically revealed by the writer of Hebrews, but implied in Heb. 12:24 (see notes there). Here his concern is with Abel’s faith. Both brothers knew what God required. Abel obeyed and Cain did not. Abel acted in faith, Cain in unbelief (see notes on Gen. 4:4–5). Through faith, Abel left testimony to all succeeding generations that a person comes to God by faith to receive righteousness. righteous. Because of his faith, evidenced in obedience to God’s requirement for sacrifice, Abel was accounted as righteous by God (cf. Rom. 4:4–8). Christ himself referred to the righteousness of Abel (Matt. 23:35). Cain’s sacrifice was evidence that he was just going through the motions of ritual in a disobedient manner, not evidencing authentic faith. Without faith no one can receive imputed righteousness (cf. Gen. 15:6). accepting his gifts. Abel’s offering proved something about his faith that was not demonstrated by Cain’s offering.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:5 The quote is from Gen. 5:24. Enoch. See note on Gen. 5:24. The lxx translated the Hebrew idiom “Enoch walked with God” with “he pleased God.” The writer combines both in the reference. Enoch was miraculously taken to heaven without dying (cf. 1 Thess. 4:17).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:6 impossible to please. Enoch pleased God because he had faith. Without such faith it is not possible for anyone to “walk with God” or “please him” (cf. 10:38). he exists. The emphasis here is on “he,” the true God. Genuine faith does not simply believe that a divine being exists, but that the God of Scripture is the only real and true God who exists. Not believing that God exists is equivalent to calling him a liar (cf. 1 John 5:10). rewards. A person must believe not only that the true God exists, but also that he will reward men’s faith in him with forgiveness and righteousness, because he has promised to do so (cf. Heb. 10:35; Gen. 15:1; Deut. 4:29; 1 Chron. 28:9; Ps. 58:11; Isa. 40:10).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:7 Noah. See Gen. 5:28–9:29; Ezek. 14:14. unseen. See notes on Heb. 11:1, 6. The world had not seen anything resembling the great flood (not even rain; see notes on Gen. 7:11), yet Noah spent 120 years (Gen. 6:3) fulfilling God’s command to build the massive ark (Gen. 6:13–22). reverent. Noah treated God’s message with great respect and awe (cf. 5:7). His faith was expressed in obedience (cf. Gen. 6:22; 7:5). condemned. Noah warned the people of his time about God’s impending judgment (cf. 1 Pet. 3:20), and is called “a herald of righteousness” (2 Pet. 2:5). heir of the righteousness. See notes on Heb. 6:12; 9:15. He who was a herald of righteousness (2 Pet. 2:5) also became an heir of righteousness. He believed the message he preached. Like Enoch before him (see notes on Heb. 11:5), Noah walked with God in faith and obedience (Gen. 6:9).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:8–19 Abraham. See Gen. 11:27–25:11.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:8 a place . . . inheritance. The land of Canaan, far from his original home in Ur of the Chaldees (Gen. 11:31). He went by faith.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:9 promise. Neither Abraham, Isaac, nor Jacob were able to settle permanently in or possess the land God promised to them (v. 10). Abraham first went there in faith, and they all lived there in faith, believing in a promise of possession that would not be fulfilled for many generations beyond their lifetimes (Gen. 12:7).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:10 city. Abraham's ultimate and permanent Promised Land was heaven which, through faith, he knew he would ultimately inherit. This city is mentioned again in v. 16; 12:22; 13:14.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:11–12 Sarah. See Gen. 11:27–23:2; 1 Pet. 3:5–6.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:11 past the age. At 90 (Gen. 17:17), she was long past child-bearing age and had never been able to conceive. God enabled her, however, because of her faith in his promise (Gen. 21:1–3).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:12 as good as dead. At 99, Abraham was well beyond the age to father children apart from divine intervention (Gen. 17:1, 15–17; 21:1–5). stars . . . sand. This is hyperbole to stress the vastness of the population that would come from Abraham's loins. See Gen. 15:4–5; 22:17.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:13 These all. The reference is to the patriarchs only (Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob). This interpretation is supported by the fact that the promises began with Abraham (cf. Acts 7:17; Rom. 4:13; Gal. 3:14–18) and were passed on to Isaac (Gen. 26:2–5, 24) and Jacob (Gen. 28:10–15). In addition, only those individuals fit the description in Heb. 11:15 and Enoch did not die. See note on 6:15. These people of faith didn't know when they would inherit the promise. They had a life in the land, but did not possess it.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:13–16 strangers and exiles. See Gen. 23:4. Their faith was patient and endured great hardships because they believed God had something better. They had no desire to go back to Ur, but did long for heaven (Job 19:25–26; Ps. 27:4).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:16 their God. God referred to himself as “the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob” (Ex. 3:6; cf. Gen. 28:13; Matt. 22:32). This is a significant covenant formula whereby an individual or a people identified with God and he with them (cf. Lev. 26:12). a city. See note on Heb. 12:22.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:17–19 See Gen. 22:1–18. Abraham again proved his faith by his willingness to give back to God his son of promise, Isaac, whom he had miraculously received because of his faith. It would take an even greater miracle for them to replace Isaac by natural means. He trusted God for a resurrection. Cf. Rom. 4:16–21.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:17–18 only son. Isaac was not the only son of Abraham—there was also Ishmael through Hagar (Gen. 16:1–16). The term refers to someone who is unique, one of a kind (cf. John 1:14). Isaac was the only son born according to God’s promise and was the only heir of that promise. The quotation from Gen. 21:12 proves this latter point.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:19 even to raise him from the dead. Believing that God’s promise regarding Isaac was unconditional, Abraham came to the conclusion that God would fulfill that promise even if it required raising Isaac from the dead (cf. Gen. 22:5). figuratively speaking. The word is the same as in Heb. 9:9, which is the basis for the English word “parable.” Abraham received Isaac back from the dead, as it were, even though Isaac had not been slain.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:20 Isaac. See Gen. 27:1–28:5.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:21 Jacob. See Gen. 47:28–49:33. each of the sons. Both of Joseph’s sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, received a blessing from Jacob. Consequently, two tribes descended from Joseph, whereas only one tribe descended from each of his brothers (see Gen. 47:31; 48:1, 5, 16). head of his staff. According to Gen. 47:31, Jacob leaned upon his “bed.” The two words (staff, bed) in Hebrew have exactly the same consonants. Old Testament Hebrew manuscripts were copied without vowels. Later Hebrew manuscripts, between the sixth and ninth centuries A.D., took the word as “bed.” The lxx, in the third century B.C., rendered it “staff,” which seems more likely although both could be factual.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:22 Joseph. See Gen. 37:1–50:26. Joseph spent all of his adult life in Egypt and, even though he was a fourth-generation heir of the promise given to Abraham, he never returned to Canaan while he was alive. Yet, facing death, he still had faith that God would fulfill his promise and demonstrated that confidence by making his brothers promise to take his bones back to Canaan for burial (Gen. 50:24–25; cf. Ex. 13:19; Josh. 24:32).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:23–29 Moses. See Ex. 1–15; Acts 7:17–36.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:23 child was beautiful. Meaning “favored,” in this case divinely favored (Acts 7:20; cf. Ex. 2:2). The faith described here is actually that exercised by Moses’ parents, although it is unclear how much Moses’ parents understood about God’s plan for their child.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:24 Moses refused the fame he could have in Egypt if he would have capitalized on his position as the adopted son of Pharaoh’s daughter (cf. Ex. 2:10).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:25 with the people of God. Moses would have sinned had he refused to take on the responsibility God gave him regarding Israel, and he had a clear and certain conviction that “God was giving them salvation by his hand” (Acts 7:25). Moses repudiated the pleasures of Egypt.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:26 reproach of Christ. Moses suffered reproach for the sake of Christ in the sense that he identified with Messiah’s people in their suffering (v. 25). In addition, Moses identified himself with the Messiah because of his own role as leader and prophet (cf. 12:2; Deut. 18:15; Ps. 69:9; 89:51). Moses knew of the sufferings and glory of the Messiah (cf. John 5:46; Acts 26:22–23; 1 Pet. 1:10–12). Anyone who suffers because of genuine faith in God and for the redemptive gospel suffers for the sake of Christ (cf. Heb. 13:12–13; 1 Pet. 4:14).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:27 left Egypt. Moses left Egypt for the first time when he fled for his life after killing the Egyptian slave master (Ex. 2:14–15). That time he did fear Pharaoh’s wrath. On the second occasion, he turned his back on Egypt and all that it represented. This leaving was not for fear of Pharaoh, so it is the one in view here. seeing him. Moses’ faith was such that he responded to God’s commands as though God were standing visibly before him. This was the basis for his loyalty to God, and it should be a believer's example for loyalty (cf. 2 Cor. 4:16–18).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:28 Passover. See Ex. 12.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:29 Red Sea. See Ex. 14–15. When they first reached the shores of the Red Sea, the people feared for their lives (Ex. 14:11, 21). But upon hearing Moses' pronouncement of God's protection (Ex. 14:13–14), they went forward in faith.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:30 Jericho. See Josh. 6. The people did nothing militarily to cause the fall of Jericho; they simply followed God's instructions in faith. Cf. 2 Cor. 10:4.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:31 Rahab. See Josh. 2:1–24; 6:22–25; Matt. 1:5; James 2:25.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:32 All of the men listed in this verse held a position of power or authority, but none of them is praised for his personal status or abilities. Instead, they are recognized for what each one had accomplished by faith in God. They are not listed chronologically, but are listed in pairs with the more important member mentioned first (cf. 1 Sam. 12:11). See Judg. 6–9 (Gideon); 4–5 (Barak); 13–16 (Samson); 11–12 (Jephthah). David. David is the only king mentioned in this verse. All the others are judges or prophets. David could also be considered a prophet (see Heb. 4:7; 2 Sam. 23:1–3; Mark 12:36). Cf. 1 Sam. 13:14; 16:1, 12; Acts 13:22. Samuel and the prophets. Samuel was the last of the judges and the first of the prophets (cf. 1 Sam. 7:15; Acts 3:24; 13:20). He anointed David as king (1 Sam. 16:13) and was known as a man of intercessory prayer (1 Sam. 12:19, 23; Jer. 15:1).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:33–38 The many accomplishments and sufferings described in these verses apply generally to those faithful saints. Some experienced great success, whereas others suffered great affliction. The point is that they all courageously and uncompromisingly followed God, regardless of the earthly outcome. They placed their trust in him and in his promises (cf. 6:12; 2 Tim. 3:12).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:33 conquered kingdoms. Joshua, the judges, David, and others. enforced justice. Righteous kings like David, Solomon, Asa, Jehoshaphat, Joash, Hezekiah, and Josiah. obtained promises. Abraham, Moses, David, and Solomon. stopped the mouths of lions. Samson (Judg. 14:5–6), David (1 Sam. 17:34–35), Daniel (Dan. 6:22).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:34 quenched the power of fire. Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego (Dan. 3:19–30). escaped the edge of the sword. David (1 Sam. 18:4, 11; 19:9–10), Elijah (1 Kings 19:1–3, 10), and Elisha (2 Kings 6:15–19). weakness. Ehud (Judg. 3:12–30), Jael (Judg. 4:17–24), Gideon (Judg. 6:15–16; 7:1–25), Samson (Judg. 16:21–30), and Hezekiah (Isa. 38:1–6). Cf. 1 Cor. 1:27; 2 Cor. 12:10.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:35 Women received back their dead. The widow of Zarephath (1 Kings 17:22) and the woman of Shunem (2 Kings 4:34). tortured. The word indicates that they were beaten to death while strapped to some sort of rack (cf. 2 Macc. 6–7 about Eleazar and the mother with seven sons who were martyrs). better life. See note on Heb. 9:27. The deliverance from certain death or near death would be like returning from the dead, but would not be the promised resurrection. This was especially true of those who had died and were raised. The first time they were raised from the dead was merely resuscitation, not the true and glorious final resurrection (Dan. 12:2; cf. Matt. 5:10; James 1:12).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:36 Others. Joseph (Gen. 39:20), Micaiah (1 Kings 22:27), Elisha (2 Kings 2:23), Hanani (2 Chron. 16:10), Jeremiah (Jer. 20:1–6; 37:15), and others (2 Chron. 36:16).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:37 stoned. The prophet Zechariah (son of Jehoiada) was killed in this fashion (see notes on 2 Chron. 24:20–22; Matt. 23:35). sawn in two. According to tradition, this was the method Manasseh employed to execute Isaiah. killed with the sword. Uriah the prophet died in this fashion (Jer. 26:23; cf. 1 Kings 19:10). However, the expression here may refer to the mass execution of God's people; several such incidents occurred during the time of the Maccabees in the 400 years between the OT and NT (see Introduction to the Intertestamental Period). went about. Many of God's people suffered from poverty and persecution (cf. Ps. 107:4–9).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:38 See 1 Kings 18:4, 13; 19:9.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:39–40 something better. They had faith in the ultimate fulfillment of the eternal promises in the covenant (v. 13). See Introduction:

Historical and Theological Themes.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 11:40 apart from us. The faith of OT saints looked forward to the promised salvation, whereas the faith of those after Christ looks back to the fulfillment of the promise. Both groups are characterized by genuine faith and are saved by Christ’s atoning work on the cross (cf. Eph. 2:8–9).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:1 Therefore. This is a very crucial transition word offering an emphatic conclusion (cf. 1 Thess. 4:8) to the section that began in Heb. 10:19. witnesses. The deceased people of ch. 11 give witness to the value and blessing of living by faith. Motivation for running “the race” is not in the possibility of receiving praise from observing heavenly saints. Rather, the runner is inspired by the godly examples those saints set during their lives. The great crowd is not comprised of spectators but rather is comprised of ones whose past life of faith encourages others to live that way (cf. 11:2, 4–5, 33, 39). let us. The reference is to those Hebrews who had made a profession of Christ, but had not gone all the way to full faith. They had not yet begun the race, which starts with salvation. The writer has invited them to accept salvation in Christ and join the race. every weight. Different from the “sin” mentioned next, this refers to the main encumbrance weighing down the Hebrews, which was the Levitical system with its stifling legalism. The athlete would strip away every piece of unnecessary clothing before competing in the race. The outward things emphasized by the Levitical system not only impede, they entangle. sin. In this context, this focuses first on the particular sin of unbelief—refusing to turn away from the Levitical sacrifices to the perfect sacrifice, Jesus Christ (cf. John 16:8–11), as well as other sins cherished by the unbeliever. endurance. Endurance is the steady determination to keep going, regardless of the temptation to slow down or give up (cf. 1 Cor. 9:24–25). race. The athletic metaphor presents the faith-filled life as a demanding, grueling effort. The English word “agony” is derived from the Greek word used here. See note on Matt. 7:14.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:2 looking to. They were to look to Jesus as the object of faith and salvation (cf. 11:26–27; Acts 7:55–56; Phil. 3:8). founder. See note on Heb. 2:10. The term means originator or preeminent example. perfecter. See note on 5:14. The term expresses the idea of carrying through to perfect completion (cf. John 19:30). the joy. Jesus persevered so that he might receive the joy of accomplishment of the Father’s will and exaltation (cf. Heb. 1:9; Ps. 16:9–11; Luke 10:21–24). right hand. See note on Heb. 1:3.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:3 Consider him. Jesus is the supreme example of willingness to suffer in obedience to God. He faced “hostility” (the same word as “opposed” in Luke 2:34) and endured even the cruel cross. The same opposition is faced by all who follow him (Acts 28:22; Gal. 6:17; Col. 1:24; 2 Tim. 3:12). weary or fainthearted. Believers’ pressures, exhaustion, and persecutions (cf. Gal. 6:9) are as nothing compared to Christ’s.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:4 shedding your blood. None of the Hebrews had experienced such intense exhaustion or persecution that it brought them to death or martyrdom. Since Stephen (Acts 7:60), James (Acts 12:1), and others (cf. Acts 9:1; 22:4; 26:10) had faced martyrdom in Jerusalem, it would appear to rule out that city as the residence of this epistle’s recipients (see Introduction: Author and Date).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:5–6 Here the writer recalls and expounds Prov. 3:11–12. Trials and sufferings in the Christian’s life come from God, who uses them to educate and discipline believers by such experiences. Such dealings are evidence of God’s love for his own children (cf. 2 Cor. 12:7–10).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:6 chastises. This refers to flogging with a whip, a severe and painful form of beating that was a common Jewish practice (cf. Matt. 10:17; 23:34).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:7–8 sons. Because all are imperfect and need discipline and training, all true children of God are chastened at one time or another, in one way or another.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:8 illegitimate. The word is found only here in the NT, but is used elsewhere in Greek literature of those born to slaves or concubines. There could be in this an implied reference to Hagar and Ishmael (Gen. 16), Abraham’s concubine and illegitimate son.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:9 be subject. Respect for God equals submission to his will and law, and those who willingly receive the Lord’s chastening will have a richer, more abundant life (cf. Ps. 119:165). Father of spirits. Probably best translated as “Father of our spirits,” it is in contrast to “earthly fathers” (lit., “fathers of our flesh”).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:10 our good. Imperfect human fathers discipline imperfectly; but God is perfect and therefore his discipline is perfect and always for the spiritual good of his children.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:11 fruit of righteousness. A similar phrase is used in James 3:18. trained. The same word was used in 5:14 (see note there; cf. 1 Tim. 4:7).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:12–17 This passage exhorts believers to act on the divine truths laid out in the previous passages. Truth that is known but not obeyed becomes a judgment rather than a benefit (cf. 13:22).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:12–13 The author returns to the race metaphor begun in vv. 1–3 (cf. Prov. 4:25–27) and incorporates language taken from Isa. 35:3 to describe the disciplined individual's condition like a weary runner whose arms drop and knees wobble. When experiencing trials in his life, the believer must not allow the circumstances to get the best of him. Instead, he must endure and get his second wind so as to be renewed to continue the race.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:14 Strive . . . holiness. In this epistle, it is explained as 1) a drawing near to God with full faith and a cleansed conscience (10:14, 22), and 2) a genuine acceptance of Christ as the Savior and sacrifice for sin, bringing the sinner into fellowship with God. Unbelievers will not be drawn to accept Christ if believers' lives do not demonstrate the qualities God desires, including peace and holiness (cf. John 13:35; 1 Tim. 4:3; 1 Pet. 1:16).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:15 See to it. Believers are to watch their own lives, so as to give a testimony of peace and holiness, as well as to look out for and help those in their midst who are in need of salvation. fails to obtain the grace of God. See notes on 4:1; 6:6; 10:26. This means to come too late and be left out. Here is another mention of the intellectually convinced Jews in that assembly, who knew the gospel and were enamored with Christ, but still stood on the edge of apostasy. root of bitterness. This is the attitude of apostates within the church who are corruptive influences. Cf. Deut. 29:18.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:16–17 See Gen. 25:29–34 and 27:1–39. Esau desired God's blessings, but he did not want God. He regretted what he had done, but he did not repent. Esau is an example of those who willfully sin against God and who are given no second chance because of their exposure to the truth and their advanced state of hardness (cf. Heb. 6:6; 10:26). Esau was an example of the "unholy" person.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:16 immoral. This refers to the sexually immoral in general. Apostasy is often closely linked with immorality (cf. 2 Pet. 2:10, 14, 18; Jude 8, 16, 18).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:18–29 The writer proceeds to give an exposition based upon Israel’s encounter with God at Mount Sinai (see Ex. 19–20; Deut. 4:10–24).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:18 See Ex. 19:12–13; Deut. 4:11; 5:22.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:19 sound of a trumpet. See Ex. 19:16, 19; Deut. 4:12.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:20 Quoted from Ex. 19:12–13 (cf. Ex. 20:19; Deut. 5:23–24).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:21 Quoted from Deut. 9:19.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:22 Mount Zion. As opposed to Mount Sinai, where God gave the Mosaic law, which was foreboding and terrifying, Mount Zion here is not the earthly one in Jerusalem, but God’s heavenly abode, which is inviting and gracious. No one could please God on Sinai’s terms, which was perfect fulfillment of the law (Gal. 3:10–12). Zion, however, is accessible to all who come to God through Jesus Christ (cf. Ps. 132:13–14; Isa. 46:13; Zech. 2:10; Gal. 4:21–31). Mount Zion . . . city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem. These are synonyms for heaven itself. For a description of the abode of God, the city of Jerusalem in heaven, see notes on Rev. 21:1–22:5. innumerable. The Greek word is often translated 10,000. See Rev. 5:11–12.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:23 assembly. The term here means “a gathering for public festival.” It does not likely describe a distinct group as if different from the church, but describes the attitude of the innumerable angels in heaven in a festal gathering around the throne of God. assembly of the firstborn. The firstborn is Jesus Christ (see note on 1:6). The “assembly” is comprised of believers who are fellow heirs with Christ, the preeminent One among many brethren (Rom. 8:17, 29). righteous made perfect. See notes on Heb. 5:14 (cf. 11:40). These are the OT saints in distinction from the “assembly of the firstborn,” who are the NT believers.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:24 mediator. See note on 7:22 (cf. 8:6–10; 9:15). better. See notes on 6:9; 9:23. Abel’s sacrifice was pleasing to God because it was offered in faith and obedience (cf. 11:4), but it had no atoning power. Jesus' blood alone was sufficient to cleanse sin (cf. 1 John 1:7). The sacrifice of Christ brought redemption (Heb. 9:12), forgiveness (9:26), and complete salvation (10:10, 14). than the blood of Abel. The blood of Abel's sacrifice only provided a temporary covering, but Christ's blood sacrifice declares eternal forgiveness (cf. Col. 1:20).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:25 refused. See note on v. 19, where the same word describes the conduct of the Israelites at Mount Sinai. much less. The consequences for apostates is dire indeed. The judgment to be experienced and the expected terror is far in excess of that on Mount Sinai.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:26 Quoted from Hag. 2:6.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:26–27 shake not only the earth. At Mount Sinai, God shook the earth. From Zion, he will shake the heavens, the entire universe (cf. Isa. 13:13; 34:4; 65:17, 22; 2 Pet. 3:10–13; Rev. 6:12–14; 20:11; 21:1).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:27 Everything physical (“things . . . shaken”) will be destroyed; only eternal things (“that cannot be shaken”) will remain.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:28 kingdom. God will create “a new heaven and a new earth . . . the holy city, new Jerusalem” (Rev. 21:1–2), which will be eternal and immovable. let us offer . . . acceptable worship. See note on Heb. 4:16. with reverence and awe. See note on 11:7 (cf. 5:7). The second word has to do with the apprehension felt due to being in God's presence.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 12:29 consuming fire. See Deut. 4:24. God's law given at Sinai prescribed many severe punishments, but the punishment is far worse for those who reject his offer of salvation through his own Son, Jesus Christ (cf. Luke 3:16–17). This verse is to be related to Heb. 10:29–31.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:1 The last chapter of the epistle focuses on some of the essential practical ethics of Christian living. These ethics help portray the true gospel to the world, encourage others to believe in Christ, and bring glory to God. The first of these is love for fellow believers (cf. John 13:35). Although the primary reference would be to Christians, the writer must have had emotions similar to those of the apostle Paul when it came to considering his fellow Hebrews (see Rom. 9:3–4).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:2 show hospitality. The second grace needing development was the extension of love to those who were strangers (cf. Rom. 12:13; 1 Tim. 3:2). Hospitality in the ancient world often included putting up a guest overnight or longer. This is hardest to do when experiencing a time of persecution. The Hebrews would not know whether a guest would prove to be a spy or a fellow believer being pursued. angels. This is not given as the ultimate motivation for hospitality but to reveal that one never knows how far-reaching an act of kindness might be (cf. Matt. 25:40, 45). This is exactly what happened to Abraham and Sarah (Gen. 18:1–3), Lot (Gen. 19:1–2), Gideon (Judg. 6:11–24), and Manoah (Judg. 13:6–20).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:3 you. Believers should be able to identify with the suffering of others because they also suffer physical (“in the body”) pain and hardship.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:4 in honor. God highly honors marriage, which he instituted at creation (Gen. 2:24); but some people in the early church considered celibacy to be holier than marriage, an idea Paul strongly denounces in 1 Tim. 4:3 (see notes on 1 Corinthians 7). Sexual activity in a marriage is pure, but any sexual activity outside marriage brings one under divine judgment. God will judge. God prescribes serious consequences for sexual immorality (see notes on Eph. 5:3–6).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:5 love of money. Lusting after material riches is “a root of all kinds of evil. It is through this craving that some have wandered away from the faith and pierced themselves with many pangs” (1 Tim. 6:10; cf. 1 Tim. 3:3). I will never. Quoted from Gen. 28:15; Deut. 31:6, 8; Josh. 1:5; 1 Chron. 28:20. Believers can be content in every situation because of this promise. Several negatives are utilized in this statement to emphasize the impossibility of Christ deserting believers. It is like saying “there is absolutely no way whatsoever that I will ever, ever leave you.”

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:6 confidently. This word has the idea of being bold and courageous. Cf. its use in Matt. 9:2; 2 Cor. 5:6, 8. Quoted from Ps. 118:6.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:7 In addition to the roll of the faithful in ch. 11, the writer reminds the Hebrews of their own faithful leaders within the church. In so doing, he outlines the duties of pastors: 1) rule; 2) speak the word of God; and 3) establish the pattern of faith for the people to follow. Cf. Acts 20:28; 1 Tim. 3:1–

7; Titus 1:5–9.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:9 diverse and strange teachings. These would include any teaching contrary to God’s word. The NT contains countless warnings against false teaching and false teachers (cf. Acts 20:29–30; Rom. 16:17; 2 Cor. 10:4–5; Gal. 1:6–9; Eph. 4:14; 2 Tim. 3:16). strengthened by grace. Those who are experiencing God’s grace in Christ have hearts and minds that remain stable. foods. The Mosaic law had regulations for everything, including food (Lev. 11). But for Christians, those laws have been abrogated (Acts 10:9–16; cf. 1 Cor. 8:8; Rom. 14:17; 1 Tim. 4:1–5).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:10–13 See notes on 11:26; 12:2. The writer presents an analogy for the believers’ identification with Christ in his rejection by Jews. The bodies of animals offered on the Day of Atonement were not eaten but burned “outside the camp” (Lev. 4:21; 16:27). Jesus, who was the ultimate atoning sacrifice, was similarly crucified outside the gates of Jerusalem (John 19:17). Figuratively, believers must join him outside the camp of the world, no longer being a part of its unholy systems and practices (cf. 2 Tim. 2:4). By extension, this would also depict the departure from the Levitical system. The uncommitted Hebrews needed to take the bold step of leaving that system and being outside the camp of Old Covenant Israel.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:10 an altar. The altar, the offerer, and the sacrifice are all closely related. Association with an altar identifies the offerer with the sacrifice. With certain offerings, the individual further identified himself with the altar and sacrifice by eating some of the sacrifice. The apostle Paul referred to this relationship to an altar when giving instruction to the Corinthians regarding eating meat offered to idols (1 Cor. 9:13) and regarding the observation of the Lord’s Supper (1 Cor. 10:18). Here, the altar is equivalent to the sacrifice of Christ, especially as seen in the comparison to the Day of Atonement.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:15 praise. As seen throughout the book of Hebrews, sacrifices were extremely important under the Old Covenant. Under the New Covenant, God desires the praise and thanksgiving of his people rather than offerings of animals or grain. Since NT believers are all priests (1 Pet. 2:5, 9), they have offerings of praise and thanks to God (cf. Rom. 12:1). The “sacrifice of praise” or thanksgiving is also mentioned in Lev. 7:12; Ps. 54:6.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:16 do good and to share. The sacrifices of praise coming from the lips of God's people please him only when accompanied by loving action (cf. Isa. 58:6–7; James 1:27; 1 John 3:18).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:17 your leaders. See note on v. 7. The pastors/elders of the church exercise the very authority of Christ when they preach, teach, and apply Scripture (see notes on Acts 20:28; 1 Thess. 5:12–13). They serve the church on behalf of Christ and must give him an account of their faithfulness. See notes on 1 Cor. 4:1–5; 1 Pet. 5:1–4. These may include both secular and spiritual leaders. Even those who do not acknowledge God are nevertheless ordained and used by him (cf. Rom. 13:1, 4). joy. The church is responsible to help its leaders do their work with satisfaction and delight. See notes on 1 Thess. 5:12–13.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:19 restored. The author had been with these Hebrews and was anxious to once again be in their fellowship.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:20–21 This benediction is among the most beautiful in Scripture (cf. Num. 6:24–26; 2 Cor. 13:14; Jude 24–25). It is an example of how grace can be manifested in mutual blessing and prayer.

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:20 God of peace. Paul uses this title six times in his epistles (cf. 1 Thess. 5:23). great shepherd of the sheep. See Isa. 63:11. The figure of the Messiah as a Shepherd is found frequently in Scripture (cf. Ps. 23; Isa. 40:11; Ezek. 34:23; John 10:11; 1 Pet. 2:25; 5:4). by the blood of the eternal covenant. This must refer, in the context of Hebrews, to the New Covenant that is eternal (in a future sense) compared to the Mosaic Covenant that was temporary and had been abrogated (see notes on Heb. 8:6–13; 9:15).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:21 equip you. This is not the Greek word for “perfect” or “perfection” used throughout Hebrews to indicate salvation (see note on 5:14) but is a word which is translated “prepared” in 10:5 and “created” in 11:3. It refers to believers being edified. The verb has the idea of equipping by means of adjusting, shaping, mending, restoring, or preparing (see note on 11:3; cf. 1 Cor. 1:10; 2 Cor. 13:11; 2 Tim. 3:17).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:22 bear with. Readers are encouraged to receive this message with open minds and warm hearts, in contrast to those who “will not endure sound teaching” (2 Tim. 4:3). word of exhortation. Cf. Heb. 3:13. This is the writer's own description of his epistle (see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:23 released. The details of Timothy's imprisonment are unknown (cf. 2 Tim. 4:11, 21).

HEBREWS—NOTE ON 13:24 Those who come from Italy. The group to which the author wrote may have been in Italy, or the meaning might be that Italian Christians who were with him sent their greetings (see Introduction: Author and Date). The use of similar phrases elsewhere is ambiguous since some are clearly referring to people still in their location (Acts 10:23; 17:13) and those who were away from their homes (Acts 21:27).

Introduction to James

Title

James, like all of the general epistles except Hebrews, is named after its author (v. 1).

Author and Date

Of the four men named James in the NT, only two are candidates for authorship of this epistle. No one has seriously considered James the Less, the son of Alphaeus (Matt. 10:3; Acts 1:13), or James the father of Judas, not Iscariot (Luke 6:16; Acts 1:13). Some have suggested James the son of Zebedee and brother of John (Matt. 4:21), but he was martyred too early to have written it (Acts 12:2). That leaves only James, the oldest half-brother of Christ (Mark 6:3) and brother of Jude (Matt. 13:55), who also wrote the epistle that bears his name (Jude 1). James had at first rejected Jesus as Messiah (John 7:5), but later believed (1 Cor. 15:7). He became the key leader in the Jerusalem church (cf. Acts 12:17; 15:13; 21:18; Gal. 2:12), being called one of the “pillars” of that church, along with Peter and John (Gal. 2:9). Also known as James the Just because of his devotion to righteousness, he was martyred c. A.D. 62, according to the first century Jewish historian Josephus. Comparing James’ vocabulary in the letter he wrote which is recorded in Acts 15 with that in the epistle of James further corroborates his authorship.

James wrote with the authority of one who had personally seen the resurrected Christ (1 Cor. 15:7), who was recognized as an associate of the apostles (Gal. 1:19), and who was the leader of the Jerusalem church.

James most likely wrote this epistle to believers scattered (James 1:1) as a result of the unrest recorded in Acts 12 (c. A.D. 44). There is no mention of the Council of Jerusalem described in Acts 15 (c. A.D. 49), which would be expected if that Council had already taken place. Therefore, James can be reliably dated c. A.D. 44–49, making it the earliest written book of the NT canon.

Background and Setting

The recipients of this book were Jewish believers who had been dispersed (1:1), possibly as a result of Stephen's martyrdom (Acts 7, A.D. 31–34), but more likely due to the persecution under Herod Agrippa I (Acts 12, c. A.D. 44). The author refers to his audience as “brothers” 15 times (James 1:2, 16, 19; 2:1, 5, 14; 3:1, 10, 12; 4:11; 5:7, 9, 10, 12, 19), which was a common epithet among the first century Jews. Not surprisingly, then, James is Jewish in its content. For example, the Greek word translated “assembly” (2:2) is the word for “synagogue.” Further, James contains more than 40 allusions to the OT (and more than 20 to the Sermon on the Mount, Matt. 5–7).

Historical and Theological Themes

James, with its devotion to direct, pungent statements on wise living, is reminiscent of the book of Proverbs. It has a practical emphasis, stressing not theoretical knowledge, but godly behavior. James wrote with a passionate desire for his readers to be uncompromisingly obedient to the word of God. He used at least 30 references to nature (e.g., “wave of the sea” [1:6]; “reptile” [3:7]; and “heaven gave rain” [5:18]), as befits one who spent a great deal of time outdoors. He complements Paul's emphasis on justification by faith with his own emphasis on spiritual fruitfulness demonstrating true faith.

Interpretive Challenges

At least two significant texts challenge the interpreter: 1) In 2:14–26, what is the relationship between faith and works? Does James' emphasis on works contradict Paul's focus on faith? 2) In 5:13–18, do the promises of healing refer to the spiritual or physical realm? These difficult texts are treated in the notes.

Outline

There are a number of ways to outline the book to grasp the arrangement of its content. One way is to arrange it around a series of tests by which the genuineness of a person's faith may be measured.

- I. Introduction (1:1)
- II. The Test of Perseverance in Suffering (1:2–12)
- III. The Test of Blame in Temptation (1:13–18)
- IV. The Test of Response to the Word (1:19–27)

- V. The Test of Impartial Love (2:1-13)
- VI. The Test of Righteous Works (2:14-26)
- VII. The Test of the Tongue (3:1-12)
- VIII. The Test of Humble Wisdom (3:13-18)
- IX. The Test of Worldly Indulgence (4:1-12)
- X. The Test of Dependence (4:13-17)
- XI. The Test of Patient Endurance (5:1-11)
- XII. The Test of Truthfulness (5:12)
- XIII. The Test of Prayerfulness (5:13-18)
- XIV. The Test of True Faith (5:19-20)

THE LETTER OF

James

Greeting

JAMES 1 †James, a servant [1] of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, To the twelve tribes in the Dispersion: Greetings.

Testing of Your Faith

<sup>2</sup>†Count it all joy, my brothers, [2] when you meet trials of various kinds, <sup>3</sup>†for you know that the testing of your faith produces steadfastness. <sup>4</sup>†And let steadfastness have its full effect, that you may be perfect and complete, lacking in nothing.

<sup>5</sup>†If any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask God, who gives generously to all without reproach, and it will be given him. <sup>6</sup>†But let him ask in faith, with no doubting, for the one who doubts is like a wave of the sea that is driven and tossed by the wind. <sup>7</sup>For that person must not suppose that he will receive anything from the Lord; <sup>8</sup>†he is a double-minded man, unstable in all his ways.

<sup>9</sup>††Let the lowly brother boast in his exaltation, <sup>10</sup>†and the rich in his humiliation, because like a flower of the grass [3] he will pass away. <sup>11</sup>†For the sun rises with its scorching heat and withers the grass; its flower falls, and its beauty perishes. So also will the rich man fade away in the midst of his pursuits.

<sup>12</sup>†Blessed is the man who remains steadfast under trial, for when he has stood the test he will receive the crown of life, which God has promised to those who love him. <sup>13</sup>†Let no one say when he is tempted, “I am being tempted by God,” for God cannot be tempted with evil, and he himself tempts no one. <sup>14</sup>†But each person is tempted when he is lured and enticed by his own desire. <sup>15</sup>†Then desire when it has conceived gives birth to sin, and sin when it is fully grown brings forth death.

us forth by the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures.

Hearing and Doing the Word

<sup>19</sup>† Know this, my beloved brothers: let every person be quick to hear, slow to speak, slow to anger; <sup>20</sup>† for the anger of man does not produce the righteousness of God. <sup>21</sup>† Therefore put away all filthiness and rampant wickedness and receive with meekness the implanted word, which is able to save your souls.

<sup>26</sup>† If anyone thinks he is religious and does not bridle his tongue but deceives his heart, this person's religion is worthless. <sup>27</sup>† Religion that is pure and undefiled before God, the Father, is this: to visit orphans and widows in their affliction, and to keep oneself unstained from the world.

The Sin of Partiality

JAMES 2 †My brothers, [1] show no partiality as you hold the faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory. †For if a man wearing a gold ring and fine clothing comes into your assembly, and a poor man in shabby clothing also comes in, †and if you pay attention to the one who wears the fine clothing and say, “You sit here in a good place,” while you say to the poor man, “You stand over there,” or, “Sit down at my feet,” †have you not then made distinctions among yourselves and become judges with evil thoughts? †Listen, my beloved brothers, has not God chosen those who are poor in the world to be rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom, which he has promised to those who love him? †But you have dishonored the poor man. Are not the rich the ones who oppress you, and the ones who drag you into court? †Are they not the ones who blaspheme the honorable name by which you were called?

†If you really fulfill the royal law according to the Scripture, “You shall love your neighbor as yourself,” you are doing well. †But if you show partiality, you are committing sin and are convicted by the law as transgressors. †For whoever keeps the whole law but fails in one point has become accountable for all of it. †For he who said, “Do not commit adultery,” also said, “Do not murder.” If you do not commit adultery but do murder, you have become a transgressor of the law. †So speak and so act as those who are to be judged under the law of liberty. †For judgment is without mercy to one who has shown no mercy. Mercy triumphs over judgment.

Faith Without Works Is Dead

††What good is it, my brothers, if someone says he has faith but does not have works? Can that faith save him? †If a brother or sister is poorly clothed and lacking in daily food, †and one of you says to them, “Go in peace, be warmed and filled,” without giving them the things needed for the body, what good [2] is that? †So also faith by itself, if it does not have works, is dead.

†But someone will say, “You have faith and I have works.” Show me your faith apart from your works, and I will show you my faith by my works. †You believe that God is one; you do well. Even the demons believe—and shudder! †Do you want to be shown, you foolish person, that faith apart from works is useless? ††Was not Abraham our father justified by works when he offered up his son Isaac on the altar? <sup>22</sup>† You see that faith was active along with his works, and faith was completed by his works; <sup>23</sup>† and the Scripture was fulfilled that says, “Abraham believed God, and it was counted to him as righteousness”—and he was called a friend of God. <sup>24</sup>† You see that a person is justified by works and not by faith alone. <sup>25</sup>† And in the same way was not also Rahab the prostitute justified by works when she received the messengers and sent them out by another way? <sup>26</sup> For as the body apart from the spirit is dead, so also faith apart from works is dead.

Taming the Tongue

JAMES 3 †† Not many of you should become teachers, my brothers, for you know that we who teach will be judged with greater strictness. † For we all stumble in many ways. And if anyone does not stumble in what he says, he is a perfect man, able also to bridle his whole body. † If we put bits into the mouths of horses so that they obey us, we guide their whole bodies as well. † Look at the ships also: though they are so large and are driven by strong winds, they are guided by a very small rudder wherever the will of the pilot directs. † So also the tongue is a small member, yet it boasts of great things.

How great a forest is set ablaze by such a small fire! † And the tongue is a fire, a world of unrighteousness. The tongue is set among our members, staining the whole body, setting on fire the entire course of life, [1] and set on fire by hell. [2] † For every kind of beast and bird, of reptile and sea creature, can be tamed and has been tamed by mankind, † but no human being can tame the tongue. It is a restless evil, full of deadly poison. † With it we bless our Lord and Father, and with it we curse people who are made in the likeness of God. † From the same mouth come blessing and cursing. My brothers, [3] these things ought not to be so. † Does a spring pour forth from the same opening both fresh and salt water? † Can a fig tree, my brothers, bear olives, or a grapevine produce figs? Neither can a salt pond yield fresh water.

Wisdom from Above

†† Who is wise and understanding among you? By his good conduct let him show his works in the meekness of wisdom. † But if you have bitter jealousy and selfish ambition in your hearts, do not boast and be false to the truth. † This is not the wisdom that comes down from above, but is earthly, unspiritual, demonic. † For where jealousy and selfish ambition exist, there will be disorder and every vile practice. † But the wisdom from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, open to reason, full of mercy and good fruits, impartial and sincere. † And a harvest of righteousness is sown in peace by those who make peace.

Warning Against Worldliness

JAMES 4 †What causes quarrels and what causes fights among you? Is it not this, that your passions [1] are at war within you? [2] †You desire and do not have, so you murder. You covet and cannot obtain, so you fight and quarrel. You do not have, because you do not ask. †You ask and do not receive, because you ask wrongly, to spend it on your passions. †You adulterous people! [3] Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Therefore whoever wishes to be a friend of the world makes himself an enemy of God. †Or do you suppose it is to no purpose that the Scripture says, “He yearns jealously over the spirit that he has made to dwell in us”? †But he gives more grace. Therefore it says, “God opposes the proud, but gives grace to the humble.” ††Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. †Draw near to God, and he will draw near to you. Cleanse your hands, you sinners, and purify your hearts, you double-minded. †Be wretched and mourn and weep. Let your laughter be turned to mourning and your joy to gloom. †Humble yourselves before the Lord, and he will exalt you.

†Do not speak evil against one another, brothers. [4] The one who speaks against a brother or judges his brother, speaks evil against the law and judges the law. But if you judge the law, you are not a doer of the law but a judge. †There is only one lawgiver and judge, he who is able to save and to destroy. But who are you to judge your neighbor?

Boasting About Tomorrow

†Come now, you who say, “Today or tomorrow we will go into such and such a town and spend a year there and trade and make a profit”— †yet you do not know what tomorrow will bring. What is your life? For you are a mist that appears for a little time and then vanishes. †Instead you ought to say, “If the Lord wills, we will live and do this or that.” †As it is, you boast in your arrogance. All such boasting is evil. †So whoever knows the right thing to do and fails to do it, for him it is sin.

Warning to the Rich

JAMES 5 †Come now, you rich, weep and howl for the miseries that are coming upon you. †Your riches have rotted and your garments are moth-eaten. †Your gold and silver have corroded, and their corrosion will be evidence against you and will eat your flesh like fire. You have laid up treasure in the last days. †Behold, the wages of the laborers who mowed your fields, which you kept back by fraud, are crying out against you, and the cries of the harvesters have reached the ears of the Lord of hosts. †You have lived on the earth in luxury and in self-indulgence. You have fattened your hearts in a day of slaughter. †You have condemned and murdered the righteous person. He does not resist you.

Patience in Suffering

†Be patient, therefore, brothers, [1] until the coming of the Lord. See how the farmer waits for the precious fruit of the earth, being patient about it, until it receives the early and the late rains. †You also, be patient. Establish your hearts, for the coming of the Lord is at hand. †Do not grumble against one another, brothers, so that you may not be judged; behold, the Judge is standing at the door. †As an example of suffering and patience, brothers, take the prophets who spoke in the name of the Lord. †Behold, we consider those blessed who remained steadfast. You have heard of the steadfastness of Job, and you have seen the purpose of the Lord, how the Lord is compassionate and merciful.

†But above all, my brothers, do not swear, either by heaven or by earth or by any other oath, but let your “yes” be yes and your “no” be no, so that you may not fall under condemnation.

The Prayer of Faith

†Is anyone among you suffering? Let him pray. Is anyone cheerful? Let him sing praise. †Is anyone among you sick? Let him call for the elders of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord. †And the prayer of faith will save the one who is sick, and the Lord will raise him up. And if he has committed sins, he will be forgiven. †Therefore, confess your sins to one another and pray for one another, that you may be healed. The prayer of a righteous person has great power as it is working. [2] †Elijah was a man with a nature like ours, and he prayed fervently that it might not rain, and for three years and six months it did not rain on the earth. <sup>18</sup>Then he prayed again, and heaven gave rain, and the earth bore its fruit.

<sup>19</sup>†My brothers, if anyone among you wanders from the truth and someone brings him back, <sup>20</sup>†let him know that whoever brings back a sinner from his wandering will save his soul from death and will cover a multitude of sins.

Study Notes

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:1 James. The half-brother of the Lord Jesus (see Introduction: Author and Date; cf. Gal. 1:19; 2:9). servant. See note on Rom. 1:1. twelve tribes. A common NT title for Jews (cf. Matt. 19:28; Acts 26:7; Rev. 7:4). When the kingdom split after Solomon’s reign, 10 tribes constituted the northern kingdom, called Israel, and Benjamin and Judah combined to form the southern kingdom, called Judah. After the fall and deportation of the northern kingdom to Assyria (722 B.C.), some of the remnant of those in the 10 northern tribes filtered down into Judah and came to Jerusalem to worship (2 Chron. 29; 30; 34), thus preserving all 12 tribes in Judah’s land. Although tribal identity could not be established with certainty after the southern kingdom was led captive by Babylon (586 B.C.), the prophets foresaw a time when God would reconstitute the whole nation and delineate each person’s tribal membership once again (cf. Isa. 11:12–13; Jer. 3:18; 50:4; Ezek. 37; Rev. 7:5–8). Dispersion. The Greek word diaspora, which lit. means “through a sowing” (cf. John 7:35), became a technical term referring to Jews living outside the land of Palestine (cf. 1 Pet. 1:1). Besides the expulsions from the land by the Assyrians (2 Kings 17; 1 Chron. 5) and Babylonians (2 Kings 24–25; 2 Chron. 36), many Jews were taken to Rome as slaves when the Romans conquered them c. 63 B.C. In addition, during the centuries leading up to Christ’s first coming, thousands of Jews drifted out of Israel and settled throughout the Mediterranean world (see notes on Acts 2:5–11). But James’ primary audience was those who were scattered because of persecution (see Introduction: Background and Setting).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:2 Count it all joy. The Greek word for “count” may also be translated “consider” or “evaluate.” The natural human response to trials is not to rejoice; therefore the believer must make a conscious commitment to face them with joy (see note on Phil. 3:1). brothers. Believing Jews among those scattered (cf. 1 Pet. 1:1–2; see note on Acts 8:1). trials. This Greek word connotes trouble, or something that breaks the pattern of peace, comfort, joy, and happiness in someone’s life. The verb form of this word means “to put someone or something to the test,” with the purpose of discovering that person’s nature or that thing’s quality. God brings such tests to prove—and increase—the strength and quality of one’s faith and to demonstrate its validity (James 1:2–12). Every trial becomes a test of faith designed to strengthen: if the believer fails the test by wrongly responding, that test then becomes a temptation, or a solicitation to evil (see notes on vv. 13–15).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:3 testing. This means “proof,” or “proving” (see Introduction: Outline). steadfastness. Through tests, a Christian will learn to withstand tenaciously the pressure of a trial until God removes it at his appointed time, and even cherish the benefit. See notes on 2 Cor. 12:7–10.

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:4 perfect. Not a reference to sinless perfection (cf. 3:2), but to spiritual maturity (cf. 1 John 2:14). The testing of faith drives believers to deeper communion and greater trust in Christ—qualities that in turn produce a stable, godly, and righteous character (see note on 1 Pet. 5:10; cf. Gal. 4:19). complete. From a compound Greek word that lit. means “all the portions whole.”

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:5 wisdom. James’ Jewish audience recognized this as the understanding and practical skill that were necessary to live life to God’s glory. It was not a wisdom of philosophical speculation, but the wisdom contained in the pure and peaceable absolutes of God’s will revealed in his word (cf. 3:13, 17) and lived out. Only such divine wisdom enables believers to be joyous and submissive in the trials of life. ask God. This command is a necessary part of the believer’s prayer life (cf. Job 28:12–23; Prov. 3:5–7; 1 Thess. 5:17). God intends that trials will drive believers to greater dependency on him, by showing them their own inadequacy. As with all his riches (Eph. 1:7; 2:7; 3:8; Phil. 4:19), God has wisdom in abundance (Rom. 11:33) available for those who seek it. See notes on Prov. 2:1–8.

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:6 ask in faith. Prayer must be offered with confident trust in a sovereign God (see note on Heb. 11:1). with no doubting. This refers to having one’s thinking divided within himself, not merely because of mental indecision but an inner moral conflict or distrust in God (see note on James 1:8). wave of the sea. The person who doubts God’s ability or willingness to provide this wisdom is like the billowing, restless sea, moving back and forth with its endless tides, never able to settle (cf. Josh. 24:15; 1 Kings 18:21; Rev. 3:16).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:8 double-minded man. A lit. translation of the Greek expression that denotes having one’s mind or soul divided between God and the world (see note on 4:4). This man is a hypocrite, who occasionally believes in God but fails to trust him when trials come, and thus receives nothing. The use of this expression in 4:8 makes it clear that it refers to an unbeliever. unstable.

See notes on 1:6.

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:9–10 lowly brother . . . the rich. Trials make all believers equally dependent on God and bring them to the same level with one another by keeping them from becoming preoccupied with earthly things. Poor Christians and wealthy ones can rejoice that God is no respecter of persons and that they both have the privilege of being identified with Christ.

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:9 boast. This word refers to pride in a privilege or possession; it is the joy of legitimate pride. Although having nothing in this world, the poor believer can rejoice in his high spiritual standing before God by grace and the hope which that brings (cf. Rom. 8:17–18; 1 Pet. 1:4).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:10 his humiliation. Refers to the rich believer's being brought low by trials. Such experiences help him rejoice and realize that genuine happiness and contentment depend on the true riches of God's grace, not earthly wealth.

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:11 grass . . . flower. A picture of Palestine's flowers and flowering grasses, which colorfully flourish in February and dry up by May. This is a clear allusion to Isa. 40:6–8, which speaks of the scorching sirocco wind that burns and destroys plants in its path. This picture from nature illustrates how divinely wrought death and judgment can quickly end the wealthy person's dependence on material possessions (see note on James 1:10; cf. Prov. 27:24).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:12 Blessed. See notes on Matt. 5:3, 10. Believers who successfully endure trials are truly happy (cf. James 5:11). remains steadfast. See note on 1:3. In this context, it also describes the passive, painful survival of a trial and focuses on the victorious outcome. Such a person never relinquishes his saving faith in God; thus this concept is closely related to the doctrine of eternal security and perseverance of the believer (see note on Matt. 24:13; cf. John 14:15, 23; 1 John 2:5–6, 15, 19; 4:19; 1 Pet. 1:6–8). trial. See note on James 1:2. stood the test. Lit., “passed the test” (see note on v. 2, “trials”). The believer has successfully and victoriously gone through his trials, indicating he is genuine because his faith has endured like Job's. crown of life. Best translated “the crown that is life.” “Crown” was the wreath put on the victor's head after ancient Greek athletic events. Here, it denotes the believer's ultimate reward, eternal life, which God has promised to him and will grant in full at death or at Christ's coming (see notes on 2 Tim. 4:8; Rev. 2:10; cf. 1 Pet. 5:4).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:13 The same Greek word translated “trials” (vv. 2–12) is also translated “tempted” here. James’ point is that every difficult circumstance that enters a believer’s life can either strengthen him if he obeys God and remains confident in his care, or become a solicitation to evil if the believer chooses instead to doubt God and disobey his word. God cannot be tempted. God by his holy nature has no capacity for evil, or vulnerability to it (Hab. 1:13; cf. Lev. 19:2; Isa. 6:3; 1 Pet. 1:16). he himself tempts no one. God purposes trials to occur and in them he allows temptation to happen, but he has promised not to allow more than believers can endure and never without a way to escape (1 Cor. 10:13). They choose whether to take the escape God provides or to give in (see note on James 1:14; cf. 2 Sam. 24:1; 1 Chron. 21:1).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:14 lured. This Greek word was used to describe wild game being drawn into traps. Just as animals can be drawn to their deaths by attractive baits, temptation promises people something good that is actually harmful. enticed. A fishing term that means “to capture” or “to catch with bait” (cf. 2 Pet. 2:14, 18). It is a parallel to “lured.” his own desire. This refers to the strong desire of the human soul to enjoy or acquire something to fulfill the flesh. Man’s fallen nature has the propensity to strongly desire whatever sin will satisfy it (see notes on Rom. 7:8–25). “His own” describes the individual nature of lust—it is different for each person as a result of inherited tendencies, environment, upbringing, and personal choices. The Greek grammar also indicates that this “desire” is the direct agent or cause of one’s sinning. Cf. Matt. 15:18–20.

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:15 Sin is not merely a spontaneous act, but the result of a process. The Greek words for “has conceived” and “gives birth” liken the process to physical conception and birth. Thus James personifies temptation and shows that it can follow a similar sequence and produce sin with all its deadly results. While sin does not result in spiritual death for the believer, it can lead to physical death (1 Cor. 11:30; 1 John 5:16).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:16 Do not be deceived. The Greek expression refers to erring, going astray, or wandering. Christians are not to make the mistake of blaming God rather than themselves for their sin.

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:17 Every good . . . perfect gift is from above. Two different Greek words for “gift” emphasize the perfection and inclusiveness of God’s graciousness. The first denotes the act of giving, and the second is the object given. Everything related to divine giving is adequate, complete, and beneficial.

Father of lights. An ancient Jewish expression for God as the Creator, with “lights” referring to the sun, moon, and stars (cf. Gen. 1:14–19). no variation or shadow due to change. From man’s perspective, the celestial bodies have different phases of movement and rotation, change from day to night, and vary in intensity and shadow. But God does not follow that pattern—he is changeless (cf. Mal. 3:6; 1 John 1:5).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:18 Of his own will. This phrase translates a Greek word that makes the point that regeneration is not just a wish, but an active expression of God’s will, which he always has the power to accomplish. This phrase occurs at the beginning of the Greek sentence, which means James intends to emphasize that the sovereign will of God is the source of this new life. he brought us forth. The divine act of regeneration, or the new birth (see notes on John 3:3–8; 1 Pet. 1:23; cf. Ezek. 36:25–27; John 1:12–13; Eph. 2:5–6; 5:26). word of truth. Cf. John 17:17. Scripture, or the word of God. He regenerates sinners through the power of that word (cf. 2 Cor. 6:7; Col. 1:5; 1 Thess. 2:13; Titus 3:5; 1 Pet. 1:23–25). firstfruits. Originally an OT expression referring to the first and best harvest crops, which God expected as an offering (cf. Ex. 23:19; Lev. 23:9–14; Deut. 26:1–19). Giving God that initial crop was an act of faith that he would fulfill his promise of a full harvest to come (Prov. 3:9–10). In the same way, Christians are the first evidence of God’s new creation that is to come (cf. 2 Pet. 3:10–13) and enjoy presently in their new life a foretaste of future glory (see notes on Rom. 8:19–23).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:19 quick to hear, slow to speak. Believers are to respond positively to Scripture, and eagerly pursue every opportunity to know God’s word and will better (cf. Ps. 119:11; 2 Tim. 2:15). But at the same time, they should be cautious about becoming a preacher or teacher too quickly (see notes on James 3:1–2; cf. Ezek. 3:17; 33:6–7; 1 Tim. 3:6; 5:22).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:20 anger. From the Greek word that describes a deep, internal resentment and rejection, in this context, of God’s word (see notes on 4:1–3; cf. Gal. 4:16).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:21 put away. Lit., “having put off,” as one would do with dirty clothes (see notes on Rom. 13:12–14; Eph. 4:22; Col. 3:8; Heb. 12:1; 1 Pet. 2:1–2). The tense of this Greek verb stresses the importance of putting off sin prior to receiving God’s word. filthiness . . . wickedness. The first term was used of moral vice as well as dirty garments. Sometimes it was even used of ear wax—here, of sin that would impede the believer’s spiritual hearing. “Wickedness” refers to evil desire or intent. implanted word. See note on James 1:18.

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:22 be doers. The fact that James calls professing believers to be “doers,” rather than simply to do, emphasizes that their entire personality should be characterized in that way. See notes on Matt. 7:21–28. deceiving. Lit., “reason beside or alongside” (as in “beside oneself”). This word was used in mathematics to refer to a miscalculation. Professing Christians who are content with only hearing the word have made a serious spiritual miscalculation.

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:23 looks. A forceful Greek word meaning to observe carefully and cautiously, as opposed to taking a casual glance. mirror. First-century mirrors were not glass but metallic, made of bronze, silver—or for the wealthy—gold. The metals were beaten flat and polished to a high gloss, and the image they reflected was adequate but not perfect (cf. 1 Cor. 13:12).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:24 forgets what he was like. Unless professing Christians act promptly after they hear the word, they will forget the changes and improvements that their reflection showed them they need to make.

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:25 perfect law. In both the OT and NT, God’s revealed, inerrant, sufficient, and comprehensive word is called “law” (cf. Ps. 19:7). The presence of his grace does not mean there is no moral law or code of conduct for believers to obey. Believers are enabled by the Spirit to keep it (see note on Rom. 8:4). liberty. Genuine freedom from sin. As the Holy Spirit applies the principles of Scripture to believers’ hearts, they are freed from sin’s bondage and enabled to obey God (John 8:34–36).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:26 religious. This refers to ceremonial public worship (cf. Acts 26:5). James chose this term, instead of one referring to internal godliness, to emphasize the external trappings, rituals, routines, and forms that were not followed sincerely. bridle his tongue. “Bridle” means “control,” or as another translation renders it, “keep a tight rein.” Purity of heart is often revealed by controlled and proper speech (see note on Matt. 12:36).

JAMES—NOTE ON 1:27 Religion that is pure and undefiled. James picks two synonymous adjectives to define the most spotless kind of religious faith—that which is measured by compassionate love (cf. John 13:35). orphans and widows. Those without parents or husbands were and are an especially needy segment of the church (see notes on 1 Tim. 5:3; cf. Ex. 22:22; Deut. 14:28–29; Ps. 68:5; Jer. 7:6–7; 22:16; Acts 6:1–6). Since they are usually unable to reciprocate in any way, caring for them clearly demonstrates true, sacrificial, Christian love. world. The evil world system (see notes on James 4:4; 1 John 2:15).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:1 the faith. This refers not to the act of believing, but to the entire Christian faith (cf. Jude 3), which has as its central focus Jesus Christ. Lord of glory. Christ is the One who reveals the glory of God (cf. John 1:14; 2 Cor. 4:4–6; Heb. 1:1–3). In his incarnation, he showed only impartiality (cf. Matt. 22:16)—for example, consider the non-elite people included in his genealogy (see notes on Matt. 1:1–16), his choice of the humble village of Nazareth as his residence for 30 years, and his willingness to minister in Galilee and Samaria, both regions held in contempt by Israel’s leaders. partiality. Originally, this word referred to raising someone’s face or elevating the person, but it came to refer to exalting someone strictly on a superficial, external basis, such as appearance, race, wealth, rank, or social status (Lev. 19:15; Job 34:19; cf. Deut. 10:17; 15:7–10; 2 Chron. 19:7; Prov. 24:23; 28:21; Matt. 22:8–10; Acts 10:34–35; Rom. 2:11; Eph. 6:9; Col. 3:25; 4:1; 1 Pet. 1:17).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:2 assembly. Lit., “a gathering together” or “synagogue.” Since James was writing early in the church’s history (see Introduction: Author and Date) to Jewish believers (1:1), he used both this general word and the normal Greek word for “church” (5:14) to describe the church’s corporate meetings during that period of transition. gold ring. While Jews commonly wore rings (cf. Luke 15:22), few could afford gold ones. However, there are some reports that in the ancient world the most ostentatious people wore rings on every finger but the middle one to show off their economic status (some ancient sources indicate that there were even ring rental businesses). fine clothing. This word refers to bright, shining garments and is used of the gorgeous garment Herod’s soldiers put on Jesus to mock him (Luke 23:11) and of the apparel of an angel (Acts 10:30). It can also refer to bright, flashy color and to brilliant, glittering, sparkling ornamentation. James is not condemning this unbeliever for his distracting dress, but the church’s flattering reaction to it. a poor man. Although there were people of means in the early church (Matt. 27:57–60; John 19:38–39; Acts 4:36–37; 8:27; 10:1–2; 16:14; 17:4; 1 Tim. 6:17–19), it consisted mostly of common, poor people (cf. James 2:5; Acts 2:45; 4:35–37; 6:1–6; 1 Cor. 1:26; 2 Cor. 8:2, 14). Throughout Scripture the poor are objects of God’s special concern (James 1:27; Lev. 25:25, 35–37, 39; Ps. 41:1; 68:10; 72:4, 12; 113:7; Prov. 17:5; 21:13; 28:27; 29:7; 31:9, 20; Isa. 3:14–15; 10:1–2; 25:4; Gal. 2:10).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:3 sit here in a good place. A more comfortable, prominent place of honor. The synagogues and assembly halls of the first century sometimes had benches around the outside wall and a couple of benches in front. Most of the congregation either sat cross-legged on the floor or stood. There were a limited number of good seats; they were the ones the Pharisees always wanted (Mark 12:38–39).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:4 made distinctions. See note on v. 1. The true nature of the sin in this passage, not the lavish apparel or rings of the rich man or that he was given a good seat. judges with evil thoughts. This is better translated “judges with vicious intentions.” James feared that his readers would behave just like the sinful world by catering to the rich and prominent while shunning the poor and common.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:5 has not God chosen . . . ? See note on Rom. 8:29; cf. 1 Cor. 1:26–29. the kingdom. See note on Matt. 3:2. Here James intends the kingdom in its present sense of the sphere of salvation—those over whom Christ rules—as well as its future millennial and eternal glory.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:6 oppress. Lit., “to tyrannize.” drag you into court. A reference to civil court.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:7 blaspheme the honorable name. Probably a reference to religious courts. Wealthy Jewish opponents of Christ were harassing these poor Christians. Cf. John 16:2–4.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:8 royal law. This is better translated “sovereign law.” The idea is that this law is supreme or binding. love your neighbor as yourself. This sovereign law (quoted from Lev. 19:18), when combined with the command to love God (Deut. 6:4–5), summarizes all the Law and the Prophets (Matt. 22:36–40; Rom. 13:8–10). James is not advocating some kind of emotional affection for oneself—self-love is clearly a sin (2 Tim. 3:2). Rather, the command is to pursue meeting the physical health and spiritual well-being of one’s neighbors (all within the sphere of our influence; Luke 10:30–37) with the same intensity and concern as one does naturally for one’s self (cf. Phil. 2:3–4).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:9 if. Better translated as “since,” the Greek construction of this conditional statement indicates that this practice was in fact happening among James’ readers. show partiality. See note on v. 1. The form of this Greek verb indicates that their behavior was not an occasional slip but a continual practice. convicted by the law. Specifically by the commands in Deut. 1:17 and 16:19. transgressors. This refers to those who go beyond the law of God. Respect of persons makes one a violator of God’s law.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:10 whole law . . . one point. See notes on Gal. 3:10–13. The law of God is not a series of detached injunctions but a basic unity that requires perfect love of him and our neighbors (Matt. 22:36–40). Although all sins are not equally damaging or heinous, they all shatter that unity and render men transgressors, much like hitting a window with a hammer at only one point will shatter and destroy the whole window. accountable for all. Not in the sense of having violated every command, but in the sense of having violated the law’s unity. One transgression makes fulfilling the law’s most basic commands—to love God perfectly and to love one’s neighbor as oneself—impossible.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:11 These quotations are taken from Ex. 20:13–14 and Deut. 5:17–18.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:12 judged. Cf. Rom. 2:6–16. law of liberty. See note on James 1:25.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:13 A person who shows no mercy and compassion for people in need demonstrates that he has never responded to the great mercy of God, and as an unredeemed person will receive only strict, unrelieved judgment in eternal hell (cf. Matt. 5:7). Mercy triumphs over judgment. The person whose life is characterized by mercy is ready for the day of judgment, and will escape all the charges that strict justice might bring against him because by showing mercy to others he gives genuine evidence of having received God’s mercy.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:14–26 James continues his series of tests by which his readers can evaluate whether their faith is living or dead (see Introduction: Background and Setting). This passage contains the composite test—the one test that pulls the others together: the test of works, or righteous behavior that obeys God’s word and manifests a godly nature (cf. 1:22–25). James’ point is not that a person is saved by works (he has already strongly and clearly asserted that salvation is a gracious gift from God; 1:17–18; cf. Eph. 2:8–9), but that there is a kind of apparent faith that is dead and does not save (James 2:14, 17, 20, 24, 26; cf. Matt. 3:7–8; 5:16; 7:21; 13:18–23; John 8:30–31; 15:6). It is possible James was writing to Jews (cf. James 1:1) who had jettisoned the works righteousness of Judaism but, instead, had embraced the mistaken notion that since righteous works and obedience to God’s will were not efficacious for salvation, they were not necessary at all. Thus, they reduced faith to a mere mental assent to the facts about Christ.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:14 if someone says. This important phrase governs the interpretation of the entire passage. James does not say that this person actually has faith, but that he claims to have it. faith. This is best understood in a broad sense, speaking of any degree of acceptance of the truths of the gospel. not have. Again, the verb’s form describes someone who continually lacks any external evidence of the faith he routinely claims. works. This refers to all righteous behavior that conforms to God’s revealed word, but specifically, in the context, to acts of compassion (v. 15). Can that faith save him? Better translated, “Can that kind of faith save?” James is not disputing the importance of faith. Rather, he is opposing the notion that saving faith can be a mere intellectual exercise void of a commitment to active obedience (cf. Matt. 7:16–18). The grammatical form of the question demands a negative answer. See note on Rom. 2:6–10.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:15–16 James illustrates his point by comparing faith without works to words of compassion without acts of compassion (cf. Matt. 25:31–46).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:17 faith by itself . . . is dead. Just as professed compassion without action is phony, the kind of faith that is without works is mere empty profession, not genuine saving faith.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:18 someone. Interpreters disagree on whether 1) “someone” is James’ humble way of referring to himself or whether it refers to one of James’ antagonists who objected to his teaching; and 2) how much of the following passage should be attributed to this antagonist as opposed to James himself. Regardless, James’ main point is the same: the only possible evidence of true faith is works (cf. 2 Pet. 1:3–11).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:19 You believe that God is one. A clear reference to the passage most familiar to his Jewish readers: the Shema (Deut. 6:4–5), the most basic doctrine of the OT. demons believe. Even fallen angels affirm the oneness of God and tremble at its implications. Demons are essentially orthodox in their doctrine (cf. Matt. 8:29–30; Mark 5:7; Luke 4:41; Acts 19:15). But orthodox doctrine by itself is no proof of saving faith. They know the truth about God, Christ, and the Spirit, but hate it and them.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:20 foolish. Lit., “empty, defective.” The objector’s claim of belief is fraudulent, and his faith is a sham. faith apart from works is useless. Lit., “the faith without the works.” James is not contrasting two methods of salvation (faith versus works). Instead, he contrasts two kinds of faith: living faith that saves and dead faith that does not (cf. 1 John 3:7–10).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:21–26 James cites three illustrations of living faith: 1) Abraham (vv. 21–24); 2) Rahab (v. 25); and 3) the human body and spirit (v. 26).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:21 justified by works. This does not contradict Paul’s clear teaching that Abraham was justified before God by grace alone through faith alone (Rom. 3:20; 4:1–25; Gal. 3:6, 11). For several reasons, James cannot mean that Abraham was constituted righteous before God because of his own good works: 1) James already stressed that salvation is a gracious gift (James 1:17–18); 2) in the middle of this disputed passage (2:23), James quoted Gen. 15:6, which forcefully claims that God credited righteousness to Abraham solely on the basis of his faith (see notes on Rom. 1:17; 3:24; 4:1–25); and 3) the work that James said justified Abraham was his offering up of Isaac (Gen. 22:9, 12), an event that occurred many years after he first exercised faith and was declared righteous before God (Gen. 12:1–7; 15:6). Instead, Abraham’s offering of Isaac demonstrated the genuineness of his faith and the reality of his justification before God. James is emphasizing the vindication before others of a person’s claim to salvation. James’ teaching perfectly complements Paul’s writings; salvation is determined by faith alone (Eph. 2:8–9) and demonstrated by faithfulness to obey God’s will alone (Eph. 2:10).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:22 was completed. This refers to bringing something to its end, or to its fullness. Just as a fruit tree has not arrived at its goal until it bears fruit, faith has not reached its end until it demonstrates itself in a righteous life.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:23 the Scripture . . . says. Quoted from Gen. 15:6; see notes on Rom. 4:1–5. friend of God. Abraham is so called in 2 Chron. 20:7 and Isa. 41:8 because of his obedience (John 15:14–15).

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:24 justified by works and not by faith alone. See note on v. 21.

JAMES—NOTE ON 2:25 Rahab the prostitute. The OT records the content of her faith, which was the basis of her justification before God (see note on Josh. 2:11). She demonstrated the reality of her saving faith when, at great personal risk she protected the messengers of God (Josh. 2:4, 15; 6:17; cf. Heb. 11:31). James did not intend, however, for those words to be a commendation of her occupation or her lying. justified by works. See note on James 2:21.

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:1–12 In this passage, James used the common Jewish literary device of attributing blame to a specific bodily member (cf. Rom. 3:15; 2 Pet. 2:14). He personified the tongue as being representative of human depravity and wretchedness. In this way, he echoed the scriptural truth that the mouth is a focal point and vivid indicator of man's fallenness and sinful heart condition (cf. Isa. 6:5; Matt. 15:11, 16–19; Mark 7:20–23; Rom. 3:13–14).

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:1 teachers. This word refers to a person who functions in an official teaching or preaching capacity (cf. Luke 4:16–27; John 3:10; Acts 13:14–15; 1 Cor. 12:28; Eph. 4:11). judged with greater strictness. The word translated “judged” usually expresses a negative verdict in the NT, and here refers to a future judgment: 1) for the unbelieving false teacher, at the second coming (Jude 14–15); and 2) for the believer, when he is rewarded before Christ (1 Cor. 4:3–5). This is not meant to discourage true teachers, but to warn the prospective teacher of the role's seriousness (cf. Ezek. 3:17–18; 33:7–9; Acts 20:26–27; Heb. 13:17).

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:2 Scripture contains much about all the evil that the tongue can cause (cf. Ps. 5:9; 34:13; 39:1; 52:4; Prov. 6:17; 17:20; 26:28; 28:23; Isa. 59:3; Rom. 3:13). The tongue has immense power to speak sinfully, erroneously, and inappropriately—human speech is a graphic representation of human depravity (see notes on James 3:1–12). stumble. This refers to sinning, or offending God's Person. The form of the Greek verb emphasizes that everyone continually fails to do what is right. perfect man. “Perfect” may refer to true perfection, in which case James is saying that, hypothetically, if a human being were able to perfectly control his tongue, he would be a perfect man. But, of course, no one is actually immune from sinning with his tongue. More likely, “perfect” is describing those who are spiritually mature and thus able to control their tongues.

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:3–5 James provided several analogies that show how the tongue, even though small, has the power to control one’s whole person and influence everything in his life.

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:6 tongue is a fire. Like fire, the tongue’s sinful words can spread destruction rapidly, or as its accompanying smoke, those words can permeate and ruin everything around it. staining. This means “to pollute or contaminate” (cf. Mark 7:20; Jude 23). the entire course of life. Better translated “the circle of life,” this underscores that the tongue’s evil can extend beyond the individual to affect everything in his sphere of influence. hell. See note on Matt. 25:46. A translation of the Greek word gehenna (or Valley of Hinnom). In Christ’s time this valley that lay southwest of Jerusalem’s walls served as the city dump and was known for its constantly burning fire. Jesus used that place to symbolize the eternal place of punishment and torment (cf. Mark 9:43–45). To James “hell” conjures up not just the place but the satanic host that will someday inherit it—they use the tongue as a tool for evil.

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:8 no human being can tame the tongue. Only God, by his power, can do this (cf. Acts 2:1–11).

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:9 bless . . . curse. It was traditional for Jews to add “blessed be he” to a mention of God’s name (cf. Ps. 68:19, 35). However, the tongue also wishes evil on people made in God’s image. This points out the hypocritical inconsistency of the tongue’s activities. made in the likeness of God. Man was made in God’s image (see notes on Gen. 1:26).

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:11–12 Three illustrations from nature demonstrate the sinfulness of cursing. The genuine believer will not contradict his profession of faith by the regular use of unwholesome words.

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:13–18 In v. 13, James makes a transition from discussing teachers and the tongue to dealing with wisdom’s impact on everyone’s life. He supports the truth of OT wisdom literature (Job to Song of Solomon), that wisdom is divided into two realms—man’s and God’s.

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:13 wise and understanding. “Wise” is the common Greek word for speculative knowledge and philosophy, but the Hebrews infused it with the much richer meaning of skillfully applying knowledge to the matter of practical living. The word for “understanding” is used only here in the NT and means a specialist or professional who could skillfully apply his expertise to practical situations. James is asking who is truly skilled in the art of living. meekness. This is the opposite of arrogance and self-promotion (see note on Matt. 5:5; cf. James 1:21; Num. 12:3; Gal. 5:23). The Greeks described it as power under control. wisdom. The kind that comes only from God (see note on James 1:5; cf. Job 9:4; 28; Ps. 104:24; 111:10; Prov. 1:7; 2:1–7; 3:19–20; 9:10; Jer. 10:7, 12; Dan. 1:17; 2:20–23; Rom. 11:33; 1 Cor. 1:30; Eph. 3:10; Col. 2:3).

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:14 bitter jealousy. The Greek term for “bitter” was used of undrinkable water. When combined with “jealousy” it defines a harsh, resentful attitude toward others. selfish ambition. Sometimes translated “strife,” it refers to self-seeking that engenders antagonism and factionalism. The Greek word came to describe anyone who entered politics for selfish reasons and sought to achieve his agenda at any cost (i.e., even if that meant trampling on others).

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:15 from above. See notes on v. 13. Self-centered wisdom that is consumed with personal ambition is not from God. earthly, unspiritual, demonic. A description of man’s wisdom as: 1) limited to earth; 2) characterized by humanness, frailty, an unsanctified heart, and an unredeemed spirit; and 3) generated by Satan’s forces (cf. 1 Cor. 2:14; 2 Cor. 11:14–15).

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:16 disorder. This is the confusion that results from the instability and chaos of human wisdom (see notes on 1:6, 8; cf. 3:8). every vile practice. Lit., “every worthless work.” This denotes things that are not so much intrinsically evil as they are simply good for nothing.

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:17 wisdom from above. See note on v. 13. pure. This refers to spiritual integrity and moral sincerity. Every genuine Christian has this kind of heart motivation (cf. Ps. 24:3–4; 51:7; Matt. 5:8; Rom. 7:22–23; Heb. 12:14). peaceable. Means “peace loving” or “peace promoting” (cf. Matt. 5:9). gentle. This word is difficult to translate, but most nearly means a character trait of sweet reasonableness. Such a person will submit to all kinds of mistreatment and difficulty with an attitude of kind, courteous, patient humility, without any thought of hatred or revenge (cf. Matt. 5:10–11). open to reason. The original term described someone who was teachable, compliant, easily persuaded, and who willingly submitted to military discipline or moral and legal standards. For believers, it defines obedience to God’s standards (cf. Matt. 5:3–5). full of mercy. The gift of showing concern for those who suffer pain and hardship, and the ability to forgive quickly (cf. Matt. 5:7; Rom. 12:8). impartial. The Greek word occurs only here in the NT and denotes a consistent, unwavering person who is undivided in his commitment and conviction and does not make unfair distinctions (see notes on James 2:1–13).

JAMES—NOTE ON 3:18 harvest of righteousness. Good works that result from salvation (cf. v. 17; Matt. 5:6; see notes on James 2:14–20; Gal. 5:22–23; Phil. 1:11). those who make peace. See note on James 3:17. Righteousness flourishes in a climate of spiritual peace.

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:1 quarrels and . . . fights among you. These are between people in the church, not internal conflict in individual people. “Quarrels” speaks of the conflict in general; “fights” of its specific manifestations. Discord in the church is not by God’s design (John 13:34–35; 17:21; 2 Cor. 12:20; Phil. 1:27), but results from the mix of tares (false believers) and wheat (truly redeemed people) that make up the church. passions. The Greek word (from which the English word “hedonism” derives) always has a negative connotation in the NT. The passionate desires for worldly pleasures that mark unbelievers (James 1:14; Eph. 2:3; 2 Tim. 3:4; Jude 18) are the internal source of the external conflict in the church. Cf. James 1:14–15. within you. Lit., “in your members” (see esv footnote). Not church members, but bodily members (see note on Rom. 6:13). James, like Paul, uses “members” to speak of sinful, fallen human nature (cf. Rom. 6:19; 7:5, 23). Unbelievers (who are in view here) fight (unsuccessfully) against the evil desires they cannot control.

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:2 murder. The ultimate result of thwarted desires. James had in mind actual murder, and the gamut of sins (hate, anger, bitterness) leading up to it. The picture is of unbelievers so driven by their uncontrollable evil desires that they will fight to the death to fulfill them. you do not ask. True joy, peace, happiness, meaning, hope, and fulfillment in life come only from God. Unbelievers, however, are unwilling to ask for them on his terms—they refuse to submit to God or acknowledge their dependence on him.

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:3 ask wrongly. This refers to acting in an evil manner, motivated by personal gratification and selfish desire. Unbelievers seek things for their own pleasures, not the honor and glory of God.

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:4 adulterous people. A metaphorical description of spiritual unfaithfulness (cf. Matt. 12:39; 16:4; Mark 8:38). It would have been especially familiar to James’ Jewish readers, since the OT often describes unfaithful Israel as a spiritual harlot (cf. 2 Chron. 21:11, 13; Jer. 2:20; 3:1, 6, 8–9; Ezek. 16:26–29; Hos. 1:2; 4:15; 9:1). James has in view professing Christians, outwardly associated with the church, but holding a deep affection for the evil world system. friendship. Appearing only here in the NT, the Greek word describes love in the sense of a strong emotional attachment. Those with a deep and intimate longing for the things of the world give evidence that they are not redeemed (1 John 2:15–17). world. See note on James 1:27. enmity with God. The necessary corollary to friendship with the world. The sobering truth that unbelievers are God’s enemies is taught throughout Scripture (cf. Deut. 32:41–43; Ps. 21:8; 68:21; 72:9; 110:1–2; Isa. 42:13; Nah. 1:2, 8; Luke 19:27; Rom. 5:10; 8:5–7; 1 Cor. 15:25).

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:5 Scripture says. The quote that follows is not found as such in the OT; it is a composite of general OT teaching. jealously over the spirit. This difficult phrase is best understood by seeing the “spirit” as a reference not to the Holy Spirit, but to the human spirit, and translating the phrase “jealously desires” in the negative sense of “lusts to envy.” James’ point is that an unbelieving person’s spirit (inner person) is bent on evil (cf. Gen. 6:5; 8:21; Prov. 21:10; Eccles. 9:3; Jer. 17:9; Mark 7:21–23). Those who think otherwise defy the biblical diagnosis of fallen human nature; and those who live in worldly lusts give evidence that their faith is not genuine (cf. Rom. 8:5–11; 1 Cor. 2:14).

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:6 more grace. The only ray of hope in man’s spiritual darkness is the sovereign grace of God, which alone can rescue man from his propensity to lust for evil things. That God gives “more grace” shows that his grace is greater than the power of sin, the flesh, the world, and Satan (cf. Rom. 5:20). The OT quote (from Prov. 3:34; cf. 1 Pet. 5:5) reveals who obtains God’s grace—the humble, not the proud enemies of God. The word “humble” does not define a special class of Christians, but encompasses all believers (cf. Isa. 57:15; 66:2; Matt. 18:3–4).

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:7–10 In a series of 10 commands (10 imperative verbs in the Greek text), James reveals how to receive saving grace. These verses delineate man’s response to God’s gracious offer of salvation, and disclose what it means to be humble.

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:7 Submit. Lit., “to line up under.” The word was used of soldiers under the authority of their commander. In the NT, it describes Jesus’ submission to his parents’ authority (Luke 2:51), submission to human government (Rom. 13:1), the church's submission to Christ (Eph. 5:24), and servants' submission to their masters (Titus 2:9; 1 Pet. 2:18). James used the word to describe a willing, conscious submission to God's authority as sovereign ruler of the universe. A truly humble person will give his allegiance to God, obey his commands, and follow his leadership (cf. Matt. 10:38). Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. The flip side of the first command. "Resist" literally means "take your stand against." All people are either under the lordship of Christ or the lordship of Satan (John 8:44; Eph. 2:2; 1 John 3:8; 5:19); there is no middle ground. Those who transfer their allegiance from Satan to God will find that Satan "will flee from" them; he is a defeated foe.

