<sup>11</sup>†“Though you rejoice, though you exult, O plunderers of my heritage, though you frolic like a heifer in the pasture, and neigh like stallions, <sup>12</sup>your mother shall be utterly shamed, and she who bore you shall be disgraced.

Behold, she shall be the last of the nations, a wilderness, a dry land, and a desert.

<sup>13</sup>Because of the wrath of the LORD she shall not be inhabited but shall be an utter desolation; everyone who passes by Babylon shall be appalled, and hiss because of all her wounds.

<sup>14</sup>Set yourselves in array against Babylon all around, all you who bend the bow; shoot at her, spare no arrows, for she has sinned against the LORD.

<sup>15</sup>Raise a shout against her all around; she has surrendered; her bulwarks have fallen;
her walls are thrown down.

For this is the vengeance of the LORD: take vengeance on her;
do to her as she has done.

<sup>16</sup>Cut off from Babylon the sower, and the one who handles the sickle in time of harvest; because of the sword of the oppressor, every one shall turn to his own people, and every one shall flee to his own land.

and against the inhabitants of Pekod. [2]

Kill, and devote them to destruction, [3] declares the LORD, and do all that I have commanded you.

How Babylon has become a horror among the nations!

<sup>24</sup>I set a snare for you and you were taken, O Babylon, and you did not know it;

you were found and caught, because you opposed the LORD.

<sup>25</sup>The LORD has opened his armory and brought out the weapons of his wrath, for the Lord GOD of hosts has a work to do in the land of the Chaldeans.

Woe to them, for their day has come,
the time of their punishment.

<sup>28</sup>†“A voice! They flee and escape from the land of Babylon, to declare in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God, vengeance for his temple.

<sup>29</sup>†“Summon archers against Babylon, all those who bend the bow. Encamp around her; let no one escape. Repay her according to her deeds; do to her according to all that she has done. For she has proudly defied the LORD, the Holy One of Israel. <sup>30</sup>Therefore her young men shall fall in her squares, and all her soldiers shall be destroyed on that day, declares the LORD.

<sup>31</sup>“Behold, I am against you, O proud one, declares the Lord GOD of hosts, for your day has come, the time when I will punish you.

<sup>32</sup>The proud one shall stumble and fall, with none to raise him up, and I will kindle a fire in his cities, and it will devour all that is around him.

<sup>33</sup>“Thus says the LORD of hosts: The people of Israel are oppressed, and the people of Judah with them. All who took them captive have held them fast; they refuse to let them go. <sup>34</sup>†Their Redeemer is strong; the LORD of hosts is his name. He will surely plead their cause, that he may give rest to the earth, but unrest to the inhabitants of Babylon.

A sword against her warriors, that they may be destroyed!

<sup>37</sup>A sword against her horses and against her chariots, and against all the foreign troops in her midst, that they may become women!

A sword against all her treasures, that they may be plundered!

<sup>38</sup>A drought against her waters, that they may be dried up!
For it is a land of images, and they are mad over idols.

<sup>39</sup>“Therefore wild beasts shall dwell with hyenas in Babylon, and ostriches shall dwell in her. She shall never again have people, nor be inhabited for all generations. <sup>40</sup>†As when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighboring cities, declares the LORD, so no man shall dwell there, and no son of man shall sojourn in her.

are stirring from the farthest parts of the earth.

<sup>42</sup>They lay hold of bow and spear; they are cruel and have no mercy. The sound of them is like the roaring of the sea; they ride on horses, arrayed as a man for battle against you, O daughter of Babylon!

<sup>43</sup>“The king of Babylon heard the report of them, and his hands fell helpless; anguish seized him,
pain as of a woman in labor.

<sup>44</sup>“Behold, like a lion coming up from the thicket of the Jordan against a perennial pasture, I will suddenly make them run away from her, and I will appoint over her whomever I choose. For who is like me? Who will summon me? What shepherd can stand before me? <sup>45</sup>Therefore hear the plan that the LORD has made against Babylon, and the purposes that he has formed against the land of the Chaldeans: Surely the little ones of their flock shall be dragged away; surely their fold shall be appalled at their fate. <sup>46</sup>At the sound of the capture of Babylon the earth shall tremble, and her cry shall be heard among the nations.”

The Utter Destruction of Babylon

JEREMIAH 51 † Thus says the LORD: “Behold, I will stir up the spirit of a destroyer against Babylon,

against the inhabitants of Leb-kamai, [\[1\]](#)

<sup>2</sup>and I will send to Babylon winnowers, and they shall winnow her, and they shall empty her land, when they come against her from every side on the day of trouble.

<sup>3</sup>Let not the archer bend his bow, and let him not stand up in his armor.
Spare not her young men;

devote to destruction [\[2\]](#) all her army.

<sup>4</sup>They shall fall down slain in the land of the Chaldeans, and wounded in

<sup>5</sup>† For Israel and Judah have not been forsaken by their God, the LORD of hosts, but the land of the Chaldeans [\[3\]](#) is full of guilt against the Holy One of Israel.

Be not cut off in her punishment, for this is the time of the LORD's vengeance, the repayment he is rendering her.

drunken;

the nations drank of her wine;

therefore the nations went mad.

<sup>8</sup>† Suddenly Babylon has fallen and been broken; wail for her!

Take balm for her pain;

perhaps she may be healed.

<sup>9</sup>We would have healed Babylon, but she was not healed.

Forsake her, and let us go each to his own country, for her judgment has reached up to heaven and has been lifted up even to the skies.

<sup>10</sup>The LORD has brought about our vindication; come, let us declare in Zion

Take up the shields!

The LORD has stirred up the spirit of the kings of the Medes, because his purpose concerning Babylon is to destroy it, for that is the vengeance of the LORD, the vengeance for his temple.

<sup>12</sup>“Set up a standard against the walls of Babylon; make the watch strong; set up watchmen; prepare the ambushes;

for the LORD has both planned and done what he spoke concerning the inhabitants of Babylon.

<sup>13</sup>O you who dwell by many waters, rich in treasures, your end has come;

the thread of your life is cut.

<sup>14</sup>The LORD of hosts has sworn by himself: Surely I will fill you with men, as many as locusts, and they shall raise the shout of victory over you.

<sup>15</sup>‡“It is he who made the earth by his power, who established the world by his wisdom, and by his understanding stretched out the heavens.

<sup>16</sup>When he utters his voice there is a tumult of waters in the heavens, and he makes the mist rise from the ends of the earth.

He makes lightning for the rain, and he brings forth the wind from his storehouses.

<sup>17</sup>Every man is stupid and without knowledge; every goldsmith is put to shame by his idols, for his images are false, and there is no breath in them.

<sup>19</sup>Not like these is he who is the portion of Jacob, for he is the one who formed all things, and Israel is the tribe of his inheritance;

the LORD of hosts is his name.

with you I destroy kingdoms;

man and woman; with you I break in pieces the old man and the youth; with you I break in pieces the young man and the young woman; <sup>23</sup>with you I break in pieces the shepherd and his flock; with you I break in pieces the farmer and his team; with you I break in pieces governors and commanders.

<sup>24</sup>“I will repay Babylon and all the inhabitants of Chaldea before your very eyes for all the evil that they have done in Zion, declares the LORD.

which destroys the whole earth;

I will stretch out my hand against you, and roll you down from the crags, and make you a burnt mountain.

<sup>26</sup>No stone shall be taken from you for a corner and no stone for a foundation, but you shall be a perpetual waste,
declares the LORD.

<sup>27</sup>†“Set up a standard on the earth; blow the trumpet among the nations; prepare the nations for war against her;
summon against her the kingdoms, Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz; appoint a marshal against her;
bring up horses like bristling locusts.

without inhabitant.

<sup>30</sup>The warriors of Babylon have ceased fighting; they remain in their strongholds; their strength has failed;
they have become women;
her dwellings are on fire;
her bars are broken.

<sup>31</sup>†One runner runs to meet another, and one messenger to meet another, to tell the king of Babylon that his city is taken on every side;

<sup>32</sup>†the fords have been seized, the marshes are burned with fire, and the soldiers are in panic.

<sup>33</sup>For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: The daughter of Babylon is like a threshing floor at the time when it is trodden; yet a little while and the time of her harvest will come.” <sup>34</sup>“Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon has devoured me; he has crushed me;
he has made me an empty vessel;
he has swallowed me like a monster;
he has filled his stomach with my delicacies;
he has rinsed me out. [4] <sup>35</sup>The violence done to me and to my kinsmen be upon Babylon,” let the inhabitant of Zion say.
“My blood be upon the inhabitants of Chaldea,” let Jerusalem say.
<sup>36</sup>Therefore thus says the LORD: “Behold, I will plead your cause and take vengeance for you.
I will dry up her sea and make her fountain dry, <sup>37</sup>and Babylon shall become a heap of ruins, the haunt of jackals, a horror and a hissing,
<sup>39</sup>† While they are inflamed I will prepare them a feast and make them drunk, that they may become merry, then sleep a perpetual sleep and not wake, declares the LORD.
<sup>40</sup>I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, like rams and male goats.
How Babylon has become a horror among the nations!
<sup>42</sup>The sea has come up on Babylon; she is covered with its tumultuous waves.
<sup>43</sup>Her cities have become a horror, a land of drought and a desert, a land in which no one dwells, and through which no son of man passes.
<sup>44</sup>And I will punish Bel in Babylon, and take out of his mouth what he has swallowed.

The nations shall no longer flow to him;
the wall of Babylon has fallen.

<sup>45</sup>‡“Go out of the midst of her, my people!
Let every one save his life from the fierce anger of the LORD!

<sup>46</sup>Let not your heart faint, and be not fearful at the report heard in the land, when a report comes in one year and afterward a report in another year, and violence is in the land, and ruler is against ruler.

<sup>47</sup>“Therefore, behold, the days are coming when I will punish the images of Babylon;
her whole land shall be put to shame, and all her slain shall fall in the midst of her.

<sup>48</sup>Then the heavens and the earth, and all that is in them, shall sing for joy over Babylon, for the destroyers shall come against them out of the north, declares the LORD.

<sup>49</sup>Babylon must fall for the slain of Israel, just as for Babylon have fallen the slain of all the earth.

<sup>50</sup>“You who have escaped from the sword, go, do not stand still!
Remember the LORD from far away, and let Jerusalem come into your mind:

<sup>51</sup>‘We are put to shame, for we have heard reproach; dishonor has covered our face, for foreigners have come into the holy places of the LORD's house.’

<sup>52</sup>“Therefore, behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will execute judgment upon her images, and through all her land
the wounded shall groan.

<sup>53</sup>Though Babylon should mount up to heaven, and though she should fortify her strong height, yet destroyers would come from me against her,
declares the LORD.

the noise of their voice is raised, <sup>56</sup>for a destroyer has come upon her, upon Babylon;
her warriors are taken;
their bows are broken in pieces, for the LORD is a God of recompense; he will surely repay.
<sup>57</sup>I will make drunk her officials and her wise men, her governors, her commanders, and her warriors;
they shall sleep a perpetual sleep and not wake, declares the King, whose name is the LORD of hosts.
<sup>58</sup>†“Thus says the LORD of hosts: The broad wall of Babylon shall be leveled to the ground, and her high gates shall be burned with fire.
The peoples labor for nothing, and the nations weary themselves only for fire.”

<sup>59</sup>†The word that Jeremiah the prophet commanded Seraiah the son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah, when he went with Zedekiah king of Judah to Babylon, in the fourth year of his reign. Seraiah was the quartermaster. <sup>60</sup>†Jeremiah wrote in a book all the disaster that should come upon Babylon, all these words that are written concerning Babylon. <sup>61</sup>And Jeremiah said to Seraiah: “When you come to Babylon, see that you read all these words, <sup>62</sup>and say, ‘O LORD, you have said concerning this place that you will cut it off, so that nothing shall dwell in it, neither man nor beast, and it shall be desolate forever.’ <sup>63</sup>When you finish reading this book, tie a stone to it and cast it into the midst of the Euphrates, <sup>64</sup>and say, ‘Thus shall Babylon sink, to rise no more, because of the disaster that I am bringing upon her, and they shall become exhausted.’”

Thus far are the words of Jeremiah.

The Fall of Jerusalem Recounted

JEREMIAH 52 †Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king; and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. <sup>2</sup>And he did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done. <sup>3</sup>For because of the anger of the LORD things came to the point in Jerusalem and Judah that he cast them out from his presence.

And Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon. <sup>4</sup>†And in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came with all his army against Jerusalem, and laid siege to it. And they built siegeworks all around it. <sup>5</sup>So the city was besieged till the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. <sup>6</sup>On the ninth day of the fourth month the famine was so severe in the city that there was no food for the people of the land. <sup>7</sup>Then a breach was made in the city, and all the men of war fled and went out from the city by night by the way of a gate between the two walls, by the king's garden, while the Chaldeans were around the city. And they went in the direction of the Arabah. <sup>8</sup>But the army of the Chaldeans pursued the king and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho. And all his army was scattered from him. <sup>9</sup>Then they captured the king and brought him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he passed sentence on him. <sup>10</sup>The king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and also slaughtered all the officials of Judah at Riblah. <sup>11</sup>He put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him in chains, and the king of Babylon took him to Babylon, and put him in prison till the day of his death.

The Temple Burned

<sup>12</sup>†In the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month—that was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon—Nebuzaradan the captain of the bodyguard, who served the king of Babylon, entered Jerusalem. <sup>13</sup>And he burned the house of the LORD, and the king's house and all the houses of Jerusalem; every great house he burned down. <sup>14</sup>And all the army of the Chaldeans, who were with the captain of the guard, broke down all the walls around Jerusalem. <sup>15</sup>And Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried away captive some of the poorest of the people and the rest of the people who were left in the city and the deserters who had deserted to the king of Babylon, together with the rest of the artisans. <sup>16</sup>But Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard left some of the poorest of the land to be vinedressers and plowmen.

<sup>17</sup>And the pillars of bronze that were in the house of the LORD, and the stands and the bronze sea that were in the house of the LORD, the Chaldeans broke in pieces, and carried all the bronze to Babylon. <sup>18</sup>‡And they took away the pots and the shovels and the snuffers and the basins and the dishes for incense and all the vessels of bronze used in the temple service; <sup>19</sup>also the small bowls and the fire pans and the basins and the pots and the lampstands and the dishes for incense and the bowls for drink offerings. What was of gold the captain of the guard took away as gold, and what was of silver, as silver. <sup>20</sup>As for the two pillars, the one sea, the twelve bronze bulls that were under the sea, [1] and the stands, which Solomon the king had made for the house of the LORD, the bronze of all these things was beyond weight. <sup>21</sup>As for the pillars, the height of the one pillar was eighteen cubits, [2] its circumference was twelve cubits, and its thickness was four fingers, and it was hollow. <sup>22</sup>‡On it was a capital of bronze. The height of the one capital was five cubits. A network and pomegranates, all of bronze, were around the capital. And the second pillar had the same, with pomegranates. <sup>23</sup>There were ninety-six pomegranates on the sides; all the pomegranates were a hundred upon the network all around.

The People Exiled to Babylon

<sup>24</sup>‡And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief priest, and Zephaniah the second priest, and the three keepers of the threshold; <sup>25</sup>‡and from the city he took an officer who had been in command of the men of war, and seven men of the king's council, who were found in the city; and the secretary of the commander of the army who mustered the people of the land; and sixty men of the people of the land, who were found in the midst of the city. <sup>26</sup>And Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took them and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. <sup>27</sup>And the king of Babylon struck them down, and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah was taken into exile out of its land.

Jehoiachin Released from Prison

<sup>31</sup>†† And in the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-fifth day of the month, Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year that he became king, graciously freed [3] Jehoiachin king of Judah and brought him out of prison. <sup>32</sup>And he spoke kindly to him, and gave him a seat above the seats of the kings who were with him in Babylon. <sup>33</sup>So Jehoiachin put off his prison garments. And every day of his life he dined regularly at the king's table, <sup>34</sup>and for his allowance, a regular allowance was given him by the king according to his daily need, until the day of his death, as long as he lived.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:1 Anathoth. A town in the territory of Benjamin, 3 miles north of Jerusalem, assigned to the Levites (cf. Josh. 21:18) where Abiathar had once lived (1 Kings 2:26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:2 in the days of. Jeremiah's ministry spanned at least five decades—from Judah's king Josiah (thirteenth year, 627 B.C.) to the final king, Zedekiah, in his last year (586 B.C.).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:3 fifth month. Babylonian conquerors began deporting Judeans into captivity in the Hebrew month Ab (July/August) in 586 B.C. (52:12; 2 Kings 25:8–11), shortly after breaking into Jerusalem on the fourth month and ninth day (Jer. 39:2; 52:6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:5 Before I formed you. This is not reincarnation; it is God's all-knowing cognizance of Jeremiah and sovereign plan for him before he was conceived (cf. Paul's similar realization, Gal. 1:15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:6 Jeremiah’s response points out his inability and his inexperience. If as a young man he was 20–25 years old in 626 B.C., he was 60–65 in 586 B.C. when Jerusalem fell (ch. 39), and 85–90 if he lived to the time of 52:31–34 (c. 561 B.C.).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:7–10 The power backing Jeremiah’s service was God’s presence and provision (cf. 2 Cor. 3:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:9 my words in your mouth. God used him as his mouthpiece, speaking his message (15:19); thus, Jeremiah’s fitting response was to receive God’s word (15:16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:10 set you . . . over. Because God spoke through Jeremiah, the message has divine authority.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:11–16 Illustrations of God’s charge were twofold. First, there was the sign of the almond rod. The almond tree was literally “the wakeful tree,” because it awakened from the sleep of winter earlier than the other trees, blooming in January. It was a symbol of God’s early judgment, as Jeremiah announced (605–586 B.C.). Second, the boiling pot pictured the Babylonian invaders bringing judgment on Judah (cf. 20:4).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:17–19 Jeremiah’s part was proclamation, as God’s mouthpiece (v. 17); God’s part was preservation in defending the prophet (vv. 18–19). God did protect him often, e.g., 11:18–23; 20:1ff.; and 38:7–13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:1–3 Jerusalem . . . Israel. Jeremiah pointed to the sensitivity of the Lord and his care for them in the early history (v. 21). After centuries, many were: 1) far from God, whom they had forsaken (vv. 5, 31); 2) deep in idolatry (vv. 11, 27–28); and 3) without true salvation (v. 8; 5:10a).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:3 firstfruits of his harvest. Israel was first to worship the true God (Ex. 19:5–6) through his covenant with Abraham (Gen. 12:1–3), which also assured his intent to bless peoples from all nations (Jer. 16:19–21; Dan. 7:27).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:8 priests . . . prophets. Leaders, who did not really know the Lord, set the idolatrous pattern for others (cf. Hos. 4:6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:13 two evils. First, Israel had abandoned the Lord, the source of spiritual salvation and sustenance (cf. 17:8; Ps. 36:9; John 4:14). Second, Israel turned to idolatrous objects of trust; Jeremiah compared these with underground water storage devices for rainwater, which were broken and let water seep out, thus proving useless.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:14 How is it that a people under God’s special care are left at the mercy of an enemy, like a worthless slave?

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:15 lions. The figure represents invading soldiers that burned cities (cf. 4:7), perhaps a reference to the disaster from the Babylonians during Jehoiakim’s fourth year, and again three years later when he relied on Egypt (cf. 20:4; 46:2; 2 Kings 24:1–2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:16 Memphis . . . Tahpanhes. These two cities in Egypt stood for the country itself.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:18 Dependence on alliances with Egypt and Assyria was part of national undoing, a source of shame (vv. 36–37).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:19 apostasy. Cf. 3:6, 8, 11–12, 14, 22; 8:5; 31:22; 49:4; Isa. 57:17; Hos. 11:7; 14:4. For clarification of the meaning, see note on Prov. 14:14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:23 the Baals. An inclusive term referring collectively to false deities. camel. The nation, in chasing other idols, is depicted as a female camel pursuing its instinct, and as a wild donkey in heat sniffing the wind to find a mate, craving to attract others of its kind. Other pictures of Israel are that of a thief, who is ashamed when exposed (v. 26), and that of a virgin or a bride who forgets what beautifies her (v. 32).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:1 If a man divorces. Such a man was not to take that woman as his wife again, for this would defile her (Deut. 24:4) and be a scandal. Jeremiah used this analogy to picture Israel as a harlot in the spiritual realm, with many lovers, i.e., nations (Jer. 2:18, 25) and idols (2:23–25; 3:2, 6–9). Yet, the Lord would graciously receive Israel or Judah back as his wife if she would repent (3:12–14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:6 faithless. Also vv. 8, 11–12, 14. See note on Prov. 14:14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:8 I had sent her away with a decree of divorce. Though God hates divorce (Mal. 2:16), it is tolerated for unrepentant adultery (see notes on Matt. 5:32; 19:8–9), as indicated by this analogy of God's divorcing Israel for that continual sin in the spiritual realm. God had divorced Israel but not yet Judah (cf. Isa. 50:1). Cf. Ezra 10:3, where divorce is the right action of God's people to separate from idolatrous wives.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:14 I am your master. God pictured his covenant relationship with Israel as a marriage, and pleaded with mercy for Judah to repent and return. He will take her back. Cf. Hosea's restoration of Gomer as a picture of God taking back his wicked, adulterous people.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:15–18 In those days. When Israel repents (vv. 13–14, 22), which has not happened, but will in the millennial era of God's restoration that the prophets often describe (23:5–6; 30–33; Ezek. 36), God will bring these blessings: 1) shepherds to teach them the truth; 2) his own immediate presence on the throne in Jerusalem, not just the ark of his covenant; 3) allegiance even of Gentile nations; 4) righteousness; 5) genuineness in worship; 6) unity of Israel (north) and Judah (south) into one kingdom; and 7) reestablishment in their own Promised Land.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:19 set you among my sons. Here is a reference to adoption into God's family, when the people turn back from idols to acknowledge him as “Father.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:20 a treacherous wife leaves. Hosea had earlier used this same imagery (c. 755–710 B.C.). Thus God had given the divorce because the spiritual adultery was unrepentant. But when repentance comes, he will take Israel back (cf. 3:1). O . . . Israel. Since the irretrievable dispersion of Israel in the north (722 B.C.) Judah alone was left to be called by the name Israel, as Jeremiah sometimes chose to do (e.g., 3:20–23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:3 Break up. Jeremiah appealed for a spiritual turnabout from sinful, wasteful lives. He pictured this as the plowing of ground, formerly hard and unproductive due to weeds, in order to make it useful for sowing (cf. Matt. 13:18–23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:4 Circumcise. This surgery (Gen. 17:10–14) was to cut away flesh that could hold disease in its folds and could pass the disease on to wives. It was important for the preservation of God’s people physically. But it was also a symbol of the need for the heart to be cleansed from sin’s deadly disease. The really essential surgery needed to happen on the inside, where God calls for taking away fleshly things that keep the heart from being spiritually devoted to him and from true faith in him and his will. Jeremiah later expanded on this theme (Jer. 31:31–34; cf. Deut. 10:16; 30:6; Rom. 2:29). God selected the reproductive organ as the location of the symbol for man’s need of cleansing for sin, because it is the instrument most indicative of his depravity, since by it he reproduces generations of sinners.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:6–7 disaster from the north. This evil is Babylon’s army, which would invade from that direction. The “lion” on the prow fit Babylon because of its conquering power, and Babylon was symbolized by the winged lions guarding its royal court. Babylon is later identified in 20:4. Many details in ch. 4 graphically depict warriors in conquest (vv. 7, 13, 29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:10 deceived. Like Habakkuk (1:12–17), Jeremiah was horrified at these words of judgment, contrasting the prevailing hope of peace. God is sometimes described as if doing a thing he merely permits, such as allowing false prophets who delude themselves to also deceive a sinful people into thinking peace would follow (cf. Jer. 6:14; 8:11; 1 Kings 22:21–24). God sees how people insist on their delusions, and lets it happen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:14 wash. Jeremiah continued to appeal for a dealing with sin so that national destruction might be averted (v. 20), while there was still time to repent (cf. chs. 7; 26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:22 ‘wise’—in doing evil! Israelites were wise or clever in doing evil but were dull in knowing to do the good, i.e., God’s will. Paul, applying the principle but turning it to the positive, wanted the believers at Rome to be wise to do good but unlearned in the skill of doing evil (Rom. 16:19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:23 without form. Jeremiah may be borrowing the language, but the description in its context is not of creation in Gen. 1:2, but of judgment on the land of Israel and its cities (Jer. 4:20). The invader left it desolate of the previous form and void of inhabitants due to slaying and flight (v. 25). The heavens gave no light, possibly due to smoke from fires that were destroying cities (vv. 7, 20).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:1 find a man. The city was too sinful to have even one man who, by truth and justice, could qualify to be an advocate to secure pardon for Judah. Refusal to repent was the norm (v. 3) for the common people (v. 4) and for the leaders (v. 5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:6 lion. Three animals that tear and eat their victims represented the invader: the lion (see note on 4:6–7), the wolf, and the leopard, picturing vicious judgment on both poor (5:4) and great (v. 5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:7 adultery. Often the idea of adultery is figurative for idolatry or political alliances (see note on 3:1), but the language here refers to physical adultery by men seeking out a prostitute or going to neighbors’ wives (5:8), thus violating the seventh commandment (Ex. 20:14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:10 not the Lord’s. The people, depicted as vine branches to be destroyed (cf. 11:16–17), did not genuinely know the Lord in a saving relationship, but had forsaken him and given allegiance to other gods. The description of having eyes but not seeing, and ears but not hearing (5:21) is used by Isaiah (Isa. 6:9) and Jesus Christ (Matt. 13:13) for such false professors as these branches. Jesus also referred to false branches in John 15:2, 6 which were burned.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:14 my words . . . fire. The judgment of Judah prophesied in God’s word by Jeremiah will bring destruction, but not elimination (v. 18), to the nation, cf. 23:29.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:22 sand . . . for the sea. God’s providential acts in the natural world such as 1) creating the seashore to prevent flooding, 2) giving rain at the appropriate times (v. 24), and 3) providing time for harvest (v. 24) are witness enough to the Lord’s reality and grace. As the nation turns away from God, he will take these unappreciated gifts away (v. 25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:31 prophecy falsely. These included prophets with bogus messages, priests who asserted their own authority, and also followers who indulged such falseness. All are guilty before God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:1 Tekoa . . . Beth-haccherem. Tekoa, the home of Amos, is 6 miles south of Bethlehem. The location of Beth-haccherem (“vineyard house”) is unknown, but probably near Tekoa. As the enemy came from the north, the people would flee south. north. See note on 4:6–7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:3 Shepherds. These were hostile leaders of the invading Babylonians, whose soldiers were compared with flocks.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:6 Cut down her trees. A besieging tactic is described in which trees were used to build up ramps against the city walls.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:9 glean thoroughly. Unlike the benevolent practice of leaving food in the field for the poor to glean (Lev. 19:9–10; Ruth 2:5–18), the Babylonians will leave no one when they “harvest” Judah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:14 Peace, peace. Wicked leaders among the prophets and priests (v. 13) proclaimed peace falsely and gave weak and brief comfort. They provided no true healing from the spiritual wound, not having discernment to deal with the sin and its effects (v. 15). The need was to return to obedience (v. 16). Cf. 8:11.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:16 Here is the image of travelers who are lost, stopping to inquire about the right way they once knew before they wandered so far off it.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:17 watchmen. Prophets.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:20 not acceptable. Using imported fragrances in their offerings did not make them sweetly acceptable to God when the worshipers rejected his word (v. 19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:21 stumbling blocks. Cf. Isa. 8:14; Matt. 21:44; 1 Pet. 2:8.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:22–23 A description of the Babylonians.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:27–30 I have made you. God placed Jeremiah as a kind of assayer to test the people’s obedience. He also was a “tester” who works with metals. Their sin prevented them from being pure silver, but rather they were bronze, iron, lead, even impure silver, so that they failed the test.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:1 The word that came. This was Jeremiah’s first temple sermon (v. 2); another is found in ch. 26. God was aroused against the sins he names (7:6, 19), especially at his temple becoming a den of robbers (v. 11). The point of this message, however, was that if Israel would repent, even at this late hour, God would still keep the conqueror from coming (vv. 3, 7). They must reject lies such as the false hope that peace is certain, based on the reasoning that the Lord would never bring calamity on his own temple (v. 4). They must turn from their sins (v. 3, 5, 9), and end their hypocrisy (v. 10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:7 the land that I gave . . . forever. God refers to the unconditional element of the land promise in the Abrahamic Covenant (Gen. 12:15; 17:22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:12 Go . . . to . . . Shiloh. God calls them to return to Shiloh where the tabernacle dwelt along with the ark of the covenant. He permitted the Philistines to devastate that place (1 Sam. 4), and he is ready to do similarly with Jerusalem, the place of his temple (Jer. 7:13–14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:13 persistently. This describes the daily ministry of the prophets (cf. v. 25) through whom God spoke.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:15 as I cast out . . . Ephraim. Ephraim represents the northern kingdom of Israel, since it was the leading tribe (cf. 2 Kings 17:23). As God exiled them to Assyria (c. 722 B.C.), though they were more in number and power, so he will do to the southern kingdom.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:16 do not pray. God told his spokesman not to pray for the people (cf. 11:14). He did not find Judah inclined to repent. Instead, he found the glib use of self-deluding slogans, such as in 7:4, and flagrant idol worship in v. 18 from a people insistent on not hearing (v. 27; 19:15). Cf. 1 John 5:16.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:18 the queen of heaven. Cf. 44:17–19, 25. The Jews were worshipping Ishtar, an Assyrian and Babylonian goddess also called Ashtoreth and Astarte, the wife of Baal or Molech. Because these deities symbolized generative power, their worship involved prostitution.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:22 I did not . . . command. Bible writers sometimes use apparent negation to make a comparative emphasis. What God commanded his people at the exodus was not so much the offerings, as it was the heart obedience that prompted the offerings. See this comparative sense used elsewhere (Deut. 5:3; Hos. 6:6; 1 John 3:18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:22–23 offerings . . . sacrifices . . . Obey. Here is a crucial emphasis on internal obedience. Cf. Josh. 1:8; 1 Sam. 15:22; Prov. 15:8; 21:3; Isa. 1:11–17; Hos. 6:6; Matt. 9:13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:25 Cf. v. 13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:29 Cut off your hair. This is a sign depicting God's cutting the nation off and casting them into exile. Ezekiel used a similar illustration by cutting his hair (Ezek. 5:1–4). God never casts away the genuinely saved from spiritual salvation (John 6:37; 10:28–29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:31 burn their sons. Though God forbade this atrocity (Lev. 18:21; 20:2–5; Deut. 12:31), Israelites still offered babies as sacrifices at the high places of idol worship (Topheth) in the Valley of Hinnom (south end of Jerusalem). They offered them to the fire god Molech, under the delusion that this god would reward them. See note on Jer. 19:6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:32 Valley of Slaughter. God renamed the place because great carnage would be forthcoming in the Babylonian invasion.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:1 bones . . . shall be brought out. Conquerors would ransack all the tombs to gain treasures and then humiliate the Jews by scattering the bones of the rich and honored in open spaces as a tribute to the superiority of their gods (v. 2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:4 Jeremiah spoke of the natural instinct of one who falls, to get up, and one who leaves, to return, but Judah did not possess this instinct.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:5 backsliding. See note on 2:19.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:7 The instinct of the migratory birds leads them with unflinching regularity to return every spring from their winter homes. But God's people will not return, though the winter of divine wrath is arriving.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:11 Cf. 4:10 and 6:14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:16 Dan. The territory of this tribe was on the northern border of the land, where the invasion would begin and sweep south.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:17 sending . . . serpents. This is a figurative picture of the Babylonian victors.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:19 from the length and breadth of the land. This is the cry of the exiled Jews that will come after they are taken captive into Babylon. They will wonder why God would let this happen to his land and people.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:20–22 we are not saved. The coming devastation is compared with the hopeless anguish when harvest time has passed but people are still in desperate need. Jeremiah identified with his people's suffering (v. 21) as a man of tears (cf. 9:1), but saw a doom so pronounced that there was no remedy to soothe. There was no healing balm, the kind in abundance in Gilead (east of the Sea of Galilee), and no physician to cure (cf. Gen. 37:25; 43:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:1 waters . . . tears. Jeremiah cared so deeply that he longed for the relief of flooding tears or a place of retreat to be free of the burden of Judah's sins for a while.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:2 a travelers' lodging place. Simple square buildings with an open court were built in remote areas to accommodate caravans. Though it would be lonely and filthy in the wilderness, Jeremiah preferred it to Jerusalem so as to be removed from the moral pollution of the people, which he described in vv. 3–8.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:3 do not know me. See note on 5:10.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:15 bitter food . . . poisonous water. The Lord pictured the awful suffering of the judgment as wormwood, which had very bitter leaves. Their food would be bitterness, and their water as foul as gall, a poisonous herb.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:22 How galling to the Jews to hear that their corpses will be trampled contemptuously.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:24 *understands and knows me. Nothing but a true knowledge of God can save the nation. Paul refers to this passage twice (cf. 1 Cor. 1:31; 2 Cor. 10:17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:26 *Egypt . . . desert. A preview of God's judgment of the nations detailed in chs. 46–51. uncircumcised in heart. See note on 4:4.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:2 signs of the heavens. Gentiles worshiped celestial bodies, including the sun, moon, and stars.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:4 decorate. Idols were often carved from wood (v. 3) and ornamented with gold or silver (cf. v. 9). Some were molded from clay (Judg. 18:17; Isa. 42:17). The context points out the impossibility (Jer. 10:3–5) of such non-existent gods punishing or rewarding humans.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:7 King. God, who sovereignly created and controls all things (cf. vv. 12, 16; Deut. 4:35), is alone the eternal, living God (cf. Ps. 47:145) worthy of trust. By contrast, earthly idols have to be fashioned by men (Jer. 10:9), and will perish (v. 15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:9 Tarshish. Possibly a commercial port in southern Spain or on the island of Sardinia. Cf. Jonah 1:3. Uphaz. Location is uncertain.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:11–16 The true and living Creator God is again contrasted with dead idols.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:16 portion of Jacob. God is the all-sufficient source for his people (Num. 18:20), and he will not fail them as idols do (Jer. 11:12). Israel is the tribe of his inheritance. To this nation, God gave his inheritance in covenant love.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:20 My tent is destroyed. Jeremiah, using a nomadic metaphor, shifted into words that Israelites will speak when the invaders attack. They will feel despair and cry out over their homes being plundered and their children being killed or scattered to exile.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:23 the way of man is not in himself. Man is incapable of guiding his own life adequately. This prayer shifts to his need of God (Prov. 3:5–6; 16:9), who had a plan for Jeremiah before he was even born (Jer. 1:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:24–25 Jeremiah saw himself (“Correct me”) in solidarity with his people (cf. Dan. 9:1ff.) and understood the nation must be punished, but desired some mercy and moderation; he prayed that God’s full fury would be poured on the nations that induced the Jews into idolatry.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:2 this covenant. The reference is to God’s covenant, summarized in vv. 3–5, which promised curses for disobeying and blessings for obeying (cf. Deut. 27:26–28:68).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:4 the iron furnace. A metaphor for the hardship of Egyptian bondage hundreds of years earlier (cf. Ex. 1:8–14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:9 A conspiracy. This refers to a deliberate resisting of God’s appeals for repentance and an insistence upon trusting their own “peace” message and idols.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:13 Judah was so filled with idolatry that there were false deities for every city and a polluted altar on every street.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:14 do not pray. Cf. 7:16 and see note there. Their own prayers, as long as they rejected God, could not gain the answer they desired (11:11; Ps. 66:18), and the same was true of another’s prayers for them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:15 my beloved. A phrase showing God’s sensitive regard for his relationship to Israel as a nation (cf. 2:2; 12:7). It does not carry the assumption, however, that every individual is spiritually saved (cf. 5:10a). vile deeds. Shameful idolatry that defiled all that befits true temple worship, such as the examples in Ezek. 8:6–13. These were gross violations of the first three commandments (cf. Ex. 20:2–7). sacrificial flesh. In some way, they corrupted the animal sacrifices by committing sin, which they enjoyed (cf. Jer. 7:10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:16–17 green olive tree. Israel was pictured as a grapevine (2:21), then an olive tree meant to bear good fruit. However, they produced fruit that calls only for the fire of judgment (5:10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:18–23 you showed me. Jeremiah’s fellow townsmen from Anathoth, one of the 48 cities throughout the land dedicated to the Levites, plotted his death. Their words, “Let us destroy the tree,” indicate their desire to silence Jeremiah by murder.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:20 let me see your vengeance. Jeremiah pleaded for God’s defense on his behalf, actually guaranteed in 1:8, 18–19.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:1 Why . . . ? The issue of why the wicked escape for a time unscathed has often been raised by God’s people (cf. Ps. 73; Hab. 1:2–4).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:3 Pull them out . . . for the slaughter. The prophet here turned from the sadness of pleading for his people to calling on God to punish them. Such imprecatory prayers are similar to prayers throughout the Psalms.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:4 He will not see our latter end. Here is the foolish idea that Jeremiah was wrong and didn't know how things would happen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:5 If you have raced. The Lord replied to Jeremiah telling him that if he grew faint with lesser trials and felt like quitting, what would he do when the battle got even harder? thicket of the Jordan. The river in flood stage overflowed its banks into a plain that grew up as a thicket. The point is that Jeremiah needed to be ready to deal with tougher testings, pictured by the invader's overwhelming the land like a flood, or posing high danger as in the Jordan thicket where concealed wild animals could terrify a person.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:6 even your brothers. Jeremiah met antagonism not only from fellow townsmen (cf. 11:18–23 and see note there), but from his own family! He was separated from them (12:7).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:8 like a lion. Jeremiah's own people collectively are like a lion acting ferociously against him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:9 birds of prey. God's people, speckled with sin and compromise, are opposed by other birds of prey, i.e., enemy nations.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:12 sword of the Lord. God's strength can be for defending (cf. 47:6; Judg. 7:20) or in this case, condemning. The Babylonians were God's sword doing his will.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:14 evil neighbors. Other nations that hurt Israel will, in their turn, also receive judgment from the Lord (cf. 9:26; 25:14–32; chs. 46–51).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:15 bring them again. God will restore his people to the land of Israel in a future millennial day, as indicated in chs. 30–33.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:1 a linen loincloth. One of several signs Jeremiah enacted to illustrate God's message (cf. Introduction involved putting on a linen waistband (generally the inner garment against the skin). This depicted Israel's close intimacy with God in the covenant, so that they could glorify him (v. 11). do not dip it in water. Signified the moral filth of the nation. Buried and allowed time to rot (v. 7), the waistband pictured Israel as useless to God because of sin (v. 10). Hiding it by the Euphrates (v. 6) pointed to the land of Babylon, where God would exile Israel to deal with her pride (cf. v. 9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:4 Euphrates. This refers literally to a site on the Euphrates River because: 1) the Euphrates is the area of exile (20:4); 2) “many days” fits the round trip of well over 1,000 miles (13:6); and 3) the ruining of the nation’s pride (v. 9) relates to judgment by Babylon (vv. 10–11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:12–14 Every jar. God pictured inhabitants of Israel in Babylon’s invasion as jugs or skins of wine. As wine causes drunkenness, they will be dazed, stumbling in darkness (cf. v. 16), out of control, and victims of destruction (v. 14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:16 Give glory to the Lord. Show by repentance and obedience to God that you respect his majesty.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:18 king . . . queen mother. Jehoiachin and Nehushta, c. 597 B.C. (cf. 22:24–26; 29:2; 2 Kings 24:8–17). Because the king was only 18 years old, she held the real power.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:19 wholly taken into exile. “All” and “wholly” do not require absolutely every individual, for Jeremiah elsewhere explains that some were to be slain and a remnant left in the land or fleeing to Egypt (chs. 39–44).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:23 Ethiopian . . . leopard. The vivid analogy assumes that sinners cannot change their sinful natures. Only God can change the heart (31:18, 31–34).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:26 lift up your skirts. This was done to shame captive women and prostitutes (cf. Nah. 3:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:27 adulteries and neighings. Refers to desire at an animal level, without conscience.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:1 drought. Jeremiah seems to actually give the prophecy of this chapter during a drought in Judah (vv. 2–6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:2 gates languish. The “gates” were the place of public concourse, which during drought and consequent famine were empty or occupied by mourners.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:7 O Lord. Jeremiah from 14:7–15:21 pursues a series of prayers in which he dialogues with the Lord, who hears and responds (as 1:7; 12:5–17, etc.). Five rounds or exchanges occur (14:7–12; 14:13–18; 14:19–15:9; 15:10–14; 15:15–21).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:7–9 our backslidings. The prophet confesses Judah’s guilt but reminds God that his reputation is tied up with what happens to his people (vv. 7, 9). He asks that the Lord be not indifferent as a stranger or overnight visitor (v. 8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:10–12 God responded in this first exchange that 1) he must judge Judah for chronic sinfulness, and 2) Jeremiah is not to pray for the sparing of Judah nor will he respond to their prayers since unrepentance must be punished (cf. 11:14, and see note there).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:13 the prophets say to them. Jeremiah seemed to put forth the excuse that the people cannot help it since the false prophets deluded them with lying assurances of peace.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:14–18 The excuse was not valid. These were deceptions spawned from the prophets’ lying hearts. The prophets would suffer for their own sins (vv. 14–15), but so would the people for their “wickedness” (vv. 16–18; 5:31).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:17 virgin daughter. Judah is so called, having never before been under foreign bondage.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:18 the land and have no knowledge. Babylon.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:19–20 Have you utterly rejected Judah? Lest the Lord be casting Judah off forever, the prophet in deep contrition confesses the nation's sin (cf. Dan. 9:4ff.).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:21 your glorious throne. Jerusalem, place of the temple.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:1–9 It was ineffective at this point to intercede for the nation. Even prayers by Moses (cf. Num. 14:11–25) and Samuel (cf. 1 Sam. 12:19–25), eminent in intercession, would not defer judgment, where unrepentance persists (cf. Jer. 18:8; 26:3). Chief among things provoking judgment was the intense sin of King Manasseh (695–642 B.C.). Noted in Jer. 15:4., this provocation is recounted in 2 Kings 21:1–18, cf. 2 Kings 23:26, which says the Lord did not relent from his anger because of this (see also 2 Kings 24:3–4).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:6 I am weary of relenting. God often withholds the judgment he threatens (cf. 26:19; Ex. 32:14; 1 Chron. 21:15), sparing men so that his patience might lead them to repentance (cf. Rom. 2:4–5; 3:25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:9 sun went down while it was yet day. Young mothers die in youth and their children are killed.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:10 Woe is me. Overcome by grief (cf. 9:1), Jeremiah wished that he had not been born (as 20:14–18). He had not been a bad or disagreeable creditor or debtor, either of whom kindle hatred. Yet his people cursed him, and he felt the sting.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:11–14 In the midst of judgment, the Lord promised protection for the obedient remnant in Judah (cf. Mal. 3:16–17). The Babylonians permitted some to stay in the land when they departed (Jer. 40:5–7). Jeremiah personally received kind treatment from the invader (40:1–6), and his enemies in Judah would later appeal to him (21:1–6; 37:3; 42:1–6). Ultimately, a band of renegade Judeans took Jeremiah to Egypt against God's will (cf. 43:1–7).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:15–18 O Lord you know. Jeremiah, in a mood of self-pity, reminded the Lord of his faithfulness in bearing reproach, his love for his word, and his separation from evil men to stand alone.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:18 a deceitful brook. He asked that the Lord not fail him like a wadi that has dried up (v. 18). The answer to this concern is in 2:13 (the Lord is his fountain), 15:19–21, and 17:5–8.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:19 The Lord reprimanded Jeremiah for self-pity and impatience. He had to have the proper posture before God and repent. If he did so, he would discern true values (“utter what is precious,” a figure drawn from removing pure metal from dross), and have the further privilege of being God’s mouthpiece. Let sinners change to his values, but let him never compromise to theirs. As a man who is to assay and test others (6:27–30), he must first assay himself (cf. Moses, in Ex. 4:22–26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:20–21 When Jeremiah repents, God will protect him (vv. 20–21, as 1:18–19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:2 You shall not take a wife. Since destruction and exile are soon to fall on Judah, the prophet must not have a wife and family. God’s kindness will keep him from anxiety over them in the awful situation of suffering and death (v. 4). Cf. 15:9 and 1 Cor. 7:26.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:5 house of mourning. This was a home where friends prepared a meal for a bereaved family. Don’t mourn with them or rejoice, he is told (cf. v. 8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:6 cut . . . make himself bald. These acts indicated extreme grief.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:10–13 Why . . . ? Jeremiah was to explain the reason for the judgment, i.e., their forsaking God and worshiping false gods (v. 11; 2:13). They would get their fill of idols in Babylon (16:13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:14–15 no longer be said. In view of the Lord’s promise of restoration from Babylon, the proof of God’s redemptive power and faithfulness in the deliverance from Egypt would give way to a greater demonstration in the deliverance of his people from Babylon. That bondage was to be so severe that deliverance from Babylon was a greater relief than from Egypt.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:15 all the countries. This reference is extensive enough to be fully realized only in the final gathering into Messiah’s earthly kingdom.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:16 many fishers . . . hunters. These are references to Babylonian soldiers, who were doing God’s judgment work (v. 17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:18 doubly repay. The word for “doubly” signified “full or complete,” a fitting punishment for such severe sins.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:19–21 The result of God’s judgment on the Jews will be the end of idolatry; even some Gentiles, witnessing the severity, will renounce idols. After the return from Babylon, this was partly fulfilled as the Jews entirely and permanently renounced idols, and many Gentiles turned from their idols to Jehovah. However, the complete fulfillment will come in the final restoration of Israel (cf. Isa. 2:1–4; 49:6; 60:3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:1 The sin of Judah. Reasons for the judgment (ch. 16) continue here: 1) idolatry (17:1–4), 2) relying on the flesh (v. 5), and 3) dishonesty in amassing wealth (v. 11). pen of iron. The names of idols were engraved on the horns of their altars with such a tool. The idea is that Judah’s sin was permanent, etched in them as if into stone. How much different to have God’s word written on the heart (31:33).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:3 mountains in the open country. Jerusalem in Judah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:4 land . . . you do not know. Babylon.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:5–8 Cursed is the man. Jeremiah contrasted the person who experiences barrenness (vv. 5–6) with the one who receives blessing (vv. 7–8). The difference in attitude is in “trust” placed in man or “trust” vested in the Lord (vv. 5, 7). And the contrast in vitality is between being like a parched dwarf juniper in the desert (v. 6) or a tree drawing sustenance from a stream to bear fruit (v. 8; cf. Ps. 1:1–3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:10 I . . . search the heart. For the sin of man (vv. 1–4), for the barren man (vv. 5–6), or the blessed man (vv. 7–8), God is the final Judge and renders his judgment for their works (cf. Rev. 20:11–15). By him, actions are weighed (1 Sam. 2:3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:11 the partridge. This referred to a sand grouse that invaded and brooded over a nest not its own, but was forced to leave before the eggs hatched. It depicted a person who unjustly took possession of things he had no right to take and couldn't enjoy the benefits, despite all the effort.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:14–18 Jeremiah voiced the prayerful cry that God would deliver him from his enemies (v. 14). Surrounded by ungodly people (vv. 1–6, 11, 13), he showed qualities of godliness: 1) God was his praise (v. 14); 2) he had a shepherd's heart to follow God (v. 16); 3) he was a man of prayer open to God's examination (v. 16); 4) God was his hope (v. 17); and 5) he trusted God's delivering faithfulness even in judgment (v. 18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:21–24 Sabbath day. Not only had the Jews failed to observe Sabbath days, but also the required Sabbath year of rest for the land (Lev. 25:1–7) was regularly violated. God had warned that such disobedience would bring judgment (Lev. 26:34–35, 43; 2 Chron. 36:20–21). The 70-year captivity was correlated to the 490 years from Saul to the captivity, which included 70 Sabbath years. When the Jews were restored from captivity, special stress was placed on Sabbath faithfulness (cf. Neh. 13:19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:25–27 For obedience, God would assure the dynasty of David perpetual rule in Jerusalem, safety for the city, and worship at the temple (vv. 25–26). Continued disobedience would meet with destruction of the city (v. 27).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:1–20:18 A close link exists between ch. 17 and chs. 18–20. Destruction is in view (ch. 17), but repentance can yet prevent that (18:7–8). However, repentance was not present (18:12), so Jeremiah's shattered jar illustrated God's dashing Israel in judgment (ch. 19). Then the rejection spirit (cf. 19:15) led to persecution against God's mouthpiece (ch. 20).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:2–6 potter's house. God sent Jeremiah to a potter, who gave him an illustration by shaping a vessel. The prophet secured a vessel and used it for his own illustration (19:1ff.). Jeremiah watched the potter at his wheel. The soft clay became misshapen, but the potter shaped it back into a good vessel. God will so do with Judah if she repents.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:8–10 Though he had announced impending judgment, the "spoiled" nation can be restored as a good vessel by God, who will hold off the judgment (vv. 8, 11). By contrast, if the nation followed sin, he would not bring the blessing desired (vv. 9–10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:12 That is in vain! Jeremiah brought them to the point where they actually stated their condition honestly. The prophet's threats were useless because they were so far gone—abandoned to their sins and the penalty. All hypocrisy was abandoned in favor of honesty, without repentance. Repentance was not in Israel (as v. 18; 19:15). This explains a seeming paradox, that Israel can repent and avert judgment, yet Jeremiah is not to pray for Israel (7:16; 11:14). It would do no good to pray for their change since they steeled themselves against any change.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:13 virgin Israel. It enhanced their guilt that Israel was the virgin whom God had chosen (cf. 2 Kings 19:21).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:14 snow of Lebanon . . . cold flowing streams. No reasonable man would forsake such for “the crags of Sirion,” perhaps a poetic term for Mount Lebanon, from which the high mountain streams flowed. Yet Israel forsook God, the fountain of living waters, for broken foreign cisterns (cf. 2:13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:18 plots against Jeremiah. Plans to indict the prophet with their “tongues” and then to slay him (v. 23) were based on the premise that his message of doom was not true. The business of the priests, the wise, and the prophets continued as usual since God made them lasting institutions (cf. Lev. 6:18; 10:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:19–23 Hear me. This is one of many examples of prayer aligning with God's will as Jeremiah prays for God's work of judgment to be done (vv. 11, 15–17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:22 dug a pit. Cf. 38:6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:1 elders of the people . . . the elders of the priests. These were chosen to be credible witnesses of the symbolic action with the “earthenware flask,” so no one could plead ignorance of the prophesy. The 72 elders who made up the Sanhedrin were partly from the “priests” and the other tribes (“people”).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:2 Valley of the Son of Hinnom. See note on 19:6.

Potsherd Gate. The gate of “broken pottery” was on the south wall of Jerusalem where the potters formed pottery for use in the temple nearby.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:6 Topheth. Hebrew uses the word toph for “drum.” This was another name for the Valley of Hinnom, an east-west valley at the south end of Jerusalem where, when children were burned in sacrifice to idols (cf. vv. 4–5), drums were beaten to drown their cries. Rubbish from Jerusalem was dumped there and continually burned. The place became a symbol for the burning fires of hell, called Gehenna (Matt. 5:22). Cf. Jer. 7:30–32 and Isa. 30:33. It was to become a place of massacre.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:9 eat the flesh. Desperate for food during a long siege, some would resort to cannibalism, eating family members and friends (Lam. 4:10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:10 Cf. v. 1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:13 defiled. Their houses were desecrated by idolatrous worship. offered to . . . host of heaven. Refers to worship of the sun, planets, and stars from flat housetops (cf. 32:29; 2 Kings 23:11–12; Zeph. 1:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:1 Pashhur. The meaning is either “ease,” or “deliverance is round about,” both in contrast to the new name God assigns him in v. 3. He was one of several men so named (cf. 21:1; 38:1). Immer. He was one of the original “governors of the sanctuary” (cf. 1 Chron. 24:14). chief officer. He was not the high priest, but the chief official in charge of temple police, who were to maintain order.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:2 beat Jeremiah. He or others acting on his authority, delivered 40 lashes (see Deut. 25:3) to the prophet. put him in the stocks. Hands, feet, and neck were fastened in holes, bending the body to a distorted posture, causing excruciating pain. upper Benjamin Gate. The northern gate of the upper temple court.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:3 Terror On Every Side. “Terror on every side” is the fitting name that the Lord reckons for the leader. The details of that terror are in vv. 4, 6 (cf. 6:25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:4 Babylon. This was Jeremiah’s direct identification of the conqueror who would come out of the “north” (1:13), from “a distant land” (4:16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:8 derision all day long. In vv. 7–18, Jeremiah prayerfully lamented the ridicule he was experiencing because of God’s role for his life. His feelings wavered between quitting (v. 9a), being encouraged (vv. 9c, 11), petitioning for help (v. 12), praise (v. 13), and waves of depression (vv. 14–18; cf. 11:18–23; 15:10, 15–18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:9 I will not . . . speak any more. A surge of dejection swept over Jeremiah, making him long to say no more. But he was compelled inside (cf. Job 32:18–19; Ps. 39:3; Acts 18:5; 1 Cor. 9:16–17) because he did not want his enemies to see him fail (Jer. 20:10), he felt the powerful presence of the Lord (v. 11), and he remembered God’s previous deliverances (v. 13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:14 Cursed be the day. Another tide of depression engulfed the prophet, perhaps when he was in the painful stocks (v. 2). His words are like Job’s (Job 3:3, 10–11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:15 Cursed be the man. The servant of God fell into sinful despair, and he questioned the wisdom and purpose of God, for which he should have been thankful.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:16 the cities . . . the Lord overthrew. Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen. 19:25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:1 King Zedekiah. Cf. 2 Kings 24:17–25:7 for details of his reign c. 597–586 B.C. Pashhur. This priest was different from the man by this name in Jer. 20:1–6. Cf. 38:1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:2 making war against us. This was during the last siege by Babylon (v. 4), c. 587/86 B.C., resulting in the third deportation of Jews. Zedekiah hoped for God’s intervention, such as Hezekiah received against Sennacherib (2 Kings 19:35–36).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:4 turn back the weapons. The Jews were already fighting the invaders by going outside the walls of the city to battle them on the hillsides and in the valleys as they approached. However, they would soon be driven back into the city where the enemy would collect all their weapons and execute many with those very weapons.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:5 I myself will fight. God used an invader as his judging instrument (v. 7). The Jews have not only the Babylonians as their enemy, but God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:7 strike them . . . sword. This was the fate of Zedekiah’s son and many nobles. Zedekiah died of grief (cf. 34:4; 2 Kings 25:6–8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:8–9 life and . . . death. Since a persistent lack of repentance had led to the conquest, Jeremiah urged the Jews to submit and surrender to the besieger so as to be treated as captives of war and live rather than be killed.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:12 O house of David! The royal family and all connected were called to enact justice and righteousness promptly (“morning”). There was still time for them to escape the destruction if there was repentance.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:13 O inhabitant of the valley, O rock of the plain. Jerusalem personified, situated among rocks, hills, and valleys.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:14 I will punish. During the siege Jerusalem will be burned (v. 10), as will the land in general.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:2, 4 throne of David. Refers to the Davidic Covenant of 2 Sam. 7:3–17, in which God promised David that his heirs will rule over Israel.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:6 Gilead . . . Lebanon. The beautiful high mountains of the land.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:7 cut down . . . choicest cedars. This could primarily refer to the palaces and great houses built from such timber (cf. Song 1:17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:10 dead. Probably a reference to Josiah, who died before the destruction (2 Kings 22:20; Isa. 57:1). Dying saints are to be envied, living sinners pitied. When Josiah died, and on each anniversary of his death, there was open public weeping in which Jeremiah participated (2 Chron. 35:24–25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:11–12 Shallum. This is another name for King Jehoahaz (three-month reign, 609 B.C., 2 Kings 23:31) the fourth son of Josiah (cf. 1 Chron. 3:15). It was given to him in irony, because the people called him Shalom (“peace”), but Shallum means “retribution.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:13–17 Woe to him. This message indicted Jehoahaz (vv. 13–14, 17), who was unlike his father, the good king, Josiah (vv. 15–16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:18–19 Jehoiakim. Ruling from 609 to 598 B.C., he was also wicked in taxing the people (2 Kings 23:35) and making them build his splendid palace without pay, violating God’s law in Lev. 19:13 and Deut. 24:14–15 (cf. Mic. 3:10; Hab. 2:9; James 5:4). He was slain in Babylon’s second siege and his corpse dishonored, being left like a dead donkey on the ground for scavengers to feed on.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:20 Go up to Lebanon. Sinners dwelling in the northwest in Lebanon’s cedar land and others to the northeast beyond the Sea of Galilee in Bashan will suffer in the invasion. The entirety of the land will come under judgment as Abarim in the southeast.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:24–26 Coniah. A short form of Jeconiah, perhaps used in contempt, who was also called Jehoiachin. He ruled only three months and 10 days (2 Chron. 36:9) in 598–597 B.C., and was taken into captivity, where he lived out his life.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:24 signet. A ring with a personal insignia on it (cf. Hag. 2:23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:28 Questions the people who idolized Jeconiah were asking.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:30 Write . . . childless. Jeconiah did have offspring (1 Chron. 3:17–18), but he was reckoned childless in the sense that he had no sons who would reign (“sitting on the throne . . .”). The curse continued in his descendants down to Joseph, the husband of Mary. How could Jesus then be the Messiah when his father was under this curse? It was because Joseph was not involved in the blood line of Jesus since Jesus was virgin born (Matt. 1:12). Jesus’ blood right to the throne of David came through Mary from Nathan, Solomon’s brother, not Solomon (Jeconiah’s line) thus bypassing this curse (Luke 3:31–32). Cf. Jer. 36:30.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:1–2 Woe to the shepherds. These were false leaders who failed in their duty to assure the people’s welfare (as v. 2), starting with the kings in ch. 22 and other civil heads, as well as prophets and priests (cf. 23:11). They stood in utter contrast to the shepherds God would later give the nation (v. 4; 3:15). Other significant chapters that condemn evil shepherds and false prophets include chs. 14; 27; 28; Isa. 28; Ezek. 13; 34; Mic. 3; Zech. 11.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:3–4 I will gather. God pledged to restore exiled Israelites to their ancient soil. Cf. similar promises in chs. 30–33, and 16:14–15. The land in view was lit. Palestine, being contrasted with all the other countries (23:3), thus assuring that the regathering would be as literal as the scattering. The restoration of Judah from Babylon is referred to in language that in its fullness can only refer to the final restoration of God’s people (“out of all the countries” and v. 8), under Messiah. “Neither shall any be missing” indicates that no one will be missing or detached. These are prophecies not yet fulfilled. Cf. 32:37–38; Isa. 60:21; Ezek. 34:11–16.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:4 shepherds . . . will care for them. Cf. Ezek. 34:23–31. Zerubbabel, Ezra, Nehemiah, and others were small fulfillments compared to the consummate shepherding of the Messiah Jesus.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:5 Branch. The Messiah is pictured as a branch (lit., “shoot”) out of David’s family tree (cf. 33:15–16; Isa. 4:2; 11:1–5; Zech. 3:8; 6:12–13), who will rule over God’s people in the future. Cf. Jer. 33:14–17 where the same promise is repeated.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:6 The Lord is our righteousness. This emphasis is stated three times in vv. 5–6. Messiah’s shepherding is contrasted with that of the false shepherds (vv. 1–2, 11, 14). Judah and Israel will be reunited (cf. Ezek. 37:15–23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:7–8 See note on 16:14–15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:13–14 Jerusalem and Judah were worse than Samaria and Israel.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:14 in the prophets . . . a horrible thing. The false shepherds told lies, committed adultery, and declared vain dreams (vv. 25, 27). They became like chaff rather than grain (v. 28), while promising peace (v. 17) to those whose sins provoke God to bring calamity, not comfort. The scene was like Sodom and Gomorrah, whose sin so grieved God that he destroyed them by fire (cf. Gen. 19:13, 24–25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:18 Here was the reason not to listen to the false prophets (cf. v. 16)—they didn’t speak God’s word.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:20 latter days. They wouldn’t listen, but the day would come (v. 12) when the judgment would fall and then they would “understand.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:21–22 According to the Mosaic law, these false prophets should have been stoned (cf. Deut. 13:1–5; 18:20–22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:23–24 God at hand . . . God far away. Let not false prophets think they can hide their devices from God, who declares himself omnipresent and omniscient, in both an immanent and transcendent sense.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:25 I have dreamed. Here was a claim to divine revelation through dreams (cf. Num. 12:6). But such claims were a deception (Jer. 23:26–27), utterly unequal in power to God’s word (vv. 28–29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:29 like fire . . . hammer. God’s word has irresistible qualities to prevail over the deception in the shepherds' false messages.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:33 the burden of the Lord? The people asked, in mockery, for Jeremiah to give them his latest prophecy (“burden”). This ridicule of Jeremiah’s faithful preaching demanded a response, and God told the prophet to repeat the question and reply simply “I will cast you off,” meaning judgment from God was coming.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:34–40 The burden of the Lord. When a person falsely claimed to have a word from God, he would be punished for perverting God’s truth. Claiming to have prophecies from God, when not true, is dangerous.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:1 After Nebuchadnezzar . . . had taken. Babylon’s second deportation of Judeans in 597 B.C. (cf. 2 Kings 24:10–17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:5 Like these good figs. The object lesson of v. 2 is explained. Deported Judeans, captive in Babylon, will have good treatment, not death as shown in 29:5–7, 10. They will be granted privileges as colonists rather than being enslaved as captives.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:6–7 While it is true that a remnant returned to Judah in 538 B.C., this promise had greater overtones in regard to the ultimate fulfillment of the Abrahamic (Gen. 12), Davidic (2 Sam. 7), and New (Jer. 31) Covenants in the day of Messiah’s coming and kingdom (cf. 32:41; 33:7). Their conversion (24:7) from idolatry to the one true God is expressed in language which, in its fullness, applies to the complete conversion in the final Kingdom after the present dispersion (cf. Rom. 11:1–5, 25–27).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:8–10 Like the bad figs. Those remaining at Jerusalem during the 11 years (597–586 B.C.) of Zedekiah’s vassal reign would soon face hardship from further scattering to other countries, violent death, famine, and disease; cf. 29:17. See 25:9 and note there. These verses quote the curses of Deut. 28:25, 37 (cf. Jer. 29:18, 22; Ps. 44:13–14) and are also fulfilled in the history of the long dispersion until Messiah returns.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:1 fourth year. The date is 605/604 B.C., as Jehoiakim reigned in 609–598 B.C. first year. Nebuchadnezzar reigned 605–562 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:3 thirteenth year. The time is c. 627/626 B.C. Josiah ruled in 640–609 B.C. twenty-three years. Jeremiah began his ministry in the thirteenth year of Josiah (cf. 1:2) and had been faithful to preach repentance and judgment for 23 years (c. 605/604 B.C.).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:9 my servant. God used a pagan king, Nebuchadnezzar, to accomplish his will (cf. Cyrus in Isa. 45:1).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:10 Cf. 7:34 and Rev. 18:23.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:11 seventy years. Here is the first specific statement on the length of the exile (cf. 29:10). This period probably began in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, when Jerusalem was first captured and the temple treasures were taken. It ends with the decree of Cyrus to let the Jews return, spanning from c. 605/604 B.C. to 536/535 B.C. The exact number of Sabbath years is 490 years, the period from Saul to the Babylonian captivity. This was retribution for their violation of the Sabbath law (cf. Lev. 26:34–35; 2 Chron. 36:21).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:13 all the nations. Jeremiah prophesied judgments on surrounding nations (cf. chs. 46–49), while Babylon is the focus of judgment in chs. 50–51.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:14 make slaves even of them. The Babylonians, who made other nations their slaves, would become the servants of nations.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:15 cup of the wine. A symbol for stupefying judgments (v. 16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:17 made all the nations . . . drink. Obviously Jeremiah could not visit all the places listed from vv. 18–26, but in this vision he acted as if representatives from all those nations were present so he could make them drink in the message of wrath (v. 27), and understand there was no escape (vv. 28–29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:29 city . . . called by my name. Jerusalem (cf. Dan. 9:18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:30–33 While embracing the judgments soon to come to Judah and other nations, this has end-time language (“from the farthest parts of the earth”) and must be ultimately fulfilled in the time of tribulation described in Rev. 6–19.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:1 In the beginning. The time was 609 B.C. The message is about four years earlier than that in 25:1 and about 11 years before 24:1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:2 Stand in the court. This was the largest public gathering place at the temple.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:6 like Shiloh. The former dwelling place of God before Jerusalem. Cf. 7:12 and see note there.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:11 Jeremiah was accused of treason. Cf. Paul's arrest in Acts 21:27–28.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:12 Jeremiah spoke. Leaders and people threatened to kill him (v. 8). The prophet defended himself while in extreme danger. He did not compromise, but displayed tremendous spiritual courage. He was ready to die (v. 14), yet warned the crowd that God would hold the guilty accountable (v. 15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:15 put me to death. Cf. Matt. 23:31–37.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:17–19 elders . . . spoke. These spokesmen cited the prophet Micah (cf. Mic. 3:12), who before and during Hezekiah's reign (c. 715–686 B.C.) prophesied the destruction of Jerusalem and its temple. They reasoned that because they didn't kill Micah, God rescinded the judgment. They must not kill Jeremiah so God might change his mind. Micah's prophecy and Jeremiah's would come true in time.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:20–22 another man who prophesied. Uriah, like Micah and Jeremiah, had warned of doom on Jerusalem, speaking in Jehoiakim's day only a bit earlier than Jeremiah's present warning (609 B.C.). He was executed. The decision could have gone either way since there was precedent for killing and for sparing.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:22 Elnathan. A high-ranking official who on another occasion sided with Jeremiah (cf. 36:12, 25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:23 the burial place. In the Kidron Valley, to the east of the temple (cf. 2 Kings 23:6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:24 Ahikam. He used his strategic influence to spring

Jeremiah free of the death threat. This civil leader under King Josiah (cf. 2 Kings 22:12, 14) and father of Gedaliah, was appointed governor over Judah by the Babylonians after Jerusalem's final fall in 586 B.C. (39:14; 40:13–41:3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:1 reign of Zedekiah. This may refer to Jehoiakim around 609/608 B.C. (as ch. 26; see esv footnote). Or, possibly, the correct reading is “Zedekiah” as in 27:3, 12, and 28:1, which would put the date at the outset of his 597–586 B.C. reign.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:2 Make . . . straps and yoke-bars. This object lesson symbolized bondage to Babylon. The yoke was bound on Jeremiah's neck to picture Judah's captivity (v. 12), then sent to six kings of nearby nations who would also be under Babylon's power (v. 3). Cf. Jer. 28:10–12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:7 Cf. 25:13–14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:8 yoke of . . . Babylon. The point of the object lesson is simple. Any nation that will serve Babylon willingly may stay in their own land, but nations that will not submit voluntarily to Babylon will suffer destruction. Consequently, Judah should submit and not be removed from the land (vv. 9–18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:18 intercede with the Lord. God would not answer such a prayer, as proven by vv. 19–22. This revealed his indifference to the prayers of these false prophets.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:20 C. 597 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:21–22 vessels. Jeremiah revealed that Judah's temple vessels taken to Babylon (cf. 2 Kings 24:13; Dan. 1:1–2) would be restored to the temple. Fulfillment around 536 B.C. was spoken of in Ezra 5:13–15. About 516/515 B.C. these articles were placed in the rebuilt temple (Ezra 6:15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:1 reign of Zedekiah. Cf. 27:1 and see note there. The fourth year would be about 593 B.C. Hananiah. This man was one of several by this name in Scripture, in this case a foe of God's true prophet, distinct from the loyal Hananiah of Dan. 1:6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:2–3 I have broken the yoke. The false prophet, of the kind Jeremiah warned of in 27:14–16, boldly predicted victory over Babylon and the return of the temple vessels within two years. In actuality, Babylon achieved its third and final step in conquering Judah 11 years later (586 B.C.) as in chs. 39:40; 52. As to the vessels, see note on 27:21–22.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:4 bring back . . . Jeconiah. This rash, false claim fell into ignominy. Jeconiah, soon taken to Babylon in 597 B.C., would live out his years there and not return to Jerusalem (52:31–34). Other captives either died in captivity, or didn't return until 61 years later. Cf. 22:24–26.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:10 took the yoke-bars . . . broke them. The phony prophet, in foolishness, removed the object lesson from the true spokesman and broke it as a sign of his own prediction coming true (cf. vv. 2–4, 11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:13 Go, tell Hananiah. Jeremiah apparently left the meeting, and later God sent him back to confront the liar, likely wearing yokes of iron (which Hananiah could not break!) to replace the wooden ones (v. 14) and to illustrate his message.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:15–17 the Lord has not sent you. Jeremiah told Hananiah that 1) God had not approved his message; 2) he was guilty of encouraging the people to trust in a lie, even rebellion; and 3) God would require his life that very year, 597 B.C. The true prophet's word was authenticated by Hananiah's death in two months (cf. v. 17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:1 the letter. Jeremiah, shortly after the 597 B.C. deportation of many countrymen (cf. v. 2), wrote to comfort them in exile.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:4–10 Jeremiah's counsel to Israelites in Babylon was to take all the steps in living as colonists planning to be there for a long time (70 years, 29:10, as 25:11). Further, they were to seek Babylon's peace and intercede in prayer for it, their own welfare being bound with it (29:7; cf. Ezra 6:10; 7:23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:11 plans for welfare. This assured God's intentions to bring about blessing in Israel's future (cf. chs. 30–33).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:12–14 you will call. What God planned, he also gave the people opportunity to participate in by sincere (v. 13) prayer. Cf. 1 John 5:14–15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:14 I will be found by you. The Lord would answer their prayer, by returning the Jews to their land, cf. Daniel's example and God's response (Dan. 9:4–27). Fulfillment would occur in the era of Ezra and Nehemiah, and beyond this in even fuller measure after the second advent of their Messiah (cf. Dan. 2:35, 45; 7:13–14, 27; 12:1–3, 13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:15–19 Because you have said. Amazingly still rejecting God's true message, Jewish captives listened to false prophets among them (cf. vv. 8–9, 21–23). This was the very sin that would cause God to send a further deportation to those still in Judah (586 B.C.).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:17 like vile figs. Cf. the principle of Jer. 24.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:21–23 Ahab . . . Zedekiah. Two captive, false Israelite prophets, who had been misleading exiles in Babylon (v. 15), will stir up the wrath of their captor king, who will cast them into a furnace (as in Dan. 3). They aroused not only the Babylonian potentate's enmity, but God's also, because of prophecies against his word and physical adultery (cf. Jer. 5:7).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:24–32 The judgment against Shemaiah, the otherwise unknown prophet, who opposed Jeremiah, was similar to that experienced by Hananiah (cf. 28:15–17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:28 This referred to Jeremiah's letter mentioned in v. 5.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:3 I will bring them back. This theme verse gives in capsule form the pledge of chs. 30–33. God’s restoration of the whole nation to their own land (cf. 29:10; Amos 9:14–15; Rom. 11:26) has in view a final regathering never to be removed again (see note on Jer. 16:15) and not just a return in the time of Ezra and Nehemiah (Jer. 30:8–9; 31:31ff.; 32:39–40; 33:8–9, 15–16). This verse is a summary of the prophecy given in Jer. 30:4–9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:7 time of distress for Jacob. This period of unprecedented difficulty for Israel, as the verse defines, is set in a context of Israel’s final restoration. It is best equated with the time of tribulation (cf. vv. 8–9) just before Christ’s second advent, mentioned elsewhere (Dan. 12:1; Matt. 24:21–22) and described in detail by Rev. 6–19.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:9 David their king. The Messiah, the greater David in David’s dynasty, ultimately fulfills this promise (2 Sam. 7:16). He is the great king often promised as Israel’s hope (Jer. 23:5–6; Isa. 9:7; Ezek. 37:24–25; Dan. 2:35, 45; 7:13–14, 27; Matt. 25:34; 26:64; Luke 1:32; Rev. 17:14; 19:16). No king of David’s seed has held the scepter since the captivity. Zerubbabel, of David’s line, never claimed the title of king (cf. Hag. 2:2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:11 not make a full end. Israel will endure as a people until Messiah’s kingdom (cf. Rom. 11:1–29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:12–15 Judah had no reason to complain.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:16–24 These absolute and extensive promises have yet to be fulfilled in history; they look forward to the reign of Christ, the greater David, in the millennial kingdom of the “latter days.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:21 their ruler. This refers to the Messiah, the king of v. 9 and 23:5–6, springing up from within Israel (cf. Isa. 11:1), able to approach God as a priest.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:1 At that time. Equated with the latter days in 30:24. In this chapter, prophecies of the restoration of the nation are continued.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:2–14 Here are messianic kingdom conditions.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:15 A voice . . . in Ramah. The reflection, for a moment, is on the distress of an Israelite mother for her children slain in the Babylonian invasion. This was a backdrop for the many contrasting promises of restoration to a joyful time (as vv. 12–14, 16–17) in the messianic day. Matthew saw the same description of sadness as apt, in principle, to depict something of the similar weeping of Jewish mothers when King Herod had babies slain at Bethlehem in a bid to kill the Messiah as a child (Matt. 2:17–18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:18–20 I may be restored. Jeremiah wrote of Israel (the 10 tribes called Ephraim) as finally recognizing, in humility, the need for the Lord to move them to repentance and forgiveness. Cf. Ps. 102:13–17 for the relation of Israel’s restoration to their prayers; see also Jer. 24:6–7; Lam. 5:21; cf. John 6:44, 65.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:22 faithless. See note on 2:19. a woman encircles a man. Here is one of the most puzzling statements in Jeremiah. Some see the virgin birth of Christ (but “woman” means a woman, not a virgin, and “encircle” or “surround” does not suggest conceiving). Possibly it refers to the formerly virgin Israel (31:21), who is now a disgraced, divorced wife (v. 22; 3:8). She will one day in the future re-embrace her former husband, the Lord, and he will receive her back, fully forgiven. That would be “a new thing on the earth.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:26 my sleep was pleasant. The hope of Israel’s restoration brought a moment of peace in Jeremiah’s otherwise tumultuous ministry.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:28 build and to plant. The Lord repeated what he at first told Jeremiah in 1:10 regarding his two works of judging and blessing. The latter is in two images, architectural (building) and agricultural (planting).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:29 eaten sour grapes. This was apparently a proverb among the exiles’ children born in Babylon, to express that they suffered the consequences of their fathers’ sins rather than their own (Lam. 5:7; Ezek. 18:2–3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:31–34 a new covenant. In contrast to the Mosaic Covenant under which Israel failed, God promised a New Covenant with a spiritual, divine dynamic by which those who know him would participate in the blessings of salvation. The fulfillment was to individuals, yet also to Israel as a nation (v. 36; Rom. 11:16–27). It is set 1) in the framework of a reestablishment in their land (e.g., Jer. 30–33 and in 31:38–40) and 2) in the time after the ultimate difficulty (30:7). In principle, this covenant, also announced by Jesus Christ (Luke 22:20), begins to be exercised with spiritual aspects realized for Jewish and Gentile believers in the church era (1 Cor. 11:25; Heb. 8:7–13; 9:15; 10:14–17; 12:24; 13:20). It has already begun to take effect with “a remnant, chosen by grace” (Rom. 11:5). It will be also realized by the people of Israel in the last days, including the regathering to their ancient land, Palestine (Jer. 30–33). The streams of the Abrahamic, Davidic, and New Covenants find their confluence in the millennial kingdom ruled over by the Messiah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:35–37 These verses emphasize the certainty with which Israel can expect God to fulfill the New Covenant (cf. 33:17–22, 25–26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:38–40 The tower was in the northeast corner of the city (cf. Neh. 3:1; 12:39). When New Covenant promises are ultimately fulfilled to Israel in its regathering to its land, rebuilt Jerusalem will meet certain specifications. The “Corner Gate” is at the northwest corner (2 Kings 14:13; 2 Chron. 26:9). The “measuring line” marks out the area for rebuilding. It will point over the hill Gareb and then toward Goah; both places are impossible to identify today. The “valley of the dead bodies” is the Valley of Hinnom, a place of refuse and burning fires (cf. Jer. 7:31, and see note there). The “Horse Gate” was at the southeast corner of the temple courts (2 Kings 11:16; Neh. 3:28).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:1 tenth year. The time is 587 B.C., the tenth year in Zedekiah’s reign (597–586 B.C.), the eighteenth of Nebuchadnezzar’s rule, during Babylon’s siege of Jerusalem.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:2 army of . . . Babylon was beseiging. The siege, set up in the tenth month (January) of 588 B.C., lasted at least 30 months to the fourth month (July) of 586 B.C. (39:1–2). Cf. 34:1 and see note there. The events of the chapter occurred in this setting of Judah’s imminent loss of its land, only about a year before Babylon’s final takeover detailed in chs. 39; 40; 52.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:2–5 shut up in the court of the guard. Judah’s final king put Jeremiah into prison on the charge of preaching treason, against nation and king, whereas Zedekiah savored positive talk to spark new morale to hold out.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:8 the right of . . . redemption. A man facing hardship could sell property, and the right to redeem it until the jubilee year belonged to the closest blood relative. If a stranger had taken it due to unpaid debt, the relative could redeem it as a family possession (Lev. 25:25). Levite land could be sold only to a Levite (Lev. 25:32–34), such as Jeremiah. He did as the Lord told him (Jer. 32:9–12).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:14 Take these deeds. Title deeds to the land, kept for security reasons in a pottery jar, would attest in a future day to one’s claim of possession. Men of Anathoth did return to Jerusalem from Babylon (Ezra 2:23). Also, some of the poor of the land, left by the Babylonians (Jer. 39), could have included certain inhabitants of Anathoth. In a still future day, God will be able (32:17, 27) to make this land good to a resurrected Jeremiah and confirm to the right people that they are the prophet/priest’s descendants.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:16–25 With the immense sovereign power God possesses to do whatever he wishes in the present captivity and the future return, Jeremiah wondered why God had him redeem the field.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:26–35 God reviewed Judah’s sins and affirmed to Jeremiah that the Babylonians would prevail over Jerusalem (“this city” in v. 28, etc.).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:36–41 However, one day God will restore Israel to the land and provide the blessing of salvation.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:37 I will bring them back to this place. God pledged to restore Israelites to the very land of Israel (cf. v. 44). It is natural to expect his fulfillment of this blessing to be just as literal as the reverse—his scattering from the land (cf. v. 42).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:38–39 This speaks of spiritual salvation, i.e., the true knowledge and worship of God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:40 an everlasting covenant. The ultimate fulfillment of a future in the land was not fulfilled in the Ezra/Nehemiah return. This occurs in the time when God gives the people of Israel a new heart in eternal salvation along with their return to the ancient land (cf. 33:8–9 and Ezek. 36:26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:42–44 In the millennial kingdom, land will again be bought and sold in Israel.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:3 Call . . . I will answer. God invited Jeremiah's prayer, which appeals to him to fulfill the aspects of his promises that he guarantees he will attend to (as in 29:11–14; Dan. 9:4–19; cf. John 15:7). His answer to the prayer was assured in Jer. 33:4–26 (cf. v. 14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:8 Again the Lord emphasized the individual spiritual salvation associated with the New Covenant restoration to the land.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:11 bring thank offerings to the house of the Lord. These are the words of Ps. 136:1, actually used by the Jews at their return from Babylon (Ezra 3:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:15 a righteous Branch. This is the Messiah King in David's lineage, as in 23:5–6. He is the King whose reign immediately follows the second coming when he appears in power (Dan. 2:35, 45; 7:13–14, 27; Matt. 16:27–28; 24:30; 26:64).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:17–22 God promised to fulfill the Davidic (2 Sam. 17) and Priestly/Levitical (Num. 25:10–13) Covenants without exception. The promise was as certain as the sure appearance of night and day and the incalculable number of stars or sand grains (cf. Jer. 31:35–37; 33:25–26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:24 two clans. Judah and Israel. The Lord has rejected. Many, even today, believe Israel as a nation has no future. In vv. 25–26 God emphatically denies that notion (cf. 31:35–36; Ps. 74:16–17; Rom. 11:1–2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:1 Nebuchadnezzar . . . fighting. The siege began c. January 15, 588 B.C. (39:1), and ended c. July 18, 586 (39:2; 52:5–6). This chapter was set in Zedekiah's reign, during the siege of 588–586 B.C., and was an amplification of 32:1–5, the message that resulted in Jeremiah's incarceration. against Jerusalem. Babylon's destruction of Jerusalem began August 14, 586 (2 Kings 25:8–9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:3 This prophecy about Zedekiah (cf. 32:1–5) was fulfilled as reported in 2 Kings 25:6–7; Jer. 52:7–11.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:8–10 a covenant . . . to make a proclamation of liberty. Zedekiah's pact to free slaves or servants met with initial compliance. The covenant followed the law of release in Lev. 25:39–55; Deut. 15:12–18 in hopes of courting God's favor and ending his judgment.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:11 they turned around . . . took back. Former slave masters treacherously went back on their agreement and recalled their servants. Some suggest that this treachery came when the Egyptian army approached and Babylon’s forces withdrew temporarily (37:5, 11) and the inhabitants believed that danger was past.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:12–16 The word . . . came. God reminded the unfaithful Jews of his own covenant, when he freed Israelites from Egyptian bondage (cf. Ex. 21:2; Deut. 15:12–15). He had commanded that Hebrew slaves should serve only six years, then be set free in the seventh (Jer. 34:13–14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:17–22 You have not obeyed. Due to recent duplicity (v. 16), God promised only one kind of liberty to the offenders, liberty to judgment by sword, pestilence, and famine (v. 17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:18, 21 calf that they cut in two. God will give the guilty over to death before the conqueror, for they denied the covenant ratified by blood (v. 21). In this custom, as in Gen. 15:8–17, two parties laid out parts of a sacrifice on two sides, then walked between the parts. By that symbolic action each pledged to fulfill his promise, agreeing in effect, “May my life (represented by the blood) be poured out if I fail to honor my part.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:1–19 This chapter provided a description of the commitment to obedience by a group of people to their father, in contrast to the Jews’ disobedience to God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:1 days of Jehoiakim. 609–597 B.C. This backed up to several years before 34:1, possibly for a thematic reason—to cite a case of obedience after the episode of treachery in ch. 34.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:2 the Rechabites. These were a semi-nomadic Kenite group, related to Moses’ father-in-law (Judg. 1:16; 4:11), descended from those in 1 Chron. 2:55. The originator of their rules was Jonadab (Jer. 35:6, 14; 2 Kings 10:15, 23). They derived their name from Rechab (Jer. 35:8) and were not of Jacob’s seed, but “strangers” in Israel.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:8 obeyed. What was commended here was not the father’s specific commands about nomadic life, but the steadfast obedience of the sons. Their obedience was unreserved in all aspects, at all times, on the part of all, without exception; in all these respects Israel was lacking (v. 14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:13–17 The prophet indicted the Jews for flagrant disobedience.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:18–19 Because you have obeyed. God will bless the Rechabites not in spiritually saving them all, but in preserving a posterity in which some can have a place in his service. A Rechabite still has a role in Neh. 3:14. Also, the title over Ps. 71 in the lxx (Greek translation of the OT) was addressed for use by the sons of Jonadab and the earliest captives.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:1 fourth year of Jehoiakim. This chapter, like ch. 35, goes back several years earlier than chs. 32–34, before or shortly after the first of three deportations from Jerusalem to Babylon in 605 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:2 write on it. The command was to record in one volume all the messages since the outset of Jeremiah's ministry in 627 B.C. (1:2) up to 605/604 B.C., to be read to the people in the temple (36:6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:4 Baruch wrote. Jeremiah's recording secretary (cf. 32:12) wrote the prophet's messages (cf. 45:1), and penned them a second time after the first scroll was burned (cf. 36:32). He also read the messages in the temple (v. 10) and in the palace (v. 15). Later, Jehudi read a small part of the first scroll before King Jehoiakim (vv. 21–23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:5 banned. The word means “confined, hindered, shut up,” and is the same term used for imprisonment in 33:1 and 39:15. The fact that princes allowed Jeremiah to depart into hiding (36:19) may indicate that he was curtailed in some ways without being in prison. There is no record of his being imprisoned in Jehoiakim's rule.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:6 a day of fasting. Cf. v. 9. Here was a special fast day, appointed to avert the impending calamity, which would make the Jews more open to the message of the prophet (v. 7).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:9 fifth year. This year (604 B.C.) was the next year after that of v. 1, which may suggest that it took some part of a year to repeat and record the long series of messages so far given (cf. v. 18). ninth month. November/ December (cf. vv. 22–23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:10 chamber. On the north side, above the wall overlooking the temple court, where the people gathered, Baruch read from a window or balcony.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:17–18 They asked if Baruch had written these words from memory or actual dictation from the inspired prophet. The latter was true. They were concerned it might be God’s word (cf. vv. 16, 25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:23 cut them off. As often as Jehudi read “three or four columns,” the king cut it up, doing so all the way through the whole scroll because he rejected the message (cf. v. 29). Jehoiakim is the king who sent men to Egypt (ch. 26) to bring back God’s faithful prophet, Uriah, so that he could execute him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:24 neither . . . afraid. The king’s servants were more hardened than the princes (v. 16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:26 the Lord hid them. God, who guides (cf. 1:8, 19; 10:23), gave Jeremiah and Baruch safety (cf. 36:19; Ps. 32:8; Prov. 3:5–6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:27 Cf. Isa. 40:18; 55:11; Matt. 5:18.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:31 I will punish him. Consequences followed Jehoiakim’s defiance. In 598 B.C. he met his own death (22:18–19; 2 Kings 23:36; 2 Chron. 36:5). He had none to occupy the throne (Jer. 36:30). Jehoiachin or Jeconiah (Coniah in 22:24), his son, did succeed him, but with virtually no rule at all, lasting only three months and 10 days in 597 B.C. (22:24–30; 2 Chron. 36:9–10). Babylon deported him for the rest of his life (cf. Jer. 52:31–34) and none of his descendants ruled (cf. 22:30, and see note there).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:1 Zedekiah . . . reigned. Zedekiah, an uncle of Jeconiah, was raised to the throne by Nebuchadnezzar in contempt for Jehoiakim and Jeconiah. His 11-year vassal rule was from 597–586 B.C. The message of the king to Jeremiah in this chapter is somewhat earlier than that in ch. 21, when Zedekiah was afraid of the Chaldean’s (Babylonian’s) defeating Egypt and returning to besiege Jerusalem (37:3, 5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:4 The prophet was no longer in the prison court as he had been (32:2; 33:1).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:7–10 say to the king. Babylon, which temporarily ended the siege to deal with an Egyptian advance, would return and destroy Jerusalem.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:12 Jeremiah set out. He returned to his hometown to claim the property he had purchased in 32:6–12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:13 Hananiah. Jeremiah had predicted his death (28:16), and thus the grandson took revenge with a false accusation (cf. 38:19; 52:15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:15 beat him. Jeremiah often absorbed blows, threats, or other mistreatment for proclaiming the truth from God (11:21; 20:2; 26:8; 36:26; 38:6, 25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:17 This showed Zedekiah’s willful rejection. He knew Jeremiah spoke for God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:19 prophets. They were shown to be liars who said the “king of Babylon” would not come. He had come and would return.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:21 bread. The king showed a measure of kindness by returning Jeremiah to “the court of the guard” (cf. 32:2; 33:1), promising “bread” as long as it lasted in the siege (cf. 38:9). He remained there until Jerusalem was taken soon after the food was gone (38:28), with only a brief trip to a pit (38:6–13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:4 Let this man be put to death. Cf. 26:11 and see note there. he is weakening the hands of the soldiers. They charged that Jeremiah’s urging to submit to Babylon (38:2) undermined the defenders’ morale and will. By proclaiming Babylon’s victory, he was viewed as a traitor to Judah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:5 the king can do nothing. This is a spineless evasion of courage and decency by a leader who rejected God’s word.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:6 no water . . . but only mud. The murderous princes (cf. v. 4) would let God’s spokesman die of thirst, hunger, hypothermia, or suffocation if he sank too deeply into the bottom of the cistern. Cf. Ps. 69:2, 14, a reference to Messiah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:7–13 Ebed-melech. An Ethiopian, Gentile stranger acted decisively to deliver Jeremiah from his own people who were seeking to kill him. Perhaps a keeper of the royal harem (“eunuch”), this man later received God's deliverance of his own life and his tribute for his faith (39:15–18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:14–23 I will ask you a question. This is one of several queries as Zedekiah wanted to hear God's word but rejected it. God's word was surrender, and his answer for rejection was calamity for Jerusalem, capture of the king, and tragedy for his family plus others of the palace. For the fulfillment to Zedekiah, cf. 39:4–8.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:22 trusted friends have deceived you. Palace women, taken over by Babylonians, heaped cutting ridicule on Zedekiah for listening to friends whose counsel failed him, who left him helpless as one with his feet stuck in mire.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:27 answered . . . the king . . . instructed. Jeremiah did not fall into lying deception here. What he said was true though he did not divulge all details of the conversation, to which the princes had no right.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:1–2 In the ninth year . . . the eleventh year. Cf. 34:1, and see note there. Cf. 52:1–7; 2 Kings 25:1–4. This siege of 30 months involved the enemy's surrounding the city walls, cutting off all entrances and exits, all food supplies, and as much water as possible, so that famine, thirst, and disease would eventually weaken the beleaguered city dwellers and they could be easily conquered.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:3 sat in the middle gate. This expressed full military occupation of the city, since this gate was between the upper city (Mount Zion) and the lower city to the north.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:5 Riblah, in . . . Hamath. Nebuchadnezzar's command headquarters were 230 miles to the north of Jerusalem. passed sentence. He dealt with the king as a common criminal. The king had violated his oath (cf. 2 Chron. 36:13; Ezek. 17:13–19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:6–10 Cf. 52:12–16 and 2 Kings 25:8–12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:7 put out the eyes of Zedekiah. This reconciles 32:4 with Ezek. 12:13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:11–12 Jeremiah's prophecies were known to Nebuchadnezzar through defectors (v. 9; 38:19), and also through Jews taken to Babylon with Jeconiah (cf. 40:2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:14 took Jeremiah from the court. This was given as a general summary, whereas 40:1–6 gave more detail concerning the prophet who was first carried to Ramah (40:1) with the other captives before being released (40:2–5). “Gedaliah” was a former supporter of Jeremiah (26:24) and chief among the defectors, loyal to Nebuchadnezzar, so was made governor (40:5) over the remnant left in the land.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:15–18 Cf. 38:7–13, and see note there.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:2–3 The pagan captain understood the judgment of God better than the leaders of Judah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:4–5 The captain did exactly as Nebuchadnezzar had told him in 39:12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:5–6 Jeremiah chose to go to Gedaliah, the newly appointed governor at Mizpah several miles north of Jerusalem. Gedaliah was soon to be assassinated (cf. 41:1–3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:7 captains . . . in the open country. The leaders of Judah's army scattered in fear.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:9–12 God had tempered the severity of judgment by allowing a remnant to prosper.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:13–16 Johanan. This man's fair warning to Gedaliah of Ishmael's death plot went unheeded.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:1–4 In the second month after the city of Jerusalem had been burned, the careless governor entertained Ishmael's group and invited a massacre.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:5 eighty men. Most likely, this group had come in mourning over the destruction of Jerusalem, and so were led to slaughter. Ishmael did amazing damage with only 10 men (v. 1). Eventually they must have acquired more to do what is described in v. 10.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:9 Asa. He ruled Judah (c. 911–873 B.C.). Cf. 1 Kings 15:16–22.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:12–15 went to fight against Ishmael. Johanan heard of Ishmael's murders and taking people captive, and brought men to stop him. They freed the captives (vv. 13–14), but Ishmael and his men escaped (v. 15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:12 pool . . . Gibeon. Cf. 2 Sam. 2:13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:1–2 Jeremiah. He probably was one carried off from Mizpah, freed, and dwelt with Johanan (41:16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:1–6 pray . . . for us. The remnant in Judah asked Jeremiah to pray to God and find his will on what they should do. They promised to obey (v. 6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:7–12 After 10 days of prayer Jeremiah reported God’s word, telling them to remain in the land under God’s protection (v. 10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:10 I relent. By this God means “I am satisfied with the punishment inflicted if you do not add new offenses.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:13–19 The prophet gave explicit warning (v. 19) not to go to Egypt, where they would be exposed to corrupting paganism.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:20 They were hypocrites who already desired Egypt.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:1–7 When Jeremiah finished speaking. The incorrigible, disobedient leaders accused him of deceit and forced Jeremiah and the remnant to go to Egypt, despite the fact that all his prophecies regarding Babylon had come to pass. In so doing, they went out of God’s protection into his judgment, as all who are disobedient to his word do.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:3, 6 Baruch. The faithful recorder of ch. 36 was still with Jeremiah, kept safe as God promised him at least 20 years earlier (45:5; cf. 605 B.C. in v. 1).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:7 Tahpanhes. A location in the eastern delta region of Egypt.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:9–13 Take . . . large stones. Stones, placed in the mortar of the brick pavement in the courtyard entrance of the Pharaoh’s house, signaled the place where the conquering king of Babylon would bring devastation on Egypt and establish his throne. This was fulfilled in an invasion c. 568/67 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:12 as a shepherd cleans his cloak. A very simple and easy task describes how quickly and easily Nebuchadnezzar will conquer Egypt.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:13 obelisks of Heliopolis. Hebrew “house of the sun.” This refers to a temple for the worship of the sun. Located north of Memphis, east of the Nile, these obelisks were said to be 60–100 feet high.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:1 The word that came. The unrelenting iniquity of the Jews called for yet another prophecy of judgment on them in Egypt.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:2–6 The prophet summarized what had occurred in Judah as a basis for what he predicted coming on the refugees in Egypt.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:7, 9–10 Incredibly, after being spared death in Judah, they pursued it by their sin in Egypt.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:11–14 Ironically, the Jews taken to Babylon were weaned from idolatry and restored to their land; those taken to Egypt for their obstinate idolatry, perished there.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:14 except some fugitives. A small number (v. 28) who fled before the arrival of Babylonian armies were spared.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:15 wives. The idolatry apparently began with the women.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:17–19 queen of heaven. See note on 7:18. This is a title Roman Catholicism erroneously attributes to Mary, the mother of Jesus, in a blending of Christianity with paganism. The Jews' twisted thinking credits the idol with the prosperity of pre-captivity Judah, further mocking the goodness of God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:20–23 Jeremiah set the record straight, saying the idol was not the source of their prosperity, but it was the cause of their calamity.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:24–28 Jeremiah repeated the doom stated in vv. 11–14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:29–30 sign. The “sign” of punishment was described in v. 30 as the strangulation of Pharaoh Hophra in 570 B.C. by Amasis, which paved the way for Nebuchadnezzar's invasion in the twenty-third year of his reign (568/67 B.C.).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:1 fourth year of Jehoiakim. The year was 605 B.C. (ch. 36), when the recording of God's messages to Jeremiah was in view.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:3 Woe is me! Baruch felt anxiety as his own cherished plans of a bright future were apparently dashed; even death became a darkening peril (cf. v. 5). Also, he was possibly pressed by human questionings about God carrying through with such calamity (cf. v. 4). Jeremiah spoke to encourage him (v. 2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:4 say to him. God will judge this whole nation (the Jews).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:5 do you seek great things . . . ? Baruch had his expectations far too high, and that made the disasters harder to bear. It is enough that he be content just to live. Jeremiah, who once also complained, learned by his own suffering to encourage complainers.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:1 concerning the nations. Jeremiah had already proclaimed that all the nations at some time are to “drink the cup” of God’s wrath (25:15–26). In chs. 46–51 God selected certain nations and forecast their doom. Likely given to Jeremiah at different times, the prophecies were collected according to the nations, not the chronology.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:2–26 About Egypt. Cf. Isa. 19–20; Ezek. 29–32. Jeremiah 46:2–12 depicts Pharaoh Neco’s overthrow by the Babylonians at Carchemish by the Euphrates River in 605 B.C., in which Egypt lost all its territory west of the river.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:3–6 Here was a derisive call to Egypt to ready itself for defeat.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:10 day is the day of the Lord. While this phrase often refers to an eschatological judgment on earth (such as in Zeph. 1:7; Mal. 4:5; 1 Thess. 5:2; 2 Pet. 3:10), it also may refer to a historical day. In this case it refers to the Egyptian defeat (cf. Lam. 2:22). See note on Isa. 2:12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:11 Gilead. See note on 8:20–22.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:13–26 Babylon’s invasion of Egypt, 15 or 16 years before the destruction of Jerusalem, is here detailed (601 B.C.; cf. v. 13). Having spent 13 years in a siege of Tyre, Nebuchadnezzar was promised Egypt as a reward for humbling Tyre (cf. Ezek. 29:17–20).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:18 Tabor . . . Carmel. As those two mountains rise above the hills of Palestine, so Nebuchadnezzar will be superior.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:20–21 A beautiful heifer . . . fattened calves. Fat and untamed, ready to kill.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:26 Afterward. Forty years after Nebuchadnezzar’s conquest of Egypt, it threw off the Babylonian yoke but never regained its former glory (Ezek. 29:11–15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:27–28 fear not . . . Jacob. Though Israel has been scattered to the nations, the nations will receive their judgments, and the Lord will restore Israel (repeated from 30:10–11) from dispersion to its own land (as in 23:5–8; 30–33). No matter what judgments fall on Israel, they will not be destroyed, as Paul reiterates in Rom. 11:1–2, 15, 25–27.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:1–5 concerning the Philistines. Cf. Isa. 14:29–32; Ezek. 25:15–17; Amos 1:6–8; Zeph. 2:4–7. Although Egypt’s Pharaoh Hophra conquered the Philistines (who lived on the coastal plain of Palestine) in Gaza and Phoenicia around 587 B.C. (Jer. 47:1), Babylon appears to be the conqueror in this scene (“out of the north”), at the same time as the invasion of Judah (588–586 B.C.; cf. 39:1–2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:6–7 sword of the Lord! Cf. Judg. 7:18, 20.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:1 Concerning Moab. Various sites of unknown location in Moab are to be destroyed (vv. 1–5). The judgment is framed in similar words or some of the same words as in other passages (Isa. 15:1–9; 16:6–14; 25:10–12; Ezek. 25:8–11; Amos 2:1–3; Zeph. 2:8–11). Desolation overtook different parts of Moab at various times, but Babylon in 588–586 B.C. or 582–581 B.C. is likely the main destroyer (cf. Jer. 48:40). The Moabites were Lot’s descendants (cf. Gen. 19:37), who lived east of the Dead Sea and often fought with Israel.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:7 Chemosh. He was the leading god of Moab (cf. Num. 21:29; Judg. 11:24; 1 Kings 11:7; 2 Kings 23:13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:10 Cursed is he. God’s aim to judge Moab was so intense that he pronounced a curse on whatever instrument (army) he would use should they carry it out “with slackness,” i.e., “carelessly,” or “negligently.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:11–12 This wine-making imagery is vivid. In the production of sweet wine, the juice was left in a wineskin until the sediment or dregs settled onto the bottom. Then it was poured into another skin until more dregs were separated. This process continued until the dregs were all removed and a pure, sweet wine obtained. Moab was not taken from suffering to suffering so that her bitter dregs would be removed through the purging of pain. Thus the nation was settled into the thickness and bitterness of its own sin. Judgment from God was coming to smash them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:18–20 Dibon . . . Aroer! These places were on the Arnon River, but would be thirsty.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:24 Kerioth. Likely the city of Judas Iscariot. Cf. Josh. 15:25.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:25 horn . . . is cut off. An example of the OT use of “horn” as a symbol of military power, as an animal uses horns to hook, gouge, or ram. Moab is to be dehorned.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:26 Here is a vivid picture of humiliation.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:29 Suffering didn’t come to humble Moab (see note on vv. 11–12), so she remained proud.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:47 I will restore. God will allow a remnant of Moab to return to the land (cf. 12:14–17; 46:26; 48:47; 49:6, 39), through their descendants in the messianic era (“the latter days”).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:1–6 Concerning the Ammonites. Cf. Ezek. 25:1–7; Amos 1:13–15; Zeph. 2:8–11. These people descended from Lot (cf. Gen. 19:38) and lived north of Moab. Though Israel had people who were heirs to Transjordan, i.e., Gad, Reuben, and one half of Manasseh (cf. Josh. 22:1–9), the Ammonites, whose god was Milcham or Molech, were chided for having usurped the area (Jer. 49:1), when the northern kingdom was taken captive by Shalmaneser.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:2 battle cry. Nebuchadnezzar defeated Ammon in the fifth year after the destruction of Jerusalem, around 582/81 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:4 valleys. The Hebrew (see esv footnote) adds, “your valley flows,” i.e., with the blood of the slain. faithless. See note on Prov. 14:14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:6 I will restore. As with Moab (cf. 48:47 and see note there), God promised that captives would have an opportunity to return. This was partially fulfilled under Cyrus, but will be more fully in the coming kingdom of Messiah (cf. 48:47).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:7–22 Concerning Edom. Cf. Isa. 21:11–12; Ezek. 25:12–14; Amos 1:11–12; Obad. 1. This prophecy is closely related to Obadiah. These people descended from Esau (cf. Gen. 36:1–19) and lived south of the Dead Sea. Perpetual desolation is ahead for Edom (Jer. 49:13). God will make it bare (vv. 10, 18). The destroyer is probably Babylon in 588–586 B.C. or 582–581 B.C. as v. 19 has descriptions used of Babylon against Judah (lion, 4:7; thicket of the Jordan, 12:5). Also “swiftly like an eagle” (49:22) is used of Babylon (Hab. 1:8). There is no prophecy of a future restoration.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:8 Esau. He was cursed for his godlessness and his punishment was perpetuated in his descendants (cf. Heb. 12:11, 17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:9 See note on Obad. 5–6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:10 he is no more. Edom was politically extinct after the Roman conquest.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:11 This was because no adult men will be left to care for them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:12 those . . . not deserve to drink . . . must drink it. This refers to the Jews who had a covenant relation to God. What will happen to a nation that has no such pledge?

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:16–17 Edom was situated in high and rugged mountains and thus convinced it was invincible. But the ruin will come and be irreversible.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:19–21 These words are repeated in 50:44–46, where they refer to Babylon.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:20 the little ones of the flock. The weakest of the Chaldeans shall drag them away captive.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:23–27 Concerning Damascus. Cf. Isa. 17:1–3 and Amos 1:3–5. Hamath, a city on the Orontes River that marked the northern limit of Solomon’s rule (2 Chron. 8:4), 110 miles north of Damascus in southern Syria, and Arpad, 105 miles southwest of modern Aleppo in Northern Syria, were to fall, as well as Damascus, Syria's capital. Nebuchadnezzar conquered them in 605 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:25 famous city . . . my joy. Could be translated, “the city of renown,” famous due to its situation in a spacious oasis and its trade, as in Ezek. 27:18.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:27 strongholds of Ben-hadad. Here was the place where so many cruel evils against Israel were devised, thus the reason for its overthrow. The name is common among Syrian kings, meaning Son of Hadad, an idol, so it does not refer to the Ben-hadad of 2 Kings 13:3 and Amos 1:4.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:28–33 Concerning Kedar . . . Hazor. Cf. Isa. 21:13–17. These areas in the Arabian desert east of Judah were to be laid waste (as a different Hazor was a few miles northwest of the Sea of Galilee). Kedar was an Ishmaelite tribe (cf. Gen. 25:13; Ezek. 27:21). The conqueror was Nebuchadnezzar in 599/98 B.C. as recounted in an ancient record, the Babylonian Chronicle. It was shortly after this that Babylon seized Jerusalem in 598/97 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:31 no gates or bars. These nomads were out of the way of contending powers in Asia and Africa.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:34–39 concerning Elam. As in 25:25, Elam (200 miles east of Babylon and west of the Tigris River) was to be subjugated. Babylon fulfilled this in 596 B.C. Later, Cyrus of Persia conquered Elam and incorporated Elamites into the Persian forces that conquered Babylon in 539 B.C. Its capital, Susa, was the residence of Darius and became the center of the Persian Empire (Neh. 1:1; Dan. 8:2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:34 reign of Zedekiah. Jeremiah speaks of this judgment in 597 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:35 break the bow. Elamites were famous archers (cf. Isa. 22:6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:39 I will restore. As with certain other peoples in this section of nations, God would allow Elamites to return to their homeland. In Acts 2:9, Elamites were among the group present at the Pentecost event. This has eschatological implications as well.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:1 concerning Babylon. The subject of chs. 50 and 51 (cf. Isa. 13:1–14:23; Hab. 2:6–17). Judgment focuses on Media Persia’s conquest of Babylon in 539 B.C. The prediction of elements of violent overthrow, which was not the case when Cyrus conquered since there was not even a battle, points to greater fulfillment near the coming of Messiah in glory when events more fully satisfy the description (cf. Rev. 17–18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:2 idols. First the idols of Babylon are discredited by Jeremiah’s using an unusual word for idols, meaning in Hebrew “dung pellets.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:3 none shall dwell. The far view in the v. 1 note cites this as not yet fulfilled in a sudden way (cf. 51:8). Media Persia came down from the north in 539 B.C. and armies in the years that followed, but only gradually brought the past Babylon to complete desolation (cf. 50:12–13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:4–10 people of Israel . . . shall come. Jeremiah predicted a return for exiled Israel and Judah (vv. 17–20, as chs. 30–33) as the scattered and penitent people were given opportunity to escape Babylon’s doom and return to Jerusalem and to the Lord in an eternal covenant (50:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:5 in an everlasting covenant. This is the New Covenant summarized in 31:31.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:11–16 Judgment on Babylon is the vengeance of God (v. 15) for her treatment of his people.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:17–20 This section summarized the divine interpretation of Israel’s history: 1) suffering and judgment on her (v. 17); 2) judgment on those who afflicted Israel (v. 18); 3) her return in peace and plenty (v. 19); and 4) the pardon of her iniquity (v. 20) under Messiah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:21 Merathaim . . . Pekod. This was a dramatic play on words emphasizing cause and effect. The first means “double rebellion” and named a region in southern Babylon near the Persian Gulf; the latter, meaning “punishment,” was also in southern Babylon on the east bank of the Tigris River.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:23 hammer of the whole earth. The description was of Babylon’s former conquering force, and God’s breaking the “hammer” he had once used. The fact that God used Babylon as his executioner was no commendation of that nation (cf. Hab. 1:6–7).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:28 vengeance for his temple. This refers to their burning the temple in the destruction of Jerusalem (cf. 51:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:29 Repay her. God aimed to bless Israel and curse all who curse her (cf. Gen. 12:1–3, Abrahamic Covenant). The judgment on Babylon, as in Hab. 2, was a repayment in view of Babylon’s wrongs as God defends Israel’s case (Jer. 50:34; 51:36, 56), particularly God’s vengeance on her arrogance (“proud one” cf. 50:31–32).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:34 Redeemer. The OT concept of kinsmen redeemer included the protection of a relative’s person and property, the avenging of a relative’s murder, the purchase of alienated property, and even the marriage of his widow (cf. Lev. 25:25; Num. 35:21; Ruth 4:4).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:35–38 The “sword” is mentioned five times (cf. Ezek. 21).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:40 As when God overthrew Sodom. Cf. 50:1. What befell Sodom (cf. Gen. 19) was sudden and total destruction, not like the Media Persia takeover, but like an example for the future devastation that will overtake the final Babylon (cf. Rev. 17–18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:41 from the north. Media Persia in 539 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:41–46 Cf. 6:22–24 and 49:19–21. The “lion” is Cyrus.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:1–4 the day of trouble. The coming of the northern invader is in view.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:5 Here is a reminder that God will not utterly forget or destroy his people. Cf. Rom. 11:1–2, 29.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:8 Suddenly . . . fallen. The focus was first on Babylon’s sudden fall on one night in 539 B.C. (Dan. 5:30). The far view looks at the destruction of the final Babylon near the second advent when it will be absolutely sudden (Rev. 18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:11 kings of the Medes. The aggressor was specifically identified (cf. v. 28) as the leader of the Medes, assisted by Persia (539 B.C.).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:15–19 he who made the earth. God’s almighty power and wisdom in creation are evidences of his superiority to all idols (vv. 17–18), who along with their worshipers will all be destroyed by his mighty power (vv. 15–16, 19), as in Babylon’s case.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:20–23 You are my hammer. Cyrus of Persia was God’s war club. Ten times the phrase “with you” hits with the force of a hammer.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:25 destroying mountain. Though Babylon existed on a plain, this phrase was meant as a portrayal of Babylon’s looming greatness and power in devastating nations (cf. also 50:23, and see note there). a burnt mountain. Babylon will be like a volcano that is extinct, never to be rebuilt (51:26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:27 Here are listed the people north of Babylon who were conquered by the Medes early in the sixth century B.C. They assisted the Medes against Babylon.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:31 to tell the king of Babylon. Couriers brought the report of the city’s fall. Since Belshazzar was slain in the city on the night of the fall (Dan. 5:30), reference may be to runners speeding the news to his co-ruler Nabonidus, who was away from Babylon or possibly to Daniel, the third ruler in the kingdom (Dan. 5:29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:32 The method of capturing the city was to block off the Euphrates River and dry up the river bed under the city wall, then march in. The “fire” was set to frighten and it did.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:39 drunk. The allusion is possibly to Belshazzar’s drunken feast, recorded in Dan. 5:1–4 (cf. Jer. 51:57).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:45–50 Again the Lord’s people were warned to flee.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:58 labor for nothing. People from many nations enslaved in Babylon had built the wall for nothing.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:59 Seraiah was the quartermaster. This man looked after the comfort of the king. He may have been the brother of Baruch, Jeremiah's secretary (cf. 32:12).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:60–63 This royal official carried the scroll (v. 60) to read (v. 61) in Babylon and then dramatically illustrated the coming destruction.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:1–34 This chapter is almost identical to 2 Kings 24:18–25:30, and it is a historical supplement detailing Jerusalem's fall (as Jer. 39). It fittingly opens with her last king and his sin (597–586 B.C.). The purpose of this chapter is to show how accurate Jeremiah's prophecies were concerning Jerusalem and Judah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:1 Jeremiah. A different man from the author (cf. 1:1).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:4–11 See note on 34:1. This narrative rehearses the account of the fall of Jerusalem. So crucial was this event that the OT records it four times (see also 39:1–14; 2 Kings 25; 2 Chron. 36:11–21).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:4 ninth year . . . tenth month. For vv. 4–6, see notes on 34:1 and 39:1–2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:12 tenth day. The parallel phrase in 2 Kings 25:8 reads “seventh day.” Nebuzaradan (v. 12), “captain of the bodyguard,” started from Riblah on the seventh day and arrived in Jerusalem on the tenth day. nineteenth year. 586 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:18–19 they took. The conquerors plundered the magnificent Solomonic temple and took the articles to Babylon. First Kings 6–8 describes these articles. Later, Belshazzar would use some of these at his immoral banquet, gloating over victory he wrongly attributed to his gods (Dan. 5; cf. Dan. 1:2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:22 five. Second Kings 25:17 reads “three.” There may have been two parts to the capitals, the lower part of two cubits and the upper part, carved ornately, of three cubits. The lower may be omitted in 2 Kings 25:17 as belonging to the shaft of the pillar.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:24–27 Babylon executed some Judean leaders as an act of power, of resentment over the 18-month resistance (cf. 52:4–6), and of intimidation to prevent future plots.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:25 seven. Second Kings 25:19 reads “five.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:28–30 carried away. The stages of deportation to Babylon are: 1) in 605 B.C. under Jehoiakim, which marked the beginning of the 70 years of exile, 2) in 597 B.C. under Jehoiachin, 3) in 586 B.C. under Zedekiah, and 4) a mopping up campaign in 582–81 B.C. The number may include only males.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:31–34 exile of Jehoiachin. A captive since 597 B.C., he appears here in 561 B.C., after Nebuchadnezzar’s death when Evil-merodach ruled Babylon. Though detained, the former king was kindly freed to enjoy previously denied privileges. The Lord did not forget the Davidic line even in exile.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:31 twenty-fifth. Second Kings 25:27 reads “twenty-seventh.” Probably the decree was on the twenty-fifth day and carried out on the twenty-seventh.

Introduction to Lamentations

Title

“Lamentations” was derived from a translation of the title as found in the Latin Vulgate (Vulgate) translation of the Greek OT, the Septuagint (lxx), and conveys the idea of “loud cries.” The Hebrew exclamation ‘ekah (“How,” which expresses “dismay”), used in 1:1; 2:1; 4:1, gives the book its Hebrew title. However, the rabbis began early to call the book “loud cries” or “lamentations” (cf. Jer. 7:29). No other entire OT book contains only laments, as does this distressful dirge, marking the funeral of the once beautiful city of Jerusalem (cf. Lam. 2:15). This book keeps alive the memory of that fall and teaches all believers how to deal with suffering.

Author and Date

The author of Lamentations is not named within the book, but there are internal and historical indications that it was Jeremiah. The lxx introduces Lam. 1:1, “And it came to pass, after Israel had been carried away captive . . . Jeremiah sat weeping cf. [3:48–49, etc.] . . . lamented . . . and said . . . .” God had told Jeremiah to have Judah lament (Jer. 7:29), and Jeremiah also wrote laments for Josiah (2 Chron. 35:25).

Jeremiah wrote Lamentations as an eyewitness (cf. Lam. 1:13–15; 2:6, 9; 4:1–12), possibly with Baruch’s secretarial help (cf. Jer. 36:4; 45:1), during or soon after Jerusalem’s fall in 586 B.C. It was mid-July when the city fell and mid-August when the temple was burned. Likely, Jeremiah saw the destruction of walls, towers, homes, palace, and temple; he wrote while the event remained painfully fresh in his memory, but before his forced departure to Egypt c. 583 B.C. (cf. Jer. 43:1–7). The language used in Lamentations closely parallels that used by Jeremiah in his much larger prophetic book (cf. Lam. 1:2 with Jer. 30:14; Lam. 1:15 with Jer. 8:21; Lam. 1:6 and 2:11 with Jer. 9:1, 18; Lam. 2:22 with Jer. 6:25; Lam. 4:21 with Jer. 49:12).

Background and Setting

The prophetic seeds of Jerusalem's destruction were sown through Joshua 800 years in advance (Josh. 23:15–16). Now, for over 40 years, Jeremiah had prophesied of coming judgment and been scorned by the people for preaching doom (c. 645–605 B.C.). When that judgment came on the disbelieving people from Nebuchadnezzar and the Babylonian army, Jeremiah still responded with great sorrow and compassion toward his suffering and obstinate people. Lamentations relates closely to the book of Jeremiah, describing the anguish over Jerusalem's receiving God's judgment for unrepentant sins. In the book that bears his name, Jeremiah had predicted the calamity in Jer. 1–29. In Lamentations, he concentrates in more detail on the bitter suffering and heartbreak that was felt over Jerusalem's devastation (cf. Ps. 46:4–5). So critical was Jerusalem's destruction, that the facts are recorded in four separate OT chapters: 2 Kings 25; Jer. 39:1–11; 52; and 2 Chron. 36:11–21.

All 154 verses have been recognized by the Jews as a part of their sacred canon. Along with Ruth, Esther, Song of Solomon, and Ecclesiastes, Lamentations is included among the OT books of the Megilloth, or "five scrolls," which were read in the synagogue on special occasions. Lamentations is read on the ninth of Ab (July/August) to remember the date of Jerusalem's destruction by Nebuchadnezzar. Interestingly, this same date later marked the destruction of Herod's temple by the Romans in A.D. 70.

Historical and Theological Themes

The chief focus of Lamentations is on God's judgment in response to Judah's sin. This theme can be traced throughout the book (1:5, 8, 18, 20; 3:42; 4:6, 13, 22; 5:16). A second theme that surfaces is the hope found in God's compassion (as in 3:22–24, 31–33; cf. Ps. 30:3–5). Though the book deals with disgrace, it turns to God's great faithfulness (Lam. 3:22–25) and closes with grace as Jeremiah moves from lamentation to consolation (5:19–22).

God's sovereign judgment represents a third current in the book. His holiness was so offended by Judah's sin that he ultimately brought the destructive calamity. Babylon was chosen to be his human instrument of wrath (1:5, 12, 15; 2:1, 17; 3:37–38; cf. Jer. 50:23). Jeremiah mentions Babylon more than 150 times from Jer. 20:4 to 52:34, but in Lamentations he never once explicitly names Babylon or its king, Nebuchadnezzar. Only the Lord is identified as the One who dealt with Judah's sin.

Fourth, because the sweeping judgment seemed to be the end of every hope of Israel's salvation and the fulfillment of God's promises (cf. Lam. 3:18), much of the book appears in the mode of prayer: 1) 1:11, which represents a wailing confession of sin (cf. 1:18); 2) 3:8, with its anguish when God "shuts out my prayer" (cf. 3:43–54; Jer. 7:16); 3) Lam. 3:55–59, where Jeremiah cries to God for relief, or 3:60–66, where he seeks for recompense to the enemies (which Jer. 50–51 guarantees); and 4) Lam. 5:1–22, with its appeal to heaven for restored mercy (which Jer. 30–33 assures), based on the confidence that God is faithful (Lam. 3:23).

A fifth feature relates to Christ. Jeremiah's tears (3:48–49) compare with Jesus' weeping over the same city of Jerusalem (Matt. 23:37–39; Luke 19:41–44). Though God was the judge and executioner, it was a grief to him to bring this destruction. The statement "In all their affliction he [God] was afflicted" (Isa. 63:9) was true in principle. God will one day wipe away all tears (Isa. 25:8; Rev. 7:17; 21:4) when sin shall be no more.

A sixth theme is an implied warning to all who read this book. If God did not hesitate to judge his beloved people (Deut. 32:10), what will he do to the nations of the world who reject his word?

Interpretive Challenges

Certain details pose initial difficulties. Among them are: 1) imprecatory prayers for judgment on other sinners (1:21–22; 3:64–66); 2) the reason for God shutting out prayer (3:8); and 3) the necessity of judgment that is so severe (cf. 1:1, 14; 3:8).

Outline

In the first four chapters, each verse begins in an acrostic pattern, i.e., using the 22 letters of the Hebrew alphabet in sequence. Chapters 1; 2; and 4 have 22 verses corresponding to 22 letters, while ch. 3 employs each letter for three consecutive verses until there are 22 trios, or 66 verses. Chapter 5 is not written alphabetically, although it simulates the pattern in that it has 22 verses. An acrostic order, such as in Ps. 119 (where all 22 Hebrew letters are used in series of eight verses each), was used to aid memorization. The structure of the book ascends and descends from the great confession in Lam. 3:22–24, "great is your faithfulness,” which is the literary center of the book.

- I. The First Lament: Jerusalem’s Devastation (1:1–22)
  - A. Jeremiah’s Sorrow (1:1–11)

Lamentations

How Lonely Sits the City

LAMENTATIONS 1 † How lonely sits the city that was full of people!
How like a widow has she become,
    she who was great among the nations!
She who was a princess among the provinces has become a slave.
† She weeps bitterly in the night, with tears on her cheeks;
among all her lovers
    she has none to comfort her; all her friends have dealt treacherously with her; they have become her enemies.
† Judah has gone into exile because of affliction and hard servitude;
she dwells now among the nations, but finds no resting place;
her pursuers have all overtaken her in the midst of her distress. [\[1\]](#)
† The roads to Zion mourn, for none come to the festival; all her gates are desolate;
    her priests groan;
her virgins have been afflicted, [\[2\]](#) and she herself suffers bitterly.
† Her foes have become the head; her enemies prosper, because the LORD has afflicted her for the multitude of her transgressions; her children have gone away, captives before the foe.
† From the daughter of Zion all her majesty has departed.
Her princes have become like deer that find no pasture;
they fled without strength before the pursuer.
† Jerusalem remembers in the days of her affliction and wandering all the precious things that were hers from days of old.
When her people fell into the hand of the foe, and there was none to help her, her foes gloated over her;

they mocked at her downfall.

<sup>8</sup>† Jerusalem sinned grievously; therefore she became filthy; all who honored her despise her, for they have seen her nakedness;
she herself groans and turns her face away.

<sup>9</sup>† Her uncleanness was in her skirts; she took no thought of her future; [3] therefore her fall is terrible;
she has no comforter.

“O LORD, behold my affliction, for the enemy has triumphed!”

<sup>10</sup>† The enemy has stretched out his hands over all her precious things; for she has seen the nations enter her sanctuary, those whom you forbade to enter your congregation.

they trade their treasures for food to revive their strength.

“Look, O LORD, and see, for I am despised.”

<sup>12</sup>† “Is it nothing to you, all you who pass by?
Look and see if there is any sorrow like my sorrow, which was brought upon me, which the LORD inflicted on the day of his fierce anger.

<sup>13</sup>† “From on high he sent fire; into my bones [4] he made it descend; he spread a net for my feet;
he turned me back;
he has left me stunned, faint all the day long.

<sup>14</sup>† “My transgressions were bound [5] into a yoke; by his hand they were fastened together; they were set upon my neck;
he caused my strength to fail;
the Lord gave me into the hands of those whom I cannot withstand.

<sup>15</sup>† “The Lord rejected all my mighty men in my midst; he summoned an assembly against me to crush my young men;

the Lord has trodden as in a winepress the virgin daughter of Judah.

<sup>16</sup>† “For these things I weep; my eyes flow with tears; for a comforter is far from me,
one to revive my spirit;

my children are desolate, for the enemy has prevailed.”

<sup>17</sup>† Zion stretches out her hands, but there is none to comfort her; the LORD has commanded against Jacob that his neighbors should be his foes; Jerusalem has become a filthy thing among them.

all you peoples, and see my suffering;

my young women and my young men have gone into captivity.

<sup>19</sup> “I called to my lovers, but they deceived me;

my priests and elders perished in the city, while they sought food to revive their strength.

<sup>20</sup> “Look, O LORD, for I am in distress; my stomach churns; my heart is wrung within me, because I have been very rebellious.

In the street the sword bereaves;
in the house it is like death.

<sup>21</sup> † “They heard [6] my groaning, yet there is no one to comfort me.
All my enemies have heard of my trouble; they are glad that you have done it.

You have brought [7] the day you announced; now let them be as I am.

<sup>22</sup> † “Let all their evildoing come before you, and deal with them as you have dealt with me because of all my transgressions;

for my groans are many,
and my heart is faint.”

The Lord Has Destroyed Without Pity

LAMENTATIONS 2 †How the Lord in his anger has set the daughter of Zion under a cloud!

He has cast down from heaven to earth the splendor of Israel;
he has not remembered his footstool in the day of his anger.

in his wrath he has broken down the strongholds of the daughter of Judah; he has brought down to the ground in dishonor the kingdom and its rulers.

<sup>3</sup>He has cut down in fierce anger all the might of Israel;
he has withdrawn from them his right hand in the face of the enemy;
he has burned like a flaming fire in Jacob, consuming all around.

<sup>4</sup>He has bent his bow like an enemy, with his right hand set like a foe; and he has killed all who were delightful in our eyes in the tent of the daughter of Zion; he has poured out his fury like fire.

<sup>5</sup>The Lord has become like an enemy; he has swallowed up Israel; he has swallowed up all its palaces; he has laid in ruins its strongholds, and he has multiplied in the daughter of Judah mourning and lamentation.

<sup>6</sup>‡‡He has laid waste his booth like a garden, laid in ruins his meeting place;
the LORD has made Zion forget festival and Sabbath, and in his fierce indignation has spurned king and priest.

he has delivered into the hand of the enemy the walls of her palaces;
they raised a clamor in the house of the LORD as on the day of festival.

<sup>8</sup>The LORD determined to lay in ruins the wall of the daughter of Zion; he stretched out the measuring line; he did not restrain his hand from destroying; he caused rampart and wall to lament; they languished together.

<sup>9</sup>Her gates have sunk into the ground; he has ruined and broken her bars; her king and princes are among the nations; the law is no more, and her prophets find no vision from the LORD.

<sup>10</sup>The elders of the daughter of Zion sit on the ground in silence; they have thrown dust on their heads and put on sackcloth;
the young women of Jerusalem have bowed their heads to the ground.

<sup>11</sup>‡ My eyes are spent with weeping; my stomach churns; my bile is poured out to the ground because of the destruction of the daughter of my people, because infants and babies faint in the streets of the city.

as they faint like a wounded man in the streets of the city, as their life is poured out on their mothers' bosom.

<sup>13</sup> What can I say for you, to what compare you, O daughter of Jerusalem?
What can I liken to you, that I may comfort you, O virgin daughter of Zion?
For your ruin is vast as the sea; who can heal you?

<sup>14</sup>‡ Your prophets have seen for you false and deceptive visions; they have not exposed your iniquity to restore your fortunes, but have seen for you oracles that are false and misleading.

<sup>15</sup> All who pass along the way clap their hands at you; they hiss and wag their heads at the daughter of Jerusalem:

“Is this the city that was called the perfection of beauty, the joy of all the earth?”

<sup>16</sup> All your enemies rail against you;
they hiss, they gnash their teeth, they cry: “We have swallowed her!
Ah, this is the day we longed for; now we have it; we see it!”

<sup>17</sup>‡ The LORD has done what he purposed; he has carried out his word, which he commanded long ago;
he has thrown down without pity;

he has made the enemy rejoice over you and exalted the might of your foes.

<sup>18</sup>‡ Their heart cried to the Lord.

O wall of the daughter of Zion, let tears stream down like a torrent day and night!

Give yourself no rest, your eyes no respite!

Pour out your heart like water before the presence of the Lord!

Lift your hands to him for the lives of your children, who faint for hunger

With whom have you dealt thus?

Should women eat the fruit of their womb, the children of their tender care?

Should priest and prophet be killed in the sanctuary of the Lord?

my young women and my young men have fallen by the sword;

you have killed them in the day of your anger, slaughtering without pity.

<sup>22</sup>You summoned as if to a festival day my terrors on every side, and on the day of the anger of the LORD

no one escaped or survived;

those whom I held and raised my enemy destroyed.

Great Is Your Faithfulness

LAMENTATIONS 3 † I am the man who has seen affliction under the rod of his wrath;

<sup>2</sup>he has driven and brought me into darkness without any light;

<sup>4</sup>He has made my flesh and my skin waste away; he has broken my bones;

<sup>5</sup>he has besieged and enveloped me with bitterness and tribulation;

<sup>6</sup>he has made me dwell in darkness like the dead of long ago.

<sup>7</sup>He has walled me about so that I cannot escape; he has made my chains heavy;

<sup>9</sup>he has blocked my ways with blocks of stones; he has made my paths crooked.

<sup>11</sup>he turned aside my steps and tore me to pieces; he has made me desolate;

<sup>16</sup>† He has made my teeth grind on gravel, and made me cower in ashes;

<sup>17</sup>my soul is bereft of peace; I have forgotten what happiness [\[1\]](#) is; <sup>18</sup>so I say, “My endurance has perished; so has my hope from the LORD.”

- <sup>31</sup>For the Lord will not cast off forever, <sup>32</sup>but, though he cause grief, he will have compassion according to the abundance of his steadfast love;
<sup>33</sup>‡for he does not willingly afflict or grieve the children of men.
<sup>38</sup>‡Is it not from the mouth of the Most High that good and bad come?
<sup>39</sup>Why should a living man complain, a man, about the punishment of his sins?
<sup>40</sup>‡Let us test and examine our ways, and return to the LORD!
<sup>41</sup>Let us lift up our hearts and hands to God in heaven:
<sup>42</sup>‡“We have transgressed and rebelled, and you have not forgiven.
<sup>43</sup>“You have wrapped yourself with anger and pursued us, killing without pity;
<sup>44</sup>you have wrapped yourself with a cloud so that no prayer can pass through.
<sup>47</sup>panic and pitfall have come upon us, devastation and destruction; <sup>48</sup>‡my eyes flow with rivers of tears because of the destruction of the daughter of my people.
<sup>49</sup>“My eyes will flow without ceasing, without respite,
<sup>51</sup>my eyes cause me grief at the fate of all the daughters of my city.
<sup>52</sup>‡“I have been hunted like a bird by those who were my enemies without cause;
<sup>53</sup>they flung me alive into the pit and cast stones on me;
<sup>54</sup>water closed over my head; I said, ‘I am lost.’
<sup>55</sup>“I called on your name, O LORD, from the depths of the pit;
<sup>57</sup>You came near when I called on you; you said, ‘Do not fear!’
<sup>58</sup>‡“You have taken up my cause, O Lord; you have redeemed my life.

- <sup>63</sup>Behold their sitting and their rising; I am the object of their taunts.
- <sup>64</sup>‡“You will repay them, [\[3\]](#) O LORD, according to the work of their hands.
- <sup>65</sup>You will give them [\[4\]](#) dullness of heart; your curse will be [\[5\]](#) on them.
- <sup>66</sup>You will pursue them [\[6\]](#) in anger and destroy them from under your heavens, O LORD.” [\[7\]](#)

The Holy Stones Lie Scattered

LAMENTATIONS 4 †How the gold has grown dim, how the pure gold is changed!

The holy stones lie scattered

how they are regarded as earthen pots, the work of a potter's hands!

but the daughter of my people has become cruel, like the ostriches in the wilderness.

<sup>4</sup>The tongue of the nursing infant sticks to the roof of its mouth for thirst;
the children beg for food,
but no one gives to them.

<sup>5</sup>Those who once feasted on delicacies perish in the streets; those who were brought up in purple embrace ash heaps.

<sup>6</sup>†For the chastisement [\[1\]](#) of the daughter of my people has been greater than the punishment [\[2\]](#) of Sodom, which was overthrown in a moment, and no hands were wrung for her. [\[3\]](#)

their bodies were more ruddy than coral, the beauty of their form [\[4\]](#) was like sapphire. [\[5\]](#)

<sup>8</sup>Now their face is blacker than soot; they are not recognized in the streets; their skin has shriveled on their bones; it has become as dry as wood.

<sup>9</sup>Happier were the victims of the sword than the victims of hunger, who wasted away, pierced by lack of the fruits of the field.

<sup>10</sup>†The hands of compassionate women have boiled their own children;
they became their food
during the destruction of the daughter of my people.

and he kindled a fire in Zion that consumed its foundations.

<sup>12</sup>The kings of the earth did not believe, nor any of the inhabitants of the world, that foe or enemy could enter the gates of Jerusalem.

<sup>13</sup>This was for the sins of her prophets and the iniquities of her priests, who shed in the midst of her the blood of the righteous.

<sup>14</sup>They wandered, blind, through the streets; they were so defiled with blood that no one was able to touch their garments.

“Away! Away! Do not touch!”

So they became fugitives and wanderers; people said among the nations, “They shall stay with us no longer.”

no honor was shown to the priests, no favor to the elders.

<sup>17</sup>Our eyes failed, ever watching vainly for help; in our watching we watched for a nation which could not save.

<sup>18</sup>They dogged our steps so that we could not walk in our streets; our end drew near; our days were numbered, for our end had come.

<sup>19</sup>Our pursuers were swifter than the eagles in the heavens;
they chased us on the mountains;
they lay in wait for us in the wilderness.

<sup>20</sup>†The breath of our nostrils, the LORD's anointed, was captured in their pits, of whom we said, “Under his shadow we shall live among the nations.”

<sup>21</sup>‡Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Edom, you who dwell in the land of Uz;
but to you also the cup shall pass; you shall become drunk and strip yourself bare.

<sup>22</sup>The punishment of your iniquity, O daughter of Zion, is accomplished; he will keep you in exile no longer; [7] but your iniquity, O daughter of Edom, he will punish; he will uncover your sins.

Restore Us to Yourself, O LORD

LAMENTATIONS 5 †Remember, O LORD, what has befallen us; look, and see our disgrace!

<sup>22</sup>unless you have utterly rejected us, and you remain exceedingly angry with us.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:1–22 How lonely sits the city. Jerusalem was lonely, its people mourning (v. 2), forsaken by formerly friendly nations (v. 2), in captivity (v. 3), uprooted from their land (v. 3), their temple violated (v. 10). The multitude of sins (vv. 5, 8) had brought this judgment from the righteous God (v. 18).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:1 like a widow. Verses 1–11 vividly portray the city like a bereft and desolate woman, as often in other Scriptures (cf. Ezek. 16; 23; Mic. 4:10, 13). a slave. Judah was taken captive to serve as slaves in Babylon.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:2 she has none to comfort her. This ominous theme is mentioned four other times (vv. 9, 16–17, 21). lovers . . . friends . . . have become her enemies. This refers to the heathen nations allied to Judah, and their idols whom Judah “loved” (Jer. 2:20–25). Some later joined as enemies against her (2 Kings 24:2, 7; Ps. 137:7).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:3 exile. C. 586 B.C. as in Jer. 39; 40; 52. There had been two deportations earlier, in 605 B.C. and 597 B.C. (cf. Introduction: Author and Date).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:4 Zion. This represents the place where Jehovah dwells, the mount on which the temple was built. festival. Passover, Pentecost (Feast of Weeks), and Booths, or Tabernacles (cf. Ex. 23; Lev. 23). priests groan. These were among those left in Judah before fleeing to Egypt (Jer. 43), or possibly exiles in Babylon who mourned from afar (cf. Lam. 1:3).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:5 the multitude of her transgressions. This was the cause of the judgment (cf. Jer. 40:3; Dan. 9:7, 16).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:8 became filthy. This could refer to either the vile, wretched estate of continued sin and its ruinous consequences through judgment, or to being “moved, removed,” as the lxx and Vulgate translate it. Probably the former is correct, as befits the third and fourth lines, i.e., a despised, shameful, naked condition in contrast to her former splendor (cf. v. 6b).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:9 Her uncleanness was in her skirts. A graphic description of the flow of spiritual uncleanness reaching the bottom of her dress (cf. Lev. 15:19–33).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:10 enter her sanctuary. This was true of the Ammonites and Moabites (Deut. 23:3; Neh. 13:1–2). If the heathen were not allowed to enter for worship, much less were they tolerated to loot and destroy. On a future day, the nations will come to worship (Zech. 14:16).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:11 Look, O Lord. The description of the devastated widow ends with a plea for God’s mercy.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:12 all you who pass by? Here was the pathetic appeal of Jerusalem for some compassion even from strangers!

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:13 fire; into my bones. This emphasizes the penetrating depth of the judgment. turned me back. God’s purpose was to bring repentance.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:14 My transgressions were bound into a yoke; by his hand. Once the farmer had put the yoke on the animal's neck, he would control it with the reins in his hands. So God, who has brought Jerusalem under yoke-bondage to Babylon, still controlled his people.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:15 an assembly against me. Not the usual assembly for a solemn feast; rather the army of Babylon for destruction. in a winepress. Speaks of forcing blood to burst forth like juice from crushed grapes. Comparable language is used in Rev. 14:20 and 19:15 in regard to God's final wrath.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:17 filthy thing. This refers to a menstruous woman, shamed, separated from her husband and the temple (cf. vv. 8–9 and Lev. 15:19ff.).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:18 The Lord is in the right . . . I have rebelled. The true sign of repentance was to justify God and condemn oneself.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:21–22 brought the day. A prayer that God will likewise bring other ungodly people into judgment, especially Babylon (3:64–66; 4:21–22). Such prayers are acceptable against the enemies of God (cf. Ps. 109:14–15).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:22 come before you. Cf. Rev. 16:19.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:1 How the Lord. Much in ch. 2 depicts God's judgment in vivid portrayals. He covered the Judeans with a cloud (v. 1), withdrew his hand of protection (v. 3), bent his bow and had slain with his arrows (v. 4), and stretched out a surveyor's line to mark walls to be destroyed (v. 8). He will work a rebuilding of Jerusalem in the future kingdom (Zech. 2:1–13). the splendor of Israel. Likely refers to Mount Zion and the temple (cf. Ps. 48:2; 50:2; Isa. 60:13; 64:11; Ezek. 16:14; Dan. 11:45). his footstool. Refers to the ark of the covenant as indicated by 1 Chron. 28:2 and Ps. 99:5; 132:7.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:2 he has broken down. The Lord had cast down the bastions of Judah's defense, as he told Jeremiah he would do from the outset of his ministry (Jer. 1:10).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:6–11 Tragedy comes to everything and everyone through sin. The account mentions the temple or tabernacle where Israelites came to worship (v. 6), feasts and Sabbaths (v. 6), leaders such as the king and priests (v. 6), his altar and holy places (v. 7), city walls (v. 8), the law (v. 9), and children in the family (v. 11).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:6–7 Cf. 1:4.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:7 clamor in the house of the Lord . . . day of festival. A shout of triumph in the captured temple resembled the joyous celebrations in the same place at the solemn feasts.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:11–12 This description of Babylon’s invasion depicted the reality of a hungry child dying in its mother’s arms as a result.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:14 false and deceptive visions. As Jer. 23:16–17 indicates, these lies spoke of peace and comfort, not judgment. Cf. Jer. 23:30–40 to see how such lying led to destruction.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:17 he has carried out his word. The enemy that gloats in vv. 15–16 should recognize that the destruction was the work of a sovereign God. This verse is the focal point of the chapter (cf. Jer. 51:12).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:18 wall of the daughter of Zion. The penetrated walls of Jerusalem cried out in anguish that they had been breached by the Babylonians.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:20 Look, O Lord, and see! The chapter closes by placing the issue before God. women eat the fruit of their womb. Hunger became so desperate in the 18-month siege that women resorted to the unbelievable—even eating their children (cf. 4:10; Lev. 26:29; Deut. 28:53, 56–57; Jer. 19:9).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:21 the day of your anger. This describes the complete slaughter, as does 2 Chron. 36:17.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:1–20 the man who has seen affliction. Jeremiah’s distress in such tragedy comes from God, referred to as “he” throughout this section. Even the righteous experience “the rod of his wrath.”

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:8 he shuts out my prayer. Cf. v. 44. God’s non-response to Jeremiah’s prayers was not because Jeremiah was guilty of personal sin (cf. Ps. 66:18); rather, it was due to Israel’s perpetual sin without repentance (Jer. 19:15). God’s righteousness to judge that sin must pursue its course (Jer. 7:16, and see note there; 11:14). Jeremiah knew that, yet prayed, wept (Lam. 3:48–51), and longed to see repentance.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:16 my teeth grind on gravel. This refers to the grit that often mixed with bread baked in ashes as was common in the east (cf. Prov. 20:17).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:21–33 The relentless sorrow over Judah’s judgment drove Jeremiah to consider the grace, mercy, and compassion of God. The tone of his thinking changed dramatically.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:21 this I call. The prophet referred to what followed as he reviewed God’s character.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:22 steadfast love. This Hebrew word, used about 250 times in the OT, refers to God’s gracious love. It is a comprehensive term that encompasses love, grace, mercy, goodness, forgiveness, truth, compassion, and faithfulness.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:22–24 his mercies never come to an end. As bleak as the situation of judgment had become, God’s covenant lovingkindness was always present (cf. vv. 31–32), and his incredible faithfulness always endured so that Judah would not be destroyed forever (cf. Mal. 3:6).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:23 great is your faithfulness. The bedrock of faith is the reality that God keeps all his promises according to his truthful, faithful character.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:27 the yoke in his youth. This speaks of the duty from God, including disciplinary training, that Jeremiah received in his youth (cf. Jer. 1:6–7).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:29 mouth in the dust. A term that pictures submission.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:30 give his cheek. The Lord Jesus did this (cf. Isa. 50:6; 1 Pet. 2:23).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:33–47 God had a just basis for judgment.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:38 This contrasted God's sovereign bestowal of judgment with blessing.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:40–41 return to the Lord! The solution to Judah's judgment was to repent, looking to God for relief and restoration.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:42 not forgiven. God judged their sin righteously.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:48–51 My eyes. The summary of Jeremiah's sorrow.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:52–63 my enemies. Jeremiah's description of persecution sounded much like the time when his enemies at the palace had cast him into a cistern (cf. v. 53; Jer. 38:4–6). God reassured him in answer to prayer (Lam. 3:57), and redeemed him (v. 58) by sending Ebed-melech to rescue him (cf. Jer. 38:7–13). Jeremiah pleads for justice to be rendered on those enemies (Lam. 3:59–63).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:58 you have redeemed my life. Jeremiah said this to encourage others to trust God.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:64–66 repay them. This imprecatory prayer for divine vengeance would be answered in Babylon's fall (cf. Isa. 46–47; Jer. 50–51; Dan. 5). It would also have its ultimate answer at the great white throne (Rev. 20:11–15).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:1 How the gold has grown dim. The gold adornment of the temple, looted by the conquerors, lost its luster with a coating of dust where they scattered the remains.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:3 nurse their young. Even worthless jackals by nature nurse their young, but under the severities of conquest, Israelite women were unable to nurse their babies (cf. v. 4). like the ostriches. Birds that are notable for ignoring their young (cf. Job 39:14–16).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:6 the punishment of Sodom. Their sin was homosexuality. The fact that the suffering of Jerusalem was prolonged, while that of even Sodom was swift, marks it as the greater punishment (cf. 1 Pet. 4:17).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:7–8 princes. Those who were the purest, most devout (cf. Num. 6), strong, healthy, and noble of the people became dirty, weak, and ignoble.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:10 boiled . . . children. Cf. 2:20, and see note there.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:15 Away! The people chased the false leaders away.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:16 The Lordhimself. This was symbolic of divine anger. The Jews had to face up to God.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:20 The breath of our nostrils. This was a term for God, the life-giver.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:21–22 Edom . . . land of Uz. In effect God said, “Laugh all you want now. Your judgment will come” (cf. Jer. 25:15–29).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:1 Remember, O Lord. Jeremiah prayed for mercy on his people. He summed up the nation’s wounds and woes (vv. 1–10), recalled woes of specific groups (vv. 11–14), showed why God judged (vv. 15–18), and interceded for the renewal of Israel (vv. 19–22; cf. Mic. 7:18–20).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:6 Egypt . . . Assyria. The Jews submitted to unholy alliances, thus expressing trust in men for protection and goods (cf. Jer. 2:18, 36).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:7 This is a cynical proverb from Jer. 31:29 and Ezek. 18:2.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:8–18 A list of horrors that had befallen Judah.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:16 The crown has fallen. Israel lost its line of kings wearing the crown. The Davidic monarchy was temporarily over and will not be resumed until Christ comes as King (Jer. 23:5–8; Ezek. 37:24–28; Rev. 19:1–21).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:19 your throne endures to all generations. Here is the high point of this chapter. Jeremiah was consoled by the fact that God always sits on his sovereign throne ruling over the universe from heaven (Ps. 45:6; 93:2; 102:12; 103:19; Dan. 4:3, 34–35).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:21 Restore us to yourself. God must himself initiate and enable any return to him (cf. Ps. 80:3, 7, 19; Jer. 24:7; 31:18; John 6:44, 65). Renew our days. The intercessions of Lam. 5:19–22 will yet be fulfilled in the New Covenant restoration of Israel (cf. Jer. 30–33, and see notes there).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:21–22 This plea was not made with anger. The humble closing prayer sought God, who can never reject his people forever, to be faithful in restoring them (cf. Jer. 31:35–37; 33:25–26). In fact, their godly sorrow over sin was the beginning of that restoration, which would be completed by turning to God in faith and obedience.

Introduction to Ezekiel

Title

The book has always been named for its author, Ezekiel (1:3; 24:24), who is nowhere else mentioned in Scripture. His name means “strengthened by God,” which, indeed, he was for the prophetic ministry to which God called him (3:8–9). Ezekiel uses visions, prophecies, parables, signs, and symbols to proclaim and dramatize the message of God to his exiled people.

Author and Date

If the “thirtieth year” of 1:1 refers to Ezekiel’s age, he was 25 when taken captive and 30 when called into ministry. Thirty was the age when priests commenced their office, so it was a notable year for Ezekiel. His ministry began in 593/92 B.C. and extended at least 22 years until 571/70 B.C. (cf. 25:17). He was a contemporary of both Jeremiah (who was about 20 years older) and Daniel (who was the same age), whom he names in 14:14, 20; 28:3 as an already well-known prophet. Like Jeremiah (Jer. 1:1) and Zechariah (cf. Zech. 1:1 with Neh. 12:16), Ezekiel was both a prophet and a priest (Ezek. 1:3). Because of his priestly background, he was particularly interested in and familiar with the temple details; so God used him to write much about them (8:1–11:25; 40:1–47:12).

Ezekiel and his wife (who is mentioned in 24:15–27) were among 10,000 Jews taken captive to Babylon in 597 B.C. (2 Kings 24:11–18). They lived in Tel-abib (Ezek. 3:15) on the bank of the Chebar River, probably southeast of Babylon. Ezekiel writes of his wife’s death in exile (Ezek. 24:18), but the book does not mention Ezekiel’s death, which rabbinical tradition suggests occurred at the hands of an Israelite prince whose idolatry he rebuked around 560 B.C.

The author received his call to prophesy in 593 B.C. (1:2), in Babylon (“the land of the Chaldeans”), during the fifth year of King Jehoiachin’s captivity, which began in 597 B.C. Frequently, Ezekiel dates his prophecies from 597 B.C. (8:1; 20:1; 24:1; 26:1; 29:1; 30:20; 31:1; 32:1, 17; 33:21; 40:1). He also dates the message in 40:1 as 573/72, the fourteenth year after 586 B.C., i.e., Jerusalem’s final fall. The last dated utterance of Ezekiel was in 571/70 B.C. (29:17).

Prophecies in chs. 1–28 are in chronological order. In 29:1, the prophet regresses to a year earlier than in 26:1. But from 30:1 on (cf. 31:1; 32:1, 17), he is close to being strictly chronological.

Background and Setting

From the historical perspective, Israel’s united kingdom lasted more than 110 years (c. 1043–931 B.C.), through the reigns of Saul, David, and Solomon. Then the divided kingdom, Israel (north) and Judah (south), extended from 931 B.C. to 722/21 B.C. Israel fell to Assyria in 722/21 B.C. leaving Judah, the surviving kingdom for 135 years, which fell to Babylon in 605–586 B.C.

In the more immediate setting, several features were strategic. Politically, Assyria’s vaunted military might crumbled after 626 B.C., and the capital, Nineveh, was destroyed in 612 B.C. by the Babylonians and Medes (cf. Nahum). The neo-Babylonian empire had flexed its muscles since Nabopolassar took the throne in 625 B.C., and Egypt, under Pharaoh Neco II, was determined to conquer what she could. Babylon smashed Assyria in 612–605 B.C., and registered a decisive victory against Egypt in 605 B.C. at Carchemish, leaving, according to the Babylonian Chronicle, no survivors. Also in 605 B.C., Babylon, led by Nebuchadnezzar, began the conquest of Jerusalem and the deportation of captives, among them Daniel (Dan. 1:2). In December, 598 B.C., he again besieged Jerusalem, and on March 16, 597 B.C. took possession. This time, he took captive Jehoiachin and a group of 10,000, including Ezekiel (2 Kings 24:11–18). The final destruction of Jerusalem and the conquest of Judah, including the third deportation, came in 586 B.C.

Religiously, King Josiah (c. 640–609 B.C.) had instituted reforms in Judah (cf. 2 Chron. 34). Tragically, despite his effort, idolatry had so dulled the Judeans that their awakening was only “skin deep” overall. The Egyptian army killed Josiah as it crossed Palestine in 609 B.C., and the Jews plunged on in sin toward judgment under Jehoahaz (609 B.C.), Jehoiakim [Eliakim] (609–598 B.C.), Jehoiachin (598–597 B.C.), and Zedekiah (597–586 B.C.).

Domestically, Ezekiel and the 10,000 lived in exile in Babylon (2 Kings 24:14), more as colonists than captives, being permitted to farm tracts of land under somewhat favorable conditions (Jer. 29). Ezekiel even had his own house (Ezek. 3:24; 20:1).

Prophetically, false prophets deceived the exiles with assurances of a speedy return to Judah (13:3, 16; Jer. 29:1). From 593–585 B.C., Ezekiel warned that their beloved Jerusalem would be destroyed and their exile prolonged, so there was no hope of immediate return. In 585 B.C., an escapee from Jerusalem, who had evaded the Babylonians, reached Ezekiel with the first news that the city had fallen in 586 B.C., about six months earlier (Ezek. 33:21). That dashed the false hopes of any immediate deliverance for the exiles, so the remainder of Ezekiel’s prophecies related to Israel’s future restoration to its homeland and the final blessings of the messianic kingdom.

Historical and Theological Themes

The “glory of the Lord” is central to Ezekiel, appearing in 1:28; 3:12, 23; 10:4, 18; 11:23; 43:4–5; 44:4. The book includes graphic descriptions of the disobedience of Israel and Judah, despite God’s kindness (ch. 23; cf. ch. 16). It shows God’s desire for Israel to bear fruit which he can bless; however, selfish indulgence had left Judah ready for judgment, like a torched vine (ch. 15). References are plentiful to Israel’s idolatry and its consequences, such as Pelatiah dropping dead (11:13), a symbolic illustration of overall disaster for the people.

Many picturesque scenes illustrate spiritual principles. Among these are Ezekiel eating a scroll (ch. 2); the faces on four angels representing aspects of creation over which God rules (1:10); a “barbershop” scene (5:1–4); graffiti on temple walls reminding readers of what God really wants in his dwelling place, namely holiness and not ugliness (8:10); and sprinkled hot coals depicting judgment (10:2, 7).

Chief among the theological themes are God’s holiness and sovereignty. These are conveyed by frequent contrast of his bright glory against the despicable backdrop of Judah’s sins (1:26–28; often in chs. 8–11; and 43:1–7). Closely related is God’s purpose of glorious triumph so that all may “know that I am the Lord.” This divine monogram, God’s signature authenticating his acts, is mentioned more than 60 times, usually with a judgment (6:7; 7:4), but occasionally after the promised restoration (34:27; 36:11, 38; 39:28).

Another feature involves God’s angels carrying out his program behind the scenes (1:5–25; 10:1–22). A further important theme is God’s holding each individual accountable for pursuing righteousness (18:3–32).

Ezekiel also stresses sinfulness in Israel (2:3-7; 8:9-10) and other nations (throughout chs. 25-32). He deals with the necessity of God's wrath to deal with sin (7:1-8; 15:8); God's frustration of man's devices to escape from besieged Jerusalem (12:1-13; cf. Jer. 39:4-7); and God's grace pledged in the Abrahamic Covenant (Gen. 12:1-3) being fulfilled by restoring Abraham's people to the land of the covenant (Ezek. 34; 36-48; cf. Gen. 12:7). God promises to preserve a remnant of Israelites through whom he will fulfill his restoration promises and keep his inviolate word.

Interpretive Challenges

Ezekiel uses extensive symbolic language, as did Isaiah and Jeremiah. This raises the question as to whether certain portions of Ezekiel's writings are to be taken literally or figuratively, e.g., being bound with ropes, 3:25; whether the prophet was taken bodily to Jerusalem, 8:1-3; how individual judgment can be worked out in ch. 18 when the wicked elude death in 14:22-23 and some of the godly die in an invasion, 21:3-4; how God would permit a faithful prophet's wife to die (24:15-27); when some of the judgments on other nations will occur (chs. 25-32); whether the temple in chs. 40-46 will be a literal one and in what form; and how promises of Israel's future relate to God's program with the church. These issues will be treated in the study notes.

Outline

The book can be largely divided into sections about condemnation/retribution and then consolation/restoration. A more detailed look divides the book into four sections. First, are prophecies on the ruin of Jerusalem (chs. 1-24). Second, are prophecies of retribution on nearby nations (chs. 25-32), with a glimpse at God's future restoration of Israel (28:25-26). Third, there is a transition chapter (ch. 33), which gives instruction concerning a last call for Israel to repent. Finally, the fourth division includes rich expectations involving God's future restoration of Israel (chs. 34-48).

- I. Prophecies of Jerusalem's Ruin (1:1-24:27)
  - A. Preparation and Commission of Ezekiel (1:1-3:27)
    1. Divine appearance to Ezekiel (1:1-28)
    2. Divine assignment to Ezekiel (2:1-3:27)
  - B. Proclamation of Jerusalem's Condemnation (4:1-24:27)

1. Signs of coming judgment (4:1–5:4)
  2. Messages concerning judgment (5:5–7:27)
  3. Visions concerning abomination in the city and temple (8:1–11:25)
  4. Explanations of judgment (12:1–24:27)
- II. Prophecies of Retribution to the Nations (25:1–32:32)
- A. Ammon (25:1–7)
  - B. Moab (25:8–11)
  - C. Edom (25:12–14)
  - D. Philistia (25:15–17)
  - E. Tyre (26:1–28:19)
  - F. Sidon (28:20–24)
  - G. Excursus: The Restoration of Israel (28:25–26)
  - H. Egypt (29:1–32:32)

- IV. Prophecies of Israel’s Restoration (34:1–48:35)
- A. Regathering of Israel to the Land (34:1–37:28)
    1. Promise of a true Shepherd (34:1–31)
    2. Punishment of the nations (35:1–36:7)
    3. Purposes of restoration (36:8–38)
    4. Pictures of restoration—dry bones and two sticks (37:1–28)
  - B. Removal of Israel’s Enemies from the Land (38:1–39:29)
    1. Invasion of Gog to plunder Israel (38:1–16)
    2. Intervention of God to protect Israel (38:17–39:29)
  - C. Reinstatement of True Worship in Israel (40:1–46:24)
    1. New temple (40:1–43:12)
    2. New worship (43:13–46:24)
  - D. Redistribution of the Land in Israel (47:1–48:35)
    1. Position of the river (47:1–12)
    2. Portions for the tribes (47:13–48:35)

Ezekiel

Ezekiel in Babylon

EZEKIEL 1 †In the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I was among the exiles by the Chebar canal, the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God. [\[1\]](#) <sup>2</sup>†On the fifth day of the month (it was the fifth year of the exile of King Jehoiachin), <sup>3</sup>†the word of the LORD came to Ezekiel the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans by the Chebar canal, and the hand of the LORD was upon him there.

The Glory of the LORD

<sup>4</sup>††As I looked, behold, a stormy wind came out of the north, and a great cloud, with brightness around it, and fire flashing forth continually, and in the midst of the fire, as it were gleaming metal. [\[2\]](#) <sup>5</sup>†And from the midst of it came the likeness of four living creatures. And this was their appearance: they had a human likeness, <sup>6</sup>†but each had four faces, and each of them had four wings. <sup>7</sup>†Their legs were straight, and the soles of their feet were like the sole of a calf's foot. And they sparkled like burnished bronze. <sup>8</sup>†Under their wings on their four sides they had human hands. And the four had their faces and their wings thus: <sup>9</sup>†their wings touched one another. Each one of them went straight forward, without turning as they went. <sup>10</sup>†As for the likeness of their faces, each had a human face. The four had the face of a lion on the right side, the four had the face of an ox on the left side, and the four had the face of an eagle. <sup>11</sup>Such were their faces. And their wings were spread out above. Each creature had two wings, each of which touched the wing of another, while two covered their bodies. <sup>12</sup>†And each went straight forward. Wherever the spirit would go, they went, without turning as they went. <sup>13</sup>†As for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was like burning coals of fire, like the appearance of torches moving to and fro among the living creatures. And the fire was bright, and out of the fire went forth lightning. <sup>14</sup>†And the living creatures darted to and fro, like the appearance of a flash of lightning.

beryl. And the four had the same likeness, their appearance and construction being as it were a wheel within a wheel. <sup>17</sup>† When they went, they went in any of their four directions [4] without turning as they went. <sup>18</sup>† And their rims were tall and awesome, and the rims of all four were full of eyes all around. <sup>19</sup> And when the living creatures went, the wheels went beside them; and when the living creatures rose from the earth, the wheels rose. <sup>20</sup>† Wherever the spirit wanted to go, they went, and the wheels rose along with them, for the spirit of the living creatures [5] was in the wheels. <sup>21</sup> When those went, these went; and when those stood, these stood; and when those rose from the earth, the wheels rose along with them, for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels.

Such was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD. And when I saw it, I fell on my face, and I heard the voice of one speaking.

Ezekiel's Call

EZEKIEL 2 †And he said to me, “Son of man, [1] stand on your feet, and I will speak with you.” †And as he spoke to me, the Spirit entered into me and set me on my feet, and I heard him speaking to me. †And he said to me, “Son of man, I send you to the people of Israel, to nations of rebels, who have rebelled against me. They and their fathers have transgressed against me to this very day. †The descendants also are impudent and stubborn: I send you to them, and you shall say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD.’ †And whether they hear or refuse to hear (for they are a rebellious house) they will know that a prophet has been among them. †And you, son of man, be not afraid of them, nor be afraid of their words, though briers and thorns are with you and you sit on scorpions. [2] Be not afraid of their words, nor be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house. †And you shall speak my words to them, whether they hear or refuse to hear, for they are a rebellious house.

†“But you, son of man, hear what I say to you. Be not rebellious like that rebellious house; open your mouth and eat what I give you.” †And when I looked, behold, a hand was stretched out to me, and behold, a scroll of a book was in it. †And he spread it before me. And it had writing on the front and on the back, and there were written on it words of lamentation and mourning and woe.

EZEKIEL 3 †And he said to me, “Son of man, eat whatever you find here. Eat this scroll, and go, speak to the house of Israel.” 2So I opened my mouth, and he gave me this scroll to eat. 3†And he said to me, “Son of man, feed your belly with this scroll that I give you and fill your stomach with it.” Then I ate it, and it was in my mouth as sweet as honey.

4And he said to me, “Son of man, go to the house of Israel and speak with my words to them. 5For you are not sent to a people of foreign speech and a hard language, but to the house of Israel— 6not to many peoples of foreign speech and a hard language, whose words you cannot understand. Surely, if I sent you to such, they would listen to you. 7†But the house of Israel will not be willing to listen to you, for they are not willing to listen to me: because all the house of Israel have a hard forehead and a stubborn heart. 8†Behold, I have made your face as hard as their faces, and your forehead as hard as their foreheads. 9†Like emery harder than flint have I made your forehead. Fear them not, nor be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house.” 10Moreover, he said to me, “Son of man, all my words that I shall speak to you receive in your heart, and hear with your ears. 11And go to the exiles, to your people, and speak to them and say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD,’ whether they hear or refuse to hear.”

12†Then the Spirit [1] lifted me up, and I heard behind me the voice [2] of a great earthquake: “Blessed be the glory of the LORD from its place!” 13It was the sound of the wings of the living creatures as they touched one another, and the sound of the wheels beside them, and the sound of a great earthquake. 14†The Spirit lifted me up and took me away, and I went in bitterness in the heat of my spirit, the hand of the LORD being strong upon me. 15†And I came to the exiles at Tel-abib, who were dwelling by the Chebar canal, and I sat where they were dwelling. [3] And I sat there overwhelmed among them seven days.

A Watchman for Israel

16And at the end of seven days, the word of the LORD came to me: 17†“Son of man, I have made you a watchman for the house of Israel. Whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall give them warning from me. 18†††If I say to the wicked, ‘You shall surely die,’ and you give him no warning, nor speak to warn the wicked from his wicked way, in order to save his life, that wicked person shall die for [4] his iniquity, but his blood I will require at your hand. 19But if you warn the wicked, and he does not turn from his wickedness, or from his wicked way, he shall die for his iniquity, but you will have delivered your soul.

<sup>20</sup>†Again, if a righteous person turns from his righteousness and commits injustice, and I lay a stumbling block before him, he shall die. Because you have not warned him, he shall die for his sin, and his righteous deeds that he has done shall not be remembered, but his blood I will require at your hand. <sup>21</sup>†But if you warn the righteous person not to sin, and he does not sin, he shall surely live, because he took warning, and you will have delivered your soul.”

<sup>22</sup>And the hand of the LORD was upon me there. And he said to me, “Arise, go out into the valley, [5] and there I will speak with you.” <sup>23</sup>†So I arose and went out into the valley, and behold, the glory of the LORD stood there, like the glory that I had seen by the Chebar canal, and I fell on my face. <sup>24</sup>†But the Spirit entered into me and set me on my feet, and he spoke with me and said to me, “Go, shut yourself within your house. <sup>25</sup>†And you, O son of man, behold, cords will be placed upon you, and you shall be bound with them, so that you cannot go out among the people. <sup>26</sup>†And I will make your tongue cling to the roof of your mouth, so that you shall be mute and unable to reprove them, for they are a rebellious house. <sup>27</sup>But when I speak with you, I will open your mouth, and you shall say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD.’ He who will hear, let him hear; and he who will refuse to hear, let him refuse, for they are a rebellious house.

The Siege of Jerusalem Symbolized

<sup>4</sup>‡‡“Then lie on your left side, and place the punishment [\[1\]](#) of the house of Israel upon it. For the number of the days that you lie on it, you shall bear their punishment. <sup>5</sup>‡For I assign to you a number of days, 390 days, equal to the number of the years of their punishment. So long shall you bear the punishment of the house of Israel. <sup>6</sup>‡And when you have completed these, you shall lie down a second time, but on your right side, and bear the punishment of the house of Judah. Forty days I assign you, a day for each year. <sup>7</sup>‡And you shall set your face toward the siege of Jerusalem, with your arm bared, and you shall prophesy against the city. <sup>8</sup>‡And behold, I will place cords upon you, so that you cannot turn from one side to the other, till you have completed the days of your siege.

<sup>9</sup>‡“And you, take wheat and barley, beans and lentils, millet and emmer, [\[2\]](#) and put them into a single vessel and make your bread from them. During the number of days that you lie on your side, 390 days, you shall eat it. <sup>10</sup>And your food that you eat shall be by weight, twenty shekels [\[3\]](#) a day; from day to day [\[4\]](#) you shall eat it. <sup>11</sup>And water you shall drink by measure, the sixth part of a hin; [\[5\]](#) from day to day you shall drink. <sup>12</sup>And you shall eat it as a barley cake, baking it in their sight on human dung.” <sup>13</sup>And the LORD said, “Thus shall the people of Israel eat their bread unclean, among the nations where I will drive them.” <sup>14</sup>‡Then I said, “Ah, Lord GOD! Behold, I have never defiled myself. [\[6\]](#) From my youth up till now I have never eaten what died of itself or was torn by beasts, nor has tainted meat come into my mouth.” <sup>15</sup>Then he said to me, “See, I assign to you cow's dung instead of human dung, on which you may prepare your bread.” <sup>16</sup>‡Moreover, he said to me, “Son of man, behold, I will break the supply [\[7\]](#) of bread in Jerusalem. They shall eat bread by weight and with anxiety, and they shall drink water by measure and in dismay. <sup>17</sup>I will do this that they may lack bread and water, and look at one another in dismay, and rot away because of their punishment.

Jerusalem Will Be Destroyed

EZEKIEL 5 †“And you, O son of man, take a sharp sword. Use it as a barber's razor and pass it over your head and your beard. Then take balances for weighing and divide the hair. <sup>2</sup>A third part you shall burn in the fire in the midst of the city, when the days of the siege are completed. And a third part you shall take and strike with the sword all around the city. And a third part you shall scatter to the wind, and I will unsheathe the sword after them. <sup>3</sup>And you shall take from these a small number and bind them in the skirts of your robe. <sup>4</sup>And of these again you shall take some and cast them into the midst of the fire and burn them in the fire. From there a fire will come out into all the house of Israel.

<sup>5</sup>†“Thus says the Lord GOD: This is Jerusalem. I have set her in the center of the nations, with countries all around her. <sup>6</sup>And she has rebelled against my rules by doing wickedness more than the nations, and against my statutes more than the countries all around her; for they have rejected my rules and have not walked in my statutes. <sup>7</sup>†Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you are more turbulent than the nations that are all around you, and have not walked in my statutes or obeyed my rules, and have not [1] even acted according to the rules of the nations that are all around you, <sup>8</sup>†therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I, even I, am against you. And I will execute judgments [2] in your midst in the sight of the nations. <sup>9</sup>And because of all your abominations I will do with you what I have never yet done, and the like of which I will never do again. <sup>10</sup>Therefore fathers shall eat their sons in your midst, and sons shall eat their fathers. And I will execute judgments on you, and any of you who survive I will scatter to all the winds. <sup>11</sup>†Therefore, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely, because you have defiled my sanctuary with all your detestable things and with all your abominations, therefore I will withdraw. [3] My eye will not spare, and I will have no pity. <sup>12</sup>†A third part of you shall die of pestilence and be consumed with famine in your midst; a third part shall fall by the sword all around you; and a third part I will scatter to all the winds and will unsheathe the sword after them.

<sup>13</sup>†“Thus shall my anger spend itself, and I will vent my fury upon them and satisfy myself. And they shall know that I am the LORD—that I have spoken in my jealousy—when I spend my fury upon them. <sup>14</sup>Moreover, I will make you a desolation and an object of reproach among the nations all around you and in the sight of all who pass by. <sup>15</sup>You shall be [4] a reproach and a taunt, a warning and a horror, to the nations all around you, when I execute judgments on you in anger and fury, and with furious rebukes—I am the LORD; I have spoken—<sup>16</sup>†when I send against you [5] the deadly arrows of famine, arrows for destruction, which I will send to destroy you, and when I bring more and more famine upon you and break your supply [6] of bread. <sup>17</sup>†I will send famine and wild beasts against you, and they will rob you of your children. Pestilence and blood shall pass through you, and I will bring the sword upon you. I am the LORD; I have spoken.”

Judgment Against Idolatry

EZEKIEL 6 The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, set your face toward the mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them, <sup>3</sup>†and say, You mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD! Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and the hills, to the ravines and the valleys: Behold, I, even I, will bring a sword upon you, and I will destroy your high places. <sup>4</sup>Your altars shall become desolate, and your incense altars shall be broken, and I will cast down your slain before your idols. <sup>5</sup>And I will lay the dead bodies of the people of Israel before their idols, and I will scatter your bones around your altars. <sup>6</sup>Wherever you dwell, the cities shall be waste and the high places ruined, so that your altars will be waste and ruined, [\[1\]](#) your idols broken and destroyed, your incense altars cut down, and your works wiped out. <sup>7</sup>†And the slain shall fall in your midst, and you shall know that I am the LORD.

<sup>8</sup>†“Yet I will leave some of you alive. When you have among the nations some who escape the sword, and when you are scattered through the countries, <sup>9</sup>then those of you who escape will remember me among the nations where they are carried captive, how I have been broken over their whoring heart that has departed from me and over their eyes that go whoring after their idols. And they will be loathsome in their own sight for the evils that they have committed, for all their abominations. <sup>10</sup>And they shall know that I am the LORD. I have not said in vain that I would do this evil to them.”

<sup>11</sup>Thus says the Lord GOD: “Clap your hands and stamp your foot and say, Alas, because of all the evil abominations of the house of Israel, for they shall fall by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence. <sup>12</sup>He who is far off shall die of pestilence, and he who is near shall fall by the sword, and he who is left and is preserved shall die of famine. Thus I will spend my fury upon them. <sup>13</sup>And you shall know that I am the LORD, when their slain lie among their idols around their altars, on every high hill, on all the mountaintops, under every green tree, and under every leafy oak, wherever they offered pleasing aroma to all their idols. <sup>14</sup>†And I will stretch out my hand against them and make the land desolate and waste, in all their dwelling places, from the wilderness to Riblah. [\[2\]](#) Then they will know that I am the LORD.”

The Day of the Wrath of the LORD

EZEKIEL 7 †The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>“And you, O son of man, thus says the Lord GOD to the land of Israel: An end! The end has come upon the four corners of the land. [\[1\]](#) <sup>3</sup>Now the end is upon you, and I will send my anger upon you; I will judge you according to your ways, and I will punish you for all your abominations. <sup>4</sup>And my eye will not spare you, nor will I have pity, but I will punish you for your ways, while your abominations are in your midst. Then you will know that I am the LORD.

<sup>5</sup>“Thus says the Lord GOD: Disaster after disaster! [\[2\]](#) Behold, it comes. <sup>6</sup>An end has come; the end has come; it has awakened against you. Behold, it comes. <sup>7</sup>Your doom [\[3\]](#) has come to you, O inhabitant of the land. The time has come; the day is near, a day of tumult, and not of joyful shouting on the mountains. <sup>8</sup>Now I will soon pour out my wrath upon you, and spend my anger against you, and judge you according to your ways, and I will punish you for all your abominations. <sup>9</sup>And my eye will not spare, nor will I have pity. I will punish you according to your ways, while your abominations are in your midst. Then you will know that I am the LORD, who strikes.

the day of the wrath of the LORD. They cannot satisfy their hunger or fill their stomachs with it. For it was the stumbling block of their iniquity. <sup>20</sup>His beautiful ornament they used for pride, and they made their abominable images and their detestable things of it. Therefore I make it an unclean thing to them. <sup>21</sup>And I will give it into the hands of foreigners for prey, and to the wicked of the earth for spoil, and they shall profane it. <sup>22</sup>†I will turn my face from them, and they shall profane my treasured [7] place. Robbers shall enter and profane it.

Abominations in the Temple

EZEKIEL 8 †In the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I sat in my house, with the elders of Judah sitting before me, the hand of the Lord GOD fell upon me there. <sup>2</sup>†Then I looked, and behold, a form that had the appearance of a man. [1] Below what appeared to be his waist was fire, and above his waist was something like the appearance of brightness, like gleaming metal. [2] <sup>3</sup>†He put out the form of a hand and took me by a lock of my head, and the Spirit lifted me up between earth and heaven and brought me in visions of God to Jerusalem, to the entrance of the gateway of the inner court that faces north, where was the seat of the image of jealousy, which provokes to jealousy. <sup>4</sup>†And behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there, like the vision that I saw in the valley.

<sup>5</sup>Then he said to me, “Son of man, lift up your eyes now toward the north.” So I lifted up my eyes toward the north, and behold, north of the altar gate, in the entrance, was this image of jealousy. <sup>6</sup>†And he said to me, “Son of man, do you see what they are doing, the great abominations that the house of Israel are committing here, to drive me far from my sanctuary? But you will see still greater abominations.”

<sup>7</sup>†And he brought me to the entrance of the court, and when I looked, behold, there was a hole in the wall. <sup>8</sup>†Then he said to me, “Son of man, dig in the wall.” So I dug in the wall, and behold, there was an entrance. <sup>9</sup>And he said to me, “Go in, and see the vile abominations that they are committing here.” <sup>10</sup>†So I went in and saw. And there, engraved on the wall all around, was every form of creeping things and loathsome beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel. <sup>11</sup>†And before them stood seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel, with Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan standing among them. Each had his censer in his hand, and the smoke of the cloud of incense went up. <sup>12</sup>Then he said to me, “Son of man, have you seen what the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the dark, each in his room of pictures? For they say, ‘The LORD does not see us, the LORD has forsaken the land.’” <sup>13</sup>He said also to me, “You will see still greater abominations that they commit.”

<sup>14</sup>†Then he brought me to the entrance of the north gate of the house of the LORD, and behold, there sat women weeping for Tammuz. <sup>15</sup>Then he said to me, “Have you seen this, O son of man? You will see still greater abominations than

<sup>16</sup>‡And he brought me into the inner court of the house of the LORD. And behold, at the entrance of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty-five men, with their backs to the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the east, worshiping the sun toward the east. <sup>17</sup>‡Then he said to me, “Have you seen this, O son of man? Is it too light a thing for the house of Judah to commit the abominations that they commit here, that they should fill the land with violence and provoke me still further to anger? Behold, they put the branch to their [3] nose. <sup>18</sup>‡Therefore I will act in wrath. My eye will not spare, nor will I have pity. And though they cry in my ears with a loud voice, I will not hear them.”

Idolaters Killed

EZEKIEL 9 †Then he cried in my ears with a loud voice, saying, “Bring near the executioners of the city, each with his destroying weapon in his hand.” <sup>2</sup>†And behold, six men came from the direction of the upper gate, which faces north, each with his weapon for slaughter in his hand, and with them was a man clothed in linen, with a writing case at his waist. And they went in and stood beside the bronze altar.

<sup>3</sup>†Now the glory of the God of Israel had gone up from the cherub on which it rested to the threshold of the house. And he called to the man clothed in linen, who had the writing case at his waist. <sup>4</sup>†And the LORD said to him, “Pass through the city, through Jerusalem, and put a mark on the foreheads of the men who sigh and groan over all the abominations that are committed in it.” <sup>5</sup>And to the others he said in my hearing, “Pass through the city after him, and strike. Your eye shall not spare, and you shall show no pity. <sup>6</sup>Kill old men outright, young men and maidens, little children and women, but touch no one on whom is the mark. And begin at my sanctuary.” So they began with the elders who were before the house. <sup>7</sup>Then he said to them, “Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain. Go out.” So they went out and struck in the city. <sup>8</sup>†And while they were striking, and I was left alone, I fell upon my face, and cried, “Ah, Lord GOD! Will you destroy all the remnant of Israel in the outpouring of your wrath on Jerusalem?”

<sup>9</sup>Then he said to me, “The guilt of the house of Israel and Judah is exceedingly great. The land is full of blood, and the city full of injustice. For they say, ‘The LORD has forsaken the land, and the LORD does not see.’ <sup>10</sup>As for me, my eye will not spare, nor will I have pity; I will bring their deeds upon their heads.”

The Glory of the LORD Leaves the Temple

EZEKIEL 10 †Then I looked, and behold, on the expanse that was over the heads of the cherubim there appeared above them something like a sapphire, [1] in appearance like a throne. †And he said to the man clothed in linen, “Go in among the whirling wheels underneath the cherubim. Fill your hands with burning coals from between the cherubim, and scatter them over the city.”

And he went in before my eyes. †Now the cherubim were standing on the south side of the house, when the man went in, and a cloud filled the inner court. †And the glory of the LORD went up from the cherub to the threshold of the house, and the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was filled with the brightness of the glory of the LORD. †And the sound of the wings of the cherubim was heard as far as the outer court, like the voice of God Almighty when he speaks.

†And when he commanded the man clothed in linen, “Take fire from between the whirling wheels, from between the cherubim,” he went in and stood beside a wheel. †And a cherub stretched out his hand from between the cherubim to the fire that was between the cherubim, and took some of it and put it into the hands of the man clothed in linen, who took it and went out. †The cherubim appeared to have the form of a human hand under their wings.

†And I looked, and behold, there were four wheels beside the cherubim, one beside each cherub, and the appearance of the wheels was like sparkling beryl. †And as for their appearance, the four had the same likeness, as if a wheel were within a wheel. †When they went, they went in any of their four directions [2] without turning as they went, but in whatever direction the front wheel [3] faced, the others followed without turning as they went. †And their whole body, their rims, and their spokes, their wings, [4] and the wheels were full of eyes all around—the wheels that the four of them had. †As for the wheels, they were called in my hearing “the whirling wheels.” †And every one had four faces: the first face was the face of the cherub, and the second face was a human face, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.

†And the cherubim mounted up. These were the living creatures that I saw by the Chebar canal. †And when the cherubim went, the wheels went beside them. And when the cherubim lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, the wheels did not turn from beside them. <sup>17</sup>When they stood still, these stood still, and when they mounted up, these mounted up with them, for the spirit of the living creatures [5] was in them.

<sup>18</sup>Then the glory of the LORD went out from the threshold of the house, and stood over the cherubim. <sup>19</sup>And the cherubim lifted up their wings and mounted up from the earth before my eyes as they went out, with the wheels beside them. And they stood at the entrance of the east gate of the house of the LORD, and the glory of the God of Israel was over them.

<sup>20</sup>These were the living creatures that I saw underneath the God of Israel by the Chebar canal; and I knew that they were cherubim. <sup>21</sup>Each had four faces, and each four wings, and underneath their wings the likeness of human hands. <sup>22</sup>And as for the likeness of their faces, they were the same faces whose appearance I had seen by the Chebar canal. Each one of them went straight forward.

Judgment on Wicked Counselors

EZEKIEL 11 †The Spirit lifted me up and brought me to the east gate of the house of the LORD, which faces east. And behold, at the entrance of the gateway there were twenty-five men. And I saw among them Jaazaniah the son of Azzur, and Pelatiah the son of Benaiah, princes of the people. <sup>2</sup>And he said to me, “Son of man, these are the men who devise iniquity and who give wicked counsel in this city; <sup>3</sup>†who say, ‘The time is not near [1] to build houses. This city is the cauldron, and we are the meat.’ <sup>4</sup>Therefore prophesy against them, prophesy, O son of man.”

<sup>5</sup>And the Spirit of the LORD fell upon me, and he said to me, “Say, Thus says the LORD: So you think, O house of Israel. For I know the things that come into your mind. <sup>6</sup>†You have multiplied your slain in this city and have filled its streets with the slain. <sup>7</sup>†Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Your slain whom you have laid in the midst of it, they are the meat, and this city is the cauldron, but you shall be brought out of the midst of it. <sup>8</sup>You have feared the sword, and I will bring the sword upon you, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>9</sup>And I will bring you out of the midst of it, and give you into the hands of foreigners, and execute judgments upon you. <sup>10</sup>You shall fall by the sword. I will judge you at the border of Israel, and you shall know that I am the LORD. <sup>11</sup>This city shall not be your cauldron, nor shall you be the meat in the midst of it. I will judge you at the border of Israel, <sup>12</sup>and you shall know that I am the LORD. For you have not walked in my statutes, nor obeyed my rules, but have acted according to the rules of the nations that are around you.”

<sup>13</sup>†And it came to pass, while I was prophesying, that Pelatiah the son of Benaiah died. Then I fell down on my face and cried out with a loud voice and said, “Ah, Lord GOD! Will you make a full end of the remnant of Israel?”

Israel's New Heart and Spirit

<sup>14</sup>†And the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>15</sup>†“Son of man, your brothers, even your brothers, your kinsmen, [2] the whole house of Israel, all of them, are those of whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, ‘Go far from the LORD; to us this land is given for a possession.’ <sup>16</sup>†Therefore say, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD: Though I removed them far off among the nations, and though I scattered them among the countries, yet I have been a sanctuary to them for a while [3] in the countries where they have gone.’ <sup>17</sup>Therefore say, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD: I will gather you from the peoples and assemble you out of the countries where you have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel.’ <sup>18</sup>And when they come there, they will remove from it all its detestable things and all its abominations. <sup>19</sup>‡And I will give them one heart, and a new spirit I will put within them. I will remove the heart of stone from their flesh and give them a heart of flesh, <sup>20</sup>that they may walk in my statutes and keep my rules and obey them. And they shall be my people, and I will be their God. <sup>21</sup>But as for those whose heart goes after their detestable things and their abominations, I will [4] bring their deeds upon their own heads, declares the Lord GOD.”

<sup>22</sup>Then the cherubim lifted up their wings, with the wheels beside them, and the glory of the God of Israel was over them. <sup>23</sup>‡And the glory of the LORD went up from the midst of the city and stood on the mountain that is on the east side of the city. <sup>24</sup>‡And the Spirit lifted me up and brought me in the vision by the Spirit of God into Chaldea, to the exiles. Then the vision that I had seen went up from me. <sup>25</sup>And I told the exiles all the things that the LORD had shown me.

Judah's Captivity Symbolized

EZEKIEL 12 The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>†“Son of man, you dwell in the midst of a rebellious house, who have eyes to see, but see not, who have ears to hear, but hear not, for they are a rebellious house. <sup>3</sup>†As for you, son of man, prepare for yourself an exile's baggage, and go into exile by day in their sight. You shall go like an exile from your place to another place in their sight. Perhaps they will understand, though [1] they are a rebellious house. <sup>4</sup>You shall bring out your baggage by day in their sight, as baggage for exile, and you shall go out yourself at evening in their sight, as those do who must go into exile. <sup>5</sup>†In their sight dig through the wall, and bring your baggage out through it. <sup>6</sup>†In their sight you shall lift the baggage upon your shoulder and carry it out at dusk. You shall cover your face that you may not see the land, for I have made you a sign for the house of Israel.”

<sup>7</sup>And I did as I was commanded. I brought out my baggage by day, as baggage for exile, and in the evening I dug through the wall with my own hands. I brought out my baggage at dusk, carrying it on my shoulder in their sight.

<sup>8</sup>In the morning the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>9</sup>“Son of man, has not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, said to you, ‘What are you doing?’ <sup>10</sup>‡Say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD: This oracle concerns [2] the prince in Jerusalem and all the house of Israel who are in it.’ [3] <sup>11</sup>Say, ‘I am a sign for you: as I have done, so shall it be done to them. They shall go into exile, into captivity.’ <sup>12</sup>And the prince who is among them shall lift his baggage upon his shoulder at dusk, and shall go out. They shall dig through the wall to bring him out through it. He shall cover his face, that he may not see the land with his eyes. <sup>13</sup>And I will spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my snare. And I will bring him to Babylon, the land of the Chaldeans, yet he shall not see it, and he shall die there. <sup>14</sup>‡And I will scatter toward every wind all who are around him, his helpers and all his troops, and I will unsheathe the sword after them. <sup>15</sup>And they shall know that I am the LORD, when I disperse them among the nations and scatter them among the countries. <sup>16</sup>But I will let a few of them escape from the sword, from famine and pestilence, that they may declare all their abominations among the nations where they go, and may know that I am the LORD.”

quaking, and drink water with trembling and with anxiety. <sup>19</sup>And say to the people of the land, Thus says the Lord GOD concerning the inhabitants of Jerusalem in the land of Israel: They shall eat their bread with anxiety, and drink water in dismay. In this way her land will be stripped of all it contains, on account of the violence of all those who dwell in it. <sup>20</sup>And the inhabited cities shall be laid waste, and the land shall become a desolation; and you shall know that I am the LORD.”

<sup>21</sup>And the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>22</sup>†“Son of man, what is this proverb that you [4] have about the land of Israel, saying, ‘The days grow long, and every vision comes to nothing’? <sup>23</sup>Tell them therefore, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD: I will put an end to this proverb, and they shall no more use it as a proverb in Israel.’ But say to them, The days are near, and the fulfillment [5] of every vision. <sup>24</sup>For there shall be no more any false vision or flattering divination within the house of Israel. <sup>25</sup>†For I am the LORD; I will speak the word that I will speak, and it will be performed. It will no longer be delayed, but in your days, O rebellious house, I will speak the word and perform it, declares the Lord GOD.”

<sup>26</sup>And the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>27</sup>“Son of man, behold, they of the house of Israel say, ‘The vision that he sees is for many days from now, and he prophesies of times far off.’ <sup>28</sup>Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: None of my words will be delayed any longer, but the word that I speak will be performed, declares the Lord GOD.”

False Prophets Condemned

EZEKIEL 13 The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>‡“Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel, who are prophesying, and say to those who prophesy from their own hearts: ‘Hear the word of the LORD!’ <sup>3</sup>Thus says the Lord GOD, Woe to the foolish prophets who follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing! <sup>4</sup>‡Your prophets have been like jackals among ruins, O Israel. <sup>5</sup>‡You have not gone up into the breaches, or built up a wall for the house of Israel, that it might stand in battle in the day of the LORD. <sup>6</sup>They have seen false visions and lying divinations. They say, ‘Declares the LORD,’ when the LORD has not sent them, and yet they expect him to fulfill their word. <sup>7</sup>Have you not seen a false vision and uttered a lying divination, whenever you have said, ‘Declares the LORD,’ although I have not spoken?”

<sup>8</sup>Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: “Because you have uttered falsehood and seen lying visions, therefore behold, I am against you, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>9</sup>‡My hand will be against the prophets who see false visions and who give lying divinations. They shall not be in the council of my people, nor be enrolled in the register of the house of Israel, nor shall they enter the land of Israel. And you shall know that I am the Lord GOD. <sup>10</sup>‡Precisely because they have misled my people, saying, ‘Peace,’ when there is no peace, and because, when the people build a wall, these prophets smear it with whitewash, [1] <sup>11</sup>‡say to those who smear it with whitewash that it shall fall! There will be a deluge of rain, and you, O great hailstones, will fall, and a stormy wind break out. <sup>12</sup>And when the wall falls, will it not be said to you, ‘Where is the coating with which you smeared it?’ <sup>13</sup>Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I will make a stormy wind break out in my wrath, and there shall be a deluge of rain in my anger, and great hailstones in wrath to make a full end. <sup>14</sup>And I will break down the wall that you have smeared with whitewash, and bring it down to the ground, so that its foundation will be laid bare. When it falls, you shall perish in the midst of it, and you shall know that I am the LORD. <sup>15</sup>Thus will I spend my wrath upon the wall and upon those who have smeared it with whitewash, and I will say to you, The wall is no more, nor those who smeared it, <sup>16</sup>the prophets of Israel who prophesied concerning Jerusalem and saw visions of peace for her, when there was no peace, declares the Lord GOD.

says the Lord GOD: Woe to the women who sew magic bands upon all wrists, and make veils for the heads of persons of every stature, in the hunt for souls! Will you hunt down souls belonging to my people and keep your own souls alive?

<sup>19</sup>You have profaned me among my people for handfuls of barley and for pieces of bread, putting to death souls who should not die and keeping alive souls who should not live, by your lying to my people, who listen to lies.

<sup>20</sup>“Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am against your magic bands with which you hunt the souls like birds, and I will tear them from your arms, and I will let the souls whom you hunt go free, the souls like birds. <sup>21</sup>Your veils also I will tear off and deliver my people out of your hand, and they shall be no more in your hand as prey, and you shall know that I am the LORD. <sup>22</sup>†Because you have disheartened the righteous falsely, although I have not grieved him, and you have encouraged the wicked, that he should not turn from his evil way to save his life, <sup>23</sup>†therefore you shall no more see false visions nor practice divination. I will deliver my people out of your hand. And you shall know that I am the LORD.”

Idolatrous Elders Condemned

EZEKIEL 14 †Then certain of the elders of Israel came to me and sat before me. <sup>2</sup>And the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>3</sup>“Son of man, these men have taken their idols into their hearts, and set the stumbling block of their iniquity before their faces. Should I indeed let myself be consulted by them? <sup>4</sup>†Therefore speak to them and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Any one of the house of Israel who takes his idols into his heart and sets the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and yet comes to the prophet, I the LORD will answer him as he comes with the multitude of his idols, <sup>5</sup>that I may lay hold of the hearts of the house of Israel, who are all estranged from me through their idols.

<sup>6</sup>†“Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: Repent and turn away from your idols, and turn away your faces from all your abominations. <sup>7</sup>For any one of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who sojourn in Israel, who separates himself from me, taking his idols into his heart and putting the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and yet comes to a prophet to consult me through him, I the LORD will answer him myself. <sup>8</sup>†And I will set my face against that man; I will make him a sign and a byword and cut him off from the midst of my people, and you shall know that I am the LORD. <sup>9</sup>†And if the prophet is deceived and speaks a word, I, the LORD, have deceived that prophet, and I will stretch out my hand against him and will destroy him from the midst of my people Israel. <sup>10</sup>And they shall bear their punishment [1]—the punishment of the prophet and the punishment of the inquirer shall be alike— <sup>11</sup>that the house of Israel may no more go astray from me, nor defile themselves anymore with all their transgressions, but that they may be my people and I may be their God, declares the Lord GOD.”

Jerusalem Will Not Be Spared

<sup>12</sup>†And the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>13</sup>†“Son of man, when a land sins against me by acting faithlessly, and I stretch out my hand against it and break its supply [2] of bread and send famine upon it, and cut off from it man and beast, <sup>14</sup>†even if these three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, they would deliver but their own lives by their righteousness, declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>15</sup>“If I cause wild beasts to pass through the land, and they ravage it, and it be made desolate, so that no one may pass through because of the beasts, <sup>16</sup>even if these three men were in it, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they would deliver neither sons nor daughters. They alone would be delivered, but the land would be desolate.

<sup>17</sup>“Or if I bring a sword upon that land and say, Let a sword pass through the land, and I cut off from it man and beast, <sup>18</sup>though these three men were in it, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they would deliver neither sons nor daughters, but they alone would be delivered.

<sup>19</sup>“Or if I send a pestilence into that land and pour out my wrath upon it with blood, to cut off from it man and beast, <sup>20</sup>even if Noah, Daniel, and Job were in it, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they would deliver neither son nor daughter. They would deliver but their own lives by their righteousness.

<sup>21</sup>“For thus says the Lord GOD: How much more when I send upon Jerusalem my four disastrous acts of judgment, sword, famine, wild beasts, and pestilence, to cut off from it man and beast! <sup>22</sup>‡But behold, some survivors will be left in it, sons and daughters who will be brought out; behold, when they come out to you, and you see their ways and their deeds, you will be consoled for the disaster that I have brought upon Jerusalem, for all that I have brought upon it. <sup>23</sup>They will console you, when you see their ways and their deeds, and you shall know that I have not done without cause all that I have done in it, declares the Lord GOD.”

Jerusalem, a Useless Vine

EZEKIEL 15 †And the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, how does the wood of the vine surpass any wood, the vine branch that is among the trees of the forest? <sup>3</sup>Is wood taken from it to make anything? Do people take a peg from it to hang any vessel on it? <sup>4</sup>†Behold, it is given to the fire for fuel. When the fire has consumed both ends of it, and the middle of it is charred, is it useful for anything? <sup>5</sup>Behold, when it was whole, it was used for nothing. How much less, when the fire has consumed it and it is charred, can it ever be used for anything! <sup>6</sup>†Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Like the wood of the vine among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire for fuel, so have I given up the inhabitants of Jerusalem. <sup>7</sup>And I will set my face against them. Though they escape from the fire, the fire shall yet consume them, and you will know that I am the LORD, when I set my face against them. <sup>8</sup>And I will make the land desolate, because they have acted faithlessly, declares the Lord GOD.”

The LORD's Faithless Bride

EZEKIEL 16 †† Again the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, make known to Jerusalem her abominations, <sup>3</sup>†† and say, Thus says the Lord GOD to Jerusalem: Your origin and your birth are of the land of the Canaanites; your father was an Amorite and your mother a Hittite. <sup>4</sup>† And as for your birth, on the day you were born your cord was not cut, nor were you washed with water to cleanse you, nor rubbed with salt, nor wrapped in swaddling cloths. <sup>5</sup>No eye pitied you, to do any of these things to you out of compassion for you, but you were cast out on the open field, for you were abhorred, on the day that you were born.

<sup>6</sup>† “And when I passed by you and saw you wallowing in your blood, I said to you in your blood, ‘Live!’ I said to you in your blood, ‘Live!’ <sup>7</sup>† I made you flourish like a plant of the field. And you grew up and became tall and arrived at full adornment. Your breasts were formed, and your hair had grown; yet you were naked and bare.

<sup>8</sup>†† “When I passed by you again and saw you, behold, you were at the age for love, and I spread the corner of my garment over you and covered your nakedness; I made my vow to you and entered into a covenant with you, declares the Lord GOD, and you became mine. <sup>9</sup>† Then I bathed you with water and washed off your blood from you and anointed you with oil. <sup>10</sup>I clothed you also with embroidered cloth and shod you with fine leather. I wrapped you in fine linen and covered you with silk. [1] <sup>11</sup>And I adorned you with ornaments and put bracelets on your wrists and a chain on your neck. <sup>12</sup>And I put a ring on your nose and earrings in your ears and a beautiful crown on your head. <sup>13</sup>Thus you were adorned with gold and silver, and your clothing was of fine linen and silk and embroidered cloth. You ate fine flour and honey and oil. You grew exceedingly beautiful and advanced to royalty. <sup>14</sup>† And your renown went forth among the nations because of your beauty, for it was perfect through the splendor that I had bestowed on you, declares the Lord GOD.

given you, and made for yourself images of men, and with them played the whore. <sup>18</sup>And you took your embroidered garments to cover them, and set my oil and my incense before them. <sup>19</sup>Also my bread that I gave you—I fed you with fine flour and oil and honey—you set before them for a pleasing aroma; and so it was, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>20</sup>‡And you took your sons and your daughters, whom you had borne to me, and these you sacrificed to them to be devoured. Were your whorings so small a matter <sup>21</sup>that you slaughtered my children and delivered them up as an offering by fire to them? <sup>22</sup>And in all your abominations and your whorings you did not remember the days of your youth, when you were naked and bare, wallowing in your blood.

gather all your lovers with whom you took pleasure, all those you loved and all those you hated. I will gather them against you from every side and will uncover your nakedness to them, that they may see all your nakedness. <sup>38</sup>And I will judge you as women who commit adultery and shed blood are judged, and bring upon you the blood of wrath and jealousy. <sup>39</sup>And I will give you into their hands, and they shall throw down your vaulted chamber and break down your lofty places. They shall strip you of your clothes and take your beautiful jewels and leave you naked and bare. <sup>40</sup>They shall bring up a crowd against you, and they shall stone you and cut you to pieces with their swords. <sup>41</sup>And they shall burn your houses and execute judgments upon you in the sight of many women. I will make you stop playing the whore, and you shall also give payment no more. <sup>42</sup>† So will I satisfy my wrath on you, and my jealousy shall depart from you. I will be calm and will no more be angry. <sup>43</sup>Because you have not remembered the days of your youth, but have enraged me with all these things, therefore, behold, I have returned your deeds upon your head, declares the Lord GOD. Have you not committed lewdness in addition to all your abominations?

<sup>44</sup>† “Behold, everyone who uses proverbs will use this proverb about you: ‘Like mother, like daughter.’ <sup>45</sup>You are the daughter of your mother, who loathed her husband and her children; and you are the sister of your sisters, who loathed their husbands and their children. Your mother was a Hittite and your father an Amorite. <sup>46</sup>† And your elder sister is Samaria, who lived with her daughters to the north of you; and your younger sister, who lived to the south of you, is Sodom with her daughters. <sup>47</sup>Not only did you walk in their ways and do according to their abominations; within a very little time you were more corrupt than they in all your ways. <sup>48</sup>As I live, declares the Lord GOD, your sister Sodom and her daughters have not done as you and your daughters have done. <sup>49</sup>Behold, this was the guilt of your sister Sodom: she and her daughters had pride, excess of food, and prosperous ease, but did not aid the poor and needy. <sup>50</sup>They were haughty and did an abomination before me. So I removed them, when I saw it. <sup>51</sup>Samaria has not committed half your sins. You have committed more abominations than they, and have made your sisters appear righteous by all the abominations that you have committed. <sup>52</sup>Bear your disgrace, you also, for you have intervened on behalf of your sisters. Because of your sins in which you acted more abominably than they, they are more in the right than you. So be ashamed, you also, and bear your disgrace, for you have made your sisters appear righteous.

the fortunes of Samaria and her daughters, and I will restore your own fortunes in their midst, <sup>54</sup>that you may bear your disgrace and be ashamed of all that you have done, becoming a consolation to them. <sup>55</sup>As for your sisters, Sodom and her daughters shall return to their former state, and Samaria and her daughters shall return to their former state, and you and your daughters shall return to your former state. <sup>56</sup>Was not your sister Sodom a byword in your mouth in the day of your pride, <sup>57</sup>before your wickedness was uncovered? Now you have become an object of reproach for the daughters of Syria [8] and all those around her, and for the daughters of the Philistines, those all around who despise you. <sup>58</sup>You bear the penalty of your lewdness and your abominations, declares the LORD.

The LORD's Everlasting Covenant

<sup>59</sup>“For thus says the Lord GOD: I will deal with you as you have done, you who have despised the oath in breaking the covenant, <sup>60</sup>†yet I will remember my covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish for you an everlasting covenant. <sup>61</sup>Then you will remember your ways and be ashamed when you take your sisters, both your elder and your younger, and I give them to you as daughters, but not on account of [9] the covenant with you. <sup>62</sup>I will establish my covenant with you, and you shall know that I am the LORD, <sup>63</sup>†that you may remember and be confounded, and never open your mouth again because of your shame, when I atone for you for all that you have done, declares the Lord GOD.”

Parable of Two Eagles and a Vine

EZEKIEL 17 †The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, propound a riddle, and speak a parable to the house of Israel; <sup>3</sup>†say, Thus says the Lord GOD: A great eagle with great wings and long pinions, rich in plumage of many colors, came to Lebanon and took the top of the cedar. <sup>4</sup>†He broke off the topmost of its young twigs and carried it to a land of trade and set it in a city of merchants. <sup>5</sup>†Then he took of the seed of the land and planted it in fertile soil. [1] He placed it beside abundant waters. He set it like a willow twig, <sup>6</sup>†and it sprouted and became a low spreading vine, and its branches turned toward him, and its roots remained where it stood. So it became a vine and produced branches and put out boughs.

<sup>9</sup>†“Say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Will it thrive? Will he not pull up its roots and cut off its fruit, so that it withers, so that all its fresh sprouting leaves wither? It will not take a strong arm or many people to pull it from its roots. <sup>10</sup>Behold, it is planted; will it thrive? Will it not utterly wither when the east wind strikes it—wither away on the bed where it sprouted?”

<sup>16</sup>“As I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely in the place where the king dwells who made him king, whose oath he despised, and whose covenant with him he broke, in Babylon he shall die. <sup>17</sup>Pharaoh with his mighty army and great company will not help him in war, when mounds are cast up and siege walls built to cut off many lives. <sup>18</sup>He despised the oath in breaking the covenant, and behold, he gave his hand and did all these things; he shall not escape. <sup>19</sup>Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: As I live, surely it is my oath that he despised, and my covenant that he broke. I will return it upon his head. <sup>20</sup>I will spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my snare, and I will bring him to Babylon and enter into judgment with him there for the treachery he has committed against me. <sup>21</sup>And all the pick [3] of his troops shall fall by the sword, and the survivors shall be scattered to every wind, and you shall know that I am the LORD; I have spoken.”

The Soul Who Sins Shall Die

EZEKIEL 18 †The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>†“What do you [1] mean by repeating this proverb concerning the land of Israel, ‘The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge’? <sup>3</sup>†As I live, declares the Lord GOD, this proverb shall no more be used by you in Israel. <sup>4</sup>†Behold, all souls are mine; the soul of the father as well as the soul of the son is mine: the soul who sins shall die.

When the son has done what is just and right, and has been careful to observe all my statutes, he shall surely live. <sup>20</sup>The soul who sins shall die. The son shall not suffer for the iniquity of the father, nor the father suffer for the iniquity of the son. The righteousness of the righteous shall be upon himself, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon himself.

<sup>21</sup>‡“But if a wicked person turns away from all his sins that he has committed and keeps all my statutes and does what is just and right, he shall surely live; he shall not die. <sup>22</sup>None of the transgressions that he has committed shall be remembered against him; for the righteousness that he has done he shall live. <sup>23</sup>‡Have I any pleasure in the death of the wicked, declares the Lord GOD, and not rather that he should turn from his way and live? <sup>24</sup>‡But when a righteous person turns away from his righteousness and does injustice and does the same abominations that the wicked person does, shall he live? None of the righteous deeds that he has done shall be remembered; for the treachery of which he is guilty and the sin he has committed, for them he shall die.

<sup>25</sup>‡“Yet you say, ‘The way of the Lord is not just.’ Hear now, O house of Israel: Is my way not just? Is it not your ways that are not just? <sup>26</sup>When a righteous person turns away from his righteousness and does injustice, he shall die for it; for the injustice that he has done he shall die. <sup>27</sup>Again, when a wicked person turns away from the wickedness he has committed and does what is just and right, he shall save his life. <sup>28</sup>Because he considered and turned away from all the transgressions that he had committed, he shall surely live; he shall not die. <sup>29</sup>Yet the house of Israel says, ‘The way of the Lord is not just.’ O house of Israel, are my ways not just? Is it not your ways that are not just?

<sup>30</sup>‡“Therefore I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his ways, declares the Lord GOD. Repent and turn from all your transgressions, lest iniquity be your ruin. [4] <sup>31</sup>‡Cast away from you all the transgressions that you have committed, and make yourselves a new heart and a new spirit! Why will you die, O house of Israel? <sup>32</sup>‡For I have no pleasure in the death of anyone, declares the Lord GOD; so turn, and live.”

A Lament for the Princes of Israel

EZEKIEL 19 ††† And you, take up a lamentation for the princes of Israel, <sup>2</sup>and say: What was your mother? A lioness!

Among lions she crouched; in the midst of young lions she reared her cubs.

<sup>3</sup>† And she brought up one of her cubs; he became a young lion, and he learned to catch prey; he devoured men.

and they brought him with hooks to the land of Egypt.

she took another of her cubs and made him a young lion.

and he learned to catch prey; he devoured men,

<sup>7</sup>and seized [\[1\]](#) their widows.

He laid waste their cities, and the land was appalled and all who were in it at the sound of his roaring.

<sup>8</sup>Then the nations set against him from provinces on every side; they spread their net over him; he was taken in their pit.

and brought him to the king of Babylon; they brought him into custody, that his voice should no more be heard on the mountains of Israel.

planted by the water, fruitful and full of branches by reason of abundant water.

<sup>11</sup>Its strong stems became rulers' scepters;
it towered aloft

among the thick boughs; [\[4\]](#)

it was seen in its height with the mass of its branches.

<sup>12</sup>But the vine was plucked up in fury, cast down to the ground; the east wind dried up its fruit; they were stripped off and withered.

As for its strong stem, fire consumed it.

<sup>13</sup>Now it is planted in the wilderness, in a dry and thirsty land.

<sup>14</sup>† And fire has gone out from the stem of its shoots, has consumed its fruit, so that there remains in it no strong stem, no scepter for ruling.

This is a lamentation and has become a lamentation.

Israel's Continuing Rebellion

EZEKIEL 20 †In the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month, certain of the elders of Israel came to inquire of the LORD, and sat before me. <sup>2</sup>And the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>3</sup>†“Son of man, speak to the elders of Israel, and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD, Is it to inquire of me that you come? As I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will not be inquired of by you. <sup>4</sup>Will you judge them, son of man, will you judge them? Let them know the abominations of their fathers, <sup>5</sup>†and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day when I chose Israel, I swore [\[1\]](#) to the offspring of the house of Jacob, making myself known to them in the land of Egypt; I swore to them, saying, I am the LORD your God. <sup>6</sup>On that day I swore to them that I would bring them out of the land of Egypt into a land that I had searched out for them, a land flowing with milk and honey, the most glorious of all lands. <sup>7</sup>And I said to them, Cast away the detestable things your eyes feast on, every one of you, and do not defile yourselves with the idols of Egypt; I am the LORD your God. <sup>8</sup>But they rebelled against me and were not willing to listen to me. None of them cast away the detestable things their eyes feasted on, nor did they forsake the idols of Egypt.

“Then I said I would pour out my wrath upon them and spend my anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt. <sup>9</sup>But I acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations among whom they lived, in whose sight I made myself known to them in bringing them out of the land of Egypt. <sup>10</sup>So I led them out of the land of Egypt and brought them into the wilderness. <sup>11</sup>I gave them my statutes and made known to them my rules, by which, if a person does them, he shall live. <sup>12</sup>Moreover, I gave them my Sabbaths, as a sign between me and them, that they might know that I am the LORD who sanctifies them. <sup>13</sup>But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness. They did not walk in my statutes but rejected my rules, by which, if a person does them, he shall live; and my Sabbaths they greatly profaned.

“Then I said I would pour out my wrath upon them in the wilderness, to make a full end of them. <sup>14</sup>But I acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, in whose sight I had brought them out. <sup>15</sup>Moreover, I swore to them in the wilderness that I would not bring them into the land that I had given them, a land flowing with milk and honey, the most glorious of all lands, <sup>16</sup>because they rejected my rules and did not walk in my statutes, and profaned my Sabbaths; for their heart went after their idols.

<sup>18</sup>“And I said to their children in the wilderness, Do not walk in the statutes of your fathers, nor keep their rules, nor defile yourselves with their idols. <sup>19</sup>I am the LORD your God; walk in my statutes, and be careful to obey my rules, <sup>20</sup>and keep my Sabbaths holy that they may be a sign between me and you, that you may know that I am the LORD your God. <sup>21</sup>But the children rebelled against me. They did not walk in my statutes and were not careful to obey my rules, by which, if a person does them, he shall live; they profaned my Sabbaths.

“Then I said I would pour out my wrath upon them and spend my anger against them in the wilderness. <sup>22</sup>But I withheld my hand and acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, in whose sight I had brought them out. <sup>23</sup>Moreover, I swore to them in the wilderness that I would scatter them among the nations and disperse them through the countries, <sup>24</sup>because they had not obeyed my rules, but had rejected my statutes and profaned my Sabbaths, and their eyes were set on their fathers' idols.

<sup>25</sup>Moreover, I gave them statutes that were not good and rules by which they could not have life, <sup>26</sup>and I defiled them through their very gifts in their offering up all their firstborn, that I might devastate them. I did it that they might know that I am the LORD.

<sup>27</sup>“Therefore, son of man, speak to the house of Israel and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: In this also your fathers blasphemed me, by dealing treacherously with me. <sup>28</sup>For when I had brought them into the land that I swore to give them, then wherever they saw any high hill or any leafy tree, there they offered their sacrifices and there they presented the provocation of their offering; there they sent up their pleasing aromas, and there they poured out their drink offerings. <sup>29</sup>(I said to them, What is the high place to which you go? So its name is called Bamah [2] to this day.) <sup>30</sup>“Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: Will you defile yourselves after the manner of your fathers and go whoring after their detestable things? <sup>31</sup>When you present your gifts and offer up your children in fire, [3] you defile yourselves with all your idols to this day. And shall I be inquired of by you, O house of Israel? As I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will not be inquired of by you.

nations, like the tribes of the countries, and worship wood and stone.’

The LORD Will Restore Israel

<sup>33</sup>“As I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm and with wrath poured out I will be king over you. <sup>34</sup>†I will bring you out from the peoples and gather you out of the countries where you are scattered, with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, and with wrath poured out. <sup>35</sup>†And I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, and there I will enter into judgment with you face to face. <sup>36</sup>As I entered into judgment with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so I will enter into judgment with you, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>37</sup>†I will make you pass under the rod, and I will bring you into the bond of the covenant. <sup>38</sup>†I will purge out the rebels from among you, and those who transgress against me. I will bring them out of the land where they sojourn, but they shall not enter the land of Israel. Then you will know that I am the LORD.

<sup>39</sup>†“As for you, O house of Israel, thus says the Lord GOD: Go serve every one of you his idols, now and hereafter, if you will not listen to me; but my holy name you shall no more profane with your gifts and your idols.

<sup>40</sup>†“For on my holy mountain, the mountain height of Israel, declares the Lord GOD, there all the house of Israel, all of them, shall serve me in the land. There I will accept them, and there I will require your contributions and the choicest of your gifts, with all your sacred offerings. <sup>41</sup>As a pleasing aroma I will accept you, when I bring you out from the peoples and gather you out of the countries where you have been scattered. And I will manifest my holiness among you in the sight of the nations. <sup>42</sup>And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I bring you into the land of Israel, the country that I swore to give to your fathers. <sup>43</sup>And there you shall remember your ways and all your deeds with which you have defiled yourselves, and you shall loathe yourselves for all the evils that you have committed. <sup>44</sup>†And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I deal with you for my name's sake, not according to your evil ways, nor according to your corrupt deeds, O house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD.”

devour every green tree in you and every dry tree. The blazing flame shall not be quenched, and all faces from south to north shall be scorched by it. <sup>48</sup>All flesh shall see that I the LORD have kindled it; it shall not be quenched.” <sup>49</sup>†Then I said, “Ah, Lord GOD! They are saying of me, ‘Is he not a maker of parables?’”

The LORD Has Drawn His Sword

EZEKIEL 21 † [1] The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, set your face toward Jerusalem and preach against the sanctuaries. [2] Prophecy against the land of Israel <sup>3</sup>†and say to the land of Israel, Thus says the LORD: Behold, I am against you and will draw my sword from its sheath and will cut off from you both righteous and wicked. <sup>4</sup>Because I will cut off from you both righteous and wicked, therefore my sword shall be drawn from its sheath against all flesh from south to north. <sup>5</sup>And all flesh shall know that I am the LORD. I have drawn my sword from its sheath; it shall not be sheathed again.

<sup>6</sup>“As for you, son of man, groan; with breaking heart and bitter grief, groan before their eyes. <sup>7</sup>And when they say to you, ‘Why do you groan?’ you shall say, ‘Because of the news that it is coming. Every heart will melt, and all hands will be feeble; every spirit will faint, and all knees will be weak as water. Behold, it is coming, and it will be fulfilled,’” declares the Lord GOD.

(Or shall we rejoice? You have despised the rod, my son, with everything of wood.) [3] <sup>11</sup>†So the sword is given to be polished, that it may be grasped in the hand. It is sharpened and polished to be given into the hand of the slayer. <sup>12</sup>†Cry out and wail, son of man, for it is against my people. It is against all the princes of Israel. They are delivered over to the sword with my people. Strike therefore upon your thigh. <sup>13</sup>For it will not be a testing—what could it do if you despise the rod?” [4] declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>14</sup>“As for you, son of man, prophesy. Clap your hands and let the sword come down twice, yes, three times, [5] the sword for those to be slain. It is the sword for the great slaughter, which surrounds them, <sup>15</sup>that their hearts may melt, and many stumble. [6] At all their gates I have given the glittering sword. Ah, it is made like lightning; it is taken up [7] for slaughter. <sup>16</sup>Cut sharply to the right; set yourself to the left, wherever your face is directed. <sup>17</sup>I also will clap my hands, and I will satisfy my fury; I the LORD have spoken.”

from the same land. And make a signpost; make it at the head of the way to a city. <sup>20</sup>Mark a way for the sword to come to Rabbah of the Ammonites and to Judah, into Jerusalem the fortified. <sup>21</sup>‡For the king of Babylon stands at the parting of the way, at the head of the two ways, to use divination. He shakes the arrows; he consults the teraphim; [8] he looks at the liver. <sup>22</sup>‡Into his right hand comes the divination for Jerusalem, to set battering rams, to open the mouth with murder, to lift up the voice with shouting, to set battering rams against the gates, to cast up mounds, to build siege towers. <sup>23</sup>‡But to them it will seem like a false divination. They have sworn solemn oaths, but he brings their guilt to remembrance, that they may be taken.

<sup>24</sup>“Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have made your guilt to be remembered, in that your transgressions are uncovered, so that in all your deeds your sins appear—because you have come to remembrance, you shall be taken in hand. <sup>25</sup>‡And you, O profane [9] wicked one, prince of Israel, whose day has come, the time of your final punishment, <sup>26</sup>‡thus says the Lord GOD: Remove the turban and take off the crown. Things shall not remain as they are. Exalt that which is low, and bring low that which is exalted. <sup>27</sup>‡A ruin, ruin, ruin I will make it. This also shall not be, until he comes, the one to whom judgment belongs, and I will give it to him.

<sup>28</sup>‡“And you, son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD concerning the Ammonites and concerning their reproach; say, A sword, a sword is drawn for the slaughter. It is polished to consume and to flash like lightning— <sup>29</sup>while they see for you false visions, while they divine lies for you—to place you on the necks of the profane wicked, whose day has come, the time of their final punishment. <sup>30</sup>‡Return it to its sheath. In the place where you were created, in the land of your origin, I will judge you. <sup>31</sup>And I will pour out my indignation upon you; I will blow upon you with the fire of my wrath, and I will deliver you into the hands of brutish men, skillful to destroy. <sup>32</sup>‡You shall be fuel for the fire. Your blood shall be in the midst of the land. You shall be no more remembered, for I the LORD have spoken.”

Israel's Shedding of Blood

EZEKIEL 22 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>2</sup>†“And you, son of man, will you judge, will you judge the bloody city? Then declare to her all her abominations. <sup>3</sup>You shall say, Thus says the Lord GOD: A city that sheds blood in her midst, so that her time may come, and that makes idols to defile herself! <sup>4</sup>‡You have become guilty by the blood that you have shed, and defiled by the idols that you have made, and you have brought your days near, the appointed time of [1] your years has come. Therefore I have made you a reproach to the nations, and a mockery to all the countries. <sup>5</sup>‡Those who are near and those who are far from you will mock you; your name is defiled; you are full of tumult.

<sup>6</sup>“Behold, the princes of Israel in you, every one according to his power, have been bent on shedding blood. <sup>7</sup>Father and mother are treated with contempt in you; the sojourner suffers extortion in your midst; the fatherless and the widow are wronged in you. <sup>8</sup>You have despised my holy things and profaned my Sabbaths. <sup>9</sup>‡There are men in you who slander to shed blood, and people in you who eat on the mountains; they commit lewdness in your midst. <sup>10</sup>In you men uncover their fathers' nakedness; in you they violate women who are unclean in their menstrual impurity. <sup>11</sup>One commits abomination with his neighbor's wife; another lewdly defiles his daughter-in-law; another in you violates his sister, his father's daughter. <sup>12</sup>In you they take bribes to shed blood; you take interest and profit [2] and make gain of your neighbors by extortion; but me you have forgotten, declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>13</sup>“Behold, I strike my hand at the dishonest gain that you have made, and at the blood that has been in your midst. <sup>14</sup>‡Can your courage endure, or can your hands be strong, in the days that I shall deal with you? I the LORD have spoken, and I will do it. <sup>15</sup>I will scatter you among the nations and disperse you through the countries, and I will consume your uncleanness out of you. <sup>16</sup>‡And you shall be profaned by your own doing in the sight of the nations, and you shall know that I am the LORD.”

furnace, to blow the fire on it in order to melt it, so I will gather you in my anger and in my wrath, and I will put you in and melt you. <sup>21</sup>I will gather you and blow on you with the fire of my wrath, and you shall be melted in the midst of it. <sup>22</sup>As silver is melted in a furnace, so you shall be melted in the midst of it, and you shall know that I am the LORD; I have poured out my wrath upon you.”

Oholah and Oholibah

EZEKIEL 23 The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>‡“Son of man, there were two women, the daughters of one mother. <sup>3</sup>They played the whore in Egypt; they played the whore in their youth; there their breasts were pressed and their virgin bosoms [\[1\]](#) handled. <sup>4</sup>Oholah was the name of the elder and Oholibah the name of her sister. They became mine, and they bore sons and daughters. As for their names, Oholah is Samaria, and Oholibah is Jerusalem.

the lewdness of your youth, when the Egyptians handled your bosom and pressed [3] your young breasts.”

<sup>22</sup>‡Therefore, O Oholibah, thus says the Lord GOD: “Behold, I will stir up against you your lovers from whom you turned in disgust, and I will bring them against you from every side: <sup>23</sup>‡the Babylonians and all the Chaldeans, Pekod and Shoa and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them, desirable young men, governors and commanders all of them, officers and men of renown, all of them riding on horses. <sup>24</sup>And they shall come against you from the north [4] with chariots and wagons and a host of peoples. They shall set themselves against you on every side with buckler, shield, and helmet; and I will commit the judgment to them, and they shall judge you according to their judgments. <sup>25</sup>‡And I will direct my jealousy against you, that they may deal with you in fury. They shall cut off your nose and your ears, and your survivors shall fall by the sword. They shall seize your sons and your daughters, and your survivors shall be devoured by fire. <sup>26</sup>They shall also strip you of your clothes and take away your beautiful jewels. <sup>27</sup>Thus I will put an end to your lewdness and your whoring begun in the land of Egypt, so that you shall not lift up your eyes to them or remember Egypt anymore.

<sup>28</sup>“For thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I will deliver you into the hands of those whom you hate, into the hands of those from whom you turned in disgust, <sup>29</sup>and they shall deal with you in hatred and take away all the fruit of your labor and leave you naked and bare, and the nakedness of your whoring shall be uncovered. Your lewdness and your whoring <sup>30</sup>have brought this upon you, because you played the whore with the nations and defiled yourself with their idols. <sup>31</sup>You have gone the way of your sister; therefore I will give her cup into your hand. <sup>32</sup>‡Thus says the Lord GOD: “You shall drink your sister's cup that is deep and large; you shall be laughed at and held in derision, for it contains much; <sup>33</sup>you will be filled with drunkenness and sorrow.

A cup of horror and desolation, the cup of your sister Samaria; <sup>34</sup>you shall drink it and drain it out, and gnaw its shards, and tear your breasts; for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>35</sup>Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have forgotten me and cast me behind your back, you yourself must bear the consequences of your lewdness and whoring.”

Declare to them their abominations. <sup>37</sup>For they have committed adultery, and blood is on their hands. With their idols they have committed adultery, and they have even offered up [5] to them for food the children whom they had borne to me. <sup>38</sup>Moreover, this they have done to me: they have defiled my sanctuary on the same day and profaned my Sabbaths. <sup>39</sup>For when they had slaughtered their children in sacrifice to their idols, on the same day they came into my sanctuary to profane it. And behold, this is what they did in my house. <sup>40</sup>They even sent for men to come from afar, to whom a messenger was sent; and behold, they came. For them you bathed yourself, painted your eyes, and adorned yourself with ornaments. <sup>41</sup>You sat on a stately couch, with a table spread before it on which you had placed my incense and my oil. <sup>42</sup>The sound of a carefree multitude was with her; and with men of the common sort, drunkards [6] were brought from the wilderness; and they put bracelets on the hands of the women, and beautiful crowns on their heads.

The Siege of Jerusalem

EZEKIEL 24 †In the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, write down the name of this day, this very day. The king of Babylon has laid siege to Jerusalem this very day. <sup>3</sup>†And utter a parable to the rebellious house and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: “Set on the pot, set it on; pour in water also; <sup>4</sup>put in it the pieces of meat, all the good pieces, the thigh and the shoulder; fill it with choice bones.

<sup>6</sup>†“Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the bloody city, to the pot whose corrosion is in it, and whose corrosion has not gone out of it! Take out of it piece after piece, without making any choice. [2] <sup>7</sup>†For the blood she has shed is in her midst; she put it on the bare rock; she did not pour it out on the ground to cover it with dust. <sup>8</sup>To rouse my wrath, to take vengeance, I have set on the bare rock the blood she has shed, that it may not be covered. <sup>9</sup>†Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the bloody city! I also will make the pile great. <sup>10</sup>Heap on the logs, kindle the fire, boil the meat well, mix in the spices, [3] and let the bones be burned up. <sup>11</sup>†Then set it empty upon the coals, that it may become hot, and its copper may burn, that its uncleanness may be melted in it, its corrosion consumed. <sup>12</sup>She has wearied herself with toil; [4] its abundant corrosion does not go out of it. Into the fire with its corrosion! <sup>13</sup>On account of your unclean lewdness, because I would have cleansed you and you were not cleansed from your uncleanness, you shall not be cleansed anymore till I have satisfied my fury upon you. <sup>14</sup>I am the LORD. I have spoken; it shall come to pass; I will do it. I will not go back; I will not spare; I will not relent; according to your ways and your deeds you will be judged, declares the Lord GOD.”

Ezekiel's Wife Dies

<sup>19</sup>And the people said to me, “Will you not tell us what these things mean for us, that you are acting thus?” <sup>20</sup>Then I said to them, “The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>21</sup>‘Say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I will profane my sanctuary, the pride of your power, the delight of your eyes, and the yearning of your soul, and your sons and your daughters whom you left behind shall fall by the sword. <sup>22</sup>And you shall do as I have done; you shall not cover your lips, nor eat the bread of men. <sup>23</sup>Your turbans shall be on your heads and your shoes on your feet; you shall not mourn or weep, but you shall rot away in your iniquities and groan to one another. <sup>24</sup>Thus shall Ezekiel be to you a sign; according to all that he has done you shall do. When this comes, then you will know that I am the Lord GOD.’

<sup>25</sup>†“As for you, son of man, surely on the day when I take from them their stronghold, their joy and glory, the delight of their eyes and their soul's desire, and also their sons and daughters, <sup>26</sup>†on that day a fugitive will come to you to report to you the news. <sup>27</sup>On that day your mouth will be opened to the fugitive, and you shall speak and be no longer mute. So you will be a sign to them, and they will know that I am the LORD.”

Prophecy Against Ammon

EZEKIEL 25 †The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>†“Son of man, set your face toward the Ammonites and prophesy against them. <sup>3</sup>Say to the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord GOD: Thus says the Lord GOD, Because you said, ‘Aha!’ over my sanctuary when it was profaned, and over the land of Israel when it was made desolate, and over the house of Judah when they went into exile, <sup>4</sup>†therefore behold, I am handing you over to the people of the East for a possession, and they shall set their encampments among you and make their dwellings in your midst. They shall eat your fruit, and they shall drink your milk. <sup>5</sup>†I will make Rabbah a pasture for camels and Ammon [\[1\]](#) a fold for flocks. Then you will know that I am the LORD. <sup>6</sup>For thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have clapped your hands and stamped your feet and rejoiced with all the malice within your soul against the land of Israel, <sup>7</sup>†therefore, behold, I have stretched out my hand against you, and will hand you over as plunder to the nations. And I will cut you off from the peoples and will make you perish out of the countries; I will destroy you. Then you will know that I am the LORD.

Prophecy Against Moab and Seir

<sup>8</sup>††“Thus says the Lord GOD: Because Moab and Seir [\[2\]](#) said, ‘Behold, the house of Judah is like all the other nations,’ <sup>9</sup>therefore I will lay open the flank of Moab from the cities, from its cities on its frontier, the glory of the country, Beth-jeshimoth, Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim. <sup>10</sup>I will give it along with the Ammonites to the people of the East as a possession, that the Ammonites may be remembered no more among the nations, <sup>11</sup>and I will execute judgments upon Moab. Then they will know that I am the LORD.

Prophecy Against Edom

<sup>12</sup>†“Thus says the Lord GOD: Because Edom acted revengefully against the house of Judah and has grievously offended in taking vengeance on them, <sup>13</sup>††therefore thus says the Lord GOD, I will stretch out my hand against Edom and cut off from it man and beast. And I will make it desolate; from Teman even to Dedan they shall fall by the sword. <sup>14</sup>And I will lay my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel, and they shall do in Edom according to my anger and according to my wrath, and they shall know my vengeance, declares the Lord GOD.

Prophecy Against Philistia

<sup>15</sup>‡“Thus says the Lord GOD: Because the Philistines acted revengefully and took vengeance with malice of soul to destroy in never-ending enmity, <sup>16</sup>‡therefore thus says the Lord GOD, Behold, I will stretch out my hand against the Philistines, and I will cut off the Cherethites and destroy the rest of the seacoast. <sup>17</sup>‡I will execute great vengeance on them with wrathful rebukes. Then they will know that I am the LORD, when I lay my vengeance upon them.”

Prophecy Against Tyre

EZEKIEL 26 †In the eleventh year, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, because Tyre said concerning Jerusalem, ‘Aha, the gate of the peoples is broken; it has swung open to me. I shall be replenished, now that she is laid waste,’ <sup>3</sup>†therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am against you, O Tyre, and will bring up many nations against you, as the sea brings up its waves. <sup>4</sup>They shall destroy the walls of Tyre and break down her towers, and I will scrape her soil from her and make her a bare rock. <sup>5</sup>†She shall be in the midst of the sea a place for the spreading of nets, for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD. And she shall become plunder for the nations, <sup>6</sup>and her daughters on the mainland shall be killed by the sword. Then they will know that I am the LORD.

<sup>7</sup>†“For thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I will bring against Tyre from the north Nebuchadnezzar [1] king of Babylon, king of kings, with horses and chariots, and with horsemen and a host of many soldiers. <sup>8</sup>He will kill with the sword your daughters on the mainland. He will set up a siege wall against you and throw up a mound against you, and raise a roof of shields against you. <sup>9</sup>He will direct the shock of his battering rams against your walls, and with his axes he will break down your towers. <sup>10</sup>His horses will be so many that their dust will cover you. Your walls will shake at the noise of the horsemen and wagons and chariots, when he enters your gates as men enter a city that has been breached. <sup>11</sup>With the hoofs of his horses he will trample all your streets. He will kill your people with the sword, and your mighty pillars will fall to the ground. <sup>12</sup>†They will plunder your riches and loot your merchandise. They will break down your walls and destroy your pleasant houses. Your stones and timber and soil they will cast into the midst of the waters. <sup>13</sup>†And I will stop the music of your songs, and the sound of your lyres shall be heard no more. <sup>14</sup>I will make you a bare rock. You shall be a place for the spreading of nets. You shall never be rebuilt, for I am the LORD; I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>15</sup>†“Thus says the Lord GOD to Tyre: Will not the coastlands shake at the sound of your fall, when the wounded groan, when slaughter is made in your midst? <sup>16</sup>Then all the princes of the sea will step down from their thrones and remove their robes and strip off their embroidered garments. They will clothe themselves with trembling; they will sit on the ground and tremble every moment and be appalled at you. <sup>17</sup>And they will raise a lamentation over you and say to you, “How you have perished, you who were inhabited from the seas, O city renowned, who was mighty on the sea; she and her inhabitants imposed their terror on all her inhabitants!

<sup>18</sup>Now the coastlands tremble on the day of your fall, and the coastlands that are on the sea are dismayed at your passing.’

<sup>19</sup>‡“For thus says the Lord GOD: When I make you a city laid waste, like the cities that are not inhabited, when I bring up the deep over you, and the great waters cover you, <sup>20</sup>then I will make you go down with those who go down to the pit, to the people of old, and I will make you to dwell in the world below, among ruins from of old, with those who go down to the pit, so that you will not be inhabited; but I will set beauty in the land of the living. <sup>21</sup>I will bring you to a dreadful end, and you shall be no more. Though you be sought for, you will never be found again, declares the Lord GOD.”

A Lament for Tyre

EZEKIEL 27 †The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>“Now you, son of man, raise a lamentation over Tyre, <sup>3</sup>and say to Tyre, who dwells at the entrances to the sea, merchant of the peoples to many coastlands, thus says the Lord GOD: “O Tyre, you have said, ‘I am perfect in beauty.’

<sup>8</sup>The inhabitants of Sidon and Arvad were your rowers; your skilled men, O Tyre, were in you; they were your pilots.

<sup>9</sup>The elders of Gebal and her skilled men were in you, caulking your seams; all the ships of the sea with their mariners were in you to barter for your wares.

<sup>10</sup>†“Persia and Lud and Put were in your army as your men of war. They hung the shield and helmet in you; they gave you splendor. <sup>11</sup>†Men of Arvad and Helech were on your walls all around, and men of Gamad were in your towers. They hung their shields on your walls all around; they made perfect your beauty.

balm. <sup>18</sup>‡Damascus did business with you for your abundant goods, because of your great wealth of every kind; wine of Helbon and wool of Sahar <sup>19</sup>‡and casks of wine [3] from Uzal they exchanged for your wares; wrought iron, cassia, and calamus were bartered for your merchandise. <sup>20</sup>Dedan traded with you in saddlecloths for riding. <sup>21</sup>‡Arabia and all the princes of Kedar were your favored dealers in lambs, rams, and goats; in these they did business with you. <sup>22</sup>‡The traders of Sheba and Raamah traded with you; they exchanged for your wares the best of all kinds of spices and all precious stones and gold. <sup>23</sup>‡Haran, Canneh, Eden, traders of Sheba, Asshur, and Chilmad traded with you. <sup>24</sup>In your market these traded with you in choice garments, in clothes of blue and embroidered work, and in carpets of colored material, bound with cords and made secure. <sup>25</sup>‡The ships of Tarshish traveled for you with your merchandise. So you were filled and heavily laden in the heart of the seas.

The east wind has wrecked you in the heart of the seas.

<sup>27</sup>Your riches, your wares, your merchandise, your mariners and your pilots, your caulkers, your dealers in merchandise, and all your men of war who are in you, with all your crew that is in your midst, sink into the heart of the seas on the day of your fall.

The mariners and all the pilots of the sea stand on the land <sup>30</sup>and shout aloud over you and cry out bitterly.

They cast dust on their heads and wallow in ashes;

<sup>31</sup>they make themselves bald for you and put sackcloth on their waist, and they weep over you in bitterness of soul, with bitter mourning.

<sup>32</sup>In their wailing they raise a lamentation for you and lament over you:

‘Who is like Tyre,

like one destroyed in the midst of the sea?

<sup>33</sup>When your wares came from the seas, you satisfied many peoples; with your abundant wealth and merchandise you enriched the kings of the earth.

<sup>34</sup>Now you are wrecked by the seas, in the depths of the waters; your merchandise and all your crew in your midst have sunk with you.

and the hair of their kings bristles with horror; their faces are convulsed.
<sup>36</sup>†The merchants among the peoples hiss at you; you have come to a dreadful end and shall be no more forever.’”

Prophecy Against the Prince of Tyre

EZEKIEL 28 †The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>†“Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre, Thus says the Lord GOD: “Because your heart is proud, and you have said, ‘I am a god,

I sit in the seat of the gods,
in the heart of the seas,’ yet you are but a man, and no god, though you make your heart like the heart of a god— <sup>3</sup>†you are indeed wiser than Daniel; no secret is hidden from you; <sup>4</sup>by your wisdom and your understanding you have made wealth for yourself, and have gathered gold and silver into your treasuries;
<sup>5</sup>by your great wisdom in your trade you have increased your wealth, and your heart has become proud in your wealth— <sup>6</sup>†therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you make your heart like the heart of a god, <sup>7</sup>therefore, behold, I will bring foreigners upon you, the most ruthless of the nations; and they shall draw their swords against the beauty of your wisdom and defile your splendor.
<sup>8</sup>They shall thrust you down into the pit, and you shall die the death of the slain in the heart of the seas.
<sup>9</sup>Will you still say, ‘I am a god,’ in the presence of those who kill you, though you are but a man, and no god, in the hands of those who slay you?
<sup>10</sup>You shall die the death of the uncircumcised by the hand of foreigners; for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD.”

A Lament over the King of Tyre

lamentation over the king of Tyre, and say to him, Thus says the Lord GOD: “You were the signet of perfection, [\[1\]](#) full of wisdom and perfect in beauty.

<sup>13</sup>† You were in Eden, the garden of God; every precious stone was your covering, sardius, topaz, and diamond, beryl, onyx, and jasper, sapphire, <sup>[2]</sup> emerald, and carbuncle; and crafted in gold were your settings and your engravings. <sup>[3]</sup>
On the day that you were created they were prepared.

<sup>14</sup>† You were an anointed guardian cherub.
I placed you; <sup>[4]</sup> you were on the holy mountain of God; in the midst of the stones of fire you walked.

<sup>15</sup>† You were blameless in your ways from the day you were created, till unrighteousness was found in you.

<sup>16</sup>† In the abundance of your trade you were filled with violence in your midst, and you sinned; so I cast you as a profane thing from the mountain of God, and I destroyed you, <sup>[5]</sup> O guardian cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire.

<sup>17</sup>† Your heart was proud because of your beauty; you corrupted your wisdom for the sake of your splendor.
I cast you to the ground;
I exposed you before kings, to feast their eyes on you.

<sup>18</sup> By the multitude of your iniquities, in the unrighteousness of your trade you profaned your sanctuaries; so I brought fire out from your midst; it consumed you, and I turned you to ashes on the earth in the sight of all who saw you.

<sup>19</sup> All who know you among the peoples are appalled at you; you have come to a dreadful end and shall be no more forever.”

Prophecy Against Sidon

<sup>20</sup> The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>21</sup>† “Son of man, set your face toward Sidon, and prophesy against her <sup>22</sup>† and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: “Behold, I am against you, O Sidon, and I will manifest my glory in your midst.

And they shall know that I am the LORD when I execute judgments in her and manifest my holiness in her;

<sup>23</sup> for I will send pestilence into her, and blood into her streets; and the slain shall fall in her midst, by the sword that is against her on every side.

Then they will know that I am the LORD.

<sup>24</sup>‡“And for the house of Israel there shall be no more a brier to prick or a thorn to hurt them among all their neighbors who have treated them with contempt. Then they will know that I am the Lord GOD.

Israel Gathered in Security

<sup>25</sup>‡“Thus says the Lord GOD: When I gather the house of Israel from the peoples among whom they are scattered, and manifest my holiness in them in the sight of the nations, then they shall dwell in their own land that I gave to my servant Jacob. <sup>26</sup>And they shall dwell securely in it, and they shall build houses and plant vineyards. They shall dwell securely, when I execute judgments upon all their neighbors who have treated them with contempt. Then they will know that I am the LORD their God.”

Prophecy Against Egypt

EZEKIEL 29 †In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the twelfth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>†“Son of man, set your face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him and against all Egypt; <sup>3</sup>†speak, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: “Behold, I am against you, Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great dragon that lies in the midst of his streams, that says, ‘My Nile is my own; I made it for myself.’

<sup>4</sup>†I will put hooks in your jaws, and make the fish of your streams stick to your scales; and I will draw you up out of the midst of your streams, with all the fish of your streams that stick to your scales.

<sup>5</sup>And I will cast you out into the wilderness, you and all the fish of your streams; you shall fall on the open field, and not be brought together or gathered.

To the beasts of the earth and to the birds of the heavens I give you as food.

“Because you [1] have been a staff of reed to the house of Israel, <sup>7</sup>when they grasped you with the hand, you broke and tore all their shoulders; and when they leaned on you, you broke and made all their loins to shake. [2] <sup>8</sup>Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I will bring a sword upon you, and will cut off from you man and beast, <sup>9</sup>†and the land of Egypt shall be a desolation and a waste. Then they will know that I am the LORD.

“Because you [3] said, ‘The Nile is mine, and I made it,’ <sup>10</sup>†therefore, behold, I am against you and against your streams, and I will make the land of Egypt an utter waste and desolation, from Migdol to Syene, as far as the border of Cush. <sup>11</sup>†No foot of man shall pass through it, and no foot of beast shall pass through it; it shall be uninhabited forty years. <sup>12</sup>And I will make the land of Egypt a desolation in the midst of desolated countries, and her cities shall be a desolation forty years among cities that are laid waste. I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them through the countries.

<sup>13</sup>†“For thus says the Lord GOD: At the end of forty years I will gather the Egyptians from the peoples among whom they were scattered, <sup>14</sup>and I will restore the fortunes of Egypt and bring them back to the land of Pathros, the land of their origin, and there they shall be a lowly kingdom. <sup>15</sup>It shall be the most lowly of the kingdoms, and never again exalt itself above the nations. And I will make them so small that they will never again rule over the nations. <sup>16</sup>And it shall never again be the reliance of the house of Israel, recalling their iniquity, when they turn to them for aid. Then they will know that I am the Lord GOD.”

<sup>17</sup>‡In the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>18</sup>‡“Son of man, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon made his army labor hard against Tyre. Every head was made bald, and every shoulder was rubbed bare, yet neither he nor his army got anything from Tyre to pay for the labor that he had performed against her. <sup>19</sup>‡Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I will give the land of Egypt to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon; and he shall carry off its wealth [4] and despoil it and plunder it; and it shall be the wages for his army. <sup>20</sup>I have given him the land of Egypt as his payment for which he labored, because they worked for me, declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>21</sup>‡“On that day I will cause a horn to spring up for the house of Israel, and I will open your lips among them. Then they will know that I am the LORD.”

A Lament for Egypt

EZEKIEL 30 The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: “Wail, ‘Alas for the day!’

<sup>3</sup>†For the day is near, the day of the LORD is near; it will be a day of clouds, a time of doom for [1] the nations.

<sup>4</sup>A sword shall come upon Egypt, and anguish shall be in Cush, when the slain fall in Egypt, and her wealth [2] is carried away, and her foundations are torn down.

<sup>5</sup>†Cush, and Put, and Lud, and all Arabia, and Libya, [3] and the people of the land that is in league, [4] shall fall with them by the sword.

and her proud might shall come down;
from Migdol to Syene they shall fall within her by the sword, declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>7</sup>And they shall be desolated in the midst of desolated countries, and their cities shall be in the midst of cities that are laid waste.

<sup>8</sup>†Then they will know that I am the LORD, when I have set fire to Egypt, and all her helpers are broken.

<sup>9</sup>†“On that day messengers shall go out from me in ships to terrify the unsuspecting people of Cush, and anguish shall come upon them on the day of Egypt's doom; [5] for, behold, it comes!

<sup>11</sup>He and his people with him, the most ruthless of nations, shall be brought in to destroy the land, and they shall draw their swords against Egypt and fill the land with the slain.

<sup>12</sup>†And I will dry up the Nile and will sell the land into the hand of evildoers; I will bring desolation upon the land and everything in it, by the hand of foreigners;
I am the LORD; I have spoken.

<sup>13</sup>“Thus says the Lord GOD: “I will destroy the idols and put an end to the images in Memphis; there shall no longer be a prince from the land of Egypt; so I will put fear in the land of Egypt.

<sup>14</sup>† I will make Pathros a desolation and will set fire to Zoan and will execute judgments on Thebes.

<sup>19</sup> Thus I will execute judgments on Egypt. Then they will know that I am the LORD.”

Egypt Shall Fall to Babylon

<sup>20</sup>† In the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>21</sup>† “Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and behold, it has not been bound up, to heal it by binding it with a bandage, so that it may become strong to wield the sword. <sup>22</sup>† Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am against Pharaoh king of Egypt and will break his arms, both the strong arm and the one that was broken, and I will make the sword fall from his hand. <sup>23</sup> I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them through the countries. <sup>24</sup> And I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon and put my sword in his hand, but I will break the arms of Pharaoh, and he will groan before him like a man mortally wounded. <sup>25</sup> I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, but the arms of Pharaoh shall fall. Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I put my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon and he stretches it out against the land of Egypt. <sup>26</sup>† And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them throughout the countries. Then they will know that I am the LORD.”

Pharaoh to Be Slain

EZEKIEL 31 †In the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>†“Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt and to his multitude: “Whom are you like in your greatness?

<sup>8</sup>†The cedars in the garden of God could not rival it, nor the fir trees equal its boughs; neither were the plane trees like its branches; no tree in the garden of God was its equal in beauty.

<sup>9</sup>I made it beautiful in the mass of its branches, and all the trees of Eden envied it, that were in the garden of God.

<sup>10</sup>†“Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because it [\[2\]](#) towered high and set its top among the clouds, and its heart was proud of its height, <sup>11</sup>I will give it into the hand of a mighty one of the nations. He shall surely deal with it as its wickedness deserves. I have cast it out. <sup>12</sup>Foreigners, the most ruthless of nations, have cut it down and left it. On the mountains and in all the valleys its branches have fallen, and its boughs have been broken in all the ravines of the land, and all the peoples of the earth have gone away from its shadow and left it. <sup>13</sup>On its fallen trunk dwell all the birds of the heavens, and on its branches are all the beasts of the field. <sup>14</sup>†All this is in order that no trees by the waters may grow to towering height or set their tops among the clouds, and that no trees that drink water may reach up to them in height. For they are all given over to death, to the world below, among the children of man, [3] with those who go down to the pit.

<sup>15</sup>“Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day the cedar [4] went down to Sheol I caused mourning; I closed the deep over it, and restrained its rivers, and many waters were stopped. I clothed Lebanon in gloom for it, and all the trees of the field fainted because of it. <sup>16</sup>I made the nations quake at the sound of its fall, when I cast it down to Sheol with those who go down to the pit. And all the trees of Eden, the choice and best of Lebanon, all that drink water, were comforted in the world below. <sup>17</sup>They also went down to Sheol with it, to those who are slain by the sword; yes, those who were its arm, who lived under its shadow among the nations.

<sup>18</sup>†“Whom are you thus like in glory and in greatness among the trees of Eden? You shall be brought down with the trees of Eden to the world below. You shall lie among the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword.

“This is Pharaoh and all his multitude, declares the Lord GOD.”

A Lament over Pharaoh and Egypt

EZEKIEL 32 †In the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>†“Son of man, raise a lamentation over Pharaoh king of Egypt and say to him: “You consider yourself a lion of the nations, but you are like a dragon in the seas;

you burst forth in your rivers, trouble the waters with your feet, and foul their rivers.

<sup>3</sup>†Thus says the Lord GOD: I will throw my net over you with a host of many peoples, and they will haul you up in my dragnet.

<sup>4</sup>And I will cast you on the ground; on the open field I will fling you, and will cause all the birds of the heavens to settle on you, and I will gorge the beasts of the whole earth with you.

<sup>5</sup>I will strew your flesh upon the mountains and fill the valleys with your carcass. [\[1\]](#)

and the ravines will be full of you.

<sup>7</sup>†When I blot you out, I will cover the heavens and make their stars dark;
I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give its light.

<sup>8</sup>All the bright lights of heaven will I make dark over you, and put darkness on your land, declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>9</sup>“I will trouble the hearts of many peoples, when I bring your destruction among the nations, into the countries that you have not known. <sup>10</sup>I will make many peoples appalled at you, and the hair of their kings shall bristle with horror because of you, when I brandish my sword before them. They shall tremble every moment, every one for his own life, on the day of your downfall.

<sup>11</sup>†“For thus says the Lord GOD: The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon you. <sup>12</sup>I will cause your multitude to fall by the swords of mighty ones, all of them most ruthless of nations.

“They shall bring to ruin the pride of Egypt, and all its multitude [\[2\]](#) shall perish.

<sup>14</sup>Then I will make their waters clear, and cause their rivers to run like oil, declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>15</sup>When I make the land of Egypt desolate, and when the land is desolate of all that fills it, when I strike down all who dwell in it, then they will know that I am the LORD.

<sup>17</sup>‡In the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, [3] on the fifteenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>18</sup>‡“Son of man, wail over the multitude of Egypt, and send them down, her and the daughters of majestic nations, to the world below, to those who have gone down to the pit: <sup>19</sup>‡‘Whom do you surpass in beauty?

Go down and be laid to rest with the uncircumcised.’

them uncircumcised, slain by the sword; for they spread their terror in the land of the living. <sup>27</sup>And they do not lie with the mighty, the fallen from among the uncircumcised, who went down to Sheol with their weapons of war, whose swords were laid under their heads, and whose iniquities are upon their bones; for the terror of the mighty men was in the land of the living. <sup>28</sup>But as for you, you shall be broken and lie among the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword.

<sup>30</sup>“The princes of the north are there, all of them, and all the Sidonians, who have gone down in shame with the slain, for all the terror that they caused by their might; they lie uncircumcised with those who are slain by the sword, and bear their shame with those who go down to the pit.

<sup>31</sup>‡“When Pharaoh sees them, he will be comforted for all his multitude, Pharaoh and all his army, slain by the sword, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>32</sup>For I spread terror in the land of the living; and he shall be laid to rest among the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword, Pharaoh and all his multitude, declares the Lord GOD.”

Ezekiel Is Israel's Watchman

EZEKIEL 33 †The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>††“Son of man, speak to your people and say to them, If I bring the sword upon a land, and the people of the land take a man from among them, and make him their watchman, <sup>3</sup>and if he sees the sword coming upon the land and blows the trumpet and warns the people, <sup>4</sup>†then if anyone who hears the sound of the trumpet does not take warning, and the sword comes and takes him away, his blood shall be upon his own head. <sup>5</sup>He heard the sound of the trumpet and did not take warning; his blood shall be upon himself. But if he had taken warning, he would have saved his life. <sup>6</sup>But if the watchman sees the sword coming and does not blow the trumpet, so that the people are not warned, and the sword comes and takes any one of them, that person is taken away in his iniquity, but his blood I will require at the watchman's hand.

<sup>7</sup>“So you, son of man, I have made a watchman for the house of Israel. Whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall give them warning from me. <sup>8</sup>†If I say to the wicked, O wicked one, you shall surely die, and you do not speak to warn the wicked to turn from his way, that wicked person shall die in his iniquity, but his blood I will require at your hand. <sup>9</sup>But if you warn the wicked to turn from his way, and he does not turn from his way, that person shall die in his iniquity, but you will have delivered your soul.

Why Will You Die, Israel?

<sup>10</sup>†“And you, son of man, say to the house of Israel, Thus have you said: ‘Surely our transgressions and our sins are upon us, and we rot away because of them. How then can we live?’ <sup>11</sup>Say to them, As I live, declares the Lord GOD, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way and live; turn back, turn back from your evil ways, for why will you die, O house of Israel?

<sup>12</sup>†“And you, son of man, say to your people, The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him when he transgresses, and as for the wickedness of the wicked, he shall not fall by it when he turns from his wickedness, and the righteous shall not be able to live by his righteousness [1] when he sins.

<sup>13</sup>Though I say to the righteous that he shall surely live, yet if he trusts in his righteousness and does injustice, none of his righteous deeds shall be remembered, but in his injustice that he has done he shall die. <sup>14</sup>Again, though I say to the wicked, ‘You shall surely die,’ yet if he turns from his sin and does what is just and right, <sup>15</sup>if the wicked restores the pledge, gives back what he has taken by robbery, and walks in the statutes of life, not doing injustice, he shall surely live; he shall not die. <sup>16</sup>None of the sins that he has committed shall be remembered against him. He has done what is just and right; he shall surely live.

<sup>17</sup>“Yet your people say, ‘The way of the Lord is not just,’ when it is their own way that is not just. <sup>18</sup>When the righteous turns from his righteousness and does injustice, he shall die for it. <sup>19</sup>And when the wicked turns from his wickedness and does what is just and right, he shall live by this. <sup>20</sup>Yet you say, ‘The way of the Lord is not just.’ O house of Israel, I will judge each of you according to his ways.”

Jerusalem Struck Down

<sup>21</sup>In the twelfth year of our exile, in the tenth month, on the fifth day of the month, a fugitive from Jerusalem came to me and said, “The city has been struck down.” <sup>22</sup>Now the hand of the LORD had been upon me the evening before the fugitive came; and he had opened my mouth by the time the man came to me in the morning, so my mouth was opened, and I was no longer mute.

<sup>23</sup>The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>24</sup>“Son of man, the inhabitants of these waste places in the land of Israel keep saying, ‘Abraham was only one man, yet he got possession of the land; but we are many; the land is surely given us to possess.’ <sup>25</sup>Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: You eat flesh with the blood and lift up your eyes to your idols and shed blood; shall you then possess the land? <sup>26</sup>You rely on the sword, you commit abominations, and each of you defiles his neighbor's wife; shall you then possess the land? <sup>27</sup>Say this to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: As I live, surely those who are in the waste places shall fall by the sword, and whoever is in the open field I will give to the beasts to be devoured, and those who are in strongholds and in caves shall die by pestilence. <sup>28</sup>And I will make the land a desolation and a waste, and her proud might shall come to an end, and the mountains of Israel shall be so desolate that none will pass through. <sup>29</sup>Then they will know that I am the LORD, when I have made the land a desolation and a waste because of all their abominations that they have committed.

walls and at the doors of the houses, say to one another, each to his brother, 'Come, and hear what the word is that comes from the LORD.' <sup>31</sup>And they come to you as people come, and they sit before you as my people, and they hear what you say but they will not do it; for with lustful talk in their mouths they act; their heart is set on their gain. <sup>32</sup>And behold, you are to them like one who sings lustful songs with a beautiful voice and plays [\[2\]](#) well on an instrument, for they hear what you say, but they will not do it. <sup>33</sup>When this comes—and come it will!—then they will know that a prophet has been among them.”

Prophecy Against the Shepherds of Israel

EZEKIEL 34 †The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>†“Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel; prophesy, and say to them, even to the shepherds, Thus says the Lord GOD: Ah, shepherds of Israel who have been feeding yourselves! Should not shepherds feed the sheep? <sup>3</sup>You eat the fat, you clothe yourselves with the wool, you slaughter the fat ones, but you do not feed the sheep. <sup>4</sup>The weak you have not strengthened, the sick you have not healed, the injured you have not bound up, the strayed you have not brought back, the lost you have not sought, and with force and harshness you have ruled them. <sup>5</sup>†So they were scattered, because there was no shepherd, and they became food for all the wild beasts. <sup>6</sup>My sheep were scattered; they wandered over all the mountains and on every high hill. My sheep were scattered over all the face of the earth, with none to search or seek for them.

<sup>7</sup>“Therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: <sup>8</sup>As I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely because my sheep have become a prey, and my sheep have become food for all the wild beasts, since there was no shepherd, and because my shepherds have not searched for my sheep, but the shepherds have fed themselves, and have not fed my sheep, <sup>9</sup>†therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: <sup>10</sup>Thus says the Lord GOD, Behold, I am against the shepherds, and I will require my sheep at their hand and put a stop to their feeding the sheep. No longer shall the shepherds feed themselves. I will rescue my sheep from their mouths, that they may not be food for them.

The Lord God Will Seek Them Out

<sup>11</sup>†“For thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I, I myself will search for my sheep and will seek them out. <sup>12</sup>††As a shepherd seeks out his flock when he is among his sheep that have been scattered, so will I seek out my sheep, and I will rescue them from all places where they have been scattered on a day of clouds and thick darkness. <sup>13</sup>And I will bring them out from the peoples and gather them from the countries, and will bring them into their own land. And I will feed them on the mountains of Israel, by the ravines, and in all the inhabited places of the country. <sup>14</sup>I will feed them with good pasture, and on the mountain heights of Israel shall be their grazing land. There they shall lie down in good grazing land, and on rich pasture they shall feed on the mountains of Israel. <sup>15</sup>†I myself will be the shepherd of my sheep, and I myself will make them lie down, declares the Lord

GOD. <sup>16</sup>I will seek the lost, and I will bring back the strayed, and I will bind up the injured, and I will strengthen the weak, and the fat and the strong I will destroy. [\[1\]](#) I will feed them in justice.

<sup>17</sup>‡“As for you, my flock, thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I judge between sheep and sheep, between rams and male goats. <sup>18</sup>Is it not enough for you to feed on the good pasture, that you must tread down with your feet the rest of your pasture; and to drink of clear water, that you must muddy the rest of the water with your feet? <sup>19</sup>And must my sheep eat what you have trodden with your feet, and drink what you have muddied with your feet?

<sup>20</sup>“Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD to them: Behold, I, I myself will judge between the fat sheep and the lean sheep. <sup>21</sup>Because you push with side and shoulder, and thrust at all the weak with your horns, till you have scattered them abroad, <sup>22</sup>I will rescue [\[2\]](#) my flock; they shall no longer be a prey. And I will judge between sheep and sheep. <sup>23</sup>‡And I will set up over them one shepherd, my servant David, and he shall feed them: he shall feed them and be their shepherd. <sup>24</sup>‡And I, the LORD, will be their God, and my servant David shall be prince among them. I am the LORD; I have spoken.

The LORD's Covenant of Peace

<sup>25</sup>‡“I will make with them a covenant of peace and banish wild beasts from the land, so that they may dwell securely in the wilderness and sleep in the woods. <sup>26</sup>‡And I will make them and the places all around my hill a blessing, and I will send down the showers in their season; they shall be showers of blessing. <sup>27</sup>‡And the trees of the field shall yield their fruit, and the earth shall yield its increase, and they shall be secure in their land. And they shall know that I am the LORD, when I break the bars of their yoke, and deliver them from the hand of those who enslaved them. <sup>28</sup>‡They shall no more be a prey to the nations, nor shall the beasts of the land devour them. They shall dwell securely, and none shall make them afraid. <sup>29</sup>And I will provide for them renowned plantations so that they shall no more be consumed with hunger in the land, and no longer suffer the reproach of the nations. <sup>30</sup>‡And they shall know that I am the LORD their God with them, and that they, the house of Israel, are my people, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>31</sup>And you are my sheep, human sheep of my pasture, and I am your God, declares the Lord GOD.”

Prophecy Against Mount Seir

EZEKIEL 35 The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>†“Son of man, set your face against Mount Seir, and prophesy against it, <sup>3</sup>†and say to it, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am against you, Mount Seir, and I will stretch out my hand against you, and I will make you a desolation and a waste. <sup>4</sup>I will lay your cities waste, and you shall become a desolation, and you shall know that I am the LORD. <sup>5</sup>†Because you cherished perpetual enmity and gave over the people of Israel to the power of the sword at the time of their calamity, at the time of their final punishment, <sup>6</sup>therefore, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will prepare you for blood, and blood shall pursue you; because you did not hate bloodshed, therefore blood shall pursue you. <sup>7</sup>I will make Mount Seir a waste and a desolation, and I will cut off from it all who come and go. <sup>8</sup>And I will fill its mountains with the slain. On your hills and in your valleys and in all your ravines those slain with the sword shall fall. <sup>9</sup>I will make you a perpetual desolation, and your cities shall not be inhabited. Then you will know that I am the LORD.

<sup>10</sup>†“Because you said, ‘These two nations and these two countries shall be mine, and we will take possession of them’—although the LORD was there—<sup>11</sup>†therefore, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will deal with you according to the anger and envy that you showed because of your hatred against them. And I will make myself known among them, when I judge you. <sup>12</sup>And you shall know that I am the LORD.

“I have heard all the revilings that you uttered against the mountains of Israel, saying, ‘They are laid desolate; they are given us to devour.’ <sup>13</sup>†And you magnified yourselves against me with your mouth, and multiplied your words against me; I heard it. <sup>14</sup>Thus says the Lord GOD: While the whole earth rejoices, I will make you desolate. <sup>15</sup>†As you rejoiced over the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so I will deal with you; you shall be desolate, Mount Seir, and all Edom, all of it. Then they will know that I am the LORD.

Prophecy to the Mountains of Israel

EZEKIEL 36 †“And you, son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel, and say, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD. <sup>2</sup>‡Thus says the Lord GOD: Because the enemy said of you, ‘Aha!’ and, ‘The ancient heights have become our possession,’ <sup>3</sup>therefore prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Precisely because they made you desolate and crushed you from all sides, so that you became the possession of the rest of the nations, and you became the talk and evil gossip of the people, <sup>4</sup>therefore, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD: Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and the hills, the ravines and the valleys, the desolate wastes and the deserted cities, which have become a prey and derision to the rest of the nations all around, <sup>5</sup>therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Surely I have spoken in my hot jealousy against the rest of the nations and against all Edom, who gave my land to themselves as a possession with wholehearted joy and utter contempt, that they might make its pasturelands a prey. <sup>6</sup>Therefore prophesy concerning the land of Israel, and say to the mountains and hills, to the ravines and valleys, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I have spoken in my jealous wrath, because you have suffered the reproach of the nations. <sup>7</sup>‡Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I swear that the nations that are all around you shall themselves suffer reproach.

<sup>8</sup>‡“But you, O mountains of Israel, shall shoot forth your branches and yield your fruit to my people Israel, for they will soon come home. <sup>9</sup>For behold, I am for you, and I will turn to you, and you shall be tilled and sown. <sup>10</sup>And I will multiply people on you, the whole house of Israel, all of it. The cities shall be inhabited and the waste places rebuilt. <sup>11</sup>And I will multiply on you man and beast, and they shall multiply and be fruitful. And I will cause you to be inhabited as in your former times, and will do more good to you than ever before. Then you will know that I am the LORD. <sup>12</sup>I will let people walk on you, even my people Israel. And they shall possess you, and you shall be their inheritance, and you shall no longer bereave them of children. <sup>13</sup>Thus says the Lord GOD: Because they say to you, ‘You devour people, and you bereave your nation of children,’ <sup>14</sup>therefore you shall no longer devour people and no longer bereave your nation of children, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>15</sup>And I will not let you hear anymore the reproach of the nations, and you shall no longer bear the disgrace of the peoples and no longer cause your nation to stumble, declares the Lord GOD.”

The LORD's Concern for His Holy Name

<sup>16</sup>‡The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>17</sup>“Son of man, when the house of Israel lived in their own land, they defiled it by their ways and their deeds. Their ways before me were like the uncleanness of a woman in her menstrual impurity. <sup>18</sup>So I poured out my wrath upon them for the blood that they had shed in the land, for the idols with which they had defiled it. <sup>19</sup>I scattered them among the nations, and they were dispersed through the countries. In accordance with their ways and their deeds I judged them. <sup>20</sup>‡But when they came to the nations, wherever they came, they profaned my holy name, in that people said of them, ‘These are the people of the LORD, and yet they had to go out of his land.’ <sup>21</sup>‡But I had concern for my holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the nations to which they came.

I Will Put My Spirit Within You

<sup>22</sup>“Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: It is not for your sake, O house of Israel, that I am about to act, but for the sake of my holy name, which you have profaned among the nations to which you came. <sup>23</sup>And I will vindicate the holiness of my great name, which has been profaned among the nations, and which you have profaned among them. And the nations will know that I am the LORD, declares the Lord GOD, when through you I vindicate my holiness before their eyes. <sup>24</sup>‡I will take you from the nations and gather you from all the countries and bring you into your own land. <sup>25</sup>‡‡I will sprinkle clean water on you, and you shall be clean from all your uncleannesses, and from all your idols I will cleanse you. <sup>26</sup>And I will give you a new heart, and a new spirit I will put within you. And I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh. <sup>27</sup>And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes and be careful to obey my rules. [1] <sup>28</sup>You shall dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers, and you shall be my people, and I will be your God. <sup>29</sup>And I will deliver you from all your uncleannesses. And I will summon the grain and make it abundant and lay no famine upon you. <sup>30</sup>I will make the fruit of the tree and the increase of the field abundant, that you may never again suffer the disgrace of famine among the nations. <sup>31</sup>Then you will remember your evil ways, and your deeds that were not good, and you will loathe yourselves for your iniquities and your abominations. <sup>32</sup>‡It is not for your sake that I will act, declares the Lord GOD; let that be known to you. Be ashamed and confounded for your ways, O house of Israel.

<sup>33</sup>“Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day that I cleanse you from all your iniquities, I will cause the cities to be inhabited, and the waste places shall be rebuilt. <sup>34</sup>And the land that was desolate shall be tilled, instead of being the desolation that it was in the sight of all who passed by. <sup>35</sup>†And they will say, ‘This land that was desolate has become like the garden of Eden, and the waste and desolate and ruined cities are now fortified and inhabited.’ <sup>36</sup>Then the nations that are left all around you shall know that I am the LORD; I have rebuilt the ruined places and replanted that which was desolate. I am the LORD; I have spoken, and I will do it.

<sup>37</sup>††“Thus says the Lord GOD: This also I will let the house of Israel ask me to do for them: to increase their people like a flock. <sup>38</sup>Like the flock for sacrifices, [2] like the flock at Jerusalem during her appointed feasts, so shall the waste cities be filled with flocks of people. Then they will know that I am the LORD.”

The Valley of Dry Bones

EZEKIEL 37 †The hand of the LORD was upon me, and he brought me out in the Spirit of the LORD and set me down in the middle of the valley; [1] it was full of bones. †And he led me around among them, and behold, there were very many on the surface of the valley, and behold, they were very dry. †And he said to me, “Son of man, can these bones live?” And I answered, “O Lord GOD, you know.” †Then he said to me, “Prophecy over these bones, and say to them, O dry bones, hear the word of the LORD. †Thus says the Lord GOD to these bones: Behold, I will cause breath [2] to enter you, and you shall live. †And I will lay sinews upon you, and will cause flesh to come upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and you shall live, and you shall know that I am the LORD.”

†So I prophesied as I was commanded. And as I prophesied, there was a sound, and behold, a rattling, [3] and the bones came together, bone to its bone. †And I looked, and behold, there were sinews on them, and flesh had come upon them, and skin had covered them. But there was no breath in them. †Then he said to me, “Prophecy to the breath; prophecy, son of man, and say to the breath, Thus says the Lord GOD: Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe on these slain, that they may live.” †So I prophesied as he commanded me, and the breath came into them, and they lived and stood on their feet, an exceedingly great army.

†Then he said to me, “Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold, they say, ‘Our bones are dried up, and our hope is lost; we are indeed cut off.’ †Therefore prophecy, and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I will open your graves and raise you from your graves, O my people. And I will bring you into the land of Israel. †And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I open your graves, and raise you from your graves, O my people. †And I will put my Spirit within you, and you shall live, and I will place you in your own land. Then you shall know that I am the LORD; I have spoken, and I will do it, declares the LORD.”

I Will Be Their God, They Shall Be My People

†The word of the LORD came to me: †“Son of man, take a stick [4] and write on it, ‘For Judah, and the people of Israel associated with him’; then take another stick and write on it, ‘For Joseph (the stick of Ephraim) and all the house of Israel associated with him.’ <sup>17</sup>And join them one to another into one stick, that they may become one in your hand. <sup>18</sup>And when your people say to you, ‘Will you not tell us what you mean by these?’ <sup>19</sup>say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am about to take the stick of Joseph (that is in the hand of Ephraim) and the tribes of Israel associated with him. And I will join with it the stick of Judah, [5] and make them one stick, that they may be one in my hand. <sup>20</sup>When the sticks on which you write are in your hand before their eyes, <sup>21</sup>†then say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I will take the people of Israel from the nations among which they have gone, and will gather them from all around, and bring them to their own land. <sup>22</sup>†And I will make them one nation in the land, on the mountains of Israel. And one king shall be king over them all, and they shall be no longer two nations, and no longer divided into two kingdoms. <sup>23</sup>†They shall not defile themselves anymore with their idols and their detestable things, or with any of their transgressions. But I will save them from all the backslidings [6] in which they have sinned, and will cleanse them; and they shall be my people, and I will be their God.

<sup>24</sup>†“My servant David shall be king over them, and they shall all have one shepherd. They shall walk in my rules and be careful to obey my statutes. <sup>25</sup>†They shall dwell in the land that I gave to my servant Jacob, where your fathers lived. They and their children and their children's children shall dwell there forever, and David my servant shall be their prince forever. <sup>26</sup>†I will make a covenant of peace with them. It shall be an everlasting covenant with them. And I will set them in their land [7] and multiply them, and will set my sanctuary in their midst forevermore. <sup>27</sup>†My dwelling place shall be with them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. <sup>28</sup>Then the nations will know that I am the LORD who sanctifies Israel, when my sanctuary is in their midst forevermore.”

Prophecy Against Gog

EZEKIEL 38 †The word of the LORD came to me: <sup>2</sup>†“Son of man, set your face toward Gog, of the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meshech [1] and Tubal, and prophesy against him <sup>3</sup>and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am against you, O Gog, chief prince of Meshech [2] and Tubal. <sup>4</sup>†And I will turn you about and put hooks into your jaws, and I will bring you out, and all your army, horses and horsemen, all of them clothed in full armor, a great host, all of them with buckler and shield, wielding swords. <sup>5</sup>†Persia, Cush, and Put are with them, all of them with shield and helmet; <sup>6</sup>†Gomer and all his hordes; Beth-togarmah from the uttermost parts of the north with all his hordes—many peoples are with you.

<sup>7</sup>†“Be ready and keep ready, you and all your hosts that are assembled about you, and be a guard for them. <sup>8</sup>†After many days you will be mustered. In the latter years you will go against the land that is restored from war, the land whose people were gathered from many peoples upon the mountains of Israel, which had been a continual waste. Its people were brought out from the peoples and now dwell securely, all of them. <sup>9</sup>†You will advance, coming on like a storm. You will be like a cloud covering the land, you and all your hordes, and many peoples with you.

<sup>10</sup>†“Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day, thoughts will come into your mind, and you will devise an evil scheme <sup>11</sup>and say, ‘I will go up against the land of unwalled villages. I will fall upon the quiet people who dwell securely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having no bars or gates,’ <sup>12</sup>†to seize spoil and carry off plunder, to turn your hand against the waste places that are now inhabited, and the people who were gathered from the nations, who have acquired livestock and goods, who dwell at the center of the earth. <sup>13</sup>†Sheba and Dedan and the merchants of Tarshish and all its leaders [3] will say to you, ‘Have you come to seize spoil? Have you assembled your hosts to carry off plunder, to carry away silver and gold, to take away livestock and goods, to seize great spoil?’

<sup>14</sup>“Therefore, son of man, prophesy, and say to Gog, Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day when my people Israel are dwelling securely, will you not know it? <sup>15</sup>†You will come from your place out of the uttermost parts of the north, you and many peoples with you, all of them riding on horses, a great host, a mighty army.

<sup>16</sup>† You will come up against my people Israel, like a cloud covering the land. In the latter days I will bring you against my land, that the nations may know me, when through you, O Gog, I vindicate my holiness before their eyes.

<sup>17</sup>† “Thus says the Lord GOD: Are you he of whom I spoke in former days by my servants the prophets of Israel, who in those days prophesied for years that I would bring you against them? <sup>18</sup>† But on that day, the day that Gog shall come against the land of Israel, declares the Lord GOD, my wrath will be roused in my anger. <sup>19</sup>For in my jealousy and in my blazing wrath I declare, On that day there shall be a great earthquake in the land of Israel. <sup>20</sup>The fish of the sea and the birds of the heavens and the beasts of the field and all creeping things that creep on the ground, and all the people who are on the face of the earth, shall quake at my presence. And the mountains shall be thrown down, and the cliffs shall fall, and every wall shall tumble to the ground. <sup>21</sup>I will summon a sword against Gog [4] on all my mountains, declares the Lord GOD. Every man's sword will be against his brother. <sup>22</sup>With pestilence and bloodshed I will enter into judgment with him, and I will rain upon him and his hordes and the many peoples who are with him torrential rains and hailstones, fire and sulfur. <sup>23</sup>So I will show my greatness and my holiness and make myself known in the eyes of many nations. Then they will know that I am the LORD.

EZEKIEL 39 †“And you, son of man, prophesy against Gog and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am against you, O Gog, chief prince of Meshech [1] and Tubal. <sup>2</sup>And I will turn you about and drive you forward, and bring you up from the uttermost parts of the north, and lead you against the mountains of Israel. <sup>3</sup>Then I will strike your bow from your left hand, and will make your arrows drop out of your right hand. <sup>4</sup>You shall fall on the mountains of Israel, you and all your hordes and the peoples who are with you. I will give you to birds of prey of every sort and to the beasts of the field to be devoured. <sup>5</sup>You shall fall in the open field, for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>6</sup>I will send fire on Magog and on those who dwell securely in the coastlands, and they shall know that I am the LORD.

<sup>7</sup>“And my holy name I will make known in the midst of my people Israel, and I will not let my holy name be profaned anymore. And the nations shall know that I am the LORD, the Holy One in Israel. <sup>8</sup>Behold, it is coming and it will be brought about, declares the Lord GOD. That is the day of which I have spoken.

<sup>9</sup>†“Then those who dwell in the cities of Israel will go out and make fires of the weapons and burn them, shields and bucklers, bow and arrows, clubs [2] and spears; and they will make fires of them for seven years, <sup>10</sup>so that they will not need to take wood out of the field or cut down any out of the forests, for they will make their fires of the weapons. They will seize the spoil of those who despoiled them, and plunder those who plundered them, declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>11</sup>†“On that day I will give to Gog a place for burial in Israel, the Valley of the Travelers, east of the sea. It will block the travelers, for there Gog and all his multitude will be buried. It will be called the Valley of Hamon-gog. [3] <sup>12</sup>For seven months the house of Israel will be burying them, in order to cleanse the land. <sup>13</sup>All the people of the land will bury them, and it will bring them renown on the day that I show my glory, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>14</sup>They will set apart men to travel through the land regularly and bury those travelers remaining on the face of the land, so as to cleanse it. At [4] the end of seven months they will make their search. <sup>15</sup>And when these travel through the land and anyone sees a human bone, then he shall set up a sign by it, till the buriers have buried it in the Valley of Hamon-gog. <sup>16</sup>(Hamonah [5] is also the name of the city.) Thus shall they cleanse the land.

sort and to all beasts of the field, ‘Assemble and come, gather from all around to the sacrificial feast that I am preparing for you, a great sacrificial feast on the mountains of Israel, and you shall eat flesh and drink blood. <sup>18</sup>You shall eat the flesh of the mighty, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth—of rams, of lambs, and of he-goats, of bulls, all of them fat beasts of Bashan. <sup>19</sup>And you shall eat fat till you are filled, and drink blood till you are drunk, at the sacrificial feast that I am preparing for you. <sup>20</sup>And you shall be filled at my table with horses and charioteers, with mighty men and all kinds of warriors,’ declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>21</sup>‡“And I will set my glory among the nations, and all the nations shall see my judgment that I have executed, and my hand that I have laid on them. <sup>22</sup>The house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD their God, from that day forward. <sup>23</sup>And the nations shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity, because they dealt so treacherously with me that I hid my face from them and gave them into the hand of their adversaries, and they all fell by the sword. <sup>24</sup>I dealt with them according to their uncleanness and their transgressions, and hid my face from them.

The LORD Will Restore Israel

<sup>25</sup>“Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Now I will restore the fortunes of Jacob and have mercy on the whole house of Israel, and I will be jealous for my holy name. <sup>26</sup>They shall forget their shame and all the treachery they have practiced against me, when they dwell securely in their land with none to make them afraid, <sup>27</sup>when I have brought them back from the peoples and gathered them from their enemies' lands, and through them have vindicated my holiness in the sight of many nations. <sup>28</sup>Then they shall know that I am the LORD their God, because I sent them into exile among the nations and then assembled them into their own land. I will leave none of them remaining among the nations anymore. <sup>29</sup>‡And I will not hide my face anymore from them, when I pour out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD.”

Vision of the New Temple

EZEKIEL 40 †In the twenty-fifth year of our exile, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after the city was struck down, on that very day, the hand of the LORD was upon me, and he brought me to the city. [1] †In visions of God he brought me to the land of Israel, and set me down on a very high mountain, on which was a structure like a city to the south. †When he brought me there, behold, there was a man whose appearance was like bronze, with a linen cord and a measuring reed in his hand. And he was standing in the gateway. †And the man said to me, “Son of man, look with your eyes, and hear with your ears, and set your heart upon all that I shall show you, for you were brought here in order that I might show it to you. Declare all that you see to the house of Israel.”

The East Gate to the Outer Court

†And behold, there was a wall all around the outside of the temple area, and the length of the measuring reed in the man's hand was six long cubits, each being a cubit and a handbreadth [2] in length. So he measured the thickness of the wall, one reed; and the height, one reed. †Then he went into the gateway facing east, going up its steps, and measured the threshold of the gate, one reed deep. [3] †And the side rooms, one reed long and one reed broad; and the space between the side rooms, five cubits; and the threshold of the gate by the vestibule of the gate at the inner end, one reed. †Then he measured the vestibule of the gateway, on the inside, one reed. †Then he measured the vestibule of the gateway, eight cubits; and its jambs, two cubits; and the vestibule of the gate was at the inner end. †And there were three side rooms on either side of the east gate. The three were of the same size, and the jambs on either side were of the same size. †Then he measured the width of the opening of the gateway, ten cubits; and the length of the gateway, thirteen cubits. †There was a barrier before the side rooms, one cubit on either side. And the side rooms were six cubits on either side. †Then he measured the gate from the ceiling of the one side room to the ceiling of the other, a breadth of twenty-five cubits; the openings faced each other. †He measured also the vestibule, twenty cubits. And around the vestibule of the gateway was the court. [4] †From the front of the gate at the entrance to the front of the inner vestibule of the gate was fifty cubits. †And the gateway had windows all around, narrowing inwards toward the side rooms and toward their jambs, and likewise the vestibule had windows all around inside, and on the jambes were palm trees.

The Outer Court

<sup>17</sup>‡‡ Then he brought me into the outer court. And behold, there were chambers and a pavement, all around the court. Thirty chambers faced the pavement. <sup>18</sup>And the pavement ran along the side of the gates, corresponding to the length of the gates. This was the lower pavement. <sup>19</sup>Then he measured the distance from the inner front of the lower gate to the outer front of the inner court, [5] a hundred cubits on the east side and on the north side. [6]

The North Gate

<sup>20</sup>As for the gate that faced toward the north, belonging to the outer court, he measured its length and its breadth. <sup>21</sup>Its side rooms, three on either side, and its jambes and its vestibule were of the same size as those of the first gate. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. <sup>22</sup>And its windows, its vestibule, and its palm trees were of the same size as those of the gate that faced toward the east. And by seven steps people would go up to it, and find its vestibule before them. <sup>23</sup>And opposite the gate on the north, as on the east, was a gate to the inner court. And he measured from gate to gate, a hundred cubits.

The South Gate

<sup>24</sup>And he led me toward the south, and behold, there was a gate on the south. And he measured its jambes and its vestibule; they had the same size as the others. <sup>25</sup>Both it and its vestibule had windows all around, like the windows of the others. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. <sup>26</sup>And there were seven steps leading up to it, and its vestibule was before them, and it had palm trees on its jambes, one on either side. <sup>27</sup>And there was a gate on the south of the inner court. And he measured from gate to gate toward the south, a hundred cubits.

The Inner Court

<sup>28</sup>Then he brought me to the inner court through the south gate, and he measured the south gate. It was of the same size as the others. <sup>29</sup>Its side rooms, its jambes, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others, and both it and its vestibule had windows all around. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. <sup>30</sup>And there were vestibules all around, twenty-five cubits long and five cubits broad. <sup>31</sup>Its vestibule faced the outer court, and palm trees were on its jambs, and its stairway had eight steps.

<sup>32</sup>Then he brought me to the inner court on the east side, and he measured the gate. It was of the same size as the others. <sup>33</sup>Its side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others, and both it and its vestibule had windows all around. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. <sup>34</sup>Its vestibule faced the outer court, and it had palm trees on its jambs, on either side, and its stairway had eight steps.

<sup>35</sup>Then he brought me to the north gate, and he measured it. It had the same size as the others. <sup>36</sup>Its side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others, [7] and it had windows all around. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. <sup>37</sup>Its vestibule [8] faced the outer court, and it had palm trees on its jambs, on either side, and its stairway had eight steps.

<sup>38</sup>‡There was a chamber with its door in the vestibule of the gate, [9] where the burnt offering was to be washed. <sup>39</sup>‡And in the vestibule of the gate were two tables on either side, on which the burnt offering and the sin offering and the guilt offering were to be slaughtered. <sup>40</sup>And off to the side, on the outside as one goes up to the entrance of the north gate, were two tables; and off to the other side of the vestibule of the gate were two tables. <sup>41</sup>‡Four tables were on either side of the gate, eight tables, on which to slaughter. <sup>42</sup>And there were four tables of hewn stone for the burnt offering, a cubit and a half long, and a cubit and a half broad, and one cubit high, on which the instruments were to be laid with which the burnt offerings and the sacrifices were slaughtered. <sup>43</sup>And hooks, [10] a handbreadth long, were fastened all around within. And on the tables the flesh of the offering was to be laid.

Chambers for the Priests

<sup>44</sup>‡On the outside of the inner gateway there were two chambers [11] in the inner court, one [12] at the side of the north gate facing south, the other at the side of the south [13] gate facing north. <sup>45</sup>And he said to me, This chamber that faces south is for the priests who have charge of the temple, <sup>46</sup>‡and the chamber that faces north is for the priests who have charge of the altar. These are the sons of Zadok, who alone [14] among the sons of Levi may come near to the LORD to minister to him. <sup>47</sup>‡And he measured the court, a hundred cubits long and a hundred cubits broad, a square. And the altar was in front of the temple.

The Vestibule of the Temple

<sup>48</sup>Then he brought me to the vestibule of the temple and measured the jambs of the vestibule, five cubits on either side. And the breadth of the gate was fourteen cubits, and the sidewalls of the gate [15] were three cubits on either side. <sup>49</sup>The length of the vestibule was twenty cubits, and the breadth twelve [16] cubits, and people would go up to it by ten steps. [17] And there were pillars beside the jambs, one on either side.

The Inner Temple

EZEKIEL 41 †Then he brought me to the nave and measured the jambs. On each side six cubits [1] was the breadth of the jambs. [2] <sup>2</sup>And the breadth of the entrance was ten cubits, and the sidewalls of the entrance were five cubits on either side. And he measured the length of the nave, [3] forty cubits, and its breadth, twenty cubits. <sup>3</sup>Then he went into the inner room and measured the jambs of the entrance, two cubits; and the entrance, six cubits; and the sidewalls on either side [4] of the entrance, seven cubits. <sup>4</sup>†And he measured the length of the room, twenty cubits, and its breadth, twenty cubits, across the nave. And he said to me, “This is the Most Holy Place.”

<sup>5</sup>†Then he measured the wall of the temple, six cubits thick, and the breadth of the side chambers, four cubits, all around the temple. <sup>6</sup>And the side chambers were in three stories, one over another, thirty in each story. There were offsets [5] all around the wall of the temple to serve as supports for the side chambers, so that they should not be supported by the wall of the temple. <sup>7</sup>And it became broader as it wound upward to the side chambers, because the temple was enclosed upward all around the temple. Thus the temple had a broad area upward, and so one went up from the lowest story to the top story through the middle story. <sup>8</sup>I saw also that the temple had a raised platform all around; the foundations of the side chambers measured a full reed of six long cubits. <sup>9</sup>The thickness of the outer wall of the side chambers was five cubits. The free space between the side chambers of the temple and the <sup>10</sup>other chambers was a breadth of twenty cubits all around the temple on every side. <sup>11</sup>And the doors of the side chambers opened on the free space, one door toward the north, and another door toward the south. And the breadth of the free space was five cubits all around.

<sup>15</sup>†Then he measured the length of the building facing the yard that was at the back and its galleries [6] on either side, a hundred cubits.

The inside of the nave and the vestibules of the court, <sup>16</sup>the thresholds and the narrow windows and the galleries all around the three of them, opposite the threshold, were paneled with wood all around, from the floor up to the windows (now the windows were covered), <sup>17</sup>to the space above the door, even to the inner room, and on the outside. And on all the walls all around, inside and outside, was a measured pattern. [7] <sup>18</sup>It was carved of cherubim and palm trees, a palm tree between cherub and cherub. Every cherub had two faces: <sup>19</sup>a human face toward the palm tree on the one side, and the face of a young lion toward the palm tree on the other side. They were carved on the whole temple all around. <sup>20</sup>From the floor to above the door, cherubim and palm trees were carved; similarly the wall of the nave.

<sup>21</sup>The doorposts of the nave were squared, and in front of the Holy Place was something resembling <sup>22</sup>an altar of wood, three cubits high, two cubits long, and two cubits broad. [8] Its corners, its base, [9] and its walls were of wood. He said to me, "This is the table that is before the LORD." <sup>23</sup>The nave and the Holy Place had each a double door. <sup>24</sup>The double doors had two leaves apiece, two swinging leaves for each door. <sup>25</sup>And on the doors of the nave were carved cherubim and palm trees, such as were carved on the walls. And there was a canopy [10] of wood in front of the vestibule outside. <sup>26</sup>And there were narrow windows and palm trees on either side, on the sidewalls of the vestibule, the side chambers of the temple, and the canopies.

The Temple's Chambers

EZEKIEL 42 Then he led me out into the outer court, toward the north, and he brought me to the chambers that were opposite the separate yard and opposite the building on the north. <sup>2</sup>The length of the building whose door faced north was a hundred cubits, [1] and the breadth fifty cubits. <sup>3</sup>Facing the twenty cubits that belonged to the inner court, and facing the pavement that belonged to the outer court, was gallery [2] against gallery in three stories. <sup>4</sup>And before the chambers was a passage inward, ten cubits wide and a hundred cubits long, [3] and their doors were on the north. <sup>5</sup>Now the upper chambers were narrower, for the galleries took more away from them than from the lower and middle chambers of the building. <sup>6</sup>For they were in three stories, and they had no pillars like the pillars of the courts. Thus the upper chambers were set back from the ground more than the lower and the middle ones. <sup>7</sup>And there was a wall outside parallel to the chambers, toward the outer court, opposite the chambers, fifty cubits long. <sup>8</sup>For the chambers on the outer court were fifty cubits long, while those opposite the nave [4] were a hundred cubits long. <sup>9</sup>Below these chambers was an entrance on the east side, as one enters them from the outer court.

<sup>10</sup>In the thickness of the wall of the court, on the south [5] also, opposite the yard and opposite the building, there were chambers <sup>11</sup>with a passage in front of them. They were similar to the chambers on the north, of the same length and breadth, with the same exits [6] and arrangements and doors, <sup>12</sup>as were the entrances of the chambers on the south. There was an entrance at the beginning of the passage, the passage before the corresponding wall on the east as one enters them. [7]

<sup>13</sup>Then he said to me, “The north chambers and the south chambers opposite the yard are the holy chambers, where the priests who approach the LORD shall eat the most holy offerings. There they shall put the most holy offerings—the grain offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering—for the place is holy. <sup>14</sup>When the priests enter the Holy Place, they shall not go out of it into the outer court without laying there the garments in which they minister, for these are holy. They shall put on other garments before they go near to that which is for the people.”

measured the east side with the measuring reed, 500 cubits by the measuring reed all around. <sup>17</sup>He measured the north side, 500 cubits by the measuring reed all around. <sup>18</sup>He measured the south side, 500 cubits by the measuring reed. <sup>19</sup>Then he turned to the west side and measured, 500 cubits by the measuring reed. <sup>20</sup>He measured it on the four sides. It had a wall around it, 500 cubits long and 500 cubits broad, to make a separation between the holy and the common.

The Glory of the LORD Fills the Temple

EZEKIEL 43 Then he led me to the gate, the gate facing east. <sup>2</sup>†And behold, the glory of the God of Israel was coming from the east. And the sound of his coming was like the sound of many waters, and the earth shone with his glory. <sup>3</sup>†And the vision I saw was just like the vision that I had seen when he [1] came to destroy the city, and just like the vision that I had seen by the Chebar canal. And I fell on my face. <sup>4</sup>As the glory of the LORD entered the temple by the gate facing east, <sup>5</sup>†the Spirit lifted me up and brought me into the inner court; and behold, the glory of the LORD filled the temple.

<sup>6</sup>While the man was standing beside me, I heard one speaking to me out of the temple, <sup>7</sup>†and he said to me, “Son of man, this is the place of my throne and the place of the soles of my feet, where I will dwell in the midst of the people of Israel forever. And the house of Israel shall no more defile my holy name, neither they, nor their kings, by their whoring and by the dead bodies [2] of their kings at their high places, [3] <sup>8</sup>†by setting their threshold by my threshold and their doorposts beside my doorposts, with only a wall between me and them. They have defiled my holy name by their abominations that they have committed, so I have consumed them in my anger. <sup>9</sup>Now let them put away their whoring and the dead bodies of their kings far from me, and I will dwell in their midst forever.

<sup>10</sup>†“As for you, son of man, describe to the house of Israel the temple, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities; and they shall measure the plan. <sup>11</sup>And if they are ashamed of all that they have done, make known to them the design of the temple, its arrangement, its exits and its entrances, that is, its whole design; and make known to them as well all its statutes and its whole design and all its laws, and write it down in their sight, so that they may observe all its laws and all its statutes and carry them out. <sup>12</sup>This is the law of the temple: the whole territory on the top of the mountain all around shall be most holy. Behold, this is the law of the temple.

The Altar

<sup>13</sup>†“These are the measurements of the altar by cubits (the cubit being a cubit and a handbreadth): [4] its base shall be one cubit high [5] and one cubit broad, with a rim of one span [6] around its edge. And this shall be the height of the altar:

<sup>18</sup>And he said to me, “Son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: These are the ordinances for the altar: On the day when it is erected for offering burnt offerings upon it and for throwing blood against it, <sup>19</sup>†you shall give to the Levitical priests of the family of Zadok, who draw near to me to minister to me, declares the Lord GOD, a bull from the herd for a sin offering. <sup>20</sup>And you shall take some of its blood and put it on the four horns of the altar and on the four corners of the ledge and upon the rim all around. Thus you shall purify the altar and make atonement for it. <sup>21</sup>You shall also take the bull of the sin offering, and it shall be burned in the appointed place belonging to the temple, outside the sacred area. <sup>22</sup>And on the second day you shall offer a male goat without blemish for a sin offering; and the altar shall be purified, as it was purified with the bull. <sup>23</sup>When you have finished purifying it, you shall offer a bull from the herd without blemish and a ram from the flock without blemish. <sup>24</sup>†You shall present them before the LORD, and the priests shall sprinkle salt on them and offer them up as a burnt offering to the LORD. <sup>25</sup>†For seven days you shall provide daily a male goat for a sin offering; also, a bull from the herd and a ram from the flock, without blemish, shall be provided. <sup>26</sup>Seven days shall they make atonement for the altar and cleanse it, and so consecrate it. [Z] <sup>27</sup>And when they have completed these days, then from the eighth day onward the priests shall offer on the altar your burnt offerings and your peace offerings, and I will accept you, declares the Lord GOD.”

The Gate for the Prince

EZEKIEL 44 †Then he brought me back to the outer gate of the sanctuary, which faces east. And it was shut. <sup>2</sup>And the LORD said to me, “This gate shall remain shut; it shall not be opened, and no one shall enter by it, for the LORD, the God of Israel, has entered by it. Therefore it shall remain shut. <sup>3</sup>†Only the prince may sit in it to eat bread before the LORD. He shall enter by way of the vestibule of the gate, and shall go out by the same way.”

<sup>4</sup>Then he brought me by way of the north gate to the front of the temple, and I looked, and behold, the glory of the LORD filled the temple of the LORD. And I fell on my face. <sup>5</sup>†And the LORD said to me, “Son of man, mark well, see with your eyes, and hear with your ears all that I shall tell you concerning all the statutes of the temple of the LORD and all its laws. And mark well the entrance to the temple and all the exits from the sanctuary. <sup>6</sup>And say to the rebellious house, [\[1\]](#) to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: O house of Israel, enough of all your abominations, <sup>7</sup>in admitting foreigners, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, to be in my sanctuary, profaning my temple, when you offer to me my food, the fat and the blood. You [\[2\]](#) have broken my covenant, in addition to all your abominations. <sup>8</sup>And you have not kept charge of my holy things, but you have set others to keep my charge for you in my sanctuary.

<sup>9</sup>“Thus says the Lord GOD: No foreigner, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, of all the foreigners who are among the people of Israel, shall enter my sanctuary. <sup>10</sup>†But the Levites who went far from me, going astray from me after their idols when Israel went astray, shall bear their punishment. [\[3\]](#) <sup>11</sup>They shall be ministers in my sanctuary, having oversight at the gates of the temple and ministering in the temple. They shall slaughter the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and they shall stand before the people, to minister to them. <sup>12</sup>Because they ministered to them before their idols and became a stumbling block of iniquity to the house of Israel, therefore I have sworn concerning them, declares the Lord GOD, and they shall bear their punishment. <sup>13</sup>They shall not come near to me, to serve me as priest, nor come near any of my holy things and the things that are most holy, but they shall bear their shame and the abominations that they have committed. <sup>14</sup>Yet I will appoint them to keep charge of the temple, to do all its service and all that is to be done in it.

Rules for Levitical Priests

<sup>15</sup>“But the Levitical priests, the sons of Zadok, who kept the charge of my sanctuary when the people of Israel went astray from me, shall come near to me to minister to me. And they shall stand before me to offer me the fat and the blood, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>16</sup>‡They shall enter my sanctuary, and they shall approach my table, to minister to me, and they shall keep my charge. <sup>17</sup>‡When they enter the gates of the inner court, they shall wear linen garments. They shall have nothing of wool on them, while they minister at the gates of the inner court, and within. <sup>18</sup>They shall have linen turbans on their heads, and linen undergarments around their waists. They shall not bind themselves with anything that causes sweat. <sup>19</sup>And when they go out into the outer court to the people, they shall put off the garments in which they have been ministering and lay them in the holy chambers. And they shall put on other garments, lest they transmit holiness to the people with their garments. <sup>20</sup>They shall not shave their heads or let their locks grow long; they shall surely trim the hair of their heads. <sup>21</sup>No priest shall drink wine when he enters the inner court. <sup>22</sup>They shall not marry a widow or a divorced woman, but only virgins of the offspring of the house of Israel, or a widow who is the widow of a priest. <sup>23</sup>They shall teach my people the difference between the holy and the common, and show them how to distinguish between the unclean and the clean. <sup>24</sup>In a dispute, they shall act as judges, and they shall judge it according to my judgments. They shall keep my laws and my statutes in all my appointed feasts, and they shall keep my Sabbaths holy. <sup>25</sup>They shall not defile themselves by going near to a dead person. However, for father or mother, for son or daughter, for brother or unmarried sister they may defile themselves. <sup>26</sup>After he has become clean, they shall count seven days for him. <sup>27</sup>And on the day that he goes into the Holy Place, into the inner court, to minister in the Holy Place, he shall offer his sin offering, declares the Lord GOD.

<sup>28</sup>‡“This shall be their inheritance: I am their inheritance: and you shall give them no possession in Israel; I am their possession. <sup>29</sup>They shall eat the grain offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering, and every devoted thing in Israel shall be theirs. <sup>30</sup>And the first of all the firstfruits of all kinds, and every offering of all kinds from all your offerings, shall belong to the priests. You shall also give to the priests the first of your dough, that a blessing may rest on your house. <sup>31</sup>The priests shall not eat of anything, whether bird or beast, that has died of itself or is torn by wild animals.

The Holy District

EZEKIEL 45 †“When you allot the land as an inheritance, you shall set apart for the LORD a portion of the land as a holy district, 25,000 cubits [1] long and 20,000 [2] cubits broad. It shall be holy throughout its whole extent. †Of this a square plot of 500 by 500 cubits shall be for the sanctuary, with fifty cubits for an open space around it. †And from this measured district you shall measure off a section 25,000 cubits long and 10,000 broad, in which shall be the sanctuary, the Most Holy Place. †It shall be the holy portion of the land. It shall be for the priests, who minister in the sanctuary and approach the LORD to minister to him, and it shall be a place for their houses and a holy place for the sanctuary. †Another section, 25,000 cubits long and 10,000 cubits broad, shall be for the Levites who minister at the temple, as their possession for cities to live in. [3] †“Alongside the portion set apart as the holy district you shall assign for the property of the city an area 5,000 cubits broad and 25,000 cubits long. It shall belong to the whole house of Israel.

The Portion for the Prince

†“And to the prince shall belong the land on both sides of the holy district and the property of the city, alongside the holy district and the property of the city, on the west and on the east, corresponding in length to one of the tribal portions, and extending from the western to the eastern boundary †of the land. It is to be his property in Israel. And my princes shall no more oppress my people, but they shall let the house of Israel have the land according to their tribes.

†“Thus says the Lord GOD: Enough, O princes of Israel! Put away violence and oppression, and execute justice and righteousness. Cease your evictions of my people, declares the Lord GOD.

†“You shall have just balances, a just ephah, and a just bath. [4] †The ephah and the bath shall be of the same measure, the bath containing one tenth of a homer, [5] and the ephah one tenth of a homer; the homer shall be the standard measure. †The shekel shall be twenty gerahs; [6] twenty shekels plus twenty-five shekels plus fifteen shekels shall be your mina. [7]

homer of wheat, and one sixth of an ephah from each homer of barley, <sup>14</sup>†and as the fixed portion of oil, measured in baths, one tenth of a bath from each cor [\[8\]](#) (the cor, like the homer, contains ten baths). [\[9\]](#) <sup>15</sup>†And one sheep from every flock of two hundred, from the watering places of Israel for grain offering, burnt offering, and peace offerings, to make atonement for them, declares the Lord GOD. <sup>16</sup>†All the people of the land shall be obliged to give this offering to the prince in Israel. <sup>17</sup>†It shall be the prince's duty to furnish the burnt offerings, grain offerings, and drink offerings, at the feasts, the new moons, and the Sabbaths, all the appointed feasts of the house of Israel: he shall provide the sin offerings, grain offerings, burnt offerings, and peace offerings, to make atonement on behalf of the house of Israel.

<sup>21</sup>†“In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, you shall celebrate the Feast of the Passover, and for seven days unleavened bread shall be eaten. <sup>22</sup>†On that day the prince shall provide for himself and all the people of the land a young bull for a sin offering. <sup>23</sup>And on the seven days of the festival he shall provide as a burnt offering to the LORD seven young bulls and seven rams without blemish, on each of the seven days; and a male goat daily for a sin offering. <sup>24</sup>†And he shall provide as a grain offering an ephah for each bull, an ephah for each ram, and a hin [\[10\]](#) of oil to each ephah. <sup>25</sup>†In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month and for the seven days of the feast, he shall make the same provision for sin offerings, burnt offerings, and grain offerings, and for the oil.

The Prince and the Feasts

EZEKIEL 46 †“Thus says the Lord GOD: The gate of the inner court that faces east shall be shut on the six working days, but on the Sabbath day it shall be opened, and on the day of the new moon it shall be opened. <sup>2</sup>†The prince shall enter by the vestibule of the gate from outside, and shall take his stand by the post of the gate. The priests shall offer his burnt offering and his peace offerings, and he shall worship at the threshold of the gate. Then he shall go out, but the gate shall not be shut until evening. <sup>3</sup>The people of the land shall bow down at the entrance of that gate before the LORD on the Sabbaths and on the new moons. <sup>4</sup>The burnt offering that the prince offers to the LORD on the Sabbath day shall be six lambs without blemish and a ram without blemish. <sup>5</sup>And the grain offering with the ram shall be an ephah, [1] and the grain offering with the lambs shall be as much as he is able, together with a hin [2] of oil to each ephah. <sup>6</sup>†On the day of the new moon he shall offer a bull from the herd without blemish, and six lambs and a ram, which shall be without blemish. <sup>7</sup>As a grain offering he shall provide an ephah with the bull and an ephah with the ram, and with the lambs as much as he is able, together with a hin of oil to each ephah. <sup>8</sup>†When the prince enters, he shall enter by the vestibule of the gate, and he shall go out by the same way.

provide a grain offering with it morning by morning, one sixth of an ephah, and one third of a hin of oil to moisten the flour, as a grain offering to the LORD. This is a perpetual statute. <sup>15</sup>Thus the lamb and the meal offering and the oil shall be provided, morning by morning, for a regular burnt offering.

Boiling Places for Offerings

<sup>19</sup>‡Then he brought me through the entrance, which was at the side of the gate, to the north row of the holy chambers for the priests, and behold, a place was there at the extreme western end of them. <sup>20</sup>And he said to me, “This is the place where the priests shall boil the guilt offering and the sin offering, and where they shall bake the grain offering, in order not to bring them out into the outer court and so transmit holiness to the people.”

<sup>21</sup>Then he brought me out to the outer court and led me around to the four corners of the court. And behold, in each corner of the court there was another court— <sup>22</sup>in the four corners of the court were small [3] courts, forty cubits [4] long and thirty broad; the four were of the same size. <sup>23</sup>On the inside, around each of the four courts was a row of masonry, with hearths made at the bottom of the rows all around. <sup>24</sup>Then he said to me, “These are the kitchens where those who minister at the temple shall boil the sacrifices of the people.”

Water Flowing from the Temple

EZEKIEL 47 †† Then he brought me back to the door of the temple, and behold, water was issuing from below the threshold of the temple toward the east (for the temple faced east). The water was flowing down from below the south end of the threshold of the temple, south of the altar. <sup>2</sup> Then he brought me out by way of the north gate and led me around on the outside to the outer gate that faces toward the east; and behold, the water was trickling out on the south side.

<sup>3</sup> † Going on eastward with a measuring line in his hand, the man measured a thousand cubits, [1] and then led me through the water, and it was ankle-deep. <sup>4</sup> Again he measured a thousand, and led me through the water, and it was knee-deep. Again he measured a thousand, and led me through the water, and it was waist-deep. <sup>5</sup> Again he measured a thousand, and it was a river that I could not pass through, for the water had risen. It was deep enough to swim in, a river that could not be passed through. <sup>6</sup> And he said to me, “Son of man, have you seen this?”

Then he led me back to the bank of the river. <sup>7</sup> † As I went back, I saw on the bank of the river very many trees on the one side and on the other. <sup>8</sup> † And he said to me, “This water flows toward the eastern region and goes down into the Arabah, and enters the sea; [2] when the water flows into the sea, the water will become fresh. [3] <sup>9</sup> † And wherever the river goes, [4] every living creature that swarms will live, and there will be very many fish. For this water goes there, that the waters of the sea [5] may become fresh; so everything will live where the river goes. <sup>10</sup> † Fishermen will stand beside the sea. From Engedi to Eneglaim it will be a place for the spreading of nets. Its fish will be of very many kinds, like the fish of the Great Sea. [6] <sup>11</sup> † But its swamps and marshes will not become fresh; they are to be left for salt. <sup>12</sup> † And on the banks, on both sides of the river, there will grow all kinds of trees for food. Their leaves will not wither, nor their fruit fail, but they will bear fresh fruit every month, because the water for them flows from the sanctuary. Their fruit will be for food, and their leaves for healing.”

Division of the Land

<sup>13</sup> † † Thus says the Lord GOD: “This is the boundary [7] by which you shall divide the land for inheritance among the twelve tribes of Israel. Joseph shall have two portions. <sup>14</sup>And you shall divide equally what I swore to give to your fathers. This land shall fall to you as your inheritance.

<sup>18</sup>“On the east side, the boundary shall run between Hauran and Damascus; along the Jordan between Gilead and the land of Israel; to the eastern sea and as far as Tamar. [\[11\]](#) This shall be the east side.

<sup>19</sup>“On the south side, it shall run from Tamar as far as the waters of Meribah-kadesh, from there along the Brook of Egypt [\[12\]](#) to the Great Sea. This shall be the south side.

<sup>21</sup>“So you shall divide this land among you according to the tribes of Israel. <sup>22</sup>†You shall allot it as an inheritance for yourselves and for the sojourners who reside among you and have had children among you. They shall be to you as native-born children of Israel. With you they shall be allotted an inheritance among the tribes of Israel. <sup>23</sup>†In whatever tribe the sojourner resides, there you shall assign him his inheritance, declares the Lord GOD.

EZEKIEL 48 †“These are the names of the tribes: Beginning at the northern extreme, beside the way of Hethlon to Lebo-hamath, as far as Hazar-enan (which is on the northern border of Damascus over against Hamath), and [1] extending from the east side to the west, [2] Dan, one portion. <sup>2</sup>Adjoining the territory of Dan, from the east side to the west, Asher, one portion. <sup>3</sup>Adjoining the territory of Asher, from the east side to the west, Naphtali, one portion. <sup>4</sup>Adjoining the territory of Naphtali, from the east side to the west, Manasseh, one portion. <sup>5</sup>Adjoining the territory of Manasseh, from the east side to the west, Ephraim, one portion. <sup>6</sup>Adjoining the territory of Ephraim, from the east side to the west, Reuben, one portion. <sup>7</sup>Adjoining the territory of Reuben, from the east side to the west, Judah, one portion.

<sup>8</sup>†“Adjoining the territory of Judah, from the east side to the west, shall be the portion which you shall set apart, 25,000 cubits [3] in breadth, and in length equal to one of the tribal portions, from the east side to the west, with the sanctuary in the midst of it. <sup>9</sup>The portion that you shall set apart for the LORD shall be 25,000 cubits in length, and 20,000 [4] in breadth. <sup>10</sup>These shall be the allotments of the holy portion: the priests shall have an allotment measuring 25,000 cubits on the northern side, 10,000 cubits in breadth on the western side, 10,000 in breadth on the eastern side, and 25,000 in length on the southern side, with the sanctuary of the LORD in the midst of it. <sup>11</sup>This shall be for the consecrated priests, the sons of Zadok, who kept my charge, who did not go astray when the people of Israel went astray, as the Levites did. <sup>12</sup>And it shall belong to them as a special portion from the holy portion of the land, a most holy place, adjoining the territory of the Levites. <sup>13</sup>And alongside the territory of the priests, the Levites shall have an allotment 25,000 cubits in length and 10,000 in breadth. The whole length shall be 25,000 cubits and the breadth 20,000. [5] <sup>14</sup>They shall not sell or exchange any of it. They shall not alienate this choice portion of the land, for it is holy to the LORD.

<sup>15</sup>“The remainder, 5,000 cubits in breadth and 25,000 in length, shall be for common use for the city, for dwellings and for open country. In the midst of it shall be the city, <sup>16</sup>and these shall be its measurements: the north side 4,500 cubits, the south side 4,500, the east side 4,500, and the west side 4,500. <sup>17</sup>And the city shall have open land: on the north 250 cubits, on the south 250, on the east 250, and on the west 250. <sup>18</sup>The remainder of the length alongside the holy portion shall be 10,000 cubits to the east, and 10,000 to the west, and it shall be alongside the holy portion. Its produce shall be food for the workers of the city.

<sup>19</sup>And the workers of the city, from all the tribes of Israel, shall till it. <sup>20</sup>The whole portion that you shall set apart shall be 25,000 cubits square, that is, the holy portion together with the property of the city.

The Gates of the City

<sup>30</sup>†“These shall be the exits of the city: On the north side, which is to be 4,500 cubits by measure, <sup>31</sup>three gates, the gate of Reuben, the gate of Judah, and the gate of Levi, the gates of the city being named after the tribes of Israel. <sup>32</sup>On the east side, which is to be 4,500 cubits, three gates, the gate of Joseph, the gate of Benjamin, and the gate of Dan. <sup>33</sup>On the south side, which is to be 4,500 cubits by measure, three gates, the gate of Simeon, the gate of Issachar, and the gate of Zebulun. <sup>34</sup>On the west side, which is to be 4,500 cubits, three gates, [8] the gate of Gad, the gate of Asher, and the gate of Naphtali. <sup>35</sup>†The circumference of the city shall be 18,000 cubits. And the name of the city from that time on shall be, The LORD Is There.”

Study Notes

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:1 thirtieth year. Most likely this was Ezekiel’s age, since the date relative to the king’s reign is given in 1:2. Thirty was the age when a priest (cf. v. 3 with Num. 4) began his priestly duties. Chebar canal. A major canal off of the Euphrates River, south of Babylon. visions of God. This scene has similarities to the visions of God’s throne in Rev. 4–5, where the emphasis is also on a glimpse of that throne just before judgment is released in Rev. 6–19.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:2 fifth year. This is 593 B.C. The king, Ezekiel, and 10,000 others (2 Kings 24:14) had been deported to Babylon in 597 B.C., Ezekiel at the age of 25.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:3 word of the Lord . . . hand of the Lord. As God prepared Isaiah (Isa. 6:5–13) and Jeremiah (Jer. 1:4–19), so the Lord prepares Ezekiel to receive revelation and strengthens him for his high and arduous task to speak as his prophet. Ezekiel the priest. See note on Ezek. 1:1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:4–14 The opening vision focuses on angels surrounding God’s presence.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:4 stormy wind . . . fire. Judgment on Judah in a further and totally devastating phase (beyond the 597 B.C. deportation) is to come out of the north, and did come from Babylon in 588–586 (as Jer. 39–40). Its terror is depicted by a fiery “stormy wind” emblematic of God’s judgments and the golden brightness signifying dazzling glory.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:5 four living creatures. Four angels, most likely the cherubs in 10:1–22, appearing in the erect posture and figure of man (note face, legs, feet, hands in 1:6–8) emerge to serve God who judges. The number four may have respect to the four corners of the earth, implying that God’s angels execute his commands everywhere.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:6 four faces. See note on v. 10. four wings. Four wings instead of two symbolize speed in performing God’s will (cf. v. 14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:7 legs. They were not bent like an animal’s, but “straight” like pillars, showing strength. calf’s foot. This points to their stability and firm stance.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:8 human hands. This is a symbol of their skillful service.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:9 without turning. They were able to move in any direction without needing to turn, giving swift access to do God's will. Apparently all were in harmony as to the way they moved (v. 12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:10 faces. These symbols identify the angels as intelligent ("human"), powerful ("lion"), servile ("ox"), and swift ("eagle").

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:12 the spirit. This refers to the divine impulse by which God moved them to do his will (cf. v. 20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:13 like . . . fire . . . torches. Their appearance conveyed God's glory and pure, burning justice (cf. Isa. 6) which they assisted in carrying out even on Israel, who had for so long hardened themselves against his patience.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:14 Intense, relentless motion signifies God's constant work of judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:15–25 This section looks at the glory of God's throne in heaven.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:15 a wheel. This depicts God's judgment as a war machine (like a massive chariot) moving where he is to judge. The cherubim above the ark are called chariots in 1 Chron. 28:18.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:16 as it were a wheel within a wheel. This depicted the gigantic (v. 15, "on the earth" and "tall," v. 18) energy of the complicated revolutions of God's massive judgment machinery bringing about his purposes with unerring certainty.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:17 without turning. Cf. vv. 9, 12. The judgment machine moved where the angels went (cf. vv. 19–20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:18 eyes. These may picture God's omniscience, i.e., perfect knowledge, given to these angelic servants so that they can act in judgment unerringly. God does nothing by blind impulse.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:20 spirit. See note on 1:12.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:24 sound of many waters. This imagery could have in mind a thunderous rush of heavy rain or the washing of surf on rocks (cf. 43:2; Rev. 1:15; 14:2; 19:6).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:25 voice. No doubt this is the “sound of the Almighty” (v. 24), since God’s throne (v. 25) was “over their heads.”

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:26 a throne. Cf. Ps. 103:19 and Rev. 4:2–8. a human. The Godhead appears in the likeness of humanity, though God is a spirit (John 4:24). The Messiah, God incarnate, is the representative of the “fullness of deity” (Col. 2:9), so this can be a prelude to the incarnation of Messiah in his character as Savior and Judge (cf. Rev. 19:11–16).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:28 the glory of the Lord. That glory shines fully in the person of Jesus Christ (cf. 2 Cor. 4:6), which is a constant theme in Ezekiel. fell on my face. John, in Rev. 1:17, had the same reaction (“fell at his feet”) to seeing the glory of the Lord.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:1 Son of man. A term used over 90 times by Ezekiel to indicate his humanness.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:2 the Spirit entered into me. What God commands a servant to do (v. 1), he gives power to fulfill by his Spirit (cf. 3:14; Zech. 4:6). This pictures the selective empowering by the Holy Spirit to enable an individual for special service to the Lord, which occurred frequently in the OT. For examples see Ezek. 11:5; 37:1; Num. 24:2; Judg. 3:10; 6:34; 11:29; 13:25; 1 Sam. 10:10; 16:13–14; 19:20; 2 Chron. 15:1; Luke 4:18.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:5 The people cannot plead ignorance.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:6 briers and thorns . . . scorpions. Cf. 3:7, 9; 22:29. These are figures of speech God used to describe the people of Judah whose obstinate rejection of his word was like the barbs of thorns and stings of scorpions to Ezekiel. The wicked were often so called (cf. 2 Sam. 23:6; Song 2:2; Isa. 9:18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:8 open your mouth and eat. Ezekiel was to obey the command, not literally eating a scroll (vv. 9–10), but in a spiritual sense by receiving God’s message so that it became an inward passion. Cf. also 3:1–3, 10 and Jer. 15:16.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:10 writing on the front and on the back. Scrolls were normally written on one side only, but this judgment message was so full it required all the available space (cf. Zech. 5:3; Rev. 5:1) to chronicle the suffering and sorrow that sin had brought, as recorded in Ezek. 2–32.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:1–3 Eat this scroll . . . Then I ate. God’s messenger must first internalize God’s truth for himself, then preach it.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:3 as honey. Even though the message was judgment on Israel, the scroll was sweet because it was God’s word (cf. Ps. 19:10; 119:103) and because it vindicated God in holiness, righteousness, glory, and faithfulness, in which Jeremiah also delighted (Jer. 15:16). Bitterness also was experienced by the prophet (Ezek. 3:14) in this message of judgment confronting Judah’s rebellion (v. 9). The apostle John records a similar bittersweet experience with the word of God in Rev. 10:9–10.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:7 Cf. John 15:20.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:8–9 I have made your face . . . hard. What God commands (“Fear them not”) he gives sufficiency to do (“I have made”), so God will enable the prophet to live up to his name (which means “strengthened by God”). Cf. 2:2; 3:14, 24; Isa. 41:10; Jer. 1:8, 17.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:9 rebellious. It is sad to observe that the exile and affliction did not make the Jews more responsive to God; rather, they were hardened by their sufferings. God gave Ezekiel a “hardness” to surpass the people and sustain his ministry as prophet to the exiles.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:12, 14 the Spirit lifted me up. This is a phrase used to describe the prophet being elevated to a heavenly vision, as in the experiences of 8:3 and 11:1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:14 bitterness. See note on 3:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:15 the exiles. Tel-abib was the main city for the Jewish captives, who may have included some of the 10 tribes taken long before in the conquering of the northern kingdom of Israel in 722 B.C., as 2 Kings 17:6 may indicate (“Habor” is the same river as Chebar). sat there . . . seven days. Ezekiel sat with the sorrowing people for seven days, the usual period for manifesting deep grief (cf. Job 2:13). He identified with them in their suffering (cf. Ps. 137:1), thus trying to win their trust when he spoke God’s word.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:17 a watchman. This role was spiritually analogous to the role of watchmen on a city wall, vigilant to spot the approach of an enemy and warn the residents to muster a defense. The prophet gave timely warnings of approaching judgment. The work of a watchman is vividly set forth in 2 Sam. 18:24–27 and 2 Kings 9:17–20. See notes on Ezek. 33:1–20.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:18–21 Cf. ch. 18, and see notes there.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:18 the wicked . . . him . . . his. The emphasis of singular pronouns was on individuals. The ministries of Habakkuk (Hab. 2:1), Jeremiah (Jer. 6:17), and Isaiah (Isa. 56:10) were more national than individual. Ezekiel’s ministry was more personal, focused on individual responsibility to trust and obey God. Disobedience or obedience to God’s messages was a matter of life or death; Ezek. 18:1–20 is particularly devoted to this emphasis. no warning . . . die. Men are not to assume that ignorance, even owing to the negligence of preachers, will be any excuse to save them from divine punishment. Cf. Rom.

2:12. to save his life. This refers to physical death, not eternal damnation, though that would be a consequence for many. In the Pentateuch, God had commanded death for many violations of his law and warned that it could be a consequence of any kind of consistent sin (cf. Josh. 1:16–18). The people of Israel had long abandoned that severe standard of purification, so God took execution back into his own hands, as in the destruction of Israel, Judah, and Jerusalem. On the other hand, God had also promised special protection and life to the obedient. Cf. Ezek. 18:9–32; 33:11–16; Prov. 4:4; 7:2; Amos 5:4, 6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:18, 20 his blood I will require. Though each sinner is responsible for his own sin (cf. 18:1–20), the prophet who is negligent in his duty to proclaim the warning message becomes, in God’s sight, a manslayer when God takes that person’s life. The responsibility of the prophet is serious (cf. James 3:1), and he is responsible for that person’s death in the sense of Gen. 9:5. The apostle Paul had this passage (and Ezek. 33:6, 8) in view in Acts 18:6 and 20:26. Even for preachers today, there is such a warning in Heb. 13:17. Certainly the consequence for such unfaithfulness on the preacher’s part includes divine chastening and loss of eternal reward (cf. 1 Cor. 4:1–5).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:20 a righteous person. Here is a person who was obeying God by doing what was right, but fell into sin and God took his life in chastisement. The “stumbling block” was a stone of judgment that kills. Psalms 119:165 says: “Great peace have those who love your law; nothing can make them stumble.” The crushing stone always falls on the disobedient. Hebrews 12:9 says it is better to obey and “live.” Cf. 1 Cor. 11:30; James 1:21; 1 John 5:16.

Ezekiel’s Sign Experiences

Ezekiel’s Sign Experiences (cf. Ezek. 24:24, 27 )
1. Ezekiel was housebound, tied up, and mute ( 3:23–27 ).
2. Ezekiel used a brick and an iron plate as illustrations in his preaching ( 4:1–3 ).
3. Ezekiel had to lie on his left side for 390 days and his right side for 40 days ( 4:4–8 ).
4. Ezekiel had to eat in an unclean manner ( 4:9–17 ).
5. Ezekiel had to shave his head and beard ( 5:1–4 ).
6. Ezekiel had to pack his bags and dig through the wall of Jerusalem ( 12:1–14 ).
7. Ezekiel had to eat his bread with trembling and drink water with quivering ( 12:17–20 ).
8. Ezekiel brandished a sharp sword and struck his hands together ( 21:8–17 ).
9. Ezekiel portrayed Israel in the smelting furnace ( 22:17–22 ).

- |   |
| 10. Ezekiel had to cook a pot of stew ( 24:1–14 ).                    |
| 11. Ezekiel could not mourn at the death of his wife ( 24:15–24 ).    |
| 12. Ezekiel was mute for a season ( 24:25–27 ).                       |
| 13. Ezekiel put two sticks together and they became one ( 37:15–28 ). |

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:21 delivered your soul. The prophet had done his duty.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:23 the glory of the Lord. See Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:24 shut yourself within your house. He was to fulfill much of his ministry at home (8:1; 12:1–7), thereby limiting it to those who came to hear him there.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:25 ords will be placed upon you. These were not literal, but spiritual. On one hand, they could be the inner ropes of depressing influence which the rebellious Jews exerted on his spirit. Their perversity, like ropes, would repress his freedom in preaching. More likely, they imply the restraint that God placed on him by supernatural power, so that he could only go and speak where and when God chose (cf. vv. 26–27).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:26–27 you shall be mute. He was not to speak primarily, but to act out God’s message. The prohibition was only partial, for on any occasion (v. 27) when God did open his mouth, as he often did in chs. 5–7, he was to speak (3:22; 11:25; 12:10, 19, 23, 28). The end of such intermittent dumbness with regard to his own people closely synchronized with Ezekiel’s receiving a refugee’s report of Jerusalem’s fall (24:25–27; 33:21–22). He also spoke with regard to judgments on other nations (chs. 25–32).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:1–7:27 Here is the first series of prophecies given over a year’s time, of Jerusalem’s conquest by the Babylonians in 586 B.C.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:1–3 engrave . . . Jerusalem. Ezekiel’s object lesson was to use a soft tile to create a miniature city layout of Jerusalem with walls and siege objects to illustrate Babylon’s final coming siege of Jerusalem (588–586 B.C.).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:4–6 lie on your left side . . . right side. Lying on his side, likely facing north, illustrated God’s applying judgment to Israel, and facing south pointed to judgment on Judah. It is not necessary to assume that Ezekiel was in the prone position all the time. It was doubtless part of each day, as his need for preparing food (v. 9) indicates.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:4 you shall bear their punishment. Ezekiel's action was to represent the time of Israel's punishment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:5 390. Each day symbolized a year (v. 6). Israel in the north was accountable during this span of time whose beginning and end is uncertain.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:6 Forty. Judah was also guilty, but the 40 cannot represent less guilt (cf. 23:11). It may extend the time beyond the 390 to 430 or they may run concurrently, but the exact timing is uncertain.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:7 arm bared. A symbol for being ready for action, as a soldier would do (cf. Isa. 52:10).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:8 I will place cords upon you. This was to symbolize the impossibility of the Jews being able to shake off their punishment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:9–13 make . . . bread. Scarcity of food in the 18-month siege especially made necessary the mixing of all kinds of grain for bread. The “twenty shekels” would be about 8 ounces, while “the sixth part of a hin” would be less than a quart. There would be minimums for daily rations. It must be noted that the command of v. 12 regarding “human dung” relates only to the fuel used to prepare the food. Bread was baked on hot stones (cf. 1 Kings 19:6) heated by human waste because no other fuel was available. This was repulsive and polluting (cf. Deut. 23:12–14) and the Lord calls it “bread unclean” (Ezek. 4:13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:14–15 never defiled. Ezekiel, like Daniel, had convictions to be undefiled even in his food (cf. Dan. 1:8 and see note there). God permitted fuel of dried cow chips for cooking his food in gracious deference to his spokesman's sensitivity (cf. Ezek. 44:31).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:16–17 They were soon to have neither bread nor water in any amount, and they were to grieve over the famine and their iniquity (cf. Lev. 26:21–26).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:1–4 a barber’s razor. The sign in shaving his hair illustrated the severe humiliation to come at the hand of enemies, emphasizing calamities to three segments of Jerusalem due to the Babylonian conquest. Some were punished by fire, i.e., plague and famine (v. 12), others died by the enemy’s sword, and some were dispersed and pursued by death (cf. v. 12). A small part of his hair clinging to his garment (v. 3) depicted a remaining remnant, some of whom were subject to further calamity (v. 4; cf. 6:8; Jer. 41–44).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:5 Jerusalem. Here the great city alone was not meant, but was used as a representative of the whole land which, despite its strategic opportunity and responsibility, rejected God (vv. 6–7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:7 Instead of being a witness to the heathen nations, Israel had exceeded them in idolatrous practices. The nations maintained their familiar idols, while Israel defected from their true and living God. God’s people were worse than the pagans in proportion to spiritual knowledge and privileges. The judgments of God are always relative to light and privilege granted. Since Ezekiel’s people were unique in their disobedience, they were to be outstanding in their punishment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:8–10 The book of Lamentations reveals how literally these promises were realized when parents ate their children and sons ate their fathers in the times of starvation. Down through the centuries had come the threats of Lev. 26:29 and Deut. 28:53, taken up by Jeremiah (Jer. 19:9; Lam. 2:22; 4:10; cf. Isa. 9:20), and sealed in the life of the disobedient nation. Even the remnant would be scattered and suffer.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:11 as I live. Here was a solemn oath pledging the very existence of God for the fulfillment of the prophecy. It is found 14 times in this book. Their greatest sin was defiling the sanctuary, showing the height of their wickedness.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:12 The four well-known judgments (cf. vv. 2–4) of plague, famine, sword, and scattering were their judgment. They had no place to offer atoning blood, thus bearing their sins without relief.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:13–15 Ezekiel’s purpose was to impress on Israel’s conscience God’s intense hatred of idolatry and apostasy. “Anger” and “fury” are repeated several times.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:16 deadly arrows of famine. The evil arrows included hail, rain, mice, locusts, and mildew (cf. Deut. 32:23–24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:17 I am the Lord; I have spoken. Cf. vv. 13, 15 for the same expression, which was God’s personal signature on their doom.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:3 says the Lord God to the mountains. God had the prophet do this because the people worshiped at idol altars in the “high places” (cf. Lev. 26:30–33; Isa. 65:7; Jer. 3:6; Hos. 4:13; Mic. 6:1–2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:7 you shall know that I am the Lord. This clause recurs in vv. 10, 13, 14 and 60 times elsewhere in the book. It shows that the essential reason for judgment is the violation of the character of God. This is repeatedly acknowledged in Lev. 18–26, where the motive for all obedience to God’s law is the fact that he is the Lord God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:8–10 The mass of people was rejected, but grace and mercy were given to a godly group in the nation. There never has been nor ever will be a complete end to Israel. The doctrine of the remnant can be studied in Isa. 1:9; 10:20; Jer. 43:5; Zeph. 2:7; 3:13; Zech. 10:9; Rom. 9:6–13; 11:5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:14 Riblah. A reference to Diblathaim, a city on the eastern edge of Moab (Num. 33:46; Jer. 48:22), near the desert east and south of the Dead Sea.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:1–9 This lament declared that the entire land of Israel was ripe for judgment. God’s patience had ended. The final destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar was in view (586 B.C.).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:10 rod has blossomed. Verse 11 explains this. Violence had grown up into a rod of wickedness, which likely refers to Nebuchadnezzar, the instrument of God’s vengeance (cf. Isa. 10:5; Jer. 51:20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:12 buyer rejoice . . . seller mourn. Such matters of business were meaningless because the Chaldeans (Babylonians) took all the land and killed those they didn’t take captive (v. 15) and the rest escaped (v. 16). Wealth was useless (vv. 19–20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:13 seller shall not return to what he has sold. There was to be no jubilee year in which all lands were returned to their original owners (cf.