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:8 Draw near. Pursue an intimate love relationship with God (cf. Phil. 3:10). The concept of drawing near to God was associated originally with the Levitical priests (Ex. 19:22; Lev. 10:3; Ezek. 44:13), but eventually came to describe anyone's approach to God (Ps. 73:28; Isa. 29:13; Heb. 4:16; 7:19; 10:22). Salvation involves more than submitting to God and resisting the devil; the redeemed heart longs for communion with God (Ps. 27:8; 42:1–2; 63:1–2; 84:2; 143:6; Matt. 22:37). Cleanse your hands. The OT priests had to ceremonially wash their hands before approaching God (Ex. 30:19–21), and sinners (a term used only for unbelievers; see note on James 5:20) who would approach him must recognize and confess their sin. purify your hearts. Cleansing the hands symbolizes external behavior; this phrase refers to the inner thoughts, motives, and desires of the heart (Ps. 24:3–4; Jer. 4:4; Ezek. 18:31; 36:25–26; 1 Tim. 1:5; 2 Tim. 2:22; 1 Pet. 1:22). double-minded. See note on James 1:8.

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:9 Be wretched. Be afflicted and miserable. This is the state of those truly broken over their sin. mourn. See note on Matt. 5:4. God will not turn away a heart broken and contrite over sin (Ps. 51:17; 2 Cor. 7:10). Mourning is the inner response to such brokenness. weep. The outward manifestation of inner sorrow over sin (cf. Mark 14:72). laughter. Used only here in the NT, the word signifies the flippant laughter of those foolishly indulging in worldly pleasures. The picture is of people who give no thought to God, life, death, sin, judgment, or holiness. James calls on such people to mourn over their sin (cf. Luke 18:13–14).

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:10 See Ps. 75:6; Matt. 23:12. This final command sums up the preceding nine (see notes on James 4:7–10) commands, which mark the truly humble person. "Humble" comes from a word meaning "to make oneself low."

Those conscious of being in the presence of the majestic, infinitely holy God are humble (cf. Isa. 6:5).

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:11 Do not speak evil against. This means to slander or defame. James does not forbid confronting those in sin, which is elsewhere commanded in Scripture (Matt. 18:15–17; Acts 20:31; 1 Cor. 4:14; Col. 1:28; Titus 1:13; 2:15; 3:10). Rather, he condemns careless, derogatory, critical, slanderous accusations against others (cf. Ex. 23:1; Ps. 50:20; 101:5; 140:11; Prov. 10:18; 11:9; 16:28; 17:9; 26:20; Rom. 1:29; 2 Cor. 12:20; Eph. 4:31; 1 Tim. 3:11; 2 Tim. 3:3; Titus 2:3; 3:2). speaks against a brother . . . speaks evil against the law. Those who speak evil of other believers set themselves up as judges and condemn them (cf. James 2:4). They thereby defame and disregard God's law, which expressly forbids such slanderous condemnation. judges the law. By refusing to submit to the law, slanderers place themselves above it as its judges.

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:12 one lawgiver. God, who gave the law (cf. Isa. 33:22). He alone has the authority to save those who repent from its penalty, and destroy those who refuse to repent.

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:13 James does not condemn wise business planning, but rather planning that leaves out God. The people so depicted are practical atheists, living their lives and making their plans as if God did not exist. Such conduct is inconsistent with genuine saving faith, which submits to God (see note on James 4:7).

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:14 not know what tomorrow will bring. See Prov. 27:1. James exposes the presumptuous folly of the practical atheists he condemned in James 4:13—those who do not know what the future holds for them (cf. Luke 12:16–21). God alone knows the future (cf. Isa. 46:9–10). mist. This refers either to a puff of smoke or one's breath that appears for a moment in cold air. It stresses the transitory nature of life (cf. James 1:10; Job 7:6–7; 9:25–26; 14:1–2; Ps. 39:5, 11; 62:9; 89:47; 90:5–6, 10).

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:15 If the Lord wills. The true Christian submits his plans to the lordship of Christ (see note on v. 7; cf. Prov. 19:21; Acts 18:21; 21:14; Rom. 1:10; 15:32; 1 Cor. 4:19; 16:7).

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:16 boasting. Arrogant bragging about their anticipated business accomplishments (see note on v. 13).

JAMES—NOTE ON 4:17 sin. The implication is that they also did what they shouldn't do. Sins of omission lead directly to sins of commission.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:1 rich. Those with more than they need to live. James condemns them not for being wealthy, but for misusing their resources. Unlike the believing rich in Timothy's congregation (1 Tim. 6:17–19), these are the wicked wealthy who profess Christian faith and have associated themselves with the church, but whose real god is money. For prostituting the goodness and generosity of God, they can anticipate only divine punishment (James 5:5).

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:2–3 rotted . . . moth-eaten . . . corroded. James points out the folly of hoarding food, expensive clothing, or money—all of which is subject to decay, theft, fire, or other forms of loss.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:3 last days. The period between Christ's first and second comings (see note on 1 Tim. 4:1). James rebukes the rich for living as if Jesus were never coming back.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:4 wages . . . you kept back by fraud. The rich had gained some of their wealth by oppressing and defrauding their day laborers—a practice strictly forbidden in the OT (cf. Lev. 19:13; Deut. 24:14–15). the Lord of hosts. The One who hears the cries of the defrauded laborers, James warns, is the Lord of hosts (a name for God used frequently in the OT), the commander of the armies of heaven (angels). The Bible teaches that angels will be involved in the judgment of unbelievers (Matt. 13:39–41, 49; 16:27; 25:31; 2 Thess. 1:7–8).

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:5 lived . . . in luxury . . . self-indulgence. Living luxuriously leads to vice when a person becomes consumed with the pursuit of pleasure, since a life without self-denial soon becomes out of control in every area. After robbing their workers to accumulate their wealth, the rich indulged themselves in an extravagant lifestyle. a day of slaughter. Like fattened cattle ready to be slaughtered, the rich that James condemns had indulged themselves to the limit. This is a vivid depiction of divine judgment, in keeping with the metaphor likening the overindulgent rich to fattened cattle.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:6 condemned . . . murdered. This describes the next step in the sinful progression of the rich. Hoarding led to fraud, which led to self-indulgence. Finally, that overindulgence has consumed the rich to the point that they will do anything to sustain their lifestyle. “Condemned” comes from a word meaning “to sentence.” The implication is that the rich were using the courts to commit judicial murder (cf. 2:6).

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:7 patient. The word emphasizes patience with people (cf. 1 Thess. 5:14), not trials or circumstances (as in James 1:3). Specifically, James has in mind patience with the oppressive rich. the coming. The second coming of Christ (see note on Matt. 24:3). Realizing the glory that awaits them at Christ’s return should motivate believers to patiently endure mistreatment (Rom. 8:18). the early and the late rains. The “early” rain falls in Israel during October and November and softens the ground for planting. The “late” rain falls in March and April, immediately before the spring harvest. Just as the farmer waits patiently from the early rain to the latter for his crop to ripen, so must Christians patiently wait for the Lord’s return (cf. Gal. 6:9; 2 Tim. 4:8; Titus 2:13).

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:8 Establish your hearts. A call for resolute, firm courage and commitment. James exhorts those about to collapse under the weight of persecution to shore up their hearts with the hope of the second coming. at hand. The imminency of Christ’s return is a frequent theme in the NT (cf. Rom. 13:12; Heb. 10:25; 1 Pet. 4:7; 1 John 2:18).

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:9 Do not grumble . . . the Judge is standing at the door. James pictured Christ as a judge about to open the doors to the courtroom and convene his court. Knowing that the strain of persecution could lead to grumbling, James cautioned his readers against that sin (Phil. 2:14), lest they forfeit their full reward (2 John 8).

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:11 the steadfastness of Job. Job is the classic example of a man who patiently endured suffering and was blessed by God for his persevering faith. James reassured his readers that God had a purpose for their suffering, just as he did for Job’s. Cf. Job 42. compassionate and merciful. Remembering the Lord’s character is a great comfort in suffering. The Scriptures repeatedly affirm his compassion and mercy (Ex. 34:6; Num. 14:18; 1 Chron. 21:13; 2 Chron. 30:9; Ps. 25:6; 78:38; 86:5, 15; 103:8, 13; 116:5; 136:1; 145:8; Lam. 3:22; Joel 2:13; Jonah 4:2; Mic. 7:18; Luke 6:36).

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:12 above all. Or “especially.” As he has done repeatedly in his epistle, James stressed that a person’s speech provides the most revealing glimpse of his spiritual condition (cf. 1:26; 2:12; 3:2–11; 4:11). do not swear . . . any other oath. As Jesus did before him (Matt. 5:33–36; 23:16–22), James condemned the contemporary Jewish practice of swearing false, evasive, deceptive oaths by everything other than the name of the Lord (which alone was considered binding). “yes” be yes. Again echoing Jesus (Matt. 5:37), James called for straightforward, honest, plain speech. To speak otherwise is to invite God’s judgment.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:13 suffering. The antidote to the suffering caused by evil treatment or persecution is seeking God’s comfort through prayer (cf. Ps. 27:13–14; 55:22; Jonah 2:7; Phil. 4:6; 1 Pet. 5:7). Let him sing praise. The natural response of a joyful heart is to sing praise to God.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:14–15 sick. James directs those who are “sick,” meaning weakened by their suffering, to call for the elders of the church for strength, support, and prayer.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:14 anointing him with oil. Lit., “rubbing him with oil”: 1) possibly this is a reference to ceremonial anointing (see notes on Lev. 14:18; Mark 6:13); 2) on the other hand, James may have had in mind medical treatment of believers physically bruised and battered by persecution. Perhaps it is better to understand the anointing in a metaphorical sense of the elders encouraging, comforting, and strengthening the believer.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:15 prayer of faith. The prayer offered on their behalf by the elders. save the . . . sick. Deliver them from their suffering because they have been weakened by their infirmity, not from their sin, which was confessed. committed sins . . . be forgiven. Not by the elders, since God alone can forgive sins (Isa. 43:25; Dan. 9:9; Mark 2:7). That those who are suffering called for the elders implies they had a contrite, repentant heart, and that part of their time with the overseers would involve confessing their sins to God.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:16 confess your sins. Mutual honesty, openness, and sharing of needs will enable believers to uphold each other in the spiritual struggle. prayer . . . has great power as it is working. The energetic, passionate prayers of godly people have the power to accomplish much. Cf. Num. 11:2.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:17–18 Elijah . . . prayed . . . he prayed again. Elijah provides one of the most notable illustrations of the power of prayer in the OT.

His prayers (not mentioned in the OT account) both initiated and ended a three-year, six-month drought (cf. Luke 4:25).

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:19 if anyone among you. This introduces a third category of people in the church (cf. vv. 13–14)—those professing believers who have strayed from the truth. wanders from the truth. Apostatizes from the faith they once professed (cf. Heb. 5:12–6:9; 10:29; 1 John 2:19). Such people are in grave danger (James 5:20), and the church must call them back to the true faith.

JAMES—NOTE ON 5:20 sinner. Cf. 4:8. A word used to describe the unregenerate (cf. Prov. 11:31; 13:6, 22; Matt. 9:13; Luke 7:37, 39; 15:7, 10; 18:13; Rom. 5:8; 1 Tim. 1:9, 15; 1 Pet. 4:18). James has in mind here those with dead faith (cf. James 2:14–26), not sinning, true believers. wandering. Those who go astray doctrinally (James 5:19) will also manifest an errant lifestyle, one not lived according to biblical principles. save his soul from death. A person who wanders from the truth puts his soul in jeopardy. The “death” in view is not physical death, but eternal death—eternal separation from God and eternal punishment in hell (cf. Isa. 66:24; Dan. 12:2; Matt. 13:40, 42, 50; 25:41, 46; Mark 9:43–49; 2 Thess. 1:8–9; Rom. 6:23; Rev. 20:11–15; 21:8). Knowing how high the stakes are should motivate Christians to aggressively pursue such people. cover a multitude of sins. See Ps. 5:10. Since even one sin is enough to condemn a person to hell, James’ use of the word “multitude” emphasizes the hopeless condition of lost, unregenerate sinners. The good news of the gospel is that God’s forgiving grace (which is greater than any sin; Rom. 5:20) is available to those who turn from their sins and exercise faith in the Lord Jesus Christ (Eph. 2:8–9).

Introduction to 1 Peter

Title

The letter has always been identified (as are most general epistles, like James, John, and Jude) with the name of the author, Peter, and with the notation that it was his first inspired letter.

Author and Date

The opening verse of the epistle claims it was written by Peter, who was clearly the leader among Christ's apostles. The Gospel writers emphasize this fact by placing his name at the head of each list of apostles (Matt. 10; Mark 3; Luke 6; Acts 1), and including more information about him in the four Gospels than any person other than Christ. Originally known as Simon (Greek) or Simeon (Hebrew), cf. Mark 1:16; John 1:40–41, Peter was the son of Jonas (Matt. 16:17) who was also known as John (John 1:42), and a member of a family of fishermen who lived in Bethsaida and later in Capernaum. Andrew, Peter's brother, brought him to Christ (John 1:40–42). He was married, and his wife apparently accompanied him in his ministry (Mark 1:29–31; 1 Cor. 9:5).

Peter was called to follow Christ in his early ministry (Mark 1:16–17), and was later appointed to apostleship (Matt. 10:2; Mark 3:14–16). Christ renamed him Peter (Greek), or Cephas (Aramaic), both words meaning “stone” or “rock” (John 1:42). The Lord clearly singled out Peter for special lessons throughout the Gospels (e.g., Matt. 10; 16:13–21; 17:1–9; 24:1–7; 26:31–33; John 6:6; 21:3–7, 15–17). He was the spokesman for the Twelve, articulating their thoughts and questions as well as his own. His triumphs and weaknesses are chronicled in the Gospels and Acts 1–12.

After the resurrection and ascension, Peter initiated the plan for choosing a replacement for Judas (Acts 1:15). After the coming of the Holy Spirit (Acts 2:1–4), he was empowered to become the leading gospel preacher from the day of Pentecost on (Acts 2–12). He also performed notable miracles in the early days of the church (Acts 3–9), and opened the door of the gospel to the Samaritans (Acts 8) and to the Gentiles (Acts 10). According to tradition, Peter had to watch as his wife was crucified, but encouraged her with the words, “Remember the Lord.” When it came time for him to be crucified, he reportedly pled that he was not worthy to be crucified like his Lord, but rather should be crucified upside down (c. A.D. 67–68), which tradition says he was.

Because of his unique prominence, there was no shortage in the early church of documents falsely claiming to be written by Peter. That the apostle Peter is the author of 1 Peter, however, is certain. The material in this letter bears definite resemblance to his messages in the book of Acts. The letter teaches, for example, that Christ is the stone rejected by the builder (2:7–8; Acts 4:10–11), and that Christ is no respecter of persons (1 Pet. 1:17; Acts 10:34). Peter teaches his readers to “clothe yourselves . . . with humility” (1 Pet. 5:5), an echo of the Lord’s girding himself with a towel and washing the disciples’ feet (John 13:3–5). There are other statements in the letter similar to Christ’s sayings (1 Pet. 4:14; 5:7–8). Moreover, the author claims to have been a witness of the sufferings of Christ (5:1; cf. 3:18; 4:1). In addition to these internal evidences, it is noteworthy that the early Christians universally recognized this letter as the work of Peter.

The only significant doubt to be raised about Peter’s authorship arises from the rather classical style of Greek employed in the letter. Some have argued that Peter, being an “uneducated” fisherman (Acts 4:13), could not have written in sophisticated Greek, especially in light of the less classical style of Greek employed in the writing of 2 Peter. However, this argument is not without a good answer. In the first place, that Peter was “uneducated” does not mean that he was illiterate, but only that he was without formal, rabbinical training in the Scriptures. Moreover, though Aramaic may have been Peter’s primary language, Greek would have been a widely spoken second language in Palestine. It is also apparent that at least some of the authors of the NT, though not highly educated, could read the Greek of the OT Septuagint (see James’ use of the lxx in Acts 15:14–18).

Beyond these evidences of Peter’s ability in Greek, Peter also explained (1 Pet. 5:12) that he wrote this letter “by Silvanus,” also known as Silas. Silvanus was likely the messenger designated to take this letter to its intended readers. But more is implied by this statement in that Peter is acknowledging that Silvanus served as his secretary, or amanuensis. Dictation was common in the ancient Roman world (cf. Paul and Tertius; Rom. 16:22), and secretaries often could aid with syntax and grammar. So, Peter, under the superintendence of the Spirit of God, dictated the letter to Silvanus, while Silvanus, who also was a prophet (Acts 15:32), may have aided in some of the composition of the more classical Greek.

First Peter was most likely written just before or shortly after July, A.D. 64 when the city of Rome burned, thus a writing date of c. A.D. 64–65.

Background and Setting

When the city of Rome burned, the Romans believed that their emperor, Nero, had set the city on fire, probably because of his incredible lust to build. In order to build more, he had to destroy what already existed.

The Romans were totally devastated. Their culture, in a sense, went down with the city. All the religious elements of their life were destroyed—their great temples, shrines, and even their household idols were burned up. This had great religious implications because it made them believe that their deities had been unable to deal with this conflagration and were also victims of it. The people were homeless and hopeless. Many had been killed. Their bitter resentment was severe, so Nero realized that he had to redirect the hostility.

The emperor's chosen scapegoat was the Christians, who were already hated because they were associated with Jews, and because they were seen as being hostile to the Roman culture. Nero spread the word quickly that the Christians had set the fires. As a result, a vicious persecution against Christians began, and soon spread throughout the Roman Empire, touching places north of the Taurus mountains, like Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia (1:1), and impacting the Christians, whom Peter calls “exiles.” These “exiles,” who were probably Gentiles for the most part (1:14, 18; 2:9–10; 4:3), possibly led to Christ by Paul and his associates, and established on Paul's teachings, needed spiritual strengthening because of their sufferings. Thus the apostle Peter, under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, wrote this epistle to strengthen them.

Peter wrote that he was in “Babylon” when he penned the letter (5:13). Three locations have been suggested for this “Babylon.” First, a Roman outpost in northern Egypt was named Babylon; but that place was too obscure, and there are no reasons to think that Peter was ever there. Second, ancient Babylon in Mesopotamia is a possibility; but it would be quite unlikely that Peter, Mark, and Silvanus were all at this rather small, distant place at the same time. Third, “Babylon” is an alias for Rome; perhaps even a code word for Rome. In times of persecution, writers exercised unusual care not to endanger Christians by identifying them. Peter, according to some traditions, followed James and Paul and died as a martyr near Rome about two years after he wrote this letter, thus he had written this epistle near the end of his life, probably while staying in the imperial city. He did not want the letter to be found and the church to be persecuted, so he may have hidden its location under the code word “Babylon,” which aptly fit because of the city’s idolatry (cf. Rev. 17–18).

Historical and Theological Themes

Since the believers addressed were suffering escalating persecution (1:6; 2:12, 19–21; 3:9, 13–18; 4:1, 12–16, 19), the purpose of this letter was to teach them how to live victoriously in the midst of that hostility: 1) without losing hope; 2) without becoming bitter; 3) while trusting in their Lord; and 4) while looking for his second coming. Peter wished to impress on his readers that by living an obedient, victorious life under duress, a Christian can actually evangelize his hostile world (cf. 1:14; 2:1, 12, 15; 3:1–6, 13–17; 4:2; 5:8–9).

Believers are constantly exposed to a world system energized by Satan and his demons. Their effort is to discredit the church and to destroy its credibility and integrity. One way these spirits work is by finding Christians whose lives are not consistent with the word of God, and then parading them before unbelievers to show what a sham the church is. Christians, however, must stand against the enemy and silence the critics by the power of holy lives.

In this epistle, Peter is rather effusive in reciting two categories of truth. The first category is positive and includes a long list of blessings bestowed on Christians. As he speaks about the identity of Christians and what it means to know Christ, Peter mentions one privilege and blessing after another. Interwoven into this list of privileges is the catalog of suffering. Christians, though most greatly privileged, should also know that the world will treat them unjustly. Their citizenship is in heaven and they are strangers in a hostile, Satan-energized world. Thus the Christian life can be summed up as a call to victory and glory through the path of suffering. So, the basic question that Peter answers in this epistle is: How are Christians to deal with animosity? The answer features practical truths and focuses on Jesus Christ as the model of one who maintained a triumphant attitude in the midst of hostility.

First Peter also answers other important practical questions about Christian living such as: Do Christians need a priesthood to intercede with God for them (2:5–9)? What should be the Christian’s attitude to secular government and civil disobedience (2:13–17)? What should a Christian employee’s attitude be toward a hostile employer (2:18)? How should a Christian lady conduct herself (3:3–4)? How can a believing wife win her unsaved husband to Christ (3:1–2)?

Interpretive Challenges

First Peter 3:18–22 stands as one of the most difficult NT texts to translate and then interpret. For example, does “spirit” in 3:18 refer to the Holy Spirit, or to Christ’s Spirit? Did Christ preach through Noah before the flood, or did he preach himself after the crucifixion (3:19)? Was the audience to this preaching composed of the humans in Noah’s day, or demons in the abyss (3:19)? Does 3:20–21 teach baptismal regeneration (salvation), or salvation by faith alone in Christ? Answers to these questions will be found in the notes.

THE FIRST LETTER OF PETER

1 Peter

Greeting

1 PETER 1 †Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, To those who are elect exiles of the dispersion in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia, 2 †according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, in the sanctification of the Spirit, for obedience to Jesus Christ and for sprinkling with his blood: May grace and peace be multiplied to you.

Born Again to a Living Hope

3 †Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! According to his great mercy, he has caused us to be born again to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, 4 †to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you, 5 †who by God's power are being guarded through faith for a salvation ready to be revealed in the last time. 6 †In this you rejoice, though now for a little while, if necessary, you have been grieved by various trials, 7 †so that the tested genuineness of your faith—more precious than gold that perishes though it is tested by fire—may be found to result in praise and glory and honor at the revelation of Jesus Christ. 8 †Though you have not seen him, you love him. Though you do not now see him, you believe in him and rejoice with joy that is inexpressible and filled with glory, 9 †obtaining the outcome of your faith, the salvation of your souls.

10 †Concerning this salvation, the prophets who prophesied about the grace that was to be yours searched and inquired carefully, 11 †inquiring what person or time the Spirit of Christ in them was indicating when he predicted the sufferings of Christ and the subsequent glories. 12 †It was revealed to them that they were serving not themselves but you, in the things that have now been announced to you through those who preached the good news to you by the Holy Spirit sent from heaven, things into which angels long to look.

Called to Be Holy

<sup>13</sup>†Therefore, preparing your minds for action, [\[1\]](#) and being sober-minded, set your hope fully on the grace that will be brought to you at the revelation of Jesus Christ. <sup>14</sup>As obedient children, do not be conformed to the passions of your former ignorance, <sup>15</sup>†but as he who called you is holy, you also be holy in all your conduct, <sup>16</sup>since it is written, “You shall be holy, for I am holy.” <sup>17</sup>†And if you call on him as Father who judges impartially according to each one's deeds, conduct yourselves with fear throughout the time of your exile, <sup>18</sup>†knowing that you were ransomed from the futile ways inherited from your forefathers, not with perishable things such as silver or gold, <sup>19</sup>but with the precious blood of Christ, like that of a lamb without blemish or spot. <sup>20</sup>†He was foreknown before the foundation of the world but was made manifest in the last times for the sake of you <sup>21</sup>†who through him are believers in God, who raised him from the dead and gave him glory, so that your faith and hope are in God.

<sup>22</sup>†Having purified your souls by your obedience to the truth for a sincere brotherly love, love one another earnestly from a pure heart, <sup>23</sup>†since you have been born again, not of perishable seed but of imperishable, through the living and abiding word of God; <sup>24</sup>†for “All flesh is like grass and all its glory like the flower of grass.

The grass withers, and the flower falls, <sup>25</sup>but the word of the Lord remains forever.”

And this word is the good news that was preached to you.

A Living Stone and a Holy People

1 PETER 2 † So put away all malice and all deceit and hypocrisy and envy and all slander. † Like newborn infants, long for the pure spiritual milk, that by it you may grow up into salvation— † if indeed you have tasted that the Lord is good.

† As you come to him, a living stone rejected by men but in the sight of God chosen and precious, † you yourselves like living stones are being built up as a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. † † † For it stands in Scripture: “Behold, I am laying in Zion a stone, a cornerstone chosen and precious, and whoever believes in him will not be put to shame.”

† So the honor is for you who believe, but for those who do not believe, “The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone,” [\[1\]](#)

† and “A stone of stumbling, and a rock of offense.”

They stumble because they disobey the word, as they were destined to do.

† But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for his own possession, that you may proclaim the excellencies of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light. † Once you were not a people, but now you are God's people; once you had not received mercy, but now you have received mercy.

† Beloved, I urge you as sojourners and exiles to abstain from the passions of the flesh, which wage war against your soul. † Keep your conduct among the Gentiles honorable, so that when they speak against you as evildoers, they may see your good deeds and glorify God on the day of visitation.

Submission to Authority

† Be subject for the Lord's sake to every human institution, [\[2\]](#) whether it be to the emperor [\[3\]](#) as supreme, † or to governors as sent by him to punish those who do evil and to praise those who do good. † For this is the will of God, that by doing good you should put to silence the ignorance of foolish people. † Live as people who are free, not using your freedom as a cover-up for evil, but living as servants [\[4\]](#) of God. † Honor everyone. Love the brotherhood. Fear God.

Honor the emperor.

<sup>18</sup>† Servants, be subject to your masters with all respect, not only to the good and gentle but also to the unjust. <sup>19</sup>† For this is a gracious thing, when, mindful of God, one endures sorrows while suffering unjustly. <sup>20</sup> For what credit is it if, when you sin and are beaten for it, you endure? But if when you do good and suffer for it you endure, this is a gracious thing in the sight of God. <sup>21</sup>† For to this you have been called, because Christ also suffered for you, leaving you an example, so that you might follow in his steps. <sup>22</sup>† He committed no sin, neither was deceit found in his mouth. <sup>23</sup>† When he was reviled, he did not revile in return; when he suffered, he did not threaten, but continued entrusting himself to him who judges justly. <sup>24</sup>† He himself bore our sins in his body on the tree, that we might die to sin and live to righteousness. By his wounds you have been healed. <sup>25</sup>† For you were straying like sheep, but have now returned to the Shepherd and Overseer of your souls.

Wives and Husbands

1 PETER 3 † Likewise, wives, be subject to your own husbands, so that even if some do not obey the word, they may be won without a word by the conduct of their wives, † when they see your respectful and pure conduct. † Do not let your adorning be external—the braiding of hair and the putting on of gold jewelry, or the clothing you wear— † but let your adorning be the hidden person of the heart with the imperishable beauty of a gentle and quiet spirit, which in God's sight is very precious. † For this is how the holy women who hoped in God used to adorn themselves, by submitting to their own husbands, † as Sarah obeyed Abraham, calling him lord. And you are her children, if you do good and do not fear anything that is frightening.

† Likewise, husbands, live with your wives in an understanding way, showing honor to the woman as the weaker vessel, since they are heirs with you [\[1\]](#) of the grace of life, so that your prayers may not be hindered.

Suffering for Righteousness' Sake

† Finally, all of you, have unity of mind, sympathy, brotherly love, a tender heart, and a humble mind. † Do not repay evil for evil or reviling for reviling, but on the contrary, bless, for to this you were called, that you may obtain a blessing. † For “Whoever desires to love life and see good days, let him keep his tongue from evil and his lips from speaking deceit; † let him turn away from evil and do good; let him seek peace and pursue it.

‡ For the eyes of the Lord are on the righteous, and his ears are open to their prayer.

But the face of the Lord is against those who do evil.”

† Now who is there to harm you if you are zealous for what is good? † But even if you should suffer for righteousness' sake, you will be blessed. Have no fear of them, nor be troubled, † but in your hearts honor Christ the Lord as holy, always being prepared to make a defense to anyone who asks you for a reason for the hope that is in you; yet do it with gentleness and respect, † having a good conscience, so that, when you are slandered, those who revile your good behavior in Christ may be put to shame. † For it is better to suffer for doing good, if that should be God's will, than for doing evil.

<sup>18</sup>†For Christ also suffered [2] once for sins, the righteous for the unrighteous, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh but made alive in the spirit, <sup>19</sup>†in which [3] he went and proclaimed [4] to the spirits in prison, <sup>20</sup>†because [5] they formerly did not obey, when God's patience waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was being prepared, in which a few, that is, eight persons, were brought safely through water. <sup>21</sup>†Baptism, which corresponds to this, now saves you, not as a removal of dirt from the body but as an appeal to God for a good conscience, through the resurrection of Jesus Christ, <sup>22</sup>†who has gone into heaven and is at the right hand of God, with angels, authorities, and powers having been subjected to him.

Stewards of God's Grace

1 PETER 4 † Since therefore Christ suffered in the flesh, [\[1\]](#) arm yourselves with the same way of thinking, for whoever has suffered in the flesh has ceased from sin, † so as to live for the rest of the time in the flesh no longer for human passions but for the will of God. † For the time that is past suffices for doing what the Gentiles want to do, living in sensuality, passions, drunkenness, orgies, drinking parties, and lawless idolatry. † With respect to this they are surprised when you do not join them in the same flood of debauchery, and they malign you; † but they will give account to him who is ready to judge the living and the dead. † For this is why the gospel was preached even to those who are dead, that though judged in the flesh the way people are, they might live in the spirit the way God does.

† The end of all things is at hand; therefore be self-controlled and sober-minded for the sake of your prayers. † Above all, keep loving one another earnestly, since love covers a multitude of sins. † Show hospitality to one another without grumbling. † As each has received a gift, use it to serve one another, as good stewards of God's varied grace: † whoever speaks, as one who speaks oracles of God; whoever serves, as one who serves by the strength that God supplies—in order that in everything God may be glorified through Jesus Christ. To him belong glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen.

Suffering as a Christian

† Beloved, do not be surprised at the fiery trial when it comes upon you to test you, as though something strange were happening to you. † But rejoice insofar as you share Christ's sufferings, that you may also rejoice and be glad when his glory is revealed. † If you are insulted for the name of Christ, you are blessed, because the Spirit of glory [\[2\]](#) and of God rests upon you. † But let none of you suffer as a murderer or a thief or an evildoer or as a meddler. † Yet if anyone suffers as a Christian, let him not be ashamed, but let him glorify God in that name. † For it is time for judgment to begin at the household of God; and if it begins with us, what will be the outcome for those who do not obey the gospel of God? † And “If the righteous is scarcely saved, what will become of the ungodly and the sinner?” [\[3\]](#)

† Therefore let those who suffer according to God's will entrust their souls to a faithful Creator while doing good.

Shepherd the Flock of God

1 PETER 5 † So I exhort the elders among you, as a fellow elder and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, as well as a partaker in the glory that is going to be revealed: <sup>2</sup>† shepherd the flock of God that is among you, exercising oversight, [1] not under compulsion, but willingly, as God would have you; [2] not for shameful gain, but eagerly; <sup>3</sup>† not domineering over those in your charge, but being examples to the flock. <sup>4</sup>† And when the chief Shepherd appears, you will receive the unfading crown of glory. <sup>5</sup>† Likewise, you who are younger, be subject to the elders. Clothe yourselves, all of you, with humility toward one another, for “God opposes the proud but gives grace to the humble.”

<sup>6</sup>† Humble yourselves, therefore, under the mighty hand of God so that at the proper time he may exalt you, <sup>7</sup>† casting all your anxieties on him, because he cares for you. <sup>8</sup>† Be sober-minded; be watchful. Your adversary the devil prowls around like a roaring lion, seeking someone to devour. <sup>9</sup>† Resist him, firm in your faith, knowing that the same kinds of suffering are being experienced by your brotherhood throughout the world. <sup>10</sup>† And after you have suffered a little while, the God of all grace, who has called you to his eternal glory in Christ, will himself restore, confirm, strengthen, and establish you. <sup>11</sup> To him be the dominion forever and ever. Amen.

Final Greetings

<sup>12</sup>† By Silvanus, a faithful brother as I regard him, I have written briefly to you, exhorting and declaring that this is the true grace of God. Stand firm in it. <sup>13</sup>† She who is at Babylon, who is likewise chosen, sends you greetings, and so does Mark, my son. <sup>14</sup> Greet one another with the kiss of love.

Peace to all of you who are in Christ.

Study Notes

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:1 Peter. See Introduction: Author and Date. apostle of Jesus Christ. Peter was one of a unique group of men who were personally called (Matt. 10:1–4) and commissioned (John 20:19–23) by Christ, and who ministered with Christ after his resurrection. See note on 1 Pet. 5:1. The church was built upon the foundation of their teaching (see notes on Acts 2:42; Eph. 2:20). exiles. These were strangers dispossessed in a land not their own—temporary residents or foreigners. Like all believers, they were residents of an eternal city (Phil. 3:20; Heb. 13:13–14). dispersion. With the Greek definite article, “dispersion” is sometimes a technical term for the scattering of the Jews from Israel throughout the world (John 7:35; James 1:1). But here, without the article, it is used in a non-technical sense referring to spiritual pilgrims, aliens to the earth, whether Jews or Gentiles (cf. 1 Pet. 1:17; 2:11), i.e., the church. Pontus . . . Bithynia. Peter’s letter is addressed to churches in provinces located in modern-day Turkey, which were part of the Roman Empire. elect. From the Greek word that connotes the “called-out ones.” The word means “to pick out” or “to select.” In the OT, it was used of Israel (Deut. 7:6), indicating that God sovereignly chose Israel from among all the nations of the world to believe in and belong to him (cf. Deut. 14:2; Ps. 105:43; 135:4). Here the word is used as a term for Christians, those chosen by God for salvation (cf. Rom. 8:33; Col. 3:12; 2 Tim. 2:10). The word is also used for those who receive Christ during the tribulation time (Matt. 24:22, 24), and holy, unfallen angels (1 Tim. 5:21). To be reminded that they were elected by God was a great comfort to those persecuted Christians (see notes on Eph. 1:3–14).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:2 foreknowledge. The same Greek word is translated “foreknown” in v. 20. In both verses, the word does not refer to awareness of what is going to happen, but it clearly means a predetermined relationship in the knowledge of the Lord. God brought the salvation relationship into existence by decreeing it into existence ahead of time. Christians are foreknown for salvation in the same way Christ was foreordained before the foundation of the world to be a sacrifice for sins (cf. Acts 2:23). “Foreknowledge” means that God planned before, not that he observed before (cf. Ex. 33:17; Jer. 1:5; Amos 3:2; Matt. 7:23). Thus, God pre-thought and predetermined or predestined each Christian’s salvation (see notes on Rom. 8:29; Eph. 1:4). sanctification of the Spirit. To sanctify means “to consecrate,” “to set apart.” The objective of election is salvation, which comes to the elect through the sanctifying work of the Spirit. The Holy Spirit thus makes God's chosen holy, by savingly setting them apart from sin and unbelief unto faith and righteousness (cf. 1 Thess. 1:4; 2 Thess. 2:13). Sanctification thus begins with justification (declaring the sinner just before God by graciously imputing Christ's righteousness to him, cf. Phil. 3:9), and continues as a process of purification that goes on until glorification, when the Christian sees Jesus face to face. for obedience. Believers are set apart from sin to God in order that they might obey Jesus Christ. True salvation produces obedience to Christ (cf. Eph. 2:10; 1 Thess. 1:4–10). sprinkling with his blood. This phrase is based on Moses' sprinkling sacrificial blood on the people of Israel as a symbol sealing their covenant as they promised to obey God's word (see notes on Ex. 24:4–8). Likewise, in the New Covenant, faith in the shedding of Christ's blood on the cross not only activates God's promise to give the believer perfect atonement for sin, but also brings the believer into the covenant by one's promise of obedience to the Lord and his word.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:3 Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. Though God was known as Creator and Redeemer in the OT, he was rarely called Father. Christ, however, always addressed God as his Father in the Gospels (as John 5:17), except in the separation on the cross (Matt. 27:46). In so doing, Christ was claiming to be of the same nature, being, or essence as the Father (cf. Matt. 11:27; John 10:29–39; 14:6–11; 2 Cor. 1:3; Eph. 1:3, 17; 2 John 3). Also, by speaking of "our" Lord, Peter personalized the Christian's intimate relationship with the God of the universe through his Son (cf. 1 Cor. 6:17), an important truth for suffering Christians to remember. great mercy. The reason God provided a glorious salvation for mankind is that he is merciful. Sinners need God's mercy because they are in a pitiful, desperate, wretched condition as sinners (cf. Eph. 2:4; Titus 3:5; see also Ex. 34:6; Ps. 108:4; Isa. 27:4; Lam. 3:22; Mic. 7:18). has caused us to be born again. God gave the new birth as part of his provision in salvation. When a sinner comes to Christ and puts his faith in him, he is born anew into God's family and receives a new nature (see notes on 1 Pet. 1:23; John 1:13; 3:1–21). a living hope. The living hope is eternal life. "Hope" means confident optimism, and: 1) comes from God (Ps. 43:5); 2) is a gift of grace (2 Thess. 2:16); 3) is defined by Scripture (Rom. 15:4); 4) is a reasonable reality (1 Pet. 3:15); 5) is secured by the resurrection of Jesus Christ (John 11:25–26; 14:19; 1 Cor. 15:17); 6) is confirmed in the Christian by the Holy Spirit (Rom. 15:13); 7) defends the Christian against Satan's attacks (1 Thess. 5:8); 8) is confirmed through trials (Rom. 5:3–4); 9) produces joy (Ps. 146:5); and 10) is fulfilled in Christ's return (Titus 2:13).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:4 inheritance. Peter showed those persecuted Christians how to look past their troubles to their eternal inheritance. Life, righteousness, joy, peace, perfection, God’s presence, Christ’s glorious companionship, rewards, and all else God has planned is the Christian’s heavenly inheritance (v. 5; cf. Matt. 25:34; Acts 26:18; Eph. 1:11; Col. 1:12; Heb. 9:15; also Ps. 16:5; 23:26; 72; Lam. 3:24). According to Eph. 1:14, the indwelling Holy Spirit is the resident guarantee of that inheritance. imperishable. The inheritance is not subject to passing away, nor liable to decay. The word was used in secular Greek of something that was unravaged by an invading army (cf. Matt. 6:19–21). undefiled. This word means unpolluted, unstained with evil. The undefiled inheritance of the Christian is in marked contrast to an earthly inheritance, all of which is corrupted and defiled. unfading. “Fading” was often used of flowers that wither and decay. Though earthly inheritances eventually fade away, the eternal inheritance of a Christian has no decaying elements.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:5 who by God’s power are being guarded. Supreme power, omniscience, omnipotence, and sovereignty not only keep the inheritance (v. 4), but also keep the believer secure. No one can steal the Christian’s treasure, and no one can disqualify him from receiving it. See notes on Rom. 8:31–39. through faith. The Christian’s response to God’s election and the Spirit’s conviction is faith, but even faith is empowered by God (see note on Eph. 2:8). Moreover, the Christian’s continued faith in God is the evidence of God’s keeping power. At the time of salvation, God energizes faith, and continues to preserve it. Saving faith is permanent; it never dies. See notes on Matt. 24:13; Heb. 3:14.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:6 rejoice. That is, to be exceedingly glad, exuberantly jubilant. This kind of joy is not based on changing, temporal circumstances, but is used of joy that comes from the unchanging, eternal relationship with God. Peter relates this joy to 1) the assurance of one’s protected eternal inheritance (vv. 4–5; cf. John 16:16–33) and 2) the assurance from one’s proven faith (1 Pet. 1:7). various trials. Peter teaches several important principles about trouble in this verse: 1) trouble does not last (“little while”); 2) trouble serves a purpose (“if necessary”); 3) trouble brings turmoil (“grieved”); 4) trouble comes in various forms (“trials”); and 5) trouble should not diminish the Christian’s joy (“rejoice”).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:7 genuineness of your faith. God’s purpose in allowing trouble is to test the reality of one’s faith. But the benefit of such a testing, or “fire,” is immediately for the Christian, not God. When a believer comes through a trial still trusting the Lord, he is assured that his faith is genuine (cf. Gen. 22:1–12; Job 1:20–22). revelation of Jesus Christ. The revelation or unveiling of Christ refers to his second coming, particularly focusing on the time when he comes to call and reward his redeemed people (cf. 1 Pet. 1:13; 4:13; 1 Cor. 1:7), i.e., the rapture (1 Thess. 4:13–18).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:8 have not seen. This is in the sense of his appearing (v. 7). Cf. 2 Cor. 5:7. At that time, the fiery trials that believers have endured will benefit God by bringing him “praise and glory and honor” eternally (1 Pet. 1:7).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:9 obtaining . . . salvation. “Obtaining” could lit. be translated “presently receiving for yourselves.” In one sense, Christians now possess the result of their faith, a constant deliverance from the power of sin. In another sense, we are waiting to receive the full salvation of eternal glory in the redemption of our bodies (Rom. 8:23).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:10 this salvation. In this section, Peter looks at the greatness of salvation from the viewpoint of the divine agents who made it possible: 1) OT prophets (vv. 10–11); 2) the Holy Spirit (vv. 11–12); 3) the NT apostles (v. 12); and 4) the angels (v. 12). grace that was to be. God is by nature gracious and was so, even under the conditional Old Covenant (cf. Ex. 33:19; Jonah 4:2). But the prophets foretold an even greater exhibit of grace than what they had ever known (Isa. 45:20–25; 52:14–15; 55:1–7; 61:1–3; cf. Rom. 9:24–33; 10:11, 13, 20; 15:9–21). searched and inquired carefully. The OT prophets studied their own writings in order to know more about the promised salvation. Though they believed and were personally saved from their sin by that faith (through the sacrifice God would provide in Christ), they could not fully understand what was involved in the life and death of Jesus Christ (cf. Num. 24:17; Heb. 11:13, 39–40).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:11 what person or time. “Who would be the person?” and “When would he come?” were the questions the OT prophets searched to know. Spirit of Christ in them. Jesus Christ, in the person of the Holy Spirit, took up residence within the writers of the OT, enabling them to write about the glorious salvation to be consummated in the future (2 Pet. 1:19–21).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:12 serving not themselves but you. The OT prophets who wrote of the coming of salvation (vv. 10–11) knew it was a future Savior who would come, and thus they were really writing for those who are on this side of the cross. those who preached the good news. The NT apostles and preachers of the gospel had the privilege of proclaiming that the prophecies written by the OT prophets had come to pass (cf. 2 Cor. 6:1–2).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:13 preparing your minds for action. Some translations render this, “Gird up the loins of your mind”—the ancient practice of gathering up one’s robes when needing to move in a hurry; here, it is metaphorically applied to one’s thought process. The meaning is to pull in all the loose ends of one’s thinking, by rejecting the hindrances of the world and focusing on the future grace of God (cf. Eph. 6:14; Col. 3:2). being sober-minded. Spiritual sober-mindedness includes the ideas of steadfastness, self-control, clarity of mind, and moral decisiveness. The sober Christian is correctly in charge of his priorities and not intoxicated with the various allurements of the world. set your hope fully. In light of their great salvation, Christians, especially those undergoing suffering, should unreservedly live for the future, anticipating the consummation of their salvation at the second coming of Christ (see 1 Pet. 1:7). Cf. Col. 3:2–4. grace that will be brought to you. Christ’s future ministry of glorifying Christians and giving them eternal life in his presence will be the final culmination of the grace initiated at salvation (cf. Eph. 2:7).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:15 you also be holy. Holiness essentially defines the Christian’s new nature and conduct in contrast with his pre-salvation lifestyle. The reason for practicing a holy manner of living is that Christians are associated with the holy God and must treat him and his word with respect and reverence. We therefore glorify him best by being like him (see vv. 16–17; Matt. 5:48; Eph. 5:1; cf. Lev. 11:44–45; 18:30; 19:2; 20:7; 21:6–8).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:17 if you call on him as Father. This is another way of saying, “if you are a Christian.” The believer who knows God and that he judges the works of all his children fairly, will respect God and his evaluation of his life, and long to honor his heavenly Father.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:18 ransomed. See note on 1 Tim. 2:6. That is, to buy back someone from bondage by the payment of a price; to set free by paying a ransom. “Ransom” was a technical term for money paid to buy back a prisoner of war. Here it is used of the price paid to buy the freedom of one in the bondage of sin and under the curse of the law (i.e., eternal death, cf. Gal. 3:13). The price paid to a holy God was the shed blood of his own Son (cf. Ex. 12:1–13; 15:13; Ps. 78:35; Acts 20:28; Rom. 3:24; Gal. 4:4–5; Eph. 1:7; Col. 1:14; Titus 2:14; Heb. 9:11–17).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:20 foreknown. In eternity past, before Adam and Eve sinned, God planned the redemption of sinners through Jesus Christ (cf. Acts 2:23; 4:27–28; 2 Tim. 1:9). See note on 1 Pet. 1:2. last times. The “last times” are the times of the Messiah, from his first coming to his second coming (cf. Acts 2:17; 1 Tim. 4:1; 1 John 2:18).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:21 gave him glory. God, through the ascension, returned Christ to the glory that he had with him before the world began (cf. Luke 24:51–53; John 17:4–5; Acts 1:9–11; Phil. 2:9–11; Heb. 1:1–3; 2:9).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:22 love one another earnestly. The love indicated here by Peter is the love of choice, the kind of love that can respond to a command. “Earnestly” means to stretch to the limits (cf. Luke 22:44; Acts 12:5; also Luke 10:27ff.). Only those whose “souls” have been “purified,” i.e., saved, have the capacity to love like this. Such love exhibits itself by meeting others at the point of their need (cf. 1 Pet. 2:17; 3:8; 4:8; also John 13:34; Rom. 12:10; Phil. 2:1–8; Heb. 13:1; 1 John 3:11).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:23 not of perishable seed but of imperishable. The spiritual life implanted by the Holy Spirit to produce the new birth is unending and permanent. through the . . . word of God. The Spirit uses the word to produce life. It is the truth of the gospel that saves. See note on Rom. 10:17.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 1:24–25 Peter enforces his point about the power of the word to regenerate by quoting from Isa. 40:6–8 (see note there).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:1 put away. The Christian’s new life can’t grow unless sins are renounced. When that purging takes place, then the word does its work (v. 2). malice. The Greek word for malice is used 11 times in the NT to indicate that wickedness which comes from within a person (cf. v. 16; Rom. 1:29; Eph. 4:31; Titus 3:3).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:2 long for the pure spiritual milk. Spiritual growth is always marked by a craving for and a delight in God’s word with the intensity with which a baby craves milk (cf. Job 23:12; Ps. 1:1–2; 19:7–11; 119:16, 24, 35, 47–48, 72, 92, 97, 103, 111, 113, 127, 159, 167, 174; Jer. 15:16). A Christian develops a desire for the truth of God’s word by: 1) remembering his life’s source (1 Pet. 1:25; cf. Isa. 55:10, 11; John 15:3; Heb. 4:12); 2) eliminating sin from his life (1 Pet. 2:1); 3) admitting his need for God's truth (v. 2, "like newborn infants"; cf. Matt. 4:4); 4) pursuing spiritual growth (1 Pet. 2:2, "by it you may grow"); and 5) surveying his blessings (v. 3, "the Lord is good").

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:3 tasted. At salvation, all believers experience how gracious the Lord is to those who trust him. That should compel believers to seek more of that grace in pursuing his word.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:4 come to him. "Come," in the Greek here means to come with the idea of remaining. Here it means to remain in Christ's presence with intimate fellowship (cf. John 15:5–15). a living stone. Both a metaphor and a paradox, this phrase from the OT (see 1 Pet. 2:6–8) emphasizes that Christ, the "cornerstone" and "stone of stumbling," is alive from the dead and has a living relationship with saved humanity (v. 5; cf. 1 Cor. 15:45; 1 John 5:11–12).

rejected . . . chosen. See 1 Pet. 2:7. The messianic credentials of Jesus were examined by the false religious leaders of Israel and contemptuously rejected (vv. 6–8; cf. Matt. 12:22–24; John 1:10–11). But Jesus Christ was God's precious and elect Son, ultimately authenticated through his resurrection from the dead (cf. Ps. 2:10–11; Matt. 3:17; Acts 2:23–24, 32; 4:11–12; 5:30–31; 10:39–41).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:5 you yourselves like living stones. Christians are so closely identified and united with Christ that the very life that exists in Christ exists in them also (cf. Gal. 2:20; Col. 3:3–4; 2 Pet. 1:4). built up as a spiritual house. Metaphorically, God is building a spiritual house, putting all believers in place, integrating each one with others, and each one with the life of Christ (cf. Eph. 2:19; Heb. 3:6). a holy priesthood. OT priests and NT believer-priests share a number of characteristics: 1) priesthood is an elect privilege (Ex. 28:1; John 15:16); 2) priests are cleansed of sins (Lev. 8:6–36; Titus 2:14); 3) priests are clothed for service (1 Pet. 5:5; Ex. 28:42; Lev. 8:7ff.; Ps. 132:9, 16); 4) priests are anointed for service (Lev. 8:12, 30; 1 John 2:20, 27); 5) priests are prepared for service (Lev. 8:33; 9:4, 23; Gal. 1:16; 1 Tim. 3:6); 6) priests are ordained to obedience (1 Pet. 2:4; Lev. 10:1ff.); 7) priests are to honor the word of God (1 Pet. 2:2; Mal. 2:7); 8) priests are to walk with God (Mal. 2:6; Gal. 5:16, 25); 9) priests are to impact sinners (Mal. 2:6; Gal. 6:1); and 10) priests are messengers of God (Mal. 2:7; Matt. 28:19–20). The main privilege of a priest, however, is access to God. to offer spiritual sacrifices. Spiritual sacrifices mean God-honoring works done because of Christ under the direction of the Holy Spirit and the guidance of the word of God. These would include: 1) offering the strength of one's body to God (Rom. 12:1–2); 2) praising God (Heb. 13:15); 3) doing good (Heb. 13:16); 4) sharing one's resources (Heb. 13:16); 5) bringing people to Christ (Rom. 15:16); 6) sacrificing one's desires for the good of others (Eph. 5:2); and 7) praying (Rev. 8:3).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:6–8 Three OT passages employing the “stone” metaphor are used by Peter to show that Christ's position as chief cornerstone of the new spiritual house was foreordained by God. That same stone is also going to be the stumbling stone that brings down the unbelieving in judgment (cf. Matt. 21:42, 44).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:6 Zion. Quoted from Isa. 28:16. Figuratively, Zion, i.e., Jerusalem, is in the realm of the New Covenant, as Sinai is in the realm of the Old Covenant.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:6–7 cornerstone. See note on Eph. 2:20; cf. Ps. 118:22.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:8 A stone of stumbling, and a rock of offense. Quoted from Isa. 8:14. To every human being, Christ is either the means of salvation if they believe, or the means of judgment if they reject the gospel. He is like a stone in the road that causes a traveler to fall. disobey the word. Unbelief is their disobedience, since the call of the gospel to repent and believe is a command from God. they were destined. These were not appointed by God to disobedience and unbelief. Rather, these were appointed to doom because of their disobedience and unbelief. Judgment on unbelief is as divinely appointed as salvation by faith. See notes on Rom. 9:22; 2 Cor. 2:15–16.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:9 a chosen race. Peter uses OT concepts to emphasize the privileges of NT Christians (cf. Deut. 7:6–8). In strong contrast to the disobedient who are appointed by God to wrath (1 Pet. 2:8), Christians are chosen by God to salvation (cf. 1:2). a royal priesthood. The concept of a kingly priesthood is drawn from Ex. 19:6. Israel temporarily forfeited this privilege because of its apostasy and because its wicked leaders executed the Messiah. At the present time, the church is a royal priesthood united with the royal priest, Jesus Christ. A royal priesthood is not only a priesthood that belongs to and serves the king, but is also a priesthood that exercises rule. This will ultimately be fulfilled in Christ's future kingdom (1 Cor. 6:1–4; Rev. 5:10; 20:6). a holy nation. Another allusion to Ex. 19:6 (cf. Lev. 19:2; 20:26; Deut.

7:6; Isa. 62:12). Tragically, Israel temporarily forfeited the great privilege of being the unique people of God through unbelief. Until Israel's future acceptance of its Messiah, God has replaced the nation with the church. See notes on Rom. 11:1–2, 25–29 for Israel's salvation. a people for his own possession. This combines phraseology found in Ex. 19:5; Isa. 43:21; Mal. 3:17. Cf. Titus 2:14. proclaim the excellencies. "Proclaim," an unusual word found in no other place in the NT, means to tell forth, to tell something not otherwise known. "Excellencies" are praises, virtues, eminent qualities. darkness . . . light. Cf. Acts 26:18; Eph. 5:8; Col. 1:13.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:10 God's people. The ideas of this verse come from Hos. 1:6–10; 2:23. Cf. Rom. 9:23–26 where the reference is explicitly to the calling of a people made up of Jews and Gentiles. now you have received mercy. God generally has temporal mercy and the compassion of common grace on his creation as a whole (Ps. 145:9; Lam. 3:22). Paul made reference to this when he said that God is the "Savior of all people" (see note on 1 Tim. 4:10). But God has eternal mercy on his elect church by forgiving their sins and eliminating their judgment (cf. Rom. 9:15; Titus 3:5). In the OT, the prophet Hosea promised that Israel, though remaining outside of God's blessings for a long period of time, would eventually come under God's mercy. God's dealing with Israel was somewhat of a pattern for his dealings with the believers under the New Covenant, who previously were outside God's covenant, but have been brought under the mercy of God by faith in Christ (cf. Eph. 2:4–13).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:11 sojourners and exiles. In this section, Peter called his readers to a righteous life in a hostile world. Christians are foreigners in a secular society because their citizenship is in heaven. There are three perspectives from which Christians can look at their obligations: 1) strangers (vv. 11–12); 2) citizens (vv. 13–17); and 3) servants (vv. 18–20). In vv. 21–25, Peter shows how Christ set the example by living a perfect life in the midst of his hostile environment. abstain from the passions of the flesh. Perhaps more lit., "hold yourself away from fleshly lusts." In order to have an impact on the world for God, Christians must be disciplined in an inward and private way by avoiding the desires of the fallen nature (cf. Gal. 5:19–21, where "passions of the flesh" include much more than sexual temptations). which wage war against your soul. "War," i.e., to carry on a military campaign. Fleshly lusts are personified as if they were an army of rebels or guerrillas who incessantly search out and try to destroy the Christian's joy, peace, and usefulness (cf. 1 Pet. 4:2–3).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:12 conduct . . . honorable. The Greek word for “honorable” is rich in meaning and implies the purest, highest, noblest kind of goodness. It means “lovely,” “winsome,” “gracious,” “noble,” and “excellent.” Having been disciplined in the inward and private side, the Christian must outwardly live among non-Christians in a way that reflects that inward discipline. evildoers. The early Christians were falsely accused of rebellion against the government with such false accusations as: terrorism (burning Rome; see Introduction: Background and Setting), atheism (no idols or emperor worship), cannibalism (rumors about the Lord’s Supper), immorality (because of their love for one another), damaging trade and social progress, and leading slaves into insurrection. Cf. Acts 16:18–21; 19:19, 24–27. day of visitation. A common phrase in the OT (Isa. 10:3; Jer. 27:22) warning of God’s “visitation,” his drawing near to people or nations in either judgment or blessing. In the NT, “visitation” speaks of redemption (Luke 1:68; 7:16; 19:44). Peter was teaching that when the grace of God visits the heart of an unbeliever, he will respond with saving faith and glorify God because he remembers the testimony of believers he had observed. Those who don’t believe will experience the visitation of his wrath in the final judgment.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:13 Be subject. “Subject” is a military term meaning “to arrange in military fashion under the commander,” “to put oneself in an attitude of submission.” As citizens in the world and under civil law and authority, God’s people are to live in a humble, submissive way in the midst of any hostile, godless, slandering society (cf. vv. 21–23; Prov. 24:21; Jer. 29:4–14; Matt. 22:21; Rom. 13:1ff., 1 Tim. 2:1; Heb. 10:32–34). for the Lord’s sake. Though the Christian’s true citizenship is in heaven (Phil. 3:20), he still must live as an obedient citizen in this world so that God will be honored and glorified. Rebellious conduct by a Christian brings dishonor on Christ. See notes on Rom. 13:1–5; Titus 3:1–2.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:14 governors. Christians are to live in obedience to every institution of civil and social order on earth. This includes obedience to the national government (v. 13, “emperor”), the state government, the police, and judges. Only when the government tries to force a Christian to do what is against the law of God explicitly stated in Scripture, should he refuse to submit (cf. Acts 4:18–20; 5:28–29; Titus 1:6; 3:1–2).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:15 silence . . . foolish people. Here is the purpose for our submission to authority, in order that we should avoid condemnation and win commendation that shuts the mouth of those obstinately set against the faith who are looking for reasons to criticize believers.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:16 freedom as a cover-up for evil. Believers should enjoy their freedom in Christ, but ought not to put on a veil or mask of freedom to cover what really is wickedness. Christian freedom is never to be an excuse for self-indulgence or license. Cf. 1 Cor. 7:22; 8:9–13; 2 Thess. 3:7–9; see notes on Rom. 14:1–15:3.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:17 Honor. “Highly esteem” is the idea, and it refers not just to obedient duty but inner respect. brotherhood. The church. Cf. 1:22; 3:8; 4:8; 5:14.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:18 Servants, be subject. One’s Christianity does not give the right to rebel against one’s superior in the social structure (see notes on 1 Cor. 7:21–23; Eph. 6:5; Col. 3:22; Philemon; see also Ex. 21:26–27; Lev. 25:39–43; Deut. 23:15–16), no matter how unfair or harsh he may be.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:19–20 gracious thing in the sight of God. Favor with God is found when an employee, treated unjustly, accepts his poor treatment with faith in God’s sovereign care, rather than responding in anger, hostility, discontent, pride, or rebellion (cf. Matt. 5:11).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:21 you have been called. The “call,” as always in the NT epistles, is the efficacious call to salvation (v. 9; 5:10; Rom. 8:30). Peter’s point is that a person called to salvation will, sometimes at least, have to endure unfair treatment. Commendable behavior on the part of the believer in the midst of such trials results in the strengthening and perfecting of the Christian on earth (1 Pet. 5:10; cf. James 1:2–4), and his increased eternal capacity to glorify God (cf. Matt. 20:21–23; 2 Cor. 4:17–18; 2 Tim. 2:12). For to this. Patient endurance (1 Pet. 2:20). leaving you an example. The word “example” lit. means “writing under.” It was writing put under a piece of paper on which to trace letters, thus a pattern. Christ is the pattern for Christians to follow in suffering with perfect patience. His death was efficacious, primarily, as an atonement for sin (2 Cor. 5:21); but it was also exemplary, as a model of endurance in unjust suffering.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:22 This is a quote from Isa. 53:9. Christ was the perfect example of patient endurance in unjust suffering because he was sinless, as the prophet said he would be. Cf. 1 Pet. 1:19.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:23 reviled. To “revile” is to pile up abusive and vile language against someone. Though verbally abused, Christ never retaliated with vicious words and threats (3:9; cf. Matt. 26:57–65; 27:12–14; Luke 23:7–11). entrusting himself. “To entrust” was “to hand over to someone to keep.” Christ was “handed over” to Pilate (John 19:11); Pilate “handed him over” to the Jews (John 19:16); Christ “handed over” himself to God, suffering in surprising silence, because of his perfect confidence in the sovereignty and righteousness of his Father (cf. Isa. 53:7).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:24 bore our sins. Christ suffered not simply as the Christian’s pattern (vv. 21–23), but far more importantly as the Christian’s substitute. To bear sins was to be punished for them (cf. Num. 14:33; Ezek. 18:20). Christ bore the punishment and the penalty for believers, thus satisfying a holy God (1 Pet. 3:18; see notes on 2 Cor. 5:21; Gal. 3:13). This great doctrine of the substitutionary atonement is the heart of the gospel. Actual atonement, sufficient for the sins of the whole world, was made for all who would ever believe, namely, the elect (cf. Lev. 16:17; 23:27–30; John 3:16; 2 Cor. 5:19; 1 Tim. 2:6; 4:10; Titus 2:11; Heb. 2:9; 1 John 2:2; 4:9–10). we might die to sin. This is true by the miracle of being in Christ. We died to sin in the sense that we paid its penalty, death, by being in Christ when he died as our substitute. See notes on Rom. 6:1–11. live to righteousness. Not only have we been declared just, the penalty for our sins paid by his death, but we have risen to walk in new life, empowered by the Holy Spirit (see notes on Rom. 6:12–22). By his wounds you have been healed. From Isa. 53:5 (see note). Through the wounds of Christ at the cross, believers are healed spiritually from the deadly disease of sin. Physical healing comes at glorification only, when there is no more physical pain, illness, or death (Rev. 21:4). See notes on Isa. 53:4–6; Matt. 8:17 for comments on healing in the atonement.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 2:25 returned. Means “to turn toward,” and refers to the repentant faith a person has at salvation. Shepherd and Overseer. Christ is not only the Christian’s standard (vv. 21–23) and substitute (v. 24), but he is also the Christian’s shepherd (5:4; cf. Isa. 53:6; John 10:11). In the OT, the title of “shepherd” for the Lord was often messianic (Ezek. 34:23–24; 37:24; cf. John 10:1–18). Beyond that, “Shepherd and Overseer” were the most appropriate descriptions of Christ for Peter to use in order to comfort Christians who were being persecuted and slandered (1 Pet. 2:12). These two terms are also used for human spiritual leaders.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:1 Likewise. In ch. 2, Peter taught that living successfully as a Christian in a hostile world would require relating properly in two places: the civil society (2:13–17), and the workplace (2:18–25). At the start of this chapter, he added two more places: the family (3:1–7) and the local church (3:8–9). be subject. Peter insisted that if Christians are to be a witness for their Lord, they must submit not only to the civil, but also to the social order that God has designed. own husbands. Women are not inferior to men in any way, any more than submissive Christians are inferior to pagan rulers or non-Christian bosses (cf. Gal. 3:28). But wives have been given a role that puts them in submission to the headship that resides in their own husbands (see notes on 1 Cor. 11:1–9; Eph. 5:22; Col. 3:18; Titus 2:4–5). some do not obey the word. Since obedience has been used in this letter to refer to believers and disobedience to non-believers (see notes on 1 Pet. 1:2; 2:8), this is a non-Christian husband. In a culture in which women were viewed as lower than men, the potential for conflict and embarrassment in the marriage of a believer and unbeliever was significant, even as it is in contemporary society. Peter did not urge the Christian wife to leave her husband (cf. 1 Cor. 7:13–16), to preach to her husband (“without a word”), or to demand her rights (“be subject”). won . . . by the conduct of their wives. The loving, gracious submission of a Christian woman to her unsaved husband is the strongest evangelistic tool she has. Added to submission is modesty, meekness, and respect for the husband (1 Pet. 3:2–6).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:2 respectful and pure. Purity of life with reverence for God is what the unsaved husband should observe consistently.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:3 external. Peter was not here condemning all outward adornment. His condemnation is for incessant preoccupation with the outward to the disregard of one’s character (v. 4; cf. 1 Tim. 2:9–10). But every Christian woman is especially to concentrate on developing that chaste and reverent Christlike character.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:4 gentle and quiet spirit. Here is beauty that never decays, as the outward body does. “Gentle” is actually “meek or humble” and “quiet” describes the character of her action and reaction to her husband and life in general. Such is precious not only to her husband, but also to God.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:5 holy women. Certain OT saints (particularly Sarah, v. 6) are models of inner beauty, character, modesty, and submissiveness to their husbands (see notes on Prov. 31:10–31).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:6 do not fear anything that is frightening. There are potential fears for a Christian woman who sets out to be submissive to her unsaved husband, as to where such submission might lead. But Peter’s instruction to the wife is not to be intimidated or fearful, but as a principle, she is to submit to her husband. This precludes any coercion to sin, disobedience to God’s word, or imposition of physical harm (cf. Acts 4:18–20; 5:28–29; Titus 1:6).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:7 Likewise, husbands. Submission is the responsibility of a Christian husband as well (cf. Eph. 5:21). Though not submitting to his wife as a leader, a believing husband must submit to the loving duty of being sensitive to the needs, fears, and feelings of his wife. In other words, a Christian husband needs to subordinate his needs to hers, whether she is a Christian or not. Peter specifically notes consideration, chivalry, and companionship. weaker. While she is fully equal in Christ and not inferior spiritually because she is a woman (see Gal. 3:28), she is physically weaker, and in need of protection, provision, and strength from her husband. heirs with you of the grace of life. Here the “grace of life” is not salvation, but marriage—the best relationship earthly life has to offer. The husband must cultivate companionship and fellowship with his wife, Christian or not (cf. Eccles. 9:9). prayers may not be hindered. This refers specifically to the husband’s prayer for the salvation of his wife (see note on 1 Pet. 3:1). Such a prayer would be hindered if he were not respectful of her needs and fellowship.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:8 have unity of mind. From two Greek words, meaning “to think the same,” “to be like-minded.” The idea is to maintain inward unity of heart. All Christians are to be examples and purveyors of peace and unity, not disruption and disharmony (John 13:35; 17; Rom. 12:16; 15:5; 1 Cor. 1:10; Phil. 2:1–2). brotherly. A recurring theme in 1 Peter (see 1 Pet. 1:22; 2:17; 4:8; 5:14).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:9 on the contrary, bless. “Bless” means “to speak well of,” “to eulogize.” The blessing that a Christian is to give to the reviler includes finding ways to serve him, praying for his salvation or spiritual progress, expressing thankfulness for him, speaking well of him, and desiring his well-being (2:23; cf. Lev. 19:18; Prov. 20:22; Luke 6:38). for to this you were called. A person to whom God has given undeserved blessings instead of judgment, should seek the blessing he will receive when giving a free gift of forgiveness to someone who has wronged him (cf. 1 Pet. 3:21; Matt. 18:21–35).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:10 desires to love life and see good days. Peter employed apt scriptural confirmation of his exhortation in v. 9, by quoting from Ps. 34:12–16. The believer has been granted the legacy to enjoy his life (John 10:10). In this section, Peter gave straightforward advice on how to experience that rich joy and fullness of life, even in the midst of a hostile environment. The requirements of the fulfilled life include a humble, loving attitude toward everyone (1 Pet. 3:8), a non-vindictive response toward revilers (v. 9), pure and honest speech (v. 10), a disdain for sin and pursuit of peace (v. 11), and a right motive, i.e., to work the righteousness that pleases the omniscient Lord (v. 12; cf. Matt. 5:38–48; Rom. 12:14, 17; 1 Cor. 4:12; 5:11; 1 Thess. 5:15).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:13 who is there to harm you. It is unusual for people to mistreat those who are zealous for good. Even a hostile world is slow to hurt people who are benefactors of society, who are kind and caring (cf. 4:12), but it does happen (3:14).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:14 blessed. Here the idea is “privileged” or “honored” (cf. Matt. 5:10). Have no fear. The idea here is borrowed from Isa. 8:12–13.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:15 in your hearts honor Christ the Lord. The meaning is “set apart in your hearts Christ as Lord.” The heart is the sanctuary in which he prefers to be worshiped. Live in submissive communion with the Lord Jesus, loving and obeying him—and you have nothing to fear. always being prepared to make a defense. The English word “apologetics” comes from the Greek word here translated “defense.” Peter is using the word in an informal sense (cf. Phil. 1:16–17) and is insisting that the believer must understand what he believes and why one is a Christian, and then be able to articulate one’s beliefs humbly, thoughtfully, reasonably, and biblically. the hope that is in you. Salvation with its anticipation of eternal glory.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:16 a good conscience. The conscience accuses (cf. Rom. 2:14–15) by notifying the person of sin by producing guilt, shame, doubt, fear, anxiety, or despair. A life free of ongoing and unconfessed sin, lived under the command of the Lord, will produce a “clear conscience” (Acts 24:16; see notes on 2 Cor. 1:12; 4:2). This will cause your false accusers to feel the “shame” of their own consciences (cf. 1 Pet. 2:12, 15).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:18 For Christ also suffered. Peter wished to encourage his readers in their suffering by again reminding them that even Christ suffered unjustly because it was God's will (v. 17). Ultimately, however, Christ was marvelously triumphant to the point of being exalted to the right hand of God while all of those demon beings who were behind his suffering were made forever subject to him (v. 22). God also caused Peter's suffering readers to triumph. once for sins. Under the Old Covenant, the Jewish people offered sacrifice after sacrifice, and then repeated it all the next year, especially at the Passover. But Christ's one sacrifice for sins was of such perpetual validity that it was sufficient for all and would never need to be repeated (see notes on Heb. 7:27; 9:26–28). the righteous for the unrighteous. This is another statement of the sinlessness of Jesus (cf. Heb. 7:26) and of his substitutionary and vicarious atonement. He, who personally never sinned and had no sin nature, took the place of sinners (cf. 1 Pet. 2:24; 2 Cor. 5:21). In so doing, Christ satisfied God's just penalty for sin required by the law and opened the way to God for all who repentantly believe (cf. John 14:6; Acts 4:12). bring us to God. In this life spiritually, and in the next life, wholly (cf. Mark 15:38). put to death in the flesh. A violent physical execution that terminated his earthly life (cf. Heb. 5:7). alive in the spirit. This is not a reference to the Holy Spirit, but to Jesus' true inner life, his own spirit. Contrasted with his flesh (humanness), which was dead for three days, his spirit (deity) was alive, lit., "in spirit" (cf. Luke 23:46).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:19 proclaimed. Between Christ's death and resurrection, his living spirit went to the demon spirits bound in the abyss and proclaimed that, in spite of his death, he had triumphed over them (see notes on Col. 2:14–15). spirits in prison. This refers to fallen angels (demons), who were permanently bound because of heinous wickedness. The demons who are not so bound resist such a sentence (cf. Luke 8:31). In the end, they will all be sent to the eternal lake of fire (Matt. 25:41; Rev. 20:10).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:20 did not obey . . . in the days of Noah. Peter further explains that the abyss is inhabited by bound demons who have been there since the time of Noah, and who were sent there because they severely overstepped the bounds of God's tolerance with their wickedness. The demons of Noah's day were running riot through the earth, filling the world with their wicked, vile, anti-God activity, including sexual sin, so that even 120 years of Noah's preaching, while the ark was being built, could not convince any of the human race beyond the eight people in Noah's family to believe in God (see notes on 2 Pet. 2:4–5; Jude 6–7; cf. Gen. 6:1–8). Thus God bound these demons permanently in the abyss until their final sentencing. safely through water. They had been rescued in spite of the water, not because of the water. Here, water was the agent of God's judgment, not the means of salvation (see note on Acts 2:38).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:21 corresponds to this, now saves you. Peter is teaching that the fact that eight people were in an ark and went through the whole judgment, and yet were unharmed, is analogous to the Christian's experience in salvation by being in Christ, the ark of one's salvation. Baptism . . . through the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Peter is not at all referring to water baptism here, but rather a figurative immersion into union with Christ as an ark of safety from the judgment of God. The resurrection of Christ demonstrates God's acceptance of Christ's substitutionary death for the sins of those who believe (Acts 2:30–31; Rom. 1:4). Judgment fell on Christ just as the judgment of the flood waters fell on the ark. The believer who is in Christ is thus in the ark of safety that will sail over the waters of judgment into eternal glory (cf. Rom. 6:1–4). not as a removal of dirt from the body. To be sure he is not misunderstood, Peter clearly says he is not speaking of water baptism. In Noah's flood, they were kept out of the water while those who went into the water were destroyed. Being in the ark and thus saved from God's judgment on the world prefigures being in Christ and thus saved from eternal damnation. an appeal to God for a good conscience. The word for "appeal" has the idea of a pledge, agreeing to certain conditions of a covenant (the New Covenant) with God. What saves a person plagued by sin and a guilty conscience is not some external rite, but the agreement with God to get in the ark of safety, the Lord Jesus, by faith in his death and resurrection (cf. Rom. 10:9–10; Heb. 9:14; 10:22).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 3:22 right hand of God. After Jesus accomplished his cross work and was raised from the dead, he was exalted to the place of prominence, honor, majesty, authority, and power (cf. Rom. 8:34; Eph. 1:20–21; Phil. 2:9–11; Heb. 1:3–9; 6:20; 8:1; 12:2). The point of application to Peter's readers is that suffering can be the context for one's greatest triumph, as seen in the example of the Lord Jesus.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:1 therefore. In light of the triumphant suffering and death of Christ, Peter's readers should also be willing to suffer in the flesh, knowing that it potentially produces the greatest triumph. suffered in the flesh. A reference to Christ's death on the cross (see note on 3:18). the same way. The Christian should be armed (terminology that realizes a battle) with the same thought that was manifest in the suffering of Christ, namely that one can be triumphant in suffering, even the suffering of death. In other words, the Christian should voluntarily accept the potential of death as a part of the Christian life (cf. Matt. 10:38–39; 2 Cor. 4:8–11). Peter would have his opportunity to live this principle himself, when he faced martyrdom (see John 21:18–19). has ceased from sin. The perfect tense of the verb emphasizes a permanent eternal condition free from sin. The worst that can happen to a believer suffering unjustly is death, and that is the best that can happen because death means the complete and final end of all sins. If the Christian is armed with the goal of being delivered from sin, and that goal is achieved through his death, the threat and experience of death is precious (cf. Rom. 7:5, 18; 1 Cor. 1:21; 15:42, 49). Moreover, the greatest weapon that the enemy has against the Christian, the threat of death, is not effective.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:2 live . . . no longer for human passions. If the goal of the Christian’s life is the freedom from sin that comes at death, then he should live the remainder of his life on earth pursuing the holy will of God rather than the ungodly lusts of the flesh.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:3 sensuality . . . lawless idolatry. “Sensuality” describes unbridled, unrestrained sin, an excessive indulgence in sensual pleasure. The Greek word translated “orgies” was used in extrabiblical literature to refer to a band of drunken, wildly acting people, swaggering and staggering through public streets, wreaking havoc. Thus the pleasures of the ungodly are described here from the perspective of God as despicable acts of wickedness. Though Peter’s readers had indulged in such sins before salvation, they must never do so again. Sin in the believer is a burden that afflicts him rather than a pleasure that delights him.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:4 they are surprised. The former friends are surprised, offended, and resentful because of the Christian’s lack of interest in ungodly pleasures. the same flood of debauchery. “Debauchery” refers to the state of evil in which a person thinks about nothing else. The picture here is of a large crowd running together in a mad, wild race—a melee pursuing sin.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:5 give account. This verb means “to pay back.” People who are “living in sensuality” (v. 3) and who “malign” believers (v. 4) are amassing a debt to God that they will spend all eternity paying back (cf. Matt. 12:36; Rom. 14:11–12; Heb. 4:13). to judge the living and the dead. All the unsaved, currently alive or dead, will be brought before the Judge, the Lord Jesus Christ, at the great white throne judgment (Rev. 20:11–15; cf. Rom. 3:19; 2 Thess. 1:6– 10).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:6 to those who are dead. The preaching of the gospel not only offers a rich life (3:10), a ceasing from sin (4:1), and a good conscience (3:21), but also an escape from final judgment. Peter had in mind believers who had heard and accepted the gospel of Christ when they were still alive, but who had died by the time Peter wrote this letter. Some of them, perhaps, had been martyred for their faith. Though these were dead physically, they were triumphantly alive in their spirits (cf. Heb. 12:23). All their judgment had been fully accomplished while they were alive in this world (“in the flesh”), so they will live forever in God’s presence.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:7 The end of all things. The Greek word for “end” is never used in the NT as a chronological end, as if something simply stops. Instead, the word means a consummation, a goal achieved, a result attained, or a realization. Having emphasized triumphant suffering through death, Peter here begins to emphasize triumphant suffering through the second coming of Christ (cf. 1:3; 2:12), which is the goal of all things. He is calling believers to live obediently and expectantly in the light of Christ’s return. is at hand. The idea is that of a process consummated with a resulting nearness; that is, “imminent.” Peter is reminding the readers of this letter that the return of Jesus Christ could be at any moment (cf. Rom. 13:12; 1 Thess. 1:10; James 5:7–8; Rev. 22:20). be self-controlled and sober-minded. To be “self-controlled and sober-minded” implies here not to be swept away by emotions or passions, thus maintaining a proper eternal perspective on life. The doctrine of the imminent return of Christ should not turn the Christian into a zealous fanatic who does nothing but wait for it to occur. Instead, it should lead the believer into a watchful pursuit of holiness. Moreover, a watchful attitude creates a pilgrim mentality (1 Pet. 2:11). It reminds the Christian that he is a citizen of heaven only sojourning on earth. It should also remind him that he will face the record of his service to God and be rewarded for what stands the test at the judgment seat of Christ, which follows the return of Christ to rapture his church (see 1 Cor. 3:10–15; 4:1–5; 2 Cor. 5:9–10). sake of your prayers. A mind victimized by emotion and passion, out of control, or knocked out of balance by worldly lusts and pursuits, is a mind that cannot know the fullness of holy communion in prayer with God (cf. 1 Pet. 3:7). A mind fixed on his return is purified (1 John 3:3) and enjoys the fullness of fellowship with the Lord.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:8 loving one another earnestly. “Earnestly” means “to be stretched,” “to be strained.” It is used of a runner who is moving at maximum output with taut muscles straining and stretching to the limit (cf. 1:22). This kind of love requires the Christian to put another’s spiritual good ahead of his own desires in spite of being treated unkindly, ungraciously, or even with hostility (cf. 1 Cor. 13:4–7; Phil. 2:1–4). love covers a multitude of sins. Quoted from Prov. 10:12. It is the nature of true spiritual love, whether from God to man or Christian to Christian, to cover sins (cf. Rom. 5:8). This teaching does not preclude the discipline of a sinning, unrepentant church member (cf. Matt. 18:15–18; 1 Cor. 5). It means specifically that a Christian should overlook sins against him if possible, and always be ready to forgive insults and unkindnesses.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:9 Show hospitality to one another. The Greek word means “love of strangers.” Love is intensely practical, not just emotional. In Peter’s day, love included opening one’s home and caring for other needy Christians, such as traveling preachers. It also included opening one’s home for church services. Scripture also teaches that Christians should be hospitable to strangers (Ex. 22:21; Deut. 14:28–29; Heb. 13:1–2).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:10 received a gift. A special or spiritual gift is a graciously given, supernaturally designed ability granted to every believer by which the Holy Spirit ministers to the body of Christ. The Greek word (charisma) emphasizes the freeness of the gift. A spiritual gift cannot be earned, pursued, or worked up. It is merely “received” through the grace of God (cf. 1 Cor. 12:4, 7, 11, 18). The categories of spiritual gifts are given in Rom. 12:3–8 and 1 Cor. 12:4–10 (see notes there). Each believer has one specific gift, often a combination of the various categories of gifts blended together uniquely for each Christian. use it to serve one another. Spiritual gifts were used, not for the exaltation of the person with the gift, but in loving concern for the benefit of others in the church (cf. 1 Cor. 12:7; 13). good stewards. A steward is responsible for another’s resources. A Christian does not own his gifts, but God has given him gifts to manage for the church and his glory. God’s varied grace. This emphasizes the vast designs of God for these gifts.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:11 speaks . . . serves. Peter is implying that there are two categories of gifts: speaking gifts and serving gifts. Such distinctions are clear in the lists in Rom. 12 and 1 Cor. 12. For a discussion of the gifts, see notes on 1 Cor. 12–14. oracles of God. Elsewhere used of Scripture, the very words out of God’s mouth (cf. Rom. 3:2; Acts 7:38). God may be glorified. That is the goal of everything. Cf. Rom. 11:33–36; Eph. 3:21; 2 Tim. 4:18; 2 Pet. 3:18; Rev. 1:6.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:12 the fiery trial. Peter probably wrote this letter shortly before or after the burning of Rome (see Introduction: Background and Setting), and at the beginning of the horrors of a 200-year period of Christian persecution. Peter explains that four attitudes are necessary in order to be triumphant in persecution: 1) expect it (v. 12); 2) rejoice in it (vv. 13–14); 3) evaluate its cause (vv. 15–18); and 4) entrust it to God (v. 19). something strange were happening. “Happening” means “to fall by chance.” A Christian must not think that his persecution is something that happened accidentally. God allowed it and designed it for the believer’s testing, purging, and cleansing.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:13 insofar . . . sufferings. The Christian who is persecuted for his faith is a partner in the same kind of suffering Jesus endured—suffering for doing what is right (cf. Matt. 5:10–12; Gal. 6:17; Phil. 1:29; 3:10; Col. 1:24). his glory is revealed. That is, at Christ’s second coming (cf. Matt. 24:30; 25:31; Luke 17:30). While Jesus is presently glorified in heaven, his glory is not yet fully revealed on earth. rejoice and be glad. That is, exult and rejoice with a rapturous joy (cf. James 1:2). A Christian who is persecuted for righteousness in this life will have overflowing joy in the future because of his reward (see notes on Matt. 20:20–23). Such an awareness of future joy enables him also to “rejoice” (1 Pet. 4:13) at the present time (cf. Luke 6:22; see note on Rom. 8:17).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:14 insulted for the name of Christ. Insulted and treated unfairly for being a representative of all that Christ is, and for the public proclamation of the name of Christ (cf. Acts 4:12; 5:41; 9:15–16; 15:26). blessed. Not a general, nondescript happiness so much as a specific benefit, in that suffering triumphantly for Christ shows God’s approval. Spirit of glory. That is, the Spirit who has glory, or who is glorious. In the OT, the glory of God was represented by the Shekinah light, that luminous glow that signified the presence of God (see Ex. 33:15–34:9). rests upon you. When a believer suffers, God’s presence specially rests and lifts him to strength and endurance beyond the physical dimension (cf. Acts 6:8–7:60; 2 Cor. 12:7–10).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:15 meddler. Someone who intrudes into matters that belong to someone else. Peter is dealing with matters that would lead to persecution, such as getting involved in revolutionary, disruptive activity, or interfering in the function and flow of government. It might also refer to being a troublesome meddler in the workplace. As a general rule, a Christian living in a non-Christian culture is to do his work faithfully, exalt Jesus Christ, and live a virtuous life, rather than try to overturn or disrupt his culture (2:13–16; cf. 1 Thess. 4:11; 2

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:16 Christian. In the earliest days of the church, “Christian” was a derisive term given to those followers of Christ (cf. Acts 11:26; 26:28). Eventually, followers of Christ came to love and adopt this name.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:17 judgment . . . household of God. Not condemnation, but the purging, chastening, and purifying of the church by the loving hand of God. It is far better and more important to kingdom work to endure suffering as the Lord purges and strengthens the church, than to endure the eternal sufferings of the unbeliever in the lake of fire. And, if God so strongly and painfully judges his church, which he loves, what will be his fury on the ungodly?

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:18 Quoted from the lxx of Prov. 11:31, and reinforces the point that if the justified sinner is saved only with great difficulty, suffering, pain, and loss—what will be the end of the ungodly? Cf. 2 Thess. 1:4–10.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 4:19 entrust their souls. “Entrust” is a banking term meaning “to deposit for safekeeping.” faithful Creator. Peter uses the word “Creator” to remind the readers of this letter that when they committed their lives to God, they were simply giving back to God what he had created. As Creator, God knows best the needs of his beloved creatures (2:23; cf. 2 Tim. 1:12).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:1 I exhort the elders. Times of suffering and persecution in the church call for the noblest leadership. The “elder” is the same leader as the “shepherd” (v. 2), and “Overseer” (2:25) (see note on Acts 20:28). The word “elder” emphasizes their spiritual maturity. As in almost all other uses of the word (with the exception of Peter’s reference to himself here and John’s in 2 John 1 and 3 John 1), Peter wrote in the plural, indicating it was usual to have a plurality of godly leaders who oversaw and fed the flock. fellow elder . . . witness . . . partaker in the glory. Peter loaded this exhortation to the elders with some rich motivation. First, there was motivation by identification with Peter, who refers to himself as a fellow elder. As such, he could give relevant exhortation to the spiritual leaders. Second, there was motivation by authority. By noting that he had been an eyewitness of Christ’s suffering, Peter was affirming his apostleship (cf. Luke 24:48; Acts 1:21–22). Third, there was the motivation by anticipation. The fact that Christian leaders will one day receive from the hand of Christ a reward for their service should be a stimulant to faithful duty. The basis of this anticipation was Peter’s experience in observing the transfiguration of Christ (cf. Matt. 17:1–8; 2 Pet. 1:16). At that momentous event, he did partake of the Lord’s glory.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:2 shepherd the flock of God. After the motivation (v. 1) comes the exhortation (vv. 2–4). Since the primary objective of shepherding is feeding, that is, teaching, every elder must be able to teach (cf. John 21:15–17; see notes on 1 Tim. 3:2; Titus 1:9). Involved with the feeding of the flock is also protecting the flock (cf. Acts 20:28–30). In both duties, it must be remembered that the flock belongs to God, not to the pastor. God entrusts some of his flock to the pastor of a church to lead, care for, and feed (1 Pet. 5:3). not under compulsion, but willingly. Specifically, Peter may be warning the elders against a first danger—laziness. The divine calling (cf. 1 Cor. 9:16), along with the urgency of the task (Rom. 1:15), should prevent laziness and indifference. Cf. 2 Cor. 9:7. not for shameful gain. False teachers are always motivated by a second danger, money, and use their power and position to rob people of their wealth (see notes on 2 Pet. 2:1–3). Scripture is clear that churches should pay their shepherds well (1 Cor. 9:7–14; 1 Tim. 5:17–18); but a desire for undeserved money must never be a motive for ministers to serve (cf. 1 Tim. 3:3; 6:9–11; 2 Tim. 2:4; Titus 1:7; 2 Pet. 2:3; see also Jer. 6:13; 8:10; Mic. 3:11; Mal. 1:10).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:3 not domineering. This is the third major temptation for a pastor: 1) laziness (v. 2); 2) dishonest finances (v. 2); and 3) demagoguery. In this context, “domineering over” means to lord it over someone or some situation. It implies leadership by manipulation and intimidation. See notes on Matt. 20:25–28. Rather, true spiritual leadership is by example (see 1 Tim. 4:12).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:4 chief Shepherd appears. The chief Shepherd is Jesus Christ (cf. Isa. 40:11; Zech. 13:7; John 10:2, 11–12, 16; Heb. 13:20–21). When he appears at the second coming, he will evaluate the ministry of pastors at the judgment seat of Christ (cf. 1 Cor. 3:9–15; 4:5; 2 Cor. 5:9–10). unfading. The Greek word for “unfading” is the name of a flower, the amaranth. crown of glory. Lit., the crown that is eternal glory. In the NT world, crowns were given as marks of victorious achievements (cf. 1 Cor. 9:24–25). Believers are promised crowns of glory, life (James 1:12), righteousness (2 Tim. 4:8), and rejoicing (1 Thess. 2:19), and all are imperishable (1 Cor. 9:25). All the crowns describe certain characteristics of eternal life. See note on 1 Thess. 2:19.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:5 be subject to. See 2:18–3:9. elders. The elders are the pastors, the spiritual leaders of the church (cf. 5:1; notes on 1 Tim. 3:1–7; Titus

1:5–9). The church members, especially the young people, are to give honor, deference, and respect to spiritual leadership. Submission is a fundamental attitude of spiritual maturity (cf. 1 Cor. 16:15; 1 Thess. 5:12–14; Titus 3:1–2; Heb. 13:7, 17). Lack of submission to the elders not only makes the ministry difficult, but also forfeits God’s grace, as noted in the quote from Prov. 3:34 (see note on James 4:6). Clothe yourselves . . . with humility. To “clothe yourselves” lit. means to tie something on oneself with a knot or a bow. This term was often used of a slave putting on an apron over his clothes in order to keep his clothes clean. “Humility” is lit., “lowly mindedness,” an attitude that one is not too good to serve. Humility was not considered a virtue by the ancient world, any more than it is today (but cf. John 13:3–17; Phil. 2:3, 4; see also Prov. 6:16–17; 8:13; Isa. 57:15).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:6 under the mighty hand of God. This is an OT symbol of the power of God working in the experience of men, always accomplishing his sovereign purpose (cf. Ex. 3:19–20; Job 30:20–21; Ezek. 20:33, 37; Mic. 6:8). The readers of Peter’s letter were not to fight the sovereign hand of God, even when it brought them through testings. One of the evidences of lack of submission and humility is impatience with God in his work of humbling believers (see notes on 2 Cor. 12:7–10). at the proper time he may exalt you. Cf. Luke 14:11. God will lift up the suffering, submissive believers in his wisely appointed time. See notes on Job 42.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:7 casting all your anxieties on him. This verse partly quotes and partly interprets Ps. 55:22. “Casting” means “to throw something on something,” as to throw a blanket on a donkey (Luke 19:35). Christians are to cast all of their discontent, discouragement, despair, and suffering on the Lord, and trust him for knowing what he’s doing with their lives (cf. 1 Sam. 1:10–18). Along with submission (1 Pet. 5:5) and humility (vv. 5–6), trust in God is the third attitude necessary for victorious Christian living.

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:8 Be sober-minded. See notes on 1:13 and 4:7. be watchful. Strong confidence in God’s sovereign care does not mean that the believer may live carelessly. The outside evil forces that come against the Christian demand that the Christian stay alert. Your adversary. Greek for a legal opponent in a lawsuit. the devil . . . a roaring lion. The Greek word for “devil” means “slanderer”; thus a malicious enemy who maligns believers. He and his forces are always active, looking for opportunities to overwhelm the believer with temptation, persecution, and discouragement (cf. Ps. 22:13; 104:21; Ezek.

22:25). Satan sows discord, accuses God to men, men to God, and men to men. He will do what he can to drag the Christian out of fellowship with Christ and out of Christian service (cf. Job 1; Luke 22:3; John 13:27; 2 Cor. 4:3–4; Rev. 12). And he constantly accuses believers before God’s throne, attempting to convince God to abandon them (Job 1:6–12; Rev. 12:10).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:9 Resist him, firm in your faith. Cf. James 4:7. “Resist” means “to stand up against.” The way to resist the devil is not with special formulas, or words directed at him and his demons, but by remaining firm in the Christian faith. This means to continue to live in accord with the truth of God’s word (see notes on 2 Cor. 10:3–5). As the believer knows sound doctrine and obeys God’s truth, Satan is withstood (cf. Eph. 6:17). the same . . . suffering. The whole brotherhood, the entire Christian community, is always going through similar trials brought on by the roaring lion who never stops trying to devour believers (cf. 1 Cor. 10:13).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:10 after you have suffered a little while. Christians are to live with the understanding that God’s purposes realized in the future require some pain in the present. While the believer is being personally attacked by the enemy, he is being personally perfected by the Lord, as the next phrase attests (cf. 1:6; also 2 Cor. 1:3–7). who has called you. As always in the NT epistles, an effectual, saving call. See notes on 1 Pet. 1:5; 2:9, 21; 3:9. restore, confirm, strengthen, and establish. These four words all speak of strength and resoluteness. God is working through the Christian’s struggles to produce strength of character. In 5:5–14, Peter elucidated briefly, but in wonderful richness, those attitudes that are necessary for the believer to grow in Christ to effective maturity. These include submission (v. 5), humility (vv. 5–6), trust (v. 7), sober-mindedness (v. 8), vigilant defense (vv. 8–9), hope (v. 10), worship (v. 11), faithfulness (v. 12), and affection (vv. 13–14).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:12 Silvanus. This is the Silas who traveled with Paul and is often mentioned in his epistles. He was a prophet (Acts 15:32) and a Roman citizen (Acts 16:37); he was apparently the one who wrote down Peter’s words and later took this letter to its intended recipients (cf. Introduction: Author and Date).

1 PETER—NOTE ON 5:13 She who is at Babylon. This refers to a church in Rome (cf. Rev. 17–18; Introduction: Background and Setting). Mark, my son. Mark, called John Mark, was the spiritual son of Peter. Tradition indicates that Peter helped him write the Gospel of Mark (cf. Acts 12:12). This is the same Mark who once failed Paul (Acts 13:13; 15:38–39; Col. 4:10), but later became useful again for ministry (2 Tim. 4:11).

Introduction to 2 Peter

Title

The clear claim to authorship in 1:1 by the apostle Peter gives the epistle its title. To distinguish it from Peter's first epistle, it was given the Greek title "Petrou B," or 2 Peter.

Author and Date

The author of 2 Peter is the apostle Peter (see Introduction to 1 Peter). In 2 Pet. 1:1, he makes that claim; in 3:1, he refers to his first letter; in 1:14, he refers to the Lord's prediction of his death (John 21:18–19); and in 2 Pet. 1:16–18, he claims to have been at the transfiguration (Matt. 17:1–4). However, critics have generated more controversy over 2 Peter's authorship and rightful place in the canon of Scripture than over any other NT book. The church fathers were slow in giving it their acceptance. No church father refers to 2 Peter by name until Origen near the beginning of the third century. The ancient church historian Eusebius only included 2 Peter in his list of disputed books, along with James, Jude, 2 John, and 3 John. Even the leading Reformers only hesitatingly accepted it.

The question about differences in Greek style between the two letters has been satisfactorily answered. Peter wrote that he used an amanuensis, Silvanus, in 1 Peter (cf. 1 Pet. 5:12). In 2 Peter, Peter either used a different amanuensis or wrote the letter by himself. The differences in vocabulary between the two letters can be explained by the differences in themes. First Peter was written to help suffering Christians. Second Peter was written to expose false teachers. On the other hand, there are remarkable similarities in the vocabulary of the two books. The salutation, "grace and peace be multiplied to you," is essentially the same in each book. The Greek words rendered "precious," "virtue," "putting off," and "eyewitness" in 2 Peter are used in both letters. Certain rather unusual words found in 2 Peter are also found in Peter's speeches in the Acts of the Apostles. These include "obtained" or "was allotted" (1:1; Acts 1:17); "godliness" or "piety" (2 Pet. 1:3, 6–7; 3:11; Acts 3:12); and "wage" or "gain" or "reward" of wickedness or unrighteousness (2 Pet. 2:13, 15; Acts 1:18). Both letters also refer to the same OT event (2 Pet. 2:5; 1 Pet. 3:18–20). Some scholars have pointed out that there are as many similarities in vocabulary between 1 and 2 Peter as there are between 1 Timothy and Titus, two letters almost universally believed to have been written by Paul.

The differences in themes also explain certain emphases, such as why one letter teaches that the second coming is near, and one deals with its delay. First Peter, ministering especially to suffering Christians, focuses on the imminency of Christ as a means of encouraging the Christians. Second Peter, dealing with scoffers, emphasizes the reasons why that imminent return of Christ has not yet occurred. Other proposed differences invented by the critics, such as the contradiction between including the resurrection of Christ in one letter and the transfiguration of Christ in the other, seem to be contrived.

Moreover, it is seemingly irrational that a false teacher would spuriously write a letter against false teachers. No unusual, new, or false doctrines appear in 2 Peter. So, if 2 Peter were a forgery, it would be a forgery written by a fool for no reason at all. This is too much to believe. The conclusion to the question of authorship is that, when the writer introduced the letter and referred to himself as Peter, he was writing the truth.

Nero died in A.D. 68, and tradition says Peter died in Nero's persecution. The epistle may have been written just before his death (1:14; c. A.D. 67–68).

Background and Setting

Since the time of the writing and sending of his first letter, Peter had become increasingly concerned about false teachers who were infiltrating the churches in Asia Minor. Though these false teachers had already caused trouble, Peter expected that their heretical doctrines and immoral lifestyles would result in more damage in the future. Thus Peter, in an almost last will and testament (1:13–15), wrote to warn the beloved believers in Christ about the doctrinal dangers they were facing.

Peter does not explicitly say where he was when he wrote this letter, as he does in 1 Peter (1 Pet. 5:13). But the consensus seems to be that Peter wrote this letter from prison in Rome, where he was facing imminent death. Shortly after this letter was written, Peter was martyred, according to reliable tradition, by being crucified upside down (see note on John 21:18–19).

Peter says nothing in the salutation about the recipients of this letter. But according to 2 Pet. 3:1, Peter was writing another epistle to the same people to whom he wrote 1 Peter. In his first letter, he spelled out that he was writing “to those who are elect exiles of the dispersion in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia” (1 Pet. 1:1). These provinces were located in an area of Asia Minor, which is modern Turkey. The Christians to whom Peter wrote were mostly Gentiles (see note on 2 Pet. 1:1).

Historical and Theological Themes

Second Peter was written for the purpose of exposing, thwarting, and defeating the invasion of false teachers into the church. Peter intended to instruct Christians in how to defend themselves against these false teachers and their deceptive lies. This book is the most graphic and penetrating exposé of false teachers in Scripture, comparable only to Jude.

The description of the false teachers is somewhat generic. Peter does not identify some specific false religion, cult, or system of teaching. In a general characterization of false teachers, he informs that they teach destructive heresies. They deny Christ and twist the Scriptures. They bring true faith into disrepute. And they mock the second coming of Christ. But Peter was just as concerned to show the immoral character of these teachers as he was to expose their teaching. Thus, he describes them in more detail than he describes their doctrines. Wickedness is not the product of sound doctrine, but of “destructive heresies” (2:1).

Other themes for this letter can be discerned in the midst of Peter’s polemic against the false teachers. He wanted to motivate his readers to continue to develop their Christian character (1:5–11). In so doing, he explains wonderfully how a believer can have assurance of his salvation. Peter also wanted to persuade his readers of the divine character of the apostolic writings (1:12–21). Near the end of the letter, he presents reasons for the delay in Christ’s second coming (3:1–13).

Another recurring theme is the importance of knowledge. The word “knowledge” appears in some form 16 times in these three short chapters. It is not too much to say that Peter’s primary solution to false teaching is knowledge of true doctrine. Other distinctive features of 2 Peter include a precise statement on the divine origin of Scripture (1:20–21); the future destruction of the world by fire (3:8–13); and the recognition of Paul’s letters as inspired Scripture (3:15–16).

Interpretive Challenges

Perhaps the most important challenge in the epistle is to rightly interpret 1:19–21, because of its far-reaching implications with regard to the nature and authenticity of Scripture. That passage, along with 2 Tim. 3:15–17, is vital to a sound view of the Bible’s inspiration. Peter’s remark that the Lord “bought” false teachers (2 Pet. 2:1) poses a challenge interpretively and theologically with regard to the nature of the atonement. The identity of the angels who sinned (2:4) also challenges the interpreter. Many who believe that the saved can be lost again, use 2:18–22 for their argument. That passage, directed at false teachers, must be clarified so as not to contradict a similar statement to believers in 1:4. Further, whom does God not want to perish (3:9)? All of these matters will be treated in the notes.

THE SECOND LETTER OF PETER

Greeting

2 PETER 1 †Simeon [1] Peter, a servant [2] and apostle of Jesus Christ, To those who have obtained a faith of equal standing with ours by the righteousness of our God and Savior Jesus Christ: 2†May grace and peace be multiplied to you in the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord.

Make Your Calling and Election Sure

3†His divine power has granted to us all things that pertain to life and godliness, through the knowledge of him who called us to [3] his own glory and excellence, [4] 4†by which he has granted to us his precious and very great promises, so that through them you may become partakers of the divine nature, having escaped from the corruption that is in the world because of sinful desire. 5†For this very reason, make every effort to supplement your faith with virtue, [5] and virtue with knowledge, 6†and knowledge with self-control, and self-control with steadfastness, and steadfastness with godliness, 7†and godliness with brotherly affection, and brotherly affection with love. 8†For if these qualities [6] are yours and are increasing, they keep you from being ineffective or unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. 9†For whoever lacks these qualities is so nearsighted that he is blind, having forgotten that he was cleansed from his former sins. 10†Therefore, brothers, [7] be all the more diligent to make your calling and election sure, for if you practice these qualities you will never fall. 11†For in this way there will be richly provided for you an entrance into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

12†Therefore I intend always to remind you of these qualities, though you know them and are established in the truth that you have. 13†I think it right, as long as I am in this body, [8] to stir you up by way of reminder, 14†since I know that the putting off of my body will be soon, as our Lord Jesus Christ made clear to me. 15†And I will make every effort so that after my departure you may be able at any time to recall these things.

Christ's Glory and the Prophetic Word

<sup>16</sup>†For we did not follow cleverly devised myths when we made known to you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but we were eyewitnesses of his majesty. <sup>17</sup>†For when he received honor and glory from God the Father, and the voice was borne to him by the Majestic Glory, “This is my beloved Son, [9] with whom I am well pleased,” <sup>18</sup>†we ourselves heard this very voice borne from heaven, for we were with him on the holy mountain. <sup>19</sup>†And we have something more sure, the prophetic word, to which you will do well to pay attention as to a lamp shining in a dark place, until the day dawns and the morning star rises in your hearts, <sup>20</sup>†knowing this first of all, that no prophecy of Scripture comes from someone's own interpretation. <sup>21</sup>†For no prophecy was ever produced by the will of man, but men spoke from God as they were carried along by the Holy Spirit.

False Prophets and Teachers

2 PETER 2 †But false prophets also arose among the people, just as there will be false teachers among you, who will secretly bring in destructive heresies, even denying the Master who bought them, bringing upon themselves swift destruction. <sup>2</sup>†And many will follow their sensuality, and because of them the way of truth will be blasphemed. <sup>3</sup>†And in their greed they will exploit you with false words. Their condemnation from long ago is not idle, and their destruction is not asleep.

<sup>4</sup>†For if God did not spare angels when they sinned, but cast them into hell [1] and committed them to chains [2] of gloomy darkness to be kept until the judgment; <sup>5</sup>†if he did not spare the ancient world, but preserved Noah, a herald of righteousness, with seven others, when he brought a flood upon the world of the ungodly; <sup>6</sup>†if by turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah to ashes he condemned them to extinction, making them an example of what is going to happen to the ungodly; [3] <sup>7</sup>†and if he rescued righteous Lot, greatly distressed by the sensual conduct of the wicked <sup>8</sup>(for as that righteous man lived among them day after day, he was tormenting his righteous soul over their lawless deeds that he saw and heard); <sup>9</sup>†then the Lord knows how to rescue the godly from trials, [4] and to keep the unrighteous under punishment until the day of judgment, <sup>10</sup>†and especially those who indulge in the lust of defiling passion and despise authority.

Bold and willful, they do not tremble as they blaspheme the glorious ones, <sup>11</sup>†whereas angels, though greater in might and power, do not pronounce a blasphemous judgment against them before the Lord. <sup>12</sup>†But these, like irrational animals, creatures of instinct, born to be caught and destroyed, blaspheming about matters of which they are ignorant, will also be destroyed in their destruction, <sup>13</sup>†suffering wrong as the wage for their wrongdoing. They count it pleasure to revel in the daytime. They are blots and blemishes, reveling in their deceptions, [5] while they feast with you. <sup>14</sup>†They have eyes full of adultery, insatiable for sin. They entice unsteady souls. They have hearts trained in greed. Accursed children! <sup>15</sup>†Forsaking the right way, they have gone astray. They have followed the way of Balaam, the son of Beor, who loved gain from wrongdoing, <sup>16</sup>but was rebuked for his own transgression; a speechless donkey spoke with human voice and restrained the prophet's madness.

<sup>17</sup>† These are waterless springs and mists driven by a storm. For them the gloom of utter darkness has been reserved. <sup>18</sup>† For, speaking loud boasts of folly, they entice by sensual passions of the flesh those who are barely escaping from those who live in error. <sup>19</sup>† They promise them freedom, but they themselves are slaves [6] of corruption. For whatever overcomes a person, to that he is enslaved. <sup>20</sup>† For if, after they have escaped the defilements of the world through the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, they are again entangled in them and overcome, the last state has become worse for them than the first. <sup>21</sup>† For it would have been better for them never to have known the way of righteousness than after knowing it to turn back from the holy commandment delivered to them. <sup>22</sup>† What the true proverb says has happened to them: “The dog returns to its own vomit, and the sow, after washing herself, returns to wallow in the mire.”

The Day of the Lord Will Come

2 PETER 3 † This is now the second letter that I am writing to you, beloved. In both of them I am stirring up your sincere mind by way of reminder, <sup>2</sup>† that you should remember the predictions of the holy prophets and the commandment of the Lord and Savior through your apostles, <sup>3</sup>† knowing this first of all, that scoffers will come in the last days with scoffing, following their own sinful desires. <sup>4</sup>† They will say, “Where is the promise of his coming? For ever since the fathers fell asleep, all things are continuing as they were from the beginning of creation.” <sup>5</sup>† For they deliberately overlook this fact, that the heavens existed long ago, and the earth was formed out of water and through water by the word of God, <sup>6</sup>† and that by means of these the world that then existed was deluged with water and perished. <sup>7</sup>† But by the same word the heavens and earth that now exist are stored up for fire, being kept until the day of judgment and destruction of the ungodly.

<sup>8</sup>† But do not overlook this one fact, beloved, that with the Lord one day is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day. <sup>9</sup>† The Lord is not slow to fulfill his promise as some count slowness, but is patient toward you, [\[1\]](#) not wishing that any should perish, but that all should reach repentance. <sup>10</sup>† But the day of the Lord will come like a thief, and then the heavens will pass away with a roar, and the heavenly bodies [\[2\]](#) will be burned up and dissolved, and the earth and the works that are done on it will be exposed. [\[3\]](#)

<sup>11</sup>† Since all these things are thus to be dissolved, what sort of people ought you to be in lives of holiness and godliness, <sup>12</sup>† waiting for and hastening the coming of the day of God, because of which the heavens will be set on fire and dissolved, and the heavenly bodies will melt as they burn! <sup>13</sup>† But according to his promise we are waiting for new heavens and a new earth in which righteousness dwells.

Final Words

<sup>14</sup>† Therefore, beloved, since you are waiting for these, be diligent to be found by him without spot or blemish, and at peace. <sup>15</sup>†† And count the patience of our Lord as salvation, just as our beloved brother Paul also wrote to you according to the wisdom given him, <sup>16</sup>† as he does in all his letters when he speaks in them of these matters. There are some things in them that are hard to understand, which the ignorant and unstable twist to their own destruction, as they do the other Scriptures. <sup>17</sup>† You therefore, beloved, knowing this beforehand, take care that you are not carried away with the error of lawless people and lose your own stability. <sup>18</sup>† But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. To him be the glory both now and to the day of eternity. Amen.

Study Notes

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:1 Simeon Peter. See Introduction. a servant and apostle. Peter identifies himself with a balance of humility and dignity. As a servant, he was on equal basis with other Christians—an obedient slave of Christ. As an apostle, he was unique, divinely called, and commissioned as an eyewitness to the resurrection of Christ (see notes on Rom. 1:1). To those. The recipients of this letter are the same as those who received Peter's first letter (cf. 2 Pet. 3:1; 1 Pet. 1:1; see Introductions to 1, 2 Peter). obtained. An uncommon word often referring to obtaining something by lot (cf. Acts 1:17). It can mean "attaining by divine will." Here, Peter was emphasizing that salvation was not attained by personal effort, skill, or worthiness, but came purely from God's grace. faith. Peter is speaking of a subjective faith, i.e., the Christian's power to believe for his salvation. Faith is the capacity to believe (Eph. 2:8–9). Even though faith and belief express the human side of salvation, God still must grant that faith. God initiates faith when the Holy Spirit awakens the dead soul in response to hearing the word of God (cf. Acts 11:21; Eph. 2:8; Phil. 1:2). equal. Generally the Greek word, which is translated "equal standing," was used to designate equal in rank, position, honor, standing, price, or value. It was used in the ancient world with strangers and foreigners who were given equal citizenship in a city. Here, Peter was emphasizing that Christians have all received the same priceless saving faith. There are no first-and second-class Christians in spiritual, racial, or gender distinctions (cf. Gal. 3:28). Since Peter was writing to mostly Gentiles, he may have been emphasizing that they have received the same faith as the Jews (cf. Acts 10:44–48; 11:17–18). by the righteousness. Peter's point is that believers share the equal gift of salvation because God's righteousness is imputed to them. That righteousness recognizes no distinction between people except that the sins of some are more heinous than others. So, not only do they have faith because God gives it to them, they are saved only because God imputes righteousness to them (see notes on Rom. 3:26; 4:5; 2 Cor. 5:21; Phil. 3:8–9). our God and Savior Jesus Christ. The Greek construction has only one article before this phrase, making the entire phrase refer to the same person. Thus, Peter is identifying Jesus Christ as both Savior and God (cf. Isa. 43:3, 11; 45:15, 21; 60:16; Rom. 9:5; Col. 2:9; Titus 2:13; Heb. 1:8).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:2 knowledge. This is a strengthened form of "knowledge" implying a larger, more thorough, and intimate knowledge. The Christian's precious faith is built on knowing the truth about God (cf. v. 3). Christianity is not a mystical religion, but is based in objective, historical, revealed, rational truth from God and intended to be understood and believed. The deeper and wider that knowledge of the Lord, the more “grace and peace” are multiplied.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:3 His divine power. “His” refers to Jesus Christ. Christ’s power is the source of the believer’s sufficiency and perseverance (cf. Matt. 24:30; Mark 5:30; Luke 4:14; 5:17; Rom. 1:4; 2 Cor. 12:9). things that pertain to life. The genuine Christian is eternally secure in his salvation and will persevere and grow because he has received everything necessary to sustain eternal life through Christ’s power. godliness. To be godly is to live reverently, loyally, and obediently toward God. Peter means that the genuine believer ought not to ask God for something more (as if something necessary to sustain his growth, strength, and perseverance was missing) to become godly, because he already has every spiritual resource to manifest, sustain, and perfect godly living. knowledge of him. “Knowledge” is a key word in 2 Peter (2 Pet. 1:2, 5–6, 8; 2:20; 3:18). Throughout Scripture, it implies an intimate knowledge (Amos 3:2). The knowledge of Christ emphasized here is not a superficial knowledge, or a mere surface awareness of the facts about Christ, but a genuine, personal sharing of life with Christ, based on repentance from sin and personal faith in him (cf. Matt. 7:21). called us to his own glory and excellence. This call, as always when mentioned in the NT epistles, is the effectual call to salvation (cf. 1 Pet. 1:15; 2:21; 5:10; see note on Rom. 8:30). This saving call is based on the sinner’s understanding of Christ’s revealed majesty and moral excellence evidencing that he is Lord and Savior. This implies that there must be a clear presentation of Christ’s person and work as the God-Man in evangelism, which attracts men to salvation (cf. 1 Cor. 2:1–2). The cross and resurrection most clearly reveal his “glory and excellence.”

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:4 precious and very great promises. That is, the promises of abundant and eternal life. partakers of the divine nature. This expression is not different from the concepts of being born again, born from above (cf. John 3:3; James 1:18; 1 Pet. 1:23), being in Christ (cf. Rom. 8:1), or being the home of the Trinity (John 14:17–23). The precious promises of salvation result in becoming God’s children in the present age (John 1:12; Rom. 8:9; Gal. 2:20; Col. 1:27), and thereby sharing in God’s nature by the possession of his eternal life. Christians do not become little gods, but they are “new creations” (2 Cor. 5:17) and have the Holy Spirit living in them (1 Cor. 6:19–20). Moreover, believers will partake of the divine nature in a greater way when they bear a glorified body like Jesus Christ (Phil. 3:20–21; 1 John 3:1–3). escaped from the corruption. The word “corruption” has the idea of something decomposing or decaying. “Escaped” depicts a successful flight from danger. At the time of salvation, the believer escapes from the power that the rottenness in the world has over him through his fallen, sinful nature.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:5 For this very reason. Because of all the God-given blessings in vv. 3–4, the believer cannot be indifferent or self-satisfied. Such an abundance of divine grace calls for total dedication. make every effort. That is, making maximum effort. The Christian life is not lived to the honor of God without effort. Even though God has poured his divine power into the believer, the Christian himself is required to make every disciplined effort alongside of what God has done (cf. Phil. 2:12–13; Col. 1:28–29). supplement your faith. “Supplement” is to give lavishly and generously. In Greek culture, the word was used for a choirmaster who was responsible for supplying everything that was needed for his choir. The word never meant to equip sparingly, but to supply lavishly for a noble performance. God has given us faith and all the graces necessary for godliness (2 Pet. 1:3–4). We add to those by our diligent devotion to personal righteousness. virtue. First in Peter’s list of virtues is a word that, in classical Greek, meant the God-given ability to perform heroic deeds. It also came to mean that quality of life that made someone stand out as excellent. It never meant cloistered excellence, or excellence of attitude, but excellence that is demonstrated in life. Peter is here writing of moral energy, the power that performs deeds of excellence. knowledge. This means understanding, correct insight, truth properly comprehended and applied. This virtue involves a diligent study and pursuit of truth in the word of God.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:6 self-control. Lit., “holding oneself in.” In Peter’s day, self-control was used of athletes, who were to be self-restrained and self-disciplined. Thus, a Christian is to control the flesh, the passions, and the bodily desires, rather than allowing himself to be controlled by them (cf. 1 Cor. 9:27; Gal. 5:23). Moral excellence, guided by knowledge, disciplines desire and makes it the servant, not the master, of one’s life. steadfastness. That is, patience or endurance in doing what is right, never giving in to temptation or trial. Perseverance is that spiritual staying power that will die before it gives in. It is the virtue that can endure, not simply with resignation, but with a vibrant hope. godliness. See note on 2 Pet. 1:3.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:7 brotherly affection. I.e., brotherly kindness, mutual sacrifice for one another (cf. 1 John 4:20). love. See 1 Cor. 13; 1 Pet. 4:8.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:8 ineffective. To be ineffective is to be inactive, indolent, and empty (cf. Titus 1:12; James 2:20–22). With these virtues increasing in one’s life (2 Pet. 1:5–7), a Christian will not be useless or ineffective. or unfruitful. I.e., unproductive (cf. Matt. 13:22; Eph. 5:11; 2 Thess. 3:14; Jude 12). When these Christian qualities are not present in a believer’s life (2 Pet. 1:5–7), he will be indistinguishable from an evildoer or a superficial believer. But when these qualities are increasing in a Christian’s life, there is the manifestation of the “divine nature” within the believer (see note on v. 4).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:9 these qualities. The qualities mentioned in vv. 5–7 (see v. 10). nearsighted . . . blind. A professing Christian who is missing the virtues mentioned above is, therefore, unable to discern his true spiritual condition, and thus can have no assurance of his salvation. forgotten. The failure to diligently pursue spiritual virtues produces spiritual amnesia. Such a person, unable to discern his spiritual condition, will have no confidence about his profession of faith. He may be saved and possess all the blessings of vv. 3–4, but without the excellencies of vv. 5–7, he will live in doubt and fear.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:10 make your calling and election sure. This expresses the bull’s-eye Peter has been shooting at in vv. 5–9. Though God is “sure” who his elect are and has given them an eternally secure salvation (see notes on 1 Pet. 1:1–5; cf. Rom. 8:31–39), the Christian might not always have assurance of his salvation. Security is the Holy Spirit-revealed fact that salvation is forever. Assurance is one’s confidence that he possesses that eternal salvation. In other words, the believer who pursues the spiritual qualities mentioned above guarantees to himself by spiritual fruit that he was called (cf. 2 Pet. 1:3; Rom. 8:30; 1 Pet. 2:21) and chosen (cf. 1 Pet. 1:2) by God to salvation. never fall. As the Christian pursues the qualities enumerated by Peter (2 Pet. 1:5–7) and sees that his life is useful and fruitful (v. 8), he will not stumble into doubt, despair, fear, or questioning, but enjoy assurance that he is saved.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:11 richly provided for you an entrance into the eternal kingdom. Peter piles up the words to bring joy to the weary Christian’s heart. An abundant entrance into eternal heaven is the hope and reality for a Christian who lives a faithful, fruitful life here on earth. Peter’s point is that a Christian who pursues the listed virtues (vv. 5–7) will not only enjoy assurance in the present, but a full, rich reward in the future life (cf. 1 Cor. 4:5; Rev. 22:12)

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:12–13 I intend always. Truth always needs repetition because believers forget so easily. Cf. 2 Thess. 2:5; Jude 5.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:13–14 body. Lit., “tent” (see esv footnote). Death is described aptly as laying aside one’s earthly dwelling (cf. 2 Cor. 5:1). Peter was likely in his seventies as he wrote this letter (likely from a Roman prison) and anticipated dying soon. Nero’s persecution had begun and he was martyred in it, soon after writing this epistle. Tradition says he was crucified upside down, refusing to be crucified like his Lord.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:14 Christ made clear to me. Christ had prophesied the death Peter would die almost 40 years earlier (see note on John 21:18–19).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:15 after my departure. Peter wanted to make certain that after he died, God’s people would have a permanent reminder of the truth, thus he penned this inspired letter.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:16 cleverly devised myths. The word for “myths” was used to refer to mythical stories about gods and miracles (cf. 1 Tim. 1:4; 4:7; 2 Tim. 4:4; Titus 1:14). Realizing that false leaders and their followers would try to discredit this letter, and that he was probably already being accused of concocting tales and myths in order to get people to follow him so he could amass wealth, power, and prestige as false teachers were motivated to do, Peter gave evidences in the following verses to prove that he wrote the truth of God as a genuinely inspired writer. made known. This word is a somewhat technical term for imparting a new revelation—something previously hidden, but now revealed. the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Since there is only one definite article with this phrase, the meaning is, “the powerful coming,” or “the coming in power.” The false teachers who were opposing Peter had tried to debunk the doctrine of the second coming of Christ (see 2 Pet. 3:3–4) about which Peter had spoken and written (1 Pet. 1:3–7, 13; 4:13). eyewitnesses of his majesty. The “we” that begins this verse refers to the apostles. In one sense, all of the apostles had been eyewitnesses to Christ’s majesty, especially his miracles, resurrection body, and ascension into heaven. Peter, however, is referring to a more specific event that he will describe in the next verse. The kingdom splendor of Christ revealed at this event was intended as a preview of his majesty to be manifested at his second coming (cf. Matt. 16:28; see notes on 17:1–6). The transfiguration was a glimpse of the glory to be unveiled at the final revelation, the apocalypse of Christ (Rev. 1:1). It must be noted that Jesus’ earthly ministry of healing, teaching, and gathering souls into his kingdom was a preview of the character of the earthly kingdom he will establish at his return.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:17 Majestic Glory. A reference to the glory cloud on the Mount of Transfiguration from which God spoke to the disciples (Matt. 17:5). This is my beloved Son. This means, “This One is in essence with me.” The Father is thus affirming the deity of Christ (cf. Matt. 17:5; Luke 9:27–36).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:18 we were with him. Peter implied that there was no reason to believe the false teachers who denied the majesty and second coming of Christ, since they were not on the Mount of Transfiguration to see the preview of the kingdom and glory of Christ, as were he, James, and John.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:19 the prophetic word. The “prophetic word” refers not just to the OT major and minor prophets, but to the entire OT. Of course, all of the OT was written by “prophets” in the truest sense, since they spoke and wrote God’s word, which was the task of a prophet, and they looked forward, in some sense, to the coming Messiah (cf. Luke 24:27). more sure. This translation could indicate that the eyewitness account of Christ’s majesty at the transfiguration confirmed the Scriptures. However, the Greek word order is crucial in that it does not say that. It says, “And we have more sure the prophetic word.” That original arrangement of the sentence supports the interpretation that Peter is ranking Scripture over experience. The prophetic word (Scripture) is more complete, more permanent, and more authoritative than the experience of anyone. More specifically, the word of God is a more reliable verification of the teachings about the person, atonement, and second coming of Christ than even the genuine first-hand experiences of the apostles themselves. you will do well to pay attention. Peter was warning believers that since they would be exposed to false teachers, they must pay careful attention to Scripture. a lamp shining in a dark place. The murky darkness of this fallen world keeps people from seeing the truth until the light shines. The light is the lamp of revelation, the word of God (cf. Ps. 119:105; John 17:17). the day dawns and the morning star rises. These simultaneous images mark the parousia, i.e., the appearing of Jesus Christ (cf. Luke 1:78; Rev. 2:28; 22:16). in your hearts. The second coming will have not only an externally transforming impact on the universe (2 Pet. 3:7–13), but also an internally transforming impact on those believers who are alive when Jesus returns, forever removing any of their remaining doubts. The perfect, but limited, revelation of the Scriptures will be replaced with the perfect and complete revelation of Jesus Christ at the second coming (cf. John 14:7–11; 21:25). Then the Scriptures will have been fulfilled; and believers, made like Christ (1 John 3:1–2), will have perfect knowledge and all prophecy will be abolished (see note on 1 Cor. 13:8–10).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:20 knowing this first. A call to recognize his truth as priority, namely that Scripture is not of human origin. prophecy of Scripture. I.e., all of Scripture. This refers primarily to all of the OT, and then by implication to all of the NT (see notes on 3:15–16). someone’s own interpretation. The Greek word for “interpretation” has the idea of a “loosing,” as if to say no Scripture is the result of any human being privately “untying” and “loosing” the truth. Peter’s point is not so much about how to interpret Scripture, but rather how Scripture originated, and what its source was. The false prophets untied and loosed their own ideas. But no part of God’s revelation was unveiled or revealed from a human source or out of the prophet’s unaided understanding (see 1:21).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 1:21 will of man. As Scripture is not of human origin, neither is it the result of human will. The emphasis in the phrase is that no part of Scripture was ever at any time produced because men wanted it so. The Bible is not the product of human effort. The prophets, in fact, sometimes wrote what they could not fully understand (1 Pet. 1:10–11), but were nonetheless faithful to write what God revealed to them. carried along by the Holy Spirit. Grammatically, this means that they were continually carried or borne along by the Spirit of God (cf. Luke 1:70; Acts 27:15, 17). The Holy Spirit thus is the divine author and originator, the producer of the Scriptures. In the OT alone, the human writers refer to their writings as the words of God over 3,800 times (e.g., Jer. 1:4; cf. 3:2; Rom. 3:2; 1 Cor. 2:10). Though the human writers of Scripture were active rather than passive in the process of writing Scripture, God the Holy Spirit superintended them so that, using their own individual personalities, thought processes, and vocabulary, they composed and recorded without error the exact words God wanted written. The original copies of Scripture are therefore inspired, i.e., God-breathed (cf. 2 Tim. 3:16) and inerrant, i.e., without error (John 10:34–35; 17:17; Titus 1:2). Peter defined the process of inspiration that created an inerrant original text (cf. Prov. 30:5; 1 Cor. 14:36; 1 Thess. 2:13).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:1 false prophets. Peter described false teachers in detail in this chapter so that Christians would always recognize their characteristics and methods. The greatest sin of Christ-rejecters and the most damning work of Satan is misrepresentation of the truth and its consequent deception. Nothing is more wicked than for someone to claim to speak for God to the salvation of souls when in reality he speaks for Satan to the damnation of souls (cf. Deut. 13:1–18; 18:20; Jer. 23; Ezek. 13; Matt. 7:15; 23:1–36; 24:4–5; Rom. 16:17; 2 Cor. 11:13–14; Gal. 3:1–2; 2 Tim. 4:3–4). among the people. “The people” is used in the NT of Israel (cf. Acts 26:17, 23). Peter’s point, though, is that Satan has always endeavored to infiltrate groups of believers with the deceptions of false teachers (cf. John 8:44). Since Eve, he has been in the deceit business (see notes on 2 Cor. 11:3–4). secretly bring in destructive heresies. The false teachers parade themselves as Christian pastors, teachers, and evangelists (cf. Jude 4). “Heresies” means self-designed religious lies that lead to division and faction (cf. 1 Cor. 11:19; Gal. 5:20). The Greek word for “destructive” basically means damnation. This word is used six times in this letter and always speaks of final damnation (2 Pet. 2:1–3; 3:7, 16). This is why it is so tragic when a church makes a virtue out of the toleration of unscriptural teachings and ideas in the name of love and unity (see 2 Thess. 3:14; 1 Tim. 4:1–5; Titus 3:9–11). denying the Master. This phrase exposes the depth of the crime and guilt of the false teachers. This unusual Greek word for “Master” or “Lord” appears 10 times in the NT and means one who has supreme authority, whether human authority or divine authority. Peter here warns that false prophets deny the sovereign lordship of Jesus Christ. Though their heresies may include the denial of the virgin birth, deity, bodily resurrection, and second coming of Christ, the false teachers’ basic error is that they will not submit their lives to the rule of Christ. All false religions have an erroneous Christology. who bought them. The terms that Peter used here are more analogical than theological, speaking of a human master over a household. The master bought slaves, and the slaves owed the master allegiance as their sovereign. (For an OT parallel, see Deut. 32:5–6, where God is said to have bought Israel, though they rejected him.) Doctrinally, this analogy can be viewed as responsibility for submission to God, which the false teachers had refused. Beyond this, they are probably claiming that they were Christians, so that the Lord had bought them actually and personally. With some sarcasm, Peter mocks such a claim by writing of their coming damnation. Thus, the passage is describing the sinister character of the false teachers who claim Christ, but deny his lordship over their lives. swift destruction. This refers to either physical death or judgment at the return of Christ (Prov. 29:1; 2 Thess. 1:7–10).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:2 many will follow their sensuality. Many people will profess to be Christians but deny Christ’s lordship over their lives, refusing to live as obedient servants to Christ and his word, following instead the lusts of the flesh, the world, and the devil. Such nominal Christians tragically will be included in the Lord's condemnation of hypocrites at the judgment (Matt. 7:21–23; cf. Jude 4, 7). Denying the lordship of Christ while claiming to be a believer destructively infects other people and discredits the gospel. the way of truth will be blasphemed. The world mocks and scoffs at the gospel of Jesus Christ because of nominal Christians who do not follow the Lord they claim, and have been unmasked as hypocritical people.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:3 in their greed. That is, uncontrolled greed. Peter observed that the underlying motive of the false teachers was not love of the truth, but love of money (see v. 14). They exploited people through their lies. Their condemnation . . . is not idle. The principle that God is going to damn false teachers was set in place in eternity past, repeated throughout the OT, and is “not idle” in the sense that it has not worn out or become ineffective. It is still potent and will come to pass (see Jude 4). their destruction is not asleep. Peter is personifying destruction as if destruction were an executioner who is fully awake and alert, ready to act. Because God is by nature a God of truth, he will judge all liars and deceivers (cf. Prov. 6:19; 19:5, 9; Isa. 9:15; 28:15, 22; Jer. 9:3, 5; 14:14; 23:25–26; Rev. 21:8, 27).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:4 if. This is better translated “since” because there is no doubt about the history of judgment that Peter is about to recount. Verses 4–10 are one long sentence with the conclusion to the “since” clause beginning in v. 9. Lest anyone think that God is too loving and merciful to judge the wicked false teachers and their deceived people, Peter gives three powerful illustrations of past divine judgment on the wicked. These illustrations set the precedents for the future and final judgment on liars and deceivers. Though God has no pleasure in the death of the wicked (Ezek. 33:11), he must judge wickedness because his holiness requires it (2 Thess. 1:7–9). angels when they sinned. These angels, according to Jude 6, “did not stay within their own position of authority,” i.e., they entered men who promiscuously cohabited with women. Apparently this is a reference to the fallen angels of Gen. 6 (sons of God): 1) before the flood (2 Pet. 2:5; Gen. 6:1–3) who left their normal state and lusted after women, and 2) before the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah (2 Pet. 2:6; Gen. 19). See notes on Gen. 6:1–2 and Jude 6. cast them into hell. Peter borrows a word from Greek mythology for hell, tartarus. The Greeks taught that tartarus was a place lower than Hades reserved for the most wicked of human beings, gods, and demons. The Jews eventually came to use this term to describe the place where fallen angels were sent. It defined for them the lowest hell, the deepest pit, the most terrible place of torture and eternal suffering. Jesus, in spirit, entered that place when his body was in the grave, and proclaimed triumph over the demons during the time between his death and resurrection (see notes on Col. 2:14; 1 Pet. 3:18–19). gloomy darkness. The demons feared going there and begged Jesus during his life on earth not to send them there (cf. Matt. 8:29; Luke 8:31). Not all demons are bound. Many roam the heavens and earth (cf. Rev. 12:7–9). Some are temporarily bound (see notes on Rev. 9:1–12). These were, because of their sin in Gen. 6, permanently bound in darkness. kept until the judgment. These permanently incarcerated demons are like prisoners who are awaiting final sentencing. Tartarus is only temporary in the sense that in the day of judgment, the wicked angels confined there will be ultimately cast into the lake of fire (Rev. 20:10).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:5 did not spare the ancient world. The second illustration serving as precedent for God’s future judgment on false teachers is the judgment on the ancient world through the worldwide flood (cf. Gen. 6–8). The human race was reduced to eight people by that judgment (cf. 1 Pet. 3:20). a herald of righteousness. See Gen. 6:9; 7:1. His life spoke of righteousness as he called people to repent and avoid the flood judgment.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:6 Sodom and Gomorrah. The third precedent for a future divine judgment on the wicked is the total destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah and the other lesser surrounding cities (cf. Gen. 13; 18:16–33; 19:1–38; Deut. 29:23). This judgment destroyed every person in the area by incineration. See notes on Jude 7. making them an example. That is, a model, or a pattern. God sent an unmistakable message to all future generations that wickedness results in judgment.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:7–8 rescued righteous Lot. He was righteous, as all the saved are, by faith in the true God. Righteousness was imputed to him, by grace through faith, as it was to Abraham (Gen. 15:6; Rom. 4:3, 11, 22–23). There was spiritual weakness in Lot (Gen. 19:6), e.g., immorality (Gen. 19:8) and drunkenness (Gen. 19:33–35). His heart was in Sodom (Gen. 19:16), yet he did hate the sins of his culture and strongly sought ways to protect God’s angels from harm. He obeyed the Lord in not looking back at Sodom (Gen. 19). In both of the illustrations where God rendered a wholesale judgment on all living people (once on the whole earth, and once in the whole region of the plain south of the Dead Sea), Peter pointed out that God’s people were rescued (2 Pet. 2:5; cf. v. 9). The Greek word for “distressed” implies that Lot was troubled deeply and tortured (the meaning of “tormenting”) with the immoral, outrageous behavior of the people living in and around Sodom and Gomorrah. Tragically, it is ordinary for believers today no longer to be shocked by the rampant sin in their society.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:9 to rescue the godly from trials. The Greek word for “trials” can mean “an attack with intent to destroy” (cf. Mark 8:11; Luke 4:12; 22:28; Acts 20:29; Rev. 3:10) and refers to severe divine judgment. The pattern of the plan of God is to rescue the godly before his judgment falls on the wicked. to keep the unrighteous. The wicked are kept like prisoners awaiting the sentencing that will send them to their eternal prison (cf. 2 Pet. 2:4). The final judgment on the wicked is called the great white throne judgment (Rev. 20:11–15) where all the ungodly of all the ages will be raised, judged finally, and cast into the lake of fire.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:10 indulge in the lust. Cf. Jude 6. Like the wicked of Noah’s and Lot’s time, the false teachers of Peter’s era were slaves to the corrupt desires of the flesh. despise authority. “Authority” comes from the same Greek word as “lord” (1:2). The false teachers identified with Christ outwardly, but they would not live under his lordship. The two major characteristics of false teachers are emphasized in this verse: 1) lust and 2) arrogance. Bold and willful. “Bold” is to be brazen, audacious, and defiant. “Willful” is to be obstinate, determined in one’s own way. blaspheme the glorious ones. Cf. Jude 8. To revile or speak evil is to ridicule and blaspheme. “Glorious ones” were probably wicked angels. Wicked angels have a level of existence in the supernatural world that has a dignity and a transcendent quality about it that is beyond humanity (Eph. 6:12). A certain honor belongs to those who transcend time. Consequently, there must be no flippancy regarding Satan and his angels. It may even be that these teachers tried to excuse their wicked lusts by pointing to the angels in Gen. 6 “who did not stay within their own position of authority” (Jude 6). The blasphemy of even bad angels by the false teachers demonstrated their arrogance and antipathy toward any authority, be it good or bad.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:11 angels, though greater in might and power. A reference to the holy angels, who are greater in power than human beings. do not pronounce a blasphemous judgment. Unlike false teachers who are defiant toward higher powers, the holy angels so revere their Lord that they will not speak insults against any authority. Even the archangel Michael, recognizing the great presence and power of Satan, refused to speak evil of him (see notes on Jude 8–9), but called on the Lord to do so (see note on Zech. 3:2). No believer should be so boldly foolish as to mock or command the power of supernatural demons, especially Satan.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:12 like irrational animals. Cf. Jude 10. The false teachers have no sensitivity to the power and presence of demons or holy angels, but like wild animals, insubordinate, insolent, and arrogant, they charge into the supernatural realm, cursing away at persons and matters they don't understand. destroyed. Since they live like beasts who are “born to be caught and destroyed,” the false teachers will be killed like beasts. False teachers cannot get beyond their own instincts and thus will be destroyed by the folly of those passions.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:13 the wage for their wrongdoing. Immorality and arrogant boldness will not pay in the end. It will rob and destroy. revel in the daytime. Sinning during the day without the cover of darkness was a sign of low-level wickedness in Roman society (cf. 1 Thess. 5:7). But these false teachers are so consumed with lust and rebellion that they are pleased not to wait for the night. Their unbridled passions consume them. blots and blemishes. Cf. Jude 10. That is, dirt spots and scabs. They are opposite to the character of Christ (1 Pet. 1:19). The church should be like her Lord (Eph. 5:27). reveling . . . while they feast with you. The false teachers, feigning to be teachers of truth while sitting with Christians at church love-feasts, were behaving arrogantly and immorally even on such occasions intended for Christian fellowship. Though attempting to cover their corruption with religious talk, they were filthy defects on these church gatherings (cf. 2 John 9–11; Jude 12).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:14 eyes full of adultery. The false teachers had so totally lost moral control that they could not look at any woman without seeing her as a potential adulteress (cf. Matt. 5:28). They were uncontrollably driven by lust, never resting from their sins. entice unsteady souls. The metaphor is from fishing and appears also in 2 Pet. 2:18. To entice is to catch with bait. False teachers do not capture those strong in the word, but prey on the weak, the unstable, and the young in the faith (see 3:16; cf. Eph. 4:14; 1 John 2:13). hearts trained in greed. The word “trained” was often used for training in athletics. The false teachers have trained, prepared, and equipped their minds to concentrate on nothing but the forbidden things for which their passions lust. They are well schooled in the craft of self-fulfillment. Accursed children! This is a Hebraism for the curse of sin being the dominant thing in their lives, thus saying that they are damned to hell for their blatant wickedness. Cf. Gal. 3:10, 13; Eph. 2:1–3; 1 Pet. 1:14.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:15 Forsaking the right way. The “right way” is an OT metaphor for obedience to God (cf. Acts 13:10). Balaam. Cf. Jude 11. Balaam served as an illustration and example of such false prophets. He was an OT compromising prophet for sale to whomever paid him, who preferred wealth and popularity over faithfulness and obedience to God (Num. 22–24). Through a talking donkey, God kept him from cursing Israel (2 Pet. 2:16; cf. Num. 22:21–35).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:17 waterless springs. In this verse, Peter uses two poetic figures (“springs” and “mists”) that represent a precious commodity in the Middle East. A spring or well without water would be a major disappointment in a hot and dry land. Likewise, false teachers have a pretense of spiritual water to quench the thirsty soul, but they actually have nothing to give. mists driven by a storm. The coming of clouds or “mists” would seem to promise rain, but sometimes the storm would blow the clouds on by, leaving the land dry and hot. The false teachers might seem to promise spiritual refreshment, but were all show with no substance (cf. Jude 12). utter darkness. That is, hell (cf. Matt. 8:12; Jude 13).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:18 loud boasts of folly. Cf. Jude 16. That is, ostentatious verbosity. The false teachers deceive the weak with high-sounding words that masquerade as scholarship or profound spiritual insight, and even as direct revelation from God. They may contradict the plain historic teachings of Scripture, which in some cases they are not able to explain properly because of their lack of adequate training and divine wisdom (cf. 1 Cor. 2:14). In reality, they say nothing genuinely scholarly, or spiritual, or divine. entice by sensual passions. Nevertheless, in spite of all the empty talk, false teachers entice others to their philosophies by appealing to people on the baser level. Seduction, rather than the winsomeness of truth, is their ploy. They offer people a kind of religion that they can embrace and yet still hold on to their fleshly desires and sensuality. Peter may also be implying that false teachers particularly aim to seduce women through sensual methods. barely escaping . . . error. The preferred translation is “trying to escape.” This is a description not of saved people, but of people who are vulnerable because they have high levels of guilt and anxieties—people with broken marriages, people who are lonely and tired of the consequences of sin and are looking for a new start, even for religion or help from God. The false teachers exploit these kinds of people.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:19 promise them freedom. False teachers promise those “trying to escape” the struggles of life, the very freedom they seek. slaves of corruption. The false teachers can’t deliver the freedom they promise, because they themselves are enslaved to the very corruption that people are trying to escape. overcomes . . . enslaved. Whoever puts himself, in the name of freedom, into the hands of a false teacher, who is a prisoner himself, also becomes a prisoner. Bondage to corruption awaits all followers of false teachers.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:20 escaped the defilements of the world. “Defilements” has the idea of putrid or poisonous vapors. Morally, the world gives off a deadly influence. Peter notes that at some point in time, these false teachers and their followers wanted to escape the moral contamination of the world system and sought religion, even Jesus Christ (on their terms, not his; see notes on v. 1). But these false teachers had never genuinely been converted to Christ. They heard the true gospel and moved toward it, but then rejected the Christ of that gospel. That is apostasy, like the people of Heb. 10:26–27. Their last end is far worse than the first (for examples of apostasy, see Luke 11:24–26; 12:47–48; 1 Cor. 10:1–12; Heb. 3:12–18; 6:6; 10:26, 38ff.; 1 John 2:19; Jude 4–6).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:21 to turn back from the holy commandment. This verse describes the perversion and defection of the false teachers. They professed the Christian experience (the way of righteousness; cf. Matt. 21:32), and even had access to the true teachings of Scripture. But by their lives they demonstrated that they ultimately had chosen to reject Christ (cf. Heb. 10:26–31). Such false teachers as Peter was describing were not made outside Christianity. They are always bred in the church, half in and half out; but eventually they reject the truth and try to seduce others in their attempt to fulfill their self-gratification.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 2:22 dog . . . sow. Two graphic analogies of an apostate. The first is from Prov. 26:11; the second is Peter’s own.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:1 beloved. This attitude toward the readers of his letter reflects Peter’s pastoral concern (cf. 1 Pet. 5:1–4). the second letter. That is, second to 1 Peter (see Introduction). your sincere mind. A good commendation that demonstrates that Peter believed his readers were genuine Christians. “Sincere” means uncontaminated, unmixed by the seductive influences of the world, the flesh, and the devil. How different the true believers were from the corrupt apostate false teachers (2 Pet. 2:10–22). Peter sought to impress on his readers the truth they already knew so that their sanctified reason and spiritual discernment would be able to detect and refute the purveyors of false doctrine.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:2 holy prophets. The OT prophets are in view, who were holy in contrast to the unholy false teachers. God’s word was written by those prophets in the Scriptures (see notes on 1:19–21). In particular those prophets warned about coming judgment (e.g., Ps. 50:1–4; Isa. 13:10–13; 24:19–23; Mic. 1:4; Mal. 4:1–2), and even about the coming of the Lord (Zech. 14:1–9). the commandment of the Lord. Peter is referring to the warnings that he and the other apostles had written regarding judgment (Jude 17). your apostles. The apostles (see notes on Rom. 1:1; Eph. 4:11) of Christ filled the 260 chapters of the NT with about 300 references to the second coming. NT revelation about the Christ coming to gather his own, warnings about eschatological judgments, information about the establishment of his kingdom, and teaching concerning God’s bringing in eternal righteousness, are the irrefutable proof for the second coming of Christ and the judgment of the wicked.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:3 knowing this first. “First” here means the preeminent matter, not the first in a list. Peter’s priority in this section of his letter is to warn Christians about how the false teachers would try to deny this judgment and steal the hope of believers. in the last days. This phrase refers to that entire period of time from the arrival of the Messiah to his return (cf. Acts 2:17; Gal. 4:4; 2 Tim. 3:1; Heb. 1:2; James 5:3; 1 Pet. 1:20; 1 John 2:18–19; Jude 18). The entire age will be marked by saboteurs of the Christian truth and especially the hope of Christ’s return. scoffers will come. False teachers argue against the second coming of Christ or any teaching of Scripture through ridicule (cf. Isa. 5:19; Jude 18). following their own sinful desires. Peter again speaks of the lifestyle of the false teachers, which was characterized by sexual lusts (cf. 2 Pet. 2:2, 10, 13–14, 18), pounding home his warning. False teachers who know not the truth and know not God have nothing to restrain their lusts. They particularly mock the second coming of Jesus Christ because they want to pursue impure sexual pleasure without consequence, or without having to face divine retribution. They want an eschatology that fits their conduct (cf. 1 John 2:28–29; 3:2–3).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:4 Where is the promise of his coming? The early church believed that Jesus was coming back imminently (cf. 1 Cor. 15:51; 1 Thess. 1:10; 2:19; 4:15–18; 5:1–2). These scoffers employed an emotional argument against imminency rather than a biblical argument. Their argument played on ridicule and disappointment. the fathers. The OT patriarchs, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (cf. Rom. 9:5; Heb. 1:1). all things are contining as they were. This argument against the second coming of Christ is based on the theory of uniformitarianism, which says that all natural phenomena have operated uniformly since the beginning of the earth. The false teachers were also implying that God is absent from earth affairs. In effect, they were teaching that, “There will not be a great cataclysmic judgmental event at the end of history, because that is not how the universe works. There never has been such a judgment, so why should we expect one in the future? Instead, everything in the universe is stable, closed, fixed, and governed by never-varying patterns and principles of evolution. Nothing catastrophic has ever happened in the past, so nothing catastrophic ever will happen in the future. There will be no divine invasion, no supernatural judgment on mankind.”

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:5 they deliberately overlook. The false teachers, in their quest to avoid the doctrine of judgment, deliberately ignore the two major previous divine cataclysmic events—creation and the flood. the heavens existed long ago . . . by the word of God. Creation was God’s stepping into the emptiness and bringing the universe into existence, not by uniformitarianism, but by an instantaneous, explosive, six-day creation. Everything has not gone along in some consistent, unvarying evolutionary process. In six, 24-hour days the whole universe was created mature and complete (see notes on Gen. 1–2). earth was formed out of water and through water. The earth was formed between two realms of watery mass. During the early part of the creation week, God collected the upper waters into a canopy around the whole earth, and the lower waters into underground reservoirs, rivers, lakes, and seas. See notes on Gen. 1:2–10.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:6 by means of. That is, by water. God, by creating water above and below, built into his creation the tool of its destruction. the world that then existed. A reference to the pre-flood world order. This world included the physical arrangement with the canopy above, the waters in the underground reservoirs, rivers, lakes, and seas below, and the heavens in the middle. The pre-flood world, sheltered from the sun’s destructive ultraviolet rays, and with a gentle climate without rain, storms, and winds, was characterized by long life of humans (Gen. 5) and the ability of the earth (like a greenhouse) to produce extensively. deluged with water and perished. The second great divine cataclysm that defeats the idea of uniformitarianism, was the universal flood that drowned the whole earth and altered that originally created world order.

According to Gen. 7:11ff., the flood occurred from two directions: first, the bursting open of the sources of water below as the earth cracked open and gas, dust, water, and air burst up; then came the breakup of the canopy when hit by all that upward flow, which sent the water from above crashing down on the earth. The deluge was so cataclysmic that the inhabitants of the earth were all destroyed, except eight people and a representation of every kind of animal (see notes on Gen. 7:11–24). Clearly, by those two great events, it is certain that the world is not in a uniformitarian process.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:7 by the same word. The present world system is reserved for future judgment, which will come by the word of God just as creation and the flood came. God will speak it into existence as well, after the present order is again destroyed. now. Humanity, since the flood, lives in the second world order. One of the obvious differences between the two world orders is that people live 70 years in the present world, not 900 years, which was a common age of pre-flood human beings. And Peter was making the point that there is a third form of the heavens and earth yet to come following another cataclysm. stored up for fire. God put the rainbow in the sky to signify that he would never destroy the world again by water (Gen. 9:13). In the future, God will destroy the heavens and the earth by fire (cf. Isa. 66:15; Dan. 7:9–10; Mic. 1:4; Mal. 4:1; Matt. 3:11–12; 2 Thess. 1:7–8). In the present universe, the heavens are full of stars, comets, and asteroids. The core of the earth is also filled with a flaming, boiling, liquid lake of fire, the temperature of which is some 12,400 degrees Fahrenheit. The human race is separated from the fiery core of the earth by only a thin 10-mile crust. Far more than that, the whole of creation is a potential firebomb due to its atomic structure. As man from atoms creates destructive bombs that burn a path of death, so God can disintegrate the whole universe in an explosion of atomic energy (see notes on 2 Pet. 3:10–12). kept until the day of judgment . . . of the ungodly. The earth waits for the day of judgment and destruction of ungodly men. The godly will not be present on earth when God speaks into existence the judgment by fire (cf. 1 Thess. 1:10; 5:9).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:8 one day is as a thousand years. God understands time much differently from man. From man's viewpoint, Christ's coming seems like a long time away (cf. Ps. 90:4). From God's viewpoint, it will not be long. Beyond that general reference, this may be a specific indication of the fact that there are actually 1,000 years between the first phase of the day of the Lord at the end of the tribulation (Rev. 6:17), and the last phase 1,000 years later at the end of the millennial kingdom when the Lord creates the new heaven and new earth (see notes on 2 Pet. 3:10, 13; Rev. 20:1–21:1).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:9 not slow. That is, not loitering or late (cf. Gal. 4:4; Titus 2:13; Heb. 6:18; 10:23, 37; Rev. 19:11). patient toward you. “You” is the saved, the people of God. He waits for them to be saved. God has an immense capacity for patience before he breaks forth in judgment (cf. 2 Pet. 3:15; Joel 2:13; Luke 15:20; Rom. 9:22; 1 Pet. 3:15). God endures endless blasphemies against his name, along with rebellion, murders, and the ongoing breaking of his law, waiting patiently while he is calling and redeeming his own. It is not impotence or slackness that delays final judgment; it is patience. not wishing that any should perish. The “any” must refer to those whom the Lord has chosen and will call to complete the redeemed, i.e., the “you.” Since the whole passage is about God’s destroying the wicked, his patience is not so he can save all of them, but so that he can receive all his own. He can’t be waiting for everyone to be saved, since the emphasis is that he will destroy the world and the ungodly. Those who do perish and go to hell, go because they are depraved and worthy only of hell and have rejected the only remedy, Jesus Christ, not because they were created for hell and predetermined to go there. The path to damnation is the path of a non-repentant heart; it is the path of one who rejects the person and provision of Jesus Christ and holds on to sin (cf. Isa. 55:1; Jer. 13:17; Ezek. 18:32; Matt. 11:28; 23:37; Luke 13:3; John 3:16; 8:21, 24; 1 Tim. 2:3–4; Rev. 22:17). all should reach repentance. “All” (cf. “you,” “any”) must refer to all who are God’s people who will come to Christ to make up the full number of the people of God. The reason for the delay in Christ’s coming and the attendant judgments is not because he is slow to keep his promise, or because he wants to judge more of the wicked, or because he is impotent in the face of wickedness. He delays his coming because he is patient and desires the time for his people to repent.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:10 the day of the Lord. See Introduction to Joel: Historical and Theological Themes; see note on 1 Thess. 5:2. The “day of the Lord” is a technical term pointing to the special interventions of God in human history for judgment. It ultimately refers to the future time of judgment whereby God judges the wicked on earth and ends this world system in its present form. The OT prophets saw the final day of the Lord as unequaled darkness and damnation, a day when the Lord would act in a climactic way to vindicate his name, destroy his enemies, reveal his glory, establish his kingdom, and destroy the world (cf. Isa. 2:10–21; 13:6–22; Joel 1–2; Amos 5; Obad. 15; Zech. 14; Mal. 4; 2 Thess. 1:7; 2:2). It occurs at the time of the tribulation on earth (Rev. 6:17), and again

1,000 years later at the end of the millennial kingdom before the creation of the new heavens and new earth (2 Pet. 3:13; Rev. 20:1–21:1). like a thief. The day of the Lord will have a surprise arrival, sudden, unexpected, and disastrous to the unprepared (see notes on 1 Thess. 5:2). the heavens will pass away with a roar. The “heavens” refer to the physical universe. The “roar” connotes a whistling or a crackling sound as of objects being consumed by flames. God will incinerate the universe, probably in an atomic reaction that disintegrates all matter as we know it (2 Pet. 3:7, 11–13). the heavenly bodies will be burned up. The “heavenly bodies” are the atomic components into which matter is ultimately divisible, which make up the composition of all the created matter. Peter means that the atoms, neutrons, protons, and electrons are all going to disintegrate (v. 11). the earth and the works. The whole of the physical, natural earth in its present form, with its entire universe, will be consumed. Cf. Isa. 24:19–20; 34:4.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:11 what sort of people ought you to be. This is an exclamation rather than a question. It means, “How astoundingly excellent you ought to be!” This is a straightforward challenge for Christians to conform their lives to God’s standards in light of the reality of coming judgment and eternity (cf. 1 Cor. 4:15; 2 Cor. 5:9). holiness and godliness. “Holiness” refers to the way a Christian should live life—separate from sin. “Godliness” refers to the spirit of reverence that should permeate a Christian’s attitude—that which rules the heart.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:12 waiting for and hastening. One of the motives for holy conduct and godliness is expectation. “Hastening” means “eagerly desiring” that something will happen. Christians are not to fear the future day of God, but eagerly hope for it (cf. 1 Cor. 1:7; 16:22; 1 John 2:28; 3:3). the day of God. The “day of God” is not the same as the “day of the Lord.” The “day of God” refers to the eternal state, in preparation of which the heavens and the earth are burned up and the new creation is made. It is likely so named because of what Paul had in mind in 1 Cor. 15:28, the eternal glory of the new creation, with God being all in all. When the day of God comes, man’s “day” will be over. The corrupting of the universe by man and Satan will have been terminated and judged, finally and forever. the heavens will be set on fire. See notes on 2 Pet. 3:7, 10, 11. The new world in which righteousness dwells (v. 13) requires the Lord to first destroy the old, sin-cursed universe (cf. Rom. 8:19–22).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:13 new heavens and a new earth. The “promise” of a new universe is rooted in the OT (e.g., Ps. 102:25; Isa. 65:17; 66:22). The word

“new” means new in quality, i.e., different from before, not just new in chronology. righteousness dwells. The universe is new in quality because righteousness has settled in and taken up permanent and exclusive residence (cf. Isa. 60:19–22; Rev. 21:1–7).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:14 at peace. When Christ returns, each Christian should be found enjoying the peace of Christ, which knows no worry or fear about the day of the Lord or the judgment of Christ (cf. Phil. 4:6–7). To have this peace means that the Christian has a strong sense of assurance of his salvation and a life of obedience to Christ (cf. 1 John 4:17). without spot or blemish. Christians should have a spotless character and a blameless reputation. These characteristics are in graphic contrast to the false teachers (cf. 2 Pet. 2:13), but like Christ (1 Pet. 1:19).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:15a the patience of our Lord as salvation. In addition to what Peter has already explained in v. 9 about the Lord’s patience being the reason he delays judgment, here he adds that during the time of God’s patience, Christians should engage in seeking the salvation of souls.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:15b–16 hard to understand. Since Paul had (by the time Peter wrote) written all his letters and died, the readers of 2 Peter would have already received letters about future events from Paul. Some of Paul’s explanations were difficult (not impossible) to interpret. Nevertheless, Peter uses Paul as a support for his teaching.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:16 ignorant and unstable twist. In Peter’s day (as today), there was a proliferation of foolish and hurtful perverting of apostolic teaching about the future (cf. vv. 3–4; 2 Thess. 2:1–5; 3:6–12). the other Scriptures. This is one of the most clear-cut statements in the Bible to affirm that the writings of Paul are Scripture. Peter’s testimony is that Paul wrote Scripture, but the false teachers distorted it. The NT apostles were aware that they spoke and wrote the word of God (1 Thess. 2:13) as surely as did the OT prophets. Peter realized that the NT writers brought the divine truth that completed the Bible (1 Pet. 1:10–12). to their own destruction. The fact that distorting Paul’s writings leads to eternal damnation proves that Paul’s writings were inspired of God.

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:17 knowing this beforehand. Since Christians now know that there will be false teachers who will appear, twisting and distorting the Scriptures, they should be all the more on their guard. take care . . . not carried away . . . and lose your own stability. Any time a believer seriously listens to a false teacher, he runs the risk of being led astray (cf. 2 Tim. 2:14–18; Titus 1:10–16).

2 PETER—NOTE ON 3:18 grow in the grace and knowledge. Peter ends this letter with a summary statement of the same instruction with which he began it (1:2–11). Pursuing Christian maturity and a deepening knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ will lead to doctrinal stability and prevent a Christian from being led astray. To him be the glory. Such a call for glory to Christ demonstrates again that Peter considered Jesus Christ to be deity, equal in honor with God the Father (cf. 1:1; John 5:23).

Introduction to 1 John

Title

The epistle's title has always been "1 John." It is the first and largest in a series of three epistles that bear the apostle John's name. Since the letter identifies no specific church, location, or individual to whom it was sent, its classification is as a "general epistle." Although 1 John does not exhibit some of the general characteristics of an epistle common to that time (e.g., no introduction, greeting, or concluding salutation), its intimate tone and content indicate that the term "epistle" still applies to it.

Author and Date

The epistle does not identify the author, but the strong, consistent and earliest testimony of the church ascribes it to John the disciple and apostle (cf. Luke 6:13–14). This anonymity strongly affirms the early church's identification of the epistle with John the apostle, for only someone of John's well known and preeminent status as an apostle would be able to write with such unmistakable authority, expecting complete obedience from his readers, without clearly identifying himself (e.g., 1 John 4:6). He was well known to the readers so he didn't need to mention his name.

John and James, his older brother (Acts 12:2), were known as "the sons of Zebedee" (Matt. 10:2–4), whom Jesus gave the name "Sons of Thunder" (Mark 3:17). John was one of the three most intimate associates of Jesus (along with Peter and James—cf. Matt. 17:1; 26:37), being an eyewitness to and participant in Jesus' earthly ministry (1 John 1:1–4). In addition to the three epistles, John also authored the fourth Gospel, in which he identified himself as the disciple "whom Jesus loved" and as the one who reclined on Jesus' breast at the Last Supper (John 13:23; 19:26; 20:2; 21:7, 20). He also wrote the book of Revelation (Rev. 1:1).

Precise dating is difficult because no clear historical indications of date exist in 1 John. Most likely John composed this work in the latter part of the first century. Church tradition consistently identifies John in his advanced age as living and actively writing during this time at Ephesus in Asia Minor. The tone of the epistle supports this evidence since the writer gives the strong impression that he is much older than his readers (e.g., “children”—2:1, 18, 28). The epistle and John’s Gospel reflect similar vocabulary and manner of expression (see Historical and Theological Themes). Such similarity causes many to date the writing of John’s epistles as occurring soon after he composed his Gospel. Since many date the Gospel during the latter part of the first century, they also prefer a similar date for the epistles. Furthermore, the heresy John combats most likely reflects the beginnings of Gnosticism (see Background and Setting), which was in its early stages during the latter third of the first century when John was actively writing. Since no mention is made of the persecution under Domitian, which began about A.D. 95, it may have been written before that began. In light of such factors, a reasonable date for 1 John is c. A.D. 90–95. It was likely written from Ephesus to the churches of Asia Minor over which John exercised apostolic leadership.

Background and Setting

Although he was greatly advanced in age when he penned this epistle, John was still actively ministering to churches. He was the sole remaining apostolic survivor who had intimate, eyewitness association with Jesus throughout his earthly ministry, death, resurrection, and ascension. The church Fathers (e.g., Justin Martyr, Irenaeus, Clement of Alexandria, Eusebius) indicate that after that time, John lived at Ephesus in Asia Minor, carrying out an extensive evangelistic program, overseeing many of the churches that had arisen, and conducting an extensive writing ministry (e.g., epistles, the Gospel of John, and Revelation). One church Father (Papias) who had direct contact with John described him as a “living and abiding voice.” As the last remaining apostle, John’s testimony was highly authoritative among the churches. Many eagerly sought to hear the one who had first-hand experience with the Lord Jesus.

Ephesus (cf. Acts 19:10) lay within the intellectual center of Asia Minor. As predicted years before by the apostle Paul (Acts 20:28–31), false teachers arising from within the church’s own ranks, saturated with the prevailing climate of philosophical trends, began infecting the church with false doctrine, perverting fundamental apostolic teaching. These false teachers advocated new ideas that eventually became known as “Gnosticism” (from the Greek word “knowledge”). After the Pauline battle for freedom from the law, Gnosticism was the most dangerous heresy that threatened the early church during the first three centuries.

Most likely, John was combating the beginnings of this virulent heresy that threatened to destroy the fundamentals of the faith and the churches (see Interpretive Challenges).

Gnosticism, influenced by such philosophers as Plato, advocated a dualism asserting that matter was inherently evil and spirit was good. As a result of this presupposition, these false teachers, although attributing some form of deity to Christ, denied his true humanity to preserve him from evil. It also claimed elevated knowledge, a higher truth known only to those in on the deep things. Only the initiated had the mystical knowledge of truth that was higher even than the Scripture.

Instead of divine revelation standing as judge over man's ideas, man's ideas judged God's revelation (1 John 2:15–17). The heresy featured two basic forms. First, some asserted that Jesus' physical body was not real but only "seemed" to be physical (known as "Docetism" from a Greek word that means "to appear"). John forcefully affirmed the physical reality of Jesus by reminding his readers that he was an eyewitness to him ("heard," "seen," "touched," "Jesus Christ has come in the flesh"—1:1–4; 4:2–3). According to early tradition (Irenaeus), another form of this heresy that John may have attacked was led by a man named Cerinthus, who contended that the Christ's "spirit" descended on the human Jesus at his baptism but left him just before his crucifixion. John wrote that the Jesus who was baptized at the beginning of his ministry was the same person who was crucified on the cross (5:6).

Such heretical views destroy not only the true humanity of Jesus, but also the atonement, for Jesus must not only have been truly God, but also the truly human (and physically real) man who actually suffered and died upon the cross, in order to be the acceptable substitutionary sacrifice for sin (cf. Heb. 2:14–17). The biblical view of Jesus affirms his complete humanity as well as his full deity.

The Gnostic idea that matter was evil and only spirit was good led to the idea that either the body should be treated harshly, a form of asceticism (e.g., Col. 2:21–23), or sin committed in the body had no connection to or effect on one's spirit. This led some, especially John's opponents, to conclude that sin committed in the physical body did not matter; absolute indulgence in immorality was permissible; one could deny sin even existed (1 John 1:8–10) and disregard God's law (3:4). John emphasized the need for obedience to God's laws, for he defined the true love of God as obedience to his commandments (5:3).

A lack of love for fellow believers characterizes false teachers, especially as they react against anyone rejecting their new way of thinking (3:10–18). They separated their deceived followers from the fellowship of those who remained faithful to apostolic teaching, leading John to reply that such separation outwardly manifested that those who followed false teachers lacked genuine salvation (2:19). Their departure left the other believers, who remained faithful to apostolic doctrine, shaken. Responding to this crisis, the aged apostle wrote to reassure those remaining faithful and to combat this grave threat to the church. Since the heresy was so acutely dangerous and the time period was so critical for the church in danger of being overwhelmed by false teaching, John gently, lovingly, but with unquestionable apostolic authority, sent this letter to churches in his sphere of influence to stem this spreading plague of false doctrine.

Historical and Theological Themes

In light of the circumstances of the epistle, the overall theme of 1 John is “a recall to the fundamentals of the faith” or “back to the basics of Christianity.” The apostle deals with certainties, not opinions or conjecture. He expresses the absolute character of Christianity in very simple terms; terms that are clear and unmistakable, leaving no doubt as to the fundamental nature of those truths. A warm, conversational, and above all, loving tone occurs, like a father having a tender, intimate conversation with his children.

First John also is pastoral, written from the heart of a pastor who has concern for his people. As a shepherd, John communicated to his flock some very basic, but vitally essential principles, reassuring them regarding the basics of the faith. He desired them to have joy regarding the certainty of their faith rather than being upset by the false teaching and current defections of some (1:4).

The book’s viewpoint, however, is not only pastoral but also polemical; not only positive but also negative. John refutes the defectors with sound doctrine, exhibiting no tolerance for those who pervert divine truth. He labels those departing from the truth as “false prophets” (4:1), “those who are trying to deceive” (2:26; 3:7), and “antichrists” (2:18). He pointedly identifies the ultimate source of all such defection from sound doctrine as demonic (4:1–7).