Lev. 25).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:17–22 This section described the mourning of the helpless and frightened people. In distress, they recognized the uselessness of the things in which they trusted. Their wealth provided nothing. Their “silver . . . gold” (v. 19), their “ornament” (v. 20) were as useless as the idols they made with them.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:22 my treasured place. The Most Holy Place in the temple will be desecrated by pagans, that place where only once a year the high priest could enter to make atonement in God’s presence.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:23 Forge a chain! Ezekiel is to perform another emblematic act of captivity (cf. Jer. 27:2; Nah. 3:10).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:24 the worst of the nations. Babylonian pagans.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:27 According to their way. Cf. Gen. 18:25.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:1 the sixth year. 592 B.C. (cf. 1:2) in August/September, a year and two months after the first vision (1:1). the hand of the Lord. This ushered the prophet into a series of visions (8:3) stretching to the end of ch. 11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:2 the appearance. He saw the glory of the Lord (v. 4) as in 1:26–28.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:3 visions of God. Ezekiel 8–11 deals with details conveyed only to Ezekiel in visions. Ezekiel’s trip to Jerusalem was in spirit only, while his body physically remained in his house. In visions, he went to Jerusalem and in visions he returned to Babylon (11:24). After God finished the visions, Ezekiel told his home audience what he had seen. The visions are not a description of deeds done in the past in Israel, but a survey of Israel’s current condition, as they existed at that very time. the seat . . . image of jealousy. God represents to Ezekiel the image of an idol (cf. Deut. 4:16) in the entrance to the inner court of the temple. It is called “the image of jealousy” because it provoked the Lord to jealousy (Ezek. 5:13; 16:38; 36:6; 38:19; Ex. 20:5).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:4 the glory of . . . God. God was also there in glory, but was ignored while the people worshiped the idol (v. 6).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:6 to drive me far. Sin would expel the people from their land and God from his sanctuary.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:7–12 This section describes “greater abominations” (v. 6) of idolatry, namely a secret cult of idolatrous elders.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:8 dug in the wall . . . an entrance. This indicates the clandestine (cf. v. 12) secrecy of these idolaters, practicing their cult in hiding.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:10 engraved on the wall. The temple’s walls are ugly with graffiti featuring creatures linked with Egyptian animal cults (cf. Rom. 1:23) and other idols. Leaders of Israel, who should be worshiping the God of the temple, are offering incense to them (Ezek. 8:11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:11 seventy men of the elders. Obviously not the Sanhedrin, since it was not formed until after the restoration from Babylon, though the pattern had been suggested much earlier (cf. Ex. 24:9–10; Num. 11:16). These men were appointed to guard against idolatry! Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan. If he was the son of the Shaphan who read God’s word to Josiah (2 Kings 22:8–11), we have some concept of the depth of sin to which the leaders had fallen. He is not to be confused with the man in Ezek. 11:1, who had a different father.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:14 weeping for Tammuz. Yet a greater abomination than the secret cult was Israel’s engaging in the Babylonian worship of Tammuz or Dumuzi (Duzu), beloved of Ishtar, the god of spring vegetation. Vegetation burned in the summer, died in the winter, and came to life in the spring. The women mourned over the god’s demise in July and longed for his revival. The fourth month of the Hebrew calendar still bears the name Tammuz. With the worship of this idol were connected the basest immoralities.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:16 worshipping the sun. In the most sacred inner court where only priests could go (Joel 2:17), there was the crowning insult to God. Twenty-five men were worshipping the sun as an idol (cf. Deut. 4:19; 2 Kings 23:5, 11; Job 31:26; Jer. 44:17). These 25 represent the 24 orders of priests plus the high priest.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:17 put the branch to their nose. The meaning is uncertain, but it seems to have been some act of contempt toward God. The Greek OT translators rendered it, “they are as mockers.”

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:18 I will act in wrath. God must judge intensely due to such horrible sins (cf. 24:9–10).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:1 executioners of the city. God summoned his servant angels to carry out his judgments. These angelic executioners (cf. Dan. 4:13, 17, 23) came equipped with weapons of destruction.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:2 six men. Angels can appear like men when ministering on earth (cf. Gen. 18:1; Dan. 9:20–23). a man. He was superior to the others. Linen indicates high rank (cf. Dan. 10:5; 12:6). Perhaps this was the angel of the Lord, the preincarnate Christ (see note on Ex. 3:2). He had all the instruments of an oriental scribe to carry out his task (Ezek. 9:4, 11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:3 the glory . . . gone up. The glory of God departs before the destruction of the city and temple. The gradual departure of God from his temple is depicted in stages: the glory resides in the temple's Most Holy Place, between the wings of the cherubs on each side of the ark of the covenant over the mercy seat, then leaves to the front door (9:3; 10:4), later to the east gate by the outer wall (10:18–19), and finally to the Mount of Olives to the east, having fully departed (11:22–23). The glory will return in the future kingdom of Messiah (43:2–7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:4 a mark on the foreheads. Since God's departure removed all protection and gave the people over to destruction, it was necessary for the angelic scribe (angel of the Lord) to mark for God's preservation the righteous who had been faithful to him. Those left unmarked were subject to death in Babylon's siege (v. 5). The mark was the indication of God's elect, identified personally by the preincarnate Christ. He was marking the elect (cf. Ex. 12:7). Malachi 3:16–18 indicates a similar idea. Cf. Rev. 7:3 and 9:4. The marked ones were penitent and were identified for protection. Here was a respite of grace for the remnant. The rest were to be killed (Ezek. 9:5–7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:8 Will you destroy . . . ? Ezekiel is fearfully aroused in prayer because the judgment on Jerusalem and Israel is so vast. God replies that pervasive sin demands thorough judgment (vv. 9–10), yet comforts him by the report that the faithful had been marked to be spared (v. 11). Cf. Rom. 11:1–2, 25–27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:1 a throne. It rises above God’s angelic servants, the same four as in ch. 1 (10:20, 22), and is the throne of 1:26–28 on which God sits (cf. 10:20). From it, he directs the operation of his war machine (“wheels,” see notes on 1:15–16) on Jerusalem (10:2). The throne is like a sapphire shining forth representing God’s glory and holiness (11:22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:2 Fill . . . with burning coals. God specifies that the marking angel (9:2, 11) reach into the war machine and fill his hands with fiery coals in the presence of the angels of ch. 1. These coals picture the fires of judgment that God’s angels are to “scatter” on Jerusalem. In Isaiah 6, “a coal” was used for the purification of the prophet; here coals were for the destruction of the wicked (cf. Heb. 12:29). Fire did destroy Jerusalem in 586 B.C.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:3 cherubim. These were different from the cherubim of ch. 1 and here in 10:4.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:4 This verse explains how “the court was filled” with the “cloud” of v. 3. It repeats what is first described in 9:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:6–7 These verses picked up the action of the angelic scribe from v. 2.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:7 cherub . . . put it into the hands. One of the four cherubim of 1:5ff. and 10:1 puts the fiery coals into the marking angel’s hand.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:9–17 wheels beside the cherubim. This whole section is similar to 1:4–21. Four wheels on God’s chariot mingled with the four angels (cf. 1:15–21) coordinated with each other in precision, and each with a different one of the cherubim. All looked so much alike that it was as if one wheel blended entirely with another (10:10). As their appearance was so unified, their action was in unison, and instant (v. 11). The cherubim had bodies like men and their chariot wheels were full of eyes denoting full perception both to see the sinners and their fitting judgment. The color beryl is a sparkling yellow or gold.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:14 the face of the cherub. This description of one cherub in 1:10 indicates this was the face of an ox.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:15 mounted up. They were all ready to move in unison (vv. 16–17) as the Shekinah glory of God departed (v. 18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:18–19 glory . . . mounted up. There were several stages: 9:3; 10:1, 3–4; 10:18–19; 11:22–23. There was thus written over the entire structure, as well as Israel’s spiritual life, “Ichabod” (the glory has departed). Cf. 1 Sam. 4:21 and 10:18–19.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:1 twenty-five men. Ezekiel, though at the temple only in the vision (cf. 8:3, and see note there), saw because God, who was everywhere present and all-knowing, impressed specific details on him in the vision. The wicked leaders (cf. 11:2) were part of God’s reason for the judgment (vv. 8, 10). Ezekiel was taken in spirit to the very place that the glory of God had left in 10:19 and was given a vision of “twenty-five men,” who represented, not priests, but influential leaders among the people, who gave fatal advice to the people (11:2). Jaazaniah the son of Azzur. See note on 8:11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:3 cauldron . . . meat. Though this is obscure, it may be that the bad advice these leaders were giving was that the people should not be engaged in business as usual, “to build houses” or to take care of their comfort and futures, when they were about to be cooked like flesh in a pot over a blazing fire. The idea must have been that the people should get ready for battle, and be prepared to fight, not focusing on comfort, but survival. Jeremiah had told the people to surrender to the Babylonians and save their lives, rather than fight and be killed (cf. Jer. 27:9–17). These false leaders, like the prophets and priests whom Jeremiah confronted for telling the people not to submit, scorned Jeremiah’s words from God and would pay for it (Ezek. 11:4). Cf. 24:1–14.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:6 multiplied your slain. Leaders who misled Israel by inciting false expectations of a victorious defense, rather than peaceful surrender, were responsible for the deadly results. Many people died in resisting Babylon.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:7 you shall be brought out. The false leaders thought that unless they fought, they would all be in a boiling pot, i.e., the city. But here the Lord promised that some would be delivered from the city, only to die on Israel’s border in the wilderness (vv. 8–11). This was literally fulfilled at Riblah (cf. 2 Kings 25:18–21; Jer. 52:24–27).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:13 Pelatiah . . . died. The death of one leader from v. 1 was a sign that God would indeed carry out his word. Apparently this leader did die suddenly at the time Ezekiel was shown the vision, so that the prophet feared that this death meant death for all Israelites (9:8).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:14–15 Ezekiel was told he had a new family, not the priests at Jerusalem to whom he was tied by blood, but his fellow exiles in Babylon, identified as those who were treated as outcasts. The priesthood was about to be ended and he was to have a new family.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:15 Go far from. The contemptuous words of those still left in Jerusalem at the carrying away of Jeconiah and the exiles indicated that they felt smugly secure and believed the land was their possession.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:16 sanctuary. God was to be the protection and provision for those who had been scattered through all the 70 years until they were restored. The exiles may have cast off the Jews, but God had not (Isa. 8:14). This holds true for the future restoration of the Jews (Ezek. 11:17–18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:19–20 a new spirit. God pledged not only to restore Ezekiel's people to their ancient land, but to bring the New Covenant with its blessings. Cf. 36:25–28, and see note on Jer. 31:31–34.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:23 the mountain . . . east. The glory of God moved to the Mount of Olives to which the glorious Son of God will return at the second advent (cf. 43:1–5; Zech. 14:4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:24 brought me in the vision. Again, Ezekiel has remained bodily in his Babylonian house, seen by his visitors (v. 25; 8:1). God, who supernaturally showed him a vision in Jerusalem, caused his sense of awareness to return to Chaldea, thus ending the vision state. Once the vision was completed, Ezekiel was able to tell his exiled countrymen what God had shown him (11:25).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:2 rebellious house. The message of Ezekiel was addressed to his fellow exiles who were as hardened as those still in Jerusalem. They were so intent on a quick return to Jerusalem, that they would not accept his message of Jerusalem's destruction. Their rebellion is described in familiar terms (Deut. 29:1–4; Isa. 6:9–10; Jer. 5:21; cf. Matt. 13:13–15; Acts 28:26–27).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:3 prepare for . . . exile. This dramatic object lesson by the prophet called for carrying belongings out in a stealthy way as an act that depicted baggage for exile, just the bare necessities. His countrymen carried out such baggage when they went into captivity, or sought to escape during Babylon's takeover of Jerusalem (vv. 7, 11). Some attempting to escape were caught as in a net, like King Zedekiah who was overtaken, blinded, and forced into exile (vv. 12–13; 2 Kings 24:18–25:7; Jer. 39:4–7; 52:1–11). Ezekiel 12:7 indicates that Ezekiel actually did what he was told.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:5 This section depicts those in desperation trying to escape from their sun-dried brick homes.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:6 cover your face. This was to avoid recognition.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:10–13 the prince. This is a reference to King Zedekiah, who was always referred to by Ezekiel as prince, never king. Jehoiachin was regarded as the true king (cf. 17:13), because the Babylonians never deposed him formally. All the house of Israel, however, shared the calamity to fall on Zedekiah. How literally these prophecies were fulfilled can be seen from the account in 2 Kings 25:1–7. The “net” and “snare” (Ezek. 12:13) were the Babylonian army. He was taken captive to Babylon, but he never saw it because his eyes had been put out at Riblah.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:14–16 God’s hand was to be with the enemy as his rod of correction, with only a few left.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:22 this proverb. Delay had given the people the false impression that the stroke of judgment would never come. In fact, a saying had become popular, no doubt developed by false prophets who caused the people to reject Ezekiel’s visions and prophecies (cf. v. 27) and gave “false vision or flattering divination” (vv. 23–24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:25 in your days. The prophet is explicit about the present time for fulfillment, i.e., in their lifetime.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:2 against the prophets. False prophets had long flourished in Judah and had been transported to Babylon as well. Here God directs Ezekiel to indict those false prophets for futile assurances of peace (as Jer. 23) in Ezek. 13:1–16. Then his attention turns to lying prophetesses in vv. 17–23. The test of a prophet is found in Deut. 13:1–5 and 18:21–22.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:2–3 prophesy . . . spirit. Spurious spokesmen prophesy subjectively out of their minds while claiming to have revelation and authority from the Lord (cf. v. 7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:4 like jackals. False prophets did not do anything helpful. Rather, like foxes, they were mischievous and destructive.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:5 built up a wall. The false prophets did nothing to shore up the spiritual defenses the people so needed in the face of judgment. The enemy had made “breaches” but the false prophets never encouraged the people to repent and return to the Lord. Those who would were called for in 22:30. The “day of the Lord” came in 586 B.C. when the theocracy fell. See note on Isa. 2:12.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:9 A threefold judgment is given to the false prophets: 1) they would not be in the council of God’s people; 2) their names would be wiped from the register of Israel (Ezra 2:62); and 3) they would never return to the land (cf. Ezek. 20:38).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:10–11 build a wall. False prophets had lulled the people into false security. Phony “peace” promises, while sin continued on the brink of God’s judgment, was a way, so to speak, of erecting a defective “wall” and whitewashing it to make it look good. Such an unsafe “wall” was doomed to collapse (v. 11) when God would bring his storm, picturing the invaders’ assault (v. 11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:11–16 These descriptions are all images belonging to the illustration of the wall, not meant to convey real wind, flood, and hail. The Babylonians were the actual destroyers of Israel’s hypocritical false spirituality.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:17–23 Although women are rebuked by Isaiah (3:16–4:1; 32:9–13) and Amos (4:1–3), this is the only OT text where false prophetesses are mentioned. Sorcery was practiced mainly by women. Jezebel is called a false prophetess in Rev. 2:20.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:18–19 bands . . . veils . . . handfuls of barley . . . bread. Apparently these sorceresses employed all these things in their divinations, hunting down souls for their advantage (v. 20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:22 falsely. Predators had saddened the righteous by a false message leading to calamity that involved great loss even for them (cf. 21:3–4). They had encouraged the wicked to expect a bright future, and saw no need to repent to avoid death.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:23 I will deliver my people. Certainly this was true in the restoration after the 70 years in Babylon, but will be fully true in Messiah's kingdom. God's true promise will bring an end to sorcery and false prophecy (cf. Mic. 3:6–7; Zech. 13:1–6).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:1–3 elders . . . came. These leaders came insincerely seeking God's counsel (v. 3; cf. Ps. 66:18), as God reveals to the prophet, who thus saw through their facade and indicted them for determining to pursue their evil way and defy God's will. False prophets of Ezek. 13 were thriving, as the civil leaders and populace whom they represented set a welcoming climate and inclination for the delusions.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:4 I the Lord will answer. They received no verbal answer, but an answer directly from the Lord in the action of judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:6 turn away. The Lord answered the two-faced inquiry in only one way, by a call to repent. The seekers were turned away from him to idols (v. 6b), and he must be turned away from them (v. 8a). The guilty, including both those back at Jerusalem and the exiles tolerating the same things, were to repent, turning away from idols to God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:8 The punishment echoed the warnings of Lev. 20:3, 5–6 and Deut. 28:27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:9 stretch out my hand. God will deceive (entice) a false prophet only in a qualified sense. When one willfully rejects his word, he places a resulting cloud of darkness, or permits it to continue, hiding the truth so that the person is deceived by his own obstinate self-will. This fits with the same principle as when God gives up Israel to evil statutes (20:25–26), counsel that they insist on as they spurn his word (20:24, 26). When people refuse the truth, he lets them seek after their own inclinations and gives them over to falsehood (20:39). This is the wrath of abandonment noted in Rom. 1:18–32 (cf. 1 Kings 22:20–23; 2 Thess. 2:11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:12 the word . . . came. Ezekiel answered a deception that God would never judge the people of Judah, since some righteous were among them. God would honor the presence of the godly (vv. 14, 20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:13–20 my hand against. God promised four acts in his drama of judgment (cf. summary, v. 21). In none could the three heroes avert tragedy as advocates. These were: 1) famine; 2) wild beasts; 3) the sword; and 4) plague.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:14–20 Noah, Daniel, and Job. Jeremiah 7:16 and 15:1–4 provide a close parallel to this passage. According to Jeremiah, even Moses and Samuel, well known for their power in intercessory prayer, would not prevail to deliver Jerusalem and the people. The three OT heroes mentioned in this section exhibited power in intercession on behalf of others (cf. Gen. 6:18; Job 42:7–10; Dan. 1–2) at strategic points in redemptive history, and even they could not deliver anyone but themselves if they were there praying earnestly. Even the presence and prayers of the godly could not stop the coming judgment. Genesis 18:22–32 and Jer. 5:1–4 provide rare exceptions to the principle that one man's righteousness is no protection for others.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:22–23 their deeds. An ungodly Jerusalem remnant, brought as captives to join exiled Jews in Babylon, were to be very wicked. Exiles already there, repulsed by this evil, were to realize God's justness in his severe judgment on Jerusalem.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:1–3 And the word . . . came. Israel, often symbolized by a vine (17:6–10; Gen. 49:22; Jer. 2:21), had become useful for nothing. Failing to do the very thing God set her apart to do—bear fruit—she no longer served any purpose and was useless (Ezek. 15:2). Other trees can be used for construction of certain things, but a fruitless vine is useless (v. 3). It has no value. In every age the people of God have their value in their fruitfulness.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:4–5 fire for fuel. The burning of the fruitless vine symbolized judgment in the deportations of 605 B.C. and 597 B.C. leading up to the final conquest in 586 B.C. Isaiah made the same analogy in his prophecy (Isa. 5:1–7), saying Israel produced only useless sour berries.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:6–8 Therefore. The prophet applies the symbol to Israel and predicts the desolation of the city and the land. In the time of the great tribulation, it will be so again (cf. Rev. 14:18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:1–7 This section covers the period from Abraham entering Canaan (cf. Gen. 12) through the exile in Egypt (cf. Ex. 12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:1 the word. This longest chapter in Ezekiel is similar to ch. 23, in that both indict Judah as spiritually immoral (16:2). The story of Israel's sin and unfaithfulness to the love of God is told in all its sordid, vile character. The chapter is so sad and indicting that some of the ancient rabbis did not allow it to be read in public.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:3–5 Israel was like an abandoned child. In 16:4–14 we see the history of Israel from her conception to her glory under Solomon.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:3 birth . . . Amorite . . . Hittite. Cf. v. 45. These names identify the residents of Canaan who occupied the land when Abraham migrated there (cf. Gen. 12:5–6). Jerusalem had the same moral character as the rest of Canaan.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:4–5 Israel, in the day of its birth, was unwanted and uncared for.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:6 Live! The time intended here is probably the patriarchal period of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, when God formed his people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:7 flourish. This refers more to the people than to the land. It seems to refer to the time of Israel's growth during the 430-year stay in Egypt; wild but flourishing and beautiful Israel was "naked," without the benefits of culture and civilization (Gen. 46–Ex. 12; cf. Ex. 1:7, 9, 12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:8–14 This is best taken as the time from the exodus (Ex. 12ff.) through David's reign (1 Kings 2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:8 age for love. This refers to the marriageable state. Spreading his "garment" was a custom of espousal (cf. Ruth 3:9) and indicates that God entered into a covenant with the young nation at Mount Sinai (cf. Ex. 19:5–8). Making a covenant signifies marriage, the figure of God's relation to Israel (cf. Jer. 2:2; 3:1ff.; Hos. 2:2–23).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:9–14 These gifts were marriage gifts customarily presented to a queen. The crowning may refer to the reigns of David and Solomon, when Jerusalem became the royal city. Israel was actually a small kingdom but with a great reputation (cf. 1 Kings 10). This refers to the time from Joshua's conquest of Canaan (Josh. 3ff.) through David's reign (cf. 1 Kings 2) and into Solomon's time (before 1 Kings 11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:14 splendor. The nation was truly a trophy of God's grace (cf. Deut. 7:6–8). The presence and glory of the Lord provided Jerusalem with her beauty and prominence.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:15–34 Continuing the marriage metaphor, this section describes the spiritual harlotry of Israel from Solomon (cf. 1 Kings 11:1) all the way to Ezekiel’s time.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:15–19 A general summary of the nation’s idolatry as she gave herself to the religious practices of the Canaanites. Every gracious gift from God was devoted to idols.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:20–22 sons and your daughters. This refers to the sacrifices of children to pagan gods (cf. 20:25–26, 31; 2 Kings 16:3; 21:6; 23:10; 24:4). God had expressly forbidden this (cf. Deut. 12:31; 18:10). Still, the children were first slain, then burned (cf. Jer. 7:31; 19:5; 32:35; Mic. 6:7) until Josiah’s abolition of it. It had been reinstated in Ezekiel’s day.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:23–30 This section, partly woe and partly lament, spoke to Judah’s obsession with idolatry and her being influenced by Egypt (v. 26), the Philistines (v. 27), Assyria (v. 28), and Chaldea, or Babylon (v. 29).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:27 ashamed. The wickedness and gross evil of the Jews even scandalized pagan Philistines.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:29 Chaldea. They even prostituted themselves with the Babylonians (cf. 2 Kings 20:12–19).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:31–34 It is wicked to solicit and then be paid for immorality. Israel engaged in far worse behavior—she solicited and even paid her idol consorts. This refers to the heavy tribute Israel had to pay to the godless nations.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:35–40 I will . . . uncover your nakedness. Public exposure of profligate women and the stoning of them were well-known customs in ancient Israel, making them a shameful spectacle.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:42 By exacting the full penalty on Israel’s sins in the destruction by Babylon, God’s wrath was to be satisfied.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:44–45 Like mother, like daughter. Judah has followed in the pagan footsteps of her beginnings (cf. v. 3).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:46–59 Judah is compared to Samaria and Sodom, whose judgment for sin was great. Judah was more corrupt (v. 47), multiplied Samaria's and Sodom's sin (v. 51), and committed more abominable sin (v. 52).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:60 I will remember my covenant. God is gracious and he always finds a covenant basis on which he can exercise his grace. The Lord will remember the Abrahamic Covenant (cf. Gen. 12:1ff.) made with Israel in her youth. Restoration will be by grace, not merit. an everlasting covenant. This is the New Covenant, which is unconditional, saving, and everlasting (cf. Ezek. 37:26; Isa. 59:21; 61:8; Jer. 31:31–34; Heb. 8:6–13). The basis of God's grace will not be the Mosaic Covenant, which the Jews could never fulfill, even with the best intentions (cf. Ex. 24:1ff.). When God establishes his eternal covenant, Israel will know that God is the Lord because of his grace.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:63 I atone. This looks to the cross of Christ (cf. Isa. 53), by which God's just wrath on sin was satisfied so that he could grant grace to all who believe (cf. 2 Cor. 5:21).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:1 This chapter is dated about 588 B.C. (two years before the destruction of Jerusalem). The history of the period is in 2 Kings 24; 2 Chron. 36; Jer. 36; 37; 52.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:3 A great eagle. The king of Babylon, in view here, took royal captives and others (vv. 4, 12–13). the cedar. The kingdom of Judah.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:4 topmost of its young twigs. This is Jehoiachin, the king, exiled in 597 B.C. (2 Kings 24:11–16). Babylon is the "trading land" (Ezek. 16:29).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:5–6 seed. Those whom Babylon left in Judah in 597 B.C., who could prosper as a tributary to the conqueror, turned toward him (v. 6).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:6 spreading vine. Refers to Zedekiah (c. 597–586 B.C.), the youngest son of Josiah whom Nebuchadnezzar appointed king in Judah. The benevolent attitude of Nebuchadnezzar helped Zedekiah to prosper, and if he had remained faithful to his pledge to Nebuchadnezzar, Judah would have continued as a tributary kingdom. Instead, he began courting help from Egypt (2 Chron. 36:13), which Jeremiah protested (Jer. 37:5–7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:7 another great eagle. Egypt is meant (v. 15), specifically Pharaoh Apries, a.k.a. Hophra (588–568 B.C.). Zedekiah turned to him to help revolt against Babylon.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:9–10 wither? Zedekiah’s treachery would not prosper. The king was captured in the plains of Jericho (Jer. 52:8). The dependence on Egypt would fail, and Judah would wither as the east wind (a picture of Babylon, cf. Ezek. 13:11–13) blasted her.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:11–21 putting him under oath. The parable is explained in detail. Babylon (v. 12) made Zedekiah a vassal subject to her, took captives, and left Judah weak (vv. 13–14). Zedekiah broke the agreement (v. 15) in which he swore by the Lord to submit to Babylon (2 Chron. 36:13), and sought Egypt’s help, thus he was taken to Babylon to live out his life (Ezek. 17:16, 19; Jer. 39:4–7). Egypt was to be no help to him (Ezek. 17:17) or any protector of his army (v. 21).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:22–23 a sprig from the lofty top. This is messianic prophecy stating that God will provide the Messiah from the royal line of David (“the cedar”) and establish him in his kingdom (like a “mountain,” cf. Dan. 2:35, 44–45). He will be “a sprig” reigning in the height of success. “Sprig,” or “branch,” is a name for Messiah (cf. Ezek. 34:23–24; 37:24–25; Isa. 4:2; Jer. 23:5; 33:15; Zech. 3:8; 6:12). Messiah will be “a tender one” (Ezek. 17:22) growing into a “noble cedar” (v. 23). Under his kingdom rule, all nations will be blessed and Israel restored.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:24 make the dry tree flourish. The Messiah would grow out of the dry tree left after humbling judgment, i.e., Judah’s remnant from which he came of a lowly family (cf. Isa. 6:13), yet would prosper.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:1–32 One of the foundational principles of Scripture is presented in this chapter (also taught in Deut. 24:16; 2 Kings 14:6): Judgment is according to individual faith and conduct. He had foretold national punishment, but the reason was individual sin (cf. Ezek. 3:16–21; 14:12–20; 33:1–20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:2 eaten sour grapes. The people of Judah would not acknowledge their guilt worthy of judgment. Though they were themselves wicked and idolatrous, they blamed their forefathers for their state (cf. 2 Kings 21:15). The rationalizing is expressed in a current proverb (cf. Jer. 31:29) which means, in effect, “They sinned (eaten sour grapes); we inherit the bitterness” (teeth are set on edge).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:3 this proverb shall no more be used. God rejected their blame-shifting and evasion of responsibility.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:4 the soul who sins shall die. God played no favorites, but was fair in holding each individual accountable for his own sin. The death is physical death which, for many, results in eternal death.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:5–18 Two scenarios are proposed to clarify the matter of personal guilt: 1) a righteous father of an unrighteous son (vv. 5–13); and 2) an unrighteous father of a righteous son (vv. 14–18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:5 If a man is righteous. The definition of “righteous” is given in specifics in vv. 6–9. Such behavior could only characterize a genuine believer who was “faithful” from the heart.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:8 not lend at interest. This refers to interest on loans (see notes on Deut. 23:19–20; 24:10–13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:9 he shall surely live. The righteous do die physically for many reasons that do not contradict this principle, e.g., old age, martyrdom, or death in battle. While there are exceptions to “surely live” as to temporal life (cf. 21:3–4), and sometimes the ungodly survive, unlike 18:13 (cf. 14:22–23), there can be absolutely no exceptions in God’s ultimate spiritual reckoning. In every case, the just die to live eternally and the unjust, who never possessed spiritual life, shall perish physically and eternally (John 5:28–29; Rev. 20:11–15). The just will live no matter what the character of his parents or children. For an explanation of Ex. 20:5–6, see the note there.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:10–13 son who is violent. Could such a sinful son claim the merits of his father’s righteousness and live? No! Each person is responsible for his own personal sin.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:14–18 he shall die for his iniquity. This part features an unrighteous father and a righteous son to make the same point. The righteous son shall “surely live” (v. 17).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:19–20 The prophet restated the principle of personal accountability.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:19–29 Cf. 33:12–20.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:21–22 if a wicked person turns. The next case involves an unrighteous person turning to righteousness. He received a clean slate in forgiveness (v. 22), and spiritual life forever.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:23 Have I . . . pleasure. God takes no willful pleasure in the death of the unrighteous (cf. John 5:40; 1 Tim. 2:4; 2 Pet. 3:9).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:24 a righteous person turns. The next scenario is a righteous man turning to a life of sin. His former, apparent righteousness was not genuine (cf. 1 John 2:19), and God did not remember it as a valid expression of faith.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:25–29 Yet you say. God applied the principle in summary to Israel's sin problem (cf. vv. 2–4). They, not he, must acknowledge their lack of equity (cf. vv. 25, 29).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:30 Therefore I will judge. The conclusion is that the just God must judge each person for his own life. But he invites repentance, so that hope may replace ruin (cf. 33:10–11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:31 make . . . a new heart. The key to life eternal and triumph over death is conversion. This involves repentance from sin (vv. 30–31a) and receiving the new heart that God gives with a new spirit, wrought by the Holy Spirit (36:24–27; Jer. 31:34; John 3:5–8).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:32 I have no pleasure. The death of his saints is precious to God (Ps. 116:15). By contrast, he has no such pleasure when a person dies without repentance. While God is sovereign in salvation, man is responsible for his own sin. turn, and live. This was a call to repent and avoid physical and eternal death (cf. Ps. 23:6; 73:24; Isa. 26:19–21; Dan. 12:2–3, 13). Ezekiel was a preacher of repentance and of God's offer of mercy to the penitent.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:1–14 lamentation. This is an elegy in typical lamentation meter (v. 14b), dealing with the captivity of Kings Jehoahaz (609 B.C.) and Jehoiachin (597 B.C.), and the collapse of the Davidic dynasty under Zedekiah (586 B.C.).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:1 the princes of Israel. This refers to the kings of Judah just mentioned.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:1–9 What was your mother? Judah is the “lioness,” just as in v. 10 she is the “vine.” Her cubs symbolize kings who were descendants of David exposed to the corrupting influences of heathen kings (“young lions”).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:3–4 one of her cubs. This refers to Jehoahaz (Shallum), who ruled in 609 B.C. and was deposed by Egypt’s Pharaoh Neco after reigning only three months (v. 4; 2 Kings 23:32–34; 2 Chron. 36:2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:5–9 another of her cubs. This refers to Jehoiachin, who in 597 B.C. was carried to Babylon in a cage as in v. 9 (2 Kings 24:6–15). Though he reigned only three months, he was oppressive and unjust. God used the pagan nations of Egypt and Babylon to judge these wicked kings. The Babylonians kept Jehoiachin imprisoned for 37 years, releasing him at the age of 55 (2 Kings 25:27–30; Jer. 52:31–32).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:10–14 Your mother was like a vine. Judah prospered as a luxuriant vine (v. 10), with strong power and eminence (v. 11). God plucked up the vine in judgment, desolating her (v. 12; cf. 13:11–13), exiling her (19:13), and leaving no strong king (v. 14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:14 The blame for the catastrophe that came to Judah is laid on one ruler, King Zedekiah who was responsible for the burning of Jerusalem because of his treachery (cf. Jer. 38:20–23). The house of David ended in shame and, for nearly 2,600 years since, Israel has had no king of David’s line. When Messiah came, they rejected him and preferred Caesar. Messiah still became their Savior and will return as their King.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:1 the seventh year. C. 591 B.C.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:3–44 elders . . . to inquire. Cf. the similarity in 14:1–3. The prophet responds with a message from the Lord that gives a historical survey of Israel, featuring its uniform pattern of sin. Israel rebelled in Egypt (20:5–9), then in the wilderness trek (vv. 10–26), and the entry into the Land of Promise (vv. 27–32). Through all this, God kept delivering them to save his reputation (vv. 9, 14, 22). Yet sinful obstinacy finally led to his judging them (vv. 45–49). Verses 33–44 speak of his regathering Israel to their land in the future time of Christ's second advent.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:5 I swore. Cf. vv. 5–6, 15, 23, 28, 42. God promised Israel deliverance from Egypt (cf. Ex. 6:2–8).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:25–26 I gave them. God allowed the Jews to live in sin. Cf. v. 32, “Let us be like the nations . . . .” Cf. Ps. 81:11–12; Rom. 1:24–28. Like all human beings, the story of the Jews is one long history of rebellion.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:34 Paul alludes to this in 2 Cor. 6:17. God will someday rule over Israel in the glorious kingdom of Messiah, after the people have repented and been saved (cf. Zech. 12–14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:35 wilderness of the peoples. Other lands where the scattered people of Israel live are pictured as a wilderness in which the Jews will suffer. This is analogous to God's bringing his people from Egypt through the wilderness long ago, before thrusting them into the Promised Land (v. 36).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:37 pass under the rod. God used a shepherd figure here, apt since he was their great shepherd (34:11–13; Jer. 23:5–8). As a shepherd, God brings his sheep home to their fold (cf. Jer. 33:13), has them file in, separating sheep from goats (cf. Matt. 25), passing under his shepherd's rod to be noted and checked for injury. He will bring them into the bond of the New Covenant by giving them his Spirit with life (Ezek. 36:24–27; 37:14; 39:29). This is Israel's final salvation (Rom. 11:26–33).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:38 I will purge out the rebels. God will see that no rebel, no one without the renewing by his Spirit in salvation, will come back to Palestine to have a part in the messianic kingdom. All whom he permits to return will serve him (v. 40), in contrast to those who serve idols (v. 39). The purging takes place during the “time of distress for Jacob” (Jer. 30:7), during the great tribulation (Matt. 24:21).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:39 If they persist in their stubborn idolatry, God will allow them to follow it to their doom. He would also rather have them as out-and-out idolaters than hypocritical patronizers of his worship like they had been (cf. Amos 5:21–26).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:40–42 all . . . in the land. The promised regathering in Messiah’s earthly kingdom is to the very same land—literal Palestine—from which they were scattered (v. 41), expressly the land given to their fathers (36:28; Gen. 12:7). They will “all” be there, repentant (Ezek. 40:43) and saved (Rom. 11:26–27), serving the Lord wholeheartedly, a united nation engaged in purified worship (cf. Ezek. 27:22–23; Isa. 11:13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:44 you shall know. God purposed all of this great restoration so that repentant, renewed Israel knew that he is the Lord, a key theme, as in v. 38. Also, those of other nations will know by this who he is and render him due reverence (v. 41; 36:23–36).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:46–48 preach against the south. The south is Palestine, particularly Judah, usually invaded from the north. Though Babylon was to the east (19:12), its army would swing west toward the Mediterranean Sea and then come south out of the north to invade Judah. The invader (Nebuchadnezzar in 586 B.C.) will overwhelm the land as a sweeping fire (cf. 15:1–8; 19:12; Zech. 11:1–3), devouring trees indiscriminately, green or dry (cf. Ezek. 21:3–4). Palestine had much more “forest” in biblical times.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:49 This demonstrates the elders’ (v. 1) refusal to comprehend Ezekiel’s clear message. To the unwilling heart, there was no understanding.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:1–7 The word . . . came. This is the sign of the sword against Jerusalem (vv. 1–17). God depicts his judgment in terms of a man unsheathing his polished sword for deadly thrusts. God is the swordsman (vv. 3–4), but Babylon is his sword (v. 19). The historical background for this prophecy is Nebuchadnezzar’s 588 B.C. campaign to quell revolts in Judah, as well as Tyre and Ammon.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:3–4 righteous and wicked. In Babylon’s indiscrimination as an invader, people in the army's path die, whether righteous or wicked. This occurs from north to south, through the whole span of Israel's land, tying in with the judgment pictured by fire (20:45–49). Trees green or dry (20:47) probably depict people whether righteous or wicked (21:3–4; cf. Luke 23:31).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:8–17 The sword (Babylon) was “sharpened.”

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:10 despised the rod. Cf. also v. 13. Possibly this affirmed that God's sword, so overwhelming in v. 10a, was to despise the Judean royal scepter (cf. Gen. 49:9–10), which was powerless to stop it and would soon pass away (Ezek. 21:25–27). God's judgment was too strong for this object made of (or partly of) wood, as it holds in contempt all such items of wood. “My son” may refer to Judah (cf. Ex. 4:22–23), or to the king as God's “son,” such as was Solomon (1 Chron. 28:6).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:11 the slayer. God is always the judge and executioner, no matter what he uses.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:12 Strike . . . your thigh. Or it can be translated, “beat your breast.” In either wording, it is an emphatic gesture of grief that the prophet acts out. This accompanies further symbols of grief in his “cry out and wail” (v. 12) and “clap” of hands (vv. 14, 17).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:18–20 This imagery sees Babylon's army on the march coming to a crossroads. The sword is the king of Babylon, Nebuchadnezzar, who is faced with a decision. One sign points to Jerusalem and Judah, the other to Rabbah, the capital of Ammon. In 593 B.C. Ammon had conspired with Judah against Babylon. The king had to decide which place to attack, so he sought his gods through divination (v. 21).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:21 the king . . . stands . . . to use divination. This means to “seek an omen,” to gain guidance from superstitious devices (cf. Isa. 47:8–15). Three methods are available to Babylon's leader. He shook arrows and let them fall, then read a conclusion from the pattern. He looked at Teraphim (idols), or examined an animal liver to gain help from his gods. Actually, the true God controlled this superstition to achieve his will, the attack on Jerusalem and Judah. Later, Nebuchadnezzar attacked Rabbah in Ammon east of the Jordan (Ezek. 21:28–32).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:22 All the paraphernalia of war were prepared.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:23 false divination. The people of Jerusalem thought this superstitious decision was not a true divination and would fail. They were wrong (vv. 24–25).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:25 wicked . . . prince. Zedekiah.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:26 Remove . . . turban . . . crown. God, in the coming judgment on Judah in 588–586 B.C., removed the turban representing the priestly leadership, and the crown picturing the succession of kings. Neither office was fully restored after the captivity. This marked the commencement of “the times of the Gentiles” (Luke 21:24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:27 until he comes. The threefold mention of “ruin” expresses the severest degree of unsettled and chaotic conditions. Israel was to experience severe instability and even the kingly privilege will not be Israel’s again until the coming of the Messiah, “tribute comes to him” (cf. Gen. 49:10). God will give the kingship to him (cf. Jer. 23:5–8), the greater “David” (Ezek. 37:24). His “right” is that perfect combination of priestly and royal offices (cf. Heb. 5–7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:28–32 concerning the Ammonites. The Babylonian armies also were to conquer this people in 582/81 B.C. (cf. 25:1–7). Their “reproach” was the gleeful disdain they heaped on Jerusalem when the city fell, the temple was profaned, and Judeans were taken captive (25:3).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:30 Return it to its sheath. This called for the Ammonites not to resist Babylon, which would be useless, for they would be slaughtered in their own land.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:32 You shall be no more remembered. Israel had a future (v. 27), but God would not give Ammon mercy at the time and let the devastation occur. After this, they were further devastated by Judas Maccabeus’ army, according to an ancient source (1 Macc. 5:6–7). Later, according to Jer. 49:6, God permitted exiles to return to their land. Finally, they disappeared from the family of nations altogether.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:2 the bloody city? Cf. vv. 3–4, 6, 9, 12–13. This refers to Jerusalem because of her judicial murders (vv. 6, 9, 23–27), her sacrifice of children, and her rebellion against Babylon (cf. 24:6).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:4–13 become guilty. At least 17 kinds of sin appear in this indictment of Jerusalem’s blood guiltiness, and more in vv. 25–29. The only restraint on their evil was their ability. They did all the evil they could, and shedding blood seemed to be the most popular.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:5 Cf. Rom. 2:24. God links his honor to the behavior of his people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:9 eat on the mountains. This meant idol worship, which the passage clarifies (v. 4), i.e., eating meals at idol shrines, accompanied by sexual sins, such as those described in vv. 10–11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:14–16 Ezekiel saw not only the punishment in the immediate future, but the worldwide dispersion of the Jews still going on today, which continues for the purging of Israel’s sins.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:16 you shall know. After the defiling dispersion, when the sin has been purged, Israel will come to know the Lord. Many Jews do know him now, but the nation will be saved in the future (cf. Zech. 12–14; Rom. 11:25–27).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:17–22 bronze and tin and iron and lead. This pictures God’s judgment of Jerusalem as a smelting furnace (cf. Isa. 1:22; Jer. 6:28–30; Zech. 13:9; Mal. 3:2–3) that burns away dross and impurities, resulting in purified metal. His wrath was the fire (Ezek. 22:21; an apt term for Babylon’s fiery destruction of the city), and his people were to be refined (v. 20), with the sinful ones removed (cf. 21:13–22). Even in the ultimate day, God will follow this principle in purging his creation of sin (2 Pet. 3:9–14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:25–29 conspiracy. The whole nation was wicked. First, all leaders are indicted for their vicious sin: prophets, priests, princes, then the people in general.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:30 I sought for a man. Ezekiel and Jeremiah were faithful, but apart from them God sought a man capable of advocacy for Israel when its sin had gone so far. But no one could lead the people to repentance and draw the nation back from the brink of the judgment that came in 586 B.C. (Jer. 7:26, 34; 19:15). Only God’s Messiah, God himself, will have the character and the credentials sufficient to do what no man can do, intercede for Israel (cf. Isa. 59:16–19; 63:5; Rev. 5). He was rejected by them in his earthly ministry, so the effects of this judgment continue today, until they turn to him in faith (cf. Zech. 12:10; 13:1).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:2–4 two women. This chapter describes the spiritual infidelity of Israel and Judah, pictured as two sisters, to convey the gravity of sin in Judah. “One mother” refers to the united kingdom, while “two women” refers to the divided kingdom. Oholah, meaning “Her own tabernacle,” as she had her separate dwelling-place apart from the temple, represents Samaria. In the northern kingdom, Jeroboam had set up worship, which God rejected. Oholibah, “My tabernacle is in her,” represents Jerusalem, where God did establish worship.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:5–10 Oholah played the whore. The northern kingdom of Israel was a harlot, in a spiritual sense, by seeking union for fulfillment and security with idolatrous, young, wealthy, attractive Assyria. Assyria turned on her (v. 10), conquered her, and deported Israel in 722 B.C. (2 Kings 17).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:11–21 more corrupt. Cf. 16:47. The focus is Judah’s (the southern kingdom) craving for Babylonian idolatry that alienated her from God. Judah learned nothing from Israel’s punishment (23:13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:12 Assyrians. Ahaz placed Judah under the protection of Assyria (2 Kings 16:7–10), a political move denounced by Isaiah (Isa. 7:13–17).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:14–16 Chaldeans. Judah was drawn to portraits of Babylonian men, done in brilliant colors, lusting for the Chaldean lifestyle. Social and political alliance led to spiritual defection.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:17 into the bed of love. The description portrays spiritual unfaithfulness graphically (v. 30).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:19 Judah renewed her old sins from the days of Egypt, returning to her first degradation.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:22–35 stir up . . . your lovers. God’s anger at Judah’s sin prompted his bringing Babylonians and others to deal severely with her. The passage sets forth how Judah’s companion nations were the instruments of her judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:23 Pekod and Shoa and Koa. Three different Aramean tribes.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:25 cut off your nose and your ears. Atrocities by Babylonians would include facial dismemberment, ancient punishment for an adulteress practiced in Egypt, Chaldea, and elsewhere.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:32–34 drink your sister’s cup. Judah was to experience the “cup” of God’s judgment as Samaria had in 722 B.C. (cf. 23:46–49). Often the idea of “drinking a cup” is symbolic of receiving God’s wrath (cf. Ps. 75:8; Isa. 51:17–22; Jer. 25:15–29; Matt. 20:22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:36–42 The prophet detailed a shameful summary of God’s case against the nation—a double arraignment calling for judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:45 righteous men. This likely refers to the remnant of godly people in the nation who would affirm the justice of judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:1–2 this very day. The time was January 15, 588 B.C. (dating from 597 as in 1:2). The Babylonians began the 18-month siege of Jerusalem (Jer. 39:1–2; 52:4–12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:3–5 utter a parable. The choice cuts of lamb picture God’s flock being boiled in a pot, symbolizing Jerusalem in the heat of the siege. Cf. 11:3. Animal bones were frequently used for fuel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:6 Woe to the bloody city. Jerusalem’s populace was guilty of bloody corruption, which was pictured by the boiled scum or rust in the pot (cf. 22:2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:7 the blood. The city’s blood (a general symbol of sin) was blatantly open, not hidden, as depicted by exposure on top of a rock. When blood was not covered with dust, the law was violated (Lev. 17:13). God’s vengeance would come by Babylon’s army.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:9–10 the pile great . . . bones be burned. Intensely provoked by sin, God wanted Ezekiel to picture the fire as furious judgment that kills the people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:11–12 set it empty. After all pieces (people) were burned up, then the pot was heated empty. This portrayed the Lord’s thorough follow-through by the besieger to totally destroy the city and the temple, with all its residue (cf. the treatment of a leprous house in Lev. 14:34–45).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:16–27 Ezekiel’s wife died as a sign to Israel. All personal sorrow was eclipsed in the universal calamity. Just as Ezekiel was not to mourn the death of his wife (v. 17), so Israel was not to mourn the death of her families (vv. 19–24). Though the text emphasizes how precious his wife was, the “delight of your eyes” (vv. 16, 21), his “pride” and “yearning” (v. 21), he was obedient and submitted to God’s will. He became a heartbreaking sign to his people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:25 on the day. This refers to the destruction of the temple.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:26–27 on that day. One who escaped the destruction of Jerusalem (586 B.C.) would come to Ezekiel in Babylon and report the story. From that day forward, he was to be silent until the captives arrived; then he could speak of Judah (cf. 3:26–27). This was about a two-year period (cf. 33:21; Jer. 52:5–7), when there was no need to preach judgment because it had come. He did speak of other nations (as recorded beginning in Ezek. 25).

The Near East at the Time of Ezekiel

c. 593 B.C.

Ezekiel recorded his visions and prophecies while living in the vicinity of Babylon, where he had been exiled years earlier. By Ezekiel’s time, the Babylonian Empire had engulfed virtually all of the area along the eastern coast of the Mediterranean Sea and would eventually subdue even the land of Egypt, where many other Judeans had fled.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:1 The word of the Lord came. Ezekiel 25:1–32:32 proclaims judgments on seven other nations, similar to the series in Jer. 46–51. Four of them are singled out in this chapter for vindictive jealousy and hate toward Israel. It is fitting, after devoting Ezek. 1–24 to calamity on his chosen nation, that God should reveal his impartiality toward all sinners and give the prophet judgments to proclaim on Gentiles. Israel’s sinful failure had profaned God’s honor in the eyes of these peoples (36:21–23), but these nations had falsely assumed that, when Israel was exiled, their God was defeated.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:2–3 toward the Ammonites. These people lived on the edge of the desert east of the Jordan River and north of Moab. They had joined Babylon against Judah about 600 B.C. (2 Kings 24:2ff.). In 594 B.C., together with other nations, they tried to influence Judah to ally with them against Babylon (Jer. 27:2ff.). Ezekiel 21:18–20 indicates that Babylon came after them. There is no record of an attack, so they must have surrendered (21:28; Zeph. 2:8–11). They were of incestuous origin (cf. Gen. 19:37–38) and often hostile toward Judah (cf. Judg. 10; 1 Sam. 11; 2 Sam. 10; 12; Jer. 49:1–6; Lam. 2:15; Amos 1:13–15). God judged this people because of their enmity against Israel (Ezek. 25:3, 6). They expressed malicious pleasure at the dishonoring of the temple, desolation of the land, and dispersion of the inhabitants.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:4 handing you over to the people of the East. Perhaps this meant the coming of Babylon from the east that would devastate Ammon in either 588–86 B.C. or 582/81 B.C. Or it could refer to their land being occupied by the various nomadic tribes living beyond the Jordan.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:5 Rabbah. This important Ammonite capitol (cf. Amos 1:14), now called Amman, is about 25 miles northeast of the upper tip of the Dead Sea, east of the Jordan River.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:7 make you perish. Ammonites would be destroyed and eliminated from their land. Yet, Jer. 49:6 assures a later return of a remnant of these scattered people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:8–11 Moab and Seir. The origin of these people is given in Gen. 19:37–38. Their land was the area south of the Arnon River along the lower region of the Dead Sea. Cf. Isa. 15–16; Jer. 48; Amos 2:1–3. The Babylonians destroyed cities there in 582/81 B.C. The reason for judgment (Ezek. 25:8) also included their gloating over Israel's fall, as well as their scorn in saying Israel was like all other people with no privileged position before God. Both Ammonites and Moabites became absorbed into the Arabian peoples.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:8 Seir. Another name for the adjacent Edomite area (Gen. 32:3; 36:20–21, 30), dominated by Mount Seir and a mountainous, extremely rugged, rocky country. Her judgments are given in Ezek. 25:12–14.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:12 Edom. Cf. ch. 35; Isa. 21:11–12; Jer. 49:7–22; Amos 1:11–12; Obadiah; Mal. 1:3–5. These people lived south of Moab from the Dead Sea to the Gulf of Aqabah. These people had been almost annihilated by David (2 Sam. 8:14), but won back independence during the reign of Ahaz (c. 735–715 B.C.). Their revenge was hostility to Israel constantly (cf. Gen. 27:27–41; Isa. 34:5–7). The reason for judgment is Edom’s disdain when the Israelites were devastated in 588–86 B.C. They acted like a cheering section for Babylon, “Raze it, raze it” (Ps. 137:7; Lam. 4:21–22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:13–14 against Edom . . . by the hand of my people Israel. The Arab tribe called Nabateans invaded Edom in 325 B.C.; but it was the Jewish forces of Judas Maccabeus in 164 B.C. and John Hyrcanus in 126 B.C. that fully subjugated Edom. Jews even compelled Edomites to submit to their religion. All three of these nations (Ammon, Moab, and Edom) have disappeared as separate nations into the Arab peoples.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:13 Teman . . . Dedan. Reference is to key Edomite towns. Teman (Teima) was possibly 200 miles east of the Dead Sea in the Arabian Desert in the northern expanse of Edom’s territory. Dedan was maybe located 100 miles south of Teman, yet far east of the Red Sea.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:15–17 the Philistines. Cf. Isa. 14:29–32; Jer. 47; Joel 3:4; Amos 1:6–8; Obad. 19; Zeph. 2:4–7; Zech. 9:5. The reason for their judgment was perpetual enmity, and vengeance against Israel, which perpetuated the “old hatred” from as far back as Judg. 13–16. They constantly harassed and oppressed Israel until David broke their power during Saul’s reign (1 Sam. 17). They repeatedly rose up and were subdued by Israel. Nebuchadnezzar invaded their land (Jer. 47).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:16 Cherethites. They originated in Crete and became part of the Philistine nation (see note on 1 Sam. 30:14), with some serving in David’s bodyguard (2 Sam. 8:18; 15:18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:17 great vengeance. This was fulfilled at the time of Babylon’s invasion of 588–86 B.C. or 582/81 B.C. (cf. Jer. 25:20; 47:1–7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:1 the eleventh year. In 586 B.C., the eleventh year of Jehoiachin’s captivity, on the tenth day of the fifth month, Jerusalem was captured.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:3–4 I am against you, O Tyre. The judgment of this city covers three chs. (26–28), indicating its importance to God. Cf. Isa. 23; Amos 1:9–10. Tyre was an ancient city of the Phoenicians, appearing for the first time in Josh. 19:29. During the reigns of David and Solomon it had great influence. Hiram, its king, was a friend to David (2 Sam. 5:11), who helped him and Solomon in building operations (cf. 1 Kings 5:1–12; 1 Chron. 14:1; 2 Chron. 2:3, 11). Later, Tyrians sold Jews into slavery (cf. Joel 3:4–8; Amos 1:9–10). God would move “many nations” to invade Tyre, the commercial center of the Mediterranean (cf. Ezek. 27:3), in successive attacks pictured by wave following wave. Babylon (26:7) besieged Tyre from 585–573 B.C.; later came Alexander’s Grecian army in 332 B.C. Babylon had devastated the coastal city, but many Tyrians escaped to an island fortress, which withstood attack. The later Grecian attackers “scraped” all the remaining “debris” and rubble and dumped it into the sea, building a causeway to the island nearly a half mile out. They also brought ships and overcame the fortress defenders in a devastating assault on Tyre. The predictions in chs. 26–28 have been fulfilled with amazing literal accuracy.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:5, 14 for the spreading of nets. Tyre became a fishing city, a place to spread fishing nets for centuries, until the Saracens finally destroyed what was left in the fourth century. Since then the once great center of Mediterranean commerce has been a nondescript village.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:7–14 Here is a vivid description of the original devastation by Babylon’s King Nebuchadnezzar called “king of kings” (v. 7) because so many other rulers were subject to him. God had given him universal rule (cf. Dan. 2:37). Ezekiel 26:8–9 describes the siege, vv. 10–14, the devastation.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:12 They will plunder. After Nebuchadnezzar in v. 7 and “he” and “his” in vv. 8–11, “they” in v. 12 appears to broaden the reference to others among the “many nations” (v. 3). At this point, “they” are not only Babylonians, but also Alexander’s army, which later heaped debris from the ruins into the sea to advance to the island stronghold (cf. Zech. 9:3–4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:13 songs . . . lyres. According to Isa. 23:16, Tyre was famous for musicians.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:15–18 So important a center of commerce could not be destroyed without affecting all the nearby nations. All the nations around the Mediterranean would consider Tyre’s fall a calamity. According to customs of mourning, rulers would descend from their thrones and disrobe.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:19–21 Tyre’s destruction is compared to a dead person placed in the grave.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:1–11 a lamentation over Tyre. The whole chapter is a lamentation, describing Tyre as a great trade ship destroyed on the high seas. The proper names indicate the participants in commerce with Tyre.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:5–9 fir trees from Senir. The area is the Amorite designation for Mount Hermon, to the northeast from the northern tip of the Sea of Galilee. Lesser known places were: Elishah (v. 7), believed to be in Cyprus; Arvad (v. 8), an island city off the Mediterranean coast north of Byblos; and Gebal (v. 9), a name also used for Byblos, north of today's Beirut.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:10–11 men of war. These places provided mercenary soldiers for the Phoenician army to defend Tyre.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:11 Arvad. See note on vv. 5–9. men of Gamad. People from a place often identified as northern Aram, or Syria.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:12 Tarshish. This verse begins the description of the commercial glory of Tyre. Most likely this place refers to Tarshishah in southern Spain, a Phoenician colony famous for silver (Jer. 10:9).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:13 Javan, Tubal, and Meshech. Javan was Ionia, a large area in Greece. The other two, in Asia Minor, may be the Tibarenoi and Moschoi mentioned by the writer Herodotus, or slave-trading cities called Tabal and Mushku by the Assyrians.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:14 Beth-togarmah. Beth-togarmah is identified with Armenia in northeast Asia Minor, which is modern Turkey.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:15 Dedan. Probably Rhodes.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:17 Minnith. An Ammonite town (Judg. 11:33).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:18 Helbon. Today it is called Halbun, 13 miles north of Damascus.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:19 Uzal. A Danite area is not meant; but translators are not sure which areas are designated by this and Javan. cassia. A perfume.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:21 Kedar. Refers to nomadic Bedouin tribes.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:22 Sheba and Raamah. These were cities in the southwest extremity of Arabia (Gen. 10:7; 1 Chron. 1:9).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:23 Haran, Canneh, Eden. All were Mesopotamian towns; Canneh may have been in northern Syria, the Calneh of Amos 6:2, or the Caino of Isa. 10:9. Asshur, and Chilmad. These were also in Mesopotamia.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:25 ships of Tarshish. The large cargo carrying sea ships that sailed across the Mediterranean.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:26–27 The east wind has wrecked. This pictures Tyre's fall aptly as a shipwreck on the seas. The sea, the place of her glory, will be her grave. "The east wind" is a picture of Babylon in its power from the east (cf. 13:11–13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:28–35 the cry. This maintains the metaphor of Tyre as a ship and turns particularly to men lamenting her ruin, for their livelihood has been tied to the commerce she represents. Verses 30–32 describe common actions signifying mourning.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:36 There will be some who scorn with malicious joy.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:1–19 This section concerning the king of Tyre is similar to Isa. 14:3–23 referring to the king of Babylon. In both passages, some of the language best fits Satan. Most likely, both texts primarily describe the human king who is being used by Satan, much like Peter when Jesus said to him, "Get behind me, Satan!" (Matt. 16:23). The judgment can certainly apply to Satan also.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:2 to the prince of Tyre. Since "leader," or "prince," is sometimes used to mean "the king" (37:24–25), the "prince" in v. 2 is the "king" in v. 12, Itto-baal II. The prophet is dealing with the spirit of Tyre more than just the king. This prophecy is dated shortly before the siege of Tyre by Nebuchadnezzar (585–573 B.C.). I am a god. Many ancient kings claimed to be a god, and acted as if they were (v. 6). When this king claimed to be a god, he was displaying the same proud attitude as the serpent who promised Adam and Eve they could be like God (Gen. 3:5).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:3–5 wiser than Daniel. This is said in sarcastic derision of the leader's own exaggerated claims. Here is an indicator that Daniel, who had been captive for years in Babylon, had become well known.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:6–10 foreigners upon you . . . foreigners. The reference is to invading Babylonians, and later the Greeks (cf. ch. 26). God was the true executioner.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:11–19 This lament over “the king of Tyre” reached behind to the real supernatural source of wickedness, Satan. Cf. Matt. 16:21–23, where Peter was rebuked by the Lord, as under satanic control and motivation.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:12 the signet of perfection. The Lord led Ezekiel to address the king as the one to be judged, but clearly the power behind him was Satan. This phrase must be associated with Satan as one perfect in angelic beauty before he rebelled against God. But, it can also relate to “perfection” in the same context of Tyre’s enterprise, topmost in its trade to the ancient world (27:3–4, 11), glorious in her seafaring efforts (27:24), and the crowning city (Isa. 23:8), i.e., “perfect” as Jerusalem also is said to be (Ezek. 16:14; Lam. 2:15). full of wisdom. This referred to Satan’s wisdom as an angel and to Tyre’s wisdom (skill) in trade (cf. 27:8–9; 28:4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:13 You were in Eden. This could be Satan in the Garden of Eden (Gen. 3:1–15), or it might refer to Tyre’s king in a beautiful environment, a kind of Eden. every precious stone. This depicts Satan’s rich investiture (Gen. 2:12), and/or Tyre’s king possessing every beautiful stone as Solomon had (1 Kings 10:10). crafted . . . were your settings. This could refer both to Satan’s once being in charge of heavenly praise and to Tyre’s beautiful musical instruments used in celebration (Ezek. 26:13). you were created. Satan, however, is more likely to have such wealth and beauty, wisdom, and perfection at his creation than this earthly king would have at his birth.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:14 anointed guardian cherub. This refers to Satan in his exalted privilege as an angel guarding (i.e., covering) God’s throne, as cherubim guarded Eden (Gen. 3:24). Satan originally had continuous and unrestricted access to the glorious presence of God. I placed you. This was true of both Satan, by God’s sovereign permission, and Tyre’s king. you were on the holy mountain. A high privilege is meant, whether referring to Satan before God in his kingdom (mountain, cf. Dan. 2:35), or Tyre’s monarch described in a picturesque analogy, as Assyria can be described as a cedar in Lebanon (Ezek. 31:3) to convey a picture of towering height.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:15 blameless in your ways. This verse was not completely true of the king, but it was accurate of Satan before he sinned. till unrighteousness was found in you. Satan's sin of pride (cf. Isa. 14:14; 1 Tim. 3:6) is in view here.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:16 The description transitions to feature the king of Tyre, describing his demise, as he followed the pattern of Satan himself.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:17–19 I exposed you before kings. It would be difficult to relate this to Satan. The earthly king of Tyre, in his downfall, would be knocked or cast to the ground, cut down, and lie before the gaze of other kings. From Isa. 23:17 there is the implication of a revival under Persian rule (Neh. 13:16). Two hundred and fifty years after Nebuchadnezzar, Tyre was strong enough to hold off Alexander for seven years. The Romans made it a capital of the province. Gradually it disappeared, and its location is not prominent.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:21 Sidon. Sidon (vv. 20–24) is a sister seaport to Tyre in Phoenicia, 23 miles north. Even in the time of the judges (Judg. 10:6), the corrupting influence of this place had begun. It was the headquarters for Baal worship.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:22–23 judgments in her. God is to bring bloodshed and pestilence on people there, probably at the time he brings an invasion against Tyre.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:24 no more a brier to prick. This is a summary of the judgment scenarios so far revealed (chs. 25–28). The enemies of Israel would be so devastated by God that 1) they would no longer be pestering Israel, and 2) they would see that the God who judges them is the true God of Israel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:25–26 When I gather. In this brief excursus of hope, God promised to restore Israel to the land of Palestine (cf. chs. 34; 36–39; Isa. 65:21; Jer. 30–33; Amos 9:14–15). This looks to Messiah's earthly kingdom.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:1 the tenth year. 587 B.C. is the tenth year after Jehoiachin's deportation. It is a year and two days after Nebuchadnezzar had come to Jerusalem (24:1–2; 2 Kings 25:1) and seven months before its destruction (2 Kings 25:3–8). This is the first of seven oracles against Egypt (cf. Ezek. 29:17; 30:1; 32:1, 17).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:2 against all Egypt. Cf. Isa. 19 and Jer. 46:1–26. Egypt was to fall, even though it could be pictured as a water monster (Ezek. 29:3–5), a towering tree like Assyria (31:3), a young lion (32:2), and a sea monster (32:2–8). The judgment looks ahead to 570 B.C. when the Greeks of Cyrene defeated Pharaoh (Apries) Hophra and 568/67 B.C. when Babylon conquered Egypt.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:3 great dragon. Most likely the crocodile is the figure used for the king. Crocodiles were worshiped by the Egyptians, and lived in their rivers. “Rahab” is a general term used for a monster that often symbolized Egypt. See notes on Ps. 87:4; 89:10; Isa. 30:7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:4 fish of your streams. This figuratively represents the people who followed Pharaoh and who were a part of God’s judgment on Egypt as a whole (vv. 5–6a).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:6 a staff of reed. The Israelites had depended on Egyptians in military alliances as people lean on a staff that gives way, failing them. Egypt had betrayed the confidence of Israel as God said they would (cf. Jer. 17:5, 7). Because Israel never should have trusted Egypt does not lessen Egypt’s judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:9 The Nile. The Nile River was the water supply for all Egypt’s crops. See note on v. 19.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:10 from Migdol to Syene. This covered the entirety of Egypt, since Migdol (Ex. 14:2) was in the north and Syene in the southern border of “Cush.”

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:11–12 be uninhabited forty years. Although difficult to pinpoint, one possibility is that this period was when Babylon, under Nebuchadnezzar, reigned supreme in Egypt (vv. 19–20), from c. 568/67 B.C. to 525 B.C. until Cyrus gained Persian control.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:13–16 I will gather the Egyptians. Egypt regained normalcy as is currently true, but never again reached the pinnacle of international prominence she once enjoyed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:17 the twenty-seventh year. This is 571/70 B.C. as counted from the captivity of Jehoiachin in 597 B.C., about 17 years after the prophecy in vv. 1–16.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:18 labor . . . against Tyre. In c. 585–573 B.C., Nebuchadnezzar besieged Tyre for 13 years before subduing the city (cf. 26:1–28:19). Tyrians retreated to an island bastion out in the sea and survived, not giving Babylon full satisfaction in spoils (“pay”) equal to such long struggle.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:19 I will give the land of Egypt. To make up for Babylon’s lack of sufficient reward from Tyre, God allowed a Babylonian conquest of Egypt in 568/67 B.C. Babylon’s army had worked as an instrument that God used to bring down Egypt.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:21 I will cause a horn to spring. Cf. 23:25–26. God caused Israel’s power to return and restored her authority as the power in an animal’s horn (cf. 1 Sam. 2:1). Though other nations subdued her, her latter end in messianic times will be blessed. I will open your lips. Most likely this refers to the day when Ezekiel’s writings would be understood by looking back at their fulfillment. His muteness had already ceased in 586/585 B.C. when Jerusalem fell (cf. Ezek. 33:21–22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:3 the day of the Lord is near. This is a common expression for God’s judgment, especially his future judgment (cf. Joel 1:15; 2:1, 11; 3:14; Zech. 14:1; 1 Thess. 5:2; 2 Thess. 2:2; 2 Pet. 3:10). God’s judgment “day” for Egypt embraces a near fulfillment in Babylon’s 568/67 invasion (Ezek. 30:10; 32:11), as well as the distant day of the Lord in the future tribulation period when God calls all nations to judgment (Dan. 11:42–43). See note on Isa. 2:12.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:5 Cush, and Put, and Lud. See notes on 27:10–11 and 29:10. Libya. Or, Cub, an unidentified nation, along with the “people of the land that is in league.” These also may have been mercenaries in Egypt’s army, like the previous ones in this verse.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:6 Migdol to Syene. See note on 29:10.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:8 helpers. All Egypt’s alliances and their arms will be useless in the day of God’s judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:9 Apparently, the Egyptians will flee the horrors to Ethiopia and increase that nation’s fear of its own inevitable judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:10–11 Nebuchadnezzar was God’s instrument.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:12 dry. Apart from the Nile and its branches, Egypt was a barren desert. Her life depended on an annual inundation of the land by the flooding Nile.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:14 Pathros. The large region south of Memphis. Zoan. This key city of the Nile Delta’s eastern portion was called Tanis by Greeks.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:15 Pelusium. Ancient Pelusium was a key city at the tip of the Nile’s eastern arm near the Mediterranean Sea. Since Thebes and Pelusium were at opposite borders of Egypt and so many cities are named, the passage speaks of judgment on the entire land.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:17 Pi-beseth. The city was on the northeast branch of the Nile where cats were mummified in honor of the cat-headed goddess, Ugastet.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:18 Tehaphnehes. This city, named after the Egyptian queen, was a residence of the pharaohs.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:20 the eleventh year. C. 587 B.C., counted from the deportation of Judah in 597 B.C.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:21 I have broken the arm. God figuratively depicted his act of taking power from Egypt through Nebuchadnezzar, resulting in defeat and dispersion (vv. 23, 26).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:22 break his arms. Both the defeat of Pharaoh Hophra (cf. Jer. 37:5ff.) and the earlier defeat of Pharaoh Neco at Carchemish (cf. 2 Kings 24:7; Jer. 46:2) are in view.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:26 People often don't learn that God is Lord until judgment falls.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:1 the eleventh year. 587 B.C. Two months after the oracle of 30:20–26.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:2–18 Whom are you like . . . ? Ezekiel filled this chapter with a metaphor/analogy comparing Egypt to a huge tree that dominates a forest to a king/nation that dominates the world (cf. 17:22–24; Dan. 4:1–12, 19–27). He reasoned that just as a strong tree like Assyria (Ezek. 31:3) fell (c. 609 B.C.), so will Egypt (c. 568 B.C.). If the Egyptians tend to be proud and feel invincible, let them remember how powerful Assyria had fallen already.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:3 cedar in Lebanon. The trees were as high as 80 feet and were an example of supreme power and domination, particularly the great cedars that grew in the mountains north of Israel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:8–9 garden of God . . . trees of Eden. (36:35; Gen. 13:10; Isa. 51:3; Joel 2:3). Since Assyria was in the area of the Garden of Eden, Ezekiel used the ultimate of gardens as a point of relative reference by which to describe tree-like Assyria.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:10 Because it towered high. Ezekiel shifted from the historical illustration of Assyria's pride and fall to the reality of Egypt. God was using Assyria to teach the nations the folly of earthly power and might.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:14–16 the pit. The scene shifts from earth and the garden of God to the grave (cf. 32:18), as God again refers to the destruction of Assyria and all her allies (“all the trees . . . that drink water”).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:18 Whom are you thus like . . . ? Egypt, like all the other great nations, including Assyria, will be felled by God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:1 the twelfth year. 585 B.C., 12 years from the deportation of Judah in 597 B.C.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:2 a lion. The picture describes Egypt’s deadly energetic stalking power in her dealings with other nations. She was also violent like the crocodile, or “great dragon” (cf. 29:3).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:3–6 throw my net over you. God will entrap Egypt as a net ensnares a lion or crocodile, using “many peoples” (soldiers). Egyptians will fall, their corpses gorge birds and beasts, and their blood soak the earth and waters.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:7–8 blot you. This is likely a reference to Pharaoh, whose life and power is extinguished, and all the rest of the leaders and people basking in his light are plunged into darkness.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:11–12 The sword of . . . Babylon. This is the definite identification of the conqueror, as in 30:10 when Nebuchadnezzar is actually named (cf. 21:19; 29:19; Jer. 46:26).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:13–14 With no men or beasts to stir up the mud in the Nile and its branches, the water will be clear and flow smoothly. Since the river was the center of all life, this pictures the devastation graphically.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:17 the twelfth year. 585 B.C. reckoned from 597 B.C.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:18 majestic nations. All other countries that have been conquered. the pit. Refers to Sheol/grave (cf. 31:14–16).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:19–21 The prophet followed Egypt and her people beyond the grave. The king of Egypt is addressed by the other nations in “Sheol,” taunting him as he is on the same level with them. This shows that there is conscious existence and fixed destiny beyond death. See Luke 16:19–31.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:22 Assyria is there. The slain of several nations are pictured in the afterlife: Assyria (vv. 22–23), Elam (vv. 24–25), Meshech and Tubal (vv. 26–28; cf. 38:1–2, and see notes there), and Edom (32:29–30). Although mighty for a time on earth, the fallen lie as defeated equals in death, all conquered by God and consigned to eternal hell (v. 21).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:31–32 Pharaoh . . . comforted. A strange comfort coming from the recognition that he and his people were not alone in misery and doom.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:1–33 The word . . . came. This chapter is a transition between God’s judgments against Jerusalem and the nations (chs. 1–32) and Israel’s bright future when she is restored to her land (chs. 34–48). It provided God’s instructions for national repentance, and is thus the preface to the prophecies of comfort and salvation that follow (chs. 34–39).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:2–20 speak to your people. This was given to prepare the exiles’ minds to look on the awful calamity in Jerusalem as a just act by God (cf. 14:21–23). He had faithfully warned, but they did not pay heed. Ezekiel had been forbidden to speak to his people from 24:26–27, until Jerusalem was captured. Meanwhile, he had spoken to the foreign nations (chs. 25–32).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:2–9 watchman. Such men as Jeremiah and Ezekiel (cf. 3:16–21) were spiritual watchmen (33:7–9), warning that God would bring a sword on his people so that they had opportunity to prepare and be safe. This analogy came from the custom of putting guards on the city wall watching for the approach of danger, then trumpeting the warning. For the function of a watchman, cf. 2 Sam. 18:24–25; 2 Kings 9:17; Jer. 4:5; 6:1; Hos. 8:1; Amos 3:6; Hab. 2:1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:4 his blood . . . upon his own head. Once the watchman did his duty, the responsibility passed to each person. See the notes on ch. 18, where each person is accountable for his own response to God’s warnings, whether to die in judgment or to live as one who heeded and repented. Ezekiel had been a very faithful and obedient “watchman.”

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:8–9 his blood I will require. A prophet who sounded the warning of repentance for sin was not to be judged (v. 9), but the one who failed to deliver the message was held accountable (v. 8). This referred to unfaithfulness on the part of the prophet for which he bore responsibility and was chastened by God. See the notes on ch. 18 and Acts 20:26.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:10–11 How then can we live? The Israelites reasoned that if they were liable to death in judgment that was inevitable, they were in a hopeless condition and had no future. God replied that he had no pleasure in seeing the wicked go into death for their sin, but desired them to repent and live (cf. 2 Pet. 3:9). The divine answer to the human question is “Repent and be saved!” (cf. Ezek. 18:23, 30–32). Here was a blending of compassion with the demands of God’s holiness. Repentance and forgiveness were offered to all.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:12–20 See notes on 18:19–29. One of the basic principles of God’s dealing with his people is presented here: judgment is according to personal faith and conduct. The discussion is not about eternal salvation and eternal death, but physical death in judgment for sin which, for believers, could not result in eternal death. The righteous behavior in v. 15 could only characterize a true believer, who was faithful from the heart. There is no distinction made as to the matter of who is a true believer in God. There is only a discussion of the issue of behavior as a factor in physical death. For those who were apostate idolaters, physical death would lead to eternal death. For believers who were lovers of the true God, their sin would lead only to physical punishment (cf. 1 Cor. 11:28–31; 1 John 5:16–17). “Righteous” and “wicked” are terms describing behavior, not one’s position before God. It is not the “righteousness of God” imputed as illustrated in the case of Abraham (Gen. 15:6; Rom. 4:3–5), but rather one’s deeds that are in view (Ezek. 33:15–19).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:17, 20 not just. They blamed God for their calamities when actually they were being judged for their sins.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:21 The city has been struck down. A fugitive or fugitives (the Hebrew could be a collective noun) who escaped from Jerusalem reached Ezekiel with the report on January 8, 585 B.C., almost six months after the fall on July 18, 586 (Jer. 39:1–2; 52:5–7). Ezekiel 24:1–2 and 33:21 show a 36-month span from the outset of the siege on January 15, 588, to the report in 33:21.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:22 opened my mouth. God exercised control over the mouth of Ezekiel (see note on 3:26–27).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:23–29 There is no date attached to the prophecies from 33:23–39:29, but the first message after the fall of Jerusalem was a rebuke of Israel’s carnal confidence. This prophecy was against the remnant of Judah who remained in the Land of Promise after the fall of Jerusalem. Ezekiel warns the survivors that more judgment will come on them if they do not obey God. By some strange reasoning, they thought that if God had given the land to Abraham when he was alone, it would be more securely theirs because they were many in number, a claim based on quantity rather than quality (33:24). But judgment will come if they turn and reject God again (vv. 25–29).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:30–33 Here was a message to exiles, who had no intention of obeying the prophet’s messages. They liked to listen, but not apply the prophet’s words. They finally knew by bitter experience that he had spoken the truth of God. The people appreciated the eloquence of Ezekiel, but not the reality of his message.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:1 From this chapter on, Ezekiel’s messages are mostly comforting, telling of God’s grace and faithfulness to his covenant promises.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:2 prophecy against the shepherds. The reference was to preexilic leaders such as kings, priests, and prophets, i.e., false ones who fleeced the flock for personal gain (vv. 3–4) rather than fed or led righteously (as 22:25–28; Jer. 14; 23; Zech. 11). This stands in contrast to the Lord as Shepherd in Ps. 23; 80:1; Isa. 40:11; Jer. 31:10; Luke 15:4–5; John 10:1ff.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:5 food for all the wild beasts. The beast pictured nations that prey on Israel (cf. Dan. 7:3–7), though it could possibly include actual wild beasts, as in Ezek. 14:21. Cf. 34:25–28 and see notes there.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:9–10 This was no idle threat, as proven by the case of King Zedekiah (cf. Jer. 52:10–11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:11 I . . . will search. God, the true Shepherd, would search out and find his sheep in order to restore Israel to their land for the kingdom that the Messiah leads (vv. 12–14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:12 a day of clouds and thick darkness. This refers to the “day of the Lord” judgment on Israel (cf. Jer. 30:4–7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:12–14 Here is the promise of a literal regathering and restoration of the people of Israel to their own land from their worldwide dispersion. Since the scattering was literal, the regathering must also be literal. Once they are regathered in Messiah's kingdom, they will no longer want (vv. 15–16).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:15–16 I will feed them. In contrast to self-indulgent leaders who took advantage of the sheep, God will meet the needs of his sheep (people). This is clearly reminiscent of Psa. 23 and will be fulfilled by the good shepherd (John 10:1ff.), who will reign as Israel's Shepherd.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:17–22 judge between. Once he has judged the leaders, God will also judge the abusive members of the flock as to their true spiritual state. This passage anticipates the judgment of the people given by Jesus Christ in Matt. 25:31–46. The ungodly are known because they trample the poor. The Lord alone is able to sort out the true from the false (cf. parables of Matt. 13), and will do so in the final kingdom.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:23 one shepherd . . . David. This refers to the greater One in David's dynasty (cf. 2 Sam. 7:12–16), the Messiah, who will be Israel's ultimate king over the millennial kingdom (Ezek. 37:24–26; Jer. 30:9; Hos. 3:5; Zech. 14:9). The Lord in Ezek. 34:24 is God the Father.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:24 prince. The word can at times be used of the king himself (37:24–25; cf. 28:2, 12), as here.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:25 covenant of peace. Refers to the New Covenant of Jer. 31:31–34 (cf. Ezek. 37:26) in full operation during the millennial kingdom. wild beasts. This refers to actual animals that will be tamed in the kingdom, see Isa. 11:6–9; 35:9 and Hos. 2:18.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:26 my hill. A reference to Jerusalem and Zion in particular, where the Jews will come to worship the Lord. showers of blessing. Cf. the "times of refreshing" in Acts 3:19–20, when the curses of Deut. 28:15–68 are lifted.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:27 The faithfulness of the land is also indicated in Amos 9:13.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:28–29 no more be a prey. God will stop other nations from subjugating the people of Israel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:30 I . . . their God. An oft-repeated OT theme (cf. Gen. 17:7–8). This speaks of the ultimate salvation of Israel as in Rom. 11:25–27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:2 against Mount Seir. Cf. Isa. 21:11–12; Jer. 49:7–22; Amos 1:11–12; Obadiah. This is another name for Edom (cf. Ezek. 35:5; Gen. 32:3; 38:6), also threatened with judgment in Ezek. 25:12–14 (see notes there). Edom was considered Israel’s most inveterate and bitter enemy (cf. Ps. 137:7; Mal. 1:2–5) and was located east of the Arabah from the Dead Sea to the Gulf of Aqabah. The main cities were Teman and Petra, now in ruins.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:3–4 This prediction (cf. vv. 6–9) came to pass literally, first by Nebuchadnezzar and later in 126 B.C. by John Hyrcanus. There is no trace of Edomites now, though their desolate cities can be identified as predicted by Obadiah (Obad. 18) and Jeremiah (Jer. 49:13). Cf. Ezek. 35:6–9.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:5 Because. God will judge Edom because of 1) her perpetual enmity against Israel since Esau’s hatred of Jacob (Gen. 25–28), and 2) Edom’s spiteful bloodshed against the Israelites trying to escape the Babylonians in 586 B.C.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:10 Because. A further reason for Edom’s doom is her design to snatch control of the territory occupied by “two nations,” i.e., Israel (north) and Judah (south). They plotted to take over these nations for their own gain (v. 12), but were prevented and destroyed because “the Lord was there.”

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:11–12 anger . . . envy . . . hatred. Here were more reasons for Edom’s destruction.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:13 you magnified yourselves against me. Still another reason for judgment was Edom’s proud ambitions that were really against God (cf. v. 10, “although the Lord was there”).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:15 As you rejoiced. This final reason for doom was Edom’s joy over Israel’s calamity. they will know. The ultimate aim in Edom’s judgment is that “the whole earth” (v. 14) may know he is the Lord and see his glory. Sadly, sinners find this out only in their own destruction. Cf. Heb. 10:31.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:1 This chapter presents the prerequisite regeneration that Israel must experience before they can nationally enter into the promised blessings. This chapter must be understood to speak of a literal Israel, a literal land, and a literal regeneration, leading to a literal kingdom under Messiah. prophecy to the mountains. Cf. vv. 1, 4, 6, 8. Ezekiel addresses Israel's mountains, as symbolic of the whole nation. He promises: 1) to give these mountains again to dispersed Israel (v. 12); 2) to cause fruit to grow on them (v. 8); 3) to rebuild cities and to multiply people there (v. 10); and 4) to bless in a greater way than in the past (v. 11). This promise can only be fulfilled in future millennial blessing to Israel that she has not yet experienced, because it includes the salvation of the New Covenant (vv. 25–27, 29, 31, 33).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:2–15 This section continues the prophecy against Edom from ch. 35.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:2 Because the enemy said. God will restore these areas to Israel that their enemies claim to possess (cf. Gen. 12:7). They will pay for their spite against Israel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:7 I swear. God testifies, as a formal pledge, that he will bring a turnabout in which the nations that seized the land will be shamed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:8–15 Israel's land will be productive (vv. 8–9), populated (vv. 10–11), and peaceful (vv. 12–15). These features will be fully realized in the Messiah's kingdom. The return from Babylon was only a partial fulfillment and foreshadowing of the fullness to come in the future kingdom.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:16–19 Ezekiel gives a backward look to underscore why Israel had suffered the past judgments by the Lord. It was because the Jews had “defiled” their land by their sins that the Lord purged it. He likened such a defilement to a menstrual condition (v. 17).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:20 they profaned my holy name. Even in dispersion, Israelites tainted God's honor in the sight of the heathen, who concluded that the Lord of this exiled people was not powerful enough to keep them in their land.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:21–23 for my holy name. Restoring Israel to the land that God pledged in covenant (Gen. 12:7) will sanctify his great name, and move other peoples to “know that I am the Lord.” This glory for God is the primary reason for Israel's restoration (cf. Ezek. 36:32).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:24 bring you into your own land. God assured Israel that he will bring them out of other lands back to the Promised Land (v. 24), the very land from which he scattered them (v. 20). It is the same “land that I gave to your fathers” (v. 28), a land distinct from those of other nations (v. 36), and a land whose cities will be inhabited by those who return (vv. 33, 36, 38). The establishment of the modern state of Israel indicates this has initially begun.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:25–27 I will sprinkle clean water. Along with the physical reality of a return to the land, God pledged spiritual renewal: 1) cleansing from sin; 2) a new heart of the New Covenant (cf. Jer. 31:31–34); 3) a new spirit or disposition inclined to worship him; and 4) his Spirit dwelling in them, enabling them to walk in obedience to his word. This has not happened, because Israel has not trusted Jesus Christ as Messiah and Savior, but it will before the kingdom of Messiah (cf. Zech. 12–14; Rom. 11:25–27; Rev. 11:13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:25–31 This section is among the most glorious in all Scripture on the subject of Israel’s restoration to the Lord and national salvation. This salvation is described in v. 25 as a cleansing that will wash away sin. Such washing was symbolized in the Mosaic rites of purification (cf. Num. 19:17–19; Ps. 119:9; Isa. 4:4; Zech. 13:1). For the concept of sprinkling in cleansing, see Ps. 51:7, 10; Heb. 9:13; 10:22. This is the washing Paul wrote of in Eph. 5:26 and Titus 3:5. Jesus had this very promise in mind in John 3:5.

What was figuratively described in Ezek. 36:25 is explained as literal in vv. 26–27. The gift of the “new heart” signifies the new birth, which is regeneration by the Holy Spirit (cf. 11:18–20). The “heart” stands for the whole nature. The “spirit” indicates the governing power of the mind, which directs thought and conduct. A “heart of stone” is stubborn and self-willed. A “heart of flesh” is pliable and responsive. The evil inclination is removed and a new nature replaces it. This is New Covenant character as in Jer. 31:31–34. The Lord will also give his “Spirit” to the faithful Jews (cf. Ezek. 39:29; Isa. 44:3; 59:21; Joel 2:28–29; Acts 2:16ff.). When Israel becomes the true people of God (Ezek. 36:28), the judgment promise of Hos. 1:9 is nullified. All nature will experience the blessings of Israel’s salvation (Ezek. 36:29–30). When the Jews have experienced such grace, they will be even more repentant—a sign of true conversion (v. 31).

Ezekiel profoundly proclaims the doctrines of conversion and spiritual life. He includes forgiveness (v. 25), regeneration (v. 26), the indwelling Holy Spirit (v. 27), and the responsive obedience to God’s law (v. 27). These are all clearly presented as he prophesies Israel’s conversion. As a nation, they will truly know their God (v. 38), hate their sin (vv. 31–32), and glorify their Savior (v. 32).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:32 not for your sake. God’s glory and reputation among the nations, not Israel’s, causes this restoration to be promised (cf. Ps. 115:1; Acts 5:41; Rom. 1:5; 3 John 7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:35 the garden. Millennial conditions will be similar (not identical) to those in Eden (cf. 47:1–12; Isa. 35:1–2; 55:13; Zech. 8:12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:37 ask me to do for them. God will sovereignly work this return/renewal, yet give Israelites the human privilege of praying for it to be realized. This prophecy was to stir up the people’s prayers.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:37–38 increase their people. There will be an increase in the population during the Millennium. When the male population came to Jerusalem, they brought vast numbers of animals for sacrifice. That was small compared to future kingdom conditions.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:1 brought me . . . in the Spirit. Verses 1–14 involves another vision. God does not change Ezekiel’s location but gives him a vivid inward sense that he has been taken to a valley “full of bones.” (For other visions, cf. 1:1–3:15; 8:1–11:24; 40:1–48:35.) This passage, part of a series of revelations received during the night before the messenger came with the news of the destruction of Jerusalem, was to ease the gloom of the people. in the middle of the valley. It no doubt represents the world area wherever Israelites were scattered (cf. 37:12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:2 very dry. This pictures the dead nation lifeless, scattered, and bleached, just as a dry tree (17:24) pictures a dead nation, to which only God can give life.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:3 can these bones live? The many dry bones (v. 2) picture the nation Israel (v. 11) as apparently dead in their dispersion, and waiting for national resurrection. The people knew about the doctrine of individual resurrection, otherwise this prophecy would have had no meaning (cf. 1 Kings 17; 2 Kings 4; 13:21; Isa. 25:8; 26:19; Dan. 12:2; Hos. 13:14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:4–6 Prophecy over these bones. Ezekiel is to proclaim God’s pledge to reassemble Israelites from the world and restore the nation of Israel to life (v. 5) and give them his Spirit (v. 14) in true salvation and spiritual life. Clearly, God is promising the resurrection of the nation of Israel and its spiritual regeneration (cf. 36:25–27).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:7–10 In the vision, Ezekiel did as he was told and the dead bones became a living nation (v. 10).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:11–13 This is the key to the interpretation of the vision. It is the resurrection and salvation of Israel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:14 I will put my Spirit within you. See note on 36:25–27. do it. God's reputation is at stake in the restoration and regeneration of Israel into the land. He must do what he promised so all will know that he is Lord.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:15–23 The vision ended and Ezekiel was given an object lesson that his people observed (vv. 18, 20). This drama of uniting two sticks offered a second illustration that God will not only regather Israelites to their land, but will for the first time since 931 B.C. (the end of Solomon's reign, 1 Kings 11:26–40) restore union between Israel and Judah (Ezek. 37:19, 21–22) in the messianic reign (cf. Isa. 11:12–13; Jer. 3:18; Hos. 1:11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:21–23 God made three promises that summarized his future plans for Israel: 1) restoration, v. 21; 2) unification, v. 22; and 3) purification, v. 23. These promises bring to fulfillment: 1) the Abrahamic Covenant (cf. Gen. 12); 2) the Davidic Covenant (2 Sam. 7); and 3) the New Covenant (cf. Jer. 31), respectively.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:22 one king. This leader (cf. vv. 24–25) is the Messiah-King-Shepherd often promised for David's dynasty (34:23–24; Jer. 23:5–8; 30:9; Dan. 2:35, 45; 7:13–14, 27), who is the one king of Zech. 14:9 (cf. Matt. 25:31, 34, 40).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:23 cleanse them. This is provided by the provisions of the New Covenant (cf. 36:27; 37:14; Jer. 31:31–34).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:24–25 David. This is to be understood as Jesus Christ the Messiah, descendant of David (cf. 2 Sam. 7:8–17; Isa. 7:14; 9:6–7; Mic. 5:2; Matt. 1:1, 23; Luke 1:31–33).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:25 land that I gave to my servant Jacob. It is natural to see this physical land, so clarified, as the very land God gave to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Gen. 12:7; 26:24; 35:12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:26 covenant of peace. Cf. 34:25. This is the New Covenant in full force. Israel has never yet been in a state of perpetual salvation peace; this awaits fulfillment in the future kingdom of the Messiah who is the “Prince of Peace” (Isa. 9:6). an everlasting covenant. The everlasting nature of the Abrahamic (cf. Gen. 17:7), Davidic (2 Sam. 23:5), and New (Jer. 50:5) Covenants are joined together in the redeemed who experience the millennial kingdom “forever” (used four times in Ezek. 37:25–28). The Hebrew word for “everlasting” may refer to a long time or eternity. It is also true that these covenants will continue to be fulfilled after the Millennium in the eternal state. my sanctuary. The Spirit of God begins to prepare for the great reality that God will have a sanctuary in the midst of his people and will dwell with them (cf. Zech. 6:12–13). God promised to dwell with man on earth (Ezek. 47:1–12). This has been God’s desire in all epochs: 1) before Moses (Gen. 17:7–8); 2) in the Mosaic era (Lev. 26:11–13); 3) in the church era (1 Cor. 3:16; 6:19); 4) in the millennium (Ezek. 37:26–28); and 5) in eternity future (Rev. 21:3).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:27 Paul quotes this in 2 Cor. 6:16.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:1–39:29 These chapters tell of a coming northern confederacy of nations who will invade the Promised Land.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:2 toward Gog. This name is found in 1 Chron. 5:4. The LXX used “Gog” to render names such as Agag (Num. 24:7) and Og (Deut. 3:1), possibly showing that though it was a proper name, it came to be used as a general title for an enemy of God’s people. “Gog” most likely carries the idea “high” or “supreme one,” based on the comparison in Num. 24:7. It refers to a person, described as a “prince” from the land of Magog, who is the final Antichrist. See note on Rev. 20:8, where Gog and Magog are referred to again. These titles are used there symbolically of the final world uprising against Jerusalem, its people and Messiah King. This attack comes not just from the north but the four corners of the world, as a world of sinners at the end of the 1,000-year kingdom come to fight the saints in the “beloved city” of Jerusalem. On that occasion, there is only one weapon used—divine fire. This is the climax to the last battle with Satan and his armies, whose eternal destiny is set. It is followed by the final judgment of all the ungodly before the Lord (Rev. 20:11–15) and the creation of the eternal, sinless state (Rev. 21:1). See notes on Ezek. 39. Magog. Some see this people as derived from Japheth (Gen. 10:2), later called the Scythians. Others propose a people in southeast Anatolia, later known as Asiatic people such as the Mongols and Huns. Others see Magog as an overall term for barbarians, north of Palestine, around the Caspian and Black Seas.

prince of Meshech and Tubal. Should be translated “chief prince of Meshech and Tubal” (see alternative reading in esv foornote) because: 1) Rosh (more than 600 times) in the Hebrew OT is an adjective, “chief,” often in references to the “chief priest” (2 Kings 25:18); 2) most ancient versions took it to mean “chief” or “head”; and 3) in all places other than Ezek. 38 and 39 where both Meshech and Tubal are mentioned, Rosh is not listed as a third people (27:13; 32:26; Gen. 10:2; 1 Chron. 1:5). This is also descriptive of the Antichrist, who rises to world dominance in the coming time of tribulation (cf. Dan. 9:24–27; 11:36–45; Rev. 13:1–17; 19:20). Meshech and Tubal. Two peoples were recognized in ancient Assyrian monuments: one called Mushki (Mushku) and the other Tubali (Tabal). Both were in Asia Minor, the area of Magog, modern-day Turkey. Summing up, a chief prince, who is the enemy of God’s people, will lead a coalition of nations against Jerusalem. The details of this enemy force and its destruction are given by Ezekiel in the rest of Ezek. 38 and 39.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:4 I will turn you about. Just as God used Assyria (Isa. 8) and Babylon (Ezek. 21:19) as human invaders for his judgments, he aims to use this army. In this case, he brings the invader to Palestine so that he may visit judgment (38:8) on the invader itself (38:18–23; 39:1–10). He thus uses the language of hooks in the jaws, as in judging Egypt (29:4). From the aggressors’ perspective, they think that it is their plan only to seize the spoil that draws them to Palestine (38:11–12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:5 Persia, Cush, and Put. The invasion involves a coalition of powers from the east and south of Palestine. Persia is modern Iran, Put (Libya) is in north Africa, west of Egypt; and Cush (Ethiopia) is south of Egypt.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:6 Gomer. Today the area is Armenia, which also was known as Cappadocia, having a people called Gomer in Assyrian inscriptions. Beth-togarmah. Today’s eastern Turkey (see note on 27:14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:7–8 This is the great time of Israel’s cleansing, salvation, and spiritual life (cf. 39:22, 27–28; Zech. 12:10–13:9), getting them ready for Messiah’s return and kingdom (Zech. 14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:8 In the latter years. In the context of Israel’s restoration (Ezek. 34–39), the invader will make its final bid for the land. restored from war. This refers to Israelites who have been returned to their land, after the sword had killed or scattered many of their people. The Hebrew word for “restored” means “to return” (Gen. 40:13; 41:13). gathered. This word also frequently refers to God’s final regathering of Israel (Ezek. 37:21; Isa. 11:12; 43:5; Jer. 32:37). It has begun historically and will continue until the latter days. In the final millennial kingdom, there will occur the full and spiritual regathering, when all Israel is saved to enter their promised kingdom (cf. Zech. 12–14; Rom. 11:25–27).  dwell securely. This term occurs in several contexts devoted to the Israelites’ blessed estate after God has brought them back to their land (Ezek. 28:26; 34:25, 28; 39:26; Jer. 32:37; Zech. 14:11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:9 You will advance. The time of the invasion is best understood as the end of the future tribulation period of seven years. Israel will have been under a false peace in treaty with the Antichrist (Dan. 9:27; 11:22, 24), before he turns on them in the “abomination of desolation” (Matt. 24:15; cf. Dan. 9:27). The false peace will end in hostility lasting to the completion of the seven years (Zech. 14:1–3). When this final war occurs (cf. Rev. 16:12–16), Christ will ultimately conquer the beast, the false prophet, and all the ungodly forces (Rev. 19:11–21) in order to establish his millennial kingdom (Rev. 20:1–10).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:10–13 This describes the peace in Israel during the period of Antichrist’s short-lived treaty with them (Dan. 9:27) in the first half of Daniel’s seventieth week. References to “unwalled villages,” refer to that period of three and one-half years when Israel is secure under the protection of the world-ruling “prince that shall come,” called Antichrist (cf. Dan. 9:27). After Antichrist turns on Israel, there is an escalation of hostility until the end of the seven-year time when this great force comes to plunder Jerusalem and the Promised Land (Ezek. 38:12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:12 to seize spoil . . . plunder. Antichrist takes over the world for his own power and possession. The wealth of his empire is described in Rev. 18.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:15 riding on horses. These could be actual horses used in war, if tribulation judgments (seals, trumpets, vials) in Rev. 6–16 have dealt drastic blows to industries producing war vehicles and weaponry. Or, some see horses and weapons here (Ezek. 39:3, 9) being used symbolically to represent meaning that would be easy to grasp in Ezekiel’s day, but that would be fulfilled in the future time with different war forms suitable to that time.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:16 that the nations may know me. The phrase, frequent in Ezekiel, is part of the theme to glorify God and show his sovereign power (cf. Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes). God is the victor, who will be “vindicated” by fire (cf. v. 19).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:17 Are you he . . . ? See notes on 38:2. This refers to the general references to this time and the participants (cf. Joel 3:9–17; Amos 5:11–12; Zeph. 3:8). Even Daniel (Dan. 2:41–44) referred to this time at least three decades prior to Ezek. 38. The nature of the question presupposes that the previous generalities are now being particularized in the person of Gog.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:18–23 my wrath will be roused. God’s patience will be exhausted with the repeated attempts to annihilate Israel since the “abomination” by Antichrist (Dan. 9:27; Matt. 24:15), and he will employ a great earthquake in Israel; panic will seize the invading soldiers (Ezek. 38:21) who will turn and use their weapons against one another (cf. 2 Chron. 20:22–23). He will further decimate the ranks by pestilence, a deluge of rain, large hailstones, plus fire and brimstone. The descriptions here are identical to that of the last half of the seven-year tribulation in Rev. 6:12–17; 11:19; 16:17–21; 19:11–21.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:1–10 I am against you. This scene of the army’s ruin adds detail to 38:18–23 such as: 1) the disarming of soldiers (39:3); 2) their fall in death (vv. 4–5); 3) the gorging of birds and beasts on the corpses (v. 4); 4) fire sent also on others besides the army (v. 6); and 5) burning of weapons by Israelites (vv. 9–10).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:9–10 make fires of the weapons. There is enough equipment to provide fuel for seven years.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:9 seven years. A vast army (cf. “many,” 38:15) would have much weaponry, requiring seven years to burn. Since this is likely at the end of the time of tribulation, synonymous with the battle of Armageddon (Rev. 16:16; 19:19–21), the burials would extend into the millennial kingdom.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:11–16 give to Gog a place for burial. Israelites moving east from the Mediterranean, with the sea to their backs and the Jezreel Valley before them, bury bodies. Further, people in the whole land help in the internment, which consumes seven months. The description fits the time after Christ’s second advent extending into the millennial era as those who go into his kingdom do the work (cf. Rev. 20:1–10).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:11, 16 Hamon-gog. Lit., “the multitude of Gog.” In v. 16, a city in the area will be named Hamonah, “multitude” (cf. a similar idea in Joel 3:14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:17–20 Speak to the birds and . . . beasts. God’s word summons carrion birds and carnivorous animals to consume the fallen flesh as described in Rev. 19:21.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:17–18 sacrificial feast. Since God describes the feast by the imagery of a sacrificial meal, the warriors who fell (v. 19) are described figuratively in words such as rams and other animals used in sacrifice.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:21–29 I will set my glory. God vanquishes Israel’s foes to show his glory so that his enemies and Israel will all know that he is the Lord (vv. 6, 22). This is Israel’s salvation spoken of in Zech. 12:10–13:9 and Rom. 11:25–27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:29 pour out my Spirit. God’s provision of his Spirit at the second advent complements the regathering (cf. 36:27; 37:14; Joel 2:28). The Gog and Magog assault in Rev. 20:7–9 at the end of the millennium is another assault on Jerusalem patterned after certain images of the invasion here (Ezek. 38–39), but it is a distinct event 1,000 years after the millennial kingdom begins. See note on Rev. 20:8–9.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:1–48:35 Following this great battle at the end of the time of tribulation, this section provides explicit details concerning Christ’s millennial reign that follows, giving more detail about the 1,000-year kingdom than all other OT prophecies put together. It is the “holy of holies” among millennial forecasts. As has been done with the previous 39 chapters, this concluding portion will also be approached in a literal, historical manner, which best serves the interpreter in all Scripture. In many ways these chapters are the most important in the book since they form the crowning reality, the climax of Ezekiel’s prophecy and Israel’s restoration. The section includes: 1) the new temple (40:1–43:12); 2) the new worship (43:13–46:24); and 3) the new apportionment of the land (47:1–48:35).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:1 the twenty-fifth year. 573 B.C., in the first month of the ecclesiastical year, Nisan. The tenth day was the start of preparations for Passover.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:2 In visions of God he brought me. Ezekiel 40–48 narrates another vision, as did 1:1–3:27; 8–11; and 37:1–14. The characterization of the prophecy as a vision in no way detracts from its literal reality any more than Ezekiel’s visions of Jerusalem’s sins, idolatry, and destruction did. to the land of Israel. The vision pertains to Israel, as did chs. 1–24; 33; 34–39. a very high mountain. The mountain is not named; however, it is most likely Mount Zion (cf. 17:22; 20:40; Isa. 2:2; Mic. 4:1), lifted up from its surroundings by a great earthquake (Zech. 14:4–5, 10). structure like a city. God will be explaining details relating to Israel’s spiritual future (Ezek. 40:2, 4), so this must be the temple in particular and Jerusalem in general. This new and glorious temple will stand in contrast to the desecration and destruction of Solomon’s temple (chs. 8–11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:3 a man. An angel conducted a tour of all the details shown to the prophet, appearing in the form of a man (e. g., Gen. 18; Ezek. 9), appearing like bright, gleaming bronze. He could be understood as the angel of the Lord since he is called “Lord” (44:2, 5; see note on Ex. 3:2). His “linen cord” was for larger measurements, the “reed” for shorter ones (cf. Rev. 11:1; 21:5). In each case God measured what belongs to him.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:4 Declare all that you see. Ezekiel 1–24 refers to Israel’s historical removal from her land; chs. 25–32 to historical judgments against other nations; ch. 33 to a historical call to repentance and the fall of Jerusalem.

So in chs. 34–39, Israel’s literal, future return to the same land as a reversal of the historical dispersion is the most natural way to interpret the chapters. Ezekiel 38–39 describe a future, historical invasion of Israel and its aftermath during the time just before Messiah’s return. Therefore, chs. 40–48 would then be thought to continue the historical, prophetic pattern, describing the millennial conditions after Messiah comes and destroys the ungodly (Rev. 19:11ff.), under which Israel will live and worship. Believing Gentiles will also be in the kingdom as sheep of the great shepherd (cf. Matt. 25:31–46), while all unbelievers are destroyed. Ezekiel is to write down all the details.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:5 a wall all around the outside. This outer wall is later described as a separation of the holy areas (42:20). the temple. See 1 Kings 6–7 to compare with details of Solomon’s temple. This could not be the heavenly temple since Ezekiel was taken to Israel to see it (Ezek. 40:2). It could not be Zerubbabel’s temple since the glory of God was not present then. It could not be the eternal temple since the Lord and the Lamb are its temple (cf. Rev. 21:22). Therefore, it must be the earthly millennial temple built with all of the exquisite details that are yet to be outlined. measuring reed . . . six long cubits . . . a handbreadth. The rod extended 6 royal (long) cubits of 21 inches for a total of 10.5 feet, each cubit being made up of a standard width of 18 inches and a handbreadth of 3 inches.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:6–7 the gateway . . . east. The buildings of the east gate are first because this will be in the direct line of approach to the temple. Each opening was 10.5 feet across. Chambers (rooms) in the wall are 10.5 x 10.5 feet. Precise measurements describe a literal temple, not a symbolic one.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:8–16 The chambers described here are accommodations for the ministering priests and temple officers who care for the temple.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:16 windows. Since they had no glass, these are lattices (cf. 41:16–26). on the jambs were palm trees. These depict God’s desire for fruit in Israel. Palms are symbols of beauty, salvation, and triumph (cf. Zech. 14:16ff.; Rev. 7:9). Palms are on the inner court’s side pillars as well (Ezek. 40:31).

Ezekiel’s Temple

©1993 by Thomas Nelson, Inc.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:17 the outer court. This court is farthest out from the temple proper and enclosed by the outer walls.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:17–37 Here is a further blueprint for the temple area, with more precise measurements. The numbers 5, 25, 50 and 100 are frequently used. The sanctuary formed a square of some 500 cubits.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:38–47 This section describes “chambers” for the priests, and raises the question of sacrifices in the millennial kingdom. They will exist as vv. 39–43 indicate, but will be no more efficacious than they were in OT times. No sacrifice before or after Christ saves. They only point to him as the one true Lamb who takes away sin. The Lord’s Supper is a memorial that looks back to Calvary and in no way diminishes the cross. Israel rejected their Messiah, but when they have received him and are in his kingdom, they will have a memorial of sacrifices that point to him. They will have missed the memorial of the Lord’s Supper, but will then have their own memorial sacrifices for 1,000 years.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:39 burnt . . . sin . . . guilt offering. For OT background see 1) Lev. 1:1–17; 6:8–13; 2\) Lev. 4:1–35; 6:24–30; and 3\) Lev. 5:1–6:7; 7:1–10 respectively. Cf. Ezek. 43:18–27; 45:13–25; 46:1–15, 19–24.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:41 tables . . . on which to slaughter. Four tables are on either side of the inner court’s north gate, used for commemorating the death of Christ by slaying burnt, sin, and guilt offerings.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:44 chambers. See esv footnote, “chambers for singers.” Provision is made for the praises of the redeemed in music.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:46 sons of Zadok. Proper names tie the vision to historical reality, calling for literal interpretation. This Levitical family descended from Levi, Aaron, Eleazar, and Phinehas (1 Chron. 6:3–8). In accord with God’s covenant with Phinehas (Num. 25:10–13), and because of Eli’s unfaithfulness (cf. 1 Sam. 1–2) and Zadok’s faithfulness to David and Solomon (1 Kings 1:32–40), Zadok’s sons serve as priests in the millennial temple. Other references to sons of Zadok are in Ezek. 43:19; 44:15, and 48:11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:47 measured the court. The court around the temple was a square, around the square temple (41:1). the altar. This is the bronze altar where offerings occur. Cf. 43:13–27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:48–49 vestibule. This refers to the temple porch and is similar to that of Solomon’s temple.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:1 to the nave. Precise descriptions continue for the temple proper, its sanctuary or holy place (here called “nave”), and side chambers for priests’ quarters (vv. 5–11). This chapter can be studied in the light of 1 Kings 6–7 to note differences from Solomon’s temple.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:4 the Most Holy Place. The Most Holy Place, which the high priest entered annually on the Day of Atonement (cf. Lev. 16). These dimensions are identical to Solomon’s (1 Kings 6:20), and twice those of the tabernacle in the wilderness.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:5–11 This section describes the “wall” and “side chambers.”

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:12 building . . . on the west. Beyond the western end of the temple proper was a distinct building with space that serves the temple, possibly housing supplies.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:13 measured the temple. Cf. 40:47. It was about 175 feet square.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:15 galleries on either side. These were terraced buildings with decorations (vv. 18–20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:18 cherubim and palm trees. Figures of angels (cf. chs. 1; 10) with palms between them (possibly to depict life and fruitfulness of God’s servants) were on the walls of the temple proper and on the doors (41:25). Each cherub (unlike that of chs. 1; 10 that had four faces) had the face of a man and of a lion, possibly to represent the humanity and kingship of Messiah.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:22 This was the altar of incense (cf. Ex. 30:1–3; 1 Kings 7:48).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:3 gallery against gallery. Priestly rooms are described (vv. 3–12), situated along the south, north, and west walls of the sanctuary and Most Holy Place, in three stories. Priests eat the holy offerings (cf. Lev. 2:3, 10; 6:9–11; 10:12) and dress there (Ezek. 42:13–14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:15–20 out by the gate. The angel measured the height and thickness of the outside wall (40:5); then the outer court (40:6–27); next the inner court with the chambers (40:28–42:14); finally, the extent of all the temple buildings outside. Measurements of the outer wall, 500 reeds each way, were approximately one mile on each of the four sides. Much too large for Mount Moriah, this scheme will require changes in the topography of Jerusalem, as Zechariah predicted (Zech. 14:9–11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:2 the glory of the God of Israel. In earlier chapters of this prophecy, emphasis was given to the departure of God’s glory from the temple (see chs. 8–11). Thus the Lord abandoned his people to destruction and dispersion. Here, in the millennial temple, the glory of God returns to dwell. His glory will be manifest in fullness in the future kingdom, after the Lord’s second advent, which is also to be glorious (Matt. 16:27; 25:31). Ezekiel 43:1–12 describes God’s glorious entrance into the sanctuary. coming from the east. The glory had been in the tabernacle (Ex. 40:34–35) and the temple (1 Kings 8:10–11), though not in Zerubbabel’s temple. Here, the Lord returns to be Israel’s King. The glory departed to the east from Israel (Ezek. 11:23) when God judged them, so the glory returns from the east when he has regathered them, and is restoring their worship.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:3 like the vision. This vision appearance of God to Ezekiel is glorious, just like the vision in chs. 8–11, which pictures his coming, by angels, to judge Jerusalem (cf. 9:3–11; 10:4–7). like the vision . . . by the Chebar canal. God’s appearance is also glorious as in the vision of 1:3–28. I fell on my face. Just as in the other visions of God’s glory (1:28; 9:8). Cf. Rev. 1:12–17.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:5 the glory . . . filled the temple. The future kingdom glory of God will fill his temple (Zech. 2:5), as he filled the tabernacle (Ex. 40:34) and later Solomon’s temple (1 Kings 8:11; Ps. 29:9).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:7 the place of my throne. The King of glory (Ps. 24:7–10) claims the millennial temple as his place to dwell. Cf. 1 Chron. 29:23; Zech. 6:13. There will be human, unresurrected people in the kingdom, who entered when Christ returned and destroyed all the wicked. They will worship at this actual temple.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:8–9 The future temple will be most holy, protected from 1) harlotry such as the Israelites had engaged in (2 Kings 23:7) and 2) defiling tombs of kings that Israel had allowed in the sacred temple area (Ezek. 21:18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:10–12 Here is the key to the entire vision of chs. 40–48. These glorious future plans show how much Israel forfeited by their sins. Every detail should produce repentance in Ezekiel’s hearers and readers.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:13–27 the altar. The measurements of the altar of burnt offering are given in vv. 13–17, then the offerings are described (vv. 18–27). These offerings are not efficacious, nor were the OT sacrifices. They were all symbolic of death for sin. They do not take away sin (cf. Heb. 10:4). They were prospective; these will be retrospective.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:19 family of Zadok. Cf. 40:46 and 44:10, and see notes there. a bull . . . for a sin offering. Exact offerings, in language just as definitive as the literal descriptions in Moses’ day, are also just as literal here. They are of a memorial nature; they are not efficacious any more than OT sacrifices were. As OT sacrifices pointed forward to Christ’s death, so these are tangible expressions, not competing with, but pointing back to the value of Christ’s completely effective sacrifice, once for all (Heb. 9:28; 10:10). God at that time endorsed OT offerings as tokens of forgiving and cleansing worshipers on the basis and credit of the great Lamb they pointed to, who alone could take away sins (John 1:29). The tangible expressions of worship, which the Israelites for so long failed to offer validly (cf. Isa. 1:11–15), will at last be offered acceptably, then with full understanding about the Lamb of God to whom they point. The bread and the cup, which believers today find meaningful, do not compete with Christ’s cross but are tangible memorials of its glory. So will these sacrifices be.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:24 salt. Cf. Lev. 2:13. burnt offering. As the sin offering is a part of future millennial worship (Ezek. 43:19), so there are other offerings also (cf. Lev. 1–7). The burnt offering, denoting full consecration to God is one; the peace offering expressing gratitude for peace with God in covenant bonds is another (Ezek. 43:27).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:25 without blemish. Commemorative of Christ’s unblemished perfection.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:1–2 the outer gate . . . was shut. The Lord has returned from the direction in which he departed (10:18–19). It is kept closed, in honor of the Lord’s glory having returned through it for the millennial worship and indicating that the Lord will not depart again as in chs. 8–11 (cf. 43:1–5). This eastern gate of the temple should not be confused with the modern sealed eastern gate of the city (cf. 45:6–8).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:3 the prince may sit in it. The designation “prince” is used at least 14 times in chs. 44–47. He is not the Lord Jesus Christ, but someone distinct from him (cf. “eat bread before the Lord”); he has sins for which he offers sacrifice (45:22), and fathers sons (46:16–18). He cannot enter by the east gate that the Lord used, but he is allowed to come in and go out by the gate’s vestibule, and eat bread by the gateway. He cannot perform priestly duties (45:19) as Messiah will (cf. Ps. 110:4; Zech. 6:12–13), and he must worship the Lord (Ezek. 46:2). Most likely “the prince” is one who is neither a priest nor the king, but rather one who administrates the kingdom, representing the King (the Lord Jesus Christ) on one hand, and also the princes (14:8–9) who individually lead the 12 tribes. Possibly, he will be a descendant of David.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:5–9 mark well . . . the entrance. Since the Lord’s glory fills the temple, it is sanctified (v. 4), and God is particular about what kind of people worship there. Sins of the past, as in chs. 8–11, must not be repeated and if they are, will exclude their perpetrators from the temple. Only the circumcised in heart may enter (Deut. 30:6; Jer. 4:4; Rom. 2:25–29), whether of Israel or another nation (Ezek. 44:7, 9). Many other peoples than Jews will go into the kingdom in unresurrected bodies, because they have believed in Jesus Christ and were ready for his coming. They will escape his deadly judgment and populate and reproduce in the 1,000-year kingdom. Such circumcision pertains to a heart that is sincere about removing sin and being devoted to the Lord (cf. Jer. 29:13). In the millennium, a Jew with an uncircumcised heart will be considered a foreigner (Ezek. 44:9). “Uncircumcised in heart and flesh” refers to sinners, and “foreigners” identifies rejecters of the true God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:10 Levites . . . shall bear their punishment. God makes distinctions. Levites in the line of those unfaithful in days before the judgment can minister in temple services but they cannot make offerings or enter the Most Holy Place (vv. 11–14). Only Zadok’s line can fulfill these ministries (vv. 15–16). The reason for this is the value that God attaches to the faithfulness of Zadok in the past (1 Sam. 2:35; 2 Sam. 15:24ff.; 1 Kings 1:32–40; 2:26–35). See note on Ezek. 40:46.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:16 my table. This is the altar of burnt offering (cf. 40:46; 41:22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:17–27 They shall. Various standards govern priestly service, such as moderation (v. 20) and sobriety (v. 21). They will model holy behavior as they teach the people to live their lives set apart to God (vv. 23–24). Minutia about dress (such as forbidding the uncleanness of sweat resulting from wearing wool), marriage (cf. Lev. 21:14), contact with dead bodies, etc. point more naturally to a literal fulfillment than to a generalized blurring of details in a symbolical interpretation.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:28–31 I am their possession. As the priests had no possession in the land when it was originally apportioned, so in the future God will be their portion.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:1–5 set apart for the Lord. This sacred land, set apart at the heart (center) of Palestine, is separate from allotments designated for various tribes, seven to the north and five to the south (cf. ch. 48). Though the whole earth is the Lord's (Ps. 24:1), this area is meaningful to him in a special sense, as providing for special purposes that Ezek. 45:2–8 goes on to define. This holy rectangle (8.5 miles by 3.3 miles) (45:1, 3) corresponds to 48:8–22, which describes this portion as between Judah to the north and Benjamin to the south extending from the Mediterranean east to the eastern border. It is the area for the priestly homes (45:4) particularly, but is also for the benefit of all worshipers.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:2 a square plot . . . for the sanctuary. At the heart of the special allotment is the temple area (48:10), which serves all Israelite tribes, and also is the worship center for those of the whole world who visit (Isa. 4:2–3; Zech. 14:16–19). It is one mile square (cf. Ezek. 42:15–20). As a center, not only for those in Palestine but for the world, the area is appropriately larger than past temples that served Israel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:5 for the Levites. Distinct from the land devoted to temple and priestly homes is another portion for Levites, who assist in temple service. This portion is also about 8.5 x 3.3 miles and lies north of the temple/priest allotment. Cf. 48:13–14 for more details.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:6 the property of the city. On the south of the central sanctuary plot is the city of Jerusalem with an area of about 8.5 x 1.65 miles Cf. 48:15–20 for more details.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:7 to the prince shall belong the land. See note on 44:3.

This administrator of the kingdom under Christ will have his territory in two parts, one to the west and the other to the east of the temple/priest and city portions in vv. 1–6. Cf. 48:21–22 for more details.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:8 my princes shall no more oppress. God pledges a kingdom era free from civil leaders selfishly taking advantage of the people, i.e., seizing their land (cf. 22:27; Num. 36:7–9; 1 Kings 21; Isa. 5:8; Hos. 5:10; Mic. 2:1–2). The princes most likely are the leaders of each tribe. No one will be deprived of his possession under Messiah’s rule.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:9–12 The leaders of the land are urged to be thoroughly honest in their commercial dealings. This warning shows that there will be sin in the millennium. The believing Jews who entered the 1,000-year reign of Christ on earth and inherited the promised kingdom will be fully human and capable of such sins. There also will be children who do not necessarily believe, as the final rebellion against King Messiah and his temple proves (cf. Rev. 20:7–9).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:10 balances. Relates to selling by weight. ephah. Relates to selling by dry volume. bath. Relates to selling by liquid volume.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:11 ephah. About .75 bushels. bath. About 6 gallons. homer. In liquid volume about 60 gallons and in dry volume about 7.5 bushels.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:12 shekels. By weight about .4 ounces made up of 20 gerahs (.02 ounce/each). Sixty shekels (20+25+15) equal a “maneh,” or “mina,” or about 24 ounces (1.5 pounds).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:13–17 Here are the offerings for Israel’s prince (v. 16). Because of what the people will give him, he will provide for public sacrifices (v. 17).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:13 They will give 1/60th of their grain.

The Holy District

©1997 by Thomas Nelson, Inc.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:14 cor. See note on homer in 45:11. They will give one percent of their oil.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:15 They will give one lamb for every 200 in the flocks or one-half of one percent.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:16–17 prince. See note on 44:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:17 feasts . . . new moons . . . Sabbaths . . . appointed feasts. These will be discussed in notes on 45:18–46:15.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:18–25 The annual feasts for the nations are outlined. The millennial feasts include three of the six Levitical feasts: 1) Passover; 2) Unleavened Bread; and 3) Booths, or Tabernacles. Three Levitical feasts are not celebrated: 1) Pentecost; 2) Trumpets; and 3) Atonement. Most likely they are excluded because what they had looked forward to prophetically has been fulfilled and now serve no significant remembrance purpose such as Passover and Booths, or Tabernacle, will continue to provide.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:18–20 atonement. The day of atonement is never mentioned, but God institutes a never-before-celebrated festival to start the “new year” with an emphasis on holiness in the temple. The first month, Abib, would be in March/April. The feast appears to last seven days (v. 20). It indicates that there will be sin in the kingdom, committed by those who entered alive and their offspring.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:21–24 Passover and Unleavened Bread are combined as in the NT and focus on remembering God’s deliverance of the nation from Egypt and Christ’s death providing deliverance from sin. They continue on into the millennium as a week-long feast of remembrance, which will serve much the same purpose then as the bread and cup do now (cf. Ex. 12–15 for details). The three annual pilgrimage feasts with required attendance under Mosaic legislation were: 1) Unleavened Bread, 2) Pentecost, and 3) Booths, or Tabernacles (cf. Ex. 23:14–17; Num. 28:16–29:40; Deut. 16:1–17). They have been modified with the three in Ezek. 45:18–25. Pentecost is replaced by the new feast of vv. 18–20. There are also portion differences from the Mosaic law (cf. Num. 28:19–21), plus the millennial offerings are richer and more abundant, in general.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:22–23 the prince. See note on 44:3. Here he sacrifices for his own sin.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:24 hin. About 1 gallon.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:25 The Feast of Booths, or Tabernacles, continues on into the millennium as confirmed by Zech. 14:16–21. This would be a remembrance of God’s sustaining provision in the wilderness. The seventh month, Tishri, would be in September/October, and this feast will last for one week, as do the previous two. The prince (“he,” v. 25) once again offers sacrifice.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:1–15 This section further discusses offerings and deals with: 1) Sabbath and new moon (vv. 1–8); 2) appointed feast days (vv. 9–11); 3) voluntary offerings (v. 12); and 4) daily sacrifices (vv. 13–15). Cf. Num. 28:1–15 for a summary of former Mosaic details.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:1 The gate . . . shall be shut. Shutting the gate six days seems to serve the purpose of giving special distinction to the Sabbath and new moon, when it is open and in use. Israel largely failed and was judged in ancient times in regard to these days (Jer. 17:22–27; cf. 2 Chron. 36:21). The Sabbath will be reinstated for a restored and regenerated Israel. Note here that modern-day sabbatarians fail to realize that the Sabbath consisted of far more than just rest from labor, but included specific sacrifices. It is inconsistent to take one part of the Sabbath observance and discard the others.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:2 The prince. See note on 44:3. He appears five times (vv. 2, 4, 8, 10, 12) in regard to sacrifices. He is to be an example of spiritual integrity to the people (cf. v. 10).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:6–7 new moon. Israel’s calendar was lunar, so the feasts were reckoned according to the phases of the moon.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:8 When the prince enters. He does not normally use the eastern gate itself, which is for the Lord (44:2). Rather, he enters and exits by the gate’s vestibule. However, 46:12 permits his use of the gate for free-will offerings.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:9 the people. The people’s entering and exiting for temple worship are to be done in an orderly flow to prevent congestion, since all will be present (cf. Deut. 16:16).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:10–12 the prince. He sets the example of worship for the people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:13–15 daily. The testimony of the OT is that to remove the continual burnt offering meant an abolition of public worship (cf. Dan. 8:11– 13; 11:31; 12:11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:16–17 a gift. This explains inheritance laws governing the prince. A gift to one of his sons is permanent (v. 16), but a gift to a servant lasts only to the year of jubilee, the fiftieth year (cf. Lev. 25:10–13), and then returns to him (Ezek. 46:17).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:17 the year of liberty. The year of jubilee.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:18 The prince shall not take . . . inheritance. As in 45:8–9, the prince is not to confiscate others' property to enlarge his own holdings, as often occurred in Israel's history when rulers became rich by making others poor (cf. 1 Kings 21).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:19–24 chambers. The priests' kitchen chambers are convenient for managing their parts of the offerings and cooking sacrificial meals for worshipers, possibly close to the inner east gate. Those “who minister at the temple” (v. 24) are not the priests, but temple servants.

Ezekiel's Vision of Israel's New Boundaries

c. 571 B.C.

Ezekiel's final vision describes the boundaries of a restored Israel, including the allotment to each tribe and the temple. Rather than following the boundaries traditionally occupied by the Israelites, which included Gilead east of the Jordan River and excluded land north of Tyre, Ezekiel's new boundaries generally follow those described by Moses in Num. 34. Ezekiel's vision also departs from the traditional allotment of the land among the 12 tribes and reassigns the land in horizontal bands from north to south.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:1–12 This section reinforces the constant emphasis of the prophets that in the final kingdom amazing physical and geographical changes will occur on the earth, and especially the land of Israel. This chapter deals mainly with changes in the water.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:1–2 water was issuing . . . east. A stream of water flows up from underneath the temple (cf. Joel 3:18), going east to the Jordan, then curving south through the Dead Sea area (Ezek. 47:7–8). Zechariah 14:8 refers to this stream as flowing from Jerusalem to the west (Mediterranean Sea) as well as to the east (Dead Sea). Its origin coincides with Christ's second advent arrival on the Mount of Olives (cf. Zech. 14:4; Acts 1:11), which will trigger a massive earthquake, thus creating a vast east-west valley running through Jerusalem and allowing for the water flow. See note on Zech. 14:3–4.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:3–5 the man measured. The escorting angel, wanting to reveal the size of the river, took Ezekiel, in the vision, to four different distances from the temple, where the stream was found to be at increasing depths until it was over his head. Cf. Isa. 35:1–7, where the prophet says “the desert shall . . . blossom . . . like the crocus.”

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:7 very many trees. Lush growth from the river.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:8 water . . . become fresh. The flow east, then south, runs into the Dead Sea and renders good the salty water (more than six times as salty as the sea) that formerly would not support life because of its high mineral content. The Dead Sea is transformed into a “living sea” of fresh water.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:9 very many fish. These fish are said to be the same kinds in the Mediterranean (v. 10), probably referring to volume rather than species, since the river and the Dead Sea are fresh water.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:10 Engedi. The site is on the Dead Sea's west bank, about halfway along its length, near Masada. Eneglaim. Possibly it is Ein-Feska near Qumran at the northwestern extremity of the sea. Some argue for a site on the east bank, so that fishermen on both sides are in view.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:11 swamps and marshes. This could supply salt for the temple offerings (cf. 43:24), as well as for food.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:12 all kinds of trees. Cf. v. 7. The scene describes the blessing of returning to Eden-like abundance (Gen. 2:8–9, 16). leaves . . . fruit. Cf. Ezek. 47:7. The fruit is for food and the leaves serve a medicinal purpose, probably both in preventative and corrective senses. The fruit is perpetual, kept so by a continual and lavish supply of spring water from the temple.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:13–23 This is the boundary. The picture is that of an enlarged Canaan for all to inhabit. The boundaries are substantially larger than those given to Moses in Num. 34:1–15. Palestine, promised in God’s covenant with Abraham (Ezek. 47:14; Gen. 12:7), has specific geographical limits within which Israel will finally occupy tribal areas that differ from the occupation in Joshua’s day (cf. Josh. 13–22). This is the complete fulfillment of the promise of the land in the Abrahamic Covenant.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:13 Joseph . . . two portions. This is in keeping with the promise of Jacob to Joseph (Gen. 48:5–6, 22; 49:22–26).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:15–20 The borders of the millennial Promised Land are described 1) to the north (vv. 15–17); 2) to the east (v. 18); 3) to the south (v. 19); and 4) to the west (v. 20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:22 have had children. This reminds us that children will be born all through the 1,000-year rule of Messiah. Not all will believe and be saved, as evidenced by the final rebellion (cf. Rev. 20:8–9).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:23 sojourner. This provision is in keeping with Lev. 19:34.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:1–7, 23–29 the tribes. The land pledged to each tribe within the total area described in 47:13–23 fulfills God’s promises to actually restore Israel’s people from around the world to the Promised Land just as they were actually scattered from it (28:25–26; 34–37; 39:21–29; Jer. 31:33). Dan is first mentioned. Though omitted from the 144,000 in Rev. 7, probably because of severe idolatry, Dan is restored in grace.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:8–22 the portion. Already described in 45:1–8, this unique area includes land allotment for the sentry and the Zadokian priests (48:8–12); the Levites (vv. 13–14); the city (vv. 15–20); and the prince (vv. 21–22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:30–35 These shall be the exits. Twelve city gates, three in each cardinal direction, bear the names of Israel’s tribes, one on each gate.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:30 On the north side . . . 4,500 cubits. All four sides when added together equal 18,000 cubits (cf. v. 16), which is nearly 6 miles around. Josephus, a Jewish historian, reported in the first century A.D. that Jerusalem was approximately 4 miles in perimeter.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:35 the name. The city is called YHWH Shammah, “The Lord is there.” The departed glory of God (chs. 8–11) has returned (44:1–2), and his dwelling, the temple, is in the very center of the district given over to the Lord. With this final note, all of the unconditional promises that God had made to Israel in the Abrahamic Covenant (Gen. 12); the Priestly Covenant (Num. 25); the Davidic Covenant (2 Sam. 7); and the New Covenant (Jer. 31) have been fulfilled. So this final verse provides the consummation of Israel’s history—the returned presence of God!

Introduction to Daniel

Title

According to Hebrew custom, the title is drawn from the prophet who throughout the book received revelations from God. Daniel bridges the entire 70 years of the Babylonian captivity (c. 605–536 B.C.; cf. 1:1 and 9:1–3). Nine of the 12 chapters relate revelation through dreams/visions. Daniel was God’s mouthpiece to the Gentile and Jewish world, declaring God’s current and future plans. What Revelation is to the NT prophetically and apocalyptically, Daniel is to the OT.

Author and Date

Several verses indicate that the writer is Daniel (8:15, 27; 9:2; 10:2, 7; 12:4–5), whose name means “God is my judge.” He wrote in the autobiographical first person from 7:2 on, and is to be distinguished from the other three Daniels of the OT (cf. 1 Chron. 3:1; Ezra 8:2; Neh. 10:6). As a teenager, possibly about 15 years old, Daniel was kidnapped from his noble family in Judah and deported to Babylon to be brainwashed into Babylonian culture for the task of assisting in dealing with the imported Jews. There he spent the remainder of a long life (85 years or more). He made the most of the exile, successfully exalting God by his character and service. He quickly rose to the role of statesman by official royal appointment and served as a confidante of kings as well as a prophet in two world empires, i.e., the Babylonian (Dan. 2:48) and the Medo-Persian (6:1–2). Christ confirmed Daniel as the author of this book (cf. Matt. 24:15).

Daniel lived beyond the time described in Dan. 10:1 (c. 536 B.C.). It seems most probable that he wrote the book shortly after this date but before c. 530 B.C. Daniel 2:4b–7:28, which prophetically describes the course of Gentile world history, was originally and appropriately written in Aramaic, the contemporary language of international business. Ezekiel, Habakkuk, Jeremiah, and Zephaniah were Daniel’s prophetic contemporaries.

Background and Setting

The book begins in 605 B.C. when Babylon conquered Jerusalem and exiled Daniel, his three friends, and others. It continues to the eventual demise of Babylonian supremacy in 539 B.C., when Medo-Persian besiegers conquered Babylon (5:30–31), and goes even beyond that to 536 B.C. (10:1). After Daniel was transported to Babylon, the Babylonian victors conquered Jerusalem in two further stages (597 B.C. and 586 B.C.). In both takeovers, they deported more Jewish captives. Daniel passionately remembered his home, particularly the temple at Jerusalem, almost 70 years after having been taken away from it (6:10).

Daniel's background is alluded to in part by Jeremiah, who names three of the last five kings in Judah before captivity (cf. Jer. 1:1–3): Josiah (c. 641–609 B.C.), Jehoiakim (c. 609–597 B.C.) and Zedekiah (597–586 B.C.). Jehoahaz (c. 609 B.C.) and Jehoiachin (c. 598–597 B.C.) are not mentioned (cf. Jeremiah Introduction: Background and Setting). Daniel is also mentioned by Ezekiel (cf. Ezek. 14:14, 20; 28:3) as being righteous and wise. He is alluded to by the writer of Hebrews as one of “the prophets—who through faith . . . stopped the mouths of lions” (Heb. 11:32–33).

The long-continued sin of the Judeans without national repentance eventually led to God's judgment for which Jeremiah, Habakkuk, and Zephaniah had given fair warning. Earlier, Isaiah and other faithful prophets of God had also trumpeted the danger. When Assyrian power had ebbed by 625 B.C., the Neo-Babylonians conquered: 1) Assyria with its capital Nineveh in 612 B.C.; 2) Egypt in the following years; and 3) Judah in 605 B.C. when they overthrew Jerusalem in the first of three steps (also 597 B.C., 586 B.C.). Daniel was one of the first groups of deportees, and Ezekiel followed in 597 B.C.

Israel of the northern kingdom had earlier fallen to Assyria in 722 B.C. With Judah's captivity, the judgment was complete. In Babylon, Daniel received God's word concerning successive stages of Gentile world domination through the centuries until the greatest Conqueror, Messiah, would put down all Gentile lordship. He then will defeat all foes and raise his covenant people to blessing in his glorious millennial kingdom.

Historical and Theological Themes

Daniel was written to encourage the exiled Jews by revealing God's program for them, both during and after the time of Gentile power in the world. Prominent above every other theme in the book is God's sovereign control over the affairs of all rulers and nations, and their final replacement with the true King. The key verses are 2:20–22, 44 (cf. 2:28, 37; 4:34–35; 6:25–27). God had not suffered defeat in allowing Israel's fall (Dan. 1), but was providentially working his sure purposes toward an eventual full display of his King, the exalted Christ. He sovereignly allowed Gentiles to dominate Israel, i.e., Babylon (605–539 B.C.), Medo-Persia (539–331 B.C.), Greece (331–146 B.C.), Rome (146 B.C.–A.D. 476), and all the way to the second advent of Christ. These stages in Gentile power are set forth in chs. 2 and 7. This same theme also embraces Israel's experience both in defeat and finally in her kingdom blessing in chs. 8–12 (cf. 2:35, 45; 7:27). A key aspect within the overarching theme of God's kingly control is Messiah's coming to rule the world in glory over all men (2:35, 45; 7:13–14, 27). He is like a stone in ch. 2, and like a son of man in ch. 7. In addition, he is the Anointed One (Messiah) in 9:26. Chapter 9 provides the chronological framework from Daniel's time to Christ's kingdom.

A second theme woven into the fabric of Daniel is the display of God's sovereign power through miracles. Daniel's era is one of six in the Bible with a major focus on miracles by which God accomplished his purposes. Other periods include: 1) the creation and flood (Gen. 1–11); 2) the patriarchs and Moses (Gen. 12–Deut.); 3) Elijah and Elisha (1 Kings 17–2 Kings 13); 4) Jesus and the apostles (Gospels, Acts); and 5) the time of the second advent (Revelation). God, who has everlasting dominion and ability to work according to his will (Dan. 4:34–35), is capable of miracles, all of which would be lesser displays of power than was exhibited when he acted as Creator in Gen. 1:1. Daniel chronicles the God-enabled recounting and interpreting of dreams that God used to reveal his will (Dan. 2; 4; 7). Other miracles included: 1) his writing on the wall and Daniel's interpreting it (ch. 5); 2) his protection of the three men in a blazing furnace (ch. 3); 3) his provision of safety for Daniel in a lions' den (ch. 6); and 4) supernatural prophecies (chs. 2; 7; 8; 9:24–12:13).

Interpretive Challenges

The main challenges center on interpreting passages about future tribulation and kingdom promises. Though the use of Imperial Aramaic and archeology have confirmed the early date of writing, some skeptical interpreters, unwilling to acknowledge supernatural prophecies that came to pass (there are over 100 in ch. 11 alone that were fulfilled), place these details in the intertestamental times.

They see these prophecies, not as miraculously foretelling the future, but as simply the observations of a later writer, who is recording events of his own day. Thus, they date Daniel in the days of Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 B.C., ch. 8; 11:21–45). According to this scheme, the expectation of the stone and son of man (chs. 2; 7) turned out to be a mistaken notion that did not actually come to pass, or the writer was being intentionally deceptive. Actually, a future seven-year judgment period (cf. 7:21–22; 11:36–45; 12:1) and a literal 1,000-year kingdom (cf. Rev. 20) after Christ’s second coming when he will reign over Israelites and Gentiles (Dan. 7:27) are taught. This will be an era before and distinct from the final, absolutely perfect, ultimate state, i.e., the new heaven and the new earth with its capital, the new Jerusalem (Rev. 21–22). The literal interpretation of prophecy, including Daniel, leads to the premillennial perspective.

Many other aspects of interpretation challenge readers: e.g., interpreting numbers (1:12, 20; 3:19; 9:24–27); identifying the one like a son of man (7:13–14); determining whether to see Antiochus of the past or Antichrist of the far future in 8:19–23; explaining the “seventy weeks” in 9:24–27; and deciding whether Antiochus of 11:21–35 is still meant in 11:36–45, or whether it is the future Antichrist.

Daniel

Daniel Taken to Babylon

DANIEL 1 †In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and besieged it. <sup>2</sup>†And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with some of the vessels of the house of God. And he brought them to the land of Shinar, to the house of his god, and placed the vessels in the treasury of his god. <sup>3</sup>Then the king commanded Ashpenaz, his chief eunuch, to bring some of the people of Israel, both of the royal family [\[1\]](#) and of the nobility, <sup>4</sup>†youths without blemish, of good appearance and skillful in all wisdom, endowed with knowledge, understanding learning, and competent to stand in the king's palace, and to teach them the literature and language of the Chaldeans. <sup>5</sup>†The king assigned them a daily portion of the food that the king ate, and of the wine that he drank. They were to be educated for three years, and at the end of that time they were to stand before the king. <sup>6</sup>Among these were Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah of the tribe of Judah. <sup>7</sup>†And the chief of the eunuchs gave them names: Daniel he called Belteshazzar, Hananiah he called Shadrach, Mishael he called Meshach, and Azariah he called Abednego.

Daniel's Faithfulness

<sup>8</sup>†But Daniel resolved that he would not defile himself with the king's food, or with the wine that he drank. Therefore he asked the chief of the eunuchs to allow him not to defile himself. <sup>9</sup>†And God gave Daniel favor and compassion in the sight of the chief of the eunuchs, <sup>10</sup>and the chief of the eunuchs said to Daniel, "I fear my lord the king, who assigned your food and your drink; for why should he see that you were in worse condition than the youths who are of your own age? So you would endanger my head with the king." <sup>11</sup>Then Daniel said to the steward whom the chief of the eunuchs had assigned over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, <sup>12</sup>†"Test your servants for ten days; let us be given vegetables to eat and water to drink. <sup>13</sup>Then let our appearance and the appearance of the youths who eat the king's food be observed by you, and deal with your servants according to what you see." <sup>14</sup>So he listened to them in this matter, and tested them for ten days. <sup>15</sup>†At the end of ten days it was seen that they were better in appearance and fatter in flesh than all the youths who ate the king's food. <sup>16</sup>So the steward took away their food and the wine they were to drink, and gave them vegetables.

<sup>17</sup>As for these four youths, God gave them learning and skill in all literature and wisdom, and Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams. <sup>18</sup>At the end of the time, when the king had commanded that they should be brought in, the chief of the eunuchs brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar. <sup>19</sup>And the king spoke with them, and among all of them none was found like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. Therefore they stood before the king. <sup>20</sup>† And in every matter of wisdom and understanding about which the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and enchanters that were in all his kingdom. <sup>21</sup>† And Daniel was there until the first year of King Cyrus.

Nebuchadnezzar's Dream

DANIEL 2 †In the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar had dreams; his spirit was troubled, and his sleep left him. <sup>2</sup>†Then the king commanded that the magicians, the enchanters, the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans be summoned to tell the king his dreams. So they came in and stood before the king. <sup>3</sup>And the king said to them, “I had a dream, and my spirit is troubled to know the dream.” <sup>4</sup>†Then the Chaldeans said to the king in Aramaic, [\[1\]](#) “O king, live forever! Tell your servants the dream, and we will show the interpretation.” <sup>5</sup>†The king answered and said to the Chaldeans, “The word from me is firm: if you do not make known to me the dream and its interpretation, you shall be torn limb from limb, and your houses shall be laid in ruins. <sup>6</sup>But if you show the dream and its interpretation, you shall receive from me gifts and rewards and great honor. Therefore show me the dream and its interpretation.” <sup>7</sup>†They answered a second time and said, “Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will show its interpretation.” <sup>8</sup>The king answered and said, “I know with certainty that you are trying to gain time, because you see that the word from me is firm— <sup>9</sup>if you do not make the dream known to me, there is but one sentence for you. You have agreed to speak lying and corrupt words before me till the times change. Therefore tell me the dream, and I shall know that you can show me its interpretation.” <sup>10</sup>The Chaldeans answered the king and said, “There is not a man on earth who can meet the king's demand, for no great and powerful king has asked such a thing of any magician or enchanter or Chaldean. <sup>11</sup>The thing that the king asks is difficult, and no one can show it to the king except the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh.”

<sup>12</sup>Because of this the king was angry and very furious, and commanded that all the wise men of Babylon be destroyed. <sup>13</sup>So the decree went out, and the wise men were about to be killed; and they sought Daniel and his companions, to kill them. <sup>14</sup>Then Daniel replied with prudence and discretion to Arioch, the captain of the king's guard, who had gone out to kill the wise men of Babylon. <sup>15</sup>He declared [\[2\]](#) to Arioch, the king's captain, “Why is the decree of the king so urgent?” Then Arioch made the matter known to Daniel. <sup>16</sup>And Daniel went in and requested the king to appoint him a time, that he might show the interpretation to the king.

God Reveals Nebuchadnezzar's Dream

<sup>17</sup>Then Daniel went to his house and made the matter known to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions, <sup>18</sup>and told them to seek mercy from the God of heaven concerning this mystery, so that Daniel and his companions might not be destroyed with the rest of the wise men of Babylon. <sup>19</sup>Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in a vision of the night. Then Daniel blessed the God of heaven. <sup>20</sup>‡Daniel answered and said: “Blessed be the name of God forever and ever, to whom belong wisdom and might.

<sup>21</sup>He changes times and seasons; he removes kings and sets up kings; he gives wisdom to the wise and knowledge to those who have understanding; <sup>22</sup>he reveals deep and hidden things; he knows what is in the darkness, and the light dwells with him.

<sup>23</sup>To you, O God of my fathers, I give thanks and praise, for you have given me wisdom and might, and have now made known to me what we asked of you, for you have made known to us the king's matter.”

<sup>24</sup>Therefore Daniel went in to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon. He went and said thus to him: “Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon; bring me in before the king, and I will show the king the interpretation.”

<sup>25</sup>Then Arioch brought in Daniel before the king in haste and said thus to him: “I have found among the exiles from Judah a man who will make known to the king the interpretation.” <sup>26</sup>The king declared to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, “Are you able to make known to me the dream that I have seen and its interpretation?” <sup>27</sup>Daniel answered the king and said, “No wise men, enchanters, magicians, or astrologers can show to the king the mystery that the king has asked, <sup>28</sup>‡but there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he has made known to King Nebuchadnezzar what will be in the latter days. Your dream and the visions of your head as you lay in bed are these: <sup>29</sup>To you, O king, as you lay in bed came thoughts of what would be after this, and he who reveals mysteries made known to you what is to be. <sup>30</sup>But as for me, this mystery has been revealed to me, not because of any wisdom that I have more than all the living, but in order that the interpretation may be made known to the king, and that you may know the thoughts of your mind.

Daniel Interprets the Dream

exceeding brightness, stood before you, and its appearance was frightening.

<sup>39</sup>‡Another kingdom inferior to you shall arise after you, and yet a third kingdom of bronze, which shall rule over all the earth. <sup>40</sup>‡And there shall be a fourth kingdom, strong as iron, because iron breaks to pieces and shatters all things. And like iron that crushes, it shall break and crush all these. <sup>41</sup>‡‡And as you saw the feet and toes, partly of potter's clay and partly of iron, it shall be a divided kingdom, but some of the firmness of iron shall be in it, just as you saw iron mixed with the soft clay. <sup>42</sup>And as the toes of the feet were partly iron and partly clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong and partly brittle. <sup>43</sup>As you saw the iron mixed with soft clay, so they will mix with one another in marriage, [3] but they will not hold together, just as iron does not mix with clay. <sup>44</sup>‡And in the days of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, nor shall the kingdom be left to another people. It shall break in pieces all these kingdoms and bring them to an end, and it shall stand forever, <sup>45</sup>‡just as you saw that a stone was cut from a mountain by no human hand, and that it broke in pieces the iron, the bronze, the clay, the silver, and the gold. A great God has made known to the king what shall be after this. The dream is certain, and its interpretation sure.”

Daniel Is Promoted

<sup>46</sup>Then King Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face and paid homage to Daniel, and commanded that an offering and incense be offered up to him. <sup>47</sup>The king answered and said to Daniel, “Truly, your God is God of gods and Lord of kings, and a revealer of mysteries, for you have been able to reveal this mystery.”

<sup>48</sup>Then the king gave Daniel high honors and many great gifts, and made him ruler over the whole province of Babylon and chief prefect over all the wise men of Babylon. <sup>49</sup>Daniel made a request of the king, and he appointed Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego over the affairs of the province of Babylon. But Daniel remained at the king's court.

Nebuchadnezzar's Golden Image

DANIEL 3 †King Nebuchadnezzar made an image of gold, whose height was sixty cubits [1] and its breadth six cubits. He set it up on the plain of Dura, in the province of Babylon. †Then King Nebuchadnezzar sent to gather the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the justices, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces to come to the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. †Then the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the justices, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces gathered for the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. And they stood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had set up. †And the herald proclaimed aloud, “You are commanded, O peoples, nations, and languages, †that when you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, you are to fall down and worship the golden image that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up. †And whoever does not fall down and worship shall immediately be cast into a burning fiery furnace.” †Therefore, as soon as all the peoples heard the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, all the peoples, nations, and languages fell down and worshiped the golden image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

The Fiery Furnace

†Therefore at that time certain Chaldeans came forward and maliciously accused the Jews. †They declared [2] to King Nebuchadnezzar, “O king, live forever! †You, O king, have made a decree, that every man who hears the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, shall fall down and worship the golden image. †And whoever does not fall down and worship shall be cast into a burning fiery furnace. †There are certain Jews whom you have appointed over the affairs of the province of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. These men, O king, pay no attention to you; they do not serve your gods or worship the golden image that you have set up.”

†Then Nebuchadnezzar in furious rage commanded that Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego be brought. So they brought these men before the king. †Nebuchadnezzar answered and said to them, “Is it true, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, that you do not serve my gods or worship the golden image that I have set up? †Now if you are ready when you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, to fall down and worship the image that I have made, well and good. [3] But if you do not worship, you shall immediately be cast into a burning fiery furnace. And who is the god who will deliver you out of my hands?”

<sup>16</sup>† Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered and said to the king, “O Nebuchadnezzar, we have no need to answer you in this matter. <sup>17</sup>If this be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of your hand, O king. [4] <sup>18</sup>But if not, be it known to you, O king, that we will not serve your gods or worship the golden image that you have set up.”

<sup>24</sup>Then King Nebuchadnezzar was astonished and rose up in haste. He declared to his counselors, “Did we not cast three men bound into the fire?” They answered and said to the king, “True, O king.” <sup>25</sup>† He answered and said, “But I see four men unbound, walking in the midst of the fire, and they are not hurt; and the appearance of the fourth is like a son of the gods.”

worship any god except their own God. <sup>29</sup>Therefore I make a decree: Any people, nation, or language that speaks anything against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego shall be torn limb from limb, and their houses laid in ruins, for there is no other god who is able to rescue in this way.” <sup>30</sup>Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego in the province of Babylon.

Nebuchadnezzar Praises God

DANIEL 4 † [\[1\]](#) King Nebuchadnezzar to all peoples, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth: Peace be multiplied to you! <sup>2</sup>It has seemed good to me to show the signs and wonders that the Most High God has done for me.

His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his dominion endures from generation to generation.

Nebuchadnezzar's Second Dream

<sup>4</sup> [\[2\]](#) I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at ease in my house and prospering in my palace. <sup>5</sup>I saw a dream that made me afraid. As I lay in bed the fancies and the visions of my head alarmed me. <sup>6</sup>† So I made a decree that all the wise men of Babylon should be brought before me, that they might make known to me the interpretation of the dream. <sup>7</sup>Then the magicians, the enchanters, the Chaldeans, and the astrologers came in, and I told them the dream, but they could not make known to me its interpretation. <sup>8</sup>† At last Daniel came in before me—he who was named Belteshazzar after the name of my god, and in whom is the spirit of the holy gods [\[3\]](#)—and I told him the dream, saying, <sup>9</sup>† “O Belteshazzar, chief of the magicians, because I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in you and that no mystery is too difficult for you, tell me the visions of my dream that I saw and their interpretation. <sup>10</sup>† The visions of my head as I lay in bed were these: I saw, and behold, a tree in the midst of the earth, and its height was great. <sup>11</sup>The tree grew and became strong, and its top reached to heaven, and it was visible to the end of the whole earth. <sup>12</sup>Its leaves were beautiful and its fruit abundant, and in it was food for all. The beasts of the field found shade under it, and the birds of the heavens lived in its branches, and all flesh was fed from it.

<sup>13</sup>† “I saw in the visions of my head as I lay in bed, and behold, a watcher, a holy one, came down from heaven. <sup>14</sup>He proclaimed aloud and said thus: ‘Chop down the tree and lop off its branches, strip off its leaves and scatter its fruit. Let the beasts flee from under it and the birds from its branches. <sup>15</sup>† But leave the stump of its roots in the earth, bound with a band of iron and bronze, amid the tender grass of the field. Let him be wet with the dew of heaven. Let his portion be with the beasts in the grass of the earth. <sup>16</sup>† Let his mind be changed from a man's, and let a beast's mind be given to him; and let seven periods of time pass over him. <sup>17</sup>The sentence is by the decree of the watchers, the decision by the word of the holy ones, to the end that the living may know that the Most High rules the kingdom of men and gives it to whom he will and sets over it the lowliest of men.’<sup>18</sup>This dream I, King Nebuchadnezzar, saw. And you, O Belteshazzar, tell me the interpretation, because all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to make known to me the interpretation, but you are able, for the spirit of the holy gods is in you.”

Daniel Interprets the Second Dream

<sup>19</sup>†Then Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, was dismayed for a while, and his thoughts alarmed him. The king answered and said, “Belteshazzar, let not the dream or the interpretation alarm you.” Belteshazzar answered and said, “My lord, may the dream be for those who hate you and its interpretation for your enemies!<sup>20</sup>The tree you saw, which grew and became strong, so that its top reached to heaven, and it was visible to the end of the whole earth,<sup>21</sup>whose leaves were beautiful and its fruit abundant, and in which was food for all, under which beasts of the field found shade, and in whose branches the birds of the heavens lived—<sup>22</sup>it is you, O king, who have grown and become strong. Your greatness has grown and reaches to heaven, and your dominion to the ends of the earth.<sup>23</sup>And because the king saw a watcher, a holy one, coming down from heaven and saying, ‘Chop down the tree and destroy it, but leave the stump of its roots in the earth, bound with a band of iron and bronze, in the tender grass of the field, and let him be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts of the field, till seven periods of time pass over him,’<sup>24</sup>this is the interpretation, O king: It is a decree of the Most High, which has come upon my lord the king,<sup>25</sup>that you shall be driven from among men, and your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field. You shall be made to eat grass like an ox, and you shall be wet with the dew of heaven, and seven periods of time shall pass over you, till you know that the Most High rules the kingdom of men and gives it to whom he will.<sup>26</sup>†And as it was commanded to leave the stump of the roots of the tree, your kingdom shall be confirmed for you from the time that you know that Heaven rules.<sup>27</sup>†Therefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable to you: break off your sins by practicing righteousness, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the oppressed, that there may perhaps be a lengthening of your prosperity.”

Nebuchadnezzar's Humiliation

was walking on the roof of the royal palace of Babylon, <sup>30</sup>†and the king answered and said, “Is not this great Babylon, which I have built by my mighty power as a royal residence and for the glory of my majesty?” <sup>31</sup>While the words were still in the king's mouth, there fell a voice from heaven, “O King Nebuchadnezzar, to you it is spoken: The kingdom has departed from you, <sup>32</sup>and you shall be driven from among men, and your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field. And you shall be made to eat grass like an ox, and seven periods of time shall pass over you, until you know that the Most High rules the kingdom of men and gives it to whom he will.” <sup>33</sup>Immediately the word was fulfilled against Nebuchadnezzar. He was driven from among men and ate grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven till his hair grew as long as eagles' feathers, and his nails were like birds' claws.

Nebuchadnezzar Restored

<sup>34</sup>†At the end of the days I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted my eyes to heaven, and my reason returned to me, and I blessed the Most High, and praised and honored him who lives forever, for his dominion is an everlasting dominion, and his kingdom endures from generation to generation; <sup>35</sup>all the inhabitants of the earth are accounted as nothing, and he does according to his will among the host of heaven and among the inhabitants of the earth; and none can stay his hand or say to him, “What have you done?”

<sup>36</sup>At the same time my reason returned to me, and for the glory of my kingdom, my majesty and splendor returned to me. My counselors and my lords sought me, and I was established in my kingdom, and still more greatness was added to me. <sup>37</sup>Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise and extol and honor the King of heaven, for all his works are right and his ways are just; and those who walk in pride he is able to humble.

The Handwriting on the Wall

DANIEL 5 †King Belshazzar made a great feast for a thousand of his lords and drank wine in front of the thousand.

<sup>2</sup>†Belshazzar, when he tasted the wine, commanded that the vessels of gold and of silver that Nebuchadnezzar his father [1] had taken out of the temple in Jerusalem be brought, that the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines might drink from them. <sup>3</sup>Then they brought in the golden vessels that had been taken out of the temple, the house of God in Jerusalem, and the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines drank from them. <sup>4</sup>†They drank wine and praised the gods of gold and silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone.

<sup>10</sup>†The queen, [3] because of the words of the king and his lords, came into the banqueting hall, and the queen declared, "O king, live forever! Let not your thoughts alarm you or your color change. <sup>11</sup>There is a man in your kingdom in whom is the spirit of the holy gods. [4] In the days of your father, light and understanding and wisdom like the wisdom of the gods were found in him, and King Nebuchadnezzar, your father—your father the king—made him chief of the magicians, enchanters, Chaldeans, and astrologers, <sup>12</sup>because an excellent spirit, knowledge, and understanding to interpret dreams, explain riddles, and solve problems were found in this Daniel, whom the king named Belteshazzar. Now let Daniel be called, and he will show the interpretation."

Daniel Interprets the Handwriting

<sup>13</sup>†Then Daniel was brought in before the king. The king answered and said to Daniel, “You are that Daniel, one of the exiles of Judah, whom the king my father brought from Judah. <sup>14</sup>I have heard of you that the spirit of the gods [5] is in you, and that light and understanding and excellent wisdom are found in you. <sup>15</sup>Now the wise men, the enchanters, have been brought in before me to read this writing and make known to me its interpretation, but they could not show the interpretation of the matter. <sup>16</sup>†But I have heard that you can give interpretations and solve problems. Now if you can read the writing and make known to me its interpretation, you shall be clothed with purple and have a chain of gold around your neck and shall be the third ruler in the kingdom.”

<sup>17</sup>Then Daniel answered and said before the king, “Let your gifts be for yourself, and give your rewards to another. Nevertheless, I will read the writing to the king and make known to him the interpretation. <sup>18</sup>O king, the Most High God gave Nebuchadnezzar your father kingship and greatness and glory and majesty. <sup>19</sup>And because of the greatness that he gave him, all peoples, nations, and languages trembled and feared before him. Whom he would, he killed, and whom he would, he kept alive; whom he would, he raised up, and whom he would, he humbled. <sup>20</sup>But when his heart was lifted up and his spirit was hardened so that he dealt proudly, he was brought down from his kingly throne, and his glory was taken from him. <sup>21</sup>He was driven from among the children of mankind, and his mind was made like that of a beast, and his dwelling was with the wild donkeys. He was fed grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, until he knew that the Most High God rules the kingdom of mankind and sets over it whom he will. <sup>22</sup>And you his son, [6] Belshazzar, have not humbled your heart, though you knew all this, <sup>23</sup>but you have lifted up yourself against the Lord of heaven. And the vessels of his house have been brought in before you, and you and your lords, your wives, and your concubines have drunk wine from them. And you have praised the gods of silver and gold, of bronze, iron, wood, and stone, which do not see or hear or know, but the God in whose hand is your breath, and whose are all your ways, you have not honored.

<sup>24</sup>“Then from his presence the hand was sent, and this writing was inscribed. <sup>25</sup>†And this is the writing that was inscribed: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, and PARSIN. <sup>26</sup>This is the interpretation of the matter: MENE, God has numbered [7] the days of your kingdom and brought it to an end; <sup>27</sup>TEKEL, you have been weighed [8] in the balances and found wanting; <sup>28</sup>PERES, your kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians.” [9]

<sup>29</sup>Then Belshazzar gave the command, and Daniel was clothed with purple, a chain of gold was put around his neck, and a proclamation was made about him, that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

<sup>30</sup>†That very night Belshazzar the Chaldean king was killed. <sup>31</sup>† [\[10\]](#) And Darius the Mede received the kingdom, being about sixty-two years old.

Daniel and the Lions' Den

DANIEL 6 †It pleased Darius to set over the kingdom 120 satraps, to be throughout the whole kingdom; †and over them three presidents, of whom Daniel was one, to whom these satraps should give account, so that the king might suffer no loss. †Then this Daniel became distinguished above all the other presidents and satraps, because an excellent spirit was in him. And the king planned to set him over the whole kingdom. †Then the presidents and the satraps sought to find a ground for complaint against Daniel with regard to the kingdom, but they could find no ground for complaint or any fault, because he was faithful, and no error or fault was found in him. †Then these men said, “We shall not find any ground for complaint against this Daniel unless we find it in connection with the law of his God.”

†Then these presidents and satraps came by agreement [1] to the king and said to him, “O King Darius, live forever! †All the presidents of the kingdom, the prefects and the satraps, the counselors and the governors are agreed that the king should establish an ordinance and enforce an injunction, that whoever makes petition to any god or man for thirty days, except to you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions. †Now, O king, establish the injunction and sign the document, so that it cannot be changed, according to the law of the Medes and the Persians, which cannot be revoked.” †Therefore King Darius signed the document and injunction.

†When Daniel knew that the document had been signed, he went to his house where he had windows in his upper chamber open toward Jerusalem. He got down on his knees three times a day and prayed and gave thanks before his God, as he had done previously. †Then these men came by agreement and found Daniel making petition and plea before his God. †Then they came near and said before the king, concerning the injunction, “O king! Did you not sign an injunction, that anyone who makes petition to any god or man within thirty days except to you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions?” The king answered and said, “The thing stands fast, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which cannot be revoked.” †Then they answered and said before the king, “Daniel, who is one of the exiles from Judah, pays no attention to you, O king, or the injunction you have signed, but makes his petition three times a day.”

†Then the king, when he heard these words, was much distressed and set his mind to deliver Daniel. And he labored till the sun went down to rescue him.

<sup>15</sup>Then these men came by agreement to the king and said to the king, “Know, O king, that it is a law of the Medes and Persians that no injunction or ordinance that the king establishes can be changed.”

<sup>19</sup>Then, at break of day, the king arose and went in haste to the den of lions. <sup>20</sup>As he came near to the den where Daniel was, he cried out in a tone of anguish. The king declared to Daniel, “O Daniel, servant of the living God, has your God, whom you serve continually, been able to deliver you from the lions?” <sup>21</sup>Then Daniel said to the king, “O king, live forever! <sup>22</sup>†My God sent his angel and shut the lions' mouths, and they have not harmed me, because I was found blameless before him; and also before you, O king, I have done no harm.” <sup>23</sup>†Then the king was exceedingly glad, and commanded that Daniel be taken up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no kind of harm was found on him, because he had trusted in his God. <sup>24</sup>†And the king commanded, and those men who had maliciously accused Daniel were brought and cast into the den of lions—they, their children, and their wives. And before they reached the bottom of the den, the lions overpowered them and broke all their bones in pieces.

<sup>25</sup>†Then King Darius wrote to all the peoples, nations, and languages that dwell in all the earth: “Peace be multiplied to you. <sup>26</sup>I make a decree, that in all my royal dominion people are to tremble and fear before the God of Daniel, for he is the living God, enduring forever; his kingdom shall never be destroyed, and his dominion shall be to the end.

Daniel's Vision of the Four Beasts

DANIEL 7 † In the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon, Daniel saw a dream and visions of his head as he lay in his bed. Then he wrote down the dream and told the sum of the matter. <sup>2</sup>† Daniel declared, [\[1\]](#) “I saw in my vision by night, and behold, the four winds of heaven were stirring up the great sea. <sup>3</sup>† And four great beasts came up out of the sea, different from one another. <sup>4</sup>† The first was like a lion and had eagles' wings. Then as I looked its wings were plucked off, and it was lifted up from the ground and made to stand on two feet like a man, and the mind of a man was given to it. <sup>5</sup>† And behold, another beast, a second one, like a bear. It was raised up on one side. It had three ribs in its mouth between its teeth; and it was told, ‘Arise, devour much flesh.’ <sup>6</sup>† After this I looked, and behold, another, like a leopard, with four wings of a bird on its back. And the beast had four heads, and dominion was given to it. <sup>7</sup>† After this I saw in the night visions, and behold, a fourth beast, terrifying and dreadful and exceedingly strong. It had great iron teeth; it devoured and broke in pieces and stamped what was left with its feet. It was different from all the beasts that were before it, and it had ten horns. <sup>8</sup>† I considered the horns, and behold, there came up among them another horn, a little one, before which three of the first horns were plucked up by the roots. And behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of a man, and a mouth speaking great things.

The Ancient of Days Reigns

and the Ancient of Days took his seat; his clothing was white as snow, and the hair of his head like pure wool; his throne was fiery flames; its wheels were burning fire.

<sup>10</sup>A stream of fire issued and came out from before him;
a thousand thousands served him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him; the court sat in judgment, and the books were opened.

<sup>11</sup>† “I looked then because of the sound of the great words that the horn was speaking. And as I looked, the beast was killed, and its body destroyed and given over to be burned with fire. <sup>12</sup>† As for the rest of the beasts, their dominion was taken away, but their lives were prolonged for a season and a time.

The Son of Man Is Given Dominion

<sup>13</sup>†“I saw in the night visions, and behold, with the clouds of heaven there came one like a son of man, and he came to the Ancient of Days and was presented before him.

<sup>14</sup>†And to him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, that all peoples, nations, and languages should serve him;
his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom one that shall not be destroyed.

Daniel's Vision Interpreted

<sup>15</sup>†“As for me, Daniel, my spirit within me [2] was anxious, and the visions of my head alarmed me. <sup>16</sup>†I approached one of those who stood there and asked him the truth concerning all this. So he told me and made known to me the interpretation of the things. <sup>17</sup>†“These four great beasts are four kings who shall arise out of the earth. <sup>18</sup>††But the saints of the Most High shall receive the kingdom and possess the kingdom forever, forever and ever.’

<sup>19</sup>†“Then I desired to know the truth about the fourth beast, which was different from all the rest, exceedingly terrifying, with its teeth of iron and claws of bronze, and which devoured and broke in pieces and stamped what was left with its feet, <sup>20</sup>†and about the ten horns that were on its head, and the other horn that came up and before which three of them fell, the horn that had eyes and a mouth that spoke great things, and that seemed greater than its companions. <sup>21</sup>†As I looked, this horn made war with the saints and prevailed over them, <sup>22</sup>†until the Ancient of Days came, and judgment was given for the saints of the Most High, and the time came when the saints possessed the kingdom.

<sup>23</sup>“Thus he said: ‘As for the fourth beast, there shall be a fourth kingdom on earth, which shall be different from all the kingdoms, and it shall devour the whole earth, and trample it down, and break it to pieces.

<sup>24</sup>†As for the ten horns, out of this kingdom ten kings shall arise, and another shall arise after them;

he shall be different from the former ones, and shall put down three kings.

<sup>25</sup>† He shall speak words against the Most High, and shall wear out the saints of the Most High, and shall think to change the times and the law; and they shall be given into his hand for a time, times, and half a time.

<sup>27</sup>† And the kingdom and the dominion and the greatness of the kingdoms under the whole heaven shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High; their kingdom shall be an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey them.' [3]

<sup>28</sup>“Here is the end of the matter. As for me, Daniel, my thoughts greatly alarmed me, and my color changed, but I kept the matter in my heart.”

Daniel's Vision of the Ram and the Goat

DANIEL 8 †In the third year of the reign of King Belshazzar a vision appeared to me, Daniel, after that which appeared to me at the first. <sup>2</sup>†And I saw in the vision; and when I saw, I was in Susa the capital, [1] which is in the province of Elam. And I saw in the vision, and I was at the Ulai canal. <sup>3</sup>†I raised my eyes and saw, and behold, a ram standing on the bank of the canal. It had two horns, and both horns were high, but one was higher than the other, and the higher one came up last. <sup>4</sup>I saw the ram charging westward and northward and southward. No beast could stand before him, and there was no one who could rescue from his power. He did as he pleased and became great.

<sup>5</sup>As I was considering, behold, a male goat came from the west across the face of the whole earth, without touching the ground. And the goat had a conspicuous horn between his eyes. <sup>6</sup>He came to the ram with the two horns, which I had seen standing on the bank of the canal, and he ran at him in his powerful wrath. <sup>7</sup>I saw him come close to the ram, and he was enraged against him and struck the ram and broke his two horns. And the ram had no power to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground and trampled on him. And there was no one who could rescue the ram from his power. <sup>8</sup>Then the goat became exceedingly great, but when he was strong, the great horn was broken, and instead of it there came up four conspicuous horns toward the four winds of heaven.

<sup>9</sup>†Out of one of them came a little horn, which grew exceedingly great toward the south, toward the east, and toward the glorious land. <sup>10</sup>†It grew great, even to the host of heaven. And some of the host and some [2] of the stars it threw down to the ground and trampled on them. <sup>11</sup>†It became great, even as great as the Prince of the host. And the regular burnt offering was taken away from him, and the place of his sanctuary was overthrown. <sup>12</sup>And a host will be given over to it together with the regular burnt offering because of transgression, [3] and it will throw truth to the ground, and it will act and prosper. <sup>13</sup>†Then I heard a holy one speaking, and another holy one said to the one who spoke, “For how long is the vision concerning the regular burnt offering, the transgression that makes desolate, and the giving over of the sanctuary and host to be trampled underfoot?” <sup>14</sup>†And he said to me, [4] “For 2,300 evenings and mornings. Then the sanctuary shall be restored to its rightful state.”

The Interpretation of the Vision

<sup>18</sup>And when he had spoken to me, I fell into a deep sleep with my face to the ground. But he touched me and made me stand up. <sup>19</sup>He said, “Behold, I will make known to you what shall be at the latter end of the indignation, for it refers to the appointed time of the end. <sup>20</sup>As for the ram that you saw with the two horns, these are the kings of Media and Persia. <sup>21</sup>†And the goat [5] is the king of Greece. And the great horn between his eyes is the first king. <sup>22</sup>†As for the horn that was broken, in place of which four others arose, four kingdoms shall arise from his [6] nation, but not with his power. <sup>23</sup>†And at the latter end of their kingdom, when the transgressors have reached their limit, a king of bold face, one who understands riddles, shall arise. <sup>24</sup>His power shall be great—but not by his own power; and he shall cause fearful destruction and shall succeed in what he does, and destroy mighty men and the people who are the saints. <sup>25</sup>†By his cunning he shall make deceit prosper under his hand, and in his own mind he shall become great. Without warning he shall destroy many. And he shall even rise up against the Prince of princes, and he shall be broken—but by no human hand. <sup>26</sup>†The vision of the evenings and the mornings that has been told is true, but seal up the vision, for it refers to many days from now.”

<sup>27</sup>And I, Daniel, was overcome and lay sick for some days. Then I rose and went about the king's business, but I was appalled by the vision and did not understand it.

Daniel's Prayer for His People

DANIEL 9 †In the first year of Darius the son of Ahasuerus, by descent a Mede, who was made king over the realm of the Chaldeans—<sup>2</sup>†in the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, perceived in the books the number of years that, according to the word of the LORD to Jeremiah the prophet, must pass before the end of the desolations of Jerusalem, namely, seventy years.

<sup>3</sup>Then I turned my face to the Lord God, seeking him by prayer and pleas for mercy with fasting and sackcloth and ashes. <sup>4</sup>†I prayed to the LORD my God and made confession, saying, “O Lord, the great and awesome God, who keeps covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and keep his commandments, <sup>5</sup>we have sinned and done wrong and acted wickedly and rebelled, turning aside from your commandments and rules. <sup>6</sup>We have not listened to your servants the prophets, who spoke in your name to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land. <sup>7</sup>To you, O Lord, belongs righteousness, but to us open shame, as at this day, to the men of Judah, to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to all Israel, those who are near and those who are far away, in all the lands to which you have driven them, because of the treachery that they have committed against you. <sup>8</sup>To us, O LORD, belongs open shame, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against you. <sup>9</sup>To the Lord our God belong mercy and forgiveness, for we have rebelled against him <sup>10</sup>and have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God by walking in his laws, which he set before us by his servants the prophets. <sup>11</sup>†All Israel has transgressed your law and turned aside, refusing to obey your voice. And the curse and oath that are written in the Law of Moses the servant of God have been poured out upon us, because we have sinned against him. <sup>12</sup>He has confirmed his words, which he spoke against us and against our rulers who ruled us, [1] by bringing upon us a great calamity. For under the whole heaven there has not been done anything like what has been done against Jerusalem. <sup>13</sup>As it is written in the Law of Moses, all this calamity has come upon us; yet we have not entreated the favor of the LORD our God, turning from our iniquities and gaining insight by your truth. <sup>14</sup>Therefore the LORD has kept ready the calamity and has brought it upon us, for the LORD our God is righteous in all the works that he has done, and we have not obeyed his voice. <sup>15</sup>And now, O Lord our God, who brought your people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and have made a name for yourself, as at this day, we have sinned, we have done wickedly.

<sup>16</sup>†“O Lord, according to all your righteous acts, let your anger and your wrath turn away from your city Jerusalem, your holy hill, because for our sins, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and your people have become a byword among all who are around us. <sup>17</sup>Now therefore, O our God, listen to the prayer of your servant and to his pleas for mercy, and for your own sake, O Lord, [2] make your face to shine upon your sanctuary, which is desolate. <sup>18</sup>O my God, incline your ear and hear. Open your eyes and see our desolations, and the city that is called by your name. For we do not present our pleas before you because of our righteousness, but because of your great mercy. <sup>19</sup>O Lord, hear; O Lord, forgive. O Lord, pay attention and act. Delay not, for your own sake, O my God, because your city and your people are called by your name.”

Gabriel Brings an Answer

<sup>20</sup>While I was speaking and praying, confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my plea before the LORD my God for the holy hill of my God, <sup>21</sup>†while I was speaking in prayer, the man Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the first, came to me in swift flight at the time of the evening sacrifice. <sup>22</sup>He made me understand, speaking with me and saying, “O Daniel, I have now come out to give you insight and understanding. <sup>23</sup>At the beginning of your pleas for mercy a word went out, and I have come to tell it to you, for you are greatly loved. Therefore consider the word and understand the vision.

The Seventy Weeks

<sup>24</sup>††“Seventy weeks [3] are decreed about your people and your holy city, to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place. [4] <sup>25</sup>Know therefore and understand that from the going out of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an anointed one, a prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time. <sup>26</sup>And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off and shall have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its [5] end shall come with a flood, and to the end there shall be war. Desolations are decreed. <sup>27</sup>†And he shall make a strong covenant with many for one week, [6] and for half of the week he shall put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on the wing of abominations shall come one who makes desolate, until the decreed end is poured out on the desolator.”

Daniel's Terrifying Vision of a Man

DANIEL 10 †In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a word was revealed to Daniel, who was named Belteshazzar. And the word was true, and it was a great conflict. [1] And he understood the word and had understanding of the vision.

<sup>2</sup>In those days I, Daniel, was mourning for three weeks. <sup>3</sup>I ate no delicacies, no meat or wine entered my mouth, nor did I anoint myself at all, for the full three weeks. <sup>4</sup>On the twenty-fourth day of the first month, as I was standing on the bank of the great river (that is, the Tigris) <sup>5</sup>I lifted up my eyes and looked, and behold, a man clothed in linen, with a belt of fine gold from Uphaz around his waist. <sup>6</sup>†His body was like beryl, his face like the appearance of lightning, his eyes like flaming torches, his arms and legs like the gleam of burnished bronze, and the sound of his words like the sound of a multitude. <sup>7</sup>And I, Daniel, alone saw the vision, for the men who were with me did not see the vision, but a great trembling fell upon them, and they fled to hide themselves. <sup>8</sup>So I was left alone and saw this great vision, and no strength was left in me. My radiant appearance was fearfully changed, [2] and I retained no strength. <sup>9</sup>Then I heard the sound of his words, and as I heard the sound of his words, I fell on my face in deep sleep with my face to the ground.

<sup>10</sup>†And behold, a hand touched me and set me trembling on my hands and knees. <sup>11</sup>And he said to me, “O Daniel, man greatly loved, understand the words that I speak to you, and stand upright, for now I have been sent to you.” And when he had spoken this word to me, I stood up trembling. <sup>12</sup>†Then he said to me, “Fear not, Daniel, for from the first day that you set your heart to understand and humbled yourself before your God, your words have been heard, and I have come because of your words. <sup>13</sup>†The prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me twenty-one days, but Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, for I was left there with the kings of Persia, <sup>14</sup>†and came to make you understand what is to happen to your people in the latter days. For the vision is for days yet to come.”

<sup>15</sup>When he had spoken to me according to these words, I turned my face toward the ground and was mute. <sup>16</sup>And behold, one in the likeness of the children of man touched my lips. Then I opened my mouth and spoke. I said to him who stood before me, “O my lord, by reason of the vision pains have come upon me, and I retain no strength. <sup>17</sup>How can my lord's servant talk with my lord? For now no strength remains in me, and no breath is left in me.”

<sup>19</sup>†And he said, “O man greatly loved, fear not, peace be with you; be strong and of good courage.” And as he spoke to me, I was strengthened and said, “Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me.” <sup>20</sup>†Then he said, “Do you know why I have come to you? But now I will return to fight against the prince of Persia; and when I go out, behold, the prince of Greece will come. <sup>21</sup>†But I will tell you what is inscribed in the book of truth: there is none who contends by my side against these except Michael, your prince.

The Kings of the South and the North

DANIEL 11 †“And as for me, in the first year of Darius the Mede, I stood up to confirm and strengthen him.

<sup>2</sup>‡‡‡“And now I will show you the truth. Behold, three more kings shall arise in Persia, and a fourth shall be far richer than all of them. And when he has become strong through his riches, he shall stir up all against the kingdom of Greece.

<sup>3</sup>‡Then a mighty king shall arise, who shall rule with great dominion and do as he wills. <sup>4</sup>‡And as soon as he has arisen, his kingdom shall be broken and divided toward the four winds of heaven, but not to his posterity, nor according to the authority with which he ruled, for his kingdom shall be plucked up and go to others besides these.

<sup>5</sup>‡“Then the king of the south shall be strong, but one of his princes shall be stronger than he and shall rule, and his authority shall be a great authority.

<sup>6</sup>‡After some years they shall make an alliance, and the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to make an agreement. But she shall not retain the strength of her arm, and he and his arm shall not endure, but she shall be given up, and her attendants, he who fathered her, and he who supported [\[1\]](#) her in those times.

<sup>20</sup>†“Then shall arise in his place one who shall send an exactor of tribute for the glory of the kingdom. But within a few days he shall be broken, neither in anger nor in battle. <sup>21</sup>†In his place shall arise a contemptible person to whom royal majesty has not been given. He shall come in without warning and obtain the kingdom by flatteries. <sup>22</sup>†Armies shall be utterly swept away before him and broken, even the prince of the covenant. <sup>23</sup>†And from the time that an alliance is made with him he shall act deceitfully, and he shall become strong with a small people. <sup>24</sup>†Without warning he shall come into the richest parts [5] of the province, and he shall do what neither his fathers nor his fathers' fathers have done, scattering among them plunder, spoil, and goods. He shall devise plans against strongholds, but only for a time. <sup>25</sup>†And he shall stir up his power and his heart against the king of the south with a great army. And the king of the south shall wage war with an exceedingly great and mighty army, but he shall not stand, for plots shall be devised against him. <sup>26</sup>†Even those who eat his food shall break him. His army shall be swept away, and many shall fall down slain. <sup>27</sup>†And as for the two kings, their hearts shall be bent on doing evil. They shall speak lies at the same table, but to no avail, for the end is yet to be at the time appointed. <sup>28</sup>†And he shall return to his land with great wealth, but his heart shall be set against the holy covenant. And he shall work his will and return to his own land.

<sup>29</sup>†“At the time appointed he shall return and come into the south, but it shall not be this time as it was before. <sup>30</sup>†For ships of Kittim shall come against him, and he shall be afraid and withdraw, and shall turn back and be enraged and take action against the holy covenant. He shall turn back and pay attention to those who forsake the holy covenant. <sup>31</sup>† Forces from him shall appear and profane the temple and fortress, and shall take away the regular burnt offering. And they shall set up the abomination that makes desolate. <sup>32</sup>†† He shall seduce with flattery those who violate the covenant, but the people who know their God shall stand firm and take action. <sup>33</sup>† And the wise among the people shall make many understand, though for some days they shall stumble by sword and flame, by captivity and plunder. <sup>34</sup>† When they stumble, they shall receive a little help. And many shall join themselves to them with flattery, <sup>35</sup>† and some of the wise shall stumble, so that they may be refined, purified, and made white, until the time of the end, for it still awaits the appointed time.

<sup>36</sup>†† “And the king shall do as he wills. He shall exalt himself and magnify himself above every god, and shall speak astonishing things against the God of gods. He shall prosper till the indignation is accomplished; for what is decreed shall be done. <sup>37</sup>† He shall pay no attention to the gods of his fathers, or to the one beloved by women. He shall not pay attention to any other god, for he shall magnify himself above all. <sup>38</sup>† He shall honor the god of fortresses instead of these. A god whom his fathers did not know he shall honor with gold and silver, with precious stones and costly gifts. <sup>39</sup> He shall deal with the strongest fortresses with the help of a foreign god. Those who acknowledge him he shall load with honor. He shall make them rulers over many and shall divide the land for a price. [6] <sup>40</sup>† “At the time of the end, the king of the south shall attack [7] him, but the king of the north shall rush upon him like a whirlwind, with chariots and horsemen, and with many ships. And he shall come into countries and shall overflow and pass through. <sup>41</sup> He shall come into the glorious land. And tens of thousands shall fall, but these shall be delivered out of his hand: Edom and Moab and the main part of the Ammonites. <sup>42</sup> He shall stretch out his hand against the countries, and the land of Egypt shall not escape. <sup>43</sup> He shall become ruler of the treasures of gold and of silver, and all the precious things of Egypt, and the Libyans and the Cushites shall follow in his train. <sup>44</sup>† But news from the east and the north shall alarm him, and he shall go out with great fury to destroy and devote many to destruction. <sup>45</sup>† And he shall pitch his palatial tents between the sea and the glorious holy mountain. Yet he shall come to his end, with none to help him.

The Time of the End

DANIEL 12 †“At that time shall arise Michael, the great prince who has charge of your people. And there shall be a time of trouble, such as never has been since there was a nation till that time. But at that time your people shall be delivered, everyone whose name shall be found written in the book. <sup>2</sup>†And many of those who sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt. <sup>3</sup>†And those who are wise shall shine like the brightness of the sky above; [\[1\]](#) and those who turn many to righteousness, like the stars forever and ever. <sup>4</sup>†But you, Daniel, shut up the words and seal the book, until the time of the end. Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall increase.”

<sup>5</sup>†Then I, Daniel, looked, and behold, two others stood, one on this bank of the stream and one on that bank of the stream. <sup>6</sup>†And someone said to the man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the stream, [\[2\]](#) “How long shall it be till the end of these wonders?” <sup>7</sup>†And I heard the man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the stream; he raised his right hand and his left hand toward heaven and swore by him who lives forever that it would be for a time, times, and half a time, and that when the shattering of the power of the holy people comes to an end all these things would be finished. <sup>8</sup>I heard, but I did not understand. Then I said, “O my lord, what shall be the outcome of these things?” <sup>9</sup>He said, “Go your way, Daniel, for the words are shut up and sealed until the time of the end. <sup>10</sup>†Many shall purify themselves and make themselves white and be refined, but the wicked shall act wickedly. And none of the wicked shall understand, but those who are wise shall understand. <sup>11</sup>†And from the time that the regular burnt offering is taken away and the abomination that makes desolate is set up, there shall be 1,290 days. <sup>12</sup>†Blessed is he who waits and arrives at the 1,335 days. <sup>13</sup>†But go your way till the end. And you shall rest and shall stand in your allotted place at the end of the days.”

Study Notes

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:1 third year. 606–605 B.C. It was the third year by Babylonian dating, which did not count a king’s initial (accession) year, but began with the following year. So the “third year” is in harmony with the same year labeled as “fourth” by the Judean system of dating (cf. Jer. 46:2).

Jehoiakim. Son of Josiah who ruled (c. 609–597 B.C.) when Nebuchadnezzar first plundered Jerusalem. Nebuchadnezzar. Son of Nabopolassar who ruled Babylon (c. 605–562 B.C.).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:2 Shinar. A term for Babylon. his god. Bel or Marduk (same as Merodach). Babylonian religion recognized other gods too (cf. 1:7 and see note there). To conquer another nation’s deities was thought to prove the superiority of the victor’s god.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:4 Qualifications for Jews to be trained in affairs of state included being: 1) physically free from bodily defects or handicap and handsome, i.e., a pleasing appearance in the public eye; 2) mentally sharp; and 3) socially poised and polished for representing the leadership. The ages of the trainees was most likely 14–17.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:5 educated for three years. Cf. 2:1 and see note there.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:7 names. A key factor in the “brainwashing” process of the Babylonian training was a name switch. This was to link the inductees to local gods rather than to support their former religious loyalty. Daniel means “God is my judge,” but became Belteshazzar, or “Bel protect the king.” Hananiah, “the Lord is gracious,” was changed to Shadrach, “command of Aku,” another Babylonian god. Mishael, meaning “who is like the Lord?” was given the name Meshach, “who is what Aku is?” Finally, Azariah, “the Lord is my helper,” became Abed-nego, “servant of Nego,” also called Nebo, a god of vegetation (cf. Isa. 46:1).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:8 Daniel resolved. The pagan food and drink was devoted to idols. To indulge was to be understood as honoring these deities. Daniel “made up his mind” not to engage in compromise by being untrue to God’s call of commitment (cf. Ex. 34:14–15). Also, foods that God’s law prohibited (Lev. 11) were items that pagans consumed; to partake entailed direct compromise (cf. Dan. 1:12). Moses took this stand (Heb. 11:24–26), as did the psalmist (Ps. 119:115), and Jesus (Heb. 7:26). Cf. 2 Cor. 6:14–18 and 2 Tim. 2:20.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:9 God honored Daniel’s trust and allegiance by sovereignly working favorably for him among the heathen leaders. In this instance, it prevented persecution and led to respect, whereas later on God permitted opposition against Daniel, which also elevated him (Dan. 3; 6). One way or another, God honors those who honor him (1 Sam. 2:30; 2 Chron. 16:9).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:12 vegetables. This Hebrew word appears in a plural form in the OT, only here and in v. 16. It might refer to wheat or barley, or it could be fresh vegetables.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:15 fatter. Indicates healthiness.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:20 ten times better. This probably uses the number qualitatively to signify fullness or completeness, i.e., they displayed incredible skill in answering, beyond the performance of other men who spoke without God’s help. Compare this with “ten days” (vv. 12–15) which is quantitative, since it refers to an actual passage of time.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:21 first year. Cyrus of Persia conquered Babylon in 539 B.C. His third year, in 10:1, is the latest historical year that Daniel mentions (cf. Ezra 1:1–2:1).

II. Daniel 8/Daniel 11
A. Medo-Persia	8:3–8, 20–21 ; 10:20–21 ; 11:2–35
B. Greece	8:3–8, 20–21 ; 10:20–21 ; 11:2–35

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:1 second year. Promotion of the four Hebrews after three years (1:5, 18) agrees with the year of promotion after the dream in the “second year.” See note on 1:1. dreams. In the time of revelation, God spoke through the interpretation of dreams that he induced (cf. 2:29).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:2 Chaldeans. This could refer to all people native to Chaldea (1:4; 3:8), or, as here, to a special class of soothsayers who taught Chaldean culture.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:4 Aramaic. This language, to which Daniel suddenly switches in v. 4b and retains through 7:28, was written with an alphabet like Hebrew, yet had distinctive differences. Aramaic was the popular language of the Babylonian, Assyrian, and Persian areas, and was useful in governmental and trade relations. Daniel 1:1–2:4a and 8:1–12:13 were written in Hebrew, possibly because the focus was more directly on Hebrew matters. Daniel 2:4b–7:28 switches to Aramaic because the subject matter is centered more on other nations and matters largely involving them.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:5 The word . . . is firm. The king shrewdly withheld the dream, though he remembered it, to test his experts. He was anxious for a straight interpretation, with no deception.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:7 Let the king tell. The worldly men of human skill failed (cf. the magicians in Pharaoh’s court, Ex. 8:16–19, with Joseph, Gen. 41:1ff.). Daniel 2:8–13 show how impossible it is for humans to truly interpret dreams from God (cf. v. 27). But Daniel, who trusted God in prayer (v. 18), received his supernatural interpretation (vv. 19, 30). He gave credit to God in his prayer (vv. 20–23) and his testimony before Nebuchadnezzar (vv. 23, 45). Later the king, too, gave God the glory (v. 47).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:20–23 This praise to God sums up the theme of the whole book, namely that God is the One who controls all things and grants all wisdom and might.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:28 God . . . reveals mysteries. Just as he did during Joseph’s time in Egypt (cf. Gen. 40:8; 41:16).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:36–45 we will tell the king its interpretation. Five empires in succession would rule over Israel, here pictured by parts of a statue (body). In Dan. 7, the same empires are represented by four great beasts. These empires are Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, Rome, and the later revived Rome (cf. Introduction: Background and Setting), each one differentiated from the previous as indicated by the declining quality of the metal. A stone picturing Christ (Luke 20:18) at his second coming (as the son of man also does in Dan. 7:13–14) will destroy the fourth empire in its final phase with catastrophic suddenness (2:34–35, 44–45). Christ’s total shattering of Gentile power will result in the establishment of his millennial kingdom, the ultimate empire, and then continuing on eternally (2:44; 7:27).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:39 inferior. This probably means “lower” (lit., “earthward”) on the image of a man as Daniel guides Nebuchadnezzar’s thoughts downward on the body from his own empire (the head) to the one that would succeed it. Medo-Persia, though lacking the glory of Babylon (silver as compared to gold), was not inferior in strength to Babylon when its day of power came; it actually conquered Babylon (7:5). Also in the case of Greece, bronze is less glorious (valuable) than silver, but stronger. rule over all the earth. Alexander the Great became the ruler of the world, including Israel, from Europe to Egypt to India.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:40 strong as iron. This metal fittingly represents the Roman Empire, which would be characterized by the description predicted. It did have armies in iron armor known as the Iron Legions of Rome, and it had strength and invincibility.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:41 toes. Ten toes represent the same kings as the 10 horns in 7:24. They will rule in the final time of the Gentile empire, which Christ destroys in violent abruptness at his second coming.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:41–43 clay and . . . iron. The iron in the 10 toes (kings) represents the Roman Empire in its revived form, prior to the second coming of Christ, as having iron-like strength for conquest (cf. Rev. 13:4–5). But the clay mixed in depicts that the union (federation) of kings and nations would have fatal flaws of human weakness, so that it is inherently vulnerable.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:44 stand forever. God’s kingdom ruled by Messiah is the final rule, never to be replaced. It has a millennial phase and an eternal future, but it is the same king who rules both.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:45 stone . . . mountain. The stone is Messiah (cf. Ps. 118:22–23; Isa. 28:16; Rom. 9:33; 1 Pet. 2:6; esp. Luke 20:18). The mountain pictures God’s all-transcending government that looms over weak earthly powers (Dan. 4:17, 25; Ps. 47:8; 103:19; 145:13; Rev. 17:9). Messiah is “cut from” this sovereign realm by God, which accords with the son of man coming (Dan. 7:13–14); “by no human hand” denotes that the Messiah comes from God and is not of human origin or power (cf. the same idea in 8:25). The virgin birth and the resurrection, as well as the second coming, could be encompassed in this reference to supernatural origin.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:1 image of gold. The statue, which the king arrogantly made, represented himself as an expression of his greatness and glory and reflected the dream where he was the head of gold (2:38). It was not necessarily made of solid gold, but more likely would have been overlaid with gold, like many objects found in the ruins of Babylon. The word for “image” usually means a human form. The height of the figure was about 90 feet and the width 9 feet; it would have been comparable in height to date palms found in that area. The self-deifying statue of the king need not have been grotesquely thin in proportion to the height since a massive base could have contributed to the height. This established the worship of Nebuchadnezzar and the nation under his power, in addition to the other gods.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:2 Leaders attending the “summit conference” for Nebuchadnezzar’s display are: satraps, or leaders over regions; prefects, or military chiefs; governors, or civil administrators; counselors, or lawyers; treasurers; judges, or government arbiters; magistrates, or judges in our sense today; and officials, or other civil leaders.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:5 trigon. A smaller, portable version of the harp, most likely played with a plectrum (pick), yielding high tones. harp. Possibly an instrument plucked with the fingers rather than a plectrum (pick), yielding low tones.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:6 furnace. Some ancient kilns were found to have been shaped like a vertical tunnel open only at the top, with a dome supported by columns. Charcoal normally served as fuel.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:8 certain Chaldeans. These are most likely the priests of Bel-merodach who were envious of these young Jews, and sought their death.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:12 they do not serve your gods or worship the golden image. Enemies of God’s servants witnessed such a clear-cut testimony that they were in no doubt about their rejection of idolatry and unshakeable allegiance to the God of Israel.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:13 these men. Daniel is not mentioned as being part of the refusal to worship witnessed by the Chaldeans. If present, he surely would have joined these others in faithfulness to God.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:15 who is the god . . . ? The king’s challenge would return to embarrass him. The true God was able to deliver, just as he was able to reveal a dream and its meaning. Nebuchadnezzar had earlier called him “God of gods” (2:47), but having let that fade from his attention, he soon would be shocked and humiliated when God took up his challenge (3:28–29).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:16 we have no need to answer. The three men meant no disrespect. They did not have any defense, nor did they need to reconsider their commitment, since they stood fast for their God as the only true and living God. Their lives were in his hands as they indicated in vv. 17–18 (cf. Isa. 43:1–2).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:19 seven times more. The king’s fury at being defied to his face led him to cry for an intensification of the heat. He was not literally requiring the fire to be seven times hotter as a gauge would indicate, or requiring seven times as long to heat, or seven times the amount of fuel (cf. v. 6, “immediately be cast”). The king in anger means “intensely hot,” using “seven” figuratively to denote completeness (as Lev. 26:18–28; Prov. 6:31; 24:16), similar to “ten” in Dan. 1:20. Cf. “overheated” (3:22). A stone or brick furnace with an air draft could be made hotter by more fuel and air.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:22 took up. Refers to being taken upward on some kind of ramp to a spot near enough to the top to be thrown in (cf. v. 26). The fire was so hot it incinerated the king’s men.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:23 fell bound into. A shaft directed them into the furnace bottom, on top of the fuel.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:25 four men unbound. The king seemed only to have known that the fourth person was a heavenly being. He called him a “son of the gods” (a pagan reference to one who appeared supernatural) and an “angel” (v. 28). The fourth person could possibly have been the second person of the Godhead (Jesus Christ) in a preincarnate appearance (see notes on Josh. 5:13–15; Judg. 6:11).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:27 the fire had not had any power. When God enacts a miracle, he supernaturally controls all details so that his power is unmistakable, and there is no other explanation.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:28–30 The king was convinced and eager to add the God of these men to his panoply of deities. Soon he learned that God was not one of many, but the only God (ch. 4).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:1–3 Nebuchadnezzar's praise of God in vv. 1–3 and 34b–37 is the theme that brackets the experience the king reiterates in the first person (vv. 4–34). He began and ended the narrative with praise, and in between told why he converted to such worship of the true God (cf. Rom. 11:33).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:6 wise men of Babylon. The king gave them another try (cf. 2:2–13) and they were again unable.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:8 At last Daniel came. Daniel alone interpreted the tree vision (v. 10), enabled by God. my god. As the story began, Nebuchadnezzar depicted himself still as a worshiper of Bel-merodach.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:9 chief of the magicians. Here was the title the pagans gave him (cf. 5:11). spirit. The meaning here and in v. 18 (as well as 5:11, 14) is rightly translated by some versions as “the Spirit of the Holy God.” Wording for the true God in the Hebrew of Josh. 24:19 is equivalent to the Aramaic here (see note on Dan. 2:4). Some translators believe he meant “a spirit of the holy gods.” This is unlikely, since no pagan worshipers claimed purity or holiness for their deities. In fact, just the opposite was believed. And since Nebuchadnezzar was rehearsing his conversion, he could genuinely identify the true Spirit of God.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:10–17 a tree. This pictures Nebuchadnezzar after 605 B.C. (cf. 4:20–22). The creatures in v. 12 represent people under his rule (v. 22). The fall of the tree represents the coming time of God's judgment on him (cf. vv. 23–25).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:13 a watcher, a holy one. This was an angel (cf. v. 23), a servant of God, who controlled a nation's rise or fall (cf. 10:13). Angels often have roles administering God's judgment, as shown also in Gen. 18; Isa. 37; and

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:15 stump. The basis (nucleus) of the kingdom, still in existence in v. 26 (cf. Isa. 6:13), will later sprout as in nature (Job 14:7–9). The band is a guarantee that God will protect what remains intact and preserve the king’s rule (Dan. 4:26).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:16 a beast’s mind. Some form of the disease called lycanthropy, in which a person thinks he is an animal and lives wildly, caused him to eat grass, have thick and unkept nails, shaggy hair, and behave inhumanly. seven periods of time. (cf. also vv. 23, 25, 32). Probably “years” are meant, not “months,” which is used in v. 29. Daniel uses the same term clearly to mean “years” in 7:25.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:19 dismayed. Daniel’s compassionate alarm at the coming calamity.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:26 Heaven rules. God is synonymous with his abode.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:27 break off your sins. Daniel called for a recognition of sin and repentance (cf. Isa. 55:7). He was not presenting a works salvation, but treating the issue of sin exactly as Jesus did with the rich young ruler in Matt. 19:16–23. The king failed to repent at this point (Dan. 4:30).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:30 I have built. Nebuchadnezzar was known for his building projects, such as a 400-foot high mountain terraced with flowing water and hanging gardens for his wife (one of the seven wonders of the ancient world) as a place for cool refreshment. For such pride, judgment fell (vv. 31–33).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:34 lifted my eyes. God’s grace enables a person to do this (John 6:44–65). “For those who honor me I will honor” (1 Sam. 2:30); and “Toward the scorners he is scornful, but to the humble he gives favor” (Prov. 3:34). The praise of Dan. 4:34b–37 and chs. 1–3 came as a result (cf. Jer. 9:23–24).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:1 Belshazzar. These events occurred in 539 B.C., over two decades after Nebuchadnezzar’s death (c. 563/562 B.C.). This king, whose name (similar to Daniel’s, cf. 4:8) means “Bel, protect the king,” is about to be conquered by the Medo-Persian army.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:2 vessels. The celebration was designed to boost morale and break the feelings of doom, because at this very time, armies of Medo-Persia (cf. v. 30) had Babylon helplessly under siege.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:4 This exercise was a call for their deities to deliver them.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:5 human hand. Babylonian hands had taken God's vessels (mentioned twice) and held them in contempt to dishonor and challenge him. Now the hand that controls all men, and which none can restrain, challenged them (4:35). God's answer to their challenge was clear, as in 5:23–28.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:7–9 they could not. Without God's help, the experts again failed (cf. chs. 2; 4), but God's man Daniel would not.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:10 the queen declared. Possibly she was a surviving wife or a daughter of Nebuchadnezzar. If the latter, she was a wife of Nabonidus who co-ruled with Belshazzar (cf. "third ruler," v. 16). She, like Nebuchadnezzar in ch. 4, has confidence in Daniel (5:11–12).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:13 father. Used in the same sense of grandfather (cf. v. 18).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:16 the third ruler. This trio included Daniel, along with Belshazzar, Nebuchadnezzar's grandson (ruled 553–539 B.C.), and Nabonidus (ruled 556–539 B.C.). The prizes turned out to be non-existent in light of the city's conquest that very night (vv. 29–30).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:25–29 Mene, Mene. This means "counted," or "appointed," and is doubled for stronger emphasis. Tekel means "weighed" or "assessed," by the God who weighs actions (1 Sam. 2:3; Ps. 62:9). Peres denotes "divided," i.e., to the Medes and Persians. Parsin in Dan. 5:25 is the plural of Peres, possibly emphasizing the parts in the division.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:30 That very night. One ancient account alleged that Persia's General Ugbaru had troops dig a trench to divert and thus lower the waters of the Euphrates River. Since the river flowed through the city of Babylon, the lowered water enabled besiegers to unexpectedly invade via the waterway under the thick walls and reach the palace before the city was aware. The end then came quickly, as guards, Belshazzar, and others were slain on October 16, 539 B.C.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:31 Darius the Mede. Possibly Darius is not a name, but an honored title for Cyrus, who with his army entered Babylon October 29, 539 B.C. It is used in inscriptions for at least five Persian rulers. History mentions no specific man named Darius the Mede. In 6:28 it is possible to translate, “Darius even . . . Cyrus.” A less likely possibility is that Darius is a second name for Gubaru, Cyrus’ appointed king to head up the Babylonian sector of his empire. Gubaru (or Gobryas) is distinct from Ugbaru, the general, who died soon after conquering Babylon. As previously prophesied, Babylon met God’s judgment (cf. Isa. 13; 47; Jer. 50–51; Hab. 2:5–19).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:1 satraps. Each is a provincial administrator under the king. Daniel’s eminent appointment was to a post as “president” (v. 2), assisting the king as his vice-regent.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:2 suffer no loss. They were responsible to prevent loss from military revolts, tax evasion, or fraud.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:3 an excellent spirit. Daniel, over 80, had enjoyed God’s blessing throughout his life (cf. 1:20–21; 2:49; 4:8; 5:12). over the whole kingdom. Daniel was the favorite of the king. He had experience, wisdom, a sense of history, leadership, a good reputation, ability, attitude, and revelation from the God of heaven. Apparently, God wanted him in the place of influence to encourage and assist in the Jews’ return to Judah, since the return was made in Cyrus’ first year (539–537 B.C.), right before the lions’ den incident. From the record of Ezra 1 and 6, all the basic elements of the return appear: 1) the temple was to be rebuilt with the cost paid from Cyrus’ treasury; 2) all Jews who visited could return, and those who stayed were urged to assist financially; and 3) the gold and silver vessels stolen from the temple by Nebuchadnezzar were to be taken back. To account for such favor toward the Jews, it is easy to think of Daniel not only influencing Cyrus to write such a decree, but even formulating it for him (cf. Prov. 21:1).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:4 complaint against Daniel. The jealous plot, not unlike the effort against Daniel’s three friends in 3:8ff., was also similar to that by Joseph’s brothers (cf. Gen. 37:18–24).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:7 except to you, O king. A deceptive stroke of the king’s ego secured his injunction, which was designed to benefit Daniel’s peers. Ancient kings were frequently worshiped as gods. Pagans had such inferior views of their gods that such homage was no problem.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:8 law . . . which cannot be revoked. Once enacted, Medo-Persian law could not be changed, even by the king (cf. 6:12, 15; Est. 1:19; 8:8).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:10 toward Jerusalem. Daniel's uncompromising pattern of prayer toward God's temple conformed to Solomon's prayer that the Lord's people would do so (1 Kings 8:44–45). Three times a day was also the pattern established by David (Ps. 55:16–17).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:13 one of the exiles from Judah. Daniel had lived over 60 years in Babylon. His loyalty to the rulers was well known (5:13); in spite of that loyalty, his consistent faithfulness to God brought this threat.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:14 He went from a self-styled god to a fool in one day.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:16 den of lions. The word “den” is related to the Hebrew term meaning “to dig,” so it refers to an underground pit which likely had 1) a hole at the top from which to drop food into the pit, and 2) a door at the foot of a ramp or on a hillside through which the lions could enter.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:22 his angel. In this miracle, the angel was possibly the same person as the fourth person in the fiery furnace (cf. 3:25 and see note there). blameless before him. That is the supreme commendation of Daniel as blameless before God and unworthy of such a death.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:23 no kind of harm . . . on him. God openly honored Daniel's faith for the purpose of showing his glory (cf. 3:26–27). That is not always the case, as God may choose to be glorified by permitting a trusted servant to be martyred (cf. Daniel in Heb. 11:33 with others in 11:35–38).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:24 the king commanded. Like the sin of Achan (Josh. 7:20–26), this sin against God, Darius, and Daniel cost the men and their families their lives. This judgment of God was also an important detail in the miracle, lest some critic suggest the lions were tame or toothless or not hungry.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:25–27 King Darius wrote. Impacted by Daniel and by the Lord, he expressed himself as if he had come to a point of personal trust in God for his salvation such as Nebuchadnezzar (cf. 4:1–3, 34–37). Daniel illustrated the evangelistic potency of a godly, uncompromising life. Cf. Matt. 5:48.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:1 first year. This represented a flashback to 553 B.C., 14 years before the feast of 5:1–3. Chapters 7–8 occur after ch. 4, but before ch. 5. The dream of Dan. 7 moves far beyond Daniel’s day to the coming of Israel’s king to end all Gentile kingdoms and to establish his eternal kingdom (7:13–14, 27; cf. 2:35, 45).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:2 great sea. This superlative refers to the Mediterranean, much greater in size than other bodies of water in that area of the world. Here this “sea” is used to represent nations and peoples (cf. vv. 3, 17; Rev. 13:1).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:3 four . . . beasts. These beasts represent the same empires as the individual parts of the image in ch. 2. Christ the King, the son of man from heaven (7:13–14), corresponds to the stone in 2:35, 45.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:4 lion . . . wings. The vicious, powerful, swift king of beasts represents Babylon. Winged lions guarded the gates of the royal palaces of Babylon. Daniel’s contemporaries, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Habakkuk, used animals to describe Nebuchadnezzar.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:5 a bear. This is Medo-Persia, with the greater “side” being Persia and “ribs” referring to vanquished nations.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:6 a leopard. This represents Greece with its fleetness in conquest under Alexander the Great (born in 356 B.C.). He ruled from Europe to Africa to India. The “four heads” represent the four generals who divided the kingdom after Alexander’s death at age 33 (323 B.C.). They ruled Macedonia, Asia Minor, Syria, and Egypt (cf. 8:8).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:7 fourth beast. No such animal exists; rather this is a unique beast pointing to the Roman Empire, already represented by iron in 2:40, devastating in conquest. Roman dominion fell apart in A.D. 476, yet it lived on in a divided status (Europe), but will be revived and return to great unified strength near Christ’s second coming. Then it will be comprised of the 10 parts under kings (7:7, 24), as well as an eleventh king, the Antichrist (vv. 8, 24; 2 Thess. 2:3–10; Rev. 13:1–10).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:8 another horn. This describes the rise of Antichrist (cf. v. 20). This beast is human (“eyes like . . . a man” and a “mouth speaking great things”) and is proud (cf. Rev. 13:5–6).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:9–10 As I looked. Daniel’s vision flashes forward to the divine throne from which judgment will come on the fourth kingdom (cf. Rev. 20:11–15).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:11–12 the beast was killed. Reference is to the fourth beast (i.e., the Roman sphere), headed up by the “little horn” or Antichrist (vv. 7, 24). He will be destroyed at Christ’s second coming (cf. Rev. 19:20; 20:10); cf. the smashing by the stone, Dan. 2:35, 45.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:12 rest of the beasts. These are the three earlier beasts (empires of chs. 2; 7). Each successively lost its chief dominance when it was conquered in history. Yet each was amalgamated into the empire that gained ascendancy, and survived in its descendants. As the second advent draws near, all three empires in their descendants will be a part of the Roman phase in its final form (Rev. 13:2). Survival will not be possible for the final and revived phase of the fourth empire after Christ’s second coming, for catastrophic devastation (cf. Dan. 2:35) will utterly destroy it, and Christ’s kingdom will replace it.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:13–14 son of man. The Messiah (cf. 9:26), Christ is meant; he often designated himself by this phrase (Matt. 16:27; 19:28; 26:64). “The clouds of heaven” are seen again in Rev. 1:7. Here he is distinct from the Ancient of Days, or Eternal One, the Father, who will coronate him for the kingdom (Dan. 2:44). The picture of old age is not that of being feeble, rather it highlights eternity and divine wisdom to judge (cf. 7:9–10).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:14 all peoples, nations, and languages. These distinctions are earthly and speak of the promise of an earthly kingdom, ruled by Christ, that merges into the eternal kingdom (cf. vv. 18, 27; Rev. 20:1–4; 21; 22).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:15 my spirit within me was anxious. Coming judgment made him sad, because it meant that history to its end would be a story of sin and judgment (cf. v. 28).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:16 those who stood there. Angels helped Daniel understand God’s revelations (8:13–16; 9:22–27).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:17 beasts . . . four. These empires depicted by the lion, bear, leopard, and bizarre animal (vv. 3–7) are Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, and Rome. The “kings” are the most notable leaders over these empires, such as Nebuchadnezzar (2:37–38), Cyrus, Alexander the Great, and finally the “little horn” (Antichrist).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:18, 22, 27 saints. These who trusted God possess the kingdom headed up by the son of man, the Messiah, of vv. 13–14. All serve him in vv. 14 and 27, the latter verse clarifying that the one served is actually God the Most High. Just as the four Gentile empires have individuals as kings (cf. 2:38; 7:8; 8:8), so the final kingdom has Christ as King.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:18 the Most High. God is referred to in this book as above all gods (2:47; 3:29; 4:35), as he was for Melchizedek and Abraham (Gen. 14:19–20, 22) as well as Naaman (2 Kings 5:17).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:19 fourth beast . . . different. This may refer to the empire’s far greater diversity than previous empires, and its breadth of conquest (v. 24). It branches out into two great divisions (cf. “legs,” 2:33), then near the end into 10 horns (a confederacy of 10 nations), and even an eleventh horn (Antichrist’s kingdom) lasting until Christ’s second coming.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:20 the other horn. The eleventh horn (ruler and his realm) is small and less powerful before its big rise (v. 8). Early in the future tribulation period, it (he) grows to be “larger” or more powerful than any of the horns (rulers) in the group.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:21 war with the saints. The final Antichrist will lead a great persecution of believers, especially in Israel (cf. Matt. 24:15–22; 2 Thess. 2:4; Rev. 12:13–17; 13:6–7).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:22 Ancient of Days. Refers to God the Eternal One, who confers the messianic kingdom on the Son to rule at his second coming and following (7:13–14). Judgment is against the Antichrist, Satan who empowers him (Rev. 13:4; 20:1–3), and the unsaved who are not allowed into the kingdom at its outset, but are destroyed and await the final, great white throne resurrection and judgment (Rev. 20:11–15). saints possessed the kingdom. Believers enter the kingdom in its earthly, millennial phase (Rev. 20:1–4) following Christ’s second coming (Matt. 25:34), having eternal life that continues into the eternal state (Rev. 21–22) after the thousand years.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:25 time, times, and half a time. This obviously refers to the three and a half years that are the last half of the seven-year period of Antichrist's power (cf. 9:27), continuing on to Christ's second coming as the judgment stone (2:35, 45) and glorious son of man (7:13–14). Cf. Rev. 11:2–3; 12:14; 13:5 for reference to this same period.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:26 the court. God will have his court session to judge sinners and sin (vv. 9–10). He will remove the Antichrist's rule, and destroy him and his empire in eternal, conscious hell (Rev. 19:20; 20:10).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:27 the kingdom . . . given to . . . the saints. God's kingdom in both earthly (Rev. 20:4) and heavenly phases (Rev. 21:27; 22:3–4, 14).

Alexander's Greek Empire

c. 335–303 B.C.

The ascension of Alexander the Great to the throne of the Macedonian kingdom (in northern Greece) spelled the end for the mighty Persian Empire. After gaining the loyalty of the other city-states of Greece, Alexander's astounding military prowess and success enabled him to systematically overtake virtually all of Persia's former territory within 12 years. Soon after he died in Babylon at age 33 (323 B.C.), Alexander's conquered territory was divided among his generals, who constantly vied for power among each other until their territories resembled those shown here (c. 303).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:1 third year. C. 551 B.C., two years after the dream of ch. 7 but before ch. 5. at the first. Looks back to ch. 7.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:2 Susa. This was a chief city of the Medo-Persian Empire, about 250 miles east of Babylon. Since Daniel saw himself in a vision, he may not have been bodily in that place (cf. Ezekiel's vision of being at the Jerusalem temple, though bodily still with the elders in Babylon, Ezek. 8–11).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:3–9 This imagery unfolded historically. The ram pictures the Medo-Persian Empire, as a whole, its two horns standing for the two entities (the Medes and the Persians) that merged into one. The history of this empire is briefly noted in v. 4, as it is seen conquering from the east to the west, south and north, under Cyrus, as predicted also by Isaiah 150 years earlier (Isa. 45:1–7). The longer horn, which appeared last, represents Persia. The goat (Dan. 8:5) represents Greece with its great horn Alexander, who with his army of 35,000, moved with such speed that he is pictured as not even touching the ground. The broken horn is Alexander in his death; the four horns are generals who became kings over four sectors of the Grecian empire after Alexander (cf. 7:6). The small horn is Antiochus Epiphanes, who rose from the third empire to rule the Syrian division in 175–164 B.C. and is the same king dominant in 11:21–35. Cf. 7:8, 24–26 where a similar “little horn” clearly represents the final Antichrist. The reason both are described as “little horns” is because one prefigures the other. A far more detailed summary will come later in 11:2–35.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:9 glorious land. Palestine. Cf. 11:16, 41.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:10 host of heaven. Picturesque language portrays Antiochus' persecution against Jewish people using the figure of stars (cf. Gen. 12:3; 15:5; 22:17; Ex. 12:41; Deut. 1:10). When defeated, the “stars” (Jewish people) will fall under the tyrant's domination.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:11 Prince. In addition to the desecration of the temple (cf. 1 Macc. 1:20–24, 41–50), Antiochus blasphemed Christ to whom ultimately the host of Jewish people sacrifice and to whom the sanctuary belongs. He is later the “Prince of princes” (Dan. 8:25).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:13 holy one. Angels are in view here.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:14 For 2,300 evenings and mornings. This refers to 2,300 total units or days. Cf. Genesis 1:5: “evening and . . . morning, the first day.” The period runs to about 6 1/3 years of sacrificing a lamb twice a day, morning and evening (Ex. 29:38–39). The prophecy was precise in identifying the time as that of Antiochus’s persecution, c. September 6, 171 B.C. to December 25, 165/164 B.C. After his death, Jews celebrated the cleansing of their holy place in the Feast of Lights, or Hanukkah, in celebration of the restoration led by Judas Maccabeus.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:15 appearance of a man. The word for man meaning “a mighty man” is the linguistic framework for “Gabriel,” which means “mighty one of God.” This is the first mention of an angel by name in the Bible.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:16 man’s voice. God spoke with a human voice. Ulai. A river east of the Persian city of Susa.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:17 frightened and fell. Loss of consciousness is a common reaction to heavenly visitation (cf. Ezek. 1; Isa. 6; Rev. 1). time of the end. This term likely has a double sense of fulfillment. First, the “end” (as Dan. 8:19), “final” or “latter end” (vv. 19, 23), and “appointed time” (v. 19) refer to time late in the specific span that the historical prophecy has in view. That time is the period defined by the empires in these verses, Persia (Ram) and Greece (Goat), when the Grecian sector will be divided into four parts (v. 8). One of these, the Syrian under Seleucus (see note on v. 22), will eventually lead to Antiochus Epiphanes (175–164 B.C.) as the “little horn” meant in v. 9, who persecutes the people of Israel (v. 10) and defies God (v. 11). Cf. 11:21–35 and see notes there. Second, this “little horn” in 8:9, the Antichrist in the last days at the time of the eschatological fulfillment, sees Antiochus as a pattern of the Antichrist, who in many ways will be like him, though far greater in power, and will exercise his career in the end of the age just before Christ’s return.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:21 goat . . . great horn. This is the third Gentile world power, the kingdom of Greece, and specifically Alexander the Great, the notable and “first king” after conquering Medo-Persia. Cf. 11:3.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:22 broken, in place of which four others. Alexander died at age 33 in 323 B.C., leaving no heir ready to reign. So four men, after 22 years of fighting, assumed rule over four Grecian sectors: 1) Cassander, Macedonia; 2) Lysimachus, Thrace and Asia Minor; 3) Seleucus, Syria, and Babylonia; 4) Ptolemy, Egypt, and Arabia. These are the four referred to in “toward the four winds” (v. 8). The phrase “not with his power” indicates they did not have Alexander’s power or direct family lineage.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:23–25 a king . . . shall arise. The near fulfillment views Antiochus as the historical persecutor as in vv. 9–14. His career down to 164 B.C. was “at the latter end of their kingdom,” that of the male goat in the Syrian territory. Rome conquered Greece by 146 B.C., only a few years later, and became the next dominant empire. Antiochus died, “broken—but by no human hand,” due to insanity and disease of the bowels. The far fulfillment sees Antiochus in vv. 23–25 as prophetically illustrating the final tribulation period and the Antichrist. In such a view, the king here is also the “little horn,” as in 7:7; 8:9 and the willful king in 11:36–45.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:25 Prince of princes. See note on 8:11.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:26 seal up the vision. Since he told it here, this did not mean to shut it up to secrecy but to preserve it as truth even if not to be fulfilled for a long time.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:1 the first year. C. 539 B.C. made king. This may mean that Darius (a title, not a proper name, see note on 5:31) refers to Cyrus who was made king by God’s allowance (cf. Ps. 75:6–7). Since Cyrus was the first monarch of the Medo-Persian empire, this time note was also the first year after the death of Belshazzar, when Babylon fell.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:2 seventy years. Daniel’s study of “the books” (OT scrolls) focused on the years prophesied for the captivity by Jeremiah in Jer. 25:11–12 and 29:10. Since the end of that span was near, he prayed for God’s next move on behalf of Israel. Cf. 2 Chron. 36:21, where it is indicated that the 70 years of exile were intended to restore the Sabbath rests that Israel had ignored for so many years (cf. Lev. 25:4–5; 26:34–43).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:4–19 I prayed. Various aspects of the passage give rich instruction regarding prayer. True prayer is: in response to the word (v. 2), characterized by fervency and self-denial (v. 3), identified unselfishly with God’s people (v. 5), strengthened by confession (vv. 5–15), dependent on God’s character (vv. 4, 7, 9, 15), and has as its goal, God’s glory (vv. 16–19).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:11 the curse. This refers to the judgment that God brought, as promised, for Israel’s disobedience in the land (Lev. 26:21–42; Deut. 28:15– 68). This is in contrast to the blessings associated with faith and obedience (Lev. 26:3–20; Deut. 28:1–14). God had given the promise that even in a time of judgment, if Israel would confess their sin, he would bring blessing again (Lev. 26:40–42).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:16 Daniel prayed for restoration in three aspects. In effect he asked God to bring back “your city” (vv. 16, 18), “your sanctuary, which is desolate (v. 17), and “your people” (v. 19). God’s answer embraced all three (v. 24).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:21 the man Gabriel. This angel, called a “man” because he appeared in the form of a man, appeared also in 8:16. Cf. the angel Michael in 10:13, 21; 12:1. the evening sacrifice. This was the second lamb of two offered daily (cf. 8:14 and see note there), this one at 3 p.m., a common time for prayer (Ezra 9:5).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:24–26 Seventy weeks. These are weeks of years, whereas weeks of days are described in a different way (10:2–3). The time spans from the Persian Artaxerxes’ decree to rebuild Jerusalem, c. 445 B.C. (Neh. 2:1–8), to the Messiah’s kingdom. This panorama includes: 1) seven weeks or 49 years, possibly closing Nehemiah’s career in the rebuilding of Jerusalem as well as the end of the ministry of Malachi and the close of the OT; 2) 62 weeks or 434 more years for a total of 483 years to the first advent of Messiah. This was fulfilled at the triumphal entry on 10 Nisan, A.D. 30 (see notes on Matt. 21:1–9). The Messiah will be “cut off,” (a common reference to death); and 3) the final seven years or seventieth week of the time of Antichrist (cf. Dan. 9:27). Roman people, from whom the Antichrist will come, will “destroy the city” of Jerusalem and its temple in A.D. 70.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:24 This highly complex and startlingly accurate prophecy answers Daniel’s prayer, not with reference to near history, but by giving the future of Israel in the final end of the age. God promises two sets of three accomplishments each. First, those related to sin are: 1) finish the transgression, i.e., restrain sin and Israel’s in particular in its long trend of apostasy, as in v. 11:2) put an end to sin, i.e., to judge it with finality (cf. Heb. 9:26); and 3) atone for iniquity, signifies to furnish the actual basis of covering sin by full atonement, the blood of the crucified Messiah who is “cut off” (Dan. 9:26), which affects the first two realities (cf. the fountain, Zech. 13:1). Second, those accomplishments related to righteousness are: 1) bring in . . .

righteousness, the eternal righteousness of Daniel's people in their great change from centuries of apostasy; 2) seal both vision, i.e., no more revelation is needed and God will bring these anticipations to completion by their fulfillment in Israel's blessing as a nation; and 3) anoint a most holy place, consecrate the Holy Place in a temple of the future that will be the center of worship in the millennial kingdom (cf. Ezek. 40–48). Clearly this must be understood to sweep to the end of Gentile power and the time of Antichrist right before Christ's return. Summing up, the first three are fulfilled in principle at Christ's first coming, in full at his return. The last three complete the plan at his second advent.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:27 This is clearly the end of the age, the second advent judgment, because the bringing in of righteousness did not occur seven years after the death of the Messiah, nor did the destruction of Jerusalem fit the seven-year period (occurring 37 years later). This is the future seven-year period that ends with sin's final judgment and Christ's reign of righteousness; i.e., the return of Christ and the establishment of his rule. These seven years constitute the seventieth week of Daniel. he shall make a strong covenant. "He" is the last-mentioned prince (v. 26), leader of the Roman sphere (cf. chs. 2 and 7), the Antichrist who comes in the latter days. The time is in the future tribulation period of "one week," i.e., the final seven years of 9:24. He confirms (lit., causes to prevail) a seven-year covenant, his own pact with Israel for what will turn out actually to be for a shorter time. The leader in this covenant is the "little horn" of 7:7–8, 20–21, 24–26, and the evil leader of NT prophecy (Mark 13:14; 2 Thess. 2:3–10; Rev. 13:1–10). That he is in the future, even after Christ's first advent, is shown by 1) Matt. 24:15; 2) by the time references that match (Dan. 7:25; Rev. 11:2–3; 12:14; 13:5); and 3) by the end here extending to the second advent, matching the duration elsewhere mentioned in Daniel (Dan. 2:35, 45; 7:15ff.; 12:1–3) and Rev. 11:2; 12:14; 13:5. half of the week. This is the halfway point of the seventieth week of years, i.e., seven years leading to Christ's second coming. The Antichrist will break his covenant with Israel (Dan. 9:27a), which has resumed its ancient sacrificial system. Three and a half years of tribulation remain, agreeing with the time in other Scriptures (7:25; Rev. 11:2–3; 12:14; 13:5; called "great tribulation," cf. Matt. 24:21) as God's wrath intensifies. abominations . . . one who makes desolate. The Antichrist will cause abomination against Jewish religion. This violation will desolate or ruin what Jews regard as sacred, namely their holy temple and the honoring of God's presence there (cf. 1 Kings 9:3; 2 Thess. 2:4). Jesus refers directly to this text in his Olivet discourse (Matt. 24:15). See note on Dan. 11:31. decreed end. God permits this tribulation under the Antichrist's persecutions and ultimately triumphs, achieving judgment of the sin and sinners in Israel (12:7) and in the world (cf. Jer. 25:31). This includes the Antichrist (Dan. 11:45; Rev. 19:20), and all who deserve judgment (Dan. 9:24; Matt. 13:41–43).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:1 third year. C. 536 B.C. Two years had passed since the first decree to let Israel return (cf. Ezra 1:1–2:1; 2:64–3:1).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:6 His body . . . like beryl. The messenger whom Daniel sees in a vision (vv. 1, 7) was distinct from the angel Michael, from whom he needed assistance (v. 13). The description of such glory has led some to see him as Christ in a preincarnate appearance (such as Josh. 5:13–15; 6:2; Judg. 6:11–23). He is described almost identically to Christ (Rev. 1:13–14) and Daniel's reaction is similar to John's (Rev. 1:17).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:10 a hand touched me. Most likely this was Gabriel, who interpreted other revelations to Daniel (cf. 8:16) and spoke similarly of Daniel's being beloved in 9:20–23.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:12 your words have been heard. This was a great encouragement from God, who was attentive to prayer and acted to answer it (cf. 9:20–27).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:13 prince of . . . Persia. The three-week delay was due to an evil angel opposing Gabriel in heavenly warfare (cf. Rev. 16:12–14). This angel was specially anointed with Persian power in an effort to thwart the work of God. This tells us that Satan engages in heavenly warfare to influence generations and nations against God and his people (cf. Eph. 6:10ff.). Michael. This is the chief angel of heaven (cf. Dan. 10:21; 12:1; Jude 9; Rev. 12:7). Michael remained to assure that the Jews would be free to return to their land.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:14 days yet to come. This refers to the future plan of God for his people, extending from Daniel's time to that of the Antichrist.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:19 I was strengthened. This was the third time (vv. 10, 16), showing the overwhelming trauma of divine presence and revelation.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:20 prince of Greece. An evil angel contesting for the kingdom of Greece.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:21 book of truth. God's plan of certain and true designs for men and nations, which he can reveal according to his discretion (11:2; Isa. 46:9–11). except Michael. The angel with Michael intended to handle the demons of Persia and Greece. This actually forms the heavenly basis for the earthly unfolding of history in Dan. 11:2–35.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:1 first year. C. 539 B.C. (cf. 6:1ff.; 9:1). confirm and strengthen him. The messenger of 10:10ff. continues to speak of assisting Michael (even as Michael had strengthened him in the battle with demons in 10:21), confirming Darius in his purpose of kindness to Israel in decreeing their return.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:2–45 As in 8:3–26, this prophecy sweeps all the way from the history of spiritual conflict in Israel (11:2–35) to the tribulation (vv. 36–42) when Michael aids in fully delivering Israel (12:1). The detail of this history is so minute and accurate, so confirmed by history, that unbelieving critics have, without evidence, insisted that it was actually written 400 years later than Daniel, after it had happened, which would make the prophet a deceiver. The prophecy actually looks ahead from Daniel to the final Antichrist.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:2–35 This section unfolds the near fulfillment of the Persian kingdom and the reign of Greece through Antiochus Epiphanes.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:2 three more kings . . . a fourth. The three in the Persian sphere, after Cyrus (10:1), were Cambyses (c. 530–522 B.C.), Psuedo-Smerdis (c. 522 B.C.), and Darius I Hystaspes (c. 522–486 B.C.). The fourth is Xerxes I, called Ahasuerus in Esther (486–465 B.C.). Kings after Xerxes are not included, probably because Xerxes' failed military campaign against the Greeks (481–479 B.C.) sounded the beginning of the end for Persia, which finally fell c. 331 B.C. to Alexander the Great.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:3 a mighty king. Alexander the Great (cf. 8:5).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:4 After Alexander's death (c. 323 B.C.), four who were not of his posterity took sectors of his wide empire (see notes on 7:6; 8:3–9). The king of the south (Egypt) and king of the north (Aram, or Syria), receive emphasis in 11:5 and after. As time moved on, other leaders ruled, crossing and recrossing Palestine.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:5–6 king of the south . . . king of the north. King of the south represents the Ptolomies, the leaders of Egypt, contrasted often in vv. 5ff. with the king of the north, the Seleucids, leaders of Syria (v. 6). South and north are in relation to Palestine, for which the angel Gabriel, speaking in this passage, is so concerned. Verses 5–20 cover almost 200 years of wars between these bordering powers.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:6 make an alliance. Berenice, daughter of Egypt's Ptolemy II Philadelphus (285–246 B.C.), married Syria's King Antiochus II Theos (261–246 B.C.). The latter part of the verse refers to the political advantage they hoped the alliance would produce. Antiochus divorced his wife to marry Berenice. Later that divorced wife murdered Berenice, her baby son, and even Antiochus by poisoning him. Thus she brought her own son, Seleucus II Callinicus, to the throne.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:7 branch from her roots. The murdered Berenice's brother stood in his father's place. His name was Ptolemy III Euergetes of Egypt (246–222 B.C.), and in reverse he conquered Syria, sacking their great treasure (v. 8).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:9 the latter shall come. Syria's Callinicus attacked Egypt c. 240 B.C. but retreated, soundly beaten.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:10 His sons. Seleucus' sons (successors) kept up war against Egypt, as described in vv. 11–35.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:11 king of the south. Ptolemy IV Philopator (222–203 B.C.) devastated the Syrian army under Antiochus III the Great (223–187 B.C.). Egypt's advantage would be brief (v. 12).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:13–16 king of the north. Thirteen years later Antiochus returned with a great army, and in a series of strikes against Egypt brought Palestine (“the glorious land”) into his control as far south as Gaza.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:14 violent among your own people. Violent Jews wanted Judean independence from Egypt, but failed in their revolt.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:16 he who comes against him. Antiochus III the Great took lasting dominion over Israel. glorious land. Palestine (cf. 8:9).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:17 give . . . the daughter. Antiochus, feeling pressure from Rome (fourth empire, 2:40; 7:7) to make peace with Egypt, offered his daughter Cleopatra to marry Ptolemy V Epiphanes (c. 192 B.C.). The Syrian thus hoped his daughter would spy to help him to “ruin” or weaken Egypt and bring it under his power. Cleopatra, instead of helping her father, favored her Egyptian mate.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:18 a commander. Antiochus had set his sights to conquer Greece, along the Mediterranean coastlands. But this brought him into conflict with Rome, so that a Roman, Lucius Scipio Asiaticus, repaid the Syrian aggression against Roman rights in the area with a resounding defeat (c. 191–190 B.C.).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:19 fall. Antiochus returned from defeat to his own land compelled by Rome to relinquish all his territory west of the Taurus and to repay the costs of war. He was likely killed by defenders of a Persian temple he tried to plunder at night in Elymais (to get money to pay reparations required by Rome).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:20 an exactor. Rome required Seleucus IV Philopator to render tribute, for Rome was increasingly powerful. The Syrian set out to tax his subjects heavily to raise the tribute. Soon, he died after being poisoned. The “glory of the kingdom” possibly refers to Israel (“the glorious land”) with its splendid temple.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:21 a contemptible person. In vv. 21–35, the most cruel king of the north was Seleucid, the Syrian persecutor of Israel named Antiochus IV Epiphanes (cf. 8:9–14, 23–25). He came to the throne when his brother Seleucus was murdered and a son of the dead king who might succeed him, Demetrius I Soter, was held hostage in Rome. In the vacuum, Antiochus seized power in Syria.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:22 utterly swept away. Egypt’s armies were swept away by Antiochus’ invading forces as by a flood (cf. “flood” for military onslaught, 9:26). Israel’s “prince of the covenant,” Onias III, was murdered by his own defecting brother Menelaus at the request of Antiochus (171 B.C.).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:23 an alliance. In an Egyptian struggle for the throne, Antiochus developed an alliance with Ptolemy VI Philometer over his rival Ptolemy VII Euergetes II (distinct from the leader in v. 7). By this alliance, Antiochus deceitfully plotted to gain greater power in Egypt. With a “small people,” he conquered Memphis and the rest of Egypt all the way to Alexandria.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:24 Without warning he shall come into. Antiochus, under the guise of friendship, plundered the richest Egyptian places he could strike. To gain support, he gave lavish gifts, possibly battle spoils. devise plans against strongholds. He formed a scheme to take over Egypt.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:25 his power . . . against the . . . south. Antiochus attacked Philometer, who had become an enemy. The latter fell due to treachery by trusted supporters (v. 26a), and became Antiochus' captive.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:26 those who eat. Betraying counselors whom Philometer fed, led him to attack Syria to secure his defeat and death for him and his men.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:27 shall speak lies. Antiochus feigned help to reinstate Ptolemy Philometer to Egypt's throne, occupied then by Ptolemy Euergetes. Both kings lied at the conference, and Antiochus set Philometer up as king at Memphis, whereas Euergetes reigned at Alexandria. The two Egyptians soon agreed on a joint rule, frustrating the Syrian.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:28 against the holy covenant. En route north through Israel to Syria with riches, Antiochus met a revolt, as sources outside Scripture mention. He struck Jerusalem's temple, profaned the sacrificial system, massacred 80,000 men, took 40,000 prisoners, sold 40,000 as slaves, and squelched a Jewish bid to depose his own designated priest, Menelaus.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:29 come into the south. Antiochus, for the third time, invaded Egypt against the joint rulership (c. 168 B.C.); however, with much less success.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:30 ships . . . come against him. A Roman fleet from Cyprus sided with Egypt, thwarting Antiochus' attack. Backing down from engaging Rome in war, Antiochus left Egypt, taking out his rage on Israelites in his path. He opposed God's Mosaic Covenant that some Jews kept, despite Syrian policies and some Jewish compromise. Antiochus showed favors to Jewish apostates ("take action against the holy covenant") as nonbiblical writings attest.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:31 profane the temple. Antiochus' soldiers, no doubt working with apostate Jews, guarded the temple, halting all worship, while others attacked the city on the Sabbath slaughtering men, women, and children. Soldiers desecrated Israel's temple, banned circumcision and daily sacrifices (1 Macc. 1:44–54), and sacrificed a pig on the altar. The Syrians on Chislev (December 15, 167 B.C.), even imposed an idol statue in honor of the Olympian god Zeus into the temple. Jews called it "the abomination of desolation," i.e., emptying or ruining for Jewish worship. abomination that makes desolate.

Antiochus' soldiers profaned God's temple by spreading sow's broth on the altar and banning daily sacrifices (cf. Dan. 8:14 and see note there) as described in 1 Macc. 1:44–54. Both Daniel and Jesus said this atrocity was only a preview of the abomination that would happen later under the final Antichrist (Dan. 9:27; Matt. 24:15).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:32–34 those who violate the covenant. Compromisers (cf. v. 30) among the Jews were enticed by flattery to side with Antiochus and be corrupted (cf. 1 Macc. 1:11–15).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:32 the people who know their God. Jews loyal to God (called Hasideans) stood on firm convictions, suffering death rather than compromising (v. 33; as also 1 Macc. 1:62–63). Judas Maccabeus, helped by Rome, led them in a successful revolt.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:33 make many understand. Those who believe and know the truth will instruct others in the Scriptures, while also suffering continued persecution.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:34 a little help. Many would fall away, and Jews committed to the covenant would have little help, humanly speaking. Some, fearing the faithful remnant's dealing with apostates, pretended loyalty.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:35 refined. Faced by persecution, some who remained true to God's "wisdom" (any true believers, 12:3) were to fall as martyrs. The gracious design of such suffering was to sanctify them. The persecution pattern continues until the final "time of the end" that God appointed, at Christ's second coming. Reference to this "end time" prepares for a transition in 11:36 to final tribulation times when the Antichrist, whom Antiochus prefigures, will be in power. time of the end . . . appointed time. These two eschatological terms point to a forward leap across thousands of years of history from Antiochus to a future similar trial when the willful king (vv. 36–45) rules. The willful king is the "little horn," the Antichrist (7:7–8, 20–21, 24–26), the persecutor of 9:27 (see note there).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:36–45 This section is the far fulfillment of God's prophetic plan. It summarizes details of Daniel's seventieth week that are found nowhere else in Scripture. Antiochus Epiphanes, a type of Antichrist, is the perfect transition point to the actual Antichrist.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:36 till the indignation. This word points to the future “time of the end” mentioned in v. 35. Verses 36–45 discuss the career of the final Antichrist in the last seven years before Christ’s millennial kingdom. This willful king is the final Antichrist (see notes on 7:8, 11–12, 25; 9:27; cf. Rev. 13:4–7).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:37 gods of his fathers. Pagan Gentiles have had traditional gods passed down from their fathers, but this king has no regard for any of them. His only god is power (v. 38, “god of fortresses”). one beloved by women. This could mean that Antichrist will be a homosexual; but it surely means he has no normal desire for, or interest in, women, e.g., as one who is celibate.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:38 god of fortresses. The term for fortress is used five other times in this chapter (vv. 7, 10, 19, 31, 39) and each time means “a strong place.” Power is to be his god, and he spends all his treasures to become powerful and to finance wars. With this power, he will attack every stronghold (v. 39).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:40 king of . . . south . . . north. Here is the final north/south conflict. The south was Egypt in the earlier context. Here is the last great battle with the final army from the north retaliating against the attack of the final southern African power. Antichrist will not allow this without striking back and winning, defeating both as recorded in v. 41ff. The willful king, Antichrist, withstands onslaughts from both, and prevails, entering Israel (“the glorious land”) and, perhaps, committing at that time the abomination of desolation (9:23; Matt. 24:15). With this victory, he will be established in power for a time.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:44 news from . . . east and . . . north. Military bulletins alert the willful king, in his victories, of other sectors of the world deploying troops to the Palestinian theater (cf. Rev. 9:16; 16:12).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:45 his end. To face the latest threats, the willful king sets up his command post between the Mediterranean Sea and the Dead Sea (and/or Sea of Galilee) and the holy mountain of Jerusalem, his troops filling the land (cf. Zech. 12:2–3; 14:2–3; Rev. 19:17–21). No one is able to help him against God, who, by the return of Christ, brings him to his end (cf. Rev. 19:20).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:1 that time. This points back to 11:36–45, the time of the ascendancy of Antichrist during the final tribulation period. During that period, Michael the archangel (cf. Jude 9) of Dan. 10:13, 21 ministers with special attention to protecting Israel during that Gentile time (cf. Isa. 26:20–21; Jer. 30:7; Matt. 24:21). “Your people” means Daniel’s Israelite people, who can have hope, even in the distress of an unprecedented kind set for the great tribulation (Matt. 24:21; cf. Rev. 12:12–17; 13:7). “The book” is the book of the saved (Mal. 3:16–4:3; Luke 10:20; Rev. 13:8; 17:8; 20:12, 15; 21:27).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:2 many . . . those . . . some. Two groups will arise from death constituting the “many” meaning all, as in John 5:29. Those of faith will rise to eternal life, the rest of the unsaved to eternal torment. The souls of OT saints are already with the Lord; at that time, they will receive glorified bodies (cf. Rev. 20:4–6).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:3 wise. Those having true knowledge, by faith in God’s word, not only leaders (as 11:33), but others (11:35; 12:10). To “shine” in glory is a privilege of all the saved (cf. the principle in 1 Thess. 2:12; 1 Pet. 5:10). Any who influence others for righteousness shine like stars in varying capacities of light as their reward (as in 1 Cor. 3:8). The faithfulness of the believer’s witness will determine one’s eternal capacity to reflect God’s glory.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:4 the time of the end. Refers to the seventieth week of tribulation (cf. 11:35, 40). run to and fro. This Hebrew verb form always refers to the movement of a person searching for something. In the tribulation, people will search for answers to the devastation and discover increased knowledge through Daniel’s preserved book.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:5 two others. Two angels.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:6 man . . . in linen. Cf. 10:5.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:7 a time, times, and half a time. This answers the question of v. 6. Adding these (one, two, and one-half) comes to the final three and a half years of Daniel’s seventieth week (9:27), the time of trouble when the “little horn,” or willful king, persecutes the saints (7:25; cf. 11:36–39 and Rev. 12:14; the same span is described by other phrases in Rev. 11:2–3; 13:5).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:10 Many . . . purify. Salvation will come to many Jews during the great tribulation (cf. Zech. 13:8–9, where the prophet speaks of one-third; Rom. 11:26; Rev. 11:13). The truly saved develop in godliness through trials. The unsaved pursue false values.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:11 the regular burnt offering. This reference is to the end of daily temple sacrifice, previously allowed under a covenant that the Antichrist formed with Israel, which he later causes to cease in the middle of the final seven years (9:27). Then, favorable relations give way to persecution. Even his abomination that desecrates the temple (as 9:27; Matt. 24:1; Mark 13:14; 2 Thess. 2:3–4) is accompanied with persecution. shall be 1,290 days. From the intrusion of the abomination, there follow 1,290 days, including 1,260 that make up the last three and a half years of the final seven years (see note on Dan. 12:7), then 30 days more, possibly to allow for the judgment of the living subsequent to Christ's return (cf. Matt. 24:29–31; 25:31–46), before millennial kingdom blessings begin.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:12 Blessed. This is in the kingdom (2:35, 45; 7:13, 14, 27) that gives blessedness after the subjugation to Gentile empires in chs. 2; 7; 8. at the 1,335 days. Forty-five more days, even beyond the 1,290 days, allows for transition between Israel's time of being shattered (12:7) and God's setting up of his kingdom (cf. 7:13–14, 27).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:13 go. Daniel's own career would soon involve death. stand. In resurrection (cf. 12:2; John 5:28–29). at the end of the days. The kingdom will ensue after the prophesied days of Dan. 9:24–27; 12:11–12.

Introduction to Hosea

Title

The title is derived from the main character and author of the book. The meaning of his name, “salvation,” is the same as that of Joshua (cf. Num. 13:8, 16) and Jesus (Matt. 1:21). Hosea is the first of the 12 Minor Prophets. “Minor” refers to the brevity of the prophecies, as compared to the length of the works of Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel.

Author and Date

The book of Hosea is the sole source of information about the author. Little is known about him, and even less about his father, Beeri (1:1). Hosea was probably a native of the northern kingdom of Israel, since he shows familiarity with the history, circumstances, and topography of the north (cf. 4:15; 5:1, 13; 6:8–9; 10:5; 12:11–12; 14:6). This would make him and Jonah the only writing prophets from the northern kingdom. Although he addressed both Israel (the northern kingdom) and Judah (the southern kingdom), he identified the king of Israel as “our king” (7:5).

Hosea had a lengthy period of ministry, prophesying c. 755–710 B.C., during the reigns of Uzziah (790–739 B.C.), Jotham (750–731 B.C.), Ahaz (735–715 B.C.), and Hezekiah (715–686 B.C.) in Judah, and Jeroboam II (793–753 B.C.) in Israel (1:1). His long career spanned the last six kings of Israel from Zechariah (753–752 B.C.) to Hoshea (732–722 B.C.). The overthrow of Zechariah (the last of the dynasty of Jehu) in 752 B.C. is depicted as yet future (1:4). Thus he followed Amos’ preaching in the north, and was a contemporary of Isaiah and Micah as well, both of whom prophesied in Judah. Second Kings 14–20 and 2 Chron. 26–32 record the historical period of Hosea’s ministry.

Background and Setting

Hosea began his ministry to Israel (also called Ephraim, after its largest tribe) during the final days of Jeroboam II, under whose guidance Israel was enjoying both political peace and material prosperity as well as undergoing moral corruption and spiritual bankruptcy. Upon Jeroboam II's death (753 B.C.), however, anarchy prevailed and Israel declined rapidly. Until her overthrow by Assyria 30 years later, four of Israel's six kings were assassinated by their successors. Prophesying during the days surrounding the fall of Samaria, Hosea focuses on Israel's moral waywardness (cf. the book of Amos) and her breach of the covenantal relationship with the Lord, announcing that judgment was imminent.

Circumstances were not much better in the southern kingdom. Usurping the priestly function, Uzziah had been struck with leprosy (2 Chron. 26:16–21); Jotham condoned idolatrous practices, opening the way for Ahaz to encourage Baal worship (2 Chron. 27:1–28:4). Hezekiah's revival served only to slow Judah's acceleration toward a fate similar to that of her northern sister. Weak kings on both sides of the border repeatedly sought out alliances with their heathen neighbors (Hos. 7:11; cf. 2 Kings 15:19; 16:7) rather than seeking the Lord's help.

Historical and Theological Themes

The theme of Hosea is God's loyal love for his covenant people, Israel, in spite of their idolatry. Thus Hosea has been called the St. John (the apostle of love) of the OT. The Lord's true love for his people is unending and will tolerate no rival. Hosea's message contains much condemnation, both national and individual, but at the same time, he poignantly portrays the love of God toward his people with passionate emotion. Hosea was instructed by God to marry a certain woman, and experience with her a domestic life that was a dramatization of the sin and unfaithfulness of Israel. The marital life of Hosea and his wife, Gomer, provide the rich metaphor that clarifies the themes of the book: sin, judgment, and forgiving love.

Interpretive Challenges

That the faithless wife, Gomer, is symbolic of faithless Israel is without doubt; but questions remain. First, some suggest that the marital scenes in chs. 1–3 should be taken only as allegory. However, there is nothing in the narrative, presented in simple prose, which would even question its literal occurrence. Much of its impact would be lost if not literal. When nonliteral elements within the book are introduced, they are prefaced with "saw" (5:13; 9:10, 13), the normal Hebraic means of introducing nonliteral scenes. Furthermore, there is no account of a prophet ever making himself the subject of an allegory or parable.

Second, what are the moral implications of God's command for Hosea to marry a prostitute? It appears best to see Gomer as chaste at the time of marriage to Hosea, only later having become an immoral woman. The words "take to yourself a wife of whoredom" are to be understood proleptically, i.e., looking to the future. An immoral woman could not serve as a picture of Israel coming out of Egypt (2:15; 9:10), who then later wandered away from God (11:1). Chapter 3 describes Hosea taking back his wife, who had been rejected because of adultery, a rejection that was unjustifiable if Hosea had married a prostitute with full knowledge of her character.

A third question arises concerning the relationship between ch. 1 and ch. 3 and whether the woman of ch. 3 is Gomer or another woman. There are a number of factors that suggest that the woman of ch. 3 is Gomer. In 1:2, God's command is to "Go, take;" in 3:1, however, his command is to "Go again, love," suggesting that Hosea's love was to be renewed to the same woman. Furthermore, within the analogy of ch. 1, Gomer represents Israel. As God renews his love toward faithless Israel, so Hosea is to renew his love toward faithless Gomer. For Hos. 3 to denote a different woman would confuse the analogy.

Hosea

HOSEA 1 † The word of the LORD that came to Hosea, the son of Beerī, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel.

Hosea's Wife and Children

<sup>2</sup>† When the LORD first spoke through Hosea, the LORD said to Hosea, “Go, take to yourself a wife of whoredom and have children of whoredom, for the land commits great whoredom by forsaking the LORD.” <sup>3</sup>So he went and took Gomer, the daughter of Diblaim, and she conceived and bore him a son.

<sup>4</sup>† And the LORD said to him, “Call his name Jezreel, for in just a little while I will punish the house of Jehu for the blood of Jezreel, and I will put an end to the kingdom of the house of Israel. <sup>5</sup>† And on that day I will break the bow of Israel in the Valley of Jezreel.”

<sup>6</sup>† She conceived again and bore a daughter. And the LORD said to him, “Call her name No Mercy, [\[1\]](#) for I will no more have mercy on the house of Israel, to forgive them at all. <sup>7</sup>† But I will have mercy on the house of Judah, and I will save them by the LORD their God. I will not save them by bow or by sword or by war or by horses or by horsemen.”

<sup>8</sup>When she had weaned No Mercy, she conceived and bore a son. <sup>9</sup>† And the LORD said, “Call his name Not My People, [\[2\]](#) for you are not my people, and I am not your God.” [\[3\]](#)

<sup>10</sup>†† [\[4\]](#) Yet the number of the children of Israel shall be like the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured or numbered. And in the place where it was said to them, “You are not my people,” it shall be said to them, “Children [\[5\]](#) of the living God.” <sup>11</sup>† And the children of Judah and the children of Israel shall be gathered together, and they shall appoint for themselves one head. And they shall go up from the land, for great shall be the day of Jezreel.

Israel's Unfaithfulness Punished

HOSEA 2 [\[1\]](#) Say to your brothers, “You are my people,” [\[2\]](#) and to your sisters, “You have received mercy.” [\[3\]](#)

2† “Plead with your mother, plead— for she is not my wife, and I am not her husband—that she put away her whoring from her face, and her adultery from between her breasts; 3lest I strip her naked and make her as in the day she was born, and make her like a wilderness, and make her like a parched land, and kill her with thirst.

4 Upon her children also I will have no mercy, because they are children of whoredom.

5† For their mother has played the whore; she who conceived them has acted shamefully.

For she said, ‘I will go after my lovers, who give me my bread and my water,

my wool and my flax, my oil and my drink.’

6 Therefore I will hedge up her [\[4\]](#) way with thorns, and I will build a wall against her,

so that she cannot find her paths.

7 She shall pursue her lovers but not overtake them, and she shall seek them but shall not find them.

Then she shall say,

‘I will go and return to my first husband, for it was better for me then than now.’

8†† And she did not know that it was I who gave her the grain, the wine, and the oil, and who lavished on her silver and gold, which they used for Baal.

9 Therefore I will take back my grain in its time, and my wine in its season, and I will take away my wool and my flax, which were to cover her nakedness.

10† Now I will uncover her lewdness in the sight of her lovers, and no one shall rescue her out of my hand.

11† And I will put an end to all her mirth, her feasts, her new moons, her Sabbaths, and all her appointed feasts.

<sup>12</sup>And I will lay waste her vines and her fig trees, of which she said,
'These are my wages, which my lovers have given me.'

I will make them a forest, and the beasts of the field shall devour them.

<sup>13</sup>†And I will punish her for the feast days of the Baals when she burned offerings to them and adorned herself with her ring and jewelry, and went after her lovers and forgot me, declares the LORD.

The LORD's Mercy on Israel

<sup>14</sup>†“Therefore, behold, I will allure her, and bring her into the wilderness, and speak tenderly to her.

<sup>15</sup>†And there I will give her her vineyards and make the Valley of Achor [\[5\]](#) a door of hope.

And there she shall answer as in the days of her youth, as at the time when she came out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>16</sup>†“And in that day, declares the LORD, you will call me ‘My Husband,’ and no longer will you call me ‘My Baal.’ <sup>17</sup>†For I will remove the names of the Baals from her mouth, and they shall be remembered by name no more. <sup>18</sup>†And I will make for them a covenant on that day with the beasts of the field, the birds of the heavens, and the creeping things of the ground. And I will abolish [\[6\]](#) the bow, the sword, and war from the land, and I will make you lie down in safety. <sup>19</sup>†And I will betroth you to me forever. I will betroth you to me in righteousness and in justice, in steadfast love and in mercy. <sup>20</sup>I will betroth you to me in faithfulness. And you shall know the LORD.

<sup>21</sup>“And in that day I will answer, declares the LORD, I will answer the heavens, and they shall answer the earth,

<sup>22</sup>††and the earth shall answer the grain, the wine, and the oil, and they shall answer Jezreel, [\[7\]](#)

<sup>23</sup>†and I will sow her for myself in the land.

And I will have mercy on No Mercy, [\[8\]](#) and I will say to Not My People, [\[9\]](#) ‘You are my people’; and he shall say, ‘You are my God.’”

Hosea Redeems His Wife

HOSEA 3 † And the LORD said to me, “Go again, love a woman who is loved by another man and is an adulteress, even as the LORD loves the children of Israel, though they turn to other gods and love cakes of raisins.” 2 † So I bought her for fifteen shekels of silver and a homer and a lethech [\[1\]](#) of barley. 3 † And I said to her, “You must dwell as mine for many days. You shall not play the whore, or belong to another man; so will I also be to you.” 4 † For the children of Israel shall dwell many days without king or prince, without sacrifice or pillar, without ephod or household gods. 5 † Afterward the children of Israel shall return and seek the LORD their God, and David their king, and they shall come in fear to the LORD and to his goodness in the latter days.

The LORD Accuses Israel

HOSEA 4 †Hear the word of the LORD, O children of Israel, for the LORD has a controversy with the inhabitants of the land.

There is no faithfulness or steadfast love, and no knowledge of God in the land;

<sup>3</sup>†Therefore the land mourns, and all who dwell in it languish, and also the beasts of the field and the birds of the heavens, and even the fish of the sea are taken away.

<sup>4</sup>†Yet let no one contend, and let none accuse, for with you is my contention, O priest. [\[1\]](#)

<sup>5</sup>†You shall stumble by day; the prophet also shall stumble with you by night; and I will destroy your mother.

<sup>6</sup>†My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge; because you have rejected knowledge, I reject you from being a priest to me.

And since you have forgotten the law of your God, I also will forget your children.

<sup>7</sup>‡The more they increased, the more they sinned against me; I will change their glory into shame.

<sup>12</sup>†My people inquire of a piece of wood, and their walking staff gives them oracles.

For a spirit of whoredom has led them astray, and they have left their God to play the whore.

<sup>13</sup>†They sacrifice on the tops of the mountains and burn offerings on the hills, under oak, poplar, and terebinth, because their shade is good.

Therefore your daughters play the whore, and your brides commit adultery.

<sup>14</sup>† I will not punish your daughters when they play the whore, nor your brides when they commit adultery; for the men themselves go aside with prostitutes and sacrifice with cult prostitutes, and a people without understanding shall come to ruin.

<sup>15</sup>† Though you play the whore, O Israel, let not Judah become guilty.
Enter not into Gilgal, nor go up to Beth-aven, and swear not, “As the LORD lives.”

can the LORD now feed them like a lamb in a broad pasture?

dearly love shame.

<sup>19</sup> A wind has wrapped them [\[4\]](#) in its wings, and they shall be ashamed because of their sacrifices.

Punishment Coming for Israel and Judah

HOSEA 5 †Hear this, O priests!

Pay attention, O house of Israel!

Give ear, O house of the king!

For the judgment is for you;

for you have been a snare at Mizpah and a net spread upon Tabor.

For the spirit of whoredom is within them, and they know not the LORD.

Israel and Ephraim shall stumble in his guilt; Judah also shall stumble with them.

<sup>6</sup>‡With their flocks and herds they shall go to seek the LORD, but they will not find him; he has withdrawn from them.

Now the new moon shall devour them with their fields.

Sound the alarm at Beth-aven;

we follow you, [\[2\]](#) O Benjamin!

<sup>9</sup>Ephraim shall become a desolation in the day of punishment; among the tribes of Israel

I make known what is sure.

then Ephraim went to Assyria, and sent to the great king. [\[4\]](#)

But he is not able to cure you or heal your wound.

<sup>14</sup>‡ For I will be like a lion to Ephraim, and like a young lion to the house of Judah.

I, even I, will tear and go away; I will carry off, and no one shall rescue.

<sup>15</sup>I will return again to my place, until they acknowledge their guilt and seek my face, and in their distress earnestly seek me.

Israel and Judah Are Unrepentant

HOSEA 6 †“Come, let us return to the LORD; for he has torn us, that he may heal us; he has struck us down, and he will bind us up.

<sup>2</sup>†After two days he will revive us; on the third day he will raise us up, that we may live before him.

<sup>3</sup>Let us know; let us press on to know the LORD; his going out is sure as the dawn;

he will come to us as the showers, as the spring rains that water the earth.”

<sup>4</sup>†What shall I do with you, O Ephraim?
What shall I do with you, O Judah?

Your love is like a morning cloud, like the dew that goes early away.

they murder on the way to Shechem;
they commit villainy.

<sup>10</sup>In the house of Israel I have seen a horrible thing; Ephraim's whoredom is there; Israel is defiled.

<sup>11</sup>†For you also, O Judah, a harvest is appointed, when I restore the fortunes of my people.

HOSEA 7 †When I would heal Israel, the iniquity of Ephraim is revealed, and the evil deeds of Samaria;
for they deal falsely;
the thief breaks in,
and the bandits raid outside.
<sup>2</sup>But they do not consider that I remember all their evil.
Now their deeds surround them;
they are before my face.
<sup>3</sup>By their evil they make the king glad, and the princes by their treachery.
<sup>4</sup>†They are all adulterers; they are like a heated oven whose baker ceases to stir the fire, from the kneading of the dough until it is leavened.
<sup>5</sup>On the day of our king, the princes became sick with the heat of wine;
he stretched out his hand with mockers.
<sup>6</sup>For with hearts like an oven they approach their intrigue; all night their anger smolders;
in the morning it blazes like a flaming fire.
<sup>7</sup>†All of them are hot as an oven, and they devour their rulers.
All their kings have fallen, and none of them calls upon me.
<sup>8</sup>†Ephraim mixes himself with the peoples; Ephraim is a cake not turned.
<sup>9</sup>Strangers devour his strength, and he knows it not;
gray hairs are sprinkled upon him, and he knows it not.
<sup>10</sup>The pride of Israel testifies to his face; [1] yet they do not return to the LORD their God, nor seek him, for all this.
<sup>11</sup>†Ephraim is like a dove, silly and without sense, calling to Egypt, going to Assyria.
<sup>12</sup>As they go, I will spread over them my net; I will bring them down like birds of the heavens; I will discipline them according to the report made to their congregation.
<sup>13</sup>†Woe to them, for they have strayed from me!
Destruction to them, for they have rebelled against me!
I would redeem them,
but they speak lies against me.
<sup>14</sup>†They do not cry to me from the heart, but they wail upon their beds; for grain and wine they gash themselves; they rebel against me.
<sup>15</sup>Although I trained and strengthened their arms, yet they devise evil against me.

<sup>16</sup>They return, but not upward; [\[2\]](#)

they are like a treacherous bow; their princes shall fall by the sword because of the insolence of their tongue.
This shall be their derision in the land of Egypt.

Israel Will Reap the Whirlwind

HOSEA 8 †Set the trumpet to your lips!

One like a vulture is over the house of the LORD, because they have transgressed my covenant and rebelled against my law.

They set up princes, but I knew it not.

With their silver and gold they made idols for their own destruction.

My anger burns against them.

How long will they be incapable of innocence?

<sup>6</sup>For it is from Israel; a craftsman made it;
it is not God.

The calf of Samaria shall be broken to pieces. [\[2\]](#)

<sup>7</sup>†For they sow the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind.

The standing grain has no heads; it shall yield no flour;
if it were to yield, strangers would devour it.

<sup>8</sup>Israel is swallowed up; already they are among the nations as a useless vessel.

<sup>9</sup>†For they have gone up to Assyria, a wild donkey wandering alone;
Ephraim has hired lovers.

<sup>10</sup>Though they hire allies among the nations, I will soon gather them up.
And the king and princes shall soon writhe because of the tribute.

<sup>11</sup>Because Ephraim has multiplied altars for sinning, they have become to him altars for sinning.

<sup>12</sup>†Were I to write for him my laws by the ten thousands, they would be regarded as a strange thing.

LORD does not accept them.

Now he will remember their iniquity and punish their sins;
they shall return to Egypt.

<sup>14</sup>†For Israel has forgotten his Maker and built palaces, and Judah has multiplied fortified cities; so I will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour her strongholds.

The LORD Will Punish Israel

HOSEA 9 †† Rejoice not, O Israel!

Exult not like the peoples;
for you have played the whore, forsaking your God.

You have loved a prostitute's wages on all threshing floors.

It shall be like mourners' bread to them; all who eat of it shall be defiled; for their bread shall be for their hunger only; it shall not come to the house of the LORD.

Memphis shall bury them.

Nettles shall possess their precious things of silver; thorns shall be in their tents.

<sup>7</sup>† The days of punishment have come; the days of recompense have come; Israel shall know it.

The prophet is a fool;
the man of the spirit is mad, because of your great iniquity and great hatred.

<sup>8</sup>The prophet is the watchman of Ephraim with my God; yet a fowler's snare is on all his ways, and hatred in the house of his God.

Like the first fruit on the fig tree in its first season,
I saw your fathers.

But they came to Baal-peor and consecrated themselves to the thing of shame, and became detestable like the thing they loved.

Woe to them

when I depart from them!

<sup>13</sup>Ephraim, as I have seen, was like a young palm [1] planted in a meadow; but Ephraim must lead his children out to slaughter. [2]

<sup>14</sup>Give them, O LORD— what will you give?

Give them a miscarrying womb and dry breasts.

<sup>15</sup>†Every evil of theirs is in Gilgal; there I began to hate them.

Because of the wickedness of their deeds I will drive them out of my house.

I will love them no more;

all their princes are rebels.

they shall bear no fruit.

Even though they give birth,

I will put their beloved children to death.

<sup>17</sup>†My God will reject them because they have not listened to him; they shall be wanderers among the nations.

HOSEA 10 †Israel is a luxuriant vine that yields its fruit.

The more his fruit increased, the more altars he built;
as his country improved,
he improved his pillars.

The LORD [1] will break down their altars and destroy their pillars.

for we do not fear the LORD; and a king—what could he do for us?”

<sup>4</sup>They utter mere words; with empty oaths they make covenants; so judgment springs up like poisonous weeds in the furrows of the field.

Its people mourn for it, and so do its idolatrous priests— those who rejoiced over it and over its glory— for it has departed [3] from them.

Ephraim shall be put to shame, and Israel shall be ashamed of his idol. [5]

Thorn and thistle shall grow up on their altars, and they shall say to the mountains, “Cover us,” and to the hills, “Fall on us.”

<sup>9</sup>From the days of Gibeah, you have sinned, O Israel; there they have continued.

Shall not the war against the unjust [6] overtake them in Gibeah?

<sup>10</sup>†When I please, I will discipline them, and nations shall be gathered against them when they are bound up for their double iniquity.

<sup>11</sup>†Ephraim was a trained calf that loved to thresh, and I spared her fair neck;

but I will put Ephraim to the yoke;
Judah must plow;
Jacob must harrow for himself.

<sup>12</sup>Sow for yourselves righteousness; reap steadfast love; break up your fallow ground, for it is the time to seek the LORD, that he may come and rain righteousness upon you.

<sup>13</sup>You have plowed iniquity; you have reaped injustice;
you have eaten the fruit of lies.

Because you have trusted in your own way and in the multitude of your warriors, <sup>14</sup>†therefore the tumult of war shall arise among your people, and all your fortresses shall be destroyed, as Shalman destroyed Beth-arbel on the day of battle; mothers were dashed in pieces with their children.

At dawn the king of Israel shall be utterly cut off.

The LORD's Love for Israel

HOSEA 11 †When Israel was a child, I loved him, and out of Egypt I called my son.

<sup>2</sup>The more they were called, the more they went away;
they kept sacrificing to the Baals and burning offerings to idols.

<sup>3</sup>†Yet it was I who taught Ephraim to walk; I took them up by their arms, but they did not know that I healed them.

<sup>4</sup>I led them with cords of kindness, [1] with the bands of love, and I became to them as one who eases the yoke on their jaws, and I bent down to them and fed them.

<sup>5</sup>††They shall not [2] return to the land of Egypt, but Assyria shall be their king, because they have refused to return to me.

<sup>6</sup>The sword shall rage against their cities, consume the bars of their gates, and devour them because of their own counsels.

<sup>7</sup>†My people are bent on turning away from me, and though they call out to the Most High, he shall not raise them up at all.

<sup>8</sup>†How can I give you up, O Ephraim?
How can I hand you over, O Israel?
How can I make you like Admah?
How can I treat you like Zeboiim?

My heart recoils within me;
my compassion grows warm and tender.

<sup>9</sup>†I will not execute my burning anger; I will not again destroy Ephraim; for I am God and not a man,
the Holy One in your midst, and I will not come in wrath. [3]

<sup>10</sup>†They shall go after the LORD; he will roar like a lion;
when he roars, his children shall come trembling from the west; <sup>11</sup>they shall come trembling like birds from Egypt, and like doves from the land of Assyria, and I will return them to their homes,

declares the LORD.

<sup>12</sup> [4] Ephraim has surrounded me with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit, but Judah still walks with God and is faithful to the Holy One.

HOSEA 12 †Ephraim feeds on the wind and pursues the east wind all day long; they multiply falsehood and violence; they make a covenant with Assyria, and oil is carried to Egypt.

The LORD's Indictment of Israel and Judah

<sup>2</sup>†The LORD has an indictment against Judah and will punish Jacob according to his ways; he will repay him according to his deeds.

<sup>4</sup>He strove with the angel and prevailed; he wept and sought his favor. He met God [1] at Bethel, and there God spoke with us— <sup>5</sup>the LORD, the God of hosts, the LORD is his memorial name: <sup>6</sup>“So you, by the help of your God, return, hold fast to love and justice, and wait continually for your God.”

<sup>8</sup>Ephraim has said, “Ah, but I am rich; I have found wealth for myself; in all my labors they cannot find in me iniquity or sin.”

<sup>9</sup>†I am the LORD your God from the land of Egypt; I will again make you dwell in tents, as in the days of the appointed feast.

<sup>10</sup>†I spoke to the prophets; it was I who multiplied visions, and through the prophets gave parables.

<sup>11</sup>†If there is iniquity in Gilead, they shall surely come to nothing: in Gilgal they sacrifice bulls; their altars also are like stone heaps on the furrows of the field.

<sup>14</sup>Ephraim has given bitter provocation; so his Lord will leave his bloodguilt on him and will repay him for his disgraceful deeds.

The LORD's Relentless Judgment on Israel

HOSEA 13 †When Ephraim spoke, there was trembling; he was exalted in Israel, but he incurred guilt through Baal and died.

<sup>2</sup>†And now they sin more and more, and make for themselves metal images, idols skillfully made of their silver, all of them the work of craftsmen.

It is said of them,

<sup>3</sup>Therefore they shall be like the morning mist or like the dew that goes early away, like the chaff that swirls from the threshing floor or like smoke from a window.

<sup>4</sup>†But I am the LORD your God from the land of Egypt; you know no God but me, and besides me there is no savior.

<sup>5</sup>It was I who knew you in the wilderness, in the land of drought;

<sup>6</sup>but when they had grazed, [1] they became full, they were filled, and their heart was lifted up; therefore they forgot me.

<sup>7</sup>†So I am to them like a lion; like a leopard I will lurk beside the way.

<sup>8</sup>I will fall upon them like a bear robbed of her cubs; I will tear open their breast, and there I will devour them like a lion, as a wild beast would rip them open.

Where are all your rulers—

those of whom you said,

“Give me a king and princes”?

Shall I redeem them from Death?

O Death, where are your plagues?

O Sheol, where is your sting?

Compassion is hidden from my eyes.

<sup>15</sup>† Though he may flourish among his brothers, the east wind, the wind of the LORD, shall come, rising from the wilderness, and his fountain shall dry up;
his spring shall be parched;
it shall strip his treasury of every precious thing.

<sup>16</sup>† [3] Samaria shall bear her guilt, because she has rebelled against her God; they shall fall by the sword; their little ones shall be dashed in pieces, and their pregnant women ripped open.

A Plea to Return to the LORD

HOSEA 14 †Return, O Israel, to the LORD your God, for you have stumbled because of your iniquity.

<sup>2</sup>Take with you words and return to the LORD; say to him, “Take away all iniquity; accept what is good,
and we will pay with bulls the vows [\[1\]](#) of our lips.

<sup>3</sup>†Assyria shall not save us; we will not ride on horses; and we will say no more, ‘Our God,’ to the work of our hands.

In you the orphan finds mercy.”

<sup>4</sup>††I will heal their apostasy; I will love them freely, for my anger has turned from them.

<sup>5</sup>I will be like the dew to Israel; he shall blossom like the lily; he shall take root like the trees of Lebanon; <sup>6</sup>his shoots shall spread out; his beauty shall be like the olive, and his fragrance like Lebanon.

<sup>7</sup>†They shall return and dwell beneath my [\[2\]](#) shadow; they shall flourish like the grain; they shall blossom like the vine; their fame shall be like the wine of Lebanon.

<sup>8</sup>†O Ephraim, what have I to do with idols?
It is I who answer and look after you. [\[3\]](#)

I am like an evergreen cypress; from me comes your fruit.

<sup>9</sup>†Whoever is wise, let him understand these things; whoever is discerning, let him know them; for the ways of the LORD are right, and the upright walk in them, but transgressors stumble in them.

Study Notes

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:1 The word of the Lord. Cf. 6:5. This kind of introduction, expressing the prophet's divine authority and message source, appears also in Joel 1:1; Mic. 1:1; Zeph. 1:1; Zech. 1:1; Mal. 1:1. Similar statements appear in Amos 1:3; Obad. 1; Jonah 1:1; Hag. 1:2.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:2 wife of whoredom. See Introduction: Interpretive Challenges. children of whoredom. This points to the future unfaithfulness of their mother. The children were possibly not fathered by Hosea. That Hosea's marriage to Gomer was to depict God's marriage to Israel is clearly set forth and becomes the key to the theme of the book.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:4 Jezreel. Meaning "God will scatter" (cf. Zech. 10:9), the name is given to the child so named, as a prediction of judgment (cf. 2 Kings 9:7–10:28). I will punish the house of Jehu for the blood of Jezreel. It was at the city of Jezreel where Jehu slaughtered the house of Ahab (cf. 2 Kings 9:7–10:28). put an end. Looks forward to the exile of Israel to Assyria in 722 B.C., from which she never returned.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:5 break the bow. The bow was a common euphemism denoting military strength, the principal instrument of warfare in Israel. Fulfillment came in 722 B.C. when Assyria invaded. the Valley of Jezreel. Jezreel, called Esdraelon, extends 10 miles in breadth from the Jordan to the Mediterranean Sea, near Carmel; it was the great battlefield (see Rev. 16:14–16) adjoining the Valley of Megiddo, which will become an avenue of blessing (cf. Hos. 1:11) when Christ returns in triumph.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:6 No Mercy. Lit., "not pitied," this daughter is named to symbolize God bringing judgment on Israel, no longer extending his favor toward them.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:7 I will have mercy on . . . Judah. God chose to intervene on behalf of Hezekiah when Jerusalem was besieged at the hands of the Assyrians in 701 B.C. (cf. 2 Kings 19; Isa. 37).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:9 Not My People. The name symbolizes God's rejection of Israel. I am not your God. Lit., "I am no longer 'I am' to you." The phrase gives the breaking of the covenant, a kind of divorce formula, in contrast to the covenant or marriage formula “i am who i am” given in Ex. 3:14.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:10–2:1 In spite of the waywardness of Israel, God preserved a remnant for himself from both Israel and Judah. Speaking of millennial blessings, God promised national increase (cf. Isa. 54:1), national conversion and reunion (cf. Ezek. 37:15–23), national leadership (Hos. 3:5), and national restoration (2:23).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:10 number. A reaffirmation of the Abrahamic Covenant, not to be fulfilled in this generation but in the future (cf. Gen. 22:17). not my people. Quoted by Paul in Rom. 9:26.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:11 one head. Refers to Messiah (cf. 3:5). day of Jezreel. Here used positively in the sense of divine blessing (cf. 2:22).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:2 Plead with your mother. Although the language is applicable to Gomer, it depicts a courtroom scene in which the Lord, as the plaintiff, brings charges against the defendant. Individual Israelites, depicted as the children, are commanded to bring charges against their mother, Israel as a nation. The physical immorality of Gomer pictures the spiritual idolatry of Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:5 I will go. Lit., “let me go,” it denotes strong desire and bent. Israel attributed her prosperity to the idols of her heathen neighbors, her “lovers” (cf. vv. 7, 10, 12). She would not be deterred from pursuing them.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:8–13 God withheld rain and productivity to show Israel that the Canaanite god Baal was not the god of rain and fertility.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:8 used for Baal. Baal (the Phoenician sun-god) worship, already present during the time of the judges (cf. Judg. 2:17; 3:3; 8:33), became established in Israel when King Ahab married Jezebel, who attempted to obliterate Israelite worship of the true God (cf. 1 Kings 19). Offerings to Baal actually came from God's dowry to Israel (cf. Ezek. 16:10–14).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:10 I will uncover her lewdness. God pledged to expose Israel's wickedness. The phrase is linked to being taken forcibly into captivity in Ezek. 16:37–40. her lovers. The idols were personified as if they could see, though they could offer no help.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:11 feasts. Ever since the exodus from Egypt, Israel had intermingled the worship of the Lord with the worship of false gods (cf. Amos 5:26; Acts 7:43).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:13 forgot me. Cf. 2 Kings 17:7–18 for a detailed description of what their abandonment of God involved.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:14 speak tenderly to her. The phrase was used of wooing (Gen. 34:3; Judg. 19:3; Ruth 2:13). God will restore Israel to himself.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:15 Valley of Achor. Lit., “valley of Trouble,” near Jericho where Achan and his family were judged (Josh. 7:24). This reference alerts Israel that her discipline and judgment would not last forever because there is a “door of hope.”

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:16 My Husband . . . My Baal. The former (“husband”) denotes affection and intimacy, while the latter (lit., “master”) speaks of rulership.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:17 In v. 13, Israel forgot her true God; God said she would forget her false gods. What the outward conformity to the Mosaic Covenant could not do, God does through a new, regenerated heart in the New Covenant (Jer. 31:31–34; Zech. 13:1–2).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:18 a covenant. This depicts a millennial scene (cf. Isa. 2:4; 11:6–9; Mic. 4:3) when God's people become subject to God and creation becomes subject to them.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:19–20 I will betroth you. Repeated three times, the term emphasizes the intensity of God’s restoring love for the nation. In that day, Israel will no longer be thought of as a prostitute. Israel brings nothing to the marriage; God makes all the promises and provides all the dowry. These verses are recited by every orthodox Jew as he places the phylacteries on his hand and forehead (cf. Deut. 11:18). The regeneration/conversion of the nation is much like that of an individual (cf. 2 Cor. 5:16–19).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:22–23 A reversal of circumstances (cf. 1:4, 6, 9).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:22 Jezreel. As in 1:11, used here in the positive sense of scattering seed to sow it.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:23 Quoted by Paul in Rom. 9:25.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:1 Go again, love. Having been previously separated, Hosea was commanded to pursue his estranged wife Gomer (cf. Introduction: Interpretive Challenges), thereby illustrating God’s unquenchable love for faithless Israel. cakes of raisins. Eaten as a part of special occasions (cf. 2 Sam. 6:19), they may have been used in idolatrous ceremonies, possibly as an aphrodisiac (cf. Song 2:5).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:2 bought her. Probably from a slave auction, Hosea purchased Gomer for 15 shekels of silver and one and a half homers of barley. Together, the total may have equaled 30 pieces of silver, the price paid for a common slave (cf. Ex. 21:32). Barley was the offering of one accused of adultery (Num. 5:15).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:3–5 Gomer would not be allowed conjugal relations for “many days,” with any man, including Hosea. As a further element of the picture of God’s dealings with his covenant people during the present age, Israel would exist without her existing political and religious (both true and false) relations until Messiah returns at the second advent to set up his millennial reign (cf. Ezek. 40–48; Zech. 12–14).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:4 without ephod or household gods. Idolatrous items of priestly clothing and objects of worship.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:5 David. Cf. 1:11. This must refer to Messiah during the millennium, as “in the last days” specifies (cf. Isa. 55:3–4; Jer. 30:9; Ezek. 34:23–24; 37:24–25). The Jews did not seek after Christ at his first advent. This reference has the Davidic Covenant as its background (cf. 2 Sam. 7:12–17; Ps. 39; 132).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:1 the Lord has a controversy. Turning from the analogy of his own marriage, the prophet made the judicial charge in God’s indictment against Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:2 Notice the many infractions of the Ten Commandments (cf. Ex. 20:3–17).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:3 Sin plays havoc with lower creation and nature (cf. Joel 1:17–20; Rom. 8:19–22).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:4 let none accuse. Rationalizing and denying their wrongs, the people protested their innocence, like those who would not humbly accept the decision of the priests (cf. Deut. 17:8–13).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:5 your mother. The Israelite nation of which the people are the children (cf. 2:2).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:6 reject you from being a priest. Having rejected the Lord’s instruction, Israel could no longer serve as his priest to the nations (cf. Ex. 19:6; James 3:1).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:7–10 Their position of power and glory, abused in succeeding generations by the eating of the sin offerings, would be turned to shame. Being no different from the people, the priests, who should have been faithful, would share their punishment (cf. Isa. 24:1–3).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:11 Here is a moral truth applicable to all people and times. Verses 12–13 are illustrations of the enslavement in Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:12 spirit of whoredom. A prevailing mindset and inclination to worldly spiritual immorality, i.e., idolatry (cf. 5:4).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:13 Bereft of righteous teaching and understanding, they sacrificed to idols. Hilltops and groves of trees were favorite places for idolatrous worship (cf. Deut. 12:2; Jer. 2:20; Ezek. 6:13), including religious prostitution.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:14 Although all who sin will be judged, God forbade punishing the adulteresses alone and leaving the men who patronized them to go free. The heaviest punishment would not be on the women who sin, but the fathers and husbands who set such a bad example by their engagement with prostitutes. without understanding. Cf. 4:6.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:15 Gilgal. Between Jordan and Jericho in the area of Samaria, this was once a holy place to God (Josh. 5:10–15; 1 Sam. 10:8; 15:21), afterward desecrated by idol worship (cf. Hos. 9:15; 12:11; Amos 4:4; 5:5). Beth-aven. Judah was to stay away from Israel's centers of false worship, including Beth-aven ("house of wickedness/deceit"). This was a deliberate substitution for the name Bethel ("house of God"), once sacred to God (Gen. 28:17, 19), but made by Jeroboam a place to worship calves (cf. 1 Kings 12:28–33; 13:1; Jer. 48:13; Amos 3:14; 7:13).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:16 Because Israel was like a stubborn calf, God no longer attempted to corral her, abandoning her as a lamb in a vast wilderness.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:17 Ephraim . . . leave him alone. As the largest and most influential of the northern 10 tribes, Ephraim's name was often used as representative of the northern nation. This was an expression of God's wrath of abandonment. When sinners reject him and are bent on fulfilling their wicked purposes, God removes restraining grace and turns them over to the results of their own perverse choices. This kind of wrath is that in Rom. 1:18–32 (cf. Judg. 10:13; 2 Chron. 15:2; 24:20; Ps. 81:11–12).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:1 Hosea addressed the priests, the people, and the royal family; the three imperatives demand attention. The religious and civil leaders had entrapped the people (cf. 6:9; 7:7). Mizpah . . . Tabor. Mizpah of Gilead, lying east of the Jordan (Judg. 10:17; 11:29), and Tabor, southwest of the Sea of Galilee, were likely places for false worship.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:5 pride of Israel testifies to his face. Israel's pride in idolatry provided self-incrimination (cf. 7:10).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:6–7 Her religious sacrifices and monthly festivals no longer brought divine favor, only judgment. God "has withdrawn from them." See note on 4:17.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:8 The enemy was already upon them and thus her watchmen were to sound the alarm (cf. Num. 10:9). Gibeah . . . Ramah. Located on Judah's northern border with Israel. Beth-aven. (Bethel) situated in southern Israel (cf. Hos. 4:15). All three were strategic defense cities. Benjamin. Used to refer to the whole southern kingdom.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:10 move the landmark. Boundaries, marked by stones, could be easily moved at night. Moving them was tantamount to stealing land from a neighbor (cf. Deut. 19:14; 27:17; Prov. 22:28; 23:10). Worse, Israel's leaders were moving spiritual lines established by God (cf. Hos. 5:11).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:12 moth . . . dry rot. God will be destructive to Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:13 great king. "Jareb" (see esv footnote) means "warrior" and refers to the king of Assyria, to whom Israel (cf. 2 Kings 15:19–20) and later Judah (cf. 2 Kings 16:5–9) turned for help.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:14–15 Foreign assistance would be of no value, since the Lord was orchestrating punishment at the hands of the Assyrians. he would remove himself until "they acknowledge their guilt" and "seek my face" (cf. 3:5).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:1–3 Coming with the beginning of Christ's millennial reign (cf. Zech. 12:10–13:1; Isa. 43:1–6), Hosea records Israel's future words of repentance (cf. Hos. 5:15).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:2 After two days . . . on the third day. Not a reference to the resurrection of Christ (illness, not death, is in the context), but to the quickness of healing and restoration (cf. the quickness with which the dry bones of Ezek. 37 respond). Numbers are used similarly elsewhere (e.g., Job 5:19; Prov. 6:16; 30:15, 18; Amos 1:3).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:4–7 Because Israel's commitment to the Lord was fleeting and superficial, he had to send prophets with stern words (vv. 4–5), calling for a covenantal loyalty befitting a marriage relationship (v. 6). But they violated the marriage vows (v. 7).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:6 I desire steadfast love and not sacrifice. Cf. Matt. 9:13

and 12:7.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:7 Adam . . . covenant. A reference to the Mosaic Covenant (cf. 8:1; Ex. 19:5–6).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:11 Lest Judah feel smug at her neighbor's demise, the prophet reminds them that they have a day of reckoning awaiting them (cf. Jer. 51:13; Joel 2:1–3).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:1 Samaria. As the capital, Samaria represents the northern kingdom.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:4–7 The civil leaders' evil lust burned so passionately all night, that the prophet repeatedly described it like a consuming oven (cf. vv. 4, 6–7), so hot that the baker could forego stirring the fire during the entire night and still have adequate heat for baking the next morning.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:7 All their kings have fallen. Four of Israel's final six kings were murdered by usurpers.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:8–9 At Israel's invitation, foreign nations made debilitating inroads into her national and religious life. This intrusion was making her like "a cake not turned," burned on one side and raw on the other. Payment for this foreign assistance would "devour" her strength (v. 9) and make her old and feeble without noticing it.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:11–12 Like a dove, reputed to lack good sense (cf. Matt. 10:16), so Israel had sought assistance from Egypt and Assyria, rather than from the Lord, who would ultimately trap her (cf. Hos. 8:9–10).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:13 would redeem them. From Egypt and their other enemies.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:14 wail upon their beds . . . gash themselves. The former phrase may speak of appeals to pagan fertility gods upon beds of sacred prostitution, while the latter harkens to Elijah's encounter with the prophets of Baal on Mount Carmel (cf. 1 Kings 18:28).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:1 like a vulture. Assyria was ready to descend quickly upon Israel to devour her (cf. Deut. 28:49). transgressed my covenant. See note on Hos. 6:7.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:2 we . . . know you. Israel’s syncretistic worship wherein she practiced idolatry while crying out to God.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:5 I have spurned your calf. Calf worship was the national religion of the northern kingdom (cf. 1 Kings 12:25–33; Ex. 32).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:7 sow the wind . . . reap the whirlwind. This indicates the escalating uselessness of all their false religion.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:9 they have gone up to Assyria. As the context notes, this is not a reference to the captivity, but to the alliance she made with Assyria. “A wild donkey,” Israel has stubbornly pursued foreign assistance rather than depending on the Lord.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:12 Israel has been duly warned; she is without excuse (cf. 6:7; 8:1).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:13 shall return to Egypt. Recalling the place of Israel’s former bondage, Hosea reminds them that Assyria will be their future “Egypt” (cf. 9:3; 11:5; Deut. 28:68). A few Judean refugees actually did go to Egypt (cf. 2 Kings 25:26). Isaiah used “Sodom” in a similar representative fashion (Isa. 1:9–10).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:14 Judah . . . fortified cities. Though less idolatrous than Israel, Judah showed lack of trust in God by trusting more in fortifications. Instead of drawing near to God, Judah multiplied human defenses (cf. Isa. 22:8; Jer. 5:17).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:1–17 Hosea enumerates the features of the Lord’s banishment to Assyria: loss of joy (vv. 1–2); exile (vv. 3–6); loss of spiritual discernment (vv. 7–9); declining birth rate (vv. 10–16); and abandonment by God (v. 17).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:1–2 threshing floor . . . wine vat. These were the very places where sacred prostitution took place in an attempt to cause Baal to bring prosperity.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:3 the land of the Lord. Cf. Lev. 25:23. Egypt. See note on 8:13 (cf. 11:5).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:4 mourners' bread . . . defiled. Food eaten on the occasion of mourning was considered unclean, defiling anyone eating it (cf. Deut. 26:12–15).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:6 Memphis. An ancient capital of Egypt known for its tombs and pyramids.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:7–8 The prophets were God's inspired messengers and watchmen (cf. Ezek. 3:17; 33:1–7), yet Israel considered them fools and madmen.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:9 Gibeah. Cf. 10:9. Israel's sin is likened to the gross evil of the men of Gibeah, a reference to their heinous rape of the concubine (Judg. 19:22–25), an infamous and unforgettable crime (cf. Judg. 19:30).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:10 grapes in the wilderness. A rare and refreshing find (cf. Deut. 32:10). Baal-peor. Prior to entering the Promised Land, Israel fell into worship of Baal at Baal-peor (Num. 25:3–18).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:11–14 Reminiscent of the imprecatory psalms, Hosea prayed that God's blessing would be withdrawn, in the figure of withholding children, the ultimate earthly blessing.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:15 Gilgal. As a center of idol worship (cf. 4:15), the place was representative of Israel's spiritual adultery; therefore he had rejected them from intimate fellowship.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:17 wanderers. God promised global dispersion for disobedience (cf. Lev. 26:33; Deut. 28:64–65).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:1 Agricultural prosperity had resulted in spiritual corruption (cf. Ezek. 16:10–19).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:3–4 The last five kings of Israel were usurpers. Impotent and unworthy of respect, they were incapable of enforcing the laws of the land.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:5 the calf of Beth-aven. See notes on 4:15 and 8:5.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:8 Cover us . . . Fall on us. The captivity would be so severe that the people would pray for the mountains and hills to fall on them, similar to the last days (cf. Luke 23:30; Rev. 6:16).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:10 double iniquity. Israel would receive a double portion of judgment for her multiplied iniquity (cf. Isa. 40:2; Jer. 16:18).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:11 a trained calf that loved to thresh. This was a far easier work than plowing, since cattle were not bound together under a yoke, but tread on the grain singly and were free to eat some of it, as the law required that they be unmuzzled (Deut. 25:4; 1 Cor. 9:9).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:14 Shalman destroyed Beth-arbel. Shalman was probably Shalmaneser V, king of Assyria (727–722 B.C.), who played a role in Israel's demise (cf. 2 Kings 17:3–6). Although the location of Beth-arbel is uncertain, the memory of the heinous crimes committed there was vividly etched into their minds.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:15 king. Hoshea, c. 732–722 B.C.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:1 In tender words reminiscent of the exodus from Egypt (cf. Ex. 4:22–23), the Lord reassured Israel of his intense love for her. His compassion for her was aroused (cf. Isa. 12:1; 40:1–2; 49:13; Jer. 31:10–14; Zech. 1:12–17). See Matt. 2:15 for Matthew's analogical use of this verse in relationship to Jesus Christ.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:3–4 The Lord's endearing word pictures are reflected in Ezekiel's touching descriptions of Israel's early years (cf. Ezek. 16).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:5 shall not return to . . . Egypt. See note on 8:13.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:5–7 In spite of his tender care, Israel was ungrateful, demanding punishment (cf. Rom. 1:21).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:7 turning. See note on Prov. 14:14.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:8 Admah . . . Zeboiim. Because of the Lord’s great love for Ephraim, it was painful to punish her as he did these two cities, which were destroyed with Sodom and Gomorrah (cf. Gen. 10:19; 19:23–25; Deut. 29:23).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:9 I will not again destroy Ephraim. The destruction referred to that inflicted by Assyrian King Tiglath-pileser, who deprived Israel of Gilead, Galilee, and Naphtali (2 Kings 15:29). Ultimately, it referred to the promise that after the long dispersion God would, in mercy, restore his people in the kingdom, never to be destroyed again.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:10 will roar like a lion. Though the Lord would, as a lion, roar against Israel in judgment (cf. Amos 1:2), he would also roar for the purpose of calling, protecting, and blessing (cf. Joel 3:16). from the west. Returns from Assyrian and Babylonian captivities were from the east. This undoubtedly has reference to his return at the second advent to set up the millennial kingdom (cf. Isa. 11:11–12), when he calls Israel from their dispersion and reverses the judgment of Hos. 9:17.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:1 Israel’s attempted alliances with heathen neighbors were of no worth. This prophecy was delivered at about the time of Israel’s seeking the aid of the Egyptian king.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:2 Jacob. Frequently used interchangeably with “Israel” (cf. 10:11; Gen. 32:28).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:3–6 He exhorted them to follow their father Jacob’s persevering prayerfulness, which brought God’s favor on him. As God is unchanging, he would show the same favor to Jacob’s posterity as he did to Jacob, if, like him, they sought God.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:7 merchant. Because the Canaanites were known as traders, the word “merchant” came to be used synonymously with “Canaanite” (cf. Ezek. 16:29; 17:4; Zeph. 1:11). Though she denied it (Hos. 12:8), Israel had become materialistic, filled with greed, and fond of dishonest gain.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:9 At the annual Feast of Booths, or Tabernacles (Deut. 16:13–15; cf. Num. 29:12–38), Israel dwelt in tents to commemorate her 40 years of wilderness wanderings. In captivity, she would be forced to live in them permanently.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:10 I spoke. Here is an aggravation of their guilt, that it was not through ignorance that they sinned, but in defiance of God’s revealed word.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:11 heaps on the furrows. As gathered and piled stones would dot a farmer’s field, so Israel multiplied her stone altars across the land. “Gilgal” means “a heap of stones,” so this is a play on words.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:12–14 The reference to Jacob’s wanderings to Syria and Israel’s sojourn in Egypt should cause Ephraim to confess her pride, recognize her humble origins, and acknowledge that only by God’s gracious power were they made a nation.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:1 trembling. When Ephraim, the most powerful tribe, spoke early in Israel’s history, it was with authority and produced fear. died. Because of his sins and in spite of being feared, Ephraim died, spiritually and now nationally.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:2 kiss calves! An act of devotion to their idols (cf. 1 Kings 19:18).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:4–6 Having entered into a marriage covenant with the Lord, Israel was to remain faithful to him alone (cf. Ex. 20:2–3); yet she forgot him.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:7–8 The lion, leopard, and bear are all native to Israel. Her protector would now become to her as a wild beast, tearing and devouring (cf. Lev. 26:21–22; Deut. 32:24; Ezek. 14:21).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:12 bound up . . . kept in store. Israel’s sins are all well-documented and safely preserved for the day of reckoning (cf. 7:2; Deut. 32:34–35; Job 14:17).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:13 at the opening of the womb. This refers to the birth canal. Employing this figure of giving birth, the Lord likens Ephraim to an unwise child, unwilling to move through to birth. By long deferring a “new birth” with repentance, the nation was like a child remaining in the canal dangerously long and risking death (cf. 2 Kings 19:3; Isa. 37:3; 66:9).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:14 Placing the strong affirmation of deliverance so abruptly after a denunciation intensified the wonder of his unrequited love (cf. 11:8–9; Lev. 26:44). This can apply to God’s restoration of Israel from Assyria, and in future times from all the lands of the dispersion, preserving them and bringing them back to their land for the kingdom of Messiah (Ezek. 37). It also speaks of the time of personal resurrection as in Dan. 12:2–3. Repentant Israelites will be restored to the land and even raised from death to glory. Paul uses this text in 1 Cor. 15:55 (quoting the LXX) to celebrate the future resurrection of the church. The Messiah’s great victory over death and the grave is the firstfruits of the full harvest to come, when all believers will likewise experience the power of his resurrection.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:15 east wind. Refers to Assyria.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:16 The shocking atrocities mentioned were in keeping with brutalities characteristic of the Assyrians (cf. 2 Kings 17:5; Isa. 13:6; Amos 1:13; Nah. 3:10).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:1–2 Israel was invited to return, bringing words of repentance accompanied with obedience, repaying God’s gracious acceptance of them with “vows of our lips.”

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:3 orphan. God repeatedly demanded mercy for the orphan (cf. Ex. 22:22; Deut. 10:18); consequently, Israel could expect to receive his compassion (cf. Luke 15:17–20).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:4–8 The ultimate fulfillment of these blessings must be millennial, since Israel has not repented and will not do so in the manner of vv. 2–3 until the end of the great tribulation (cf. Zech. 12:10–13:1). The Lord’s love is beautifully presented in metaphors taken from the lily, the cedars of Lebanon, and the olive tree.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:4 apostasy. See note on Prov. 14:14.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:7 fame . . . like the wine of Lebanon. Their “fame” (lit., “remembrance”) denotes worldwide fame and admiration.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:8 The Lord, not idols, will care for Israel. He, not Israel, is the tree providing shelter and prosperity, the “evergreen cypress” from whom her fruitfulness would come.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:9 Representative of the theme of the book, Hosea’s epilogue concludes the prophecy by presenting the reader with two ways of living (cf. Deut. 30:19–20; Ps. 1). He appeals to all readers to be wise, to choose the Lord’s way, for his ways are right (cf. Ps. 107:43; Eccles. 12:13–14).

Introduction to Joel

Title

The Greek Septuagint (lxx) and Latin Vulgate (Vulgate) versions follow the Hebrew Masoretic Text (MT), titling this book after Joel the prophet, the recipient of the message from God (1:1). The name means “the Lord is God” and refers to at least a dozen men in the OT. Joel is referred to only once in the NT (Acts 2:16–21).

Author and Date

The author identified himself only as “Joel, the son of Pethuel” (1:1). The prophecy provides little else about the man. Even the name of his father is not mentioned elsewhere in the OT. Although he displayed a profound zeal for the temple sacrifices (1:9; 2:13–16), his familiarity with pastoral and agricultural life and his separation from the priests (1:13–14; 2:17) suggest he was not a Levite. Extrabiblical tradition records that he was from the tribe of Reuben, from the town of Bethom or Beth-haram, located northeast of the Dead Sea on the border of Reuben and Gad. The context of the prophecy, however, hints that he was a Judean from the Jerusalem vicinity, since the tone of a stranger is absent.

Dating the book relies solely on canonical position, historical allusions, and linguistic elements. Because of: 1) the lack of any mention of later world powers (Assyria, Babylon, or Persia); 2) the fact that Joel’s style is like that of Hosea and Amos rather than of the postexilic prophets; and 3) the verbal parallels with other early prophets (Joel 3:16/Amos 1:2; Joel 3:18/Amos 9:13), a late ninth-century-B.C. date, during the reign of Joash (c. 835–796 B.C.), seems most convincing. Nevertheless, while the date of the book cannot be known with certainty, the impact on its interpretation is minimal. The message of Joel is timeless, forming doctrine that could be repeated and applied in any age.

Background and Setting

Tyre, Sidon, and Philistia had made frequent military incursions into Israel (3:2ff.). An extended drought and massive invasion of locusts had stripped every green thing from the land and brought severe economic devastation (1:7–20), leaving the southern kingdom weak. This physical disaster gives Joel the illustration for God’s judgment. As the locusts were a judgment on sin, God’s future judgments during the day of the Lord will far exceed them. In that day, God will judge his enemies and bless the faithful. No mention is made of specific sins, nor is Judah rebuked for idolatry. Yet, possibly due to a calloused indifference, the prophet calls them to a bona fide repentance, admonishing them to “rend your hearts and not your garments” (2:13).

Historical and Theological Themes

The theme of Joel is the day of the Lord. It permeates all parts of Joel’s message, making it the most sustained treatment in the entire OT (1:15; 2:1, 11, 31; 3:14). The phrase is employed 19 times by eight different OT authors (Isa. 2:12; 13:6–9; Ezek. 13:5; 30:3; Joel 1:15; 2:1, 11, 31; 3:14; Amos 5:18 [2x], 20; Obad. 15; Zeph. 1:7, 14 [2x]; Zech. 14:1; Mal. 4:5). The phrase does not have reference to a chronological time period, but to a general period of wrath and judgment uniquely belonging to the Lord. It is exclusively the day that unveils his character—mighty, powerful, and holy, thus terrifying his enemies. The day of the Lord does not always refer to an eschatological event; on occasion it has a near historical fulfillment, as seen in Ezek. 13:5, where it speaks of the Babylonian conquest and destruction of Jerusalem. As is common in prophecy, the near fulfillment is a historic event upon which to comprehend the more distant, eschatological fulfillment.

The day of the Lord is frequently associated with seismic disturbances (e.g., 2:1–11, 31; 3:16), violent weather (Ezek. 13:5ff.), clouds and thick darkness (e.g., Joel 2:2; Zeph. 1:7ff.), cosmic upheaval (Joel 2:3, 30), and as a “great and very awesome” (2:11) day that would come as “destruction from the Almighty” (1:15). The latter half of Joel depicts time immediately prior to and subsequent to the day of the Lord in terms of promise and hope. There will be a pouring out of the Spirit on all flesh, accompanied by prophetic utterances, dreams, visions (2:28–29), as well as the coming of Elijah, an epiphany bringing restoration and hope (Mal. 4:5–6). As a result of the day of the Lord there will be physical blessings, fruitfulness, and prosperity (Joel 2:21ff.; 3:16–21). It is a day when judgment is poured out on sinners that subsequently leads to blessings on the penitent, and reaffirmation of God’s covenant with his people. See note on 1 Thess. 5:2.

Interpretive Challenges

It is preferable to view ch. 1 as describing an actual invasion of locusts that devastated the land. In ch. 2, a new level of description meets the interpreter. Here the prophet is projecting something beyond the locust plague of ch. 1, elevating the level of description to new heights, with increased intensity that is focused on the plague and the immediate necessity for true repentance. The prophet's choice of similes, such as "like the appearance of horses" (2:4) and "like warriors" (2:7), suggests that he is still using the actual locusts to illustrate an invasion that can only be the massive overtaking of the final day of the Lord.

A second issue confronting the interpreter is Peter's quotation from Joel 2:28–32 in Acts 2:16–21. Some have viewed the phenomena of Acts 2 and the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70 as the fulfillment of the Joel passage, while others have reserved its fulfillment to the final day of the Lord only—but clearly Joel is referring to the final terrible day of the Lord. The pouring out of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost was not a fulfillment, but a preview and sample of the Spirit's power and work to be released fully and finally in the Messiah's kingdom after the day of the Lord. See note on Acts 2:16–21.

Outline

Following 1:1, the contents of the book are arranged under three basic categories. In the first section (1:2–20) the prophet describes the contemporary day of the Lord. The land is suffering massive devastation caused by a locust plague and drought. The details of the calamity (1:2–12) are followed by a summons to communal penitence and reformation (1:13–20).

The second section (2:1–17) provides a transition from the historical plague of locusts described in ch. 1 to the eschatological day of the Lord in 2:18–3:21. Employing the contemporary infestation of locusts as a backdrop, the prophet, with an increased level of intensity, paints a vivid and forceful picture of the impending visitation of the Lord (2:1–11) and, with powerful and explicit terminology, tenaciously renews the appeal for repentance (2:12–17).

In the third section (2:18–3:21), the Lord speaks directly, assuring his people of his presence among them (2:27; 3:17, 21). This portion of the book assumes that the repentance solicited (2:12–17) had occurred and describes the Lord's zealous response (2:18–19a) to their prayer. Joel 2:18–20 forms the transition in the message from lamentation and woe to divine assurances of God’s presence and the reversal of the calamities, with 2:19b–20 introducing the essence and nature of that reversal. The Lord then gives three promises to assure the penitents of his presence: material restoration through the divine healing of their land (2:21–27), spiritual restoration through the divine outpouring of his Spirit (2:28–32), and national restoration through the divine judgment on the unrighteous (3:1–21).

Joel

JOEL 1 † The word of the LORD that came to Joel, the son of Pethuel:

An Invasion of Locusts

Has such a thing happened in your days, or in the days of your fathers?
<sup>3</sup>† Tell your children of it, and let your children tell their children, and their children to another generation.

the hopping locust has eaten, and what the hopping locust left, the destroying locust has eaten.

<sup>5</sup>†† Awake, you drunkards, and weep, and wail, all you drinkers of wine, because of the sweet wine, for it is cut off from your mouth.

<sup>6</sup>†† For a nation has come up against my land, powerful and beyond number;
its teeth are lions' teeth, and it has the fangs of a lioness.

<sup>7</sup>† It has laid waste my vine and splintered my fig tree; it has stripped off their bark and thrown it down; their branches are made white.

The priests mourn,
the ministers of the LORD.

<sup>10</sup>† The fields are destroyed, the ground mourns, because the grain is destroyed,
the wine dries up,
the oil languishes.

<sup>11</sup>† Be ashamed, [\[2\]](#) O tillers of the soil; wail, O vinedressers, for the wheat and the barley, because the harvest of the field has perished.

<sup>12</sup>†The vine dries up; the fig tree languishes.
Pomegranate, palm, and apple, all the trees of the field are dried up, and gladness dries up from the children of man.

A Call to Repentance

<sup>13</sup>Put on sackcloth and lament, O priests; wail, O ministers of the altar.
Go in, pass the night in sackcloth, O ministers of my God!
Because grain offering and drink offering are withheld from the house of your God.

Gather the elders and all the inhabitants of the land to the house of the LORD your God, and cry out to the LORD.

<sup>15</sup>†Alas for the day!
For the day of the LORD is near, and as destruction from the Almighty [3] it comes.

<sup>16</sup>Is not the food cut off before our eyes, joy and gladness
from the house of our God?

<sup>17</sup>†The seed shrivels under the clods; [4] the storehouses are desolate; the granaries are torn down because the grain has dried up.

<sup>18</sup>How the beasts groan!
The herds of cattle are perplexed because there is no pasture for them;
even the flocks of sheep suffer. [5]

<sup>19</sup>†To you, O LORD, I call.
For fire has devoured the pastures of the wilderness, and flame has burned
all the trees of the field.

<sup>20</sup>Even the beasts of the field pant for you because the water brooks are dried up, and fire has devoured
the pastures of the wilderness.

The Day of the LORD

JOEL 2 †† Blow a trumpet in Zion; sound an alarm on my holy mountain!

Let all the inhabitants of the land tremble, for the day of the LORD is coming; it is near, †† a day of darkness and gloom, a day of clouds and thick darkness!

Like blackness there is spread upon the mountains a great and powerful people; their like has never been before, nor will be again after them through the years of all generations.

The land is like the garden of Eden before them, but behind them a desolate wilderness, and nothing escapes them.

<sup>5</sup>As with the rumbling of chariots, they leap on the tops of the mountains, like the crackling of a flame of fire devouring the stubble, like a powerful army drawn up for battle.

They march each on his way;
they do not swerve from their paths.

<sup>8</sup>They do not jostle one another; each marches in his path; they burst through the weapons and are not halted.

<sup>9</sup>They leap upon the city, they run upon the walls, they climb up into the houses, they enter through the windows like a thief.

<sup>10</sup>† The earth quakes before them; the heavens tremble.
The sun and the moon are darkened, and the stars withdraw their shining.

<sup>11</sup>The LORD utters his voice before his army, for his camp is exceedingly great;
he who executes his word is powerful.

For the day of the LORD is great and very awesome; who can endure it?

Return to the LORD

<sup>12</sup>‡“Yet even now,” declares the LORD, “return to me with all your heart, with fasting, with weeping, and with mourning; <sup>13</sup>and rend your hearts and not your garments.”

Return to the LORD your God, for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love; and he relents over disaster.

<sup>14</sup>Who knows whether he will not turn and relent, and leave a blessing behind him, a grain offering and a drink offering for the LORD your God?

<sup>15</sup>Blow the trumpet in Zion; consecrate a fast;
call a solemn assembly;

<sup>16</sup>‡gather the people.

Consecrate the congregation;

assemble the elders;

gather the children,

even nursing infants.

Let the bridegroom leave his room, and the bride her chamber.

<sup>17</sup>Between the vestibule and the altar let the priests, the ministers of the LORD, weep and say, “Spare your people, O LORD, and make not your heritage a reproach, a byword among the nations. [1]

Why should they say among the peoples, ‘Where is their God?’”

The LORD Had Pity

<sup>18</sup>‡Then the LORD became jealous for his land and had pity on his people.

<sup>19</sup>The LORD answered and said to his people, “Behold, I am sending to you grain, wine, and oil, and you will be satisfied;

and I will no more make you a reproach among the nations.

<sup>20</sup>‡“I will remove the northerner far from you, and drive him into a parched and desolate land, his vanguard [2] into the eastern sea, and his rear guard [3] into the western sea; the stench and foul smell of him will rise, for he has done great things.

<sup>21</sup>‡“Fear not, O land; be glad and rejoice, for the LORD has done great things!

<sup>22</sup>Fear not, you beasts of the field, for the pastures of the wilderness are green; the tree bears its fruit;
the fig tree and vine give their full yield.

<sup>23</sup>‡“Be glad, O children of Zion, and rejoice in the LORD your God, for he has given the early rain for your vindication; he has poured down for you abundant rain, the early and the latter rain, as before.

<sup>25</sup>I will restore to you the years that the swarming locust has eaten, the hopper, the destroyer, and the cutter, my great army, which I sent among you.

<sup>26</sup>“You shall eat in plenty and be satisfied, and praise the name of the LORD your God, who has dealt wondrously with you.

And my people shall never again be put to shame.

<sup>27</sup>‡You shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the LORD your God and there is none else.

And my people shall never again be put to shame.

The LORD Will Pour Out His Spirit

<sup>28</sup>‡‡ [4] “And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my Spirit on all flesh; your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions.

<sup>29</sup>Even on the male and female servants in those days I will pour out my Spirit.

<sup>30</sup>‡“And I will show wonders in the heavens and on the earth, blood and fire and columns of smoke. <sup>31</sup>The sun shall be turned to darkness, and the moon to blood, before the great and awesome day of the LORD comes. <sup>32</sup>‡And it shall come to pass that everyone who calls on the name of the LORD shall be saved. For in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem there shall be those who escape, as the LORD has said, and among the survivors shall be those whom the LORD calls.

The LORD Judges the Nations

JOEL 3 † [1] “For behold, in those days and at that time, when I restore the fortunes of Judah and Jerusalem, †I will gather all the nations and bring them down to the Valley of Jehoshaphat. And I will enter into judgment with them there, on behalf of my people and my heritage Israel, because they have scattered them among the nations and have divided up my land, †and have cast lots for my people, and have traded a boy for a prostitute, and have sold a girl for wine and have drunk it.

4“What are you to me, O Tyre and Sidon, and all the regions of Philistia? Are you paying me back for something? If you are paying me back, I will return your payment on your own head swiftly and speedily. †For you have taken my silver and my gold, and have carried my rich treasures into your temples. [2] †You have sold the people of Judah and Jerusalem to the Greeks in order to remove them far from their own border. †Behold, I will stir them up from the place to which you have sold them, and I will return your payment on your own head. †I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the people of Judah, and they will sell them to the Sabeans, to a nation far away, for the LORD has spoken.”

†Proclaim this among the nations: Consecrate for war; [3] stir up the mighty men.

Let all the men of war draw near;
let them come up.

10Beat your plowshares into swords, and your pruning hooks into spears; let the weak say, “I am a warrior.”

11Hasten and come, all you surrounding nations, and gather yourselves there.

Bring down your warriors, O LORD.

12Let the nations stir themselves up and come up to the Valley of Jehoshaphat; for there I will sit to judge all the surrounding nations.

13Put in the sickle, for the harvest is ripe.

Go in, tread,
for the winepress is full.

The vats overflow, for their evil is great.

<sup>14</sup>†Multitudes, multitudes, in the valley of decision!

For the day of the LORD is near in the valley of decision.

<sup>16</sup>The LORD roars from Zion, and utters his voice from Jerusalem, and the heavens and the earth quake.

But the LORD is a refuge to his people, a stronghold to the people of Israel.

The Glorious Future of Judah

<sup>17</sup>†“So you shall know that I am the LORD your God, who dwells in Zion, my holy mountain.

And Jerusalem shall be holy, and strangers shall never again pass through it.

<sup>18</sup>†“And in that day the mountains shall drip sweet wine, and the hills shall flow with milk, and all the streambeds of Judah shall flow with water;

and a fountain shall come forth from the house of the LORD and water the Valley of Shittim.

Study Notes

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:1 The word of the Lord. This introductory phrase is commonly employed by the prophets to indicate that the message was divinely commissioned. Cf. Hos. 1:1; Mic. 1:1; Zeph. 1:1. Slightly varied forms are found in 1 Sam. 15:10; 2 Sam. 24:11; Jer. 1:2; Ezek. 1:3; Jonah 1:1; Zech. 1:1; Mal. 1:1. Lord. A distinctively Israelitish designation for God; the name speaks of intimacy and a relationship bonded metaphorically through the covenant likened to marriage and thus carries special significance to Israel (Ex. 3:14). Joel. His name means “the Lord is God.” Pethuel. His name means “openheartedness of/toward God” and is the only occurrence of this name in the Bible.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:2–20 The prophet described the contemporary day of the Lord. The land was suffering massive devastation caused by a locust plague and drought. The details of the calamity (vv. 2–12) are followed by a summons to communal penitence and reformation (vv. 13–20).

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:2 Hear . . . give ear. The gravity of the situation demanded the undivided focus of their senses, emphasizing the need to make a conscious, purposeful decision in the matter. The terminology was commonly used in “lawsuit” passages (cf. Isa. 1:2; Hos. 4:1), intimating that Israel was found guilty and that the present judgment was her “sentence.” elders . . . all inhabitants. The former term refers to the civil and religious leaders, who, in light of their position, were exhorted to lead by example the entire population toward repentance.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:3 Tell . . . children . . . another generation. The pedagogical importance of reciting the Lord’s mighty acts to subsequent generations is heavily underscored by the threefold injunction (cf. Ex. 10:1–6; Deut. 4:9; 6:6–7; 11:19; 32:7; Ps. 78:5–7; 145:4–7; Prov. 4:1ff.).

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:4 locust. The four kinds of locusts refer to their species or their stages of development. Cf. 2:25, where the writer mentions them in different order. The total destruction caused by their voracious appetites demands repentance (cf. Deut. 28:38; Isa. 33:4; Amos 7:1).

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:5–12 Total destruction affected all social and economic levels.

Affected were the drunkards who delighted in the abundance of the vine (vv. 5–7), the priests who utilized the produce in the offerings (vv. 8–10), and the farmers who planted, cultivated, and reaped the harvest (vv. 11–12). As if building toward a crescendo, the prophet noted in the first stanza that the luxuries of life were withdrawn. In the second, the elements needed to worship were interrupted. In the third, the essentials for living were snatched away. To lose the enjoyment of wine was one thing; to no longer be able to outwardly worship God was another; but to have nothing to eat was the sentence of death!

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:5 Awake . . . weep . . . wail. The drunkards were to awaken to the realization that their wine would be no more. They were to weep bitterly and to wail. The severity of the devastation called for public, communal mourning. sweet wine. The term can denote either freshly squeezed grape juice or newly fermented wine (cf. Isa. 49:26).

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:6–7 my land . . . vine . . . fig tree. The possessive pronoun refers to the Lord. He is the owner of the land (cf. Lev. 25:23; Num. 36:2; Ezek. 38:16), the vine, and the fig tree (cf. Hos. 2:9). Instead of symbols of prosperity and peace (1 Kings 4:25; Mic. 4:4; Zech. 3:10), the vine and fig tree had become visual reminders of divine judgment.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:6 a nation. A literal invasion of locusts pictured the kind of destruction and judgment inflicted by human armies. lions' teeth. Joel described these hostile, countless locusts as possessing the “fangs of a lioness,” so able were they to devour anything in their path. They are occasionally used as symbolic of violence (Gen. 49:9; Num. 23:24) and of the violent, awesome nature of God’s judgment (Isa. 30:6; Hos. 13:8).

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:8–9 The metaphor is significant because the OT speaks of the Lord as the husband of Israel, his wife (Isa. 54:5–8; Jer. 31:32). The covenantal offerings and libations could not be carried out; Israel, the wife of the Lord, was to repent, lest her relationship with the Lord became like that of the young widowed maiden.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:8 Lament like a virgin. As with the drunkards, the religious leaders were to wail as a young maiden would upon the death of her youthful husband, wherein she exchanged the silky fabric of a wedding dress and the joy of a wedding feast for the scratchy, coarse clothing of goat’s hair and the cry of a funeral dirge. The term “virgin” lacks the notion of virginity in many cases (e.g., Est. 2:17; Ezek. 23:3), and when coupled together with the term “bridegroom,” points to a young maiden widowed shortly after marriage. sackcloth. Fabric generally made of goat’s hair, usually black or dark in color (cf. Rev. 6:12), and usually placed on the bare body around the hips (Gen. 37:34; 1 Kings 21:27), leaving the chest free for “beating” (Isa. 32:11–12), was used in the ancient world to depict sorrow and penitence (Neh. 9:1; Isa. 37:1; Matt. 11:21). Because the prophets’ message usually dealt with a call to repentance, it became the principal garment worn by prophets (Matt. 3:4; Rev. 11:3).

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:9 grain offering . . . drink offering are cut off. To cut off these offerings, sacrificed each morning and evening (Ex. 29:38–42; Lev. 23:13), was to cut off the people from the covenant. The gravity of the situation was deepened by the fact that it threatened the livelihood of the priests, who were given a portion of most sacrifices.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:11 Be ashamed, O tillers of the soil. The primary emphasis of the Hebrew term connotes a public disgrace, a physical state to which the guilty party has been forcibly brought.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:12 all the trees . . . dried up. The picture was bleak, for even the deep roots of the trees could not withstand the torturous treatment administered by the locusts, especially when accompanied by an extended drought. gladness dries up. Human joy and delight had departed from all segments of society; none had escaped the grasp of the locusts. The joy that normally accompanied the time of harvest had been replaced with despair.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:14 Consecrate a fast. The prophet called the priests to take action, first by example (v. 13) and then by proclamation (v. 14). As the official leaders, it was their duty to proclaim a public fast so that the entire nation could repent and petition the Lord to forgive and restore. Here they were admonished to “consecrate” a fast, denoting its urgent, sacred character. call a solemn assembly. Directives for calling an assembly, generally for festive purposes (cf. 2 Chron. 7:9; Neh. 8:18), are given in Num. 10:3. Parallel in thought to “consecrate a fast,” no work was permitted on such days (Lev. 23:36; Num. 29:35; Deut. 16:8).

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:15 the day of the Lord is near. See Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes. This is the first occurrence of the theme. Later in the book (2:18ff.; 3:1, 18–21), the day of the Lord (the occasion when God pours out his wrath on man) results in blessing and exoneration for God’s people and judgment toward Gentiles (Isa. 13:6; Ezek. 30:3), but here Joel directs the warning toward his own people. The day of the Lord is speedily approaching; unless sinners repent, dire consequences await them. destruction from the Almighty. The Hebrew term “destruction” forms a powerful play on words with the “Almighty.” The notion of invincible strength is foremost; destruction at the hand of omnipotent God is coming.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:17–18 seed shrivels . . . beasts groan. From the spiritual realm to the physical realm, all was in shambles. Though innocent, in judgment even the animals suffered (cf. Rom. 8:18–22) the loss of food.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:19 To you, O Lord, I call. As the first to call to repentance, the prophet had to be the first to heed the warning. He had to lead by example and motivate the people to respond. In the midst of proclaiming judgment, God’s prophets often led in intercessory prayer for mercy and forgiveness (cf. Ex. 32:11–14; Jer. 42:1–4; Dan. 9:1–19; Amos 7:1–6).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:1–17 With an increased level of intensity, Joel utilized the metaphor of the locust plague and drought as a backdrop from which to launch an intensified call to repent in view of the coming invasion of Judah and the day of the Lord, present and future.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:1 Blow a trumpet. In the ancient world, horns were used to gather people for special occasions or to warn of danger (Ex. 19:13, 16, 19; 20:18; Num. 10:1–10; Isa. 27:13; Amos 3:6; Zeph. 1:14–16; Zech. 9:14; 1 Thess. 4:16). The term here refers to a ram’s horn. day of the Lord. See note on Joel 1:15.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:2–11 In dramatic and vivid language, Joel compared the drought and locusts to fire, horses, and an invading army.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:2 darkness and gloom . . . clouds and thick darkness! These features describe the blackness of a locust invasion, so thick that it blots out the sun with its deadly living cloud of insects. Such terms are also often common figures for misery and calamity in the OT (Isa. 8:22; 60:2; Jer. 13:16; Amos 5:18, 20; Zeph. 1:15) and past visitations of the Lord (Ex. 10:12ff.; 19:16–19; 24:16; Deut. 4:12; 5:22–23).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:4 Their appearance is like . . . horses. The resemblance of the locust’s head to that of a horse is striking, so much so that the prophet reiterates the word “appearance.” Horses were not used for agricultural purposes in ancient times, but were the most feared military equipment (Ex. 15:1ff., 19; Deut. 20:1; Josh. 11:4). The simile continues with “chariots” (Joel 2:5); “like a powerful army” (v. 5); “like warriors” (v. 7); and “like soldiers” (v. 7).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:10 earth quakes . . . sun and the moon are darkened. The ground trembles as dust flies along with the growing devastation. Earthquakes and cosmic disruptions are well attested elsewhere as signs accompanying divine appearances (Judg. 5:4; Ps. 18:7; Jer. 4:23–26; Nah. 1:5–6; Matt. 24:7). Joel later refers to these signs (cf. Joel 2:31; 3:15).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:12–14 Even in the midst of judgment, opportunity to repent was given. If they would demonstrate genuine repentance, the Lord stood ready to forgive and bless.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:16 From oldest to youngest they were to come. The situation is so grave that even the groom and bride were exhorted to assemble (cf. Deut. 24:5); consummation of the marriage could wait.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:18–3:21 With the advent of v. 18, the text makes a decisive transition, devoting the remainder of the book to restoration. It assumes an interval of time between v. 17 and v. 18 during which Israel repented. As a result of her repentance, the three major concerns of 1:1–2:17 are answered by the Lord: physical restoration (2:21–27), spiritual restoration (2:28–32), and national restoration (3:1–21).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:20 northerner. Although some have viewed this as a reference to the locusts, it is more likely referring to a military invasion by a country coming down from the north of Israel (cf. Ezek. 38:6, 15; 39:2). That future army will be driven into the eastern sea (Dead Sea) and the western sea (Mediterranean Sea).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:21–24 Reminiscent of 1:18–20, the former situation had been reversed. The animals were admonished to be afraid no longer.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:23–24 early and the latter rain. The early rains came in October-December to prepare the seed-bed and assist germination, while the latter rains came in March-May to provide ample moisture for the grain and fruit crops to be rich and full.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:27 I am in the midst of Israel. This return promised a reversal of the Lord's departure (cf. Ezek. 8–11).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:28–32 See Introduction: Interpretive Challenges; see notes on Acts 2:16–21.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:28 afterward. The abundance of material blessings would be followed by the outpouring of spiritual blessings. When coupled with the other temporal phrases within the passage (“in those days” v. [29] and “before the great and awesome day of the Lord comes” v. [31]), the term points to a second advent fulfillment time frame. all flesh. Since the context is “your sons and your daughters,” “all flesh” best refers to the house of Israel only. The nations are the recipients of God's wrath, not the effusion of his Spirit (cf. 3:2, 9ff.).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:30–31 before . . . day of the Lord. Unmistakable heavenly phenomena will signal the imminent arrival of God's wrath in the day of the Lord (cf. v. 10; see note on 1:15).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:32 everyone who calls. Quoted by Paul in Rom. 10:13. survivors. In spite of the nation's sin, God promised to fulfill his unconditional covenants (Noahic, Abrahamic, Davidic, and New). A future remnant of Jews will inherit God's promised blessings (cf. Isa. 10:20–22; 11:11, 16; Jer. 31:7; Mic. 2:12; Zeph. 3:13; Rom. 9:27).