The constant repetition of three sub-themes reinforces the overall theme regarding faithfulness to the basics of Christianity: happiness (1:4), holiness (2:1), and security (5:13). By faithfulness to the basics, John's readers will experience these three results continually in their lives. These three factors also reveal the key cycle of true spirituality in 1 John: a proper belief in Jesus produces obedience to his commands; obedience issues in love for God and fellow believers (e.g., 3:23–24). When these three (sound faith, obedience, love) operate in concert together, they result in happiness, holiness, and assurance. They constitute the evidence, the litmus test, of a true Christian.

Interpretive Challenges

Theologians debate the precise nature of the false teachers' beliefs in 1 John, because John does not directly specify their beliefs, but rather combats the heretics mainly through a positive restatement of the fundamentals of the faith. The main feature of the heresy, as noted above, seems to be a denial of the incarnation, i.e., Christ had not come in the flesh. This was most likely an incipient or beginning form of Gnosticism, as was pointed out.

The interpreter is also challenged by the rigidity of John's theology. John presents the basics or fundamentals of the Christian life in absolute, not relative, terms. Unlike Paul, who presented exceptions and dealt so often with believers' failures to meet the divine standard, John does not deal with the "what if I fail" issues. Only in 2:1–2 does he give some relief from the absolutes. The rest of the book presents truths in black and white rather than shades of gray, often through a stark contrast, e.g., light vs. darkness (1:5, 7; 2:8–11); truth vs. lies (2:21–22; 4:1); children of God vs. children of the devil (3:10). Those who claim to be Christians must absolutely display the characteristics of genuine Christians: sound doctrine, obedience, and love. Those who are truly born again have been given a new nature, which gives evidence of itself. Those who do not display characteristics of the new nature don't have it, so were never truly born again. The issues do not center (as much of Paul's writing does) in maintaining temporal or daily fellowship with God but the application of basic tests in one's life to confirm that salvation has truly occurred. Such absolute distinctions were also characteristic of John's Gospel.

In a unique fashion, John challenges the interpreter by his repetition of similar themes over and over to emphasize the basic truths about genuine Christianity. Some have likened John's repetition to a spiral that moves outward, becoming larger and larger, each time spreading the same truth over a wider area and encompassing more territory. Others have seen the spiral as moving inward, penetrating deeper and deeper into the same themes while expanding on his thoughts. However one views the spiraling pattern, John uses repetition of basic truths as a means to accentuate their importance and to help his readers understand and remember them.

THE FIRST LETTER OF JOHN

1 John

The Word of Life

1JOHN 1 ††That which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we looked upon and have touched with our hands, concerning the word of life— ††the life was made manifest, and we have seen it, and testify to it and proclaim to you the eternal life, which was with the Father and was made manifest to us— †that which we have seen and heard we proclaim also to you, so that you too may have fellowship with us; and indeed our fellowship is with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ. †And we are writing these things so that our [\[1\]](#) joy may be complete.

Walking in the Light

††This is the message we have heard from him and proclaim to you, that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all. †If we say we have fellowship with him while we walk in darkness, we lie and do not practice the truth. †But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanses us from all sin. †If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. †If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. †If we say we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

Christ Our Advocate

1JOHN 2 †My little children, I am writing these things to you so that you may not sin. But if anyone does sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous. †He is the propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only but also for the sins of the whole world. ††And by this we know that we have come to know him, if we keep his commandments. †Whoever says “I know him” but does not keep his commandments is a liar, and the truth is not in him, †but whoever keeps his word, in him truly the love of God is perfected. By this we may know that we are in him: †whoever says he abides in him ought to walk in the same way in which he walked.

The New Commandment

††Beloved, I am writing you no new commandment, but an old commandment that you had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word that you have heard. †At the same time, it is a new commandment that I am writing to you, which is true in him and in you, because [\[1\]](#) the darkness is passing away and the true light is already shining. †Whoever says he is in the light and hates his brother is still in darkness. †Whoever loves his brother abides in the light, and in him [\[2\]](#) there is no cause for stumbling. †But whoever hates his brother is in the darkness and walks in the darkness, and does not know where he is going, because the darkness has blinded his eyes.

‡I am writing to you, little children, because your sins are forgiven for his name's sake.

‡I am writing to you, fathers, because you know him who is from the beginning.

I am writing to you, young men, because you have overcome the evil one.

I write to you, children, because you know the Father.

‡I write to you, fathers, because you know him who is from the beginning.

I write to you, young men, because you are strong, and the word of God abides in you, and you have overcome the evil one.

Do Not Love the World

‡Do not love the world or the things in the world. If anyone loves the world, the love of the Father is not in him. ‡For all that is in the world—the desires of the flesh and the desires of the eyes and pride in possessions—is not from the Father but is from the world. <sup>17</sup>† And the world is passing away along with its desires, but whoever does the will of God abides forever.

Warning Concerning Antichrists

<sup>18</sup>† Children, it is the last hour, and as you have heard that antichrist is coming, so now many antichrists have come. Therefore we know that it is the last hour.

<sup>19</sup>† They went out from us, but they were not of us; for if they had been of us, they would have continued with us. But they went out, that it might become plain that they all are not of us. <sup>20</sup>‡ But you have been anointed by the Holy One, and you all have knowledge. [3] <sup>21</sup> I write to you, not because you do not know the truth, but because you know it, and because no lie is of the truth. <sup>22</sup>‡ Who is the liar but he who denies that Jesus is the Christ? This is the antichrist, he who denies the Father and the Son. <sup>23</sup> No one who denies the Son has the Father. Whoever confesses the Son has the Father also. <sup>24</sup>‡ Let what you heard from the beginning abide in you. If what you heard from the beginning abides in you, then you too will abide in the Son and in the Father. <sup>25</sup> And this is the promise that he made to us [4]—eternal life.

<sup>26</sup>† I write these things to you about those who are trying to deceive you. <sup>27</sup>† But the anointing that you received from him abides in you, and you have no need that anyone should teach you. But as his anointing teaches you about everything, and is true, and is no lie—just as it has taught you, abide in him.

Children of God

<sup>28</sup>‡ And now, little children, abide in him, so that when he appears we may have confidence and not shrink from him in shame at his coming. <sup>29</sup>† If you know that he is righteous, you may be sure that everyone who practices righteousness has been born of him.

1 JOHN 3 † See what kind of love the Father has given to us, that we should be called children of God; and so we are. The reason why the world does not know us is that it did not know him. 2† Beloved, we are God's children now, and what we will be has not yet appeared; but we know that when he appears [1] we shall be like him, because we shall see him as he is. 3† And everyone who thus hopes in him purifies himself as he is pure.

4††† Everyone who makes a practice of sinning also practices lawlessness; sin is lawlessness. 5† You know that he appeared to take away sins, and in him there is no sin. 6† No one who abides in him keeps on sinning; no one who keeps on sinning has either seen him or known him. 7† Little children, let no one deceive you. Whoever practices righteousness is righteous, as he is righteous. 8† Whoever makes a practice of sinning is of the devil, for the devil has been sinning from the beginning. The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the works of the devil. 9† No one born of God makes a practice of sinning, for God's [2] seed abides in him, and he cannot keep on sinning because he has been born of God. 10† By this it is evident who are the children of God, and who are the children of the devil: whoever does not practice righteousness is not of God, nor is the one who does not love his brother.

Love One Another

11†† For this is the message that you have heard from the beginning, that we should love one another. 12†† We should not be like Cain, who was of the evil one and murdered his brother. And why did he murder him? Because his own deeds were evil and his brother's righteous. 13† Do not be surprised, brothers, [3] that the world hates you. 14† We know that we have passed out of death into life, because we love the brothers. Whoever does not love abides in death. 15† Everyone who hates his brother is a murderer, and you know that no murderer has eternal life abiding in him.

16† By this we know love, that he laid down his life for us, and we ought to lay down our lives for the brothers. 17† But if anyone has the world's goods and sees his brother in need, yet closes his heart against him, how does God's love abide in him? 18† Little children, let us not love in word or talk but in deed and in truth.

19† By this we shall know that we are of the truth and reassure our heart before him; 20† for whenever our heart condemns us, God is greater than our heart, and he knows everything. <sup>21</sup>† Beloved, if our heart does not condemn us, we have confidence before God; <sup>22</sup>† and whatever we ask we receive from him, because we keep his commandments and do what pleases him. <sup>23</sup>† And this is his commandment, that we believe in the name of his Son Jesus Christ and love one another, just as he has commanded us. <sup>24</sup> Whoever keeps his commandments abides in God, [4] and God [5] in him. And by this we know that he abides in us, by the Spirit whom he has given us.

Test the Spirits

1JOHN 4 ‡‡Beloved, do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits to see whether they are from God, for many false prophets have gone out into the world. ‡By this you know the Spirit of God: every spirit that confesses that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is from God, ‡and every spirit that does not confess Jesus is not from God. This is the spirit of the antichrist, which you heard was coming and now is in the world already. ‡Little children, you are from God and have overcome them, for he who is in you is greater than he who is in the world. ‡‡They are from the world; therefore they speak from the world, and the world listens to them. ‡We are from God. Whoever knows God listens to us; whoever is not from God does not listen to us. By this we know the Spirit of truth and the spirit of error.

God Is Love

‡‡‡Beloved, let us love one another, for love is from God, and whoever loves has been born of God and knows God. ‡Anyone who does not love does not know God, because God is love. ‡In this the love of God was made manifest among us, that God sent his only Son into the world, so that we might live through him. ‡In this is love, not that we have loved God but that he loved us and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins. ‡Beloved, if God so loved us, we also ought to love one another. ‡No one has ever seen God; if we love one another, God abides in us and his love is perfected in us.

‡By this we know that we abide in him and he in us, because he has given us of his Spirit. ‡And we have seen and testify that the Father has sent his Son to be the Savior of the world. ‡Whoever confesses that Jesus is the Son of God, God abides in him, and he in God. ‡So we have come to know and to believe the love that God has for us. God is love, and whoever abides in love abides in God, and God abides in him. ‡‡By this is love perfected with us, so that we may have confidence for the day of judgment, because as he is so also are we in this world. ‡There is no fear in love, but perfect love casts out fear. For fear has to do with punishment, and whoever fears has not been perfected in love. ‡We love because he first loved us. ‡If anyone says, "I love God," and hates his brother, he is a liar; for he who does not love his brother whom he has seen cannot [\[1\]](#) love God whom he has not seen. ‡And this commandment we have from him: whoever loves God must also love his brother.

Overcoming the World

1JOHN 5 †† Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ has been born of God, and everyone who loves the Father loves whoever has been born of him. † By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God and obey his commandments. † For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments. And his commandments are not burdensome. †† For everyone who has been born of God overcomes the world. And this is the victory that has overcome the world—our faith. † Who is it that overcomes the world except the one who believes that Jesus is the Son of God?

Testimony Concerning the Son of God

†† This is he who came by water and blood—Jesus Christ; not by the water only but by the water and the blood. And the Spirit is the one who testifies, because the Spirit is the truth. † For there are three that testify: † the Spirit and the water and the blood; and these three agree. † If we receive the testimony of men, the testimony of God is greater, for this is the testimony of God that he has borne concerning his Son. † Whoever believes in the Son of God has the testimony in himself. Whoever does not believe God has made him a liar, because he has not believed in the testimony that God has borne concerning his Son. † And this is the testimony, that God gave us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. † Whoever has the Son has life; whoever does not have the Son of God does not have life.

That You May Know

†† I write these things to you who believe in the name of the Son of God that you may know that you have eternal life. †† And this is the confidence that we have toward him, that if we ask anything according to his will he hears us. † And if we know that he hears us in whatever we ask, we know that we have the requests that we have asked of him.

† If anyone sees his brother committing a sin not leading to death, he shall ask, and God [1] will give him life—to those who commit sins that do not lead to death. There is sin that leads to death; I do not say that one should pray for that. † All wrongdoing is sin, but there is sin that does not lead to death.

† We know that everyone who has been born of God does not keep on sinning, but he who was born of God protects him, and the evil one does not touch him.

<sup>19</sup>† We know that we are from God, and the whole world lies in the power of the evil one.

<sup>20</sup>† And we know that the Son of God has come and has given us understanding, so that we may know him who is true; and we are in him who is true, in his Son Jesus Christ. He is the true God and eternal life. <sup>21</sup>† Little children, keep yourselves from idols.

Study Notes

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:1–4 As an apostolic eyewitness to Jesus’ ministry, including his death and resurrection, and as one of the three most intimate associates of the Lord (John, Peter, James), John affirms the physical reality of Jesus Christ’s having come “in the flesh” (cf. 4:2–3). In this way, John accentuated the gravity of the false teaching by immediately focusing on a strongly positive affirmation of the historic reality of Jesus’ humanity and the certainty of the gospel. Although the false teachers claimed to believe in Christ, their denial of the true nature of Christ (i.e., his humanity) demonstrated their lack of genuine salvation (2:22–23). The affirmation of a proper view of Christ constitutes the first test of genuine fellowship (1:3; see 1:5–2:2 for test two).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:1 which was. This phrase refers to the proclamation of the gospel that centers in Christ’s person, words, and works as contained in apostolic testimony. from the beginning. Although John’s Gospel uses a similar phrase meaning eternity past (John 1:1, “in the beginning”), the phrase here, in the context of 1 John 1:1–4, refers to the beginnings of gospel preaching when the readers first heard about Jesus (cf. 2:7, 24). The phrase also emphasizes the stability of the gospel message; its contents do not change but remain stable from the very beginning; it is not subject to change due to current worldly fads or philosophical thinking. we have heard . . . we have seen . . . we looked upon . . . touched with our hands. The words used here point to the vivid recollection of the person of Jesus that John still had even in his old age. For John, even 60 years later, those memories were permanently etched on his mind as if the events had just happened. He uses terms that strongly affirm the physical reality of Jesus, for a spirit cannot be heard, gazed at for long periods (“looked upon”), or touched as Jesus was by John during his earthly ministry and even after his resurrection. the word of life. This refers not only to Jesus Christ but the proclamation of his gospel.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:2–3 made manifest . . . seen . . . testify . . . proclaim. John dramatically reemphasizes through repetition of these terms in vv. 2–3 (cf. v. 1) the authority of his own personal experience as an eyewitness of Jesus’ life. Such repetition pointedly reminds his readers that John’s personal testimony refutes the false teachers who boasted arrogantly and wrongly about the Christ they had never seen or known.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:2 the eternal life . . . with the Father . . . made manifest to us. With this phrase, John accentuates the eternity of Christ in his preincarnate glory (cf. 5:12; John 1:4; 5:26, 40; 11:25; 14:6).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:3 fellowship with us. Fellowship does not mean social relations, but that his readers were to be partakers (or, partners) with John in possessing eternal life (cf. Phil. 1:5; 1 Pet. 5:1; 2 Pet. 1:4). John writes not only to affirm the physical reality of Jesus (1 John 1:1–2) but also to produce salvation in the readers. That genuine Christians are never “out of fellowship” is clear, since this verse equates fellowship with salvation.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:4 our joy may be complete. A main goal for this epistle is to create joy in the readers. The proclamation of the reality of the gospel (vv. 1–2) produces a fellowship in eternal life (v. 3), and in turn, fellowship in eternal life produces joy (v. 4).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:5–2:2 To counter the false teachers who denied the existence or importance of sin, John affirms its reality. This affirmation of sin’s reality constitutes the second test of true fellowship (cf. vv. 1–4 for test one and 2:3–6 for test three). Those who deny the reality of sin demonstrate their lack of genuine salvation. The “we” in 1:6, 8, 10 is not a reference to genuine Christians but a general reference to anyone claiming fellowship, but denying sin. The “we” and “ours” in vv. 7, 9, and 2:1–2 is a specific reference to genuine Christians.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:5 we have heard from him. The message that John and the other apostles preached came from God, not from men (cf. Gal. 1:12). God is light. In Scripture, light and darkness are very familiar symbols. Intellectually, “light” refers to biblical truth while “darkness” refers to error or falsehood (cf. Ps. 119:105; Prov. 6:23; John 1:4; 8:12). Morally, “light” refers to holiness or purity while “darkness” refers to sin or wrongdoing (Rom. 13:11–14; 1 Thess. 5:4–7). The heretics claimed to be the truly enlightened, walking in the real light, but John denied that because they do not recognize their sin. About that basic reality, they were unenlightened. no darkness at all. With this phrase, John forcefully affirms that God is absolutely perfect and nothing exists in God’s character that impinges upon his truth and holiness (cf. James 1:17).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:6 In spite of their claims to enlightenment and although the false teachers may have claimed fellowship with Christ, their walking in darkness refuted such claims, and consequently, demonstrated their lack of genuine salvation. The reference to “lie” in v. 6b refers to the claim of fellowship in v. 6a. do not practice. This points to their habitual failure regarding the practice of the truth.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:7 Genuine Christians walk habitually in the light (truth and holiness), not in darkness (falsehood and sin). See note on 3:9. Their walk also results in cleansing from sin as the Lord continually forgives his own. Since those walking in the light share in the character of God, they will be habitually characterized by his holiness (3 John 11), indicating their true fellowship with him (James 1:27). A genuine Christian does not walk in darkness but only in the light (2 Cor. 6:14; Eph. 5:8; Col. 1:12–13), and cleansing from sin continually occurs (cf. 1 John 1:9).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:8 Not only did the false teachers walk in darkness (i.e., sin; v. 6) but went so far as to deny totally the existence of a sin nature in their lives. If someone never admits to being a sinner, salvation cannot result (see Matt. 19:16–22 for the account of the young man who refused to recognize his sin). Not only did the false teachers make false claims to fellowship and disregard sin (1 John 1:6), they are also characterized by deceit regarding sinlessness (Eccles. 7:20; Rom. 3:23).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:9 Continual confession of sin is an indication of genuine salvation. While the false teachers would not admit their sin, the genuine Christian admitted and forsook it (Ps. 32:3–5; Prov. 28:13). The term “confess” means to say the same thing about sin as God does; to acknowledge his perspective about sin. While 1 John 1:7 is from God’s perspective, v. 9 is from the Christian’s perspective. Confession of sin characterizes genuine Christians, and God continually cleanses those who are confessing (cf. v. 7). Rather than focusing on confession for every single sin as necessary, John has especially in mind here a settled recognition and acknowledgment that one is a sinner in need of cleansing and forgiveness (Eph. 4:32; Col. 2:13).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 1:10 make him a liar. Since God has said that all people are sinners (cf. Ps. 14:3; 51:5; Isa. 53:6; Jer. 17:5–6; Rom. 3:10–19, 23; 6:23), to deny that fact is to blaspheme God with slander that defames his name.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:1 so that you may not sin. Although a Christian must continually acknowledge and confess sin (1:9), he is not powerless against it.

Fulfilling the duty of confession does not give license to sin. Sin can and should be conquered through the power of the Holy Spirit (see Rom. 6:12–14; 8:12–13; 1 Cor. 15:34; Titus 2:11–12; 1 Pet. 1:13–16). advocate. John 16:7 translates this word as “Helper” (lit., “one called alongside”). Perhaps a modern concept of the term would be a defense attorney. Although Satan prosecutes believers night and day before the Father due to sin (Rev. 12:10), Christ’s high-priestly ministry guarantees not only sympathy but also acquittal (Heb. 4:14–16).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:2 propitiation. Cf. 4:10. The word means “appeasement” or “satisfaction.” The sacrifice of Jesus on the cross satisfied the demands of God’s holiness for the punishment of sin (cf. Rom. 1:18; 2 Cor. 5:21; Eph. 2:3). So Jesus propitiated or satisfied God. See notes on Heb. 2:17; 9:15 for a clear illustration of propitiation. for the sins of the whole world. This is a generic term, referring not to every single individual, but to mankind in general. Christ actually paid the penalty only for those who would repent and believe. A number of Scriptures indicate that Christ died for the world (John 1:29; 3:16; 6:51; 1 Tim. 2:6; Heb. 2:9). Most of the world will be eternally condemned to hell to pay for their own sins, so they could not have been paid for by Christ. The passages that speak of Christ’s dying for the whole world must be understood to refer to mankind in general (as in Titus 2:3–4). “World” indicates the sphere, the beings toward whom God seeks reconciliation and has provided propitiation. God has mitigated his wrath on sinners temporarily, by letting them live and enjoy earthly life (see note on 1 Tim. 4:10). In that sense, Christ has provided a brief, temporal propitiation for the whole world. But he actually satisfied fully the wrath of God eternally only for the elect who believe. Christ’s death in itself had unlimited and infinite value because he is Holy God. Thus his sacrifice was sufficient to pay the penalty for all the sins of all whom God brings to faith. But the actual satisfaction and atonement was made only for those who believe (cf. John 10:11, 15; 17:9, 20; Acts 20:28; Rom. 8:32, 37; Eph. 5:25). The pardon for sin is offered to the whole world, but received only by those who believe (cf. 1 John 4:9, 14; John 5:24). There is no other way to be reconciled to God.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:3–6 Obedience to God’s commands constitutes a third test of genuine fellowship. First John presents two external tests that demonstrate salvation: doctrinal and moral. The doctrinal test consists of confessing a proper view of Christ and of sin (see 1:1–4 and 1:5–2:2), while the moral test consists of obedience and love (see also 2:7–11). While subjective assurance of salvation comes through the internal witness of the Holy Spirit (5:10; Rom. 8:14–16; 2 Cor. 1:12), the test of obedience constitutes objective assurance that one is genuinely saved. Obedience is the external, visible proof of salvation (see notes on James 2:14–25; 2 Pet. 2:5–11). The false teachers' failure to obey God's commands objectively demonstrated that they were not saved (Luke 6:46). Those who are truly enlightened and know God are obedient to his word.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:3–4 know . . . keep. The repetition of these words emphasizes that those genuinely born again display the habit of obedience. Obedience results in assurance of salvation (cf. Eph. 2:2; 1 Pet. 1:14). That these two words are among John's favorites is clear since he uses "know" approximately 40 times and "keep" approximately 10 times in this epistle.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:6 abides. This word is one of John's favorite terms for salvation (see notes on John 15:4–10). the same way in which he walked. Jesus' life of obedience is the Christian's pattern. Those who claim to be Christians ought to live as he did (cf. John 6:38) since they possess his Spirit's presence and power.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:7–17 Love of the brethren constitutes the fourth test of genuine fellowship. The primary focus of the moral test is obedience to the command of love because love is the fulfillment of the law (Matt. 22:34–40; Rom. 13:8–10; James 2:8) and is also Christ's new command (John 13:34; 15:12, 17). True enlightenment is to love. God's light is the light of love, so to walk in light is to walk in love.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:7 new. Not referring to "new" in the sense of time but something that is fresh in quality, kind, or form; something that replaces something else that has been worn out. new commandment . . . old commandment. John makes a significant word play here. Though he doesn't state here what the command is, he does in 2 John 5–6. It is to love. Both of these phrases refer to the same commandment of love. The commandment of love was "new" because Jesus personified love in a fresh, new way and it was shed abroad in believers' hearts (Rom. 5:5) and energized by the Holy Spirit (Gal. 5:22; 1 Thess. 4:9). He raised love to a higher standard for the church and commanded his disciples to imitate his love ("as I have loved you"; cf. 1 John 3:16; John 13:34). The command was also "old" because the OT commanded love (Lev. 19:18; Deut. 6:5) and the readers of John's epistle had heard about Jesus' command to love when they first heard the gospel. from the beginning. This phrase refers not to the beginning of time but the beginning of their Christian lives, as indicated by 1 John 2:24; 3:11; 2 John 6. This was part of the ethical instruction they received from the day of their salvation and not some innovation invented by John, as the heretics may have said.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:9 hates. The original language conveys the idea of someone who habitually hates or is marked by a lifestyle of hate. still in darkness. Those who profess to be Christians, yet are characterized by hate, demonstrate by such action that they have never been born again. The false teachers made claims to enlightenment, transcendent knowledge of God, and salvation, but their actions, especially the lack of love, proved all such claims false (see also v. 11).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:12–14 Only two families exist from God’s perspective: children of God and children of Satan (see John 8:39–44). John reminds his readers in these verses that as Christians they have been forgiven and come to know God as their heavenly Father. As a result, they are a part of God’s family. They must not love Satan’s family or give their allegiance to the world controlled by him (see 1 John 2:15). The word “little children” in v. 12 is general for offspring of any age, in contrast to a different Greek word for “children” in v. 13, which refers to young children (see note on vv. 13–14). I am writing . . . I write. John repeats the message in these verses to emphasize the certainty of their belonging to God’s family. “I am writing” is from John’s perspective, while “I write” anticipates his readers’ perspective when they received the letter.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:13–14 fathers . . . young men . . . children. These very clear distinctions identify three stages of spiritual growth in God’s family. “Fathers,” the most mature, have a deep knowledge of the Eternal God. The pinnacle of spiritual maturity is to know God in his fullness (cf. Phil. 3:10). “Young men” are those who, while not yet having the mature experience of knowing God in the word and through life, do know sound doctrine. They are strong against sin and error because they have his word in them. Thus they overcome the wiles of the devil, who makes havoc of children (cf. Eph. 4:14). Since Satan’s efforts are in falsehood and deception, they have overcome him. “Children” are those who have only the basic awareness of God and need to grow. All are in God’s family and manifest Christ’s character at different levels.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:15 Do not love the world. Although John often repeats the importance of love and that God is love (4:7–8), he also reveals that God hates a certain type of love: love of the world (John 15:18–20). In this text, John expresses a particular form of the fourth test (i.e., the test of love). Positively, the Christian loves God and fellow Christians. Negatively, an absence of love for the world must habitually characterize the love life of those to be considered genuinely born again. “Love” here signifies affection and devotion. God, not the world, must have the first place in the Christian’s life (Matt. 10:37–39; Phil. 3:20). the world. This is not a reference to the physical, material world but the invisible spiritual system of evil dominated by Satan (see notes on 2 Cor. 10:3–5) and all that it offers in opposition to God, his word, and his people (cf. 1 John 5:19; John 12:31; 1 Cor. 1:21; 2 Cor. 4:4; James 4:4; 2 Pet. 1:4). the love of the Father is not in him. Either one is a genuine Christian marked by love and obedience to God, or one is a non-Christian in rebellion against God, i.e., in love with and enslaved by the satanically controlled world system (Eph. 2:1–3; Col. 1:13; James 4:4). No middle ground between these two alternatives exists for someone claiming to be born again. The false teachers had no such singular love, but were devoted to the world’s philosophy and wisdom, thereby revealing their love for the world and their unsaved state (cf. Matt. 6:24; Luke 16:13; 1 Tim. 6:20; 2 Pet. 2:12–22).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:16 all that is in the world. Cf. James 4:4. While the world’s philosophies and ideologies and much that it offers may appear attractive and appealing, that is deception. Its true and pervasive nature is evil, harmful, ruinous, and satanic. Its deadly theories are raised up against the knowledge of God and hold the souls of men captive (2 Cor. 10:3–5). desires. John uses the term negatively here for a strong desire for evil things. flesh. The term refers to the sin nature of man; the rebellious self dominated by sin and in opposition to God (Rom. 7:15–25; 8:2–8; Gal. 5:19–21). Satan uses the evil world system to incite the flesh. eyes. Satan uses the eyes as a strategic avenue to incite wrong desires (Josh. 7:20–21; 2 Sam. 11:2; Matt. 5:27–29). Satan’s temptation of Eve involved being attracted to something beautiful in appearance, but the result was spiritual death (Gen. 3:6, “a delight to the eyes”). pride in possessions. The phrase has the idea of arrogance over one’s circumstances, which produced haughtiness or exaggeration, parading what one possessed to impress other people (James 4:16). not from the Father. The world is the enemy of the Christian because it is in rebellion and opposition against God and controlled by Satan (1 John 5:19; Eph. 2:2; 2 Cor. 4:4; 10:3–5). The three openings presented, if allowing access to sin, result in tragedy. Not only must the Christian reject the world for what it is but also for what it does.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:17 the world is passing away. The Christian also must not love the satanic world system because of its temporary nature. It is in the continual process of disintegration, headed for destruction (Rom. 8:18–22).

whoever does the will of God abides forever. In contrast to the temporary world, God's will is permanent and unchangeable. Those who follow God's will abide as his people forever. While God offers eternal life to his children, the present age is doomed (cf. 1 Cor. 7:31; 2 Cor. 4:18).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:18 antichrist. This is the first occurrence of the term "antichrist." Its usage is found only in John's epistles (4:3; 2 John 7). Here it refers to the coming final world ruler energized by Satan who will seek to replace and oppose the true Christ (Dan. 8:9–11; 11:31–38; 12:11; Matt. 24:15; 2 Thess. 2:1–12; see notes on Rev. 13:1–5; 19:20). many antichrists have come. While the term's first occurrence refers to a particular person prophesied in Scripture, this one is plural and refers to many individuals. John uses the plural to identify and characterize the false teachers who were troubling John's congregations because their false doctrine distorted the truth and opposed Christ (Matt. 24:24; Mark 13:22; Acts 20:28–30). The term, therefore, refers to a principle of evil, incarnated in men, who are hostile and opposed to God (cf. 2 Cor. 10:4–5). John writes to expose the false teachers, the wolves in sheep's clothing, who purvey damning lies (cf. Eph. 5:11). the last hour. The phrase refers to the "latter times" or "last days," i.e., the time period between the first and second comings of Christ (1 Tim. 4:1; James 5:3; 1 Pet. 4:7; 2 Pet. 3:3; Jude 18).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:19 They went out from us . . . they were not of us. The first characteristic mentioned of antichrists, i.e., false teachers and deceivers (vv. 22–26), is that they depart from the faithful (see vv. 22–23 for the second characteristic and v. 26 for the third). They arise from within the church and depart from true fellowship and lead people out with them. The verse also places emphasis on the doctrine of the perseverance of the saints. Those genuinely born again endure in faith and fellowship and the truth (1 Cor. 11:19; 2 Tim. 2:12). The ultimate test of true Christianity is endurance (Mark 13:13; Heb. 3:14). The departure of people from the truth and the church is their unmasking.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:20–21 Two characteristics mark genuine Christians in contrast to the antichrists. First, the Holy Spirit ("the anointing," v. 27) guards them from error (cf. Acts 10:38; 2 Cor. 1:21). Christ as the Holy One (Luke 4:34; Acts 3:14) imparts the Holy Spirit as their illuminating guardian from deception. Second, the Holy Spirit guides the believer into knowing "all things" (John 14:26; 16:13). True Christians have a built-in lie detector and persevere in the truth. Those who remain in heresy and apostasy manifest the fact that they were never genuinely born again (cf. 1 John 2:19).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:22–23 denies the Father and the Son. A second characteristic of antichrists is that they deny the faith (i.e., sound doctrine). Anyone denying the true nature of Christ as presented in the Scripture is an antichrist (cf. 4:3; 2 Thess. 2:11). The denial of Christ also constitutes a denial of God himself, who testified to his Son (5:9; John 5:32–38; 8:18).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:24–25 heard from the beginning. The gospel that cannot change. Let it remain; do not follow false teachers (cf. 2 Tim. 3:1, 7, 13; 4:3). Christian truth is fixed and unalterable (Jude 3). If we stay faithful to the truth, we continue to experience intimate communion with God and Christ and persevere to the full eternal life (cf. 1 John 5:11–12).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:26 A third characteristic of antichrists is that they try to deceive the faithful (cf. also 1 Tim. 4:1).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:27 anointing. See note on vv. 20–21. John is not denying the importance of gifted teachers in the church (1 Cor. 12:28; Eph. 4:11) but indicates that neither those teachers nor those believers are dependent on human wisdom or the opinions of men for the truth. God’s Holy Spirit guards and guides the true believer into the truth (see 1 John 2:20–21). If God is true (cf. 2 Chron. 15:3; Jer. 10:10; John 17:3; 1 Thess. 1:9) and Christ is the truth (cf. John 14:6), so is the Holy Spirit (cf. 1 John 5:6; John 15:26; 16:13). abide in him. In response to such deceivers, the task of the genuine believer is to “walk in truth,” i.e., persevere in faithfulness and sound doctrine (see 1 John 2:20–21; 2 John 4; 3 John 4).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:28–3:3 This section deals with the “purifying hope” of every Christian, i.e., the return of Christ. John uses this purifying hope to reiterate and elaborate on the moral test (love and obedience) of a true Christian. The hope of Christ’s return has a sanctifying effect on moral behavior. In anticipation of Christ’s return and reward (cf. 1 Cor. 3:10–17; 4:1–5; 2 Cor. 5:9–10; Rev. 22:12), a genuine Christian walks in holiness of life. Those who do not evidence such behavior manifest an unsaved life. In these five verses, John has given five features of the believer’s hope.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:28 abide in him. John repeats his emphasis on abiding (v. 27) to introduce it as the first feature of the believer’s hope in 2:28–3:3.

Whenever John refers to abiding he is referring to persevering in the faith of salvation, which is evidence of being a true believer (John 15:1–6). The hope of Christ’s return produces the effect of continual abiding in every true believer as they long for the glorious future prepared for them. Paul called it “lov[ing] his appearing” (2 Tim. 4:8) and said those who do that are the ones who will be crowned with eternal righteousness in heaven. Abiding signifies a permanent remaining in Christ and guarantees the believer’s hope. Those who truly abide continue in the faith and in fellowship with the saints (1 John 2:19). In contrast to v. 27 (“you . . . abide”), however, he commands (imperative) believers to abide. The command signals that abiding is not passive; continual, active abiding must be pursued by every genuine believer (Phil. 2:12). Salvation is eternal because of the Lord’s side—he holds us (cf. John 6:37–44) and because of our side—we persevere in faith and obedience (cf. John 8:31–32). It is not unlike salvation in which God sovereignly saves, but not apart from personal faith from the one he saves. Or in the case of sanctification, God conforms us to his Son but not apart from obedience. The NT is rich with statements about God’s work and the work of the believer. Paul said it well in Col. 1:29. when he appears. This refers especially to the rapture and gathering of the church (cf. John 14:1–6; 1 Cor. 15:51–54; 1 Thess. 4:13–18) and the judgment seat of Christ to follow (cf. 1 Cor. 4:5; 2 Cor. 5:9–10). confidence . . . not shrink from him in shame. The word “confidence” means “outspokenness” or “freedom of speech.” Those who are saved will have confidence at Christ’s coming because they will be blameless in holiness based on abiding in Christ (Eph. 5:27; Col. 1:22; 1 Thess. 3:13; 5:23). In contrast, there will be many, like the soils in Matt. 13, who are temporary look-alike believers (see Matt. 13:20–22; cf. John 8:31), who did not believe, who did not persevere in abiding, and consequently, face only shame at his appearance.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 2:29 everyone who practices righteousness has been born of him. This is the second feature of the believer’s hope in 2:28–3:3. The hope of Christ’s return not only sustains faith (2:28), but makes righteousness a habit. The term for “born” is the same verb used in John 3:7 where Jesus told Nicodemus that he must be “born” again. Those truly born again as God’s children have their heavenly Father’s righteous nature (1 Pet. 1:3, 13–16). As a result, they will display characteristics of God’s righteousness. John looks from effect (righteous behavior) to cause (being truly born again) to affirm that righteous living is the proof of being born again (James 2:20, 26; 2 Pet. 3:11).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:1 what kind of love the Father has given to us. This outburst of wonder introduces the third feature of the believer's hope in 2:28–3:3. The believer's hope is strengthened by the fact that God's love initiated his salvation (Eph. 1:3–6). Christ's return will unite the believer with the heavenly Father who loves his child with an immeasurable love. John expresses utter astonishment at God's love for believers in making them his children (Rom. 8:17). the world does not know us. The real aliens in the world are not extraterrestrials but Christians. Having been born again, given a new nature of heavenly origin, Christians display a nature and lifestyle like their Savior and heavenly Father; a nature totally foreign (other-worldly) to the unsaved (1 Cor. 2:15–16; 1 Pet. 4:3–4). No wonder Scripture describes Christians as “exiles” and “strangers” (Heb. 11:13; 1 Pet. 1:1; 2:11). The Lord Jesus was unearthly in origin, and so are those born again. Our true transformed lives have not yet been manifested (see notes on Rom. 8:18–24).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:2 we are God's children now. Everyone who exercises genuine saving faith becomes a child of God at the moment of belief (John 1:12; Rom. 8:16; 2 Pet. 1:4), though the truly heavenly, divine life in that person (cf. Eph. 4:24; Col. 3:10) will not be revealed until Jesus appears (see note on Rom. 8:19). In the meantime, the Holy Spirit is working into us the image of Christ (see note on 2 Cor. 3:18). we shall be like him. This phrase introduces the fourth feature of the believer's hope in 1 John 2:28–3:3. When Christ returns he shall conform every believer to his image, i.e., his nature. A tension exists between the first part of the verse (“we are God's children now”) and the latter part (“we shall be like him”). Such tension finds resolution in the solid hope that at Christ's return the believer will experience ultimate conformity to his likeness (see notes on Rom. 8:29; 1 Cor. 15:42–49; Phil. 3:21). The glorious nature of that conformity defies description, but as much as glorified humanity can be like incarnate deity, believers will be, without becoming deity.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:3 purifies himself as he is pure. This is the key verse to 2:28–3:3 and introduces the fifth feature of the believer's hope in this section. Living in the reality of Christ's return makes a difference in a Christian's behavior. Since Christians someday will be like him, a desire should grow within the Christian to become like him now. That was Paul's passion, expressed in Phil. 3:12–14 (see notes there). That calls for a purifying of sin, in which we play a part (see notes on 2 Cor. 7:1; 1 Tim. 5:22; 1 Pet. 1:22).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:4–24 The primary aim of this section is to combat false teachers who are corrupting the fundamentals of the faith. These verses further amplify, reiterate, and emphasize the moral test already presented by John (see 2:3–6, 7–11). First John 3:4–10 conveys that genuine believers practice righteousness, while vv. 11–24 relate that genuine believers practice love toward fellow believers. John was very concerned that Christians know how to tell the true from the false; the genuine from the artificial; true believers from false ones. He presents tests here and throughout this letter to help determine the validity of anybody’s claim to be a Christian.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:4–10 These verses deal with the Christian’s incompatibility with sin. The false teachers that John combated, because of their Gnostic-like concepts (see Introduction: Background and Setting), discounted the significance of sin and the need for obedience. Because of their philosophical dualism, they viewed matter as inherently bad, and as a result, any sins committed in the physical realm as inconsequential. In this section, John gives four reasons why true Christians cannot habitually practice sin (John 8:31, 34–36; Rom. 6:11; 2 John 9).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:4 practice of sinning. The verb, “makes a practice,” in the Greek conveys the idea of making sin a habitual practice. Although genuine Christians have a sin disposition (1:8), and do commit and need to confess sin (1:9; 2:1), that is not the unbroken pattern of their lives. A genuinely born-again believer has a built-in check or guard against habitual sinning due to a new nature (“born of God”—3:9; cf. Rom. 6:12). sin is lawlessness. The first reason why Christians cannot practice sin is because sin is incompatible with the law of God, which they love (Ps. 119:34, 77, 97; Rom. 7:12, 22). The term “lawlessness” conveys more than transgressing God’s law. It conveys the ultimate sense of rebellion, i.e., living as if there was no law or ignoring what laws exist (James 4:17).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:5 he appeared to take away sins. A second reason why Christians cannot practice sin is because it is incompatible with the work of Christ. Christ died to sanctify (i.e., make holy) the believer (2 Cor. 5:21; Eph. 5:25–27). To sin is contrary to Christ’s work of breaking the dominion of sin in the believer’s life (Rom. 6:1–15).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:6 No one who abides . . . sinning. Like the phrase “makes a practice of sinning” in v. 4, the sense conveyed here is the idea of habitual, constant sinning. no one who keeps on sinning has either seen him or known him. If no check against habitual sin exists in someone who professes to be a Christian, John's pronouncement is absolutely clear—salvation never took place.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:7 let no one deceive you. The word “deceive” means “to lead astray.” Since false teachers were attempting to pervert the fundamentals of the faith, the possibility existed that some Christians might be fooled into accepting what they were advocating. To prevent this deception from occurring, John repeatedly emphasized the basics of Christianity, e.g., the need for obedience, the need for love, and the need for a proper view of Christ (see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes). practices righteousness. The genuine believer's habitual lifestyle of righteousness stands in sharp contrast to those false teachers who practiced sin (cf. vv. 4, 6). Since Christ died on the cross to transform sinners, those truly born again have replaced the habit of sin with the habit of righteous living (Rom. 6:13–14). as he is righteous. Those who are truly born again reflect the divine nature of the Son. They behave like him, manifesting the power of his life in them (Gal. 2:20).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:8 makes a practice of sinning. This phrase means “who habitually practices sin” (see notes on vv. 4, 6). of the devil. The phrase gives the source of the false teachers' actions. The term “devil” means “accuser” or “slanderer.” Not only does Satan (“adversary”) oppose God and his plan, but he is the originator and instigator of sin and rebellion against God and his law (v. 4; see notes on Eph. 6:10–17). Therefore, all the unsaved are under the diabolic influence of Satan. Their sinful lifestyle reflects their satanic origin (see note on Eph. 2:1). John contrasts the children of God with the children of Satan in terms of their actions. While those who are truly born again reflect the habit of righteousness, Satan's children practice sin. from the beginning. Since Satan was originally created as perfect and only later rebelled against God (Isa. 14:12–14; Ezek. 28:12–17), John probably means the moment of his rebellion against God, the beginning of his rebellious career. Since sin characterizes him completely, so everyone characterized by sin must derive from him (cf. John 8:44). The reason . . . to destroy. A third reason why Christians cannot practice sin is because Christ came to destroy the works of the arch-sinner, Satan. The devil is still operating, but he has been defeated and in Christ we escape his tyranny. The day will come when all of Satan's activity will cease in the universe and he will be sent to hell forever (Rev. 20:10). works of the devil. This summarizes a variety of the devil's activities: sin, rebellion, temptation, ruling the world, persecution and accusation of saints, instigation of false teachers, power of death (e.g., Luke 8:12; John 8:44; Acts 5:3; 1 Cor. 7:5; 2 Cor. 4:4; Eph. 6:11, 12; 1 Thess. 2:18; Heb. 2:14; Rev. 12:10).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:9 The fourth reason why Christians cannot practice sin is because it is incompatible with the ministry of the Holy Spirit, who has imparted a new nature to the believer (John 3:5–8). born of God. John wrote here of the new birth (John 3:7). When people become Christians, God makes them new creatures with new natures (2 Cor. 5:17). Believers have God’s characteristics because they have been born into God’s family. This new nature exhibits the habitual character of righteousness produced by the Holy Spirit (Gal. 5:22–24). John repeats this phrase twice for emphasis. God’s seed. The new birth involves the acquisition of a seed, which refers to the principle of life of God imparted to the believer at salvation’s new birth. John uses this image of a planted seed to picture the divine element involved in being born again. See notes on 1 Pet. 1:23–25. abides. The word conveys the idea of the permanence of the new birth, which cannot be reversed, for those who are truly born again are permanently transformed into a new creation (2 Cor. 5:17; Gal. 6:15; Eph. 2:10). he cannot keep on sinning. This phrase once again conveys the idea of habitual sinning (see vv. 1 John 3:4, 6).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:10 This summary verse is the key to vv. 4–10. Only two kinds of children exist in the world: children of God and children of Satan. No one can belong to both families simultaneously. Either one belongs to God’s family and exhibits his righteous character or one belongs to Satan’s family and exhibits his sinful nature.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:10b the one who does not love his brother. This phrase introduces the readers to the second aspect of the moral test, i.e., the test of love (as in 2:7–11). John develops this thought through 3:11–24. The false teachers not only had an erroneous view of Christ’s nature and displayed disobedience to God’s commands, but they also displayed a distinct lack of love for true believers, who rejected their heretical teaching.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:11–24 John elaborates on the love life of genuine believers. For those who are truly born again, love is an indispensable characteristic. The new nature or “seed” (v. 9) that God imparts not only exhibits holiness but also love as a habitual characteristic (John 13:35; Rom. 5:5; 1 Thess. 4:9). Those who practice love give proof of the new birth. Those who do not have never been born again.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:11 from the beginning. Since the beginning of gospel proclamation, love has been a central theme of Christianity (see notes on 1:1;

2:7). John emphasizes what they heard “from the beginning” (1:1; 2:7, 24) to emphasize that the false teachers were preventing that which God, through the apostles, proclaimed. we should love one another. This phrase highlights the habit of love displayed by those possessing the new nature. Love is not merely an optional duty for someone claiming to be a Christian, but proof positive that one truly has been born again (John 15:12; 1 Pet. 1:22–23).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:12–24 As noted throughout this epistle, John often repeated the same truths, expanding on them to allow his readers to hear them in new and fresh ways. Each time he presents the same truths in “new” packages, which expand on a particular aspect of their significance or approach the subject from a slightly different angle. Verses 12–17 address the characteristic lack of love displayed by the children of the devil, while in vv. 18–24 he talks about the characteristics of love displayed by the children of God (see note on v. 10).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:12 Cain. Scripture presents Cain outwardly as a God-worshiper who even offered sacrifice (Gen. 4:3–5). Cain’s murderous actions, however, revealed that inwardly he was a child of the devil (cf. John 8:44). who was of the evil one and murdered his brother. In 1 John 3:12–17, John presents the first of three behaviors of the devil’s children manifesting their lack of love—murder, the ultimate expression of hate. his own deeds were evil. Cain’s offering was not acceptable because he was sinful (cf. Gen. 4:5). Jealousy was behind his hate and murder, as in the case of the religious leaders who had Christ executed.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:13 the world hates you. History is filled with stories of the persecution of the saints by the world (Heb. 11:36–40). This does not surprise believers because hateful Satan is their father (1 John 3:10).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:14 passed out of death into life, because we love. Becoming a Christian is a resurrection from death to life, and a turning of hate to love (cf. Gal. 5:6, 22). A lack of love indicates that one is spiritually dead. Love is the sure test of whether someone has experienced the new birth or is still in the darkness of spiritual death (1 John 2:9, 11). abides in death. Someone who is characterized by hate has never experienced the new birth.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:15 Everyone who hates his brother is a murderer. John presents the second of three characteristics of the devil’s children with respect to their lack of love. Hatred is spiritually the same as murder in the eyes of God, i.e., the attitude is equal to the act. Hate is the seed that leads to murder, as seen in the example of the hatred of Cain for Abel that resulted in murder (see notes on Matt. 5:20–22; cf. Gal. 5:19–21; Rev. 22:15).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:16 By this we know love. With this phrase, John introduces the standard of love that is reflected in genuine Christianity. It becomes the measuring stick for every expression of love (see v. 18). John presents the third characteristic of Satan’s children in terms of their lack of love. Satan’s children are marked by indifference toward others’ needs (see also vv. 12, 15). he laid down his life for us. This expression is unique to John (John 10:11, 15, 17–18; 13:37–38; 15:13) and speaks of divesting oneself of something. Christian love is self-sacrificing and giving. Christ’s giving up his life for believers epitomized the true nature of Christian love (John 15:12, 13; Phil. 2:5–8; 1 Pet. 2:19–23). we ought to lay down our lives for the brothers. God calls Christians to that same standard of love for one another as he had for us (see 1 John 3:16a).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:17 anyone has the world’s goods . . . yet closes his heart. True love is not limited to supreme sacrifices (v. 16), but shows up in lesser ones. Genuine Christian love expresses itself in sacrificial giving to other Christians’ needs (i.e., “his brother”). It is a practical love that finds motivation in helping others (1 Tim. 6:17–19; Heb. 13:16; James 2:14–17). Where it does not exist, it is questionable that God’s love is present. If that is so, it is also questionable whether the person is the Lord’s child (1 John 3:14).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:18 in word or talk . . . in deed and in truth. Claiming to love is not enough. Love is not sentiment, but deeds.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:19 By this we shall know. A lifestyle of love in action is the demonstrable proof of salvation (see v. 16). reassure our heart before him. John gives three benefits of love for the true Christian. The first benefit is assurance of salvation since love in action is the test of Christian profession (cf. 4:7; John 13:34–35).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:20 whenever our heart condemns us, God is greater. God knows those who are truly his (2 Tim. 2:19) and wants to assure his own of their salvation. Although Christians may have insecurities and doubts about salvation, God does not condemn them (Rom. 8:1). Displaying love as a pattern of life is the proof that believers stand uncondemned before God.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:21 confidence before God. Love banishes self-condemnation. When a Christian recognizes in his life the manifestation of love in deeds and actions, it results in confidence about his relationship with God.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:22 The second benefit of love is answered prayer (see v. 19). Since love is the heart of obedience to the law (cf. Matt. 22:37–40; Rom. 13:8–10), its presence in a life evidences submission to God, which he blesses by answered prayers.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 3:23–24 Cf. 4:13. These verses again repeat the three features of this epistle—believing, loving, and obeying—which are the major evidences of true salvation. The third benefit of love is the abiding presence and empowering of the Holy Spirit.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:1–6 John turns from the importance of love to the importance of belief in God’s truth. He focuses once again on the doctrinal test and emphasizes the need to obey sound teaching (Matt. 24:11; 2 Pet. 2:2–3; Jude 3). Scripture presents stern warnings against false doctrine. From his temptation of Eve on, Satan has sought to distort and deny God’s word (Gen. 3:1–5). He is the ultimate demonic source behind all false teachers and false doctrine (2 Cor. 11:13–14). In this section, John gives two doctrinal tests to determine truth from error and false teachers from true teachers.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:1 do not believe every spirit. The mention of the Holy Spirit in 3:24 prompts John to inform his readers that other spirits exist, i.e., demonic spirits, who produce false prophets and false teachers to propagate their false doctrine (see notes on 1 Tim. 4:1–2). Christians are to have a healthy skepticism regarding any teaching, unlike some among John’s congregations who were too open minded to anyone claiming a new teaching regarding the faith. Christians are to be like the Bereans who, as students of the word, examined the Scriptures to determine truth and error (Acts 17:11–12). test. The word “test” is a metallurgist’s term used for assaying metals to determine their purity and value. Christians must test any teaching with a view to approving or disapproving it (see notes on 1 Thess. 5:20–22), rigorously comparing any teaching to the Scripture. the spirits . . . many false prophets. By juxtaposing “spirits” with “false prophets” John reminds his readers that behind human teachers who propagate false doctrine and error are demons inspired by Satan (see notes on 1 Thess. 5:20–22; cf. Acts 20:28–30). Human false prophets and teachers are the physical expressions of demonic, spiritual sources (Matt. 7:15;

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:2 By this you know the Spirit of God. John gives a measuring stick to determine whether the propagator of the message is a demon spirit or the Holy Spirit. Jesus Christ has come in the flesh. This is the first test of a true teacher: they acknowledge and proclaim that Jesus is God incarnate in human flesh. The Greek construction does not mean that they confess Christ as having come to earth, but that they confess that he came in the flesh to the earth, i.e., his human body was physically real. Both the full humanity and full deity of Jesus must be equally maintained by the teacher who is to be considered genuinely of the Spirit. The Holy Spirit testifies to the true nature of the Son, while Satan and his forces distort and deny that true nature. John accentuates the crucial importance of sound doctrine expressed in God's word as the only absolute and trustworthy standard (cf. Isa. 8:20).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:3 the spirit of the antichrist. These false teachers who denied the true nature of the Son (see Introduction: Background and Setting) are to be identified among the antichrists in 2:18–19 (2 John 7). The same demonic deception that will work to produce the final world ruler (see notes on Rev. 13:1–8) who rules as the false Christ is always actively seeking to distort Jesus Christ's true nature, perverting the gospel. The final Antichrist will not be something new, but will be the ultimate embodiment of all the antichrist spirits that have perverted truth and propagated satanic lies since the beginning. This is similar to 2 Thess. 2:3–8, where the man of lawlessness (Antichrist) is still to be revealed, but the mystery of lawlessness is already at work.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:4 he who is in you is greater. Believers need to be aware and alert to false teaching, but not afraid, since those who have experienced the new birth with its indwelling of the Holy Spirit have a built-in check against false teaching (cf. 2:20, 27). The Holy Spirit leads into sound doctrine for genuine Christians, evidencing that salvation has actually occurred (cf. Rom. 8:17). True believers have nothing to fear, for even Satan's hosts with their perversions can't take them out of the Lord's hand. Here, as in 1 John 2:18–27, protection against error or victory over it are guaranteed by sound doctrine and the indwelling Holy Spirit who illumines the mind.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:5–6 they speak from the world . . . Whoever knows God listens to us. John gives the second test of a true teacher: they speak God's word, following apostolic doctrine.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:6 By this we know the Spirit of truth and the spirit of error. The OT and NT are the sole standards by which all teaching is to be tested. In contrast, demonically inspired teachers either reject the teaching of God's word or add elements to it (2 Cor. 4:2; Rev. 22:18–19).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:7–21 True to his pattern to develop the same subjects, each time broadening, expanding, and enhancing their significance, John returns once again to the moral test of love. These verses constitute one long unit describing what perfect love is and that it is available to men. In John's third and last discussion of love in this letter (see also 2:7–11; 3:10–14), he gives five reasons why Christians love.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:7–8 love is from God . . . God is love. John introduces the reader to the first of five reasons why Christians love: because God is the essence of love. The Gnostics believed that God was immaterial spirit and light, but never defined the source of love as coming from his inmost being. As he is spirit (John 4:24), light (1 John 1:5), and a consuming fire (Heb. 12:29), so he is love. Love is inherent in all he is and does. Even his judgment and wrath are perfectly harmonized with his love.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:7 let us love one another. This phrase in v. 7 is the key to the entire section (see v. 21). The original conveys the idea of making sure that love is a habitual practice. He has already written that those who are truly born again do exhibit the characteristic habit of love (cf. 2:10–11; 3:14). whoever loves has been born of God. Those who are born again receive God's nature (cf. 2 Pet. 1:4). Since God's nature exhibits love as a chief characteristic (see also 1 John 4:8), God's children will also reflect that love.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:8 Anyone who does not love does not know God. Someone may profess to be a Christian but only those who display love like their heavenly Father actually possess his divine nature and are truly born again.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:9 John introduces the reader to the second of five reasons why Christians love: to follow the supreme example of God's sacrificial love in sending his Son for us. The judgment of sin on the cross was the supreme example of God's love, for he poured out his wrath on his beloved Son in place of sinners (John 3:14–16; Rom. 5:8; 2 Cor. 5:21; Eph. 5:1–2; see note on Titus 3:4). only Son. Over half of the NT's uses of this term are by John (e.g., John 1:14; 3:16, 18). John always uses it of Christ to picture his unique relationship to the Father, his pre-existence, and his distinctness from creation. The term emphasizes the uniqueness of Christ, as the only one of his kind. It was he whom the Father sent into the world as the greatest gift ever given (John 17:3; 2 Cor. 8:9) so that we might have life eternal (cf. John 3:14–15; 12:24).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:10 propitiation for our sins. For the word’s meaning, see note on 2:2. Hebrews 9:5 translates a form of this word as “the mercy seat.” Christ lit. became our mercy seat like the one in the Most Holy Place, where the high priest splattered the blood of the sacrifice on the Day of Atonement (Lev. 16:15). Christ did this when his blood, spilled on behalf of others, satisfied the demands of God’s holy justice and wrath against sin.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:11 God’s sending his Son gives Christians not only salvation privilege, but obligation to follow this pattern of sacrificial love. Christian love must be self-sacrificing like God’s love.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:12 John introduces the reader to the third of five reasons why Christians love: because love is the heart of Christian witness. Nobody can see God loving since his love is invisible. Jesus no longer is in the world to manifest the love of God. The only demonstration of God’s love in this age is the church. That testimony is critical (John 13:35; 2 Cor. 5:18–20). John’s argument in 1 John 4:7–12 can be summed up as: love originated in God, was manifested in his Son, and demonstrated in his people.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:13–16 John introduces the reader to the fourth of five reasons why Christians love: because love is the Christian’s assurance (see notes on 3:16–23).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:15 Whoever confesses. See note on v. 2. This refers to the doctrinal test (cf. vv. 1–6; 1:1–4; 2:23).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:17–20 John introduces the reader to the fifth reason why Christians love: because love is the Christian’s confidence in judgment (see notes on 3:16–23).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:17 love perfected with us. He is not suggesting sinless perfection, but rather mature love marked by confidence in the face of judgment. Confidence is a sign that love is mature. as he is so also are we. Jesus was God’s Son in whom he was well pleased on earth; we also are God’s children (3:11) and the objects of his gracious goodness. If Jesus called God Father, so may we, since we are accepted in the Beloved (Eph. 1:6). In 1 John 4:18, the same truth is stated negatively. The love that builds confidence also banishes fears. We love God and reverence him, but we do not love God and come to him in love, and at the same time, hide from him in terror (cf. Rom. 8:14–15; 2 Tim. 1:7). Fear involves torment or punishment, a reality the sons of God will never experience, because they are forgiven.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 4:21 This verse summarizes ch. 4. One cannot love God without first loving one's fellow believer. A claim to love God is a delusion if not accompanied by unselfish love for other Christians.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:1–5 John introduces the subject of the victorious life. While the Bible uses many terms to describe what Christians are (e.g., believers, friends, brothers, sheep, saints, soldiers, witnesses, etc.), John highlights one particular term in this chapter: the overcomer (see note on v. 4 for the meaning of the term). Of the 24 times the word occurs in the NT, John uses it 21 times (cf. also Rev. 2:7, 11, 17; 2:26; 3:5, 12, 21). Several different forms of this term appear in these verses to emphasize the victorious nature of the believer.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:1 Everyone who believes. Saving faith is the first characteristic of an overcomer. The term “believes” conveys the idea of continuing faith, making the point that the mark of genuine believers is that they continue in faith throughout their life. Saving belief is not simply intellectual acceptance, but whole-hearted dedication to Jesus Christ that is permanent. Jesus is the Christ. The object of the believer's faith is Jesus, particularly that he is the promised Messiah or “Anointed One” whom God sent to be the Savior from sin. Whoever places faith in Jesus Christ as the only Savior has been born again and, as a result, is an overcomer (v. 5). born of God. This is a reference to the new birth and is the same word that Jesus used in John 3:7. The tense of the Greek verb indicates that ongoing faith is the result of the new birth and, therefore, the evidence of the new birth. The sons of God will manifest the reality that they have been born again by continuing to believe in God's Son, the Savior. The new birth brings us into a permanent faith relationship with God and Christ. everyone who loves the Father loves whoever has been born of him. Love is the second characteristic of the overcomer. The overcomer not only believes in God, but loves both God and fellow believers. The moral test is again in view.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:2–3 obey . . . keep his commandments. John repeats this phrase twice in these two verses. Obedience is the third characteristic of an overcomer. In these five verses, John weaves faith, love, and obedience all together inextricably. They exist mutually in a dynamic relationship, i.e., as the genuine proof of love is obedience, so the genuine proof of faith is love. The word “keep” conveys the idea of constant obedience (cf. John 8:31–32; 14:15, 21; 15:10).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:3 his commandments are not burdensome. For example, in contrast to the burdensome man-made religious traditions of the Jewish leaders (Matt. 23:4), the yoke of Jesus is easy and the burden light (Matt. 11:30).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:4 overcomes. John clearly defines who these overcomers are: they are all who believe that Jesus is God’s Son, and all that means. The overcomers are believers—all of them (cf. 2:13). The word for “overcomes” or “overcomer” comes from a Greek word meaning “to conquer,” “to have victory,” “to have superiority” or “conquering power.” The word reflects a genuine superiority that leads to overwhelming success. The victory is demonstrable; it involves overthrowing an enemy so that the victory is seen by all. Jesus also used this word to describe himself (John 16:33). Because of believers’ union with Christ, they too partake in his victory (Rom. 8:37; 2 Cor. 2:14). The word “overcomes” in the original language conveys the idea that the believer has continual victory over the world.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:4–5 the world. Satan’s worldwide system of deception and wickedness. See notes on 2:15. Through Christ and his provision of salvation, the believer is a victor (5:5) over the invisible system of demonic and human evil that Satan operates to capture men’s souls for hell. John repeats the reference to overcoming the world three times—to press it home. our faith . . . one who believes. Faith in Jesus Christ and dedication of one’s life to him make one an overcomer. John repeats the truth for emphasis.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:6–12 The terms “testify” and “testimony” are the themes of this section. The passage concerns the witness or testimony of God and the Spirit to the world regarding the great truth of the deity of Jesus Christ. The previous passage (vv. 1–5) described overcomers as those who believed in Jesus as Lord and Savior, and here John presents God’s own testimony to confirm that Jesus is the Christ (John 5:31–37; 8:13–18). He gives two kinds of testimony: external (1 John 5:6–9) and internal (vv. 10–12).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:6 water and the blood. Water and the blood constitute external, objective witnesses to who Jesus Christ is. They refer to Jesus' baptism (water) and death (blood). John combats the dualism of false teachers who asserted that "Christ-spirit" departed from the man Jesus just prior to his death on the cross (see Introduction: Background and Setting). John writes to show that God has given testimony to the deity of Jesus through both his baptism and death. testifies. Both the verb "testifies" and the noun "testimony" come from the same Greek word and are used a total of nine times in this section. The basic meaning is "someone who has personal and immediate knowledge of something." the Spirit is the truth. John no longer stresses apostolic testimony (1:1-4; 4:14) but writes of the testimony of God that comes through the Holy Spirit. Since the Spirit of God cannot lie, his testimony is sure.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:7 three that testify. The OT law required "the evidence of two witnesses or three witnesses" to establish the truth of a particular matter (Deut. 17:6; 19:15; cf. John 8:17-18; 1 Tim. 5:19).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:8 the Spirit and the water and the blood. At the baptism of Jesus, the Father and the Spirit testified to the Son (see Matt. 3:16-17). The death of Jesus Christ also witnessed to who he was (Matt. 27:54; Heb. 9:14). The Holy Spirit testified throughout Jesus' life as to his identity (Mark 1:12; Luke 1:35; Acts 10:38).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:10 has the testimony in himself. John writes of the internal subjective witness to the Son within the believer's heart (Rom. 8:15-16; Gal. 4:6). made him a liar. If someone refuses the testimony of God regarding his Son, such rejection is the ultimate form of blasphemy, for it is tantamount to calling God a liar (Titus 1:2; Heb. 6:18).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:11-12 This summarizes the blessing of the believer's subjective witness—the very life that we possess in Christ expressed in the grace and power he provides all the time. It is the very experience of knowing Christ in one's life. Life is only in him, so it is impossible to have it without him.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:13-21 John concludes his letter with a discussion regarding five Christian certainties that constitute a powerful climax to the entire epistle. He accentuates their certainty by using the word "know" seven times in this section.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:13 these things. This has reference to all that John has written in his letter. that you may know that you have eternal life. Assurance of eternal life constitutes the first Christian certainty. While John wrote his Gospel to bring unbelievers to faith (John 20:31), he wrote the epistle to give believers confidence that they possessed eternal life. The false brethren's departure left John's congregations shaken (1 John 2:19). He assured those who remained that since they adhered to the fundamentals of the faith (a proper view of Christ, obedience, love), their salvation was sure. eternal life. This does not refer primarily to a period of time but a person (5:20; John 17:3). Eternal life is a relationship with the person of Jesus Christ and possessing his nature (as in 1 John 5:11–12).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:14–17 Answered prayer is the second Christian certainty.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:14 confidence. For the meaning of the term, see note on 3:21. Christians can know with absolute confidence that God answers prayer when they approach the throne of grace (Heb. 4:16). according to his will. This phrase constitutes a strategic key to answered prayer. To pray according to God's will is to pray in accord with what he would want, not what we would desire or insist that he do for us (John 14:13–14). John already specified that answered prayer also depends on obedience to God's commandments and avoidance of sin (1 John 3:21; Ps. 66:18; John 15:7; 1 Pet. 3:7). Since genuine believers know God's word (i.e., his will) and practice those things that are pleasing to him, they never insist on their own will, but supremely seek God's desires (Matt. 26:39–42). he hears us. The word "hears" signifies that God always hears the prayers of his children (Ps. 34:15–17), but not always in the manner they were presented.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:16–17 John illustrates praying according to God's will with the specific example of the "sin that leads to death." Such a sin could be any premeditated and unconfessed sin that causes the Lord to determine to end a believer's life. It is not one particular sin like homosexuality or lying, but whatever sin is the final one in the tolerance of God. Failure to repent of and forsake sin may eventually lead to physical death as a judgment of God (Acts 5:1–11; 1 Cor. 5:5; 11:30). No intercessory prayer will be effective for those who have committed such deliberate high-handed sin, i.e., God's discipline with physical death is inevitable in such cases as he seeks to preserve the purity of his church (see notes on 1 Cor. 5:5–7). The contrast to the phrase "sin that leads to death" with "sin not leading to death" signifies that the writer distinguishes between sins that may lead to physical death and those that do not. That is not to identify a certain kind of mortal or non-mortal sin, but to say not all sins are so judged by God.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:18 Victory over sin and Satan is the third Christian certainty (3:9; Rom. 6:15–22). protects him. This refers to the fact that God protects the believer. evil one. This is a reference to Satan. does not touch him. John uses this word only here and in John 20:17. The word suggests “to lay hold of” or “to grasp” in order to harm. Because the believer belongs to God, Satan must operate within God’s sovereignty and cannot function beyond what God allows, as in the example of Job (Job 2:5; Rom. 16:20). While Satan may persecute, tempt, test, and accuse the believer, God protects his children and places definite limits on Satan’s influence or power (1 John 2:13; John 10:28; 17:12–15).

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:19 we are from God. That Christians belong to God is the fourth Christian certainty. Only two types of people exist in the world according to John: children of God and children of Satan (see note on 3:10). One belongs either to God or to the evil world system that is Satan’s domain. Because the whole world belongs to Satan, Christians should avoid its contamination.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:20 true. The word means “genuine” as opposed to what is false (cf. v. 21). God and eternal life. That Jesus Christ is the true God is the fifth Christian certainty. This verse constitutes the summation of John’s whole letter. The greatest certainty of all, the incarnation, guarantees the certainty of the rest. This is the doctrinal foundation, out of which comes love and obedience.

1 JOHN—NOTE ON 5:21 keep yourselves from idols. John contrasts the term “idols” with “the true God” of v. 20. He has reference here to the false teachers who withdrew from the brotherhood with which they had been formerly associated (2:19). Their false beliefs and practices are the idols from which the readers are commanded to protect themselves. The false teachers upheld the world’s philosophy as superior to God’s revelation as demonstrated in their perversion of basic Christian teaching (faith, love, and obedience). In closing, John once again highlights the importance of adherence to the fundamentals of the faith.

Introduction to 2 John

Title

The epistle's title is "2 John." It is the second in a series of three epistles that bear the apostle John's name. Second and Third John present the closest approximation in the NT to the conventional letter form of the contemporary Greco-Roman world, since they were addressed from an individual to individuals. Second and Third John are the shortest epistles in the NT, each containing less than 300 Greek words. Each letter could fit on a single papyrus sheet (cf. 3 John 13).

Author and Date

The author is the apostle John. He describes himself in 2 John 1 as "the elder," which conveys the advanced age of the apostle, his authority, and his status during the foundational period of Christianity when he was involved with Jesus' ministry. The precise date of the epistle cannot be determined. Since the wording, subject matter, and circumstances of 2 John closely approximate 1 John (2 John 5 cf. [1 John 2:7; 3:11]; 2 John 6 cf. [1 John 5:3]; 2 John 7 cf. [1 John 2:18–26]; 2 John 9 cf. [1 John 2:23]; 2 John 12 cf. [1 John 1:4]), most likely John composed the letter at the same time or soon after 1 John, c. A.D. 90–95, during his ministry at Ephesus in the latter part of his life.

Background and Setting

Second John deals with the same problem as 1 John (see Introduction to 1 John: Background and Setting). False teachers influenced by the beginnings of Gnostic thought were threatening the church (2 John 7; cf. 1 John 2:18–19, 22–23; 4:1–3). The strategic difference is that while 1 John has no specific individual or church specified to whom it was addressed, 2 John has a particular local group or house-church in mind (2 John 1).

The focus of 2 John is that the false teachers were conducting an itinerant ministry among John's congregations, seeking to make converts, and taking advantage of Christian hospitality to advance their cause (vv. 10–11; cf. Rom. 12:13; Heb. 13:2; 1 Pet. 4:9). The individual addressed in the greeting (2 John 1) inadvertently or unwisely may have shown these false prophets hospitality, or John may have feared that the false teachers would attempt to take advantage of her kindness (vv. 10–11). The apostle seriously warns his readers against showing hospitality to such deceivers (vv. 10–11). Although his exhortation may appear on the surface to be harsh or unloving, the acutely dangerous nature of their teaching justified such actions, especially since it threatened to destroy the very foundations of the faith (v. 9).

Historical and Theological Themes

The overall theme of 2 John closely parallels 1 John's theme of a “recall to the fundamentals of the faith” or “back to the basics of Christianity” (2 John 4–6). For John, the basics of Christianity are summarized by adherence to the truth (v. 4), love (v. 5), and obedience (v. 6).

The apostle, however, conveys an additional but related theme in 2 John: “the biblical guidelines for hospitality.” Not only are Christians to adhere to the fundamentals of the faith, but the gracious hospitality that is commanded of them (Rom. 12:13) must be discriminating. The basis of hospitality must be common love of or interest in the truth, and Christians must share their love within the confines of that truth. They are not called to universal acceptance of anyone who claims to be a believer. Love must be discerning. Hospitality and kindness must be focused on those who are adhering to the fundamentals of the faith. Otherwise, Christians may actually aid those who are attempting to destroy those basic truths of the faith. Sound doctrine must serve as the test of fellowship and the basis of separation between those who profess to be Christians and those who actually are (2 John 10–11; cf. Rom. 16:17; Gal. 1:8–9; 2 Thess. 3:6, 14; Titus 3:10).

Interpretive Challenges

Second John stands in direct antithesis to the frequent cry for ecumenism and Christian unity among believers. Love and truth are inseparable in Christianity. Truth must always guide the exercise of love (cf. Eph. 4:15). Love must stand the test of truth. The main lesson of this book is that truth determines the bounds of love, and as a consequence, of unity. Therefore, truth must exist before love can unite, for truth generates love (1 Pet. 1:22). When someone compromises the truth, true Christian love and unity are destroyed. Only a shallow sentimentalism exists where the truth is not the foundation of unity.

The reference to the “elect lady and her children” (2 John 1) should be understood in a normal, plain sense referring to a particular woman and her children rather than interpreted in a non-literal sense as a church and its membership. Similarly, the reference to “the children of your elect sister” (v. 13) should be understood as a reference to the nieces and/or nephews of the individual addressed in verse 1, rather than metaphorically to a sister church and its membership. In these verses, John conveys greetings to personal acquaintances that he has come to know through his ministry.

THE SECOND LETTER OF JOHN

Greeting

2JOHN 1 †The elder to the elect lady and her children, whom I love in truth, and not only I, but also all who know the truth, 2†because of the truth that abides in us and will be with us forever:

3†Grace, mercy, and peace will be with us, from God the Father and from Jesus Christ the Father's Son, in truth and love.

Walking in Truth and Love

4†I rejoiced greatly to find some of your children walking in the truth, just as we were commanded by the Father. 5†And now I ask you, dear lady—not as though I were writing you a new commandment, but the one we have had from the beginning—that we love one another. 6†And this is love, that we walk according to his commandments; this is the commandment, just as you have heard from the beginning, so that you should walk in it. 7†For many deceivers have gone out into the world, those who do not confess the coming of Jesus Christ in the flesh. Such a one is the deceiver and the antichrist. 8†Watch yourselves, so that you may not lose what we [\[1\]](#) have worked for, but may win a full reward.

9†Everyone who goes on ahead and does not abide in the teaching of Christ, does not have God. Whoever abides in the teaching has both the Father and the Son.

10†If anyone comes to you and does not bring this teaching, do not receive him into your house or give him any greeting, 11†for whoever greets him takes part in his wicked works.

Final Greetings

12†Though I have much to write to you, I would rather not use paper and ink. Instead I hope to come to you and talk face to face, so that our joy may be complete.

13†The children of your elect sister greet you.

Study Notes

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 1 The elder. John uses this title to emphasize his advanced age, his spiritual authority over the congregations in Asia Minor, and the strength of his own personal eyewitness testimony to the life of Jesus and all that he taught (vv. 4–6). the elect lady and her children. Some think that this phrase refers metaphorically to a particular local church, while “her children” would refer to members of the congregation. The more natural understanding in context, however, is that it refers to a particular woman and her children (i.e., offspring) who were well known to John. whom I love in truth. The basis of Christian hospitality is the truth (vv. 1–3). John accentuates the need for truth by repeating the term “truth” five times in the opening four verses. Truth refers to the basics or fundamentals of the faith that John has discussed in 1 John (sound belief in Christ, obedience, love) as well as the truths expressed in 2 John (e.g., vv. 4–6). Truth is the necessary condition of unity and, as a result, the basis of hospitality.

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 2 truth . . . abides in us . . . will be with us forever. This is the cognitive truth of God’s word (cf. Col. 3:16).

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 3 Grace, mercy, and peace . . . in truth and love. John’s succession from grace to mercy and then peace marks the order from the first motion of God to the final satisfaction of man. The confines of these threefold blessings are within the sphere of truth and love.

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 4 children walking in the truth, just as we were commanded. The behavior of hospitality involves obedience to the truth (see vv. 5–6). The word “walking” has reference to continual walking in the truth, i.e., making obedience to the truth a habit in one’s life.

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 5 new commandment . . . that we love one another. John ties the commandment of truth to the commandment of love (cf. 1 John 2:7–11; 4:7–12). The word “love” has reference to practicing love as a habit in one’s life. Both walking in the truth and in love is the behavior of hospitality.

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 6 this is love, that we walk according to his commandments. John defines love, not as a sentiment or an emotion, but as obedience to God's commands (see notes on 1 John 5:2-3). Those who are obedient to the truth as contained in God's commandments, the fundamentals of the faith (1 John 2:3-11), are identified as walking in love. Cf. John 14:15, 21; 15:10.

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 7 many deceivers. Cf. Mark 13:22-23; 1 Tim. 4:1-4; 2 Pet. 2:1ff.; 1 John 4:1. In 2 John 7-11, John gives limits for Christian hospitality. This is the centerpiece of John's thought in this epistle and expands the first two points. Since Satan comes as an angel of light (2 Cor. 11:13-15), believers must be on guard against error by having an intimate acquaintance with the truth. who do not confess the coming of Jesus Christ in the flesh. The original language conveys the idea of a habitual denial of the undiminished deity and humanity of Christ. A biblical Christology maintains that Jesus Christ's nature was both fully God and fully man with all the implications for the fulfillment of redemptive purposes. The essence of the severest error in false religions, heresies, and cults is a denial of the true nature of Jesus Christ.

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 8 may not lose what we have worked for. Although a reward is generally promised Christians for hospitality (e.g., Matt. 10:41; 25:40; Mark 9:41), the idea here is of the fullness of a believer's reward for all the good he has done (see 1 Cor. 3:10-17; 2 Cor. 5:9-10). A loss of that reward may occur to any believer who does not discriminate fellowship on the basis of adherence to the truth (Col. 2:18-19; 3:24-25). This is a potent warning. All the eternal reward one earns by seeing Christ purely, eagerly, and effectively in the Spirit can be diminished by any aiding or abetting of false teaching.

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 9 does not abide in the teaching of Christ, does not have God. A failure to be faithful to the fundamental, sound doctrines of the faith (a proper view of the person and work of Christ, love, obedience) marks a person as having never been born again (1 John 2:23; 3:6-10; 4:20-21; 5:1-3). The word "abide" has the idea of constant adherence and warns that these fundamentals are not open to change or subject to the latest trends or philosophical fads.

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 10 do not receive him into your house or give him any greeting. John's prohibition is not a case of entertaining people who disagree on minor matters. These false teachers were carrying on a regular campaign to destroy the basic, fundamental truths of Christianity. Complete disassociation from such heretics is the only appropriate course of action for genuine believers.

No benefit or aid of any type (not even a greeting) is permissible. Believers should aid only those who proclaim the truth (vv. 5–8).

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 11 takes part in his wicked works. Hospitality to such leaders aids the spread of their heresy and inevitably leaves the impression of sanctioning the teachings of these antichrists (cf. 1 John 2:22). Supreme loyalty to God and his word alone must characterize the actions of every true believer.

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 12 paper and ink. The word “paper” refers to a papyrus sheet. One papyrus sheet could contain the whole letter of 2 John. The term “ink” means “black” and refers to a mixture of water, charcoal, and gum resin that was used to write. face to face. John lit. wrote “mouth to mouth.” Cf. Num. 12:8 where God spoke to Moses “mouth to mouth.” that our joy may be complete. The blessing of hospitality is full joy (2 John 12–13). John uses this same wording in 1 John 1:4. When believers uphold the biblical standards for fellowship, the result is genuine joy among believers because the truths of the word are maintained.

2 JOHN—NOTE ON 13 The children of your elect sister. John refers to the nieces and/or nephews of the woman (“elect lady”) addressed in v. 1 who sent their greetings via John.

Introduction to 3 John

Title

The epistle's title is "3 John." It is the third in a series of three epistles that bear the apostle John's name. Third John and Second John present the closest approximation in the New Testament to the conventional letter form of the contemporary Greco-Roman world, since they were addressed from an individual to individuals. Both 2 and 3 John are the shortest epistles in the NT, each containing less than 300 Greek words, so as to fit on a single papyrus sheet (cf. v. 13).

Author and Date

The author is the apostle John. He describes himself in v. 1 as "the elder," which conveys the advanced age of the apostle, his authority, and his eyewitness status especially during the foundational period of Christianity when John was involved with Jesus' ministry (cf. 2 John 1). The precise date of the epistle cannot be determined. Since the structure, style, and vocabulary closely approximate 2 John (3 John 1 cf. [2 John 1]; 3 John 4 cf. [2 John 4]; 3 John 13 cf. [2 John 12]; 3 John 14 cf. [2 John 12]), most likely John composed the letter at the same time or soon after 2 John, c. A.D. 90–95. As with 2 and 2 John, the apostle probably composed the letter during his ministry at Ephesus in the latter part of his life.

Background and Setting

Third John is perhaps the most personal of John's three epistles. While 1 John appears to be a general letter addressed to congregations scattered throughout Asia Minor, and 2 John was sent to a lady and her family (2 John 1), in 3 John the apostle clearly names the sole recipient as "the beloved Gaius" (v. 1). This makes the epistle one of a few letters in the NT addressed strictly to an individual (cf. Philemon). The name "Gaius" was very common in the first century (e.g., Acts 19:29; 20:4; Rom. 16:23; 1 Cor. 1:14), but nothing is known of this individual beyond John's salutation, from which it is inferred that he was a member of one of the churches under John's spiritual oversight.

As with 2 John, 3 John focuses on the basic issue of hospitality but from a different perspective. While 2 John warns against showing hospitality to false teachers (2 John 7–11), 3 John condemns the lack of hospitality shown to faithful ministers of the word (3 John 9–10). Reports came back to the apostle that itinerant teachers known and approved by him (vv. 5–8) had traveled to a certain congregation where they were refused hospitality (e.g., lodging and provision) by an individual named Diotrephes who domineered the assembly (v. 10). Diotrephes went even further, for he also verbally slandered the apostle John with malicious accusations and excluded anyone from the assembly who dared challenge him (v. 10).

In contrast, Gaius, a beloved friend of the apostle and faithful adherent to the truth (vv. 1–4), extended the correct standard of Christian hospitality to itinerant ministers. John wrote to commend the type of hospitality exhibited by Gaius to worthy representatives of the gospel (vv. 6–8) and to condemn the high-handed actions of Diotrephes (v. 10). The apostle promised to correct the situation personally and sent this letter through an individual named Demetrius, whom he commended for his good testimony among the brethren (vv. 10–12).

Historical and Theological Themes

The theme of 3 John is the commendation of the proper standards of Christian hospitality and condemnation for failure to follow those standards.

Interpretive Challenges

Some think that Diotrephes may either have been a heretical teacher or at least favored the false teachers who were condemned by 2 John. However, the epistle gives no clear evidence to warrant such a conclusion, especially since one might expect that John would have mentioned Diotrephes' heretical views. The epistle indicates that his problems centered around arrogance and disobedience, which is a problem for the orthodox as well as the heretic.

THE THIRD LETTER OF JOHN

3 John

Greeting

3JOHN 1 †The elder to the beloved Gaius, whom I love in truth.