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:1–21 Joel notes the national restoration of Israel, in which the people will be regathered to Palestine (Isa. 11:15–16; Matt. 24:31).

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:2 gather all the nations. The nations of the world will be gathered to Jerusalem to the battle of Armageddon (Zech. 12:3; 14:2; Rev. 16:16; 19:11–21). Valley of Jehoshaphat. The name means “Yahweh judges” (cf. Joel 3:12, 14) and although the exact location is unknown, other prophets spoke of this judgment as occurring near Jerusalem (Ezek. 38; 39; Dan. 11:45; Zech. 9:14ff.; 12:1ff.). This judgment of the nations includes the event of Matt. 25:31–46.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:5–6 The exact historical event referred to here is uncertain. Slave trading was a common practice among the Phoenicians and Philistines.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:6 the Greeks. Although not prominent militarily, the Greeks were active in commerce on the Mediterranean in the ninth century B.C.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:7–8 The reversal of fortunes will be startling. The victims themselves will be called upon to be the instruments and avengers of the Lord’s wrath (cf. Isa. 11:12–14; Zech. 12:8).

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:8 Sabeans. Trading merchants who lived in Arabia (1 Kings 10; Jer. 6:20).

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:9–17 Joel resumes the theme of vv. 1–3, the gathering of the nations to the earthly courtroom, the Valley of Jehoshaphat. The sentence has been handed down and the Judge orders his agents to ready the scene for the execution.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:14 valley of decision! This location is the same as the valley of Jehoshaphat where the sentence of judgment will be carried out (cf. 3:2, 12). See note on 3:2.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:15–16 sun . . . moon . . . stars. Cf. 2:10, 30–31. These are signs that precede the coming eschatological day of the Lord at the end of the great tribulation (cf. Matt. 24:29–30).

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:17 Zion, my holy mountain. This will be the earthly location of God’s presence in the millennial temple (cf. Ezekiel 40–48) at Jerusalem. shall never again pass. God has promised a future time when his glory in Judah will not be eclipsed. This time of ultimate peace and prosperity will be experienced after Christ conquers the world and sets up his millennial kingdom on earth (cf. Ezek. 37:24–28; Matt. 24–25; Rev. 19).

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:18 Valley of Shittim. Known for its acacia trees, the valley was situated on the northern shores of the Dead Sea and served as the final stopover for Israel prior to her entrance into the Promised Land (Num. 25:1; Josh. 2:1; 3:1). This valley is also the place to which the millennial river will flow (Ezek. 47:1–12; Zech. 14:8).

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:20 Judah . . . forever. This is in reference to Christ's millennial kingdom on earth, which is yet to be fulfilled.

Introduction to Amos

Title

As with each of the Minor Prophets, the title comes from the name of the prophet to whom God gave his message (1:1). Amos's name means "burden" or "burden-bearer." He is not to be confused with Amoz ("stout, strong"), the father of Isaiah (Isa. 1:1).

Author and Date

Amos was from Tekoa, a small village 10 miles south of Jerusalem. He was the only prophet to give his occupation before declaring his divine commission. He was not of priestly or noble descent, but worked as a "shepherd" (1:1; cf. 2 Kings 3:4) and a "dresser of sycamore figs" (Amos 7:14) and was a contemporary of Jonah (2 Kings 14:25), Hosea (Hos. 1:1), and Isaiah (Isa. 1:1). The date of writing is mid-eighth century B.C., during the reigns of Uzziah, king of Judah (c. 790–739 B.C.) and Jeroboam II, king of Israel (c. 793–753 B.C.), two years before a memorable earthquake (Amos 1:1; cf. Zech. 14:5).

Background and Setting

Amos was a Judean prophet called to deliver a message primarily to the northern tribes of Israel (7:15). Politically, it was a time of prosperity under the long and secure reign of Jeroboam II who, following the example of his father Joash (2 Kings 13:25), significantly "restored the border of Israel" (2 Kings 14:25). It was also a time of peace with both Judah (cf. Amos 5:5) and her more distant neighbors; the ever-present menace of Assyria was subdued, possibly because of Nineveh's repentance at the preaching of Jonah (Jonah 3:10). Spiritually, however, it was a time of rampant corruption and moral decay (Amos 4:1; 5:10–13; 2 Kings 14:24).

Historical and Theological Themes

Amos addresses Israel's two primary sins: 1) an absence of true worship, and 2) a lack of justice. In the midst of their ritualistic performance of worship, they were not pursuing the Lord with their hearts (4:4–5; 5:4–6) nor following his standard of justice with their neighbors (5:10–13; 6:12). This apostasy, evidenced by continual, willful rejection of the prophetic message of Amos, is promised divine judgment. Because of his covenant, however, the Lord will not abandon Israel altogether, but will bring future restoration to the righteous remnant (9:7–15).

Interpretive Challenges

In 9:11, the Lord promised that he “will raise up the booth of David that is fallen.” At the Jerusalem Council, convened to discuss whether Gentiles should be allowed into the church without requiring circumcision, James quotes this passage (Acts 15:15–16) to support Peter’s report of how God had taken “from them a people for his name” (Acts 15:14). Some have thus concluded that the passage was fulfilled in Jesus, the greater Son of David, through whom the dynasty of David was reestablished. The Acts reference, however, is best seen as an illustration of Amos’s words and not the fulfillment. The temporal allusions to a future time (“In that day,” 9:11), when Israel will “possess the remnant of Edom and all the nations” (9:12), when the Lord will “plant them on their land, and they shall never again be uprooted out of the land that I have given them” (9:15), all make it clear that the prophet is speaking of Messiah’s return at the second advent to sit upon the throne of David (cf. Isa. 9:7), not the establishment of the church by the apostles.

Amos

AMOS 1 † The words of Amos, who was among the shepherds [\[1\]](#) of Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel in the days of Uzziah king of Judah and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel, two years [\[2\]](#) before the earthquake.

Judgment on Israel's Neighbors

2† And he said: “The LORD roars from Zion and utters his voice from Jerusalem; the pastures of the shepherds mourn, and the top of Carmel withers.”

3†† Thus says the LORD: “For three transgressions of Damascus, and for four, I will not revoke the punishment, [\[3\]](#) because they have threshed Gilead with threshing sledges of iron.

4† So I will send a fire upon the house of Hazael, and it shall devour the strongholds of Ben-hadad.

5† I will break the gate-bar of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitants from the Valley of Aven, [\[4\]](#) and him who holds the scepter from Beth-eden; and the people of Syria shall go into exile to Kir,” says the LORD.

6† Thus says the LORD: “For three transgressions of Gaza, and for four, I will not revoke the punishment, because they carried into exile a whole people to deliver them up to Edom.

7† So I will send a fire upon the wall of Gaza, and it shall devour her strongholds.

8† I will cut off the inhabitants from Ashdod, and him who holds the scepter from Ashkelon;
I will turn my hand against Ekron, and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish,” says the Lord GOD.

<sup>9</sup>† Thus says the LORD: “For three transgressions of Tyre, and for four, I will not revoke the punishment, because they delivered up a whole people to Edom, and did not remember the covenant of brotherhood.

<sup>10</sup>† So I will send a fire upon the wall of Tyre, and it shall devour her strongholds.”

<sup>11</sup>† Thus says the LORD: “For three transgressions of Edom, and for four, I will not revoke the punishment, because he pursued his brother with the sword and cast off all pity, and his anger tore perpetually, and he kept his wrath forever.

<sup>12</sup>† So I will send a fire upon Teman, and it shall devour the strongholds of Bozrah.”

<sup>13</sup>† Thus says the LORD: “For three transgressions of the Ammonites, and for four, I will not revoke the punishment, because they have ripped open pregnant women in Gilead, that they might enlarge their border.

<sup>14</sup>† So I will kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah, and it shall devour her strongholds, with shouting on the day of battle, with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind;

<sup>15</sup>and their king shall go into exile, he and his princes [5] together,” says the LORD.

AMOS 2 † Thus says the LORD: “For three transgressions of Moab, and for four, I will not revoke the punishment, [1]

because he burned to lime the bones of the king of Edom.

† So I will send a fire upon Moab, and it shall devour the strongholds of Kerioth, and Moab shall die amid uproar, amid shouting and the sound of the trumpet; † I will cut off the ruler from its midst, and will kill all its princes [2] with him,” says the LORD.

Judgment on Judah

† Thus says the LORD: “For three transgressions of Judah, and for four, I will not revoke the punishment, because they have rejected the law of the LORD, and have not kept his statutes, but their lies have led them astray, those after which their fathers walked.

† So I will send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the strongholds of Jerusalem.”

Judgment on Israel

† Thus says the LORD: “For three transgressions of Israel, and for four, I will not revoke the punishment, because they sell the righteous for silver, and the needy for a pair of sandals— † those who trample the head of the poor into the dust of the earth and turn aside the way of the afflicted;

a man and his father go in to the same girl, so that my holy name is profaned;

† they lay themselves down beside every altar on garments taken in pledge, and in the house of their God they drink the wine of those who have been fined.

† “Yet it was I who destroyed the Amorite before them, whose height was like the height of the cedars and who was as strong as the oaks; I destroyed his fruit above and his roots beneath.

† Also it was I who brought you up out of the land of Egypt and led you forty years in the wilderness, to possess the land of the Amorite.

<sup>11</sup>† And I raised up some of your sons for prophets, and some of your young men for Nazirites.

Is it not indeed so, O people of Israel?"

declares the LORD.

<sup>12</sup>“But you made the Nazirites drink wine, and commanded the prophets, saying, ‘You shall not prophesy.’

<sup>14</sup>† Flight shall perish from the swift, and the strong shall not retain his strength, nor shall the mighty save his life;

<sup>15</sup>he who handles the bow shall not stand, and he who is swift of foot shall not save himself, nor shall he who rides the horse save his life;

<sup>16</sup>and he who is stout of heart among the mighty shall flee away naked in that day,”

declares the LORD.

Israel's Guilt and Punishment

AMOS 3 †Hear this word that the LORD has spoken against you, O people of Israel, against the whole family that I brought up out of the land of Egypt:
2†“You only have I known of all the families of the earth;

therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities.

3†“Do two walk together, unless they have agreed to meet?

4Does a lion roar in the forest, when he has no prey?

Does a young lion cry out from his den, if he has taken nothing?

5Does a bird fall in a snare on the earth, when there is no trap for it?

Does a snare spring up from the ground, when it has taken nothing?

6Is a trumpet blown in a city, and the people are not afraid?

Does disaster come to a city, unless the LORD has done it?

7†“For the Lord GOD does nothing without revealing his secret to his servants the prophets.

8The lion has roared; who will not fear?

The Lord GOD has spoken; who can but prophesy?”

9†Proclaim to the strongholds in Ashdod and to the strongholds in the land of Egypt, and say, “Assemble yourselves on the mountains of Samaria, and see the great tumults within her, and the oppressed in her midst.”

10“They do not know how to do right,” declares the LORD, “those who store up violence and robbery in their strongholds.”

11†Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: “An adversary shall surround the land and bring down [1] your defenses from you, and your strongholds shall be plundered.”

12†Thus says the LORD: “As the shepherd rescues from the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear, so shall the people of Israel who dwell in Samaria be rescued, with the corner of a couch and part [2] of a bed.

13†“Hear, and testify against the house of Jacob,” declares the Lord GOD, the God of hosts, 14†“that on the day I punish Israel for his transgressions, I will punish the altars of Bethel, and the horns of the altar shall be cut off and fall to the ground.

<sup>15</sup>I will strike the winter house along with the summer house, and the houses of ivory shall perish, and the great houses [3] shall come to an end,”
declares the LORD.

AMOS 4 †“Hear this word, you cows of Bashan, who are on the mountain of Samaria, who oppress the poor, who crush the needy, who say to your husbands, ‘Bring, that we may drink!’
‡The Lord GOD has sworn by his holiness that, behold, the days are coming upon you, when they shall take you away with hooks, even the last of you with fishhooks.
³And you shall go out through the breaches, each one straight ahead; and you shall be cast out into Harmon,”
declares the LORD.
‡‡“Come to Bethel, and transgress; to Gilgal, and multiply transgression; bring your sacrifices every morning, your tithes every three days; ‡offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving of that which is leavened, and proclaim freewill offerings, publish them; for so you love to do, O people of Israel!”
declares the Lord GOD.

Israel Has Not Returned to the LORD

‡‡“I gave you cleanness of teeth in all your cities, and lack of bread in all your places, yet you did not return to me,”
declares the LORD.
⁷“I also withheld the rain from you when there were yet three months to the harvest; I would send rain on one city, and send no rain on another city;
one field would have rain, and the field on which it did not rain would wither; ⁸so two or three cities would wander to another city to drink water, and would not be satisfied; yet you did not return to me,”
declares the LORD.
⁹“I struck you with blight and mildew; your many gardens and your vineyards, your fig trees and your olive trees the locust devoured; yet you did not return to me,”
declares the LORD.
¹⁰“I sent among you a pestilence after the manner of Egypt; I killed your young men with the sword, and carried away your horses, [1] and I made the stench of your camp go up into your nostrils; yet you did not return to me,”

declares the LORD.

<sup>11</sup>†“I overthrew some of you, as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, and you were as a brand [2] plucked out of the burning; yet you did not return to me,”

declares the LORD.

<sup>12</sup>†“Therefore thus I will do to you, O Israel; because I will do this to you, prepare to meet your God, O Israel!”

<sup>13</sup>†For behold, he who forms the mountains and creates the wind, and declares to man what is his thought, who makes the morning darkness, and treads on the heights of the earth—the LORD, the God of hosts, is his name!

Seek the LORD and Live

AMOS 5 †Hear this word that I take up over you in lamentation, O house of Israel: <sup>2</sup>“Fallen, no more to rise, is the virgin Israel; forsaken on her land, with none to raise her up.”

<sup>3</sup>†For thus says the Lord GOD: “The city that went out a thousand shall have a hundred left, and that which went out a hundred shall have ten left to the house of Israel.”

<sup>4</sup>For thus says the LORD to the house of Israel: “Seek me and live;

<sup>5</sup>†but do not seek Bethel, and do not enter into Gilgal or cross over to Beersheba; for Gilgal shall surely go into exile, and Bethel shall come to nothing.”

<sup>6</sup>†Seek the LORD and live, lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph, and it devour, with none to quench it for Bethel, <sup>7</sup>†O you who turn justice to wormwood [\[1\]](#) and cast down righteousness to the earth!

<sup>8</sup>†He who made the Pleiades and Orion, and turns deep darkness into the morning and darkens the day into night, who calls for the waters of the sea and pours them out on the surface of the earth, the LORD is his name;

<sup>9</sup>who makes destruction flash forth against the strong, so that destruction comes upon the fortress.

<sup>10</sup>†They hate him who reproves in the gate, and they abhor him who speaks the truth.

<sup>11</sup>Therefore because you trample on [\[2\]](#) the poor and you exact taxes of grain from him,

you have built houses of hewn stone, but you shall not dwell in them;
you have planted pleasant vineyards,
but you shall not drink their wine.

<sup>12</sup>For I know how many are your transgressions and how great are your sins — you who afflict the righteous, who take a bribe, and turn aside the needy in the gate.

<sup>13</sup>Therefore he who is prudent will keep silent in such a time, for it is an evil time.

<sup>14</sup>Seek good, and not evil, that you may live; and so the LORD, the God of hosts, will be with you, as you have said.

<sup>15</sup>Hate evil, and love good, and establish justice in the gate; it may be that the LORD, the God of hosts, will be gracious to the remnant of Joseph.

<sup>16</sup>Therefore thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the Lord: “In all the squares there shall be wailing, and in all the streets they shall say, ‘Alas! Alas!’

They shall call the farmers to mourning and to wailing those who are skilled in lamentation, <sup>17</sup>and in all vineyards there shall be wailing, for I will pass through your midst,”

says the LORD.

Let Justice Roll Down

<sup>18</sup>Woe to you who desire the day of the LORD!

Why would you have the day of the LORD?

It is darkness, and not light,

<sup>19</sup>as if a man fled from a lion, and a bear met him, or went into the house and leaned his hand against the wall, and a serpent bit him.

<sup>20</sup>Is not the day of the LORD darkness, and not light, and gloom with no brightness in it?

<sup>21</sup>“I hate, I despise your feasts, and I take no delight in your solemn assemblies.

<sup>22</sup>Even though you offer me your burnt offerings and grain offerings, I will not accept them; and the peace offerings of your fattened animals, I will not look upon them.

<sup>23</sup>Take away from me the noise of your songs; to the melody of your harps I will not listen.

<sup>24</sup>But let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream.

<sup>25</sup>‡“Did you bring to me sacrifices and offerings during the forty years in the wilderness, O house of Israel? <sup>26</sup>You shall take up Sikkuth your king, and Kiyyun your star-god—your images that you made for yourselves, <sup>27</sup>‡and I will send you into exile beyond Damascus,” says the LORD, whose name is the God of hosts.

Woe to Those at Ease in Zion

AMOS 6 ‡“Woe to those who are at ease in Zion, and to those who feel secure on the mountain of Samaria, the notable men of the first of the nations, to whom the house of Israel comes!

<sup>2</sup>Pass over to Calneh, and see, and from there go to Hamath the great; then go down to Gath of the Philistines.

Are you better than these kingdoms?

Or is their territory greater than your territory, <sup>3</sup>O you who put far away the day of disaster and bring near the seat of violence?

<sup>7</sup>Therefore they shall now be the first of those who go into exile, and the revelry of those who stretch themselves out shall pass away.”

<sup>8</sup>‡The Lord GOD has sworn by himself, declares the LORD, the God of hosts: “I abhor the pride of Jacob and hate his strongholds, and I will deliver up the city and all that is in it.”

<sup>9</sup>‡And if ten men remain in one house, they shall die. <sup>10</sup>‡And when one's relative, the one who anoints him for burial, shall take him up to bring the bones out of the house, and shall say to him who is in the innermost parts of the house, “Is there still anyone with you?” he shall say, “No”; and he shall say, “Silence! We must not mention the name of the LORD.”

<sup>12</sup>‡Do horses run on rocks?

Does one plow there [\[1\]](#) with oxen?

But you have turned justice into poison and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood [\[2\]](#)— <sup>13</sup>‡you who rejoice in Lo-debar, [\[3\]](#)

who say, “Have we not by our own strength captured Karnaim [\[4\]](#) for ourselves?”

<sup>14</sup>†“For behold, I will raise up against you a nation, O house of Israel,” declares the LORD, the God of hosts; “and they shall oppress you from Lebo-hamath to the Brook of the Arabah.”

Warning Visions

AMOS 7 †† This is what the Lord GOD showed me: behold, he was forming locusts when the latter growth was just beginning to sprout, and behold, it was the latter growth after the king's mowings. <sup>2</sup>When they had finished eating the grass of the land, I said, “O Lord GOD, please forgive!

How can Jacob stand?
He is so small!”

<sup>3</sup>† The LORD relented concerning this: “It shall not be,” said the LORD.

<sup>4</sup>† This is what the Lord GOD showed me: behold, the Lord GOD was calling for a judgment by fire, and it devoured the great deep and was eating up the land. <sup>5</sup>Then I said, “O Lord GOD, please cease!

How can Jacob stand?
He is so small!”

<sup>6</sup>The LORD relented concerning this: “This also shall not be,” said the Lord GOD.

<sup>7</sup>† This is what he showed me: behold, the Lord was standing beside a wall built with a plumb line, with a plumb line in his hand. <sup>8</sup>And the LORD said to me, “Amos, what do you see?” And I said, “A plumb line.” Then the Lord said, “Behold, I am setting a plumb line in the midst of my people Israel;

I will never again pass by them;
<sup>9</sup>the high places of Isaac shall be made desolate, and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste, and I will rise against the house of Jeroboam with the sword.”

Amos Accused

<sup>10</sup>† Then Amaziah the priest of Bethel sent to Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, “Amos has conspired against you in the midst of the house of Israel. The land is not able to bear all his words. <sup>11</sup>† For thus Amos has said, ““Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel must go into exile away from his land.””

<sup>12</sup>And Amaziah said to Amos, “O seer, go, flee away to the land of Judah, and eat bread there, and prophesy there, <sup>13</sup>but never again prophesy at Bethel, for it is the king's sanctuary, and it is a temple of the kingdom.”

<sup>14</sup>Then Amos answered and said to Amaziah, “I was [1] no prophet, nor a prophet's son, but I was a herdsman and a dresser of sycamore figs. <sup>15</sup>But the LORD took me from following the flock, and the LORD said to me, ‘Go, prophesy to my people Israel.’ <sup>16</sup>Now therefore hear the word of the LORD.

“You say, ‘Do not prophesy against Israel, and do not preach against the house of Isaac.’

<sup>17</sup>†Therefore thus says the LORD: “Your wife shall be a prostitute in the city, and your sons and your daughters shall fall by the sword, and your land shall be divided up with a measuring line; you yourself shall die in an unclean land, and Israel shall surely go into exile away from its land.’”

The Coming Day of Bitter Mourning

AMOS 8 † This is what the Lord GOD showed me: behold, a basket of summer fruit. <sup>2</sup>And he said, “Amos, what do you see?” And I said, “A basket of summer fruit.” Then the LORD said to me, “The end [1] has come upon my people Israel; I will never again pass by them.

<sup>3</sup>The songs of the temple [2] shall become wailings [3] in that day,” declares the Lord GOD.

“So many dead bodies!”

“They are thrown everywhere!”

“Silence!”

<sup>4</sup>Hear this, you who trample on the needy and bring the poor of the land to an end, <sup>5</sup>† saying, “When will the new moon be over, that we may sell grain?

And the Sabbath,

that we may offer wheat for sale, that we may make the ephah small and the shekel [4] great and deal deceitfully with false balances, <sup>6</sup>† that we may buy the poor for silver and the needy for a pair of sandals and sell the chaff of the wheat?”

<sup>7</sup>† The LORD has sworn by the pride of Jacob: “Surely I will never forget any of their deeds.

<sup>8</sup>† Shall not the land tremble on this account, and everyone mourn who dwells in it, and all of it rise like the Nile, and be tossed about and sink again, like the Nile of Egypt?”

<sup>9</sup>† “And on that day,” declares the Lord GOD, “I will make the sun go down at noon and darken the earth in broad daylight.

<sup>10</sup>† I will turn your feasts into mourning and all your songs into lamentation;

I will bring sackcloth on every waist and baldness on every head;

I will make it like the mourning for an only son and the end of it like a bitter day.

<sup>11</sup>† “Behold, the days are coming,” declares the Lord GOD, “when I will send a famine on the land— not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the LORD.

<sup>12</sup>They shall wander from sea to sea, and from north to east; they shall run to and fro, to seek the word of the LORD, but they shall not find it.

<sup>14</sup>†Those who swear by the Guilt of Samaria, and say, ‘As your god lives, O Dan,’ and, ‘As the Way of Beersheba lives,’ they shall fall, and never rise again.”

The Destruction of Israel

AMOS 9 †I saw the Lord standing beside [\[1\]](#) the altar, and he said: “Strike the capitals until the thresholds shake, and shatter them on the heads of all the people; [\[2\]](#) and those who are left of them I will kill with the sword; not one of them shall flee away; not one of them shall escape.

<sup>2</sup>†“If they dig into Sheol, from there shall my hand take them; if they climb up to heaven, from there I will bring them down.

<sup>3</sup>†If they hide themselves on the top of Carmel, from there I will search them out and take them; and if they hide from my sight at the bottom of the sea, there I will command the serpent, and it shall bite them.

<sup>4</sup>And if they go into captivity before their enemies, there I will command the sword, and it shall kill them; and I will fix my eyes upon them for evil and not for good.”

<sup>5</sup>††The Lord GOD of hosts, he who touches the earth and it melts, and all who dwell in it mourn, and all of it rises like the Nile, and sinks again, like the Nile of Egypt;

<sup>6</sup>who builds his upper chambers in the heavens and founds his vault upon the earth;

who calls for the waters of the sea and pours them out upon the surface of the earth— the LORD is his name.

<sup>7</sup>†“Are you not like the Cushites to me, O people of Israel?” declares the LORD.

“Did I not bring up Israel from the land of Egypt, and the Philistines from Caphtor and the Syrians from Kir?

<sup>8</sup>Behold, the eyes of the Lord GOD are upon the sinful kingdom, and I will destroy it from the surface of the ground, except that I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob,”

declares the LORD.

<sup>9</sup>†“For behold, I will command, and shake the house of Israel among all the nations as one shakes with a sieve, but no pebble shall fall to the earth.

<sup>10</sup>All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, who say, 'Disaster shall not overtake or meet us.'

The Restoration of Israel

<sup>11</sup>‡“In that day I will raise up the booth of David that is fallen and repair its breaches, and raise up its ruins and rebuild it as in the days of old,

<sup>12</sup>that they may possess the remnant of Edom and all the nations who are called by my name,” [\[3\]](#) declares the LORD who does this.

<sup>13</sup>‡“Behold, the days are coming,” declares the LORD, “when the plowman shall overtake the reaper and the treader of grapes him who sows the seed; the mountains shall drip sweet wine, and all the hills shall flow with it.

<sup>14</sup>I will restore the fortunes of my people Israel, and they shall rebuild the ruined cities and inhabit them; they shall plant vineyards and drink their wine, and they shall make gardens and eat their fruit.

<sup>15</sup>‡I will plant them on their land, and they shall never again be uprooted out of the land that I have given them,” says the LORD your God.

Study Notes

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:1 the earthquake. Mentioned by Zechariah (Zech. 14:5), Josephus (Antiquities, 10:4) connects it with Uzziah's sin of usurping the role of a priest (2 Chron. 26:16–23). An earthquake of severe magnitude occurred c. 755 B.C.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:2 roars. In Joel 3:16, the Lord “roars” against the nations; here his wrath was directed primarily toward Israel (cf. Jer. 25:30). Amos, a shepherd, courageously warned the flock of God's pasture that they were in imminent danger from a roaring lion who turned out to be the ultimate Shepherd of the flock (cf. Amos 3:8). Carmel. Known for its bountiful trees and lush gardens, “Carmel” means “fertility” or “garden land” and refers to the mountain range that runs east to west in northern Israel and juts out into the Mediterranean Sea (cf. 9:3).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:3–2:3 Amos began with Israel's enemies, and thereby gained an initial hearing. When he turned to God's judgment on Israel, the leaders tried to silence him (cf. 7:10–17).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:3 For three transgressions . . . for four. This rhetorical device is repeated in each of the eight messages, differing from a similar pattern used elsewhere. These are specific mathematical enumerations (e.g., Prov. 30:18, 21, 29), emphasizing that each nation was being visited for an incalculable number of infractions. With three, the cup of iniquity was full; with four it overflowed. This judgment was to fall on Syria, whose capital is Damascus. threshed Gilead. Large threshing sleds, when dragged over grain, would both thresh the grain and cut the straw. Gilead, located in the northeastern Golan Heights region of Israel, was vulnerable to Syria's cruel attacks (cf. 2 Kings 13:7; 18:12).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:4 Ben-hadad. Apparently a throne name, meaning “son of (the god) Hadad.” Ben-hadad II was a son of Syrian king Hazael (841–801 B.C.).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:5 Valley of Aven. Meaning “valley of wickedness,” it may refer to Baalbek, the center of sun worship, located north of Damascus. Beth-edem. “House of pleasure.” It was located in eastern Syria across the Euphrates.

Kir. Apparently the original home of the Syrians. It was a region to which they were later exiled (2 Kings 16:9). Its exact location is unknown.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:6 Gaza. Philistia's most prominent merchant city, ideally situated between Egypt and Israel, here used to refer to the Philistine nation. exile a whole people. Cf. Jer. 13:19. Possibly during the reign of Jehoram (2 Chron. 21:16–17; Joel 3:3), c. 853–841 B.C.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:7–8 Four of the five major cities of Philistia. The fifth, Gath, was not mentioned because it had been destroyed earlier by Uzziah (2 Chron. 26:6).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:9 covenant of brotherhood. A longstanding brotherly relationship existed between Phoenicia and Israel, beginning with King Hiram's assistance to David in building his house and Solomon in the building of the temple (2 Sam. 5:11; 1 Kings 5:1–12; 9:11–14), and later cemented through the marriage of Jezebel to Ahab (1 Kings 16:31). No king of Israel ever made war against Phoenicia, especially the two major cities, Tyre and Sidon.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:10 Tyre. Alexander the Great conquered this stronghold c. 330 B.C. (cf. Ezek. 26:1–18).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:11 pursued . . . cast off all pity. More than mere fighting, Edom pursued his brother, stifling any feelings of compassion. See notes on Obadiah for a more complete description of Edom's judgment.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:12 Teman. The grandson of Esau (Gen. 36:11), after whom this town in northern Edom was named. Bozrah. A fortress city of northern Edom, about 35 miles north of Petra.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:13 Ammonites. Descendants of Ben-ammi, the son of Lot and his younger daughter (Gen. 19:34–38). ripped open pregnant women. Such inhumane treatment in wartime was not an uncommon practice (cf. 2 Kings 8:12; 15:16; Hos. 13:16).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:14 Rabbah. Situated east of the Jordan River, this was the capital city.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:1 Moab. Descendants of Lot and his elder daughter (Gen. 19:37). burned . . . the bones. This event, where vengeance didn't stop at death, is not recorded elsewhere in Scripture.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:2 Kerioth. An important Moabite city, either as a capital or center of worship.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:3 ruler. Possibly denoting the king, who was often so designated (2 Kings 15:5; Dan. 9:12).

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:4 Judah. With the judgments against the nations finished, the prophet proceeded to address Judah, moving ever closer to his ultimate target of Israel. rejected the law of the Lord. The nations were judged because they had sinned against the law of God, which was written in the heart and conscience (cf. Rom. 2:14–15). Judah and Israel were judged because they sinned against God's revealed, written law.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:5 fire upon Judah. The Babylonian king Nebuchadnezzar fulfilled this judgment, c. 605–586 B.C. (cf. 2 Kings 24–25).

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:6–7 Greed, so all-consuming that for insignificant debts they would sell another into slavery (cf. Matt. 18:23–35), was accompanied by uncontained sexual passion. Care for the poor is a prominent OT theme (e.g., Prov. 14:31; 17:5) and sexual purity is mandated repeatedly. Violations of both are an affront to God's holy name.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:7 go in to the same girl. In the context of oppressing the helpless, the reference was probably to a slave girl (cf. Ex. 21:7–11).

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:8 garments taken in pledge. Outer garments used to secure a loan were to be returned before sunset (Ex. 22:25–27; Deut. 24:12–13); instead, they used them to engage in idolatrous acts.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:9 Amorite. The pre-conquest inhabitants of Canaan, whom God defeated for the Jews (cf. Josh. 10:12–15). Their giant stature was said to make the spies look like grasshoppers (Num. 13:32–33).

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:11 Nazirites. See Num. 6:1–21.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:14–16 Neither personal strength nor military armament was sufficient to prevent the Lord's hand of judgment by the Assyrians c. 722 B.C. (cf. 2 Kings 17).

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:1 the whole family. The primary recipient of these messages was Israel; Judah was not excluded.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:2 You only have I known. God's sovereign choice of Israel did not exempt her from punishment for disobedience.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:3–8 The Lord posed a series of questions to show that, as some things are certain in nature, surely nothing happens in Israel that is outside his sovereignty. Certain actions have certain results! The Lord had spoken a word, and therefore the prophet was to speak, and the people were to listen with trembling. Instead, they tried to silence the prophet (cf. 2:12; 7:12–13).

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:7 Judgment is coming, but the Lord graciously warned the nation in advance through his prophets (e.g., Noah, Gen. 6; Abraham, Gen. 18).

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:9 The heathen nations, such as the Philistines and Egyptians, were rhetorically summoned to witness God's judgment. If they condemn Israel, how much more will a righteous God?

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:11 An adversary. The Assyrians who captured and deported Israel in 722 B.C.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:12 The Lord gives a vivid description of the small remnant left in Israel after the Assyrian invasion.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:13 Hear, and testify. As in v. 9, the heathen nations were once again called upon to witness and testify.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:14 Bethel. The principal place of idol worship in Israel (cf. 1 Kings 12:25–33).

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:1 cows of Bashan. A description of the women of Samaria who lived luxurious lives (cf. Isa. 3:16–26; 32:9–13; Jer. 4:30). Bashan was a fertile region below Mount Hermon east of the Jordan River known for its lush pastures. Under Jeroboam II, Israel was enjoying great prosperity.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:2–3 through the breaches . . . into Harmon. Captives will be led out of the city through breaches in the walls, depicting massive overthrow. The location of Harmon is unknown.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:4–5 With poignant sarcasm, Amos indicted Israel for idolatrous sacrifices and ritualistic religion.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:4 Bethel . . . Gilgal. Bethel, the place of Jacob’s dream (Gen. 28), and Gilgal, where Israel was circumcised before surrounding Jericho (Josh. 5:1–9), were sacred to Israel.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:5 sacrifice . . . leavened. Though prohibited from most offerings, leaven was required as a part of the thank offering (Lev. 7:11–15).

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:6–11 Past warnings were futile, a fact repeatedly emphasized by “yet you did not return to me” (vv. 6, 8–11).

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:6 cleanness of teeth. Amos employed this euphemism to depict the absence of food during famine and drought sent by God to warn Israel, which he described in vv. 6–9 (cf. Deut. 28:22–24, 47–48; Lev. 26:18).

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:11 brand plucked out of the burning. Only because of God’s mercy was Israel saved from extinction (cf. Zech. 3:2; Jude 23).

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:12 prepare to meet your God. The general concept was first used of Israel’s preparation to receive the covenant at Sinai (Ex. 19:11, 15); here she was implored to prepare for his judgment.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:13 This is the God whom they were to be prepared to face. He is the Lord God Almighty.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:1–2 A funeral dirge was taken up for Israel, likened to a young woman who had died.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:3 Many were to be killed in battle or taken captive; only a handful would return (cf. 3:12; Isa. 6:11–13).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:5 Bethel . . . Gilgal. See note on 4:4. Beersheba. Located in southern Judah, 50 miles southwest of Jerusalem, Beersheba had a rich Israelite history (cf. Gen. 21:33; 26:23; 1 Sam. 8:1–3; 1 Kings 19:3–7). Apparently, people from the north crossed over the border to worship there (cf. Amos 8:14).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:6 house of Joseph. Refers to the northern kingdom, since Ephraim and Manasseh, sons of Joseph, were two of its largest tribes.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:7 justice to wormwood. Justice was so perverted that it was like wormwood, an herb known for its bitter taste (cf. Rev. 8:11).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:8 Pleiades and Orion. Pleiades, part of the constellation Taurus, and Orion depict God's creative power and wisdom (cf. Job 9:9; 38:31–35). Israel was guilty of worshiping the stars (cf. Amos 5:26) instead of their Creator.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:10–13 The fabric of justice had been destroyed, causing pervasive corruption “in the gate,” the place where justice was administered (cf. v. 15; Deut. 21:19; Josh. 20:4).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:16–17 Looking back at the accusations made earlier, Amos pictured the people mourning as the Lord passed through their midst, executing his sentence of judgment (cf. Ex. 11:3ff.).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:18–20 Even the wicked wanted the day of the Lord to come, mistakenly thinking that it would bring victory instead of judgment (cf. Zeph. 1:14–18).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:21–24 When performed with a corrupt heart, even the savored festivals and offerings were despised by the Lord (cf. Lev. 26:27, 31; Ps. 51:16–17, 19).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:25–26 In addition to worshiping the Lord in the wilderness, Israel also worshiped other gods, carrying along “Sikkuth (or ‘tabernacle’) your king (or ‘Molech’) and Kiyyun, your star-god.” Molech worship included the astrological worship of Saturn and the host of heaven and the actual sacrificing of children (2 Kings 17:16–17). Warned against Molech worship (Deut. 18:9–13), Israel nevertheless pursued all facets of it, continuing with Solomon (1 Kings 11:7) and his descendants (1 Kings 12:28; 2 Kings 17:16–17; Jer. 32:35) until Josiah (2 Kings 23:10). Stephen recited Amos 5:25–27 when he recounted the sins of Israel in Acts 7:42–43.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:27 Assyria conquered Damascus in 732 B.C., then overtook Israel in 722 B.C.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:1–2 The two capitals of Judah and Israel, Zion and Samaria, were invited to look around. If Calneh (possibly the Calno of Isa. 10:9) and Hamath (Syria) and Gath (Philistia) could not put off judgment, how could they?

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:6 drink wine in bowls. These large bowls, usually used for sacrificial purposes, here typify the excesses of their lifestyle.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:8 sworn by himself. Cf. Gen. 22:16 and Heb. 6:13–14.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:9–10 The judgment was so comprehensive that even small remnants were sought out and killed.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:10 one who anoints him for burial. Lit., “one who burns him.” This could refer to cremation, demanded by the excessive number killed and because of fear of epidemics. With rare exceptions (cf. 1 Sam. 31:12), corpses were buried in ancient Israel. We must not mention the name of the Lord. Previously welcomed as a friend, the Lord came in judgment as a foe; survivors would not want to invoke his name out of fear.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:12 Israel’s exercise of justice was as absurd as running horses on rocks or plowing rocks with oxen.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:13 Lo-debar . . . Karnaim. These were, apparently, two Syrian sites captured by Jeroboam II (cf. 2 Kings 14:25). “Lo-debar” means “nothing” and sarcastically points out that Israel’s “great” gain will amount to nothing. “Karnaim” means “horns” which symbolizes the strength of an animal. Israel foolishly believed they had conquered in their own strength.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:14 a nation. Assyria in 722 B.C. from Lebo-hamath . . . Brook of the Arabah. These represent the northern and southern perimeters of the kingdom as reestablished by Jeroboam II (cf. 2 Kings 14:25).

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:1–9:10 Amos introduced five visions, with a historical interlude (7:10–17). The first two depict the Lord’s commitment to spare a remnant, while the last three announce the inevitability of judgment.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:1–3 The first vision, symbolizing God’s action, saw a swarm of locusts devouring the people’s portion of the later cuttings, after the king had taken the first cutting (cf. Joel 1:2–12).

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:3 The Lord relented. Much as he did at Abraham’s pleading over Sodom in Gen. 18:22–23.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:4–6 Under the figure of fire, the second vision concerns a devastating drought, causing the underground water supplies to dry up and the fields to be consumed (cf. Deut. 32:22). Amos again pleaded Israel's cause (cf. Amos 7:2–3).

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:7–9 The true spiritual nature of Israel was here tested (and found wanting) by God's plumb line of righteousness in this third of five visions. The sword of judgment was to come from Assyria.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:10–17 The words of Amos cut deep into the heart of Israel's leadership, causing them to accuse him of conspiracy against the king (cf. Jer. 26:11; 37:11–13; 38:1–6).

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:11 Amos has said. This most likely refers to v. 9.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:17 go into exile. To Assyria c. 722 B.C.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:1 summer fruit. In this fourth vision, as fruit was fully ripened by the summer's sun, so Israel was ripe for judgment

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:5 new moon. Based on a lunar calendar, Israel would celebrate the day with a festival. As on Sabbath, no work was to be done (1 Sam. 20:5–6; 2 Kings 4:23; Ezek. 46:3). The merchants' eagerness for the day to end revealed their appetite for greed. ephah small . . . shekel great. By dishonest weighing, the merchant decreased the actual amount received and increased the cost of the merchandise. See note on Prov. 11:1 for other passages on dishonest measures.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:6 chaff of the wheat. This denotes the chaff, which was mixed into the good wheat to cheat the buyer.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:7 pride of Jacob. As surely as the nation was filled with pride, so the Lord would not forget her works (cf. 6:8).

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:8 tossed about and sink again, like the Nile of Egypt. Like the Nile, which annually provided water and rich soil deposits for farmers by greatly overflowing its banks, so judgment would overflow the land.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:9 the sun go down at noon. Probably referring to the total eclipse of the sun c. 763 B.C. as a picture of God’s coming judgment.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:10 sackcloth. See note on Joel 1:8.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:11–12 During prosperity, the nation rejected the prophets (cf. 7:10–17); in captivity no word from the Lord could be found (cf. 1 Sam. 28:6ff.).

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:14 Samaria . . . Dan. Jeroboam I built altars at both locations in an effort to keep Israel from going to Jerusalem to worship (1 Kings 12:26–29). Beersheba. See note on Amos 5:5.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:1 The fifth vision opens with the Lord standing beside the altar in Bethel, commanding that the temple be torn down, thus falling upon the worshipers. He would spare none.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:2–4 Desperate to escape, none will successfully hide from the hand of judgment. Righteous David found solace in the omnipresence of God (Ps. 139:7–10; cf. Jer. 23:23–24); the wicked find only his wrath (cf. Rev. 20:13).

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:3 Carmel. A mountainous region, rising 1,800 feet above the Mediterranean, known for its many caves and forests. See note on 1:2.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:5–9 Lest anyone question the Lord’s power, they are reminded of his omnipotence revealed in creation and in his sovereign rulership of the nations. Other nations have been transplanted from their homelands; why not Israel?

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:5 the Nile. See note on 8:8.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:7 Kir. See note on 1:5.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:9 shake . . . among all the nations. Only the chaff was to be punished; his remnant was to be preserved to inherit the blessings spoken of in the following verses.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:11–15 Millennial blessings await the final faithful remnant, when Messiah personally reigns over all nations in Jerusalem upon the throne of David, and the Jews are never again pulled up from their divinely inherited land.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:11 booth of David. A reference to the dynasty of David (cf. Introduction: Interpretive Challenges). God will “raise up” and “rebuild” this tabernacle on earth for Christ to rule in his millennial kingdom (cf. Zech. 14:9–11). The apostles used this passage to illustrate that Gentiles could thus be a part of God’s redemption. See notes on Acts 15:13–18.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:13–14 Prosperity, in hyperbolic fashion, is here described (cf. Lev. 26:5; Joel 3:18; contrast Isa. 5). Fruitfulness is so enormous that planting and reaping seasons overlap. This prosperity will encourage massive repatriation (cf. Isa. 11:15–16) and reconstruction (cf. Zech. 2:1–5).

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:15 they shall never again be uprooted out of the land. The ultimate fulfillment of God’s land promise to Abraham (cf. Gen. 12:7; 15:7; 17:8) will occur during Christ’s millennial reign on earth (cf. Joel 2:26–27).

Introduction to Obadiah

Title

The book is named after the prophet who received the vision (1:1). Obadiah means “servant of the Lord” and occurs 20 times in the OT, referring to many other OT individuals. Obadiah is the shortest book in the OT and is not quoted in the NT.

Author and Date

Nothing is known for certain about the author. Other OT references to men of this name do not appear to be referring to this prophet. His frequent mentions of Jerusalem, Judah, and Zion suggest that he belonged to the southern kingdom (cf. vv. 10–12, 17, 21). Obadiah was probably a contemporary of Elijah and Elisha.

The date of writing is equally difficult to determine, though we know it is tied to the Edomite assault on Jerusalem described in vv. 10–14. Obadiah apparently wrote shortly after the attack. There were four significant invasions of Jerusalem in OT history: 1) by Shishak, king of Egypt, c. 925 B.C. during the reign of Rehoboam (1 Kings 14:25–26; 2 Chron. 12); 2) by the Philistines and Arabians between 848–841 B.C. during the reign of Jehoram of Judah (2 Chron. 21:8–20); 3) by Jehoash, king of Israel, c. 790 B.C. (2 Kings 14; 2 Chron. 25); and 4) by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, in the fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. Of these four, only the second and the fourth are possible fits with historical data. Number two is preferable, since Obadiah’s description does not indicate the total destruction of the city, which took place under Nebuchadnezzar’s attack. Also, although the Edomites were involved in Nebuchadnezzar’s destruction of Jerusalem (Ps. 137; Lam. 4:21), it is significant that Obadiah does not mention the Babylonians by name (as with all the other prophets who wrote about Jerusalem’s fall), nor is there any reference to the destruction of the temple or the deportation of the people; in fact, the captives appear to have been taken to the southwest, not east to Babylon (cf. Obad. 20).

Background and Setting

The Edomites trace their origin to Esau, the firstborn (twin) son of Isaac and Rebekah (Gen. 25:24–26), who struggled with Jacob even while in the womb (Gen. 25:22). Esau’s name means “hairy,” because he was “like a hairy cloak” (Gen. 25:25). He is also called Edom, meaning “red,” owing to the sale of his birthright in exchange for some red stew (Gen. 25:30). He showed a disregard for the covenant promises by marrying two Canaanite women (Gen. 26:34) and later the daughter of Ishmael (Gen. 28:9). He loved the out-of-doors and, after having his father’s blessing stolen from him by Jacob, was destined to remain a man of the open spaces (Gen. 25:27; 27:38–40). Esau settled in a region of mostly rugged mountains south of the Dead Sea (Gen. 33:16; 36:8–9; Deut. 2:4–5) called Edom (Greek, Idumea), the 40-mile wide area that stretches approximately 100 miles south to the Gulf of Aqabah. The famed King’s Highway, an essential caravan route linking North Africa with Europe and Asia, passes along the eastern plateau (Num. 20:17). The struggle and birth of Jacob and Esau (Gen. 25) form the ultimate background to the prophecy of Gen. 25:23, “two nations are in your womb.” Their respective descendants, Israel and Edom, were perpetual enemies. When Israel came out from Egypt, Edom denied their brother Jacob passage through their land, located south of the Dead Sea (Num. 20:14–21). Nevertheless, Israel was instructed by God to be kind to Edom (Deut. 23:7–8). Obadiah, having received a vision from God, was sent to describe their crimes and to pronounce total destruction upon Edom because of their treatment of Israel.

The Edomites opposed Saul (c. 1043–1011 B.C.) and were subdued under David (c. 1011–971 B.C.) and Solomon (c. 971–931 B.C.). They fought against Jehoshaphat (c. 873–848 B.C.) and successfully rebelled against Jehoram (c. 853–841 B.C.). They were again conquered by Judah under Amaziah (c. 796–767 B.C.), but they regained their freedom during the reign of Ahaz (c. 735–715 B.C.). Edom was later controlled by Assyria and Babylon; and in the fifth century B.C. the Edomites were forced by the Nabateans to leave their territory. They moved to the area of southern Palestine and became known as Idumeans. Herod the Great, an Idumean, became king of Judea under Rome in 37 B.C. In a sense, the enmity between Esau and Jacob was continued in Herod’s attempt to murder Jesus. The Idumeans participated in the rebellion of Jerusalem against Rome and were defeated along with the Jews by Titus in A.D. 70. Ironically, the Edomites applauded the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. (cf. Ps. 137:7) but died trying to defend it in A.D. 70. After that time they were never heard of again. As Obadiah predicted, they would be “cut off forever” (Obad. 10); and there would be “no survivor for the house of Esau” (v. 18).

Historical and Theological Themes

Obadiah is a case study of the curses/blessings in Gen. 12:1–3, with two interrelated themes: 1) the judgment of Edom by God for cursing Israel. This was apparently told to Judah, thereby providing reassurance that the Lord would bring judgment upon Edom for her pride and for her participation in Judah's downfall; and 2) Judah's restoration. This would even include the territory of the Edomites (Obad. 19–21; Isa. 11:14). Obadiah's blessing for Judah includes the near fulfillment of Edom's demise (Obad. 1–14) and the far fulfillment of the nations' judgment and Israel's final possession of Edom (vv. 15–21).

Interpretive Challenges

The striking similarity between Obad. 1–9 and Jer. 49:7–22 brings up the question: Who borrowed from whom? Assuming there was not a third common source, it appears that Jeremiah borrowed, where appropriate, from Obadiah, since the shared verses form one unit in Obadiah, while in Jeremiah they are scattered among other verses.

Edom Will Be Humbled

Thus says the Lord GOD concerning Edom: We have heard a report from the LORD, and a messenger has been sent among the nations: “Rise up! Let us rise against her for battle!”

<sup>2</sup>Behold, I will make you small among the nations; you shall be utterly despised. [1]

<sup>3</sup>††The pride of your heart has deceived you, you who live in the clefts of the rock, [2] in your lofty dwelling, who say in your heart,

“Who will bring me down to the ground?”

<sup>4</sup>Though you soar aloft like the eagle, though your nest is set among the stars, from there I will bring you down,

declares the LORD.

<sup>5</sup>††If thieves came to you, if plunderers came by night— how you have been destroyed!—

would they not steal only enough for themselves?

If grape gatherers came to you, would they not leave gleanings?

<sup>7</sup>†All your allies have driven you to your border; those at peace with you have deceived you;

they have prevailed against you;

those who eat your bread [3] have set a trap beneath you— you have [4] no understanding.

<sup>8</sup>†Will I not on that day, declares the LORD, destroy the wise men out of Edom, and understanding out of Mount Esau?

<sup>9</sup>†And your mighty men shall be dismayed, O Teman, so that every man from Mount Esau will be cut off by slaughter.

Edom's Violence Against Jacob

<sup>10</sup>† Because of the violence done to your brother Jacob, shame shall cover you, and you shall be cut off forever.

<sup>11</sup>‡ On the day that you stood aloof, on the day that strangers carried off his wealth and foreigners entered his gates and cast lots for Jerusalem, you were like one of them.

<sup>12</sup> But do not gloat over the day of your brother in the day of his misfortune; do not rejoice over the people of Judah in the day of their ruin;

do not boast [5]

in the day of distress.

<sup>13</sup> Do not enter the gate of my people in the day of their calamity; do not gloat over his disaster in the day of his calamity; do not loot his wealth

in the day of his calamity.

<sup>14</sup> Do not stand at the crossroads to cut off his fugitives; do not hand over his survivors

in the day of distress.

The Day of the LORD Is Near

<sup>15</sup>† For the day of the LORD is near upon all the nations.

As you have done, it shall be done to you;

your deeds shall return on your own head.

<sup>16</sup>† For as you have drunk on my holy mountain, so all the nations shall drink continually; they shall drink and swallow, and shall be as though they had never been.

<sup>17</sup>† But in Mount Zion there shall be those who escape, and it shall be holy, and the house of Jacob shall possess their own possessions.

<sup>18</sup>‡ The house of Jacob shall be a fire, and the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau stubble; they shall burn them and consume them, and there shall be no survivor for the house of Esau, for the LORD has spoken.

The Kingdom of the LORD

- <sup>19</sup>Those of the Negeb shall possess Mount Esau, and those of the Shephelah shall possess the land of the Philistines; they shall possess the land of Ephraim and the land of Samaria, and Benjamin shall possess Gilead.
- <sup>20</sup>†The exiles of this host of the people of Israel shall possess the land of the Canaanites as far as Zarephath, and the exiles of Jerusalem who are in Sepharad shall possess the cities of the Negeb.
- <sup>21</sup>†Saviors shall go up to Mount Zion to rule Mount Esau, and the kingdom shall be the LORD's.

Study Notes

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 1 The vision. The prophetic word often came from God in the form of a vision (cf. Hab. 1:1). Thus says the Lord God. Although the background of the prophet is obscure, the source of his message is not. It was supernaturally given by God, and was not motivated by unholy vengeance. Edom. Descendants of Esau (Gen. 25:30; 36:1ff.), the Edomites settled in the region south of the Dead Sea. See Introduction: Background and Setting. Rise up . . . rise against her. The prophet heard of a God-ordained international plot to overthrow Edom. The selfish motives of Edom’s enemies were divinely controlled by the Lord’s “messenger” to serve his sovereign purposes (cf. Ps. 104:4).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 3 the clefts of the rock. Dwelling in difficult mountain terrain, Edom’s imposing, impregnable capital city of Petra was virtually inaccessible, giving her a sense of security and self-sufficiency. Deep, terrifying gorges emanating from peaks reaching 5,700 feet surrounded her like a fortress, generating a proud, false sense of security.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 3–4 Who will bring me down . . . I will bring you down. Edom’s pride was answered decisively by the Sovereign Ruler (cf. Matt. 23:12). The calamity against Edom, though brought about by her enemies, was truly God’s judgment of her pride (cf. Prov. 16:18; 1 Cor. 10:12).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 5 plunderers came by night. Because of the rugged terrain and very narrow access through the gorges, predatory attack could only come at night.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 5–6 Edom’s attackers, by divine judgment, would not stop where normal thieves would when they have enough. Instead, they would leave nothing.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 7 Those conspiring against Edom (v. 1) were her allies (“your allies”), her neighbors (“those at peace with you”), and even the outlying tribes who benefited from Edom’s prosperity (“those who eat your bread”).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 8 wise men. Edom was known for her wise men and sages (Jer. 49:7). Her location on the King’s Highway provided her with intellectual stimulation with India, Europe, and North Africa.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 9 Teman. A name derived from a descendant of Esau (Gen. 36:11), it refers to a region in the northern part of Edom that was the home of Job’s friend, Eliphaz (Job 4:1).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 10 violence done to . . . Jacob. Edom’s opposition is in view, which began as Israel approached the land (cf. Num. 20:14–21) and continued to Habakkuk’s day. “Slaughter” (v. 9) and shame for Edom will be just retribution for Edom’s violence and slaughter against her brother’s people.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 11–14 The charge of v. 10 is here amplified: 1) they “stood aloof,” withholding assistance (v. 11); 2) they rejoiced over Judah’s downfall (v. 12; cf. Ps. 83:4–6; 137:4–6); 3) they plundered the city (Obad. 13); and 4) they prevented the escape of her fugitives (v. 14).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 15 day of the Lord. God’s near judgment of Edom in history (vv. 1–14) was a preview of his far judgment on all nations (vv. 15–16) who refuse to bow to his sovereignty (cf. discussion of “day of the Lord” in Introduction to Joel).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 16 my holy mountain. Zion, referring to Jerusalem (cf. v. 17). drink and swallow. Compare Zech. 12:2, where the Lord will make his people as a “cup of staggering” from which his enemies will be made to drink. This refers to the cup of God’s wrath. Judah drank temporarily of judgment, Edom will drink “continually.”

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 17 A reversal of Judah’s plight in vv. 10–14 will come about when Messiah intercedes and establishes his millennial kingdom and holiness prevails.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 18–20 Those of Judah who remain (v. 14) will be divinely empowered to “consume” (v. 18) and completely wipe out the “house of Esau” (cf. Isa. 11:14; 34:5–17). When Messiah sets up his kingdom, the boundaries of the Davidic and Solomonic kingdoms will once again expand to include that promised to Jacob in his dream at Bethel (Gen. 28:14), which reaffirmed God’s promise to Abraham (cf. Gen. 12). This would include the south (mountains of Esau); the west (Philistia); the north (Ephraim . . . Samaria); and the east (Gilead).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 18 house of Jacob . . . house of Joseph. Representatives of Abraham’s descendants.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 20 Canaanites. Those peoples who occupied the land before the exodus. Zarephath. Also known as Sarepta (cf. Luke 4:26), this town was located on the Phoenician coast between Tyre and Sidon. Sepharad. Not mentioned elsewhere in the Bible, the location is uncertain. Most rabbis identify it with Spain; others have suggested Sparta or Sardis.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 21 Saviors shall go up . . . to rule. Just as the Lord raised up judges to deliver his people (cf. Neh. 9:27), so will he establish similar leaders to help rule in the millennial kingdom (cf. 1 Cor. 6:2; Rev. 20:4). the kingdom shall be the Lord’s. When the nations are judged in the day of the Lord, he will then set up his millennial kingdom, a theocracy in which he rules his people directly on earth (Zech. 14:4–9; Rev. 11:15).

Introduction to Jonah

Title

Following the lead of the Hebrew Masoretic text (MT), the title of the book is derived from the principal character, Jonah (meaning “dove”), the son of Amittai (1:1). Both the Septuagint (lxx) and the Latin Vulgate (Vulgate) ascribe the same name.

Author and Date

The book makes no direct claim regarding authorship. Throughout the book, Jonah is repeatedly referred to in the third person, causing some to search for another author. It was not an uncommon OT practice, however, to write in the third person (e.g., Ex. 11:3; 1 Sam. 12:11). Furthermore, the autobiographical information revealed within its pages clearly points to Jonah as the author. The firsthand accounts of such unusual events and experiences would be best recounted from the hand of Jonah himself. Nor should the introductory verse suggest otherwise, since other prophets such as Hosea, Joel, Micah, Zephaniah, Haggai, and Zechariah have similar openings.

According to 2 Kings 14:25, Jonah came from Gath-hepher near Nazareth. The context places him during the long and prosperous reign of Jeroboam II (c. 793–753 B.C.), making him a prophet to the northern tribes just prior to Amos during the first half of the eighth century B.C., c. 760 B.C. The Pharisees were wrong when they said “no prophet arises from Galilee” (John 7:52), because Jonah was a Galilean. An unverifiable Jewish tradition says Jonah was the son of the widow of Zarephath whom Elijah raised from the dead (1 Kings 17:8–24).

Background and Setting

As a prophet to the 10 northern tribes of Israel, Jonah shares a background and setting with Amos. The nation enjoyed a time of relative peace and prosperity. Both Syria and Assyria were weak, allowing Jeroboam II to enlarge the northern borders of Israel to where they had been in the days of David and Solomon (2 Kings 14:23–27). Spiritually, however, it was a time of poverty; religion was ritualistic and increasingly idolatrous, and justice had become perverted. Peacetime and wealth had made her bankrupt spiritually, morally, and ethically (cf. 2 Kings 14:24; Amos 4:1ff.; 5:10–13). As a result, God was to punish her by bringing destruction and captivity from the Assyrians in 722 B.C. Nineveh's repentance may have been aided by the two plagues (765 and 759 B.C.) and a solar eclipse (763 B.C.), preparing them for Jonah's judgment message.

Historical and Theological Themes

Jonah, though a prophet of Israel, is not remembered for his ministry in Israel, which could explain why the Pharisees erringly claimed in Jesus' day that no prophet had come from Galilee (cf. John 7:52). Rather, the book relates the account of his call to preach repentance to Nineveh and his refusal to go. Nineveh, the capital of Assyria and infamous for its cruelty, was a historical nemesis of Israel and Judah. The focus of this book is on that Gentile city, which was founded by Nimrod, great-grandson of Noah (Gen. 10:6–12). Perhaps the largest city in the ancient world (Jonah 1:2; 3:2–3; 4:11), it was nevertheless destroyed about 150 years after the repentance of the generation in the time of Jonah's visit (612 B.C.), as Nahum prophesied (Nah. 1:1ff.). Israel's political distaste for Assyria, coupled with a sense of spiritual superiority as the recipient of God's covenant blessing, produced a recalcitrant attitude in Jonah toward God's request for missionary service. Jonah was sent to Nineveh in part to shame Israel by the fact that a pagan city repented at the preaching of a stranger, whereas Israel would not repent though preached to by many prophets. He was soon to learn that God's love and mercy extends to all of his creatures (Jonah 4:2, 10–11), not just his covenant people (cf. Gen. 9:27; 12:3; Lev. 19:33–34; 1 Sam. 2:10; Isa. 2:2; Joel 2:28–32).

The book of Jonah reveals God's sovereign rule over man and all creation. Creation came into being through him (Jonah 1:9) and responds to his every command (1:4, 17; 2:10; 4:6–7; cf. Mark 4:41). Jesus employed the repentance of the Ninevites to rebuke the Pharisees, thereby illustrating the hardness of the Pharisees' hearts and their unwillingness to repent (Matt. 12:38–41; Luke 11:29–32). The heathen city of Nineveh repented at the preaching of a reluctant prophet, but the Pharisees would not repent at the preaching of the greatest of all prophets, in spite of overwhelming evidence that he was actually their Lord and Messiah. Jonah is a picture of Israel, who was chosen and commissioned by God to be his witness (Isa. 43:10–12; 44:8), who rebelled against his will (Ex. 32:1– 4; Judg. 2:11–19; Ezek. 6:1–5; Mark 7:6–9), but who has been miraculously preserved by God through centuries of exile and dispersion to finally preach his truth (Jer. 30:11; 31:35–37; Hos. 3:3–5; Rev. 7:1–8; 14:1–3).

Interpretive Challenges

The primary challenge is whether the book is to be interpreted as historical narrative or as allegory/parable. The grand scale of the miracles, such as being kept alive three days and nights in a big fish, has led some skeptics and critics to deny their historical validity and substitute spiritual lessons, either to the constituent parts (allegory) or to the book as a whole (parable). But however grandiose and miraculous the events may have been, the narrative must be viewed as historical. Centered on a historically identifiable OT prophet who lived in the eighth century B.C., the account of whom has been recorded in narrative form, there is no alternative but to understand Jonah as historical. Furthermore, Jesus did not teach the story of Jonah as a parable but as an actual account firmly rooted in history (Matt. 12:38–41; 16:4; Luke 11:29–32).

Jonah Flees the Presence of the LORD

JONAH 1 † Now the word of the LORD came to Jonah the son of Amittai, saying, † “Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and call out against it, for their evil [1] has come up before me.” † But Jonah rose to flee to Tarshish from the presence of the LORD. He went down to Joppa and found a ship going to Tarshish. So he paid the fare and went on board, to go with them to Tarshish, away from the presence of the LORD.

† But the LORD hurled a great wind upon the sea, and there was a mighty tempest on the sea, so that the ship threatened to break up. † Then the mariners were afraid, and each cried out to his god. And they hurled the cargo that was in the ship into the sea to lighten it for them. But Jonah had gone down into the inner part of the ship and had lain down and was fast asleep. † So the captain came and said to him, “What do you mean, you sleeper? Arise, call out to your god! Perhaps the god will give a thought to us, that we may not perish.”

Jonah Is Thrown into the Sea

† And they said to one another, “Come, let us cast lots, that we may know on whose account this evil has come upon us.” So they cast lots, and the lot fell on Jonah. † Then they said to him, “Tell us on whose account this evil has come upon us. What is your occupation? And where do you come from? What is your country? And of what people are you?” † And he said to them, “I am a Hebrew, and I fear the LORD, the God of heaven, who made the sea and the dry land.” † Then the men were exceedingly afraid and said to him, “What is this that you have done!” For the men knew that he was fleeing from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them.

† Then they said to him, “What shall we do to you, that the sea may quiet down for us?” For the sea grew more and more tempestuous. † He said to them, “Pick me up and hurl me into the sea; then the sea will quiet down for you, for I know it is because of me that this great tempest has come upon you.” † Nevertheless, the men rowed hard [2] to get back to dry land, but they could not, for the sea grew more and more tempestuous against them. † Therefore they called out to the LORD, “O LORD, let us not perish for this man's life, and lay not on us innocent blood, for you, O LORD, have done as it pleased you.” <sup>15</sup>† So they picked up Jonah and hurled him into the sea, and the sea ceased from its raging. <sup>16</sup>† Then the men feared the LORD exceedingly, and they offered a sacrifice to the LORD and made vows.

A Great Fish Swallows Jonah

<sup>17</sup>† [3] And the LORD appointed [4] a great fish to swallow up Jonah. And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

Jonah's Prayer

JONAH 2 †Then Jonah prayed to the LORD his God from the belly of the fish, ‡saying, “I called out to the LORD, out of my distress, and he answered me; out of the belly of Sheol I cried, and you heard my voice.

‡For you cast me into the deep, into the heart of the seas, and the flood surrounded me; all your waves and your billows passed over me.

‡Then I said, ‘I am driven away from your sight; yet I shall again look upon your holy temple.’

‡The waters closed in over me to take my life; the deep surrounded me; weeds were wrapped about my head †at the roots of the mountains.

I went down to the land whose bars closed upon me forever; yet you brought up my life from the pit, O LORD my God.

‡When my life was fainting away, I remembered the LORD, and my prayer came to you,
into your holy temple.

‡Those who pay regard to vain idols forsake their hope of steadfast love.

‡But I with the voice of thanksgiving will sacrifice to you;
what I have vowed I will pay.

Salvation belongs to the LORD!”

‡And the LORD spoke to the fish, and it vomited Jonah out upon the dry land.

Jonah Goes to Nineveh

JONAH 3 † Then the word of the LORD came to Jonah the second time, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and call out against it the message that I tell you.” <sup>3</sup>† So Jonah arose and went to Nineveh, according to the word of the LORD. Now Nineveh was an exceedingly great city, [1] three days' journey in breadth. [2] <sup>4</sup>† Jonah began to go into the city, going a day's journey. And he called out, “Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown!” <sup>5</sup>† And the people of Nineveh believed God. They called for a fast and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them to the least of them.

The People of Nineveh Repent

<sup>10</sup>† When God saw what they did, how they turned from their evil way, God relented of the disaster that he had said he would do to them, and he did not do it.

Jonah's Anger and the LORD's Compassion

JONAH 4 ‡But it displeased Jonah exceedingly, [1] and he was angry. <sup>2</sup>And he prayed to the LORD and said, “O LORD, is not this what I said when I was yet in my country? That is why I made haste to flee to Tarshish; for I knew that you are a gracious God and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love, and relenting from disaster. <sup>3</sup>‡Therefore now, O LORD, please take my life from me, for it is better for me to die than to live.” <sup>4</sup>And the LORD said, “Do you do well to be angry?”

<sup>5</sup>Jonah went out of the city and sat to the east of the city and made a booth for himself there. He sat under it in the shade, till he should see what would become of the city. <sup>6</sup>‡Now the LORD God appointed a plant [2] and made it come up over Jonah, that it might be a shade over his head, to save him from his discomfort. [3] So Jonah was exceedingly glad because of the plant. <sup>7</sup>But when dawn came up the next day, God appointed a worm that attacked the plant, so that it withered. <sup>8</sup>‡When the sun rose, God appointed a scorching east wind, and the sun beat down on the head of Jonah so that he was faint. And he asked that he might die and said, “It is better for me to die than to live.” <sup>9</sup>But God said to Jonah, “Do you do well to be angry for the plant?” And he said, “Yes, I do well to be angry, angry enough to die.” <sup>10</sup>‡And the LORD said, “You pity the plant, for which you did not labor, nor did you make it grow, which came into being in a night and perished in a night. <sup>11</sup>And should not I pity Nineveh, that great city, in which there are more than 120,000 persons who do not know their right hand from their left, and also much cattle?”

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:1 Jonah the son of Amittai. Jonah’s name is Hebrew for “dove,” while that of his father means “truthful” or “loyal.”

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:2 Arise, go to Nineveh. While other prophets prophesied against Gentile nations, this is the only case of a prophet actually being sent to a foreign nation to deliver God’s message against them. This was for the salvation of that city and for the shame and jealousy of Israel, as well as a rebuke to the reluctance of the Jews to bring Gentiles to the true God. Nineveh, which dates back to Nimrod (Gen. 10:11), was located on the banks of the Tigris River approximately 500 miles northeast of Israel. It was always one of Assyria’s royal cities and for many years served as the capital. The name Nineveh is thought to derive from “ninus,” i.e., Nimrod, and means the residence of Nimrod or “nunu” (Akkadian for “fish”). The people worshiped the fish goddess Nanshe (the daughter of Ea, the goddess of fresh water) and Dagon the fish god who was represented as half man and half fish. that great city. Nineveh was great both in size (Jonah 3:3) and in power, exerting significant influence over the Middle East until her destruction by Nebuchadnezzar in 612 B.C. It was possibly the largest city in the world at this time. According to historians, magnificent walls almost 8 miles long enveloped the inner city, with the rest of the city/district occupying an area with a circumference of some 60 miles. Its population could have approached 600,000 (cf. 4:11). their evil has come up before me. Nineveh was the center of idolatrous worship of Assur and Ishtar. A century later, Nahum pronounced doom upon Assyria for her evil ways and cruelty (Nah. 3), which was carried out by Nebuchadnezzar in 612 B.C.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:3 But Jonah rose to flee to Tarshish. This is the only recorded instance of a prophet refusing God’s commission (cf. Jer. 20:7–9). The location of Tarshish, known for its wealth (Ps. 72:10; Jer. 10:9; Ezek. 27:12, 25), is uncertain. The Greek historian Herodotus identified it with Tartessus, a merchant city in southern Spain. The prophet went as far west in the opposite direction as possible, showing his reluctance to bring salvation blessing to Gentiles. from the presence of the Lord. While no one can escape from the Lord’s omnipresence (Ps. 139:7–12), it is thought that the prophet was attempting to flee his manifest presence in the temple at Jerusalem (cf. Gen. 4:16; Jonah 2:4). Joppa. Joppa (today Jaffa), located on the Mediterranean coast near the border of Judah and Samaria, was also the location of Peter’s vision in preparation for his visit to Cornelius, a Gentile (Acts 10).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:4 a great wind. This is not an ordinary storm, but an extreme one sent (“hurled”) from God. Sailors, accustomed to storms, were afraid of this one (v. 5), a fear that served God’s purpose (cf. Ps. 104:4).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:7 cast lots. The last resort is to ascertain whose guilt has caused such divine anger. God could reveal his will by controlling the lots, which he did. This method of discernment by casting lots, the exact procedure of which is not known, was not forbidden in Israel (cf. Prov. 16:33; Josh. 7:14ff.; 15:1; 1 Sam. 14:36–45; Acts 1:26).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:9 I am a Hebrew. Jonah identified himself by the name that Israelites used among Gentiles (cf. 1 Sam. 4:6, 9; 14:11). the Lord, the God of heaven. This title, in use from earliest times (Gen. 24:3, 7), may have been specifically chosen by Jonah to express the sovereignty of the Lord in contrast to Baal, who was a sky god (cf. 1 Kings 18:24). Spoken to sailors who were most likely from Phoenicia, the center of Baal worship, the title bears significant weight, especially when coupled with the phrase “who made the sea and the dry land.” This was the appropriate identification when introducing the true and living God to pagans who didn’t have Scripture, but whose reason led them to recognize the fact that there had to be a Creator (cf. Rom. 1:18–23). To begin with creation, as in Acts 14:14–17 and 17:23b–29, was the proper starting point.

To evangelize Jews, one can begin with the OT Scripture.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:11–12 Unwilling to go to Nineveh and feeling guilty, Jonah was willing to sacrifice himself in an effort to save the lives of others. Apparently, he would rather have died than go to Nineveh.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:13–14 Heathen sailors had more concern for one man than Jonah had for tens of thousands in Nineveh. The storm, Jonah’s words, and the lots all indicated to the sailors that the Lord was involved; thus they offered sacrifices to him and made vows, indicating Jonah had told them more about God than is recorded here.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:15 the sea ceased. This was similar to Christ’s quieting the storm on the Sea of Galilee (cf. Matt. 8:23–27).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:17 a great fish. The species of fish is uncertain; the Hebrew word for whale is not here employed. God sovereignly prepared (lit., “appointed”) a great fish to rescue Jonah. Apparently Jonah sank into the depth of the sea before the fish swallowed him (cf. 2:3, 5–6). three days and three nights. See note on Matt. 12:40.

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:1–9 Jonah acknowledged God’s sovereignty (vv. 1–3) and submitted to it (vv. 4–9).

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:2 the belly of Sheol. The phrase does not necessarily indicate that Jonah actually died. “Sheol” frequently has a hyperbolic meaning in contexts where it denotes a catastrophic condition near death (Ps. 30:3). Later Jonah expressed praise for his deliverance “from the pit” (Jonah 2:6), speaking of his escape from certain death.

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:3 In describing his watery experience, Jonah acknowledged that his circumstances were judgment from the Lord.

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:4 I am driven away from your sight. In 1:3, Jonah ran from the Lord’s presence; here he realizes that the Lord has temporarily expelled him.

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:5 take my life. Lit., “soul.” This describes Jonah’s total person—both physically and spiritually (cf. v. 7).

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:9 I have vowed. Jonah found himself in the same position as the mariners: offering sacrifices and making vows (cf. 1:16). In light of 3:1–4, Jonah’s vow could well have been to carry out God’s ministry will for him by preaching in Nineveh (Ps. 50:14; 66:13–14).

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:10 the Lord spoke. Just as God calls the stars by name (Isa. 40:26; cf. Ps. 147:4), so he speaks to his creation in the animal world (cf. Num. 22:28–30). Most likely, Jonah was vomited upon the shore near Joppa.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:1–2 Gracious in giving Jonah a second chance, God again commissioned him to go to Nineveh. Jonah is the only prophet actually sent by God to preach repentance in a foreign land.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:3 an exceedingly great city, three days’ journey. Lit., “a great city to God,” the text emphasizes not only its size (cf. 1:2) but its importance (cf. 4:11). A metropolitan city the size of Nineveh, with a circumference of about 60 miles, would require three days just to get around it. These dimensions are confirmed by historians. Stopping to preach would only add to the time requirement.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:4 Yet forty days. The time frame may harken back to Moses’ supplication for 40 days and nights at Sinai (Deut. 9:18, 25). Jonah’s message, while short, accomplishes God’s intended purpose.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:5 the people . . . believed God. Jonah’s experience with the fish (2:1–10), in light of the Ninevites’ pagan beliefs (see note on 1:2), certainly gained him an instant hearing. From the divine side, this wholesale repentance was a miraculous work of God. Pagan sailors and a pagan city responded to the reluctant prophet, showing the power of God in spite of the weakness of his servant.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:6 The king of Nineveh, thought to be either Adad-nirari III (c. 810–783) or Assur-dan III (c. 772–755), exchanged his royal robes for sackcloth and ashes (cf. Job 42:6; Isa. 58:5). Reports of Jonah’s miraculous fish experience may have preceded him to Nineveh, accounting for the swift and widespread receptivity of his message (cf. Jonah 1:2). It is generally believed that acid from the fish’s stomach would have bleached Jonah’s face, thus validating the experience.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:7–9 man and beast. It was a Persian custom to use animals in mourning ceremonies.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:10 God saw . . . God relented. See notes on 2 Sam. 24:16; Jer. 42:10 (cf. Jer. 18:7–8). The Ninevites truly repented.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:1–2 Jonah, because of his rejection of Gentiles and distaste for their participation in salvation, was displeased at God’s demonstration of mercy towards the Ninevites, thereby displaying the real reason for his original flight to Tarshish. From the very beginning, Jonah had clearly understood the gracious character of God (cf. 1 Tim. 2:4; 2 Pet. 3:9). He had received pardon, but didn’t want Nineveh to know God’s mercy (cf. a similar attitude in Luke 15:25ff.).

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:3 it is better for me to die than to live. Perhaps Jonah was expressing the reality of breaking his vow (2:9) to God a second time (cf. Num. 30:2; Eccles. 5:1–6).

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:6 a plant. The identity is uncertain, but it possibly could be the fast-growing castor oil plant, which in hot climates grows rapidly to give shade with its large leaves.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:8 scorching east wind. A hot, scorching wind, normally called “sirocco,” blowing off the Arabian desert. The shelter Jonah made for himself (v. 5) would not exclude this agent of God’s sovereignty.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:10–11 God’s love for the people of Nineveh, whom he had created, is far different from Jonah’s indifference to their damnation and greater than Jonah’s warped concern for a wild plant for which he had done nothing. God was ready to spare Sodom for 10 righteous; how much more a city that includes 120,000 small children, identified as those who cannot discern the right hand from the left (cf. Gen. 18:22–23). With that many three-or four-year-old children, it is reasonable to expect a total population in excess of 600,000.

Introduction to Micah

Title

The name of the book is derived from the prophet who, having received the word of the Lord, was commissioned to proclaim it. Micah, whose name is shared by others in the OT (e.g., Judg. 17:1; 2 Chron. 13:2; Jer. 36:11), is a shortened form of Micaiah (or Michaiah) and means “Who is like the Lord?” In Mic. 7:18, Micah uses a play on his own name, saying “Who is a God like you?”

Author and Date

The first verse establishes Micah as the author. Beyond that, little is known about him. His parentage is not given, but his name suggests a godly heritage. He traces his roots to the town of Moresheth (1:1, 14), located in the foothills of Judah, approximately 25 miles southwest of Jerusalem, on the border of Judah and Philistia, near Gath. From a productive agricultural area, he was like Amos, a country resident removed from the national politics and religion, yet chosen by God (3:8) to deliver a message of judgment to the princes and people of Jerusalem.

Micah places his prophecy during the reigns of Jotham (750–731 B.C.), Ahaz (731–715 B.C.), and Hezekiah (715–686 B.C.). His indictments of social injustices and religious corruption renew the theme of Amos (mid-eighth century B.C.) and his contemporaries, Hosea in the north (c. 755–710 B.C.) and in the south Isaiah (c. 739–690 B.C.). This fits what is known about the character of Ahaz (2 Kings 16:10–18) and his son Hezekiah prior to his sweeping spiritual reforms (2 Chron. 29; 31:1). His references to the imminent fall of Samaria (Mic. 1:6) clearly position him before 722 B.C., at approximately 735–710 B.C.

Background and Setting

Because the northern kingdom was about to fall to Assyria during Micah’s ministry in 722 B.C., Micah dates his message with the mention of Judean kings only. While Israel was an occasional recipient of his words (cf. 1:5–7), his primary attention was directed toward the southern kingdom in which he lived.

The economic prosperity and the absence of international crises that marked the days of Jeroboam II (793–753 B.C.), during which the borders of Judah and Israel rivaled those of David and Solomon (cf. 2 Kings 14:23–27), were slipping away. Syria and Israel invaded Judah, taking the wicked Ahaz temporarily captive (cf. 2 Chron. 28:5–16; Isa. 7:1–2). After Assyria had overthrown Syria and Israel, the good king Hezekiah withdrew his allegiance to Assyria, causing Sennacherib to besiege Jerusalem in 701 B.C. (cf. 2 Kings 18–19; 2 Chron. 32). The Lord then sent his angel to deliver Judah (2 Chron. 32:21). Hezekiah was used by God to lead Judah back to true worship.

After the prosperous reign of Uzziah, who died in 739 B.C., his son Jotham continued the same policies, but failed to remove the centers of idolatry. Outward prosperity was only a facade masking rampant social corruption and religious syncretism. Worship of the Canaanite fertility god Baal was increasingly integrated with the OT sacrificial system, reaching epidemic proportions under the reign of Ahaz (cf. 2 Chron. 28:1–4). When Samaria fell, thousands of refugees swarmed into Judah, bringing their religious syncretism with them. But while Micah (like Hosea) addressed this issue, it was the disintegration of personal and social values to which he delivered his most stinging rebukes and stern warnings (e.g., Mic. 7:5–6). Assyria was the dominant power and a constant threat to Judah, so Micah's prediction that Babylon, then under Assyrian rule, would conquer Judah (4:10) seemed remote. Thus, as the prophet Amos was to Israel, Micah was to Judah.

Historical and Theological Themes

Primarily, Micah proclaimed a message of judgment to a people persistently pursuing evil. Similar to other prophets (cf. Hos. 4:1; Amos 3:1), Micah presented his message in lawsuit/courtroom terminology (Mic. 1:2; 6:1–2). The prophecy is arranged in three oracles or cycles, each beginning with the admonition to “hear” (1:2; 3:1; 6:1). Within each oracle, he moves from doom to hope—doom because they have broken God's law given at Sinai; hope because of God's unchanging covenant with their forefathers (7:20). One third of the book targets the sins of his people; another third looks at the punishment of God to come; and another third promises hope for the faithful after the judgment. Thus, the theme of the inevitability of divine judgment for sin is coupled together with God's immutable commitment to his covenant promises. The combination of God's 1) absolute consistency in judging sin and 2) unbending commitment to his covenant through the remnant of his people provides the hearers with a clear disclosure of the character of the Sovereign of the universe. Through divine intervention, he will bring about both judgment on sinners and blessing on those who repent.

Interpretive Challenges

The verbal similarity between Mic. 4:1–3 and Isa. 2:2–4 raises the question of who quoted whom. Interpreters are divided, with no clear-cut answers on either side. Because the two prophets lived in close proximity to each other, prophesying during the same period, this similarity is understandable. God gave the same message through two preachers. The introductory phrase, “in the latter days” (Mic. 4:1), removes these verses from any postexilic fulfillment and requires an eschatological timeframe surrounding the second advent of Christ and the beginning of the millennium.

Apart from Isa. 2:2–4, three other passages from Micah are quoted elsewhere in Scripture. Micah 3:12 is quoted in Jer. 26:18, thereby saving Jeremiah’s life from King Jehoiakim’s death sentence. Micah 5:2 is quoted by the chief priests and scribes (Matt. 2:6) in response to Herod’s query about the birthplace of the Messiah. Micah 7:6 is employed by Jesus in Matt. 10:35–36 when commissioning his disciples.

Micah

MICAHA 1 † The word of the LORD that came to Micah of Moresheth in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

The Coming Destruction

2 † Hear, you peoples, all of you; [\[1\]](#) pay attention, O earth, and all that is in it, and let the Lord GOD be a witness against you, the Lord from his holy temple.

3 † For behold, the LORD is coming out of his place, and will come down and tread upon the high places of the earth.

4 And the mountains will melt under him, and the valleys will split open, like wax before the fire, like waters poured down a steep place.

5 † All this is for the transgression of Jacob and for the sins of the house of Israel.

What is the transgression of Jacob?

Is it not Samaria?

And what is the high place of Judah?

Is it not Jerusalem?

6 † Therefore I will make Samaria a heap in the open country, a place for planting vineyards, and I will pour down her stones into the valley and uncover her foundations.

7 † All her carved images shall be beaten to pieces, all her wages shall be burned with fire, and all her idols I will lay waste, for from the fee of a prostitute she gathered them, and to the fee of a prostitute they shall return.

8 † For this I will lament and wail; I will go stripped and naked; I will make lamentation like the jackals, and mourning like the ostriches.

9 † For her wound is incurable, and it has come to Judah; it has reached to the gate of my people, to Jerusalem.

10 † Tell it not in Gath; weep not at all; in Beth-le-aphrah roll yourselves in the dust.

11 † Pass on your way, inhabitants of Shaphir, in nakedness and shame;

the inhabitants of Zaanan do not come out;
the lamentation of Beth-ezel shall take away from you its standing place.

<sup>12</sup>† For the inhabitants of Maroth wait anxiously for good, because disaster has come down from the LORD to the gate of Jerusalem.

<sup>13</sup>† Harness the steeds to the chariots, inhabitants of Lachish; it was the beginning of sin to the daughter of Zion, for in you were found the transgressions of Israel.

<sup>14</sup>† Therefore you shall give parting gifts [\[2\]](#) to Moresheth-gath;

the houses of Achzib shall be a deceitful thing to the kings of Israel.

<sup>15</sup>† I will again bring a conqueror to you, inhabitants of Mareshah; the glory of Israel shall come to Adullam.

<sup>16</sup>† Make yourselves bald and cut off your hair, for the children of your delight; make yourselves as bald as the eagle, for they shall go from you into exile.

Woe to the Oppressors

MICAHAH 2 †† Woe to those who devise wickedness and work evil on their beds!

When the morning dawns, they perform it, because it is in the power of their hand.

† They covet fields and seize them, and houses, and take them away; they oppress a man and his house, a man and his inheritance.

† Therefore thus says the LORD: behold, against this family I am devising disaster, [\[1\]](#) from which you cannot remove your necks, and you shall not walk haughtily, for it will be a time of disaster.

† In that day they shall take up a taunt song against you and moan bitterly, and say, “We are utterly ruined; he changes the portion of my people; how he removes it from me!

To an apostate he allots our fields.”

† Therefore you will have none to cast the line by lot in the assembly of the LORD.

†† “Do not preach”—thus they preach— “one should not preach of such things; disgrace will not overtake us.”

† Should this be said, O house of Jacob?

Has the LORD grown impatient? [\[2\]](#)

Are these his deeds?

Do not my words do good to him who walks uprightly?

† But lately my people have risen up as an enemy; you strip the rich robe from those who pass by trustingly with no thought of war. [\[3\]](#)

† The women of my people you drive out from their delightful houses; from their young children you take away my splendor forever.

† Arise and go, for this is no place to rest, because of uncleanness that destroys with a grievous destruction.

† If a man should go about and utter wind and lies, saying, “I will preach to you of wine and strong drink,” he would be the preacher for this people!

†† I will surely assemble all of you, O Jacob; I will gather the remnant of Israel; I will set them together like sheep in a fold, like a flock in its pasture, a noisy multitude of men.

<sup>13</sup>He who opens the breach goes up before them; they break through and pass the gate, going out by it.

Their king passes on before them, the LORD at their head.

Rulers and Prophets Denounced

MICAH 3 †And I said: Hear, you heads of Jacob and rulers of the house of Israel!

Is it not for you to know justice?— <sup>2</sup>you who hate the good and love the evil, who tear the skin from off my people [\[1\]](#) and their flesh from off their bones, <sup>3</sup>who eat the flesh of my people, and flay their skin from off them, and break their bones in pieces

and chop them up like meat in a pot, like flesh in a cauldron.

<sup>4</sup>Then they will cry to the LORD, but he will not answer them; he will hide his face from them at that time, because they have made their deeds evil.

<sup>5</sup>†Thus says the LORD concerning the prophets who lead my people astray, who cry “Peace”

when they have something to eat, but declare war against him who puts nothing into their mouths.

<sup>6</sup>Therefore it shall be night to you, without vision, and darkness to you, without divination.

The sun shall go down on the prophets, and the day shall be black over them; <sup>7</sup>the seers shall be disgraced, and the diviners put to shame;
they shall all cover their lips,
for there is no answer from God.

<sup>8</sup>†But as for me, I am filled with power, with the Spirit of the LORD, and with justice and might, to declare to Jacob his transgression and to Israel his sin.

<sup>9</sup>†Hear this, you heads of the house of Jacob and rulers of the house of Israel, who detest justice and make crooked all that is straight, <sup>10</sup>who build Zion with blood and Jerusalem with iniquity.

<sup>11</sup>Its heads give judgment for a bribe; its priests teach for a price; its prophets practice divination for money; yet they lean on the LORD and say, “Is not the LORD in the midst of us?

No disaster shall come upon us.”

<sup>12</sup>†Therefore because of you Zion shall be plowed as a field; Jerusalem shall become a heap of ruins, and the mountain of the house a wooded height.

The Mountain of the LORD

MICAHAH 4 †† It shall come to pass in the latter days that the mountain of the house of the LORD shall be established as the highest of the mountains, and it shall be lifted up above the hills; and peoples shall flow to it,
‡and many nations shall come, and say: “Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, to the house of the God of Jacob, that he may teach us his ways and that we may walk in his paths.”
For out of Zion shall go forth the law, [\[1\]](#) and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
‡He shall judge between many peoples, and shall decide for strong nations far away; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore; ‡but they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree, and no one shall make them afraid, for the mouth of the LORD of hosts has spoken.
‡For all the peoples walk each in the name of its god, but we will walk in the name of the LORD our God forever and ever.

The LORD Shall Rescue Zion

‡In that day, declares the LORD, I will assemble the lame and gather those who have been driven away and those whom I have afflicted;
‡and the lame I will make the remnant, and those who were cast off, a strong nation; and the LORD will reign over them in Mount Zion from this time forth and forevermore.
‡And you, O tower of the flock, hill of the daughter of Zion, to you shall it come, the former dominion shall come, kingship for the daughter of Jerusalem.
‡Now why do you cry aloud?
Is there no king in you?
Has your counselor perished, that pain seized you like a woman in labor?

<sup>10</sup>Writhe and groan, [2] O daughter of Zion, like a woman in labor, for now you shall go out from the city and dwell in the open country;
you shall go to Babylon.

There you shall be rescued;

there the LORD will redeem you from the hand of your enemies.

<sup>11</sup>‡ Now many nations are assembled against you, saying, “Let her be defiled, and let our eyes gaze upon Zion.”

<sup>12</sup>But they do not know the thoughts of the LORD; they do not understand his plan, that he has gathered them as sheaves to the threshing floor.

<sup>13</sup>‡ Arise and thresh, O daughter of Zion, for I will make your horn iron, and I will make your hoofs bronze;

you shall beat in pieces many peoples; and shall devote [3] their gain to the LORD, their wealth to the Lord of the whole earth.

The Ruler to Be Born in Bethlehem

MICAHAH 5 † [1] Now muster your troops, O daughter [2] of troops; siege is laid against us; with a rod they strike the judge of Israel on the cheek.

<sup>2</sup>†† [3] But you, O Bethlehem Ephrathah, who are too little to be among the clans of Judah, from you shall come forth for me one who is to be ruler in Israel, whose coming forth is from of old,

from ancient days.

<sup>3</sup>† Therefore he shall give them up until the time when she who is in labor has given birth; then the rest of his brothers shall return to the people of Israel.

<sup>4</sup>† And he shall stand and shepherd his flock in the strength of the LORD, in the majesty of the name of the LORD his God.

And they shall dwell secure, for now he shall be great to the ends of the earth.

When the Assyrian comes into our land and treads in our palaces, then we will raise against him seven shepherds and eight princes of men;

<sup>6</sup>† they shall shepherd the land of Assyria with the sword, and the land of Nimrod at its entrances; and he shall deliver us from the Assyrian when he comes into our land and treads within our border.

A Remnant Shall Be Delivered

nor wait for the children of man.

<sup>8</sup> And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the nations, in the midst of many peoples, like a lion among the beasts of the forest, like a young lion among the flocks of sheep, which, when it goes through, treads down and tears in pieces, and there is none to deliver.

<sup>9</sup>† Your hand shall be lifted up over your adversaries, and all your enemies shall be cut off.

<sup>10</sup>† And in that day, declares the LORD, I will cut off your horses from among you and will destroy your chariots;

<sup>11</sup>† and I will cut off the cities of your land and throw down all your strongholds; <sup>12</sup>and I will cut off sorceries from your hand, and you shall have no more tellers of fortunes; <sup>13</sup>and I will cut off your carved images and your pillars from among you, and you shall bow down no more to the work of your hands;

<sup>14</sup>and I will root out your Asherah images from among you and destroy your cities.

<sup>15</sup>And in anger and wrath I will execute vengeance on the nations that did not obey.

The Indictment of the LORD

MICAHAH 6 †† Hear what the LORD says: Arise, plead your case before the mountains, and let the hills hear your voice.
‡ Hear, you mountains, the indictment of the LORD, and you enduring foundations of the earth, for the LORD has an indictment against his people, and he will contend with Israel.
‡ “O my people, what have I done to you?
How have I wearied you? Answer me!
‡ For I brought you up from the land of Egypt and redeemed you from the house of slavery, and I sent before you Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.
‡ O my people, remember what Balak king of Moab devised, and what Balaam the son of Beor answered him, and what happened from Shittim to Gilgal, that you may know the saving acts of the LORD.”

What Does the LORD Require?

‡ “With what shall I come before the LORD, and bow myself before God on high?
Shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves a year old?
‡ Will the LORD be pleased with [\[1\]](#) thousands of rams, with ten thousands of rivers of oil?
Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?”
‡ He has told you, O man, what is good; and what does the LORD require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, [\[2\]](#) and to walk humbly with your God?

Destruction of the Wicked

‡† The voice of the LORD cries to the city— and it is sound wisdom to fear your name:
“Hear of the rod and of him who appointed it! [\[3\]](#)
‡ Can I forget any longer the treasures [\[4\]](#) of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure that is accursed?
‡ Shall I acquit the man with wicked scales and with a bag of deceitful weights?

<sup>12</sup>Your [5] rich men are full of violence; your inhabitants speak lies, and their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

<sup>13</sup>Therefore I strike you with a grievous blow, making you desolate because of your sins.

<sup>14</sup>You shall eat, but not be satisfied, and there shall be hunger within you;
you shall put away, but not preserve, and what you preserve I will give to the sword.

<sup>15</sup>You shall sow, but not reap; you shall tread olives, but not anoint yourselves with oil; you shall tread grapes, but not drink wine.

<sup>16</sup>†For you have kept the statutes of Omri, [6] and all the works of the house of Ahab; and you have walked in their counsels, that I may make you a desolation, and your [7] inhabitants a hissing; so you shall bear the scorn of my people.”

Wait for the God of Salvation

- MICAH 7 † Woe is me! For I have become as when the summer fruit has been gathered, as when the grapes have been gleaned: there is no cluster to eat, no first-ripe fig that my soul desires.
- <sup>2</sup>The godly has perished from the earth, and there is no one upright among mankind; they all lie in wait for blood, and each hunts the other with a net.
- <sup>3</sup>Their hands are on what is evil, to do it well; the prince and the judge ask for a bribe, and the great man utters the evil desire of his soul; thus they weave it together.
- <sup>4</sup>The best of them is like a brier, the most upright of them a thorn hedge. The day of your watchmen, of your punishment, has come; now their confusion is at hand.
- <sup>5</sup>Put no trust in a neighbor; have no confidence in a friend; guard the doors of your mouth from her who lies in your arms; [\[1\]](#)
- <sup>6</sup>for the son treats the father with contempt, the daughter rises up against her mother, the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law; a man's enemies are the men of his own house.
- <sup>7</sup>† But as for me, I will look to the LORD; I will wait for the God of my salvation; my God will hear me.
- <sup>8</sup>‡ Rejoice not over me, O my enemy; when I fall, I shall rise; when I sit in darkness, the LORD will be a light to me.
- <sup>9</sup>I will bear the indignation of the LORD because I have sinned against him, until he pleads my cause and executes judgment for me. He will bring me out to the light; I shall look upon his vindication.
- <sup>10</sup>† Then my enemy will see, and shame will cover her who said to me, “Where is the LORD your God?” My eyes will look upon her; now she will be trampled down like the mire of the streets.
- <sup>11</sup>‡ A day for the building of your walls!

In that day the boundary shall be far extended.
<sup>12</sup>In that day they [2] will come to you, from Assyria and the cities of Egypt, and from Egypt to the River, from sea to sea and from mountain to mountain.
<sup>13</sup>But the earth will be desolate because of its inhabitants, for the fruit of their deeds.
<sup>14</sup>‡ Shepherd your people with your staff, the flock of your inheritance, who dwell alone in a forest in the midst of a garden land; [3] let them graze in Bashan and Gilead as in the days of old.
<sup>15</sup>‡ As in the days when you came out of the land of Egypt, I will show them [4] marvelous things.
<sup>16</sup>The nations shall see and be ashamed of all their might; they shall lay their hands on their mouths; their ears shall be deaf; <sup>17</sup>they shall lick the dust like a serpent, like the crawling things of the earth; they shall come trembling out of their strongholds; they shall turn in dread to the LORD our God, and they shall be in fear of you.

God's Steadfast Love and Compassion

<sup>18</sup>‡‡ Who is a God like you, pardoning iniquity and passing over transgression for the remnant of his inheritance?
He does not retain his anger forever, because he delights in steadfast love.
<sup>19</sup>He will again have compassion on us; he will tread our iniquities underfoot.
You will cast all our [5] sins into the depths of the sea.
<sup>20</sup>‡ You will show faithfulness to Jacob and steadfast love to Abraham, as you have sworn to our fathers from the days of old.

Study Notes

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:1 Moreseth. Located southwest of Jerusalem, near the Philistine city of Gath (cf. 1:14).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:2–7 The prophet summons all the nations (v. 2) of the world into court to hear charges against Samaria and Judah (vv. 5–7; cf. Isa. 3:13–14). Their destruction was to be a warning example to the nations, prefiguring God’s judgment on all who sin against him. As an omnipotent Conqueror, the Sovereign over all creation is assured of victory (Mic. 1:3–4).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:2 his holy temple. Context points to God’s heavenly throne (cf. Ps. 11:4; Isa. 6:1, 4).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:3–4 high places . . . mountains. These could refer to key military positions, so crucial to Israel’s defense, or to the pagan places of worship in the land (cf. v. 5). When fortifications disappeared like melted wax, people were gripped by the terrifying reality that they were to answer to the Judge of all the earth (Gen. 18:25; Amos 4:12–13).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:3 the Lord is coming . . . down. A warning of impending divine judgment by One who sits in the ultimate High Place.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:5 Samaria . . . Jerusalem. The two capitals of Israel and Judah, here representative of their respective nations.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:6–7 The Lord spoke directly of the fall of Samaria at the hands of the Assyrians (c. 722 B.C.).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:7 fee of a prostitute. Centers of idolatry were financed primarily through payments of money, food, and clothing (cf. Gen. 38:17–18; Ezek. 16:10–11; Hos. 2:8–9; 3:1) to cultic prostitutes, who were strictly forbidden in Israel (Deut. 23:17–18). Precious gold and silver, taken from Israel’s temples, was used by the Assyrian invaders for their own idol worship.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:8–16 The judgment was so grave that even the prophet lamented as he traced the enemy’s irreversible (v. 9) invasion.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:9 the gate of my people. Assyria, under Sennacherib, came close to toppling Judah in 701 B.C. (cf. 2 Kings 18:13–27). It is best to see “my” in reference to Micah, not God, contra. some translations.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:10–15 Eleven towns west of Jerusalem are mentioned, some with a play on words.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:10 Tell it not in Gath. Reflective of David’s dirge at Saul’s death (cf. 2 Sam. 1:20), Micah admonished them not to tell the Philistines, lest they would be glad and rejoice. Micah, because of the location of his upbringing, knew how they would react.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:11 Zaanan do not come out. These inhabitants, in danger and fear, would not go out to console their neighbors who had been overrun.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:12 disaster has come down. This points to the Lord as the source of judgment (cf. vv. 3–4).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:13 Lachish . . . sin to the daughter of Zion. Located southwest of Jerusalem, Lachish was a key military fortress whose “sin” was dependence on military might.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:14 give parting gifts. As parting gifts were given to brides (cf. 1 Kings 9:16), this was a symbol of the departure of Moresheth-gath into captivity.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:15 glory of Israel . . . Adullam. The people of Israel (i.e., her “glory”; cf. Hos. 9:11–13) were to flee to the caves, as David did to the cave at Adullam (2 Sam. 23:13).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:16 Make yourselves bald. Priests were forbidden to make themselves bald (Lev. 21:5), nor were the people to imitate the heathen practice of doing so (Deut. 14:1). But here it would be acceptable as a sign of deep mourning (Ezra 9:3; Job 1:20; Isa. 22:12; Ezek. 7:18).

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:1–11 As ch. 1 denounced sin against God; ch. 2 denounces sin against man. In 2:1–5, Micah decried the corrupt practices of the affluent; in vv. 6–11 he attacked the false prophets and those who would silence the true prophets.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:1–2 The courtroom scene continues, with the accusations being read against the affluent: they had violated the tenth commandment (Ex. 20:17; cf. 22:26; 23:4–9). The poor, unable to defend themselves, were at the mercy of the wealthy.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:2 his inheritance. Property in Israel was ultimately to be permanent (Lev. 25:10, 13; Num. 36:1–12; cf. 1 Kings 21).

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:3–5 As a result of sin, God would allow foreign invaders to divide their land; none of them would have the inheritance apportioned to them. As the rich took from the poor, so God would take back that which he gave as judgment on the nation.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:6–11 False prophets, commanding Micah to cease prophesying, would certainly not prophesy against the people’s evil doing; they would not confront them with the divine standard of holiness. Rather, their false message (v. 7) had stopped the mouths of the true prophets and had permitted the rulers to engage in social atrocities (vv. 8–9), leading the people to destruction (v. 10). They didn’t want true prophecies; therefore, they got what they wanted (cf. Isa. 30:10). It is best to understand that Micah speaks in Mic. 2:6 and God in vv. 7–11.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:6 Do not preach. The true prophet was accused of childish babbling, when the real babblers were the false prophets (cf. v. 11).

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:7 Lord. God responded to the evil prophets that their message affirming sin in the nation was inconsistent with the Holy Spirit and his true message to Micah (cf. 3:8). God’s words do reward the righteous, but they also rebuke those engaging in evil deeds.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:9 women of my people. Most likely a reference to widows.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:11 The people accepted any “prophet” who would tailor his message to their greed, wealth, and prosperity.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:12–13 Messiah will make ready the way, removing the obstacles that might hinder his remnant’s deliverance and return at the second advent (cf. Isa. 11:15–16; 52:12).

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:12 remnant. Cf. 4:7; 5:7–8; 7:18. See note on Isa. 10:20.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:1–4 In beginning the second oracle, Micah first addressed Israel’s corrupt rulers, as in 2:1–2, who should be aware of injustice. Yet their conduct toward the poor was like the butchering of animals (3:2–3). Therefore, when judgment came and they cried for help, God didn’t answer (v. 4).

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:5–7 False prophets (cf. 2:6–11) also stood guilty before the Judge because they misled the people, prophesying peace when they were fed, but predicting war when they were not (3:5). Like the rulers, they too were motivated by greed. Therefore, having blinded others, they would be struck with blindness and silence (vv. 6–7).

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:8 Micah, in contrast to the false prophets, spoke by the power of God’s Holy Spirit (cf. 2:7). Therefore his message was authoritative and true.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:9–12 All ruling classes are guilty: rulers judged for reward (vv. 9–11a), priests taught for hire (v. 11b), prophets divined for money (v. 11c). All the while, they were self-deceived into thinking the Lord would give them favor because they identified themselves with him. Consequently, the nation would be destroyed (fulfilled by Nebuchadnezzar in 586 B.C.).

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:12 Cf. Jer. 26:18.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:1–3 Cf. Isa. 2:2–4.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:1 In a reversal of 3:12, Micah shifted from impending judgment to prophecies of the future millennial kingdom (“the latter days”) in which Mount Zion (4:2), the center of Messiah’s coming earthly kingdom, shall be raised both spiritually and physically (cf. Zech. 14:9–10). This discussion continues to Mic. 5:15.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:2 many nations. People throughout the earth, not just Israel, will come as a spontaneous “flow” (cf. v. 1) to worship the Lord in Jerusalem during the millennium (cf. Zech. 8:20–23).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:3 beat their swords into plowshares. Because the Almighty One is ruling in Jerusalem with a rod of iron (cf. Rev. 2:27; 12:5; 19:15), and because of the unprecedented fruitfulness of the land (cf. Amos 9:13), military hardware will no longer be needed.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:4 under his vine . . . fig tree. Once employed as a description of the peaceful era of Solomon (cf. 1 Kings 4:25), this phrase looks forward to greater peace and prosperity in the millennium (cf. Zech. 3:10).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:5 Even if all others were walking after other gods at the present, the godly remnant of Israel would no longer pursue other gods but would walk after the true God in the millennial kingdom (cf. Josh. 24:15).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:6–8 Micah continued to describe the wonderful conditions of the coming earthly kingdom of Messiah. Repeating the figure of sheep (cf. 2:12–13), the “tower of the flock” depicted the city of Jerusalem, the future dwelling place of Messiah, as watching over the people.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:7 forevermore. The Hebrew term does not always mean “without end,” but signifies a long, indefinite period of time, the length of which is always determined by the context. Here it refers to the 1,000-year reign of Messiah on earth (cf. Rev. 20).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:9–10 Judah will be taken captive to Babylon (vv. 9–10a), but the Lord will release them from there (v. 10b), by the edict of Persian king Cyrus (c. 538 B.C.), allowing them to return to Jerusalem (cf. Ezra 1:2–4).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:11–13 Micah switched again to the time of the second advent. The gathering of “many nations” and “many peoples” depicts that future battle of Armageddon (Zech. 12; 14). In that day, the Lord will empower his people (cf. Mic. 5:7–9; Isa. 11:14; Zech. 14:14).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:13 horn iron . . . hoofs bronze. Using the figurative language of an animal with metal features, the Lord looked to a day when Israel will permanently defeat their enemies.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:1 strike the judge of Israel. A reference to the capture of King Zedekiah at the hands of Babylon in 586 B.C. (cf. 2 Kings 24–25).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:2–4 This passage looked forward to Christ’s first advent (5:2), an intervening time (5:3a), and beyond to the second advent (5:3b–4).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:2 Bethlehem Ephrathah. The town south of Jerusalem that was the birthplace of David and later Jesus Christ (1 Samuel 16; Matt. 2:5; Luke 2:4–7). The name Bethlehem means “house of bread” because the area was a grain-producing region in OT times. The name Ephrathah (“fruitful”) differentiates it from the Galilean town by the same name. The town, known for her many vineyards and olive orchards, was small in size but not in honor. from of old, from ancient days. This speaks of eternal God’s incarnation in the person of Jesus Christ. It points to his millennial reign as King of kings (cf. Isa. 9:6).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:3 give them up. A reference to the interval between Messiah’s rejection at his first advent and his second advent, during the times of the Gentiles when Israel rejects Christ and is under the domination of enemies. Regathering of the “remainder of his brethren” did not occur at the first advent but is slated for the second advent (cf. Isa. 10:20–22; 11:11–16). Nor can “return” speak of Gentiles, since it cannot be said that they “returned” to the Lord. Rather, the context of Mic. 5:3–4 is millennial and cannot be made to fit the first advent. Thus, “she who is in labor” must denote the nation of Israel (cf. Rev. 12:1–6).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:4 The millennial rule of Christ, sitting upon the throne of David (cf. Isa. 6:13).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:5–6 Assyrian. Assyria, God’s instrument against Israel (722 B.C.) and Judah (Sennacherib’s siege in 701 B.C.) is here used as a representative of enemy nations in opposition to the Lord.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:5 seven . . . eight. An idiom for a full and sufficient number of leaders, more than enough for the task (cf. Eccles. 11:2).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:6 Nimrod. A reference to Assyria (cf. Gen. 10:11) that could possibly also include Babylon (cf. Gen. 10:10).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:7–9 Israel’s presence in the midst of many peoples would be to some a source of blessing (cf. Zech. 8:22–23); to others, she would be like a lion—a source of fear and destruction (cf. Isa. 11:14; Zech. 12:2–3, 6; 14:14).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:9 all your enemies. This absolute and complete peace has never yet been experienced by Israel. This points to the millennial kingdom when the Prince of Peace shall reign, having conquered the nations (cf. v. 15).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:10 in that day. The future kingdom is in view. Israel had been forbidden the use of cavalry (Deut. 17:16), lest they trust in earthly forces, rather than God (1 Kings 10:26, 28). God will remove all implements in which they trust so the people, stripped of all human resources, rest only on him. War instruments will have no place in that time of peace.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:11–14 cut off the cities . . . strongholds. Continuing the thought from v. 10, fortified cities were designed for defense; their strength tempted people to put their trust in them rather than in God alone (cf. 1:13; Ps. 27:1; Hos. 10:13–14). People will live in peace in unwalled villages (Ezek. 38:11). The cities are also associated with centers of pagan worship (Mic. 5:14; cf. Deut. 16:21), the worship of Asherah (Canaanite goddess of fertility and war). All forms of self-reliance in war and idolatrous worship will be removed so that the nation must rely solely on Christ their King for deliverance and worship him alone.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:1 Micah opens this third cycle of oracles (6:1–7:20) with a dramatic courtroom motif moving back and forth between three speakers: the Lord pleading his case, the people responding under conviction, and the prophet as the lawyer for the plaintiff.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:1–2 The Lord commanded Micah (v. 1), as his advocate, to plead his case before the mountains and hills, which were to act as witnesses against his people (cf. Deut. 4:25–26; Isa. 1:2). The mountains and hills were present at Sinai when the Lord made his covenant with Israel and when the commandments were written and placed in the ark of the covenant as a permanent witness (cf. Deut. 31:26).

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:3–5 This was the Lord's appeal. With tenderness and emotion, the divine Plaintiff recalled his many gracious acts toward them, almost to the point of assuming the tone of a defendant. Noting their trek from bondage in Egypt to their own homeland, God had provided leadership (v. 4), reversed the attempts of Balaam to curse the people (v. 5a; cf. Num. 22–24), and miraculously parted the Jordan River (Mic. 6:5b) so they could cross over from Shittim, located east of the Jordan, to Gilgal on the west side near Jericho. God had faithfully kept all his promises to them.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:6–7 Micah, as though speaking on behalf of the people, asked rhetorically how, in light of God's faithfulness toward them, they could continue their hypocrisy by being outwardly religious but inwardly sinful.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:8 Micah's terse response (v. 8) indicated they should have known the answer to the rhetorical question. Spiritual blindness had led them to offer everything except the one thing he wanted—a spiritual commitment of the heart from which right behavior would ensue (cf. Deut. 10:12–19; Matt. 22:37–39). This theme is often represented in the OT (cf. 1 Sam. 15:22; Isa. 1:11–20; Jer. 7:21–23; Hos. 6:6; Amos 5:15).

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:9–16 The Lord was sending judgment; God himself had appointed the time and instrument to punish his people. The Lord spoke, noting that their corrupt deeds perpetrated on the poor were still continuing, in spite of his warnings and discipline (vv. 10–12). Therefore, a severe judgment was coming (vv. 13–15); it would happen to them just as it did to their northern neighbor, Israel (v. 16) when led by the counsel of wicked kings.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:9 Hear. Listen for the description of the coming punishment (cf. vv. 13–15; Isa. 10:5, 24).

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:16 statutes of Omri. C. 885–874 B.C. He was the founder of Samaria and of Ahab's wicked house as well as a supporter of Jeroboam's superstitions (cf. 1 Kings 16:16–28). works of the house of Ahab. Cf. 1 Kings 21:25–26 (c. 874–853 B.C.).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:1–6 Micah lamented the circumstances of his day. In his vain search for an upright person (cf. v. 2), he compared himself to the vinedresser who enters his vineyard late in the season and finds no fruit. The leaders conspired together to get what they wanted (v. 3). No one could be trusted (vv. 5–6). Christ used v. 6 as an illustration when he commissioned the twelve (Matt. 10:1, 35–36).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:1 Woe is me! Micah sounded like Isaiah (cf. Isa. 6:5).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:7 In spite of his dire circumstances, Micah, as a watchman (cf. v. 4), would intently look for evidence of God's working, trusting God to act in his own time and way (cf. Hab. 3:16–19).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:8–10 Israel confessed her faith in the Lord, warning her enemies that she will rise again (vv. 8, 10). She confessed her sin, acknowledging the justice of God's punishment and anticipating his restoration.

God's Forgiveness of Sin

God's Forgiveness of Sin
1. God removes our sins as far as the east is from the west ( Ps. 103:12 )
2. God completely cleanses us from the stain of our sins ( Isa. 1:18 )
3. God throws our sins behind his back ( Isa. 38:17 )
4. God remembers our sins no more ( Jer. 31:34 )
5. God treads our sins underfoot ( Mic. 7:19 )
6. God casts our sins into the depths of the sea ( Mic. 7:19 )

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:10 Where is the Lord your God? Cf. Ps. 42:3, 10; Matt. 27:43.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:11–13 Micah again spoke, recounting the many blessings awaiting the faithful remnant in Messiah's millennial rule. It would include unprecedented expansion (cf. Zech. 2:1–5) and massive infusion of immigrants (cf. Isa. 11:15–16). For those who defied Messiah's millennial rulership, their land would become desolate (Mic. 7:13; cf. Zech. 14:16–19).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:14–17 Micah petitioned the Lord (v. 14) to shepherd, feed, and protect his people like a flock (cf. Ps. 23). The Lord answered, reiterating that he would demonstrate his presence and power among them as he did in the exodus from Egypt (Mic. 7:15). As a result (cf. v. 10), the vaunted pride and power of the nations would be rendered powerless (cf. Josh. 2:9–11) and, having been humbled (Mic. 7:17), they would no longer listen to or engage in the taunting of his people (v. 16b; cf. Gen. 12:3; Isa. 52:15).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:15 marvelous things. These miracles will be fulfilled in God's judgment on the earth which precedes the second advent of Messiah (cf. Rev. 6–19).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:18–20 In response to the gracious, forgiving character displayed toward Israel by their Master, the repentant remnant of the people extolled his incomparable grace and mercy (cf. Ps. 130:3–4).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:18 Who is a God like you . . . ? Micah began this final section with a play on words involving his name. See Introduction: Title.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:20 sworn to our fathers. In spite of Israel's unfaithfulness to God, the Lord intends to fulfill his unconditional promises in the Abrahamic Covenant made with Abraham and confirmed with Isaac and Jacob (cf. Gen. 12; 15; 17; 22; 26; 28; 35). When enacted in conjunction with the Davidic Covenant, Israel will again be restored as a people and a nation to the land originally promised to Abraham. Jesus Christ, the ultimate descendant of David, will rule from Jerusalem over the world as King of kings and Lord of lords (cf. Rev. 17:14; 19:16).

Introduction to Nahum

Title

The book's title is taken from the prophet of God's oracle against Nineveh, the capital of Assyria. Nahum means "comfort" or "consolation" and is a short form of Nehemiah ("comfort of Yahweh"). Nahum is not quoted in the NT, although there may be an allusion to Nah. 1:15 in Rom. 10:15 (cf. Isa. 52:7).

Author and Date

The significance of the writing prophets was not their personal lives; it was their message. Thus, background information about the prophet from within the prophecy is rare. Occasionally one of the historical books will shed additional light. In the case of Nahum, nothing is provided except that he was an Elkoshite (1:1), referring either to his birthplace or his place of ministry. Attempts to identify the location of Elkosh have been unsuccessful. Suggestions include Al Qosh, situated in northern Iraq (thus Nahum would have been a descendant of the exiles taken to Assyria in 722 B.C.), Capernaum ("town of Nahum"), or a location in southern Judah (cf. 1:15). His birthplace or locale is not significant to the interpretation of the book.

With no mention of any kings in the introduction, the date of Nahum's prophecy must be implied by historical data. The message of judgment against Nineveh portrays a nation of strength, intimating a time not only prior to her fall in 612 B.C. but probably before the death of Ashurbanipal in 626 B.C., after which Assyria's power fell rapidly. Nahum's mention of the fall of Thebes (3:8–10), in 663 B.C. (at the hands of Ashurbanipal) appears to be fresh in their minds and there is no mention of the rekindling that occurred ten years later, suggesting a mid-seventh-century-B.C. date during the reign of Manasseh (c. 695–642 B.C.; cf. 2 Kings 21:1–18).

Background and Setting

A century after Nineveh repented at the preaching of Jonah, she returned to idolatry, violence, and arrogance (3:1–4). Assyria was at the height of her power, having recovered from Sennacherib's defeat (701 B.C.) at Jerusalem (cf. Isa. 37:36–38). Her borders extended all the way into Egypt. Esarhaddon had recently transplanted conquered peoples into Samaria and Galilee in 670 B.C. (cf. 2 Kings 17:24; Ezra 4:2), leaving Syria and Palestine very weak. But God brought Nineveh down under the rising power of Babylon's king Nabopolassar and his son, Nebuchadnezzar (c. 612 B.C.). Assyria's demise turned out just as God had prophesied.

Historical and Theological Themes

Nahum forms a sequel to the book of Jonah, who prophesied over a century earlier. Jonah recounts the remission of God's promised judgment toward Nineveh, while Nahum depicts the later execution of God's judgment. Nineveh was proud of her invulnerable city, with her walls reaching 100 feet high and with a moat 150 feet wide and 60 feet deep; but Nahum established the fact that the sovereign God (Nah. 1:2–5) would bring vengeance upon those who violated his law (1:8, 14; 3:5–7). The same God had a retributive judgment against evil which is also redemptive, bestowing his loving kindnesses upon the faithful (cf. 1:7, 12–13, 15; 2:2). The prophecy brought comfort to Judah and all who feared the cruel Assyrians. Nahum said Nineveh would end "with an overflowing flood" (1:8); and it happened when the Tigris River overflowed to destroy enough of the walls to let the Babylonians through. Nahum also predicted that the city would be hidden (3:11). After its destruction in 612 B.C., the site was not rediscovered until 1842 A.D.

Interpretive Challenges

Apart from the uncertain identity of Elkosh (cf. Introduction: Author and Date), the prophecy presents no real interpretive difficulties. The book is a straightforward prophetic announcement of judgment against Assyria and her capital Nineveh for cruel atrocities and idolatrous practices.

Nahum

NAHUM 1 † An oracle concerning Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum of Elkosh.

God's Wrath Against Nineveh

<sup>2</sup>††† The LORD is a jealous and avenging God; the LORD is avenging and wrathful; the LORD takes vengeance on his adversaries and keeps wrath for his enemies.

<sup>3</sup>† The LORD is slow to anger and great in power, and the LORD will by no means clear the guilty.

His way is in whirlwind and storm, and the clouds are the dust of his feet.

<sup>5</sup>† The mountains quake before him; the hills melt; the earth heaves before him, the world and all who dwell in it.

<sup>6</sup>† Who can stand before his indignation?

Who can endure the heat of his anger?

His wrath is poured out like fire, and the rocks are broken into pieces by him.

<sup>7</sup>† The LORD is good, a stronghold in the day of trouble; he knows those who take refuge in him.

<sup>8</sup>† But with an overflowing flood he will make a complete end of the adversaries, [\[1\]](#) and will pursue his enemies into darkness.

<sup>9</sup>†† What do you plot against the LORD?

He will make a complete end; trouble will not rise up a second time.

<sup>10</sup> For they are like entangled thorns, like drunkards as they drink; they are consumed like stubble fully dried.

<sup>12</sup>†† Thus says the LORD, “Though they are at full strength and many, they will be cut down and pass away.

Though I have afflicted you,
I will afflict you no more.

<sup>13</sup>And now I will break his yoke from off you and will burst your bonds apart.”

<sup>14</sup>† The LORD has given commandment about you: “No more shall your name be perpetuated; from the house of your gods I will cut off the carved image and the metal image.

I will make your grave, for you are vile.”

<sup>15</sup>† [2] Behold, upon the mountains, the feet of him who brings good news, who publishes peace!

Keep your feasts, O Judah; fulfill your vows, for never again shall the worthless pass through you; he is utterly cut off.

The Destruction of Nineveh

NAHUM 2 †† The scatterer has come up against you.

Man the ramparts;

watch the road;

dress for battle; [\[1\]](#) collect all your strength.

<sup>3</sup>† The shield of his mighty men is red; his soldiers are clothed in scarlet.

The chariots come with flashing metal on the day he musters them; the cypress spears are brandished.

<sup>4</sup>† The chariots race madly through the streets; they rush to and fro through the squares; they gleam like torches;

they dart like lightning.

<sup>5</sup>† He remembers his officers; they stumble as they go, they hasten to the wall;

the siege tower [\[2\]](#) is set up.

<sup>7</sup>† its mistress [\[3\]](#) is stripped; [\[4\]](#) she is carried off, her slave girls lamenting, moaning like doves and beating their breasts.

<sup>8</sup>† Nineveh is like a pool whose waters run away. [\[5\]](#)

“Halt! Halt!” they cry, but none turns back.

<sup>9</sup>† Plunder the silver, plunder the gold!

There is no end of the treasure or of the wealth of all precious things.

<sup>10</sup>† Desolate! Desolation and ruin!

Hearts melt and knees tremble; anguish is in all loins;

all faces grow pale!

<sup>11</sup>† Where is the lions' den, the feeding place of the young lions, where the lion and lioness went, where his cubs were, with none to disturb?

<sup>12</sup>† The lion tore enough for his cubs and strangled prey for his lionesses; he filled his caves with prey and his dens with torn flesh.

<sup>13</sup>† Behold, I am against you, declares the LORD of hosts, and I will burn your [\[6\]](#) chariots in smoke, and the sword shall devour your young lions. I will cut off your prey from the earth, and the voice of your messengers shall no longer be heard.

Woe to Nineveh

- NAHUM 3 †† Woe to the bloody city, all full of lies and plunder— no end to the prey!
- <sup>2</sup>† The crack of the whip, and rumble of the wheel, galloping horse and bounding chariot!
- <sup>3</sup> Horsemen charging, flashing sword and glittering spear, hosts of slain, heaps of corpses, dead bodies without end— they stumble over the bodies!
- <sup>4</sup>† And all for the countless whorings of the prostitute, graceful and of deadly charms, who betrays nations with her whorings, and peoples with her charms.
- <sup>5</sup>† Behold, I am against you, declares the LORD of hosts, and will lift up your skirts over your face; and I will make nations look at your nakedness and kingdoms at your shame.
- <sup>6</sup> I will throw filth at you and treat you with contempt and make you a spectacle.
- <sup>7</sup>† And all who look at you will shrink from you and say, Wasted is Nineveh; who will grieve for her?
Where shall I seek comforters for you?
- <sup>8</sup>† Are you better than Thebes [\[1\]](#) that sat by the Nile, with water around her, her rampart a sea, and water her wall?
- <sup>9</sup>† Cush was her strength; Egypt too, and that without limit; Put and the Libyans were her [\[2\]](#) helpers.
- <sup>10</sup> Yet she became an exile; she went into captivity; her infants were dashed in pieces at the head of every street; for her honored men lots were cast, and all her great men were bound in chains.
- <sup>11</sup>† You also will be drunken; you will go into hiding; you will seek a refuge from the enemy.
- <sup>12</sup>† All your fortresses are like fig trees with first-ripe figs— if shaken they fall into the mouth of the eater.
- <sup>13</sup> Behold, your troops are women in your midst.

The gates of your land are wide open to your enemies; fire has devoured your bars.
<sup>14</sup>‡ Draw water for the siege; strengthen your forts; go into the clay;
tread the mortar;
take hold of the brick mold!
<sup>15</sup> There will the fire devour you; the sword will cut you off.
It will devour you like the locust.
Multiply yourselves like the locust; multiply like the grasshopper!
<sup>16</sup>‡ You increased your merchants more than the stars of the heavens.
The locust spreads its wings and flies away.
<sup>17</sup>‡ Your princes are like grasshoppers, your scribes [3] like clouds of locusts settling on the fences in a day of cold—when the sun rises, they fly away; no one knows where they are.
<sup>18</sup>‡‡ Your shepherds are asleep, O king of Assyria; your nobles slumber.
Your people are scattered on the mountains with none to gather them.
<sup>19</sup> There is no easing your hurt; your wound is grievous.
All who hear the news about you clap their hands over you.
For upon whom has not come your unceasing evil?

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:1 oracle. The prophecy is a message of doom. Nahum was only the messenger of this divine oracle of judgment on Nineveh.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:2–15 The destruction of Nineveh was announced.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:2–8 Nahum, defining God’s power in general, establishes the fact that he is omnipotent, a holy and jealous God who will punish the wicked and avenge his own.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:2 jealous. This attribute, often used of God’s burning zeal for his wife, Israel, emphasizes his passionate reaction against anyone guilty of spiritual adultery. Possibly the captivity of the 10 northern tribes (722 B.C.) or the invasion of Sennacherib (701 B.C.) is in view here.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:3 slow to anger. The jealousy of v. 2 should not suggest that God is quick to anger; rather he is longsuffering (cf. Ex. 34:6; Num. 14:18). God had extended his forbearance to Nineveh at least a century earlier in response to their repentance at Jonah’s preaching (cf. Jonah 3:10; 4:2). But although patient, his justice will eventually punish the wicked. whirlwind . . . storm . . . clouds. These figures frequently describe the Lord’s appearances (theophanies), often in judgment (cf. Ex. 19:9, 16; Ps. 83:15; Isa. 29:6; Joel 2:2; 1 Thess. 4:17). Nature is the theater in which his power and majesty are showcased.

5. Isa. 31:8–9	10. Zeph. 2:13–15 NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:4 His mighty power is revealed when he rebukes the sea, as in the crossing of the Red Sea (Ex. 14:15–25) and when he withholds his rain from the fertile valleys and coastal highlands. Bashan . . . Carmel . . . Lebanon. Bashan, located below Mount Hermon, east of the Jordan was known for her lush pastures (Mic. 7:14). Carmel, along the coast of Canaan, became synonymous with fruitfulness (Song 7:5). Lebanon was renowned for her beautiful cedars (1 Kings 5:14–18). Yet, they too would wither before the infinite strength of the omnipotent Judge.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:5 The violent shaking of the earth provides another evidence of the Lord’s awesome power, as even that which seems to be most stable trembles.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:6 This series of rhetorical questions summarizes vv. 2–5; his power and resolve to spew his wrath on Nineveh is irresistible, melting all opposition before it.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:7 In contrast to v. 6, Nahum eased the fury by adding that God was compassionate, a stronghold or fortress (cf. Ps. 46:1) to those who put their hope in him (cf. Isa. 33:2–4; 37:3–7, 29–38). The verse foreshadowed the vindication of Judah in Nah. 1:12b–13, 15; 2:2.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:8 flood . . . darkness. Nahum described Nineveh’s judgment metaphorically as an engulfing flood and darkness from which none can escape.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:9–15 Having established God’s power and sovereign right to judge generally, Nahum announced specifically God’s judgment upon Nineveh, interweaving expressions of blessing and hope for Israel within the oracles of doom upon the wicked nation. The sovereign Judge not only punishes (vv. 9–12a, 14) but also saves (vv. 12b–13, 15).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:9 What do you plot. All Assyrian attempts to foil God’s judgment would end in futility (cf. Ps. 2). Their affliction of his people would not be allowed to occur again (cf. Nah. 1:12). Their end was determined.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:11 worthless counselor. The phrase, lit., “counselor of Belial,” suggests satanic influence on the leadership, identified as the king of Assyria (cf. 3:18). Specific reference could be to Ashurbanipal (669–633 B.C.) or more likely to Sennacherib (705–681 B.C.), who invaded Judah in 701 B.C. and of whom Isaiah speaks in similar language (Isa. 10:7).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:12 Thus says the Lord. Used as a common prophetic formula introducing God’s unequivocal message, it occurs only here in the book. Verse 12a is related in the third person, denoting the enemy, while in v. 12b the chosen people of God are spoken of in the second person. The safety of a walled city and massive numbers (“many”) would not be a sufficient defense. “Though” harkens back to vv. 7–10.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:12b–13 I will afflict you no more. Judah was to be no longer afflicted by Assyria.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:14 Three judgments were pronounced. First, the king of Assyria, representing the nation, would become destitute of descendants. Second, the gods by which they received their authority would be destroyed. Third, the king would be put to death (cf. the fall of Nineveh in 612 B.C.).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:15 mountains . . . feet. The verse echoes Isa. 52:7, where it refers to those who announced deliverance from Babylon. The theme of good tidings and peace reverberates throughout the message of the NT (cf. Luke 2:10; Isa. 61:1 with Luke 4:16–21; Rom. 10:15; Eph. 2:14–18). feasts. During a siege, people were prevented from going up to Jerusalem to celebrate her annual feasts (cf. Num. 28–29). With the destruction of Assyria, Judah was called upon to celebrate her feasts and to pay the vows made while under siege (cf. Ps. 116:14, 17–18).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:1–13 Nineveh’s fall in 612 B.C. at the hands of Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, though still future in Nahum’s day, is described vividly in present tense terms.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:1 scatterer. Assyria had made a practice of dispersing captives to many nations; now she would receive similar judgment. Man . . . watch . . . strength. The prophet, with irony and satire, ordered the Assyrians to prepare for the coming invasion from Babylon.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:2 majesty of Jacob . . . Israel. This is not a reference to the southern and northern tribes, since the northern tribes had been overrun by Assyria almost a century earlier; but these are titles of honor for Judah, remembering the day when Jacob received God's blessing at Peniel (Gen. 32:27–28) and had his name changed to Israel. Together, they signify the nation's restoration to the promised position. plunderers have plundered them. Assyria had repeatedly "plundered" the land, destroying its fruitful vineyards and economic lifeblood.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:3 shield . . . is red. Shields were either overlaid with copper, whose reflections of sunshine would make the army appear larger and strike terror in the enemy, or they were covered with hide that was dyed red, so as to extinguish fiery arrows and to minimize the sight of blood. "Scarlet" clothing would have similar benefits. spears are brandished. Warriors, denoting their eagerness and readiness for battle, would wave their weapons.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:4 Confusion reigned in Nineveh, where battle preparations were hurriedly made.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:5 they hasten to the wall. This may continue the thought of v. 4, depicting Nineveh's royalty and military leaders dashing to one of her many defense towers which, according to the Greek historian Diodorus Siculus, numbered 1,500 and reached a height of 200 feet. It is also possible that the latter part of the verse is a description of the attackers preparing to erect a "siege tower," a small fortress type box in which soldiers rode for protection as they advanced to the wall.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:6 river gates. Nineveh, lying at the confluence of three rivers (the Tigris and two smaller rivers), constructed dams to minimize the damage of seasonal flooding to her walls. The latter part of v. 6 suggests that these dam gates were opened, causing the walls to be dissolved and the palace to be taken (cf. Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes; 1:8).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:7 she is carried off. The goddess of Nineveh, probably Ishtar, was taken by her attackers to demonstrate the superiority of their gods (cf. 1 Sam. 4:1–11). The temple prostitutes ("slave girls") mourned the fate of their goddess.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:8 pool. Though Nineveh was like an oasis in the desert that attracted many people, they fled from the devastation.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:9 Plunder. Spoils abounded in Nineveh, but it was her turn to be plundered.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:10 Hearts melt. The great city of Nineveh, lying in ruin, evoked fear and terror in those who observed it (cf. Dan. 5:6).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:11–13 Where is . . . ? Archeologists have found a carving from a palace showing an Assyrian king on a lion hunt. Nahum rhetorically asks where Nineveh has gone. No longer describing Nineveh's fall, the prophet taunted her, ridiculing her fall from power and glory. Like a pride of lions, with plenty to eat and in fear of no enemy, Nineveh ruthlessly "tore" her prey. She herself will become prey for another nation, under the sovereign direction of God. "I am against you" should be the most feared words a nation could receive from God.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:13 burn your chariots. Nineveh, known for burning the captured cities, would receive the same fate. your messengers. The voice of the messengers who carried the edicts of the mighty king of Assyria to the captured nations would become mute.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:1–19 The prophet Nahum, asserting that the destruction of Nineveh was justly deserved, makes three charges against her (vv. 1, 4, 8–10), followed by the consequences (vv. 2–3, 5–7, 11–19).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:1 bloody city. The first accusation was a charge well documented in history. Assyria proved to be an unusually cruel, bloodthirsty nation. lies. Assyria employed falsehood and treachery to subdue her enemies (cf. 2 Kings 18:28–32). plunder. See 2:11–12. Preying upon her victims, she filled her cities with the goods of other nations.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:2–3 These verses reach back to the scene portrayed in 2:3–5. Assyria was so overrun that she is filled with corpses, causing the defenders to stumble over them.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:4 The second charge against Nineveh was spiritual and moral harlotry. The nation was likened to a beautiful prostitute who seduced the nations with her illicit enticements.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:5–6 Nineveh would be publicly exposed, resulting in shame and humiliation.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:7 Wasted is Nineveh. Instead of mourning, there would be rejoicing at her fall. None would be found to comfort her; she would bear her misery alone.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:8–10 Nahum sets forth the third and final charge against Nineveh: they hadn't learned from Thebes. Also known as No-amon, Thebes was the great capital of southern Egypt, 400 miles south of Cairo. One of the most magnificent ancient civilizations of the world, it was renowned for its 100 gates, a temple measuring 330 feet long and 170 feet wide, and its network of canals. It fell to Ashurbanipal of Assyria in 663 B.C. Like Thebes by the Nile, Nineveh was situated by the Tigris River, enjoying the security of conquered nations around her. However, her end would be like that of Thebes.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:9 Cush . . . Egypt . . . Put . . . Libyans. Thebes was well protected on all sides, nestled between lower Egypt on the north and Cush on the south. The location of Put is best identified in the general vicinity of North Africa. Josephus says that Put, the third son of Ham (Gen. 10:6), was the founder of Libya.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:11 drunken. As predicted (cf. 1:10), Nineveh would be made to drink of God's wrath, making her drunk and defenseless to his judgment.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:12–13 Nahum employed a series of metaphors to emphasize that Nineveh's strong defenses would be easily overrun. Their walls would be like ripe fruit that falls at the slightest shaking and their battle forces like weak women.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:14–15 The prophet taunted the people with sarcasm, urging them to prepare for battle, to fortify the city's defenses, only to be destroyed. As the locust leaves nothing, stripping all the foliage, so there would be nothing left of Nineveh (cf. Amos 7:1).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:16 increased your merchants. Nineveh had increased her traders, or merchants, bringing immense wealth, which is just more to destroy.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:17 locusts. Not only was Nineveh's commercial strength gone (v. 16), but her governing resources disappeared as well. After camping for the night within the massive walls of this great citadel, the locusts, depicting Assyria's leadership, flew away with the first rays of warm sunshine in search of food.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:18–19 The destiny of Nineveh was certain. She had received the death blow; she would not recover. And all who hear of it would rejoice. Assyria had devastated the nations with her atrocities and cruelties; the news of her downfall brought happiness and mirth among the nations.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:18 asleep . . . slumber. The Assyrian leaders and army, described in terms of exhaustion and sleep, were dead; the people were scattered. There were none left to help against the invasion of the Babylonians, to whom they fell in 612 B.C.

Introduction to Habakkuk

Title

This prophetic book takes its name from its author and possibly means “one who embraces” (1:1; 3:1). By the end of the prophecy, this name becomes appropriate as the prophet clings to God regardless of his confusion about God’s plans for his people.

Author and Date

As with many of the Minor Prophets, nothing is known about the prophet except what can be inferred from the book. In the case of Habakkuk, internal information is virtually nonexistent, making conclusions about his identity and life conjectural. His simple introduction as “Habakkuk the prophet” may imply that he needed no introduction since he was a well-known prophet of his day. It is certain that he was a contemporary of Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Daniel, and Zephaniah.

The mention of the Chaldeans (1:6) suggests a late seventh-century-B.C. date, shortly before Nebuchadnezzar commenced his military march through Nineveh (612 B.C.), Haran (609 B.C.), and Carchemish (605 B.C.), on his way to Jerusalem (605 B.C.). Habakkuk’s bitter lament (1:2–4) may reflect a time period shortly after the death of Josiah (609 B.C.), days in which the godly king’s reforms (cf. 2 Kings 23) were quickly overturned by his successor, Jehoiakim (Jer. 22:13–19).

Background and Setting

Habakkuk prophesied during the final days of the Assyrian Empire and the beginning of Babylon world rulership under Nabopolassar and his son Nebuchadnezzar. When Nabopolassar ascended to power in 626 B.C., he immediately began to expand his influence to the north and west. Under the leadership of his son, the Babylonian army overthrew Nineveh in 612 B.C., forcing the Assyrian nobility to take refuge first in Haran and then Carchemish. Nebuchadnezzar pursued them, overrunning Haran in 609 B.C. and Carchemish in 605 B.C.

The Egyptian king Neco, traveling through Judah in 609 B.C. to assist the fleeing Assyrian king, was opposed by King Josiah at Megiddo (2 Chron. 35:20–24). Josiah was killed in the ensuing battle, leaving his throne to a succession of three sons and a grandson. Earlier, as a result of discovering the Book of the Law in the temple (622 B.C.), Josiah had instituted significant spiritual reforms in Judah (2 Kings 22–23), abolishing many of the idolatrous practices of his father Amon (2 Kings 21:20–22) and grandfather Manasseh (2 Kings 21:11–13). Upon his death, however, the nation quickly reverted to her evil ways (cf. Jer. 22:13–19), causing Habakkuk to question God’s silence and apparent lack of punitive action (Hab. 1:2–4) to purge his covenant people.

Historical and Theological Themes

The opening verses reveal a historical situation similar to the days of Amos and Micah. Justice had essentially disappeared from the land; violence and wickedness were pervasive, existing unchecked. In the midst of these dark days, the prophet cried out for divine intervention (1:2–4). God’s response, that he was sending the Chaldeans to judge Judah (1:5–11), creates an even greater theological dilemma for Habakkuk: Why didn’t God purge his people and restore their righteousness? How could God use the Chaldeans to judge a people more righteous than they (1:12–2:1)? God’s answer that he would judge the Chaldeans also (2:2–20), did not fully satisfy the prophet’s theological quandary; in fact, it only intensified it. In Habakkuk’s mind, the issue crying for resolution is no longer God’s righteous response toward evil (or lack thereof), but the vindication of God’s character and covenant with his people (1:13). As did Job, the prophet argued with God, and through that experience he achieved a deeper understanding of God’s sovereign character and a firmer faith in him (cf. Job 42:5–6; Isa. 55:8–9). Ultimately, Habakkuk realized that God was not to be worshiped merely because of the temporal blessings he bestowed, but for his own sake (Hab. 3:17–19).

Interpretive Challenges

The queries of the prophet represent some of the most fundamental questions in all of life, with the answers providing crucial foundation stones on which to build a proper understanding of God’s character and his sovereign ways in history. The core of his message lies in the call to trust God (2:4), “the righteous shall live by his faith.” The NT references ascribe unusual importance theologically to Habakkuk. The writer of Hebrews quotes Hab. 2:4 to amplify the believer's need to remain strong and faithful in the midst of affliction and trials (Heb. 10:38). The apostle Paul, on the other hand, employs the verse twice (Rom. 1:17; Gal. 3:11) to accentuate the doctrine of justification by faith. There need not be any interpretive conflict, however, for the emphasis in both Habakkuk and the NT references goes beyond the act of faith to include the continuity of faith. Faith is not a one-time act, but a way of life. The true believer, declared righteous by God, will habitually persevere in faith throughout all his life (cf. Col. 1:22–23; Heb. 3:12–14). He will trust the sovereign God, who only does what is right.

Habakkuk

HABAKKUK 1 † The oracle that Habakkuk the prophet saw.

Habakkuk's Complaint

<sup>2</sup>††† O LORD, how long shall I cry for help, and you will not hear?

Or cry to you “Violence!”

and you will not save?

<sup>3</sup>Why do you make me see iniquity, and why do you idly look at wrong?

Destruction and violence are before me; strife and contention arise.

<sup>4</sup>† So the law is paralyzed, and justice never goes forth.

For the wicked surround the righteous; so justice goes forth perverted.

The LORD's Answer

<sup>5</sup>†† “Look among the nations, and see; wonder and be astounded.

For I am doing a work in your days that you would not believe if told.

Their horsemen come from afar;

they fly like an eagle swift to devour.

<sup>9</sup>They all come for violence, all their faces forward.

They gather captives like sand.

They laugh at every fortress, for they pile up earth and take it.

<sup>11</sup>† Then they sweep by like the wind and go on, guilty men, whose own might is their god!”

Habakkuk's Second Complaint

<sup>12</sup>†† Are you not from everlasting, O LORD my God, my Holy One?

We shall not die.

O LORD, you have ordained them as a judgment, and you, O Rock, have established them for reproof.

<sup>13</sup>† You who are of purer eyes than to see evil and cannot look at wrong, why do you idly look at traitors and remain silent when the wicked swallows up the man more righteous than he?

<sup>14</sup>‡ You make mankind like the fish of the sea, like crawling things that have no ruler.

<sup>15</sup>He brings all of them up with a hook; he drags them out with his net; he gathers them in his dragnet; so he rejoices and is glad.

<sup>17</sup>† Is he then to keep on emptying his net and mercilessly killing nations forever?

HABAKKUK 2 †I will take my stand at my watchpost and station myself on the tower, and look out to see what he will say to me, and what I will answer concerning my complaint.

The Righteous Shall Live by His Faith

<sup>2</sup>†††And the LORD answered me: “Write the vision; make it plain on tablets, so he may run who reads it.

<sup>3</sup>For still the vision awaits its appointed time; it hastens to the end—it will not lie.

If it seems slow, wait for it;
it will surely come; it will not delay.

<sup>4</sup>†“Behold, his soul is puffed up; it is not upright within him, but the righteous shall live by his faith. [1]

<sup>5</sup>†“Moreover, wine [2] is a traitor, an arrogant man who is never at rest. [3]
His greed is as wide as Sheol; like death he has never enough.

He gathers for himself all nations and collects as his own all peoples.”

Woe to the Chaldeans

<sup>6</sup>†††Shall not all these take up their taunt against him, with scoffing and riddles for him, and say, “Woe to him who heaps up what is not his own— for how long?—

and loads himself with pledges!”

<sup>7</sup>†Will not your debtors suddenly arise, and those awake who will make you tremble?

Then you will be spoil for them.

<sup>8</sup>Because you have plundered many nations, all the remnant of the peoples shall plunder you, for the blood of man and violence to the earth, to cities and all who dwell in them.

<sup>9</sup>††“Woe to him who gets evil gain for his house, to set his nest on high, to be safe from the reach of harm!

<sup>10</sup>†You have devised shame for your house by cutting off many peoples; you have forfeited your life.

<sup>14</sup>‡For the earth will be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the LORD as the waters cover the sea.

<sup>15</sup>‡“Woe to him who makes his neighbors drink— you pour out your wrath and make them drunk, in order to gaze at their nakedness!

<sup>16</sup>‡You will have your fill of shame instead of glory.

Drink, yourself, and show your uncircumcision!

The cup in the LORD's right hand will come around to you, and utter shame will come upon your glory!

<sup>17</sup>‡The violence done to Lebanon will overwhelm you, as will the destruction of the beasts that terrified them, for the blood of man and violence to the earth, to cities and all who dwell in them.

<sup>18</sup>‡“What profit is an idol when its maker has shaped it, a metal image, a teacher of lies?

For its maker trusts in his own creation when he makes speechless idols!

<sup>19</sup>‡Woe to him who says to a wooden thing, Awake; to a silent stone, Arise! Can this teach?

Behold, it is overlaid with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all in it.

<sup>20</sup>‡But the LORD is in his holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before him.”

Habakkuk's Prayer

HABAKKUK 3 ††A prayer of Habakkuk the prophet, according to Shigionoth.

<sup>2</sup>†O LORD, I have heard the report of you, and your work, O LORD, do I fear.
In the midst of the years revive it; in the midst of the years make it known;
in wrath remember mercy.

<sup>3</sup>†††God came from Teman, and the Holy One from Mount Paran.
His splendor covered the heavens, and the earth was full of his praise. Selah <sup>4</sup>His brightness was like the light; rays flashed from his hand; and there he veiled his power.

<sup>5</sup>†Before him went pestilence, and plague followed at his heels. [1]

<sup>6</sup>†He stood and measured the earth; he looked and shook the nations; then the eternal mountains were scattered; the everlasting hills sank low.
His were the everlasting ways.

<sup>7</sup>†I saw the tents of Cushan in affliction; the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble.

<sup>8</sup>††Was your wrath against the rivers, O LORD?
Was your anger against the rivers, or your indignation against the sea, when you rode on your horses,
on your chariot of salvation?

<sup>9</sup>†You stripped the sheath from your bow, calling for many arrows. [2] Selah You split the earth with rivers.

<sup>10</sup>The mountains saw you and writhed; the raging waters swept on; the deep gave forth its voice;
it lifted its hands on high.

<sup>11</sup>†The sun and moon stood still in their place at the light of your arrows as they sped, at the flash of your glittering spear.

<sup>12</sup>†You marched through the earth in fury; you threshed the nations in anger.

<sup>13</sup>†You went out for the salvation of your people, for the salvation of your anointed.

You crushed the head of the house of the wicked, laying him bare from thigh to neck. [3] Selah <sup>14</sup>†You pierced with his own arrows the heads of his warriors, who came like a whirlwind to scatter me, rejoicing as if to devour the poor in secret.

<sup>15</sup>† You trampled the sea with your horses, the surging of mighty waters.

<sup>16</sup>†† I hear, and my body trembles; my lips quiver at the sound; rottenness enters into my bones;

my legs tremble beneath me.

Yet I will quietly wait for the day of trouble to come upon people who invade us.

Habakkuk Rejoices in the LORD

<sup>17</sup>† Though the fig tree should not blossom, nor fruit be on the vines, the produce of the olive fail and the fields yield no food, the flock be cut off from the fold and there be no herd in the stalls,

<sup>18</sup> yet I will rejoice in the LORD; I will take joy in the God of my salvation.

<sup>19</sup>† GOD, the Lord, is my strength; he makes my feet like the deer's; he makes me tread on my high places.

To the choirmaster: with stringed [\[4\]](#) instruments.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:1 oracle. A weighty oracle of judgment (cf. 1:5–11; 2:2–20) is often depicted by this term when employed by the prophets to announce God’s wrath against sin (e.g., Isa. 13:1; 15:1; 17:1; 19:1; Nah. 1:1; Zech. 9:1; 12:1; Mal. 1:1). saw. God’s message to Habakkuk took the form of a vision.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:2–4 In Habakkuk’s first complaint, he perceived that God appeared indifferent to Judah’s sin. Jealous for his righteousness and knowing that a breach of the covenant required judgment (cf. Deut. 28), Habakkuk questioned God’s wisdom, expressing bewilderment at his seeming inactivity in the face of blatant violation of his law. The Jews had sinned by violence and injustice and should have been punished by the same.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:2 how long shall I cry. The phrase, reflecting the prophet’s impatience, is frequently used by the psalmist to express similar thoughts of perplexity (cf. Ps. 13:1–2; 62:3; Jer. 14:9; Matt. 27:46).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:2–3 Violence . . . iniquity . . . wrong . . . Destruction. Judah’s society is defined with four terms denoting malicious wickedness by which one morally and ethically oppresses his neighbor, resulting in contention and strife.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:2 you will not save. The prophet wanted a cleansing, purging, chastening, and revival among the people that would return them to righteousness.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:4 law is paralyzed. Lit., the “law is chilled, numbed” (cf. Gen. 45:26; Ps. 77:2). It had no respect, was given no authority. As hands rendered useless by cold, the impact and effectiveness of the law was paralyzed by the corruption of Judah’s leaders (cf. Eccles. 8:11).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:5–11 In response to Habakkuk’s perplexity and pleading, God broke his silence, informing him that he was not indifferent to Judah’s sin; but rather than revival, he was sending the “dreaded and fearsome” judgment (v. 7).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:5 Look . . . see . . . be astounded. The series of commands is plural, indicating that the wider community of Judah and Jerusalem was to take note of this imminent invasion. Paul quotes this text in Acts 13:41.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:6–8 The Chaldeans (Babylonians) would come at the behest of the divine Commander. He is the Sovereign who brings this people of ruthless character and conduct to invade Judah. The Chaldeans are described as self-assured, self-sufficient, self-deified, and deadly (cf. Jer. 51:20).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:8 evening wolves. These were wolves who had suffered hunger all day long and were forced to prowl into the night for food. Like wolves, Babylon’s army displayed extraordinary stamina and an undaunted eagerness to attack for the purpose of devouring the spoils of victory.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:10 Whether it be royal authority or physical obstacles, the Babylonian army marched forward with nothing but scorn for those in their path. pile up earth. Rubble and dirt piled up against the fortress or city wall as a ramp to gain entry.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:11 might is their god! Though the Chaldeans were God’s instruments of judgment, their self-sufficiency and self-adulation planted the seeds for their own destruction (described in 2:2–20), as they stood guilty of idolatry and blasphemy before the sovereign Lord.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:12–2:1 Habakkuk, in his reaction to the perplexing revelation (1:5–11), declared his confidence in the Lord (v. 12), then unveiled his second complaint, namely, how could the Lord use a wicked nation (the Chaldeans) to judge a nation (Judah) more righteous than they (vv. 13–17)? The prophet ended by expressing his determination to wait for an answer (2:1).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:12 O Lord my God, my Holy One? Although the prophet could not fully comprehend the sovereign workings of his righteous God, he expressed his complete faith and trust. As he rehearsed the unchangeable character of God as eternal, sovereign, and holy, he became assured that Judah would not be completely destroyed (cf. Jer. 31:35–40; 33:23–26). Under the faithful hand of God, he realized that the Chaldeans were coming to correct, not annihilate. O Rock. A title for God that expresses his immovable and unshakeable character (cf. Ps. 18:2, 31, 46; 31:2–3; 62:2, 6–7; 78:16, 20, 35).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:13 purer eyes. In spite of the prophet’s expressions of faith and trust, he found himself in even further perplexity. The essence of Habakkuk’s next quandary is expressed in this verse: If God is too pure to behold evil, then how can he use the wicked to devour a person more righteous than they? Would not God’s use of the Chaldeans result in even greater damage to his righteous character?

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:14–17 Lest God had forgotten just how wicked the Chaldeans were, Habakkuk drew attention to their evil character and behavior. Life was cheap to the Chaldeans. In the face of their ruthless tactics of war, other societies were “like the fish of the sea, like crawling things that have no ruler.” In light of their reputation (vv. 6–10), how could God have unleashed this ruthless force upon another helpless people?

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:16 sacrifices . . . makes offerings to his dragnet. If that is not enough, the prophet added that they attributed their gain to their own military might rather than to the true God.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:17 emptying his net. How long will the aggressor (the Chaldeans) be permitted to pursue injustice and engage in such wickedness? Can God tolerate it indefinitely?

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:1 stand at my watchpost. Comparing himself to a watchman (cf. Ezek. 3: 33), standing as a sentinel upon the city walls, Habakkuk prepared to wait for God's answer and to ponder his reply.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:2–20 In response to Habakkuk's second complaint (1:12–2:1), the Lord announced that he would judge the Chaldeans as well for their wickedness. His reply included: 1) the instructions to write it down, as a reminder that it would surely occur (2:2–3); 2) a description of the character of the wicked in comparison to the righteous (vv. 4–5); and 3) the pronouncement of five woes describing the Chaldeans' demise (vv. 6–20).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:2–3 Write the vision. Habakkuk was to record the vision to preserve it for posterity, so that all who read it would know of the certainty of its fulfillment (cf. similar language in Dan. 12:4, 9). The prophecy had lasting relevance and thus had to be preserved. Although a period of time would occur before its fulfillment, all were to know that it would occur at God's "appointed time" (cf. Isa. 13; Jer. 50; 51). Babylon would fall to the Medo-Persian kingdom of Cyrus c. 539 B.C. (cf. Dan. 5).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:2 so he may run who reads it. Perhaps referring 1) to clarity of form, so even the one who runs by it may easily absorb its meaning, or 2) to clarity of content, so that the courier could easily transmit the message to others.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:4 his soul is puffed up. While the context makes this an obvious reference to the Chaldeans, the passage introduces the marks that distinguish all wicked from all righteous, regardless of ethnic origin. Two opposing characteristics are here contrasted. The proud trusts in himself; the just lives by his faith. the righteous shall live by his faith. In contrast to the proud, the righteous will be truly preserved through his faithfulness to God. This is the core of God's message to/through Habakkuk. Both the aspect of justification by faith, as noted by Paul's usage in Rom. 1:17 and Gal. 3:11, as well as the aspect of sanctification by faith, as employed by the writer of Hebrews (Heb. 10:38), reflect the essence of Habakkuk; no conflict exists. The emphasis in both Habakkuk and the NT references goes beyond the act of faith to include the continuity of faith. Faith is not a one-time act, but a way of life. The true believer, declared righteous by God, will persevere in faith as the pattern of his life (cf. Col. 1:22–23; Heb. 3:12–14).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:5 The diatribe against the Chaldeans served as the basis for the denunciations described in vv. 6–20. They were proud and greedy. Like Sheol and death (cf. Prov. 1:12; 27:20; 30:15–16), they were never satisfied but always wanted more.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:6–20 Five woes, in the form of a taunt song, were pronounced upon the Chaldeans in anticipation of their eventual judgment. Presented in five stanzas of three verses each, the five woes were directed at five different classes of evildoers.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:6–8 The first woe charged extortion, i.e., plundering nations under threat of great bodily harm for the purpose of making themselves rich. As a result, they were to become plunder for those nations who remained.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:6 all these. A reference to all the nations who suffered at the hands of the Babylonians. Woe. An interjection often used in prophetic literature to introduce a judicial indictment or a sentence of judgment (Isa. 5:8, 11, 18, 20–22; Jer. 22:13; 23:1; Amos 5:18; 6:1). pledges! The Babylonians exacted heavy taxation of conquered nations. Such action often accompanied loans with excessive interest made to the poor (cf. Deut. 24:10–13; 2 Kings 4:1–7; Neh. 5:1–13).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:7 your debtors. The survivor nations, from whom taxation was extorted (cf. v. 8).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:9–11 The second charge, of premeditated exploitation borne out of covetousness, was a continuation of vv. 6–8. The walls of their houses, built with stones and timbers taken from others, testified against them (v. 11).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:9 set his nest on high. Wanting to protect themselves from any recriminations their enemies might seek to shower upon them, the Chaldeans had sought to make their cities impregnable and inaccessible to the enemy (cf. Isa. 14:13–14).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:10 You have devised shame. The Chaldean leaders, by counseling to kill, shamed themselves and harmed their souls.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:12–14 The third woe accuses them of being ruthless despots, building luxurious palaces by means of bloodshed and forced labor. Like a fire that burns everything given to it, their labors would all be futile, having no lasting value (v. 13; cf. Mic. 3:10).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:14 filled. In contrast to the self-exaltation of the Chaldeans, whose efforts come to naught, God promised that the whole earth would recognize his glory at the establishment of his millennial kingdom (cf. Num. 14:21; Ps. 72:19; Isa. 6:3; 11:9).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:15–17 The fourth charge is debauchery, wherein Babylon forced others to become intoxicated and poisoned, making them behave shamefully and become easy prey. As a result, they too would be forced to drink the cup of God’s wrath and exposed to public shame (cf. Jer. 49:12).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:16 uncircumcision. This word refers to “foreskin,” expressing in Hebrew thought the greatest contempt, the sign of being an alien from God. See note on Jer. 4:4. cup in the Lord’s right hand. A metaphor referring to divine retribution, served up by his powerful right hand (cf. Ps. 21:8). What the Chaldeans did to others would also be done to them (Hab. 2:7–8). utter shame will come upon your glory. Carrying out the metaphor of drunkenness, here is a reference to the humiliation of “shameful spewing.” The very thing in which they gloried would become the object of their shame. While the Lord’s glory would be “as the waters cover the sea” (v. 14), Babylon’s glory would be covered with shame.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:17 violence. The reference may be to the ruthless exploitation of trees and animals, providing building materials, firewood, and food, which often accompanied military campaigns. Lebanon’s beautiful cedars were plundered for selfish purposes (cf. Isa. 14:7–8; 37:24). It also includes the slaughter of men. Habakkuk 2:17b suggests that it may symbolize Israel and her inhabitants, whom Nebuchadnezzar conquered (cf. 2 Kings 14:9; Jer. 22:6, 23; Ezek. 17:3).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:18–20 The fifth accusation is idolatry, exposing the folly of following other gods (cf. Isa. 41:24; 44:9). The destruction of the Chaldeans would demonstrate the superiority of the Lord over all gods.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:19 Awake . . . Arise! Compare the sarcasm with that of Elijah’s words to the prophets of Baal on Mount Carmel (1 Kings 18:27; cf. Jer. 2:27).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:20 holy temple. A reference to heaven, from where the Lord rules (Ps. 11:4) and answers the prayers of those who seek him (1 Kings 8:28–30; Ps. 73:17). keep silence. In contrast to the silence of the idols (Hab. 2:19), the living, Sovereign Ruler of the universe calls all the earth to be silent before him. None can assert his independence from him; all the earth must worship in humble submission (cf. Ps. 46:10; Isa. 52:15).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:1–19 The reference to “Habakkuk the prophet” (cf. 1:1) marks a transition. The argumentative tone of the previous chapters, in which he cried for divine interference, is transformed into a plea for God’s mercy (3:2), a review of God’s power (vv. 3–15), and a chorus of praise for God’s sustaining grace and sufficiency (vv. 16–19). But while the tone changes, a strong, thematic connection remains. Having been informed of God’s plan of judgment, Habakkuk returns to the matter of Judah’s judgment, pleading for mercy.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:1 Shigionoth. The precise meaning is unknown (its singular form occurs in the heading to Ps. 7). In light of the musical notation at the end of Hab. 3, it is thought that it has a musical-liturgical significance, and that this chapter was sung.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:2 the report of you. A reference back to 1:5–11 and 2:2–20, where the Lord informed Habakkuk of his plans for judging Judah and the Chaldeans. revive it. Knowledge of the severity of God’s judgment struck Hab. with fear. As though God’s power had not been used in a long time, the prophet asked the Lord to “revive” (lit., “to quicken”), to repeat his mighty saving works on behalf of his people, Israel. in the midst of the years. In the midst of his punishment of Judah at the hand of the Chaldeans, the prophet begged that God would remember mercy.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:3–15 Employing figures from God’s past intervention on Israel’s behalf, taken from the deliverance of his people from Egypt and the conquest of Canaan, Habakkuk painted a picture of their future redemption. The exodus from Egypt is often used as an analogy of the future redemption of Israel at the beginning of the millennium (cf. Isa. 11:16).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:3 Teman . . . Mount Paran. Teman, named after a grandson of Esau, was an Edomite city (Amos 1:12; Obad. 9). Mount Paran was located in the Sinai peninsula. Both allude to the theater in which God displayed great power when he brought Israel into the land of Canaan (cf. Deut. 33:2; Judg. 5:4).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:3–4 The Shekinah glory, which protected and led Israel from Egypt through the wilderness (cf. Ex. 40:34–38), was the physical manifestation of his presence. Like the sun, he spread his radiance throughout the heavens and the earth.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:5 pestilence . . . plague. Recalling the judgment attending Israel’s disobedience to the covenant given at Sinai (Ex. 5:3; Num. 14:12; Deut. 28:21–22; 32:24), Habakkuk accentuated the sovereign agency of God’s judgments. Both were a part of the divine entourage.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:6–7 The entire universe responds in fear at the approach of Almighty God (cf. Ex. 15:14). As at the creation (Isa. 40:12), the earth and its inhabitants are at his disposal.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:7 Cushan . . . Midian. Probably referring to one people living in the Sinai peninsula region (cf. Ex. 2:16–22; 18:1–5; Num. 12:1, where Moses’ wife was identified as being both Midianite and Cushite).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:8–15 With rhetorical vividness, Habakkuk addressed the Lord directly, rehearsing his judicial actions against anything that opposes his will.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:8 your horses . . . your chariot. Symbolic descriptions of God defeating the enemy (cf. 3:11, 15).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:9 calling for many arrows. The Lord’s arrows were commissioned under divine oaths (cf. Jer. 47:6–7).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:11 sun and moon stood still in their place. As prominent symbols of God’s created order, the sun and moon are subservient to his beckoning. The imagery is reminiscent of Israel’s victory over the Amorites at Gibeon (Josh. 10:12–14).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:12 threshed. The term is often used to depict military invasions and the execution of judgment (cf. Judg. 8:7; 2 Kings 13:7; Isa. 21:10; 25:10; Dan. 7:23; Amos 1:3).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:13 salvation of your anointed. Both the parallelism with v. 13a (“your people”) and the numerous contextual allusions to the exodus make this a likely reference to Moses and the chosen people of Israel, who, as God's anointed, achieved victory over Pharaoh and the armies of Egypt (cf. Ps. 105:15). Ultimately, it foreshadows a subsequent, future deliverance in anticipation of the Messiah (cf. Ps. 132:10–12) promised in the Davidic Covenant (cf. 2 Sam. 7:11–16). crushed the head of the house of the wicked. Possible reference to either the pharaoh of the exodus, whose firstborn was slain, or to the king of the Chaldeans, whose house was built by unjust gain (Hab. 2:9–11).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:14 came like a whirlwind to scatter. A possible reference to the pursuit of fleeing Israel at the Red Sea by Pharaoh's army (Ex. 14:5–9). Like the poor, Israel appeared to be easy prey for the pursuing Egyptians.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:15 You trampled the sea. Another reference to God's miraculous, protective intervention on behalf of Israel at the Red Sea. The historical event demonstrates his sovereign rulership of the universe and provides assurance to the troubled prophet that the Lord could be counted on to save his people once more.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:16–19 Habakkuk ended the prophecy with renewed commitment and affirmation of faith, expressing unwavering confidence in God.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:16 quietly wait. The Lord had answered his prayer (v. 1); the Lord would vindicate his righteousness and ultimately restore a truly repentant people (cf. 2:4). While the answer satisfied Habakkuk, the thought of a Chaldean invasion of his people has also left him physically exhausted and overwhelmed (cf. Jer. 4:19). Nevertheless, the prophet could "quietly wait for the day of trouble" because he knew the Lord would judge righteously.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:17–18 I will rejoice in the Lord. If everything that was normal and predictable collapsed, the prophet would still rejoice. Obedience to the covenant was a requisite element to the enjoyment of agricultural and pastoral prosperity (Deut. 28:1–14). Though disobedience would initiate the covenant curses (Deut. 28:31–34, 49–51), the prophet affirmed his commitment to the Lord; his longing and joyful desire was for God himself.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:19 God, the Lord, is my strength. God's response to Habakkuk's perplexities not only promised divine wrath but also provided assurance of divine favor and hope. Security and hope were not based on temporal blessings but on the Lord Himself. This is the essence of 2:4: “the righteous shall live by his faith.” feet like the deer’s. As the sure-footed hind, or deer, scaled the precipitous mountain heights without slipping, so Habakkuk’s faith in the Lord enabled him to endure the hardships of the imminent invasion, and all of his perplexing questions. To the choirmaster. Habakkuk 3 possibly served as a psalm for temple worship (cf. 3:1).

Introduction to Zephaniah

Title

As with each of the 12 Minor Prophets, the prophecy bears the name of its author, which is generally thought to mean “the Lord hides” (cf. 2:3).

Author and Date

Little is known about the author, Zephaniah. Three other OT individuals share his name. He traces his genealogy back four generations to King Hezekiah (c. 715–686 B.C.), standing alone among the prophets in being descended from royal blood (1:1). Royal genealogy would have given him the ear of Judah’s king, Josiah, during whose reign he preached.

The prophet himself dates his message during the reign of Josiah (640–609 B.C.). The moral and spiritual conditions detailed in the book (cf. 1:4–6; 3:1–7) seem to place the prophecy prior to Josiah’s reforms, when Judah was still languishing in idolatry and wickedness. It was in 628 B.C. that Josiah tore down all the altars to Baal, burned the bones of false prophets, and broke the carved idols (2 Chron. 34:3–7); and in 622 B.C. the Book of the Law was found (2 Chron. 34:8–35:19). Consequently, Zephaniah most likely prophesied from 635–625 B.C., and was a contemporary of Jeremiah.

Background and Setting

Politically, the imminent transfer of Assyrian world power to the Babylonians weakened Nineveh’s hold on Judah, bringing an element of independence to Judah for the first time in 50 years. King Josiah’s desire to retain this newfound freedom from taxation and subservience undoubtedly led him to interfere later with Egypt’s attempt to interdict the fleeing king of Nineveh in 609 B.C. (cf. 2 Chron. 35:20–27). Spiritually, the reigns of Hezekiah’s son Manasseh (c. 695–642 B.C.), extending over four decades, and his grandson Amon (c. 642–640 B.C.), lasting only two years, were marked by wickedness and apostasy (2 Kings 21; 2 Chron. 33). The early years of Josiah’s reign were also characterized by the evil from his father (2 Kings 23:4). In 622 B.C., however, while repairing the house of the Lord, Hilkiah the high priest found the Book of the Law (2 Kings 22:8). Upon reading it, Josiah initiated extensive reforms (2 Kings 23). It was during the early years of Josiah's reign, prior to the great revival, that this eleventh-hour prophet, Zephaniah, prophesied and no doubt had an influence on the sweeping reforms Josiah brought to the nation. But the evil kings before Josiah (55 years) had had such an effect on Judah that it never recovered. Josiah's reforms were too late and didn't outlast his life.

Historical and Theological Themes

Zephaniah's message on the day of the Lord warned Judah that the final days were near, through divine judgment at the hands of Nebuchadnezzar, c. 605–586 B.C. (1:4–13). Yet, it also looks beyond to the far fulfillment in the judgments of Daniel's seventieth week (1:18; 3:8). The expression "day of the Lord" is described as a day that is near (1:7), and as a day of wrath, trouble, distress, devastation, desolation, darkness, gloominess, clouds, thick darkness, trumpet, and alarm (1:15–16, 18). Yet even within these oracles of divine wrath, the prophet exhorted the people to seek the Lord, offering a shelter in the midst of judgment (2:3), and proclaiming the promise of eventual salvation for his believing remnant (2:7; 3:9–20).

Interpretive Challenges

The book presents an unambiguous denunciation of sin and warning of imminent judgment on Judah. Some have referred the phrase "I will change the speech of the peoples to a pure speech" (3:9) to the restoration of a universal language, similar to the days prior to confusion of languages at the Tower of Babel (Gen. 11:1–9). They point out that the same Hebrew word translated "speech" is also used in Gen. 11:7. It is better, however, to understand the passage as pointing to a purification of heart and life. This is confirmed by the context (cf. Zeph. 3:13) and corroborated by the fact that the word "language" is most commonly translated "lip." When combined with "pure," the reference to speech speaks of inward cleansing from sin (Isa. 6:5) manifested in speech (cf. Matt. 12:34), including the removal of the names of false gods from their lips (Hos. 2:17). It does not imply a one-world language.

Zephaniah

ZEPHANIAH 1 †The word of the LORD that came to Zephaniah the son of Cushi, son of Gedaliah, son of Amariah, son of Hezekiah, in the days of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah.

The Coming Judgment on Judah

<sup>2</sup>††“I will utterly sweep away everything from the face of the earth,” declares the LORD.

<sup>3</sup>†“I will sweep away man and beast; I will sweep away the birds of the heavens and the fish of the sea, and the rubble [\[1\]](#) with the wicked.

I will cut off mankind from the face of the earth,” declares the LORD.

<sup>4</sup>††“I will stretch out my hand against Judah and against all the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and I will cut off from this place the remnant of Baal and the name of the idolatrous priests along with the priests, <sup>5</sup>†those who bow down on the roofs to the host of the heavens, those who bow down and swear to the LORD and yet swear by Milcom, <sup>6</sup>†those who have turned back from following the LORD, who do not seek the LORD or inquire of him.”

The Day of the LORD Is Near

For the day of the LORD is near; the LORD has prepared a sacrifice and consecrated his guests.

<sup>8</sup>†And on the day of the LORD's sacrifice— “I will punish the officials and the king's sons and all who array themselves in foreign attire.

<sup>9</sup>†On that day I will punish everyone who leaps over the threshold, and those who fill their master's [\[2\]](#) house with violence and fraud.

<sup>10</sup>†“On that day,” declares the LORD, “a cry will be heard from the Fish Gate, a wail from the Second Quarter, a loud crash from the hills.

For all the traders [\[3\]](#) are no more; all who weigh out silver are cut off.

<sup>12</sup>† At that time I will search Jerusalem with lamps, and I will punish the men who are complacent, [4]

those who say in their hearts,

‘The LORD will not do good, nor will he do ill.’

<sup>13</sup> Their goods shall be plundered, and their houses laid waste.

Though they build houses, they shall not inhabit them;

though they plant vineyards, they shall not drink wine from them.”

<sup>14</sup> † The great day of the LORD is near, near and hastening fast; the sound of the day of the LORD is bitter; the mighty man cries aloud there.

<sup>15</sup> A day of wrath is that day, a day of distress and anguish, a day of ruin and devastation, a day of darkness and gloom,

a day of clouds and thick darkness,

<sup>16</sup> † a day of trumpet blast and battle cry against the fortified cities and against the lofty battlements.

<sup>17</sup> † † I will bring distress on mankind, so that they shall walk like the blind, because they have sinned against the LORD; their blood shall be poured out like dust, and their flesh like dung.

<sup>18</sup> † Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them on the day of the wrath of the LORD.

In the fire of his jealousy,

all the earth shall be consumed;

for a full and sudden end he will make of all the inhabitants of the earth.

Judgment on Judah's Enemies

ZEPHANIAH 2 †† Gather together, yes, gather, O shameless nation, ‡ before the decree takes effect [1] —before the day passes away like chaff— before there comes upon you the burning anger of the LORD, before there comes upon you the day of the anger of the LORD.

‡ Seek the LORD, all you humble of the land, who do his just commands; [2] seek righteousness; seek humility; perhaps you may be hidden on the day of the anger of the LORD.

†† For Gaza shall be deserted, and Ashkelon shall become a desolation; Ashdod's people shall be driven out at noon, and Ekron shall be uprooted.

‡ Woe to you inhabitants of the seacoast, you nation of the Cherethites!
The word of the LORD is against you, O Canaan, land of the Philistines; and I will destroy you until no inhabitant is left.

‡ And you, O seacoast, shall be pastures, with meadows [3] for shepherds and folds for flocks.

‡ The seacoast shall become the possession of the remnant of the house of Judah, on which they shall graze, and in the houses of Ashkelon they shall lie down at evening.

For the LORD their God will be mindful of them and restore their fortunes.

† “I have heard the taunts of Moab and the revilings of the Ammonites, how they have taunted my people and made boasts against their territory.

‡ Therefore, as I live,” declares the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, “Moab shall become like Sodom, and the Ammonites like Gomorrah, a land possessed by nettles and salt pits, and a waste forever.

The remnant of my people shall plunder them, and the survivors of my nation shall possess them.”

‡ This shall be their lot in return for their pride, because they taunted and boasted against the people of the LORD of hosts.

† The LORD will be awesome against them; for he will famish all the gods of the earth, and to him shall bow down, each in its place,

all the lands of the nations.

<sup>12</sup>† You also, O Cushites, shall be slain by my sword.

<sup>13</sup>† And he will stretch out his hand against the north and destroy Assyria, and he will make Nineveh a desolation, a dry waste like the desert.

<sup>14</sup> Herds shall lie down in her midst, all kinds of beasts; [4] even the owl and the hedgehog [5] shall lodge in her capitals;

a voice shall hoot in the window; devastation will be on the threshold; for her cedar work will be laid bare.

<sup>15</sup>† This is the exultant city that lived securely, that said in her heart,

“I am, and there is no one else.”

What a desolation she has become, a lair for wild beasts!

Everyone who passes by her hisses and shakes his fist.

Judgment on Jerusalem and the Nations

ZEPHANIAH 3 † Woe to her who is rebellious and defiled, the oppressing city!

† She listens to no voice; she accepts no correction.

She does not trust in the LORD; she does not draw near to her God.

† Her officials within her are roaring lions; her judges are evening wolves that leave nothing till the morning.

† Her prophets are fickle, treacherous men; her priests profane what is holy;

they do violence to the law.

† The LORD within her is righteous; he does no injustice; every morning he shows forth his justice; each dawn he does not fail;

but the unjust knows no shame.

† “I have cut off nations; their battlements are in ruins;

I have laid waste their streets

so that no one walks in them; their cities have been made desolate, without a man, without an inhabitant.

† I said, ‘Surely you will fear me; you will accept correction.

Then your [1] dwelling would not be cut off according to all that I have appointed against you.’ [2]

But all the more they were eager to make all their deeds corrupt.

† “Therefore wait for me,” declares the LORD, “for the day when I rise up to seize the prey.

For my decision is to gather nations, to assemble kingdoms, to pour out upon them my indignation, all my burning anger;

for in the fire of my jealousy

all the earth shall be consumed.

The Conversion of the Nations

†† “For at that time I will change the speech of the peoples to a pure speech, that all of them may call upon the name of the LORD and serve him with one accord.

† From beyond the rivers of Cush my worshipers, the daughter of my dispersed ones, shall bring my offering.

† “On that day you shall not be put to shame because of the deeds by which you have rebelled against me; for then I will remove from your midst your proudly exultant ones, and you shall no longer be haughty in my holy mountain.

<sup>12</sup>But I will leave in your midst a people humble and lowly.
They shall seek refuge in the name of the LORD, <sup>13</sup>those who are left in Israel; they shall do no injustice and speak no lies, nor shall there be found in their mouth a deceitful tongue.
For they shall graze and lie down, and none shall make them afraid.”

Israel's Joy and Restoration

<sup>14</sup>‡Sing aloud, O daughter of Zion; shout, O Israel!
Rejoice and exult with all your heart, O daughter of Jerusalem!
<sup>15</sup>‡The LORD has taken away the judgments against you; he has cleared away your enemies.
The King of Israel, the LORD, is in your midst; you shall never again fear evil.
<sup>16</sup>On that day it shall be said to Jerusalem: “Fear not, O Zion; let not your hands grow weak.
<sup>17</sup>‡The LORD your God is in your midst, a mighty one who will save;
he will rejoice over you with gladness; he will quiet you by his love;
he will exult over you with loud singing.
<sup>18</sup>‡I will gather those of you who mourn for the festival, so that you will no longer suffer reproach. [3]
<sup>19</sup>‡Behold, at that time I will deal with all your oppressors.
And I will save the lame and gather the outcast, and I will change their shame into praise and renown in all the earth.
<sup>20</sup>At that time I will bring you in, at the time when I gather you together; for I will make you renowned and praised among all the peoples of the earth, when I restore your fortunes before your eyes,” says the LORD.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:1 Hezekiah . . . Josiah. Zephaniah traced his royal lineage back to his great-great-grandfather Hezekiah (c. 715–686 B.C.) and placed his ministry contemporaneous with Josiah (c. 640–609 B.C.).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:2–3 The prophet began by noting the far fulfillment of the day of the Lord, when even animal and physical creation will be affected by his judgment of the earth (cf. Gen. 3:17–19; Ex. 12:29; Josh. 7:24–25; Rom. 8:22).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:2 face of the earth. Generally translated “ground,” the term is used in reference to the whole earth (1:18). The phraseology is reminiscent of the Noahic flood (Gen. 6:7, 17; 7:21–23).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:3 Comparisons with the Genesis flood continue with “man and beast” and “birds of the heavens” (Gen. 6:7; 7:23). The prophet also alluded to the creation, pairing man and beast (sixth day of creation) and birds with fish (fifth day of creation). rubble. An alternate translation is “stumbling blocks.” Whatever alienates man from God will be removed.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:4–9 The Lord narrowed his words of judgment to specifically focus on Judah, specifying the causes of judgment as apostasy and idolatry (vv. 4–6), as always coupled with moral and ethical corruption (vv. 7–9).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:4 cut off . . . the remnant of Baal. The worship of Baal, the Canaanite god of fertility, was a constant source of temptation to Israel (cf. Num. 25:1–5; Judg. 2:13), as people tried worshiping him alongside the worship of the Lord (Jer. 7:9; 23:25–29). This mix became a primary cause for judgment (2 Kings 17:16–20; Jer. 11:13–17; Hos. 2:8) which would forever excise the worship of Baal from Israel.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:5 bow down . . . to the host of the heavens. Astrology was also a prominent part of Israel’s idolatrous practices; they worshiped the host of heaven from as early as the exodus (cf. Deut. 4:19; Amos 5:25–26; Acts 7:40–43). God warned them repeatedly, but they rebelled (2 Kings 23:5–6; Jer. 7:17–18; 8:2; 44:17–25). Altars were often erected on housetop roofs to provide a clear view of the sky (Jer. 8:2; 19:13; 32:29). swear by Milcom. Judah’s syncretistic worship was reflected in swearing by the Lord and, at the same time, by Milcom, who may be either the Ammonite deity of 1 Kings 11:5, 33, or Molech, the worship of whom included child sacrifice, astrology, and sacred prostitution (cf. Lev. 18:21; 2 Kings 17:16–17; Ezek. 23:37; Amos 5:25–26; Acts 7:40–43).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:6 Zephaniah lastly mentioned those who had at first heeded calls to repentance but later had willfully turned away.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:7 Be silent. In view of the just judgment, there was no defense to be spoken and in view of the devastation only shocked and mute wonder (cf. Hab. 2:20; Zech. 2:13). day of the Lord. See notes on Joel 1:15. prepared a sacrifice . . . consecrated his guests. God’s judgment on Israel was viewed as his sacrifice. The guests were the dreaded Babylonians, who as “priests” were invited to slay the sacrifice, i.e., Judah (cf. Isa. 13:3; 34:6; Jer. 46:10; Ezek. 39:17; Hab. 1:6; Rev. 19:17–18).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:8 the officials . . . king’s sons. Judgment began with the royal house. Lacking commitment to God’s covenant, they had adopted the customs and idolatrous practices of the heathen. Since Josiah was only eight years old when he assumed rulership (c. 640 B.C.), the reference would not be to his sons but to the princes of the royal house or to the children of the king who would be ruling when the prophecy was fulfilled (cf. 2 Kings 25:7; Jer. 39:6).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:9 leaps over the threshold. This describes the eagerness with which the rich hurried from the temple to plunder the poor.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:10–11 The merchants, made wealthy from dishonest gain (cf. v. 9), were singled out to depict the anguish of the coming judgment. The Fish Gate, known today as the Damascus Gate, is located on the north side. The Second Quarter was a district within the city walls. “Mortar” was a name applied to the Valley of Siloam from its shape; it was a district where merchants carried on business.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:12 I will search. None would escape the punishment of the Lord (Amos 9:1–4). complacent. See esv footnote. With this term referring to a thickened crust that forms on wine when left undisturbed for a long period of time, the prophet described the people’s indifference and slothfulness toward God. Their indifference led them to regard God as morally indifferent.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:14–18 Zephaniah vividly described the day of the Lord in staccato fashion, rehearsing the ominous conditions characterizing that day. This section seems to point to the near fulfillment when Babylon subdued Judah (vv. 4–13), as well as a far fulfillment that will involve the whole earth (v. 18).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:16 day of trumpet blast and battle cry. In accordance with God’s instructions, a trumpet was fashioned for sounding an alarm (Num. 10:1–10).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:17–18 As though worthless, their blood and flesh were discarded as dust. Their silver and gold, corruptly gained (cf. vv. 9–13), would be of no avail to protect them from the wrath of Holy God (cf. Jer. 46:28).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:17 walk like the blind. As blind men, they would grope unsuccessfully for escape routes (Deut. 28:29).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:18 all the inhabitants of the earth. The discussion expands to include the whole earth as in vv. 2–3.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:1–3 With the announcement of coming judgment, God mercifully invited his people to repent. They were to assemble to entreat the favor of the Lord and avert his wrath (cf. Joel 2:16).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:1 shameless nation. No longer sensitive to God’s call to repentance through his many prophets, Judah had sunk to shamelessness.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:3 perhaps you may be hidden. Even the humble, those who had followed the law of the Lord, were encouraged to continue to manifest fruits of repentance, so they would be sheltered in the day of his judgment (Isa. 26:20).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:4–15 God used the heathen nations to punish his people, but he would not permit those nations to go unpunished. To illustrate this, four representative nations were chosen from the four points of the compass.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:4–7 The first nation to be judged was Philistia, to the west of Israel. Judgment was to come swiftly and unexpectedly, even at noonday when it was least expected. Of the five Philistine cities, only Gath was omitted (cf. Amos 1:6–8).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:5 Cherethites. Occasionally a synonym for Philistia, this term represented a branch from Crete (see note on Ezek. 25:16). David's bodyguard was comprised of both Cherethites and Pelethites (2 Sam. 8:18; 1 Kings 1:38, 44). See note on 1 Sam. 30:14.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:7 restore their fortunes. The Lord would initiate the physical return of Israel's exiles to occupy the land vacated by judgment on Philistia.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:8–11 To the east, the descendants of Lot by his daughters through incest, Moab and Ammon (Gen. 19:30–38), are mentioned. They had reproached and reviled God's people, incurring divine wrath (cf. Gen. 12:3). Like Sodom and Gomorrah in the days of their ancestor Lot, they too would come to ruin and desolation.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:11 to him shall bow down . . . all the lands of the nations. The final fulfillment of these predictions is yet future, depicting the millennium when all the gods of the nations will be reduced to nothing and the Lord himself will be worshiped universally (Isa. 66:18–21; Zech. 14:16; Mal. 1:11).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:12 Ethiopia lay to the south of Israel. She would be judged by his sword, fulfilled in Nebuchadnezzar's invasion and conquest of Egypt (Ezek. 30:24–25).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:13–15 Assyria, located northeast of Israel, would be desolated as well. Nineveh fell, shortly after this prophecy, to the Babylonians in 612 B.C. Famed for her irrigation system, she would be left dry.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:15 In language similar to that of the king of Babylon (Isa. 14:13–14; 47:8) and the prince of Tyre (Ezek. 28:2), Assyria had claimed for herself divine attributes. For this she would be brought to ruin.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:1–7 After pronouncing judgment on the nations, the prophet returned to again pronounce woe upon Jerusalem. Because of that city's favored position among the nations (cf. Ex. 19:5), more was expected.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:2 she accepts no correction. Jerusalem was soon to learn that to reject God's correction leads to destruction (Prov. 5:23). she does not draw near to her God. The Lord had taken up residence in that city, making him easily accessible (Deut. 4:7), yet they had refused to draw near to him in proper worship.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:3–5 Four classes of leadership were singled out for condemnation: The political leaders, i.e., the 1) princes and 2) judges; who are both likened to ravenous wolves, endlessly searching for more prey (cf. 1:8–9). The spiritual leaders, i.e., the 3) prophets and 4) priests, were unfaithful to the Lord whom they claimed to represent. By contrast, the Lord never failed to manifest a faithful standard of justice and righteousness.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:6–7 The desolations brought by the Lord on surrounding nations were to serve as warnings to Judah, meant to turn his people back to him. But instead, enticed by the fruits of corruption, the people rose early to zealously and deliberately pursue the way of sin.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:8 The prophet transitions from the historical invasion of Judah by Babylon to the future day of the Lord. He speaks of the great tribulation, when the Lord will gather all the nations for judgment (cf. Joel 3:1–2, 12–17; Zech. 12:2–3; 14:2; Matt. 24:21). The faithful remnant, presumably the meek of Zeph. 2:1–3, are exhorted to wait in trust for him to carry out his judgment.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:9–20 The final section unveils the blessings of restoration for God's people and the nations.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:9 pure speech. See Introduction: Interpretive Challenges. A remnant of the nations, converted to the Lord, will worship him in righteousness and truth (Zech. 8:20–23; 14:16). Pure speech will come from purified hearts (cf. Luke 6:45).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:10 They will return from distant places (cf. Isa. 11:11, 15–16; 27:13).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:11–13 The Lord will purge the proud and ungodly from among them (Zech. 13:1–6), leaving a meek and humble people. Material prosperity and peace will accompany them as well, allowing them to enjoy the rich blessings of God undisturbed (Joel 3:18–20; Mic. 4:4).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:14–20 The messianic era of millennial blessing and restoration is described.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:15–17 The basis for rejoicing in v. 14 is that Israel’s day of judgment is past and her King is residing in her midst. His departure just prior to Nebuchadnezzar’s destruction of the temple is graphically depicted in Ezek. 8–11; but he will return as Lord and Messiah, a fact so glorious that it is repeated in Zeph. 3:17.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:17 As a bridegroom rejoices over his bride (cf. Isa. 62:4), the Lord will exult over his people with gladness and song, resting in quiet ecstasy over his people in whom is all his delight (cf. Deut. 30:9; Isa. 54).

Introduction to Haggai

Title

The prophecy bears the name of its author. Because his name means “festal one,” it is suggested that Haggai was born on a feast day. Haggai is the second shortest book in the OT (Obadiah is shorter) and is quoted by the NT once (cf. Heb. 12:26).

Author and Date

Little is known about Haggai apart from this short prophecy. He is mentioned briefly in Ezra 5:1 and 6:14, on both occasions in conjunction with the prophet Zechariah. The lists of refugees in Ezra mention nothing of Haggai; there are no indications of his parentage or tribal ancestry. Nor does history provide any record of his occupation. He is the only person in the OT with the name, although similar names occur (cf. Gen. 46:16; Num. 26:15; 2 Sam. 3:4; 1 Chron. 6:30). Furthermore, Hag. 2:3 may suggest that he too had seen the glory of Solomon’s temple before it was destroyed, making him at least 70 years of age when writing his prophecy.

There is no ambiguity or controversy about the date of the prophecy. The occasion of each of his four prophecies is clearly specified (Hag. 1:1; 2:1; 2:10; 2:20), occurring within a four-month span of time in the second year (c. 520 B.C.) of Persian king Darius Hystaspes (c. 521–486 B.C.). Haggai most likely had returned to Jerusalem from Babylon with Zerubbabel 18 years earlier in 538 B.C.

Background and Setting

In 538 B.C., as a result of the proclamation of Cyrus the Persian (cf. Ezra 1:1–4), Israel was allowed to return from Babylon to her homeland under the civil leadership of Zerubbabel and the spiritual guidance of Joshua the high priest (cf. Ezra 3:2). About 50,000 Jews returned. In 536 B.C., they began to rebuild the temple (cf. Ezra 3:1–4:5) but opposition from neighbors and indifference by the Jews caused the work to be abandoned (cf. Ezra 4:1–24). Sixteen years later Haggai and Zechariah were commissioned by the Lord to stir up the people to 1) not only rebuild the temple, but also to 2) reorder their spiritual priorities (cf. Ezra 5:1–6:22). As a result, the temple was completed four years later (c. 516 B.C.; cf. Ezra 6:15).

Historical and Theological Themes

The primary theme is the rebuilding of God’s temple, which had been lying in ruins since its destruction by Nebuchadnezzar in 586 B.C. By means of five messages from the Lord, Haggai exhorted the people to renew their efforts to build the house of the Lord. He motivated them by noting that the drought and crop failures were caused by misplaced spiritual priorities (1:9–11).

But to Haggai, the rebuilding of the temple was not an end in itself. The temple represented God’s dwelling place, his manifest presence with his chosen people. The destruction of the temple by Nebuchadnezzar followed the departure of God’s dwelling glory (cf. Ezek. 8–11); to the prophet, the rebuilding of the temple invited the return of God’s presence to their midst. Using the historical situation as a springboard, Haggai reveled in the supreme glory of the ultimate messianic temple yet to come (Hag. 2:7), encouraging them with the promise of even greater peace (2:9), prosperity (2:19), divine rulership (2:21–22), and national blessing (2:23) during the millennium.

Interpretive Challenges

The most prominent interpretive ambiguity within the prophecy is the phrase “the treasures of all nations” (2:7). Although many translations exist, there are essentially only two interpretations. Pointing to “The silver is mine, and the gold is mine” (2:8), as well as to Isa. 60:5 and Zech. 14:14, some contend that it refers to Jerusalem, to which the wealth of other nations will be brought during the millennium (cf. Isa. 60:11; 61:6). It seems preferable, however, to see a reference here to the Messiah, a Deliverer for whom all the nations ultimately long. Not only is this interpretation supported by the ancient rabbis and the early church, the mention of “glory” in the latter part of the verse suggests a personal reference to the Messiah (cf. Isa. 40:5; 60:1; Luke 2:32).

The Command to Rebuild the Temple

HAGGAI 1 †† In the second year of Darius the king, in the sixth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came by the hand of Haggai the prophet to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest: † “Thus says the LORD of hosts: These people say the time has not yet come to rebuild the house of the LORD.” † Then the word of the LORD came by the hand of Haggai the prophet, † “Is it a time for you yourselves to dwell in your paneled houses, while this house lies in ruins? † Now, therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts: Consider your ways. † You have sown much, and harvested little. You eat, but you never have enough; you drink, but you never have your fill. You clothe yourselves, but no one is warm. And he who earns wages does so to put them into a bag with holes.

† “Thus says the LORD of hosts: Consider your ways. † Go up to the hills and bring wood and build the house, that I may take pleasure in it and that I may be glorified, says the LORD. † You looked for much, and behold, it came to little. And when you brought it home, I blew it away. Why? declares the LORD of hosts. Because of my house that lies in ruins, while each of you busies himself with his own house. † Therefore the heavens above you have withheld the dew, and the earth has withheld its produce. † And I have called for a drought on the land and the hills, on the grain, the new wine, the oil, on what the ground brings forth, on man and beast, and on all their labors.”

The People Obey the LORD

†† Then Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the LORD their God had sent him. And the people feared the LORD. † Then Haggai, the messenger of the LORD, spoke to the people with the LORD's message, “I am with you, declares the LORD.” † And the LORD stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people. And they came and worked on the house of the LORD of hosts, their God, † on the twenty-fourth day of the month, in the sixth month, in the second year of Darius the king.

The Coming Glory of the Temple

HAGGAI 2 †† In the seventh month, on the twenty-first day of the month, the word of the LORD came by the hand of Haggai the prophet, †“Speak now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and to all the remnant of the people, and say, †‘Who is left among you who saw this house in its former glory? How do you see it now? Is it not as nothing in your eyes? †Yet now be strong, O Zerubbabel, declares the LORD. Be strong, O Joshua, son of Jehozadak, the high priest. Be strong, all you people of the land, declares the LORD. Work, for I am with you, declares the LORD of hosts, †according to the covenant that I made with you when you came out of Egypt. My Spirit remains in your midst. Fear not. †For thus says the LORD of hosts: Yet once more, in a little while, I will shake the heavens and the earth and the sea and the dry land. †And I will shake all nations, so that the treasures of all nations shall come in, and I will fill this house with glory, says the LORD of hosts. †The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, declares the LORD of hosts. †The latter glory of this house shall be greater than the former, says the LORD of hosts. And in this place I will give peace, declares the LORD of hosts.’”

Blessings for a Defiled People

†† On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came by Haggai the prophet, ††“Thus says the LORD of hosts: Ask the priests about the law: †‘If someone carries holy meat in the fold of his garment and touches with his fold bread or stew or wine or oil or any kind of food, does it become holy?’” The priests answered and said, “No.” †Then Haggai said, “If someone who is unclean by contact with a dead body touches any of these, does it become unclean?” The priests answered and said, “It does become unclean.” †Then Haggai answered and said, “So is it with this people, and with this nation before me, declares the LORD, and so with every work of their hands. And what they offer there is unclean. †Now then, consider from this day onward. [1] Before stone was placed upon stone in the temple of the LORD, †how did you fare? When [2] one came to a heap of twenty measures, there were but ten. When one came to the wine vat to draw fifty measures, there were but twenty. †I struck you and all the products of your toil with blight and with mildew and with hail, yet you did not turn to me, declares the LORD. †Consider from this day onward, from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month.

Since the day that the foundation of the LORD's temple was laid, consider: <sup>19</sup>†Is the seed yet in the barn? Indeed, the vine, the fig tree, the pomegranate, and the olive tree have yielded nothing. But from this day on I will bless you.”

Zerubbabel Chosen as a Signet

<sup>20</sup>†The word of the LORD came a second time to Haggai on the twenty-fourth day of the month, <sup>21</sup>“Speak to Zerubbabel, governor of Judah, saying, I am about to shake the heavens and the earth, <sup>22</sup>and to overthrow the throne of kingdoms. I am about to destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the nations, and overthrow the chariots and their riders. And the horses and their riders shall go down, every one by the sword of his brother. <sup>23</sup>†On that day, declares the LORD of hosts, I will take you, O Zerubbabel my servant, the son of Shealtiel, declares the LORD, and make you like a [3] signet ring, for I have chosen you, declares the LORD of hosts.”

Study Notes

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:1–11 Discouraged by the opposition of her neighbors (Ezra 4:1–5, 24), the people had wrongly concluded that it was not yet time for them to rebuild the temple (Hag. 1:2). With a biting query, the Lord reminded them that it was not right for them to live in paneled houses while the temple lay in ruins (v. 4) and urged them to consider carefully the consequences of their indifference (vv. 5–11).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:1 second year of Darius the king. Not to be confused with Darius the Mede (cf. Dan. 5:31), Darius I (Hystaspes) became king of Persia in 521 B.C., having ascended to the throne after the death of Cambyses. As an officer of Cambyses and the great-grandson of Cyrus the Great's brother, Darius retained the loyalty of the Persian army and thereby defeated other contenders for the throne. He reigned until his death in 486 B.C. sixth month . . . first day. The first day of the month of Elul corresponds to August 29, 520 B.C.

Zerubbabel. Zerubbabel was the grandson of Jehoiachin (Jeconiah in Matt. 1:12; cf. 1 Chron. 3:17, 19) and thus he was in the Davidic line. Though it is highly questionable if he is to be identified with Sheshbazzar (Ezra 1:8, 11; 5:14, 16), his role as civil leader (Ezra 2:2) and overseer of the temple rebuilding project (Zech. 4:6–10) is certain. He reestablished the Davidic throne, even though it will not again be occupied until the time of Messiah (cf. Ps. 2; 110).

Joshua . . . the high priest. Spelled Jeshua in Ezra 3:2, Joshua was a descendant of Zadok (1 Chron. 6:15) and the religious leader of the exilic community that returned to Jerusalem. He reestablished the high-priestly line of Aaron through Eleazar. Jehozadak. One of Nebuchadnezzar's captives (cf. 1 Chron. 6:15)

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:2 These people say. Haggai begins his message by quoting a popular expression of the people, saying it was not time to build the temple. Though propelled by the hostile opposition of their neighbors (Ezra 4:1–5, 24) and the lack of economic prosperity (cf. Hag. 1:9–11), the roots of their reluctance lay ultimately in their selfish indifference to the Lord. God's displeasure is noted in his reference to them as "these people" and not "my people." They wanted their wealth for themselves, not a temple.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:4 this house lies in ruins? Cf. Ezra 3:1–13 for the start of the second temple. Selfish indulgence, revealed by the prophet's rhetorical query, demonstrated their hypocrisy and misplaced priorities. Walls and ceilings overlaid with cedar were common in wealthy residences (cf. 1 Kings 7:3, 7; Jer. 22:14).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:6 Using five pairs of poetic contrasts, each concluding essentially the same thing, Haggai painted a vivid picture of their economic and social distress. Their selfish lack of concern for God’s house had only caused them more hardship (cf. Matt. 6:33). This was Solomon’s message in Ecclesiastes, restated, “All is vanity.”

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:8 Go up . . . bring wood . . . build. Three imperatives give the remedy for their trouble. The long captivity of 70 years had let the forests grow, so there was ample wood. They were to use it to rebuild the house of the Lord, and therein he would be glorified. By putting God first, he would then be honored in their worship and they would be blessed in the secondary matters of life. Compare this pitiful project (Ezra 3:12; Hag. 2:3) to the opulence of Solomon’s first temple (cf. 1 Chron. 28–29; 2 Chron. 2–6).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:9 busies himself with his own house. Because the Jews were zealous to pursue their own interests, the prophet drew a contrast between the one who eagerly ran to care for “his own house,” while disregarding God’s house (“my house”).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:10–11 Economic catastrophe, resulting from God’s withholding of the summer dew, was the price for their disobedience (cf. Deut. 7:13). Grain, wine, and oil were the primary crops of the land. Cattle also languished because of the absence of spiritual health (cf. Joel 1:18–20).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:12–15 Haggai’s second message came 23 days after the first one (v. 15), around September 21, 520 B.C. The Lord’s call to “Consider your ways” (vv. 5, 7) caused the people to respond in repentance and obedience (v. 12). This new message “I am with you” further stirred the Jews to action (vv. 13–14).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:12, 14 the remnant of the people. The exiles who returned from Babylon took the message to heart. Realizing that the words of the prophet were from the Lord, they “obeyed” and “showed reverence,” knowing that God was present.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:13 I am with you. The people were oppressed by hostilities from without and famine from within. The Lord responded to their genuine repentance and obedience, assuring them of his presence with them. This should have evoked a memory of God’s word to Joshua and the returning people centuries before (cf. Josh. 1:5).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:14 stirred up the spirit. The Lord energized the leaders and the people through his word to carry on the work of rebuilding the temple. God had sovereignly moved in the heart of Cyrus 18 years earlier (cf. 2 Chron. 36:22–23; Ezra 1:1–3). The people’s response of repentance and obedience allowed God’s Spirit to energize them for the task.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:1–9 With building operations in full swing, the Lord gave a strong message of encouragement, especially to the elderly among them who had seen Solomon’s temple. Though the temple of Solomon was of greater magnificence, the Lord urged the people to be courageous, assuring them of his presence (v. 4), his faithfulness to his covenant promises (v. 5), and promises of a greater, more glorious temple in the future (vv. 6–9).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:1 seventh month . . . twenty-first. This day in the month of Tishri corresponds to October 17, 520 B.C. Leviticus 23:39–44 indicates that this was the final day of the Feast of Booths, or Tabernacles, a feast to celebrate God’s provision for Israel during her 40 years of wilderness wanderings and give thanks for a bountiful harvest. On this occasion the Lord gave Haggai the third message.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:2 The first message was directed toward the leaders, Zerubbabel and Joshua (see notes on 1:1). Here the prophet includes the remainder of the exiles who returned from Babylon.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:3 you who saw. Some remained, perhaps even Haggai, who had seen the temple of Solomon before its destruction (cf. Ezra 3:12–13). With three rhetorical questions, the Lord through his prophet Haggai drew attention to the fact that this temple was inferior to Solomon’s temple (cf. Ezra 3:8–13), which caused many to be discouraged by its lack of splendor.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:4 Be strong. To counteract the discouragement, the Lord repeated the command to “be strong” and to “work,” assuring them of God’s presence. This was the second reminder from the Lord, “I am with you” (cf. 1:13).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:5 Spoken at the close of the feast commemorating God’s provision during the wilderness wanderings, his covenant commitment and the promise that his Spirit would be with them as “when you came out of Egypt” would be most reassuring (c. 1445 B.C.). He had not forgotten them over the last nine centuries (Ex. 33:14). My Spirit. The third Person of the Triune Godhead (cf. Num. 11:16–17).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:6–7 I will shake. The shaking of the cosmic bodies and the nations goes beyond the historical removal of kingdoms and the establishment of others, such as the defeat of Persia by Greece (Dan. 7). Rather, the text looks to the cataclysm in the universe described in Rev. 6–19, the subjugation of the nations by the Messiah, and the setting up of his kingdom that will never be destroyed (cf. Dan. 2:44; 7:27; Zech. 14:16–21; Matt. 25:32; Luke 21:26; Heb. 12:26; Rev. 19:19–21).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:7 treasures of all nations. See Introduction: Interpretive Challenges. While some view the phrase as referring to Jerusalem (e.g., Ezra

6:3–9), it seems preferable to see a reference here to the Messiah, the Deliverer for whom all the nations ultimately long. I will fill this house with glory. There is no Scripture to indicate that God’s glory ever did come to Zerubbabel’s temple, as the first temple was filled with the Shekinah glory (cf. 1 Kings 8:10–11; 2 Chron. 5:13–14). However, his glory will fill the millennial temple (Ezek. 43:5). This glorification cannot refer to Christ’s physical presence in Herod’s temple, for the events of Hag. 2:6–9 cannot be accounted for historically. The context speaks of the establishment of his earthly, Davidic, millennial kingdom and his presence in the temple during that kingdom.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:8 silver . . . gold. Economically destitute, the people were reassured that he is the possessor of all things (cf. Ps. 50:12).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:9 The latter glory of this house. The Jews viewed the temple in Jerusalem as one temple existing in different forms at different times. The rebuilt temple was considered a continuation of Solomon’s temple (cf. v. 3). However, the eschatological glory of the millennial temple, i.e., the latter temple, will far surpass even the grandeur of Solomon’s temple (the former temple). Cf. Ezek. 40–48 for the detailed description of the millennial temple. I will give peace. This peace is not limited to that peace which he gives to believers (e.g., Rom. 5:1), but looks ahead to that ultimate peace when he returns to rule as the Prince of Peace upon the throne of David in Jerusalem (Isa. 9:6–7; Zech. 6:13; Acts 2:30).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:10–19 The fourth message of Haggai occurred two months after the third, on the twenty-fourth day of the month of Chislev, corresponding to December 18, 520 B.C. Only one month earlier, Zechariah began his prophetic ministry (Zech. 1:1). The message sought to demonstrate that while their disobedience caused God’s blessings to be withheld, their obedience would cause his blessings to be released.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:11–14 To provide an analogy or object lesson for the people, two questions were asked of the priests relative to ceremonial law. The first question was intended to show that ceremonial cleanness cannot be transferred (v. 12), while the second question showed that ceremonial uncleanness can be transferred (v. 13). Haggai then applied the lesson (v. 14). Even though the people had been bringing their offerings while neglecting the rebuilding of the temple, their offerings had not been acceptable. Their sin had caused their sacrifices to be contaminated and ineffectual. And their good works, their offerings, could not transmit cleanness. In other words, sin is contagious, righteousness is not (cf. 1 Sam. 15:22; Hos. 6:6).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:15–18 The Lord called the people to again consider their situation prior to the resumption of the temple building. In those days, the farmer found less than expected (cf. 1:6, 9–11).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:16 twenty . . . ten. Between 50 to 60 percent of the expected harvest had been lost.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:19 But from this day on I will bless you. As a result of their obedience, God promised to bless them from that day forth (cf. v. 10).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:20–23 The fifth message to Zerubbabel the governor of Judah (v. 20) came on the same day as the fourth, and he returned to the theme of vv. 6–9 and the millennial reign of the Messiah. Once again, it depicted the overthrow of the kingdoms of the world and the establishment of the messianic kingdom (cf. Dan. 2:44; 7:27). As the events predicted did not transpire historically, the promise pertains to the royal line through whom the Messiah would come. It looked to the ultimate day when Messiah reigns on earth (cf. Ps. 2; Rev. 19–20).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:23 On that day. The day of Messiah's triumph (cf. Zech. 12–14). my servant. A distinctly Davidic and messianic title (cf. 2 Sam. 3:18; 1 Kings 11:34; Isa. 42:1–9; Ezek. 37:24–25). signet ring. The signet ring was a symbol of honor, authority, and power (cf. Song 8:6). It corresponded to a king's scepter, which was used to seal letters and decrees (cf. 1 Kings 21:8; Est. 8:8; Dan. 6:17). Zerubbabel, as God's signet ring, stands as the official representative of the Davidic dynasty and represents the resumption of the messianic line interrupted by the exile. Just as Pharaoh gave Joseph his signet ring and made him second in the kingdom (Gen. 41:41–43), so God will do for the Davidic line of kings. The preexilic signet of Jehoiachin was removed by God (Jer. 22:24) and renewed here in his grandson, Zerubbabel, who reestablished the Davidic line of kings, which would culminate in the millennial reign of Christ. See note on Ezra 2:2.

Introduction to Zechariah

Title

The universal tradition of both Jews and Christians endorses the prophet Zechariah as author. His name, common to more than 29 OT men, means “The Lord remembers.” This book is second only to Isaiah in the breadth of the prophets’ writings about Messiah.

Author and Date

Like Jeremiah and Ezekiel, Zechariah was also a priest (Neh. 12:12–16). According to tradition, he was a member of the Great Synagogue, a council of 120 originated by Nehemiah and presided over by Ezra. This council later developed into the ruling elders of the nation, called the Sanhedrin. He was born in Babylon and joined his grandfather, Iddo, in the group of exiles who first returned to Jerusalem under the leadership of Zerubbabel and Joshua the high priest (cf. Neh. 12:4). Because he is occasionally mentioned as the son of his grandfather (cf. Ezra 5:1; 6:14; Neh. 12:16), it is thought that his father, Berechiah, died at an early age before he could succeed his father into the priesthood.

Zechariah’s opening words are dated from 520 B.C., the second year of Darius I (cf. 1:1). The Persian emperor Cyrus had died and was succeeded by Cambyses (c. 530–521 B.C.) who conquered Egypt. He had no son, he killed himself, and Darius rose to the throne by quelling a revolution. He was a contemporary of Haggai, and began his prophesying two months after him (cf. Haggai Introduction). He is called a young man in Zech. 2:4, suggesting that Zechariah was younger than Haggai. The length of his ministry is uncertain; the last dated prophecy (7:1) came approximately two years after the first, making them identical in time with Haggai’s prophecy (520–518 B.C.). Chapters 9–14 are generally thought to come from a later period of his ministry. Differences in style and references to Greece indicate a date of c. 480–470 B.C., after Darius I (c. 521–486 B.C.) and during Xerxes’ reign (c. 486–464 B.C.), the king who made Esther queen of Persia. According to Matt. 23:35, he was murdered between the temple and the altar, a fate similar to an earlier Zechariah (cf. 2 Chron. 24:20– 21), who had been stoned to death.

Background and Setting

The historical background and setting of Zechariah are the same as that of his contemporary, Haggai (cf. Haggai Introduction). In 538 B.C., Cyrus the Persian freed the captives from Israel to resettle their homeland (cf. Ezra 1:1–4) and about 50,000 returned from Babylon. They immediately began to rebuild the temple (cf. Ezra 3:1–4:5), but opposition from neighbors, followed by indifference from within, caused the work to be abandoned (cf. Ezra 4:24). Sixteen years later (cf. Ezra 5:1–2), Zechariah and Haggai were commissioned by the Lord to stir up the people to rebuild the temple. As a result, the temple was completed four years later in 516 B.C. (Ezra 6:15).

Historical and Theological Themes

Zechariah joined Haggai in rousing the people from their indifference, challenging them to resume the building of the temple. Haggai’s primary purpose was to rebuild the temple; his preaching has a tone of rebuke for the people’s indifference, sin, and lack of trust in God. He was used to start the revival, while Zechariah was used to keep it going strong with a more positive emphasis, calling the people to repentance and reassuring them regarding future blessings. Zechariah sought to encourage the people to build the temple in view of the promise that someday Messiah would come to inhabit it. The people were not just building for the present, but with the future hope of Messiah in mind. He encouraged the people, still downtrodden by the Gentile powers (1:8–12), with the reality that the Lord remembers his covenant promises to them and that He would restore and bless them. Thus the name of the book (which means “The Lord remembers”) contains in seed form the theme of the prophecy.

This “apocalypse of the OT” as it is often called, relates both to Zechariah’s immediate audience as well as to the future. This is borne out in the structure of the prophecy itself, since in each of the three major sections (chs. 1–6; 7–8; 9–14), the prophet begins historically and then moves forward to the time of the second advent, when Messiah returns to his temple to set up his earthly kingdom. The prophet reminded the people that Messiah had both an immediate and long-term commitment to his people. Thus the prophet’s words were “gracious and comforting words” (1:13), both to the exiles of Zechariah’s day as well as to the remnant of God's chosen people in that future day.

This book is the most messianic, apocalyptic, and eschatological in the OT. Primarily, it is a prophecy about Jesus Christ, focusing on his coming glory as a means to comfort Israel (cf. 1:13, 17). While the book is filled with visions, prophecies, signs, celestial visitors, and the voice of God, it is also practical, dealing with issues like repentance, divine care, salvation, and holy living. Prophecy was soon to be silent for more than 400 years until John the Baptist, so God used Zechariah to bring a rich, abundant outburst of promise for the future to sustain the faithful remnant through those silent years.

Interpretive Challenges

While there are numerous challenges to the reader, two passages within the prophecy present notable interpretive difficulty. In 11:8, the good shepherd “in one month . . . destroyed the three shepherds.” The presence of the definite article points to familiarity, so that the Jews would have understood the identity of these shepherds without further reference. It is not so easy for modern readers to understand. Numerous alternatives concerning their identity have been suggested. One of the oldest, and probably the correct, view identifies them as three orders of leaders: the priests, elders, and scribes of Israel. During his earthly ministry, Jesus also confronted the hypocrisy of Israel's religious leaders (cf. Matt. 23), disowning them with scathing denunciations, followed by destruction of the whole nation in A.D. 70. Since his coming, the Jewish people have had no other prophet, priest, or king.

Considerable discussion also surrounds the identity of the individual who possessed “wounds on your back” (13:6). Some have identified him with Christ, the wounds supposedly referring to his crucifixion. But Christ could neither have denied that he was a prophet, nor could he have claimed that he was a farmer, or that he was wounded in the house of his friends. Obviously, it is a reference to a false prophet (cf. 13:4–5) who was wounded in his idolatrous worship. The zeal for the Lord will be so great in the kingdom of Messiah that idolaters will make every attempt to hide their true identity, but their scars will be the telltale evidence of their iniquity.

Zechariah

A Call to Return to the LORD

ZECHARIAH 1 <sup>1</sup>‡ In the eighth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to the prophet Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, son of Iddo, saying, <sup>2</sup>‡ “The LORD was very angry with your fathers. <sup>3</sup>‡ Therefore say to them, Thus declares the LORD of hosts: Return to me, says the LORD of hosts, and I will return to you, says the LORD of hosts. <sup>4</sup>‡ Do not be like your fathers, to whom the former prophets cried out, ‘Thus says the LORD of hosts, Return from your evil ways and from your evil deeds.’ But they did not hear or pay attention to me, declares the LORD. <sup>5</sup>‡ Your fathers, where are they? And the prophets, do they live forever? <sup>6</sup>‡ But my words and my statutes, which I commanded my servants the prophets, did they not overtake your fathers? So they repented and said, As the LORD of hosts purposed to deal with us for our ways and deeds, so has he dealt with us.”

A Vision of a Horseman

<sup>7</sup>‡‡‡ On the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month, which is the month of Shebat, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to the prophet Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, son of Iddo, saying, <sup>8</sup>‡ “I saw in the night, and behold, a man riding on a red horse! He was standing among the myrtle trees in the glen, and behind him were red, sorrel, and white horses. <sup>9</sup>‡ Then I said, ‘What are these, my lord?’ The angel who talked with me said to me, ‘I will show you what they are.’ <sup>10</sup>‡ So the man who was standing among the myrtle trees answered, ‘These are they whom the LORD has sent to patrol the earth.’ <sup>11</sup>‡ And they answered the angel of the LORD who was standing among the myrtle trees, and said, ‘We have patrolled the earth, and behold, all the earth remains at rest.’ <sup>12</sup>‡ Then the angel of the LORD said, ‘O LORD of hosts, how long will you have no mercy on Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, against which you have been angry these seventy years?’ <sup>13</sup>‡ And the LORD answered gracious and comforting words to the angel who talked with me. <sup>14</sup>‡ So the angel who talked with me said to me, ‘Cry out, Thus says the LORD of hosts: I am exceedingly jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion. <sup>15</sup>‡ And I am exceedingly angry with the nations that are at ease; for while I was angry but a little, they furthered the disaster. <sup>16</sup>‡ Therefore, thus says the LORD, I have returned to Jerusalem with mercy; my house shall be built in it, declares the LORD of hosts, and the measuring line shall be stretched out over Jerusalem. <sup>17</sup>Cry out again, Thus says the LORD of hosts: My cities shall again overflow with prosperity, and the LORD will again comfort Zion and again choose Jerusalem.’”

A Vision of Horns and Craftsmen

<sup>18</sup>[⚡ \[1\]](#) And I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, four horns! <sup>19</sup>And I said to the angel who talked with me, “What are these?” And he said to me, “These are the horns that have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.” <sup>20</sup>⚡ Then the LORD showed me four craftsmen. <sup>21</sup>And I said, “What are these coming to do?” He said, “These are the horns that scattered Judah, so that no one raised his head. And these have come to terrify them, to cast down the horns of the nations who lifted up their horns against the land of Judah to scatter it.”

A Vision of a Man with a Measuring Line

ZECHARIAH 2 ‡ [\[1\]](#) And I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, a man with a measuring line in his hand! <sup>2</sup>Then I said, “Where are you going?” And he said to me, “To measure Jerusalem, to see what is its width and what is its length.” <sup>3</sup>‡And behold, the angel who talked with me came forward, and another angel came forward to meet him <sup>4</sup>‡and said to him, “Run, say to that young man, ‘Jerusalem shall be inhabited as villages without walls, because of the multitude of people and livestock in it. <sup>5</sup>‡And I will be to her a wall of fire all around, declares the LORD, and I will be the glory in her midst.’”

<sup>6</sup>‡‡Up! Up! Flee from the land of the north, declares the LORD. For I have spread you abroad as the four winds of the heavens, declares the LORD. <sup>7</sup>Up! Escape to Zion, you who dwell with the daughter of Babylon. <sup>8</sup>‡For thus said the LORD of hosts, after his glory sent me [\[2\]](#) to the nations who plundered you, for he who touches you touches the apple of his eye: <sup>9</sup>“Behold, I will shake my hand over them, and they shall become plunder for those who served them. Then you will know that the LORD of hosts has sent me. <sup>10</sup>‡Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion, for behold, I come and I will dwell in your midst, declares the LORD. <sup>11</sup>‡And many nations shall join themselves to the LORD in that day, and shall be my people. And I will dwell in your midst, and you shall know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you. <sup>12</sup>‡And the LORD will inherit Judah as his portion in the holy land, and will again choose Jerusalem.”

<sup>13</sup>‡Be silent, all flesh, before the LORD, for he has roused himself from his holy dwelling.

A Vision of Joshua the High Priest

ZECHARIAH 3 <sup>1</sup>Then he showed me Joshua the high priest standing before the angel of the LORD, and Satan [\[1\]](#) standing at his right hand to accuse him. <sup>2</sup>And the LORD said to Satan, “The LORD rebuke you, O Satan! The LORD who has chosen Jerusalem rebuke you! Is not this a brand [\[2\]](#) plucked from the fire?” <sup>3</sup>Now Joshua was standing before the angel, clothed with filthy garments. <sup>4</sup>And the angel said to those who were standing before him, “Remove the filthy garments from him.” And to him he said, “Behold, I have taken your iniquity away from you, and I will clothe you with pure vestments.” <sup>5</sup>And I said, “Let them put a clean turban on his head.” So they put a clean turban on his head and clothed him with garments. And the angel of the LORD was standing by.

<sup>6</sup>And the angel of the LORD solemnly assured Joshua, <sup>7</sup>“Thus says the LORD of hosts: If you will walk in my ways and keep my charge, then you shall rule my house and have charge of my courts, and I will give you the right of access among those who are standing here. <sup>8</sup>Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, you and your friends who sit before you, for they are men who are a sign: behold, I will bring my servant the Branch. <sup>9</sup>For behold, on the stone that I have set before Joshua, on a single stone with seven eyes, [\[3\]](#) I will engrave its inscription, declares the LORD of hosts, and I will remove the iniquity of this land in a single day. <sup>10</sup>In that day, declares the LORD of hosts, every one of you will invite his neighbor to come under his vine and under his fig tree.”

A Vision of a Golden Lampstand

ZECHARIAH 4 †† And the angel who talked with me came again and woke me, like a man who is awakened out of his sleep. † And he said to me, “What do you see?” I said, “I see, and behold, a lampstand all of gold, with a bowl on the top of it, and seven lamps on it, with seven lips on each of the lamps that are on the top of it. † And there are two olive trees by it, one on the right of the bowl and the other on its left.” † And I said to the angel who talked with me, “What are these, my lord?” † Then the angel who talked with me answered and said to me, “Do you not know what these are?” I said, “No, my lord.” † Then he said to me, “This is the word of the LORD to Zerubbabel: Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, says the LORD of hosts. † Who are you, O great mountain? Before Zerubbabel you shall become a plain. And he shall bring forward the top stone amid shouts of ‘Grace, grace to it!’”

† Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying, † “The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this house; his hands shall also complete it. Then you will know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you. † For whoever has despised the day of small things shall rejoice, and shall see the plumb line in the hand of Zerubbabel.

“These seven are the eyes of the LORD, which range through the whole earth.” † Then I said to him, “What are these two olive trees on the right and the left of the lampstand?” † And a second time I answered and said to him, “What are these two branches of the olive trees, which are beside the two golden pipes from which the golden oil [1] is poured out?” † He said to me, “Do you not know what these are?” I said, “No, my lord.” † Then he said, “These are the two anointed ones [2] who stand by the Lord of the whole earth.”

A Vision of a Flying Scroll

ZECHARIAH 5 <sup>1</sup>Again I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, a flying scroll! <sup>2</sup>And he said to me, “What do you see?” I answered, “I see a flying scroll. Its length is twenty cubits, and its width ten cubits.” <sup>3</sup>Then he said to me, “This is the curse that goes out over the face of the whole land. For everyone who steals shall be cleaned out according to what is on one side, and everyone who swears falsely <sup>4</sup>shall be cleaned out according to what is on the other side. <sup>5</sup>I will send it out, declares the LORD of hosts, and it shall enter the house of the thief, and the house of him who swears falsely by my name. And it shall remain in his house and consume it, both timber and stones.”

A Vision of a Woman in a Basket

<sup>6</sup>Then the angel who talked with me came forward and said to me, “Lift your eyes and see what this is that is going out.” <sup>7</sup>And I said, “What is it?” He said, “This is the basket <sup>8</sup>that is going out.” And he said, “This is their iniquity <sup>9</sup>in all the land.” <sup>10</sup>And behold, the leaden cover was lifted, and there was a woman sitting in the basket! <sup>11</sup>And he said, “This is Wickedness.” And he thrust her back into the basket, and thrust down the leaden weight on its opening.

<sup>12</sup>Then I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, two women coming forward! The wind was in their wings. They had wings like the wings of a stork, and they lifted up the basket between earth and heaven. <sup>13</sup>Then I said to the angel who talked with me, “Where are they taking the basket?” <sup>14</sup>He said to me, “To the land of Shinar, to build a house for it. And when this is prepared, they will set the basket down there on its base.”

A Vision of Four Chariots

ZECHARIAH 6 <sup>1</sup>Again I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, four chariots came out from between two mountains. And the mountains were mountains of bronze. <sup>2</sup>The first chariot had red horses, the second black horses, <sup>3</sup>the third white horses, and the fourth chariot dappled horses—all of them strong. [1] <sup>4</sup>Then I answered and said to the angel who talked with me, “What are these, my lord?” <sup>5</sup>And the angel answered and said to me, “These are going out to the four winds of heaven, after presenting themselves before the LORD of all the earth. <sup>6</sup>The chariot with the black horses goes toward the north country, the white ones go after them, and the dappled ones go toward the south country.” <sup>7</sup>When the strong horses came out, they were impatient to go and patrol the earth. And he said, “Go, patrol the earth.” So they patrolled the earth. <sup>8</sup>Then he cried to me, “Behold, those who go toward the north country have set my Spirit at rest in the north country.”

The Crown and the Temple

<sup>9</sup>And the word of the LORD came to me: <sup>10</sup>“Take from the exiles Heldai, Tobijah, and Jedaiah, who have arrived from Babylon, and go the same day to the house of Josiah, the son of Zephaniah. <sup>11</sup>Take from them silver and gold, and make a crown, and set it on the head of Joshua, the son of Jehozadak, the high priest. <sup>12</sup>And say to him, ‘Thus says the LORD of hosts, “Behold, the man whose name is the Branch: for he shall branch out from his place, and he shall build the temple of the LORD. <sup>13</sup>It is he who shall build the temple of the LORD and shall bear royal honor, and shall sit and rule on his throne. And there shall be a priest on his throne, and the counsel of peace shall be between them both.”’ <sup>14</sup>And the crown shall be in the temple of the LORD as a reminder to Helem, [2] Tobijah, Jedaiah, and Hen the son of Zephaniah.

<sup>15</sup>“And those who are far off shall come and help to build the temple of the LORD. And you shall know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you. And this shall come to pass, if you will diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God.”

A Call for Justice and Mercy

ZECHARIAH 7 †† In the fourth year of King Darius, the word of the LORD came to Zechariah on the fourth day of the ninth month, which is Chislev. <sup>2</sup>† Now the people of Bethel had sent Sharezer and Regem-melech and their men to entreat the favor of the LORD, <sup>3</sup>† saying to the priests of the house of the LORD of hosts and the prophets, “Should I weep and abstain in the fifth month, as I have done for so many years?”

<sup>4</sup> Then the word of the LORD of hosts came to me: <sup>5</sup>†† “Say to all the people of the land and the priests, When you fasted and mourned in the fifth month and in the seventh, for these seventy years, was it for me that you fasted? <sup>6</sup> And when you eat and when you drink, do you not eat for yourselves and drink for yourselves? <sup>7</sup>† Were not these the words that the LORD proclaimed by the former prophets, when Jerusalem was inhabited and prosperous, with her cities around her, and the South and the lowland were inhabited?”

<sup>8</sup>† And the word of the LORD came to Zechariah, saying, <sup>9</sup> “Thus says the LORD of hosts, Render true judgments, show kindness and mercy to one another, <sup>10</sup> do not oppress the widow, the fatherless, the sojourner, or the poor, and let none of you devise evil against another in your heart.” <sup>11</sup> But they refused to pay attention and turned a stubborn shoulder and stopped their ears that they might not hear. [\[1\]](#) <sup>12</sup>† They made their hearts diamond-hard lest they should hear the law and the words that the LORD of hosts had sent by his Spirit through the former prophets. Therefore great anger came from the LORD of hosts. <sup>13</sup>† “As I [\[2\]](#) called, and they would not hear, so they called, and I would not hear,” says the LORD of hosts, <sup>14</sup>† “and I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations that they had not known. Thus the land they left was desolate, so that no one went to and fro, and the pleasant land was made desolate.”

The Coming Peace and Prosperity of Zion

ZECHARIAH 8 †And the word of the LORD of hosts came, saying, †“Thus says the LORD of hosts: I am jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I am jealous for her with great wrath. †Thus says the LORD: I have returned to Zion and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem, and Jerusalem shall be called the faithful city, and the mountain of the LORD of hosts, the holy mountain. †Thus says the LORD of hosts: Old men and old women shall again sit in the streets of Jerusalem, each with staff in hand because of great age. †And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in its streets. †Thus says the LORD of hosts: If it is marvelous in the sight of the remnant of this people in those days, should it also be marvelous in my sight, declares the LORD of hosts? †Thus says the LORD of hosts: behold, I will save my people from the east country and from the west country, †and I will bring them to dwell in the midst of Jerusalem. And they shall be my people, and I will be their God, in faithfulness and in righteousness.”

††Thus says the LORD of hosts: “Let your hands be strong, you who in these days have been hearing these words from the mouth of the prophets who were present on the day that the foundation of the house of the LORD of hosts was laid, that the temple might be built. †For before those days there was no wage for man or any wage for beast, neither was there any safety from the foe for him who went out or came in, for I set every man against his neighbor. †But now I will not deal with the remnant of this people as in the former days, declares the LORD of hosts. †For there shall be a sowing of peace. The vine shall give its fruit, and the ground shall give its produce, and the heavens shall give their dew. And I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things. †And as you have been a byword of cursing among the nations, O house of Judah and house of Israel, so will I save you, and you shall be a blessing. Fear not, but let your hands be strong.”

†For thus says the LORD of hosts: “As I purposed to bring disaster to you when your fathers provoked me to wrath, and I did not relent, says the LORD of hosts, †so again have I purposed in these days to bring good to Jerusalem and to the house of Judah; fear not. †These are the things that you shall do: Speak the truth to one another; render in your gates judgments that are true and make for peace; †do not devise evil in your hearts against one another, and love no false oath, for all these things I hate, declares the LORD.”

<sup>18</sup>‡And the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying, <sup>19</sup>‡“Thus says the LORD of hosts: The fast of the fourth month and the fast of the fifth and the fast of the seventh and the fast of the tenth shall be to the house of Judah seasons of joy and gladness and cheerful feasts. Therefore love truth and peace.

Judgment on Israel's Enemies

ZECHARIAH 9 ††† The burden of the word of the LORD is against the land of Hadrach and Damascus is its resting place.

For the LORD has an eye on mankind and on all the tribes of Israel, [\[1\]](#)
† and on Hamath also, which borders on it, Tyre and Sidon, though they are very wise.

† Tyre has built herself a rampart and heaped up silver like dust, and fine gold like the mud of the streets.

† But behold, the Lord will strip her of her possessions and strike down her power on the sea, and she shall be devoured by fire.

† Ashkelon shall see it, and be afraid; Gaza too, and shall writhe in anguish; Ekron also, because its hopes are confounded.

The king shall perish from Gaza;
Ashkelon shall be uninhabited;

† a mixed people [\[2\]](#) shall dwell in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of Philistia.

† I will take away its blood from its mouth, and its abominations from between its teeth; it too shall be a remnant for our God; it shall be like a clan in Judah, and Ekron shall be like the Jebusites.

† Then I will encamp at my house as a guard, so that none shall march to and fro;

no oppressor shall again march over them, for now I see with my own eyes.

The Coming King of Zion

†† Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion!
Shout aloud, O daughter of Jerusalem!

Behold, your king is coming to you;
righteous and having salvation is he,
humble and mounted on a donkey,
on a colt, the foal of a donkey.

†† I will cut off the chariot from Ephraim and the war horse from Jerusalem; and the battle bow shall be cut off, and he shall speak peace to the nations; his rule shall be from sea to sea, and from the River to the ends of the earth.

<sup>11</sup>†As for you also, because of the blood of my covenant with you, I will set your prisoners free from the waterless pit.
<sup>12</sup>Return to your stronghold, O prisoners of hope; today I declare that I will restore to you double.
<sup>13</sup>‡For I have bent Judah as my bow; I have made Ephraim its arrow.
I will stir up your sons, O Zion, against your sons, O Greece, and wield you like a warrior's sword.

The LORD Will Save His People

<sup>14</sup>Then the LORD will appear over them, and his arrow will go forth like lightning; the Lord GOD will sound the trumpet and will march forth in the whirlwinds of the south.
<sup>15</sup>†The LORD of hosts will protect them, and they shall devour, and tread down the sling stones, and they shall drink and roar as if drunk with wine, and be full like a bowl, drenched like the corners of the altar.
<sup>16</sup>‡On that day the LORD their God will save them, as the flock of his people;
for like the jewels of a crown they shall shine on his land.
<sup>17</sup>For how great is his goodness, and how great his beauty!
Grain shall make the young men flourish, and new wine the young women.

The Restoration for Judah and Israel

ZECHARIAH 10 † Ask rain from the LORD in the season of the spring rain, from the LORD who makes the storm clouds, and he will give them showers of rain, to everyone the vegetation in the field.

<sup>2</sup>† For the household gods utter nonsense, and the diviners see lies; they tell false dreams and give empty consolation.

Therefore the people wander like sheep;
they are afflicted for lack of a shepherd.

<sup>3</sup>† “My anger is hot against the shepherds, and I will punish the leaders; [\[1\]](#) for the LORD of hosts cares for his flock, the house of Judah, and will make them like his majestic steed in battle.

<sup>4</sup>† From him shall come the cornerstone, from him the tent peg, from him the battle bow,
from him every ruler—all of them together.

<sup>5</sup>† They shall be like mighty men in battle, trampling the foe in the mud of the streets; they shall fight because the LORD is with them, and they shall put to shame the riders on horses.

<sup>6</sup>† “I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will save the house of Joseph.
I will bring them back because I have compassion on them, and they shall be as though I had not rejected them, for I am the LORD their God and I will answer them.

<sup>7</sup>† Then Ephraim shall become like a mighty warrior, and their hearts shall be glad as with wine.

Their children shall see it and be glad;
their hearts shall rejoice in the LORD.

<sup>8</sup>† “I will whistle for them and gather them in, for I have redeemed them, and they shall be as many as they were before.

<sup>9</sup>‡ Though I scattered them among the nations, yet in far countries they shall remember me, and with their children they shall live and return.

<sup>10</sup> I will bring them home from the land of Egypt, and gather them from Assyria, and I will bring them to the land of Gilead and to Lebanon, till there is no room for them.

<sup>11</sup>† He shall pass through the sea of troubles and strike down the waves of the sea, and all the depths of the Nile shall be dried up.

The pride of Assyria shall be laid low, and the scepter of Egypt shall depart.
<sup>12</sup>†I will make them strong in the LORD, and they shall walk in his name,”
declares the LORD.

The Flock Doomed to Slaughter

ZECHARIAH 11 ‡‡Open your doors, O Lebanon, that the fire may devour your cedars!

‡Wail, O cypress, for the cedar has fallen, for the glorious trees are ruined!
Wail, oaks of Bashan, for the thick forest has been felled!

‡The sound of the wail of the shepherds, for their glory is ruined!
The sound of the roar of the lions, for the thicket of the Jordan is ruined!

‡‡Thus said the LORD my God: “Become shepherd of the flock doomed to slaughter. ‡Those who buy them slaughter them and go unpunished, and those who sell them say, ‘Blessed be the LORD, I have become rich,’ and their own shepherds have no pity on them. ‡For I will no longer have pity on the inhabitants of this land, declares the LORD. Behold, I will cause each of them to fall into the hand of his neighbor, and each into the hand of his king, and they shall crush the land, and I will deliver none from their hand.”

‡‡So I became the shepherd of the flock doomed to be slaughtered by the sheep traders. And I took two staffs, one I named Favor, the other I named Union. And I tended the sheep. ‡In one month I destroyed the three shepherds. But I became impatient with them, and they also detested me. ‡So I said, “I will not be your shepherd. What is to die, let it die. What is to be destroyed, let it be destroyed. And let those who are left devour the flesh of one another.” ‡And I took my staff Favor, and I broke it, annulling the covenant that I had made with all the peoples. ‡So it was annulled on that day, and the sheep traders, who were watching me, knew that it was the word of the LORD. ‡Then I said to them, “If it seems good to you, give me my wages; but if not, keep them.” And they weighed out as my wages thirty pieces of silver. ‡Then the LORD said to me, “Throw it to the potter”—the lordly price at which I was priced by them. So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them into the house of the LORD, to the potter. ‡Then I broke my second staff Union, annulling the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

‡Then the LORD said to me, “Take once more the equipment of a foolish shepherd. ‡For behold, I am raising up in the land a shepherd who does not care for those being destroyed, or seek the young or heal the maimed or nourish the healthy, but devours the flesh of the fat ones, tearing off even their hoofs.

<sup>17</sup>†“Woe to my worthless shepherd, who deserts the flock!
May the sword strike his arm and his right eye!
Let his arm be wholly withered, his right eye utterly blinded!”

The LORD Will Give Salvation

ZECHARIAH 12 †† The burden of the word of the LORD concerning Israel: Thus declares the LORD, who stretched out the heavens and founded the earth and formed the spirit of man within him: <sup>2</sup>†“Behold, I am about to make Jerusalem a cup of staggering to all the surrounding peoples. The siege of Jerusalem will also be against Judah. <sup>3</sup>†On that day I will make Jerusalem a heavy stone for all the peoples. All who lift it will surely hurt themselves. And all the nations of the earth will gather against it. <sup>4</sup>†On that day, declares the LORD, I will strike every horse with panic, and its rider with madness. But for the sake of the house of Judah I will keep my eyes open, when I strike every horse of the peoples with blindness. <sup>5</sup>†Then the clans of Judah shall say to themselves, ‘The inhabitants of Jerusalem have strength through the LORD of hosts, their God.’

<sup>6</sup>†“On that day I will make the clans of Judah like a blazing pot in the midst of wood, like a flaming torch among sheaves. And they shall devour to the right and to the left all the surrounding peoples, while Jerusalem shall again be inhabited in its place, in Jerusalem.

<sup>7</sup>†“And the LORD will give salvation to the tents of Judah first, that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem may not surpass that of Judah. <sup>8</sup>†On that day the LORD will protect the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the feeblest among them on that day shall be like David, and the house of David shall be like God, like the angel of the LORD, going before them. <sup>9</sup>†And on that day I will seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

Him Whom They Have Pierced

<sup>10</sup>†“And I will pour out on the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit of grace and pleas for mercy, so that, when they look on me, on him whom they have pierced, they shall mourn for him, as one mourns for an only child, and weep bitterly over him, as one weeps over a firstborn. <sup>11</sup>†On that day the mourning in Jerusalem will be as great as the mourning for Hadad-rimmon in the plain of Megiddo. <sup>12</sup>†The land shall mourn, each family [1] by itself: the family of the house of David by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the house of Nathan by itself, and their wives by themselves; <sup>13</sup>the family of the house of Levi by itself, and their wives by themselves; <sup>14</sup>and all the families that are left, each by itself, and their wives by themselves.

ZECHARIAH 13 †“On that day there shall be a fountain opened for the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, to cleanse them from sin and uncleanness.

Idolatry Cut Off

<sup>2</sup>†“And on that day, declares the LORD of hosts, I will cut off the names of the idols from the land, so that they shall be remembered no more. And also I will remove from the land the prophets and the spirit of uncleanness. <sup>3</sup>†And if anyone again prophesies, his father and mother who bore him will say to him, ‘You shall not live, for you speak lies in the name of the LORD.’ And his father and mother who bore him shall pierce him through when he prophesies.

<sup>4</sup>†“On that day every prophet will be ashamed of his vision when he prophesies. He will not put on a hairy cloak in order to deceive, <sup>5</sup>but he will say, ‘I am no prophet, I am a worker of the soil, for a man sold me in my youth.’ [1] <sup>6</sup>†And if one asks him, ‘What are these wounds on your back?’ [2] he will say, ‘The wounds I received in the house of my friends.’

The Shepherd Struck

<sup>7</sup>†“Awake, O sword, against my shepherd, against the man who stands next to me,” declares the LORD of hosts.

“Strike the shepherd, and the sheep will be scattered; I will turn my hand against the little ones.

<sup>8</sup>†In the whole land, declares the LORD, two thirds shall be cut off and perish, and one third shall be left alive.

<sup>9</sup>†And I will put this third into the fire, and refine them as one refines silver, and test them as gold is tested.

They will call upon my name,
and I will answer them.

I will say, ‘They are my people’;
and they will say, ‘The LORD is my God.’”

The Coming Day of the LORD

ZECHARIAH 14 †Behold, a day is coming for the LORD, when the spoil taken from you will be divided in your midst. †For I will gather all the nations against Jerusalem to battle, and the city shall be taken and the houses plundered and the women raped. Half of the city shall go out into exile, but the rest of the people shall not be cut off from the city. †Then the LORD will go out and fight against those nations as when he fights on a day of battle. †On that day his feet shall stand on the Mount of Olives that lies before Jerusalem on the east, and the Mount of Olives shall be split in two from east to west by a very wide valley, so that one half of the Mount shall move northward, and the other half southward. †And you shall flee to the valley of my mountains, for the valley of the mountains shall reach to Azal. And you shall flee as you fled from the earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah. Then the LORD my God will come, and all the holy ones with him.

†On that day there shall be no light, cold, or frost. [1] †And there shall be a unique [2] day, which is known to the LORD, neither day nor night, but at evening time there shall be light.

†On that day living waters shall flow out from Jerusalem, half of them to the eastern sea [3] and half of them to the western sea. [4] It shall continue in summer as in winter.

†And the LORD will be king over all the earth. On that day the LORD will be one and his name one.

†The whole land shall be turned into a plain from Geba to Rimmon south of Jerusalem. But Jerusalem shall remain aloft on its site from the Gate of Benjamin to the place of the former gate, to the Corner Gate, and from the Tower of Hananel to the king's winepresses. †And it shall be inhabited, for there shall never again be a decree of utter destruction. [5] Jerusalem shall dwell in security.

†And this shall be the plague with which the LORD will strike all the peoples that wage war against Jerusalem: their flesh will rot while they are still standing on their feet, their eyes will rot in their sockets, and their tongues will rot in their mouths.

†And on that day a great panic from the LORD shall fall on them, so that each will seize the hand of another, and the hand of the one will be raised against the hand of the other. <sup>14</sup>Even Judah will fight at Jerusalem. And the wealth of all the surrounding nations shall be collected, gold, silver, and garments in great abundance. <sup>15</sup>And a plague like this plague shall fall on the horses, the mules, the camels, the donkeys, and whatever beasts may be in those camps.

<sup>16</sup>‡‡ Then everyone who survives of all the nations that have come against Jerusalem shall go up year after year to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep the Feast of Booths. <sup>17</sup>‡ And if any of the families of the earth do not go up to Jerusalem to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, there will be no rain on them. <sup>18</sup>And if the family of Egypt does not go up and present themselves, then on them there shall be no rain; [6] there shall be the plague with which the LORD afflicts the nations that do not go up to keep the Feast of Booths. <sup>19</sup>This shall be the punishment to Egypt and the punishment to all the nations that do not go up to keep the Feast of Booths.

<sup>20</sup>‡ And on that day there shall be inscribed on the bells of the horses, “Holy to the LORD.” And the pots in the house of the LORD shall be as the bowls before the altar. <sup>21</sup>‡ And every pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be holy to the LORD of hosts, so that all who sacrifice may come and take of them and boil the meat of the sacrifice in them. And there shall no longer be a trader [7] in the house of the LORD of hosts on that day.

Study Notes

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:1–6 The opening six verses provide an introduction to the entire prophecy in which the prophet calls upon the people to repent and never again repeat the past sins of their fathers (cf. 1 Cor. 10:11).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:1 eighth month, in the second year of Darius. C. October/November 520 B.C. See Introduction: Author and Date. Zechariah began his ministry two months after the start of Haggai's ministry (cf. Hag. 1:1) and the resumption of the rebuilding of the temple (cf. Hag. 1:12–15). Most OT prophets who dated their prophecies did so according to the reign of a king in Israel, Judah, or both. Haggai and Zechariah date their prophecies according to the reign of the Gentile king, indicating that the times of the Gentiles (Luke 21:24) had begun. Zechariah. See Introduction: Author and Date.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:2 The Lord was very angry. This actually means “to break out in long-controlled indignation,” reminding the people of the severity of God's wrath and the necessity of his judgment on their past sins in preexilic times.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:3 the Lord of hosts. This frequently used name for God shows his might as the commander of the hosts, whether they are the armies of Israel (cf. 2 Chron. 26:11), the armies of the heathen nations (cf. Judg. 4:2), or the heavenly inhabitants (cf. 1 Kings 22:19). Return to me. Though primarily a book of consolation, the prophet begins with a call to repentance, to preclude any false security on the part of Israel, i.e., thinking that God would bless his chosen people regardless of their spiritual condition. This expresses the ongoing desire of God (cf. Gen. 17:7; Lev. 26:12; Ezek. 37:27; 2 Cor. 6:16; James 4:8; Rev. 21:3), and the constant condition for blessing.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:4 Do not be like your fathers. The disobedient, obstinate behavior of their fathers was not so much directed toward the prophets, but at God himself. The people were well aware of their fathers' sins (cf. Ezra 9:7) and could look around them and see the results. History should have taught them to repent. the former prophets. A reference to the preexilic prophets who all preached the same message of repentance before the exile, e.g., Isaiah and Jeremiah. Cf. “my servants” (Zech. 1:6).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:5 While both their fathers and the former prophets were dead, the legacy of their fathers' failure to heed the prophets' warnings was vividly before them, exemplified by the city of Jerusalem and the temple lying in ruins, needing to be rebuilt.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:6 God's word accomplishes all that he designs (Isa. 55:10–11), in blessing and in judgment. His warnings, so precisely fulfilled, overtook and destroyed their fathers, who recognized God's hand in the judgment (cf. Lam. 2:17; Ezra 9:6ff.). The exile was positive proof that God punishes those who sin and reject his warnings. they repented. Cf. Dan. 9:1–19.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:7–6:15 God gave Zechariah these visions for the comfort of the postexilic remnant of Israel who had been commissioned to return from Persia to the land promised to Abraham (cf. Gen. 12). They were to rebuild the temple (cf. 1 and 2 Chronicles) and to anticipate the day of Messiah's return, when all of God's promises to Israel would finally, fully, and ultimately be fulfilled. Some portions of the visions have been fulfilled, but the large number await the second advent of Jesus Christ. The following summary will help to distinguish the contribution of individual visions and clarify the whole. Vision 1—Man among the myrtle trees (Zech. 1:7–17), God promises prosperity to Israel. Vision 2—Four horns and four craftsmen (1:18–21), God judges the nations who attacked Israel. Vision 3—Man with a measuring line (2:1–13), God rebuilds Jerusalem. Vision 4—Cleansing of the high priest (3:1–10), God purifies both high priest and people. Vision 5—Golden lampstand and two olive trees (4:1–14), God rebuilds the temple. Vision 6—Flying scroll (5:1–4), God removes imparted sin/idolatry. Vision 7—Woman in basket (5:5–11), God removes the system of false religion. Vision 8—Four chariots (6:1–8), God brings peace and rest to Israel. Appendix—Coronation of the high priest (6:9–15), Messiah assumes the office of both King and Priest.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:7–17 This is the first of eight night visions that Zechariah saw in a single night. It summarized all the other seven by giving the general theme, leaving the details to the other visions. Reassuring words are provided to the exiles by revealing God's purpose for the future of his chosen people.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:7 the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month. C. January/February 519 B.C. Approximately three months after Zechariah's opening call to repentance.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:8 I saw in the night. This is the first vision revealing God’s plan for Jerusalem, which begins with the sight of “a man riding on a red horse.” The man is identified as the angel of the Lord (cf. v. 11). The other riders report to him, indicating his authority over them. Because of the strength of horses, they became symbols of war. Red is often the symbol of blood, hence judgment (cf. Isa. 63:1–4; Rev. 6:3ff.). among the myrtle trees in the glen. Myrtle trees were associated with booth-making at the Feast of Booths, or Tabernacles (Lev. 23:33–44; Neh. 8:15), and with messianic blessing (cf. Isa. 41:19; 55:13), and thereby possibly speak of restoration and blessing. Their location in the ravine has been thought to refer to a low place where such shrubs would flourish. Because of the lowliness (these shrubs would never exceed eight feet in height), commonness, fragrance (from white blossoms), and abundance in flourishing places, it is best to see these as representing Israel, God’s people. They are the lowly and yet enriched people. Their lowliness in the ravine could also refer to Israel’s current humiliation. red, sorrel, and white. Presumably these other horses had riders as well. The colors may speak of the work of the riders: red speaking of bloodshed and judgment (cf. Isa. 63:1–2), white speaking of victory (cf. Rev. 19:11), and sorrel or a brownish color is possibly a combination of the others. A similar picture is found in Rev. 6:1–8. These horses are about to gain a victorious judgment. Since they are messengers of vengeance, they likely represent angels, so frequently employed as God’s instruments of judgment.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:9 The angel who talked with me. This interpreting angel (1:13–14, 19; 2:3; 3:1; 4:1) is to be distinguished from the angel of the Lord (1:11–12).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:10 patrol. A symbolic military description of angelic movement patrolling and reconnoitering on a global scale. The purpose is to ascertain the state of the enemy and to respond to God’s will in engaging that enemy triumphantly.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:11 the angel of the Lord. Elsewhere the angel of the Lord is frequently identified with the preincarnate Lord himself (e.g., Gen. 16:11, 13; 18:1–2, 13, 17; 22:11–18; Ex. 3:2, 4; Josh. 5:13; 6:2; Judg. 6:12, 14; 13:21–22). In Zech. 1:13, this angel is called Lord, and is the divine commander-in-chief of this angelic army. all the earth remains at rest. In contrast to the difficulties facing the exiles, without temple or city walls, the heathen nations were superficially at rest, occupied with their own selfish interests (cf. v. 15).

This was generally the condition in the second year of Darius. The contrast makes the plight of Israel all the more distressing and the hope for the fulfillment of Hag. 2:7, 22 more intense.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:12 The angel of the Lord interceded to God the Father on behalf of Israel, pleading for the withdrawal of God’s chastening hand. The “seventy years” refers to God’s words to Jeremiah concerning the length of Judah’s exile (Jer. 25:11–12; 29:10).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:13 gracious . . . comforting words. The content of these words is given in vv. 14–17: God still loved Jerusalem (v. 14), he was angry with the nations who afflicted them (v. 15), and he will bring prosperity to Jerusalem (vv. 16–17).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:14 I am exceedingly jealous for Jerusalem. God first described himself as jealous when making his covenant with Israel (Ex. 20:5; 34:14). This same jealousy had been experienced by Israel in punishment (cf. Deut. 29:18–28; Ezek. 5:13). That same jealous love is expressed emphatically in the city’s defense.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:15 Moved by his great love for his people, the Lord acted in anger (cf. v. 2) against the nations that mistreated his people. Although they were his instrument of judgment against Israel, they had exceeded God’s instructions in meting out punishment. They did not understand that God’s intention was to punish for a time and then show compassion (cf. Isa. 54:7–8).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:16–17 Not only would the temple be rebuilt, which at that time had only foundations (cf. Hag. 2:18), but the city itself would again expand due to the prosperity (cf. Isa. 40:9–10). The wall was completed 75 years later. God would again comfort Jerusalem (cf. Isa. 40:1–2; 51:3, 12) and would again choose it as the place of his earthly throne (cf. Ps. 132:13). This will be fulfilled in the millennial kingdom of Messiah (cf. Rev. 20). Given the fact that the returning Jews lost sight of their priorities (cf. Hag. 1:1–12), this message reaffirmed God’s plan. It should be noted that the millennial kingdom will provide the presence of God in Jerusalem (Ezek. 48:35), a glorious temple (Ezek. 40–48), a rebuilt Jerusalem (Jer. 31:38–40), the nations punished (Matt. 25:31–46), the prosperity of Judah’s cities (Isa. 60:4–9), the blessedness of the people (Zech. 9:17), and the comfort of Zion (Isa. 14:1).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:18–21 The second of eight night visions adds details to the judgment of the nations who persecuted his Israel, building upon God’s promise to comfort his people (1:13, 17).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:18 four horns! Horns were symbols of power and pride (cf. Ps. 75:10; 89:17; 92:10; Dan. 7:24; 8:20–21; Mic. 4:13). In the context of judgment each symbolizes either a nation or the head of that nation (cf. Dan. 7:21, 24; 8:3; Rev. 17:12). Here the horns represent nations that attacked God’s people (Zech. 1:19, 21), referring either to Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, and Medo-Persia or perhaps, more likely, to the four world empires of Dan. 2; 7: Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, and Rome, all of which oppressed Israel.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:20 four craftsmen. The word is literally the term for stone workers, metal workers, and wood workers—those who shape material with hammers and chisels. These “hammers” represent the nations that overthrow the four horns (v. 18). As with the four beasts of Daniel 7, each empire is overthrown by the subsequent one, the last being replaced by Messiah’s kingdom (cf. Dan. 2:44; 7:9–14, 21–22). Babylon was hammered in a night attack by the Medo-Persians (539 B.C.). With the victory of Alexander over Darius in 333 B.C. at Issus, the Greeks hammered the Medo-Persian “horn.” In the second century B.C., the Roman hammer fell and one by one the nations fell (Israel in 63 B.C.). The Roman Empire, revived in the last days, according to Daniel, will be hammered by the returning Messiah (cf. Dan. 2:34–35, 45).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:1–13 The third vision reveals a man with a measuring line. Like the second vision, it also builds on God’s promise to comfort his people (1:13, 17). The restoration of Jerusalem after the return from Babylon is only a foretaste of the future messianic kingdom, for the language of the vision cannot be fulfilled historically. Its scope extends beyond the time of Zechariah to the rule of the Messiah on earth.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:1 a man with a measuring line. The restoration and rebuilding of Jerusalem is symbolized. It is very possible that the surveyor is the angel of the Lord (cf. 1:11; 6:12; Ezek. 40:2–3), who is laying out the future dimensions of the city.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:3 angel . . . talked with me. This is the instructing angel of 1:9.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:4 The news was so wonderful that it was to be heralded immediately. An angel arrived to explain that Jerusalem will become so large that it will extend beyond any walls (cf. Isa. 49:19–20; Ezek. 38:11). The conditions here described have at no time been true historically (cf. Neh. 7:4; 11:1–2); full realization must be assigned to a future earthly kingdom (cf. Isa. 49:19–20). A counterfeit of this unwallled safety will exist under Antichrist in the time of tribulation (see notes on Ezek. 38:8–12).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:5 a wall of fire all around. Though without walls, Jerusalem will dwell securely because of divine protection. The phrase is reminiscent of the pillar of fire at the exodus (cf. Ex. 13:21; 2 Kings 6:15–17; Isa. 4:5–6). I will be the glory in her midst. More than protection, the glory depicts the Messiah’s blessing and personal presence in his earthly kingdom (cf. Isa. 4:2–6; 40:5; 60:17–18; Ezek. 42:1–7).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:6–9 The prophet turned from the distant future (vv. 4–5) to the present, summoning those Israelites still in Babylon (referred to as the land of the north, cf. v. 7, because of the direction from which it invaded Israel) to flee before God poured out his judgment on it. This also implied a future call to leave a future Babylon (cf. Rev. 17:3–5; 18:1–8).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:6 I have spread you. According to 2 Kings 17:6, they were scattered from the Gozan River, 200 miles west of Nineveh, to Media, 300 miles east. Some had even taken refuge in Moab, Ammon, Edom, and Egypt (cf. Jer. 40:11–12; 43:7).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:8 after his glory sent me. The Messiah is sent by the “Lord of hosts” (v. 9) to procure his glory and to vindicate him in the nations who have spoiled Israel. the apple of his eye. See note on Deut. 32:10. Harming God’s chosen people is like striking the pupil of God’s eye.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:10–13 The language is once again messianic, describing the personal presence of the Messiah, dwelling on the throne of David in Jerusalem during the millennium.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:11–12 Echoing the promise to Abraham (Gen. 12:3), many nations will join themselves to the Lord (cf. Zech. 6:15; 8:20–23; Isa. 2:2–4; 56:6–7; 60:3). But this will not alter God’s choice of his people, they will still be “the Lord’s portion . . . his allotted heritage.” (cf. Deut. 32:9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:12 holy land. Used only here, the expression is made not because it is the Promised Land but because it will be the site of Messiah's earthly throne when the land has been cleansed. A holy land is appropriate and expected for its holy Lord (Isa. 6:1–5).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:13 his holy dwelling. God's dwelling in heaven (cf. Ps. 15:1; 24:3).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:1–10 The fourth night vision emphasizes Israel's cleansing and restoration as a priestly nation. The vision itself is given in vv. 1–5, followed by the explanation and significance in vv. 6–10. The revealer was most likely God himself.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:1 The scene is invested with a judicial character as Joshua, the high priest of the restoration who came back in the first group with Zerubbabel (cf. Ezra 3:2; 5:2; Hag. 1:1), was accused by Satan, who was standing at the right side, the place of accusation under the law (cf. Ps. 109:6). That Joshua was representative of the nation is evident from: 1) the emphasis on the nation in these visions; 2) the fact that the rebuke in Zech. 3:2 is based on God's choice of Jerusalem, not Joshua; 3) the identification in v. 8 of Joshua and his fellow priests as symbolic of future Israel; and 4) its application to the land in v. 9. Satan. This could also be translated "adversary" and thus the person's identity would be unknown. However, because the activity of accusation is so in keeping with Satan (cf. Job 1–2; Rev. 12:10), his identification is preferable. The malicious adversary stands in the presence of the Lord to proclaim Israel's sins and their unworthiness of God's favor. The situation is crucial: If Joshua is vindicated, Israel is accepted; if Joshua is rejected, Israel is rejected. The entire plan of God for the nation was revealed in the outcome. Israel's hopes would either be destroyed or confirmed.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:2 the Lord said. The angel of the Lord is identified as the Lord, thus verifying this "messenger" as deity. See notes on 1:11; Judg. 6:11. And the message was crucial in confirming that 1) God had not cast off the Jews, but was consistent with his covenants with them in Abraham and David, and 2) his election takes their side against Satan's accusations. God will do this rebuking, as reported in Rev. 20:10. See note on Jude 9. chosen Jerusalem. God's favor rested on Israel above any nation on earth (cf. Deut. 7:6–11). He snatched them from potential disappearance in their captivity, like pulling a stick out of the fire just before it is torched (cf. Amos 4:11). Thus, God confirmed his purposes for Israel, sweeping from Zechariah's time to the consummation of human history (cf. Rev. 12:3–17).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:3 filthy garments. Employing the most loathsome, vile term for filth, the phrase pictures the habitual condition of defilement of the priesthood and the people (cf. Isa. 4:4; 64:6), which became the basis of Satan's accusation that the nation is morally impure and unworthy of God's protection and blessing.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:4 The removal of filthy garments by the angels ("who were standing before him") depicted the promised future forensic justification, the salvation of the nation (cf. v. 9; 12:10–13:1; Rom. 11:25–27). The high priest was symbolically clothed with rich robes, which spoke of righteousness imputed (cf. Isa. 61:10) and the restoration of Israel to her original calling (cf. Ex. 19:6; Isa. 61:6; Rom. 11:1–2).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:5 a clean turban. The turban, part of the high priest's dress, was inscribed with the words: "Holy to the Lord" (Ex. 28:36–37; 39:30–31). Zechariah joined the scene, calling for this because it strongly symbolized that Israel's priestly place with God was restored.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:6–7 Although God will keep his promise to justify Israel, reinstate the nation as his priestly people to serve in his house, keep his courts, and have complete access to his presence—all based on his sovereign, electing love and not by merit or works of man—that will not be fulfilled until Israel is faithful to the Lord. It awaits the fulfillment of 12:10–13:1.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:8 men who are a sign. The companion priests sitting before Joshua were symbols of future Israel, foreshadowing the coming Messiah. my servant the Branch. Two messianic phrases are here combined. "My Servant" is used by earlier prophets to depict the Messiah (Isa. 42:1; 49:3, 5; 52:13; 53:11; Ezek. 34:23–24) and speaks of his complete obedience and his humble estate. "Branch" also points to the Messiah (cf. Zech. 6:12–13; Isa. 4:2; Jer. 23:5; 33:15) and denotes his rise from humble beginnings (Isa. 11:1; Jer. 23:5–6) and his fruitfulness (Zech. 6:12; Isa. 11:1).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:9 the stone. Here is another reference to Messiah. In Ps. 118:22–23; Isa. 8:13–15; 28:16; Dan. 2:35, 45; Matt. 21:42; Eph. 2:19–22; 1 Pet. 2:6–8, he is a rejected stone, a stone of stumbling, a stone of refuge, a destroying stone, and a foundation stone. Here he is the precious foundation stone, with “seven eyes” symbolic of his omniscience and infinite intelligence (cf. Zech. 4:10; Isa. 11:2; Col. 2:3; Rev. 5:6). The engraving may be a reference to the cornerstone of the temple building, on which will be engraved an inscription attesting to the Divine Builder and the purpose for which the building was erected. As such, it is closely tied to the removal of “the iniquity of this land in a single day,” symbolized by the removal of filthy garments in Zech. 3:4. The phrase looks to the future day when there will be cleansing and forgiveness for the nation as a whole (12:10–13:1; Rom. 11:25–27), made possible through Christ’s redemptive provision at Calvary.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:10 invite his neighbor to come under. A common expression in Israel for peace and prosperity (cf. 1 Kings 4:25; Mic. 4:4), here depicting the peace during the millennial rule of Messiah.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:1–14 The fourth vision focused on Joshua the high priest and, by extension, the cleansing and restoration of the nation to her divinely appointed role as priest. This fifth vision focuses on the civil leader Zerubbabel, a descendant of David, to encourage him in the work of rebuilding the temple. The faithful completion of the work would then enable Israel to again bear light of God’s grace (testimony) to the world.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:1 like a man who is awakened. Once again the interpreting angel comes to awaken the prophet out of spiritual exhaustion from the holy trauma of the previous vision. Cf. Dan. 10:9.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:2 seven lips on each of the lamps. The lampstand is the seven-branched kind used in the tabernacle, with the addition of a bowl on the top of it in order to maintain an abundant supply of oil and spouts to carry the oil to keep the seven lamps burning. The picture is of an abundant supply.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:3 two olive trees. Olive oil was used in those days to fuel the lamps. The two olive trees supply oil to the bowl. The graphic picture is of limitless oil, supplied automatically without human agency, flowing from the trees down to the bowl, down to the lamps.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:4 What are these. Zechariah wanted to know the meaning of the two olive trees. Because of Zechariah’s priestly background, his query surprised the interpreting angel (v. 5). His question goes unanswered until later (v. 14).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:6 This is the word of the Lord to Zerubbabel. The purpose of the vision was to encourage Zerubbabel to complete the temple rebuilding, to assure him of divine enablement for that venture and the endless supply for the future glory of Messiah’s kingdom and temple. The lampstand pictured Israel fully supplied by God to be his light then and in the future. It must be noted that the church has temporarily taken this role presently (cf. Eph. 5:8–9; Rev. 1:12–13, 20), until Israel’s salvation and restoration to covenant blessing and usefulness. Cf. Rom. 11:11–24. Not by might . . . power, but by my Spirit. Neither human might, wealth, or physical stamina would be sufficient to complete the work. Only an abundant supply of the power of the Holy Spirit, pictured by the “bowl” (Zech. 4:2) would enable him to carry out the task, and enable Israel in the Messiah’s kingdom to be a light again to the world by the operation of the Spirit (cf. Ezek. 36:24).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:7 Who are you, O great mountain? Because the outcome is guaranteed (vv. 6, 9), any mountain-like opposition will be leveled by God to become like a flat surface. No obstacle will be able to stop the completion of the temple in Zerubbabel’s time or in the final kingdom of Messiah (cf. Ezek. 40–48). the top stone. The final stone of the building will be put into place, signifying its completion. Grace, grace to it! This blessing signifying shouts of joy and thanksgiving came to pass (cf. Ezra 3:11–13) over the completion of the temple. Contrast this attitude with that of the people seeing the unfinished temple (Hag. 2:3).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:9 me. This is the angel of the Lord (see note on 1:11), the Protector, Deliverer, Defender of Israel, sent to bring this to fulfillment. In the future, he will come as Messiah to set up worship in the temple in his kingdom.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:10 the day of small things. Though the rebuilding of a temple smaller than Solomon’s may have been discouraging to some (cf. Ezra 3:12; Hag. 2:3), the Lord announced that his pleasure was upon this work, and that his omniscient care was watching over and taking pleasure in its completion. He said in effect, “Don’t despise what God is pleased with.” This was only a picture of the glorious restoration when Messiah comes to reign. That temple will make all others pale by comparison (cf. Ezek. 40–48).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:14 These are the two anointed ones. The two olive trees (vv. 3, 11) represent the kingly and priestly offices in Israel through which the blessing of God was to flow. The two olive branches (v. 12) are the two men who occupied the supreme positions in those offices at that time: Zerubbabel, as a descendant of David, and Joshua, the high priest, a descendant of Eleazar. Together, they foreshadow the Messiah, in whom these two offices are combined (cf. 6:13; Ps. 110) and who is the true source of blessing to make Israel the light to the nations (cf. Isa. 60:1–3). They had positions of responsibility in service to “the Lord of the whole earth,” a millennial term that points to the final kingdom (cf. Mic. 5:4).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:1–4 This sixth vision of the flying scroll depicts the word of God, which has been disobeyed by Israel and the entire world. It calls for God’s righteous judgment of the sinner according to his standard, clearly set forth in his word.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:1–2 This flying scroll, unfurled for all to read both sides, measured 30 feet long and 15 feet wide (a cubit being 18 inches), exactly the size of the Holy Place in the tabernacle. The scroll represents, then, a divine standard, by which man is to be measured.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:3 curse. The scroll, symbolizing the law of God, is a figure for a curse or punishment on all who disobeyed it and for blessing on all who obeyed it (cf. Deut. 27:26; 28:15–68). A similar picture is presented in Rev. 5:1–9 and 10:1–11. everyone who steals . . . everyone who swears. Written on both sides, the scroll probably contained the Ten Commandments, not just two. The two singled out, the third and eighth, are most likely representative of all commands of God’s law, for which Israel was guilty of violations (cf. James 2:10). It has an immediate message to those of Zechariah’s time that God will root out and destroy the sinners who reject his word; but it also has a future message for Israel and the world prior to Messiah’s kingdom (cf. Ezek. 20:33–38; Matt. 25:31–46).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:4 There is no escape from the judgment of God. His word will enter the place of sinners and remain there until it has accomplished its purpose (Isa. 55:10–11), which will be particularly true in the kingdom. The promise of the land in Deut. 30:1–10 will be fulfilled in the future day, as will consuming judgment (cf. Rev. 6–19).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:5–11 The previous vision dealt with the purging of sinners from the land. This seventh vision of a woman in a basket continues the theme, focusing on the removal of the whole sinful system from Israel, which will happen before the kingdom comes (cf. Ezek. 20:38).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:5–6 The wicked system is represented as a basket with a woman held captive inside under a lead cover. An ephah (basket) was smaller than a bushel, holding about 5 gallons. Like the flying scroll (cf. vv. 1–4), this was obviously enlarged for the purpose of the vision. The people of Israel are seen as pieces of grain, perhaps indicating that the wickedness is particularly materialistic. This was a sin that Israel picked up in Babylon, and it has influenced them through the centuries until removed by the Messiah in the last days. This secular commercialism is central to the final world system (cf. Rev. 18).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:7–8 woman. Inside the basket was sitting a woman, personifying this final wickedness (cf. Rev. 17:3–5), which is not dormant, since the lead cover is required to restrain it in the basket (cf. 2 Thess. 2:6–8).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:9 two women . . . wind was in their wings. Since storks are unclean birds (Lev. 11:19; Deut. 14:18) these must be agents of evil, demonic forces, protective of the wicked secularism, who set up the final system of evil. God allows them to set up the world system that the Lord destroys when he returns (cf. Rev. 19:11–16).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:11 Shinar. The destination of the women bearing the basket was Shinar, an older word designating Babylon (cf. Gen. 10:10). The older word is used possibly to recall the Tower of Babel as a symbol of opposition against God (cf. Gen. 11:2). There it will be placed in a “temple” and set on a base or pedestal as an idol. Again the vision is unmistakably looking forward to the final Babylon of Rev. 17–18 at the second coming of Christ (cf. Mal. 4:1–3).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:1–8 The eighth and final vision completes the cycle and connects with the first vision. It pictures four chariots with the horses introduced in the first vision (1:8), symbolizing God’s angelic agents (cf. 6:5) swiftly carrying out his judgment on the nations just prior to the establishment of the messianic kingdom.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:1 two mountains . . . bronze. Representing the reality of God’s judgment on the nations who attack Israel, the two mountains are probably Mount Zion and the Mount of Olives, where the Lord will return and judge (cf. Joel 3:2, 12, 14; Zech. 14:4). This valley, called Jehoshaphat (“Jehovah judges”) could refer to the Kidron Valley between these two mountains. Jews, Christians, and even Muslims have long taught that the last judgment will be there. The bronze has a symbolic relationship to judgment as in the case of the bronze serpent (Num. 21:9) and/or the bronze altar (Ex. 27:2), where sin was dealt with by God.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:2–3 The judgment scene is further dramatized by these chariots and horses. For the significance of the horses’ colors, see note on 1:8. The addition of “black” horses may represent famine and death. The “sorrel” horse has been replaced with “dappled” (i.e., spotted) horses. A similar picture is found in Rev. 6:1–8, where the horsemen of the apocalypse appear in judgment imagery, riding forth in vengeance on the nations.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:5 four winds of heaven. This imagery represents divine angelic agents sent out to execute judgment on behalf of the “Lord of all the earth,” a millennial title designating the universal rule of the Messiah in the kingdom age (cf. 4:14; Mic. 4:13).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:6–7 Go, patrol the earth. These angelic judgment carriers unleash catastrophic judgment on the earth (cf. Rev. 6:1–19:16 for similarities). Nothing is said about going east and west because of the sea and the desert. Israel’s enemies came from the north (Assyria, Babylon, Seleucids, and Romans) and the south (Egyptians). This north and south exit leads to a worldwide unleashing of judgment on the nations all over the earth (cf. Matt. 25:31–46).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:8 set my Spirit at rest. As a result of God’s judgment of his enemies, his wrath can rest. God has been avenged by this action, particularly in regard to the power from the north being judged finally. This likely refers to the final Babylon (cf. Rev. 17–18). Until this judgment is done and God’s wrath rests, the kingdom can’t be established (Rev. 19–20) with the Messiah on his throne.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:9–15 Joshua served as an illustration of the Messiah in this passage in that Zechariah’s crowning of Joshua, the high priest, was a miniature, advance illustration of the future coronation of Messiah, the Branch, who will unite the two offices of priest and king (v. 13). This appendix supplements visions four and five (3:1–10; 4:1–14) and culminates the series of eight visions with the climax of history—the coronation of the Lord Jesus Christ.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:10 Take from the exiles. Jewish exiles who remained in Babylon, but who had come bearing gifts for the building of the temple are identified. Zechariah was told to meet them that same day and receive their gifts.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:11 a crown. Zechariah was to make not a high priest's crown or turban, but an ornate crown, one constructed of many circlets, a majestic crown (like the one on the returning Messiah in Rev. 19:12). This crown was to be set on the head of the high priest, Joshua. In the OT, the kingly and priestly offices were kept rigidly distinct. The office of king belonged only to the house of David, while the office of priest was only for the house of Levi. Uzziah's mingling of the two brought about his death (cf. 2 Chron. 26:16–23). But here this act is ordered by God to depict the coming King/Priest Messiah.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:12 name is the Branch. Though the crown was placed on the head of Joshua, the high priest (v. 11), the act was a symbol of that future crowning of Messiah, the Branch (cf. 3:8). In Messiah, the offices of king and priest will be united.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:12–15 In this brief section, eight facts are given about Messiah, the Branch: 1) he will come from Israel (v. 12); 2) he will build the millennial temple (vv. 12b–13a); 3) he will be glorious (v. 13); 4) he will be king and priest (v. 13); 5) he makes peace (v. 13); 6) he opens the kingdom to Gentiles (v. 15a); 7) he will corroborate God's word (v. 15b); and 8) he demands obedience (v. 15c). This, as always, is the essential matter. After Israel believes, the Messiah will come to set up his kingdom (cf. 12:10–13:1; 14:9–21). Faith and cleansing must come first.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:12–13 he shall build the temple. The building of the restoration temple was promised to Zerubbabel (cf. 4:9–10). The building of this temple, promised to Messiah, points to the construction of the millennial temple (cf. Isa. 2:2–4; Ezek. 40–43; Hag. 2:6–9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:14 The crown was not to be kept by Joshua, but was to serve as both a memorial to the devotion of the men who came from Babylon and, more important, as a reminder of the coming of Messiah and the ultimate hope of Israel. Helem . . . Hen. Helem is apparently another name of Heldai, and Hen another name for Josiah the son of Zephaniah (see v. 10).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:1–8:23 As a result of the night visions which described the future of Israel, including the subjugation of her enemies, the final regathering to the land, her cleansing, restoration, and the coming of Messiah and his kingdom, the Jews were greatly encouraged and comforted. The temple was more than half done, all obstacles to the construction were removed by the decree of Darius confirming the decree of Cyrus (cf. Ezra 6:1–14), and all was going very well. This gave rise to a question by the delegation from Bethel. The question involved the continuation of a national fast to mourn the fall of Jerusalem and the destruction of the temple. Though Jerusalem had no walls yet and there were many ruins (cf. Hag. 1:4), now that the temple was being finished, they were sent to inquire of the Lord and the priests whether they needed to continue the fast. The question is answered negatively in Zech. 7 with two messages and positively in ch. 8 with two messages. Each of the four messages was given to impress upon the people the need to live righteously. As with chs. 1–6, the prophet began historically and then moved prophetically to the time of the second advent of Christ.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:1 the fourth year of King Darius.

November/December 518 B.C., two years after Zechariah's first message (cf. 1:1) and the night visions (cf. 1:7), and two years before the temple was completed.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:2 Bethel. The town of Bethel was 12 miles north of Jerusalem. Since the return from Babylon, the Jews had rebuilt and reinhabited Bethel (cf. Ezra 2:28; Neh. 7:32).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:3 weep and abstain in the fifth month. The Day of Atonement was the only annual fast required by God's law (Lev. 23:27), and other occasional fasts were called for by God (cf. Joel 1:12, 14). The fall of Jerusalem was remembered by four fasts (cf. 2 Kings 25; Jer. 39:1–4; 41; 52:13), in the fourth, fifth, seventh, and tenth months (see note on Zech. 8:19). Because the temple was burned in the fifth month (July/August), that fast was considered the most serious and thus the delegation uses it as the test case (cf. 2 Kings 25:8; Jer. 52:12). They had kept this wailing and fasting for "many years," but it seemed only a wearisome ritual in light of the present prosperity.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:5 seventh. This fast mourned the death of Gedaliah, the governor appointed by Nebuchadnezzar (2 Kings 25:22–26; Jer. 41) after the fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:5–6 was it for me that you fasted? Zechariah pointed out that they were not fasting out of genuine sorrow and repentance, but out of self-pity (cf. Isa. 1:10–15; 58:3–9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:7 words . . . the Lord proclaimed. The important matter is not ritual, but obedience. It is obedience to God’s word that brought in the past great joy, peace, and prosperity to Israel, and that covered the land during the time of David and Solomon. If the present generation in Zechariah’s time substitutes ritual for obedience, they too will lose the joy, peace, and prosperity they were enjoying. South . . . lowland. A reference to the area south of Beersheba and the Mediterranean coastal plain, encompassing the land from south to west.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:8–14 This is the second of the four messages in answer to the question (v. 3). Harkening back to his opening call (1:4) and to the warnings of earlier prophets (cf. Isa. 1:11–17; 58:1–7; Amos 5:10–15), the prophet alerts the delegation to produce the fruits of righteousness that demonstrate obedience to God’s word (Zech. 7:9–10) and to revisit the actions of their fathers who deliberately rejected God’s word (vv. 11–12a), which activated the fury of God against them (v. 12b). Cf. Deut. 28:15–68 and 2 Chron. 36:14–16.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:12 by his Spirit. The Holy Spirit served a vital function in the revelation and inspiration of God’s word through human authors (cf. 1 Cor. 2:10; 2 Pet. 1:21).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:13 I would not hear. This reflects a severe form of God’s wrath by which he abandons disobedient sinners. See note on 11:9; cf. Judg. 10:13–14; 16:18–21; Prov. 1:24–31; Hos. 4:17; Matt. 15:14; Rom. 1:18–32.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:14 I scattered them. This refers to the captivity and dispersion of the people and the desolation of the land in their absence (cf. Deut. 30:3–10).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:1–23 Continuing his response to the delegation from Bethel, Zechariah contrasted Israel's past judgment with the promised future restoration. In light of past captivity, the nation was to repent and live righteously; in light of promised future blessings, Israel is to repent and live righteously. The last two messages (vv. 1–17 and 18–23) look positively to the future, when Israel will be brought to a place of special blessing and fasts will become feasts.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:2 jealous. See note on 1:14. This very strong language expresses the idea that God can't bear the estrangement from his chosen people brought about by their sin, nor can he always tolerate the enemies of Israel. His love for Israel is so great that he will come in full presence to Israel again and dwell with his people. Ezekiel had the vision of God leaving Jerusalem (Ezek. 8–11) and of his presence returning (Ezek. 43:1–5). Zion. The mountain on which ancient Jerusalem was built, which became a name for the city.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:3 the faithful city. A city that is characterized by truth, both in word and in deed (vv. 8, 16) because it is ruled over by Messiah who is characterized by truth (John 14:6). the holy mountain. Zion is holy because the King who lives there is holy (Isa. 6:3).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:4–5 The most defenseless of society will live in tranquility, peace, and security (cf. Isa. 65:20–22).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:6 Men tend to limit God (cf. Ps. 78:19–20, 41), but nothing is too hard for the Lord (cf. Gen. 18:14; Jer. 32:17, 27). “Just because they seem too difficult for you,” the Lord asks, in effect, “must they be too hard for me?”

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:7–8 east . . . west. The context assures that this return speaks of a worldwide regathering at the second advent of Christ. The return from Babylon cannot be in view also, since Israel had not been scattered to the west until the diaspora engineered by the Romans in the first century A.D.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:8 See note on Zech. 1:3. This refers to Israel's national conversion, spoken of in 12:10–13:1, and by Jeremiah (Jer. 32:38–41) and Paul (Rom. 11:25–27).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:9–17 The practical results of vv. 1–8 were laid out for the people. In view of such a glorious future, the people were exhorted to renew their energy toward the building of the temple and toward righteous living.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:9 the prophets. This refers to Haggai and Zechariah for sure; possibly there were non-writing prophets also.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:10–11 Zechariah recalled the immediate years prior to 520 B.C., described in Hag. 1:6–11, when their hassles and intrigues with the Samaritans and their love of ease and comfort developed their indifference toward building the temple, resulting in divine punishment. But, since they had begun again to build the temple, God would not treat the people as he had those described in Zech. 8:10.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:12–13 The richness and comprehensiveness of these promises of prosperity look beyond the historical moment to the time when Messiah reigns in his millennial kingdom. This will be a reversal of Deut. 28:15–68 and Jer. 24:9; 25:18; 29:22.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:14–15 The sorrows of past judgment became the pledges of future blessings (cf. Jer. 32:42).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:16–17 As always, the promised blessings are connected with obedience to God’s righteous standards. Such obedience can only be brought about by the power of the Spirit in the life of one who has been transformed by God’s grace through faith. These standards are reminiscent of Ps. 15:1–5; 24:4; Prov. 6:20–22.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:18–19 The fourth and final response to the delegation from Bethel notes how national days of fasting and mourning will be transformed into joyous feasts. This was really the answer to the original question in 7:3. Turn the fasts into feasts of joy in light of the promised blessings of God.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:19 In addition to the fasts of the fifth and seventh months (see notes on 7:3, 5), two additional fasts were held. In the fourth month they commemorated the breaching of the wall of Jerusalem (2 Kings 25:3; Jer. 39:2–4) and in the tenth month they remembered the beginning of the final siege of Jerusalem, which began in 588 B.C. (2 Kings 25:1; Jer. 39:1).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:20–22 Israel restored in millennial glory will be the means of blessing to all the world (cf. Isa. 2:2–4; Mic. 4:1–5). Gentiles from around the world will make a pilgrimage to Jerusalem to entreat the Lord. This signifies salvation of people from all over the world during the kingdom, fulfilling Ps. 122.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:23 In those days. In the days in which the messianic kingdom on earth is inaugurated (see note on Joel 3:18), the Jews will truly be God’s messengers as originally intended, and will bring multitudes to Christ. The 10-to-1 ratio represents a vast number of Gentiles who will come (cf. Gen. 31:7; Lev. 26:26; Num. 14:22; 1 Sam. 1:8; Neh. 4:12). The Messiah, in the midst of millennial Israel, will be the attraction of the world. People, seeing the Jews so blessed in their kingdom, will demand to go and meet the Savior King.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:1–14:21 Employing the phrase “in that day,” Zechariah places primary focus in his final two undated oracles on: 1) the downfall of the nation; 2) the salvation of Israel; and 3) the establishment of the Messiah as King. The first oracle (9:1–11:17) deals with the first and third features and ends with prophecies of the rejection of Christ at his first coming; the second oracle (12:1–14:21) deals with the second and third, culminating with the kingdom of Messiah Christ.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:1–8 This oracle features a series of judgments announced against the nations surrounding Israel (vv. 1–7), with deliverance promised for his people (v. 8). Most understand this to be a prophecy of the famous Greek conqueror, Alexander the Great’s victories, given approximately 200 years before he marched through Palestine. He provides an analogy of Christ returning to judge the nations and save Israel at the end of the great tribulation (cf. Matt. 24:21).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:1 burden. A heavy, burdensome message (i.e., oracle), the prediction of a threatening event, in this case the judgment of the nations. Hadrach. The location is uncertain. Possibly it is ancient Hatarika, a city mentioned in the annals of Assyrian Kings, in the vicinity of Hamath. The old Jewish tradition made it a compound name, Had meaning sharp and rach meaning soft. The sharp/soft land could be a reference to the dual Medo-Persian kingdom. Media was thought to be the sharp side because of its powerful conquerors like Cyrus, and Persia the soft side because of its debauchery. The cities in vv. 1–2 were major cities under Medo-Persian power. Damascus. This city was to be the main target of the judgment of God through Alexander upon the capital of Syria, one of Israel’s worst enemies from c. 900–722 B.C. the Lord has an eye on mankind. God’s judgment through Alexander the Great would be visible to all mankind, especially Israel.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:2 Hamath. A major city, 125 miles north of Damascus on the Orontes River. Alexander conquered these cities of the Syrian interior under Medo-Persian control, then turned to the coast moving south, conquering the cities of the Phoenicians and Philistines on the way to Egypt. Tyre and Sidon . . . are very wise. These Phoenician cities on the Mediterranean coast were known for their skill and wisdom (cf. Ezek. 28:12–15) and satanic influence (Ezek. 28:11–19).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:3–4 Tyre. This city was occupying an island one-half mile offshore, and thought itself to be invincible (cf. Isa. 23:1–4). With walls 150 feet high in some places, it was such an impregnable city that the Assyrian Shalmaneser besieged it for five years and failed to conquer it. Nebuchadnezzar tried for 13 years unsuccessfully. But Alexander, God’s judgment instrument, using the rubble of the mainland city destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, built a causeway out to the island and destroyed it in seven months (c. 334–332 B.C.).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:5–6 The cities of Philistia were terrified at the swiftness with which Alexander the Great’s army was able to conquer Tyre. Then, Alexander marched south, conquering all these Philistine cities and killing their national pride.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:7 This judgment put an end to idolatry for many Philistines who turned to the God of Israel. In the imagery of this verse, the nation is seen as a man with blood in his mouth (from eating sacrifices to idols) and abominations (the other defiled food of idol worship) which are removed. The picture is of conversion to worship the true God. like the Jebusites. These ancient inhabitants of Jerusalem were conquered by David (cf. 2 Sam. 5:6–11) and amalgamated into Israel. So it will be with these Philistines.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:8 This is the pledge of God’s protection of Jerusalem from Alexander. It came true when, on his way south, Alexander treated Jerusalem with kindness. After having subjugated Egypt, he returned through Palestine again without doing Israel harm. no oppressor shall again march over them. The supernatural and lasting protection here promised must anticipate the second advent of Messiah, whose coming is the subject through the rest of this message. The transition from Alexander to Christ can be understood in this way: If God can use a pagan king to judge the nations and save Israel, how much more will he use his righteous Messiah? So v. 8 bridges to the final judgment and deliverance of Messiah.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:9–10 The two advents of Christ are here compressed as though they were one as in Isa. 61:1–3 (cf. Luke 4:16, 21). Actually, Zech. 9:9 refers to his first coming and v. 10 is his second. OT prophets didn’t see the great time period between the two comings. The church age was a “mystery” hidden from them (cf. Eph. 3:1–9; Col. 1:27).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:9 king . . . mounted on a donkey. Unlike Alexander the Great, this King comes riding on a donkey (cf. Jer. 17:25). This was fulfilled at Christ’s triumphal entry (Matt. 21:1–5; John 12:12–16). The Jews should have been looking for someone from the line of David (cf. 2 Sam. 7; 1 Chron. 17). Four elements in this verse describe Messiah’s character: 1) he is King; 2) he is just; 3) he brings salvation; and 4) he is humble.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:10–15 Zechariah moves to the second advent of Christ and the establishment of his universal kingdom (see notes on 9:9–10; 11:15–16). Not characterized by bloodshed, Messiah’s rule will be a kingdom of peace in which weapons of warfare will be destroyed or converted to peaceful uses (cf. Isa. 2:4; 9:5–7; 11:1–10; Mic. 5:2, 10–15), and peace spreads from the Euphrates River (the terminus of civilization) to the world.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:10 Ephraim. This is another name for Israel, used often in the OT for the northern kingdom and occasionally for the whole nation.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:11 blood of my covenant. Why is Israel to be so blessed? It is not because of her faithfulness through the centuries, but because of God’s unfailing devotion to his covenant of blood made with Abraham (Gen. 15:1–10), which is in force as long as God lives. from the waterless pit. Prisoners in ancient times were often kept in dry wells or pits, as Joseph was (Gen. 37:24, 28). The exiles of Israel, pictured as being in a dry well of captivity, suffering, and despair, will be freed because of his unbreakable covenant with them. They are thus called “prisoners of hope” (Zech. 9:12) who are to receive “double” blessing (cf. Isa. 61:7).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:13–15 Reminiscent of the exodus (Ex. 19:16–19; Hab. 3:3–15), the Lord will protect and empower them (cf. Isa. 11:11–16; Zech. 12:6, 8). The initial historical fulfillment of this prophecy came when the Maccabees defeated the Greeks c. 167 B.C.; the final, complete fulfillment will occur at his Second advent. The Maccabean triumph is only a pledge and a preview of final triumph over all enemies.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:15 tread down . . . sling stones. This may mean the Jews will easily subdue their enemies as David did Goliath (1 Sam. 17). Or better, it could mean they will contemptuously tread on the harmless missiles cast at them by their enemies. This could depict the futility of Armageddon when the armies of the God-hating world gather in Israel and are destroyed by the Messiah (cf. Rev. 16:12–16; 19:11–16). The bloodshed of the godless will be visible in that day, from one end of the land of Palestine to the other, like blood splattered on the corners of the altar of sacrifice from basins that caught it when the animal was slain (cf. Rev. 14:20). drink . . . roar. This describes Israel’s excitement and exuberance over their victory.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:16–17 Abundant prosperity, such as the world has never seen, results in excessive rejoicing and praise results from God “saving” his people, Israel (cf. Deut. 33:28; Ps. 4:7–8).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:1 Ask rain from the Lord. In light of the promised blessings of 9:17, the prophet encourages the people to request these blessings from the Lord, with confidence. There will be literal rain and spring rain (April/May) in the kingdom (cf. Isa. 35:1–7) making the land flourish, but the promise here extends to refer to spiritual blessings (cf. Hos. 6:1–3). The “spring rain” of spiritual grace and goodness from God will bring refreshment to people’s souls (cf. Isa. 44:3).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:2 household gods . . . diviners. In contrast to God who provides abundance, idols or household gods (cf. Gen. 31:19, 34) and demonic fortunetellers left Israel as sheep without a shepherd (cf. Ezek. 34:6–10). God will judge them all for that false leadership (Zech. 10:3). The implication of these words is that a similar deception will occur in the end times. The NT confirms this (cf. Matt. 24:5, 11, 22–28; 2 Thess. 1:8–12).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:3 majestic steed. Though like sheep, Israel will become like an invincible majestic war-horse when strengthened by the Lord to conquer his foes (12:8).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:4 cornerstone. A frequently used messianic title (cf. Isa. 28:16; Eph. 2:20; 1 Pet. 2:6–8). Christ is the foundation on which his kingdom rests. tent peg. This may refer to a peg attached to the tent’s center pole on which utensils and valuables were hung. Messiah is the peg in the midst of his kingdom, for all the glory of the kingdom will hang on him (cf. Zech. 6:13; Isa. 22:23–24). battle bow . . . ruler. Another reference to the Messiah (cf. Zech. 9:13; Rev. 19:11–16), under whose authority every ruler will be sanctioned.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:5 the Lord is with them. The prophet pictured foot soldiers overpowering the cavalry (cf. 12:1–9) in battle. This analogy was to illustrate the power of God’s people when he is “with them.”

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:6 house of Judah . . . Joseph. Both the southern and northern kingdoms of Israel will be restored to a position of blessing, as the whole nation is restored in millennial blessing (cf. Jer. 32:37). I am the Lord their God. The reason for Israel’s restoration was because of God, the covenant keeper, who gave a strong reiteration of his continuing, unconditional commitment to them. The curses of Deut. 28:15–68 expressed in the Assyrian and Babylonian deportations did not abrogate God’s promised blessings to Israel or transfer them to another people. Even after they had crucified the Messiah, Peter told them they were still able to receive the promise (cf. Acts 2:39) because the Abrahamic Covenant was still in place and they were the people of God's promise (Acts 3:25).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:7 The joy of the restored nation of Israel at the beginning of the millennium is likened to those who have been drinking wine (cf. Isa. 66:10–14; Zeph. 3:14–20).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:8 I will whistle for them. The prophecy summarized what had been said, namely the Messiah's call for Israel to be redeemed and for them to regather in his land (cf. Isa. 5:26). As in Egypt (cf. Ex. 1:8–22), those of Israel who are protected by God because of their faith in Messiah will survive the tribulation and enter the Millennium to multiply greatly (cf. Zech. 2:4; Isa. 54:1–3).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:9–10 Another summary is given stating that, as God had previously scattered them all over the world (A.D. 70), he would bring them back to populate his messianic kingdom (cf. Isa. 11:11–12; 49:20–22).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:11 Similar to Israel crossing the Red Sea, God will remove both geographical and political obstacles to Israel's return for the Kingdom of Messiah. Assyria and Egypt, traditional enemies of Israel, symbolize any nation that would try to withstand God from fulfilling his will (cf. Isa. 11:11–12).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:12 they shall walk in his name. The people of Israel will be the messengers of their Messiah in the millennial kingdom. This is the complete spiritual restoration spoken of by Ezekiel (cf. Ezek. 36:21–38; 37:1–14, 22–28).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:1–17 In stark contrast to chs. 9–10, in which Messiah is pictured as a wonderful Shepherd, this passage presents an ugly picture of the rejection of the Messiah, the true Shepherd. The prophet turns from the glories of the accepted Messiah at his second coming to the national apostasy and rejection of Messiah at his first coming.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:1–3 As a fire sweeping down to ravage the whole land of Israel, Zechariah described a fire of judgment that would consume the ungodly as a conflagration consumes trees. The devastation is not limited to spiritual judgment only, but includes the death of people as the land of Israel is judged. The language is the book's most poetic. "Lebanon," "Bashan," and "Jordan" represent the whole land as judgment sweeps from top to bottom covering the entire nation from the north, inland, and down the Jordan Valley to the southern border.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:2 Wail, O cypress. If the mighty cedars have fallen, surely the more vulnerable smaller trees will be unable to stand. oaks of Bashan. The poem moves from Lebanon, on the northern border of Israel, to Bashan, east of the Sea of Galilee, known for its oaks and lush pastures (cf. Amos 4:1; Mic. 7:14).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:3 wail of the shepherds. The shepherds lament the loss of their pastures, and the young lions their homes and food. Both are poetic figures of the misery that will occur in the land under the ravaging judgment. As the chapter unfolds, it becomes clear that this most likely prophesies the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70 and the subsequent devastation of the whole land, which resulted in the dissolution of the Jewish state.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:4–14 The cause for the calamity of vv. 1–3 is here given: the rejection of the true Shepherd. God used the prophet Zechariah as an actor playing the part of a shepherd to illustrate the true Shepherd, Jesus Christ, and the rejection he encountered. Instructions given in vv. 4–6 are enacted in vv. 7–14.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:4–6 The Lord God said that his people were to be treated like sheep fattened for the slaughter, whose shepherds have no pity, but are only interested in money for the meat. Thus God will serve up his sheep for slaughter without pity. With God's pity (cf. Hos. 1:6) and protection withdrawn, they will be given over to their Roman "neighbors" and to their "king" Caesar (cf. John 19:14–15), who will ultimately lead them to their destruction in A.D. 70 by the Roman army (cf. John 11:47–50). Over one million Jews were slaughtered in that assault, and almost half a million in subsequent Roman attacks in Palestine.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:7–14 Here is the record of Zechariah playing a dramatic role to act out the rejection of Christ that will lead to the judgment of Israel outlined in vv. 1–3.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:7 I tended the sheep. The prophet did feed the truth of God to his people as a picture of what Messiah would do when he came. the flock doomed to be slaughtered. Only the poor responded when Jesus came to feed the flock (cf. Matt. 11:5; 1 Cor. 1:26). They were the lowly who would not follow the pride of the priest, scribes, and Pharisees, but believed on Jesus. Favor . . . Union. The prophet’s symbolic act called for him to take “two staffs.” Eastern shepherds often carried two sticks, a rod to ward off wild beasts and a staff to guide and retrieve wayward sheep (cf. Ps. 23:4). The staff speaks of Christ the good shepherd who expressed the love and grace of God by tenderly leading and protecting his people (Mark 6:34), while the rod speaks of his unifying ministry, binding together the scattered house of Israel into one fold (cf. Zech. 11:14; Matt. 15:24).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:8 destroyed the three shepherds. Though difficult to identify, one of the oldest interpretations is that this refers to the priests, elders, and scribes of Israel (see Introduction: Interpretive Challenges). Jesus bestowed grace and unity upon the populace, but confronted the hypocrisy of these religious leaders, and because they rejected him all three offices were obliterated in a short time. God ended the traditional offices of the mediators and in their place brought a new priesthood of believers (cf. 1 Pet. 2:5, 9; Rev. 1:6; 5:10; 20:6). I became impatient with them. Lit., it means “My soul was short with them,” referring to the limits of God’s patience toward the unrepentant.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:9 flesh of one another. See note on 7:13. In this drama, Zechariah played the unnatural role of a shepherd who abandons his sheep and stops teaching and protecting them. Those who refused to believe were to be given over to pursue their own desires and left exposed to deadly enemies. In the Roman siege of A.D. 70, some of the starving inhabitants did resort to cannibalism (cf. Jer. 19:9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:10 annulling the covenant. Apparently this refers to God’s promise to restrain the nations from decimating Israel if she would consistently obey (Deut. 28:1–14). God set aside his kind and gracious protection and his providential care for his people, allowing Rome to invade and destroy Israel (cf. Luke 19:41–44; 21:24).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:11 The believing remnant of Christ’s day knew God’s word was being fulfilled. They knew judgment was coming, but avoided the long-term consequences by faith in Christ.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:12 thirty pieces of silver. Zechariah carried on the drama by symbolically picturing Jesus asking those he came to shepherd what they felt he was worth to them. In a mocking response, the leaders offered 30 silver pieces, which was the amount of compensation paid for a slave gored by an ox (cf. Ex. 21:32). This is exactly what Judas Iscariot was paid to betray the great shepherd (Matt. 26:14–16). The Jews of Jesus’ day who offered that amount were saying he was worth no more than a common slave.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:13 The prophet received further instruction in acting out the drama that pictures the rejection of Christ, namely to throw the 30 pieces into the temple. This was fulfilled when Judas Iscariot, laden with guilt, went back and threw the blood money on the temple floor. The priests gathered the money and used it to buy a field from a potter (cf. Matt. 27:3–10). lordly price. This ultimate sarcasm from God greeted the ultimate insult from humanity.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:14 The breaking of the first staff (v. 10) preceded the Jews’ rejection of the Shepherd, while the breaking of this rod once symbolizing the nation’s unity (v. 7) followed his rejection, being fulfilled in the Roman breakup of the Jewish commonwealth. Josephus recorded that in the Roman conquering, the internal dissension among the people in their conflicting parties set Jew against Jew so that they struck each other as cruelly as the Romans struck them.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:15–16 With the removal of the true Shepherd, the drama called for the prophet to play a foolish shepherd, who depicted the Antichrist of Daniel’s seventieth week (cf. 2 Thess. 2:3; John 5:43; Dan. 9:27). Zechariah’s prophecy jumped from the first century A.D. to the last days before the second coming, omitting the present mystery of the church age (see notes on Zech. 9:9–10; 9:10–15). This foolish (wicked) shepherd had a broken staff or club that he used to beat stubborn sheep into submission, something clearly inappropriate for a shepherd who thoughtfully and tenderly cared for his sheep. God permitted this wicked shepherd to arise, to destroy the sheep. Because they did not choose the good shepherd, Israel will receive a foolish one who will do absolutely the opposite of what is expected of shepherds, he will destroy the sheep (11:16). This is exactly what Antichrist does (cf. Dan. 9:27; Matt. 24:15–22).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:17 his arm . . . right eye. Zechariah condemned the worthless shepherd, noting that his strength (“arm”) and his intelligence (“eye”) would be taken away from him (cf. Dan. 7:9–14, 24–27; 8:23–25; 2 Thess. 2:8; Rev. 19:20; 20:10).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:1–14:21 The second and final burden of Zechariah presents the familiar theme of Israel’s ultimate deliverance and salvation. In contrast to initial judgment, he now encourages God’s covenant people with a description of her restoration and blessing in the millennial kingdom, as true to his character and Zechariah’s name, “the Lord remembers.”

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:1 burden . . . concerning Israel. See note on 9:1. The prophecy described a future siege against the nation, indicating that there would be significant devastation before there was repentance and conversion in Israel (cf. 14:1–2). stretched . . . founded . . . formed. The God who performed the work of creation will ultimately do the work of consummation.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:2 cup of staggering. Jerusalem is pictured as a large basin from which the nations will figuratively drink with eagerness, only to find themselves becoming intoxicated, disoriented, and thus easy prey for divine judgment at the end of Daniel’s seventieth week in the battle of Armageddon when nations gather to attack Jerusalem (cf. Ezek. 38:1–6, 14–16; Dan. 11:40–44; Rev. 9:13–16; 14:20; 16:12–16).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:3 surely hurt themselves. Like lifting a heavy weight, Jerusalem will “surely hurt” any people that try to gain victory over it. This is due to divine intervention (cf. vv. 4–5).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:4 Horses, ancient symbols of strength, emphasize God’s superior power over Israel’s enemies. Confusion, madness, and blindness are noted as curses on Israel in Deut. 28:28; here they are promised to Israel’s enemies.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:5 Knowing that God had chosen Jerusalem as the city of his special affection will give confidence to the “clans” (leaders) all over the land (cf. Ps. 46:5). This verse has overtones indicating the saving faith of the Jews in that day, since they are claiming to have trust in God.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:6 Two similes describe the operation of God’s power: a “blazing pot” used to carry hot coals to start a wood fire and a “torch” used to light dry grain. Thus will the power of God devour the armies that attack Israel in the latter days.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:7 Judah first. God will first deliver the defenseless country people before the well-fortified capital, demonstrating that the battle was not won by military might or strategy.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:8 The Lord will make the feeble like David, the greatest soldier in Israel’s history (cf. 1 Sam. 18:7). The “house of David,” like the “angel of the Lord,” most likely refers to the Messiah himself, who will be the strength of his people.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:9 See note on 12:2 for important cross references.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:10 I will pour. God, in his own perfect time and by his own power, will sovereignly act to save Israel. This was prophesied by other prophets (cf. Ezek. 39:29; Joel 2:28–32), and by the apostle Paul (cf. Rom. 11:25–27). spirit of grace and pleas for mercy. The Holy Spirit is so identified because he brings saving grace and because that grace produces sorrow that will result in repentant prayer to God for forgiveness (cf. Matt. 5:4; Heb. 10:29). look on me, on him whom they have pierced. Israel’s repentance will come because they look to Jesus, the One whom they rejected and crucified (cf. Isa. 53:5; John 19:37), in faith at the second advent (Rom. 11:25–27). When God says they pierced “me,” he is certainly affirming the incarnation of deity—Jesus was God. See note on John 10:30.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:11 Hadad-rimmon . . . Megiddo. The bitter mourning of that day is likened to the death of righteous king Josiah at Hadad-rimmon in the Megiddo plain (cf. 2 Chron. 35:20–24), located northwest of Jerusalem (cf. James 4:8–9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:12–14 The royal (David and his son Nathan) and priestly (Levi and his grandson Shimei) lines, who in the past had set an evil example, were foremost in their contrition and mourning (cf. Num. 3:17–21; 2 Sam. 5:14). It is possible that Isa. 53:1–9 comprises the content of their confession. This mourning and deep penitence is not some corporate emotion, but each person individually is brought to sorrow and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. See note on Rev. 11:13.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:1 house of David . . . inhabitants of Jerusalem. The totality of cleansing is noted by its effect on both royalty and commoners. a fountain . . . sin and uncleanness. A symbolic reference to the means of cleansing and purification through the atoning death of the pierced One (cf. 1 John 1:7). This has direct reference to the New Covenant of Jer. 31:31–34; Ezek. 36:25–32; Rom. 11:26–29. So the storm that broke upon Israel for the crime of Calvary and has raged with unmitigated fury for long, tragic centuries, will suddenly end, and salvation will turn sin into righteousness in the gladness and glory of the kingdom of Messiah Jesus.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:2–6 When Christ returns and cleanses Israel from her defilement, he is also going to cleanse the nation from the deception of false prophets and their demonic religion.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:2 spirit of uncleanness. The agents of idolatry are false prophets, but the spiritual power behind it is demonic. The wicked spirits who energize false prophets are unclean because they hate God and holiness and drive their victims into moral impurities and false religion (cf. Deut. 32:17; 1 Kings 22:19–23; Ps. 106:34–39; 1 Cor. 10:20).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:3 Because of the salvation of God that has cleansed God's people and made them love him and his truth, hatred of false prophecy will overrule normal human feelings, causing even a father and mother to put their own apostate child to death (cf. Deut. 13:6–9, 12–15; 18:18–22). This is a stern reminder of how God feels about and will eventually treat those preachers who misrepresent the truth.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:4–5 a hairy cloak. Because of these stern measures, false prophets will cease wearing the traditional clothing of a prophet (cf. 2 Kings 1:8; Matt. 3:4). They will adopt a clandestine approach to propagating their demon-inspired lies (cf. Jer. 22:22; Mic. 3:7), and lie if they are asked whether they are prophets, claiming to be farmers.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:6 wounds on your back. The phrase cannot refer to Messiah, but is a continuation of the false prophet's behavior in vv. 4–5. When the false prophet denies any association with pagan practices, others will challenge him to explain the suspicious wounds on his body. False prophets would cut themselves to arouse prophetic ecstasy in idolatrous rites (cf. Lev. 19:28; Deut. 14:1; 1 Kings 18:28; Jer. 16:6; 48:37), but they will claim the scars represent some attack they suffered from friends. See Introduction: Interpretive Challenges.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:7–9 Zechariah turned from the false prophets wounded in “friends” houses to the true prophet wounded in the house of his friends, Israel. He compressed events of both the first (13:7) and second (13:8–9) advents into this brief section. It spoke of Christ’s crucifixion (v. 7) and the Jewish remnant at his second coming (vv. 8–9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:7 my shepherd . . . man who stands next to me. God spoke of the true Shepherd, that mighty man who is his intimate associate, thus he identified Christ as his co-equal, affirming the deity of Christ (cf. John 1:1; 10:30; 14:9). Strike the shepherd. In Zech. 11:17, it was the worthless shepherd who was to be struck; now it is the good shepherd (cf. 12:10) whose death was designed by God from before the foundation of the world (cf. Isa. 53:10; Acts 2:23; 1 Pet. 1:18–20). sheep . . . scattered. See notes on Matt. 26:31; Mark 14:27, where Jesus applies this prophecy to the disciples who defected from him after his arrest (Matt. 26:56; Mark 14:50), including Peter’s denial (Matt. 26:33–35, 69–75). the little ones. The same as the “flock doomed to be slaughtered” (Zech. 11:7). The reference is to the remnant of believers, among the Jews, who were faithful to the Messiah after his crucifixion. Turning God’s hand “against” them could mean they would suffer persecution, which they did (cf. John 15:18, 20; 16:2; James 1:1), or it could be translated “upon” and refer to God’s protection of the faithful.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:8 two thirds. Only a portion of the people of Israel will remain faithful to Christ and be alive in the end. The spiritual survivors will be the remnant who look upon Christ in repentance at his return (cf. 12:10–13:1), which will include those who make up the 144,000 (cf. Rev. 7:4). These will be the sheep of the sheep-goat judgment after Christ’s return who enter the kingdom alive (cf. Isa. 35:10; Jer. 30:11; Matt. 25:31–46).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:9 they will say. From the midst of their fiery refinement, the elect remnant of Israel will see Jesus Christ, their Messiah, and call on him as their Savior and Lord. Israel will thus be saved and restored to covenant relationship with the Lord.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:1–21 Chapter 14 is an amplification of 13:8–9. Prior to Israel’s national conversion (cf. 12:10–13:1), the Jews will make a pact with a false messiah (cf. Dan. 9:27), known as the foolish shepherd (cf. Zech. 11:15–17) or Antichrist. In the middle of that seven-year covenant, Antichrist will break his treaty with Israel and require the worship of him alone (Dan. 9:24–27; Matt. 24:15; 2 Thess. 2:3, 4). When Israel refuses, the armies of the world will gather to do battle, climaxing in a great siege of Jerusalem and the battle of Armageddon (Rev. 19). Following the Lord's victory at that battle (cf. Rev. 19:11–16), will come the full restoration of Israel as anticipated in Hos. 14:4–7; Joel 3:18–21; Amos 9:13–15; Mic. 4:1–3; Zeph. 3:14–20.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:1 a day is coming for the Lord. The “day of the Lord” is a technical term for God's wrath unleashed against sinners. Here, Zechariah is looking at the day of the Lord when his wrath is unleashed against the whole world of sinners, which results in the establishment of the Lord's millennial reign on earth. See note on Isa. 2:12 and Introduction to Joel: Historical and Theological Themes. spoil . . . divided in your midst. Jerusalem will be so overcome by the enemy that the spoil will be leisurely divided in the midst of the city, illustrating how completely Jerusalem will be overthrown. This atrocity then triggers the wrath of God against the world in the day of the Lord.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:2 I will gather all the nations. God himself will gather the nations, using them to purge, refine, and judge (cf. Rev. 16:13–14, 16). Their presence results in an unprecedented time of national calamity. This is the climax of “the time of distress for Jacob” (Jer. 30:5–7).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:3–4 his feet shall stand on the Mount of Olives. To prevent the eradication of his remnant, the Lord will personally intervene to fight against the gathered nations. Just as he fought for his people in the past, so he will do in the future as the ultimate Warrior-King. Jesus will literally return to the Mount of Olives, located east of the Kidron Valley, just as the angels announced at his ascension (cf. Acts 1:11). When he does, there will be a tremendous topographical upheaval (perhaps an earthquake), a phenomenon not uncommon when God announces his coming in judgment (cf. Mic. 1:2–4; Nah. 1:5; Rev. 16:18–21). The reaction of people is given in Rev. 6:15–17.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:4 the Mount of Olives shall be split in two. A valley running east and west will be created as the mountain is pulled northward and southward (cf. Mic. 1:2–4; Nah. 1:5; Rev. 16:18–19).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:5 Azal. It is best understood as a place east of Jerusalem, marking the eastern end of the newly created valley. Though exact identification is unknown, it is possibly the Valley of Jehoshaphat or Valley of Decision (cf. Joel 3:12–14), which will be for judgment of the nations and for the escape of the half who were not captured (Zech. 14:2). all the holy ones with him. This term could refer to angels, Jewish believers, or Gentile Christians together (cf. Rev. 19:14).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:6–7 As these Jews are fleeing through this newly created valley, the lights in the world will go out (cf. Isa. 13:9–10; 24:23; Joel 2:10; 3:14–16; Matt. 24:29–30; Rev. 6:12–14) and be replaced by the light of Christ’s glory (cf. Isa. 60:19–20). Only the Lord knows the fullness of the plan for that day—when the lights go out and are lit again in the millennial kingdom (cf. Isa. 30:26; Mal. 4:2).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:8 The highest elevation of the temple mount in Jerusalem is more than 300 feet lower than the Mount of Olives, but the topographical alterations described in vv. 4, 10 will allow the spring to flow toward the Dead Sea (east) and the Mediterranean Sea (west) (see notes on Ezek. 47:1–12). It will not dry up in summer, as most Palestinian streams do, but will flow all year, making the desert “blossom like the crocus” (Isa. 35:1).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:9 Lord will be one and his name one. Cf. Rev. 11:15. There will be only one religion in the entire world during the millennial reign of Christ. Ruling with a rod of iron (cf. Rev. 19:15), Christ will have done away with all false religions spawned by Satan. This will be the ultimate fulfillment of the Abrahamic Covenant providing a Jewish people, the nation of Israel, and the land given to Abraham; the Davidic Covenant, which promised a king from the tribe of Judah and the line of David; and the New Covenant, which held out the hope of spiritual redemption for Jew and Gentile. All of this will be fulfilled in and by the Lord Jesus Christ.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:10 whole land . . . into a plain. The term “plain” pictures the Jordan Valley, extending from Mount Hermon (elevation 9,100 feet) to the Gulf of Aqabah. Here the entire land, from Geba 6 miles to the north to Rimmon in the south, would be leveled to become like the well-watered and fertile lowlands of the Jordan Valley (cf. Gen. 13:10), causing Jerusalem to be exalted above like a solitaire diamond on a ring. Jerusalem, having been rebuilt according to these dimensions, will be exalted in both place and purpose, the prominent royal city containing the temple of God and the throne of Jesus Christ (cf. Ezek. 40–48). The locations of these landmarks would be the equivalent of meaning “all Jerusalem, east to west and north to south.”

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:11 dwell in security. Jerusalem, the city of peace, has been fought over more frequently than any other city on earth, and prayed for over the millennia (Ps. 122:6–9). As promised by God (2 Sam. 7:10–17; Ps. 2:6; Ezek. 37:24–28; Joel 3:16–17), she will know permanent righteousness and with it peace, rest, and safety.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:12–15 The prophet, one final time, cycles back over the judgment that precedes the kingdom. God will strike the heathen forces gathered against Israel (vv. 1–3) with a supernatural plague similar to his judgment of the Assyrian army (Isa. 37:36), causing a panic so great that they begin to attack one another (cf. Judg. 7:22; 1 Sam. 14:15–20; 2 Chron. 20:23), aiding in the escape of the half (cf. Zech. 14:2, 5). God will enable his people to fight (cf. Isa. 11:13–14). Then he will send a widespread plague that even extends to their animals, preventing their use for military endeavors or escape. This depicts the thwarting of their efforts as God ultimately destroys them by the Messiah (Rev. 19:11–16).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:16–19 This very important passage reveals that some Gentiles will go into the millennial kingdom alive along with the redeemed Jews. A converted remnant from those heathen nations will make annual pilgrimages to Jerusalem to worship the Lord and to celebrate the Feast of Booths, or Tabernacles, during the millennium. Commemorating the time when God “tabernacled” with Israel in the wilderness, the feast represented the last of the three major pilgrimage festivals (Lev. 23:34–36), marked the final harvest of the year’s crops, and provided a time of rejoicing. In the millennium, it will celebrate Messiah’s presence again dwelling among his people and the joyful restoration of Israel, including the ingathering of the nations. Those who refuse to go will experience drought and plague. Tragically, as the thousand years go on, there will be many people from all over the world who will reject Christ as Savior and King, joining in a final war against him, only to be destroyed and cast into hell forever (cf. Rev. 20:7–15).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:16 Feast of Booths. The historical background can be found in Lev. 23:33–36; Num. 29:12–38; Deut. 16:13–17. In addition to the Feast of Booths, or Tabernacles, two other feasts will be celebrated in the millennium, i.e., 1) Feast of the New Year (Ezek. 45:18–20) and 2) Passover (Ezek. 45:21–25). These feasts are no more efficacious than were the feasts of the Mosaic era or the Lord’s Supper in the church age. They all provided a symbolic anticipation or remembrance of Christ’s unique and once-for-all sacrifice at Calvary.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:17 no rain. Drought is a dreaded punishment (cf. 1 Kings 17:1–7; 2 Chron. 7:13–14; James 5:17–18) since it deprives the people of life-sustaining water.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:20–21 Just as the high priest, whose turban was engraved with the phrase “Holy to the Lord,” was set apart for the service of the Lord (cf. Zech. 3:5; also Ex. 28:36; 39:30), so even mundane and ordinary things like the bells that decorate horses and common pots and pans will be as holy as the high priest and the altar bowls used in sacrifices. There will be no need for distinctions between holy and secular. Everything will be set apart to the service of the Lord in the Messiah’s glorious kingdom.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:21 trader. Or Canaanite (see esv footnote). This identification is used as a figure for the morally and spiritually unclean persons who will be excluded from entering the millennial temple. Before Israel conquered the Promised Land, the vile Canaanites inhabited it; thus the term became proverbial in Israel for a morally degenerate, ceremonially unclean person.

Introduction to Malachi

Title

The title is derived from the prophecy's author, Malachi. With this last work in the Minor Prophets, God closes the OT canon historically and prophetically.

Author and Date

Some have suggested that the book was written anonymously, noting that the name, meaning “my messenger” or “the Lord’s messenger,” could be a title rather than a proper name. It is pointed out that the name occurs nowhere else in the OT, nor is any background material provided about the author. However, since all other prophetic books have historically identified their author in the introductory heading, this suggests that Malachi was indeed the name of the last OT writing prophet in Israel. Jewish tradition identifies him as a member of the Great Synagogue that collected and preserved the Scriptures.

Looking solely at internal evidence, the date of the prophecy points to the late fifth century B.C., most likely during Nehemiah’s return to Persia c. 433–424 B.C. (cf. Neh. 5:14; 13:6). Sacrifices were being made at the second temple (1:7–10; 3:8), which was finished in 516 B.C. (cf. Ezra 6:13–15). Many years had passed since then as the priests had increasingly become complacent and corrupt (Mal. 1:6–2:9). Malachi’s reference to “governor” (1:8) speaks of the time of Persian dominance in Judah when Nehemiah was revisiting Persia (Neh. 13:6), while his emphasis on the law (4:4) coincides with a similar focus by Ezra and Nehemiah (cf. Ezra 7:14, 25–26; Neh. 8:18). They shared other concerns as well, such as marriages to foreign wives (Mal. 2:11–15; cf. Ezra 9–10; Neh. 13:23–27), withholding of tithes (Mal. 3:8–10; cf. Neh. 13:10–14), and social injustice (Mal. 3:5; cf. Neh. 5:1–13). Nehemiah came to Jerusalem in 445 B.C. to rebuild the wall, and returned to Persia in 433 B.C. He later returned to Israel (c. 424 B.C.) to deal with the sins Malachi described (Neh. 13:6). So it is likely that Malachi was written during the period of Nehemiah’s absence, almost a century after Haggai and Zechariah began to prophesy. Similar to Rev. 2–3, in which Christ writes what he thinks about the conditions of the churches, here God writes through Malachi to impress upon Israel his thoughts about the nation.

Background and Setting

Only 50,000 exiles had returned to Judah from Babylon (538–536 B.C.). The temple had been rebuilt under the leadership of Zerubbabel (516 B.C.) and the sacrificial system renewed. Ezra had returned in 458 B.C., followed by Nehemiah in 445 B.C. After being back in the land of Palestine for only a century, the ritual of the Jews' religious routine led to hard-heartedness toward God's great love for them and to widespread departure from his law by both people and priest. Malachi rebuked and condemned these abuses, forcefully indicting the people and calling them to repentance. When Nehemiah returned from Persia the second time (c. 424 B.C.), he vigorously rebuked them for these abuses in the temple and priesthood, for the violation of the Sabbath rest, and for the unlawful divorce of their Jewish wives so they could marry Gentile women (cf. Neh. 13).

As over two millennia of OT history since Abraham concluded, none of the glorious promises of the Abrahamic, Davidic, and New Covenants had been fulfilled in their ultimate sense. Although there had been a few high points in Israel's history, e.g., Joshua, David, and Josiah, the Jews had seemingly lost all opportunity to receive God's favor since less than 100 years after returning from captivity, they had already sunk to a depth of sin that exceeded the former iniquities that brought on the Assyrian and Babylonian deportations. Beyond this, the long anticipated Messiah had not arrived and did not seem to be in sight.

So, Malachi wrote the capstone prophecy of the OT in which he delivered God's message of judgment on Israel for their continuing sin and God's promise that one day in the future, when the Jews would repent, Messiah would be revealed and God's covenant promises would be fulfilled. There were over 400 years of divine silence, with only Malachi's words ringing condemnation in their ears, before another prophet arrived with a message from God. That was John the Baptist preaching, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand" (Matt. 3:2). Messiah had come.

Historical and Theological Themes

The Lord repeatedly referred to his covenant with Israel (cf. 2:4–5, 8, 10, 14; 3:1), reminding them, from his opening words, of their unfaithfulness to his love/marriage relationship with them (cf. 1:2–5). God's love for his people pervades the book. Apparently the promises by the former prophets of the coming Messiah who would bring final deliverance and age-long blessings, and the encouragement from the recent promises (c. 500 B.C.) of Haggai and Zechariah, had only made the people and their leaders more resolute in their complacency. They thought that this love relationship could be maintained by formal ritual alone, no matter how they lived. In a penetrating rebuke of both priests (1:6–2:9) and people (2:10–16), the prophet reminds them that the Lord’s coming, which they were seeking (3:1), would be in judgment to refine, purify, and purge (3:2–3). The Lord not only wanted outward compliance with the law, but an inward acceptance as well (cf. Matt. 23:23). The prophet assaults the corruption, wickedness, and false security by directing his judgments at their hypocrisy, infidelity, compromise, divorce, false worship, and arrogance.

Malachi set forth his prophecy in the form of a dispute, employing the question-and-answer method. The Lord’s accusations against his people were frequently met by cynical questions from the people (1:2, 6–7; 2:17; 3:7–8, 13). At other times, the prophet presented himself as God’s advocate in a lawsuit, posing rhetorical questions to the people based on their defiant criticisms (1:6, 8–9; 2:10, 15; 3:2).

Malachi indicted the priests and the people on at least six counts of willful sin: 1) repudiating God’s love (1:2–5); 2) refusing God his due honor (1:6–2:9); 3) rejecting God’s faithfulness (2:10–16); 4) redefining God’s righteousness (2:17–3:6); 5) robbing God’s riches (3:7–12); and 6) reviling God’s grace (3:13–15). There are three interludes in which Malachi rendered God’s judgment: 1) to the priests (2:1–9); 2) to the nation (3:1–6); and 3) to the remnant (3:16–4:6).

Interpretive Challenges

The meaning of Elijah being sent “before the great and awesome day of the Lord comes” (4:5) has been debated. Was this fulfilled in John the Baptist or is it yet future? Will Elijah be reincarnated? It seems best to view Malachi’s prophecy as a reference to John the Baptist and not to a literally-returned Elijah. Not only did the angel announce that John the Baptist would go “before him in the spirit and power of Elijah” (Luke 1:17), but John the Baptist himself said he was not Elijah (John 1:21). Thus John was like Elijah, internally in “spirit and power” and externally in rugged independence and nonconformity. If the Jews would receive the Messiah, then he would be the Elijah spoken of (cf. Matt. 11:14; 17:9–13); if they refused the King, then another Elijah-like prophet would be sent in the future, perhaps as one of the two witnesses (cf. Rev. 11:1–19).

Malachi

MALACHI 1 †The oracle of the word of the LORD to Israel by Malachi. [\[1\]](#)

The LORD's Love for Israel

<sup>2</sup>†“I have loved you,” says the LORD. But you say, “How have you loved us?” “Is not Esau Jacob's brother?” declares the LORD. “Yet I have loved Jacob <sup>3</sup>†but Esau I have hated. I have laid waste his hill country and left his heritage to jackals of the desert.” <sup>4</sup>†If Edom says, “We are shattered but we will rebuild the ruins,” the LORD of hosts says, “They may build, but I will tear down, and they will be called ‘the wicked country,’ and ‘the people with whom the LORD is angry forever.’” <sup>5</sup>Your own eyes shall see this, and you shall say, “Great is the LORD beyond the border of Israel!”

The Priests' Polluted Offerings

<sup>6</sup>†“A son honors his father, and a servant his master. If then I am a father, where is my honor? And if I am a master, where is my fear? says the LORD of hosts to you, O priests, who despise my name. But you say, ‘How have we despised your name?’ <sup>7</sup>†By offering polluted food upon my altar. But you say, ‘How have we polluted you?’ By saying that the LORD's table may be despised. <sup>8</sup>†When you offer blind animals in sacrifice, is that not evil? And when you offer those that are lame or sick, is that not evil? Present that to your governor; will he accept you or show you favor? says the LORD of hosts. <sup>9</sup>†And now entreat the favor of God, that he may be gracious to us. With such a gift from your hand, will he show favor to any of you? says the LORD of hosts. <sup>10</sup>†Oh that there were one among you who would shut the doors, that you might not kindle fire on my altar in vain! I have no pleasure in you, says the LORD of hosts, and I will not accept an offering from your hand. <sup>11</sup>†For from the rising of the sun to its setting my name will be [\[2\]](#) great among the nations, and in every place incense will be offered to my name, and a pure offering. For my name will be great among the nations, says the LORD of hosts. <sup>12</sup>†But you profane it when you say that the Lord's table is polluted, and its fruit, that is, its food may be despised. <sup>13</sup>But you say, ‘What a weariness this is,’ and you snort at it, says the LORD of hosts. You bring what has been taken by violence or is lame or sick, and this you bring as your offering! Shall I accept that from your hand? says the LORD. <sup>14</sup>†Cursed be the cheat who has a male in his flock, and vows it, and yet sacrifices to the Lord what is blemished. For I am a great King, says the LORD of hosts, and my name will be feared among the nations.

The LORD Rebukes the Priests

MALACHI 2 “And now, O priests, this command is for you. <sup>2</sup>†If you will not listen, if you will not take it to heart to give honor to my name, says the LORD of hosts, then I will send the curse upon you and I will curse your blessings. Indeed, I have already cursed them, because you do not lay it to heart. <sup>3</sup>†Behold, I will rebuke your offspring, [1] and spread dung on your faces, the dung of your offerings, and you shall be taken away with it. [2] <sup>4</sup>††So shall you know that I have sent this command to you, that my covenant with Levi may stand, says the LORD of hosts. <sup>5</sup>My covenant with him was one of life and peace, and I gave them to him. It was a covenant of fear, and he feared me. He stood in awe of my name. <sup>6</sup>†True instruction [3] was in his mouth, and no wrong was found on his lips. He walked with me in peace and uprightness, and he turned many from iniquity. <sup>7</sup>†For the lips of a priest should guard knowledge, and people [4] should seek instruction from his mouth, for he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts. <sup>8</sup>†But you have turned aside from the way. You have caused many to stumble by your instruction. You have corrupted the covenant of Levi, says the LORD of hosts, <sup>9</sup>and so I make you despised and abased before all the people, inasmuch as you do not keep my ways but show partiality in your instruction.”