<sup>2</sup>†Beloved, I pray that all may go well with you and that you may be in good health, as it goes well with your soul. <sup>3</sup>†For I rejoiced greatly when the brothers [\[1\]](#) came and testified to your truth, as indeed you are walking in the truth. <sup>4</sup>†I have no greater joy than to hear that my children are walking in the truth.

Support and Opposition

<sup>5</sup>†Beloved, it is a faithful thing you do in all your efforts for these brothers, strangers as they are, <sup>6</sup>†who testified to your love before the church. You will do well to send them on their journey in a manner worthy of God. <sup>7</sup>†For they have gone out for the sake of the name, accepting nothing from the Gentiles.

<sup>8</sup>Therefore we ought to support people like these, that we may be fellow workers for the truth.

<sup>9</sup>†I have written something to the church, but Diotrephes, who likes to put himself first, does not acknowledge our authority. <sup>10</sup>†So if I come, I will bring up what he is doing, talking wicked nonsense against us. And not content with that, he refuses to welcome the brothers, and also stops those who want to and puts them out of the church.

<sup>11</sup>†Beloved, do not imitate evil but imitate good. Whoever does good is from God; whoever does evil has not seen God. <sup>12</sup>†Demetrius has received a good testimony from everyone, and from the truth itself. We also add our testimony, and you know that our testimony is true.

Final Greetings

<sup>13</sup>†I had much to write to you, but I would rather not write with pen and ink. <sup>14</sup>I hope to see you soon, and we will talk face to face.

<sup>15</sup>Peace be to you. The friends greet you. Greet the friends, every one of them.

Footnotes

Footnotes for 3 John, Chapter 1

- [1] 1:3 Or brothers and sisters. The plural Greek word adelphoi (translated “brothers”) refers to siblings in a family. In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God's family, the church; also verses 5, 10

Study Notes

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 1 The elder. John uses the same term for himself as he did in 2 John 1. The term probably has reference to his age, his apostolic eyewitness status of Jesus' life, and also that he had an official position of authority in the church. the beloved. The term “beloved” is only used of Christians in the NT (Col. 3:12; Philem. 1–2; 2 Pet. 3:14; 1 John 4:1). Gaius. Nothing is known of Gaius beyond the mention of his name in the salutation. The name was one of 18 common names from which Roman parents usually chose for one of their sons, making any specific identification doubtful. John, his fellow believers, and even strangers to whom Gaius extended hospitality held him in great esteem for his Christian walk and conduct (3 John 1–6). John conveyed his own appreciation for Gaius by calling him “beloved” four times in the letter (vv. 1, 2, 5, 11). He probably was a member of a church somewhere in Asia Minor that was under John's sphere of influence. The apostle planned to visit him sometime in the near future (v. 13). whom I love in truth. Because Christians have common knowledge of the truth, they have the common source of love (2 John 1). While some have taken the phrase to mean simply “truly” (Mark 12:32), John's usage of this phrase elsewhere in these letters where truth takes on such a significant meaning suggests that the elder intended the kind of love that is consistent with the fundamental truths of the faith (cf. 3 John 4; 1 John 2:21; 3:19).

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 2 I pray. John's prayer for Gaius is significant. Gaius's spiritual state was so excellent that John prayed that his physical health would match his spiritual vigor. To ask about one's health was standard custom in ancient letters, but John adapted this convention in a unique manner to highlight Gaius's vibrant spiritual state.

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 3 when the brothers came and testified. The phrase indicates that Christians continually praised Gaius's exemplary obedience to the fundamentals of the faith. His spiritual reputation was well known. you are walking in the truth. Gaius's walk matched his talk. His reputation for practicing what he preached was exemplary (2 John 4). John's commendation of him is one of the greatest given in the NT, since the commendation centers not only in the fact that he knew the truth but that he faithfully practiced it. Gaius's actions were in stark contrast to Diotrophes' negative reputation (3 John 10).

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 4 I have no greater joy. John’s personal affection for Gaius radiated especially from his personal conduct (Luke 6:46). my children. The word “my” is emphatic in the original. John’s heart delighted in the proper conduct of his spiritual children in the faith. Those who walk (conduct) in the truth (belief) have integrity; there is no dichotomy between professing and living. He had strong fatherly affection for them (cf. 1 Cor. 4:14–16; 1 Thess. 2:11; 3:1–10).

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 5 it is a faithful thing. Genuine faith always produces genuine good works (James 2:14–17). brothers, strangers. Gaius practiced hospitality not only toward those whom he knew but also to those whom he did not know. The reference concerns especially itinerant gospel preachers that Gaius aided on their journeys.

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 6 who testified to your love before the church. Gaius’s reputation for hospitality and kindness (as well as obedience—v. 3) was also well known throughout the churches in the region. You will do well. John encouraged Gaius to keep practicing hospitality, especially because of the actions of Diotrephes, who conducted a heavy-handed campaign against it (v. 10). in a manner worthy of God. Cf. Col. 1:10; 1 Thess. 2:12. The phrase has the connotation of treating people as God would treat them (see Matt. 10:40), and becomes the key manner in which hospitality should be practiced (Matt. 25:40–45).

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 7–8 John gives several grounds for practicing hospitality in a “manner worthy of God” (v. 6). First, one must show hospitality to those who have pure motives. These itinerant missionaries went out “for the sake of the name” (v. 7; cf. Rom. 1:5). They must be doing their ministry for God’s glory, not their own. Second, one must show hospitality to those who are not in ministry for money. Since the missionaries were “accepting nothing from the Gentiles” (3 John 7), the church was their only means of support. They were free from avarice (2 Cor. 2:17; 1 Tim. 5:17–18). Third, those who show hospitality participate in the ministries of those to whom hospitality is shown (3 John 8). Verse 8 gives the same reason to demonstrate hospitality to genuine teachers as does 2 John 10 in forbidding hospitality toward false teachers, i.e., that those who extend hospitality share in the deeds (i.e., good or bad) of those receiving it.

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 9 I have written . . . to the church. John apparently had written a previous letter to the church, perhaps on the subject of hospitality, but it was lost. Perhaps Diotrephes never read it to the church because he rejected John's authority (cf. vv. 9–10). Diotrephes, who likes to put himself first. In the second part of his epistle, John condemned the violation of hospitality toward faithful ministers of the word. The word “first” conveys the idea of someone who is selfish, self-centered, and self-seeking. The language suggests a self-promoting demagogue who served no one, but wanted all to serve only him. Diotrephes' actions directly contradict Jesus' and the NT's teaching on servant-leadership in the church (cf. Matt. 20:20–28; Phil. 2:5–11; 1 Tim. 3:3; 1 Pet. 5:3). does not acknowledge our authority. Diotrephes modeled the opposite of kindness and hospitality to God's servants, even denying John's apostolic authority over the local congregation, and as a result, denying the revelation of God that came through that authority. His pride endeavored to supplant the rule of Christ through John in the church. Diotrephes' character was the very opposite of the gentle and loving Gaius, who readily showed hospitality.

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 10 if I come, I will bring up what he is doing. John's apostolic authority meant that Diotrephes had to answer for his behavior. The apostle did not overlook this usurping of Christ's place in the church. Verse 10 indicates that Diotrephes was guilty of four things: 1) “nonsense against us.” The charges against John were completely unjustified; 2) “wicked.” Not only were Diotrephes' charges false, they were evil; 3) “refuses to welcome the brothers.” He not only slandered John but also deliberately defied other believers; and 4) “puts them out of the church.” The original language indicates that Diotrephes' habit was to excommunicate those who resisted his authority. refuses to welcome the brothers. To accept John's authority (v. 9), as well as being hospitable to the traveling ministers, directly threatened the authority that Diotrephes coveted.

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 11 do not imitate evil but imitate good. The verse begins the introduction to the commendation of Demetrius in v. 12. Gaius was to imitate Demetrius as the correct role model for his actions. Whoever does good is from God; whoever does evil has not seen God. John's statement indicates that Diotrephes' actions proved that he was never a Christian. This is a practical application of the moral test (see notes on 1 John 5:2–3).

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 12 Demetrius. As with Gaius, Demetrius was a very common name in the Roman world (Acts 19:24, 38). Nothing is known of him apart from this epistle. He may have delivered this letter, which also would serve to commend him to Gaius. has received a good testimony from everyone. Like Gaius, Demetrius's reputation was well known in the region. from the truth itself. Demetrius was an excellent role model preeminently because he practiced the truth of God's word in his life.

3 JOHN—NOTE ON 13–14 pen and ink . . . face to face. See note on 2 John 12.

Introduction to Jude

Title

Jude, which is rendered “Judah” in Hebrew and “Judas” in Greek, was named after its author (v. 1), one of the four half brothers of Christ (Matt. 13:55; Mark 6:3). As the fourth shortest NT book (Philemon, 2 John, and 3 John are shorter), Jude is the last of eight general epistles. Jude does not quote the OT directly, but there are at least nine obvious allusions to it. Contextually, this “epistolary sermon” could be called “The Acts of the Apostates.”

Author and Date

Although Jude (Judas) was a common name in Palestine (at least eight are named in the NT), the author of Jude generally has been accepted as Jude, Christ’s half brother. He is to be differentiated from the apostle Judas, the son of James (Luke 6:16; Acts 1:13). Several lines of thought lead to this conclusion: 1) Jude’s appeal to being the “brother of James,” the leader of the Jerusalem Council (Acts 15) and another half brother of Jesus (Jude 1; cf. Gal. 1:19); 2) Jude’s salutation being similar to James (cf. James 1:1); and 3) Jude’s not identifying himself as an apostle (Jude 1), but rather distinguishing between himself and the apostles (v. 17).

The doctrinal and moral apostasy discussed by Jude (vv. 4–18) closely parallels that of 2 Peter (2 Pet. 2:1–3:4), and it is believed that Peter’s writing predated Jude for several reasons: 1) 2 Peter anticipates the coming of false teachers (2 Pet. 2:1–2; 3:3), while Jude deals with their arrival (Jude 4, 11–12, 17–18); and 2) Jude quotes directly from 2 Pet. 3:3 and acknowledges that it is from an apostle (Jude 17–18). Since no mention of Jerusalem’s destruction in A.D. 70 was made by Jude, though Jude most likely came after 2 Peter (c. A.D. 68–70), it was almost certainly written before the destruction of Jerusalem. Although Jude did travel on missionary trips with other brothers and their wives (1 Cor. 9:5), it is most likely that he wrote from Jerusalem. The exact audience of believers with whom Jude corresponded is unknown, but seems to be Jewish in light of Jude’s illustrations. He undoubtedly wrote to a region recently plagued by false teachers.

Although Jude had earlier rejected Jesus as Messiah (John 7:1–9), he, along with other half brothers of our Lord, was converted after Christ’s resurrection (Acts 1:14). Because of his relation to Jesus, his eye-witness knowledge of the resurrected Christ, and the content of this epistle, it was acknowledged as inspired and was included in the Muratorian Canon (A.D. 170). The early questions about its canonicity also tend to support that it was written after 2 Peter. If Peter had quoted Jude, there would have been no question about canonicity, since Peter would thereby have given Jude apostolic affirmation. Clement of Rome (c. A.D. 96) plus Clement of Alexandria (c. A.D. 200) also alluded to the authenticity of Jude. Its diminutive size and Jude’s quotations from uninspired writings account for any misplaced questions about its canonicity.

Background and Setting

Jude lived at a time when Christianity was under severe political attack from Rome and aggressive spiritual infiltration from Gnostic-like apostates and libertines who sowed abundant seed for a gigantic harvest of doctrinal error. It could be that this was the forerunner to full blown Gnosticism, which the apostle John would confront over 25 years later in his epistles. Except for John, who lived at the close of the century, all of the other apostles had been martyred, and Christianity was thought to be extremely vulnerable. Thus, Jude called the church to fight, in the midst of intense spiritual warfare, for the truth.

Historical and Theological Themes

Jude is the only NT book devoted exclusively to confronting “apostasy,” meaning defection from the true, biblical faith (vv. 3, 17). Apostates are described elsewhere in 2 Thess. 2:10; Heb. 10:29; 2 Pet. 2:1–22; 1 John 2:18–23. He wrote to condemn the apostates and to urge believers to contend for the faith. He called for discernment on the part of the church and a rigorous defense of biblical truth. He followed the earlier examples of: 1) Christ (Matt. 7:15ff.; 16:6–12; 24:11ff.; Rev. 2–3); 2) Paul (Acts 20:29–30; 1 Tim. 4:1; 2 Tim. 3:1–5; 4:3–4); 3) Peter (2 Pet. 2:1–2; 3:3–4); and 4) John (1 John 4:1–6; 2 John 6–11).

Jude is replete with historical illustrations from the OT, which include: 1) the exodus (v. 5); 2) Satan’s rebellion (v. 6); 3) Sodom and Gomorrah (v. 7); 4) Moses’ death (v. 9); 5) Cain (v. 11); 6) Balaam (v. 11); 7) Korah (v. 11); 8) Enoch (vv. 14–15); and 9) Adam (v. 14).

Jude also vividly described the apostates in terms of their character and unconscionable activities (vv. 4, 8, 10, 16, 18–19). Additionally, he borrowed from nature to illustrate the futility of their teaching (vv. 12–13). While Jude never commented on the specific content of their false teaching, it was enough to demonstrate that their degenerate personal lives and fruitless ministries betrayed their attempts to teach error as though it were truth. This emphasis on character repeats the constant theme regarding false teachers—their personal corruption. While their teaching is clever, subtle, deceptive, enticing, and delivered in myriads of forms, the common way to recognize them is to look behind their false spiritual fronts and see their wicked lives (2 Pet. 2:10, 12, 18–19).

Interpretive Challenges

Because there are no doctrinal issues discussed, the challenges of this letter have to do with interpretation in the normal process of discerning the meaning of the text. Jude does quote from non-canonical, pseudepigraphal (i.e., the actual author was not the one named in its title) sources such as 1 Enoch (v. 14) and the Assumption of Moses (v. 9) to support his points. Was this acceptable? Since Jude was writing under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit (2 Tim. 3:16; 2 Pet. 1:20–21) and included material that was accurate and true in its affirmations, he did no differently than Paul (cf. Acts 17:28; 1 Cor. 15:33; Titus 1:12).

THE LETTER OF

Jude

Greeting

JUDE 1 †Jude, a servant [1] of Jesus Christ and brother of James, To those who are called, beloved in God the Father and kept for [2] Jesus Christ: †May mercy, peace, and love be multiplied to you.

Judgment on False Teachers

†Beloved, although I was very eager to write to you about our common salvation, I found it necessary to write appealing to you to contend for the faith that was once for all delivered to the saints. †For certain people have crept in unnoticed who long ago were designated for this condemnation, ungodly people, who pervert the grace of our God into sensuality and deny our only Master and Lord, Jesus Christ.

††Now I want to remind you, although you once fully knew it, that Jesus, who saved [3] a people out of the land of Egypt, afterward destroyed those who did not believe. †And the angels who did not stay within their own position of authority, but left their proper dwelling, he has kept in eternal chains under gloomy darkness until the judgment of the great day— †just as Sodom and Gomorrah and the surrounding cities, which likewise indulged in sexual immorality and pursued unnatural desire, [4] serve as an example by undergoing a punishment of eternal fire.

†Yet in like manner these people also, relying on their dreams, defile the flesh, reject authority, and blaspheme the glorious ones. †But when the archangel Michael, contending with the devil, was disputing about the body of Moses, he did not presume to pronounce a blasphemous judgment, but said, “The Lord rebuke you.” †But these people blaspheme all that they do not understand, and they are destroyed by all that they, like unreasoning animals, understand instinctively. †Woe to them! For they walked in the way of Cain and abandoned themselves for the sake of gain to Balaam's error and perished in Korah's rebellion. ††These are hidden reefs [5] at your love feasts, as they feast with you without fear, shepherds feeding themselves; waterless clouds, swept along by winds; fruitless trees in late autumn, twice dead, uprooted; <sup>13</sup>†wild waves of the sea, casting up the foam of their own shame; wandering stars, for whom the gloom of utter darkness has been reserved forever.

<sup>14</sup>†It was also about these that Enoch, the seventh from Adam, prophesied, saying, “Behold, the Lord comes with ten thousands of his holy ones, <sup>15</sup>†to execute judgment on all and to convict all the ungodly of all their deeds of ungodliness that they have committed in such an ungodly way, and of all the harsh things that ungodly sinners have spoken against him.” <sup>16</sup>†These are grumblers, malcontents, following their own sinful desires; they are loud-mouthed boasters, showing favoritism to gain advantage.

A Call to Persevere

<sup>17</sup>††But you must remember, beloved, the predictions of the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ. <sup>18</sup>†They [6] said to you, “In the last time there will be scoffers, following their own ungodly passions.” <sup>19</sup>†It is these who cause divisions, worldly people, devoid of the Spirit. <sup>20</sup>†But you, beloved, building yourselves up in your most holy faith and praying in the Holy Spirit, <sup>21</sup>†keep yourselves in the love of God, waiting for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ that leads to eternal life. <sup>22</sup>††And have mercy on those who doubt; <sup>23</sup>†save others by snatching them out of the fire; to others show mercy with fear, hating even the garment [7] stained by the flesh.

Doxology

<sup>24</sup>††Now to him who is able to keep you from stumbling and to present you blameless before the presence of his glory with great joy, <sup>25</sup>†to the only God, our Savior, through Jesus Christ our Lord, be glory, majesty, dominion, and authority, before all time and now and forever. Amen.

Study Notes

JUDE—NOTE ON 1 Jude. See Introduction: Author and Date. servant. Before the crucifixion and resurrection, Jude had denied Jesus as Messiah (Matt. 13:55; Mark 6:3; John 7:5), but afterward came to humbly acknowledge himself as his slave, having submitted to Christ's lordship. brother of James. James was the well known leader of the Jerusalem church (Acts 12:17; 15:13; 21:18; Gal. 2:9) and author of the epistle that carried his name. called. As always in the epistles, this refers not to a general invitation to salvation, but to God's irresistible, elective call to salvation (cf. Rom. 1:7; 1 Cor. 1:23–24; 1 Thess. 5:24; 2 Thess. 2:13–14). This call yields: 1) fellowship with Christ (1 Cor. 1:9); 2) peace (1 Cor. 7:15); 3) freedom (Gal. 5:13); 4) a worthy walk (Eph. 4:1); 5) hope (Eph. 4:4); 6) holiness (1 Pet. 1:15); 7) blessing (1 Pet. 3:9); and 8) eternal glory (1 Pet. 5:10). Cf. "grace of our God" (Jude 4). beloved. Cf. John 13:1; 14:23; 16:27; 17:20, 23; Rom. 5:8; 1 John 3:1, which expand on the idea of unconditional, thus unending, love from God to the believer in Christ. It is because of that love that believers are set apart from sin to God by the transformation of conversion. God the Father. The plan of salvation and its fulfillment come from God, who is not only Father in the sense of creation and origin of all that exists, but is also "God, our Savior" (Jude 25; cf. 1 Tim. 2:3; Titus 1:3; 2:10; 3:4). See note on 1 Tim. 4:10. kept. See note on Jude 24. God not only initiates salvation but he also completes it through Christ, thus preserving or keeping the believer secure for eternal life (cf. John 6:37–44; 10:28–30; 17:11, 15; Rom. 8:31–19; 2 Tim. 4:18; Heb. 7:25; 9:24; 1 Pet. 1:3–3).

JUDE—NOTE ON 2 mercy, peace, and love. "Mercy and peace" was a common Jewish greeting; "love" was added to make this distinctively Christian. Only here in the NT do these three qualities appear so closely together. Where law and works prevail, there is failure and death. Where grace prevails, there is mercy (Eph. 2:4; Heb. 4:16), peace (Rom. 5:1), and love (Rom. 5:5) in abundance.

JUDE—NOTE ON 3 Beloved. Cf. vv. 17, 20. I found it necessary. Cf. 1 Cor. 9:16. This verse implies that Jude had intended to write a letter on salvation as the common blessing enjoyed by all believers, perhaps to emphasize unity and fellowship among believers, and remind them that God is no respecter of persons. But he was compelled, instead, to write a call to battle for the truth in light of the arrival of apostate teachers. contend. While the salvation of those to whom he wrote was not in jeopardy, false teachers preaching and living out a counterfeit gospel were misleading those who needed to hear the true gospel. Jude wrote this urgent imperative for Christians to wage war against error in all forms and fight strenuously for the truth, like a soldier who has been entrusted with a sacred task of guarding a holy treasure (cf. 1 Tim. 6:12; 2 Tim. 4:7). the faith. This is the whole body of revealed salvation truth contained in the Scriptures (cf. Gal. 1:23; Eph. 4:5, 13; Phil. 1:27; 1 Tim. 4:1). Cf. Jude 20. Here is a call to know sound doctrine (Eph. 4:14; Col. 3:16; 1 Pet. 2:2; 1 John 2:12–24), to be discerning in sorting out truth from error (1 Thess. 5:20–22), and to be willing to confront and attack error (see notes on 2 Cor. 10:3–3; Phil. 1:7, 27; 1 Tim. 1:18; 6:12; 2 Tim. 1:13; 4:7–8; Titus 1:13). once for all delivered. God’s revelation was delivered once as a unit, at the completion of the Scripture, and is not to be edited by either deletion or addition (cf. Deut. 4:2; 12:32; Prov. 30:6; Rev. 22:18–19). Scripture is complete, sufficient, and finished; therefore it is fixed for all time. Nothing is to be added to the body of the inspired word (see notes on 2 Tim. 3:16–17; 2 Pet. 1:19–21) because nothing else is needed. It is the responsibility of believers now to study the word (2 Tim. 2:15), preach the word (2 Tim. 4:2), and fight for its preservation. saints. Believers are identified as holy, since they are set apart from sin to God. See note on 1 Cor. 1:2.

JUDE—NOTE ON 4 certain people have crept in unnoticed. These were infiltrating, false teachers pretending to be true, who on the surface looked like the real thing, but whose intentions were to lead God’s people astray (cf. Matt. 7:15; Acts 20:29; Gal. 2:4–5; 1 Tim. 4:1–2; 2 Pet. 2:1, 20; 1 John 2:18–23). These apostates were Satan’s counterfeits, most likely posing as itinerant teachers (cf. 2 Cor. 11:13–15; 2 Pet. 2:1–2; 2 John 7–11). Their stealth made them dangerous. They were characterized by three features: 1) they were ungodly; 2) they perverted grace; and 3) they denied Christ. long ago were designated. Apostasy and apostates in general were written about and condemned many centuries before, such as illustrated in Jude 5–7 and spoken of as Enoch did in vv. 14–16. Cf. Isa. 8:19–21; 47:9–15; Hos. 9:9; Zeph. 3:1–8. Their doom was “pre-written” in Scripture as a warning to all who would come later. Jesus had warned about them in Matt. 7:15–20 (cf. Acts 20:29). The most recent warning had been 2 Pet. 2:3, 17; 3:7. this condemnation. This refers to the judgment spoken of by others “long ago.” Jude’s present exposé of apostates placed them in the path of the very judgment of God, written of previously. ungodly people. Lit., “impious” or “without worship.” Their lack of reverence for God was demonstrated by the fact that they infiltrated the church of God to corrupt it and gain riches from its people. Cf. vv. 15–16, 18–19. sensuality. Lit., “unrestrained vice” or “gross immorality,” which describes the shameless lifestyle of one who irreverently flaunts God’s grace by indulging in unchecked and open immorality (cf. Rom. 6:15). deny . . . Master and Lord, Jesus Christ. Two Greek words for Jesus are used here. The apostates disowned Christ as sovereign Lord (despotes) and disdained any recognition of Christ as honorable Lord (kurios) by their wicked behavior. The better NT manuscripts omit God in the text, placing the emphasis clearly on one person, the Lord Jesus Christ, and emphasizing that apostates deny him. See note on 2 Pet. 2:1. Cf. Matt. 10:33; 2 Tim. 2:12; Titus 1:16; 1 John 2:22–23. It is always true of apostates, false teachers, and false religions that they pervert what Scripture declares is true about the Lord Jesus Christ.

JUDE—NOTE ON 5–7 Jude provided three well known acts of apostasy from the OT as brief reminders (v. 5) to illustrate their damnable outcome as declared in v. 4.

JUDE—NOTE ON 5 saved . . . destroyed. Cf. Heb. 3:16–19. God miraculously delivered the nation of Israel out of Egyptian bondage (Ex. 12:51; Deut. 4:34), only to have them respond in unbelief, doubting, and defecting from faith in God that he could bring them into the Promised Land (Num. 13:25–14:4), even to the extent of worshiping an idol of their own making, as well as murmuring against God instead of adoring him (Ex. 16:7–12; 1 Cor. 10:10–11). That apostate generation died during 38 years of wilderness wanderings (Num. 14:22–30, 35)

JUDE—NOTE ON 6 angels who did not stay. This apostasy of fallen angels is described in Gen. 6:1–4 as possessing men who then cohabited with women. See note on 2 Pet. 2:4. The transition to Sodom and Gomorrah in Jude 7 points to the similitude of the sin of homosexuality and what these angels did in Gen. 6. judgment . . . great day. This refers to the final judgment when all demons and Satan are forever consigned to the “lake of fire” prepared for them (Matt. 25:41; Rev. 20:10) and all the ungodly (Rev. 20:15).

JUDE—NOTE ON 7 Sodom . . . Gomorrah. See notes on 2 Pet. 2:6–10. The destruction of these cities at the southeast corner of the Dead Sea is used over 20 times in Scripture as an illustration of God’s judgment during the days of Abraham and Lot (cf. Gen. 18:22–19:29). This destruction was in view of their apostasy, since it occurred about 450 years after the flood, when at least one of Noah’s sons, Shem (Gen. 11:10–11) was still living. Since this was only 100 years after Noah’s death (Gen. 9:28), people would have known about the message of righteousness and judgment from God that Noah preached, and that they rejected. just as. This points back to Jude 6. sexual immorality . . . unnatural desire. This refers to both the heterosexual (Gen. 19:8) and homosexual lusts (Gen. 19:4–5) of the residents. Cf. Lev. 18:22; 20:13; Rom. 1:27; 1 Cor. 6:9; 1 Tim. 1:10 for the absolute condemnation of homosexual activity. eternal fire. Sodom and Gomorrah illustrate God’s fire of earthly judgment (cf. Rev. 16:8–9; 20:9), which was only a preview of the fire that can never be quenched in eternal hell (cf. Matt. 3:12; 18:8; 25:41; Mark 9:43–44, 46, 48; Luke 3:17; Rev. 19:20; 20:14–15; 21:8).

JUDE—NOTE ON 8 these people . . . dreams. See notes on 2 Pet. 2:10–12. This refers to a confused state of the soul or abnormal imagination, producing delusions and sensual confusion. These men’s minds were numb to the truth of God’s word so that, being beguiled and deluded, they fantasized wicked perversions, being blind and deaf to reality and truth. Perhaps they falsely claimed these were dreams/visions from God. “These” occurs five more times (Jude 10, 12, 14, 16, 19) in reference to the apostates, who are characterized in three ways (v. 8). defile the flesh. Similar to the inhabitants of Sodom and Gomorrah (v. 7), apostates have few, if any, moral restraints and thus are frequently characterized by immoral lifestyles (v. 4). Cf. Titus 1:15; Heb. 12:15; 2 Pet. 2:10–19; 3:3. reject authority. Like the sinning angels (Jude 6), these pretenders rejected all authority, civil and spiritual, thus rejecting the Scriptures and denying Christ (v. 4). blaspheme the glorious ones. Cf. v. 10. That the glorious ones (lit., “glories”) are angels is supported by the illustration in v. 9.

JUDE—NOTE ON 9 the archangel Michael. The chief angel of God who especially watches over Israel (Dan. 10:13, 21; 12:1) and leads the holy angels (Rev. 12:7). Nowhere else in Scripture is this struggle over the body of Moses mentioned. Michael had to fight with Satan to do God’s bidding, as he did on another occasion in Dan. 10:13 (see note there. the devil. Another name for Satan, which means “accuser” or “slanderer” (cf. Rev. 12:9–10). body of Moses. Moses died on Mount Nebo in Moab without having entered the Promised Land and was secretly buried in a place not known to man (Deut. 34:5–6). It would likely be that this confrontation took place as Michael buried Moses to prevent Satan from using Moses’ body for some diabolical purpose not stated. Perhaps Satan wanted to use it as an idol, an object of worship for Israel. God sent Michael, however, to be certain it was buried. This account was recorded in the pseudepigraphal Assumption of Moses (see Introduction: Interpretive Challenges). blasphemous judgment. See note on 2 Pet. 2:11. Rather than personally cursing such a powerful angel as Satan, Michael deferred to the ultimate, sovereign power of God following the example of the angel of the Lord in Zech. 3:1–2. This is the supreme illustration of how Christians are to deal with Satan and demons. Believers are not to address them, but rather to seek the Lord’s intervening power against them.

JUDE—NOTE ON 10 blaspheme. Cf. v. 8. Apostate teachers, in their brash, bold, egotistical infatuation with imagined power and authority, rail on that which they don’t even understand. all . . . all. See note on 2 Pet. 2:12. Apostates are intellectually arrogant and spiritually ignorant in that they don’t know because they are blinded by Satan (2 Cor. 4:4) and spiritual matters are beyond their unregenerate capacity to understand (1 Cor. 2:14). In divine matters, they are no brighter than the dumbest beasts. are destroyed. This speaks of spiritual and moral self-destruction.

JUDE—NOTE ON 11 Woe. In declaring ultimate spiritual judgment on the apostates, Jude followed the example of the prophets (cf. Isa. 5:8–13) and of Christ (cf. Matt. 23:13, 15, 16, 23, 25, 27, 29). The severest judgment of all (Heb. 10:26) will come on apostates because they too followed the same path as Cain, Balaam, and Korah. way of Cain. Cain openly rebelled against God’s revealed will regarding sacrifice (see notes on Gen. 4:1–15; cf. Heb. 11:4; 1 John 3:12). Balaam’s error. Cf. Num. 22–25; see note on 2 Pet. 2:15. For a large financial reward, Balaam devised a plan for Balak, king of Moab, to entice Israel into a compromising situation with idolatry and immorality, which would bring God’s own judgment on his people (cf. Num. 31:16; Rev. 2:14). Korah’s rebellion. See notes on Num. 16:1–12. Korah, plus 250 Jewish leaders, rejected the God-appointed leadership of Moses and Aaron in an attempt to impose his will upon God and the people. Apostates will unquestionably meet the same end as Korah—divine judgment.

JUDE—NOTE ON 12–13 See notes on 2 Pet. 2:13–17.

JUDE—NOTE ON 12 hidden reefs . . . love feasts. See note on 2 Pet. 2:13. These “hidden reefs” can be taken as “hidden rocks” or “stains.” These apostates were dirt spots, filth on the garment of the church; or more likely, what God intended for the church as smooth sailing, they turned into a potential shipwreck through their presence. “Love feasts” were the regular gathering of the early church to partake of the bread and cup, plus share a common meal (cf. 1 Cor. 11:20–30). waterless clouds. See note on 2 Pet. 2:17. Apostates promise spiritual life but are empty clouds that bring the hope of rain, but actually deliver nothing but dryness and death (cf. Prov. 25:14). They preach a false gospel that leads only to hell. fruitless trees. Apostates hold out the claim of providing a spiritual feast, but instead deliver famine (cf. Luke 13:6–9). Doubly dead trees will never yield fruit and, regardless of what they say, will always be barren because they are uprooted. Cf. Matt. 7:17–20.

JUDE—NOTE ON 13 wild waves. Apostates promise powerful ministry, but are quickly exposed as wreckers of havoc and workers of worthless shame (cf. Isa. 57:20). wandering stars. This most likely refers to a meteor or shooting star, which has an uncontrolled moment of brilliance and then fades away forever into nothing. Apostates promise enduring spiritual direction, but deliver a brief, aimless, and worthless flash.

JUDE—NOTE ON 14 Enoch. Following the genealogy of Gen. 5:1–14; 1 Chron. 1:1–3, Enoch was the seventh in the line of Adam. Because Enoch “walked with God,” he was taken directly to heaven without having to die (cf. Gen. 5:24; Heb. 11:5). prophesied. See note on Jude 4. The source of this information was the Holy Spirit, who inspired Jude. The fact that it was recorded in the nonbiblical and pseudepigraphal Book of Enoch had no effect on its accuracy. See Introduction: Interpretive Challenges. Behold, the Lord . . . holy ones. Enoch, before the flood, prophesied about Christ’s second coming in judgment (cf. 1 Thess. 3:13). “Holy ones” can refer to either angels or believers. Since both angels (Matt. 24:31; 25:31; Mark 8:38; 2 Thess. 1:7) and believers (Col. 3:4; 1 Thess. 3:13; Rev. 19:14) will accompany him, it may refer to both (cf. Zech. 14:5), but the focus on judgment in Jude 15 seems to favor angels, who are often seen in judgment action. While believers will have a role of judging during the Lord’s earthly kingdom (see note on 1 Cor. 6:2) and will return when Christ comes to judge (Rev. 19:14), angels are the executioners of God at the second coming of Christ (see Matt. 13:39–41, 49–50; 24:29–31; 25:31; 2 Thess. 1:7–10).

JUDE—NOTE ON 15 execute judgment. The sentence will be eternal hell (see Rev. 20:11–15). Cf. Matt. 5:22; 7:19; 8:12; 10:28; 13:40–42; 25:41, 46). ungodly. See note on Jude 4. The fourfold use of this word as a description of the apostates (cf. vv. 4, 18) identifies the core iniquity, which is failure to reverence God. See Peter’s use of the term in 2 Pet. 2:5–6; 3:7. It was for such that Christ died (Rom. 5:6).

JUDE—NOTE ON 16 grumblers. See note on v. 5. The word, found only here in the NT, is used in the LXX to describe the murmurings of Israel against God (Ex. 16:7–7; Num. 14:27, 29; 1 Cor. 10:10). malcontents. They gave vent to dissatisfaction with God’s will and way, as was the case with Israel, Sodom, the fallen angels, Cain, Korah, and Balaam (cf. Jude 5–11). following . . . own sinful desires. See notes on 2 Pet. 2:10, 18; 3:3. This is a common phrase used to describe the unconverted (Jude 18; 2 Tim. 4:3). Apostates are especially driven by a desire for sinful self-satisfaction. loud-mouthed boasters. See note on 2 Pet. 2:18. They speak pompously and even magnificently, but with empty, lifeless words of no spiritual value. Their message has external attractiveness, but is void of the powerful substance of divine truth. showing favoritism. They tell people what they want to hear for their own profit (cf. 2 Tim. 4:3–4), rather than proclaiming the truth of God’s word for the auditors’ benefit. Cf. Ps. 5:9; 12:2–3; Prov. 26:28; 29:5; Rom. 3:13; 16:18.

JUDE—NOTE ON 17–18 See notes on 2 Pet. 3:1–7.

JUDE—NOTE ON 17 predictions of the apostles. The apostles had warned the coming generation about apostates, so that they would be prepared and not be taken by surprise (cf. Acts 20:28–31; 1 Tim. 4:1–2; 2 Tim. 3:1–2; 4:1–2; 2 Pet. 2:1–3:4; 1 John 2:18; 2 John 7–11). God’s word is designed to warn and protect (Acts 20:31; 1 Cor. 4:14); as Jude 18 indicates, there had been continually repeated warnings.

JUDE—NOTE ON 18 last time. Lit., at the chronological end of the current epoch or season (cf. 2 Tim. 3:1). This term refers to the time of Messiah from his first coming until his second (see notes on 2 Tim. 3:1; 2 Pet. 3:3; 1 John 2:18). These characteristics will prevail until Christ returns. scoffers. See note on 2 Pet. 3:3. These are the mockers at God’s future plans who pretend to know the truth but deny that judgment will ever come. following . . . ungodly passions. See note on Jude 16.

©1997 by Thomas Nelson, Inc.

JUDE—NOTE ON 19 cause divisions. They fractured the church rather than united it (cf. Eph. 4:4–6; Phil. 2:2). worldly people. Apostate teachers advertise themselves as having the highest spiritual knowledge, but are actually attracted to the most debased levels of life. They are “soulish” not “spiritual.” Cf. James 3:15. devoid of the Spirit. To not have the Spirit is to not have spiritual life at all (see notes on Rom. 8:9; 1 Cor. 6:19–20) or, in other words, to be an unbeliever.

JUDE—NOTE ON 20 building. True believers have a sure foundation (1 Cor. 3:11) and cornerstone (Eph. 2:20) in Jesus Christ. The truths of the Christian faith (cf. Jude 3) have been provided in the teaching of the apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20), so that Christians can build themselves up by the word of God (Acts 20:32). praying in the Holy Spirit. See note on Eph. 6:18. This is not a call to some ecstatic form of prayer, but simply a call to pray consistently in the will and power of the Spirit, as one would pray in the name of Jesus Christ (cf. Rom. 8:26–27).

JUDE—NOTE ON 21 keep. Cf. Acts 13:43. This imperative establishes the believer’s responsibility to be obedient and faithful by living out his salvation (cf. Phil. 2:12), while God works out his will (cf. Phil. 2:13). It means to remain in the place of obedience where God’s love is poured out on his children, as opposed to being disobedient and incurring his chastening (cf. 1 Cor. 11:27–31; Heb. 12:5–11). This refers to the perseverance of the saints, the counterbalance to God’s sovereign preservation of believers in Christ (cf. Jude 1). This is accomplished by: 1) building one’s self up in the word of God (v. 20); 2) praying in the Holy Spirit (v. 20); and 3) looking for the finalization of eternal life (v. 21). For a related discussion of the perseverance of the saints, see note on Matt. 24:13. waiting. An eager anticipation of Christ’s second coming to provide eternal life in its ultimate, resurrection form (cf. Titus 2:13; 1 John 3:1–2), which is the supreme expression of God’s mercy on one to whom Christ’s righteousness has undeservedly been imputed (cf. Jude 2). Paul called this “lov[ing] his appearing” (2 Tim. 4:8) and John wrote that such a steady anticipation was purifying (1 John 3:3).

JUDE—NOTE ON 22–23 others. There are several textual variants here that could result in either two or three groups being indicated. They are: 1) sincere doubters who deserve compassion (v. 22); 2) those who are deeper in unbelief and urgently need to be pulled from the fire (v. 23); and 3) those declared disciples of apostasy who still deserve mercy, but are to be handled with much fear (v. 23), lest the would-be rescuer also be spiritually sullied. Given the manuscripts evidence and Jude’s pattern of writing in triads, three groups is the more likely scenario.

JUDE—NOTE ON 22 mercy. These victims of the apostate teachers need mercy and patience because they have not yet reached a firm conclusion about Christ and eternal life, and so remain doubters who could possibly be swayed to the truth.

JUDE—NOTE ON 23 save others. Others, who are committed to the errors taught by the apostates, need immediate and forthright attention before they are further entrenched on the road to the fire of hell (cf. v. 7) as a result of embracing deceptive lies. with fear. This third group also needs mercy, even though they are thoroughly polluted by apostate teaching. These people are to be given the true gospel, but with great fear, lest the deliverer be contaminated also. The defiled garment pictures the apostate’s debauched life, which can spread its contagion to the well-meaning evangel.

JUDE—NOTE ON 24–25 Jude’s lovely benediction/doxology stands as one of the most splendid in the NT (cf. Rom. 11:33–36; 16:25–27; 2 Cor. 13:14; Heb. 13:20–21). It returned to the theme of salvation that Jude had hoped to develop at the beginning (cf. Jude 3) and bolstered the courage of believers to know that Christ would protect them from the present apostasy.

JUDE—NOTE ON 24 him who is able. This speaks of omnipotent God. Cf. Gen. 18:14; Deut. 7:21; 1 Sam. 14:6; Matt. 19:26. keep you from stumbling. See notes on Jude 1; 1 Pet. 1:3–3. The power of Christ would sustain the sincere believer from falling to the temptation of apostasy (cf. Job 42:2; Ps. 37:23–24; 121:3; Jer. 32:17; Matt. 19:26; Luke 1:37; John 6:39, 40, 44; 10:27–30; Eph. 3:20). present you blameless. Cf. 2 Cor. 11:2; Eph. 5:27. Christians possess Christ’s imputed righteousness through justification by faith and have been made worthy of eternal life in heaven (see notes on Rom. 8:31–39). with great joy. This refers primarily to the joy of the Savior (cf. Heb. 12:2) but also includes the joy of believers (cf. 1 Pet. 1:8). Joy is the dominant expression of heaven (see Matt. 25:23).

JUDE—NOTE ON 25 God, our Savior. God is by nature a saving God, unlike the reluctant and indifferent false deities of human and demon invention (see notes on 1 Tim. 2:2; 4:10; 2 Tim. 1:10; Titus 1:3; 2:10; 3:4; 2 Pet. 1:1). glory . . . authority. Both Jude on earth and the angels and saints in heaven (Rev. 4:10–11; 5:12–14) ascribed these kinds of qualities to our God and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Introduction to Revelation

Title

Unlike most books of the Bible, Revelation contains its own title: “The revelation of Jesus Christ” (1:1). “Revelation” (Greek, apokalupsis) means “an uncovering,” “an unveiling,” or “a disclosure.” In the NT, this word describes the unveiling of spiritual truth (Rom. 16:25; Gal. 1:12; Eph. 1:17; 3:3), the revealing of the sons of God (Rom. 8:19), Christ’s incarnation (Luke 2:32), and his glorious appearing at his second coming (2 Thess. 1:7; 1 Pet. 1:7). In all its uses, “revelation” refers to something or someone, once hidden, becoming visible. What this book reveals or unveils is Jesus Christ in glory. Truths about him and his final victory, that the rest of Scripture merely alludes to, become clearly visible through revelation about Jesus Christ (see Historical and Theological Themes). This revelation was given to him by God the Father, and it was communicated to the apostle John by an angel (Rev. 1:1).

Author and Date

Four times the author identifies himself as John (1:1, 4, 9; 22:8). Early tradition unanimously identified him as John the apostle, author of the fourth Gospel and three epistles. For example, important second century witnesses to the apostle John’s authorship include Justin Martyr, Irenaeus, Clement of Alexandria, and Tertullian. Many of the book’s original readers were still alive during the lifetimes of Justin Martyr and Irenaeus—both of whom held to apostolic authorship.

There are differences in style between Revelation and John’s other writings, but they are insignificant and do not preclude one man from writing both. In fact, there are some striking parallels between Revelation and John’s other works. Only John’s Gospel and Revelation refer to Jesus Christ as the Word (Rev. 19:13; John 1:1). Revelation (Rev. 1:7) and John’s Gospel (John 19:37) translate Zech. 12:10 differently from the Septuagint, but in agreement with each other. Only Revelation and the Gospel of John describe Jesus as the Lamb (Rev. 5:6, 8; John 1:29); both describe Jesus as a witness (cf. Rev. 1:5; John 5:31–32).

Revelation was written in the last decade of the first century (c. A.D. 94–96), near the end of Emperor Domitian's reign (A.D. 81–96). Although some date it during Nero's reign (A.D. 54–68), their arguments are unconvincing and conflict with the view of the early church. Writing in the second century, Irenaeus declared that Revelation had been written toward the end of Domitian's reign. Later writers, such as Clement of Alexandria, Origen, Victorinus (who wrote one of the earliest commentaries on Revelation), Eusebius, and Jerome affirm the Domitian date.

The spiritual decline of the seven churches (chs. 2–3) also argues for the later date. Those churches were strong and spiritually healthy in the mid-60s, when Paul last ministered in Asia Minor. The brief time between Paul's ministry there and the end of Nero's reign was too short for such a decline to have occurred. The longer time gap also explains the rise of the heretical sect known as the Nicolaitans (2:6, 15), who are not mentioned in Paul's letters, not even to one or more of these same churches (Ephesians). Finally, dating Revelation during Nero's reign does not allow time for John's ministry in Asia Minor to reach the point at which the authorities would have felt the need to exile him.

Background and Setting

Revelation begins with John, the last surviving apostle and an old man, in exile on the small, barren island of Patmos, located in the Aegean Sea southwest of Ephesus. The Roman authorities had banished him there because of his faithful preaching of the gospel (1:9). While on Patmos, John received a series of visions that laid out the future history of the world.

When he was arrested, John was in Ephesus, ministering to the church there and in the surrounding cities. Seeking to strengthen those congregations, he could no longer minister to them in person and, following the divine command (1:11), John addressed Revelation to them (1:4). The churches had begun to feel the effects of persecution; at least one man—probably a pastor—had already been martyred (2:13), and John himself had been exiled. But the storm of persecution was about to break in full fury upon the seven churches so dear to the apostle's heart (2:10). To those churches, Revelation provided a message of hope: God is in sovereign control of all the events of human history, and though evil often seems pervasive and wicked men all powerful, their ultimate doom is certain. Christ will come in glory to judge and rule.

Historical and Theological Themes

Since it is primarily prophetic, Revelation contains little historical material, other than that in chs. 1–3. The seven churches to whom the letters were addressed were existing churches in Asia Minor (modern Turkey). Apparently, they were singled out because John had ministered in them.

Revelation is first and foremost a revelation about Jesus Christ (1:1). The book depicts him as the risen, glorified Son of God ministering among the churches (1:10ff.), as “the faithful witness, the firstborn of the dead, and the ruler of kings on earth” (1:5), as “the Alpha and the Omega” (1:8), as the one “who is and who was and who is to come, the Almighty” (1:8), as a son of man (1:13), as the one who was dead, but now is alive forevermore (1:18), as the Son of God (2:18), as the one who is holy and true (3:7), as “the Amen, the faithful and true witness, the beginning of God’s creation” (3:14), as the Lion of the tribe of Judah (5:5), as the Lamb in heaven, with authority to open the title deed to the earth (6:1ff.), as the Lamb on the throne (7:17), as the Messiah who will reign forever (11:15), as the majestic King of kings and Lord of lords, returning in glorious splendor to conquer his foes (19:11ff.), as the Word of God (19:13), and as “the root and the descendant of David, the bright morning star” (22:16).

Many other rich theological themes find expression in Revelation. The church is warned about sin and exhorted to holiness. John’s vivid pictures of worship in heaven both exhort and instruct believers. In few other books of the Bible is the ministry of angels so prominent. Revelation’s primary theological contribution is to eschatology, i.e., the doctrine of last things. In it we learn about: the final political setup of the world; the last battle of human history; the career and ultimate defeat of Antichrist; Christ’s 1,000-year earthly kingdom; the glories of heaven and the eternal state; and the final state of the wicked and the righteous. Finally, only Daniel rivals this book in declaring that God providentially rules over the kingdoms of men and will accomplish his sovereign purposes regardless of human or demonic opposition.

Interpretive Challenges

No other NT book poses more serious and difficult interpretive challenges than Revelation. The book’s vivid imagery and striking symbolism have produced four main interpretive approaches:

The preterist approach interprets Revelation as a description of first-century events in the Roman Empire (see Author and Date). This view conflicts with the book's own often repeated claim to be prophecy (1:3; 22:7, 10, 18–19). It is impossible to see all the events in Revelation as already fulfilled. The second coming of Christ, for example, obviously did not take place in the first century.

The historicist approach views Revelation as a panoramic view of church history from apostolic times to the present—seeing in the symbolism such events as the barbarian invasions of Rome, the rise of the Roman Catholic Church (as well as various individual popes), the emergence of Islam, and the French Revolution. This interpretive method robs Revelation of any meaning for those to whom it was written. It also ignores the time limitations the book itself places on the unfolding events (cf. 11:2; 12:6, 14; 13:5). Historicism has produced many different—and often conflicting—interpretations of the actual historical events contained in Revelation.

The idealist approach interprets Revelation as a timeless depiction of the cosmic struggle between the forces of good and evil. In this view, the book contains neither historical allusions nor predictive prophecy. This view also ignores Revelation's prophetic character and, if carried to its logical conclusion, severs the book from any connection with actual historical events. Revelation then becomes merely a collection of stories designed to teach spiritual truth.

The futurist approach insists that the events of chs. 6–22 are yet future, and that those chapters literally and symbolically depict actual people and events yet to appear on the world scene. It describes the events surrounding the second coming of Jesus Christ (chs. 6–19), the Millennium and final judgment (ch. 20), and the eternal state (chs. 21–22). Only this view does justice to Revelation's claim to be prophecy and interprets the book by the same grammatical-historical method as chs. 1–3 and the rest of Scripture.

Revelation

TO JOHN

Prologue

REVELATION 1 †The revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave him to show to his servants [1] the things that must soon take place. He made it known by sending his angel to his servant [2] John, <sup>2</sup>who bore witness to the word of God and to the testimony of Jesus Christ, even to all that he saw. <sup>3</sup>†Blessed is the one who reads aloud the words of this prophecy, and blessed are those who hear, and who keep what is written in it, for the time is near.

Greeting to the Seven Churches

<sup>4</sup>†John to the seven churches that are in Asia: Grace to you and peace from him who is and who was and who is to come, and from the seven spirits who are before his throne, <sup>5</sup>†and from Jesus Christ the faithful witness, the firstborn of the dead, and the ruler of kings on earth.

To him who loves us and has freed us from our sins by his blood <sup>6</sup>†and made us a kingdom, priests to his God and Father, to him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen. <sup>7</sup>†Behold, he is coming with the clouds, and every eye will see him, even those who pierced him, and all tribes of the earth will wail [3] on account of him. Even so. Amen.

<sup>8</sup>†“I am the Alpha and the Omega,” says the Lord God, “who is and who was and who is to come, the Almighty.”

Vision of the Son of Man

<sup>9</sup>†I, John, your brother and partner in the tribulation and the kingdom and the patient endurance that are in Jesus, was on the island called Patmos on account of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus. <sup>10</sup>†I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day, and I heard behind me a loud voice like a trumpet <sup>11</sup>†saying, “Write what you see in a book and send it to the seven churches, to Ephesus and to Smyrna and to Pergamum and to Thyatira and to Sardis and to Philadelphia and to Laodicea.”

<sup>12</sup>† Then I turned to see the voice that was speaking to me, and on turning I saw seven golden lampstands, <sup>13</sup>† and in the midst of the lampstands one like a son of man, clothed with a long robe and with a golden sash around his chest. <sup>14</sup>† The hairs of his head were white, like white wool, like snow. His eyes were like a flame of fire, <sup>15</sup>† his feet were like burnished bronze, refined in a furnace, and his voice was like the roar of many waters. <sup>16</sup>† In his right hand he held seven stars, from his mouth came a sharp two-edged sword, and his face was like the sun shining in full strength.

<sup>17</sup>† When I saw him, I fell at his feet as though dead. But he laid his right hand on me, saying, “Fear not, I am the first and the last, <sup>18</sup>† and the living one. I died, and behold I am alive forevermore, and I have the keys of Death and Hades. <sup>19</sup>† Write therefore the things that you have seen, those that are and those that are to take place after this. <sup>20</sup>† As for the mystery of the seven stars that you saw in my right hand, and the seven golden lampstands, the seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands are the seven churches.

To the Church in Ephesus

REVELATION 2 ††“To the angel of the church in Ephesus write: ‘The words of him who holds the seven stars in his right hand, who walks among the seven golden lampstands.

<sup>2</sup>†“I know your works, your toil and your patient endurance, and how you cannot bear with those who are evil, but have tested those who call themselves apostles and are not, and found them to be false. <sup>3</sup>†I know you are enduring patiently and bearing up for my name's sake, and you have not grown weary. <sup>4</sup>†But I have this against you, that you have abandoned the love you had at first. <sup>5</sup>†Remember therefore from where you have fallen; repent, and do the works you did at first. If not, I will come to you and remove your lampstand from its place, unless you repent. <sup>6</sup>†Yet this you have: you hate the works of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate. <sup>7</sup>†He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers I will grant to eat of the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God.’

To the Church in Smyrna

<sup>8</sup>†“And to the angel of the church in Smyrna write: ‘The words of the first and the last, who died and came to life.

<sup>9</sup>†“I know your tribulation and your poverty (but you are rich) and the slander [\[1\]](#) of those who say that they are Jews and are not, but are a synagogue of Satan. <sup>10</sup>†Do not fear what you are about to suffer. Behold, the devil is about to throw some of you into prison, that you may be tested, and for ten days you will have tribulation. Be faithful unto death, and I will give you the crown of life. <sup>11</sup>†He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. The one who conquers will not be hurt by the second death.’

To the Church in Pergamum

<sup>12</sup>†“And to the angel of the church in Pergamum write: ‘The words of him who has the sharp two-edged sword.

<sup>13</sup>†“‘I know where you dwell, where Satan's throne is. Yet you hold fast my name, and you did not deny my faith [\[2\]](#) even in the days of Antipas my faithful witness, who was killed among you, where Satan dwells. <sup>14</sup>† But I have a few things against you: you have some there who hold the teaching of Balaam, who taught Balak to put a stumbling block before the sons of Israel, so that they might eat food sacrificed to idols and practice sexual immorality. <sup>15</sup>† So also you have some who hold the teaching of the Nicolaitans. <sup>16</sup>† Therefore repent. If not, I will come to you soon and war against them with the sword of my mouth. <sup>17</sup>† He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers I will give some of the hidden manna, and I will give him a white stone, with a new name written on the stone that no one knows except the one who receives it.'

To the Church in Thyatira

<sup>18</sup>† "And to the angel of the church in Thyatira write: 'The words of the Son of God, who has eyes like a flame of fire, and whose feet are like burnished bronze.

<sup>19</sup> "I know your works, your love and faith and service and patient endurance, and that your latter works exceed the first. <sup>20</sup>† But I have this against you, that you tolerate that woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess and is teaching and seducing my servants [3] to practice sexual immorality and to eat food sacrificed to idols. <sup>21</sup> I gave her time to repent, but she refuses to repent of her sexual immorality. <sup>22</sup>† Behold, I will throw her onto a sickbed, and those who commit adultery with her I will throw into great tribulation, unless they repent of her works, <sup>23</sup>† and I will strike her children dead. And all the churches will know that I am he who searches mind and heart, and I will give to each of you according to your works. <sup>24</sup>† But to the rest of you in Thyatira, who do not hold this teaching, who have not learned what some call the deep things of Satan, to you I say, I do not lay on you any other burden. <sup>25</sup> Only hold fast what you have until I come. <sup>26</sup>† The one who conquers and who keeps my works until the end, to him I will give authority over the nations, <sup>27</sup>† and he will rule them with a rod of iron, as when earthen pots are broken in pieces, even as I myself have received authority from my Father. <sup>28</sup>† And I will give him the morning star. <sup>29</sup> He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.'

To the Church in Sardis

REVELATION 3 †“And to the angel of the church in Sardis write: ‘The words of him who has the seven spirits of God and the seven stars.

“I know your works. You have the reputation of being alive, but you are dead. <sup>2</sup>Wake up, and strengthen what remains and is about to die, for I have not found your works complete in the sight of my God. <sup>3</sup>†Remember, then, what you received and heard. Keep it, and repent. If you will not wake up, I will come like a thief, and you will not know at what hour I will come against you. <sup>4</sup>†Yet you have still a few names in Sardis, people who have not soiled their garments, and they will walk with me in white, for they are worthy. <sup>5</sup>†The one who conquers will be clothed thus in white garments, and I will never blot his name out of the book of life. I will confess his name before my Father and before his angels. <sup>6</sup>He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.’

To the Church in Philadelphia

<sup>7</sup>†“And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write: ‘The words of the holy one, the true one, who has the key of David, who opens and no one will shut, who shuts and no one opens.

<sup>8</sup>†“I know your works. Behold, I have set before you an open door, which no one is able to shut. I know that you have but little power, and yet you have kept my word and have not denied my name. <sup>9</sup>†Behold, I will make those of the synagogue of Satan who say that they are Jews and are not, but lie—behold, I will make them come and bow down before your feet and they will learn that I have loved you. <sup>10</sup>†Because you have kept my word about patient endurance, I will keep you from the hour of trial that is coming on the whole world, to try those who dwell on the earth. <sup>11</sup>†I am coming soon. Hold fast what you have, so that no one may seize your crown. <sup>12</sup>†The one who conquers, I will make him a pillar in the temple of my God. Never shall he go out of it, and I will write on him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which comes down from my God out of heaven, and my own new name. <sup>13</sup>He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.’

To the Church in Laodicea

<sup>14</sup>†“And to the angel of the church in Laodicea write: ‘The words of the Amen, the faithful and true witness, the beginning of God's creation.

<sup>15</sup>“I know your works: you are neither cold nor hot. Would that you were either cold or hot! <sup>16</sup>†So, because you are lukewarm, and neither hot nor cold, I will spit you out of my mouth. <sup>17</sup>For you say, I am rich, I have prospered, and I need nothing, not realizing that you are wretched, pitiable, poor, blind, and naked. <sup>18</sup>†I counsel you to buy from me gold refined by fire, so that you may be rich, and white garments so that you may clothe yourself and the shame of your nakedness may not be seen, and salve to anoint your eyes, so that you may see. <sup>19</sup>†Those whom I love, I reprove and discipline, so be zealous and repent. <sup>20</sup>†Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in to him and eat with him, and he with me. <sup>21</sup>†The one who conquers, I will grant him to sit with me on my throne, as I also conquered and sat down with my Father on his throne. <sup>22</sup>He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.’”

The Throne in Heaven

REVELATION 4 †After this I looked, and behold, a door standing open in heaven! And the first voice, which I had heard speaking to me like a trumpet, said, “Come up here, and I will show you what must take place after this.” †At once I was in the Spirit, and behold, a throne stood in heaven, with one seated on the throne. †And he who sat there had the appearance of jasper and carnelian, and around the throne was a rainbow that had the appearance of an emerald. †Around the throne were twenty-four thrones, and seated on the thrones were twenty-four elders, clothed in white garments, with golden crowns on their heads. †From the throne came flashes of lightning, and rumblings [1] and peals of thunder, and before the throne were burning seven torches of fire, which are the seven spirits of God, †and before the throne there was as it were a sea of glass, like crystal.

And around the throne, on each side of the throne, are four living creatures, full of eyes in front and behind: †the first living creature like a lion, the second living creature like an ox, the third living creature with the face of a man, and the fourth living creature like an eagle in flight. †And the four living creatures, each of them with six wings, are full of eyes all around and within, and day and night they never cease to say,

“Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord God Almighty, who was and is and is to come!”

<sup>9</sup>And whenever the living creatures give glory and honor and thanks to him who is seated on the throne, who lives forever and ever, <sup>10</sup>†the twenty-four elders fall down before him who is seated on the throne and worship him who lives forever and ever. They cast their crowns before the throne, saying,

<sup>11</sup>†“Worthy are you, our Lord and God, to receive glory and honor and power,
for you created all things, and by your will they existed and were created.”

The Scroll and the Lamb

REVELATION 5 † Then I saw in the right hand of him who was seated on the throne a scroll written within and on the back, sealed with seven seals. <sup>2</sup>† And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, “Who is worthy to open the scroll and break its seals?” <sup>3</sup>† And no one in heaven or on earth or under the earth was able to open the scroll or to look into it, <sup>4</sup>and I began to weep loudly because no one was found worthy to open the scroll or to look into it. <sup>5</sup>† And one of the elders said to me, “Weep no more; behold, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has conquered, so that he can open the scroll and its seven seals.”

<sup>6</sup>† And between the throne and the four living creatures and among the elders I saw a Lamb standing, as though it had been slain, with seven horns and with seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God sent out into all the earth. <sup>7</sup>And he went and took the scroll from the right hand of him who was seated on the throne. <sup>8</sup>† And when he had taken the scroll, the four living creatures and the twenty-four elders fell down before the Lamb, each holding a harp, and golden bowls full of incense, which are the prayers of the saints. <sup>9</sup>† And they sang a new song, saying,

“Worthy are you to take the scroll and to open its seals, for you were slain, and by your blood you ransomed people for God from every tribe and language and people and nation, <sup>10</sup>† and you have made them a kingdom and priests to our God, and they shall reign on the earth.”

<sup>11</sup>† Then I looked, and I heard around the throne and the living creatures and the elders the voice of many angels, numbering myriads of myriads and thousands of thousands, <sup>12</sup>† saying with a loud voice, “Worthy is the Lamb who was slain, to receive power and wealth and wisdom and might and honor and glory and blessing!” <sup>13</sup>† And I heard every creature in heaven and on earth and under the earth and in the sea, and all that is in them, saying, “To him who sits on the throne and to the Lamb be blessing and honor and glory and might forever and ever!” <sup>14</sup>† And the four living creatures said, “Amen!” and the elders fell down and worshiped.

The Seven Seals

REVELATION 6 †† Now I watched when the Lamb opened one of the seven seals, and I heard one of the four living creatures say with a voice like thunder, “Come!” † And I looked, and behold, a white horse! And its rider had a bow, and a crown was given to him, and he came out conquering, and to conquer.

‡ When he opened the second seal, I heard the second living creature say, “Come!” † And out came another horse, bright red. Its rider was permitted to take peace from the earth, so that people should slay one another, and he was given a great sword.

‡ When he opened the third seal, I heard the third living creature say, “Come!” And I looked, and behold, a black horse! And its rider had a pair of scales in his hand. † And I heard what seemed to be a voice in the midst of the four living creatures, saying, “A quart [1] of wheat for a denarius, [2] and three quarts of barley for a denarius, and do not harm the oil and wine!”

‡ When he opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature say, “Come!” † And I looked, and behold, a pale horse! And its rider's name was Death, and Hades followed him. And they were given authority over a fourth of the earth, to kill with sword and with famine and with pestilence and by wild beasts of the earth.

‡ When he opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of those who had been slain for the word of God and for the witness they had borne. † They cried out with a loud voice, “O Sovereign Lord, holy and true, how long before you will judge and avenge our blood on those who dwell on the earth?” † Then they were each given a white robe and told to rest a little longer, until the number of their fellow servants [3] and their brothers [4] should be complete, who were to be killed as they themselves had been.

‡ When he opened the sixth seal, I looked, and behold, there was a great earthquake, and the sun became black as sackcloth, the full moon became like blood, † and the stars of the sky fell to the earth as the fig tree sheds its winter fruit when shaken by a gale. † The sky vanished like a scroll that is being rolled up, and every mountain and island was removed from its place. † Then the kings of the earth and the great ones and the generals and the rich and the powerful, and everyone, slave [5] and free, hid themselves in the caves and among the rocks of the mountains, <sup>16</sup>† calling to the mountains and rocks, “Fall on us and hide us from the face of him who is seated on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb, <sup>17</sup>† for the great day of their wrath has come, and who can stand?”

The 144,000 of Israel Sealed

REVELATION 7 ††After this I saw four angels standing at the four corners of the earth, holding back the four winds of the earth, that no wind might blow on earth or sea or against any tree. †Then I saw another angel ascending from the rising of the sun, with the seal of the living God, and he called with a loud voice to the four angels who had been given power to harm earth and sea, †saying, “Do not harm the earth or the sea or the trees, until we have sealed the servants [1] of our God on their foreheads.” †And I heard the number of the sealed, 144,000, sealed from every tribe of the sons of Israel: †12,000 from the tribe of Judah were sealed, 12,000 from the tribe of Reuben,

12,000 from the tribe of Gad,

†12,000 from the tribe of Asher, 12,000 from the tribe of Naphtali,

12,000 from the tribe of Manasseh,

†12,000 from the tribe of Simeon, 12,000 from the tribe of Levi,

12,000 from the tribe of Issachar,

†12,000 from the tribe of Zebulun, 12,000 from the tribe of Joseph,

12,000 from the tribe of Benjamin were sealed.

A Great Multitude from Every Nation

†After this I looked, and behold, a great multitude that no one could number, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, clothed in white robes, with palm branches in their hands, †and crying out with a loud voice, “Salvation belongs to our God who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb!” †And all the angels were standing around the throne and around the elders and the four living creatures, and they fell on their faces before the throne and worshiped God, †saying, “Amen! Blessing and glory and wisdom and thanksgiving and honor and power and might be to our God forever and ever! Amen.”

†Then one of the elders addressed me, saying, “Who are these, clothed in white robes, and from where have they come?” †I said to him, “Sir, you know.” And he said to me, “These are the ones coming out of the great tribulation. They have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

†“Therefore they are before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple; and he who sits on the throne will shelter them with his presence.

<sup>16</sup>They shall hunger no more, neither thirst anymore; the sun shall not strike them, nor any scorching heat.

<sup>17</sup>†For the Lamb in the midst of the throne will be their shepherd, and he will guide them to springs of living water, and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes.”

The Seventh Seal and the Golden Censer

REVELATION 8 †When the Lamb opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour. <sup>2</sup>†Then I saw the seven angels who stand before God, and seven trumpets were given to them. <sup>3</sup>†And another angel came and stood at the altar with a golden censer, and he was given much incense to offer with the prayers of all the saints on the golden altar before the throne, <sup>4</sup>and the smoke of the incense, with the prayers of the saints, rose before God from the hand of the angel. <sup>5</sup>†Then the angel took the censer and filled it with fire from the altar and threw it on the earth, and there were peals of thunder, rumblings, [1] flashes of lightning, and an earthquake.

The Seven Trumpets

<sup>6</sup>Now the seven angels who had the seven trumpets prepared to blow them.

<sup>7</sup>†The first angel blew his trumpet, and there followed hail and fire, mixed with blood, and these were thrown upon the earth. And a third of the earth was burned up, and a third of the trees were burned up, and all green grass was burned up.

<sup>8</sup>†The second angel blew his trumpet, and something like a great mountain, burning with fire, was thrown into the sea, and a third of the sea became blood. <sup>9</sup>A third of the living creatures in the sea died, and a third of the ships were destroyed.

<sup>10</sup>†The third angel blew his trumpet, and a great star fell from heaven, blazing like a torch, and it fell on a third of the rivers and on the springs of water. <sup>11</sup>†The name of the star is Wormwood. [2] A third of the waters became wormwood, and many people died from the water, because it had been made bitter.

<sup>12</sup>†The fourth angel blew his trumpet, and a third of the sun was struck, and a third of the moon, and a third of the stars, so that a third of their light might be darkened, and a third of the day might be kept from shining, and likewise a third of the night.

<sup>13</sup>†Then I looked, and I heard an eagle crying with a loud voice as it flew directly overhead, “Woe, woe, woe to those who dwell on the earth, at the blasts of the other trumpets that the three angels are about to blow!”

REVELATION 9 †And the fifth angel blew his trumpet, and I saw a star fallen from heaven to earth, and he was given the key to the shaft of the bottomless pit. [1]
‡He opened the shaft of the bottomless pit, and from the shaft rose smoke like the smoke of a great furnace, and the sun and the air were darkened with the smoke from the shaft. †Then from the smoke came locusts on the earth, and they were given power like the power of scorpions of the earth. †They were told not to harm the grass of the earth or any green plant or any tree, but only those people who do not have the seal of God on their foreheads. †They were allowed to torment them for five months, but not to kill them, and their torment was like the torment of a scorpion when it stings someone. †And in those days people will seek death and will not find it. They will long to die, but death will flee from them.

‡In appearance the locusts were like horses prepared for battle: on their heads were what looked like crowns of gold; their faces were like human faces, †their hair like women's hair, and their teeth like lions' teeth; †they had breastplates like breastplates of iron, and the noise of their wings was like the noise of many chariots with horses rushing into battle. †They have tails and stings like scorpions, and their power to hurt people for five months is in their tails. †They have as king over them the angel of the bottomless pit. His name in Hebrew is Abaddon, and in Greek he is called Apollyon. [2]

‡The first woe has passed; behold, two woes are still to come.

‡Then the sixth angel blew his trumpet, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar before God, †saying to the sixth angel who had the trumpet, “Release the four angels who are bound at the great river Euphrates.” †So the four angels, who had been prepared for the hour, the day, the month, and the year, were released to kill a third of mankind. †The number of mounted troops was twice ten thousand times ten thousand; I heard their number. †And this is how I saw the horses in my vision and those who rode them: they wore breastplates the color of fire and of sapphire [3] and of sulfur, and the heads of the horses were like lions' heads, and fire and smoke and sulfur came out of their mouths. †By these three plagues a third of mankind was killed, by the fire and smoke and sulfur coming out of their mouths. †For the power of the horses is in their mouths and in their tails, for their tails are like serpents with heads, and by means of them they wound.

<sup>20</sup>‡‡ The rest of mankind, who were not killed by these plagues, did not repent of the works of their hands nor give up worshiping demons and idols of gold and silver and bronze and stone and wood, which cannot see or hear or walk, <sup>21</sup>‡ nor did they repent of their murders or their sorceries or their sexual immorality or their thefts.

The Angel and the Little Scroll

REVELATION 10 † Then I saw another mighty angel coming down from heaven, wrapped in a cloud, with a rainbow over his head, and his face was like the sun, and his legs like pillars of fire. † He had a little scroll open in his hand. And he set his right foot on the sea, and his left foot on the land, † and called out with a loud voice, like a lion roaring. When he called out, the seven thunders sounded. † And when the seven thunders had sounded, I was about to write, but I heard a voice from heaven saying, “Seal up what the seven thunders have said, and do not write it down.” † And the angel whom I saw standing on the sea and on the land raised his right hand to heaven † and swore by him who lives forever and ever, who created heaven and what is in it, the earth and what is in it, and the sea and what is in it, that there would be no more delay, † but that in the days of the trumpet call to be sounded by the seventh angel, the mystery of God would be fulfilled, just as he announced to his servants [1] the prophets.

† Then the voice that I had heard from heaven spoke to me again, saying, “Go, take the scroll that is open in the hand of the angel who is standing on the sea and on the land.” † So I went to the angel and told him to give me the little scroll. And he said to me, “Take and eat it; it will make your stomach bitter, but in your mouth it will be sweet as honey.” † And I took the little scroll from the hand of the angel and ate it. It was sweet as honey in my mouth, but when I had eaten it my stomach was made bitter. † And I was told, “You must again prophesy about many peoples and nations and languages and kings.”

The Two Witnesses

REVELATION 11 † Then I was given a measuring rod like a staff, and I was told, “Rise and measure the temple of God and the altar and those who worship there, <sup>2</sup>† but do not measure the court outside the temple; leave that out, for it is given over to the nations, and they will trample the holy city for forty-two months. <sup>3</sup>† And I will grant authority to my two witnesses, and they will prophesy for 1,260 days, clothed in sackcloth.”

<sup>4</sup>† These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands that stand before the Lord of the earth. <sup>5</sup>†† And if anyone would harm them, fire pours from their mouth and consumes their foes. If anyone would harm them, this is how he is doomed to be killed. <sup>6</sup>† They have the power to shut the sky, that no rain may fall during the days of their prophesying, and they have power over the waters to turn them into blood and to strike the earth with every kind of plague, as often as they desire. <sup>7</sup>† And when they have finished their testimony, the beast that rises from the bottomless pit [1] will make war on them and conquer them and kill them, <sup>8</sup>† and their dead bodies will lie in the street of the great city that symbolically [2] is called Sodom and Egypt, where their Lord was crucified. <sup>9</sup>† For three and a half days some from the peoples and tribes and languages and nations will gaze at their dead bodies and refuse to let them be placed in a tomb, <sup>10</sup>† and those who dwell on the earth will rejoice over them and make merry and exchange presents, because these two prophets had been a torment to those who dwell on the earth. <sup>11</sup>† But after the three and a half days a breath of life from God entered them, and they stood up on their feet, and great fear fell on those who saw them. <sup>12</sup>† Then they heard a loud voice from heaven saying to them, “Come up here!” And they went up to heaven in a cloud, and their enemies watched them. <sup>13</sup>† And at that hour there was a great earthquake, and a tenth of the city fell. Seven thousand people were killed in the earthquake, and the rest were terrified and gave glory to the God of heaven.

<sup>14</sup>† The second woe has passed; behold, the third woe is soon to come.

The Seventh Trumpet

<sup>15</sup>† Then the seventh angel blew his trumpet, and there were loud voices in heaven, saying, “The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ, and he shall reign forever and ever.” <sup>16</sup>† And the twenty-four elders who sit on their thrones before God fell on their faces and worshiped God, <sup>17</sup>† saying, “We give thanks to you, Lord God Almighty, who is and who was, for you have taken your great power and begun to reign.

<sup>18</sup>† The nations raged, but your wrath came, and the time for the dead to be judged, and for rewarding your servants, [3] the prophets and saints, and those who fear your name, both small and great, and for destroying the destroyers of the earth.”

<sup>19</sup>† Then God's temple in heaven was opened, and the ark of his covenant was seen within his temple. There were flashes of lightning, rumblings, [4] peals of thunder, an earthquake, and heavy hail.

The Woman and the Dragon

REVELATION 12 †And a great sign appeared in heaven: a woman clothed with the sun, with the moon under her feet, and on her head a crown of twelve stars. †She was pregnant and was crying out in birth pains and the agony of giving birth. †And another sign appeared in heaven: behold, a great red dragon, with seven heads and ten horns, and on his heads seven diadems. †His tail swept down a third of the stars of heaven and cast them to the earth. And the dragon stood before the woman who was about to give birth, so that when she bore her child he might devour it. †She gave birth to a male child, one who is to rule all the nations with a rod of iron, but her child was caught up to God and to his throne, †and the woman fled into the wilderness, where she has a place prepared by God, in which she is to be nourished for 1,260 days.

Satan Thrown Down to Earth

†Now war arose in heaven, Michael and his angels fighting against the dragon. And the dragon and his angels fought back, †but he was defeated, and there was no longer any place for them in heaven. †And the great dragon was thrown down, that ancient serpent, who is called the devil and Satan, the deceiver of the whole world—he was thrown down to the earth, and his angels were thrown down with him. †And I heard a loud voice in heaven, saying, “Now the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God and the authority of his Christ have come, for the accuser of our brothers [1] has been thrown down, who accuses them day and night before our God. †And they have conquered him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, for they loved not their lives even unto death. †Therefore, rejoice, O heavens and you who dwell in them! But woe to you, O earth and sea, for the devil has come down to you in great wrath, because he knows that his time is short!”

†And when the dragon saw that he had been thrown down to the earth, he pursued the woman who had given birth to the male child. †But the woman was given the two wings of the great eagle so that she might fly from the serpent into the wilderness, to the place where she is to be nourished for a time, and times, and half a time. †The serpent poured water like a river out of his mouth after the woman, to sweep her away with a flood. †But the earth came to the help of the woman, and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed the river that the dragon had poured from his mouth. †Then the dragon became furious with the woman and went off to make war on the rest of her offspring, on those who keep the commandments of God and hold to the testimony of Jesus. And he stood [\[2\]](#) on the sand of the sea.

The First Beast

REVELATION 13 †And I saw a beast rising out of the sea, with ten horns and seven heads, with ten diadems on its horns and blasphemous names on its heads. <sup>2</sup>†And the beast that I saw was like a leopard; its feet were like a bear's, and its mouth was like a lion's mouth. And to it the dragon gave his power and his throne and great authority. <sup>3</sup>†One of its heads seemed to have a mortal wound, but its mortal wound was healed, and the whole earth marveled as they followed the beast. <sup>4</sup>And they worshiped the dragon, for he had given his authority to the beast, and they worshiped the beast, saying, "Who is like the beast, and who can fight against it?"

<sup>5</sup>†And the beast was given a mouth uttering haughty and blasphemous words, and it was allowed to exercise authority for forty-two months. <sup>6</sup>†It opened its mouth to utter blasphemies against God, blaspheming his name and his dwelling, [1] that is, those who dwell in heaven. <sup>7</sup>†Also it was allowed to make war on the saints and to conquer them. [2] And authority was given it over every tribe and people and language and nation, <sup>8</sup>†and all who dwell on earth will worship it, everyone whose name has not been written before the foundation of the world in the book of life of the Lamb who was slain. <sup>9</sup>†If anyone has an ear, let him hear: <sup>10</sup>†If anyone is to be taken captive, to captivity he goes; if anyone is to be slain with the sword, with the sword must he be slain.

Here is a call for the endurance and faith of the saints.

The Second Beast

<sup>11</sup>†Then I saw another beast rising out of the earth. It had two horns like a lamb and it spoke like a dragon. <sup>12</sup>†It exercises all the authority of the first beast in its presence, [3] and makes the earth and its inhabitants worship the first beast, whose mortal wound was healed. <sup>13</sup>†It performs great signs, even making fire come down from heaven to earth in front of people, <sup>14</sup>†and by the signs that it is allowed to work in the presence of [4] the beast it deceives those who dwell on earth, telling them to make an image for the beast that was wounded by the sword and yet lived. <sup>15</sup>†And it was allowed to give breath to the image of the beast, so that the image of the beast might even speak and might cause those who would not worship the image of the beast to be slain. <sup>16</sup>†Also it causes all, both small and great, both rich and poor, both free and slave, [5] to be marked on the right hand or the forehead, <sup>17</sup>†so that no one can buy or sell unless he has the mark, that is, the name of the beast or the number of its name. <sup>18</sup>†This calls for wisdom: let the one who has understanding calculate the number of the beast, for it is the number of a man, and his number is 666. [6]

The Lamb and the 144,000

REVELATION 14 †Then I looked, and behold, on Mount Zion stood the Lamb, and with him 144,000 who had his name and his Father's name written on their foreheads. <sup>2</sup>†And I heard a voice from heaven like the roar of many waters and like the sound of loud thunder. The voice I heard was like the sound of harpists playing on their harps, <sup>3</sup>†and they were singing a new song before the throne and before the four living creatures and before the elders. No one could learn that song except the 144,000 who had been redeemed from the earth. <sup>4</sup>†It is these who have not defiled themselves with women, for they are virgins. It is these who follow the Lamb wherever he goes. These have been redeemed from mankind as firstfruits for God and the Lamb, <sup>5</sup>†and in their mouth no lie was found, for they are blameless.

The Messages of the Three Angels

<sup>6</sup>†Then I saw another angel flying directly overhead, with an eternal gospel to proclaim to those who dwell on earth, to every nation and tribe and language and people. <sup>7</sup>†And he said with a loud voice, “Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judgment has come, and worship him who made heaven and earth, the sea and the springs of water.”

<sup>8</sup>†Another angel, a second, followed, saying, “Fallen, fallen is Babylon the great, she who made all nations drink the wine of the passion [\[1\]](#) of her sexual immorality.”

<sup>9</sup>†And another angel, a third, followed them, saying with a loud voice, “If anyone worships the beast and its image and receives a mark on his forehead or on his hand, <sup>10</sup>†he also will drink the wine of God's wrath, poured full strength into the cup of his anger, and he will be tormented with fire and sulfur in the presence of the holy angels and in the presence of the Lamb. <sup>11</sup>†And the smoke of their torment goes up forever and ever, and they have no rest, day or night, these worshipers of the beast and its image, and whoever receives the mark of its name.”

<sup>13</sup>† And I heard a voice from heaven saying, “Write this: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from now on.” “Blessed indeed,” says the Spirit, “that they may rest from their labors, for their deeds follow them!”

The Harvest of the Earth

<sup>15</sup>† And another angel came out of the temple, calling with a loud voice to him who sat on the cloud, “Put in your sickle, and reap, for the hour to reap has come, for the harvest of the earth is fully ripe.” <sup>16</sup>So he who sat on the cloud swung his sickle across the earth, and the earth was reaped.

<sup>17</sup>† Then another angel came out of the temple in heaven, and he too had a sharp sickle. <sup>18</sup>† And another angel came out from the altar, the angel who has authority over the fire, and he called with a loud voice to the one who had the sharp sickle, “Put in your sickle and gather the clusters from the vine of the earth, for its grapes are ripe.” <sup>19</sup>† So the angel swung his sickle across the earth and gathered the grape harvest of the earth and threw it into the great winepress of the wrath of God. <sup>20</sup>† And the winepress was trodden outside the city, and blood flowed from the winepress, as high as a horse's bridle, for 1,600 stadia. [3]

The Seven Angels with Seven Plagues

REVELATION 15 †† Then I saw another sign in heaven, great and amazing, seven angels with seven plagues, which are the last, for with them the wrath of God is finished.

† And I saw what appeared to be a sea of glass mingled with fire—and also those who had conquered the beast and its image and the number of its name, standing beside the sea of glass with harps of God in their hands. † And they sing the song of Moses, the servant [1] of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, “Great and amazing are your deeds, O Lord God the Almighty!

Just and true are your ways, O King of the nations! [2]

† Who will not fear, O Lord, and glorify your name?

For you alone are holy.

All nations will come and worship you, for your righteous acts have been revealed.”

† After this I looked, and the sanctuary of the tent [3] of witness in heaven was opened, † and out of the sanctuary came the seven angels with the seven plagues, clothed in pure, bright linen, with golden sashes around their chests.

† And one of the four living creatures gave to the seven angels seven golden bowls full of the wrath of God who lives forever and ever, † and the sanctuary was filled with smoke from the glory of God and from his power, and no one could enter the sanctuary until the seven plagues of the seven angels were finished.

The Seven Bowls of God's Wrath

REVELATION 16 Then I heard a loud voice from the temple telling the seven angels, “Go and pour out on the earth the seven bowls of the wrath of God.”

<sup>2</sup>† So the first angel went and poured out his bowl on the earth, and harmful and painful sores came upon the people who bore the mark of the beast and worshiped its image.

<sup>3</sup>† The second angel poured out his bowl into the sea, and it became like the blood of a corpse, and every living thing died that was in the sea.

<sup>4</sup>† The third angel poured out his bowl into the rivers and the springs of water, and they became blood. <sup>5</sup>† And I heard the angel in charge of the waters [1] say, “Just are you, O Holy One, who is and who was, for you brought these judgments.

<sup>6</sup>† For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and you have given them blood to drink.

It is what they deserve!”

<sup>7</sup>† And I heard the altar saying, “Yes, Lord God the Almighty, true and just are your judgments!”

<sup>8</sup>† The fourth angel poured out his bowl on the sun, and it was allowed to scorch people with fire. <sup>9</sup>† They were scorched by the fierce heat, and they cursed [2] the name of God who had power over these plagues. They did not repent and give him glory.

<sup>10</sup>† The fifth angel poured out his bowl on the throne of the beast, and its kingdom was plunged into darkness. People gnawed their tongues in anguish <sup>11</sup>† and cursed the God of heaven for their pain and sores. They did not repent of their deeds.

<sup>12</sup>† The sixth angel poured out his bowl on the great river Euphrates, and its water was dried up, to prepare the way for the kings from the east. <sup>13</sup>† And I saw, coming out of the mouth of the dragon and out of the mouth of the beast and out of the mouth of the false prophet, three unclean spirits like frogs. <sup>14</sup>† For they are demonic spirits, performing signs, who go abroad to the kings of the whole world, to assemble them for battle on the great day of God the Almighty.

<sup>15</sup>† (“Behold, I am coming like a thief! Blessed is the one who stays awake, keeping his garments on, that he may not go about naked and be seen exposed!”)

<sup>16</sup>† And they assembled them at the place that in Hebrew is called Armageddon.

The Seventh Bowl

<sup>17</sup>† The seventh angel poured out his bowl into the air, and a loud voice came out of the temple, from the throne, saying, “It is done!” <sup>18</sup>And there were flashes of lightning, rumblings, [3] peals of thunder, and a great earthquake such as there had never been since man was on the earth, so great was that earthquake. <sup>19</sup>† The great city was split into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell, and God remembered Babylon the great, to make her drain the cup of the wine of the fury of his wrath. <sup>20</sup>† And every island fled away, and no mountains were to be found. <sup>21</sup>† And great hailstones, about one hundred pounds [4] each, fell from heaven on people; and they cursed God for the plague of the hail, because the plague was so severe.

The Great Prostitute and the Beast

REVELATION 17 † Then one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls came and said to me, “Come, I will show you the judgment of the great prostitute who is seated on many waters, <sup>2</sup>† with whom the kings of the earth have committed sexual immorality, and with the wine of whose sexual immorality the dwellers on earth have become drunk.” <sup>3</sup>† And he carried me away in the Spirit into a wilderness, and I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast that was full of blasphemous names, and it had seven heads and ten horns. <sup>4</sup>† The woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet, and adorned with gold and jewels and pearls, holding in her hand a golden cup full of abominations and the impurities of her sexual immorality. <sup>5</sup>† And on her forehead was written a name of mystery: “Babylon the great, mother of prostitutes and of earth's abominations.” <sup>6</sup>† And I saw the woman, drunk with the blood of the saints, the blood of the martyrs of Jesus. [\[1\]](#)

When I saw her, I marveled greatly. <sup>7</sup>† But the angel said to me, “Why do you marvel? I will tell you the mystery of the woman, and of the beast with seven heads and ten horns that carries her. <sup>8</sup>† The beast that you saw was, and is not, and is about to rise from the bottomless pit [\[2\]](#) and go to destruction. And the dwellers on earth whose names have not been written in the book of life from the foundation of the world will marvel to see the beast, because it was and is not and is to come. <sup>9</sup>† This calls for a mind with wisdom: the seven heads are seven mountains on which the woman is seated; <sup>10</sup>† they are also seven kings, five of whom have fallen, one is, the other has not yet come, and when he does come he must remain only a little while. <sup>11</sup>† As for the beast that was and is not, it is an eighth but it belongs to the seven, and it goes to destruction. <sup>12</sup>† And the ten horns that you saw are ten kings who have not yet received royal power, but they are to receive authority as kings for one hour, together with the beast. <sup>13</sup>† These are of one mind, and they hand over their power and authority to the beast. <sup>14</sup>† They will make war on the Lamb, and the Lamb will conquer them, for he is Lord of lords and King of kings, and those with him are called and chosen and faithful.”

<sup>15</sup>† And the angel [\[3\]](#) said to me, “The waters that you saw, where the prostitute is seated, are peoples and multitudes and nations and languages. <sup>16</sup>† And the ten horns that you saw, they and the beast will hate the prostitute. They will make her desolate and naked, and devour her flesh and burn her up with fire, <sup>17</sup>for God has put it into their hearts to carry out his purpose by being of one mind and handing over their royal power to the beast, until the words of God are fulfilled.

<sup>18</sup>† And the woman that you saw is the great city that has dominion over the kings of the earth.”

The Fall of Babylon

REVELATION 18 †After this I saw another angel coming down from heaven, having great authority, and the earth was made bright with his glory. †And he called out with a mighty voice, “Fallen, fallen is Babylon the great!

She has become a dwelling place for demons, a haunt for every unclean spirit, a haunt for every unclean bird, a haunt for every unclean and detestable beast.

†For all nations have drunk [\[1\]](#)
the wine of the passion of her sexual immorality, and the kings of the earth have committed immorality with her, and the merchants of the earth have grown rich from the power of her luxurious living.”

†Then I heard another voice from heaven saying, “Come out of her, my people, lest you take part in her sins, lest you share in her plagues;

†for her sins are heaped high as heaven, and God has remembered her iniquities.

††Pay her back as she herself has paid back others, and repay her double for her deeds; mix a double portion for her in the cup she mixed.

†As she glorified herself and lived in luxury, so give her a like measure of torment and mourning, since in her heart she says,

‘I sit as a queen,

I am no widow, and mourning I shall never see.’

†For this reason her plagues will come in a single day, death and mourning and famine, and she will be burned up with fire;

for mighty is the Lord God who has judged her.”

††And the kings of the earth, who committed sexual immorality and lived in luxury with her, will weep and wail over her when they see the smoke of her burning. †They will stand far off, in fear of her torment, and say, “Alas! Alas! You great city, you mighty city, Babylon!

For in a single hour your judgment has come.”

<sup>14</sup>“The fruit for which your soul longed has gone from you, and all your delicacies and your splendors are lost to you, never to be found again!”

in purple and scarlet, adorned with gold,
with jewels, and with pearls!

And all shipmasters and seafaring men, sailors and all whose trade is on the sea, stood far off <sup>18</sup>and cried out as they saw the smoke of her burning, “What city was like the great city?”

<sup>19</sup>‡ And they threw dust on their heads as they wept and mourned, crying out, “Alas, alas, for the great city where all who had ships at sea grew rich by her wealth!

For in a single hour she has been laid waste.

<sup>20</sup>‡ Rejoice over her, O heaven, and you saints and apostles and prophets, for God has given judgment for you against her!”

<sup>21</sup>‡ Then a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone and threw it into the sea, saying, “So will Babylon the great city be thrown down with violence, and will be found no more;

<sup>22</sup>‡ and the sound of harpists and musicians, of flute players and trumpeters, will be heard in you no more,
and a craftsman of any craft will be found in you no more, and the sound of the mill

will be heard in you no more,

<sup>23</sup>and the light of a lamp will shine in you no more,

and the voice of bridegroom and bride

will be heard in you no more,

for your merchants were the great ones of the earth, and all nations were deceived by your sorcery.

<sup>24</sup>†And in her was found the blood of prophets and of saints, and of all who have been slain on earth.”

Rejoicing in Heaven

REVELATION 19 <sup>1</sup>After this I heard what seemed to be the loud voice of a great multitude in heaven, crying out, “Hallelujah!

Salvation and glory and power belong to our God, <sup>2</sup>for his judgments are true and just; for he has judged the great prostitute who corrupted the earth with her immorality, and has avenged on her the blood of his servants.” [\[1\]](#)

The smoke from her goes up forever and ever.”

<sup>4</sup>And the twenty-four elders and the four living creatures fell down and worshiped God who was seated on the throne, saying, “Amen. Hallelujah!”

<sup>5</sup>And from the throne came a voice saying, “Praise our God, all you his servants,

you who fear him,
small and great.”

The Marriage Supper of the Lamb

<sup>6</sup>Then I heard what seemed to be the voice of a great multitude, like the roar of many waters and like the sound of mighty peals of thunder, crying out, “Hallelujah!

For the Lord our God
the Almighty reigns.

<sup>7</sup>Let us rejoice and exult and give him the glory, for the marriage of the Lamb has come, and his Bride has made herself ready; <sup>8</sup>it was granted her to clothe herself with fine linen, bright and pure”— for the fine linen is the righteous deeds of the saints.

<sup>9</sup>And the angel said [\[2\]](#) to me, “Write this: Blessed are those who are invited to the marriage supper of the Lamb.” And he said to me, “These are the true words of God.” <sup>10</sup>Then I fell down at his feet to worship him, but he said to me, “You must not do that! I am a fellow servant [\[3\]](#) with you and your brothers who hold to the testimony of Jesus. Worship God.” For the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.

The Rider on a White Horse

<sup>11</sup>† Then I saw heaven opened, and behold, a white horse! The one sitting on it is called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he judges and makes war. <sup>12</sup>† His eyes are like a flame of fire, and on his head are many diadems, and he has a name written that no one knows but himself. <sup>13</sup>† He is clothed in a robe dipped in [4] blood, and the name by which he is called is The Word of God. <sup>14</sup>† And the armies of heaven, arrayed in fine linen, white and pure, were following him on white horses. <sup>15</sup>† From his mouth comes a sharp sword with which to strike down the nations, and he will rule them with a rod of iron. He will tread the winepress of the fury of the wrath of God the Almighty. <sup>16</sup>† On his robe and on his thigh he has a name written, King of kings and Lord of lords.

<sup>17</sup>‡‡ Then I saw an angel standing in the sun, and with a loud voice he called to all the birds that fly directly overhead, “Come, gather for the great supper of God, <sup>18</sup>to eat the flesh of kings, the flesh of captains, the flesh of mighty men, the flesh of horses and their riders, and the flesh of all men, both free and slave, [5] both small and great.” <sup>19</sup>† And I saw the beast and the kings of the earth with their armies gathered to make war against him who was sitting on the horse and against his army. <sup>20</sup>† And the beast was captured, and with it the false prophet who in its presence [6] had done the signs by which he deceived those who had received the mark of the beast and those who worshiped its image. These two were thrown alive into the lake of fire that burns with sulfur. <sup>21</sup>† And the rest were slain by the sword that came from the mouth of him who was sitting on the horse, and all the birds were gorged with their flesh.

The Thousand Years

REVELATION 20 †† Then I saw an angel coming down from heaven, holding in his hand the key to the bottomless pit [1] and a great chain. † And he seized the dragon, that ancient serpent, who is the devil and Satan, and bound him for a thousand years, † and threw him into the pit, and shut it and sealed it over him, so that he might not deceive the nations any longer, until the thousand years were ended. After that he must be released for a little while.

† Then I saw thrones, and seated on them were those to whom the authority to judge was committed. Also I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded for the testimony of Jesus and for the word of God, and those who had not worshiped the beast or its image and had not received its mark on their foreheads or their hands. They came to life and reigned with Christ for a thousand years. † The rest of the dead did not come to life until the thousand years were ended. This is the first resurrection. † Blessed and holy is the one who shares in the first resurrection! Over such the second death has no power, but they will be priests of God and of Christ, and they will reign with him for a thousand years.

The Defeat of Satan

† And when the thousand years are ended, Satan will be released from his prison † and will come out to deceive the nations that are at the four corners of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them for battle; their number is like the sand of the sea. † And they marched up over the broad plain of the earth and surrounded the camp of the saints and the beloved city, but fire came down from heaven [2] and consumed them, † and the devil who had deceived them was thrown into the lake of fire and sulfur where the beast and the false prophet were, and they will be tormented day and night forever and ever.

Judgment Before the Great White Throne

†† Then I saw a great white throne and him who was seated on it. From his presence earth and sky fled away, and no place was found for them. † And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Then another book was opened, which is the book of life. And the dead were judged by what was written in the books, according to what they had done. † And the sea gave up the dead who were in it, Death and Hades gave up the dead who were in them, and they were judged, each one of them, according to what they had done. <sup>14</sup>† Then Death and Hades were thrown into the lake of fire. This is the second death, the lake of fire. <sup>15</sup>† And if anyone's name was not found written in the book of life, he was thrown into the lake of fire.

The New Heaven and the New Earth

REVELATION 21 † Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more. <sup>2</sup>†† And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. <sup>3</sup>† And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, “Behold, the dwelling place [1] of God is with man. He will dwell with them, and they will be his people, [2] and God himself will be with them as their God. [3] <sup>4</sup>† He will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain anymore, for the former things have passed away.”

<sup>5</sup>† And he who was seated on the throne said, “Behold, I am making all things new.” Also he said, “Write this down, for these words are trustworthy and true.” <sup>6</sup>† And he said to me, “It is done! I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end. To the thirsty I will give from the spring of the water of life without payment. <sup>7</sup>† The one who conquers will have this heritage, and I will be his God and he will be my son. <sup>8</sup>† But as for the cowardly, the faithless, the detestable, as for murderers, the sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars, their portion will be in the lake that burns with fire and sulfur, which is the second death.”

The New Jerusalem

<sup>9</sup>†† Then came one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls full of the seven last plagues and spoke to me, saying, “Come, I will show you the Bride, the wife of the Lamb.” <sup>10</sup>† And he carried me away in the Spirit to a great, high mountain, and showed me the holy city Jerusalem coming down out of heaven from God, <sup>11</sup>† having the glory of God, its radiance like a most rare jewel, like a jasper, clear as crystal. <sup>12</sup>† It had a great, high wall, with twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and on the gates the names of the twelve tribes of the sons of Israel were inscribed— <sup>13</sup> on the east three gates, on the north three gates, on the south three gates, and on the west three gates. <sup>14</sup> And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and on them were the twelve names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

<sup>15</sup>† And the one who spoke with me had a measuring rod of gold to measure the city and its gates and walls. <sup>16</sup>† The city lies foursquare, its length the same as its width. And he measured the city with his rod, 12,000 stadia. [4] Its length and width and height are equal. <sup>17</sup>†He also measured its wall, 144 cubits [5] by human measurement, which is also an angel's measurement. <sup>18</sup>†The wall was built of jasper, while the city was pure gold, clear as glass. <sup>19</sup>††The foundations of the wall of the city were adorned with every kind of jewel. The first was jasper, the second sapphire, the third agate, the fourth emerald, <sup>20</sup>†the fifth onyx, the sixth carnelian, the seventh chrysolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth topaz, the tenth chrysoprase, the eleventh jacinth, the twelfth amethyst. <sup>21</sup>†And the twelve gates were twelve pearls, each of the gates made of a single pearl, and the street of the city was pure gold, transparent as glass.

<sup>22</sup>†And I saw no temple in the city, for its temple is the Lord God the Almighty and the Lamb. <sup>23</sup>And the city has no need of sun or moon to shine on it, for the glory of God gives it light, and its lamp is the Lamb. <sup>24</sup>†By its light will the nations walk, and the kings of the earth will bring their glory into it, <sup>25</sup>and its gates will never be shut by day—and there will be no night there. <sup>26</sup>They will bring into it the glory and the honor of the nations. <sup>27</sup>†But nothing unclean will ever enter it, nor anyone who does what is detestable or false, but only those who are written in the Lamb's book of life.

The River of Life

REVELATION 22 †Then the angel [1] showed me the river of the water of life, bright as crystal, flowing from the throne of God and of the Lamb <sup>2</sup>†through the middle of the street of the city; also, on either side of the river, the tree of life [2] with its twelve kinds of fruit, yielding its fruit each month. The leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations. <sup>3</sup>†No longer will there be anything accursed, but the throne of God and of the Lamb will be in it, and his servants [3] will worship him. <sup>4</sup>†They will see his face, and his name will be on their foreheads. <sup>5</sup>†And night will be no more. They will need no light of lamp or sun, for the Lord God will be their light, and they will reign forever and ever.

Jesus Is Coming

<sup>6</sup>†And he said to me, “These words are trustworthy and true. And the Lord, the God of the spirits of the prophets, has sent his angel to show his servants what must soon take place.”

<sup>7</sup>†“And behold, I am coming soon. Blessed is the one who keeps the words of the prophecy of this book.”

<sup>8</sup>†I, John, am the one who heard and saw these things. And when I heard and saw them, I fell down to worship at the feet of the angel who showed them to me, <sup>9</sup>but he said to me, “You must not do that! I am a fellow servant [4] with you and your brothers the prophets, and with those who keep the words of this book. Worship God.”

<sup>10</sup>†And he said to me, “Do not seal up the words of the prophecy of this book, for the time is near. <sup>11</sup>†Let the evildoer still do evil, and the filthy still be filthy, and the righteous still do right, and the holy still be holy.”

<sup>12</sup>†“Behold, I am coming soon, bringing my recompense with me, to repay everyone for what he has done. <sup>13</sup>†I am the Alpha and the Omega, the first and the last, the beginning and the end.”

<sup>14</sup>†Blessed are those who wash their robes, [5] so that they may have the right to the tree of life and that they may enter the city by the gates. <sup>15</sup>†Outside are the dogs and sorcerers and the sexually immoral and murderers and idolaters, and everyone who loves and practices falsehood.

<sup>16</sup>†“I, Jesus, have sent my angel to testify to you about these things for the churches. I am the root and the descendant of David, the bright morning star.”

<sup>17</sup>†The Spirit and the Bride say, “Come.” And let the one who hears say, “Come.” And let the one who is thirsty come; let the one who desires take the water of life without price.

<sup>18</sup>†I warn everyone who hears the words of the prophecy of this book: if anyone adds to them, God will add to him the plagues described in this book, <sup>19</sup>and if anyone takes away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God will take away his share in the tree of life and in the holy city, which are described in this book.

Study Notes

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:1 The revelation. The Greek word from which the English word “apocalypse” comes lit. means “to uncover, or to reveal.” When it refers to a person, it means that person becomes clearly visible (see Introduction: Title; cf. Luke 2:30–32; Rom. 8:19; 1 Cor. 1:7; 1 Pet. 1:7). Jesus Christ. The Gospels unveil Christ at his first coming in humiliation; Revelation reveals him in his exaltation: 1) in blazing glory (Rev. 1:7–20); 2) over his church, as its Lord (chs. 2–3); 3) in his second coming, as he takes back the earth from the usurper, Satan, and establishes his kingdom (chs. 4–20); and 4) as he lights up the eternal state (chs. 21–22). The NT writers eagerly anticipate this unveiling (1 Cor. 1:7; 2 Thess. 1:7; 1 Pet. 1:7). God gave him. As a reward for Christ’s perfect submission and atonement, the Father now presented to him the great record of his future glory (cf. Phil. 2:5–11). Readers eavesdrop on the gift of this book, from the Father to his Son. soon. This word (cf. Rev. 2:5, 16; 3:11; 11:14; 22:12; 2 Tim. 4:9) underscores the imminence of Christ’s return.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:3 Blessed. This is the only biblical book that comes with a blessing for the one who listens to it being read and explained and then responds in obedience. This is the first of seven beatitudes in the book (v. 3; 14:13; 16:15; 19:9; 20:6; 22:7, 14). time is near. “Time” refers to epochs, eras, or seasons. The next great epoch of God’s redemptive history is imminent. But although Christ’s coming is the next event, it may be delayed so long that people begin to question whether he will ever come (cf. Matt. 24:36–39; 2 Pet. 3:3–4).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:4 seven churches that are in Asia. Asia Minor, equivalent to modern Turkey, was composed of seven postal districts. At the center of those districts were seven key cities that served as central points for the dissemination of information. It is to the churches in those cities that John writes. who is and who was and who is to come. God’s eternal presence is not limited by time. He has always been present and will come in the future. the seven spirits. There are two possible meanings: 1) a reference to Isaiah’s prophecy concerning the sevenfold ministry of the Holy Spirit (Isa. 11:2); or 2) more likely, it is a reference to the lampstand with seven lamps (a menorah) in Zechariah—also a description of the Holy Spirit (see notes on Rev. 4:5; 5:6; Zech. 4:1–10). In either case, seven is the number of completeness, so John is identifying the fullness of the Holy Spirit.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:5 firstborn. Of all who have been or will be raised from the dead, he is the preeminent one, the only one who is the rightful heir (cf. 3:14; Ps. 89:27; Col. 1:15).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:6 a kingdom, priests. All who believe live in the sphere of God's rule, a kingdom entered by faith in Jesus Christ. And as priests, believers have the right to enter God's presence.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:7 coming with the clouds. This echoes the promise of Daniel: the Son of Man will come with the clouds of heaven (Dan. 7:13)—not ordinary clouds but clouds of glory. In the OT, God often manifested himself in an energized, blazing light, called the Shekinah or glory cloud. No one could see it fully and live (Ex. 33:20), so it had to be veiled. But when Christ returns, the glory will be completely visible. Cf. Matt. 24:29–30; 25:31; see notes on Rev. 6:12–17. those who pierced. Not a reference to the four Roman soldiers usually involved in crucifixion, but to the Jews who were actually responsible for Christ's death (Acts 2:22–23; 3:14–15). Zechariah identified the ones who pierced him as “the house of David” and “the inhabitants of Jerusalem” and prophesied that they will weep tears of genuine repentance because of what they did to their Messiah (Zech. 12:10). all tribes . . . will wail. The mourning of the rest of the earth's inhabitants is not that which accompanies genuine repentance (cf. Rev. 9:21). It is the result of guilt for sin and fear of punishment (6:16; cf. Gen. 3:8–10).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:8 the Alpha and the Omega. These are the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet. An alphabet is an ingenious way to store and communicate knowledge. The 26 letters in the English alphabet, arranged in almost endless combinations, can hold and convey all knowledge. Christ is the supreme, sovereign alphabet; there is nothing outside his knowledge, so as there are no unknown factors that can sabotage his second coming. (cf. Col. 2:3). the Almighty. “Almighty God” or “the Almighty” occurs eight other times in Revelation, underscoring that God's power is supreme over all the cataclysmic events it records (see also Rev. 4:8; 11:17; 15:3; 16:7, 14; 19:6, 15; 21:22). He exercises sovereign control over every person, object, and event, and not one molecule in the universe is outside that dominion.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:9–18 This vision of Christ is equaled in grandeur only by the vision of his final return as King of kings and Lord of lords (19:11–16).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:9 tribulation and the kingdom and the patient endurance. Four characteristics that John and his believing readers share: 1) persecution for their faith; 2) membership in the redeemed community over which Christ serves as Lord and King; 3) eager anticipation of the glory of his coming millennial reign on earth; and 4) endurance and perseverance in spite of difficult times. island called Patmos. Located in the Aegean Sea off the coast of Asia Minor (modern Turkey) and part of a group of about 50 islands, Patmos was a barren, rocky, crescent-shaped island in John’s day that was about 10 miles long and less than 6 miles at its widest point. It served as a Roman penal colony. According to early Christian historian Eusebius, the emperor Nerva (A.D. 96–98) released John from Patmos.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:10 in the Spirit. This was not a dream. John was supernaturally transported out of the material world awake—not sleeping—to an experience beyond the normal senses. The Holy Spirit empowered his senses to perceive revelation from God (cf. Acts 10:11). Lord’s day. This phrase appears in many early Christian writings and refers to Sunday, the day of the Lord’s resurrection. Some have suggested this phrase refers to “the day of the Lord,” but the context doesn’t support that interpretation. loud voice. Throughout Revelation, a loud sound or voice indicates the solemnity of what God is about to reveal.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:11 book. The Greek word refers to a scroll made of parchment formed from papyrus, a reed that grows plentifully along the Nile.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:12 lampstands. These were portable gold lampstands that held small oil lamps. Each lampstand represented a church (v. 20), from which the light of life shone. Throughout Scripture, seven is the number of completeness, so these seven lampstands are representative of all the churches.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:13 son of man. According to the Gospels, this is the title Christ used most often for himself during his earthly ministry (81 times in the Gospels). Taken from the heavenly vision in Dan. 7:13, it is an implied claim to deity. robe. Most occurrences of this word in the Septuagint, the Greek OT, refer to the garment of the high priest. The golden sash across his chest completes the picture of Christ serving in his priestly role (cf. Lev. 16:1–4; Heb. 2:17).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:14 like white wool. “White” does not refer to a flat white color but a blazing, glowing, white light (cf. Dan. 7:9). Like the glory cloud (or Shekinah), it is a picture of his holiness. eyes . . . flame of fire. Like two lasers, the eyes of the exalted Lord look with penetrating gaze into the depths of his church (Rev. 2:18; 19:12; Heb. 4:13).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:15 feet . . . burnished bronze. The altar of burnt offering was covered with brass and its utensils were made of the same material (cf. Ex. 38:1–7). Glowing hot, brass feet are a clear reference to divine judgment. Jesus Christ with feet of judgment is moving through his church to exercise his chastening authority upon sin. voice . . . roar of many waters. No longer was his voice like the crystal clear note of a trumpet (Rev. 1:10), but John likened it to the crashing of the surf against the rocks of the island (cf. Ezek. 43:2). It was the voice of authority.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:16 seven stars. These are the messengers who represent the seven churches (see note on v. 20). Christ holds them in his hand, which means that he controls the church and its leaders. a sharp two-edged sword. A large, two-edged broad sword. It signifies judgment (cf. 2:16; 19:15) on those who attack his people and destroy his church.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:17 fell at his feet. A common response to seeing the awesome glory of the Lord (Gen. 17:3; Num. 16:22; Isa. 6:1–8; Ezek. 1:28; Acts 9:4). first and the last. Jesus Christ applies this OT name for Yahweh (Rev. 22:13; Isa. 41:4; 44:6; 48:12) to himself, clearly claiming to be God. Idols will come and go. He was before them, and he will remain after them.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:18 keys of Death and Hades. See note on Luke 16:23. Death and Hades are essentially synonyms, but death is the condition and Hades, equivalent to the OT Sheol, the place of the dead (see note on Rev. 20:13). Christ decides who lives, who dies, and when.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:19 This verse provides a simple outline for the entire book: “the things that you have seen” refers to the vision John has just seen (ch. 1); “those that are” denotes the letters to the churches (chs. 2–3); and “those that are to take place after this” refers to the revelation of future history (chs. 4–22).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 1:20 the angels. The word lit. means “messenger.” Although it can mean angel—and does throughout the book—it cannot refer to angels here because angels are never leaders in the church. Most likely, these messengers are the seven key elders representing each of those churches (see note on v. 16).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:1–3:22 Although these seven churches were actual, historical churches in Asia Minor, they represent the types of churches that perennially exist throughout the church age. What Christ says to these churches is relevant in all times.

The Setting of Revelation

c. A.D. 95

John addressed the book of Revelation “to the seven churches that are in Asia,” namely Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamum, Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia, and Laodicea, although there were undoubtedly other churches elsewhere in the province of Asia (e.g., Miletus and Colossae, see Acts 20:17; Col. 1:2). John had apparently been exiled from Ephesus to the island of Patmos, southwest of Ephesus, and it was there that he recorded his visions.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:1 angel. The elder or pastor from the church (see note on 1:20). Ephesus. It was an inland city 3 miles from the sea, but the broad mouth of the Cayster River allowed access and provided the greatest harbor in Asia Minor. Four great trade roads went through Ephesus; therefore, it became known as the gateway to Asia. It was the center of the worship of Artemis (Greek), or Diana (Roman), whose temple was one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World. Paul ministered there for three years (Acts 20:31), and later met with the Ephesian elders on his way to Jerusalem (Acts 20). Timothy, Tychicus, and the apostle John all served this church. John was in Ephesus when he was arrested by Domitian and exiled 50 miles southwest to Patmos. seven stars. See note on Rev. 1:16. seven golden lampstands. See note on 1:12.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:2 those who call themselves apostles. The Ephesian church exercised spiritual discernment. It knew how to evaluate men who claimed spiritual leadership by their doctrine and behavior (cf. 1 Thess. 5:20–21).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:3 not grown weary. For over 40 years, since its founding, this church had remained faithful to the word and the Lord. Through difficulty and persecution, the members had endured, always driven by the right motive, i.e., for Christ's name and reputation.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:4 abandoned the love you had at first. To be a Christian is to love the Lord Jesus Christ (John 14:21, 23; 1 Cor. 16:22). But the Ephesians' passion and fervor for Christ had become cold, mechanical orthodoxy. Their doctrinal and moral purity, their undiminished zeal for the truth, and their disciplined service were no substitute for the love for Christ they had forsaken.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:5 remove your lampstand. God's judgment would bring an end to the Ephesian church.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:6 the works of the Nicolaitans. A problem in Pergamum also (vv. 12–15), this heresy was similar to the teaching of Balaam (vv. 14–15). Nicolas means "one who conquers the people." Irenaeus writes that Nicolas, who was made a deacon in Acts 6, was a false believer who later became apostate; but because of his credentials he was able to lead the church astray. And, like Balaam, he led the people into immorality and wickedness. The Nicolaitans, followers of Nicolas, were involved in immorality and assaulted the church with sensual temptations. Clement of Alexander says, "They abandoned themselves to pleasure like goats, leading a life of self-indulgence." Their teaching perverted grace and replaced liberty with license.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:7 one who conquers. According to John's own definition, to be an overcomer is to be a Christian (see note on 1 John 5:4; cf. Rev. 2:11, 17, 26; 3:5, 12, 21). tree of life. True believers enjoy the promise of heaven (see notes on 22:2; Gen. 2:9).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:8 angel. *See note on v. 1. Smyrna. Smyrna means “myrrh,” the substance used for perfume and often for anointing a dead body for aromatic purposes. Called the crown of Asia, this ancient city (modern Izmir, Turkey) was the most beautiful in Asia Minor and a center of science and medicine. Always on the winner’s side in the Roman wars, Smyrna’s intense loyalty to Rome resulted in a strong emperor-worship cult. Fifty years after John’s death, Polycarp, the pastor of the church in Smyrna, was burned alive at the age of 86 for refusing to worship Caesar. A large Jewish community in the city also proved hostile to the early church. the first and the last. See note on 1:17.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:9 who say that they are Jews. Although they were Jews physically, they were not true Jews but spiritual pagans (cf. Rom. 2:28). They allied with other pagans in putting Christians to death as they attempted to stamp out the Christian faith. synagogue of Satan. With the rejection of its Messiah, Judaism becomes as much a tool of Satan as emperor worship.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:10 devil. The Greek name for God’s archenemy means “accuser.” For discussion of Satan, *see notes on Eph. 6:10–17. for ten days . . . tribulation. Their imprisonment will be brief. crown of life. It is the crown which is life, or the reward which is life, not an actual crown to adorn the head. “Crown” here does not refer to the kind royalty wears, but to the wreath awarded winning athletes.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:11 who conquers. This identifies every Christian (see note on v. 7). the second death. The first death is only physical; the second is spiritual and eternal (cf. 20:14).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:12 angel. *See note on 1:20. Pergamum. Pergamum lit., means “citadel” and is the word from which we get parchment—a writing material developed from animal skin, which apparently was first developed in that area. Pergamum (modern Bergama) was built on a 1,000-foot hill in a broad, fertile plain about 20 miles inland from the Aegean Sea. It had served as the capital of the Roman province of Asia Minor for over 250 years. It was an important religious center for the pagan cults of Athena, Asklepios, Dionysius (or Bacchus, the god of drunkenness), and Zeus. It was the first city in Asia to build a temple to Caesar (29 B.C.) and became the capital of the cult of Caesar worship. two-edged sword. See note on 1:16.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:13 where Satan's throne is. The headquarters of satanic opposition and a Gentile base for false religions. On the acropolis in Pergamum was a huge, throne-shaped altar to Zeus. In addition, Asklepios, the god of healing, was the god most associated with Pergamum. His snake-like form is still the medical symbol today. The famous medical school connected to his temple mingled medicine with superstition. One prescription called for the worshiper to sleep on the temple floor, allowing snakes to crawl over his body and infuse him with their healing power. Antipas. Probably the pastor of the church. Tradition says Antipas was burned inside a brass bull.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:14 teaching of Balaam. Balaam tried unsuccessfully to prostitute his prophetic gift and curse Israel for money offered him by Balak, king of Moab. So he devised a plot to have Moabite women seduce Israelite men into intermarriage. The result was the blasphemous union of Israel with fornication and idolatrous feasts (for the story of Balaam, see Num. 22–25). food sacrificed to idols. See Acts 15:19–29.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:15 So also you. The teaching of the Nicolaitans led to the same behavior as Balaam's schemes. teaching of the Nicolaitans. See note on v. 6.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:16 sword of my mouth. See note on 1:16.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:17 conquers. See note on v. 7. hidden manna. Just as Israel received manna, God promises to give the true believer the spiritual bread the unbelieving world cannot see: Jesus Christ (cf. John 6:51). white stone. When an athlete won in the games, he was often given, as part of his prize, a white stone, which was an admission pass to the winner's celebration afterwards. This may picture the moment when the overcomer will receive his ticket to the eternal victory celebration in heaven. new name. A personal message from Christ to the ones he loves, which serves as their admission pass into eternal glory. It is so personal that only the person who receives it will know what it is.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:18 angel. See note on 1:20. Thyatira. Located halfway between Pergamum and Sardis, this city had been under Roman rule for nearly three centuries (c. 190 B.C.). Since the city was situated in a long valley that swept 40 miles to Pergamum, it had no natural defenses and had a long history of being destroyed and rebuilt. Originally populated by soldiers of Alexander the Great, it was little more than a military outpost to guard Pergamum. Lydia came from this city on business and was converted under Paul's ministry (Acts 16:14–15). eyes like a flame of fire. See note on Rev. 1:14. feet are like burnished bronze. Cf. 19:15; see note on 1:15.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:20 Jezebel. Probably a pseudonym for a woman who influenced the church in the way Jezebel influenced the OT Jews into idolatry and immorality (cf. 1 Kings 21:25–26). immorality and to eat food sacrificed to idols. Cf. Acts 15:19–29; see note on Rev. 2:14.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:22 sickbed. Lit., “bed.” Having given this woman time to repent, God was to judge her upon a bed. Since she used a luxurious bed to commit her immorality, and the reclining couch at the idol feast to eat things offered to false gods, he was to give her a bed in hell where she would lie forever.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:23 her children. The church was about 40 years old as John wrote, and her teaching had produced a second generation advocating the same debauchery. who searches mind and heart. God has perfect, intimate knowledge of every human heart; no evil can be hidden from him (Ps. 7:9; Prov. 24:12; Jer. 11:20; 17:10; 20:12). according to your works. Always the basis for future judgment (Rev. 20:12–13; Matt. 16:27; Rom. 2:6). Deeds or works do not save (Eph. 2:8–9), but they do evidence salvation (James 2:14–26).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:24 the deep things of Satan. This unbelievable libertinism and license was the fruit of pre-Gnostic teaching that one was free to engage and explore the sphere of Satan and participate in evil with the body without harming the spirit (see Introduction to 1 John: Background and Setting).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:26 conquers. See note on v. 7.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:27 rule them with a rod of iron. Lit., “shepherd them with an iron rod.” During the millennial kingdom, Christ will enforce his will and protect his sheep with his iron scepter from any who would seek to harm them (cf. Ps. 2:9).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 2:28 the morning star. John later reveals Christ to be “the bright morning star” (22:16). Although the morning star has already dawned in our hearts (2 Pet. 1:19), someday we will have him in his fullness.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:1 angel. Messenger or pastor (see note on 1:20). Sardis. Situated on a natural acropolis rising 1,500 feet above the valley floor, the city (modern Sart) was nearly impregnable. Around 1200 B.C. it gained prominence as the capital of the Lydian kingdom. Its primary industry was harvesting wool, dyeing it, and making garments from it. The famous author Aesop came from Sardis, and tradition says that Melito, a member of the church in Sardis, wrote the first-ever commentary on certain passages in the book of Revelation. The church in Sardis was dead; that is, basically populated by unredeemed, unregenerate people. seven spirits. See note on 1:4. seven stars. The pastors of these seven churches (see notes on 1:16, 20).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:3 come like a thief. Here the reference is not to Christ's second coming (cf. 16:15; 1 Thess. 5:2; 2 Pet. 3:10), but to his sudden and unexpected coming to his unrepentant, dead church to inflict harm and destruction.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:4 who have not soiled their garments. Soiled means "to smear," "to pollute," or "to stain," and garments refer to character. There were a few whose character was still godly (cf. Jude 23). in white. The white garments of all the redeemed (cf. Rev. 6:11; 7:9, 13; 19:8, 14) speak of holiness and purity. Such white robes are reserved for Christ (Matt. 17:2; Mark 9:3), holy angels (Matt. 28:3; Mark 16:5), and the glorified church (Rev. 19:8, 14). In the ancient world, white robes were commonly worn at festivals and celebrations.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:5 conquers. All true Christians (see note on 2:7). book of life. A divine journal records the names of all those whom God has chosen to save and who, therefore, are to possess eternal life (13:8; 17:8; 20:12, 15; 21:27; 22:19; cf. Dan. 12:1; Luke 10:20). Under no circumstances will he erase those names (see note on Phil. 4:3), as city officials often did of undesirable people on their rolls.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:7 angel. See note on 1:20. Philadelphia. Located on a hillside about 30 miles southeast of Sardis, the city (modern Alashehir) was founded around 190 B.C. by Attalus II, king of Pergamum. His unusual devotion to his brother earned the city its name, "brotherly love." The city was an important commercial stop on a major trade route called the Imperial Post Road, a first-century mail route. Although Scripture does not mention this church elsewhere, it was probably the fruit of Paul's extended ministry in Ephesus (cf. Acts 19:10). holy . . . true. A common description in this book (Rev. 4:8; 6:10; 15:3; 16:7; 19:2, 11). Christ shares the holy, sinless, pure nature of his Father (Ps. 16:10; Isa. 6:3; 40:25; 43:15; Hab. 3:3; Mark 1:11, 24; John 6:69; Acts 3:14); that is, he is absolutely pure and separate from sin. “True” can refer both to one who speaks truth, and who is genuine or authentic as opposed to fake. the key of David. Christ has the sovereign authority to control entrance into the kingdom (Isa. 22:22; cf. Matt. 16:19; John 14:6). In Rev. 1:18 he is pictured holding the keys to death and hell—here, the keys to salvation and blessing.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:8 open door. This is either admission into the kingdom (see v. 7), or an opportunity for service (cf. 1 Cor. 16:9; 2 Cor. 2:12; Col. 4:3).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:9 synagogue of Satan. See note on 2:9. who say that they are Jews. See note on 2:9.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:10 keep you from the hour of trial. Christ’s description—an event still future that for a short time severely tests the whole world—must refer to the time of tribulation, the seven-year period before Christ’s earthly kingdom is consummated, featuring the unleashing of divine wrath in judgments expressed as seals, trumpets, and bowls. This period is described in detail throughout chs. 6–19. The latter half is called “the great tribulation” (7:14; Matt. 24:21) and is identified as to time in Rev. 11:2–3; 12:6, 14; 13:5. The verb “keep” is followed by a preposition whose normal meaning is “from” or “out of”—this phrase, “keep . . . from” supports the pretribulational rapture of the church (see notes on John 14:1–3; 1 Cor. 15:51–52; 1 Thess. 4:13–17). This period is the same as Daniel’s seventieth week (see notes on Dan. 9:24–27) and “a time of distress for Jacob” (see notes on Jer. 30:7).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:11 I am coming soon. This isn’t the threatening temporal judgment described in v. 3; 2:5, 16, nor the final judgment of ch. 19; it is a hopeful event. Christ will return to take his church out of the hour of trial (see note on 2 Thess. 2:1).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:12 one who conquers. All Christians (see note on 2:7). a pillar. Believers will enjoy an unshakable, eternal, secure place in the presence of God. temple. See note on 7:15. write . . . name of my God. In biblical times, one’s name spoke of his character. Writing his name on us speaks of imprinting his character on us and identifying us as belonging to him. new Jerusalem. The capital city of heaven (see notes on 21:1–27). The overcomer will enjoy eternal citizenship. my own new name. At the moment we see Christ, whatever we may have called him and understood by that name will pale in the reality of what we see. And he will give us a new, eternal name by which we will know him.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:14 angel. The pastor-messenger designated to deliver this letter (see note on 1:20). Laodicea. Located in the Lycus River Valley, the southwest area of Phrygia, Laodicea became the wealthiest, most important commercial center in the region. It was primarily known for three industries: banking, wool, and medicine (notably its eye salve). An inadequate local water supply forced the city to build an underground aqueduct. All three industries, as well as the inadequate water supply, played a major part in this letter. The church began through the ministry of Epaphras, while Paul was ministering in Ephesus (cf. Col. 1:7; Paul never personally visited Laodicea). the Amen. A common biblical expression signifying certainty and veracity (cf. Isa. 65:16, “the God of truth”). According to 2 Cor. 1:20, all the promises of God are fulfilled in Christ; that is, all God’s promises and unconditional covenants are guaranteed and affirmed by the person and work of Jesus Christ. faithful and true witness. He is a completely trustworthy and perfectly accurate witness to the truth of God (John 14:6). beginning of God’s creation. This corrects a heresy, apparently present in Laodicea as in Colossae, that Christ was a created being (cf. Col. 1:15–20). Instead, he is the “beginning” (lit., “beginner, originator, initiator”) of creation (cf. John 1:3) and the “firstborn of creation”; that is, the most preeminent, supreme person ever born (Col. 1:15). As a man, he had a beginning, but as God, he was the beginning. Sadly, this heresy concerning the person of Christ had produced an unregenerate church in Laodicea.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:16 lukewarm. I.e., tepid. Nearby Hierapolis was famous for its hot springs, and Colossae for its cold, refreshing mountain stream. But Laodicea had dirty, tepid water that flowed for miles through an underground aqueduct. Visitors, unaccustomed to it, immediately spat it out. The church at Laodicea was neither cold, openly rejecting Christ, nor hot, filled with spiritual zeal. Instead, its members were lukewarm, hypocrites professing to know Christ, but not truly belonging to him (cf. Matt. 7:21ff.). I will spit you out of my mouth. Just like the dirty, tepid water of Laodicea, these self-deceived hypocrites sickened Christ.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:18 gold . . . white garments . . . salve. See note on v. 14. He was offering them the spiritual counterparts to their three major industries. Each item was a way to refer to genuine salvation.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:19 Those whom I love, I reprove and discipline. Both vv. 18, 20 indicate that Christ was speaking here to unbelievers. God certainly loves the unconverted (cf. John 3:16). And “reprove” and “discipline” often refer to God’s convicting and punishing the unregenerate (Matt. 18:17; 1 Cor. 14:24; 2 Tim. 2:25).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:20 I stand at the door and knock. Rather than allowing for the common interpretation of Christ’s knocking on a person’s heart, the context demands that Christ was seeking to enter this church that bore his name but lacked a single true believer. This poignant letter was his knocking. If one member would recognize his spiritual bankruptcy and respond in saving faith, he would enter the church.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 3:21 conquers. All true Christians (see note on 2:7). sit with me on my throne. A figurative expression meaning that we will share the privilege and authority that Christ enjoys as we reign with him (1:6; Matt. 19:28; Luke 22:29–30).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 4:1 Come up here. This is not a veiled reference to the rapture of the church, but a command for John to be temporarily transported to heaven “in the Spirit” (see note on 1:10) to receive revelation about future events. what must take place after this. According to the outline given in 1:19, this begins the third and final section of the book, describing the events that will follow the church age.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 4:2 I was in the Spirit. See note on 1:10. throne. Not so much a piece of furniture, but a symbol of sovereign rule and authority (7:15; 11:19; 16:17–18; cf. Isa. 6:1). It is the focus of Rev. 4, occurring 14 times, 11 times referring to God’s throne.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 4:3 jasper. John later describes this stone as “clear as crystal” (21:11), probably referring to a diamond, which refracts all the colors of the spectrum in wondrous brilliance. carnelian. A fiery bright ruby stone named for the city near which it was found. emerald. A cool, emerald-green hue dominates the multi-colored rainbow surrounding God’s throne (cf. Ezek. 1:28). From the time of Noah, the rainbow became a sign of God’s faithfulness to his word, his promises, and his Noahic Covenant (Gen. 9:12–17).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 4:4 twenty-four elders. Their joint rule with Christ, their white garments, and their golden crowns all seem to indicate that these 24 represent the redeemed (vv. 9–11; 5:5–14; 7:11–17; 11:16–18; 14:3; 19:4). The question is which redeemed? Not Israel, since the nation is not yet saved, glorified, and coronated. That is still to come at this point in the events of the end. Their resurrection and glory will come at the end of the seven-year tribulation time (cf. Dan. 12:1–3). Tribulation saints aren't yet saved (Rev. 7:9–10). Only one group will be complete and glorified at that point—the church. Here elders represent the church, which sings the song of redemption (5:8–10). They are the overcomers who have their crowns and live in the place prepared for them, where they have gone with Jesus (cf. John 14:1–4).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 4:5 lightning . . . thunder. Not the fury of nature, but the firestorm of righteous fury about to come from an awesome, powerful God upon a sinful world (8:5; 11:19; 16:18). seven spirits of God. The Holy Spirit (see note on 1:4).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 4:6 sea of glass. There is no sea in heaven (21:1), but the crystal pavement that serves as the floor of God's throne stretches out like a great, glistening sea (cf. Ex. 24:10; Ezek. 1:22). four living creatures. Lit., “four living ones or beings.” These are the cherubim (singular, cherub), those angels frequently referred to in the OT in connection with God's presence, power, and holiness. Although John's description is not identical to Ezekiel's, they are obviously both referring to the same supernatural and indescribable beings (Ps. 80:1; 99:1; see notes on Ezek. 1:4–25; 10:15). full of eyes. Although not omniscient—an attribute reserved for God alone—these angels have a comprehensive knowledge and perception. Nothing escapes their scrutiny (cf. Rev. 4:8).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 4:7 first . . . like a lion. In what is obviously intended as symbolic language, John compares these four beings with four of God's earthly creations. Ezekiel indicates that every cherub has these four attributes. The likeness to a lion symbolizes strength and power. second . . . like an ox. The image of a calf demonstrates that these beings render humble service to God. third . . . face of a man. Their likeness to man shows they are rational beings. fourth . . . like an eagle in flight. The cherubim fulfill their service to God with the swiftness of eagles' wings.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 4:8 full of eyes. See note on v. 6. Holy, holy, holy. Often God is extolled for his holiness in this threefold form, because it is the summation of all that he is—his most salient attribute (see note on Isa. 6:3). who was and is and is to come! See note on Rev. 1:4.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 4:10 cast their crowns. Aware that God alone is responsible for the rewards they have received, they divest themselves of all honor and cast it at the feet of their King (see note on 2:10).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 4:11 you created all things. It is the Creator God who set out to redeem his creation.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:1 a scroll. See note on 1:11. written within and on the back. This is typical of various kinds of contracts in the ancient world, including deeds, marriage contracts, rental and lease agreements, and wills. The inside of the scroll contained all the details of the contract, and the outside—or back—contained a summary of the document. In this case it almost certainly is a deed—the title deed to the earth (cf. Jer. 32:7ff.). sealed with seven seals. Romans sealed their wills seven times—on the edge at each roll—to prevent unauthorized entry. Hebrew title deeds required a minimum of three witnesses and three separate seals, with more important transactions requiring more witnesses and seals.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:2 strong angel. The identity of this angel is uncertain, but it may refer to the angel Gabriel, whose name means “strength of God” (Dan. 8:16).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:3 in heaven or on earth or under the earth. A common biblical expression denoting the entire universe and not intended to teach three precise divisions.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:5 the Lion of the tribe of Judah. One of the earliest titles for the Messiah (see notes on Gen. 49:8–12), it speaks of his fierceness and strength, which although glimpsed in his first coming, do not appear in their fullness until the moment anticipated here. the Root of David. Another clearly messianic title (see notes on Isa. 11:1–10), it anticipates his being a descendant of David, who with devastating force will compel the wicked of the earth to succumb to his authority.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:6 Lamb. Hearing of a lion, John turns to see a lamb (lit., “a little, pet lamb”). God required the Jews to bring the Passover lamb into their houses for four days, essentially making it a pet, before it was to be violently slain (Ex. 12:3, 6). This is the true Passover Lamb, God's Son (cf. Isa. 53:7; Jer. 11:19; John 1:29). as though it had been slain. The scars from its slaughter are still clearly visible, but it is standing—it is alive. seven horns. In Scripture, horns always symbolize power, because in the animal kingdom they are used to exert power and inflict wounds in combat. Seven horns signify complete or perfect power. Unlike other defenseless lambs, this One has complete, sovereign power. seven eyes . . . seven spirits. Cf. Rev. 4:5; see note on 1:4.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:8 harp. These ancient stringed instruments not only accompanied the songs of God's people (1 Chron. 25:6; Ps. 33:2), but also accompanied prophecy (cf. 1 Sam. 10:5). The 24 elders, representative of the redeemed church, played their harps in praise and in a symbolic indication that all the prophets had said was about to be fulfilled. bowls full of incense. These golden, wide-mouth saucers were common in the tabernacle and temple. Incense was a normal part of the OT ritual. Priests stood twice daily before the inner veil of the temple and burned incense so that the smoke would carry into the Most Holy Place and be swept into the nostrils of God. That symbolized the people's prayers rising to him. prayers of the saints. Specifically, these prayers represent all that the redeemed have ever prayed concerning ultimate and final redemption.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:9 new song. Cf. 15:3. The OT is filled with references to a new song that flows from a heart that has experienced God's redemption or deliverance (cf. 14:3; Ps. 33:3; 96:1; 144:9). This new song anticipates the final, glorious redemption that God is about to begin. by your blood you ransomed people for God. The sacrificial death of Christ on behalf of sinners made him worthy to take the scroll (cf. 1 Cor. 6:20; 7:23; 2 Cor. 5:21; Gal. 3:3; 1 Pet. 1:18–19; 2 Pet. 2:1).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:10 a kingdom and priests. See note on 1:6. reign on the earth. See note on 20:2.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:11 myriads of myriads and thousands of thousands. The number is to express an amount beyond calculation. The Greek expression can also be translated “innumerable” or “many thousands” (Luke 12:1; Heb. 12:22).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:12 power . . . and blessing. This doxology records seven qualities intrinsic to God and to the Lamb that demand our praise.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:13 in heaven and on earth and under the earth. See note on v. 3.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 5:14 four living creatures. See note on 4:6. elders. See note on 4:4.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:1–19:21 This lengthy section details the judgments and events of the time of tribulation (see notes on 3:10) from its beginning with the opening of the first seal (6:1–2) through the seven seal, trumpet, and bowl judgments to the return of Christ to destroy the ungodly (19:11–21).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:1 the seven seals. In ch. 5, Christ was the only One found worthy to open the little scroll—the title deed to the universe. As he breaks the seven seals that secure the scroll, each seal unleashes a new demonstration of God’s judgment on the earth in the future tribulation period (see notes on 5:1; Matt. 24:3–9). These seal judgments include all the judgments to the end. The seventh seal contains the seven trumpets; the seventh trumpet contains the seven bowls.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:2 white horse. The animal represents an unparalleled time of world peace—a false peace that is to be short-lived (see note on v. 4). This peace will be ushered in by a series of false messiahs, culminating with the Antichrist (Matt. 24:3–5). its rider. The four horses and their riders do not represent specific individuals, but forces. Some, however, identify this rider with Antichrist. Although he will be the leading figure, John’s point is that the entire world will follow him, being obsessed with pursuing this false peace. bow. The bow is a symbol of war, but the absence of arrows implies that this victory is a bloodless one—a peace won by covenant and agreement, not by war (cf. Dan. 9:24–27). crown. This word refers to the kind of laurel wreath awarded winning athletes. It “was given to him.” Antichrist becomes king, elected by the world’s inhabitants regardless of the cost, and will conquer the entire earth in a bloodless coup.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:4 another horse, bright red. Its blood-red appearance speaks of the holocaust of war (cf. Matt. 24:7). God will grant this horse and its rider the power to create worldwide war. But as horrible as this judgment is, it will be only the “birth pains,” the beginning pains of God’s wrath (Matt. 24:8; Mark 13:7–8; Luke 21:9). people should slay one another. Violent slaughter will become commonplace. sword. Not the long, broad sword, but the shorter, more easily maneuvered one that assassins often used and that soldiers carried into battle. It depicts assassination, revolt, massacre, and wholesale slaughter (cf. Dan. 8:24).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:5 black horse. Black signifies famine (cf. Lam. 5:8–10). Worldwide war will destroy the food supply, which spawns global hunger. pair of scales. The common measuring device—two small trays hung from each end of a balance beam—indicates that the scarcity of food will lead to rationing and food lines.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:6 quart of wheat. The approximate amount necessary to sustain one person for one day. denarius. One day's normal wage. One day's work will provide enough food for only one person. three quarts of barley. Usually fed to animals, this grain was low in nutrients and cheaper than wheat. A day's wage provides enough for only a small family's daily supply. oil and wine. Although the point could be that these foods will not be affected by the famine, a more straightforward meaning is that bare staples—oil was used in the preparation of bread, and wine was considered necessary for cooking and purifying water—suddenly will become luxuries that have to be carefully protected.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:8 pale. “Pale,” the Greek word from which the English word “chlorophyll” comes, describes the pale, ashen-green pallor characteristic of the decomposition of a corpse. God grants this horseman the authority to bring death to 25 percent of the world's population. Hades. See note on Luke 16:23. The place of the dead, which is identified as a common and fitting partner for death (Rev. 20:13; see note on 1:18).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:9 fifth seal. This seal describes the force of the saints' prayers for God's vengeance. Its events will begin in the first half and mark the mid-point and events following, in the seven-year period, that is called the Great Tribulation (2:22; 7:14; see notes on Dan. 9:27; Matt. 24:15; 2 Thess. 2:3–4). The second three and one-half year period (Rev. 11:2; 12:6; 13:5) features the Day of the Lord, in which God unleashes his judgment and wrath on the earth in intensifying waves (see note on 1 Thess. 5:2). under the altar. Probably a reference to the altar of incense, which pictured the saints' prayers ascending to God (Rev. 5:8; cf. Ex. 40:5). the souls of those who had been slain. Christians martyred for their faith (cf. Rev. 7:9, 13–15; 17:6; Matt. 24:9–14; see also Mark 13:9–13; Luke 21:12–19).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:11 white robe. See note on 3:4. rest a little longer. God will answer their prayer for vengeance, but in his time. until the number . . . should be complete. God has predetermined the number of the righteous whose death he will allow before moving to destroy the rebels.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:12 sixth seal. The force described in this seal is overpowering fear (cf. Luke 21:26). While the first five seals will result from human activity God used to accomplish his purposes, at this point he begins direct intervention (cf. Matt. 24:29; Luke 21:25). The previous five seals will be precursors to the full fury of the day of the Lord, which will begin with the sixth seal (Rev. 6:17). The events described in this seal unleash the seventh, which contains the trumpet judgments (chs. 8–9; 11:15ff.) and the bowl judgments (ch. 16). great earthquake. There have been many earthquakes prior to this (Matt. 24:7), but this will be more than an earthquake. All the earth's faults will begin to fracture simultaneously, resulting in a cataclysmic, global earthquake. moon became like blood. Accompanying the earthquake will be numerous volcanic eruptions; and large amounts of ash and debris will be blown into the earth's atmosphere, blackening the sun and giving the moon a blood-red hue (cf. Zech. 14:6–7).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:13 stars of the sky fell. The word “stars” can refer to any celestial body, large or small, and is not limited to normal English usage. The best explanation is a massive asteroid or meteor shower. fig . . . winter fruit. Winter figs that grow without the protection of leaves and are easily blown from the tree.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:14 sky vanished like a scroll. The earth's atmosphere will be somehow dramatically affected and the sky as we know it disappears (cf. Isa. 34:4). every mountain and island was removed. Under the stress created by the global earthquake, great segments of the earth's plates will begin to slip and shift, realigning whole continents.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:16 wrath of the Lamb. Earth's inhabitants will recognize for the first time the source of all their trouble (see note on 5:6). Incredibly, prior to this they will be living life as usual (Matt. 24:37–39).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 6:17 great day. The sixth seal will commence what the prophets call “the day of the Lord.” See Introduction to Joel: Historical and Theological Themes.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:1–17 Chapter 7 forms a parenthesis between the sixth seal (6:12–17) and the seventh seal (8:1) and answers the question posed at the end of ch. 6. Two distinct groups will survive the divine fury: 1) 144,000 Jewish evangelists on earth (7:1–8) and 2) their converts in heaven (vv. 9–17).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:1 four corners. The four quadrants of the compass; that is, the angels will take up key positions on earth. four winds. A figurative expression, indicating all the earth's winds—those from south, east, north, and west. The four angels will turn off, for a brief interlude, the essential engine of our earth's atmosphere.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:2 seal of the living God. “Seal” often refers to a signet ring used to press its image into wax melted on a document. The resulting imprint implied authenticity and ownership and protected the contents (cf. 9:4; Ezek. 9:3–4). In this case, the mark is the name of God (Rev. 14:1).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:4 144,000. A missionary corps of redeemed Jews who are instrumental in the salvation of many Jews and Gentiles during the tribulation (vv. 9–17). They will be the firstfruits of a new, redeemed Israel (v. 4; Zech. 12:10). Finally, Israel will be the witness nation she refused to be in the OT (see notes on Rom. 11:25–27). every tribe of the sons of Israel. By sovereign election, God will seal 12,000 from each of the 12 tribes, promising his protection while they accomplish their mission.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:9 a great multitude. While the tribulation period will be a time of judgment, it will also be a time of unprecedented redemption (cf. v. 14; 6:9–11; 20:4; Isa. 11:10; Matt. 24:14). every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages. All the earth's people groups. white robes. See note on Rev. 3:4. palm branches. In ancient times, they were associated with celebrations, including the Feast of Booths, or Tabernacles (Lev. 23:40; Neh. 8:17; John 12:13).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:10 Salvation belongs to our God. Salvation is the theme of their worship, and they recognize that it comes solely from him.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:11 elders. See note on 4:4. four living creatures. See note on 4:6.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:12 Blessing . . . and power. See note on 5:12.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:13 white robes. See note on 3:4.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:14 the great tribulation. See notes on 3:10; 6:1, 9, 12. These people didn't go with the raptured church, since they were not yet saved. During the seven-year period they will be saved, martyred, and enter heaven. Though it is a time of unparalleled judgment, it is also a time of unparalleled grace in salvation (cf. Matt. 24:12–14). washed their robes. Cf. Rev. 19:8. Salvation's cleansing is in view (see Titus 2:11–14). blood of the Lamb. This refers to the atoning sacrifice of Christ (cf. Rev. 1:5; 5:9; Rom. 3:24–25; 5:9).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:15 his temple. This refers to the heavenly throne of God (see note on 11:19). During the Millennium there will also be a temple on earth—a special holy place where God dwells in a partially restored, but still fallen, universe (see Ezek. 40–48). In the final, eternal state with its new heavens and earth, there is no temple; God himself, who will fill all, will be its temple (Rev. 21:22). shelter them with his presence. God's presence will become their canopy of shelter to protect them from all the terrors of a fallen world and the indescribable horrors they have experienced on the earth during the time of tribulation.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 7:17 shepherd. In a beautiful mix of images, the Lamb has always been the Shepherd (Ps. 23; John 10:14ff.; Heb. 13:20).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 8:1 the seventh seal. This seal includes not only an earthquake, but the seven trumpet judgments (8:1–9:21; 11:15ff.) and the seven bowl judgments (16:1–21), with the bowl judgments flowing out of the seventh trumpet and coming in rapid succession just before Christ's return (see note on 6:1). silence in heaven. The silence of awe and anticipation at the grim reality of the judgments God is about to unleash.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 8:2 seven trumpets. In Revelation, trumpets primarily announce impending judgment. The trumpets are of greater intensity than the seals, but not as destructive as the final bowl judgments will be (cf. 16:1–21). They occur during the final three and one-half years, but the time of each is indefinite, except the effects of the fifth trumpet judgment, which will last five months (9:10). The first four announce the divine destruction of earth's ecology (8:6–12), while the final three involve demonic devastation of earth's inhabitants (9:1–21; 11:15ff.).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 8:3 censer. A golden pan, suspended on a rope or chain, that was used to transport fiery coals from the brazen altar to the altar of incense, in order to ignite the incense, symbolizing the prayers of the people (5:8; Ex. 27:3; cf. Luke 1:8, 9). This occurred twice daily at the time of the morning and evening sacrifices.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 8:5 thunder . . . lightning. See note on 4:5. an earthquake. Surely of equal or greater intensity than the one described in the sixth seal (see note on 6:12).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 8:7 hail and fire, mixed with blood. This may describe volcanic eruptions that could certainly result from the earthquake in v. 5. The steam and water thrown into the sky by such eruptions could easily condense into hail and fall to earth along with the fiery lava (cf. Ex. 9:13–25). Dust and gases may so contaminate falling liquid water that it appears blood red. a third of the trees were burned up. The lava storm will create a blazing fire that devastates one-third of the earth's forests.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 8:8 like a great mountain. Probably a huge meteor or asteroid surrounded by gases that will ignite as it enters earth's atmosphere. Its impact will create a tidal wave, destroying one-third of the world's ships. sea became blood. This may refer to an event known as red tides, caused by billions of dead micro-organisms poisoning the water—in this case the result of the meteor's collision. Or it may be actual blood, a clear act of eschatological judgment.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 8:10 great star fell. Another celestial body, perhaps a comet in this case since it leaves a fiery trail (see notes on v. 8; 6:13). It will disintegrate as it nears the earth, scattering over the globe.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 8:11 Wormwood. A bitter, poisonous substance, derived from a root, that causes drunkenness and eventually death (Deut. 29:18; Prov. 5:4; Jer. 9:15; Lam. 3:15).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 8:12 a third of the sun was struck. God will supernaturally reduce the intensity of the celestial bodies by one-third. The loss of solar heat will cause a radical drop in temperature, producing severe changes in meteorological, botanical, and biological cycles (Luke 21:25; cf. Ex. 10:21–23). But this is temporary (cf. 16:8–9).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 8:13 Woe, woe, woe. One for each remaining trumpet blast. Although the first four trumpets are unimaginable, they will be nothing like the three to come (9:1–21; 11:15ff.).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:1 a star fallen from heaven. Unlike the other stars that will have fallen (6:13; 8:8), this one will be an angelic being (cf. 9:2)—probably Satan himself (v. 4; 12:7; see notes on Isa. 14:12–14; Luke 10:18). bottomless pit. Lit., “pit of the abyss.” Mentioned seven times in Revelation, it always refers to the prison where some of the demonic hordes are incarcerated, the place of severest torment and isolation (Rev. 9:1–2, 11; 11:7; 17:8; 20:1, 3; see notes on 2 Pet. 2:4; Jude 6–7).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:3 locusts. A grasshopper-like insect that descends in swarms so thick they can obscure the sun and strip bare all vegetation. In the 1950s a locust swarm devoured every growing thing for several hundred thousand square miles in the Middle East. These are not normal locusts, however, but specially prepared ones that are merely the outward form of demons, who, like locusts, will bring swarming desolation (see notes on Joel 2:2, 4). “Like” appears several times in John’s description; he finds it difficult to describe what he sees in a way the reader can understand. scorpions. An arachnid that inhabits warm, dry regions and has an erect tail tipped with a venomous stinger. A scorpion’s victim often rolls on the ground in agony, foams at the mouth, and grinds his teeth in pain. The demons in locust form are able to inflict the physical—and perhaps, spiritual—pain like the scorpion (Rev. 9:5).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:4 people who do not have the seal of God. Everyone on earth except the two groups mentioned in ch. 7—the 144,000 Jewish evangelists and their converts (see note on 7:4).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:5 five months. The normal life cycle of locusts is five months, usually from May to September.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:6 seek death and will not find it. The tormented will find no relief. Even their unimaginable attempts to end their misery in suicide will be unsuccessful.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:7 human faces. Probably a reference to these demonic creatures as rational, intelligent beings.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:8 women’s hair. Jeremiah 51:27 refers to locusts having bristles like hair. like lions' teeth. They are fierce, powerful, and deadly (cf. Jer. 51:27).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:9 breastplates of iron. Breastplates were designed to protect the vital organs and sustain the life of the warrior. These creatures are invulnerable.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:10 five months. See note on v. 5.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:11 Abaddon . . . Apollyon. Although locusts normally have no king (Prov. 30:27), these demonic creatures do. His name in both Hebrew and Greek means “destroyer.” There is a hierarchy of power among the demons, just as among the holy angels. Apparently, “the angel of the bottomless pit” is one of Satan’s most trusted leaders or possibly Satan himself.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:12 first woe. The first of the final three trumpets (see note on 8:13).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:13 horns of the golden altar. God’s design for the golden altar of incense included small protrusions (horns) on each corner (Ex. 30:2; see note on Rev. 6:9). Normally a place of mercy, as God responds to his people’s prayers, the altar will resound with a cry for vengeance.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:14 four angels. Scripture never refers to holy angels as being bound. These are fallen angels—another segment of Satan’s force whom God had bound but will free to accomplish his judgment through their horsemen (vv. 15–19). God’s control extends even to the demonic forces—they are bound or freed at his command. Euphrates. One of the four rivers that flowed through the Garden of Eden (see note on 16:12; cf. Gen. 2:14). Starting with Babel, this region has spawned many of the world’s pagan religions.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:15 the hour, the day, the month, and the year. God works according to his predetermined plan (cf. Matt. 24:36; Acts 1:7).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:16 mounted troops. Some see this as a reference to forces accompanying the kings of the east (16:12) and identify them with a human army coming from Asia. But that event occurs in connection with the seventh trumpet, not the sixth. The language is better understood as referring to a demon force that makes war with the earth’s inhabitants and kills one-third of humanity (9:15).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:17 breastplates. See note on v. 9. sulfur. A yellowish rock that often attends fire and smoke in Revelation (14:10; 19:20; 20:10). Common in the Dead Sea region, when ignited such deposits melt and produce burning streams and suffocating gas.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:19 tails are like serpents with heads. John's language represents the demons' ability to vent their destructive power in both directions.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:20–21 God lists five sins that are representative of their defiance.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:20 demons. Reminiscent of Paul's comments about idolatry (see note on 1 Cor. 10:19–20); demons impersonate the stone and wood idols men make.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 9:21 nor did they repent. Cf. 16:9, 11, 21. sorceries. This Greek word is the root of the English word "pharmacy." Drugs in the ancient world were used to dull the senses and induce a state suitable for religious experiences such as seances, witchcraft, incantations, and cavorting with mediums (21:8; 22:15). See note on Eph. 5:18.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 10:1–11:14 These verses serve as an interlude between the sixth trumpet and the seventh trumpet (11:15). The seals and the bowls also have a brief interlude between their sixth and seventh judgments (7:1–17; 16:15). God’s intention is to encourage and comfort his people in the midst of the fury and to remind them that he is still sovereign, that he remembers his people, and that they will ultimately be victorious.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 10:1 another mighty angel. Many commentators understand this to be Jesus Christ. But the Greek word translated “another” means one of the same kind, that is, a created being. This is not one of the seven angels responsible for sounding the trumpets (8:2), but one of the highest ranking in heaven, filled with splendor, greatness, and strength (cf. 5:2; 8:3; 18:1). rainbow. See note on 4:3. Perhaps God included this to remind John that even in judgment, he will always remember his Noahic Covenant and protect his own. legs like pillars of fire. This angel’s feet and legs indicate the firm resolve with which he will execute the day of the Lord.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 10:2 little scroll. The seven-sealed scroll that is the title deed to the earth (see note on 5:1) will be fully opened and all the final judgments made visible. right foot on the sea, and his left foot on the land. Although Satan has temporarily usurped the sea and the earth, this symbolic act demonstrates that all creation belongs to the Lord and he rules it with sovereign authority.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 10:3 seven thunders. See note on 4:5; cf. 6:1; 8:5.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 10:4 Seal up. John was told he must conceal the message of the seven thunders until God’s time (cf. 22:10; Dan. 8:26–27; 12:9).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 10:5 raised his right hand. This Greek verb appears often in the technical sense of raising the hand to take an oath or a solemn vow (cf. Dan. 12:7; see notes on Matt. 5:33–34). The hand is raised toward heaven because that is where God dwells. The angel is taking an oath.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 10:6 no more delay. This initiates the last plagues of the day of the Lord (11:15), indicating that the time the disciples anticipated has come (Matt. 24:3; Acts 1:6). The prayers of the saints will be answered (Rev. 6:9–11; Matt. 6:10).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 10:7 the mystery. A Greek term meaning “to shut” or “to close.” In the NT, a “mystery” is a truth that God concealed but has revealed through Christ and his apostles (see notes on Eph. 3:4–5; cf. Rom. 16:25). Here the mystery is the final consummation of all things as God destroys sinners and establishes his righteous kingdom on earth. as he announced. This mystery, though not fully revealed, was declared to God’s prophets (cf. Amos 3:7).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 10:9 Take and eat it. This act graphically illustrates taking in God’s word. John’s physical reactions demonstrate what every believer’s proper response to God’s judgment should be (cf. Ezek. 3:1)—sweet anticipation of God’s glory and our victory, and at the same time, the bitterness of seeing God’s wrath poured out on those who reject his Son. your stomach bitter. As he truly digests what the seal, trumpet, and bowl judgments hold in store for the sinner, John becomes nauseated. in your mouth it will be sweet as honey. But still God’s final victory and vindication are sweet realities to the believer.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 10:11 again prophesy. A call for John to warn men about the bitter judgment in the seventh trumpet and the seven bowls. peoples and nations and languages and kings. See note on 7:9.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:1 a measuring rod. This was a hollow, bamboo-like cane plant that grew in the Jordan Valley. Because of its light weight and rigidity, it was commonly used as a measuring rod (cf. Ezek. 40:3, 5). Measuring the temple signified God’s ownership of it (cf. Rev. 21:15; Zech. 2:1–5). the temple of God. Refers to the Most Holy Place and the Holy Place, not the entire temple complex (cf. Rev. 11:2). A rebuilt temple will exist during the time of the tribulation (Dan. 9:27; 12:11; Matt. 24:15; 2 Thess. 2:4). altar. The reference to worshipers suggests this is the bronze altar in the courtyard, not the incense altar in the Holy Place, since only the priests were permitted inside the Holy Place (cf. Luke 1:8–10).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:2 court outside. The Court of the Gentiles, separated from the inner court in the Herodian temple by a low wall. Gentiles were forbidden to enter the inner court on penalty of death. That John is instructed not to measure the outer court symbolizes God’s rejection of the unbelieving Gentiles who have oppressed his covenant people. trample the holy city. Assyria, Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, and Rome all oppressed Jerusalem in ancient times (cf. 2 Kings 25:8–10; Ps. 79:1; Isa. 63:18; Lam. 1:10). This verse refers to the future devastating destruction and oppression of Jerusalem by the forces of the Antichrist. forty-two months. This three and one-half year period covers the second half of the tribulation and coincides with the visibly evil career of the Antichrist (Rev. 11:3; 12:6; 13:5). During this same time, the Jews will be sheltered by God in the wilderness (12:6, 14).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:3 two witnesses. Individuals granted special power and authority by God to preach a message of judgment and salvation during the second half of the tribulation. The OT required two or more witnesses to confirm testimony (cf. Deut. 17:6; 19:15; Matt. 18:16; John 8:17; Heb. 10:28), and these two prophets will be the culmination of God's testimony to Israel: a message of judgment from God and of his gracious offer of the gospel to all who will repent and believe. 1,260. Forty-two months or three and one-half years (cf. Rev. 12:6; 13:5; see note on 11:2). sackcloth. Coarse, rough cloth made from goat or camel hair. Wearing garments made from it expressed penitence, humility, and mourning (cf. Gen. 37:34; 2 Sam. 3:31; 2 Kings 6:30; 19:1; Est. 4:1; Isa. 22:12; Jer. 6:26; Matt. 11:21). The witnesses are mourning because of the wretched wickedness of the world, God's judgment on it, and the desecration of the temple and the holy city by the Antichrist.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:4 This imagery is drawn from Zech. 3–4 (see notes there). Zechariah's vision had both a near fulfillment (the rebuilding of the temple by Joshua and Zerubbabel) and a far future fulfillment (the two witnesses, whose ministry points toward Israel's final restoration in the Millennium). two olive trees and the two lampstands. Olive oil was commonly used in lamps; together the olive trees and lampstands symbolize the light of spiritual revival. The two witnesses' preaching will spark a revival, just as Joshua's and Zerubbabel's did in Israel after the Babylonian captivity.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:5–6 While it is impossible to be dogmatic about the identity of these two witnesses, several observations suggest they might be Moses and Elijah: 1) like Moses, they strike the earth with plagues, and like Elijah, they have the power to keep it from raining; 2) Jewish tradition expected both Moses (cf. Deut. 18:15–18) and Elijah (cf. Mal. 4:5–6) to return in the future (cf. John 1:21); 3) both Moses and Elijah were present at the transfiguration, the preview of Christ's second coming; 4) both Moses and Elijah used supernatural means to provoke repentance; 5) Elijah was taken up alive into heaven, and God buried Moses' body where it would never be found; and 6) the length of the drought the two witnesses bring (three and one-half years; cf. Rev. 11:3) is the same as that brought by Elijah (James 5:17).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:5 fire pours . . . and consumes. Probably this refers to literal fire. These two will be invincible during their ministry, protected by supernatural power. The false prophet will counterfeit this sign (13:3).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:6 power to shut the sky. Miracles have often authenticated God's messengers. Here, bringing a three and one-half-year drought (as did Elijah before them) will add immeasurable torment to those experiencing the worldwide disasters of the tribulation—and exacerbate their hatred of the two witnesses. waters to turn them into blood. The earth's water, already devastated by the effects of the second and third trumpets, will become undrinkable, adding immensely to the suffering caused by the drought.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:7 the beast. The first of 36 references to this person in Revelation, who is none other than the Antichrist (see ch. 13). That he will ascend out of the bottomless pit indicates that his power is satanic. kill them. Their ministry completed, God will withdraw the two witnesses' supernatural protection. The beast will then be able to accomplish what many had died trying to do.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:8 bodies will lie in the street. Refusing to bury one's enemies was a way to dishonor and show contempt for them (cf. Acts 14:19). The OT expressly forbids this practice (Deut. 21:22–23). the great city. Identifying Jerusalem as a city like Sodom and Egypt stresses the city's wickedness. Its Jewish population will apparently be the focus of the witnesses' ministry, leading to the conversions of Rev. 11:13.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:9 three and a half days. The entire world will watch (undoubtedly on the latest form of visual media) and glorify the Antichrist as the bodies of the dead prophets who have been killed begin to decay.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:10 rejoice . . . make merry . . . exchange presents. Wild with joy over the death of their tormentors, those who dwell on the earth (a phrase used 11 times in Revelation to speak of unbelievers) will celebrate the two witnesses' deaths as a holiday.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:11 breath of life from God entered them. The festivities, however, are short-lived as God vindicates his faithful witnesses by resurrecting them.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:12 went up to heaven in a cloud. Some may wonder why God will not allow them to preach, assuming their message would have more force following their resurrection. But that ignores Christ's clear statement to the contrary (Luke 16:31). enemies watched them. Those who hated and dishonored the two witnesses will watch their vindication.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:13 earthquake. God punctuates the ascension of his prophets with a shattering earthquake. The destruction and loss of life may be primarily among the leaders of the Antichrist's forces. the rest. This refers to the Jews still living, who will not yet have come to faith in Christ. gave glory to the God of heaven. A genuine experience of the salvation of Jews (cf. Luke 17:18–19), in contrast to those who blaspheme and refuse to glorify God (Rev. 16:9). This makes a key fulfillment of Zechariah's prophecy (Zech.12:10; 13:1) and Paul's (Rom. 11:25–27).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:14 second woe. The sixth trumpet (see note on 9:12). The interlude between the sixth and seventh trumpets ends (see note on 10:1). Israel's repentance will shortly usher in the millennial kingdom (Acts 3:19–21; Rom. 11:25–26). But first will come the final, climactic judgments.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:15 seventh angel blew. The seventh trumpet includes the seven bowl, final judgments depicted in ch. 16 and all the events leading up to the establishing of the millennial kingdom (ch. 20) and the coronation of Jesus as King (ch. 19). kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ. Despite its many political and cultural divisions, the Bible views the world spiritually as one kingdom, with one ruler—Satan (John 12:31; 14:30; 16:11; 2 Cor. 4:4). Following Satan's lead, the human rulers of this world are generally hostile to Christ (Ps. 2:2; Acts 4:26). The long rebellion of the world kingdom will end with the victorious return of the Lord Jesus Christ to defeat his enemies and establish his messianic kingdom (Isa. 2:2–3; Dan. 2:44; 7:13–14, 18, 22, 27; Luke 1:31–33). This kingdom also belongs to God the Father (see notes on 1 Cor. 15:24).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:16 twenty-four elders. See note on 4:4.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:17 Almighty, who is and who was. The coming of the kingdom is no longer future, it will be immediate.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:18 nations raged. No longer terrified (cf. 6:15–17), they will be filled with defiant rage. Their hostility will shortly manifest itself in a foolish attempt to fight against Christ—a doomed, futile effort that is the apex of human rebellion against God (16:14; 19:17–21). your wrath. Almighty God answers the feeble, impotent fury of the nations (cf. Ps. 2:1–9). The 24 elders speak of God’s future wrath (Rev. 20:11–15) as if it were already present, signifying its certainty. That God will one day pour out his wrath on rebellious men is a major theme in Scripture (cf. Isa. 24:17–23; 26:20–21; 30:27–33; Ezek. 38:16ff.; 2 Thess. 1:5–10). dead . . . judged. The final outpouring of God’s wrath includes judging the dead (cf. Matt. 25:31–46; John 5:25–29). The judgment has two parts: 1) God rewards OT saints (Dan. 12:1–3; cf. Rev. 22:12; 1 Cor. 3:8; 4:5), the raptured church (1 Cor. 15:51–52; 1 Thess. 4:13–18), and tribulation saints (Rev. 20:4); and 2) God condemns unbelievers to the lake of fire forever (20:15).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 11:19 God’s temple in heaven. See 3:12; 7:15; 14:15, 17; 15:5–8; 16:1, 17. The heavenly Most Holy Place (see notes on Ex. 26:31–36) where God dwells in transcendent glory, already is identified as his throne (Rev. 4–5). Cf. Heb. 9:24. John had seen the throne (Rev. 4:5), the altar (6:9; 8:3–5), and here the Most Holy Place. ark of his covenant. This piece of furniture in the OT tabernacle and temple (see notes on Ex. 25:11–18) symbolized God’s presence, atonement, and covenant with his people. That earthly ark was only a picture of this heavenly one (see Heb. 9:23; 10:20). It was there God provided mercy and atonement for sin. As the earthly Most Holy Place was open when the price of sin was paid (Matt. 27:51; Heb. 10:19–20), so the Most Holy Place in heaven is opened to speak of God’s saving New Covenant and redeeming purpose in the midst of judgment. lightning . . . thunder . . . earthquake . . . hail. What was anticipated in Rev. 4:5 and 8:5 will become a terrifying reality. These events occur as part of the seventh bowl (16:17–21) and are the climax of the seventh trumpet. Since heaven is the source of vengeance, judgment also comes out of God’s Most Holy Place (14:15, 17; 15:5–8; 16:1, 7, 17). See note on 6:1.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:1 sign. A symbol pointing to something else. This is the first of seven signs in the last half of Revelation. Cf. v. 3; 13:13–14; 15:1; 16:14; 19:20. a woman. Not an actual woman, but a symbolic representation of Israel, pictured in the OT as the wife of God (Isa. 54:5–6; Jer. 3:6–8; 31:32; Ezek. 16:32; Hos. 2:16). Three other symbolic women appear in Revelation: 1) Jezebel, who represents paganism (Rev. 2:20); 2) the scarlet woman (17:3–6), symbolizing the apostate church; and 3) the wife of the Lamb (19:7), symbolizing the true church. That this woman does not represent the church is clear from the context. clothed with the sun . . . moon under her feet . . . twelve stars. Cf. Gen. 37:9–11. Being clothed with the sun speaks of the glory, dignity, and exalted status of Israel, the people of promise who will be saved and given a kingdom. The picture of the moon under her feet possibly describes God's covenant relationship with Israel, since new moons were associated with worship (1 Chron. 23:31; 2 Chron. 2:4; 8:13; Ezra 3:5; Ps. 81:3). The 12 stars represent the 12 tribes of Israel.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:2 crying out in birth pains. Israel, often pictured as a mother giving birth (cf. Isa. 26:17–18; 54:1; 66:7–12; Hos. 13:13; Mic. 4:10; 5:2–3; Matt. 24:8), had agonized and suffered for centuries, longing for the Messiah to come and destroy Satan, sin, and death, and usher in the kingdom.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:3 great red dragon. The woman's mortal enemy is Satan, who appears as a dragon 13 times in this book (cf. v. 9; 20:2). Red speaks of bloodshed (cf. John 8:44). seven heads . . . ten horns . . . seven diadems. Figurative language depicting Satan's domination of seven past worldly kingdoms and 10 future kingdoms (cf. Dan. 7:7, 20, 24). See notes on Rev. 13:1; 17:9–10. Satan has and will rule the world until the seventh trumpet blows (11:15). He has inflicted relentless pain on Israel (Dan. 8:24), desiring to kill the woman before she could bring forth the child that would destroy him (see notes on Est. 3:6–15).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:4 a third of the stars of heaven. Satan's original rebellion (cf. Isa. 14:12ff.; Ezek. 28:11ff.) resulted in one-third of the angelic host joining his insurrection and becoming demons. devour it. Unable to prevent the virgin birth of Christ, Satan tried to kill the child in a general massacre of male children commanded by Herod (Matt. 2:13–18; cf. Luke 4:28–29).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:5 a male child. Jesus Christ in his incarnation was of Jewish descent (Matt. 1:1; 2 Tim. 2:8). Despite Satan's efforts to destroy Israel and the messianic line, Jesus' birth took place as predicted by the prophets (cf. Isa. 7:14; 9:6; Mic. 5:2). rod of iron. Describes Jesus' coronation as King over the nations of the world (cf. Rev. 11:15; 19:15; Ps. 2:6–9). her child was caught up to God. Christ's ascension is in view (Acts 1:9; 2:33; Heb. 1:1–3; 12:2).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:6 wilderness. God will protect Israel from Satan by hiding her in the wilderness, perhaps in the region of Moab, Ammon, and Edom, east of Palestine. Interestingly, those countries will be specifically spared from the Antichrist's attack against the Holy Land (cf. Dan. 11:41). 1,260 days. At the mid-point of the tribulation, the Antichrist breaks his covenant with Israel, puts a stop to temple worship, sets up the abomination of desolation (Dan. 9:27; Matt. 24:15), and devastates Jerusalem (Rev. 11:2). At that time, many Jews flee for their lives (Matt. 24:16ff.). God will preserve them during the last 1,260 days (42 months; three and one-half years) constituting the Great Tribulation. See notes on Rev. 3:10; 6:1, 9.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:7 war arose in heaven. The tumultuous events on earth during the tribulation find their counterpart in heaven. A state of war has existed since the fall of Satan (cf. v. 4; cf. Dan. 10:13; Jude 9). Something will intensify that warfare—possibly the raptured saints passing through the realm of the prince of the power of the air (cf. Eph. 2:2).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:9 dragon was thrown down . . . to the earth. Satan and his demons were cast out of heaven at the time of their original rebellion, but still have access to it (cf. Job 1:6; 2:1). That access will then be denied, and they will be forever barred from heaven. devil and Satan. Cf. Rev. 20:2. “Devil” comes from a Greek verb meaning “to slander” or “to falsely accuse.” He is a malignant liar (John 8:44; 1 John 3:8). His accusations against believers (Rev. 12:10) are unsuccessful because of Christ our Advocate (1 John 2:1). Satan, meaning “adversary,” or “enemy,” appears especially in Job and the Gospels. deceiver of the whole world. As he has throughout human history, Satan will deceive people during the tribulation (cf. Rev. 13:14; 20:3; John 8:44). After his temporary release from the bottomless pit at the end of the Millennium, he will briefly resume his deceitful ways (Rev. 20:8, 10).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:10 accuser. See note on v. 9. Satan will no longer accuse believers before the throne of God because he will no longer have access to heaven.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:11 blood of the Lamb. No accusation can stand against those whose sins have been forgiven because of Christ's sacrificial death (see Rom. 8:33–39).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:12 his time is short. Knowing that his time is limited, Satan will intensify his efforts against God and mankind, and specifically target Israel (v. 13, 17).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:14 wings of the great eagle. Not actual birds' wings, but a graphic depiction of God's providential protection of Israel (cf. Ex. 19:4). Wings often speak of protection (cf. Deut. 32:9–12; Ps. 91:4; Isa. 40:31). Eagles—probably vulture-like griffins—were the largest birds known in Palestine. a time, and times, and half a time. Three and one-half years; the second half of the tribulation (cf. Rev. 12:6; 11:2–3; 13:5).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:16 earth opened its mouth. A great army will come against Israel like a flood (v. 15; cf. Jer. 46:8; 47:2), only to be swallowed up, perhaps in conjunction with one of the numerous earthquakes that occur during that period (Rev. 6:12; 8:5; 11:13, 19; 16:18; Matt. 24:7).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 12:17 rest of her offspring. Satan will turn his frustrated rage against every follower of the Lamb he can find—Jew or Gentile. commandments of God . . . testimony of Jesus. The revealed truth from God and Christ contained in Scripture. Obedience to God's word always marks a genuine believer. Cf. John 8:32.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:1 a beast rising. Satan takes a position in the midst of the nations of his world, represented by the sand of the sea. a beast. Lit., “a monster” (cf. 11:7), which describes a vicious, killing animal. In this context, the term represents both a person (Antichrist) and his system (the world). The final satanic world empire will be inseparable from the demon-possessed man who leads it. For a discussion of Antichrist, see notes on 2 Thess. 2:3–11. He is also described in Dan. 7:8, 21–26; 8:23–25; 9:24–27; 11:36–45. rising out of the sea. The sea represents the abyss or pit, the haunt of demons (cf. Rev. 11:7; 17:8; 20:1; Luke 8:31). The picture is of Satan summoning a powerful demon from the abyss, who then activates and controls the beast (Antichrist) and his empire. ten horns and seven heads. This description is like that of Satan in Rev. 12:3. The heads may represent successive world empires—Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, Rome, and the final kingdom of Antichrist (see notes on 17:9–10). The final one is made up of all the kingdoms represented by the horns (see notes for 17:12). Ten is a number that symbolizes the totality of human military and political power assisting the beast (Antichrist) as he controls the world. Horns always represent power, as in the animal kingdom—both offensive power (attack) and defensive power (protection). Daniel shows that the human Antichrist will rise up from these 10 kings (Dan. 7:16–24). John picks up the numerical imagery of Dan. 2:41–42, which refers to the 10 toes on the statue's clay and iron feet. The apostle sees the beast as the final world government—the anti-Christ, anti-God coalition—headed by a revived Roman Empire, having the strengths of various world powers, yet mixed with weakness and ultimately crushed (cf. Dan. 2:32–45; 7:7–8, 19–25; see note on Rev. 12:3). The crowns show the regal dominion of this confederate kingdom. blasphemous names. Throughout history, every time a monarch has identified himself as a god, he has blasphemed the true God. Each ruler who contributes to the beast’s final coalition has an identity, wears a crown, exerts dominion and power, and therefore blasphemes God.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:2 leopard. A metaphor for ancient Greece, alluding to the Greeks’ swiftness and agility as their military moved forward in conquest, particularly under Alexander the Great (cf. Dan. 7:6). The leopard and subsequent animal symbols were all native wildlife in Palestine, familiar to John’s readers. bear’s. A metaphor for the ancient Medo-Persian Empire, depicting that kingdom’s ferocious strength, combined with its great stability (cf. Dan. 7:5). lion’s. A metaphor for the ancient Babylonian Empire, referring to the Babylonians’ fierce, all-consuming power as they extended their domain (cf. Dan. 7:4). the dragon gave his power. See notes on Rev. 13:1; 12:9.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:3 its mortal wound was healed. This statement could refer to one of the kingdoms that was destroyed and revived (i.e., the Roman Empire). But more likely it refers to a fake death and resurrection enacted by the Antichrist, as part of his lying deception. Cf. vv. 12, 14; 17:8, 11; 2 Thess. 2:9. earth marveled. People in the world will be astounded and fascinated when Antichrist appears to rise from the dead. His charisma, brilliance, and attractive but deluding powers will cause the world to follow him unquestioningly (Rev. 13:14; 2 Thess. 2:8–12).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:5 was given. The sovereign God will establish the limits within which Antichrist will be allowed to speak and operate. God will allow him to utter his blasphemies, to bring the rage of Satan to its culmination on earth for three and one-half years (v. 5; 11:2–3; 12:6, 13, 14). forty-two months. The final three and one-half years—1,260 days—of the “time of distress for Jacob” (Jer. 30:7) and Daniel’s seventieth week (Dan. 9:24–27), known as the Great Tribulation (see notes on Rev. 11:2; 12:6; cf. Dan. 7:25). This last half is launched by the abomination of desolation (see note on Matt. 24:15).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:6 his name. This identifies God and summarizes all his attributes (cf. Ex. 3:13–14). his dwelling. This is symbolic of heaven (cf. Heb. 9:23–24). those who dwell in heaven. The angels and glorified saints who are before the throne of God and serve him day and night.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:7 make war on the saints. The Antichrist will be allowed to massacre those who are God’s children (cf. 6:9–11; 11:7; 12:17; 17:6; Dan. 7:23–25; 8:25; 9:27; 11:38; 12:10; Matt. 24:16–22). See note on Rev. 17:6.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:8 before the foundation of the world. According to God’s eternal, electing purpose before creation, the death of Christ seals the redemption of the elect forever (cf. Acts 2:23; 4:27–28). Antichrist can never take away the salvation of the elect. The eternal registry of the elect will never be altered, nor will the saved in the Antichrist’s day worship him. book of life. See note on Rev. 3:5. Lamb . . . slain. The Lord Jesus who died to purchase the salvation of those whom God had chosen was fulfilling an eternal plan.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:9 Cf. 2:7, 11, 17, 29; 3:6, 13, 22. This phrase omits “what the Spirit says to the churches,” as in the seven letters to the churches, perhaps because they have been raptured.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:10 A call for believers to accept persecution from Antichrist with perseverance and endurance. God has chosen some believers to be imprisoned and executed, which they must not resist (cf. Matt. 26:51–54; 2 Cor. 10:4), but accept with patience such suffering as God ordains for them (cf. 1 Pet. 2:19–24).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:11 another beast. This is the final false prophet (called such in 16:13; 19:20; 20:10) who promotes Antichrist’s power and convinces the world to worship him as God. This companion beast will be the chief, most persuasive proponent of satanic religion (cf. 16:13; 19:20; 20:10). Antichrist will be primarily a political and military leader, but the false prophet will be a religious leader. Politics and religion will unite in a worldwide religion of worshiping the Antichrist (see 17:1–9, 15–17). out of the earth. Likely another reference to the abyss that lies below the earth. The false prophet will be sent forth and controlled by a powerful demon from below. The earth imagery, in contrast to that of the foreboding, mysterious sea in 13:1, may imply that the false prophet is subtler and more winsome than Antichrist. two horns like a lamb. This describes the relative weakness of the false prophet compared to Antichrist, who has 10 horns. A lamb has only two small bumps on its head, very inferior to the 10-horned beast. like a lamb. The lamb imagery may also imply that the false prophet will be also a false Christ masquerading as the true Lamb. Unlike Antichrist, the false prophet will come not as a killing, destroying animal, but as one who appears gentle and deceptively attractive. spoke like a dragon. The false prophet will be Satan's mouthpiece and thus his message will be like the dragon, Satan—the source of all false religion (cf. 2 Cor. 11:14).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:12 exercises all the authority of the first beast. The false prophet exercises the same kind of satanic power as Antichrist because he is empowered by the same source. He, too, will have worldwide influence and reputation as a miracle worker and speaker. makes the earth . . . worship. The phrase “it makes” or “it causes” is used several times of him. He wields influence to establish a false world religion headed by Antichrist and to entice people to accept that system. whose mortal wound was healed. See notes on v. 3; 17:8. This likely refers to the carefully crafted deception of a false resurrection, a false murder to inspire allegiance for the world.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:13 great signs. The same phrase is used of Jesus' miracles (John 2:11, 23; 6:2), which indicates the false prophet performs signs that counterfeit Christ's. Satan, who has done supernatural works in the past (e.g., Ex. 7:11; 2 Tim. 3:8), must use his strategy of false miracles to convince the world that Antichrist is more powerful than God's true witnesses (Rev. 11), including Jesus Christ. fire come down from heaven. The context indicates that the false prophet does counterfeit pyrotechnic signs continually to convince men of his power, and also in imitation of the two witnesses (11:5).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:14 make an image. This refers to replication of Antichrist that is related to the throne he will erect during the abomination of desolation, halfway into the tribulation period. This will happen in the Jerusalem temple when Antichrist abolishes the former false world religion and seeks to have people worship him alone as God (cf. Dan. 9:27; 11:31; 12:11; Matt. 24:15; 2 Thess. 2:4). The false prophet and Antichrist again will deceive the world with a clever imitation of Christ, who will later return and reign from the true throne in Jerusalem.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:15 speak. The false prophet will give the image of Antichrist the appearance of life, and the image will seem to utter words—contrary to what is normally true of idols (cf. Ps. 135:15–16; Hab. 2:19). cause . . . to be slain. His gentleness is a lie, since he is a killer (Rev. 7:9–17). Some Gentiles will be spared to populate the kingdom (Matt. 25:31–40) and Jews will be protected (Rev. 12:17).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:16 marked. In the Roman Empire, this was a normal identifying symbol, or brand, that slaves and soldiers bore on their bodies. Some of the ancient mystical cults delighted in such tattoos, which identified members with a form of worship. Antichrist will have a similar requirement, one that will need to be visible on the hand or forehead.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:17 buy or sell. Antichrist's mark will allow people to engage in daily commerce, including the purchase of food and other necessities. Without the identifying mark, individuals will be cut off from the necessities of life. number of its name. The beast (Antichrist) will have a name inherent in a numbering system. It is not clear from the text exactly what this name and number system will be or what its significance will be.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 13:18 his number is 666. This is the essential number of a man. The number six falls one short of God's perfect number, seven, and thus represents human imperfection. Antichrist, the most powerful human the world will ever know, will still be a man, i.e., a six. The ultimate in human and demonic power is a six, not perfect, as God is. The threefold repetition of the number is intended to reiterate and underscore man's identity. When Antichrist is finally revealed, there will be some way to identify him with this basic number of a man, or his name may have the numerical equivalent of 666. (In many languages, including Hebrew, Greek, and Latin, letters have numerical equivalents.) Because this text reveals very little about the meaning of 666, it is unwise to speculate beyond what is said.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:1 the Lamb. See note on 5:6. Mount Zion. The city of Jerusalem, where Messiah will return and plant his feet (cf. Ps. 2; 48:1–2; Isa. 24:23). 144,000. See note on Rev. 7:4. name. The counterpart to the mark of the beast. It is the stamp that will identify the 144,000 as belonging to God (see note on 13:6).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:2 harps. See note on 5:8.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:3 new song. The song of redemption, which is being sung by all the redeemed saints in one gigantic choir. They are rejoicing over the accomplishment of God's entire redemptive work before Christ's return (cf. Ps. 33:1–3; 40:3; 96:1; 144:9–10; 149; Luke 15:10; see note on Rev. 5:9). the four living creatures and before the elders. See notes on 4:4, 6.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:4 not defiled themselves with women. An illustration of God’s ability to keep believers remarkably pure in the midst of great difficulty. This phrase indicates that the 144,000 Jewish evangelists will have not only resisted the perverse system of Antichrist, but they will have also resisted all temptations to illicit sex. Cf. 2 Cor. 11:2. follow the Lamb. This indicates partisanship for Jesus Christ. The victorious 144,000 are unwaveringly loyal to him, whatever the cost (cf. Matt. 16:24; Mark 10:21; Luke 9:23; John 10:27; 12:26; 14:15). firstfruits. Like the OT firstfruits offerings, these men will be set apart for special service to God (cf. Deut. 26:1–11). Some see firstfruits as the first large group of redeemed Israel (see note on Rev. 11:13), saved much earlier, and representative of more converts to follow (cf. Rom. 16:5; 1 Cor. 16:15), the firstfruits of a redeemed Israel (Rom. 11:1–5, 11–15, 25–27).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:5 no lie. The 144,000 speak God’s truth accurately and precisely, with no exaggeration or understatement (cf. Zeph. 3:13). blameless. Not sinless, but sanctified (see Eph. 1:4; 5:27; Col. 1:22).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:6 directly overhead. From a Greek term denoting the point in the noonday sky where the sun reaches its zenith. This is the highest and brightest point, where all can see and hear. an eternal gospel. The angel is preaching the good news concerning eternal life and entrance into the kingdom of God (cf. Matt. 24:14; 1 Cor. 15:1–10). He is urging the people of the world to change their allegiance from the beast to the Lamb. It is also called in the NT the gospel of God, the gospel of grace, the gospel of Christ, the gospel of peace, the glorious gospel, and the gospel of the kingdom. It is good news that God saves by the forgiveness of sin and opens his kingdom to all who will repent and believe. The whole world will hear this preaching by the angel as God graciously calls all to salvation.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:7 Fear God. Not Satan, nor Antichrist. This is the theme of Scripture, calling people to give honor, glory, worship, and reverence to God (cf. Prov. 23:17; 1 Pet. 2:17). See notes on Rom. 1:18–21. hour of his judgment has come. The last moment arrives to repent and believe before God’s wrath is poured out. This is the book’s first use of the word “judgment,” a term that has the same meaning as wrath (see Rev. 6:17; 12:12). him who made heaven and earth. Creation is the great proof of God, which preachers will appeal to as the ground for all people to believe in him and worship him (cf. 4:11; 10:6; John 1:9; Acts 14:15–17; 17:23–28).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:8 fallen is Babylon. Lack of response to the first angel's message causes a second angel to pronounce this judgment. Babylon refers to the entire worldwide political, economic, and religious kingdom of Antichrist. (Cf. 16:17–19 for details of this fall.) The original city of Babylon was the birthplace of idolatry where the residents built the Tower of Babel, a monument to rebelliousness and false religion. Such idolatry was subsequently spread when God confounded man's language and scattered them around the world (cf. Gen. 11:1–9). wine of the passion of her sexual immorality. This pictures Babylon causing the world to become intoxicated with her pleasures and enter an orgy of rebellion, hatred, and idolatry toward God. Fornication is spiritual prostitution to Antichrist's false system, which will fall for such iniquity.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:9 worships the beast. See notes on 13:14–15; cf. 13:8.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:10 cup of his anger. Anyone loyal to the Antichrist and his kingdom will suffer the outpouring of God's collected wrath, done with the full force of his divine anger and unmitigated vengeance (cf. Ps. 75:8; Isa. 51:17; Jer. 25:15–16). Divine wrath is not an impulsive outburst of anger aimed capriciously at people God does not like. It is the settled, steady, merciless, graceless, and compassionless response of a righteous God against sin. fire and sulfur. These are two elements that are often associated in Scripture with the torment of divine punishment (Gen. 19:24–25; Isa. 34:8–10). Here the reference is to hell, the lake of fire (cf. Rev. 19:20; 20:10; 21:8). Brimstone is a fiery sulfur (see note on 9:17).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:11 torment goes up forever and ever. A reference to the eternality of hell (cf. Matt. 3:12; 13:41–42; 25:41; Mark 9:48). Torment is the ceaseless infliction of unbearable pain (cf. Luke 16:23–24), here prescribed for all who are loyal to Satan's leader.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:12 This is excellent scriptural support for the doctrine of perseverance, which assures all true believers in Christ that they will never lose their faith. The regenerate will continually endure, right to the end, in obedience to the truth, no matter what may come against them (see notes on Rom. 8:31–39; Phil. 1:6; cf. Jer. 32:40; Matt. 24:13; John 6:35–40; 10:27–30; 1 John 5:4, 11–13, 20).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:13 Blessed. See note on 1:3.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:14 son of man. See note on 1:13. The imagery of the Lord on a cloud is from Dan. 7:13–14 and emphasizes magnificent majesty (cf. Rev. 1:7; Matt. 24:30; 26:64; Acts 1:9–11). golden crown. The victor's crown, a laurel wreath, worn by those who celebrated victory in war or athletic competition. Christ now wears this particular crown, in this case made of gold, as a triumphant conqueror coming out of heaven to prevail over his enemies. sickle. A harvesting tool with a razor-sharp, curved steel or iron blade and a wooden handle, commonly used by ancient farmers to cut grain. It represents swift and devastating judgment.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:15 harvest of the earth. The grain—in this case the ungodly people of the world—is ready to be gathered up and judged.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:17 temple. See note on 11:19. This refers to the heavenly dwelling place of God, not the tribulation temple in Jerusalem (cf. 11:1).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:18 another angel . . . who has authority over the fire. This angel is associated with fire on the altar, which represents the prayers of the saints (6:9–11; 8:3–5). Fire refers to the constantly burning fire on the brass altar of the Jerusalem temple. Twice daily the priest would burn incense with that fire and offer the burning incense in the Holy Place as a symbol of the people's prayers (see notes on 5:8; 6:9; 8:3). This angel is coming from the heavenly altar to ensure that all the prayers of all the saints for judgment and the coming of the kingdom are answered. He calls for judgment to start. sickle. See note on 14:14.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:19 winepress. This vivid imagery signifies a horrendous slaughter or bloodbath (cf. Isa. 63:2–3; Lam. 1:15; Joel 3:13). Here it refers to the slaughter of all the enemies of God who are still alive, facing the destruction at Armageddon, the final battle against God's enemies, staged on the Plain of Esdraelon. The bloody imagery comes from the fresh juice of stomped grapes splattering and running down a trough from the upper vat to the lower vat of a stone winepress.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 14:20 outside the city. God will determine that this bloodbath will occur outside Jerusalem, as if God wants to protect the city from the carnage all around. Zechariah 14:1–5 makes clear that Jerusalem will be attacked, yet will not be destroyed in the end, but spared for the glory of the kingdom, and the believing remnant will be saved as the Lord defends them and the city against the nations. They will escape through a newly created valley as the Lord finishes judgment and sets up his kingdom. as high as a horse’s bridle. The severity of the slaughter is indicated in the imagery of the blood of those killed in the battle of Armageddon splattering as high (about 4 feet) as the bridles of the horses involved. Equally likely, if the battle occurs near the central valley of Israel, the tremendous volume and flow of blood could easily form troughs 4 feet deep in some places. This event clearly is described in Rev. 19:11–21. Ezekiel 39:8–16 may be describing the clean-up. 1,600 stadia. The approximate distance from Armageddon in the north of Palestine to Edom in the south. The great battle will rage across that entire area and even slightly beyond.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 15:1–8 Chapter 15 introduces the seven bowls of wrath, God’s final judgments at the end of the seven-year tribulation period. The bowl judgments come in a rapid-fire, staccato fashion, each one stronger in fury and intensity. The bowls are the last plagues that issue from the blast of the seventh trumpet, and will conclude the seventh seal (see note on 6:1).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 15:1 wrath of God. See notes on 11:18; 14:10; 16:19; 19:15; cf. Rom. 1:18–21.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 15:2 sea of glass. God’s heavenly throne sits on a transparent crystal platform or pavement (see note on 4:6). conquered the beast. All the saints from every nation, including Israel, ultimately triumph over Satan’s Antichrist and his system because of their faith in Jesus Christ. number of its name. See note on 13:17. harps. See note on 5:8.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 15:3 song of Moses. Sung by the people of Israel immediately after their passage through the Red Sea and their deliverance from the Egyptian armies (Ex. 15:1–21; cf. Deut. 32:1–43), this was a song of victory and deliverance that the redeemed who overcome Antichrist and his system will readily identify with. song of the Lamb. See Rev. 5:8–14. These two songs celebrate two great redemptive events: 1) deliverance of Israel by God from Egypt through Moses; and 2) deliverance of sinners by God from sin through Christ. Great and amazing are your deeds. This statement from the song of the Lamb extols God's powerful works in creation as he providentially upholds the universe (cf. Ps. 139:14). Almighty! God is omnipotent (cf. Amos 4:13). King of the nations! God is sovereign over the redeemed of every nation (cf. Jer. 10:7).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 15:4 God's holy and perfect character inevitably demands that he judge (cf. Ps. 19:9; Nah. 1:3, 6). After God's righteous judgment is complete, he will set up Christ's millennial kingdom on earth and the elect from every nation will come and worship him (cf. Ps. 66:4; Isa. 66:23; Phil. 2:9–11).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 15:5 the sanctuary of the tent of witness. This refers to the location of the ark of the covenant in the Most Holy Place where God dwells (see note on 11:19; cf. Num. 10:11).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 15:6 seven plagues. The final, most severe judgments from God, described in ch. 16 (see note on 15:1). linen . . . golden sashes. The fabric represents holiness and purity (19:14). These are belts or girdles, running from the shoulder to the waist, that each of the seven angels wears over his garments. The sashes demonstrate riches, royalty, and untarnished glory.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 15:7 four living creatures. See notes on 4:6–8. seven golden bowls. These are shallow saucers, familiar items often associated with various functions of the temple worship (1 Kings 7:50; 2 Kings 12:13; 25:15), such as wine (Amos 6:6) and blood sacrifice (Ex. 27:3). Their flat shallowness pictures how the divine judgments will be emptied instantly rather than slowly poured, drowning those who refused to drink the cup of salvation. wrath of God. See notes on Rev. 11:18; 14:10.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 15:8 filled with smoke. Cf. Ex. 19:16–18; 40:34–35; 1 Kings 8:10–11; Isa. 6:4.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:2 first . . . bowl . . . harmful and painful sores came. The Septuagint (lxx) uses the same Greek word to describe the boils that plagued the Egyptians (Ex. 9:9–11) and afflicted Job (Job 2:7). In the NT, it describes the open sores that covered the beggar Lazarus (Luke 16:21). All over the world, people will be afflicted with incurable, open, oozing sores. mark of the beast. Only the worshipers of Antichrist will be afflicted (see note on Rev. 13:16; cf. 14:9–11).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:3 second . . . bowl . . . every living thing died that was in the sea. This is reminiscent of the second trumpet (8:8–9), and of the first plague against Egypt (Ex. 7:20–25). This plague, however, will be far more widespread. The water in the world’s oceans will become thick, dark, and coagulated, like the blood of a corpse. The death and decay of billions of sea creatures will only add to the misery of this judgment.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:4 third . . . bowl . . . rivers and the springs of water. Fresh water, already in short supply because of the prolonged drought (11:6), will now suffer the fate of the oceans (cf. Ex. 7:19ff.). In addition to suffering from thirst, the worshipers of Antichrist will have no clean water with which to wash their sores.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:5 who is and who was. This phrase expresses God’s eternity (cf. 1:4, 8; 4:8; 11:17). Revelation 16:6 says that the eternal God will judge justly because they have killed the believers and preachers of the gospel (6:9–11; 7:9–17; 11:18; 17:6; 18:20). This slaughter will have no parallel in history (Matt. 24:21), and neither will the vengeance of God (cf. Rom. 12:19–21).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:6 given them blood to drink. The thick, blood-like substance that the fresh waters have become is all that is available to drink (cf. v. 4). they deserve. The angel exonerates God from any charge that his judgments are too harsh. The unspeakably wicked generation then alive will shed more blood than any before it, including that of saints (6:9; 17:6) and prophets (11:7–10). God’s judgment is fair and proper (cf. Ex. 21:25–27; Lev. 24:19–20; Heb. 10:26–31).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:7 altar. The personified altar echoes the words of the angel, reinforcing the truth that God is just in all judgment (19:1–2; cf. Gen. 18:25; Ps. 51:4; Rom. 3:4).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:8 fourth . . . bowl . . . scorch people with fire. The sun that normally provides light, warmth, and energy will become a deadly killer. With no fresh water to drink, earth’s inhabitants will face extreme heat. The scorching heat will melt the polar ice caps, which some estimate would raise the level of the world’s oceans by 200 feet, inundating many of the world’s major cities and producing further catastrophic loss of life (cf. Amos 9:5–6). The resulting disruption of ocean transportation will make it difficult to distribute the dwindling resources of food and water.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:9 They did not repent. Incredibly, sinners will still refuse to repent (cf. vv. 11, 21), and instead blaspheme God—the One they know has caused their afflictions.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:10 fifth . . . bowl . . . throne of the beast. This refers to either Antichrist’s actual throne, or his capital city, but extends to all his dominion. Regardless of where the darkness begins, it eventually covers Antichrist’s entire kingdom. darkness. Worldwide darkness is elsewhere associated with the judgment of God (cf. Isa. 60:2; Joel 2:2; Mark 13:24–25). gnawed their tongues. A futile attempt to alleviate the pain from their sores, the drought, and the fierce heat.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:11 cursed the God of heaven. A sign of their continued loyalty to Antichrist and their anger at God for the cumulative miseries brought about by the first five bowls. “God of heaven,” a frequent OT title for God, appears in the NT only here and in 11:13. their . . . sores. The lingering effects of the first bowl are the chief cause of their blasphemy.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:12 sixth . . . bowl . . . Euphrates. Called “the great river” five times in Scripture (cf. 9:14; Gen. 15:18; Deut. 1:7; Josh. 1:4), it flows some 1,800 miles from its source on the slopes of Mount Ararat to the Persian Gulf (see note on Rev. 9:14). It forms the eastern boundary of the land God promised to Israel (Gen. 15:18; Deut. 1:7; 11:24; Josh. 1:4). With its flow already reduced by the prolonged drought and intensified heat, God supernaturally will dry it up to make way for the eastern confederacy to reach Palestine (Isa. 11:15). the kings from the east. God providentially draws these kings and their armies in order to destroy them in the battle of Armageddon (Rev. 16:14). Their reason for coming may be to rebel against Antichrist, whose failure to alleviate the world’s suffering will no doubt erode his popularity. Or, this may be a final act of rabid anti-Semitism intent on destroying Israel, perhaps in retaliation for the plagues sent by her God. Since the sun may have melted the ice caps on Ararat, flooding the valley of the Euphrates as the river overflows its banks and bridges, the land will be swamped. God will have to dry it up miraculously for the eastern army to get to Armageddon.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:13 the dragon . . . the beast . . . the false prophet. The “unholy trinity,” composed of Satan (the dragon; see note on 12:3), the Antichrist (the beast; see note on 11:7), and Antichrist's associate (the false prophet; see note on 13:11), spew out this plague. three unclean spirits. A common NT designation for demons (cf. Matt. 12:43; Mark 1:23; Luke 8:29). These are especially vile, powerful, and deceitful (Rev. 16:14). like frogs. This figure further emphasizes their vileness. Frogs were unclean animals according to OT dietary laws (Lev. 11:10–11, 41). Persian mythology viewed them as plague-inducing creatures. The demons are thus described as slimy, cold-blooded, loathsome beings.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:14 signs. These are supernatural wonders (cf. 13:12–15) designed to deceive (cf. 19:20; 1 Kings 22:20–23; Mark 13:22) the kings into invading Palestine. Their impact will be so great that the unclean spirits are able to induce the kings to make the journey to Palestine in spite of their sores, the intense heat, drought, and darkness. kings of the whole world. No longer just the eastern confederacy, but now all the world begins to gather in Palestine for the final, climactic battle (Ps. 2:2–3; Joel 3:2–4; Zech. 14:1–3). battle on the great day of God the Almighty. The battle of Armageddon (Rev. 16:16). It is the great war with God and Christ (see notes on 2 Thess. 1:7–10; cf. Joel 2:11; 3:2, 4). The war will end when Christ arrives (Rev. 19:17–20).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:15 Blessed. See note on 1:3. stays awake, keeping his garments. Our Lord stresses the need for constant readiness for his return (cf. 1 John 2:28). The imagery pictures a soldier ready for battle, or a homeowner watchful for the arrival of a thief (see also Rev. 3:3; 1 Thess. 5:2, 4; 2 Pet. 3:10).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:16 Armageddon. The Hebrew name for Mount Megiddo, 60 miles north of Jerusalem. The battle will rage on the nearby plains, site of Barak's victory over the Canaanites (Judg. 4) and Gideon's victory over the Midianites (Judg. 7). Napoleon called this valley the greatest battlefield he had ever seen. But the battle of Armageddon will not be limited to the Megiddo plains—it will encompass the length of Palestine (see note on Rev. 14:20).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:17 seventh . . . bowl . . . “It is done!” This bowl will complete God's wrath (except for final judgment on the rebellion at the end of the Millennium; 20:7–10) and immediately precedes the second coming of Christ. It will usher in the worst calamity in the history of the world. The voice from the temple in heaven is undoubtedly that of God himself. “It is done” is best translated, “It has been and will remain done” (cf. John 19:30). God will punctuate the completion of his wrath with a devastating earthquake—the most powerful in earth’s history (cf. Rev. 16:19–21).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:19 The great city. Cf. 11:13; 21:10; see notes on Zech. 14:1–8. Jerusalem will be split into three parts (Zech. 14:4), not as a judgment (cf. Rev. 11:13), but as an improvement. The additional water supply (Zech. 14:8) and topographical changes (Zech. 14:4–5) will prepare the city for its central place in the millennial kingdom. Jerusalem is the only city to be spared the judgment (cf. 1 Chron. 23:25; Ps. 125:1–2; Mic. 4:7) and will be made more beautiful (Ps. 48:2), because of her repentance (see Rev. 11:13). cities of the nations. God’s purpose is very different for the rest of the world’s cities—they are to be destroyed. Babylon. The capital of the Antichrist’s empire will receive a special outpouring of God’s wrath as prophesied in Isa. 13:6–13. Revelation 17–18 gives details of its destruction.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:20 every island fled . . . no mountains were to be found. This powerful earthquake will radically alter all the earth’s topography, preparing it for the coming millennial kingdom. Cf. 6:12–14; Isa. 40:4–5; Jer. 4:23–27.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 16:21 one hundred pounds. The huge size of the hailstones indicates unparalleled atmospheric convulsions. Such massive chunks of ice will cause unimaginable devastation and death.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:1 seven angels. The reference to these angels links chs. 17–18 with the bowl judgments (ch. 16), which extend to the second coming of Christ (see note on 16:17). Chapters 17–18 focus on one aspect of those bowl judgments, the judgment of Babylon. The judgments already described are identified as targeting the final world system. great prostitute. See note on 14:8. Prostitution frequently symbolizes idolatry or religious apostasy (cf. Jer. 3:6–9; Ezek. 16:30ff.; 20:30; Hos. 4:15; 5:3; 6:10; 9:1). Nineveh (Nah. 3:1, 4), Tyre (Isa. 23:17), and even Jerusalem (Isa. 1:21) are also depicted as harlot cities. seated on many waters. This picture emphasizes the sovereign power of the harlot. The picture is of a ruler seated on a throne, ruling the waters, which symbolize the nations of the world (see Rev. 17:15).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:2 kings . . . committed sexual immorality. The harlot will ally herself with the world’s political leaders. Fornication here does not refer to sexual sin, but to idolatry (see note on 14:8). All the world rulers will be absorbed into the empire of Satan's false christ. wine of whose sexual immorality. The harlot's influence will extend beyond the world's rulers to the rest of mankind (cf. 17:15; 13:8, 14). The imagery does not describe actual wine and sexual sin, but pictures the world's people being swept up into the intoxication and sin of a false system of religion.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:3 in the Spirit. Cf. 1:10; 4:2; 21:10. The Holy Spirit transports John into the wilderness (a deserted, lonely, desolate wasteland), perhaps to give him a better understanding of the vision. a woman. The harlot of 17:1, Babylon. scarlet beast. The Antichrist (cf. 13:1, 4; 14:9; 16:10), who for a time will support and use the false religious system to effect world unity. Then he will assume political control (cf. 17:16). Scarlet is the color of luxury, splendor, and royalty. full of blasphemous names. Because of his self-deification (cf. 13:1; Dan. 7:25; 11:36; 2 Thess. 2:4). had seven heads and ten horns. This pictures the extent of Antichrist's political alliances (see notes on Rev. 17:9–12; 13:1).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:4 purple and scarlet. The colors of royalty, nobility, and wealth. The woman is portrayed as a prostitute who has plied her trade successfully and become extremely wealthy. adorned. Prostitutes often dress in fine clothes and precious jewels to allure their victims (cf. Prov. 7:10). The religious harlot Babylon is no different, adorning herself to lure the nations into her grasp. a golden cup. Still another evidence of the harlot's great wealth (cf. Jer. 51:7); but the pure gold is defiled by the filthiness of her immorality. Just as a prostitute might first get her victim drunk, so the harlot system deceives the nations into committing spiritual fornication with her.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:5 forehead. It was customary for Roman prostitutes to wear a headband with their name on it (cf. Jer. 3:3), parading their wretchedness for all to see. The harlot's forehead is emblazoned with a threefold title descriptive of the world's final false religious system. mystery. A NT mystery is truth once hidden, but in the NT revealed. See notes on Matt. 13:11; Eph. 3:4–5. Spiritual Babylon's true identity is yet to be revealed. Thus, the precise details of how it will be manifested in the world are not yet known. Babylon the great. This Babylon is distinct from the historical, geographical city of Babylon (which still existed in John's day). The details of John's vision cannot be applied to any historical city (see note on Rev. 14:8). mother of prostitutes. All false religion stems ultimately from Babel, or Babylon (cf. Gen. 11; see note on Rev. 14:8).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:6 the blood of the saints . . . martyrs of Jesus. Some see the first group as OT saints, and the second as NT saints—an unimportant distinction since this pictures the witnesses, or “martyrs,” of the tribulation. John’s point is that the harlot is a murderer. False religion has killed millions of believers over the centuries, and the final false system will be far more deadly than any that preceded it.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:7 mystery. Not that Babylon is a false system of religion, because that is already known, but that the beast will fully support the harlot and together exert vast influence over the whole earth.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:8 The beast. Both a king and kingdom are referred to by this term. was, and is not, and is about to rise. A reference to the Antichrist’s false resurrection (13:3–4, 12–14; see note on 13:3). bottomless pit. After his “resurrection,” the Antichrist will become possessed by a great demon from the abyss (see notes on 13:1, 3). destruction. Eternal destruction (cf. 17:11; Matt. 7:13; John 17:12; Phil. 1:28; 3:19; 2 Thess. 2:3; Heb. 10:39; 2 Pet. 2:3; 3:7, 16). This is the lake of fire, the place of Antichrist’s destruction (Rev. 19:20). book of life. The roll of the elect, written in eternity past by God (see note on 3:5). Only the elect will escape the Antichrist’s deception (Matt. 24:24). from the foundation of the world. See note on Rev. 13:8; cf. 2 Tim. 1:9; Titus 1:2 (“before the ages began”). A frequent phrase (Matt. 13:35; 25:34; Luke 11:50; John 17:24; Eph. 1:4; Heb. 4:3; 9:26; 1 Pet. 1:20) referring to God’s pre-creation plan.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:9 seven mountains. The Greek word is often used of hills (Matt. 5:1; 15:29; John 6:15; 8:1). Many commentators interpret this expression to mean Rome, which sits on seven hills. It is true that the final worldwide system of false religion includes, but is not necessarily limited to, Rome; but specifically, the seven mountains in context likely symbolize the seven kingdoms and their kings of Rev. 17:10.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:10 seven kings. Representatives of the seven great world empires (Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, Rome, and that of the Antichrist). Cf. Daniel’s image in Dan. 2:37–45. five of whom have fallen, one is, the other. When John wrote, the Egyptian, Assyrian, Babylonian, Medo-Persian and Greek empires had gone out of existence; Rome still existed; and the Antichrist’s empire had not yet come. When it does, it will be brief (Rev. 12:12; 13:5) and he will end in perdition (17:11; see note on v. 8).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:11 was and is not . . . an eighth. The Antichrist’s kingdom is said to be both the seventh and eighth kingdoms because of his supposed demise and resurrection. He is the seventh king before and the eighth king after his “resurrection” when he destroys the harlot’s religious empire and demands exclusive worship of himself (v. 16).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:12 ten kings. See notes on 12:3; 13:1 (cf. Dan. 2:41–42). These kings are sub-rulers under the Antichrist, whose empire will apparently be divided into 10 administrative districts. not yet received royal power. Thus, the kings cannot be identified with any historical figures. one hour. Symbolic of the brief three and one-half-year period of time (cf. Rev. 11:2–3; 12:6, 12, 14; 13:5; 18:10, 17, 19).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:14 make war. A reference to the battle of Armageddon (16:14–16), where the Lamb will utterly destroy the kings (19:17–21). Lord of lords and King of kings. A title for God (19:16; 1 Tim. 6:15; cf. Deut. 10:17; Ps. 136:3) that emphasizes his sovereignty over all other rulers to whom he has delegated authority.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:15 See note on v. 1.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:16 will hate the prostitute. After using the false religious system to unify the world kingdoms and gain control of all, the Antichrist—with the help of his 10 sub-rulers—will turn against the system, plunder and destroy it, and seize all power and worship for himself. They will be carrying out God’s will (v. 17). Cf. Gen. 50:20.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 17:18 great city. Here is another identification of the capital city of Babylon, centerpiece of Antichrist’s empire. Cf. 18:10, 18, 21.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:1 earth was made bright with his glory. The fifth bowl (16:10) will have plunged the world into darkness. Against that backdrop, the sudden, blazing appearance of another angel (not the same as in 17:1, 7, 15) will certainly rivet the world’s attention on him and his message of judgment on Babylon (cf. 14:8).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:2 fallen is Babylon the great! Cf. 14:8; see note on Isa. 21:9, the verse from which these words come. The Greek text views the results of this as if it had already taken place (see note on Rev. 14:8). But the seventh bowl is being referred to here and it is yet to come at this point (16:17– 21). When it comes, devastation and annihilation will take place, leaving the place to demons.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:3 wine . . . of her sexual immorality. Religious Babylon (ch. 17) lures the nations into spiritual drunkenness and fornication with false gods (17:2, 4); commercial Babylon (ch. 18) seduces the unbelieving world into a materialistic stupor, so that the people of the world will become drunk with passion because of their relationship with Babylon. kings . . . merchants. Political rulers and corporate leaders alike are swept up in this worldwide system of commerce (14:8; 17:2).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:4 Come out of her, my people. God will call his own to disentangle themselves from this evil system. This may also be God's calling the elect to abandon the world system and come to faith in the Savior. In either case, the message is to abandon the system before it is destroyed (cf. 2 Cor. 6:17; 1 John 2:15). The judgment of God on that society living in sinful, arrogant self-indulgence can be avoided. Cf. Isaiah's and Jeremiah's message to their people to leave Babylon (Isa. 48:20; Jer. 50:8; 51:6–9, 45).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:5 remembered. See 16:19. God does not remember the iniquities of his people (Jer. 31:34), but does remember to protect them (Mal. 3:16–4:2). For unrepentant Babylon, there will be no such forgiveness, only judgment.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:6–7 Pay her back. The angel calls for God to recompense wrath to Babylon in her own cup to repay her according to her deeds (see note on 17:4). This is an echo of the OT law of retaliation (Ex. 21:24), which will be implemented by God (Rom. 12:17–21).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:6 double. Has the sense of “full,” or “overflowing.” The punishment will fit the crime (cf. Jer. 16:18). cup. The cup of wickedness from which so many have drunk (Rev. 14:8; 17:2, 4, 6) will call for the cup of wrath (14:10; 16:19).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:7b am no widow. A proud, but empty, boast of self-sufficiency, also made by historical Babylon (Isa. 47:8). Cf. 1 Cor. 10:12.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:8 in a single day. See vv. 10, 17, 19. The special judgments on Babylon take place in a brief period of time. Daniel 5:30 records that Babylon of old fell in one day. her plagues. These could include those of Rev. 16:1ff., but must be the special destruction of the city as well, described as “death and mourning and famine.”