Judah Profaned the Covenant

<sup>10</sup>†††Have we not all one Father? Has not one God created us? Why then are we faithless to one another, profaning the covenant of our fathers? <sup>11</sup>†Judah has been faithless, and abomination has been committed in Israel and in Jerusalem. For Judah has profaned the sanctuary of the LORD, which he loves, and has married the daughter of a foreign god. <sup>12</sup>†May the LORD cut off from the tents of Jacob any descendant [5] of the man who does this, who brings an offering to the LORD of hosts!

<sup>13</sup>†And this second thing you do. You cover the LORD's altar with tears, with weeping and groaning because he no longer regards the offering or accepts it with favor from your hand. <sup>14</sup>†But you say, “Why does he not?” Because the LORD was witness between you and the wife of your youth, to whom you have been faithless, though she is your companion and your wife by covenant. <sup>15</sup>†Did he not make them one, with a portion of the Spirit in their union? [6] And what was the one God [7] seeking? [8] Godly offspring. So guard yourselves [9] in your spirit, and let none of you be faithless to the wife of your youth. <sup>16</sup>†“For the man who does not love his wife but divorces her, [10] says the LORD, the God of Israel, covers [11] his garment with violence, says the LORD of hosts. So guard yourselves in your spirit, and do not be faithless.”

The Messenger of the LORD

<sup>17</sup>‡ You have wearied the LORD with your words. But you say, “How have we wearied him?” By saying, “Everyone who does evil is good in the sight of the LORD, and he delights in them.” Or by asking, “Where is the God of justice?”

MALACHI 3 †“Behold, I send my messenger, and he will prepare the way before me. And the Lord whom you seek will suddenly come to his temple; and the messenger of the covenant in whom you delight, behold, he is coming, says the LORD of hosts. 2†But who can endure the day of his coming, and who can stand when he appears? For he is like a refiner's fire and like fullers' soap. 3†He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver, and he will purify the sons of Levi and refine them like gold and silver, and they will bring offerings in righteousness to the LORD. [1] 4†Then the offering of Judah and Jerusalem will be pleasing to the LORD as in the days of old and as in former years.

5†“Then I will draw near to you for judgment. I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers, against the adulterers, against those who swear falsely, against those who oppress the hired worker in his wages, the widow and the fatherless, against those who thrust aside the sojourner, and do not fear me, says the LORD of hosts.

Robbing God

6‡‡“For I the LORD do not change; therefore you, O children of Jacob, are not consumed. 7From the days of your fathers you have turned aside from my statutes and have not kept them. Return to me, and I will return to you, says the LORD of hosts. But you say, ‘How shall we return?’ 8‡‡Will man rob God? Yet you are robbing me. But you say, ‘How have we robbed you?’ In your tithes and contributions. 9You are cursed with a curse, for you are robbing me, the whole nation of you. 10‡‡Bring the full tithe into the storehouse, that there may be food in my house. And thereby put me to the test, says the LORD of hosts, if I will not open the windows of heaven for you and pour down for you a blessing until there is no more need. 11I will rebuke the devourer [2] for you, so that it will not destroy the fruits of your soil, and your vine in the field shall not fail to bear, says the LORD of hosts. 12Then all nations will call you blessed, for you will be a land of delight, says the LORD of hosts.

13†“Your words have been hard against me, says the LORD. But you say, ‘How have we spoken against you?’ 14†You have said, ‘It is vain to serve God. What is the profit of our keeping his charge or of walking as in mourning before the LORD of hosts? 15†And now we call the arrogant blessed. Evildoers not only prosper but they put God to the test and they escape.’”

The Book of Remembrance

<sup>16</sup>‡ Then those who feared the LORD spoke with one another. The LORD paid attention and heard them, and a book of remembrance was written before him of those who feared the LORD and esteemed his name. <sup>17</sup>‡ “They shall be mine, says the LORD of hosts, in the day when I make up my treasured possession, and I will spare them as a man spares his son who serves him. <sup>18</sup>‡ Then once more you shall see the distinction between the righteous and the wicked, between one who serves God and one who does not serve him.

The Great Day of the LORD

MALACHI 4 † [\[1\]](#) “For behold, the day is coming, burning like an oven, when all the arrogant and all evildoers will be stubble. The day that is coming shall set them ablaze, says the LORD of hosts, so that it will leave them neither root nor branch. <sup>2</sup>† But for you who fear my name, the sun of righteousness shall rise with healing in its wings. You shall go out leaping like calves from the stall. <sup>3</sup>† And you shall tread down the wicked, for they will be ashes under the soles of your feet, on the day when I act, says the LORD of hosts.

<sup>4</sup>† “Remember the law of my servant Moses, the statutes and rules [\[2\]](#) that I commanded him at Horeb for all Israel.

<sup>5</sup>† “Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the great and awesome day of the LORD comes. <sup>6</sup>† And he will turn the hearts of fathers to their children and the hearts of children to their fathers, lest I come and strike the land with a decree of utter destruction.” [\[3\]](#)

Study Notes

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:1–2:16 In the first of two major sections (cf. 2:17–4:6), Malachi delivered God’s message that denounced sin among the people of Israel.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:1 oracle. This term refers to the sentence pronounced by the prophet. See notes on Isa. 13:1; Nah. 1:1; Hab. 1:1; Zech. 9:1; 12:1.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:2 I have loved you. The great privilege of Israel as God’s beloved people is forcefully presented by comparing the nation with Edom. In response to the affirmation of the Lord’s love for them, the people, looking only at what they had lost since the captivity and how feeble their nation was, incredulously expressed doubt about God’s love and insolently challenged it. Nevertheless, God reaffirmed his love to them, recalling his covenant choice of Jacob over Esau, father of the Edomites (cf. Gen. 25:23). In this closing book of the OT, God’s electing love toward Israel, sovereign, undeserved, and persistent (cf. Rom. 9:13), is boldly and explicitly reiterated by the Lord himself and illustrated by his choice of Jacob and his offspring. Unconditionally, and completely apart from any consideration of human merit, God elected Jacob and his descendants to become his heirs of promise (cf. Rom. 9:6–29). No one should conclude that God does not love his people because he afflicted them, but rather he loves them because he elected them.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:3 Esau I have hated. While Genesis mentions no divine hatred toward Esau, Obadiah’s prophecy over 1,000 years later (see Obadiah) indicated that the Lord’s hatred was against Esau’s idolatrous descendants. In the same way, the Lord’s love for Jacob refers to his descendants who were his sovereignly elected people through whom the world’s Redeemer would come. Nor does the love/hate language signify a comparative love in which he loved Jacob more and Esau less. Rather, the context here speaks of love as “choosing for intimate fellowship” and hate as “not choosing for intimate fellowship” in the realm of redemption. See notes on Rom. 9:6–13. laid waste his hill country . . . heritage. A reference to Edom’s (later called Idumea) destruction, first by Nebuchadnezzar and later by neighboring people, e.g., Egypt, Ammon, and Moab, as well as at the hands of the Nabateans. See Introduction to Obadiah: Background and Setting; Historical and Theological Themes.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:4–5 Though the Edomites would attempt to rebuild their ruins, God would negate their efforts. Israel, on the other hand, is restored; and though complete restoration has been delayed, it will come and the nation will bear witness to God’s gracious rulership, both within as well as beyond her borders (cf. Gen. 12:3; Mal. 1:11).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:6–2:9 Affirming the unconditional love of the Lord (vv. 2–5) did not absolve guilt, thus Malachi delivered an opening indictment against the priests, the nation’s spiritual leaders, pointing out how they were showing contempt for God’s sacrifices (vv. 6–14), his glory (2:1–3), and his law (2:4–9).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:6 priests. He addressed the priests first because they should be leaders in righteous devotion to God, but were foremost in despising his name, though their question was tantamount to a denial of their wicked attitude toward God (cf. Luke 6:46).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:7 polluted food. That the reference here is to animal sacrifices is evident from v. 8. The priests were offering ceremonially unclean or blemished (cf. v. 13) sacrifices, strictly forbidden by the Lord (cf. Lev. 22:20–25; Deut. 15:21), and again hypocritically questioning such an indictment. They had only contempt for the Lord as indicated by the offerings brought to the Lord of “blind,” “lame” and “sick” animals (Mal. 1:8). the Lordtable. This refers to the altar for sacrifices (cf. Ezek. 41:22).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:8 Present that to your governor. The priests had the audacity to offer God what their governor, as a form of taxation, would never have accepted from them. They were more fearful of the governor’s rejection than of God’s. This would have been during the time that Nehemiah was back in Persia (cf. Neh. 13:6), when he would have relinquished the office for some time.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:9 The invitation to repent is best taken as irony. How could they expect God to extend his grace when they were insulting him with unacceptable sacrifices?

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:10 shut the doors. God, speaking in the first person, desired for someone to shut the temple doors, thereby preventing the useless, insincere presentation of sacrifices (cf. Isa. 1:11–15). It would be better to stop all sacrifices than to offer insincere offerings.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:11 from the rising of the sun to its setting. The phrase is a way of referring to the whole earth (cf. Ps. 50:1; 103:12; Isa. 45:6; 59:19; Zech. 8:7), as the subsequent phrase, “in every place,” indicates (cf. Mal. 1:5). Although no indication is given as to the time when such worship of God will fill the earth, this cannot be a reference to any historic Jewish worship outside the borders of Israel. Malachi’s zeal for Israel’s sacrifices, coupled with his negative attitude toward foreigners and their gods (vv. 2–5; 2:11), points to the millennial era, when they will worship in the rebuilt temple, and incense plus offerings will be present (cf. Ezek. 40–48). At that time, and not until then, the Lord will receive pure worship throughout the world and his name will be honored everywhere (cf. Isa. 2:2–4; 19:19–21; 24:14–16; 45:22–24; 66:18–21; Mic. 4:1–3; Zech. 8:20–23; 14:16–19).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:12–13 The reproof of vv. 7–8 is repeated. The exacting requirements of the sacrifices wearied the priests. They did not literally say the Lord’s table (the place of offerings) is contemptible, but they virtually said so by refusing to lead the people to reverence and to offer the Lord their best; thus their attitude and actions were profaning the altar and insulting to the Lord (cf. Isa. 43:22–24; Mic. 6:3), so he rejected their offerings.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:14 what is blemished. Instead of the unblemished male animal (cf. Lev. 22:19), which was considered more valuable and which he had vowed to voluntarily give, the offerer suddenly substituted a blemished female. The fact that it was voluntary makes it that much more incongruous (cf. Acts 5:1–5). a great King. If such presentations are unacceptable to their governor (Mal. 1:8), how much more to the King of the universe? Cf. Ps. 48:2 and Matt. 5:35.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:2 I will send the curse. Failing to render glory to God would result in a curse being sent upon them. This is a fundamental OT theme: blessing for obedience, cursing for disobedience (cf. 1:14; Deut. 27:15–26; 28:15–68). your blessings. These were not restricted to material blessings only (cf. Num. 18:21) but referred to all the benefits of God’s gracious hand (cf. Mal. 1:5), including the blessings pronounced by the priests over the people (cf. Num. 6:23–27).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:3 dung. This very graphic language shows how God viewed unfaithful priests as worthy of the most unthinkable disgrace. As the internal waste of the sacrificial animal was normally carried outside the camp and burned (cf. Ex. 29:14; Lev. 4:11–12; 8:17; 16:27), so the priests would be discarded and suffer humiliation and loss of office. The Lord’s purpose in such a warning was to shake them out of their complacency.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:4–5 my covenant with Levi. The relationship of God to the priesthood was clearly set forth in the Levitic Covenant (Num. 3:44–48; 18:8–24; Deut. 33:8–11). The covenant was one of mutual responsibility, in which God expected reverence for himself in exchange for life and peace for the priests. Verbally similar to the covenant made with Phinehas relating to the lineage of the high priest (cf. Num. 25:10–13), this covenant was made with Aaron of Levi’s line and his descendants. The Jewish priests of Malachi’s day had deceived themselves by claiming the privileges of the covenant, while neglecting the conditions of it, as if God was bound to bless them even while they rejected the obligation to serve him.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:4 So shall you know. The priests will know the price of disobedience by bitter experience with the consequences.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:6 Aaron, unlike the priests of Malachi’s time, feared and revered God. Aaron also fulfilled this responsibility and lived the godliness he taught (Lev. 8–9). See note on Mal. 2:4–5.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:7 The priests were the messengers of God in Israel. Not only were they to represent the people to God, but they were also responsible to represent God to the people by teaching the law of Moses to the nation (cf. Lev. 10:9–11; Deut. 33:10; Ezra 7:10; Hos. 4:6).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:8–9 The priests of Malachi’s day had made a radical departure from God’s standard, originally given to Levi, causing others to stumble by their bad example and false interpretation of the law. Consequently, the worst shame and degradation fell upon them (cf. v. 3; Neh. 13:29).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:10–16 Israel’s spiritual leaders committed grievous sins (1:6–2:9), leading the people to do the same. They too were violating the requirements of God’s law by profaning the institution of the Levitical priesthood, marrying foreign wives (2:10–12), and divorcing the wives of their youth (vv. 13–16).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:10 one Father. Though God is Father of all through creation (cf. Acts 17:29; Eph. 3:14–15), the primary focus is directed to God as the Father of Israel as his covenant people (see “father” in Mal. 1:6, where this indictment began; also cf. Jer. 2:27).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:10–11 faithless. This key phrase (vv. 10–11, 14–16) refers to the violation of God’s will by divorcing Jewish wives and marrying foreign women. God is the Father who gave life to Israel (cf. Isa. 43:1; 60:21), yet they had, through intermarriage with idol worshipers, introduced division by violating the covenant he made with their fathers to ensure the maintenance of a separated people (cf. Ex. 19:5; 24:8; 34:14–16; Lev. 20:24, 26; Deut. 7:1–4).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:11 married the daughter of a foreign god. A worshiper of an idol was considered to be its child (Jer. 2:27). The prophets often mixed the ideas of adultery and idolatry or physical and spiritual adultery. Unless they became true proselytes to Judaism, pagan women led their husbands into idolatry and thereby contaminated Israelite worship (cf. Judg. 3:5–7). Those Jews who married them profaned God’s temple and the covenant community. Solomon’s violation of this law had opened the door for idolatry to enter Judah (1 Kings 11:1–6). Both Ezra (Ezra 9:2–15) and Nehemiah (Neh. 13:23–29) faced this sinful problem.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:12 cut off. This common term was generally used for death. Their adulterous actions of divorce and intermarriage disqualified them from participation in the rights and privileges of the community of Israel, so their offerings to God would be rejected. any descendant. As the esv footnote indicates, the Hebrew says “any who wakes and answers.” This is a proverbial expression referring to two classes of people: “the active watcher” who “awakens” people to reality and “the passive hearer” who “answers.” This proverb apparently came from nomadic people who had guards around their tents to stay awake and make others aware of danger. This signified judgment so that everyone who sins in this gross, idolatrous way would be exterminated.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:13 cover the Lord’s altar with tears. Weeping and wailing would achieve nothing because sin had shut the door of access to God. They had violated their marriage vows and the separation from idols as God required. This double disloyalty made their offerings a hypocritical mockery. Since lay people had no access to the altars but the priests did, it was clearly their guilt that was foremost, and their hypocrisy so unacceptable to God.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:14 your wife by covenant. The prophet accentuated the iniquity by mentioning the legally binding nature of the marriage contract, a covenant made before God as witness (cf. Gen. 31:50; Prov. 2:17). Wives were married young, sometimes before 15 years of age (cf. Prov. 5:18; Isa. 54:6).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:15 Noting God’s original institution of marriage (Gen. 2:24), in which he made two into one, Malachi reminded them that God provided only one woman for one man. Though he had the life-giving power of the Spirit, and could have made Adam a number of wives, he created only one—to raise up a “godly offspring.” Polygamy, divorce, and marriage to idolatrous women are destructive to obtaining the godly remnant in the line of the promised Messiah. Only when both parents remain faithful to their marriage vows can the children be given the security that provides the basis for godly living. Because this foundational divine institution of marriage was being threatened, Malachi urged that no husband act in a treacherous way toward his wife. For polygamy see note on 1 Kings 11:1–6.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:16 As the esv footnote indicates, the translation of this passage is disputed. Instead of rendering it as the divorcing man hating his wife, it can also be translated as the Lord hating divorce. If so, then the Lord is emphasizing what he had been saying by this emphatic declaration. In fact, God sees this unwarranted divorce as a gross act of sin that, like blood splattered from a murder victim on the killer, leaves evidence of the evil deed. For discussion of divorce, which God actually commanded the Jews to do by separating from these idolatrous wives, see notes on Ezra 10:9–18 and the Ezra Introduction: Interpretive Challenges. Though God hates divorce, there are times when it is the lesser of the evils and would prevent a future and even greater spiritual catastrophe. See notes on Matt. 5:32; 19:3–12; 1 Cor. 7:10–16.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:17–4:6 The denunciation of Israel’s sins was followed by a declaration of judgment on the unrepentant and subsequent blessing on the faithful remnant. Verse 17 is the introduction to the rest of the book. These faithless, disobedient priests and people had worn out God’s patience by their skepticism and self-justification, so judgment is on the way.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:17 wearied the Lord. Disillusionment followed the rebuilding of the temple. presence of God had not come to the new temple. They began to live in indifference to God. Calloused and lacking in spiritual discernment, the people persisted in cynical expressions of innocence. They had rejected all intention of taking right and wrong seriously. So deeply gripped by complacent self-righteousness, they had the gall to insolently question the Lord, implying that he seemed to favor the wicked and was unconcerned about the righteous. The prophet faced them with imminent judgment, telling them God was coming, but to refine and purify (cf. 3:1, 5).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:1 my messenger. It was a custom of the Near Eastern kings to send messengers before them to remove obstacles to their visit. Employing a wordplay on the name of Malachi, (“the Lord’s messenger”), the Lord himself announced he was sending one who would “prepare the way before me.” This is the voice of one “calling” in the wilderness (Isa. 40:3) and the Elijah of Mal. 4:5 who comes before the Lord. The NT clearly identifies him as John the Baptist (cf. Matt. 3:3; 11:10, 14; 17:12ff.; Mark 1:2; Luke 1:17; 7:26–27; John 1:23). will suddenly come. To come “suddenly” does not mean immediately, but instantaneously and unannounced. It usually refers to a calamitous event (cf. Isa. 47:11; 48:3; Jer. 4:20, etc.). When all the preparations are completed, the Lord will come, not to Zerubbabel’s temple, nor in partial fulfillment to Herod’s temple (see notes on John 2:13–24), but finally to that millennial temple that Ezekiel describes in Ezek. 40–48. The unexpected coming of Christ, partially fulfilled at his first advent, will be accomplished in full at his second coming (cf. Matt. 24:40–42). messenger of the covenant. Probably not the messenger just mentioned. Rather, because this Messenger will “come to his temple,” it is most likely a reference to the Lord himself, the One who has the authority to reward or judge his people on the basis of their faithfulness to his covenant with them. The title may reflect earlier OT references to his “angel,” which is lit. “messenger” (cf. Ex. 23:20–23; 32:34; Isa. 63:9). in whom you delight. This is likely sarcastic. These sinful people were not delighting in God then, nor would they when he came in judgment on their hypocritical worship and cleansed the temple (cf. John 2:13–25). All the ungodly will be destroyed at his return (cf. Rev. 19:11ff.).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:2 refiner’s fire . . . fullers’ soap. Instead of bringing rewards, his coming is likened to two purifying agents—fire to burn off dross and alkali to whiten—an indication of the true condition of their hearts. The fire will burn off the dross of iniquity; the soap will wash out the stain of sin. His coming will be one in which he removes all impurities. No one will escape this cleansing. Significantly, he will come purifying and cleansing, but not necessarily destroying (cf. Isa. 1:25; 48:10; Jer. 6:29–30; Ezek. 22:17–22).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:3 purify the sons of Levi. Since the Levitical priests were instrumental in leading the nation astray and a new group of pure priests was required for the work of the millennial temple (cf. Ezek. 44–45:8), the cleansing of the nation would begin with them (cf. Ezek. 9:6). Then they can “present to the Lord” what is righteous as called for in the millennial sacrifices (cf. Ezek. 45:9–46:24). offerings in righteousness. Given from cleansed hearts in a right condition before God, their offerings will be “in righteousness.” These millennial sacrifices will be a memorial for the redeemed nation of Israel, commemorating Christ’s sacrifice at Calvary. See notes on Ezek. 44–46.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:4 the days of old. Only after the priesthood is purged and when the people are cleansed, will they be able to offer what pleases the Lord as in the days of Solomon (2 Chron. 7:8–10); Hezekiah (2 Chron. 30:26); Josiah (2 Chron. 35:18); and Ezra (Neh. 8:7).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:5 What is a refining process for the remnant of repentant Jews who acknowledge their Messiah (cf. Zech. 12–14; Rom. 11:25–27), preparing them to enter the kingdom and worship in the millennial temple, will be for others utter destruction. All the iniquitous behaviors in this verse are evidence that these are people who “do not fear” God. In Mal. 2:17, they asked a question, and here is the answer, “I will draw near to you for judgment.” Occult practices were clearly forbidden (cf. Ex. 22:18; Deut. 18:10–12), but continued into NT times (cf. Acts 8:9). Adultery also violated God’s law (Mal. 2:16), as did perjury (cf. Ex. 20:16; Lev. 19:12; Deut. 19:16–20), extortion, and oppression.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:6–12 These verses form a parenthesis between two messages concerning God’s justice and judgment. What the Jews have labeled as God’s injustice is not God’s being unrighteous or unfair, but his being mercifully patient. A genuine call of repentance is then issued (v. 7) and the fruit of it described (v. 10).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:6–7 Contrary to God’s having become unjust and thus not acting on behalf of Israel, in light of their history of rebellion, Israel’s existence was due only to the Lord’s unchanging character and unswerving commitment to his covenant promise with the patriarchs (cf. Num. 23:19; 1 Sam. 15:29; James 1:17 in general; Jer. 31:35–37; 33:14–22 in particular). They may experience God’s goodness again, and be blessed—if they repent. In view of the Lord’s coming to refine and purify, Malachi presents a powerful challenge to repent (cf. Zech. 1:3). Yet, apparently unwilling to admit the sins on their part needing repentance (also cf. Mal. 3:8b), the invitation to return is met with another cynical query, asking how they can return when, from their perspective, they haven’t left—God has. The truth was, God hasn’t changed and neither have they; he was as righteous as ever and they as unrighteous.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:8–12 In answer to their query about how they have deviated from God’s way and need to return, the prophet picked an illustration of their spiritual defection that is very visible and undeniable. The Lord pointed out that they had not brought the required tithes and offerings, those used to fund the theocracy by sustaining the Levites (cf. Lev. 27:30–33; Num. 18:8–28; Deut. 12:18; Neh. 13:10), the national religious festivals (Deut. 12:6–17; 14:22–27), and the poor (Deut. 14:28–29). But in not paying their taxes, and so robbing God, they had robbed themselves, for God had withheld his blessing. On believers’ responsibility to pay taxes, see notes on Matt. 22:21 and Rom. 13:1–7. On NT freewill giving, see 1 Cor. 16:1–2 and 2 Cor. 8–9.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:8–9 you are robbing me. Here was a glaring, widespread sin; they had stolen from God what was rightfully his by divine law.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:10–12 put me to the test. Contrary to the normal biblical pattern, the people were invited to put God to the test (cf. Isa. 7:11–12; 1 Kings 18:20–46). If they would honor him by reversing their robbery and in a show of true repentance bring what he required, he would shower them with excessive abundance (cf. Prov. 11:24–25), protect them from locusts (“the devourer”), and they would be the delight of the nations (cf. Isa. 62:4). See notes on Luke 6:38 and 2 Cor. 9:6–10.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:10 the full tithe. See note on vv. 8–12. When tithes were unpaid, the priests were deprived and had to give up their ministry and to begin farming. The nation’s religious life was hindered and the poor and strangers suffered (cf. Neh. 13:10–11). But, the real iniquity was that such disobedience was robbing God, who was the true King of the theocracy of Israel. storehouse. A room in the temple to store the tithes of crops and animals brought by the people (cf. 2 Chron. 31:11; Neh. 10:38–39; 12:44; 13:12). This was the temple treasury. One of Nehemiah’s tasks was to ensure that the supplies needed for support of the temple ministry did not fail as it had during his absence (cf. Neh. 13:10–13).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:13 These sinful priests and people had not just questioned God (2:17), violated God’s covenant (2:11), disobeyed his laws (2:9), defiled his altar (1:7, 12) and despised his name (1:6), but had openly spoken against him. In spite of what was promised (3:10–12), the people complained that obedience to God’s law brought no rewards (v. 14). Only the proud and wicked prospered, they said (v. 15).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:14 walking as in mourning. The people pretended to grieve for their sins, walking around in sackcloth or even with blackened faces to convey apparent sorrow (cf. Isa. 58:5; Joel 2:13; Matt. 6:16–18), then complained that all that religious activity was useless.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:15 put God to the test. The proud and wicked, with apparent impunity, put God to the test by seeing how far they could go in doing evil (cf. Ps. 73:2–14). In Mal. 3:10, God invited his people to see how far he would go in blessing.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:16–4:6 Malachi ended with an encouraging word for the faithful remnant.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:16 book of remembrance. In the hearts of the true and righteous worshipers who loved and served God in Israel, all the talk of judgment produced fear that they, too, might be swept away when God’s wrath came. To encourage the godly remnant, Malachi noted how the Lord had not forgotten those “who feared the Lord and esteemed his name.” The book may be a reference to the “book of life” in which the names of God’s children are recorded (e.g., Ex. 32:32–34; Neh. 13:14; Ps. 69:28; Dan. 12:1). The Persians had a custom of recording in a book all acts of a person that should be rewarded in the future (e.g., Est. 6:1–2). The psalmist knew of such a book as well (Ps. 56:8).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:17 mine . . . my treasured possession. “Mine” is emphatic in the Hebrew. The godly remnant will belong to him and will be his special treasure, or “possession” (cf. same word in Ex. 19:5; Deut. 7:6; 14:2; 26:18; Ps. 135:4). In the midst of judgment, he will spare them (cf. Ps. 103:13).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:18 The distinction between the godly and ungodly will be evident for all when the righteous Lord is present, ruling from the throne of David in Jerusalem.

The Rise of the Roman Empire

c. 753 B.C.–A.D. 117

From its earliest beginnings as a small kingdom centered in Rome, the Roman Empire eventually grew to become one of the most powerful empires the world has ever known. After solidifying control over the Italian peninsula, the Romans fought a series of wars (the Punic Wars) with the growing Carthaginian Empire and absorbed their territory in Africa and Hispania. Pushing eastward into Greece, Asia, and Syria, and westward into Gallia (Gaul) and western Hispania, the Romans continued to expand their territory until they ruled the entire Mediterranean region by A.D. 117.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:1 the day is coming. The first three verses continue the thought of the closing verses of the previous chapter, elaborating on God’s punishment of the wicked and his deliverance of the godly (cf. 3:1–5). This eschatological reference to the day of the Lord (cf. Isa. 13:6; Joel 2:11, 31; Zeph. 1:14) is injected four times into the prophet’s final words (Mal. 3:17; 4:1, 3, 5). It anticipated the return of the Lord Jesus in judgment (cf. Rev. 19:11–21). burning like an oven. Adding to the imagery of a refining fire (Mal. 3:2), Malachi spoke of God’s judgment as a destructive fire that swiftly and totally consumes with excessive heat (cf. with the proud of 3:15). The destruction of the roots, normally protected by their subsurface location, provides a vivid, proverbial picture of its totality. All who refuse to repent will be cast into the fire of hell (cf. Rev. 20:11–15).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:2 sun of righteousness. While the wicked will be devoured by the heat of his wrath, those who fear him will feel his warmth with healing in his “light” (cf. Isa. 30:26; 60:1, 3). The reference is to the Messiah, “the Lord our righteousness” (Ps. 84:11; Jer. 23:5–6; 1 Cor. 1:30). healing. The reference should not be limited to the physical recovery from the harm done by the wicked (cf. Mal. 3:5). This sickness is inextricably linked with sin, with healing coming only through the suffering of the Servant (cf. Ps. 103:3; Isa. 53:5; 57:18–19; 1 Pet. 2:24). like calves from the stall. Calves, when confined to a stall for extended periods of time, leap for sheer joy when turned loose into the sunlight. The picture is one of a joyful, vigorous, and carefree life.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:3 ashes under . . . your feet. The destruction of the wicked is appreciated by those who suffered at their hand. Ashes were often poured on foot trails to provide a more solid pathway during wet weather. Here the wicked are compared to ashes, which the righteous will tread down as a result of the fire of God’s judgment (cf. v. 1). The prophet desires, as should all believers, that there be far-reaching repentance, and if not, destruction of the impenitent is inescapable.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:4 Both the law and the prophets play a part in preparing for the arrival of the day of the Lord. First, the people were to remember what was given at Sinai (Horeb), the law of Moses primarily focusing on the obligations to obedience at the time of entering into that covenant (Ex. 24:1ff.; Josh. 8:32; 23:6; 1 Kings 2:3).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:5 Elijah. The mention of Elijah was to announce the Messiah’s arrival (see Introduction: Interpretive Challenges). John the Baptist was a type of Elijah at Christ’s first advent (cf. Luke 1:17). Moses and Elijah appeared together at the Mount of Transfiguration (cf. Matt. 17:1–4) and may be the two witnesses in the great tribulation (cf. Rev. 11:1–3). Most likely, this will be an Elijah-like person, as John the Baptist was Elijah-like (see note on Mal. 3:1). In that day, his task will be to preach reconciliation to God so that souls can believe and be spared God’s curse. He will be effective (4:6).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:6 turn . . . hearts. The very opposite of what occurred at Christ’s first coming (cf. Matt. 10:34–36) anticipates a general societal repentance (cf. Matt. 25:31–46; Rev. 7:9–17; 20:4–6), so that complete destruction might be averted. The earth will be restored to Edenic wonder, the curse reversed, the kingdom established with Messiah reigning, and the righteous Jews and Gentiles entering it. decree of utter destruction. This term refers to the practice of devoting things or persons irrevocably to God, often by total destruction. Cities of Canaan were put under the decree of utter destruction, and thus the people were to be exterminated (cf. Deut. 13:12–18; 20:16ff.). Its use here suggests that God would make a whole burnt offering of the earth if there was not a repentant remnant.

The Intertestamental Period

Introduction to the Intertestamental Period

Over 400 years separated the final events (Neh. 13:4–30) and final prophecy (Mal. 1:1–4:6) recorded in the Old Testament (c. 424 B.C.) from the beginning actions (Luke 1:5–25) narrated in the New Testament (c. 6 B.C.). Because there was no prophetic word from God during this time, this period is sometimes called “the four hundred silent years.” However, the history of these years followed the pattern predicted in Daniel (Dan. 2:24–45; 7:1–28; 8:1–27; 11:1–35) with exact precision. Though the voice of God was silent, the hand of God was actively directing the course of events during these centuries.

Jewish History

As predicted by Daniel, control of the land of Israel passed from the empire of Medo-Persia to Greece and then to Rome (Dan. 2:39–40; 7:5–7). For about 200 years, the Persian Empire ruled the Jews (539–332 B.C.). The Persians allowed the Jews to return, rebuild, and worship at the temple in Jerusalem (2 Chron. 36:22–23; Ezra 1:1–4). For about 100 years after the close of the Old Testament canon, Judea continued to be a Persian territory under the governor of Syria with the high priest exercising a measure of civil authority. The Jews were allowed to observe their religious tenets without any official governmental interference.

Between 334 B.C. and 331 B.C., Alexander the Great defeated the Persian king, Darius III, in three decisive battles that gave him control of the lands of the Persian Empire. The land of Israel thus passed into Greek control in 332 B.C. (Dan. 8:5–7, 20–21; 11:3). Alexander permitted the Jews in Judea to observe their laws and granted them an exemption from taxes during their sabbatical years. However, Alexander sought to bring Greek culture, called “Hellenism,” to the lands he had conquered. He wished to create a world united by Greek language and thinking. This policy, carried on by Alexander’s successors, was as dangerous to the religion of Israel as the cult of Baal had been, because the Greek way of life was attractive, sophisticated, and humanly appealing, but utterly ungodly.

Upon Alexander’s death in 323 B.C., a struggle ensued among his generals as his empire was divided (Dan. 8:22; 11:4). Ptolemy I Sater, founder of the Ptolemies of Egypt, took control of Israel, even though an agreement in 301 B.C. assigned it to Seleucus I Nicator, founder of the Seleucids of Syria. This caused continuing contention between the Seleucid and Ptolemaic dynasties (Dan. 11:5). The Ptolemies ruled Judea from 301 B.C. to 198 B.C. (Dan. 11:6–12). Under the Ptolemies, the Jews had comparative religious freedom in a setting of economic oppression.

Maccabean Kingdom

c. 167–63 B.C.

The Maccabean kingdom of Israel had its beginnings when the priest Mattathias and his family refused to obey the Seleucid rulers' order to sacrifice to the pagan god Zeus at Modein. They led a revolt that initially controlled only the territory of Judea in the vicinity of Jerusalem. Over the next hundred years, however, the Maccabean rulers slowly added portions of territory to the kingdom until it resembled the borders of the territory allotted to the Israelite tribes by Joshua.

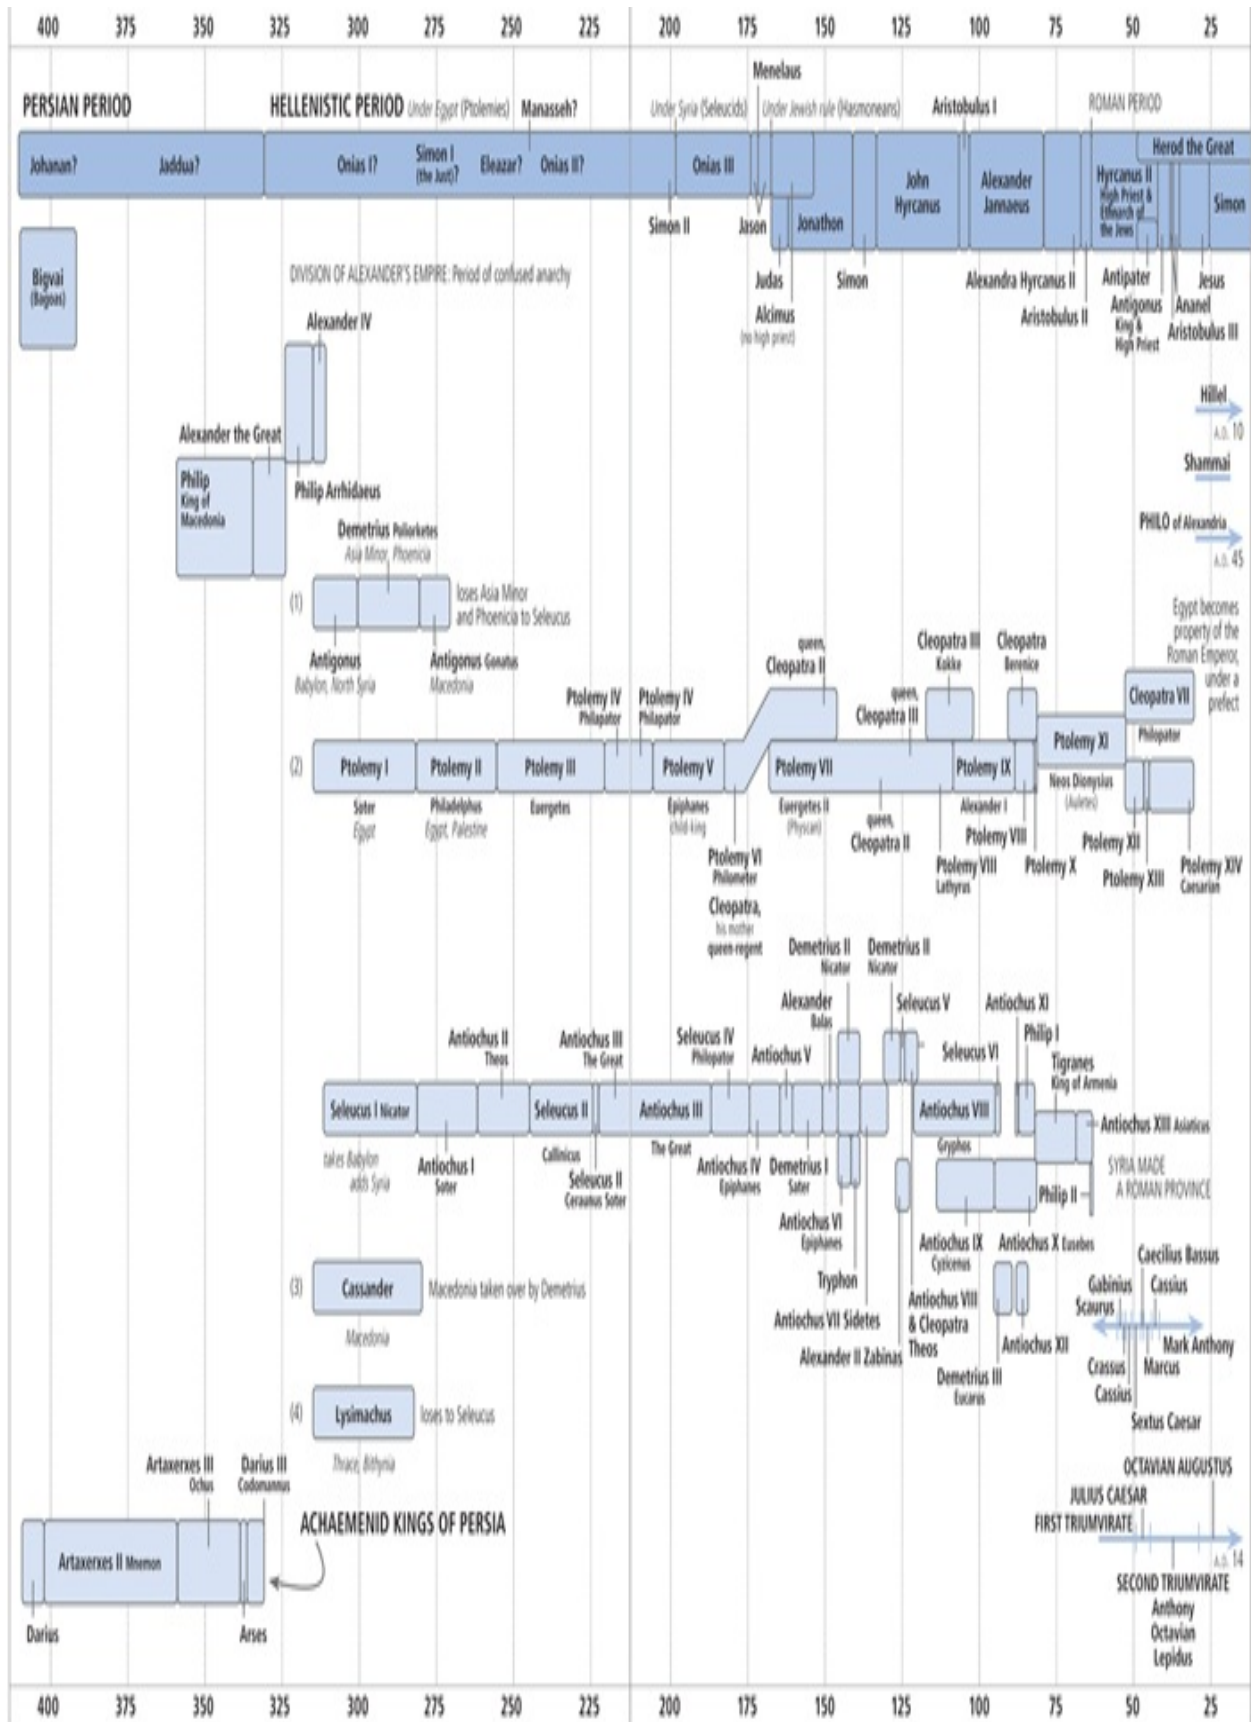

In 198 B.C., Antiochus III the Great defeated Ptolemy V Epiphanes and took control of Palestine (Dan. 11:13–16). Judea was under Seleucid rule until 143 B.C. (Dan. 11:17–35). Early Seleucid toleration of Jewish religious practices came to an end in the reign of Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 B.C.). Antiochus desecrated and plundered the temple of Jerusalem in 170 B.C. In 167 B.C., Antiochus ordered Hellenization in Palestine and forbade the Jews from keeping their laws, observing the Sabbath, keeping festivals, offering sacrifices, and circumcising their children. Copies of the Torah were ordered destroyed, idolatrous altars were set up, plus the Jews were commanded by Antiochus to offer unclean sacrifices and to eat swine's flesh. Antiochus was the first pagan monarch to persecute the Jews for their faith (Dan. 8:9-14, 23-25; 11:21-35).

Chronology of the Intertestamental Period

An aged priest, Mattathias, and his five sons led the Jewish resistance against Antiochus and his Seleucid successors. This was known as the Maccabean Revolt because Judas Maccabeus (lit., “Hammer”) was the first leader among the five sons. After a 24-year war (166–142 B.C.), the Jews were able to gain their independence from Syria because of the growing Roman pressure on the Seleucids. The descendants of Mattathias founded the Hasmonean dynasty, a name derived from Hashmon, an ancestor of the Maccabees.

The Hasmoneans took over the office of high priest, although they did not belong to the line of Zadok (Num. 25:10–13; Ezek. 40:46; 48:11). Quickly, the Hasmoneans began to follow Hellenistic ways, the very practices they had at first resisted. The Greek influence continued in Palestine from 142 B.C. to 63 B.C. through this native dynasty.

The Hasmonean dynasty ended in 63 B.C. when Pompey, a general of Rome, intervened in a clash between two claimants to the high priesthood, Aristobolus II and Hyrcanus II. The land thus passed into Roman control (Dan. 2:40; 7:7). Continuing unrest led the Romans to make Herod the Great king of Judea. He was an Idumean by birth, a Jewish proselyte, and thoroughly Greco-Roman in outlook. He ruled Palestine from 37 B.C. to 4 B.C. and was the “king of the Jews” when Jesus was born (Matt. 2:1–2).

Jewish Developments

Diaspora. The dispersion of Israel began in the two exiles, i.e., Israel in Assyria (2 Kings 17:23) and Judah in Babylon (2 Kings 25:21). The majority of Israelites did not return to Judea after the exile and so became colonists, no longer captives, in the Persian Empire. The geographical movement of Israelites continued in the Greek and Roman Empires so that by the first century A.D., Jews were found throughout the Mediterranean basin and Mesopotamia. The majority of Israelites lived outside of Palestine during the later Intertestamental Period.

Scribes and Rabbis. Believing the exile had come because of a lack of knowledge of and obedience to the Torah, the Israelite exiles devoted themselves to the study of the Old Testament. The scribes became experts in and were considered authorities on the interpretation of the Scriptures during the Intertestamental Period. The rabbis were the teachers who passed on the scribal understanding of the Scriptures to the people of Israel.

Synagogue. With the destruction of the temple in 586 B.C., the synagogue became the place of education and worship for the Jews in exile. Since the majority of Jews did not return to Palestine after the exile, synagogues continued to function in the Diaspora and also became established in Palestine, even after the reconstruction of the temple by Zerubbabel in 516 B.C.

Septuagint. With the emphasis placed on using the Greek language from c. 330 B.C. on, the Jews of the Diaspora became predominately Greek-speakers. According to Jewish legend, in c. 250 B.C., Ptolemy Philadelphus brought together 72 scholars who translated the Old Testament into Greek in 72 days. Thus, the Latin word for 70, “Septuagint” (LXX), was the name attached to this translation. Probably translated over the period from 250 B.C. to 125 B.C. in Alexandria, Egypt, the Septuagint was the most important and widely used Greek translation of the Old Testament.

Pharisees. This religious party probably began as the “holy ones” associated with the Maccabees in the endeavor to rid the land of Hellenistic elements. When the Maccabees turned themselves to Hellenism once it was in power, these holy ones “separated” (the possible source of the name, Pharisee) from the official religious establishment of Judea. The Pharisees interpreted the law strictly in accordance with a developing oral tradition and sought to make their understanding binding upon all Jews. Though few in number, the Pharisees enjoyed the favor of the majority of the people in Palestine.

Sadducees. Probably from the name “Zadok,” the high-priestly line, these Hellenized, aristocratic Jews became the guardians of the temple policy and practices. The Sadducees rejected the Old Testament as Scripture, except for the Torah, as well as any teaching they believed was not found in the Torah (the first five books of the OT), e.g., the resurrection from the dead (Acts 23:6–8).

Introduction to the Gospels

The English word “gospel” derives from the Anglo-Saxon word godspell, which can mean either “a story about God,” or “a good story.” The latter meaning is in harmony with the Greek word translated “gospel,” euangellion, which means “good news.” In secular Greek, euangellion referred to a good report about an important event. The four Gospels are the good news about the most significant events in all of history—the life, sacrificial death, and resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth.

The Gospels are not biographies in the modern sense of the word, since they do not intend to present a complete life of Jesus (cf. John 20:30; 21:25). Apart from the birth narratives, they give little information about the first 30 years of Jesus’ life. While Jesus’ public ministry lasted over three years, the Gospels focus much of their attention on the last week of his life (cf. John 12–20). Though they are completely accurate historically, and present important biographical details of Jesus’ life, the primary purposes of the Gospels are theological and apologetic (John 20:31). They provide authoritative answers to questions about Jesus’ life and ministry, and they strengthen believers’ assurance regarding the reality of their faith (Luke 1:4).

Although many spurious gospels were written, the church from earliest times has accepted only Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John as inspired Scripture. While each Gospel has its unique perspective (see the discussion of the “Synoptic Problem” in the Introduction to Mark: Interpretive Challenges), Matthew, Mark, and Luke, when compared to John, share a common point of view. Because of that, they are known as the synoptic (from a Greek word meaning “to see together,” or “to share a common point of view”) Gospels. Matthew, Mark, and Luke, for example, focus on Christ’s Galilean ministry, while John focuses on his ministry in Judea. The synoptic Gospels contain numerous parables, while John records none. John and the synoptic Gospels record only two common events (Jesus’ walking on the water, and the feeding of the 5,000) prior to Passion Week. These differences between John and the synoptic Gospels, however, are not contradictory, but complementary.

As already noted, each Gospel writer wrote from a unique perspective, for a different audience. As a result, each Gospel contains distinctive elements. Taken together, the four Gospels form a complete testimony about Jesus Christ.

Matthew wrote primarily to a Jewish audience, presenting Jesus of Nazareth as Israel's long-awaited Messiah and rightful King. His genealogy, unlike Luke's, focuses on Jesus' royal descent from Israel's greatest king, David. Interspersed throughout Matthew are OT quotes presenting various aspects of Jesus' life and ministry as the fulfillment of OT messianic prophecy. Matthew alone uses the phrase "kingdom of heaven," avoiding the parallel phrase "kingdom of God" because of the unbiblical connotations it had in first-century Jewish thought. Matthew wrote his Gospel, then, to strengthen the faith of Jewish Christians, and it provides a useful apologetic tool for Jewish evangelism.

Mark targeted a Gentile audience, especially a Roman one (see Introduction to Mark: Background and Setting). Mark is the Gospel of action; the frequent use of "immediately" and "then" keeps his narrative moving rapidly along. Jesus appears in Mark as the Servant (cf. Mark 10:45) who came to suffer for the sins of many. Mark's fast-paced approach would especially appeal to the practical, action-oriented Romans.

Luke addressed a broader Gentile audience. As an educated Greek (see Introduction to Luke: Author and Date), Luke wrote using the most sophisticated literary Greek of any NT writer. He was a careful researcher (Luke 1:1–4) and an accurate historian. Luke portrays Jesus as the Son of Man (a title appearing 26 times), the answer to the needs and hopes of the human race, who came to seek and save lost sinners (Luke 9:56; 19:10).

John, the last Gospel written, emphasizes the deity of Jesus Christ (e.g., 5:18; 8:58; 10:30–33; 14:9). John wrote to strengthen the faith of believers and to appeal to unbelievers to come to faith in Christ. The apostle clearly stated his purpose for writing in 20:31: ". . . these are written so that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in his name."

Taken together, the four Gospels weave a complete portrait of the God-Man, Jesus of Nazareth. In him were blended perfect humanity and deity, making him the only sacrifice for the sins of the world, and the worthy Lord of those who believe.

Introduction to Matthew

Title

Matthew, meaning “gift of the Lord,” was the other name of Levi (9:9), the tax collector who left everything to follow Christ (Luke 5:27–28). Matthew was one of the 12 apostles (Matt. 10:3; Mark 3:18; Luke 6:15; Acts 1:13). In his own list of the Twelve, he explicitly calls himself a “tax collector” (Matt. 10:3). Nowhere else in Scripture is the name Matthew associated with “tax collector”; the other evangelists always employ his former name, Levi, when speaking of his sinful past. This is evidence of humility on Matthew’s part. As with the other three Gospels, this work is known by the name of its author.

Author and Date

The canonicity and Matthean authorship of this Gospel were unchallenged in the early church. Eusebius (c. A.D. 265–339) quotes Origen (c. A.D. 185–254):

Among the four Gospels, which are the only indisputable ones in the Church of God under heaven, I have learned by tradition that the first was written by Matthew, who was once a publican, but afterwards an apostle of Jesus Christ, and it was prepared for the converts from Judaism (Ecclesiastical History, 6:25).

It is clear that this Gospel was written at a relatively early date—prior to the destruction of the temple in A.D. 70. Some scholars have proposed a date as early as A.D. 50. For a further discussion of some of the issues related to the authorship and dating of this Gospel, especially “the Synoptic Problem,” see Introduction to Mark: Interpretive Challenges.

Background and Setting

The Jewish flavor of Matthew’s Gospel is remarkable. This is evident even in the opening genealogy, which Matthew traces back only as far as Abraham. In contrast, Luke, aiming to show Christ as the Redeemer of humanity, goes all the way back to Adam. Matthew’s purpose is somewhat narrower: to demonstrate that Christ is the King and Messiah of Israel. This Gospel quotes more than 60 times from OT prophetic passages, emphasizing how Christ is the fulfillment of all those promises.

The probability that Matthew's audience was predominantly Jewish is further evident from several facts: Matthew usually cites Jewish custom without explaining it, in contrast to the other Gospels (cf. Mark 7:3; John 19:40). He constantly refers to Christ as "the Son of David" (Matt. 1:1; 9:27; 12:23; 15:22; 20:30; 21:9, 15; 22:42, 45). Matthew even guards Jewish sensibilities regarding the name of God, referring to "the kingdom of heaven" where the other evangelists speak of "the kingdom of God." All the book's major themes are rooted in the OT and set in light of Israel's messianic expectations.

Matthew's use of Greek may suggest that he was writing as a Palestinian Jew to Hellenistic Jews elsewhere. He wrote as an eyewitness of many of the events he described, giving firsthand testimony about the words and works of Jesus of Nazareth.

His purpose is clear: to demonstrate that Jesus is the Jewish nation's long-awaited Messiah. His voluminous quoting of the OT is specifically designed to show the tie between the Messiah of promise and the Christ of history. This purpose is never out of focus for Matthew, and he even adduces many incidental details from the OT prophecies as proofs of Jesus' messianic claims (e.g., 2:17–18; 4:13–15; 13:35; 21:4–5; 27:9–10).

Historical and Theological Themes

Since Matthew is concerned with setting forth Jesus as Messiah, the King of the Jews, an interest in the OT kingdom promises runs throughout this Gospel. Matthew's signature phrase "the kingdom of heaven" occurs 32 times in this book (and nowhere else in all of Scripture).

The opening genealogy is designed to document Christ's credentials as Israel's king, and the rest of the book completes this theme. Matthew shows that Christ is the heir of the kingly line. He demonstrates that he is the fulfillment of dozens of OT prophecies regarding the king who would come. He offers evidence after evidence to establish Christ's kingly prerogative. All other historical and theological themes in the book revolve around this one.

Matthew records five major discourses: the Sermon on the Mount (chs. 5–7); the commissioning of the apostles (ch. 10); the parables about the kingdom (ch. 13); a discourse about the childlikeness of the believer (ch. 18); and the discourse on his second coming (chs. 24–25). Each discourse ends with a variation of this phrase: “when Jesus had finished these sayings” (7:28; 11:1; 13:53; 19:1; 26:1). That becomes a motif signaling a new narrative portion. A long opening section (chs. 1–4) and a short conclusion (28:16–20), bracket the rest of the Gospel, which naturally divides into five sections, each with a discourse and a narrative section. Some have seen a parallel between these five sections and the five books of Moses in the OT.

The conflict between Christ and Pharisaism is another common theme in Matthew’s Gospel. But Matthew is keen to show the error of the Pharisees for the benefit of his Jewish audience—not for personal or self-aggrandizing reasons. Matthew omits, for example, the parable of the Pharisee and the tax collector, even though that parable would have put him in a favorable light.

Matthew also mentions the Sadducees more than any of the other Gospels. Both Pharisees and Sadducees are regularly portrayed negatively, and held up as warning beacons. Their doctrine is a leaven that must be avoided (16:11–12). Although these groups were doctrinally at odds with one another, they were united in their hatred of Christ. To Matthew, they epitomized all in Israel who rejected Christ as King.

The rejection of Israel’s Messiah is another constant theme in this Gospel. In no other Gospel are the attacks against Jesus portrayed as strongly as here. From the flight into Egypt to the scene at the cross, Matthew paints a more vivid portrayal of Christ’s rejection than any of the other evangelists. In Matthew’s account of the crucifixion, for example, no thief repents, and no friends or loved ones are seen at the foot of the cross. In his death, he is forsaken even by God (27:46). The shadow of rejection is never lifted from the story.

Yet Matthew portrays him as a victorious King who will one day return “on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory” (24:30).

Interpretive Challenges

As noted above, Matthew groups his narrative material around five great discourses. He makes no attempt to follow a strict chronology, and a comparison of the Gospels reveals that Matthew freely places things out of order. He is dealing with themes and broad concepts, not laying out a timeline.

The prophetic passages present a particular interpretive challenge. Jesus' Olivet Discourse, for example, contains some details that evoke images of the violent destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. Jesus' words in 24:34 have led some to conclude that all these things were fulfilled—albeit not literally—in the Roman conquest of that era. This is the view known as “preterism.” But this is a serious interpretive blunder, forcing the interpreter to read into these passages spiritualized, allegorical meanings unwarranted by normal exegetical methods. The grammatical-historical hermeneutical approach to these passages is the approach to follow, and it yields a consistently futuristic interpretation of crucial prophecies.

For a discussion of the Synoptic Problem, see Introduction to Mark: Interpretive Challenges.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO

Matthew

The Genealogy of Jesus Christ

MATTHEW 1 † The book of the genealogy of Jesus Christ, the son of David, the son of Abraham.

<sup>2</sup>† Abraham was the father of Isaac, and Isaac the father of Jacob, and Jacob the father of Judah and his brothers, <sup>3</sup>† and Judah the father of Perez and Zerah by Tamar, and Perez the father of Hezron, and Hezron the father of Ram, [\[1\]](#) <sup>4</sup> and Ram the father of Amminadab, and Amminadab the father of Nahshon, and Nahshon the father of Salmon, <sup>5</sup>† and Salmon the father of Boaz by Rahab, and Boaz the father of Obed by Ruth, and Obed the father of Jesse, <sup>6</sup> and Jesse the father of David the king.

And David was the father of Solomon by the wife of Uriah, <sup>7</sup> and Solomon the father of Rehoboam, and Rehoboam the father of Abijah, and Abijah the father of Asaph, [\[2\]](#) <sup>8</sup>† and Asaph the father of Jehoshaphat, and Jehoshaphat the father of Joram, and Joram the father of Uzziah, <sup>9</sup> and Uzziah the father of Jotham, and Jotham the father of Ahaz, and Ahaz the father of Hezekiah, <sup>10</sup> and Hezekiah the father of Manasseh, and Manasseh the father of Amos, [\[3\]](#) and Amos the father of Josiah, <sup>11</sup>† and Josiah the father of Jechoniah and his brothers, at the time of the deportation to Babylon.

<sup>12</sup>† And after the deportation to Babylon: Jechoniah was the father of Shealtiel, [\[4\]](#) and Shealtiel the father of Zerubbabel, <sup>13</sup> and Zerubbabel the father of Abiud, and Abiud the father of Eliakim, and Eliakim the father of Azor, <sup>14</sup> and Azor the father of Zadok, and Zadok the father of Achim, and Achim the father of Eliud, <sup>15</sup>† and Eliud the father of Eleazar, and Eleazar the father of Matthan, and Matthan the father of Jacob, <sup>16</sup>† and Jacob the father of Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom Jesus was born, who is called Christ.

<sup>17</sup>† So all the generations from Abraham to David were fourteen generations, and from David to the deportation to Babylon fourteen generations, and from the deportation to Babylon to the Christ fourteen generations.

The Birth of Jesus Christ

<sup>18</sup>† Now the birth of Jesus Christ [5] took place in this way. When his mother Mary had been betrothed [6] to Joseph, before they came together she was found to be with child from the Holy Spirit. <sup>19</sup>† And her husband Joseph, being a just man and unwilling to put her to shame, resolved to divorce her quietly. <sup>20</sup>† But as he considered these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying, “Joseph, son of David, do not fear to take Mary as your wife, for that which is conceived in her is from the Holy Spirit. <sup>21</sup>† She will bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins.” <sup>22</sup>† All this took place to fulfill what the Lord had spoken by the prophet: <sup>23</sup>† “Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and they shall call his name Immanuel”

(which means, God with us). <sup>24</sup>† When Joseph woke from sleep, he did as the angel of the Lord commanded him: he took his wife, <sup>25</sup> but knew her not until she had given birth to a son. And he called his name Jesus.

The Visit of the Wise Men

MATTHEW 2 ‡ Now after Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king, behold, wise men [1] from the east came to Jerusalem, ‡ saying, “Where is he who has been born king of the Jews? For we saw his star when it rose [2] and have come to worship him.” ‡ When Herod the king heard this, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him; ‡ and assembling all the chief priests and scribes of the people, he inquired of them where the Christ was to be born. ‡ They told him, “In Bethlehem of Judea, for so it is written by the prophet: ‡ “And you, O Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, are by no means least among the rulers of Judah; for from you shall come a ruler who will shepherd my people Israel.””

‡ Then Herod summoned the wise men secretly and ascertained from them what time the star had appeared. ‡ And he sent them to Bethlehem, saying, “Go and search diligently for the child, and when you have found him, bring me word, that I too may come and worship him.” ‡ After listening to the king, they went on their way. And behold, the star that they had seen when it rose went before them until it came to rest over the place where the child was. ‡ When they saw the star, they rejoiced exceedingly with great joy. ‡ And going into the house they saw the child with Mary his mother, and they fell down and worshiped him. Then, opening their treasures, they offered him gifts, gold and frankincense and myrrh. ‡ And being warned in a dream not to return to Herod, they departed to their own country by another way.

The Flight to Egypt

‡ Now when they had departed, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream and said, “Rise, take the child and his mother, and flee to Egypt, and remain there until I tell you, for Herod is about to search for the child, to destroy him.” ‡ And he rose and took the child and his mother by night and departed to Egypt ‡ and remained there until the death of Herod. This was to fulfill what the Lord had spoken by the prophet, “Out of Egypt I called my son.”

Herod Kills the Children

‡ Then Herod, when he saw that he had been tricked by the wise men, became furious, and he sent and killed all the male children in Bethlehem and in all that region who were two years old or under, according to the time that he had ascertained from the wise men. <sup>17</sup>†Then was fulfilled what was spoken by the prophet Jeremiah: <sup>18</sup>“A voice was heard in Ramah, weeping and loud lamentation, Rachel weeping for her children; she refused to be comforted, because they are no more.”

The Return to Nazareth

<sup>19</sup>†But when Herod died, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph in Egypt, <sup>20</sup>saying, “Rise, take the child and his mother and go to the land of Israel, for those who sought the child's life are dead.” <sup>21</sup>And he rose and took the child and his mother and went to the land of Israel. <sup>22</sup>†But when he heard that Archelaus was reigning over Judea in place of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there, and being warned in a dream he withdrew to the district of Galilee. <sup>23</sup>†And he went and lived in a city called Nazareth, that what was spoken by the prophets might be fulfilled: “He shall be called a Nazarene.”

John the Baptist Prepares the Way

MATTHEW 3 †In those days John the Baptist came preaching in the wilderness of Judea, <sup>2</sup>†“Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.” <sup>3</sup>†For this is he who was spoken of by the prophet Isaiah when he said, “The voice of one crying in the wilderness: ‘Prepare [\[1\]](#) the way of the Lord; make his paths straight.’”

<sup>4</sup>†Now John wore a garment of camel's hair and a leather belt around his waist, and his food was locusts and wild honey. <sup>5</sup>Then Jerusalem and all Judea and all the region about the Jordan were going out to him, <sup>6</sup>†and they were baptized by him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins.

<sup>7</sup>†But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to his baptism, he said to them, “You brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the wrath to come? <sup>8</sup>†Bear fruit in keeping with repentance. <sup>9</sup>†And do not presume to say to yourselves, ‘We have Abraham as our father,’ for I tell you, God is able from these stones to raise up children for Abraham. <sup>10</sup>†Even now the axe is laid to the root of the trees. Every tree therefore that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire.

<sup>11</sup>†“I baptize you with water for repentance, but he who is coming after me is mightier than I, whose sandals I am not worthy to carry. He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire. <sup>12</sup>†His winnowing fork is in his hand, and he will clear his threshing floor and gather his wheat into the barn, but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire.”

The Baptism of Jesus

<sup>13</sup>Then Jesus came from Galilee to the Jordan to John, to be baptized by him. <sup>14</sup>†John would have prevented him, saying, “I need to be baptized by you, and do you come to me?” <sup>15</sup>†But Jesus answered him, “Let it be so now, for thus it is fitting for us to fulfill all righteousness.” Then he consented. <sup>16</sup>†And when Jesus was baptized, immediately he went up from the water, and behold, the heavens were opened to him, [\[2\]](#) and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove and coming to rest on him; <sup>17</sup>†and behold, a voice from heaven said, “This is my beloved Son, [\[3\]](#) with whom I am well pleased.”

The Temptation of Jesus

MATTHEW 4 †Then Jesus was led up by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted by the devil. †And after fasting forty days and forty nights, he was hungry. †And the tempter came and said to him, “If you are the Son of God, command these stones to become loaves of bread.” †But he answered, “It is written, “‘Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that comes from the mouth of God.’”

†Then the devil took him to the holy city and set him on the pinnacle of the temple †and said to him, “If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down, for it is written, “‘He will command his angels concerning you,’ and “‘On their hands they will bear you up, lest you strike your foot against a stone.’”

†Jesus said to him, “Again it is written, ‘You shall not put the Lord your God to the test.’” †Again, the devil took him to a very high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their glory. †And he said to him, “All these I will give you, if you will fall down and worship me.” †Then Jesus said to him, “Be gone, Satan! For it is written, “‘You shall worship the Lord your God and him only shall you serve.’”

†Then the devil left him, and behold, angels came and were ministering to him.

Jesus Begins His Ministry

†Now when he heard that John had been arrested, he withdrew into Galilee.

†And leaving Nazareth he went and lived in Capernaum by the sea, in the territory of Zebulun and Naphtali, †so that what was spoken by the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled: †“The land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, the way of the sea, beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles— †the people dwelling in darkness have seen a great light, and for those dwelling in the region and shadow of death, on them a light has dawned.”

†From that time Jesus began to preach, saying, “Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.”

Jesus Calls the First Disciples

<sup>18</sup>† While walking by the Sea of Galilee, he saw two brothers, Simon (who is called Peter) and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea, for they were fishermen. <sup>19</sup> And he said to them, “Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men.” <sup>20</sup> Immediately they left their nets and followed him. <sup>21</sup>† And going on from there he saw two other brothers, James the son of Zebedee and John his brother, in the boat with Zebedee their father, mending their nets, and he called them. <sup>22</sup> Immediately they left the boat and their father and followed him.

Jesus Ministers to Great Crowds

<sup>23</sup>† And he went throughout all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues and proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom and healing every disease and every affliction among the people. <sup>24</sup>† So his fame spread throughout all Syria, and they brought him all the sick, those afflicted with various diseases and pains, those oppressed by demons, epileptics, and paralytics, and he healed them. <sup>25</sup>† And great crowds followed him from Galilee and the Decapolis, and from Jerusalem and Judea, and from beyond the Jordan.

The Sermon on the Mount

MATTHEW 5 †† Seeing the crowds, he went up on the mountain, and when he sat down, his disciples came to him.

The Beatitudes

<sup>9</sup>†“Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called sons [\[1\]](#) of God.

<sup>10</sup>†“Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

<sup>11</sup>“Blessed are you when others revile you and persecute you and utter all kinds of evil against you falsely on my account. <sup>12</sup>Rejoice and be glad, for your reward is great in heaven, for so they persecuted the prophets who were before you.

Salt and Light

<sup>13</sup>†“You are the salt of the earth, but if salt has lost its taste, how shall its saltiness be restored? It is no longer good for anything except to be thrown out and trampled under people's feet.

<sup>14</sup>“You are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hidden. <sup>15</sup>Nor do people light a lamp and put it under a basket, but on a stand, and it gives light to all in the house. <sup>16</sup>†In the same way, let your light shine before others, so that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven.

Christ Came to Fulfill the Law

<sup>17</sup>†“Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them. <sup>18</sup>†For truly, I say to you, until heaven and earth pass away, not an iota, not a dot, will pass from the Law until all is accomplished. <sup>19</sup>†Therefore whoever relaxes one of the least of these commandments and teaches others to do the same will be called least in the kingdom of heaven, but whoever does them and teaches them will be called great in the kingdom of heaven. <sup>20</sup>†For I tell you, unless your righteousness exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven.

Anger

<sup>21</sup>†“You have heard that it was said to those of old, ‘You shall not murder; and whoever murders will be liable to judgment.’ <sup>22</sup>†But I say to you that everyone who is angry with his brother [2] will be liable to judgment; whoever insults [3] his brother will be liable to the council; and whoever says, ‘You fool!’ will be liable to the hell [4] of fire. <sup>23</sup>So if you are offering your gift at the altar and there remember that your brother has something against you, <sup>24</sup>leave your gift there before the altar and go. First be reconciled to your brother, and then come and offer your gift. <sup>25</sup>†Come to terms quickly with your accuser while you are going with him to court, lest your accuser hand you over to the judge, and the judge to the guard, and you be put in prison. <sup>26</sup>Truly, I say to you, you will never get out until you have paid the last penny. [5]

Lust

<sup>27</sup>†“You have heard that it was said, ‘You shall not commit adultery.’ <sup>28</sup>But I say to you that everyone who looks at a woman with lustful intent has already committed adultery with her in his heart. <sup>29</sup>†If your right eye causes you to sin, tear it out and throw it away. For it is better that you lose one of your members than that your whole body be thrown into hell. <sup>30</sup>And if your right hand causes you to sin, cut it off and throw it away. For it is better that you lose one of your members than that your whole body go into hell.

Divorce

<sup>31</sup>†“It was also said, ‘Whoever divorces his wife, let him give her a certificate of divorce.’ <sup>32</sup>†But I say to you that everyone who divorces his wife, except on the ground of sexual immorality, makes her commit adultery, and whoever marries a divorced woman commits adultery.

Oaths

<sup>33</sup>†“Again you have heard that it was said to those of old, ‘You shall not swear falsely, but shall perform to the Lord what you have sworn.’ <sup>34</sup>†But I say to you, Do not take an oath at all, either by heaven, for it is the throne of God, <sup>35</sup>or by the earth, for it is his footstool, or by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King. <sup>36</sup>And do not take an oath by your head, for you cannot make one hair white or black. <sup>37</sup>Let what you say be simply ‘Yes’ or ‘No’; anything more than this comes from evil. [6]

Retaliation

<sup>38</sup>†“You have heard that it was said, ‘An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.’ <sup>39</sup>†But I say to you, Do not resist the one who is evil. But if anyone slaps you on the right cheek, turn to him the other also. <sup>40</sup>And if anyone would sue you and take your tunic, [7] let him have your cloak as well. <sup>41</sup>†And if anyone forces you to go one mile, go with him two miles. <sup>42</sup>Give to the one who begs from you, and do not refuse the one who would borrow from you.

Love Your Enemies

<sup>43</sup>†“You have heard that it was said, ‘You shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.’ <sup>44</sup>†But I say to you, Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, <sup>45</sup>so that you may be sons of your Father who is in heaven. For he makes his sun rise on the evil and on the good, and sends rain on the just and on the unjust. <sup>46</sup>†For if you love those who love you, what reward do you have? Do not even the tax collectors do the same? <sup>47</sup>And if you greet only your brothers, [8] what more are you doing than others? Do not even the Gentiles do the same? <sup>48</sup>†You therefore must be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect.

Giving to the Needy

MATTHEW 6 ‡“Beware of practicing your righteousness before other people in order to be seen by them, for then you will have no reward from your Father who is in heaven.

<sup>2</sup>‡“Thus, when you give to the needy, sound no trumpet before you, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may be praised by others. Truly, I say to you, they have received their reward. <sup>3</sup>But when you give to the needy, do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing, <sup>4</sup>‡so that your giving may be in secret. And your Father who sees in secret will reward you.

The Lord's Prayer

<sup>5</sup>“And when you pray, you must not be like the hypocrites. For they love to stand and pray in the synagogues and at the street corners, that they may be seen by others. Truly, I say to you, they have received their reward. <sup>6</sup>But when you pray, go into your room and shut the door and pray to your Father who is in secret. And your Father who sees in secret will reward you.

<sup>7</sup>‡“And when you pray, do not heap up empty phrases as the Gentiles do, for they think that they will be heard for their many words. <sup>8</sup>Do not be like them, for your Father knows what you need before you ask him. <sup>9</sup>‡Pray then like this:
“Our Father in heaven, hallowed be your name. [\[1\]](#)

<sup>10</sup>‡Your kingdom come, your will be done, [\[2\]](#) on earth as it is in heaven.

<sup>11</sup>Give us this day our daily bread, [\[3\]](#)

<sup>12</sup>‡and forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors.

<sup>13</sup>‡And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. [\[4\]](#)

<sup>14</sup>For if you forgive others their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you, <sup>15</sup>‡but if you do not forgive others their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

Fasting

<sup>16</sup>†“And when you fast, do not look gloomy like the hypocrites, for they disfigure their faces that their fasting may be seen by others. Truly, I say to you, they have received their reward. <sup>17</sup>But when you fast, anoint your head and wash your face, <sup>18</sup>that your fasting may not be seen by others but by your Father who is in secret. And your Father who sees in secret will reward you.

Lay Up Treasures in Heaven

<sup>19</sup>“Do not lay up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust [5] destroy and where thieves break in and steal, <sup>20</sup>†but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust destroys and where thieves do not break in and steal. <sup>21</sup>For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

<sup>22</sup>†“The eye is the lamp of the body. So, if your eye is healthy, your whole body will be full of light, <sup>23</sup>but if your eye is bad, your whole body will be full of darkness. If then the light in you is darkness, how great is the darkness!

<sup>24</sup>†“No one can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and money. [6]

Do Not Be Anxious

<sup>25</sup>“Therefore I tell you, do not be anxious about your life, what you will eat or what you will drink, nor about your body, what you will put on. Is not life more than food, and the body more than clothing? <sup>26</sup>†Look at the birds of the air: they neither sow nor reap nor gather into barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not of more value than they? <sup>27</sup>And which of you by being anxious can add a single hour to his span of life? [7] <sup>28</sup>And why are you anxious about clothing? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow: they neither toil nor spin, <sup>29</sup>†yet I tell you, even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. <sup>30</sup>†But if God so clothes the grass of the field, which today is alive and tomorrow is thrown into the oven, will he not much more clothe you, O you of little faith? <sup>31</sup>Therefore do not be anxious, saying, ‘What shall we eat?’ or ‘What shall we drink?’ or ‘What shall we wear?’ <sup>32</sup>†For the Gentiles seek after all these things, and your heavenly Father knows that you need them all. <sup>33</sup>†But seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things will be added to you.

<sup>34</sup>“Therefore do not be anxious about tomorrow, for tomorrow will be anxious for itself. Sufficient for the day is its own trouble.

Judging Others

MATTHEW 7 †“Judge not, that you be not judged. <sup>2</sup>For with the judgment you pronounce you will be judged, and with the measure you use it will be measured to you. <sup>3</sup>Why do you see the speck that is in your brother's eye, but do not notice the log that is in your own eye? <sup>4</sup>Or how can you say to your brother, ‘Let me take the speck out of your eye,’ when there is the log in your own eye? <sup>5</sup>You hypocrite, first take the log out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your brother's eye.

<sup>6</sup>†“Do not give dogs what is holy, and do not throw your pearls before pigs, lest they trample them underfoot and turn to attack you.

Ask, and It Will Be Given

<sup>7</sup>“Ask, and it will be given to you; seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you. <sup>8</sup>For everyone who asks receives, and the one who seeks finds, and to the one who knocks it will be opened. <sup>9</sup>Or which one of you, if his son asks him for bread, will give him a stone? <sup>10</sup>Or if he asks for a fish, will give him a serpent? <sup>11</sup>†If you then, who are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father who is in heaven give good things to those who ask him!

The Golden Rule

<sup>12</sup>†“So whatever you wish that others would do to you, do also to them, for this is the Law and the Prophets.

<sup>13</sup>‡‡“Enter by the narrow gate. For the gate is wide and the way is easy [\[1\]](#) that leads to destruction, and those who enter by it are many. <sup>14</sup>†For the gate is narrow and the way is hard that leads to life, and those who find it are few.

A Tree and Its Fruit

<sup>15</sup>†“Beware of false prophets, who come to you in sheep's clothing but inwardly are ravenous wolves. <sup>16</sup>†You will recognize them by their fruits. Are grapes gathered from thornbushes, or figs from thistles? <sup>17</sup>So, every healthy tree bears good fruit, but the diseased tree bears bad fruit. <sup>18</sup>A healthy tree cannot bear bad fruit, nor can a diseased tree bear good fruit. <sup>19</sup>Every tree that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. <sup>20</sup>Thus you will recognize them by their fruits.

I Never Knew You

<sup>21</sup>†“Not everyone who says to me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ will enter the kingdom of heaven, but the one who does the will of my Father who is in heaven. <sup>22</sup>†On that day many will say to me, ‘Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and cast out demons in your name, and do many mighty works in your name?’ <sup>23</sup>†And then will I declare to them, ‘I never knew you; depart from me, you workers of lawlessness.’

Build Your House on the Rock

<sup>24</sup>†“Everyone then who hears these words of mine and does them will be like a wise man who built his house on the rock. <sup>25</sup>And the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat on that house, but it did not fall, because it had been founded on the rock. <sup>26</sup>And everyone who hears these words of mine and does not do them will be like a foolish man who built his house on the sand. <sup>27</sup>And the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat against that house, and it fell, and great was the fall of it.”

The Authority of Jesus

<sup>28</sup>And when Jesus finished these sayings, the crowds were astonished at his teaching, <sup>29</sup>†for he was teaching them as one who had authority, and not as their scribes.

Jesus Cleanses a Leper

MATTHEW 8 †When he came down from the mountain, great crowds followed him. <sup>2</sup>†And behold, a leper [1] came to him and knelt before him, saying, “Lord, if you will, you can make me clean.” <sup>3</sup>And Jesus [2] stretched out his hand and touched him, saying, “I will; be clean.” And immediately his leprosy was cleansed. <sup>4</sup>†And Jesus said to him, “See that you say nothing to anyone, but go, show yourself to the priest and offer the gift that Moses commanded, for a proof to them.”

The Faith of a Centurion

<sup>5</sup>†When he entered Capernaum, a centurion came forward to him, appealing to him, <sup>6</sup>“Lord, my servant is lying paralyzed at home, suffering terribly.” <sup>7</sup>And he said to him, “I will come and heal him.” <sup>8</sup>†But the centurion replied, “Lord, I am not worthy to have you come under my roof, but only say the word, and my servant will be healed. <sup>9</sup>For I too am a man under authority, with soldiers under me. And I say to one, ‘Go,’ and he goes, and to another, ‘Come,’ and he comes, and to my servant, [3] ‘Do this,’ and he does it.” <sup>10</sup>†When Jesus heard this, he marveled and said to those who followed him, “Truly, I tell you, with no one in Israel [4] have I found such faith. <sup>11</sup>†I tell you, many will come from east and west and recline at table with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven, <sup>12</sup>†while the sons of the kingdom will be thrown into the outer darkness. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.” <sup>13</sup>†And to the centurion Jesus said, “Go; let it be done for you as you have believed.” And the servant was healed at that very moment.

Jesus Heals Many

<sup>14</sup>And when Jesus entered Peter's house, he saw his mother-in-law lying sick with a fever. <sup>15</sup>He touched her hand, and the fever left her, and she rose and began to serve him. <sup>16</sup>†That evening they brought to him many who were oppressed by demons, and he cast out the spirits with a word and healed all who were sick. <sup>17</sup>†This was to fulfill what was spoken by the prophet Isaiah: “He took our illnesses and bore our diseases.”

The Cost of Following Jesus

<sup>18</sup>† Now when Jesus saw a crowd around him, he gave orders to go over to the other side. <sup>19</sup>† And a scribe came up and said to him, “Teacher, I will follow you wherever you go.” <sup>20</sup>† And Jesus said to him, “Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head.” <sup>21</sup>† Another of the disciples said to him, “Lord, let me first go and bury my father.” <sup>22</sup>† And Jesus said to him, “Follow me, and leave the dead to bury their own dead.”

Jesus Calms a Storm

<sup>23</sup> And when he got into the boat, his disciples followed him. <sup>24</sup>† And behold, there arose a great storm on the sea, so that the boat was being swamped by the waves; but he was asleep. <sup>25</sup> And they went and woke him, saying, “Save us, Lord; we are perishing.” <sup>26</sup>† And he said to them, “Why are you afraid, O you of little faith?” Then he rose and rebuked the winds and the sea, and there was a great calm. <sup>27</sup>† And the men marveled, saying, “What sort of man is this, that even winds and sea obey him?”

Jesus Heals Two Men with Demons

<sup>28</sup>† And when he came to the other side, to the country of the Gadarenes, [\[5\]](#) two demon-possessed [\[6\]](#) men met him, coming out of the tombs, so fierce that no one could pass that way. <sup>29</sup>† And behold, they cried out, “What have you to do with us, O Son of God? Have you come here to torment us before the time?” <sup>30</sup>† Now a herd of many pigs was feeding at some distance from them. <sup>31</sup>† And the demons begged him, saying, “If you cast us out, send us away into the herd of pigs.” <sup>32</sup> And he said to them, “Go.” So they came out and went into the pigs, and behold, the whole herd rushed down the steep bank into the sea and drowned in the waters. <sup>33</sup> The herdsmen fled, and going into the city they told everything, especially what had happened to the demon-possessed men. <sup>34</sup>† And behold, all the city came out to meet Jesus, and when they saw him, they begged him to leave their region.

Jesus Heals a Paralytic

MATTHEW 9 †And getting into a boat he crossed over and came to his own city. †And behold, some people brought to him a paralytic, lying on a bed. And when Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic, “Take heart, my son; your sins are forgiven.” †And behold, some of the scribes said to themselves, “This man is blaspheming.” †But Jesus, knowing [1] their thoughts, said, “Why do you think evil in your hearts? †For which is easier, to say, ‘Your sins are forgiven,’ or to say, ‘Rise and walk’? †But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins”—he then said to the paralytic—“Rise, pick up your bed and go home.” †And he rose and went home. †When the crowds saw it, they were afraid, and they glorified God, who had given such authority to men.

Jesus Calls Matthew

†As Jesus passed on from there, he saw a man called Matthew sitting at the tax booth, and he said to him, “Follow me.” And he rose and followed him.

†And as Jesus [2] reclined at table in the house, behold, many tax collectors and sinners came and were reclining with Jesus and his disciples. †And when the Pharisees saw this, they said to his disciples, “Why does your teacher eat with tax collectors and sinners?” †But when he heard it, he said, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. †Go and learn what this means, ‘I desire mercy, and not sacrifice.’ For I came not to call the righteous, but sinners.”

A Question About Fasting

†Then the disciples of John came to him, saying, “Why do we and the Pharisees fast, [3] but your disciples do not fast?” †And Jesus said to them, “Can the wedding guests mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? The days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then they will fast. †No one puts a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old garment, for the patch tears away from the garment, and a worse tear is made. †Neither is new wine put into old wineskins. If it is, the skins burst and the wine is spilled and the skins are destroyed. But new wine is put into fresh wineskins, and so both are preserved.”

A Girl Restored to Life and a Woman Healed

<sup>18</sup>†While he was saying these things to them, behold, a ruler came in and knelt before him, saying, “My daughter has just died, but come and lay your hand on her, and she will live.” <sup>19</sup>And Jesus rose and followed him, with his disciples. <sup>20</sup>†And behold, a woman who had suffered from a discharge of blood for twelve years came up behind him and touched the fringe of his garment, <sup>21</sup>for she said to herself, “If I only touch his garment, I will be made well.” <sup>22</sup>†Jesus turned, and seeing her he said, “Take heart, daughter; your faith has made you well.” And instantly [4] the woman was made well. <sup>23</sup>†And when Jesus came to the ruler's house and saw the flute players and the crowd making a commotion, <sup>24</sup>†he said, “Go away, for the girl is not dead but sleeping.” And they laughed at him. <sup>25</sup>But when the crowd had been put outside, he went in and took her by the hand, and the girl arose. <sup>26</sup>And the report of this went through all that district.

Jesus Heals Two Blind Men

<sup>27</sup>†And as Jesus passed on from there, two blind men followed him, crying aloud, “Have mercy on us, Son of David.” <sup>28</sup>When he entered the house, the blind men came to him, and Jesus said to them, “Do you believe that I am able to do this?” They said to him, “Yes, Lord.” <sup>29</sup>†Then he touched their eyes, saying, “According to your faith be it done to you.” <sup>30</sup>†And their eyes were opened. And Jesus sternly warned them, “See that no one knows about it.” <sup>31</sup>But they went away and spread his fame through all that district.

Jesus Heals a Man Unable to Speak

<sup>32</sup>As they were going away, behold, a demon-oppressed man who was mute was brought to him. <sup>33</sup>And when the demon had been cast out, the mute man spoke. And the crowds marveled, saying, “Never was anything like this seen in Israel.” <sup>34</sup>†But the Pharisees said, “He casts out demons by the prince of demons.”

The Harvest Is Plentiful, the Laborers Few

<sup>35</sup>†And Jesus went throughout all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues and proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom and healing every disease and every affliction. <sup>36</sup>†When he saw the crowds, he had compassion for them, because they were harassed and helpless, like sheep without a shepherd.

<sup>37</sup>† Then he said to his disciples, “The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few; <sup>38</sup>† therefore pray earnestly to the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into his harvest.”

The Twelve Apostles

MATTHEW 10 †† And he called to him his twelve disciples and gave them authority over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal every disease and every affliction. † The names of the twelve apostles are these: first, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother; † Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew the tax collector; James the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddaeus; [1] † Simon the Cananaean, and Judas Iscariot, who betrayed him.

Jesus Sends Out the Twelve Apostles

†† These twelve Jesus sent out, instructing them, “Go nowhere among the Gentiles and enter no town of the Samaritans, † but go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. † And proclaim as you go, saying, ‘The kingdom of heaven is at hand.’ † Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse lepers, [2] cast out demons. You received without paying; give without pay. † Acquire no gold nor silver nor copper for your belts, † no bag for your journey, nor two tunics [3] nor sandals nor a staff, for the laborer deserves his food. † And whatever town or village you enter, find out who is worthy in it and stay there until you depart. † As you enter the house, greet it. † And if the house is worthy, let your peace come upon it, but if it is not worthy, let your peace return to you. † And if anyone will not receive you or listen to your words, shake off the dust from your feet when you leave that house or town. † Truly, I say to you, it will be more bearable on the day of judgment for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah than for that town.

Persecution Will Come

†† “Behold, I am sending you out as sheep in the midst of wolves, so be wise as serpents and innocent as doves. † Beware of men, for they will deliver you over to courts and flog you in their synagogues, † and you will be dragged before governors and kings for my sake, to bear witness before them and the Gentiles. † When they deliver you over, do not be anxious how you are to speak or what you are to say, for what you are to say will be given to you in that hour. † For it is not you who speak, but the Spirit of your Father speaking through you. † Brother will deliver brother over to death, and the father his child, and children will rise against parents and have them put to death, † and you will be hated by all for my name's sake. But the one who endures to the end will be saved. <sup>23</sup>When they persecute you in one town, flee to the next, for truly, I say to you, you will not have gone through all the towns of Israel before the Son of Man comes.

Have No Fear

<sup>26</sup>“So have no fear of them, for nothing is covered that will not be revealed, or hidden that will not be known. <sup>27</sup>What I tell you in the dark, say in the light, and what you hear whispered, proclaim on the housetops. <sup>28</sup>†And do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Rather fear him who can destroy both soul and body in hell. [6] <sup>29</sup>†Are not two sparrows sold for a penny? [7] And not one of them will fall to the ground apart from your Father. <sup>30</sup>But even the hairs of your head are all numbered. <sup>31</sup>Fear not, therefore; you are of more value than many sparrows. <sup>32</sup>†So everyone who acknowledges me before men, I also will acknowledge before my Father who is in heaven, <sup>33</sup>†but whoever denies me before men, I also will deny before my Father who is in heaven.

Not Peace, but a Sword

<sup>34</sup>†“Do not think that I have come to bring peace to the earth. I have not come to bring peace, but a sword. <sup>35</sup>†For I have come to set a man against his father, and a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. <sup>36</sup>And a person's enemies will be those of his own household. <sup>37</sup>Whoever loves father or mother more than me is not worthy of me, and whoever loves son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me. <sup>38</sup>†And whoever does not take his cross and follow me is not worthy of me. <sup>39</sup>Whoever finds his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life for my sake will find it.

Rewards

<sup>40</sup>†“Whoever receives you receives me, and whoever receives me receives him who sent me. <sup>41</sup>†The one who receives a prophet because he is a prophet will receive a prophet's reward, and the one who receives a righteous person because he is a righteous person will receive a righteous person's reward. <sup>42</sup>†And whoever gives one of these little ones even a cup of cold water because he is a disciple, truly, I say to you, he will by no means lose his reward.”

Messengers from John the Baptist

MATTHEW 11 †When Jesus had finished instructing his twelve disciples, he went on from there to teach and preach in their cities.

<sup>2</sup>Now when John heard in prison about the deeds of the Christ, he sent word by his disciples <sup>3</sup>†and said to him, “Are you the one who is to come, or shall we look for another?” <sup>4</sup>†And Jesus answered them, “Go and tell John what you hear and see: <sup>5</sup>the blind receive their sight and the lame walk, lepers [\[1\]](#) are cleansed and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good news preached to them. <sup>6</sup>And blessed is the one who is not offended by me.”

<sup>7</sup>As they went away, Jesus began to speak to the crowds concerning John: “What did you go out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken by the wind? <sup>8</sup>What then did you go out to see? A man [\[2\]](#) dressed in soft clothing? Behold, those who wear soft clothing are in kings' houses. <sup>9</sup>What then did you go out to see? A prophet? [\[3\]](#) Yes, I tell you, and more than a prophet. <sup>10</sup>†This is he of whom it is written, “Behold, I send my messenger before your face, who will prepare your way before you.’

<sup>11</sup>†Truly, I say to you, among those born of women there has arisen no one greater than John the Baptist. Yet the one who is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he. <sup>12</sup>†From the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven has suffered violence, [\[4\]](#) and the violent take it by force. <sup>13</sup>For all the Prophets and the Law prophesied until John, <sup>14</sup>†and if you are willing to accept it, he is Elijah who is to come. <sup>15</sup>He who has ears to hear, [\[5\]](#) let him hear.

<sup>16</sup>†“But to what shall I compare this generation? It is like children sitting in the marketplaces and calling to their playmates, <sup>17</sup>“We played the flute for you, and you did not dance; we sang a dirge, and you did not mourn.’

<sup>18</sup>For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, ‘He has a demon.’

<sup>19</sup>†The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, ‘Look at him! A glutton and a drunkard, a friend of tax collectors and sinners!’ Yet wisdom is justified by her deeds.” [\[6\]](#)

Woe to Unrepentant Cities

<sup>20</sup>Then he began to denounce the cities where most of his mighty works had been done, because they did not repent. <sup>21</sup>‡“Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the mighty works done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes. <sup>22</sup>‡But I tell you, it will be more bearable on the day of judgment for Tyre and Sidon than for you. <sup>23</sup>‡And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven? You will be brought down to Hades. For if the mighty works done in you had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day. <sup>24</sup>But I tell you that it will be more tolerable on the day of judgment for the land of Sodom than for you.”

Come to Me, and I Will Give You Rest

<sup>25</sup>‡At that time Jesus declared, “I thank you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that you have hidden these things from the wise and understanding and revealed them to little children; <sup>26</sup>‡yes, Father, for such was your gracious will. [7] <sup>27</sup>All things have been handed over to me by my Father, and no one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him. <sup>28</sup>‡Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. <sup>29</sup>‡Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me, for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. <sup>30</sup>For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.”

Jesus Is Lord of the Sabbath

MATTHEW 12 At that time Jesus went through the grainfields on the Sabbath. His disciples were hungry, and they began to pluck heads of grain and to eat. <sup>2</sup>† But when the Pharisees saw it, they said to him, “Look, your disciples are doing what is not lawful to do on the Sabbath.” <sup>3</sup>† He said to them, “Have you not read what David did when he was hungry, and those who were with him: <sup>4</sup>† how he entered the house of God and ate the bread of the Presence, which it was not lawful for him to eat nor for those who were with him, but only for the priests? <sup>5</sup>† Or have you not read in the Law how on the Sabbath the priests in the temple profane the Sabbath and are guiltless? <sup>6</sup>† I tell you, something greater than the temple is here. <sup>7</sup>† And if you had known what this means, ‘I desire mercy, and not sacrifice,’ you would not have condemned the guiltless. <sup>8</sup>† For the Son of Man is lord of the Sabbath.”

A Man with a Withered Hand

<sup>9</sup> He went on from there and entered their synagogue. <sup>10</sup>† And a man was there with a withered hand. And they asked him, “Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath?”—so that they might accuse him. <sup>11</sup> He said to them, “Which one of you who has a sheep, if it falls into a pit on the Sabbath, will not take hold of it and lift it out? <sup>12</sup> Of how much more value is a man than a sheep! So it is lawful to do good on the Sabbath.” <sup>13</sup> Then he said to the man, “Stretch out your hand.” And the man stretched it out, and it was restored, healthy like the other. <sup>14</sup> But the Pharisees went out and conspired against him, how to destroy him.

God's Chosen Servant

<sup>15</sup>† Jesus, aware of this, withdrew from there. And many followed him, and he healed them all <sup>16</sup>† and ordered them not to make him known. <sup>17</sup> This was to fulfill what was spoken by the prophet Isaiah: <sup>18</sup>† “Behold, my servant whom I have chosen, my beloved with whom my soul is well pleased.

I will put my Spirit upon him, and he will proclaim justice to the Gentiles.

<sup>19</sup>† He will not quarrel or cry aloud, nor will anyone hear his voice in the streets;

<sup>20</sup>† a bruised reed he will not break, and a smoldering wick he will not quench, until he brings justice to victory;

<sup>21</sup>and in his name the Gentiles will hope.”

Blasphemy Against the Holy Spirit

<sup>22</sup>Then a demon-oppressed man who was blind and mute was brought to him, and he healed him, so that the man spoke and saw. <sup>23</sup>†And all the people were amazed, and said, “Can this be the Son of David?” <sup>24</sup>†But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, “It is only by Beelzebul, the prince of demons, that this man casts out demons.” <sup>25</sup>Knowing their thoughts, he said to them, “Every kingdom divided against itself is laid waste, and no city or house divided against itself will stand. <sup>26</sup>And if Satan casts out Satan, he is divided against himself. How then will his kingdom stand? <sup>27</sup>And if I cast out demons by Beelzebul, by whom do your sons cast them out? Therefore they will be your judges. <sup>28</sup>†But if it is by the Spirit of God that I cast out demons, then the kingdom of God has come upon you. <sup>29</sup>Or how can someone enter a strong man's house and plunder his goods, unless he first binds the strong man? Then indeed he may plunder his house. <sup>30</sup>Whoever is not with me is against me, and whoever does not gather with me scatters. <sup>31</sup>†Therefore I tell you, every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven people, but the blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven. <sup>32</sup>†And whoever speaks a word against the Son of Man will be forgiven, but whoever speaks against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven, either in this age or in the age to come.

A Tree Is Known by Its Fruit

<sup>33</sup>“Either make the tree good and its fruit good, or make the tree bad and its fruit bad, for the tree is known by its fruit. <sup>34</sup>You brood of vipers! How can you speak good, when you are evil? For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks. <sup>35</sup>The good person out of his good treasure brings forth good, and the evil person out of his evil treasure brings forth evil. <sup>36</sup>†I tell you, on the day of judgment people will give account for every careless word they speak, <sup>37</sup>for by your words you will be justified, and by your words you will be condemned.”

The Sign of Jonah

<sup>38</sup>†Then some of the scribes and Pharisees answered him, saying, “Teacher, we wish to see a sign from you.” <sup>39</sup>†But he answered them, “An evil and adulterous generation seeks for a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah. <sup>40</sup>† For just as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the great fish, so will the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. <sup>41</sup>† The men of Nineveh will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, for they repented at the preaching of Jonah, and behold, something greater than Jonah is here. <sup>42</sup>† The queen of the South will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, for she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon, and behold, something greater than Solomon is here.

Return of an Unclean Spirit

<sup>43</sup>“When the unclean spirit has gone out of a person, it passes through waterless places seeking rest, but finds none. <sup>44</sup>Then it says, ‘I will return to my house from which I came.’ And when it comes, it finds the house empty, swept, and put in order. <sup>45</sup>† Then it goes and brings with it seven other spirits more evil than itself, and they enter and dwell there, and the last state of that person is worse than the first. So also will it be with this evil generation.”

Jesus' Mother and Brothers

<sup>46</sup>† While he was still speaking to the people, behold, his mother and his brothers stood outside, asking to speak to him. [1] <sup>48</sup>† But he replied to the man who told him, “Who is my mother, and who are my brothers?” <sup>49</sup>And stretching out his hand toward his disciples, he said, “Here are my mother and my brothers! <sup>50</sup>† For whoever does the will of my Father in heaven is my brother and sister and mother.”

The Parable of the Sower

MATTHEW 13 ‡ That same day Jesus went out of the house and sat beside the sea. <sup>2</sup>And great crowds gathered about him, so that he got into a boat and sat down. And the whole crowd stood on the beach. <sup>3</sup>‡ And he told them many things in parables, saying: “A sower went out to sow. <sup>4</sup>‡ And as he sowed, some seeds fell along the path, and the birds came and devoured them. <sup>5</sup>‡ Other seeds fell on rocky ground, where they did not have much soil, and immediately they sprang up, since they had no depth of soil, <sup>6</sup>but when the sun rose they were scorched. And since they had no root, they withered away. <sup>7</sup>‡ Other seeds fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked them. <sup>8</sup>Other seeds fell on good soil and produced grain, some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty. <sup>9</sup>He who has ears, [\[1\]](#) let him hear.”

The Purpose of the Parables

<sup>10</sup>Then the disciples came and said to him, “Why do you speak to them in parables?” <sup>11</sup>‡ And he answered them, “To you it has been given to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given. <sup>12</sup>For to the one who has, more will be given, and he will have an abundance, but from the one who has not, even what he has will be taken away. <sup>13</sup>‡ This is why I speak to them in parables, because seeing they do not see, and hearing they do not hear, nor do they understand. <sup>14</sup>‡ Indeed, in their case the prophecy of Isaiah is fulfilled that says: “You will indeed hear but never understand, and you will indeed see but never perceive.

<sup>15</sup>For this people's heart has grown dull, and with their ears they can barely hear, and their eyes they have closed, lest they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears and understand with their heart and turn, and I would heal them.’

<sup>16</sup>But blessed are your eyes, for they see, and your ears, for they hear. <sup>17</sup>‡ For truly, I say to you, many prophets and righteous people longed to see what you see, and did not see it, and to hear what you hear, and did not hear it.

The Parable of the Sower Explained

<sup>18</sup>“Hear then the parable of the sower: <sup>19</sup>†When anyone hears the word of the kingdom and does not understand it, the evil one comes and snatches away what has been sown in his heart. This is what was sown along the path. <sup>20</sup>†As for what was sown on rocky ground, this is the one who hears the word and immediately receives it with joy, <sup>21</sup>yet he has no root in himself, but endures for a while, and when tribulation or persecution arises on account of the word, immediately he falls away. [2] <sup>22</sup>†As for what was sown among thorns, this is the one who hears the word, but the cares of the world and the deceitfulness of riches choke the word, and it proves unfruitful. <sup>23</sup>†As for what was sown on good soil, this is the one who hears the word and understands it. He indeed bears fruit and yields, in one case a hundredfold, in another sixty, and in another thirty.”

The Parable of the Weeds

<sup>24</sup>He put another parable before them, saying, “The kingdom of heaven may be compared to a man who sowed good seed in his field, <sup>25</sup>†but while his men were sleeping, his enemy came and sowed weeds [3] among the wheat and went away. <sup>26</sup>So when the plants came up and bore grain, then the weeds appeared also. <sup>27</sup>And the servants [4] of the master of the house came and said to him, ‘Master, did you not sow good seed in your field? How then does it have weeds?’ <sup>28</sup>He said to them, ‘An enemy has done this.’ So the servants said to him, ‘Then do you want us to go and gather them?’ <sup>29</sup>But he said, ‘No, lest in gathering the weeds you root up the wheat along with them. <sup>30</sup>Let both grow together until the harvest, and at harvest time I will tell the reapers, Gather the weeds first and bind them in bundles to be burned, but gather the wheat into my barn.’”

The Mustard Seed and the Leaven

<sup>31</sup>He put another parable before them, saying, “The kingdom of heaven is like a grain of mustard seed that a man took and sowed in his field. <sup>32</sup>†It is the smallest of all seeds, but when it has grown it is larger than all the garden plants and becomes a tree, so that the birds of the air come and make nests in its branches.”

<sup>33</sup>†He told them another parable. “The kingdom of heaven is like leaven that a woman took and hid in three measures of flour, till it was all leavened.”

Prophecy and Parables

<sup>34</sup>† All these things Jesus said to the crowds in parables; indeed, he said nothing to them without a parable. <sup>35</sup>† This was to fulfill what was spoken by the prophet: [5]

“I will open my mouth in parables;
I will utter what has been hidden since the foundation of the world.”

The Parable of the Weeds Explained

<sup>36</sup>Then he left the crowds and went into the house. And his disciples came to him, saying, “Explain to us the parable of the weeds of the field.” <sup>37</sup>† He answered, “The one who sows the good seed is the Son of Man. <sup>38</sup>The field is the world, and the good seed is the sons of the kingdom. The weeds are the sons of the evil one, <sup>39</sup>and the enemy who sowed them is the devil. The harvest is the close of the age, and the reapers are angels. <sup>40</sup>Just as the weeds are gathered and burned with fire, so will it be at the close of the age. <sup>41</sup>The Son of Man will send his angels, and they will gather out of his kingdom all causes of sin and all law-breakers, <sup>42</sup>and throw them into the fiery furnace. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. <sup>43</sup>† Then the righteous will shine like the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He who has ears, let him hear.

The Parable of the Hidden Treasure

<sup>44</sup>† “The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field, which a man found and covered up. Then in his joy he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field.

The Parable of the Pearl of Great Value

<sup>45</sup>“Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant in search of fine pearls, <sup>46</sup>who, on finding one pearl of great value, went and sold all that he had and bought it.

The Parable of the Net

<sup>47</sup>† “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a net that was thrown into the sea and gathered fish of every kind. <sup>48</sup>When it was full, men drew it ashore and sat down and sorted the good into containers but threw away the bad. <sup>49</sup>† So it will be at the close of the age. The angels will come out and separate the evil from the righteous <sup>50</sup>and throw them into the fiery furnace. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

New and Old Treasures

<sup>51</sup>“Have you understood all these things?” They said to him, “Yes.” <sup>52</sup>†And he said to them, “Therefore every scribe who has been trained for the kingdom of heaven is like a master of a house, who brings out of his treasure what is new and what is old.”

Jesus Rejected at Nazareth

<sup>53</sup>And when Jesus had finished these parables, he went away from there, <sup>54</sup>†and coming to his hometown he taught them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished, and said, “Where did this man get this wisdom and these mighty works? <sup>55</sup>†Is not this the carpenter's son? Is not his mother called Mary? And are not his brothers James and Joseph and Simon and Judas? <sup>56</sup>And are not all his sisters with us? Where then did this man get all these things?” <sup>57</sup>†And they took offense at him. But Jesus said to them, “A prophet is not without honor except in his hometown and in his own household.” <sup>58</sup>†And he did not do many mighty works there, because of their unbelief.

The Death of John the Baptist

MATTHEW 14 †† At that time Herod the tetrarch heard about the fame of Jesus, <sup>2</sup>and he said to his servants, “This is John the Baptist. He has been raised from the dead; that is why these miraculous powers are at work in him.” † For Herod had seized John and bound him and put him in prison for the sake of Herodias, his brother Philip's wife, [\[1\]](#) <sup>4</sup>because John had been saying to him, “It is not lawful for you to have her.” <sup>5</sup>And though he wanted to put him to death, he feared the people, because they held him to be a prophet. † But when Herod's birthday came, the daughter of Herodias danced before the company and pleased Herod, <sup>7</sup>so that he promised with an oath to give her whatever she might ask. † Prompted by her mother, she said, “Give me the head of John the Baptist here on a platter.” † And the king was sorry, but because of his oaths and his guests he commanded it to be given. <sup>10</sup>He sent and had John beheaded in the prison, <sup>11</sup>and his head was brought on a platter and given to the girl, and she brought it to her mother. † And his disciples came and took the body and buried it, and they went and told Jesus.

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

<sup>13</sup>† Now when Jesus heard this, he withdrew from there in a boat to a desolate place by himself. But when the crowds heard it, they followed him on foot from the towns. † When he went ashore he saw a great crowd, and he had compassion on them and healed their sick. <sup>15</sup>Now when it was evening, the disciples came to him and said, “This is a desolate place, and the day is now over; send the crowds away to go into the villages and buy food for themselves.” † But Jesus said, “They need not go away; you give them something to eat.” <sup>17</sup>They said to him, “We have only five loaves here and two fish.” <sup>18</sup>And he said, “Bring them here to me.” <sup>19</sup>Then he ordered the crowds to sit down on the grass, and taking the five loaves and the two fish, he looked up to heaven and said a blessing. Then he broke the loaves and gave them to the disciples, and the disciples gave them to the crowds. <sup>20</sup>And they all ate and were satisfied. And they took up twelve baskets full of the broken pieces left over. <sup>21</sup>And those who ate were about five thousand men, besides women and children.

Jesus Walks on the Water

<sup>22</sup>Immediately he made the disciples get into the boat and go before him to the other side, while he dismissed the crowds. <sup>23</sup>And after he had dismissed the crowds, he went up on the mountain by himself to pray. When evening came, he was there alone, <sup>24</sup>†but the boat by this time was a long way [2] from the land, [3] beaten by the waves, for the wind was against them. <sup>25</sup>†And in the fourth watch of the night he came to them, walking on the sea. <sup>26</sup>But when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were terrified, and said, “It is a ghost!” and they cried out in fear. <sup>27</sup>But immediately Jesus spoke to them, saying, “Take heart; it is I. Do not be afraid.”

<sup>28</sup>And Peter answered him, “Lord, if it is you, command me to come to you on the water.” <sup>29</sup>He said, “Come.” So Peter got out of the boat and walked on the water and came to Jesus. <sup>30</sup>But when he saw the wind, [4] he was afraid, and beginning to sink he cried out, “Lord, save me.” <sup>31</sup>Jesus immediately reached out his hand and took hold of him, saying to him, “O you of little faith, why did you doubt?” <sup>32</sup>And when they got into the boat, the wind ceased. <sup>33</sup>†And those in the boat worshiped him, saying, “Truly you are the Son of God.”

Jesus Heals the Sick in Gennesaret

<sup>34</sup>†And when they had crossed over, they came to land at Gennesaret. <sup>35</sup>And when the men of that place recognized him, they sent around to all that region and brought to him all who were sick <sup>36</sup>†and implored him that they might only touch the fringe of his garment. And as many as touched it were made well.

Traditions and Commandments

MATTHEW 15 Then Pharisees and scribes came to Jesus from Jerusalem and said, <sup>2</sup>†“Why do your disciples break the tradition of the elders? For they do not wash their hands when they eat.” <sup>3</sup>†He answered them, “And why do you break the commandment of God for the sake of your tradition? <sup>4</sup>For God commanded, ‘Honor your father and your mother,’ and, ‘Whoever reviles father or mother must surely die.’ <sup>5</sup>But you say, ‘If anyone tells his father or his mother, “What you would have gained from me is given to God,” <sup>[1]</sup> <sup>6</sup>†he need not honor his father.’ So for the sake of your tradition you have made void the word <sup>[2]</sup> of God. <sup>7</sup>You hypocrites! Well did Isaiah prophesy of you, when he said: <sup>8</sup>†“This people honors me with their lips, but their heart is far from me;

<sup>9</sup>in vain do they worship me, teaching as doctrines the commandments of men.”

What Defiles a Person

<sup>10</sup>And he called the people to him and said to them, “Hear and understand: <sup>11</sup>†it is not what goes into the mouth that defiles a person, but what comes out of the mouth; this defiles a person.” <sup>12</sup>Then the disciples came and said to him, “Do you know that the Pharisees were offended when they heard this saying?” <sup>13</sup>He answered, “Every plant that my heavenly Father has not planted will be rooted up. <sup>14</sup>†Let them alone; they are blind guides. <sup>[3]</sup> And if the blind lead the blind, both will fall into a pit.” <sup>15</sup>†But Peter said to him, “Explain the parable to us.” <sup>16</sup>And he said, “Are you also still without understanding? <sup>17</sup>Do you not see that whatever goes into the mouth passes into the stomach and is expelled? <sup>[4]</sup> <sup>18</sup>But what comes out of the mouth proceeds from the heart, and this defiles a person. <sup>19</sup>For out of the heart come evil thoughts, murder, adultery, sexual immorality, theft, false witness, slander. <sup>20</sup>These are what defile a person. But to eat with unwashed hands does not defile anyone.”

The Faith of a Canaanite Woman

<sup>21</sup>And Jesus went away from there and withdrew to the district of Tyre and Sidon. <sup>22</sup>†And behold, a Canaanite woman from that region came out and was crying, “Have mercy on me, O Lord, Son of David; my daughter is severely oppressed by a demon.” <sup>23</sup>But he did not answer her a word. And his disciples came and begged him, saying, “Send her away, for she is crying out after us.”

<sup>24</sup>†He answered, “I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.” <sup>25</sup>But she came and knelt before him, saying, “Lord, help me.” <sup>26</sup>†And he answered, “It is not right to take the children's bread and throw it to the dogs.” <sup>27</sup>She said, “Yes, Lord, yet even the dogs eat the crumbs that fall from their masters' table.”
<sup>28</sup>Then Jesus answered her, “O woman, great is your faith! Be it done for you as you desire.” And her daughter was healed instantly. [5]

Jesus Heals Many

<sup>29</sup>†Jesus went on from there and walked beside the Sea of Galilee. And he went up on the mountain and sat down there. <sup>30</sup>And great crowds came to him, bringing with them the lame, the blind, the crippled, the mute, and many others, and they put them at his feet, and he healed them, <sup>31</sup>so that the crowd wondered, when they saw the mute speaking, the crippled healthy, the lame walking, and the blind seeing. And they glorified the God of Israel.

Jesus Feeds the Four Thousand

<sup>32</sup>Then Jesus called his disciples to him and said, “I have compassion on the crowd because they have been with me now three days and have nothing to eat. And I am unwilling to send them away hungry, lest they faint on the way.”
<sup>33</sup>†And the disciples said to him, “Where are we to get enough bread in such a desolate place to feed so great a crowd?” <sup>34</sup>†And Jesus said to them, “How many loaves do you have?” They said, “Seven, and a few small fish.” <sup>35</sup>And directing the crowd to sit down on the ground, <sup>36</sup>he took the seven loaves and the fish, and having given thanks he broke them and gave them to the disciples, and the disciples gave them to the crowds. <sup>37</sup>And they all ate and were satisfied. And they took up seven baskets full of the broken pieces left over. <sup>38</sup>†Those who ate were four thousand men, besides women and children. <sup>39</sup>And after sending away the crowds, he got into the boat and went to the region of Magadan.

The Pharisees and Sadducees Demand Signs

MATTHEW 16 † And the Pharisees and Sadducees came, and to test him they asked him to show them a sign from heaven. <sup>2</sup>† He answered them, [\[1\]](#) “When it is evening, you say, ‘It will be fair weather, for the sky is red.’ <sup>3</sup>And in the morning, ‘It will be stormy today, for the sky is red and threatening.’ You know how to interpret the appearance of the sky, but you cannot interpret the signs of the times. <sup>4</sup>An evil and adulterous generation seeks for a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of Jonah.” So he left them and departed.

The Leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees

<sup>5</sup>When the disciples reached the other side, they had forgotten to bring any bread. <sup>6</sup>† Jesus said to them, “Watch and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees.” <sup>7</sup>And they began discussing it among themselves, saying, “We brought no bread.” <sup>8</sup>But Jesus, aware of this, said, “O you of little faith, why are you discussing among yourselves the fact that you have no bread? <sup>9</sup>Do you not yet perceive? Do you not remember the five loaves for the five thousand, and how many baskets you gathered? <sup>10</sup>Or the seven loaves for the four thousand, and how many baskets you gathered? <sup>11</sup>How is it that you fail to understand that I did not speak about bread? Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees.” <sup>12</sup>† Then they understood that he did not tell them to beware of the leaven of bread, but of the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

Peter Confesses Jesus as the Christ

<sup>13</sup>† Now when Jesus came into the district of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, “Who do people say that the Son of Man is?” <sup>14</sup>And they said, “Some say John the Baptist, others say Elijah, and others Jeremiah or one of the prophets.” <sup>15</sup>He said to them, “But who do you say that I am?” <sup>16</sup>† Simon Peter replied, “You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.” <sup>17</sup>† And Jesus answered him, “Blessed are you, Simon Bar-Jonah! For flesh and blood has not revealed this to you, but my Father who is in heaven. <sup>18</sup>† And I tell you, you are Peter, and on this rock [\[2\]](#) I will build my church, and the gates of hell [\[3\]](#) shall not prevail against it. <sup>19</sup>† I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed [\[4\]](#) in heaven.” <sup>20</sup>† Then he strictly charged the disciples to tell no one that he was the Christ.

Jesus Foretells His Death and Resurrection

<sup>21</sup>† From that time Jesus began to show his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and suffer many things from the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and on the third day be raised. <sup>22</sup> And Peter took him aside and began to rebuke him, saying, “Far be it from you, Lord! [5] This shall never happen to you.” <sup>23</sup> † But he turned and said to Peter, “Get behind me, Satan! You are a hindrance [6] to me. For you are not setting your mind on the things of God, but on the things of man.”

Take Up Your Cross and Follow Jesus

<sup>24</sup> † Then Jesus told his disciples, “If anyone would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. <sup>25</sup> For whoever would save his life [7] will lose it, but whoever loses his life for my sake will find it. <sup>26</sup> † For what will it profit a man if he gains the whole world and forfeits his soul? Or what shall a man give in return for his soul? <sup>27</sup> † For the Son of Man is going to come with his angels in the glory of his Father, and then he will repay each person according to what he has done. <sup>28</sup> † Truly, I say to you, there are some standing here who will not taste death until they see the Son of Man coming in his kingdom.”

The Transfiguration

MATTHEW 17 †And after six days Jesus took with him Peter and James, and John his brother, and led them up a high mountain by themselves. <sup>2</sup>†And he was transfigured before them, and his face shone like the sun, and his clothes became white as light. <sup>3</sup>†And behold, there appeared to them Moses and Elijah, talking with him. <sup>4</sup>†And Peter said to Jesus, “Lord, it is good that we are here. If you wish, I will make three tents here, one for you and one for Moses and one for Elijah.” <sup>5</sup>†He was still speaking when, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them, and a voice from the cloud said, “This is my beloved Son, [1] with whom I am well pleased; listen to him.” <sup>6</sup>†When the disciples heard this, they fell on their faces and were terrified. <sup>7</sup>But Jesus came and touched them, saying, “Rise, and have no fear.” <sup>8</sup>And when they lifted up their eyes, they saw no one but Jesus only.

<sup>9</sup>†And as they were coming down the mountain, Jesus commanded them, “Tell no one the vision, until the Son of Man is raised from the dead.” <sup>10</sup>†And the disciples asked him, “Then why do the scribes say that first Elijah must come?” <sup>11</sup>He answered, “Elijah does come, and he will restore all things. <sup>12</sup>†But I tell you that Elijah has already come, and they did not recognize him, but did to him whatever they pleased. So also the Son of Man will certainly suffer at their hands.” <sup>13</sup>Then the disciples understood that he was speaking to them of John the Baptist.

Jesus Heals a Boy with a Demon

<sup>14</sup>And when they came to the crowd, a man came up to him and, kneeling before him, <sup>15</sup>said, “Lord, have mercy on my son, for he is an epileptic and he suffers terribly. For often he falls into the fire, and often into the water. <sup>16</sup>And I brought him to your disciples, and they could not heal him.” <sup>17</sup>†And Jesus answered, “O faithless and twisted generation, how long am I to be with you? How long am I to bear with you? Bring him here to me.” <sup>18</sup>And Jesus rebuked the demon, [2] and it [3] came out of him, and the boy was healed instantly. [4] <sup>19</sup>†Then the disciples came to Jesus privately and said, “Why could we not cast it out?” <sup>20</sup>†He said to them, “Because of your little faith. For truly, I say to you, if you have faith like a grain of mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, ‘Move from here to there,’ and it will move, and nothing will be impossible for you.” [5]

Jesus Again Foretells Death, Resurrection

<sup>22</sup>†As they were gathering [6] in Galilee, Jesus said to them, “The Son of Man is about to be delivered into the hands of men, <sup>23</sup>and they will kill him, and he will be raised on the third day.” And they were greatly distressed.

The Temple Tax

<sup>24</sup>†When they came to Capernaum, the collectors of the two-drachma tax went up to Peter and said, “Does your teacher not pay the tax?” <sup>25</sup>He said, “Yes.” And when he came into the house, Jesus spoke to him first, saying, “What do you think, Simon? From whom do kings of the earth take toll or tax? From their sons or from others?” <sup>26</sup>And when he said, “From others,” Jesus said to him, “Then the sons are free. <sup>27</sup>However, not to give offense to them, go to the sea and cast a hook and take the first fish that comes up, and when you open its mouth you will find a shekel. [7] Take that and give it to them for me and for yourself.”

Who Is the Greatest?

MATTHEW 18 †At that time the disciples came to Jesus, saying, “Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?”<sup>2</sup> And calling to him a child, he put him in the midst of them<sup>3</sup> †and said, “Truly, I say to you, unless you turn and become like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven.<sup>4</sup> Whoever humbles himself like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

<sup>5</sup> †“Whoever receives one such child in my name receives me,<sup>6</sup> †but whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin, [1] it would be better for him to have a great millstone fastened around his neck and to be drowned in the depth of the sea.

Temptations to Sin

<sup>7</sup> †“Woe to the world for temptations to sin! [2] For it is necessary that temptations come, but woe to the one by whom the temptation comes!<sup>8</sup> †And if your hand or your foot causes you to sin, cut it off and throw it away. It is better for you to enter life crippled or lame than with two hands or two feet to be thrown into the eternal fire.<sup>9</sup> And if your eye causes you to sin, tear it out and throw it away. It is better for you to enter life with one eye than with two eyes to be thrown into the hell [3] of fire.

The Parable of the Lost Sheep

<sup>10</sup> †“See that you do not despise one of these little ones. For I tell you that in heaven their angels always see the face of my Father who is in heaven. [4]
<sup>12</sup> What do you think? If a man has a hundred sheep, and one of them has gone astray, does he not leave the ninety-nine on the mountains and go in search of the one that went astray?<sup>13</sup> And if he finds it, truly, I say to you, he rejoices over it more than over the ninety-nine that never went astray.<sup>14</sup> †So it is not the will of my [5] Father who is in heaven that one of these little ones should perish.

If Your Brother Sins Against You

<sup>15</sup> †“If your brother sins against you, go and tell him his fault, between you and him alone. If he listens to you, you have gained your brother.<sup>16</sup> †But if he does not listen, take one or two others along with you, that every charge may be established by the evidence of two or three witnesses. <sup>17</sup>†If he refuses to listen to them, tell it to the church. And if he refuses to listen even to the church, let him be to you as a Gentile and a tax collector. <sup>18</sup>†Truly, I say to you, whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed [6] in heaven. <sup>19</sup>†Again I say to you, if two of you agree on earth about anything they ask, it will be done for them by my Father in heaven. <sup>20</sup>†For where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I among them.”

The Parable of the Unforgiving Servant

<sup>21</sup>†Then Peter came up and said to him, “Lord, how often will my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? As many as seven times?” <sup>22</sup>†Jesus said to him, “I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven. [7]

<sup>23</sup>†“Therefore the kingdom of heaven may be compared to a king who wished to settle accounts with his servants. [8] <sup>24</sup>†When he began to settle, one was brought to him who owed him ten thousand talents. [9] <sup>25</sup>†And since he could not pay, his master ordered him to be sold, with his wife and children and all that he had, and payment to be made. <sup>26</sup>So the servant [10] fell on his knees, imploring him, ‘Have patience with me, and I will pay you everything.’ <sup>27</sup>†And out of pity for him, the master of that servant released him and forgave him the debt. <sup>28</sup>†But when that same servant went out, he found one of his fellow servants who owed him a hundred denarii, [11] and seizing him, he began to choke him, saying, ‘Pay what you owe.’ <sup>29</sup>†So his fellow servant fell down and pleaded with him, ‘Have patience with me, and I will pay you.’ <sup>30</sup>He refused and went and put him in prison until he should pay the debt. <sup>31</sup>†When his fellow servants saw what had taken place, they were greatly distressed, and they went and reported to their master all that had taken place. <sup>32</sup>Then his master summoned him and said to him, ‘You wicked servant! I forgave you all that debt because you pleaded with me. <sup>33</sup>And should not you have had mercy on your fellow servant, as I had mercy on you?’ <sup>34</sup>†And in anger his master delivered him to the jailers, [12] until he should pay all his debt. <sup>35</sup>So also my heavenly Father will do to every one of you, if you do not forgive your brother from your heart.”

Teaching About Divorce

MATTHEW 19 † Now when Jesus had finished these sayings, he went away from Galilee and entered the region of Judea beyond the Jordan. <sup>2</sup> And large crowds followed him, and he healed them there.

<sup>3</sup> † And Pharisees came up to him and tested him by asking, “Is it lawful to divorce one's wife for any cause?” <sup>4</sup> † He answered, “Have you not read that he who created them from the beginning made them male and female, <sup>5</sup> † and said, ‘Therefore a man shall leave his father and his mother and hold fast to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh’? <sup>6</sup> So they are no longer two but one flesh. What therefore God has joined together, let not man separate.” <sup>7</sup> † They said to him, “Why then did Moses command one to give a certificate of divorce and to send her away?” <sup>8</sup> † He said to them, “Because of your hardness of heart Moses allowed you to divorce your wives, but from the beginning it was not so. <sup>9</sup> † And I say to you: whoever divorces his wife, except for sexual immorality, and marries another, commits adultery.” [\[1\]](#)

<sup>10</sup> † The disciples said to him, “If such is the case of a man with his wife, it is better not to marry.” <sup>11</sup> But he said to them, “Not everyone can receive this saying, but only those to whom it is given. <sup>12</sup> † For there are eunuchs who have been so from birth, and there are eunuchs who have been made eunuchs by men, and there are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the sake of the kingdom of heaven. Let the one who is able to receive this receive it.”

Let the Children Come to Me

<sup>13</sup> Then children were brought to him that he might lay his hands on them and pray. The disciples rebuked the people, <sup>14</sup> † but Jesus said, “Let the little children come to me and do not hinder them, for to such belongs the kingdom of heaven.” <sup>15</sup> And he laid his hands on them and went away.

The Rich Young Man

<sup>16</sup> † And behold, a man came up to him, saying, “Teacher, what good deed must I do to have eternal life?” <sup>17</sup> † And he said to him, “Why do you ask me about what is good? There is only one who is good. If you would enter life, keep the commandments.” <sup>18</sup> † He said to him, “Which ones?” And Jesus said, “You shall not murder, You shall not commit adultery, You shall not steal, You shall not bear false witness, <sup>19</sup>Honor your father and mother, and, You shall love your neighbor as yourself.” <sup>20</sup>†The young man said to him, “All these I have kept. What do I still lack?” <sup>21</sup>†Jesus said to him, “If you would be perfect, go, sell what you possess and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me.” <sup>22</sup>When the young man heard this he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.

<sup>23</sup>And Jesus said to his disciples, “Truly, I say to you, only with difficulty will a rich person enter the kingdom of heaven. <sup>24</sup>†Again I tell you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to enter the kingdom of God.” <sup>25</sup>†When the disciples heard this, they were greatly astonished, saying, “Who then can be saved?” <sup>26</sup>But Jesus looked at them and said, “With man this is impossible, but with God all things are possible.” <sup>27</sup>†Then Peter said in reply, “See, we have left everything and followed you. What then will we have?” <sup>28</sup>†Jesus said to them, “Truly, I say to you, in the new world, [2] when the Son of Man will sit on his glorious throne, you who have followed me will also sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. <sup>29</sup>And everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or children or lands, for my name's sake, will receive a hundredfold [3] and will inherit eternal life. <sup>30</sup>†But many who are first will be last, and the last first.

Laborers in the Vineyard

MATTHEW 20 †“For the kingdom of heaven is like a master of a house who went out early in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard. <sup>2</sup>†After agreeing with the laborers for a denarius [1] a day, he sent them into his vineyard. <sup>3</sup>†And going out about the third hour he saw others standing idle in the marketplace, <sup>4</sup>†and to them he said, ‘You go into the vineyard too, and whatever is right I will give you.’ <sup>5</sup>So they went. Going out again about the sixth hour and the ninth hour, he did the same. <sup>6</sup>†And about the eleventh hour he went out and found others standing. And he said to them, ‘Why do you stand here idle all day?’ <sup>7</sup>They said to him, ‘Because no one has hired us.’ He said to them, ‘You go into the vineyard too.’ <sup>8</sup>†And when evening came, the owner of the vineyard said to his foreman, ‘Call the laborers and pay them their wages, beginning with the last, up to the first.’ <sup>9</sup>And when those hired about the eleventh hour came, each of them received a denarius. <sup>10</sup>Now when those hired first came, they thought they would receive more, but each of them also received a denarius. <sup>11</sup>And on receiving it they grumbled at the master of the house, <sup>12</sup>saying, ‘These last worked only one hour, and you have made them equal to us who have borne the burden of the day and the scorching heat.’ <sup>13</sup>†But he replied to one of them, ‘Friend, I am doing you no wrong. Did you not agree with me for a denarius? <sup>14</sup>Take what belongs to you and go. I choose to give to this last worker as I give to you. <sup>15</sup>Am I not allowed to do what I choose with what belongs to me? Or do you begrudge my generosity?’ [2] <sup>16</sup>†So the last will be first, and the first last.”

Jesus Foretells His Death a Third Time

<sup>17</sup>†And as Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, he took the twelve disciples aside, and on the way he said to them, <sup>18</sup>“See, we are going up to Jerusalem. And the Son of Man will be delivered over to the chief priests and scribes, and they will condemn him to death <sup>19</sup>†and deliver him over to the Gentiles to be mocked and flogged and crucified, and he will be raised on the third day.”

A Mother's Request

<sup>20</sup>†Then the mother of the sons of Zebedee came up to him with her sons, and kneeling before him she asked him for something. <sup>21</sup>†And he said to her, “What do you want?” She said to him, “Say that these two sons of mine are to sit, one at your right hand and one at your left, in your kingdom.” <sup>22</sup>†Jesus answered, “You do not know what you are asking. Are you able to drink the cup that I am to drink?" They said to him, "We are able." <sup>23</sup>† He said to them, "You will drink my cup, but to sit at my right hand and at my left is not mine to grant, but it is for those for whom it has been prepared by my Father." <sup>24</sup>† And when the ten heard it, they were indignant at the two brothers. <sup>25</sup>† But Jesus called them to him and said, "You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. <sup>26</sup>It shall not be so among you. But whoever would be great among you must be your servant, [3] <sup>27</sup>and whoever would be first among you must be your slave, [4] <sup>28</sup>† even as the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many."

Jesus Heals Two Blind Men

<sup>29</sup>† And as they went out of Jericho, a great crowd followed him. <sup>30</sup>† And behold, there were two blind men sitting by the roadside, and when they heard that Jesus was passing by, they cried out, "Lord, [5] have mercy on us, Son of David!" <sup>31</sup>The crowd rebuked them, telling them to be silent, but they cried out all the more, "Lord, have mercy on us, Son of David!" <sup>32</sup>And stopping, Jesus called them and said, "What do you want me to do for you?" <sup>33</sup>They said to him, "Lord, let our eyes be opened." <sup>34</sup>And Jesus in pity touched their eyes, and immediately they recovered their sight and followed him.

The Triumphal Entry

MATTHEW 21 †Now when they drew near to Jerusalem and came to Bethphage, to the Mount of Olives, then Jesus sent two disciples, <sup>2</sup>saying to them, “Go into the village in front of you, and immediately you will find a donkey tied, and a colt with her. Untie them and bring them to me. <sup>3</sup>†If anyone says anything to you, you shall say, ‘The Lord needs them,’ and he will send them at once.” <sup>4</sup>This took place to fulfill what was spoken by the prophet, saying, <sup>5</sup>†“Say to the daughter of Zion, ‘Behold, your king is coming to you, humble, and mounted on a donkey,

and [1] on a colt, the foal of a beast of burden.’”

<sup>6</sup>The disciples went and did as Jesus had directed them. <sup>7</sup>†They brought the donkey and the colt and put on them their cloaks, and he sat on them. <sup>8</sup>†Most of the crowd spread their cloaks on the road, and others cut branches from the trees and spread them on the road. <sup>9</sup>†And the crowds that went before him and that followed him were shouting, “Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest!” <sup>10</sup>And when he entered Jerusalem, the whole city was stirred up, saying, “Who is this?” <sup>11</sup>And the crowds said, “This is the prophet Jesus, from Nazareth of Galilee.”

Jesus Cleanses the Temple

<sup>12</sup>†And Jesus entered the temple [2] and drove out all who sold and bought in the temple, and he overturned the tables of the money-changers and the seats of those who sold pigeons. <sup>13</sup>†He said to them, “It is written, ‘My house shall be called a house of prayer,’ but you make it a den of robbers.”

<sup>14</sup>And the blind and the lame came to him in the temple, and he healed them. <sup>15</sup>†But when the chief priests and the scribes saw the wonderful things that he did, and the children crying out in the temple, “Hosanna to the Son of David!” they were indignant, <sup>16</sup>†and they said to him, “Do you hear what these are saying?” And Jesus said to them, “Yes; have you never read, “‘Out of the mouth of infants and nursing babies you have prepared praise’?”

<sup>17</sup>And leaving them, he went out of the city to Bethany and lodged there.

Jesus Curses the Fig Tree

<sup>18</sup>In the morning, as he was returning to the city, he became hungry. <sup>19</sup>†And seeing a fig tree by the wayside, he went to it and found nothing on it but only leaves. And he said to it, “May no fruit ever come from you again!” And the fig tree withered at once.

<sup>20</sup>When the disciples saw it, they marveled, saying, “How did the fig tree wither at once?” <sup>21</sup>†And Jesus answered them, “Truly, I say to you, if you have faith and do not doubt, you will not only do what has been done to the fig tree, but even if you say to this mountain, ‘Be taken up and thrown into the sea,’ it will happen. <sup>22</sup>And whatever you ask in prayer, you will receive, if you have faith.”

The Authority of Jesus Challenged

<sup>23</sup>†And when he entered the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came up to him as he was teaching, and said, “By what authority are you doing these things, and who gave you this authority?” <sup>24</sup>Jesus answered them, “I also will ask you one question, and if you tell me the answer, then I also will tell you by what authority I do these things. <sup>25</sup>†The baptism of John, from where did it come? From heaven or from man?” And they discussed it among themselves, saying, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he will say to us, ‘Why then did you not believe him?’ <sup>26</sup>But if we say, ‘From man,’ we are afraid of the crowd, for they all hold that John was a prophet.” <sup>27</sup>So they answered Jesus, “We do not know.” And he said to them, “Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things.

The Parable of the Two Sons

<sup>28</sup>“What do you think? A man had two sons. And he went to the first and said, ‘Son, go and work in the vineyard today.’ <sup>29</sup>And he answered, ‘I will not,’ but afterward he changed his mind and went. <sup>30</sup>And he went to the other son and said the same. And he answered, ‘I go, sir,’ but did not go. <sup>31</sup>†Which of the two did the will of his father?” They said, “The first.” Jesus said to them, “Truly, I say to you, the tax collectors and the prostitutes go into the kingdom of God before you. <sup>32</sup>†For John came to you in the way of righteousness, and you did not believe him, but the tax collectors and the prostitutes believed him. And even when you saw it, you did not afterward change your minds and believe him.

The Parable of the Tenants

<sup>33</sup>†“Hear another parable. There was a master of a house who planted a vineyard and put a fence around it and dug a winepress in it and built a tower and leased it to tenants, and went into another country. <sup>34</sup>†When the season for fruit drew near, he sent his servants [3] to the tenants to get his fruit. <sup>35</sup>†And the tenants took his servants and beat one, killed another, and stoned another. <sup>36</sup>†Again he sent other servants, more than the first. And they did the same to them. <sup>37</sup>†Finally he sent his son to them, saying, ‘They will respect my son.’ <sup>38</sup>†But when the tenants saw the son, they said to themselves, ‘This is the heir. Come, let us kill him and have his inheritance.’ <sup>39</sup>†And they took him and threw him out of the vineyard and killed him. <sup>40</sup>†When therefore the owner of the vineyard comes, what will he do to those tenants?” <sup>41</sup>†They said to him, “He will put those wretches to a miserable death and let out the vineyard to other tenants who will give him the fruits in their seasons.”

<sup>42</sup>†Jesus said to them, “Have you never read in the Scriptures: “‘The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone; [4]

this was the Lord's doing, and it is marvelous in our eyes’?”

<sup>43</sup>†Therefore I tell you, the kingdom of God will be taken away from you and given to a people producing its fruits. <sup>44</sup>†And the one who falls on this stone will be broken to pieces; and when it falls on anyone, it will crush him.” [5]

<sup>45</sup>†When the chief priests and the Pharisees heard his parables, they perceived that he was speaking about them. <sup>46</sup>†And although they were seeking to arrest him, they feared the crowds, because they held him to be a prophet.

The Parable of the Wedding Feast

MATTHEW 22 And again Jesus spoke to them in parables, saying, <sup>2</sup>†“The kingdom of heaven may be compared to a king who gave a wedding feast for his son, <sup>3</sup>and sent his servants [1] to call those who were invited to the wedding feast, but they would not come. <sup>4</sup>†Again he sent other servants, saying, ‘Tell those who are invited, See, I have prepared my dinner, my oxen and my fat calves have been slaughtered, and everything is ready. Come to the wedding feast.’ <sup>5</sup>But they paid no attention and went off, one to his farm, another to his business, <sup>6</sup>while the rest seized his servants, treated them shamefully, and killed them. <sup>7</sup>†The king was angry, and he sent his troops and destroyed those murderers and burned their city. <sup>8</sup>Then he said to his servants, ‘The wedding feast is ready, but those invited were not worthy. <sup>9</sup>†Go therefore to the main roads and invite to the wedding feast as many as you find.’ <sup>10</sup>And those servants went out into the roads and gathered all whom they found, both bad and good. So the wedding hall was filled with guests.

<sup>11</sup>†“But when the king came in to look at the guests, he saw there a man who had no wedding garment. <sup>12</sup>†And he said to him, ‘Friend, how did you get in here without a wedding garment?’ And he was speechless. <sup>13</sup>†Then the king said to the attendants, ‘Bind him hand and foot and cast him into the outer darkness. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’ <sup>14</sup>†For many are called, but few are chosen.”

Paying Taxes to Caesar

<sup>15</sup>Then the Pharisees went and plotted how to entangle him in his words. <sup>16</sup>†And they sent their disciples to him, along with the Herodians, saying, “Teacher, we know that you are true and teach the way of God truthfully, and you do not care about anyone's opinion, for you are not swayed by appearances. [2] <sup>17</sup>†Tell us, then, what you think. Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar, or not?” <sup>18</sup>But Jesus, aware of their malice, said, “Why put me to the test, you hypocrites? <sup>19</sup>†Show me the coin for the tax.” And they brought him a denarius. [3] <sup>20</sup>And Jesus said to them, “Whose likeness and inscription is this?” <sup>21</sup>†They said, “Caesar's.” Then he said to them, “Therefore render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's.” <sup>22</sup>When they heard it, they marveled. And they left him and went away.

Sadducees Ask About the Resurrection

<sup>23</sup>†The same day Sadducees came to him, who say that there is no resurrection, and they asked him a question, <sup>24</sup>†saying, “Teacher, Moses said, ‘If a man dies having no children, his brother must marry the widow and raise up children for his brother.’ <sup>25</sup>Now there were seven brothers among us. The first married and died, and having no children left his wife to his brother. <sup>26</sup>So too the second and third, down to the seventh. <sup>27</sup>After them all, the woman died. <sup>28</sup>In the resurrection, therefore, of the seven, whose wife will she be? For they all had her.”

<sup>29</sup>But Jesus answered them, “You are wrong, because you know neither the Scriptures nor the power of God. <sup>30</sup>†For in the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like angels in heaven. <sup>31</sup>And as for the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what was said to you by God: <sup>32</sup>†‘I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob’? He is not God of the dead, but of the living.” <sup>33</sup>And when the crowd heard it, they were astonished at his teaching.

The Great Commandment

<sup>34</sup>But when the Pharisees heard that he had silenced the Sadducees, they gathered together. <sup>35</sup>†And one of them, a lawyer, asked him a question to test him. <sup>36</sup>†“Teacher, which is the great commandment in the Law?” <sup>37</sup>†And he said to him, “You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. <sup>38</sup>This is the great and first commandment. <sup>39</sup>†And a second is like it: You shall love your neighbor as yourself. <sup>40</sup>†On these two commandments depend all the Law and the Prophets.”

Whose Son Is the Christ?

<sup>41</sup>Now while the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them a question, <sup>42</sup>†saying, “What do you think about the Christ? Whose son is he?” They said to him, “The son of David.” <sup>43</sup>†He said to them, “How is it then that David, in the Spirit, calls him Lord, saying, <sup>44</sup>†“‘The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, until I put your enemies under your feet’?”

<sup>45</sup>†If then David calls him Lord, how is he his son?” <sup>46</sup>And no one was able to answer him a word, nor from that day did anyone dare to ask him any more questions.

Seven Woes to the Scribes and Pharisees

MATTHEW 23 Then Jesus said to the crowds and to his disciples, <sup>2</sup>†“The scribes and the Pharisees sit on Moses' seat, <sup>3</sup>†so practice and observe whatever they tell you—but not what they do. For they preach, but do not practice. <sup>4</sup>They tie up heavy burdens, hard to bear, [1] and lay them on people's shoulders, but they themselves are not willing to move them with their finger. <sup>5</sup>†They do all their deeds to be seen by others. For they make their phylacteries broad and their fringes long, <sup>6</sup>and they love the place of honor at feasts and the best seats in the synagogues <sup>7</sup>and greetings in the marketplaces and being called rabbi [2] by others. <sup>8</sup>†But you are not to be called rabbi, for you have one teacher, and you are all brothers. [3] <sup>9</sup>And call no man your father on earth, for you have one Father, who is in heaven. <sup>10</sup>Neither be called instructors, for you have one instructor, the Christ. <sup>11</sup>The greatest among you shall be your servant. <sup>12</sup>Whoever exalts himself will be humbled, and whoever humbles himself will be exalted.

<sup>13</sup>†“But woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you shut the kingdom of heaven in people's faces. For you neither enter yourselves nor allow those who would enter to go in. [4] <sup>15</sup>†Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you travel across sea and land to make a single proselyte, and when he becomes a proselyte, you make him twice as much a child of hell [5] as yourselves.

<sup>16</sup>†“Woe to you, blind guides, who say, ‘If anyone swears by the temple, it is nothing, but if anyone swears by the gold of the temple, he is bound by his oath.’ <sup>17</sup>You blind fools! For which is greater, the gold or the temple that has made the gold sacred? <sup>18</sup>And you say, ‘If anyone swears by the altar, it is nothing, but if anyone swears by the gift that is on the altar, he is bound by his oath.’ <sup>19</sup>You blind men! For which is greater, the gift or the altar that makes the gift sacred? <sup>20</sup>So whoever swears by the altar swears by it and by everything on it. <sup>21</sup>And whoever swears by the temple swears by it and by him who dwells in it. <sup>22</sup>And whoever swears by heaven swears by the throne of God and by him who sits upon it.

<sup>23</sup>†“Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you tithe mint and dill and cumin, and have neglected the weightier matters of the law: justice and mercy and faithfulness. These you ought to have done, without neglecting the others. <sup>24</sup>†You blind guides, straining out a gnat and swallowing a camel!

<sup>25</sup>†“Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you clean the outside of the cup and the plate, but inside they are full of greed and self-indulgence. <sup>26</sup>You blind Pharisee! First clean the inside of the cup and the plate, that the outside also may be clean.

<sup>27</sup>†“Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you are like whitewashed tombs, which outwardly appear beautiful, but within are full of dead people's bones and all uncleanness. <sup>28</sup>So you also outwardly appear righteous to others, but within you are full of hypocrisy and lawlessness.

<sup>29</sup>“Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you build the tombs of the prophets and decorate the monuments of the righteous, <sup>30</sup>†saying, ‘If we had lived in the days of our fathers, we would not have taken part with them in shedding the blood of the prophets.’ <sup>31</sup>Thus you witness against yourselves that you are sons of those who murdered the prophets. <sup>32</sup>Fill up, then, the measure of your fathers. <sup>33</sup>You serpents, you brood of vipers, how are you to escape being sentenced to hell? <sup>34</sup>†Therefore I send you prophets and wise men and scribes, some of whom you will kill and crucify, and some you will flog in your synagogues and persecute from town to town, <sup>35</sup>†so that on you may come all the righteous blood shed on earth, from the blood of innocent Abel to the blood of Zechariah the son of Barachiah, [6] whom you murdered between the sanctuary and the altar. <sup>36</sup>†Truly, I say to you, all these things will come upon this generation.

Lament over Jerusalem

<sup>37</sup>†“O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, the city that kills the prophets and stones those who are sent to it! How often would I have gathered your children together as a hen gathers her brood under her wings, and you would not! <sup>38</sup>†See, your house is left to you desolate. <sup>39</sup>†For I tell you, you will not see me again, until you say, ‘Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.’”

Jesus Foretells Destruction of the Temple

MATTHEW 24 †† Jesus left the temple and was going away, when his disciples came to point out to him the buildings of the temple. † But he answered them, “You see all these, do you not? Truly, I say to you, there will not be left here one stone upon another that will not be thrown down.”

Signs of the Close of the Age

† As he sat on the Mount of Olives, the disciples came to him privately, saying, “Tell us, when will these things be, and what will be the sign of your coming and of the close of the age?” † And Jesus answered them, “See that no one leads you astray. † For many will come in my name, saying, ‘I am the Christ,’ and they will lead many astray. † And you will hear of wars and rumors of wars. See that you are not alarmed, for this must take place, but the end is not yet. † For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines and earthquakes in various places. † All these are but the beginning of the birth pains.

† “Then they will deliver you up to tribulation and put you to death, and you will be hated by all nations for my name's sake. † And then many will fall away [\[1\]](#) and betray one another and hate one another. † And many false prophets will arise and lead many astray. † And because lawlessness will be increased, the love of many will grow cold. † But the one who endures to the end will be saved. † And this gospel of the kingdom will be proclaimed throughout the whole world as a testimony to all nations, and then the end will come.

The Abomination of Desolation

† “So when you see the abomination of desolation spoken of by the prophet Daniel, standing in the holy place (let the reader understand), † then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains. † Let the one who is on the housetop not go down to take what is in his house, † and let the one who is in the field not turn back to take his cloak. † And alas for women who are pregnant and for those who are nursing infants in those days! † Pray that your flight may not be in winter or on a Sabbath. † For then there will be great tribulation, such as has not been from the beginning of the world until now, no, and never will be. † And if those days had not been cut short, no human being would be saved. But for the sake of the elect those days will be cut short. <sup>23</sup>Then if anyone says to you, 'Look, here is the Christ!' or 'There he is!' do not believe it. <sup>24</sup>‡For false christs and false prophets will arise and perform great signs and wonders, so as to lead astray, if possible, even the elect. <sup>25</sup>See, I have told you beforehand. <sup>26</sup>‡So, if they say to you, 'Look, he is in the wilderness,' do not go out. If they say, 'Look, he is in the inner rooms,' do not believe it. <sup>27</sup>For as the lightning comes from the east and shines as far as the west, so will be the coming of the Son of Man. <sup>28</sup>‡Wherever the corpse is, there the vultures will gather.

The Coming of the Son of Man

<sup>29</sup>‡“Immediately after the tribulation of those days the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken. <sup>30</sup>‡Then will appear in heaven the sign of the Son of Man, and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. <sup>31</sup>‡And he will send out his angels with a loud trumpet call, and they will gather his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

The Lesson of the Fig Tree

<sup>32</sup>‡“From the fig tree learn its lesson: as soon as its branch becomes tender and puts out its leaves, you know that summer is near. <sup>33</sup>So also, when you see all these things, you know that he is near, at the very gates. <sup>34</sup>‡Truly, I say to you, this generation will not pass away until all these things take place. <sup>35</sup>‡Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

No One Knows That Day and Hour

<sup>36</sup>‡“But concerning that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels of heaven, nor the Son, [2] but the Father only. <sup>37</sup>‡For as were the days of Noah, so will be the coming of the Son of Man. <sup>38</sup>For as in those days before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day when Noah entered the ark, <sup>39</sup>and they were unaware until the flood came and swept them all away, so will be the coming of the Son of Man. <sup>40</sup>‡Then two men will be in the field; one will be taken and one left. <sup>41</sup>Two women will be grinding at the mill; one will be taken and one left. <sup>42</sup>Therefore, stay awake, for you do not know on what day your Lord is coming. <sup>43</sup>‡But know this, that if the master of the house had known in what part of the night the thief was coming, he would have stayed awake and would not have let his house be broken into. <sup>44</sup>† Therefore you also must be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an hour you do not expect.

<sup>45</sup>† “Who then is the faithful and wise servant, [3] whom his master has set over his household, to give them their food at the proper time? <sup>46</sup>Blessed is that servant whom his master will find so doing when he comes. <sup>47</sup>Truly, I say to you, he will set him over all his possessions. <sup>48</sup>But if that wicked servant says to himself, ‘My master is delayed,’ <sup>49</sup>and begins to beat his fellow servants [4] and eats and drinks with drunkards, <sup>50</sup>the master of that servant will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour he does not know <sup>51</sup>† and will cut him in pieces and put him with the hypocrites. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

The Parable of the Ten Virgins

MATTHEW 25 ††“Then the kingdom of heaven will be like ten virgins who took their lamps [1] and went to meet the bridegroom. [2] <sup>2</sup>Five of them were foolish, and five were wise. <sup>3</sup>For when the foolish took their lamps, they took no oil with them, <sup>4</sup>but the wise took flasks of oil with their lamps. <sup>5</sup>As the bridegroom was delayed, they all became drowsy and slept. <sup>6</sup>But at midnight there was a cry, ‘Here is the bridegroom! Come out to meet him.’ <sup>7</sup>Then all those virgins rose and trimmed their lamps. <sup>8</sup>And the foolish said to the wise, ‘Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.’ <sup>9</sup>But the wise answered, saying, ‘Since there will not be enough for us and for you, go rather to the dealers and buy for yourselves.’ <sup>10</sup>And while they were going to buy, the bridegroom came, and those who were ready went in with him to the marriage feast, and the door was shut. <sup>11</sup>Afterward the other virgins came also, saying, ‘Lord, lord, open to us.’ <sup>12</sup>But he answered, ‘Truly, I say to you, I do not know you.’ <sup>13</sup>Watch therefore, for you know neither the day nor the hour.

The Parable of the Talents

<sup>14</sup>†“For it will be like a man going on a journey, who called his servants [3] and entrusted to them his property. <sup>15</sup>†To one he gave five talents, [4] to another two, to another one, to each according to his ability. Then he went away. <sup>16</sup>He who had received the five talents went at once and traded with them, and he made five talents more. <sup>17</sup>So also he who had the two talents made two talents more. <sup>18</sup>But he who had received the one talent went and dug in the ground and hid his master's money. <sup>19</sup>Now after a long time the master of those servants came and settled accounts with them. <sup>20</sup>And he who had received the five talents came forward, bringing five talents more, saying, ‘Master, you delivered to me five talents; here I have made five talents more.’ <sup>21</sup>His master said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant. [5] You have been faithful over a little; I will set you over much. Enter into the joy of your master.’ <sup>22</sup>And he also who had the two talents came forward, saying, ‘Master, you delivered to me two talents; here I have made two talents more.’ <sup>23</sup>†His master said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant. You have been faithful over a little; I will set you over much. Enter into the joy of your master.’ <sup>24</sup>†He also who had received the one talent came forward, saying, ‘Master, I knew you to be a hard man, reaping where you did not sow, and gathering where you scattered no seed, <sup>25</sup>so I was afraid, and I went and hid your talent in the ground. Here you have what is yours.’ <sup>26</sup>†But his master answered him, ‘You wicked and slothful servant! You knew that I reap where I have not sown and gather where I scattered no seed? <sup>27</sup>Then you ought to have invested my money with the bankers, and at my coming I should have received what was my own with interest. <sup>28</sup>So take the talent from him and give it to him who has the ten talents. <sup>29</sup>†For to everyone who has will more be given, and he will have an abundance. But from the one who has not, even what he has will be taken away. <sup>30</sup>†And cast the worthless servant into the outer darkness. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’

The Final Judgment

<sup>31</sup>†“When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him, then he will sit on his glorious throne. <sup>32</sup>†Before him will be gathered all the nations, and he will separate people one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats. <sup>33</sup>And he will place the sheep on his right, but the goats on the left. <sup>34</sup>†Then the King will say to those on his right, ‘Come, you who are blessed by my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. <sup>35</sup>For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, <sup>36</sup>I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me.’ <sup>37</sup>Then the righteous will answer him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you drink? <sup>38</sup>And when did we see you a stranger and welcome you, or naked and clothe you? <sup>39</sup>And when did we see you sick or in prison and visit you?’ <sup>40</sup>†And the King will answer them, ‘Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brothers, [6] you did it to me.’

<sup>41</sup>“Then he will say to those on his left, ‘Depart from me, you cursed, into the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels. <sup>42</sup>For I was hungry and you gave me no food, I was thirsty and you gave me no drink, <sup>43</sup>I was a stranger and you did not welcome me, naked and you did not clothe me, sick and in prison and you did not visit me.’ <sup>44</sup>Then they also will answer, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister to you?’ <sup>45</sup>Then he will answer them, saying, ‘Truly, I say to you, as you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to me.’ <sup>46</sup>†And these will go away into eternal punishment, but the righteous into eternal life.”

The Plot to Kill Jesus

MATTHEW 26 When Jesus had finished all these sayings, he said to his disciples, <sup>2</sup>†“You know that after two days the Passover is coming, and the Son of Man will be delivered up to be crucified.”

<sup>3</sup>†Then the chief priests and the elders of the people gathered in the palace of the high priest, whose name was Caiaphas, <sup>4</sup>and plotted together in order to arrest Jesus by stealth and kill him. <sup>5</sup>†But they said, “Not during the feast, lest there be an uproar among the people.”

Jesus Anointed at Bethany

<sup>6</sup>†Now when Jesus was at Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, [\[1\]](#) <sup>7</sup>†a woman came up to him with an alabaster flask of very expensive ointment, and she poured it on his head as he reclined at table. <sup>8</sup>†And when the disciples saw it, they were indignant, saying, “Why this waste? <sup>9</sup>For this could have been sold for a large sum and given to the poor.” <sup>10</sup>But Jesus, aware of this, said to them, “Why do you trouble the woman? For she has done a beautiful thing to me. <sup>11</sup>†For you always have the poor with you, but you will not always have me. <sup>12</sup>†In pouring this ointment on my body, she has done it to prepare me for burial. <sup>13</sup>†Truly, I say to you, wherever this gospel is proclaimed in the whole world, what she has done will also be told in memory of her.”

Judas to Betray Jesus

<sup>14</sup>Then one of the twelve, whose name was Judas Iscariot, went to the chief priests <sup>15</sup>†and said, “What will you give me if I deliver him over to you?” And they paid him thirty pieces of silver. <sup>16</sup>And from that moment he sought an opportunity to betray him.

The Passover with the Disciples

<sup>17</sup>†Now on the first day of Unleavened Bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying, “Where will you have us prepare for you to eat the Passover?” <sup>18</sup>†He said, “Go into the city to a certain man and say to him, ‘The Teacher says, My time is at hand. I will keep the Passover at your house with my disciples.’” <sup>19</sup>And the disciples did as Jesus had directed them, and they prepared the Passover.

<sup>20</sup>†When it was evening, he reclined at table with the twelve. [2] <sup>21</sup>And as they were eating, he said, “Truly, I say to you, one of you will betray me.” <sup>22</sup>And they were very sorrowful and began to say to him one after another, “Is it I, Lord?” <sup>23</sup>He answered, “He who has dipped his hand in the dish with me will betray me. <sup>24</sup>The Son of Man goes as it is written of him, but woe to that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would have been better for that man if he had not been born.” <sup>25</sup>Judas, who would betray him, answered, “Is it I, Rabbi?” He said to him, “You have said so.”

Institution of the Lord's Supper

<sup>26</sup>†Now as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and after blessing it broke it and gave it to the disciples, and said, “Take, eat; this is my body.” <sup>27</sup>And he took a cup, and when he had given thanks he gave it to them, saying, “Drink of it, all of you, <sup>28</sup>†for this is my blood of the [3] covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins. <sup>29</sup>†I tell you I will not drink again of this fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.”

Jesus Foretells Peter's Denial

<sup>30</sup>†And when they had sung a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives. <sup>31</sup>†Then Jesus said to them, “You will all fall away because of me this night. For it is written, ‘I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock will be scattered.’ <sup>32</sup>†But after I am raised up, I will go before you to Galilee.” <sup>33</sup>Peter answered him, “Though they all fall away because of you, I will never fall away.” <sup>34</sup>†Jesus said to him, “Truly, I tell you, this very night, before the rooster crows, you will deny me three times.” <sup>35</sup>Peter said to him, “Even if I must die with you, I will not deny you!” And all the disciples said the same.

Jesus Prays in Gethsemane

<sup>36</sup>†Then Jesus went with them to a place called Gethsemane, and he said to his disciples, “Sit here, while I go over there and pray.” <sup>37</sup>And taking with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, he began to be sorrowful and troubled. <sup>38</sup>†Then he said to them, “My soul is very sorrowful, even to death; remain here, and watch [4] with me.” <sup>39</sup>†And going a little farther he fell on his face and prayed, saying, “My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me; nevertheless, not as I will, but as you will.” <sup>40</sup>And he came to the disciples and found them sleeping. And he said to Peter, “So, could you not watch with me one hour?

<sup>41</sup>† Watch and pray that you may not enter into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.” <sup>42</sup> Again, for the second time, he went away and prayed, “My Father, if this cannot pass unless I drink it, your will be done.” <sup>43</sup> And again he came and found them sleeping, for their eyes were heavy. <sup>44</sup> So, leaving them again, he went away and prayed for the third time, saying the same words again. <sup>45</sup> Then he came to the disciples and said to them, “Sleep and take your rest later on. [5] See, the hour is at hand, and the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. <sup>46</sup> Rise, let us be going; see, my betrayer is at hand.”

Betrayal and Arrest of Jesus

<sup>47</sup>† While he was still speaking, Judas came, one of the twelve, and with him a great crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests and the elders of the people. <sup>48</sup>† Now the betrayer had given them a sign, saying, “The one I will kiss is the man; seize him.” <sup>49</sup> And he came up to Jesus at once and said, “Greetings, Rabbi!” And he kissed him. <sup>50</sup>† Jesus said to him, “Friend, do what you came to do.” [6] Then they came up and laid hands on Jesus and seized him. <sup>51</sup>† And behold, one of those who were with Jesus stretched out his hand and drew his sword and struck the servant [7] of the high priest and cut off his ear. <sup>52</sup>† Then Jesus said to him, “Put your sword back into its place. For all who take the sword will perish by the sword. <sup>53</sup>† Do you think that I cannot appeal to my Father, and he will at once send me more than twelve legions of angels? <sup>54</sup>† But how then should the Scriptures be fulfilled, that it must be so?” <sup>55</sup> At that hour Jesus said to the crowds, “Have you come out as against a robber, with swords and clubs to capture me? Day after day I sat in the temple teaching, and you did not seize me. <sup>56</sup> But all this has taken place that the Scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled.” Then all the disciples left him and fled.

Jesus Before Caiaphas and the Council

<sup>57</sup>† Then those who had seized Jesus led him to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders had gathered. <sup>58</sup> And Peter was following him at a distance, as far as the courtyard of the high priest, and going inside he sat with the guards to see the end. <sup>59</sup>† Now the chief priests and the whole Council [8] were seeking false testimony against Jesus that they might put him to death, <sup>60</sup>† but they found none, though many false witnesses came forward. At last two came forward <sup>61</sup>† and said, “This man said, ‘I am able to destroy the temple of God, and to rebuild it in three days.’” <sup>62</sup> And the high priest stood up and said, “Have you no answer to make? What is it that these men testify against you?” [9] <sup>63</sup>† But Jesus remained silent. And the high priest said to him, “I adjure you by the living God, tell us if you are the Christ, the Son of God.” <sup>64</sup>† Jesus said to him, “You have said so. But I tell you, from now on you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of Power and coming on the clouds of heaven.” <sup>65</sup>† Then the high priest tore his robes and said, “He has uttered blasphemy. What further witnesses do we need? You have now heard his blasphemy. <sup>66</sup>What is your judgment?” They answered, “He deserves death.” <sup>67</sup>Then they spit in his face and struck him. And some slapped him, <sup>68</sup>saying, “Prophecy to us, you Christ! Who is it that struck you?”

Peter Denies Jesus

<sup>69</sup>Now Peter was sitting outside in the courtyard. And a servant girl came up to him and said, “You also were with Jesus the Galilean.” <sup>70</sup>But he denied it before them all, saying, “I do not know what you mean.” <sup>71</sup>And when he went out to the entrance, another servant girl saw him, and she said to the bystanders, “This man was with Jesus of Nazareth.” <sup>72</sup>And again he denied it with an oath: “I do not know the man.” <sup>73</sup>After a little while the bystanders came up and said to Peter, “Certainly you too are one of them, for your accent betrays you.” <sup>74</sup>† Then he began to invoke a curse on himself and to swear, “I do not know the man.” And immediately the rooster crowed. <sup>75</sup>† And Peter remembered the saying of Jesus, “Before the rooster crows, you will deny me three times.” And he went out and wept bitterly.

Jesus Delivered to Pilate

MATTHEW 27 †When morning came, all the chief priests and the elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death. <sup>2</sup>†And they bound him and led him away and delivered him over to Pilate the governor.

Judas Hangs Himself

<sup>3</sup>†Then when Judas, his betrayer, saw that Jesus [\[1\]](#) was condemned, he changed his mind and brought back the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and the elders, <sup>4</sup>saying, “I have sinned by betraying innocent blood.” They said, “What is that to us? See to it yourself.” <sup>5</sup>†And throwing down the pieces of silver into the temple, he departed, and he went and hanged himself. <sup>6</sup>But the chief priests, taking the pieces of silver, said, “It is not lawful to put them into the treasury, since it is blood money.” <sup>7</sup>So they took counsel and bought with them the potter's field as a burial place for strangers. <sup>8</sup>Therefore that field has been called the Field of Blood to this day. <sup>9</sup>†Then was fulfilled what had been spoken by the prophet Jeremiah, saying, “And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him on whom a price had been set by some of the sons of Israel, <sup>10</sup>and they gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord directed me.”

Jesus Before Pilate

<sup>11</sup>†Now Jesus stood before the governor, and the governor asked him, “Are you the King of the Jews?” Jesus said, “You have said so.” <sup>12</sup>But when he was accused by the chief priests and elders, he gave no answer. <sup>13</sup>Then Pilate said to him, “Do you not hear how many things they testify against you?” <sup>14</sup>But he gave him no answer, not even to a single charge, so that the governor was greatly amazed.