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:9–20 This section records the lament over Babylon’s destruction, not her sin, by those who were part of her system.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:9 kings. The political leaders of the world will weep because the loss of his capital city will signal the doom of Antichrist’s empire, and with it, the source of their power. Cf. v. 3:17:2. weep and wail over her. “Weep” means “to sob openly.” “Wail” translates the same Greek word used to express the despair of the unbelieving world at the return of Christ (1:7).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:10 single hour. Cf. vv. 8, 17, 19.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:12–13 Over half of their commodities appear in the list of Ezek. 27:12–22.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:12 purple. This refers to garments laboriously dyed with purple dye extracted from shellfish. Lydia (Acts 16:14) was a seller of such expensive garments. A distinctive mark of the Caesars was their purple robes. scented wood. Wood from North African citrus trees, highly valued because of its color, which was used to make extremely expensive pieces of furniture. marble. Marble, imported from Africa, Egypt, and Greece, was widely used in Roman buildings.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:13 myrrh. Cf. Matt. 26:7, 12; John 12:3. frankincense. A fragrant gum or resin imported from Arabia and used in incense and perfume (Song 3:6; Matt. 2:11). slaves, that is, human souls. The slave trade, long banned by the civilized nations of the world, will reappear in Antichrist’s debauched commercial system.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:17 shipmasters. Ship captains will mourn the loss of Babylon and the lucrative transport business that went with it.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:19 threw dust on their heads. An ancient expression of grief (cf. Josh. 7:6; 1 Sam. 4:12; 2 Sam. 1:2; 15:32; Job 2:12; Lam. 2:10; Ezek. 27:30). in a single hour. Not just 60 minutes, but one brief period of swift judgment (see note on Rev. 18:8).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:20 God has given judgment for you against her!

The angel will exhort the tribulation martyrs (6:9–11) to rejoice, not over the deaths of those doomed to eternal hell, but, because God’s righteousness and justice will have prevailed.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:21 great millstone. Millstones were large, heavy stones used to grind grain. This metaphor portrays the violence of Babylon’s overthrow. Cf. Jer. 51:61–64; see note on Matt. 18:6.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:22–23 The fall of Babylon ends whatever semblance of normalcy will still exist in the world after all the seals, trumpets, and bowls. Life will be totally disrupted and the end near. No more music, no industry, no preparing of food (“mill”), no more power for light, and no more weddings because God will destroy the deceivers and deceived.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 18:24 blood of prophets and of saints. The religious and commercial/political systems embodied in Babylon will commit unspeakable atrocities against God’s people (cf. 6:10; 11:7; 13:7, 15; 17:6; 19:2). God will avenge that slaughter of his people (19:2).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:1 After this. This is a time key. After the destruction of Babylon at the end of the Great Tribulation, just before the kingdom is established (ch. 20). This section bridges the tribulation and the millennial kingdom. great multitude. Probably angels, since the saints join in later (19:5ff.; cf. 5:11, 12; 7:11–12). The imminent return of the Lord Jesus Christ prompts this outburst of praise.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:1–6 Hallelujah! This Hebrew word appears four times in the NT, all in this chapter (vv. 1, 3, 4, 6). This exclamation, meaning “Praise the Lord,” occurs frequently in the OT (cf. Ps. 104:35; 105:45; 106:1; 111:1; 112:1; 113:1; 117:1; 135:1; 146:1). Five reasons for their praise emerge: 1) God’s deliverance of his people from their enemies (Rev. 19:1); 2) God’s meting out of justice (v. 2); 3) God’s permanent crushing of man’s rebellion (v. 3); 4) God’s sovereignty (v. 6); and 5) God’s communion with his people (v. 7).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:2 judgments. Saints long for the day of judgment (cf. 6:10; 16:7; Isa. 9:7; Jer. 23:5). Godly people love righteousness and hate sin, for righteousness honors God and sin mocks him. Believers long for a world of justice, and it will come (Rev. 19:15; 2:27; 12:5).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:3 smoke . . . goes up. This is because of the fire (cf.

17:16, 18; 18:8–9, 18; 14:8–11).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:4 twenty-four elders. Best understood as representatives of the church (see note on 4:4). four living creatures. A special order of angelic beings (see note on 4:6). These compose the same group as in 7:11 and are frequently associated with worship (4:8, 11; 5:9–12, 14; 11:16–18).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:5 small and great. All distinctions and ranks are to be transcended.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:6 the Almighty. Used nine times in Revelation as a title for God (cf. v. 15; 1:8; 4:8; 11:17; 15:3; 16:7, 14; 21:22). The great praise of the multitude sounds like a massive crashing of waves.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:7 marriage of the Lamb. Hebrew weddings consisted of three phases: 1) betrothal (often when the couple were children); 2) presentation (the festivities, often lasting several days, that preceded the ceremony); and 3) the ceremony (the exchanging of vows). The church was betrothed to Christ by his sovereign choice in eternity past (Eph. 1:4; Heb. 13:20) and will be presented to him at the rapture (John 14:1–3; 1 Thess. 4:13–18). The final supper will signify the end of the ceremony. This symbolic meal will take place at the establishment of the millennial kingdom and last throughout that 1,000-year period (cf. Rev. 21:2). While the term “bride” often refers to the church, and does so here (2 Cor. 11:2; Eph. 5:22–24), it ultimately expands to include all the redeemed of all ages, which becomes clear in the remainder of the book.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:8 righteous deeds of the saints. Not Christ’s imputed righteousness granted to believers at salvation, but the practical results of that righteousness in believers’ lives, i.e., the outward manifestation of inward virtue.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:9 Blessed. See note on 1:3. those who are invited. This is not the bride (the church) but the guests. The bride doesn’t get invited, she invites. These are those saved before Pentecost, all the faithful believers saved by grace through faith up to the birth of the church (Acts 2:1ff.). Though they are not the bride, they still are glorified and reign with Christ in the millennial kingdom. It is really differing imagery rather than differing reality. The guests also will include tribulation saints and believers alive in earthly bodies in the kingdom. The church is the bride, pure and faithful—never a harlot, like Israel was (see Hos. 2). So the church is the bride during the presentation feast in heaven, then comes to earth for the celebration of the final meal (the Millennium). After that event, the new order comes and the marriage is consummated (see notes on Rev. 21:1–2). true words of God. This refers to everything since 17:1. It is all true—the marriage will take place after judgment.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:10 fell down at his feet. Overwhelmed by the grandeur of the vision, John collapsed in worship before the angel (cf. 1:17; 22:8). You must not do that! Cf. 22:8–9. The Bible forbids the worship of angels (Col. 2:18–19). the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy. The central theme of both OT prophecy and NT preaching is the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:11 heaven opened. The One who ascended to heaven (Acts 1:9–11) and had been seated at the Father’s right hand (Heb. 8:1; 10:12; 1 Pet. 3:22) will return to take back the earth from the usurper and establish his kingdom (Rev. 5:1–10). The nature of this event shows how it differs from the rapture. At the rapture, Christ meets his own in the air—in this event he comes with them to earth. At the rapture, there is no judgment—in this event it is all judgment. This event is preceded by blackness—the darkened sun, moon gone out, stars fallen, smoke—then lightning and blinding glory as Jesus comes. Such details are not included in rapture passages (John 14:1–3; 1 Thess. 4:13–18). white horse. In the Roman triumphal processions, the victorious general rode his white war horse up the Via Sacra to the temple of Jupiter on the Capitoline Hill. Jesus’ first coming was in humiliation on a colt (Zech. 9:9). John’s vision portrays him as the conqueror on his war horse, coming to destroy the wicked, to overthrow the Antichrist, to defeat Satan, and to take control of the earth (cf. 2 Cor. 2:14). Faithful and True. True to his word, Jesus will return to earth (Matt. 24:27–31; see note on Rev. 3:14). in righteousness he judges. See 20:11–15; cf. Matt. 25:31 ff.; John 5:25–30; Acts 17:31. makes war. This startling statement, appearing only here and Rev. 2:16, vividly portrays the holy wrath of God against sinners (cf. Ps. 7:11). God’s patience will be exhausted with sinful, rebellious mankind.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:12 His eyes are like a flame of fire. Nothing escapes his penetrating vision, so his judgments are always just and accurate (see note on 1:14). a name . . . no one knows. John could see the name, but was unable to comprehend it (cf. 2 Cor. 12:4). There are unfathomable mysteries in the Godhead that even glorified saints will be unable to grasp.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:13 a robe dipped in blood. This is not from the battle of Armageddon, which will not have begun until v. 15. Christ's garments are stained with the blood of his enemies and symbolize the great battles he has already fought against sin, Satan, and death. The Word. Only John uses this title for the Lord (see Introduction: Author and Date). As the Word of God, Jesus is the image of the invisible God (Col. 1:15); the express image of his person (Heb. 1:3); and the final, full revelation from God (Heb. 1:1–2).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:14 armies of heaven. Composed of the church (v. 8), tribulation saints (7:13), OT believers (Jude 14; cf. Dan. 12:1–2), and even angels (Matt. 25:31). They return not to help Jesus in the battle (they are unarmed), but to reign with him after he defeats his enemies (Rev. 20:4; 1 Cor. 6:2; 2 Tim. 2:12). Cf. Ps. 149:5–9.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:15 sharp sword. This symbolizes Christ's power to kill his enemies (1:16; cf. Isa. 11:4; Heb. 4:12–13). That the sword comes out of his mouth indicates that he wins the battle with the power of his word. Though the saints return with Christ to reign and rule, they are not the executioners. That is his task, and that of his angels (Matt. 13:37–50). rod of iron. Swift, righteous judgment will mark Christ's rule in the kingdom. Believers will share his authority (Rev. 2:26; 1 Cor. 6:2; see notes on Rev. 2:27; 12:5; Ps. 2:9). winepress. A vivid symbol of judgment (see note on Rev. 14:19). Cf. Isa. 63:3; Joel 3:13.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:16 on his thigh. Jesus will wear a banner across his robe and down his thigh with a title emblazoned on it that emphasizes his absolute sovereignty over all human rulers (see note on 17:14).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:17–21 These verses depict the frightening holocaust unparalleled in human history—the battle of Armageddon, the pinnacle of the day of the Lord (see note on 1 Thess. 5:2). It is not so much a battle as an execution, as the remaining rebels are killed by the Lord Jesus (Rev. 19:21; see notes on 14:19–20; cf. Ps. 2:1–9; Isa. 66:15–16; Ezek. 39:1ff.; Joel 3:12ff.; Matt. 24–25; 2 Thess. 1:7–9). This day of the Lord was seen by Isaiah (Isa. 66:15–16), Joel (Joel 3:12–21), Ezekiel (Ezek. 39:1–4, 17–20), Paul (2 Thess. 1:6ff.; 2:8), and our Lord (Matt. 25:31–46).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:17–18 great supper of God. Cf. Ezek. 39:17. Also called the “battle on the great day of God the Almighty” (Rev. 16:14), it will begin with an angel summoning birds to feed on the corpses of those who will be slain (cf. Matt. 24:27–28). God will declare his victory before the battle even begins. The OT frequently pictures the indignity of carrion birds feasting on human dead (Deut. 28:26; Ps. 79:2; Isa. 18:6; Jer. 7:33; 16:4; 19:7; 34:20; Ezek. 29:5).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:19 kings of the earth. See 17:12–17. their armies. See 16:13–14. his army. Zechariah describes this army of the Lord as “all the holy ones” (Zech. 14:5).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:20 beast was captured, and . . . the false prophet. In an instant, the world’s armies are without their leaders. The beast is Antichrist (see notes on 13:1–8); the false prophet is his religious cohort (see notes on 13:11–17). thrown alive. The bodies of the beast and the false prophet will be transformed, and they will be banished directly to the lake of fire (Dan. 7:11)—the first of countless millions of unregenerate men (20:15) and fallen angels (cf. Matt. 25:41) to arrive in that dreadful place. That these two still appear there 1,000 years later (Rev. 20:10) refutes the false doctrine of annihilationism (cf. 14:11; Isa. 66:24; Matt. 25:41; Mark 9:48; Luke 3:17; 2 Thess. 1:9). lake of fire. The final hell, the place of eternal punishment for all unrepentant rebels, angelic or human (cf. Rev. 20:10, 15). The NT says much of eternal punishment (cf. 14:10–11; Matt. 13:40–42; 25:41; Mark 9:43–48; Luke 3:17; 12:47–48). fire . . . sulfur. See note on Rev. 9:17. These two are frequently associated with divine judgment (14:10; 20:10; 21:8; Gen. 19:24; Ps. 11:6; Isa. 30:33; Ezek. 38:22; Luke 17:29).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 19:21 sword. See v. 15; cf. Zech. 14:1–13. birds were gorged with their flesh. All remaining sinners in the world will have been executed, and the birds will gorge themselves on their corpses.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:1–22:21 Chapter 19 ends with the battle of Armageddon and Christ's second coming—events that mark the close of the tribulation. The events of ch. 20—the binding of Satan, Christ's 1,000-year earthly kingdom, Satan's final rebellion, and the great white throne judgment—fit chronologically between the close of the tribulation and the creation of the new heaven and the new earth described in chs. 21–22.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:1 the bottomless pit. The place where demons are incarcerated pending their final sentencing to the lake of fire (see notes on 9:1; 2 Pet. 2:4).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:2 seized. This includes not only Satan, but the demons as well. Their imprisonment will dramatically alter the world during the kingdom, since their destructive influence in all areas of human thought and life will be removed. dragon. Likening Satan to a dragon emphasizes his ferocity and cruelty (see note on 12:3). ancient serpent. A reference to Satan's first appearance in the Garden of Eden (Gen. 3:1ff.), where he deceived Eve (cf. 2 Cor. 11:3; 1 Tim. 2:14). devil and Satan. See note on Rev. 12:9. a thousand years. This is the first of six references to the length of the millennial kingdom (cf. 20:3, 4, 5, 6, 7). There are three main views of the duration and nature of this period: 1) Premillennialism sees this as a literal 1,000-year period during which Jesus Christ, in fulfillment of numerous prophecies (e.g., 2 Sam. 7:12–16; Ps. 2; Isa. 11:6–12; 24:23; Hos. 3:4–5; Joel 3:9–21; Amos 9:8–15; Mic. 4:1–8; Zeph. 3:14–20; Zech. 14:1–11; Matt. 24:29–31, 36–44), reigns on the earth. Using the same general principles of interpretation for both prophetic and non-prophetic passages leads most naturally to Premillennialism. Another strong argument supporting this view is that so many biblical prophecies have already been literally fulfilled, suggesting that future prophecies will likewise be fulfilled literally. 2) Postmillennialism understands the reference to a 1,000-year period as only symbolic of a golden age of righteousness and spiritual prosperity. It will be ushered in by the spread of the gospel during the present church age and brought to completion when Christ returns. According to this view, references to Christ's reign on earth primarily describe his spiritual reign in the hearts of believers in the church. 3) Amillennialism understands the 1,000 years to be merely symbolic of a long period of time. This view interprets OT prophecies of a Millennium as being fulfilled spiritually now in the church (either on earth or in heaven) or as references to the eternal state. Using the same literal, historical, grammatical principles of interpretation so as to determine the normal sense of language, one is left with the inescapable conclusion that Christ will return and reign in a real kingdom on earth for 1,000 years. There is nothing in the text to render the conclusion that “a thousand years” is symbolic. Never in Scripture when “year” is used with a number is its meaning not literal (see note on 2 Pet. 3:8).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:3 the pit. All seven times that this appears in Revelation, it refers to the place where fallen angels and evil spirits are kept captive, waiting to be sent to the lake of fire—the final hell prepared for them (Matt. 25:41). released for a little while. Satan will be released so God can make a permanent end of sin before establishing the new heaven and earth. All who survive the tribulation and enter the kingdom will be believers. However, despite that and the personal presence and rule of the Lord Jesus Christ, many of their descendants will refuse to believe in him. Satan will then gather those unbelievers for one final, futile rebellion against God. It will be quickly and decisively crushed, followed by the great white throne judgment and the establishment of the eternal state.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:4 the souls of those who had been beheaded. These are tribulation martyrs (cf. 6:9; 18:24; 19:2). The Greek word translated “beheaded” became a general term for execution, not necessarily a particular method. its mark. See note on 13:16. Tribulation martyrs will be executed for refusing the mark of the beast. reigned. Tribulation believers, along with the redeemed from both the OT and NT eras, will reign with Christ (1 Cor. 6:2; 2 Tim. 2:12) during the 1,000-year kingdom.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:5 The rest of the dead. The bodies of unbelievers of all ages will not be resurrected until the great white throne judgment (vv. 12–13). first resurrection. Scripture teaches two kinds of resurrections: the “resurrection of life” and the “resurrection of judgment” (John 5:29; cf. Dan. 12:2; Acts 24:15). The first kind of resurrection is described as “the resurrection of the just” (Luke 14:14), the resurrection of “those who belong to Christ” at his coming (1 Cor. 15:23), and the “better life” (Heb. 11:35). It includes only the redeemed of the church age (1 Thess. 4:13–18), the OT (Dan. 12:2), and the tribulation (Rev. 20:4). They will enter the kingdom in resurrection bodies, along with believers who survived the tribulation. The second kind of resurrection, then, will be the resurrection of the unconverted who will receive their final bodies suited for torment in hell.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:6 Blessed. Those who die in the Lord (14:13) are blessed with the privilege of entering his kingdom (see note on 1:3). second death. The first death is only physical, the second is spiritual and eternal in the lake of fire, the final, eternal hell (v. 14). It could exist outside the created universe as we know it, outside of space and time, and be presently unoccupied (see note on 19:20). a thousand years. See note on 20:2.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:7 Satan . . . released. He is loosed to bring cohesive leadership to the world of rebels born to the believers who entered the kingdom at the beginning. He is loosed to reveal the character of Christ-rejecting sinners who are brought into judgment for the last time ever.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:8 Gog and Magog. The name given to the army of rebels and its leader at the end of the Millennium. They were names of ancient enemies of the Lord. Magog was the grandson of Noah (Gen. 10:2) and founder of a kingdom located north of the Black and Caspian Seas. Gog is apparently the leader of a rebel army known collectively as Magog. The battle depicted in Rev. 20:8–9 is like the one in Ezek. 38–39; it is best to see this one as taking place at the end of the Millennium. For the difference, see notes on Ezek. 38–39.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:9 beloved city. Jerusalem (cf. Ps. 78:68; 87:2), the capital city during Christ's millennial reign (Jer. 3:17). The saints will be living around the city where Christ reigns (cf. Isa. 24:23; Jer. 3:17; Zech. 14:9–11). fire. Frequently associated in Scripture with divine judgment of wicked men (Gen. 19:24; 2 Kings 1:10, 12, 14; Luke 9:54; 17:29).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:10 deceived. Just as his demons will entice the world's armies into the Battle of Armageddon, Satan will draw them into a suicidal assault against Christ and his people (16:13–14). lake of fire and sulfur. See note on 19:20. tormented day and night. See note on 14:11. Continuous, unrelieved torment will be the final state of Satan, fallen angels, and unredeemed men.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:11–15 These verses describe the final judgment of all the unbelievers of all ages (Matt. 10:15; 11:22, 24; 12:36, 41–42; Luke 10:14; John 12:48; Acts 17:31; 24:25; Rom. 2:5, 16; Heb. 9:27; 2 Pet. 2:9; 3:7; Jude 6). Our Lord referred to this event as the “resurrection of judgment” (John 5:29). This judgment takes place in the indescribable void between the end of the present universe (Rev. 20:11) and the creation of the new heaven and earth

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:11 great white throne. Nearly 50 times in Revelation there is the mention of a throne. This is a judgment throne, elevated, pure, and holy. God sits on it as judge (cf. 4:2–3, 9; 5:1, 7, 13; 6:16; 7:10, 15) in the person of the Lord Jesus Christ. See 21:5–6; John 5:22–29; Acts 17:31. earth and sky fled away. John saw the contaminated universe go out of existence. Peter described this moment in 2 Pet. 3:10–13 (see notes there). The universe is “uncreated,” going into non-existence (cf. Matt. 24:35).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:12 standing before the throne. In a judicial sense, as guilty, condemned prisoners before the bar of divine justice. There are no living sinners left in the destroyed universe since all sinners were killed and all believers glorified. books. These books record every thought, word, and deed of sinful men—all recorded by divine omniscience (see note on Dan. 7:9–10, the verse that is the source of this text). They will provide the evidence for eternal condemnation. Cf. Rev. 18:6–7. book of life. It contains the names of all the redeemed (Dan. 12:1; see notes on Rev. 3:5). judged . . . according to what they had done. Their thoughts (Luke 8:17; Rom. 2:16), words (Matt. 12:37), and actions (Matt. 16:27) will be compared to God’s perfect, holy standard (Matt. 5:48; 1 Pet. 1:15–16) and will be found wanting (Rom. 3:23). This also implies that there are degrees of punishment in hell (cf. Matt. 10:14–15; 11:22; Mark 12:38–40; Luke 12:47–48; Heb. 10:29).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:13 Death and Hades. See note on 1:18. Both terms describe the state of death. All unrighteous dead will appear at the great white throne judgment; none will escape. All the places that have held the bodies of the unrighteous dead will yield up new bodies suited for hell.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:14 second death. See note on v. 6.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 20:15 lake of fire. See note on 19:20.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:1 As the chapter opens, all the sinners of all the ages, both demons and men, including Satan, the beast, and the false prophet, are in the lake of fire forever. The whole universe has been destroyed, and God creates a new universe to be the eternal dwelling place of the redeemed. a new heaven and a new earth. The entire universe as we now know it will be destroyed (2 Pet. 3:10–13) and be replaced by a new creation that will last forever. This is an OT reality (Ps. 102:25–26; Isa. 65:17; 66:22), as well as a NT one (Luke 21:33; Heb. 1:10–12). See note on Rev. 20:11–15. sea was no more. Currently three-fourths of the earth’s surface is water, but the new environment will no longer be water-based and will have completely different climatic conditions. See notes on 22:1–2.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:2–22:5 By this point in the chronology of Revelation, OT saints, tribulation saints, and all those converted during the millennial kingdom will be incorporated into the ultimate redeemed bride and will dwell in the new Jerusalem. John described the consummation of all things in Christ and the new Jerusalem descending into the eternal state (cf. 19:7; 20:6; 1 Cor. 15:28; Heb. 12:22–24).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:2 new Jerusalem. Cf. 3:12; Heb. 11:10; 12:22–24; 13:14. This is the capital city of heaven, a place of perfect holiness. It is seen “coming down out of heaven” indicating it already existed; but it descends into the new heavens and new earth from its place on high. This is the city where the saints will live (cf. John 14:1–3). bride. An important NT metaphor for the church (cf. Matt. 25:1–13; Eph. 5:25–27). John’s imagery here extends from the third part of the Jewish wedding, the ceremony. Believers (the bride) in the new Jerusalem come to meet Christ (the bridegroom) in the final ceremony of redemptive history (see note on Rev. 19:7). The whole city, occupied by all the saints, is called the bride, so that all saints must be finally included in the bride imagery and bridal blessing. God has brought home a bride for his beloved Son. All the saints live with Christ in the Father’s house (a promise made before the church began; John 14:2).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:3 dwelling place of God. The word translated “dwelling place” means place of abode. This is God’s house, the place where he lives (cf. Lev. 26:11–12; Deut. 12:5).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:4 wipe away every tear. Since there will never be a tear in heaven, nothing will be sad, disappointing, deficient, or wrong (cf. Isa. 53:4–5; 1 Cor. 15:54–57).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:5 trustworthy and true. Cf. 3:14; 19:11. God always speaks truth (John 17:17).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:6 the Alpha and the Omega. See note on 1:8. the thirsty. Heaven belongs to those who, knowing their souls are parched by sin, have earnestly sought the satisfaction of salvation and eternal life (cf. Ps. 42:1–2; Isa. 55:1–2; John 7:37–38). water of life. Cf. Rev. 7:17; 22:1, 17. The lasting spiritual water of which Jesus spoke (John 4:13–14; 7:37–38; cf. Isa. 55:1–2).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:7 one who conquers. Cf. 1 John 5:4–5. Anyone who exercises saving faith in Jesus Christ (see note on Rev. 2:7). heritage. The spiritual inheritance all believers will receive (1 Pet. 1:4; cf. Matt. 25:23) is the fullness of the new creation. Cf. Rom. 8:16–17.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:8 A solemn, serious warning about the kinds of people who will be outcasts from the new heaven and the new earth in the lake of fire. The NT often goes beyond just citing unbelief in listing character and lifestyle traits of the outcast, so that believers can identify such people (1 Cor. 6:9–10; Gal. 5:19; cf. John 8:31). sorcerers. See note on Rev. 9:21. lake that burns with fire. See note on 19:20. sulfur. See note on 9:17. second death. See note on 20:6.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:9 seven bowls. See note on 15:7. seven last plagues. See note on 15:1–8.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:9–10 the wife of the Lamb. The new Jerusalem takes on the character of its inhabitants, the redeemed (see notes on v. 2; 19:7–9).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:10 in the Spirit. See note on 1:10.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:11 jasper. A transliteration, not a translation, of the Greek word. Rather than the modern opaque jasper, the term actually refers to a completely clear diamond, a perfect gem with the brilliant light of God's glory shining out of it and streaming over the new heaven and the new earth (cf. 4:3).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:12–14 wall. See v. 16 for the dimensions of the city and, thus, the length of the wall.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:15 measuring rod of gold. See note on Ezek. 40:3. This rod was about 10 feet long, a standard for measure. measure the city. This action indicates that the capital of heaven belongs to God and he is measuring what is his (cf. Rev. 11:1; Ezek. 40:3).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:16 12,000 stadia. This would be about two million square miles of ground space, offering plenty of room for all the glorified saints to live. length and width and height. The city has the symmetrical dimensions of a perfect cube, which parallels its closest earthly counterpart, the inner sanctuary in the tabernacle and temple (cf. 1 Kings 6:20).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:17 144 cubits. This is likely the width of the wall.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:18 jasper. See note on v. 11. This is the material of the thick wall—diamond! pure gold, clear as glass. Unlike earth's gold, this gold will be transparent so the overpowering radiance of God's glory can refract and glisten through the entire city.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:19–20 Because some of the names of these gems have changed through the centuries, it is difficult to identify each one with certainty. Eight of the 12 stones are found in the breastpiece of the high priest (Ex. 28:39), and the other four may also be related to the breastpiece. The gems picture a brilliant, indescribable panoply of beautiful colors that send forth the light of God's glory. The following are possible identifications for these gems.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:19 agate. A variety of chalcedony, which derives from Chalcedon, an ancient name for a city in modern Turkey. The gem is a sky-blue stone with translucent, colored stripes.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:20 onyx. A variety of chalcedony with parallel layers of red and white (see note on v. 19). carnelian. A common stone from the quartz family, which ranged in color from orange-red to brownish-red to blood-red (4:3). chrysolite. A gem with a transparent gold or yellowish tone. beryl. A mineral with several varieties of gems, ranging from the green emerald to the golden yellow beryl to the light blue aquamarine. topaz. Ancient topaz was a softer stone with a yellow or yellow-green color. chrysoprase. The modern form of this jewel is an apple-green variety of quartz. The Greek name suggests a gold-tinted, green gemstone. jasper. Today this stone is a transparent zircon, usually red or reddish-brown. The one John saw was blue or shining violet in color. amethyst. A clear quartz crystal that ranges in color from a faint purple tint to an intense purple.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:21 a single pearl. Each of the gates of the city is a single, almost 1,400-mile-high pearl. Even as earthly pearls are formed in response to the wounding of oyster flesh, so these gigantic, supernatural pearls will remind saints throughout eternity of the magnitude of Christ's suffering and its eternal benefit.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:22 no temple. Several passages affirm that there is a temple in heaven (3:12; 7:15; 11:19; 15:5). Here, it is clear there is none in eternity. How can this be? The temple is not a building; it is the Lord God himself. Revelation 7:15 implies this when it says, "he who sits on the throne will shelter them." Revelation 21:23 continues the thought of no temple, except God and the Lamb. The glory of God that illuminates all heaven defines it as his temple. There is no need for a temple in the eternal state since God himself will be the temple in which everything exists. The presence of God lit. fills the entire new heaven and new earth (cf. v. 3). Going to heaven will be entering the limitless presence of the Lord (cf. John 14:3; 1 Thess. 4:17).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:24 the nations. Lit., "the peoples." Redeemed people from every nation and ethnic group will dwell in heaven's light. In the eternal city, there will be no more divisions, barriers, or exclusions because of race or politics. All kinds of peoples in eternity dissolve into the people of God, and they will move freely in and about the city.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 21:27 Lamb's book of life. See note on 3:5.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:1 river . . . of life. This river is unlike any on earth because no hydrological cycle exists. Water of life symbolizes the continual flow of eternal life from God's throne to heaven's inhabitants (see note on 21:6).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:2 tree of life. A symbol of both eternal life and continual blessing (see note on Gen. 2:9). The tree bears 12 fruits, one for each month, and is symbolic of the abundant variety in heaven. The English word "therapeutic" comes from the Greek word translated "healing." The leaves somehow enrich heavenly life, making it full and satisfying.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:3 No longer will there be anything accursed. The curse on humanity and the earth as a result of Adam and Eve's disobedience (Gen. 3:16–19) will be totally finished. God will never have to judge sin again, since it will never exist in the new heaven and new earth. his servants will worship him. See note on 7:15.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:4 see his face. No unglorified human could see God's face and live (Ex. 33:20–23). But the residents of heaven can look on God's face without harm because they are now holy (cf. John 1:18; 1 Tim. 6:16; 1 John 3:2). his name. They are God's personal possession (see note on Rev. 3:12).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:5 they will reign. Heaven's citizens are more than servants (see note on 3:21).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:6 his servants. The members of the seven churches of Asia Minor who received this letter (1:11), and then all believers who have read, or will read it since. what must soon take place. This involves the entire revelation that John has just related (see note on 1:1).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:7 I am coming soon. Jesus' return is imminent (see note on 3:11). Blessed. See note on 1:3.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:8 heard and saw. John resumes speaking for the first time since ch. 1 and confirms the veracity of the revelation with his own eyewitness testimony—the basis of any reliable witness. fell down to worship. See note on 19:10.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:10 Do not seal up the words. Cf. 10:11. Previous prophecies were sealed up (Dan. 8:26; 12:4–10). These prophecies are to be proclaimed so they can produce obedience and worship. the time is near. This refers to imminency, which means that the end is next.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:11 Those who reject God's warnings will fix their eternal destiny in hell, where they will retain their evil and filthy natures for all eternity. Those who respond to the warnings will fix their eternal destiny in glory and realize perfect righteousness and holiness in heaven.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:12 I am coming soon. See note on 3:11. Again, imminence is the issue (cf. Mark 13:33–37). for what he has done. Only those works that survive God's testing fire have eternal value and are worthy of reward (1 Cor. 3:10–15; 4:1–5; 2 Cor. 5:10).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:13 the Alpha and the Omega. See note on 1:8.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:14 Blessed are those who wash their robes. See note on 1:3. This symbolizes those who have been forgiven of their sins—who have been cleansed by the blood of the Lamb of God (Heb. 9:14; 1 Pet. 1:18–19; see note on Rev. 7:14). tree of life. See notes on Rev. 22:2; Gen. 2:9.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:15 dogs. Considered despicable creatures in NT times, the term when applied to people referred to anyone of low moral character. Unfaithful leaders (Isa. 56:10) and homosexual prostitutes (Deut. 23:18) are among those who received such a designation. sorcerers. See note on Rev. 9:21.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:16 my angel. See 1:1. the churches. The seven churches of Asia Minor who were the book's original recipients (1:11). the root and the descendant of David. Christ is the source ("root") of David's life and line of descendants, which establishes his deity. He is also a "descendant" of David, which establishes his humanity. This phrase gives powerful testimony to Christ as the God-Man (cf. 2 Tim. 2:8). bright morning star. This is the brightest star announcing the arrival of the day. When Jesus comes, he will be the brightest star who will shatter the darkness of man's night and herald the dawn of God's glorious day (see note on Rev. 2:28).

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:17 Come. This is the Spirit's and church's answer to the promise of his coming. let the one. This is an unlimited offer of grace and salvation to all who desire to have their thirsty souls quenched. Cf. Isa. 55:1–2. water of life. See note on Rev. 22:1.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:18–19 Jesus offers extended testimony on the authority and finality of the prophecy. He commissioned John to write it, but he was its author. These are not the first such warnings (cf. Deut. 4:2; 12:32; Prov. 30:6; Jer. 26:2). These warnings against altering the biblical text represent the close of the NT canon. Anyone who tampers with the truth by attempting to falsify, mitigate, alter, or misinterpret it will incur the judgments described in these verses.

REVELATION—NOTE ON 22:20 Surely I am coming soon. See note on 3:11. In light of this future expectation, what is now required of believers is outlined by Peter (see 2 Pet. 3:11–18).

Overview of Theology

The Holy Scriptures

We teach that the Bible is God's written revelation to man, and thus the 66 books of the Bible given to us by the Holy Spirit constitute the plenary (inspired equally in all parts) word of God (1 Cor. 2:7-14; 2 Pet. 1:20-21).

We teach that the word of God is an objective, propositional revelation (1 Cor. 2:13; 1 Thess. 2:13), verbally inspired in every word (2 Tim. 3:16), absolutely inerrant in the original documents, infallible, and God-breathed. We teach the literal, grammatical-historical interpretation of Scripture, which affirms the belief that the opening chapters of Genesis present creation in six literal days (Gen. 1:31; Ex. 31:17).

We teach that the Bible constitutes the only infallible rule of faith and practice (Matt. 5:18; 24:35; John 10:35; 16:12-13; 17:17; 1 Cor. 2:13; 2 Tim. 3:15-17; Heb. 4:12; 2 Pet. 1:20-21).

We teach that God spoke in his written word by a process of dual authorship. The Holy Spirit so superintended the human authors that, through their individual personalities and different styles of writing, they composed and recorded God's word to man (2 Pet. 1:20-21) without error in the whole or in the part (Matt. 5:18; 2 Tim. 3:16).

We teach that, whereas there may be several applications of any given passage of Scripture, there is but one true interpretation. The meaning of Scripture is to be found as one diligently applies the literal, grammatical-historical method of interpretation under the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit (John 7:17; 16:12-15; 1 Cor. 2:7-15; 1 John 2:20). It is the responsibility of believers to ascertain carefully the true intent and meaning of Scripture, recognizing that proper application is binding on all generations. Yet the truth of Scripture stands in judgment of men; never do men stand in judgment of it.

God

We teach that there is but one living and true God (Deut. 6:4; Isa. 45:5-7; 1 Cor.

8:4), an infinite, all-knowing Spirit (John 4:24), perfect in all his attributes, one in essence, eternally existing in three Persons—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit (Matt. 28:19; 2 Cor. 13:14)—each equally deserving worship and obedience.

God the Father

We teach that God the Father, the first person of the Trinity, orders and disposes all things according to his own purpose and grace (Ps. 145:8–9; 1 Cor. 8:6). He is the Creator of all things (Gen. 1:1–31; Eph. 3:9). As the only absolute and omnipotent ruler in the universe, he is sovereign in creation, providence, and redemption (Ps. 103:19; Rom. 11:36). His fatherhood involves both his designation within the Trinity and his relationship with mankind. As Creator he is Father to all men (Eph. 4:6), but he is Spiritual Father only to believers (Rom. 8:14; 2 Cor. 6:18). He has decreed for his own glory all things that come to pass (Eph. 1:11). He continually upholds, directs, and governs all creatures and events (1 Chron. 29:11). In his sovereignty he is neither author nor approver of sin (Hab. 1:13), nor does he abridge the accountability of moral, intelligent creatures (1 Pet. 1:17). He has graciously chosen from eternity past those whom he would have as his own (Eph. 1:4–6); he saves from sin all those who come to him through Jesus Christ; he adopts as his own all those who come to him; and he becomes, upon adoption, Father to his own (John 1:12; Rom. 8:15; Gal. 4:5; Heb. 12:5–9).

God the Son

We teach that Jesus Christ, the second person of the Trinity, possesses all the divine excellencies, and in these he is coequal, consubstantial, and coeternal with the Father (John 10:30; 14:9).

We teach that God the Father created “the heavens and the earth and all that is in them” according to his own will, through his Son, Jesus Christ, by whom all things continue in existence and in operations (John 1:3; Col. 1:15–17; Heb. 1:2).

We teach that in the incarnation (God becoming man) Christ surrendered only the prerogatives of deity but nothing of the divine essence, either in degree or kind. In his incarnation, the eternally existing second person of the Trinity accepted all the essential characteristics of humanity and so became the God-man (Phil. 2:5–8; Col. 2:9).

We teach that Jesus Christ represents humanity and deity in indivisible oneness (Mic. 5:2; John 5:23; 14:9–10; Col. 2:9).

We teach that our Lord Jesus Christ was virgin born (Isa. 7:14; Matt. 1:23, 25; Luke 1:26–35); that he was God incarnate (John 1:1, 14); and that the purpose of the incarnation was to reveal God, redeem men, and rule over God's kingdom (Ps. 2:7–9; Isa. 9:6; John 1:29; Phil. 2:9–11; Heb. 7:25–26; 1 Pet. 1:18–19).

We teach that, in the incarnation, the second person of the Trinity laid aside his right to the full prerogatives of coexistence with God, assumed the place of a Son, and took on an existence appropriate to a servant while never divesting himself of his divine attributes (Phil. 2:5–8).

We teach that our Lord Jesus Christ accomplished our redemption through the shedding of his blood and sacrificial death on the cross and that his death was voluntary, vicarious, substitutionary, propitiatory, and redemptive (John 10:15; Rom. 3:24–25; 5:8; 1 Pet. 2:24).

We teach that on the basis of the efficacy of the death of our Lord Jesus Christ, the believing sinner is freed from the punishment, the penalty, the power, and one day the very presence of sin; and that he is declared righteous, given eternal life, and adopted into the family of God (Rom. 3:25; 5:8–9; 2 Cor. 5:14–15; 1 Pet. 2:24; 3:18).

We teach that our justification is made sure by his literal, physical resurrection from the dead and that he is now ascended to the right hand of the Father, where he now mediates as our Advocate and High Priest (Matt. 28:6; Luke 24:38–39; Acts 2:30–31; Rom. 4:25; 8:34; Heb. 7:25; 9:24; 1 John 2:1).

We teach that in the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the grave, God confirmed the deity of his Son and gave proof that God has accepted the atoning work of Christ on the cross. Jesus' bodily resurrection is also the guarantee of a future resurrection life for all believers (John 5:26–29; 14:19; Rom. 4:25; 6:5–10; 1 Cor. 15:20, 23).

We teach that Jesus Christ will return to receive the church, which is his body, unto himself at the rapture and, returning with his church in glory, will establish his millennial kingdom on earth (Acts 1:9–11; 1 Thess. 4:13–18; Rev. 20).

We teach that the Lord Jesus Christ is the one through whom God will judge all mankind (John 5:22–23):

- I. Believers (1 Cor. 3:10–15; 2 Cor. 5:10);
- II. Living inhabitants of the earth at his glorious return (Matt. 25:31–46);
and
- III. Unbelieving dead at the great white throne (Rev. 20:11–15).

As the mediator between God and man (1 Tim. 2:5), the head of his body the church (Eph. 1:22; 5:23; Col. 1:18), and the coming universal King who will reign on the throne of David (Isa. 9:6–7; Ezek. 37:24–28; Luke 1:31–33), he is the final judge of all who fail to place their trust in him as Lord and Savior (Matt. 25:14–46; Acts 17:30–31).

God the Holy Spirit

We teach that the Holy Spirit is a divine person, eternal, underived, possessing all the attributes of personality and deity, including intellect (1 Cor. 2:10–13), emotions (Eph. 4:30), will (1 Cor. 12:11), eternity (Heb. 9:14), omnipresence (Ps. 139:7–10), omniscience (Isa. 40:13–14), omnipotence (Rom. 15:13), and truthfulness (John 16:13). In all the divine attributes he is coequal and consubstantial with the Father and the Son (Matt. 28:19; Acts 5:3–4; 28:25–26; 1 Cor. 12:4–6; 2 Cor. 13:14; and Jer. 31:31–34 with Heb. 10:15–17).

We teach that it is the work of the Holy Spirit to execute the divine will with relation to all mankind. We recognize his sovereign activity in the creation (Gen. 1:2), the incarnation (Matt. 1:18), the written revelation (2 Pet. 1:20–21), and the work of salvation (John 3:5–7).

We teach that a unique work of the Holy Spirit in this age began at Pentecost when he came from the Father as promised by Christ (John 14:16–17; 15:26) to initiate and complete the building of the body of Christ. His activity includes convicting the world of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment; glorifying the Lord Jesus Christ and transforming believers into the image of Christ (John 16:7–9; Acts 1:5; 2:4; Rom. 8:29; 2 Cor. 3:18; Eph. 2:22).

We teach that the Holy Spirit is the supernatural and sovereign agent in regeneration, baptizing all believers into the body of Christ (1 Cor. 12:13). The Holy Spirit also indwells, sanctifies, instructs, empowers them for service, and seals them unto the day of redemption (Rom. 8:9–11; 2 Cor. 3:6; Eph. 1:13).

We teach that the Holy Spirit is the divine teacher who guided the apostles and prophets into all truth as they committed to writing God's revelation, the Bible (2 Pet. 1:19–21). Every believer possesses the indwelling presence of the Holy Spirit from the moment of salvation, and it is the duty of all those born of the Spirit to be filled with (controlled by) the Spirit (Rom. 8:9–11; Eph. 5:18; 1 John 2:20, 27).

We teach that the Holy Spirit administers spiritual gifts to the church. The Holy Spirit glorifies neither himself nor his gifts by ostentatious displays, but he does glorify Christ by implementing his work of redeeming the lost and building up believers in the most holy faith (John 16:13–14; Acts 1:8; 1 Cor. 12:4–11; 2 Cor. 3:18).

We teach, in this respect, that God the Holy Spirit is sovereign in the bestowing of all his gifts for the perfecting of the saints today and that speaking in tongues and the working of sign miracles in the beginning days of the church were for the purpose of pointing to and authenticating the apostles as revealers of divine truth, and were never intended to be characteristic of the lives of believers (1 Cor. 12:4–11; 13:8–10; 2 Cor. 12:12; Eph. 4:7–12; Heb. 2:1–4).

Man

We teach that man was directly and immediately created by God in his image and likeness. Man was created free of sin with a rational nature, intelligence, volition, self-determination, and moral responsibility to God (Gen. 2:7, 15–25; James 3:9).

We teach that God's intention in the creation of man was that man should glorify God, enjoy God's fellowship, live his life in the will of God, and by this accomplish God's purpose for man in the world (Isa. 43:7; Col. 1:16; Rev. 4:11).

We teach that in Adam's sin of disobedience to the revealed will and word of God, man lost his innocence; incurred the penalty of spiritual and physical death; became subject to the wrath of God; and became inherently corrupt and utterly incapable of choosing or doing that which is acceptable to God apart from divine grace. With no recuperative powers to enable him to recover himself, man is hopelessly lost. Man's salvation is thereby wholly of God's grace through the redemptive work of our Lord Jesus Christ (Gen. 2:16–17; 3:1–19; John 3:36; Rom. 3:23; 6:23; 1 Cor. 2:14; Eph. 2:1–3; 1 Tim. 2:13–14; 1 John 1:8).

We teach that because all men were in Adam, a nature corrupted by Adam's sin has been transmitted to all men of all ages, Jesus Christ being the only exception. All men are thus sinners by nature, by choice, and by divine declaration (Ps. 14:1–3; Jer. 17:9; Rom. 3:9–18, 23; 5:10–12).

Salvation

We teach that salvation is wholly of God by grace on the basis of the redemption of Jesus Christ, the merit of his shed blood, and not on the basis of human merit or works (John 1:12; Eph. 1:4–7; 2:8–10; 1 Pet. 1:18–19).

Election

We teach that election is the act of God by which, before the foundation of the world, he chose in Christ those whom he graciously regenerates, saves, and sanctifies (Rom. 8:28–30; Eph. 1:4–11; 2 Thess. 2:13; 2 Tim. 2:10; 1 Pet. 1:1–2).

We teach that sovereign election does not contradict or negate the responsibility of man to repent and trust Christ as Savior and Lord (Ezek. 18:23, 32; 33:11; John 3:18–19, 36; 5:40; 2 Thess. 2:10–12; Rev. 22:17). Nevertheless, since sovereign grace includes the means of receiving the gift of salvation as well as the gift itself, sovereign election will result in what God determines. All whom the Father calls to himself will come in faith and all who come in faith the Father will receive (John 6:37–40, 44; Acts 13:48; James 4:8).

We teach that the unmerited favor that God grants to totally depraved sinners is not related to any initiative of their own part nor to God's anticipation of what they might do by their own will, but is solely of his sovereign grace and mercy (Eph. 1:4–7; Titus 3:4–7; 1 Pet. 1:2).

We teach that election should not be looked upon as based merely on abstract sovereignty. God is truly sovereign but he exercises this sovereignty in harmony with his other attributes, especially his omniscience, justice, holiness, wisdom, grace, and love (Rom. 9:11–16). This sovereignty will always exalt the will of God in a manner totally consistent with his character as revealed in the life of our Lord Jesus Christ (Matt. 11:25–28; 2 Tim. 1:9).

Regeneration

We teach that regeneration is a supernatural work of the Holy Spirit by which the divine nature and divine life are given (John 3:3–8; Titus 3:5). It is instantaneous and is accomplished solely by the power of the Holy Spirit through the instrumentality of the word of God (John 5:24), when the repentant sinner, as enabled by the Holy Spirit, responds in faith to the divine provision of salvation. Genuine regeneration is manifested by fruits worthy of repentance as demonstrated in righteous attitudes and conduct. Good works will be its proper evidence and fruit (1 Cor. 6:19–20; Eph. 5:17–21; Phil. 2:12b; Col. 3:12–17; 2 Pet. 1:4–11). This obedience causes the believer to be increasingly conformed to the image of our Lord Jesus Christ (2 Cor. 3:18). Such a conformity is climaxed in the believer’s glorification at Christ’s coming (Rom. 8:16–17; 2 Pet. 1:4; 1 John 3:2–3).

Justification

We teach that justification before God is an act of God (Rom. 8:30, 33) by which he declares righteous those who, through faith in Christ, repent of their sins (Luke 13:3; Acts 2:38; 3:19; 11:18; Rom. 2:4; 2 Cor. 7:10; Isa. 55:6–7) and confess him as sovereign Lord (Rom. 10:9–10; 1 Cor. 12:3; 2 Cor. 4:5; Phil. 2:11). This righteousness is apart from any virtue or work of man (Rom. 3:20; 4:6) and involves the placing of our sins on Christ (Col. 2:14; 1 Pet. 2:24) and the imputation of Christ’s righteousness to us (1 Cor. 1:2, 30; 6:11; 2 Cor. 5:21). By this means God is enabled to “be just and the justifier of the one who has faith in Jesus” (Rom. 3:26).

Sanctification

We teach that every believer is sanctified (set apart) unto God by justification and is therefore declared to be holy and is therefore identified as a saint. This sanctification is positional and instantaneous and should not be confused with progressive sanctification. This sanctification has to do with the believer’s standing, not his present walk or condition (Acts 20:32; 1 Cor. 1:2, 30; 6:11; 2 Thess. 2:13; Heb. 2:11; 3:1; 10:10, 14; 13:12; 1 Pet. 1:2).

We teach that there is also by the work of the Holy Spirit a progressive sanctification by which the state of the believer is brought closer to the likeness of Christ through obedience to the word of God and the empowering of the Holy Spirit. The believer is able to live a life of increasing holiness in conformity to the will of God, becoming more and more like our Lord Jesus Christ (John 17:17, 19; Rom. 6:1–22; 2 Cor. 3:18; 1 Thess. 4:3–4; 5:23).

In this respect, we teach that every saved person is involved in a daily conflict—the new creation in Christ doing battle against the flesh—but adequate provision is made for victory through the power of the indwelling Holy Spirit. The struggle nevertheless stays with the believer all through this earthly life and is never completely ended. All claims to the eradication of sin in this life are unscriptural. Eradication of sin is not possible, but the Holy Spirit does provide for victory over sin (Gal. 5:16–25; Phil. 3:12; Col. 3:9–10; 1 Pet. 1:14–16; 1 John 3:5–9).

Security

We teach that all the redeemed once saved are kept by God’s power and are thus secure in Christ forever (John 5:24; 6:37–40; 10:27–30; Rom. 5:9–10; 8:1, 31–39; 1 Cor. 1:4–9; Eph. 4:30; Heb. 7:25; 13:5; 1 Pet. 1:4–5; Jude 24).

We teach that it is the privilege of believers to rejoice in the assurance of their salvation through the testimony of God’s word, which however, clearly forbids the use of Christian liberty as an excuse for sinful living and carnality (Rom. 6:15–22; 13:13–14; Gal. 5:13, 16–17, 25–26; Titus 2:11–14).

Separation

We teach that separation from sin is clearly called for throughout the Old and New Testaments, and that the Scriptures clearly indicate that in the last days apostasy and worldliness shall increase (2 Cor. 6:14–7:1; 2 Tim. 3:1–5)

We teach that out of deep gratitude for the undeserved grace of God granted to us and because our glorious God is so worthy of our total consecration, all the saved should live in such a manner as to demonstrate our adoring love to God and so as not to bring reproach upon our Lord and Savior. We also teach the separation from any association with religious apostasy, and worldly and sinful practices is commanded of us by God (Rom. 12:1–2; 1 Cor. 5:9–13; 2 Cor. 6:14–7:1; 1 John 2:15–17; 2 John 9–11).

We teach that believers should be separated unto our Lord Jesus Christ (2 Thess. 1:11–12; Heb. 12:1–2) and affirm that the Christian life is a life of obedient righteousness demonstrated by a beatitude attitude (Matt. 5:2–12) and a continual pursuit of holiness (Rom. 12:1–2; 2 Cor. 7:1; Heb. 12:14; Titus 2:11–

14; 1 John 3:1–10).

The Church

We teach that all who place their faith in Jesus Christ are immediately placed by the Holy Spirit into one united spiritual body, the church (1 Cor. 12:12–13), the bride of Christ (2 Cor. 11:2; Eph. 5:23–32; Rev. 19:7–8), of which Christ is the head (Eph. 1:22; 4:15; Col. 1:18).

We teach that the formation of the church, the body of Christ, began on the day of Pentecost (Acts 2:1–21, 38–47) and will be completed at the coming of Christ for his own at the rapture (1 Cor. 15:51–52; 1 Thess. 4:13–18).

We teach that the church is thus a unique spiritual organism designed by Christ, made up of all born-again believers in this present age (Eph. 2:11–3:6). The church is distinct from Israel (1 Cor. 10:32), a mystery not revealed until this age (Eph. 3:1–6; 5:32).

We teach that the establishment and continuity of local churches is clearly taught and defined in the New Testament Scriptures (Acts 14:23, 27; 20:17, 28; Gal. 1:2; Phil. 1:1; 1 Thess. 1:1; 2 Thess. 1:1) and that the members of the one spiritual body are directed to associate themselves together in local assemblies (1 Cor. 11:18–20; Heb. 10:25).

We teach that the one supreme authority for the church is Christ (Eph. 1:22; Col. 1:18) and that church leadership, gifts, order, discipline, and worship are all appointed through his sovereignty as found in the Scriptures. The biblically designated officers serving under Christ and over the assembly are elders (males, who are also called bishops, pastors, and pastor-teachers; Acts 20:28; Eph. 4:11) and deacons, both of whom must meet biblical qualifications (1 Tim. 3:1–13; Titus 1:5–9; 1 Pet. 5:1–5).

We teach that these leaders lead or rule as servants of Christ (1 Tim. 5:17–22) and have his authority in directing the church. The congregation is to submit to their leadership (Heb. 13:7, 17).

We teach the importance of discipleship (Matt. 28:19–20; 2 Tim. 2:2), mutual accountability of all believers to each other (Matt. 18:15–17), as well as the need for discipline for sinning members of the congregation in accord with the standards of Scripture (Matt. 18:15–22; Acts 5:1–11; 1 Cor. 5:1–13; 2 Thess. 3:6–15; 1 Tim. 1:19–20; Titus 1:10–16).

We teach the autonomy of the local church, free from any external authority or control, with the right of self-government and freedom from the interference of any hierarchy of individuals or organizations (Titus 1:5). We teach that it is scriptural for true churches to cooperate with each other for the presentation and propagation of the faith. Local churches, however, through their pastors and their interpretation and application of Scripture, should be the sole judges of the measure and method of their cooperation (Acts 15:19–31; 20:28; 1 Cor. 5:4–7, 13; 1 Pet. 5:1–4).

We teach that the purpose of the church is to glorify God (Eph. 3:21) by building itself up in the faith (Eph. 4:13–16), by instruction of the word (2 Tim. 2:2, 15; 3:16–17), by fellowship (Acts 2:47; 1 John 1:3), by keeping the ordinances (Luke 22:19; Acts 2:38–42) and by advancing and communicating the gospel to the entire world (Matt. 28:19; Acts 1:8).

We teach the calling of all saints to the work of service (1 Cor. 15:58; Eph. 4:12; Rev. 22:12).

We teach the need of the church to cooperate with God as he accomplishes his purpose in the world. To that end, he gives the church spiritual gifts. First, he gives men chosen for the purpose of equipping the saints for the work of the ministry (Eph. 4:7–12) and he also gives unique and special spiritual abilities to each member of the body of Christ (Rom. 12:5–8; 1 Cor. 12:4–31; 1 Pet. 4:10–11).

We teach that there were two kinds of gifts given the early church: miraculous gifts of divine revelation and healing, given temporarily in the apostolic era for the purpose of confirming the authenticity of the apostles' message (Heb. 2:3–4; 2 Cor. 12:12); and ministering gifts, given to equip believers for edifying one another. With the New Testament revelation now complete, Scripture becomes the sole test of the authenticity of a man's message, and confirming gifts of a miraculous nature are no longer necessary to validate a man or his message (1 Cor. 13:8–12). Miraculous gifts can even be counterfeited by Satan so as to deceive even believers (Matt. 24:24). The only gifts in operation today are those non-revelatory equipping gifts given for edification (Rom. 12:6–8).

We teach that no one possesses the gift of healing today but that God does hear and answer the prayer of faith and will answer in accordance with his own perfect will for the sick, suffering, and afflicted (Luke 18:1–8; John 5:7–9; 2 Cor. 12:6–10; James 5:13–16; 1 John 5:14–15).

We teach that two ordinances have been committed to the local church: baptism and the Lord’s Supper (Acts 2:38–42). Christian baptism by immersion (Acts 8:36–39) is the solemn and beautiful testimony of a believer showing forth his faith in the crucified, buried, and risen Savior, and his union with him in death to sin and resurrection to a new life (Rom. 6:1–11). It is also a sign of fellowship and identification with the visible body of Christ (Acts 2:41–42).

We teach that the Lord’s Supper is the commemoration and proclamation of his death until he comes, and should be always preceded by solemn self-examination (1 Cor. 11:23–32). We also teach that whereas the elements of communion are only representative of the flesh and blood of Christ, the Lord’s Supper is nevertheless an actual Communion with the risen Christ who is present in a unique way, fellowshiping with his people (1 Cor. 10:16).

Angels

Holy Angels

We teach that angels are created beings and are therefore not to be worshiped. Although they are a higher order of creation than man, they are created to serve God and to worship him (Luke 2:9–14; Heb. 1:6–7, 14; 2:6–7; Rev. 5:11–14).

Fallen Angels

We teach that Satan is a created angel and the author of sin. He incurred the judgment of God by rebelling against his Creator (Isa. 14:12–17; Ezek. 28:11–19), by taking numerous angels with him in his fall (Matt. 25:41; Rev. 12:1–14), and by introducing sin into the human race by his temptation of Eve (Gen. 3:1–15).

We teach that Satan is the open and declared enemy of God and man (Isa. 14:13–14; Matt. 4:1–11; Rev. 12:9–10), the prince of this world who has been defeated through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ (Rom. 16:20) and that he shall be eternally punished in the lake of fire (Isa. 14:12–17; Ezek. 28:11–19; Matt. 25:41; Rev. 20:10).

Last Things (Eschatology)

Death

We teach that physical death involves no loss of our immaterial consciousness (Rev. 6:9–11), that there is a separation of soul and body (James 2:26), that the soul of the redeemed passes immediately into the presence of Christ (Luke 23:43; 2 Cor. 5:8; Phil. 1:23), and that, for the redeemed, such separation will continue until the rapture (1 Thess. 4:13–17) which initiates the first resurrection (Rev. 20:4–6), when our soul and body will be reunited to be glorified forever with our Lord (1 Cor. 15:35–44, 50–54; Phil. 3:21). Until that time, the souls of the redeemed in Christ remain in joyful fellowship with our Lord Jesus Christ (2 Cor. 5:8).

We teach the bodily resurrection of all men, the saved to eternal life (John 6:39; Rom. 8:10–11, 19–23; 2 Cor. 4:14), and the unsaved to judgment and everlasting punishment (Dan. 12:2; John 5:29; Rev. 20:13–15).

We teach that the souls of the unsaved at death are kept under punishment until the final resurrection (Luke 16:19–26; Rev. 20:13–15), when the soul and the resurrection body will be united (John 5:28–29). They shall then appear at the great white throne judgment (Rev. 20:11–15) and shall be cast into hell, the lake of fire (Matt. 25:41–46), cut off from the life of God forever (Dan. 12:2; Matt. 25:41–46; 2 Thess. 1:7–9).

The Rapture of the Church

We teach the personal, bodily return of our Lord Jesus Christ before the seven-year tribulation (1 Thess. 4:16; Titus 2:13) to translate his church from this earth (John 14:1–3; 1 Cor. 15:51–53; 1 Thess. 4:15–5:11) and, between this event and his glorious return with his saints, to reward believers according to their works (1 Cor. 3:11–15; 2 Cor. 5:10).

The Tribulation Period

We teach that immediately following the removal of the church from the earth

(John 14:1–3; 1 Thess. 4:13–18) the righteous judgments of God will be poured out upon an unbelieving world (Jer. 30:7; Dan. 9:27; 12:1; 2 Thess. 2:7–12; Rev. 16), and that these judgments will be climaxed by the return of Christ in glory to the earth (Matt. 24:27–31; 25:31–46; 2 Thess. 2:7–12). At that time the Old Testament and tribulation saints will be raised and the living will be judged (Dan. 12:2–3; Rev. 20:4–6). This period includes the seventieth week of Daniel’s prophecy (Dan. 9:24–27; Matt. 24:15–31; 25:31–46).

The Second Coming and the Millennial Reign

We teach that after the tribulation period, Christ will come to earth to occupy the throne of David (Matt. 25:31; Luke 1:32–33; Acts 1:10–11; 2:29–30) and establish his messianic kingdom for a thousand years on the earth (Rev. 20:1–7). During this time the resurrected saints will reign with him over Israel and all the nations of the earth (Ezek. 37:21–28; Dan. 7:17–22; Rev. 19:11–16). This reign will be preceded by the overthrow of the Antichrist and the False Prophet, and by the removal of Satan from the world (Dan. 7:17–27; Rev. 20:1–6).

We teach that the kingdom itself will be the fulfillment of God’s promise to Israel (Isa. 65:17–25; Ezek. 37:21–28; Zech. 8:1–17) to restore them to the land which they forfeited through their disobedience (Deut. 28:15–68). The result of their disobedience was that Israel was temporarily set aside (Matt. 21:43; Rom. 11:1–26) but will again be awakened through repentance to enter into the land of blessing (Jer. 31:31–34; Ezek. 36:22–32; Rom. 11:25–29).

We teach that this time of our Lord’s reign will be characterized by harmony, justice, peace, righteousness, and long life (Isa. 11; 65:17–25; Ezek. 36:33–38), and will be brought to an end with the release of Satan (Rev. 20:7).

The Judgment of the Lost

We teach that following the release of Satan after the thousand-year reign of Christ (Rev. 20:7), Satan will deceive the nations of the earth and gather them to battle against the saints and the beloved city, at which time Satan and his army will be devoured by fire from heaven (Rev. 20:9). Following this, Satan will be thrown into the lake of fire and brimstone (Matt. 25:41; Rev. 20:10) whereupon Christ, who is the judge of all men (John 5:22), will resurrect and judge the great and small at the great white throne judgment.

We teach that this resurrection of the unsaved dead to judgment will be a physical resurrection, whereupon receiving their judgment (John 5:28–29), they will be committed to an eternal conscious punishment in the lake of fire (Matt. 25:41; Rev. 20:11–15).

Eternity

We teach that after the closing of the Millennium, the temporary release of Satan, and the judgment of unbelievers (2 Thess. 1:9; Rev. 20:7–15), the saved will enter the eternal state of glory with God, after which the elements of this earth are to be dissolved (2 Pet. 3:10) and replaced with a new earth wherein only righteousness dwells (Eph. 5:5; Rev. 20:15; 21–22). Following this, the heavenly city will come down out of heaven (Rev. 21:2) and will be the dwelling place of the saints, where they will enjoy forever fellowship with God and one another (John 17:3; Rev. 21–22). Our Lord Jesus Christ, having fulfilled his redemptive mission, will then deliver up the kingdom to God the Father (1 Cor. 15:23–28) that in all spheres the triune God may reign forever and ever (1 Cor. 15:28).

Tables of Weights and Measures and Monetary Units

The Hebrews probably first used coins in the Persian period (500-350 B.C.). However, minting began around 700 B.C. in other nations. Prior to this, precious metals were weighed, not counted as money. Some units appear as both measures of money and measures of weights. This comes from naming the coins after their weight. For example, the shekel was a weight long before it became the name of a coin. It is helpful to relate biblical monies to current values. But we cannot make exact equivalents. The fluctuating value of money's purchasing power is difficult to determine in our own day. It is even harder to evaluate currencies used two-to three-thousand years ago. Therefore, it is best to choose a value meaningful over time, such as a common laborer's daily wage. One day's wage corresponds to the ancient Jewish system (a silver shekel is four day's wages) as well as to the Greek and Roman systems (the drachma and the denarius were each coins representing a day's wage). The monies chart below takes a current day's wage as thirty-two dollars. Though there are differences of economies and standards of living, this measure will help us apply meaningful value to the monetary units in the chart and in the biblical text.

The Flood Chronology

The Flood Chronology
1. In the 600th year of Noah (second month, tenth day), Noah entered the ark ( Gen. 7:4 , 10 , 11 ).
2. In the 600th year of Noah (second month, seventeenth day), the flood began ( Gen. 7:11 ).
3. The waters flooded the earth for 150 days (five months of 30 days each), including the 40 days and 40 nights of rain ( Gen. 7:12 , 17 , 24 ; 8:1 ), plus the initial receding.

4. The waters further receded to the point that (600th year, seventh month, seventeenth day) the ark rested on Ararat ( Gen. 8:3, 4 )
5. The waters continued to abate so that (600th year, tenth month, first day) the tops of the mountains were visible ( Gen. 8:5 ).
6. Forty days later (600th year, eleventh month, tenth day) Noah sent out a raven and a dove ( Gen. 8:6 ). Over the next 14 days, Noah sent out two more doves ( Gen. 8:10, 12 ). In all, this took 61 days or two months and one day.
7. By Noah's 601st year on the first month, the first day, the water had dried up ( Gen. 8:12, 13 ).
8. Noah waited one month and 26 days before he disembarked in the second month, the twenty-seventh day of his 601st year. From beginning to end, the flood lasted one year and 10 days from Gen. 7:11 to Gen. 8:14 .

Ruth: The Proverbs 31 Wife

Ruth: The Proverbs 31 Wife
The “virtuous” wife of Prov. 31:10 is personified by “virtuous” Ruth of whom the same Hebrew word is used ( Ruth 3:11 ). With amazing parallel, they share at least eight character traits (see below). One wonders (in concert with Jewish tradition) if King Lemuel’s mother might not have been Bathsheba, who orally passed the family heritage of Ruth’s spotless reputation along to David’s son Solomon. Lemuel, which means “devoted to God,” could have been a family name for Solomon (cf. Jedediah, 2 Sam. 12:25), who then could have penned Prov. 31:10–31 with Ruth in mind. Each woman was:

1. Devoted to her family (Ruth 1:15–18 // Prov. 31:10–12, 23)
2. Delighting in her work (Ruth 2:2 // Prov. 31:13)
3. Diligent in her labor (Ruth 2:7, 17, 23 // Prov. 31:14–18, 19–21, 24, 27)
4. Dedicated to godly speech (Ruth 2:10, 13 // Prov. 31:26)
5. Dependent on God (Ruth 2:12 // Prov. 31:25b, 30)
6. Dressed with care (Ruth 3:3 // Prov. 31:22, 25a)
7. Discreet with men (Ruth 3:6–13 // Prov. 31:11–12, 23)
8. Delivering blessings (Ruth 4:14–15 // Prov. 31:28–29, 31)

The Chronicle's Sources

The Chronicles' Sources
The inspiration of Scripture ( 2 Tim. 3:16 ) was sometimes accomplished through direct revelation from God without a human writer, e.g., the Mosaic law. At other times, God used human sources, as mentioned in Luke 1:1–4 . Such was the experience of the chronicler as evidenced by the many contributing sources. Whether the material came through direct revelation or by existing resources, God's inspiration through the Holy Spirit prevented the original human authors of Scripture from any error (2 Pet. 1:19–21). Although relatively few scribal errors have been made in copying Scripture, they can be identified and corrected. Thus, the original, inerrant content of the Bible has been preserved.

Anointing of the Holy Spirit in the Old Testament

Old Testament Israel had mediators who stood between God and his people. To empower the OT mediators, the Holy Spirit gave special administrative ability to carry out the management of the nation and military skills that enabled them to defeat the theocracy's enemies. The Lord first anointed Moses with this ministry of the Spirit, and then in a truly dramatic scene, took some of this ministry of the Spirit and shared it with the 70 elders. Thus they were enabled to help Moses administer Israel (Num. 11:17-25).

Also Joshua (Deut. 34:9), the judges (Judg. 3:10; 6:34), and the kings of united Israel and the southern kingdom were anointed with this special ministry of the Spirit. When the Spirit of the Lord came upon King Saul, for example, he was in effect given “another heart” (1 Sam. 10:6-10). This does not mean that he was regenerated at this point in his life, but that he was given skills to be a king. Later the theocratic anointing was taken from Saul and given to David (1 Sam. 16:1-14). Saul, from that time on, became a totally incapable leader.

King David no doubt had this special ministry of the Spirit in mind in his prayer of repentance in Psalm 51. He was not afraid of losing his salvation when he prayed, “take not your Holy Spirit from me” (Ps. 51:11), but rather was concerned that God would remove this spiritual wisdom and administrative skill from him. David had earlier seen such a tragedy in the life of Saul when that king of Israel lost the anointing of the Holy Spirit. David was thus pleading with God not to remove his hand of guidance.

King Solomon also perceived his youthful inabilities at the beginning of his reign and requested God to give him special wisdom in administering Israel. God was greatly pleased with this request and granted an extra measure to the young man (1 Kings 3:7-12, 28; 4:29-34). Although the OT is silent in this regard about the kings who succeeded Solomon, the theocratic anointing of the Spirit likely came on all of the descendants of David in connection with the Davidic Covenant.

When the theocracy went out of existence as Judah was carried away into captivity, and the last Davidic king was disempowered, the theocratic anointing was no longer given (Ezek. 8-11). The kings of the northern tribes, on the other hand, being essentially apostate and not in the Davidic line, never had the benefit of this special ministry of the Spirit.

Solomon Reflects on Genesis

Solomon Reflects on Genesis
Toward the end of his life, the penitent King Solomon pondered life in the wake of the fall and the outworking of man’s sin. Solomon drew the following conclusions, possibly from his own study of Genesis :
1.	God created the heavens and earth with laws of design and regularity ( Eccles. 1:2–7 ; 3:1–8 ; cf. Gen. 1:1–31 ; 8:22 ).
2.	Man is created from dust and returns to dust ( Eccles. 3:20 ; 12:7 ; cf. Gen. 2:7 ; 3:19 ).
3.	God placed in man his life-giving breath ( Eccles. 12:7 ; cf. Gen. 2:7 ).
4.	As God ordained it, marriage is one of life’s most enjoyable blessings ( Eccles. 9:9 ; cf. Gen. 2:18–25 ).
5.	Divine judgment results from the fall ( Eccles. 3:14–22 ; 11:9 ; 12:14 ; cf. Gen. 2:17 ; 3:1–19 ).
6.	The effect of the curse on creation is “vanity,” i.e., futility ( Eccles. 1:5–8 ; cf. Gen. 3:17–19 ).
7.	Labor after the fall is difficult and yields little profit ( Eccles. 1:3 , 13 ; 2:3 ; 3:9–11 ; cf. Gen. 3:17–19 ).
8.	Death overcomes all creatures after the fall ( Eccles. 8:8 ; 9:4–5 ; cf. Gen. 2:17 ; 3:19 ).
9.	After the fall, man’s heart is desperately wicked ( Eccles. 7:20 , 29 ; 8:11 ; 9:3 ; cf. Gen. 3:22 ; 6:5 ; 8:21 ).
10.	God withholds certain knowledge and wisdom from man for his wise, but unspoken, reasons ( Eccles. 6:12 ; 8:17 ; cf. Gen. 3:22 ).

The “I am” Statements

The “I am” Statements
Twenty-three times in all we find our Lord’s meaningful “I am” (ego eimi, Greek) in the Greek text of this Gospel ( John 4:26 ; 6:20 , 35 , 41 , 48 , 51 ; 8:12 , 18 , 24 , 28 , 58 ; 10:7 , 9 , 11 , 14 ; 11:25 ; 13:19 ; 14:6 ; 15:1 , 5 ; 18:5 , 6 , 8 ). In several of these, he joins his “I am” with seven tremendous metaphors, which are expressive of his saving relationship toward the world.
“I am the bread of life” ( John 6:35 , 41 , 48 , 51 ).
“I am the light of the world” ( John 8:12 ).
“I am the door of the sheep” ( John 10:7 , 9 ).
“I am the good shepherd” ( John 10:11 , 14 ).
“I am the resurrection and the life” ( John 11:25 ).
“I am the way, and the truth, and the life” ( John 14:6 ).
“I am the true vine” ( John 15:1 , 5 ).

The Glories of Christ

The Glories of Christ

“Not that we are sufficient in ourselves to claim anything as coming from us, but our sufficiency is from God . . .” (2 Cor. 3:5)

One of the great tenets of Scripture is the claim that Jesus Christ is completely sufficient for all matters of life and godliness (2 Pet. 1:3–4)! He is sufficient for creation (Col. 1:16–17), salvation (Heb. 10:10–12), sanctification (Eph. 5:26–27), and glorification (Rom. 8:30). So pure is he that there is no blemish, stain, spot of sin, defilement, lying, deception, corruption, error, or imperfection (1 Pet. 1:18–20).

So complete is he that there is no other God besides him (Isa. 45:5); he is the only begotten Son (John 1:14, 18); all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge are in him (Col. 2:3); the fullness of deity dwells bodily in him (Col. 2:9); he is heir of all things (Heb. 1:2); he created all things and all things were made by him, through him, and for him (Col. 1:16); he holds all things together by the word of his power (Col. 1:17; Heb. 1:3); he is the firstborn of all creation (Col. 1:15); he is the exact imprint of God (Heb. 1:3).

He is the only Mediator between God and man; he is the Sun that enlightens; the Physician that heals; the Wall of Fire that defends; the Friend that comforts; the Pearl that enriches; the Ark that supports; and the Rock to sustain under the heaviest of pressures; he is seated at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty on high (Heb. 1:3; 8:1); he is superior to the angels (Heb. 1:4–14); better than Moses; better than Aaron; better than Joshua; better than Melchizedek; better than all the prophets; greater than Satan (Luke 4:1–12); and stronger than death (1 Cor. 15:55).

Table of Nations

Many of the people groups mentioned in Gen. 10 can be identified with relative certainty. In general, the descendants of Ham settled in North Africa and the eastern Mediterranean coast, the descendants of Shem in Mesopotamia and Arabia, and the descendants of Japheth in Europe and the greater area of Asia Minor.

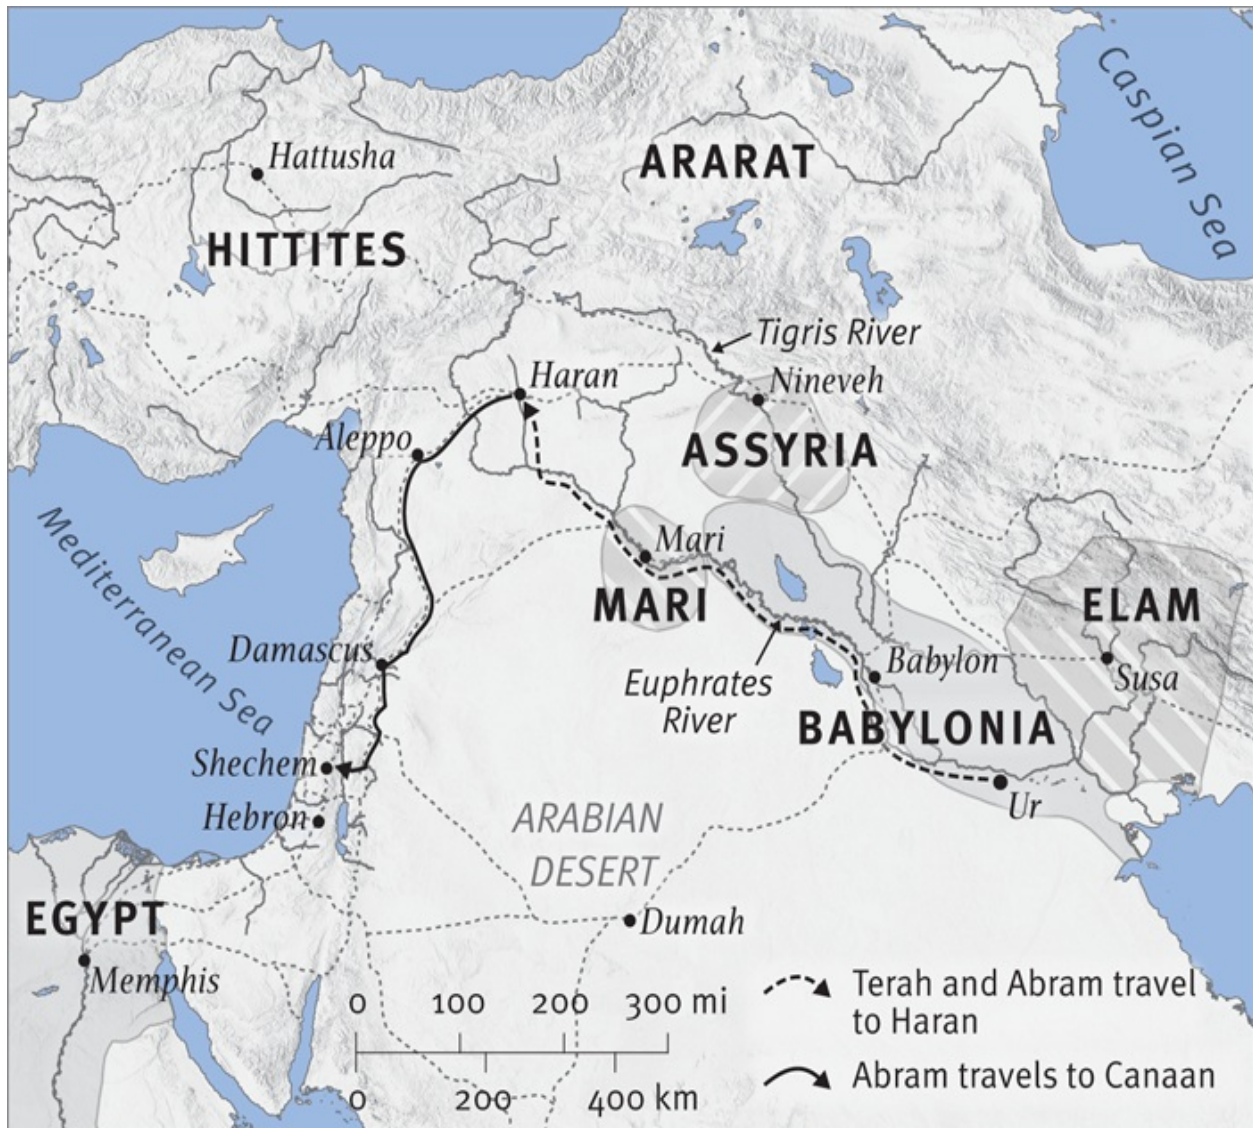

---

Abram Travels to Canaan

c. 2091/1925 B.C.

Abram was born in Ur, a powerful city in southern Babylonia. Abram's father, Terah, eventually led the family toward the land of Canaan but decided to settle in Haran (see Gen. 11:27–31). After Terah's death, the Lord called Abram to go "to the land that I will show you" (Canaan), which he promises to give to Abram's descendants.

Jacob Returns to Canaan

c. 1976/1810 B.C.

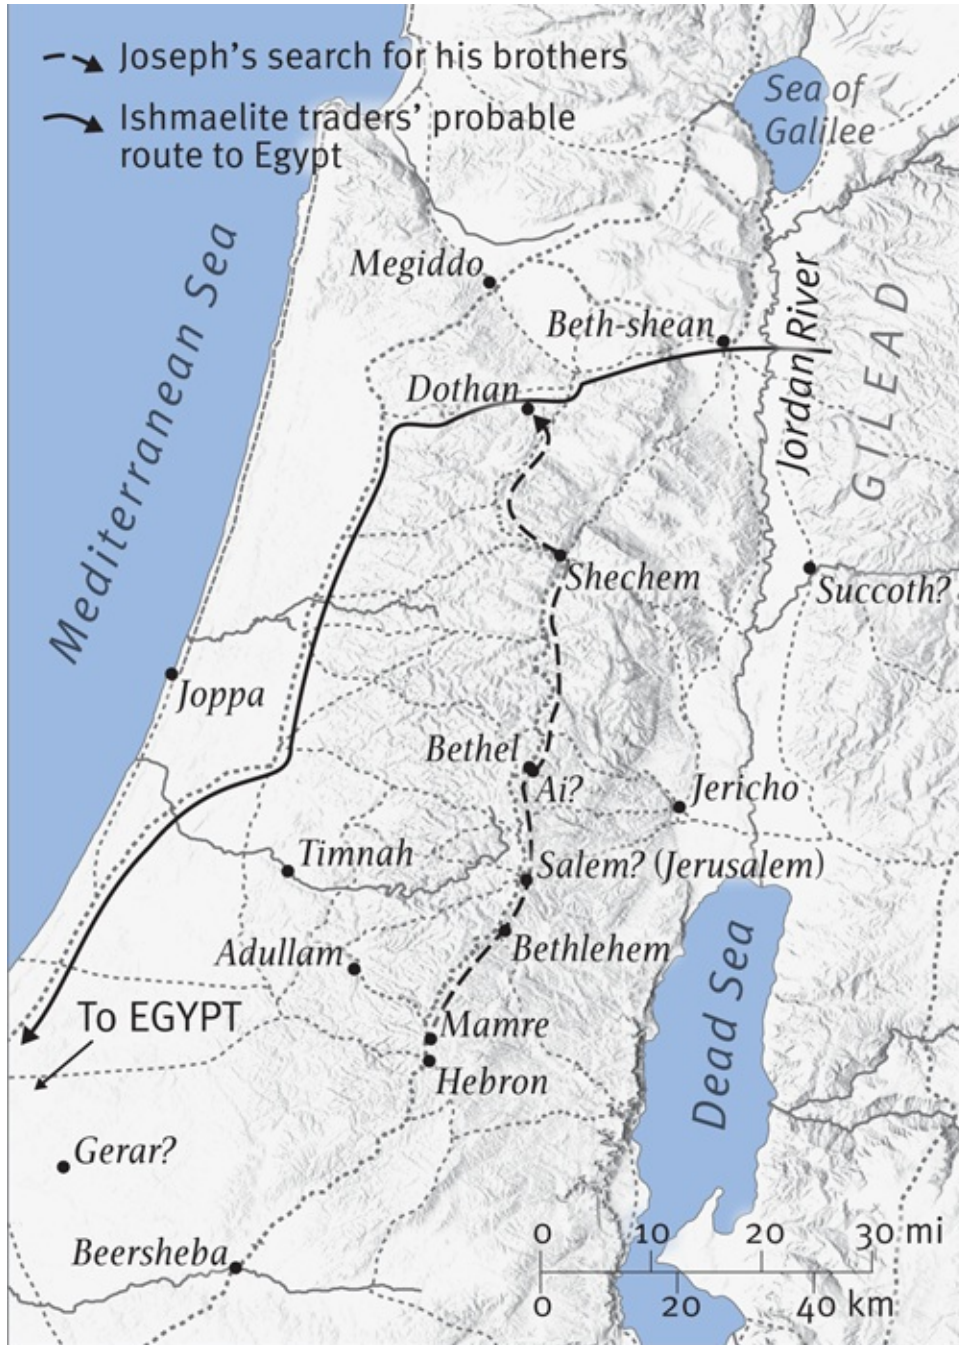

After acquiring wealth in Paddan-aram, Jacob returned to Canaan. He came to Mahanaim, where he sent his household ahead of him and crossed the Jabbok alone. There he wrestled with a mysterious man until morning and named the place Peniel (also called Penuel). Jacob then encountered his brother Esau, who had come from Edom to meet him. After the two were reconciled, Esau returned to Edom, while Jacob journeyed to Canaan.

Joseph and his Brothers

c. 1900/1730 B.C.

Jacob sent Joseph from Hebron to Shechem to find his brothers, who had been pasturing their father's flock. When Joseph arrived, he learned that his brothers had gone on to Dothan, so he went there and found them. His brothers threw him into a pit and later sold him to some Ishmaelite spice traders on their way from Gilead to Egypt. The traders took Joseph to Egypt and sold him to Potiphar, the captain of Pharaoh's guard.

The Journey to Mount Sinai

1446/1260 B.C.

Among the many theories regarding the route of the exodus, the traditional route to Jebel Musa is considered by many scholars to be the most plausible. Beginning at Rameses, the Israelites journeyed to Succoth, but these two sites are the only ones on the route identified with certainty. From there they traveled to Etham and Pi-hahiroth, where they crossed the Red Sea. From there they traveled to Marah, Elim, Rephidim, and finally Mount Sinai.

The Journey to Canaan

It is difficult to know for certain the exact route the Israelites took from Kadesh-barnea to the plains of Moab, but it is possible that they followed a course shown here, going around the lands of Edom and Moab along a desert route after they were refused passage through them.

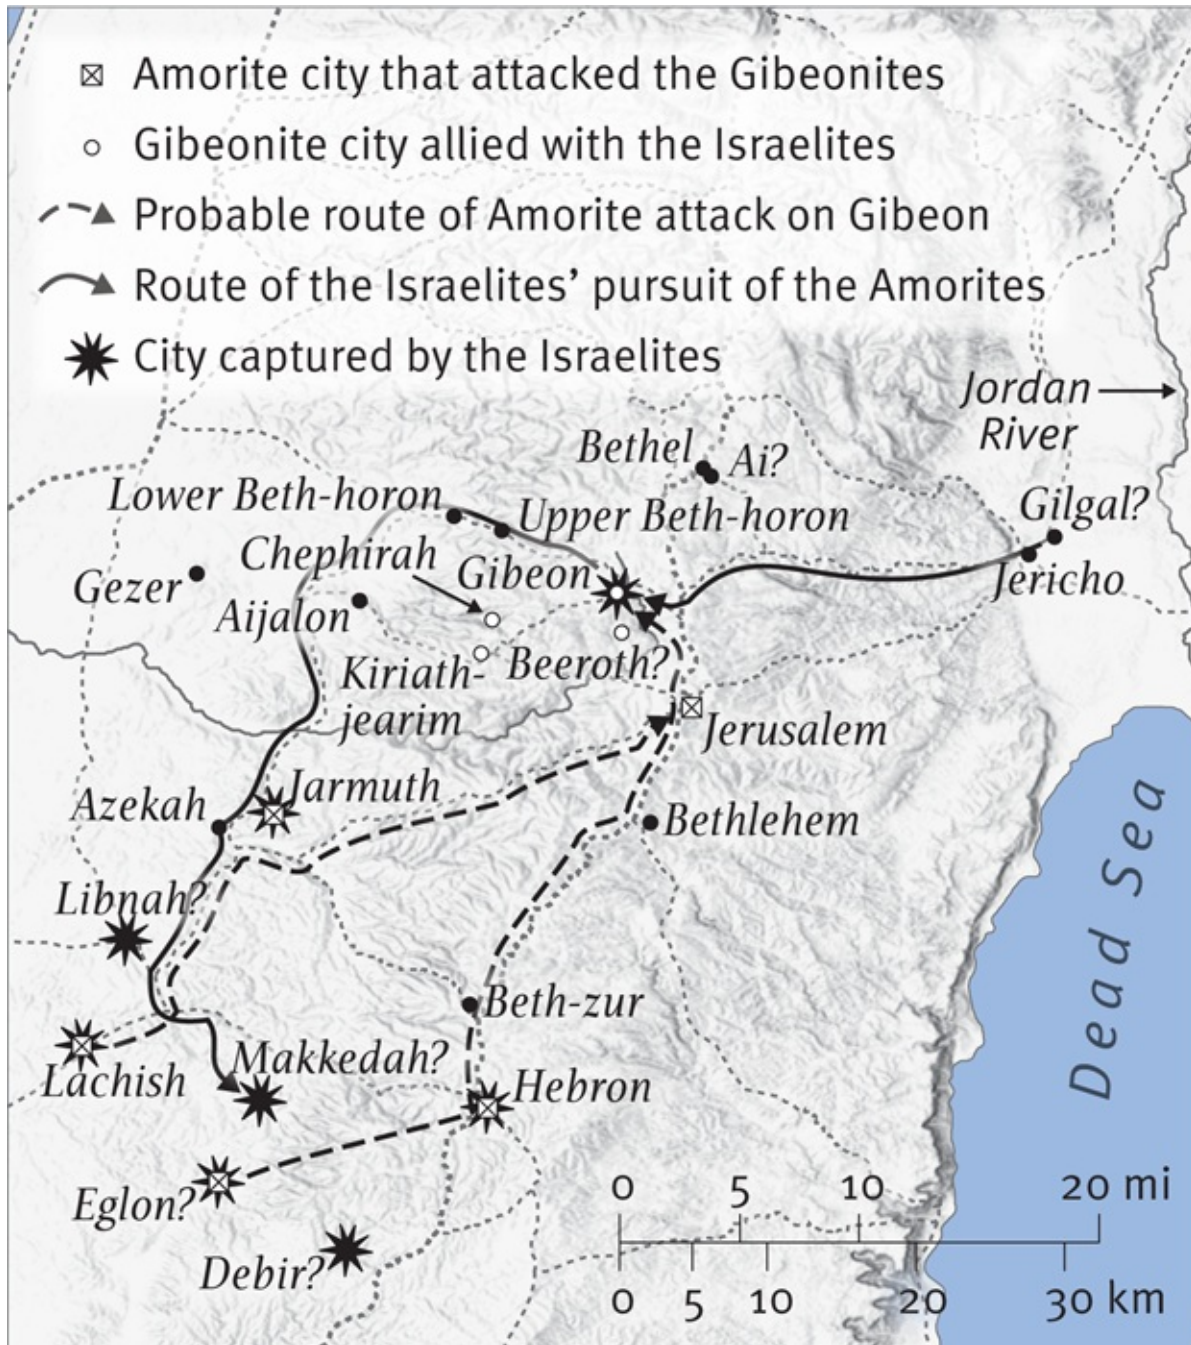

---

The Conquest of Canaan: The Southern Campaign

c. 1400 B.C.

Upon hearing that the Gibeonites signed a peace treaty with the Israelites, five Amorite cities attacked Gibeon. Joshua's forces came up from Gilgal to defend the Gibeonites, and they chased the Amorites as far as Azekah and Makkedah. Joshua's forces continued their attack until they had captured Libnah, Lachish, Makkedah, Eglon, Debir, Hebron, and most likely Jarmuth.

The Conquest of Canaan: The Northern Campaign

c. 1400 B.C.

After Joshua's forces defeated several Amorite kings in the south, the king of Hazor assembled the northern Canaanite kings to battle the Israelites. Joshua and his men defeated the Canaanites at the waters of Merom and pursued them to Great Sidon and the Valley of Mizpeh. Then Joshua turned back and captured the city of Hazor.

---

The Allotment of the Land

c. 1400 B.C.

During the conquest of Canaan, Joshua allotted the land to the tribes of Israel. These boundaries, however, do not necessarily reflect the land each tribe actually inhabited by the end of the conquest. Several tribes, such as Dan, were unable to drive out the Canaanites that lived in much of their allotted territory (19:47), while other tribes controlled portions of land that were not originally allotted to them (e.g., 17:11).

The Judges of Israel

c. 1375–1050/1210–1050 B.C.

The judges came from various tribes and regions of Israel, and they likely held varying degrees of influence over their neighboring regions and tribes.

The Setting of Ruth

Set in the period of the judges, the book of Ruth records how a famine in Judah forces Naomi and her husband to leave Israel and move to Moab, where their sons marry Moabite women. When Naomi's husband and sons die, she decides to return to her home in Bethlehem in Judah, and her daughter-in-law Ruth chooses to go with her.

The Setting of 1 Samuel

c. 1050 B.C.

The book of 1 Samuel is set in Israel during the time of transition between the period of the judges and the period of the monarchy. It opens with Samuel's birth and then describes his role as judge over Israel. When the people ask for a king, the Lord instructs Samuel to anoint Saul as Israel's first king.

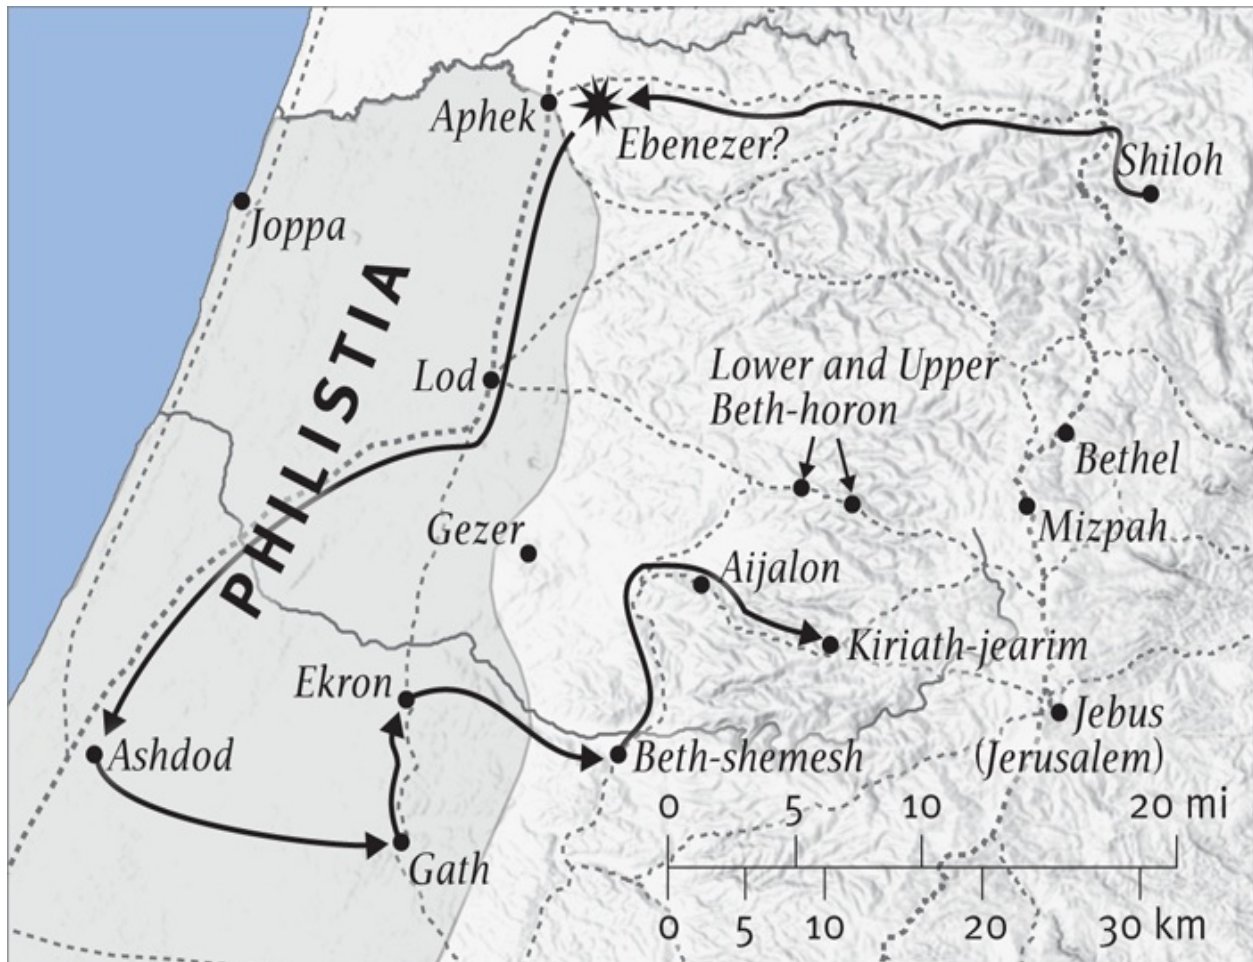

---

The Ark's Travels in 1 Samuel 3–7

After suffering losses in battle against the Philistines at Ebenezer, the Israelite forces called for the ark of the covenant to be brought to the battle from Shiloh. But the Israelites were defeated again, and the Philistines captured the ark. The ark's presence in each Philistine city caused the people to suffer terrible tumors, so it was sent away to another city. Eventually the ark was returned to Israel at Beth-shemesh, and then it was brought to Kiriath-jearim, where it remained for some 20 years.

Saul Rescues Jabesh-gilead

c. 1050 B.C.

Soon after Saul was anointed king of Israel, the people of Jabesh-gilead were attacked by the Ammonites. When Saul heard the news at Gibeah, he quickly mustered the Israelite forces at Bezek and defeated the Ammonites in battle. Samuel then called upon the people to confirm Saul's kingship at Gilgal.

The Battle at Michmash

As the Philistines strengthened their grip on the central hill country of Israel, they placed troops at Michmash and sent raiding parties into the countryside. After Saul's son Jonathan captured the town of Geba, Saul mustered more Israelite forces at Gilgal and joined Jonathan. A daring raid by Jonathan across the ravine separating Michmash and Geba led to an Israelite victory over the Philistines, and the Israelites drove them from the hill country.

David Flees from Saul

David's growing reputation among the people as a warrior and leader incited Saul's jealousy, and Saul began trying to kill David. David fled from Saul in Gibeah (1) and went to Samuel at Naioth in Ramah (2), but soon Saul sought him there, and David fled back to Jonathan in Gibeah (3). After Jonathan warned David of Saul's determination to kill him, David fled to Ahimelech the priest at Nob (4), where he collected food and Goliath's sword. David briefly sought refuge in the Philistine city of Gath (5) and then set up his headquarters at the cave of Adullam (6), where the ranks of his army swelled to 400 men. In order to protect his parents from harm, David left them in the care of the king of Moab at Mizpeh (7) and went to live in "the stronghold" (8). After some time, David went to the forest of Hereth (9) and then left to rescue nearby Keilah (10) from some Philistine raiding parties. When David heard that Saul was coming to Keilah, he and his growing army of 600 men relocated to the wilderness of Ziph (11). After the men of Ziph betrayed David to Saul, David and his men went to live in the wilderness of Maon (12) and narrowly escaped capture there by Saul. Fleeing the strongholds of Engedi (13), David again evaded capture by Saul and refused an opportunity to take Saul's life. David returned to "the stronghold" (14) and then to the wilderness of Paran (15). While he was there, David was again betrayed to Saul by the men of Ziph and refused another opportunity to take Saul's life. Finally, David and his men sought refuge with Achish, the king of Gath (16).

The Setting of 2 Samuel

The book of 2 Samuel recounts David's reign over Israel and his battles to establish Israel as the dominant power in Syria and Palestine. David expanded Israel's borders from Saul's fledgling territory until, by the end of his reign, he controlled all of Israel, Edom, Moab, Ammon, Syria, and Zobah. Other kingdoms, such as Tyre and Hamath, established treaties with him.

David Captures the Stronghold of Zion

After securing his reign over all Israel, David moved his capital from Hebron, a southern city of Judah, to a more central and tribally neutral location at Jerusalem. At the time, Jerusalem (called “the stronghold of Zion”) was held by the Jebusites, and its terraced defensive walls and nearby steep hills and valleys made it seem impenetrable. But David sent men up a water shaft (believed by some to be Warren’s Shaft) to capture the stronghold, and he renamed it the city of David.

---

c. 950 B.C.

Through various building projects Solomon began to transform the small military stronghold of the city of David into a full-scale city that would be the geographical center of Israelite religion. He built the temple of the Lord and the royal palace complex on the hill to the north of the stronghold and encircled it with a wall. Ironically, Solomon also allowed his many foreign wives to establish pagan shrines on the hill to the east of the city, which would later be called the Mount of Corruption.

Solomon's International Ventures

c. 950 B.C.

Solomon's firm control of important trade routes linking Egypt, Arabia, Mesopotamia, and Anatolia (Asia Minor) provided him with incalculable wealth. Partnering with King Hiram of Tyre, Solomon also launched his own trading expeditions to Ophir to acquire valuable and exotic goods. The queen of Sheba's visit to Solomon attests to his great fame throughout the ancient world. Solomon further augmented his wealth by buying horses from Kue and chariots from Egypt and selling them to the kings of Syria and the Hittites.

---

The Kingdom Divides

When Solomon's son Rehoboam arrived at Shechem for his coronation after his father's death, he refused to lighten his father's heavy tax burden on the people, and the 10 northern tribes revolted and set up Jeroboam as their king. The northern kingdom would now be known as Israel and the southern kingdom as Judah. Five years later, Shishak (also called Sheshonq) king of Egypt invaded Judah and Israel and captured a number of towns. Rehoboam avoided Jerusalem's destruction by paying off Shishak with many of the treasures Solomon had placed in the temple.

Elijah and Elisha

c. 875–797 B.C.

Elijah and his successor Elisha figure prominently in 1 and 2 Kings as they prophesied against the wickedness of Ahab and Joram (also called Jehoram) of Israel. Elijah's opposition to pagan worship also put him at odds with Jezebel, Ahab's Phoenician wife, who supported hundreds of prophets of Baal and Asherah. Eventually Elisha sent someone to anoint Jehu, one of Joram's commanders, to be the next king and to execute judgment on the entire family of Ahab.

---

The Fall of Samaria and Deportation of Israelites

722 B.C.

During the reign of Hoshea of Israel, Shalmaneser of Assyria attacked Israel and made it a vassal kingdom. Later, however, Hoshea conspired against Assyria, refusing to pay the tribute and appealing to Egypt for help, so the Assyrians came and besieged Samaria until it fell. Many Israelites were exiled far from Israel to the area near Gozan and the cities of the Medes, and foreign peoples from other parts of the empire were relocated to Israel in an effort to prevent revolt. This signaled the end of the northern kingdom of Israel.

Exile to Babylon

597, 586 B.C.

The final years of the kingdom of Judah were marked by a power struggle between the Egyptians and the Babylonians, the rising power that had overtaken the Assyrian Empire. King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon eventually won out and seized control of the Mediterranean coastal lands. When Zedekiah, who had been placed on the throne of Judah by the Babylonians, rebelled, Nebuchadnezzar besieged Jerusalem and captured the city. Zedekiah fled toward the east but was captured near Jericho and sent to Riblah to be judged.

Babylon Attacks Judah

597, 586, 582 B.C.

It appears that three separate deportations of Judeans to Babylon took place under the rule of Nebuchadnezzar (see also Jer. 52:28–30). The first came during the reign of Jehoiachin, when Nebuchadnezzar besieged Jerusalem and carried away many of the treasures of the temple and the royal palace. The second occurred after the fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C., when the walls of the city were leveled and the temple was completely destroyed. The third appears to have occurred around 582 B.C. while King Nebuchadnezzar was reasserting his control over the general region of Palestine.

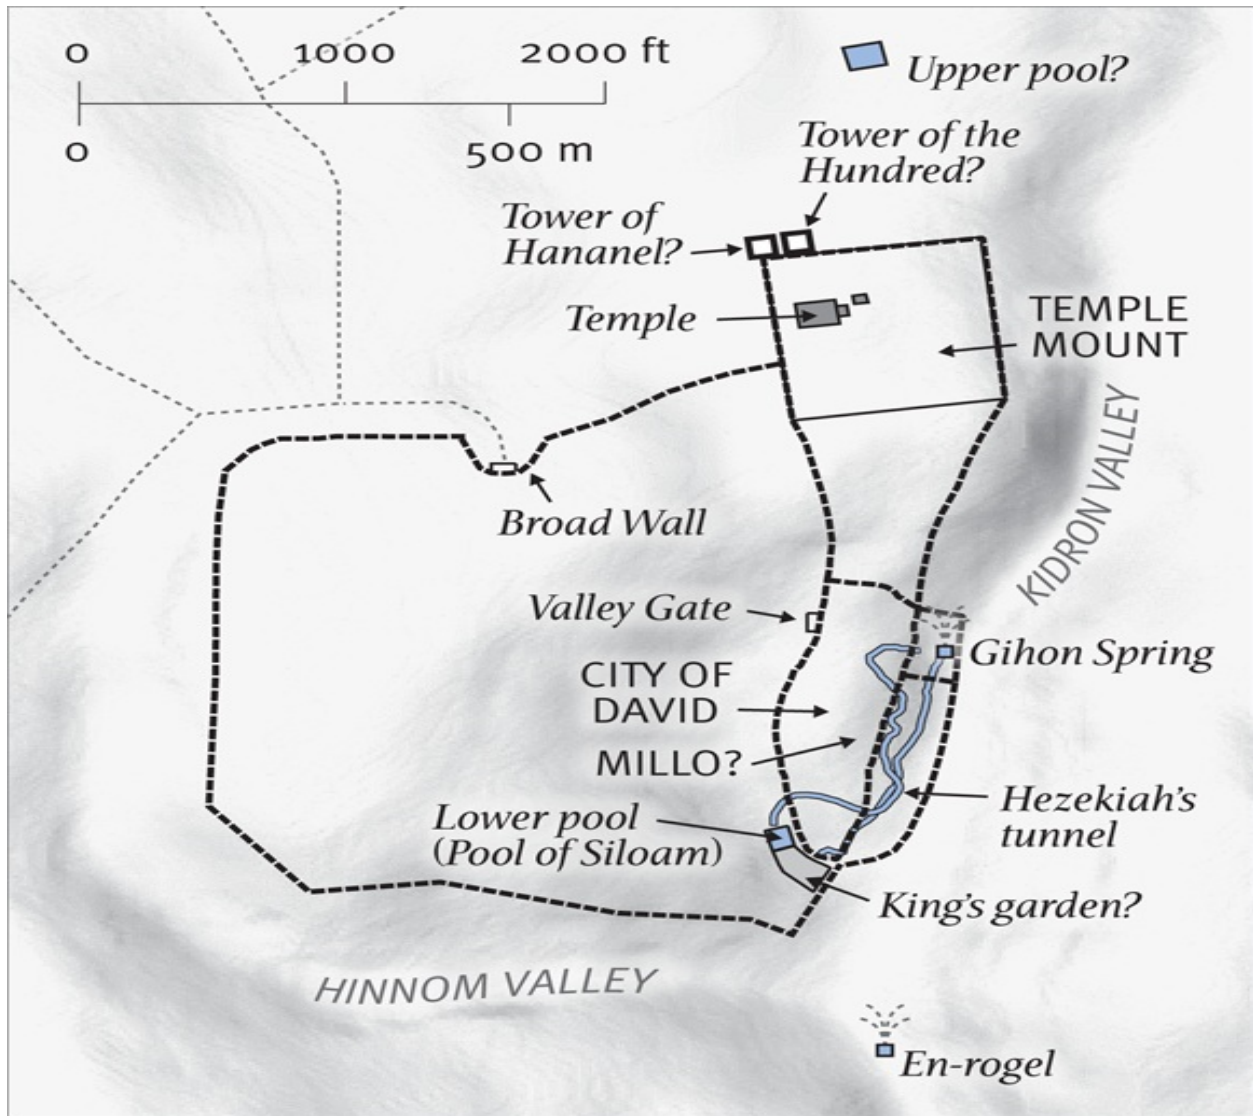

---

Hezekiah Fortifies Jerusalem

c. 702 B.C.

In anticipation of an Assyrian attack, King Hezekiah of Judah fortified Jerusalem, repairing broken sections of the wall and redirecting the flow of water from the Gihon Spring into the city. He also outfitted his army with weapons and shields and appointed battle commanders over the people. Archaeological evidence suggests he also enclosed the western hill of the city with a new wall and built the Temple Mount around Solomon's temple.

---

The Persian Empire at the Time of Ezra

c. 458 B.C.

During the time of Ezra the Persian Empire had reached its greatest extent, engulfing nearly the entire Near East. In 539 B.C. the Persians under Cyrus the Great defeated the Babylonians and absorbed their territory into the empire, including the lands of Israel and Judah (known as Beyond the River). The next year Cyrus allowed the people of Judah to return home under the leadership of Zerubbabel and rebuild the temple of the Lord. Later, around 458 B.C., another group of Judean exiles returned under Ezra's leadership.

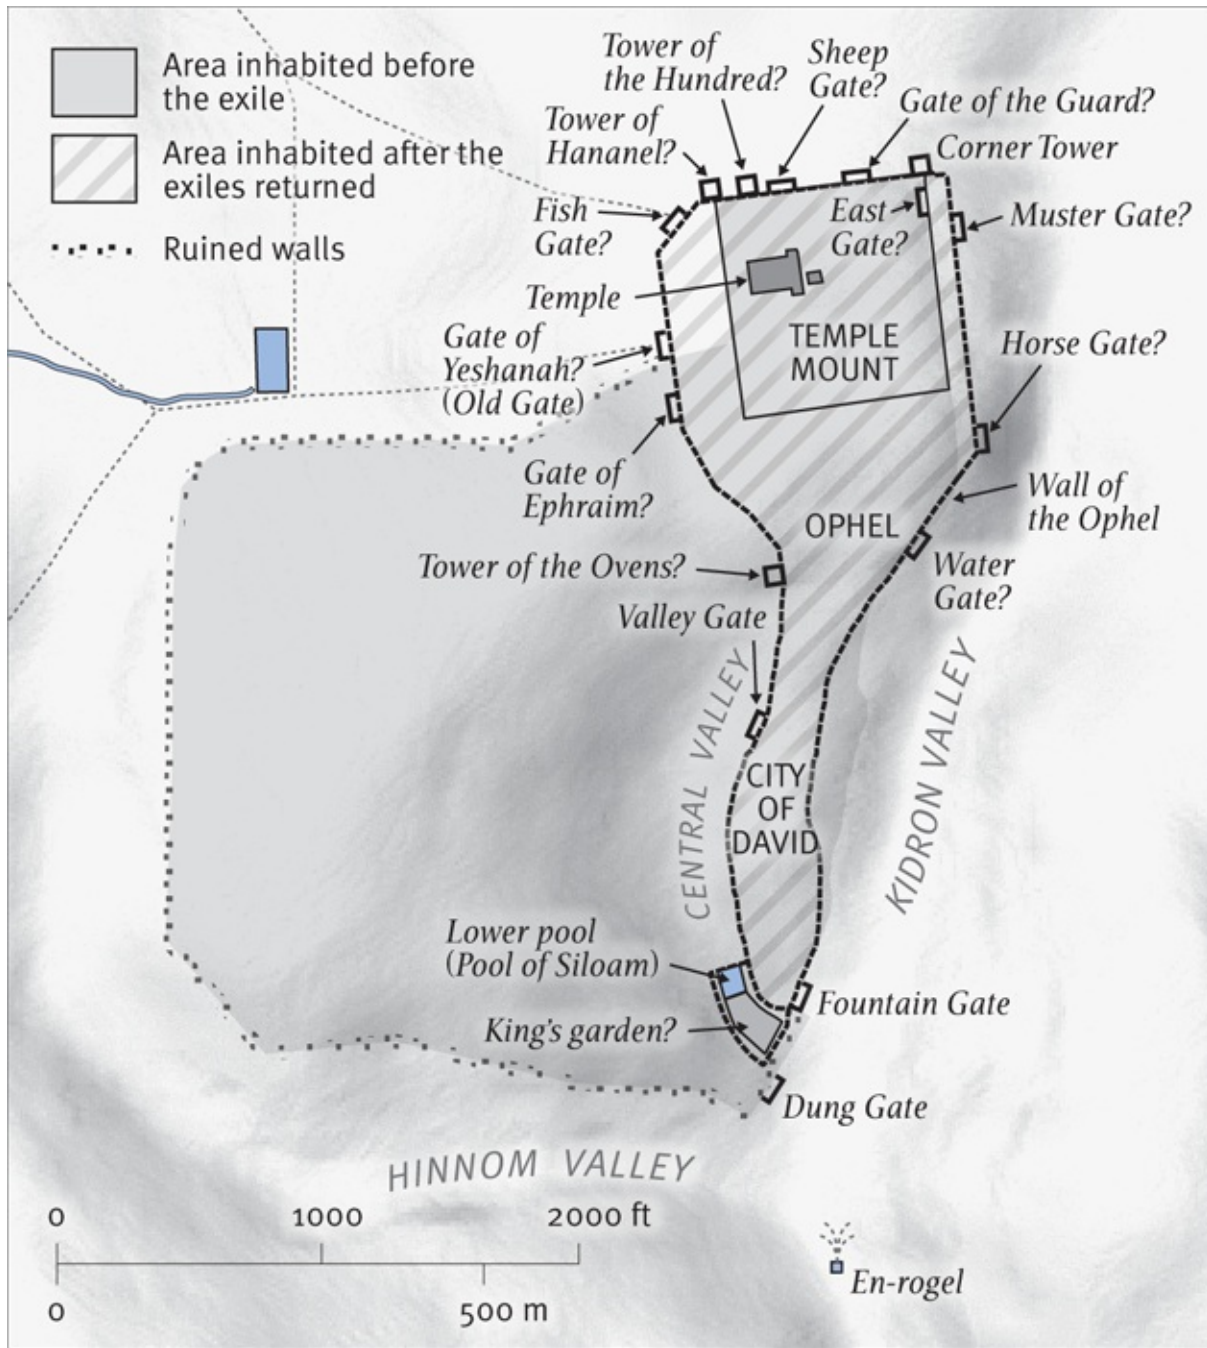

---

Jerusalem at the Time of Nehemiah

c. 445 B.C.

Though Nehemiah gives a careful listing of the sections of Jerusalem's walls that were rebuilt, it is difficult to be certain exactly which walls and gates he was referring to. The city had extended beyond the city of David and the Temple Mount by the time of Hezekiah, but it appears that only the Temple Mount and the city of David were enclosed within Nehemiah's walls. An ambitious project nonetheless, it was completed in only 52 days, providing Jerusalem with some measure of protection from its enemies.

The Geography of Solomon's Song

c. 960 B.C.

The Song of Solomon draws richly upon the diverse and beautiful geographical setting of Israel and Lebanon, mentioning various cities, peaks, and regions within this general area.

---

The Near East at the Time of Ezekiel

c. 593 B.C.

Ezekiel recorded his visions and prophecies while living in the vicinity of Babylon, where he had been exiled years earlier. By Ezekiel's time, the Babylonian Empire had engulfed virtually all of the area along the eastern coast of the Mediterranean Sea and would eventually subdue even the land of Egypt, where many other Judeans had fled.

Ezekiel's Vision of Israel's New Boundaries

c. 571 B.C.

Ezekiel's final vision describes the boundaries of a restored Israel, including the allotment to each tribe and the temple. Rather than following the boundaries traditionally occupied by the Israelites, which included Gilead east of the Jordan River and excluded land north of Tyre, Ezekiel's new boundaries generally follow those described by Moses in Num. 34. Ezekiel's vision also departs from the traditional allotment of the land among the 12 tribes and reassigns the land in horizontal bands from north to south.

Alexander's Greek Empire

c. 335–303 B.C.

The ascension of Alexander the Great to the throne of the Macedonian kingdom (in northern Greece) spelled the end for the mighty Persian Empire. After gaining the loyalty of the other city-states of Greece, Alexander's astounding military prowess and success enabled him to systematically overtake virtually all of Persia's former territory within 12 years. Soon after he died in Babylon at age 33 (323 B.C.), Alexander's conquered territory was divided among his generals, who constantly vied for power among each other until their territories resembled those shown here (c. 303).

---

The Rise of the Roman Empire

c. 753 B.C.–A.D. 117

From its earliest beginnings as a small kingdom centered in Rome, the Roman Empire eventually grew to become one of the most powerful empires the world has ever known. After solidifying control over the Italian peninsula, the Romans fought a series of wars (the Punic Wars) with the growing Carthaginian Empire and absorbed their territory in Africa and Hispania. Pushing eastward into Greece, Asia, and Syria, and westward into Gallia (Gaul) and western Hispania, the Romans continued to expand their territory until they ruled the entire Mediterranean region by A.D. 117.

Jesus' Arrest, Trial, and Crucifixion

The path from Jesus' arrest to his crucifixion (part of which is often called the Via Dolorosa, "Way of Sorrows") is difficult to retrace with certainty. According to a possible harmony of the Gospel accounts, after the Passover meal Judas led a contingent of soldiers to Gethsemane to arrest Jesus (1). From there Jesus was led to Annas (location unknown), who sent him to his son-in-law Caiaphas, the high priest (2). The Jewish leaders then appealed to the Roman governor Pilate to have Jesus put to death (3). Luke records that Pilate sent Jesus to Herod Antipas (4), who questioned Jesus but returned him to Pilate without rendering any judgment (5). Pilate then sent Jesus to be crucified at Golgotha (6).

Jesus' Appearances after His Resurrection

Each of the Gospels and a few other NT books mention various appearances by Jesus after his resurrection, but only Luke notes that Jesus ascended to heaven from the Mount of Olives just outside Jerusalem. Luke also recounts Jesus' discussion with the two disciples on the road to Emmaus (likely modern Qaluniyah, not the Emmaus of the intertestamental period, which lay too far west). Matthew and John note that Jesus also appeared to his disciples in the region of Galilee.

The Spread of Christianity in the First Two Centuries

The stability, relative safety in travel, and universal system of laws and government of the Roman Empire helped in the spread of the gospel throughout the first few centuries of the Christian church. Christianity first centered around Jerusalem and Syria, but soon spread to Asia, Achaia, and even Rome. Despite persecution, Christians during the second century a.d. continued to carry the gospel to places as far as Spain, Gallia, and North Africa. Eventually even Roman emperors came to recognize Christianity as a legal religion and sponsored many of its activities.

---

The Setting of Revelation

c. A.D. 95

John addressed the book of Revelation “to the seven churches that are in Asia,” namely Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamum, Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia, and Laodicea, although there were undoubtedly other churches elsewhere in the province of Asia (e.g., Miletus and Colossae, see Acts 20:17; Col. 1:2). John had apparently been exiled from Ephesus to the island of Patmos, southwest of Ephesus, and it was there that he recorded his visions.

The Plan of the Tabernacle

The tabernacle was to provide a place where God might dwell among his people. The term tabernacle sometimes refers to the tent, including the Holy Place and the Most Holy Place, which was covered with embroidered curtains. But in other places it refers to the entire complex,

Solomon's Temple

Solomon constructed the temple on Mount Moriah, north of the ancient city of David. The temple was built according to plans that David received from the Lord and passed on to Solomon (1 Chron. 28:11–13, 19). The division into a nave and inner sanctuary corresponds to the division of the tabernacle into the Holy Place and Most Holy Place.

Rome in the Time of Paul (c. A.D. 60)

The city plan below shows most of the features of the city of Rome that archeologists have so far identified as dating from the time of Paul. Sections of the city would have been very impressive in his time, but most of the outstanding buildings visible in Rome today date to after his death.