The Crowd Chooses Barabbas

<sup>15</sup>Now at the feast the governor was accustomed to release for the crowd any one prisoner whom they wanted. <sup>16</sup>And they had then a notorious prisoner called Barabbas. <sup>17</sup>So when they had gathered, Pilate said to them, “Whom do you want me to release for you: Barabbas, or Jesus who is called Christ?” <sup>18</sup>For he knew that it was out of envy that they had delivered him up. <sup>19</sup>Besides, while he was sitting on the judgment seat, his wife sent word to him, “Have nothing to do with that righteous man, for I have suffered much because of him today in a dream.”<sup>20</sup>Now the chief priests and the elders persuaded the crowd to ask for Barabbas and destroy Jesus. <sup>21</sup>The governor again said to them, “Which of the two do you want me to release for you?” And they said, “Barabbas.” <sup>22</sup>Pilate said to them, “Then what shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?” They all said, “Let him be crucified!” <sup>23</sup>And he said, “Why, what evil has he done?” But they shouted all the more, “Let him be crucified!”

Pilate Delivers Jesus to Be Crucified

<sup>24</sup>So when Pilate saw that he was gaining nothing, but rather that a riot was beginning, he took water and washed his hands before the crowd, saying, “I am innocent of this man's blood; [2] see to it yourselves.” <sup>25</sup>†And all the people answered, “His blood be on us and on our children!” <sup>26</sup>†Then he released for them Barabbas, and having scourged [3] Jesus, delivered him to be crucified.

Jesus Is Mocked

<sup>27</sup>†Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the governor's headquarters, [4] and they gathered the whole battalion [5] before him. <sup>28</sup>†And they stripped him and put a scarlet robe on him, <sup>29</sup>†and twisting together a crown of thorns, they put it on his head and put a reed in his right hand. And kneeling before him, they mocked him, saying, “Hail, King of the Jews!” <sup>30</sup>†And they spit on him and took the reed and struck him on the head. <sup>31</sup>†And when they had mocked him, they stripped him of the robe and put his own clothes on him and led him away to crucify him.

The Crucifixion

<sup>32</sup>†As they went out, they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name. They compelled this man to carry his cross. <sup>33</sup>†And when they came to a place called Golgotha (which means Place of a Skull), <sup>34</sup>†they offered him wine to drink, mixed with gall, but when he tasted it, he would not drink it. <sup>35</sup>†And when they had crucified him, they divided his garments among them by casting lots. <sup>36</sup>Then they sat down and kept watch over him there. <sup>37</sup>†And over his head they put the charge against him, which read, “This is Jesus, the King of the Jews.” <sup>38</sup>†Then two robbers were crucified with him, one on the right and one on the left. <sup>39</sup>And those who passed by derided him, wagging their heads <sup>40</sup>†and saying, “You who would destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days, save yourself! If you are the Son of God, come down from the cross.”<sup>41</sup> So also the chief priests, with the scribes and elders, mocked him, saying,<sup>42</sup> †“He saved others; he cannot save himself. He is the King of Israel; let him come down now from the cross, and we will believe in him.”<sup>43</sup> He trusts in God; let God deliver him now, if he desires him. For he said, ‘I am the Son of God.’”<sup>44</sup> And the robbers who were crucified with him also reviled him in the same way.

The Death of Jesus

<sup>45</sup> † Now from the sixth hour [6] there was darkness over all the land [7] until the ninth hour. [8] <sup>46</sup> † And about the ninth hour Jesus cried out with a loud voice, saying, “Eli, Eli, lema sabachthani?” that is, “My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?”<sup>47</sup> And some of the bystanders, hearing it, said, “This man is calling Elijah.”<sup>48</sup> And one of them at once ran and took a sponge, filled it with sour wine, and put it on a reed and gave it to him to drink.<sup>49</sup> But the others said, “Wait, let us see whether Elijah will come to save him.”<sup>50</sup> † And Jesus cried out again with a loud voice and yielded up his spirit.

<sup>51</sup> † And behold, the curtain of the temple was torn in two, from top to bottom. And the earth shook, and the rocks were split.<sup>52</sup> † The tombs also were opened. And many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised,<sup>53</sup> and coming out of the tombs after his resurrection they went into the holy city and appeared to many.<sup>54</sup> † When the centurion and those who were with him, keeping watch over Jesus, saw the earthquake and what took place, they were filled with awe and said, “Truly this was the Son [9] of God!”

<sup>55</sup> There were also many women there, looking on from a distance, who had followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering to him,<sup>56</sup> † among whom were Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James and Joseph and the mother of the sons of Zebedee.

Jesus Is Buried

<sup>57</sup> † When it was evening, there came a rich man from Arimathea, named Joseph, who also was a disciple of Jesus.<sup>58</sup> He went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. Then Pilate ordered it to be given to him.<sup>59</sup> And Joseph took the body and wrapped it in a clean linen shroud<sup>60</sup> and laid it in his own new tomb, which he had cut in the rock. And he rolled a great stone to the entrance of the tomb and went away.<sup>61</sup> Mary Magdalene and the other Mary were there, sitting opposite the tomb.

The Guard at the Tomb

<sup>62</sup>†The next day, that is, after the day of Preparation, the chief priests and the Pharisees gathered before Pilate <sup>63</sup>and said, “Sir, we remember how that impostor said, while he was still alive, ‘After three days I will rise.’ <sup>64</sup>Therefore order the tomb to be made secure until the third day, lest his disciples go and steal him away and tell the people, ‘He has risen from the dead,’ and the last fraud will be worse than the first.” <sup>65</sup>Pilate said to them, “You have a guard [\[10\]](#) of soldiers. Go, make it as secure as you can.” <sup>66</sup>So they went and made the tomb secure by sealing the stone and setting a guard.

The Resurrection

MATTHEW 28 †Now after the Sabbath, toward the dawn of the first day of the week, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went to see the tomb. <sup>2</sup>†And behold, there was a great earthquake, for an angel of the Lord descended from heaven and came and rolled back the stone and sat on it. <sup>3</sup>His appearance was like lightning, and his clothing white as snow. <sup>4</sup>†And for fear of him the guards trembled and became like dead men. <sup>5</sup>But the angel said to the women, “Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. <sup>6</sup>†He is not here, for he has risen, as he said. Come, see the place where he [\[1\]](#) lay. <sup>7</sup>†Then go quickly and tell his disciples that he has risen from the dead, and behold, he is going before you to Galilee; there you will see him. See, I have told you.” <sup>8</sup>So they departed quickly from the tomb with fear and great joy, and ran to tell his disciples. <sup>9</sup>†And behold, Jesus met them and said, “Greetings!” And they came up and took hold of his feet and worshiped him. <sup>10</sup>†Then Jesus said to them, “Do not be afraid; go and tell my brothers to go to Galilee, and there they will see me.”

The Report of the Guard

<sup>11</sup>†While they were going, behold, some of the guard went into the city and told the chief priests all that had taken place. <sup>12</sup>†And when they had assembled with the elders and taken counsel, they gave a sufficient sum of money to the soldiers <sup>13</sup>†and said, “Tell people, ‘His disciples came by night and stole him away while we were asleep.’ <sup>14</sup>And if this comes to the governor's ears, we will satisfy him and keep you out of trouble.” <sup>15</sup>So they took the money and did as they were directed. And this story has been spread among the Jews to this day.

The Great Commission

<sup>16</sup>†Now the eleven disciples went to Galilee, to the mountain to which Jesus had directed them. <sup>17</sup>†And when they saw him they worshiped him, but some doubted. <sup>18</sup>†And Jesus came and said to them, “All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. <sup>19</sup>†Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in [\[2\]](#) the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, <sup>20</sup>†teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you always, to the end of the age.”

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:1 book of the genealogy of Jesus Christ. This phrase is viewed by some as Matthew’s title for the entire Gospel. The Greek phrase translated “book of the genealogy” is exactly the same phrase used in Gen. 5:1 in the LXX. Jesus. The Hebrew Jeshua means “the Lord is Salvation.” son of David. A messianic title used as such in only the synoptic Gospels (see notes on Matt. 22:42–45). son of Abraham. Takes his royal lineage all the way back to the nation’s inception in the Abrahamic Covenant (Gen. 12:1–3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:2 For a comparison of this genealogy and the one given by Luke, see note on Luke 3:23–38.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:3 Tamar. It is unusual for women to be named in genealogies. Matthew names five: “Tamar” was a Canaanite woman who posed as a prostitute to seduce Judah (Gen. 38:13–30). “Rahab” (Matt. 1:5) was a Gentile and a prostitute (Josh. 2:1). “Ruth” (Matt. 1:5) was a Moabite woman (Ruth 1:3) and a worshiper of idols. “Bathsheba” (“wife of Uriah,” Matt. 1:6) committed adultery with David (2 Sam. 11). And “Mary” (Matt. 1:16) bore the stigma of pregnancy outside of wedlock. Each of these women is an object lesson about the workings of divine grace.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:5–6 Salmon the father of Boaz by Rahab . . . Jesse the father of David the king. This is not an exhaustive genealogy. Several additional generations must have elapsed between Rahab (in Joshua’s time) and David (v. 6)—nearly four centuries later. Matthew’s genealogy (like most of the biblical ones) sometimes skips over several generations between well known characters in order to abbreviate the listing.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:8 Joram the father of Uzziah. Cf. 1 Chron. 3:10–12. Matthew skips over Ahaziah, Joash, and Amaziah, going directly from Joram to Uzziah (Azariah)—using a kind of genealogical shorthand. He seems to do this intentionally in order to make a symmetrical threefold division in Matt. 1:17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:11 Josiah the father of Jeconiah. Again, Matthew skips a generation between Josiah and Jeconiah (cf. 1 Chron. 3:14–16). Jeconiah is also called Jehoiachin (2 Kings 24:6; 2 Chron. 36:8) and sometimes Coniah (Jer. 22:24). Jeconiah's presence in this genealogy presents an interesting dilemma. A curse on him forbade any of his descendants from the throne of David forever (Jer. 22:30). Since Jesus was heir through Joseph to the royal line of descent, but not an actual son of Joseph and thus not a physical descendant through this line, the curse bypassed him.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:12 Shealtiel the father of Zerubbabel. See 1 Chron. 3:17–19, where Zerubbabel is said to be the offspring of Pedaiah, Shealtiel's brother. Elsewhere in the OT, Zerubbabel is always called the son of Shealtiel (e.g., Hag. 1:1; Ezra 3:2; Neh. 12:1). Possibly Shealtiel adopted his nephew (see note on Hag. 2:23). Zerubbabel is the last character in Matthew's list who appears in any of the OT genealogies.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:16 Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom Jesus was born. The pronoun "whom" is singular, referring to Mary alone. The unusual way in which this final entry is phrased underscores the fact that Jesus was not Joseph's literal offspring. The genealogy nonetheless establishes his claim to the throne of David as Joseph's legal heir.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:17 fourteen generations. The significance of the number 14 is not clear, but Matthew's attention to numbers—a distinctly Hebrew characteristic—is evident throughout the Gospel. The systematic ordering may be an aid for memorization. Notice that Matthew counts Jeconiah in both the third and fourth groups, representing both the last generation before the Babylonian captivity and the first generation after.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:18 betrothed. Jewish betrothal was as binding as modern marriage. A divorce was necessary to terminate the betrothal (v. 19) and the betrothed couple were regarded legally as husband and wife (v. 19)—although physical union had not yet taken place. See note on Luke 2:5. with child from the Holy Spirit. See Matt. 1:20, 23 and Luke 1:26–35.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:19 Joseph . . . a just man . . . resolved to divorce her quietly. Stoning was the legal prescription for this sort of adultery (Deut. 22:23–24). Joseph's righteousness meant he was also merciful; thus he did not intend to "disgrace" Mary. The phrase "a just man" is a Hebraism suggesting that he was a true believer in God who had thereby been declared righteous, and who carefully obeyed the law (see Gen. 6:9). To "divorce her" would be to obtain a legal divorce (Matt. 19:8–9; Deut. 24:1), which according to the Jewish custom was necessary in order to dissolve a betrothal (see note on Matt. 1:18).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:20 an angel of the Lord. This is one of only a few such angelic visitations in the NT, most of which are associated with Christ's birth. For others, see 28:2; Acts 5:19; 8:26; 10:3; 12:7–10; 27:23; Rev. 1:1. in a dream. As if to underscore the supernatural character of Christ's advent, Matthew's narrative of the event describes five such revelatory dreams: Matt. 1:20; 2:12, 13, 19, 22. Here the angel told Joseph he was to take Mary into his own home.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:21 Jesus. See v. 25; Luke 1:31. The name actually means "Savior" (see note on Matt. 1:1).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:22 to fulfill. Matthew points out fulfillments of OT prophecies no less than a dozen times (cf. 2:15, 17, 23; 4:14; 8:17; 12:17; 13:14, 35; 21:4; 26:54–56; 27:9, 35). He quotes from the OT more than 60 times, more frequently than any other NT writer except Paul in Romans.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:23 virgin. Scholars sometimes dispute whether the Hebrew term in Isa. 7:14 means "virgin" or "maiden." Matthew is quoting here from the LXX, which uses the unambiguous Greek term for "virgin" (see note on Isa. 7:14). Thus Matthew, writing under the Spirit's inspiration, ends all doubt about the meaning of the word in Isa. 7:14. Immanuel. Cf. Isa. 8:8, 10.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:24 took his wife. See note on Luke 2:5.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:1–2 Bethlehem. A small village on the southern outskirts of Jerusalem. Hebrew scholars in Jesus' day clearly expected Bethlehem to be the birthplace of the Messiah (cf. Mic. 5:2; John 7:42). in the days of Herod the king. This refers to Herod the Great, the first of several important rulers from the Herodian dynasty who are named in Scripture. This Herod, founder of the famous line, ruled from 37–4 B.C. He is thought to have been Idumean, a descendant of the Edomites, offspring of Esau. Herod was ruthless and cunning. He loved opulence and grand building projects, and many of the most magnificent ruins that can be seen in modern Israel date back to the days of Herod the Great. His most famous project was the rebuilding of the temple at Jerusalem (see note on Matt. 24:1). That project alone took several decades and was not completed until long after Herod's death (cf. John 2:20). See note on Matt. 2:22. wise men from the east. The number of wise men is not given. The traditional notion that there were three stems from the number of gifts they brought. These were not kings, but Magi, magicians, or astrologers—possibly Zoroastrian wise men from Persia whose knowledge of the Hebrew Scriptures could be traced back to the time of Daniel (cf. Dan. 5:11). saying. This present participle conveys the idea of continuous action. It suggests they went around the city questioning everyone they met.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:2 star. This could not have been a supernova or a conjunction of planets, as some modern theories suggest, because of the way the star moved and settled over one place (cf. v. 9). It is more likely a supernatural reality similar to the Shekinah that guided the Israelites in the days of Moses (Ex. 13:21).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:4 chief priests. These were the temple hierarchy. They were mostly Sadducees (see note on 3:7). scribes. Primarily Pharisees, i.e., authorities on Jewish law. Sometimes they are referred to as “lawyers” (see note on Luke 10:25). They were professional scholars whose specialty was explaining the application of the law. They knew exactly where the Messiah was to be born (Matt. 2:5), but lacked the faith to accompany the Magi to the place where he was.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:6 This ancient prophecy from Mic. 5:2 was written in the eighth century B.C. The original prophecy, not quoted in full by Matthew, declared the deity of Israel’s Messiah: “from you shall come forth for me one who is to be ruler in Israel, whose coming forth is from of old, from ancient days.” a ruler who will shepherd my people Israel. This portion of Matthew’s quote actually seems to be a reference to God’s words to David when Israel’s kingdom was originally established (2 Sam. 5:2; 1 Chron. 11:2). The Greek word for “ruler” evokes the image of strong, even stern, leadership. “Shepherd” emphasizes tender care. Christ’s rule involves both (cf. Rev. 12:5).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:8 that I too may come and worship him. Herod actually wanted to kill the child (vv. 13–18), whom he saw as a potential threat to his throne.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:11 into the house. By the time the wise men arrived, Mary and Joseph were situated in a house, not a stable (cf. Luke 2:7). the child with Mary his mother. Whenever Matthew mentions Mary in connection with her child, Christ is always given first place (cf. Matt. 2:13–14, 20–21). gold and frankincense and myrrh. Gifts suitable for a king (cf. Isa. 60:6). The fact that Gentiles would offer such worship had prophetic significance as well (Ps. 72:10).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:12–13 in a dream. See note on 1:20.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:15 the death of Herod. Recent scholarship sets this date at 4 B.C. It is probable that the stay in Egypt was very brief—perhaps no more than a few weeks. Out of Egypt. This quotation is from Hos. 11:1 (see note there, which speaks of God’s leading Israel out of Egypt in the exodus. Matthew suggests that Israel’s sojourn in Egypt was a pictorial prophecy rather than a specific verbal one such as Matt. 2:6; cf. 1:23. These are called “types,” and all are always fulfilled in Christ and identified clearly by the NT writers. Another example of a type is found in John 3:14. See note on Matt. 2:17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:16 killed all the male children. Herod’s act is all the more heinous in light of his full knowledge that the Lord’s Anointed One was the target of his murderous plot.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:17 fulfilled. See note on v. 15. Again, this prophecy is in the form of a type. Verse 18 quotes Jer. 31:15 (see note there, which speaks of all Israel’s mourning at the time of the Babylonian captivity (c. 586 B.C.). That wailing prefigured the wailing over Herod’s massacre.

Family Tree of Herod

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:19 in a dream. See note on 1:20.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:22 Archelaus. Herod’s kingdom was divided three ways and given to his sons: Archelaus ruled Judea, Samaria, and Idumea; Herod Philip II ruled the regions north of Galilee (Luke 3:1); and Herod Antipas ruled Galilee and Perea (Luke 3:1). History records that Archelaus was so brutal and ineffective that he was deposed by Rome after a short reign and replaced with a governor appointed by Rome. Pontius Pilate was the fifth governor of Judea. Herod Antipas is the main Herod in the Gospel accounts. He was the one who had John the Baptist put to death (Matt. 14:1–12) and examined Christ on the eve of the crucifixion (Luke 23:7–12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:23 He shall be called a Nazarene. Nazareth, an obscure town 70 miles north of Jerusalem, was a place of lowly reputation, and nowhere mentioned in the OT. Some have suggested that “Nazarene” is a reference to the Hebrew word for branch in Isa. 11:1. Others point out that Matthew’s statement that “prophets” had made this prediction may be a reference to verbal prophecies nowhere recorded in the OT. A still more likely explanation is that Matthew is using “Nazarene” as a synonym for someone who is despised or detestable—for that was how people from the region were often characterized (cf. John 1:46). If that is the case, the prophecies Matthew has in mind would include Ps. 22:6–8; Isa. 49:7; 53:3.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:1 John the Baptist. Cf. Mark 1:2–14; Luke 1:5–25, 57–

80; 3:3–20; John 1:6–8, 19–39. the wilderness of Judea. The region to the immediate west of the Dead Sea—an utterly barren desert. The Jewish sect of the Essenes had significant communities in this region. But there is no biblical evidence to suggest that John was in any way connected with that sect. John seems to have preached near the northern end of this region, close by where the Jordan flows into the Dead Sea (Matt. 3:6). This was a full day’s journey from Jerusalem and seems an odd location to announce the arrival of a King. But it is perfectly in keeping with God’s ways (1 Cor. 1:26–29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:2 Repent. This is no mere academic change of mind, nor mere regret or remorse. John the Baptist spoke of repentance as a radical turning from sin that inevitably became manifest in the fruit of righteousness (v. 8). Jesus’ first sermon began with the same imperative (4:17). For a discussion of the nature of repentance, see notes on 2 Cor. 7:8–11. the kingdom of heaven. This is an expression unique to Matthew’s Gospel. Matthew uses the word “heaven” as a euphemism for God’s name—to accommodate his Jewish readers’ sensitivities (cf. Matt. 23:22). Throughout the rest of Scripture, the kingdom is called “the kingdom of God.” Both expressions refer to the sphere of God’s dominion over those who belong to him. The kingdom is now manifest in heaven’s spiritual rule over the hearts of believers (Luke 17:21); and one day it will be established in a literal earthly kingdom (Rev. 20:4–6). is at hand. In one sense the kingdom is a present reality, but in its fullest sense it awaits a yet-future fulfillment.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:3 spoken of by the prophet Isaiah. John’s mission had long ago been described in Isa. 40:3–5 (see notes there). All four of the Gospels cite this passage as a prophecy pointing to John the Baptist (see note on Luke 3:6).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:4 a garment of camel’s hair and a leather belt. Practical and long-wearing clothes, but far from comfortable or fashionable. John evokes the image of Elijah (2 Kings 1:8)—and the Israelites were expecting Elijah before the day of the Lord (Mal. 4:5). locusts. These were an allowed food (Lev. 11:22).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:6 baptized. The symbolism of John’s baptism likely had its roots in OT purification rituals (cf. Lev. 15:13). Baptism had also long been administered to Gentile proselytes coming into Judaism. The baptism of John thus powerfully and dramatically symbolized repentance. Jews accepting John’s baptism were admitting they had been as Gentiles and needed to become the people of God genuinely, inwardly (an amazing admission, given their hatred of Gentiles). The people were repenting in anticipation of the Messiah's arrival. The meaning of John's baptism differs somewhat from Christian baptism (cf. Acts 18:25). Actually, Christian baptism altered the significance of the ritual, symbolizing the believer's identification with Christ in his death, burial, and resurrection (Rom. 6:3–5; Col. 2:12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:7 Pharisees and Sadducees. See note on John 3:1. The Pharisees were a small (about 6,000), legalistic sect of the Jews who were known for their rigid adherence to the ceremonial fine points of the law. Their name means “separated ones.” Jesus' interaction with the Pharisees was usually adversarial. He rebuked them for using human tradition to nullify Scripture (Matt. 15:3–9), and especially for rank hypocrisy (15:7–8; 22:18; 23:13, 23, 25, 29; Luke 12:1). The Sadducees were known for their denial of things supernatural. They denied the resurrection of the dead (Matt. 22:23) and the existence of angels (Acts 23:8). Unlike the Pharisees, they rejected human tradition and scorned legalism. They accepted only the Pentateuch as authoritative. They tended to be wealthy, aristocratic members of the priestly tribe, and in the days of Herod their sect controlled the temple (see note on Matt. 2:4), though they were fewer in number than the Pharisees. Pharisees and Sadducees had little in common. Pharisees were ritualists; Sadducees were rationalists. Pharisees were legalists; Sadducees were liberals. Pharisees were separatists; Sadducees were compromisers and political opportunists. Yet they united together in their opposition to Christ (22:15–16, 23, 34–35). John publicly addressed them as deadly snakes. the wrath to come. See note on Luke 3:7. John's preaching echoed the familiar OT theme of promised wrath in the day of the Lord (e.g., Ezek. 7:19; Zeph. 1:18; see Introduction to Joel: Historical and Theological Themes). This must have been a particularly stinging rebuke to the Jewish leaders, who imagined that divine wrath was reserved only for non-Jews.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:8 fruit in keeping with repentance. See note on v. 2. Repentance itself is not a work, but works are its inevitable fruit. Repentance and faith are inextricably linked in Scripture. Repentance means turning from one's sin, and faith is turning to God (cf. 1 Thess. 1:9). They are like opposite sides of the same coin. That is why both are linked to conversion (Mark 1:15; Acts 3:19; 20:21). Notice that the works John demanded to see were “fruit” of repentance. But repentance itself is no more a “work” than faith is (see note on 2 Tim. 2:25).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:9 Abraham as our father. See John 8:39–44. They believed that merely being descendants of Abraham, members of God’s chosen race, made them spiritually secure. But Abraham’s real descendants are those who share his faith (cf. Rom. 4:16). And “those of faith . . . are the sons of Abraham” (Gal. 3:7, 29). See note on Luke 3:8.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:10 the axe is laid to the root. Irreversible judgment was imminent (see note on 11:3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:11 Three types of baptism are referred to here: 1) with water for repentance. John’s baptism symbolized cleansing (see note on 3:6); 2) with the Holy Spirit. All believers in Christ are Spirit-baptized (1 Cor. 12:13); and 3) with . . . fire. Because fire is used throughout this context as a means of judgment (Matt. 3:10, 12), this must speak of a baptism of judgment upon the unrepentant.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:12 winnowing fork. A tool for tossing grain into the wind so that the chaff is blown away.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:14 John would have prevented him. John’s baptism symbolized repentance, and John saw this as inappropriate for the One he knew was the spotless Lamb of God (cf. John 1:29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:15 it is fitting for us to fulfill all righteousness. Christ was here identifying himself with sinners. He will ultimately bear their sins; his perfect righteousness will be imputed to them (2 Cor. 5:21). This act of baptism was a necessary part of the righteousness he secured for sinners. This first public event of his ministry is also rich in meaning: 1) it pictured his death and resurrection (cf. Luke 12:50); 2) it therefore prefigured the significance of Christian baptism (see note on Matt. 3:6); 3) it marked his first public identification with those whose sins he would bear (Isa. 53:11; 1 Pet. 3:18); and 4) it was a public affirmation of his messiahship by testimony directly from heaven (see note on Matt. 3:17).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:16–17 Jesus . . . the Spirit of God . . . a voice from heaven. Here all three Persons of the Trinity are clearly delineated. See note on Luke 3:22. The Father’s command to hear his Son and the Spirit’s vindication and empowerment (see note on Matt. 12:31) officially inaugurated Christ’s ministry.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:17 my beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased. This heavenly pronouncement combines language from Ps. 2:7 and Isa. 42:1—prophecies that would have been well known to those with messianic expectations. Cf. Matt. 17:5; Mark 1:11; 9:7; Luke 3:22; 9:35.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:1 led up by the Spirit . . . to be tempted by the devil. God himself is never the agent of temptation (James 1:13), but here—as in the book of Job—God uses even satanic tempting to serve his sovereign purposes. Christ was tempted in all points (Heb. 4:15; 1 John 2:16); Satan tempted him with “the lust of the flesh” (Matt. 4:2–3); “the lust of the eyes” (vv. 8–9); and “the pride of life” (vv. 5–6).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:2 forty days and forty nights. Similarly, Moses was without food or drink on Sinai for “forty days and forty nights” (Deut. 9:9), and Elijah also fasted that long (1 Kings 19:8). See note on Matt. 12:40.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:3 If you are the Son of God. The conditional “if” carries the meaning of “since” in this context. There was no doubt in Satan’s mind who Jesus was; but Satan’s design was to get him to violate the plan of God and employ the divine power that he had set aside in his humiliation (cf. Phil. 2:7).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:4 It is written. All three of Jesus’ replies to the devil were taken from Deuteronomy. This one, from Deut. 8:3, states that God allowed Israel to hunger, so that he might feed them with manna and teach them to trust him to provide for them. So the verse is directly applicable to Jesus’ circumstances and a fitting reply to Satan’s temptation. every word that comes from the mouth of God. A more important source of sustenance than food, it nurtures our spiritual needs in a way that benefits us eternally, rather than merely providing temporal relief from physical hunger.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:5 pinnacle of the temple. This was probably a roof with a portico at the southeast corner of the temple complex, where a massive retaining wall reached from a level well above the temple mount, deep into the Kidron Valley. According to the Jewish historian Josephus, this was a drop of nearly 450 feet.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:6 for it is written . . . lest you strike your foot against a stone. Notice that Satan also quoted Scripture (Ps. 91:11–12)—but utterly twisted its meaning, employing a passage about trusting God to justify testing him.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:7 it is written. Christ replied with another verse from Israel’s wilderness experience (Deut. 6:16)—recalling the experience at Massah, where the grumbling Israelites put the Lord to the test, angrily demanding that Moses produce water where there was none (Ex. 17:2–7).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:9 I will give you. Satan is the “ruler of this world” (John 12:31; 14:30; 16:11), and the “god of this world” (2 Cor. 4:4). The whole world lies in his power (1 John 5:19). This is illustrated in Dan. 10:13 (see note there, where demonic power controlled the kingdom of Persia, so that a demon is called the “prince of the kingdom of Persia.”

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:10 For it is written. Here Christ was citing and paraphrasing Deut. 6:13–14. Again, these relate to the Israelites’ wilderness experiences. Christ, like them, was led into the wilderness to be tested (cf. Deut. 8:2). Unlike them, he withstood every aspect of the test.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:11 angels came and were ministering to him. Psalm 91:11–12—the verse Satan tried to twist—was thus fulfilled in God’s way, and in God’s perfect timing.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:12 John had been arrested. John was imprisoned for his bold rebuke of Herod Antipas. See 14:3–4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:13 leaving Nazareth. Some time elapsed between vv. 12 and 13. Jesus’ stay in Nazareth ended abruptly when he was violently rejected by the people of Nazareth, who tried to murder him (see Luke 4:16–30).

Capernaum. He settled in this important town on the trade route at the north end of the Sea of Galilee. Capernaum was the home of Peter and Andrew (Matt. 4:18), James and John (v. 21), and Matthew (9:9). A comparison of the Gospels reveals that Christ had already ministered extensively in Capernaum (see note on Luke 4:23).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:15 Galilee of the Gentiles. This name was used even in Isaiah’s time because Galilee lay on the route through which all Gentiles passed in and out of Israel. In Jesus’ time, the region of Galilee had become an important center of Roman occupation. The prophecy cited by Matthew is from Isa. 9:1–2. See Isa. 42:6–7.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:17 From that time Jesus began to preach. This marks the beginning of his public ministry. Notice that his message was an exact echo of what John the Baptist preached. Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. See note on 3:2. The opening word of this first sermon sets the tone for Jesus' entire earthly ministry (cf. Luke 5:32). Repentance was a constant motif in all his public preaching. And in his closing charge to the apostles, he commanded them to preach repentance as well (Luke 24:47).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:18 two brothers. Jesus had encountered Peter and Andrew before, near Bethabara, in the Jordan region, where Andrew (and perhaps Peter as well) had become a disciple of John the Baptist (John 1:35–42). They left John to follow Jesus for a time before returning to fishing in Capernaum. Perhaps they had returned to Capernaum during Jesus' earlier ministry here (see note on Luke 4:23). Here he called them to follow him in long-term discipleship.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:21 James the son of Zebedee. This James is easy to distinguish from the other men named James in the NT, because he is never mentioned in Scripture apart from his brother John. His martyrdom by Herod Agrippa I marked the beginning of a time of severe persecution in the early church (Acts 12:2). For information on others named James, see note on Matt. 10:2; Introduction to James: Author and Date.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:23 teaching . . . proclaiming the gospel . . . healing. The three main aspects of Christ's public ministry.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:24 Syria. The area immediately northeast of Galilee.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:25 Decapolis. A confederation of 10 Hellenized cities south of Galilee and mostly east of the Jordan. The league of cities was formed shortly after Pompey's invasion of Palestine (c. 64 B.C.) to preserve Greek culture in the Semitic region. These cities were naturally Gentile strongholds.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:1–7:29 The Sermon on the Mount introduces a series of five important discourses recorded in Matthew (see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes). This sermon is a masterful exposition of the law and a potent assault on Pharisaic legalism, closing with a call to true faith and salvation (7:13–29). Christ expounded the full meaning of the law, showing that its demands were humanly impossible (cf. 5:48). This is the proper use of the law with respect to salvation: it closes off every possible avenue of human merit and leaves sinners dependent on nothing but divine grace for salvation (cf. Rom. 3:19–20; Gal. 3:23–24). Christ plumbed the depth of the law, showing that its true demands went far beyond the surface meaning of the words (Matt. 5:28, 39, 44) and set a standard that is higher than the most diligent students of the law had heretofore realized (5:20). See note on Luke 6:17–49.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:1 he sat down. This was the normal posture for rabbis while teaching (cf. 13:1–2; 26:55; Mark 4:1; 9:35; Luke 5:3; John 6:3; 8:2). See note on Luke 4:20.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:3 Blessed. The word lit., means “happy, fortunate, blissful.” Here it speaks of more than a surface emotion. Jesus was describing the divinely bestowed well-being that belongs only to the faithful. The Beatitudes demonstrate that the way to heavenly blessedness is antithetical to the worldly path normally followed in pursuit of happiness. The worldly idea is that happiness is found in riches, merriment, abundance, leisure, and such things. The real truth is the very opposite. The Beatitudes give Jesus’ description of the character of true faith. poor in spirit. The opposite of self-sufficiency. This speaks of the deep humility of recognizing one’s utter spiritual bankruptcy apart from God. It describes those who are acutely conscious of their own lostness and hopelessness apart from divine grace (cf. 9:12; Luke 18:13). See note on Matt. 19:17. theirs is the kingdom of heaven. See note on 3:2. Notice that the truth of salvation by grace is clearly presupposed in this opening verse of the Sermon on the Mount. Jesus was teaching that the kingdom is a gracious gift to those who sense their own poverty of spirit.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:4 those who mourn. This speaks of mourning over sin, the godly sorrow that produces repentance leading to salvation without regret (2 Cor. 7:10). The “comfort” is the comfort of forgiveness and salvation (cf. Isa. 40:1–2).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:5 the meek. Gentleness or meekness is the opposite of being out of control. It is not weakness, but supreme self-control empowered by the Spirit (cf. Gal. 5:23). The statement that the meek “shall inherit the earth” is quoted from Ps. 37:11.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:6 hunger and thirst for righteousness. This is the opposite of the self-righteousness of the Pharisees. It speaks of those who seek God's righteousness rather than attempting to establish a righteousness of their own (Rom. 10:3; Phil. 3:9). What they seek will fill them, i.e., it will satisfy their hunger and thirst for a right relationship with God.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:7 they shall receive mercy. The converse is also true. Cf. James 2:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:8 see God. Not only with the perception of faith, but in the glory of heaven. Cf. Heb. 12:14 and Rev. 22:3–4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:9 peacemakers. See vv. 44–45 for more on this quality.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:10 persecuted. Cf. James 5:10–11 and 1 Pet. 4:12–14. See note on Luke 6:22.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:13 salt . . . lost its taste, how shall its saltiness be restored? Salt is both a preservative and a flavor enhancer. No doubt its use as a preservative is what Jesus had mostly in view here. Pure salt cannot lose its flavor or effectiveness, but the salt that is common in the Dead Sea area is contaminated with gypsum and other minerals and may have a flat taste or be ineffective as a preservative. Such mineral salts were useful for little more than keeping footpaths free of vegetation.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:16 light shine. A godly life gives convincing testimony of the saving power of God. That brings him glory. Cf. 1 Pet. 2:12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:17 Do not think . . . abolish the Law or the Prophets. Jesus was neither giving a new law nor modifying the old, but rather explaining the true significance of the moral content of Moses' law and the rest of the OT. "The Law or the Prophets" speaks of the entirety of the OT Scriptures, not the rabbinical interpretations of them. fulfill. This speaks of fulfillment in the same sense that prophecy is fulfilled. Christ was indicating that he is the fulfillment of the law in all its aspects. He fulfilled the moral law by keeping it perfectly. He fulfilled the ceremonial law by being the embodiment of everything the law's types and symbols pointed to. And he fulfilled the judicial law by personifying God's perfect justice (cf. 12:18, 20).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:18 until heaven and earth pass away . . . until all is accomplished. Here Christ was affirming the utter inerrancy and absolute authority of the OT as the word of God—down to the smallest stroke or letter.

Again (see note on v. 17), this suggests that the NT should not be seen as supplanting and abrogating the OT, but as fulfilling and explicating it. For example, all the ceremonial requirements of the Mosaic law were fulfilled in Christ and are no longer to be observed by Christians (Col. 2:16–17). Yet not the smallest letter or stroke is thereby erased; the underlying truths of those Scriptures remain—and in fact the mysteries behind them are now revealed in the brighter light of the gospel. not an iota, not a dot. An “iota” refers to the smallest Hebrew letter, the yohd, which is a meager stroke of the pen, like an accent mark or an apostrophe. The “dot” is a tiny extension on a Hebrew letter, like the serif in modern typefaces.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:19 will be called least . . . will be called great. The consequence of practicing or teaching disobedience of any of God’s word is to be called least in the kingdom of heaven (see note on James 2:10). Determining rank in the kingdom of heaven is entirely God’s prerogative (cf. Matt. 20:23), and Jesus declares that he will hold those in lowest esteem who hold his word in low esteem. There is no impunity for believers who disobey, discredit, or belittle God’s law (see note on 2 Cor. 5:10). That Jesus does not refer to loss of salvation is clear from the fact that, though offenders will be called least, they will still be in the kingdom of heaven. The positive result is that whoever keeps and teaches God’s word, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. Here again Jesus mentions the two aspects of doing and teaching. Kingdom citizens are to uphold every part of God’s law both in their living and in their teaching.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:20 unless your righteousness exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees. On the one hand, Jesus was calling his disciples to a deeper, more radical holiness than that of the Pharisees. Pharisaism had a tendency to soften the law’s demands by focusing only on external obedience. In the verses that follow, Jesus unpacks the full moral significance of the law and shows that the righteousness the law calls for actually involves an internal conformity to the spirit of the law, rather than mere external compliance to the letter. will never enter the kingdom of heaven. On the other hand, this sets up an impossible barrier to works-salvation. Scripture teaches repeatedly that sinners are capable of nothing but a flawed and imperfect righteousness (e.g., Isa. 64:6). Therefore the only righteousness by which sinners may be justified is the perfect righteousness of God that is imputed to those who believe (Gen. 15:6; Rom. 4:5).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:21–22 You have heard . . . But I say to you. See vv. 27, 31, 33, 38, 43. The quotes are from Ex. 20:13; Deut. 5:17. Jesus was not altering the terms of the law in any of these passages. Rather, he was correcting what they had “heard”—the rabbinical understanding of the law (see note on Matt. 5:38).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:22 You fool! Lit., “empty-headed.” Jesus suggested here that the verbal abuse stems from the same sinful motives (anger and hatred) that ultimately lead to murder. The internal attitude is what the law actually prohibits, and therefore an abusive insult carries the same kind of moral guilt as an act of murder. hell. A reference to the Hinnom Valley, southwest of Jerusalem. Ahaz and Manasseh permitted human sacrifices there during their reigns (2 Chron. 28:3; 33:6), and therefore it was called “the Valley of Slaughter” (Jer. 19:6). In Jesus’ day, it was a garbage dump where fires burned continually and was thus an apt symbol of eternal fire.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:25 Come to terms quickly. Jesus calls for reconciliation to be sought eagerly, aggressively, quickly—even if it involves self-sacrifice. It is better to be wronged than to allow a dispute between brethren to be a cause for dishonoring Christ (1 Cor. 6:7). accuser. This speaks of one’s adversary in a law case. prison. Debtor’s prison, where the person could work to earn back what he had defrauded.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:27 Quoted from Ex. 20:14 and Deut. 5:18.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:29 tear it out and throw it away. Jesus was not advocating self-mutilation (for this would not in fact cure lust, which is actually a problem of the heart). He was using this graphic hyperbole to demonstrate the seriousness of sins of lust and evil desire. The point is that it would be “better” (v. 30) to lose a member of one’s own body than to bear the eternal consequences of the guilt from such a sin. Sin must be dealt with drastically because of its deadly effects.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:31 It was also said. See note on Deut. 24:1–4. The rabbis had taken liberty with what Scripture actually said. They referred to Deut. 24:1–4 as if it were given merely to regulate the paperwork when one sought divorce (see note on Matt. 19:7). Thus, they had wrongly concluded that men could divorce their wives for anything that displeased them, as long as they gave “a certificate of divorce.” But Moses provided this as a concession to protect the woman who was divorced (see notes on 19:7–9), not to justify or legalize divorce under all circumstances.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:32 except . . . sexual immorality. See note on 19:9. Divorce was allowed in cases of adultery. Luke 16:18 must be understood in the light of this verse. makes her commit adultery. The assumption is that divorced people will remarry. If the divorce was not for sexual immorality, any remarriage is adultery, because God does not acknowledge the divorce. For more on divorce, see note on 1 Cor. 7:15.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:33 You shall not swear falsely. This expresses teaching from Lev. 19:12; Num. 30:2; Deut. 23:21, 23.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:34 Do not take an oath at all. Cf. James 5:12. This should not be taken as a universal condemnation of oaths in all circumstances. God himself confirmed a promise with an oath (Heb. 6:13–18; cf. Acts 2:30). Christ himself spoke under oath (Matt. 26:63–64). And the law prescribed oaths in certain circumstances (e.g., Num. 5:19, 21; 30:2–3). What Christ is forbidding here is the flippant, profane, or careless use of oaths in everyday speech. In that culture, such oaths were often employed for deceptive purposes. To make the person being victimized believe the truth was being told, the Jews would swear by “heaven,” “earth,” “Jerusalem,” or their own “heads” (Matt. 5:34–36), not by God, hoping to avoid divine judgment for their lie. But it all was in God’s creation, so it drew him in and produced guilt before him, exactly as if the oath were made in his name. Jesus suggested that all our speech should be as if we were under an oath to tell the truth (v. 37).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:38 An eye for an eye. The law did establish this standard as a principle for limiting retribution to that which was just (Ex. 21:24; Lev. 24:20; Deut. 19:21). Its design was to ensure that the punishment in civil cases fit the crime. It was never meant to sanction acts of personal retaliation. So again (see notes on Matt. 5:17–18) Jesus made no alteration to the true meaning of the law. He was merely explaining and affirming the law’s true meaning.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:39 Do not resist the one who is evil. Like v. 38, this deals only with matters of personal retaliation, not criminal offenses or acts of military aggression. Jesus applied this principle of non-retaliation to affronts against one’s dignity (v. 39), lawsuits to gain one’s personal assets (v. 40), infringements on one’s liberty (v. 41), and violations of property rights (v. 42). He was calling for a full surrender of all personal rights.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:41 forces. The word speaks of coercion. The NT picture of this is when Roman soldiers forced Simon the Cyrene to carry Jesus' cross (27:32).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:43 love your neighbor and hate your enemy. The first half of this is found in Moses' law (Lev. 19:18). The second part was found in how the scribes and Pharisees explained and applied that OT command. Jesus' application was exactly the opposite, resulting in a much higher standard: love for one's neighbors should extend even to those neighbors who are enemies (Matt. 5:44). Again, this was no innovation, since even the OT taught that God's people should do good to their enemies (Prov. 25:21).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:44–45 Love your enemies . . . that you may be sons of your Father. This plainly teaches that God's love extends even to his enemies. This universal love of God is manifest in blessings which God bestows on all indiscriminately. Theologians refer to this as common grace. This must be distinguished from the everlasting love God has for the elect (Jer. 31:3), but it is a sincere goodwill nonetheless (cf. Ps. 145:9).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:46 tax collectors. Disloyal Israelites hired by the Romans to tax other Jews for personal profit. They became symbols for the worst kind of people. Cf. 9:10–11; 11:19; 18:17; 21:31; Mark 2:14–16; Luke 5:30; 7:25, 29, 34; 18:11–13. Matthew had been one of them (see notes on Matt. 9:9; Mark 2:15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:48 You therefore must be perfect. Christ sets an unattainable standard. This sums up what the law itself demanded (James 2:10). Though this standard is impossible to meet, God could not lower it without compromising his own perfection. He who is perfect could not set an imperfect standard of righteousness. The marvelous truth of the gospel is that Christ has met this standard on our behalf (see note on 2 Cor. 5:21).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:1–18 Here Christ expands the thought of 5:20, showing how the Pharisees' righteousness was deficient by exposing their hypocrisy in the matters of giving to the poor (6:1–4); prayer (vv. 5–15); and fasting (vv. 16–18). All of these acts are supposed to be worship rendered to God, never displays of self-righteousness to gain the admiration of others.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:2 hypocrites. This word had its origins in Greek theater, describing a character who wore a mask. The term, as used in the NT, normally described an unregenerate person who was self-deceived. they have received their reward. Cf. vv. 5 and 16. Their reward is that they were seen by men, nothing more. God does not reward hypocrisy, but he does punish it (cf. 23:13–23).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:4 sees in secret. Cf. vv. 6, 18; Jer. 17:10; Heb. 4:13. God is omniscient.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:7 empty phrases. Prayers are not to be merely recited, nor are our words to be repeated thoughtlessly, or as if they were automatic formulas. But this is not a prohibition against importunity (see notes on Luke 11:1–8).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:9 like this. Cf. Luke 11:2–4. The prayer is a model, not merely a liturgy. It is notable for its brevity, simplicity, and comprehensiveness. Of the six petitions, three are directed to God (Matt. 6:9–10) and three toward human needs (vv. 11–13).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:10 your will be done. All prayer, first of all, willingly submits to God’s purposes, plans, and glory. See note on 26:39.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:12 forgive us our debts. The parallel passage (Luke 11:4) uses a word that means “sins,” so that in context, spiritual debts are intended. Sinners are debtors to God for their violations of his laws (see notes on Matt. 18:23–27). This request is the heart of the prayer; it is what Jesus stressed in the words that immediately follow the prayer (6:14–15; cf. Mark 11:25).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:13 lead us not into temptation. Cf. Luke 22:40. God does not tempt men (James 1:13), but he will subject them to trials that may expose them to Satan’s assaults, as in the case of Job and Peter (Luke 22:31–32). This petition reflects the believing one’s desire to avoid the dangers of sin altogether. God knows what one’s need is before one asks (Matt. 6:8), and he promises that no one will be subjected to testing beyond what can be endured. He also promises a way of escape—often through endurance (1 Cor. 10:13). But still, the proper attitude for the believer is the one expressed in this petition.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:15 neither will your Father forgive your trespasses. This is not to suggest that God will withdraw justification from those who have already received the free pardon he extends to all believers. Forgiveness in that sense—a permanent and complete acquittal from the guilt and ultimate penalty of sin—belongs to all who are in Christ (cf. John 5:24; Rom. 8:1; Eph. 1:7). Yet, Scripture also teaches that God chastens his children who disobey (Heb. 12:5–7). Believers are to confess their sins in order to obtain a day-to-day cleansing (1 John 1:9). This sort of forgiveness is a simple washing from the worldly defilements of sin, not a repeat of the wholesale cleansing from sin’s corruption that comes with justification. It is like a washing of the feet rather than a bath (cf. John 13:10). Forgiveness in this latter sense is what God threatens to withhold from Christians who refuse to forgive others (cf. Matt. 18:23–35).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:16–17 when you fast. This indicates that fasting is assumed to be a normal part of one’s spiritual life (cf. 1 Cor. 7:5). Fasting is associated with sadness (Matt. 9:14–15), prayer (17:21), charity (Isa. 58:3–6), and seeking the Lord’s will (Acts 13:2–3; 14:23).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:20 treasures. Don’t amass earthly wealth. Jesus commends the use of financial assets for purposes which are heavenly and eternal. See notes on Luke 16:1–9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:22–23 This is an argument from the lesser to the greater. The analogy is simple. If your eye is bad, no light can come in and you are left with darkness because of that malady. How much worse when the problem is not merely related to external perception, but an internal corruption of one’s whole nature, so that the darkness actually emanates from within and affects one’s whole being. Jesus was indicting them for their superficial earthly religion that left their hearts dark. See note on Luke 11:34.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:24 money. Earthly, material treasures. See note on Luke 16:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:26 your heavenly Father feeds them. Obviously this in no way advocates a sinful kind of idleness (Prov. 19:15). Birds are not idle, either. But it is God who provides them with food to eat.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:29 Solomon in all his glory. The glory and pageantry of Solomon’s kingdom was famous worldwide. Cf. 2 Chron. 9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:30 you of little faith. Cf. 8:26; 14:31; 16:8; 17:20. This was the Lord’s recurring rebuke of the weak disciples.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:32 Gentiles. I.e., those outside the people of promise and outside the blessing of God. Cf. Eph. 4:17–19.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:33 the kingdom. This is the same as the kingdom of heaven. See note on 3:2. It refers to the sphere of salvation. Jesus was urging them to seek salvation—and with it would come the full care and provision of God. Cf. Rom. 8:32; Phil. 4:19; 1 Pet. 5:7.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:1 Judge not. As the context reveals, this does not prohibit all types of judging (v. 16). There is a righteous kind of judgment we are supposed to exercise with careful discernment (John 7:24). Censorious, hypocritical, self-righteous, or other kinds of unfair judgments are forbidden; but in order to fulfill the commandments that follow, it is necessary to discern dogs and swine (Matt. 7:6) from one's own brethren (vv. 3–5).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:6 Do not give dogs what is holy. This principle is why Jesus himself did not do miracles for unbelievers (13:58). This is to be done in respect for what is holy, not merely out of contempt for the dogs and swine. Nothing here contradicts the principle of 5:44. That verse governs personal dealings with one's enemies (see note there); this principle governs how one handles the gospel in the face of those who hate the truth.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:11 you . . . are evil. Jesus presupposes the doctrine of human depravity (see note on Rom. 1:18–3:20). how much more. If earthly fathers give what their sons need (Matt. 7:9–10), will not God give to his sons what they ask (vv. 7–8)? See note on James 1:17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:12 whatever you wish that others would do to you. Versions of the “Golden Rule” existed before Christ, in the rabbinic writings and even in Hinduism and Buddhism. All of them cast the rule as a negative command, such as Rabbi Hillel's version, “What is hateful to yourself do not to someone else.” Jesus made it a positive command, enriching its meaning and underscoring that this one imperative aptly summarizes the whole gist of the ethical principles contained in the Law and the Prophets.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:13–29 This closing section of the Sermon on the Mount is a gospel application. Here are two gates, two ways, two destinations, and two groups of people (vv. 13–14); two kinds of trees and two kinds of fruit (vv. 17–20); two groups at the judgment (vv. 21–23); and two kinds of builders, building on two kinds of foundations (vv. 24–28). Christ is drawing the line as clearly as possible between the way that leads to destruction and the way that leads to life.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:13–14 Both the narrow gate and the wide gate are assumed to provide the entrance to God’s kingdom. Two ways are offered to people. The narrow gate is by faith, only through Christ, constricted and precise. It represents true salvation in God’s way that leads to life eternal. The wide gate includes all religions of works and self-righteousness, with no single way (cf. Acts 4:12), but it leads to hell, not heaven.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:14 gate is narrow. Christ continually emphasized the difficulty of following him (10:38; 16:24–25; John 15:18–19; 16:1–3; cf. Acts 14:22). Salvation is by grace alone, but is not easy. It calls for knowledge of the truth, repentance, submission to Christ as Lord, and a willingness to obey his will and word. See notes on Matt. 19:16–28.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:15 false prophets. These deceive not by disguising themselves as sheep, but by impersonating true shepherds. They promote the wide gate and the wide way. sheep’s clothing. This may refer to the woolen attire that was the characteristic garb of a shepherd.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:16 You will recognize them by their fruits. See note on 3:8. False doctrine cannot restrain the flesh, so false prophets manifest wickedness. Cf. 2 Pet. 2:12–22.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:21 Not everyone who says . . . but the one who does. The barrenness of this sort of faith demonstrates its real character (cf. v. 20)—the faith that says but does not do is really unbelief. Jesus was not suggesting that works are meritorious for salvation, but that true faith will not fail to produce the fruit of good works. This is precisely the point of James 1:22–25 and 2:26.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:22 did we not prophesy . . . cast out demons . . . do many mighty works? Notice that far from being totally devoid of works of any kind, these people were claiming to have done some remarkable signs and wonders. In fact, their whole confidence was in these works—further proof that these works, spectacular as they might have appeared, could not have been authentic. No one so bereft of genuine faith could possibly produce true good works. A bad tree cannot bear good fruit (v. 18).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:23 lawlessness. All sin is lawlessness (1 John 3:4), i.e., rebellion against the law of God (cf. Matt. 13:41).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:24–27 The house represents a religious life; the rain represents divine judgment. Only the house built on the foundation of obedience to God’s word stands, which calls for repentance, rejection of salvation by works, and trust in God’s grace to save through his merciful provision. See notes on James 1:22–25.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:29 not as their scribes. The scribes quoted others to establish the authority of their teachings; Jesus was his own authority (28:18). This matter of authority was a major issue between Jesus and the Jews, who felt their authority challenged. See note on 21:23. Cf. Mark 1:22; 11:28–33; Luke 4:32; 20:2–8; John 12:49–50; 14:10.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:1 down from the mountain. Cf. 5:1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:2 if you will. He had no doubt about Christ’s power, only his will (cf. Mark 1:40–45).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:4 say nothing to anyone. Publicity over such miracles might hinder Christ’s mission and divert public attention from his message. Mark records that this is precisely what happened. In this man’s exuberance over the miracle, he disobeyed; as a result, Christ had to move his ministry away from the city and into the desert regions (Mark 1:45). the gift that Moses commanded. A sacrifice of two birds, one of which was killed and the other set free (Lev. 14:4–7). a proof to them. I.e., the priests.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:5 Capernaum. See note on 4:13. centurion. A Roman military officer who commanded (cf. v. 9) 100 men. Luke indicates that the centurion appealed to Jesus through intermediaries (Luke 7:3–6)—because of his own sense of unworthiness (Matt. 8:8; cf. Luke 7:7). Matthew makes no mention of the intermediaries.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:8 I am not worthy to have you come under my roof. Jewish tradition held that a person who entered a Gentile’s house was ceremonially defiled (cf. John 18:28). The centurion, undoubtedly familiar with this law, felt unworthy of having Jesus suffer such an inconvenience for his sake. He also had faith enough to know that Christ could heal by merely speaking a word (see note on Matt. 8:10).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:10 with no one in Israel have I found such faith. This centurion understood Jesus' absolute authority (vv. 8–9). Even some of Jesus' own disciples did not see things so clearly (cf. v. 26).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:11 many . . . from east and west. Gentiles, in the kingdom with Abraham, will enjoy salvation and the blessing of God (cf. Isa. 49:8–12; 59:19; Mal. 1:11; Luke 13:28–29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:12 sons of the kingdom. The Hebrew nation, physical heirs of Abraham. will be thrown into. This was exactly opposite to the rabbinical understanding, which suggested that the kingdom would feature a great feast in the company of Abraham and the Messiah—open to Jews only. weeping and gnashing. See note on 22:13. Cf. 24:51; 25:30; Luke 13:28. This expression describes the eternal agonies of those in hell.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:13 as you have believed. Sometimes faith was involved in the Lord's healings (in this case not by the one being healed, as in 9:2; 15:28); other times it was not a factor (8:14–16; Luke 22:51).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:16 oppressed by demons. This means “demonized,” or under the internal control of a demon. All of the cases of demonization dealt with by Christ involved the actual indwelling of demons who utterly controlled the bodies of their victims, even to the point of speaking through them (Mark 5:5–9), causing derangement (John 10:20), violence (Luke 8:29), or rendering them mute (Mark 9:17–22).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:17 spoken by the prophet Isaiah. See note on healing and the atonement at Isa. 53:4–5. Matthew was citing that passage here. Christ bore both the guilt and the curse of sin (cf. Gal. 3:13). Both physical healing and ultimate victory over death are guaranteed by Christ's atoning work, but these will not be fully realized until the very end (1 Cor. 15:26).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:18 the other side. The eastern shore of the lake.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:19 a scribe. As a scribe, this man was breaking with his fellow scribes by publicly declaring his willingness to follow Jesus. Nonetheless, Jesus evidently knew that he had not counted the cost in terms of suffering and inconvenience.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:20 Son of Man. See notes on Mark 2:10 and John 1:51.

This is the name Jesus used for himself more than any other. It is used 83 times in the Gospels, always by Jesus himself. It was a messianic title (Dan. 7:13–14), with an obvious reference to the humanity and the humility of Christ. Yet, it also speaks of his everlasting glory, as Dan. 7:13–14 shows (cf. Matt. 24:27; Acts 7:56).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:21 let me first go and bury my father. This does not mean that the man’s father was already dead. The phrase “I must bury my father” was a common figure of speech meaning, “Let me wait until I receive my inheritance.”

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:22 leave the dead to bury their own dead. Let the world (the spiritually dead) take care of mundane things.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:24 there arose a great storm. The Sea of Galilee is more than 690 feet below sea level. To the north, Mount Hermon rises 9,200 feet, and from May to October strong winds often sweep through the narrow surrounding gorges into this valley, causing extremely sudden and violent storms. he was asleep. Just before the disciples saw one of the most awesome displays of his deity, they were given a touching picture of his humanity. He was so weary that not even the violent tossing of the boat awakened him—even though the disciples feared they would drown (v. 25).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:26 you of little faith. See note on 6:30. calm. Cf. Ps. 65:7 and 89:9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:27 winds and sea obey him. This was convincing proof of his deity (cf. Ps. 29:3–4; 89:9; 93:4; 107:25–29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:28 country of the Gadarenes. This refers to a small town on the lake opposite Tiberius, perhaps where the modern village of Khera (Kursi) is located. Some ancient tombs are there, and the shoreline descends steeply into the water, exactly matching the description of the terrain in this account. two demon-possessed men. Mark 5:2 and Luke 8:27 mention only one of the men. Evidently one was more dominant than the other.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:29 to torment us before the time? Evidently, even the demons not only recognized the deity of Jesus, but also knew there was a divinely appointed time for their judgment and he would be their judge. Their eschatology was factually correct, but it is one thing to know the truth, and quite another thing to love it (cf. James 2:19).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:30 herd of many pigs. Mark 5:13 adds that there were 2,000 in this herd. Such a large herd of unclean animals suggests that Gentiles dominated the region. It also suggests that the number of demons was large (cf. Mark 5:9).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:31 the demons begged him. Luke 8:31 relates they pleaded not to be sent into the abyss, meaning the pit, the underworld, the prison of bound demons who disobeyed (see notes on 2 Pet. 2:4; Jude 6). They knew Jesus had the power and authority to send them there if he desired.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:34 begged him to leave. Perhaps they were concerned with the financial impact from the loss of the pigs. More likely, they were all ungodly people frightened to be in the presence of such spiritual power (cf. Mark 5:14–15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:1 his own city. Capernaum (see note on 4:13). Jesus had left there to get away from the crowds for a time (8:18).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:2 your sins are forgiven. The fact that the man was brought on a bed indicates that his paralysis was severe. Jesus' words of forgiveness may indicate that the paralysis was a direct consequence of the man's own sin. Cf. John 9:1–3; see notes on Luke 5:20–26.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:3 This man is blaspheming. This would be a true judgment about anyone but God incarnate, for only the One who has been sinned against has the prerogative to forgive. Jesus' words to the man were therefore an unequivocal claim of divine authority.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:4 knowing their thoughts. Cf. 12:25 and John 2:24. Though the Lord Jesus humbled himself (Phil. 2:4–8) and set aside the independent use of his divine prerogatives in incarnation (John 5:30), he was still fully God and, therefore, omniscient. See Mark 13:32 and Luke 2:52.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:5 which is easier. It is certainly easier to claim the power to pronounce absolution from sin than to demonstrate the power to heal. Christ actually proved his power to forgive by instantly healing the man of his paralysis. If he could do the apparently harder, he could also do what seemed easier. The actual forgiving of the sins was in reality the more difficult task, however, because it ultimately required him to sacrifice his life.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:9 sitting at the tax booth. Matthew's own humility is seen here. He did not disguise his past or make any excuse for it. Whereas Mark 2:14 and Luke 5:27 employ his former name, Levi, Matthew himself used the name by which he was known after becoming a disciple (cf. Mark 3:18; Luke 6:15). Tax collectors were among the most despised persons in this society. The money they collected was often partly extorted for personal gain (cf. Luke 19:8) and partly a tax for Rome, which made them not only thieves, but also traitors to the Jewish nation (see notes on Matt. 5:46; Mark 2:15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:11 tax collectors. See note on 5:46.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:12 well . . . sick. The Pharisees thought they were well—religiously pure and whole. The outcasts knew they were not. Salvation can't come to the self-righteous.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:13 Go and learn what this means. This phrase was commonly used as a rebuke for those who did not know something they should have known. The verse Jesus cites is Hos. 6:6 (cf. 1 Sam. 15:22; Mic. 6:6–8), which emphasizes the absolute priority of the law's moral standards over the ceremonial requirements. The Pharisees tended to focus on the outward, ritual, and ceremonial aspects of God's law—to the neglect of its inward, eternal, and moral precepts. In doing so, they became harsh, judgmental, and self-righteously scornful of others. Jesus repeated this same criticism in Matt. 12:7.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:14 disciples of John. Luke implies that the Pharisees asked this question (see note on Luke 5:33; cf. Mark 2:18–20). Evidently, some Pharisees were still present when John's disciples came. Both groups together may have asked this question. the Pharisees fast. Cf. Luke 18:12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:15 then they will fast. See note on 6:16–17. Using the analogy of a wedding party, Jesus answered that as long as Christ was present with them, there was too much joy for fasting, which was connected to seasons of sorrow and intense prayer.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:16 unshrunk cloth on an old garment. That new cloth does not work on old material is analogous to trying to patch New Covenant truth onto old Mosaic ceremonial forms.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:17 new wine put into old wineskins. Animal skins were used for fermentation of wine because of their elasticity. As the wine fermented, pressure built up, stretching the wineskin. A previously stretched skin lacked elasticity and would rupture, ruining both wine and wineskin. Jesus used this as an illustration to teach that the forms of old rituals, such as the ceremonial fastings practiced by the Pharisees and John’s disciples, were not fit for the new wine of the New Covenant era (cf. Col. 2:17). In both analogies (Matt. 9:16–17), the Lord was saying that what the Pharisees did in fasting or any other ritual had no part with the gospel.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:18 ruler. Jairus (Mark 5:22; Luke 8:41) was a ruler of the synagogue.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:20 discharge of blood for twelve years. This woman’s affliction not only was serious physically but also left her permanently unclean for ceremonial reasons (cf. Lev. 15:25–27). This meant she would have been shunned by all, including her own family, and excluded from both synagogue and temple. the fringe of his garment. Cf. Matt. 14:36. Probably one of the tassels that were sown to the corners of a garment in order to remind the wearer to obey God’s commandments (Num. 15:38–40; Deut. 22:12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:22 made you well. Lit., “saved you.”

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:23 flute players . . . crowd making a commotion. Typical fixtures at a time of mourning in that culture (cf. 2 Chron. 35:25). The crowd at a funeral usually included professional mourners, women whose task it was to wail plaintively while reciting the name of the departed one, as well as any other loved ones who had died recently. The result was a noisy, chaotic din.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:24 sleeping. Jesus was not saying that her death was a misdiagnosis. This was a prophecy that she would live again. He made a similar comment about Lazarus’s death (John 11:11)—and then had to explain to the disciples that he was speaking metaphorically (John 11:14). Sleep is a designation for death in the NT (cf. 1 Cor. 11:30; 15:51; 1 Thess. 5:10). they laughed at him. How quickly their paid act of mourning turned to derision!

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:27 Son of David. Cf. 1:1; 12:23; 21:9, 15. A messianic title (see note on 1:1). See 20:29–34 for a remarkably similar, but separate, account.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:29 According to your faith. See note on 8:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:30 See that no one knows. See note on 8:4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:34 the prince of demons. The Pharisees had seen enough of Jesus' power to know it was God's power. But, in their willful unbelief, they said his was the power of Satan. See note on 12:24; cf. 25:41; Mark 3:22; Luke 11:15.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:35 every disease and . . . affliction. Jesus banished illness in an unprecedented healing display, giving impressive evidence of his deity, and making the Jews' rejection all the more heinous. See note on 12:15.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:36 he had compassion for them. Here the humanity of Christ allowed expression of his attitude toward sinners in terms of human passion. He was moved with compassion. Whereas God, who is immutable, is not subject to the rise and fall and change of emotions (Num. 23:19), Christ, who was fully human with all the faculties of humanity, was on occasion moved to literal tears over the plight of sinners (Luke 19:41; see note on Luke 13:34). God himself expressed similar compassion through the prophets (Ex. 33:19; Ps. 86:15; Jer. 9:1; 13:17; 14:17). they were harassed and helpless. The people's spiritual needs were even more desperate than the need for physical healing. Meeting that need would require more laborers (Matt. 9:37).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:37 harvest. Cf. Luke 10:1–2. This was for the ultimate purpose that they might come to him and escape the harvest of judgment they could not otherwise avoid. There will be a harvest of damnation for those not in the harvest of salvation.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:38 therefore pray. Jesus affirmed the fact that believers' prayers participate in the fulfillment of God's plans.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:1–2 disciples . . . apostles. “Disciple” means “student,” one who is being taught by another. “Apostle” refers to a qualified representative who is sent on a mission. The two terms emphasize different aspects of their calling.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:1 gave them authority. See note on 2 Cor. 12:12. Jesus delegated his power and authority to the apostles to show clearly that he and his kingdom were sovereign over the physical and spiritual realms, the effects of sin, and the efforts of Satan. This was an unheard of display of power, never before seen in all redemptive history, to announce Messiah’s arrival and authenticate him plus his apostles who preached his gospel. This power was a preview of the power Christ will exhibit in his earthly kingdom, when Satan will be bound (Rev. 20) and the curse on physical life curtailed (Isa. 65:20–25).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:2 The names of the twelve apostles. The Twelve are always listed in a similar order (cf. Mark 3:16–19; Luke 6:13–16; Acts 1:13). Peter is always named first. The list contains three groups of four. The three subgroups are always listed in the same order, and the first name in each subgroup is always the same, though there is some variation in the order within the subgroups—but Judas Iscariot is always named last. Peter . . . Andrew . . . James . . . John. The first subgroup of four are the most familiar to us. These two sets of brothers, all fishermen, represent an inner circle of disciples often seen closest to Jesus (see note on Matt. 17:1).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:3 James the son of Alphaeus. There are four men in the NT named James: 1) the apostle James, brother of John (see note on 4:21); 2) the disciple mentioned here, also called “James the younger” (Mark 15:40); 3) James, father of Judas (not Iscariot, Luke 6:16); and 4) James, the Lord’s half-brother (Gal. 1:19; Mark 6:3), who wrote the epistle that bears the name. He also played a leading role in the early Jerusalem church (Acts 12:17; 15:13; Gal. 1:19). Thaddaeus. Elsewhere he is called Judas, son of James (Luke 6:16; Acts 1:13).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:4 Simon the Cananaean. The Cananaeans were the party of the Zealots, a group determined to overthrow Roman domination in Palestine. Simon was probably a member of the Zealot party before coming to Christ. See note on Mark 3:18.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:5–11:1 This is the second of five major discourses recorded in Matthew (see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:5 Go nowhere among the Gentiles. Christ did not forbid the disciples to preach to Gentiles or Samaritans if they encountered them on the way, but they were to take the message first to the covenant people, in the regions nearby (cf. Rom. 1:16).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:6 lost sheep of the house of Israel. Cf. 15:24 and Jer. 50:6. Jesus narrowed this priority even more when he said the gospel was only for those who knew they were spiritually sick (Matt. 9:13) and needed a physician (Luke 5:31–32).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:7 at hand. See note on 3:2.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:8 You received without paying; give without pay. Jesus was giving them great power, to heal the sick and raise the dead. If they sold these gifts for money, they could have made quite a fortune. But that would have obscured the message of grace Christ sent them to preach. So he forbade them to charge money for their ministry. Yet they were permitted to accept support to meet their basic needs, for a workman is worthy of such support (v. 10).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:9–10 See note on Luke 9:3. The restrictions on what they were to carry were unique for this mission. See Luke 22:36 where, on a later mission, Christ gave completely different instructions. The point here was to teach them to trust the Lord to supply their needs through the generosity of the people to whom they ministered, and to teach those who received the blessing of their ministry to support the servants of Christ. Cf. 1 Tim. 5:18.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:13 peace. This is equivalent to the Hebrew shalom and refers to prosperity, well-being, or blessing.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:14 listen to your words. The priority was to preach that the King had come and his kingdom was near. The message was the main thing. The signs and wonders were to authenticate it. shake off the dust from your feet. It was common for Jews to shake the dust off their feet—as an expression of disdain—when returning from Gentile regions. Paul and Barnabas also did this when expelled from Antioch (Acts 13:51). This was a visible protest, signifying that they regarded the place as no better than a pagan land.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:15 Sodom and Gomorrah. Those cities and the entire surrounding region were judged without warning, and with the utmost severity. See notes on Gen. 19:1–29.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:16 wolves. Used to describe false prophets who persecute the true ones and seek to destroy the church (cf. 7:15; Luke 10:3; Acts 20:29). See note on Luke 10:3.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:17 deliver you over. This is a technical word, in this context, used for delivering a prisoner for punishment. Persecution of believers has often been the official policy of governments. Such persecutions give opportunity for testifying to the truth of the gospel. Cf. John 16:1–4 and 2 Tim. 4:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:19 do not be anxious. See note on Luke 12:11.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:21–23 These verses clearly have an eschatological significance that goes beyond the disciples' immediate mission. The persecutions he describes seem to belong to the tribulation period that precedes Christ's second coming, alluded to in v. 23.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:22 one who endures to the end. See note on 24:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:24 not above. If the teacher (Christ) suffers, so will his pupils. If they attack the master (Christ) with blasphemies, so will they curse the servants. This was the promise of persecution. Cf. John 15:20.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:25 Beelzebul. The Philistine deity associated with satanic idolatry. The name came to be used for Satan, the prince of demons (see notes on 2 Kings 1:2; Luke 11:15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:28 fear him. God is the one who destroys in hell. Cf. Luke 12:5. Persecutors can only harm the body.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:29 apart from your Father. Not merely “without his knowledge”; Jesus was teaching that God providentially controls the timing and circumstances of such insignificant events as the death of a sparrow. Even the number of hairs on our heads is controlled by his sovereign will (v. 30). In other words, divine providence governs even the smallest details and even the most mundane matters. These are very powerful affirmations of the sovereignty of God.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:32 acknowledges me. The person who acknowledges Christ as Lord in life or in death, if necessary, is the one whom the Lord will acknowledge before God as his own. See notes on 2 Tim. 2:10–13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:33 See note on Luke 12:9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:34 not . . . peace, but a sword. Though the ultimate end of the gospel is peace with God (John 14:27; Rom. 8:6), the immediate result of the gospel is frequently conflict. Conversion to Christ can result in strained family relationships (Matt. 10:35–36), persecution, and even martyrdom. Following Christ presupposes a willingness to endure such hardships (vv. 32–33, 37–39). Though he is called “Prince of Peace” (Isa. 9:6), Christ will have no one deluded into thinking that he calls believers to a life devoid of all conflict.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:35–36 Quoted from Mic. 7:6.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:38 take his cross. Here is Jesus’ first mention of the word “cross” to his disciples (see note on 16:21). To them it would have evoked a picture of a violent, degrading death (see note on 27:31). He was demanding total commitment from them—even unto physical death—and making this call to full surrender a part of the message they were to proclaim to others. This same call to life-or-death devotion to Christ is repeated in 16:24; Mark 8:34; Luke 9:23; 14:27. For those who come to Christ with self-renouncing faith, there will be true and eternal life (Matt. 10:39).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:40 Whoever receives you receives me. Christ lives in his people. They also come in his name as his ambassadors (2 Cor. 5:20). Therefore, how they are treated is how he is treated (cf. Matt. 18:5; 25:45; Luke 9:48).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:41 prophet . . . righteous person. This expands on the principle of v. 40. To welcome Christ’s emissaries is tantamount to welcoming him (cf. 25:40).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:42 little ones. Believers. See notes on 18:3–10 and 25:40.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:1 in their cities. I.e., in Galilee. Meanwhile, the disciples were also ministering in the Jewish towns in and around Galilee (10:5–6).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:3 Are you the one who is to come, or shall we look for another? John the Baptist had introduced Christ as One who would bring a fierce judgment and “chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire” (3:12). He was understandably confused by the turn of events: he was imprisoned, and Christ was carrying on a ministry of healing, not judgment, in Galilee, far from Jerusalem, the city of the King—and not finding a completely warm reception there (cf. 8:34). John wondered if he had misunderstood Jesus’ agenda. It would be wrong to interpret this as a wavering of his faith (11:7).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:4 tell John. He sent John’s disciples back as eyewitnesses of many miracles. Evidently he performed these miracles in their presence just so that they could report back to John that they had personally seen proof that he was indeed the Messiah (cf. Isa. 29:18–19; 35:5–10). Notice, however, that he offered no further explanation to John, knowing exactly how strong John’s faith was (cf. 1 Cor. 10:13).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:10 Quoted from Mal. 3:1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:11 least . . . is greater than he. John was greater than the OT prophets because he actually saw with his eyes and personally participated in the fulfillment of what they only prophesied (vv. 10, 13; cf. 1 Pet. 1:10–11). But all believers after the cross are greater still, because they participate in the full understanding and experience of something John merely foresaw in shadowy form—the actual atoning work of Christ.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:12 the kingdom of heaven has suffered violence. From the time he began his preaching ministry, John the Baptist evoked a strong reaction. Having been imprisoned already, John ultimately fell victim to Herod’s savagery. But the kingdom can never be subdued or opposed by human violence. Notice that where Matthew says, “the violent take it by force,” Luke has, “everyone forces his way into it” (Luke 16:16). So the sense of this verse may be rendered this way: “The kingdom presses ahead relentlessly, and only the relentless press their way into it.” Thus again Christ is magnifying the difficulty of entering the kingdom (see notes on Matt. 7:13–14).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:14 he is Elijah. I.e., he is the fulfillment of Mal. 4:5–6

(see Matt. 17:12–13). The Jews were aware that Elijah had not died (cf. 2 Kings 2:11). This does not suggest that John was Elijah returned. In fact, John himself denied that he was Elijah (John 1:21); yet he came in the spirit and power of Elijah (Luke 1:17). If they had believed, John would have been the fulfillment of the Elijah prophecies. See notes on Mark 9:13 and Rev. 11:5–6.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:16 like children. See note on Luke 7:32.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:19 eating and drinking. See note on Luke 7:34.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:21 Woe to you, Chorazin! . . . Bethsaida! Both were cities very close to Capernaum, near the northern shore of the Sea of Galilee. Tyre . . . Sidon. Phoenician cities on the shore of the Mediterranean. The prophecy about the destruction of Tyre and Sidon in Ezek. 26–28 was fulfilled in precise detail.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:22, 24 more bearable. This indicates that there will be degrees of punishment in hell for the ungodly (see notes on 10:15; Mark 6:11; Luke 12:47–48; Heb. 10:29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:23 Capernaum . . . exalted . . . brought down. Capernaum, chosen by Jesus to be his headquarters, faced an even greater condemnation. Curiously, there is no record that the people of that city ever mocked or ridiculed Jesus, ran him out of town, or threatened his life. Yet the sin of that city—indifference to Christ—was worse than Sodom’s gross wickedness (cf. 10:15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:25 wise and understanding . . . little children. There is sarcasm in these words as the Jewish leaders are ironically identified as wise and intelligent and the followers of Christ as the little children (cf. 18:3–10)—yet God has revealed to those followers the truth of the Messiah and his gospel. Cf. 13:10–17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:26 such was your gracious will. Cf. Luke 10:21–22. This is a powerful affirmation of the sovereignty of God over all the affairs of men; and in the verse that follows, Christ claimed that the task of executing the divine will had been committed to him—a claim that would be utterly blasphemous if Jesus were anything less than sovereign God himself.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:28–30 Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden. There is an echo of the first beatitude (5:3) in this passage. Note that this is an open invitation to all who hear—but phrased in such a way that the only ones who will respond to the invitation are those who are burdened by their own spiritual bankruptcy and the weight of trying to save themselves by keeping the law. The stubbornness of humanity’s sinful rebellion is such that without a sovereignly bestowed spiritual awakening, all sinners refuse to acknowledge the depth of their spiritual poverty. That is why, as Jesus says in v. 27, our salvation is the sovereign work of God. But the truth of divine election in v. 27 is not incompatible with the free offer to all in vv. 28–30.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:29 you will find rest. I.e., from the endless, fruitless effort to save oneself by the works of the law (cf. Heb. 4:1–3, 6, 9–11). This speaks of a permanent respite in the grace of God that is apart from works (Matt. 11:30).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:2 not lawful to do on the Sabbath. Actually, no law prohibited the plucking of grain in order to eat on the Sabbath. Gleaning handfuls of grain from a neighbor’s field to satisfy one’s immediate hunger was explicitly permitted (Deut. 23:25). What was prohibited was labor for the sake of profit. Thus a farmer could not harvest for profit on the Sabbath, but an individual could glean enough grain to eat.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:3 He said. Jesus’ answer in vv. 3–8 points out that the Sabbath laws do not restrict deeds of necessity (vv. 3–4); service to God (vv. 5–6); or acts of mercy (vv. 7–8). He reaffirmed that the Sabbath was made for man’s benefit and God’s glory. It was never intended to be a yoke of bondage to the people of God (Mark 2:27). See note on Luke 6:9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:4 bread of the Presence. The consecrated bread of the Presence, 12 loaves baked fresh each Sabbath, which was usually eaten by the priests only (Lev. 24:5–9). God was not offended by David’s act, done to satisfy a legitimate need when his men were weak with hunger (1 Sam. 21:4–6). See notes on Mark 2:26 and Luke 6:3.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:5 profane the Sabbath and are guiltless? I.e., the priests have to do their work on the Sabbath, proving that some aspects of the Sabbath restrictions are not inviolable moral absolutes, but rather precepts pertaining to the ceremonial features of the law.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:6 greater than the temple. This was a straightforward claim of deity. The Lord Jesus was God incarnate—God dwelling in human flesh—far superior to a building that God merely visited.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:7 mercy, and not sacrifice. Quoted from Hos. 6:6. See note on Matt. 9:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:8 the Son of Man is lord of the Sabbath. Christ has the prerogative to rule over not only their man-made sabbatarian rules, but also over the Sabbath itself—which was designed for worshiping God. Again, this was an inescapable claim of deity—and as such it prompted the Pharisees’ violent outrage (v. 14).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:10 Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath? Jewish tradition prohibited the practice of medicine on the Sabbath, except in life-threatening situations. But no actual law in the OT forbade the giving of medicine, healing, or any other acts of mercy on the Sabbath. It is always lawful to do good.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:15 he healed them all. See note on 9:35. In all of OT history there was never a time or a person who exhibited such extensive healing power. Physical healings were very rare in the OT. Christ chose to display his deity by healing, raising the dead, and liberating people from demons. That not only showed the Messiah’s power over the physical and spiritual realms, but also demonstrated the compassion of God toward those affected by sin. See note on John 11:35.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:16 ordered them not to make him known. See note on 8:4. Here Christ seems concerned about the potential zealotry of those who would try to press him into the conquering-hero mold that the rabbinical experts had made out of messianic prophecy (see note on 12:18).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:18 Behold, my servant. Verses 18–21 are quoted from Isa. 42:1–4, to demonstrate that (contrary to the typical first-century rabbinical expectations) the Messiah would not arrive with political agendas, military campaigns, and great fanfare, but with gentleness and meekness—declaring righteousness even “to the Gentiles.”

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:19 not quarrel or cry aloud. The Messiah would not try to stir up a revolution or force his way into power.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:20 bruised reed . . . smoldering wick. The reed was used by shepherds to fashion a small musical instrument. Once cracked or worn, it was useless. A smoldering wick was also useless for giving light. These represent people who are deemed useless by the world. Christ's work was to restore and rekindle such people, not to "break" them. This speaks of his tender compassion toward the lowliest of the lost. He came not to gather the strong for a revolution, but to show mercy to the weak. Cf. 1 Cor. 1:26–29.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:23 Son of David. See note on 1:1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:24 Beelzebul. See note on 10:25. After all the displays of Jesus' deity, the Pharisees declared that he was from Satan—exactly opposite the truth, and they knew it (see note on 12:31; cf. 9:34; Mark 3:22; Luke 11:15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:28 kingdom of God has come. That was precisely true. The King was in their midst, displaying his sovereign power. He showed it by demonstrating his ability to bind Satan and his demons (v. 29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:31 blasphemy against the Spirit. The sin he was confronting was the Pharisees' deliberate rejection of that which they knew to be of God (cf. John 11:48; Acts 4:16). They could not deny the reality of what the Holy Spirit had done through him, so they attributed to Satan a work that they knew was of God (Matt. 12:24; Mark 3:22).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:32 will be forgiven. Someone never exposed to Christ's divine power and presence might reject him in ignorance and be forgiven—assuming the unbelief gives way to genuine repentance. Even a Pharisee such as Saul of Tarsus could be forgiven for speaking against Jesus or persecuting his followers—because his unbelief stemmed from ignorance (1 Tim. 1:13). But those who know his claims are true and reject him anyway sin "against the Holy Spirit"—because it is the Holy Spirit who testifies of Christ and makes his truth known to us (John 15:26; 16:14–15). No forgiveness was possible for these Pharisees who witnessed his miracles firsthand, knew the truth of his claims, and still blasphemed the Holy Spirit—because they had already rejected the fullest possible revelation. See notes on Heb. 6:4–6 and 10:29.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:36 every careless word. The most seemingly insignificant sin—even a slip of the tongue—carries the full potential of all hell's evil (cf. James 3:6). No infraction against God's holiness is therefore a trifling thing, and each person will ultimately give account of every such indiscretion. There is no truer indication of a bad tree than the bad fruit of speech (Matt. 12:33, 35). The poisonous snakes were known by their poisonous mouths revealing evil hearts (v. 34; cf. Luke 6:45). Every person is judged by his words, because they reveal the state of his heart.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:38 we wish to see a sign from you. They were hoping for a sign of astronomical proportions (Luke 11:16). Instead, he gives them a “sign” from Scripture. See notes on Matt. 16:1 and 21:21.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:39 An evil and adulterous generation. This speaks of spiritual adultery—unfaithfulness to God (cf. Jer. 5:7–8).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:40 three days and three nights. Quoted from Jonah 1:17. This sort of expression was a common way of underscoring the prophetic significance of a period of time. An expression like “forty days and forty nights” (see note on Matt. 4:2) may in some cases simply refer to a period of time longer than a month. “Three days and three nights” was an emphatic way of saying “three days,” and by Jewish reckoning this would be an apt way of expressing a period of time that includes parts of three days. Thus, if Christ was crucified on a Friday, and his resurrection occurred on the first day of the week, by Hebrew reckoning this would qualify as three days and three nights. All sorts of elaborate schemes have been devised to suggest that Christ might have died on a Wednesday or Thursday, just to accommodate the extreme literal meaning of these words. But the original meaning would not have required that sort of wooden interpretation. See note on Luke 13:32.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:41 men of Nineveh . . . repented. See Jonah 3:5–10. The revival in Nineveh under Jonah’s preaching was one of the most extraordinary spiritual revivals the world has ever seen. Some have suggested that the repentance of the Ninevites stopped short of saving faith, because the city reverted within one generation to its old pagan ways (cf. Nah. 3:7–8). From Jesus’ words here, however, it is clear that the revival under Jonah represented authentic saving conversions. Only eternity will reveal how many souls from that one generation were swept into the kingdom as a result of the revival.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:42 queen of the South. See 1 Kings 10:1–13. The queen of Sheba came to see Solomon’s glory (see note on Matt. 6:29) and in the process encountered the glory of Solomon’s God (1 Kings 10:9).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:45 the last state of that person is worse than the first. The problem is that the evil spirit found the house “empty” (v. 44). This is the description of someone who attempts moral reform without ever being indwelt by the Holy Spirit. Reform apart from regeneration is never effective and eventually reverts back to pre-reform behavior.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:46 brothers. These are actual siblings (half-brothers) of Jesus. Matthew explicitly connects them with Mary, indicating that they were not cousins or Joseph’s sons from a previous marriage, as some of the church Fathers imagined. They are mentioned in all the Gospels (Mark 3:31; Luke 8:19–21; John 7:3–5). Matthew and Mark give the names of four of Jesus’ brothers, and mention that he had sisters as well (Matt. 13:55; Mark 6:3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:48–49 Jesus was not repudiating his earthly family (cf. John 19:26–27). Rather, he was emphasizing the supremacy and eternality of spiritual relationships (cf. Matt. 10:37). After all, even his own family needed him as Savior (cf. John 7:5).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:50 does the will of my Father. This is not salvation by works. Doing the will of God is the evidence of salvation by grace. See notes on 7:21–27.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:1–52 This is the third of five discourses featured in Matthew (see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:3 parables. Parables were a common form of teaching in Judaism. The Greek term for “parable” appears 45 times in the LXX. A parable is a long analogy, often cast in the form of a story. Before this point in his ministry, Jesus had employed many graphic analogies (cf. 5:13–16), but their meaning was fairly clear in the context of his teaching. Parables required more explanation (cf. 13:36) and Jesus employed them to obscure the truth from unbelievers while making it clearer to his disciples (vv. 11–12). For the remainder of his Galilean ministry, he did not speak to the multitudes except in parables (v. 34). Jesus’ veiling the truth from unbelievers this way was both an act of judgment and an act of mercy. It was “judgment” because it kept them in the darkness that they loved (cf. John 3:19), but it was “mercy” because they had already rejected the light, so any exposure to more truth would only increase their condemnation. See note on Matt. 13:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:4 along the path. The fields were bordered by paths beaten hard by foot traffic and baking sun.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:5 rocky ground. Very shallow soil atop a layer of bedrock. From the top it looks fertile, but there is no depth to sustain a root system or reach water (v. 21).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:7 thorns. Weeds, the roots of which were still in the ground after plowing had been done.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:11 To you it has been given. Here Jesus clearly affirms that the ability to comprehend spiritual truth is a gracious gift of God, sovereignly bestowed on the elect (v. 11). The reprobate ones, on the other hand, are passed over. They reap the natural consequence of their own unbelief and rebellion—spiritual blindness (v. 13). the secrets of the kingdom of heaven. “Secrets” are those truths which have been hidden from all ages in the past and revealed in the NT. See notes on 1 Cor. 2:7; 4:1; Eph. 3:4–5. Many specific doctrines of the NT are identified as “secrets” (e.g., Rom. 11:25; 1 Cor. 15:51; Eph. 5:32; 6:19; Col. 1:26–27; 2 Thess. 2:7; 1 Tim. 3:9, 16).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:13 because seeing they do not see. Here Matthew seems to suggest that their own unbelief is the cause of their spiritual blindness. Luke 8:10, however, emphasizes God’s initiative in obscuring the truth from these unbelievers (“for others they are in parables, so that seeing they may not see, and hearing they may not understand”—cf. Isa. 6:9). Both things are true, of course. Yet we are not to think that God blinds them because he somehow delights in their destruction (cf. Ezek. 33:11; see note on Matt. 23:37). This judicial blinding may be viewed as an act of mercy, lest their condemnation be increased (see note on Matt. 13:3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:14–15 Quoted from Isa. 6:9–10 (see notes there).

38. The Pharisee and the Tax Collector			18:9-14
39. The Ten Minas			19:11-27

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:17 many . . . longed to see. Cf. John 8:56 and 1 Pet. 1:9–12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:19 word of the kingdom. The message of how to enter God’s kingdom, the sphere of salvation, i.e., the gospel (cf. “message of reconciliation” in 2 Cor. 5:19). evil one. Satan. Cf. 1 John 5:19. The gospel never penetrates these souls, so it disappears from the surface of their understanding—seen as the enemy snatching it away.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:20 rocky ground. Some people make an emotional, superficial commitment to salvation in Christ, but it is not real. They remain interested only until there is a sacrificial price to pay, and then abandon Christ. See note on 1 John 2:19.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:22 what was sown among thorns. These people make superficial commitments without a true repentance. They can’t break with the love of money and the world (James 4:4; 1 John 2:15–17; see notes on Matt. 19:16–21).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:23 good soil. As there were three soils with no fruit, thus no salvation, there are three kinds of good soil with fruit. Not all believers are equally fruitful, but all are fruitful (cf. 7:16; John 15:8).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:25 weeds. Probably darnel, a type of weed that can hardly be distinguished from wheat until the head matures. In an agricultural setting, sowing darnel in someone else’s wheat field was a way for enemies to destroy someone’s livelihood catastrophically. It pictures Satan’s efforts to deceive the church by mingling his children with God’s, in some cases making it impossible for believers to discern the true from the false. The parable is explained in vv. 36–43.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:32 a tree, so that the birds of the air come and make nests in its branches. Palestinian mustard plants are large shrubs, sometimes up to 15 feet high—certainly large enough for birds to lodge in. This is undoubtedly a reference to several OT passages, including Ezek. 17:23; 31:6; Dan. 4:21—passages which prophesied the inclusion of Gentiles in the kingdom.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:33 The kingdom of heaven is like leaven. Here the kingdom is pictured as yeast, multiplying quietly and permeating all that it contacts. The lesson is the same as the parable of the mustard seed. Some interpreters suggest that since leaven is nearly always a symbol of evil in Scripture (see note on Mark 8:15), it must carry that connotation here as well. They make the leaven some evil influence inside the kingdom. But that twists Jesus actual words and violates the context, in which Jesus is repeatedly describing that kingdom itself as the pervading influence.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:34 he said nothing to them without a parable. For the rest of his Galilean ministry all Jesus' public teaching consisted only of parables.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:35 spoken by the prophet. The "prophet" in this case was the psalmist. See Ps. 78:2.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:37 The one who sows. The true sower of salvation seed is the Lord himself. He alone can give the power in the heart to transform. He is the One who saves sinners, even through the preaching and witnessing of believers (Rom. 10:14).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:43 shine like the sun. Cf. Dan. 12:3. Believers already shine in that they possess the Spirit of Christ and the glorious message of the gospel (Matt. 5:16; 2 Cor. 4:3–7). We will shine even more in the glory of Christ's kingdom and eternal heaven (Rom. 8:16–23; Phil. 3:20–21; Rev. 19:7–9).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:44–46 These two parables have identical meanings. Both picture salvation as something hidden from most people (see note on v. 11), but so valuable that people who have it revealed to them are willing to give up all they have to possess it.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:47 net. Some fishing was done with a large weighted net dragged along the bottom of the lake. When pulled in, it contained an assortment that had to be separated. In a similar way the visible kingdom, the sphere of those who claim to be believers, is full of both good and bad and will be sorted in the judgment.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:49 angels. They serve God in judgment (cf. v. 41; 2 Thess. 1:7–10).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:52 brings out of his treasure what is new and . . . old. The disciples were not to spurn the old for the sake of the new. Rather, the new insights they gleaned from Jesus' parables were to be understood in light of the old truths, and vice versa.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:54 his hometown. I.e., Nazareth.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:55 his brothers. See note on 12:46. The fact that Joseph does not actually appear in any of these accounts suggests that he was no longer living.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:57 A prophet . . . without honor . . . in his hometown. This is an ancient proverb paralleling the modern saying, "Familiarity breeds contempt." They knew Jesus too well as a boy and a young man from their own town—and they concluded that he was nothing special. Verse 58 gives the sad result (cf. Mark 6:4).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:58 he did not do many mighty works there. See note on Mark 6:5.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:1–12 The record of the murder of John the Baptist is also in Mark 6:14–29; cf. Luke 9:7–9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:1 Herod. See note on 2:22. This was Herod Antipas, ruler of Galilee. tetrarch. One of four rulers of a divided region. After the death of Herod the Great, Palestine had been divided among his sons. Elsewhere, Matthew refers to Herod as "king" (14:9), because that was the title by which he was known among the Galileans.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:3 Herodias, his brother Philip's wife. Herodias was the daughter of Aristobulus, another son of Herod the Great; so when she married Philip, she was marrying her own father's brother. What precipitated the arrest of John the Baptist was that Herod Antipas (another of Herodias's uncles) talked Herodias into leaving her husband (his brother) in order to marry him (Mark 6:17)—thus compounding the incest, as well as violating Lev. 18:16. John was outraged that a ruler in Israel would commit such a sin openly, so he rebuked Herod severely (Matt. 14:4). For this, he was imprisoned and later killed (Mark 6:14–29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:6 the daughter of Herodias. Salome, daughter of Herodias and Philip. According to Josephus, the Jewish historian, she married yet another son (her own father's brother and her mother's uncle) of Herod the Great, thus further tangling the web of incest in that family.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:8 Prompted by her mother. See note on v. 6.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:9 because of his oaths. A promise made with a certain oath was considered sacred and inviolable (see note on 5:34)—especially when made by a ruling monarch. Herod was widely known for his duplicity, so it was not honesty that he was concerned about, but rather the appearance of things. He did not want to be embarrassed in front of his dinner guests.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:12 buried it. In a cave (Mark 6:29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:13 crowds . . . followed him on foot. They traveled great distances over land to reach the secluded spot where he had come by boat.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:14 had compassion. See note on 9:36.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:16 give them something to eat. Jesus knew they did not have enough food to feed the crowd. He wanted the disciples to state it plainly so the record would be clear that a miracle by his power occurred (vv. 17–18). See 16:9–10.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:24 beaten by the waves. See notes on 8:24–27.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:25 fourth watch. 3:00–6:00 A.M.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:33 you are the Son of God. Cf. 27:43, 54.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:34 Gennesaret. A town on the northwest shore of the Sea of Galilee.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:36 the fringe of his garment. See note on 9:20.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:2 tradition of the elders. This was a body of extrabiblical law that had existed only in oral form and only since the time of the Babylonian captivity. Later it was committed to writing in the Mishna near the end of the second century. The law of Moses contained no commandment about washing one's hands before eating—except for priests, who were required to wash before eating holy offerings (Lev. 22:6–7).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:3 break. The nature of this sin is identified in vv. 4–6 as dishonoring one’s parents in a cleverly devised way. The commandments of God were clear (quoted from Ex. 20:12; 21:17; Deut. 5:16); but to circumvent them, some people claimed they could not financially assist their parents because they had dedicated a certain sum of money to God, who was greater than their parents. The rabbis had approved this exception to the commandments of Moses and thus in effect nullified God’s law (Matt. 15:6).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:6 your tradition . . . made void the word of God. See note on Mark 7:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:8–9 Quoted from Isa. 29:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:11 what comes out of the mouth . . . defiles a person. People might defile themselves ceremonially (under the Old Covenant) by eating something unclean, but they would defile themselves morally by saying something sinful (cf. James 3:6). Here Jesus clearly distinguished between the law’s ceremonial requirements and its inviolable moral standard. Ceremonial defilement could be dealt with through ceremonial means. But moral defilement corrupts a person’s soul.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:14 Let them alone. This severe judgment is a form of God’s wrath. It signifies abandonment by God and is described as “giving them over” in Rom. 1:18–32 (see notes there). Cf. Hos. 4:17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:15 the parable. I.e., v. 11. The “parable” is not at all hard to understand, but it was hard for even the disciples to accept. Years later, Peter still found it hard to accept that all foods are clean (Acts 10:14).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:22 Son of David. See note on 1:1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:24 lost sheep of the house of Israel. See note on 10:6.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:26 the children’s bread. The lost sheep of the house of Israel must be fed before the “little dogs” (see note on 10:5). Christ employed a word here that speaks of a family pet. His words with this woman are not to be understood as harsh or unfeeling. In fact, he was tenderly drawing from her an expression of her faith in 15:27.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:29 walked beside the Sea of Galilee. He actually traveled north from Tyre to Sidon and then cut a wide path around the eastern shore of Galilee to Decapolis (Mark 7:31), a primarily Gentile region. He may have taken this route to avoid the territory ruled by Herod Antipas (cf. Matt. 14:1–2). The events that follow must have occurred in Decapolis (see note on 4:25).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:33 Where are we to get enough bread . . . ? No wonder our Lord called them men of little faith (8:26; 14:31; 16:8; 17:20), when they asked a question like that in the light of the recent feeding of the 5,000 (14:13–21).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:34 See note on 14:16. Again the Lord had them confess for the record how little food they had in comparison to the size of the crowd. This made clear that the feeding was miraculous evidence of his deity.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:38 four thousand. Christ ended his ministry in Galilee with the feeding of the 5,000 (14:13–21). Here, he ended his ministry in the Gentile regions by feeding the 4,000. He later would end his Jerusalem ministry with a meal in the upper room with his disciples.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:1 a sign from heaven. See note on 12:38. This time Jesus rebuked them for being so concerned with heavenly signs that they could not even interpret the signs of the times all around them. Then he referred them to the same sign he gave them before, the sign of the prophet Jonah (16:4; cf. 12:39).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:2–3 As primitive as their method of predicting the weather was, their ability to discern spiritual matters was worse. They had the long-promised and long-awaited Messiah in their midst and refused to acknowledge him.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:6 the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees. When Jesus warned of this dangerous influence, the disciples thought he was talking about bread. Again, he reminded them of the fact that the Lord provided plenty of bread, so they didn't need the bread the Pharisees were offering. How soon they forgot the miracles. See note on 13:33.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:12 the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees. Here the leaven of the Pharisees is their “teaching.” In Luke 12:1 it is their “hypocrisy.” The two things are inextricably linked. The most sinister influence of the Jewish leaders was a pragmatic doctrine that made room for hypocrisy. They were too concerned with externals and ceremonies and the way things appeared, and not concerned enough with matters of the heart. Jesus rebuked them for their hypocrisy again and again. See note on Matt. 23:25.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:13 Caesarea Philippi. A district about 25 miles north of Galilee, at the base of Mount Hermon. This was different from the city of Caesarea built by Herod the Great on the Mediterranean coast.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:16 the living God. An OT name for Jehovah (e.g., Deut. 5:26; Josh. 3:10; 1 Sam. 17:26, 36; 2 Kings 19:4, 16; Ps. 42:2; 84:2; Dan. 6:26; Hos. 1:10) as contrasted with the dead, dumb idols (Jer. 10:8; 18:15; 1 Cor. 12:2).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:17 flesh and blood has not revealed this to you. Christ’s messianic claims had always been subtle allusions to OT prophecies, combined with miraculous works that substantiated those claims. Never before had he explicitly taught Peter and the apostles the fullness of his identity. God the Father had opened Peter’s eyes to the full significance of those claims and revealed to him who Jesus really was. In other words, God had opened Peter’s heart to this deeper knowledge of Christ by faith. Peter was not merely expressing an academic opinion about the identity of Christ; this was a confession of Peter’s personal faith, made possible by a divinely regenerated heart.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:18 on this rock. The word for “Peter,” Petros, means a small stone (John 1:42). Jesus used a play on words here with petra, which means a foundation boulder (cf. Matt. 7:24–25). Since the NT makes it abundantly clear that Christ is both the foundation (Acts 4:11–12; 1 Cor. 3:11) and the head (Eph. 5:23) of the church, it is a mistake to think that here he is giving either of those roles to Peter. There is a sense in which the apostles played a foundational role in the building of the church (Eph. 2:20), but the role of primacy is reserved for Christ alone, not assigned to Peter. So Jesus’ words here are best interpreted as a simple play on words in that a boulder-like truth came from the mouth of one who was called a small stone. Peter himself explains the imagery in his first epistle: the church is built of “living stones” (1 Pet. 2:5) who, like Peter, confess that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Christ himself is the “cornerstone” (1 Pet. 2:6–7). church. Matthew is the only Gospel where this term is found (see also Matt. 18:17). Christ called it “my church,” emphasizing that he alone is its Architect, Builder, Owner, and Lord. The Greek word for church means “called out ones.” While God had since the beginning of redemptive history been gathering the redeemed by grace, the unique church he promised to build began at Pentecost with the coming of the Holy Spirit, by whom the Lord baptized believers into his body—which is the church (see notes on Acts 2:1–4; 1 Cor. 12:12–13). the gates of hell. Hades is the place of punishment for the spirits of dead unbelievers. The point of entry for such is death. This, then, is a Jewish phrase referring to death. Even death, the ultimate weapon of Satan (cf. Heb. 2:14–15), has no power to stop the church. The blood of martyrs, in fact, has sped the growth of the church in size and spiritual power.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:19 the keys of the kingdom of heaven. These represent authority, and here Christ gives Peter (and by extension all other believers) authority to declare what was bound or loosed in heaven. This echoed the promise of John 20:23, where Christ gave the disciples authority to forgive or retain the sins of people. All this must be understood in the context of Matt. 18:15–17, where Christ laid out specific instructions for dealing with sin in the church (see note on 18:15). The sum of it all means that any duly constituted body of believers, acting in accord with God’s word, has the authority to declare if someone is forgiven or unforgiven. The church’s authority is not to determine these things, but to declare the judgment of heaven based on the principles of the word. When they make such judgments on the basis of God’s word, they can be sure heaven is in accord. In other words, whatever they “bind” or “loose” on earth is already “bound” or “loosed” in heaven. When the church says the unrepentant person is bound in sin, the church is saying what God says about that person. When the church acknowledges that a repentant person has been loosed from that sin, God agrees.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:20 tell no one. See notes on 8:4 and 12:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:21 From that time. This marks the beginning of a new emphasis in Matthew’s account. He turns his attention from Jesus’ public ministry to his private instructions for the disciples, which took on a new, somber tone. The disciples had confessed their faith in him as Messiah. From then on, he began to prepare them for his death. See note on 20:19.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:23 Get behind me, Satan! The harshness of this rebuke contrasts sharply with Christ’s words of commendation in vv. 17–19. Jesus suggested that Peter was being a mouthpiece for Satan. Jesus' death was part of God's sovereign plan (Acts 2:23; 4:27–28). "It was the will of the Lord to crush him" (Isa. 53:10). Christ had come with the express purpose of dying as an atonement for sin (John 12:27). And those who would thwart his mission were doing Satan's work.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:24 take up his cross. See note on 10:38.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:26 gains. At the judgment when he faces the disastrous hell of remorse and suffering for his lost soul, with what will he buy it back from perdition? Nothing.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:27 is going to come . . . will repay. There is coming a time of rewards in the future for believers (1 Cor. 4:5; 2 Cor. 5:8–10; Rev. 22:12). Here, however, the Lord was concerned with the reward of the ungodly—final and eternal judgment (Rom. 2:5–11; 2 Thess. 1:6–10).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:28 some standing. In all three of the synoptic Gospels, this promise is made immediately prior to the transfiguration (Mark 9:1–8; Luke 9:27–36). Furthermore the word for "kingdom" can be translated "royal splendor." Therefore, it seems most natural to interpret this promise as a reference to the transfiguration, which "some" of the disciples—Peter, James, and John— would witness only six days later (see note on Matt. 17:1).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:1 after six days. The precise reference to the amount of time elapsed is unusual for Matthew. It seems he is carefully drawing the connection between Jesus' promise in 16:28 and the event that immediately follows. Mark agrees on the figure of six days (Mark 9:2), but Luke, probably counting the day of Peter's confession and the day of Christ's transfiguration separately at the start and end of this time period, says it was "about eight days" (Luke 9:28). Peter and James, and John. These three, in the inner circle closest to Christ (see note on Matt. 10:2), are often seen alone together with Jesus (26:37; Mark 5:37; 13:3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:2 transfigured. Christ underwent a dramatic change in appearance, so the disciples could behold him in his glory.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:3 Moses and Elijah. Representing the law and the prophets respectively, both of which had foretold Christ's death, and that is what Luke says the three of them were discussing (Luke 9:31).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:4 three tents. This is undoubtedly a reference to the booths that were used to celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles, when the Israelites dwelt in booths for seven days (Lev. 23:34–42). Peter was expressing a wish to stay in that place.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:5 listen to him. Peter erred in placing Moses and Elijah on the same level as Christ. Christ was the very one to whom Elijah and Moses had pointed. The voice of the Father (v. 5) interrupted while Peter “was still speaking.” The words were the same as those spoken from heaven at Christ’s baptism (3:17).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:6 fell on their faces. A common response to the realization that the Holy God of the universe is present. Cf. Isa. 6:5; Ezek. 1:28; Rev. 1:17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:9 Tell no one the vision. See notes on 8:4 and 12:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:10 why . . . Elijah must come? Because it was so prophesied by Mal. 4:5–6. See note on Matt. 11:14.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:12 Elijah has already come. See note on 11:14. The Jewish leaders had failed to recognize John the Baptist (though the disciples did, 17:13). John came in the spirit and power of Elijah—and the Jewish leaders had killed him. The Messiah was going to “suffer” similarly.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:17 faithless and twisted generation. Verse 20 indicates that the Lord was referring to the disciples and their weak faith (see note on 15:33).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:19 Why could we not cast it out? When Christ sent the disciples out (10:6–8), he explicitly commissioned them to do these kinds of miracles. Less than a year later, they failed where they had once succeeded. Christ’s explanation for their failure was that their faith was deficient (17:20). The deficiency did not consist in a lack of confidence; they were surprised that they could not cast out this demon. The problem probably lay in a failure to make God—rather than their own gifts—the object of their confidence (see note on v. 20).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:20 faith like a grain of mustard seed. True faith, by Christ’s definition, always involves surrender to the will of God. What he was teaching here is nothing like positive-thinking psychology. He was saying that both the source and the object of all genuine faith—even the weak, mustard-seed variety—is God. And “nothing will be impossible with God” (Luke 1:37). See also note on Matt. 21:21. nothing will be impossible. Here, Christ assumes the qualifying thought that is explicitly added by 1 John 5:14: what we ask for must be “according to his will.”

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:21 See esv footnote. This verse is not found in the best manuscripts.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:22 about to be delivered. By Judas Iscariot. See notes on 26:47, 50.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:24 the two-drachma tax. A half-shekel tax (equivalent to about two days’ wages) collected annually from every male over 20, for the upkeep of the temple (Ex. 30:13–14; 2 Chron. 24:9). As kings did not tax their own sons, technically, Jesus, as God’s son, was exempt from the tax (Matt. 17:26). But to avoid offense, he paid on behalf of himself and Peter (v. 27). Cf. Rom. 13:1–7; Titus 3:1; 1 Pet. 2:13–17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:1–35 This is the fourth of five discourses around which Matthew frames his narrative (see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes). This section’s theme is the childlikeness of the believer.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:3 become like children. This is how Jesus characterized conversion. Like the Beatitudes, it pictures faith as the simple, helpless, trusting dependence of those who have no resources of their own. Like children, they have no achievements and no accomplishments to offer or commend themselves with.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:5 Whoever receives. See note on 10:41. one such child. This speaks not of literal children, but children in the sense described in 18:3–4 (those who have humbled themselves like children), i.e., true believers (v. 6). See notes on 10:42 and 19:14.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:6 millstone. A stone used for grinding grain. Lit., “the millstone of an ass”—a stone so large it took a donkey to turn it.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:7 Woe to the world. It is expected that those in the world will cause Christians to be offended, stumble, and sin, and they will be judged for it. But it should not be that fellow believers lead others into sin, directly or indirectly. One would be better off dead. Cf. Rom. 14:13, 19, 21; 15:2; 1 Cor. 8:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:8–9 cut it off . . . throw it away. See note on 5:29.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:10 do not despise. I.e., spurn or belittle another believer by treating him or her unkindly or indifferently. their angels. This does not suggest that each believer has a personal guardian angel. Rather, the pronoun is collective and refers to the fact that believers are served by angels in general. These angels are pictured “continually” watching the face of God so as to hear his command to them to help a believer when needed. It is extremely serious to treat any fellow believer with contempt since God and the holy angels are so concerned for their well-being.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:14 perish. The word here can (and does in this context) refer to spiritual devastation rather than utter eternal destruction. This does not suggest that God’s children ever could perish in the ultimate sense (cf. John 10:28).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:15 The prescription for church discipline in vv. 15–17 must be read in light of the parable of the lost sheep in vv. 12–14. The goal of this process is restoration. If successful, “you have gained your brother.” Step one is to “tell him his fault” privately.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:16 if he does not listen. I.e., if he remains impenitent, follow step two: “take one or two others along with you,” to fulfill the principle of Deut. 19:15.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:17 tell it to the church. If he still refuses to repent, step three requires that the matter be reported to the whole assembly (v. 17)—so that all may lovingly pursue the sinning brother’s reconciliation. But failing that, step four means that the offender must be excommunicated, regarded by the church as “a Gentile and a tax collector” (see note on 5:46). The idea is not merely to punish the offender, or to shun him completely, but to remove him as a detrimental influence from the fellowship of the church, and henceforth to regard him as an evangelistic prospect rather than as a brother. Ultimately, the sin for which he is excommunicated is a hard-hearted impenitence.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:18 bind on earth . . . bound in heaven. See note on 16:19.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:19 if two of you agree on earth. This promise applies to the issue of discipline discussed in vv. 15–17. The “two of you” spoken of here harks back to the two or three witnesses involved in step two of the discipline process (see note on v. 15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:20 two or three. Jewish tradition requires at least 10 men (a minyan) to constitute a synagogue or even hold public prayer. Here, Christ promised to be present in the midst of an even smaller flock—“two or three witnesses” gathered in his name for the purpose of discipline (see note on v. 15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:21 As many as seven times? Peter thought he was being magnanimous. The rabbis, citing several verses from Amos (1:3, 6, 9, 11, 13) taught that since God forgave Israel’s enemies only three times, it was presumptuous and unnecessary to forgive anyone more than three times.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:22 seventy times seven. Innumerable times. See note on Luke 17:4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:23 servants. Due to the large amounts of money involved, it is likely these “servants” would have been provincial governors who owed the king the money from taxation.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:24 ten thousand talents. This represents an incomprehensible amount of money. The talent was the largest denomination of currency, and “ten thousand” in common parlance signified an infinite number.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:25 ordered him to be sold. A way to recover some of this loss was for the king to sell the family members into slavery.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:27 forgave him. Picturing the generous, compassionate forgiveness of God to a pleading sinner who owes him an unpayable debt. Cf. Col. 2:14.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:28 a hundred denarii. About three months’ wages. This was not a negligible amount by normal standards, but it was a pittance in comparison to what the servant had been forgiven.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:29 Have patience . . . I will pay you. Cf. v. 26. The forgiven man heard the same pleading he had given before his master, but was utterly without compassion (v. 30).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:31 fellow servants . . . distressed. A lack of forgiveness is offensive to fellow believers. Most of all it offends God, who chastens his unforgiving children severely (vv. 32–34). See notes on v. 34; cf. 6:15.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:34 anger his master. Because he is holy and just, God is always angry at sin, including the sins of his children (cf. Heb. 12:5–11). jailers. Not executioners. This pictures severe discipline, not final condemnation. all his debt. The original debt was unpayable and the man was still without resources. So it seems unlikely that the servant was saddled once again with the same debt he had already been forgiven. Rather, what he now owed his master would be exacted in chastening by his master until he was willing to forgive others.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:1 the region of Judea beyond the Jordan. Perea was the name of the region just east of the Jordan River. It was not technically part of Judea, but the territory ruled by Herod the Great had included both regions, and it was commonly referred to this way. Christ’s ministry in Perea lasted only a few months. It was from here that he would make his final journey to Jerusalem just prior to the Passion Week (20:17–19).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:3 Is it lawful. A hotly debated difference of opinion existed between the rabbis Shammai and Hillel (both near-contemporaries of Christ). The Shammaites interpreted the law rigidly, and permitted a man to divorce his wife only if she was guilty of sexual immorality. for any cause? The Hillelites took a wholly pragmatic approach, and permitted a man to divorce his wife indiscriminately.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:4 Quoted from Gen. 1:27 and 5:2.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:5 Quoted from Gen. 2:24 (see note there).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:7 Why then did Moses command one to give a certificate of divorce . . . ? The Pharisees misrepresented Deut. 24:1–4. It was not a “command” for divorce, but a limitation on remarriage in the event of a divorce. While recognizing the legitimacy of divorce when a man “has found some indecency” (Deut. 24:1) in his wife (sexual sin, by Jesus’ interpretation in Matt. 19:9), Moses did not “command” divorce. See note on Deut. 24:1–4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:8 Because of your hardness of heart. The phrase underscores the truth that divorce is only a last-resort response to hard-hearted sexual immorality (v. 9). Moses allowed you to divorce. The stress is certainly on the word “allowed.” Thus Jesus clearly sides with the Shammai school of interpretation (see note on v. 3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:9 immorality. This is a term that encompasses all sorts of sexual sins. Both here and in 5:32, Jesus includes this “exception clause,” clearly permitting the innocent party in such a divorce to remarry without incurring the stigma of one who “commits adultery.” See notes on 5:31–32.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:10 it is better not to marry. The disciples correctly understood the binding nature of marriage, and that Jesus was setting a very high standard, permitting divorce only in the most extreme of circumstances.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:12 Let the one who is able . . . receive it. Since all cannot handle it (v. 11), Christ is not enjoining celibacy here. Rather, he makes it entirely a matter of personal choice—except for those who are physically unable to marry, either through natural causes or because of the violence of other men. Still others may find there are pragmatic reasons not to marry for the good of the kingdom (see notes on 1 Cor. 7:7–9). But in no way did Christ suggest that celibacy is superior to marriage (cf. Gen. 2:18; 1 Tim. 4:3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:14 to such. These children were too young to have exercised personal faith. See Luke 18:15, where Luke refers to them as “infants.” Therefore, it is all the more significant that Christ used them as an illustration of those who make up “the kingdom of heaven” (cf. Matt. 18:1–4). Mark 10:16 also says he “blessed them.” God often shows a special mercy to those who because of age or mental deficiency are incapable of either faith or willful unbelief (cf. Jonah 4:11). They are called “innocent” in Jer. 19:4. This does not mean they are free from the inherited guilt and moral corruption of Adam’s sin (see notes on Rom. 5:12–19), but rather that they are not culpable in the same sense as those whose sins are premeditated and deliberate. Jesus’ words here suggest that God’s mercy is graciously extended to infants so that those who die are sovereignly regenerated and granted entrance into the kingdom—not because they are deserving of heaven, but because God in his grace chooses to redeem them. See notes on 2 Sam. 12:23 and Mark 10:14.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:16 Teacher. This is not necessarily a recognition of Christ's deity. The young man simply meant that Christ was righteous and a teacher from God who apparently had eternal life and might know how he could get it.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:17 Why do you ask me about what is good? There is only one who is good. Jesus was not disclaiming his own deity, but rather teaching the young man that all but God are sinners. This young man's most serious spiritual defect was his reluctance to confess his own utter spiritual bankruptcy. See note on 5:3; cf. Luke 18:11. If you would enter life, keep the commandments. This, of course, is law, not gospel. Before showing him the way to life, Jesus wanted to impress on the young man both the high standard required by God and the absolute futility of seeking salvation by his own merit. This should have elicited a response about the impossibility of keeping the law perfectly (like the disciples' response in Matt. 19:25), but instead the young man confidently declared that he qualified for heaven under those terms.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:18–19 These are five of the six commandments that make up the second table of the Ten Commandments—all dealing with human relationships (cf. Ex. 20:12–16; Deut. 5:16–20). See note on Matt. 22:40. Christ omitted the tenth commandment, which deals with covetousness, and added Lev. 19:18, the summation of the second half of the Decalogue. Cf. Rom. 13:1–10.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:20 I have kept. The self-righteous young man would not admit to his own sin. See note on 9:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:21 go, sell what you possess and give to the poor. Again, Jesus was not setting forth terms for salvation, but rather exposing the young man's true heart. His refusal to obey here revealed two things: 1) he was not blameless as far as the law was concerned, because he was guilty of loving himself and his possessions more than his neighbors (cf. v. 19); and 2) he lacked true faith, which involves a willingness to surrender all at Christ's bidding (16:24). Jesus was not teaching salvation by philanthropy; but he was demanding that this young man give him first place. The young man failed the test (19:22). come, follow me. This was the answer to the young man's question in v. 16. It was a call to faith. It is likely that the young man never even heard or contemplated it, though, because his own love of his possessions was such a stumbling block that he had already rejected Jesus' claim to lordship over his life. Thus he walked away in unbelief.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:24 camel . . . eye of a needle. I.e., it is impossible. Jesus was underscoring the impossibility of anyone's being saved by merit. Since wealth was deemed proof of God's approval, and those who had it could give more alms, it was commonly thought that rich people were the most likely candidates for heaven (see note on Mark 10:25). Jesus destroyed that notion, and along with it, the notion that anyone can merit enough divine favor to gain entrance into heaven. See note on Matt. 19:25.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:25 Who then can be saved? This was the right question to ask; it showed that they got Jesus' message (see note on v. 17). Salvation is possible only through divine grace (v. 26). See notes on Rom. 3:9–20; Gal. 3:10–13; Phil. 3:4–9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:27 we have left everything and followed you. Peter points out that they had already done what Christ demanded of the rich young ruler (v. 21). They had embarked on the life of faith with Christ. Notice that Jesus did not rebuke Peter for his expectation of reward (cf. Rev. 22:12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:28 new world. Lit., “the regeneration.” But here the term does not carry its normal theological meaning of personal regeneration (cf. Titus 3:5). Instead, Jesus was speaking of “the time for restoring all the things about which God spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets long ago” (Acts 3:21). This is a reference to the earthly kingdom described in Rev. 20:1–15, when believers will sit with Christ on his throne (Rev. 3:21). judging. Governing. Cf. 1 Cor. 6:2–3.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:30 first . . . last . . . first. This statement means that everyone ends up the same, a truth that is explained by the parable that follows (see note on 20:16).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:1 hire laborers. This was typical during harvest. Day laborers stood in the marketplace from dawn, hoping to be hired for the day's work. The workday began at 6:00 A.M. and went to 6:00 P.M.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:2 a denarius a day. A fair wage for a full day's labor (see note on 22:19).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:3 third hour. 9:00 A.M. They were standing idle because no one had hired them (v. 7).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:4 whatever is right. So eager to work, these men did not even negotiate a specific wage.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:6 eleventh hour. I.e., 5:00 P.M. Desperate for work, they had waited nearly "all day." They would take whatever they could get.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:8 last . . . to the first. This is the clue that opens the parable (see note on v. 16).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:13 I am doing you no wrong. Everyone received a full day's wage, to their shock (vv. 9–11). The man was acting graciously to those whom he overpaid. This was no slight against those whom he paid a full wage for a full day's work. That was precisely what they agreed to in the beginning. But it was his privilege to extend the same generosity to all (v. 15; cf. Rom. 9:15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:16 last will be first . . . first last. In other words, everyone finishes in a dead heat. No matter how long each of the workers worked, they each received a full day's wage. Similarly, the thief on the cross will enjoy the full blessings of heaven alongside those who have labored their whole lives for Christ. Such is the grace of God (see note on 19:30).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:17 going up to Jerusalem. Thus began his final journey to the cross.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:19 flogged and crucified. This was the third time Jesus told the disciples of his death (see note on 16:21; cf. 17:22–23)—plus three of the disciples had overheard Jesus discussing his death with Moses and Elijah at the transfiguration (Luke 9:31). This time, however, he added more details.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:20 mother of the sons of Zebedee. Mark 10:35 says James and John themselves raised the question of Matt. 20:21. There is no contradiction. It is possible either that the three of them asked together, or perhaps even more likely that they had discussed it among themselves beforehand, and each posed the question to Jesus privately.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:21 Say . . . these two sons of mine. Probably playing off the words of Jesus in 19:28, James and John had enlisted their mother to convey their proud, self-seeking request to Jesus. This was a recurring matter among the disciples (cf. 18:1, 4; 23:11; Mark 9:34; Luke 9:46; 22:24, 26), right up to the table at the Last Supper.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:22 You do not know what you are asking. The greatest glory goes to those who suffer the most for Christ. the cup that I am to drink? The cup of God's wrath (see notes on 26:39; Mark 14:36; Luke 22:42; John 18:11).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:23 You will drink my cup. James was beheaded (Acts 12:2) and John tortured and exiled to Patmos (Rev. 1:9) for the sake of Christ. for whom it has been prepared. God alone has chosen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:24 were indignant. Jealous displeasure, no doubt. They all would have petitioned Jesus for the exalted, favored positions, given the opportunity. See note on v. 21.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:25–28 In this rich text, the Lord was teaching the disciples that the style of greatness and leadership for believers is different. The Gentile leaders dominate in dictatorial fashion, using carnal power and authority. Believers are to do the opposite—they lead by being servants and giving themselves away for others, as Jesus did.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:28 to give his life as a ransom for many. The word translated “for” means “in the place of,” underscoring the substitutionary nature of Christ's sacrifice. A “ransom” is a price paid to redeem a slave or a prisoner. Redemption does not involve a price paid to Satan. Rather, the ransom is offered to God—to satisfy his justice and wrath against sin. The price paid was Christ's own life—as a blood atonement (cf. Lev. 17:11; Heb. 9:22). This, then, is the meaning of the cross: Christ subjected himself to the divine punishment against sin on our behalf (cf. Isa. 53:4–5; see note on 2 Cor. 5:21). Suffering the brunt of divine wrath in the place of sinners was the “cup” he spoke of having to drink (Matt. 20:22).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:29 went out of Jericho. See note on v. 30.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:30 two blind men. Mark 10:46 and Luke 18:35 mention only one blind man, and Luke says this encounter took place as Christ was approaching Jericho rather than when he was leaving (Matt. 20:29). The difficulties are fairly simple to reconcile: there were two blind men, but Bartimaeus (Mark 10:46) was the spokesman of the two and was, therefore, the sole focus of both Luke’s and Mark’s accounts (see note on Matt. 8:28). It is also a fact that there were two Jerichos—one the mound of the ancient city (the ruins of which may still be seen today), and the other, the inhabited city of Jericho, close by. Jesus may have been going out of old Jericho and entering new Jericho. Or it may also be that the events are telescoped for us, so that Christ first encountered the blind men on his way into the city, but the healing took place as he was departing. Son of David. See note on 1:1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:1 Bethphage. A small town near Bethany, on the southeast slope of the Mount of Olives. It is mentioned nowhere else in Scripture except in connection with Christ’s triumphal entry (Mark 11:1; Luke 19:29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:3 If anyone says anything to you. Mark recorded that this was in fact exactly what happened (Mark 11:5–6). Having just arrived in Bethphage (Matt. 21:1), Jesus would have had no opportunity to make arrangements for the use of these animals. Yet he knew precisely the location of the animals and the disposition of the owners. Such detailed foreknowledge reveals his divine omniscience.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:5 a colt, the foal of a beast of burden. An exact quotation from Zech. 9:9 (cf. Isa. 62:11). The precise fulfillment of this messianic prophecy would not have escaped the Jewish multitudes, who responded with titles and accolades fit only for the Messiah (see note on Matt. 21:9).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:7 the donkey and the colt. Matthew is the only Gospel writer who mentions the mare donkey. But all mention the young age of the donkey (John 12:14), or state that no man had ever sat on him (Mark 11:2; Luke 19:30). The mare was brought along, possibly to induce the colt to cooperate. he sat. I.e., on the clothes. Christ rode on the young colt (Mark 11:7).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:8 spread their cloaks on the road. Spreading one's garments on the street was an ancient act of homage reserved for high royalty (cf. 2 Kings 9:13), suggesting that they recognized his claim to be King of the Jews.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:9 Hosanna. This transliterates the Hebrew expression which is translated "Save now" in Ps. 118:25. Blessed is he. This is an exact quotation from Matt. 21:26 of the same psalm. This, along with the messianic title "Son of David," make it clear that the crowd was acknowledging Christ's messianic claim (see note on Matt. 1:1). The date of this entry was Monday, 10 Nisan, A.D. 30, exactly 483 years after the decree of Artaxerxes mentioned in Dan. 9:24–26 (see note there).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:12 drove out. This was the second time Jesus had cleansed the temple. John 2:14–16 describes a similar incident at the beginning of Christ's public ministry. There are distinct differences in the two incidents. In the first cleansing, temple officials confronted Christ immediately afterward (see note on Matt. 21:23; cf. John 2:18); none of the accounts of this second cleansing mention any such confrontation. Instead, the synoptics all describe how Jesus addressed all present (Matt. 21:13) and even made the incident an occasion for public teaching (Mark 11:17; Luke 19:46–47). who sold and bought. He regarded both merchants and customers guilty of desecrating the temple. Items being bought and sold included "pigeons" and other animals for sacrifice (cf. John 2:14). money-changers. Currency-exchange agents, present in droves, were needed because Roman coins and other forms of currency were deemed unacceptable for temple offerings. Evidently, both merchants and money-changers were charging such excessive rates that the temple marketplace took on the atmosphere of a thieves' den (Matt. 21:13). This kind of commerce took place in the court of the Gentiles, a large area covering several acres on the temple mount.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:13 It is written. Jesus conflates two OT prophecies, Isa. 56:7 ("my house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples") and Jer. 7:11 ("Has this house, which is called by my name, become a den of robbers in your eyes?").

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:15 children. Lit., "boys." The crowd in Jerusalem for the Passover would have included a large number of 12-year-olds, who were there to celebrate their first Passover, just as Jesus himself had done.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:16 Yes; have you never read. Jesus' reply to the "indignant" chief priests and scribes amounted to an inescapable assertion of his deity. In quoting from Ps. 8:2, he was claiming the right to receive worship as God.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:19 at once. This is a relative term; the tree may have died at once, but Mark 11:14, 20 (see notes there) suggests that the withering was not visible until the following day. Jesus' cursing of the tree was a purposeful divine object lesson, not an impetuous act of frustration. The fig tree is often employed in Scripture as a symbol of Israel (Hos. 9:10; Joel 1:7)—and the barren fig tree often symbolizes divine judgment on Israel because of her spiritual fruitlessness (see note on Matt. 3:8) despite an abundance of spiritual advantages (Jer. 8:13; Joel 1:12). Jesus' act therefore illustrates God's judgment against earthly Israel for shameful fruitlessness, exemplified in the rejection of their Messiah. One of Christ's parables taught a similar lesson (Luke 13:6–9).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:21 if you have faith and do not doubt. This presupposes that the thing requested is actually God's will (see note on 17:20)—for only God-given faith is so doubt-free (cf. Mark 9:24). it will happen. A miracle on such a cosmic scale was precisely what the scribes and Pharisees wanted Christ to do, but he always declined (see note on Matt. 12:38). Here, he was speaking figuratively about the immeasurable power of God, unleashed in the lives of those with true faith.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:23 these things. I.e., both his public teaching and miracles. They may have also had in mind his act of cleansing the temple on the day before (see note on v. 12). who gave you this authority? They were forced to acknowledge that he had some source of indisputable authority. His miracles were too obvious and too numerous to be fraudulent. Even his teaching was with such force and clarity that it was obvious to all that there was authority in his words (see note on 7:29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:25 The baptism of John, from where did it come? Jesus caught the Jewish leaders in their own trap. They had no doubt hoped that he would answer by asserting that his authority came directly from God (as he had many times before—cf. John 5:19–23; 10:18). They then accused him of blasphemy and used the charge as an excuse to kill him—as they had also attempted to do before (John 5:18; 10:31–33). Here, however, he asked a question that placed them in an impossible dilemma, because John was widely revered by the people. They could not affirm John’s ministry without condemning themselves. And if they denied John’s legitimacy, they feared the response of the people (Matt. 21:26). In effect, Jesus exposed their own lack of any authority to examine him. See note on Luke 20:5.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:31 Which of the two did the will of his father? Jesus forced them to testify against themselves. The point of the parable was that doing is more important than saying (cf. 7:21–27; James 1:22). They had to acknowledge this, yet in doing so they condemned themselves. The idea that repentant tax collectors and harlots would enter the kingdom before outwardly religious hypocrites was a recurring theme in his ministry (see note on Matt. 5:20), and this infuriated the Jewish leaders.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:32 the way of righteousness. I.e., the repentance and faith that results in the imputation of God’s righteousness (see note on Rom. 3:21). tax collectors and the prostitutes. See notes on Matt. 5:46; 9:9; Mark 2:15. The pariahs of Jewish society, most publicly despised by the chief priests and elders, had found salvation while the self-righteous leaders had not. Cf. Rom. 10:3.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:33 a vineyard . . . a winepress. See Isa. 5:2. Jesus was clearly alluding to this OT passage, which would have been familiar to the Jewish leaders. The “vineyard” is a common symbol for the Jewish nation in Scripture. Here the landowner, representing God, developed the vineyard with great care, then leased it to “tenants,” representing the Jewish leaders.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:34 his servants. I.e., the OT prophets.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:35 beat one, killed another, and stoned another. Matthew often blends and simplifies details (see notes on v. 19; 8:28; 20:30). From Mark’s account we learn that in Jesus’ telling of this story, three different slaves came individually. The tenants “beat” the first one, “struck” the second, and “killed” the third (Mark 12:2–5). This corresponds to the Jewish rulers’ treatment of many of the OT prophets (1 Kings 22:24; 2 Chron. 24:20–21; 36:15–16; Neh. 9:26; Jer. 2:30).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:37 my son. This person represents the Lord Jesus Christ, whom they killed (vv. 38–39) and thereby incurred divine judgment (v. 41).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:41 let out the vineyard to other tenants. Again the Jewish leaders pronounced their own judgment (see note on v. 31). Their verdict against the evil tenants was also Christ’s judgment against them (v. 43). The kingdom and all the spiritual advantages given to Israel would now be given to “other tenants,” symbolizing the church (v. 43), which consists primarily of Gentiles (cf. Rom. 11:11).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:42 The stone . . . rejected. This refers to his crucifixion; and the restoration of “the cornerstone” anticipates his resurrection. the cornerstone. To the superficial eye, this quotation from Ps. 118:22–23 is irrelevant to the parable that precedes it. But it is taken from a messianic psalm. Jesus cited it to suggest that the son who was killed and thrown out of the vineyard was also “the cornerstone” in God’s redemptive plan.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:43 a people producing its fruit. The church. See note on v. 41. Peter spoke of the church as “a holy nation” (1 Pet. 2:9).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:44 this stone. Christ is “a stone to strike and a rock to stumble over” to unbelievers (Isa. 8:14; 1 Pet. 2:8). And the prophet Daniel pictured him as a great stone “cut from a mountain by no human hand,” which falls on the kingdoms of the world and crushes them (Dan. 2:44–45). Whether a ceramic vessel “falls on” a rock, or the rock “falls” on the vessel, the result is the same. The saying suggests that both enmity and apathy are wrong responses to Christ, and those guilty of either are in danger of judgment.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:45 they perceived that he was speaking about them. By evoking so much familiar messianic imagery (vv. 42–44), Christ made his meaning inescapable to the chief priests and Pharisees.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:2 a king who gave a wedding feast for his son. Jesus told a similar, but different, parable in Luke 14:16–23. Here, the banquet was a wedding feast for the king’s own son, making the apathy (Matt. 22:5) and rejection (v. 6) of those invited much more of a personal slight against the king. Also, here they actually mistreated and killed the king’s messengers—an unthinkable affront to the king’s goodness.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:4 Again he sent other servants. This illustrates God’s patience and forbearance with those who deliberately spurn him. He continues to extend the invitation even after his goodness has been ignored or rebuffed.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:7 The king was angry. His vast patience finally exhausted, he judges them. burned their city. The judgment Jesus described anticipated the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. Even the massive stone temple was destroyed by fire and reduced to rubble in that conflagration. See notes on 23:36; 24:2; Luke 19:43.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:9 invite to the wedding feast as many as you find. This illustrates the free offer of the gospel, which is extended to all indiscriminately (cf. Rev. 22:17).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:11 wedding garment. All without exception were invited to the banquet, so this man is not to be viewed as a common party-crasher. In fact, all the guests were rounded up hastily from “the roads” and therefore none could be expected to come with proper attire. That means the wedding garments were supplied by the king himself. So this man’s lack of a proper garment indicates he had purposely rejected the king’s own gracious provision. His affront to the king was actually a greater insult than those who refused to come at all, because he committed his impertinence in the very presence of the king. The imagery seems to represent those who identify with the kingdom externally, profess to be Christians, belong to the church in a visible sense—yet spurn the garment of righteousness Christ offers (cf. Isa. 61:10) by seeking to establish a righteousness of their own (cf. Rom. 10:3; Phil. 3:8, 9). Ashamed to admit their own spiritual poverty (see note on Matt. 5:3), they refuse the better garment the King graciously offers—and thus they are guilty of a horrible sin against his goodness.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:12 he was speechless. I.e., he had no excuse.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:13 outer darkness. This would describe the darkness farthest from the light, i.e., outer darkness. weeping and gnashing of teeth. This speaks of inconsolable grief and unremitting torment. Jesus commonly used the phrases in this verse to describe hell (cf. 13:42, 50; 24:51).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:14 many are called, but few are chosen. The call spoken of here is sometimes referred to as the “general call” (or the “external” call)—a summons to repentance and faith that is inherent in the gospel message. This call extends to all who hear the gospel. “Many” hear it; “few” respond (see the many-few comparison in 7:13–14). Those who respond are the “chosen,” the elect. In the Pauline writings, the word “call” usually refers to God’s irresistible calling extended to the elect alone (Rom. 8:30)—known as the “effectual call” (or the “internal” call). The effectual call is the supernatural drawing of God that Jesus speaks of in John 6:44. Here a general call is in view, and this call extends to all who hear the gospel—this call is the great “whoever will” of the gospel (cf. Rev. 22:17). Here, then, is the proper balance between human responsibility and divine sovereignty: the “called” who reject the invitation do so willingly, and therefore their exclusion from the kingdom is perfectly just. The “chosen” enter the kingdom only because of the grace of God in choosing and drawing them.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:16 Herodians. A party of the Jews who supported the Roman-backed Herodian dynasty. The Herodians were not a religious party, like the Pharisees, but a political party, probably consisting largely of Sadducees (including the rulers of the temple). By contrast, the Pharisees hated Roman rule and the Herodian influence. The fact that these groups would conspire together to entrap Jesus reveals how seriously both groups viewed him as a threat. Herod himself wanted Jesus dead (Luke 13:31), and the Pharisees were already plotting to kill him as well (John 11:53). So they joined efforts to seek their common goal.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:17 Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar, or not? At issue was an annual fee of one denarius (see note on v. 19) per person. Such taxes were part of the heavy taxation Rome assessed. Since these funds were used to finance the occupying armies, all Roman taxes were hated by the people. But the poll tax was the most hated of all because it suggested that Rome owned even the people, while they viewed themselves and their nation as possessions of God. It was therefore significant that they questioned Christ about the poll tax in particular. If he answered no to their question, the Herodians would charge him with treason against Rome. If he said yes, the Pharisees would accuse him of disloyalty to the Jewish nation, and he would lose the support of the crowds.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:19 denarius. See note on Mark 12:16. A silver coin, the value of a day’s wage for a Roman soldier. The coins were minted under the emperor’s authority since only he could issue gold or silver coins. The “denarius” of Jesus’ day was minted by Tiberius. One side bore an image of his face; the other featured an engraving of him sitting on his throne in priestly robes. The Jews considered such images idolatry, forbidden by the second commandment (Ex. 20:4), which made this tax and these coins doubly offensive.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:21 Caesar’s . . . God’s. Caesar’s image is stamped on the coin; God’s image is stamped on the person (Gen. 1:26–27). The Christian must “render” obedience to Caesar in Caesar’s realm (Rom. 13:1–7; 1 Pet. 2:13–17), but “the things that are God’s” are things that do not belong to Caesar and should be given only to God. Christ thus acknowledged Caesar’s right to assess and collect taxes, and he made it the duty of Christians to pay them. But he did not suggest (as some suppose) that Caesar had sole or ultimate authority in the social or political realms. Ultimately, all things are God’s (Rom. 11:36; 2 Cor. 5:18; Rev. 4:11)—including the realm in which Caesar or any other earthly ruler exercises authority.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:23 no resurrection. See note on 3:7.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:24 his brother must marry the widow. This refers to the law of levirate marriage, found in Deut. 25:5–10 (see note there). This was a provision to ensure that family lines were kept intact and widows were cared for.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:30 like angels in heaven. The Sadducees did not believe in angels (see note on 3:7)—so here Jesus was exposing another of their false beliefs. Angels are deathless creatures who do not propagate and therefore have no need for marriage. “In the resurrection,” the saints will have those same characteristics.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:32 not God of the dead. Jesus’ argument (taken from the Pentateuch, because the Sadducees recognized only Moses’ authority—see note on 3:7) was based on the emphatic present tense “I am” of Ex. 3:6. This subtle but effective argument utterly silenced the Sadducees (Matt. 22:34). See note on Mark 12:26.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:35 a lawyer. A scribe whose specialty was interpreting the law. See notes on 2:4; Luke 10:25.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:36 See note on Mark 12:28.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:37 heart . . . soul . . . mind. Mark 12:30 adds “strength.” The quote is from Deut. 6:5, part of the shema (Hebrew for “hear”—Deut. 6:4). That verse says “heart . . . soul . . . strength.” Some LXX manuscripts added “mind.” The use of the various terms is not meant to delineate distinct human faculties, but to underscore the completeness of the kind of love that is called for.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:39 love your neighbor as yourself. This is a quotation from Lev. 19:18. Contrary to some contemporary interpretations, it is not a mandate for self-love. Rather, it contains in different words the very same idea as the Golden Rule (see note on Matt. 7:12). It prompts believers to measure their love for others by what they wish for themselves.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:40 the Law and the Prophets. I.e., the whole OT. Thus Jesus subsumes man’s whole moral duty under two categories: love for God, and love for one’s neighbors. These same two categories differentiate the first four commandments of the Decalogue from the final six.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:42 What do you think . . . ? A phrase often used by Christ to introduce a question designed to test someone (v. 17; 17:25; 18:12; 21:28; 26:66). Here, the Pharisees, Herodians, Sadducees, and scribes had all put him to the test. He also had a test for them. The son of David. See note on 1:1. “Son of David” was the most common messianic title in the usage of Jesus’ day. Their answer reflected their conviction that the Messiah would be no more than a man, and Jesus’ reply was another assertion of his deity. See note on 22:45.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:43 in the Spirit. I.e., under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit (cf. Mark 12:36).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:44 Quoted from Ps. 110:1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:45 David calls him Lord. David would not have addressed a merely human descendant as “Lord.” Here Jesus was not disputing whether “Son of David” was an appropriate title for the Messiah; after all, the title is based on what is revealed about the Messiah in the OT (Isa. 11:1; Jer. 23:5) and it is used as a messianic title in Matt. 1:1 (see note there). But Jesus was pointing out that the title “son of David” did not begin to sum up all that is true about the Messiah who is also “Son of God” (Luke 22:70). The inescapable implication is that Jesus was declaring his deity.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:2 Moses’ seat. The expression is equivalent to a university’s “chair of philosophy.” To “sit on Moses’ seat” was to have the highest authority to instruct people in the law. The expression here may be translated, “[They] have seated themselves in Moses’ seat”—stressing the fact that this was an imaginary authority they claimed for themselves. There was a legitimate sense in which the priests and Levites had authority to decide matters of the law (Deut. 17:9), but the scribes and Pharisees had gone beyond any legitimate authority and were adding human tradition to the word of God (Matt. 15:3–9). For that Jesus condemned them (23:8–36).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:3 observe . . . do not practice. I.e., insofar as it accords with the word of God. The Pharisees were prone to bind “heavy burdens” (v. 4) of extrabiblical traditions and put them on others’ shoulders. Jesus explicitly condemned that sort of legalism.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:5 phylacteries. Leather boxes containing a parchment on which is written in four columns (Ex. 13:1–10, 11–16; Deut. 6:4–9; 11:13–21). These are worn by men during prayer—one on the middle of the forehead and one on the left arm just above the elbow. The use of phylacteries was based on an overly literal interpretation of passages like Ex. 13:9–10 and Deut. 6:8. Evidently the Pharisees would broaden the leather straps by which the phylacteries were bound to their arms and foreheads, in order to make the phylacteries more prominent. their fringes. Jesus himself wore them (see note on Matt. 9:20), so it was not the tassels themselves that he condemned, only the mentality that would lengthen the tassels to make it appear that one was especially spiritual.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:8–10 rabbi . . . father . . . instructor. Here Jesus condemns pride and pretense, not titles per se. Paul repeatedly speaks of “instructors” in the church, and even refers to himself as the Corinthians’ “father” (1 Cor. 4:15). Obviously, this does not forbid the showing of respect, either (cf. 1 Thess. 5:11–12; 1 Tim. 5:1). Christ is merely forbidding the use of such names as spiritual titles, or in an ostentatious sense that accords undue spiritual authority to a human being, as if he were the source of truth rather than God.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:13 nor allow. The Pharisees, having shunned God’s righteousness, were seeking to establish a righteousness of their own (Rom. 10:3)—and teaching others to do so as well. Their legalism and self-righteousness effectively obscured the narrow gate by which the kingdom must be entered (see notes on Matt. 7:13–14).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:14 This verse does not appear in the earliest available manuscripts of Matthew, but does appear in Mark. See notes on Mark 12:40.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:15 proselyte. A Gentile convert to Judaism. See Acts 6:5. a child of hell. I.e., someone whose eternal destination is hell.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:16 it is nothing. This was an arbitrary distinction the Pharisees had made, which gave them a sanctimonious justification for lying with impunity. If someone swore “by the temple” (or the altar, v. 18; or heaven, v. 22), his oath was not considered binding, but if he swore “by the gold of the temple,” he could not break his word without being subject to the penalties of Jewish law. Our Lord makes it clear that swearing by those things is tantamount to swearing by God himself. See note on 5:34.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:23 tithe mint and dill and cumin. Garden herbs, not really the kind of farm produce that the tithe was designed to cover (Lev. 27:30). But the Pharisees fastidiously weighed out a tenth of every herb, perhaps even counting individual dill seeds. Jesus’ point, however, was not to condemn their observance of the law’s fine points. The problem was that they “neglected the weightier matters” of justice and mercy and faith—the moral principles underlying all the laws. They were satisfied with their focus on the incidentals and externals but willfully resisted the spiritual meaning of the law. He told them they should have concentrated on those larger issues “without neglecting the others.”

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:24 straining out a gnat and swallowing a camel! Some Pharisees would strain their beverages through a fine cloth to make sure they did not inadvertently swallow a gnat—the smallest of unclean animals (Lev. 11:23). The camel was the largest of all the unclean animals (Lev. 11:4).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:25 you clean the outside. The Pharisees’ focus on external issues lay at the heart of their error. Who would want to drink from a cup that had been washed on the outside but was still filthy inside? Yet the Pharisees lived their lives as if external appearance were more important than internal reality. That was the very essence of their hypocrisy, and Jesus rebuked them for it repeatedly (see notes on 5:20; 16:12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:27 whitewashed tombs. Tombs were regularly whitewashed to make them stand out. Accidentally touching or stepping on a grave caused ceremonial uncleanness (Num. 19:16). A freshly whitewashed tomb would be brilliantly white and clean-looking—and sometimes spectacularly ornate. But the inside was full of defilement and decay. Contrast Jesus’ words here and in Luke 11:44.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:30 we would not have taken part. A ridiculous claim to self-righteousness when they were already plotting the murder of the Messiah (cf. John 11:47–53).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:34 prophets and wise men and scribes. I.e., the disciples, as well as the prophets, evangelists, and pastors who followed them (cf. Eph. 4:11).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:35 Abel . . . Zechariah. The first and last OT martyrs, respectively. son of Barachiah. (Zech. 1:1). The OT does not record how he died. However, the death of another Zechariah, son of Jehoiada, is recorded in 2 Chron. 24:20–21. He was stoned in the court of the temple, exactly as Jesus describes here. All the best manuscripts of Matthew contain the phrase “Zechariah, son of Barachiah” (though it does not appear in Luke 11:51). Some have suggested that the Zechariah in 2 Chron. 24 was actually a grandson of Jehoiada, and that his father’s name was also Barachiah. But there is no difficulty if we simply take Jesus’ words at face value and accept his infallible testimony that Zechariah the prophet was martyred between the temple and the altar, in a way very similar to how the earlier Zechariah was killed.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:36 this generation. Historically, this was the generation that experienced the utter destruction of Jerusalem and the burning of the temple in A.D. 70. Jesus’ lament over Jerusalem and his removal of the blessing of God from the temple (vv. 37–38) strongly suggest that the sacking of Jerusalem in A.D. 70 was the judgment he was speaking about. See notes on 22:7; 24:2; Luke 19:43.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:37 would I . . . you would not! God is utterly sovereign and therefore fully capable of bringing to pass whatever he desires (cf. Isa. 46:10)—including the salvation of whomever he chooses (Eph. 1:4–5). Yet, he sometimes expresses a wish for that which he does not sovereignly bring to pass (cf. Gen. 6:6; Deut. 5:29; Ps. 81:13; Isa. 48:18). Such expressions in no way suggest a limitation on the sovereignty of God or imply any actual change in him (Num. 23:19). But these statements do reveal essential aspects of the divine character: he is full of compassion, sincerely good to all, desirous of good, not evil—and therefore not delighting in the destruction of the wicked (Ezek. 18:32; 33:11). While affirming God’s sovereignty, one must understand his pleas for the repentance of the reprobate as well-meant appeals—and his goodness toward the wicked as a genuine mercy designed to provoke them to repentance (Rom. 2:4). The emotion displayed by Christ here (and in all similar passages, such as Luke 19:41) is obviously a deep, sincere passion. All Christ’s feelings must be in perfect harmony with the divine will (cf. John 8:29)—and therefore these lamentations should not be thought of as mere exhibitions of his humanity.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:38 your house is left to you desolate. A few days earlier, Christ had referred to the temple as his Father’s “house” (21:13). But the blessing and glory of God were being removed from Israel (see 1 Sam. 4:21). When Christ “left the temple” (Matt. 24:1), the glory of God went with him. Ezekiel 11:23 described Ezekiel’s vision of the departure of the Shekinah glory in his day. The glory left the temple and stood on the Mount of Olives (see notes on Matt. 24:3; Luke 19:29), exactly the same route Christ followed here (cf. Matt. 24:3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 23:39 you will not see me. Christ’s public teaching ministry was over. He withdrew from national Israel until the time yet future when they will recognize him as Messiah (Rom. 11:23–26). Then Christ quoted from Ps. 118:26.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:1–25:46 This is the last of the five discourses Matthew features (see Introduction: Historical and Theological Themes). It is known as the Olivet Discourse, and it contains some of the most important prophetic material in all of Scripture.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:1 the buildings of the temple. This temple was begun by Herod the Great in 20 B.C. (see note on 2:1) and was still under construction when the Romans destroyed it in A.D. 70 (see note on 24:2). At the time of Jesus’ ministry, the temple was one of the most impressive structures in the world, made of massive blocks of stone bedecked with gold ornamentation. Some of the stones in the temple complex measured 40x12x12 feet and were expertly quarried to fit perfectly against one another. The temple buildings were made of gleaming white marble, and the whole eastern wall of the large main structure was covered with gold plates that reflected the morning sun, making a spectacle that was visible for miles. The entire temple mount had been enlarged by Herod's engineers, by means of large retaining walls and vaulted chambers on the south side and southeast corner. By this means the large courtyard area atop the temple mount was effectively doubled. The whole temple complex was magnificent by any standard. The disciples' conversation here may have been prompted by Jesus' words in 23:38. They were undoubtedly wondering how a site so spectacular could be left "desolate."

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:2 one stone upon another. These words were literally fulfilled in A.D. 70. Titus, the Roman general, built large wooden scaffolds around the walls of the temple buildings, piled them high with wood and other flammable items, and set them ablaze. The heat from the fires was so intense that the stones crumbled. The rubble was then sifted to retrieve the melted gold, and the remaining ruins were "thrown down" into the Kidron Valley. See notes on 22:7 and Luke 19:43.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:3 Mount of Olives. The hill directly opposite the temple, across the Kidron Valley to the east (see note on Luke 19:29). This spot affords the best panoramic view of Jerusalem. At the base of this mountain is Gethsemane (see note on Matt. 26:36). what will be the sign of your coming . . . ? Luke 19:11 records that the disciples still "supposed that the kingdom of God was to appear immediately." The destruction of the temple (Matt. 24:2) did not fit the eschatological scheme they envisioned, so they asked for clarification. Jesus addressed their questions in reverse order, describing the prophetic sign of his coming (actually a series of signs) in vv. 4–35 and then addressing their question about the timing of these events beginning in v. 36. When they asked about his coming (Greek, parousia; lit., "presence"), they did not envision a second coming in the far-off future. They were speaking of his coming in triumph as Messiah, an event that they no doubt anticipated would occur presently. Even if they were conscious of his approaching death, which he had plainly prophesied to them on repeated occasions (see note on 20:19), they could not have anticipated his ascension to heaven and the long intervening church age. However, when Jesus used the term parousia in his discourse, he used it in the technical sense as a reference to his second coming.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:6 the end is not yet. False prophets, as well as wars and rumors of wars, characterize the whole of the present age, but will escalate toward the end (cf. 2 Tim. 3:13).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:8 birth pains. Famines, earthquakes, and conflicts have always characterized life in a fallen world; but by calling these things “the beginning” of labor pains, he indicated that things will get notably and remarkably worse at the end of the era as these unique tribulations signal the soon arrival of Messiah to judge sinful humanity and set up his millennial kingdom. Cf. 1 Thess. 5:3; Rev. 6:1–17; 8:1–9:21; 16:1–21; see note on Matt. 24:14.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:9 deliver you. See note on 10:17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:10 many will fall away. Lit., “cause to stumble”—suggesting professing believers who fall away—and even turn against “one another” in shocking acts of spiritual treachery. Those who fall away in such a manner give evidence that they never were true believers at all (see note on v. 13).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:13 endures to the end . . . be saved. Cf. 10:22. The ones who persevere are the same ones who are saved—not the ones whose love grows cold (24:12). This does not suggest that our perseverance secures our salvation. Scripture everywhere teaches precisely the opposite: God, as part of his saving work, secures our perseverance. True believers “are being guarded through faith for a salvation” (1 Pet. 1:5). The guarantee of our perseverance is built into the New Covenant promise. God says: “I will put the fear of me in their hearts, that they may not turn from me” (Jer. 32:40). Those who do fall away from Christ give conclusive proof that they were never truly believers to begin with (1 John 2:19). To say that God secures our perseverance is not to say that we are passive in the process, however. He keeps us “through faith” (1 Pet. 1:5)—our faith. Scripture sometimes calls us to hold fast to our faith (Heb. 10:23; Rev. 3:11) or warns us against falling away (Heb. 10:26–29). Such admonitions do not negate the many promises that true believers will persevere (John 10:28–29; Rom. 8:38–39; 1 Cor. 1:8–9; Phil. 1:6). Rather, the warnings and pleas are among the means God uses to secure our perseverance in the faith. Notice that the warnings and the promises often appear side by side. For example, when Jude urges believers, “keep yourselves in the love of God” (Jude 21), he immediately points them to God, “who is able to keep you from stumbling” (Jude 24).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:14 proclaimed throughout the whole world. Despite all the tribulations that would come—the deception of false teachers, the wars, persecutions, natural disasters, defections from Christ, and all the obstacles to the spread of the gospel—the message ultimately penetrates every part of the globe. God is never without a witness, and he will proclaim the gospel from heaven itself if necessary (cf. Rev. 14:6). then the end will come. “The end” refers to the final, excruciating birth pangs (see note on Matt. 24:8). This is how Christ characterizes the time of Great Tribulation described in the verses that follow.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:15 abomination of desolation. See notes on Dan. 9:27 and 11:31. This phrase originally referred to the desecration of the temple by Antiochus Epiphanes, king of Syria in the second century B.C. Antiochus invaded Jerusalem in 168 B.C., made the altar into a shrine to Zeus, and even sacrificed pigs on it. However, Jesus clearly was looking toward a yet-future “abomination of desolation.” Some suggest that this prophecy was fulfilled in A.D. 70 when Titus invaded Jerusalem and destroyed the temple (see note on Matt. 24:2). However, the apostle Paul saw a still-future fulfillment (2 Thess. 2:3–4), as did John (Rev. 13:14–15)—when the Antichrist sets up an image in the temple during the future tribulation. Christ’s words here therefore look beyond the events of A.D. 70 to a time of even greater global cataclysm that will immediately precede his coming (cf. Matt. 24:29–31).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:16 the mountains. Probably a reference to the region southeast of Jerusalem, particularly the Dead Sea area, where there are many caves and places of refuge. David hid from Saul in this area (1 Sam. 23:29). This would also include the hills of Moab and Edom.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:21 great tribulation. The words “such as has not been” and “never will be”—along with the description that follows—identify this as the yet-future time in which God’s wrath shall be poured out upon the earth (see note on Rev. 7:14). Jesus’ descriptions of the cataclysms that follow closely resemble the outpouring of divine wrath described in the bowl judgments of Rev. 16 and his subsequent appearing in Rev. 19 (see note on Matt. 24:30).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:22 those days had not been cut short. If the afflictions of this time were to continue, “no human being would be saved,” i.e., no one would survive. But “for the sake of the elect” (so that redeemed people do not suffer more than they can bear) the time is “cut short”—i.e., held short of total destruction. Both Dan. 7:25 and Rev. 12:14 (see notes there) suggest that the actual length of time the beast will be permitted to terrorize the world is fixed at three and a half years.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:24 to lead astray, if possible, even the elect. This clearly implies that such deception is not possible (John 10:4–5).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:26 do not believe it. No one should consider the claims of self-styled messiahs because all of them are false. When Christ returns, no one will miss it (vv. 27–28).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:28 there the vultures will gather. The location of a carcass is visible from great distances because of the circling carrion birds overhead (cf. Job 39:27–30). Similarly, Christ’s return will be clearly evident to all near and far. The same point is made by the lightning in Matt. 24:27. The vulture-dead body imagery here also speaks of the judgment that will accompany his return (Rev. 19:21).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:29 the sun will be darkened. Such phenomena are a common feature of day of the Lord prophecy (see Isa. 13:9–10; Ezek. 32:7–8; Joel 2:10, 31; 3:15; Amos 8:9). The ultimate fulfillment of these prophecies takes place during the time of the beast’s reign (Rev. 6:12–13; 8:12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:30 the sign of the Son of Man. I.e., the Son of Man himself is the sign. The events described here precisely parallel the description in Dan. 7:13 and Rev. 19:11–21. all the tribes of the earth will mourn. I.e., over their own rebellion. Israel in particular will mourn over their rejection of the Messiah (cf. Zech. 12:10–12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:31 from one end of heaven to the other. All the “elect” from heaven and earth are gathered and assembled before Christ. This is the culmination of world history, ushering in the millennial reign of Christ (cf. Rev. 20:4).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:32 From the fig tree learn its lesson. When the fig branch “puts out its leaves,” only a short time remains until summer. Likewise, when the final labor pains begin (see note on v. 14), Christ’s return “is near, at the very gates” (v. 33).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:34 this generation. This cannot refer to the generation living at that time of Christ, for “all these things”—the abomination of desolation (v. 15), the persecutions and judgments (vv. 17–22), the false prophets (vv. 23–26), the signs in the heavens (vv. 27–29), Christ’s final return (v. 30), and the gathering of the elect (v. 31)—did not “take place” in their lifetime. It seems best to interpret Christ's words as a reference to the generation alive at the time when those final hard labor pains begin (see note on v. 14). This would fit with the lesson of the fig tree, which stresses the short span of time in which these things will occur (see note on v. 32).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:35 Heaven and earth will pass away. Cf. Isa. 24:18–20. See notes on 2 Pet. 3:10–13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:36 day and hour. See note on Mark 13:32. The disciples wanted to fix the precise time, but this was not for them to know (Acts 1:7). Christ's emphasis instead is on faithfulness, watchfulness, stewardship, expectancy, and preparedness. These are the lessons he taught in the parables that immediately follow.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:37 as were the days of Noah. Jesus' emphasis here is not so much on the extreme wickedness of Noah's day (Gen. 6:5), but on the people's preoccupation with mundane matters of everyday life ("eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage"—Matt. 24:38) when judgment fell suddenly. They had received warnings, in the form of Noah's preaching (2 Pet. 2:5)—and the ark itself, which was a testimony to the judgment that was to come. But they were unconcerned about such matters and therefore were swept away unexpectedly in the midst of their daily activities.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:40–41 one will be taken. I.e., taken in judgment (cf. v. 39) just as in Noah's day ("swept them"; v. 39). This is clearly not a reference to the catching away of believers described in 1 Thess. 4:16–17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:43 the thief. As no one knows what hour the thief will come, no one knows the hour of the Lord's return or the day of the Lord that accompanies his coming (cf. 1 Thess. 5:2; 2 Pet. 3:10). But the believer is to be ready at all times.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:44 at an hour you do not expect. The parables that follow teach Christ's followers to be ready in case he comes sooner than anticipated (vv. 43–51); and also to be prepared in case he delays longer than expected (25:1–13).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:45–51 The evil slave represents an unbeliever who refuses to take seriously the promise of Christ's return (cf. 2 Pet. 3:4). Though he is an unbeliever (as demonstrated by his punishment—see note on Matt. 22:13), he is nonetheless accountable to Christ for the stewardship of his time. Jesus was teaching that every person in the world holds his life, natural abilities, wealth, and possessions in trust from God and must give account of how these things are used.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 24:51 weeping and gnashing of teeth. See note on 22:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:1–13 The parable of the 10 virgins is given to underscore the importance of being ready for Christ’s return in any event—even if he delays longer than expected. For when he does return, there will be no second chances for the unprepared (vv. 11–12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:1 ten virgins. I.e., bridesmaids. The wedding would begin at the bride’s house when the bridegroom arrived to observe the wedding ritual. Then a procession would follow as the bridegroom took the bride to his house for the completion of festivities. For a night wedding, “lamps,” which were actually torches, were needed for the procession.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:14–30 The parable of the talents illustrates the tragedy of wasted opportunity. The man who goes on the journey represents Christ, and the slaves represent professing believers given different levels of responsibility. Faithfulness is what he demands of them (see note on v. 23), but the parable suggests that all who are faithful will be fruitful to some degree. The fruitless person is unmasked as a hypocrite and utterly destroyed (v. 30).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:15 talents. A talent was a measure of weight, not a specific coin, so that a talent of gold was more valuable than a talent of silver. A talent of silver (the word translated “money” in v. 18 is lit. “silver”) was a considerable sum of money. The modern meaning of the word “talent,” denoting a natural ability, stems from the fact that this parable is erroneously applied to the stewardship of one’s natural gifts.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:23 the joy of your master. Both the man with five talents and the man with two received exactly the same reward, indicating that the reward is based on faithfulness, not results.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:24 a hard man. His characterization of the master maligns the man as a cruel and ruthless opportunist, “reaping . . . and gathering” what he had no right to claim as his own. This slothful servant does not represent a genuine believer, for it is obvious that this man had no true knowledge of the master.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:26 You knew that I reap where I have not sown. In repeating the slave’s charge against him, the master was not acknowledging that it was true. He was allowing the man’s own words to condemn him. If the slave really believed the master to be the kind of man he portrayed, that was all the more reason for him not to be slothful. His accusation against the master—even if it had been true—did not justify his own laziness.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:29 to everyone who has will more be given. See 13:12. The recipients of divine grace inherit immeasurable blessings in addition to eternal life and the favor of God (cf. Rom. 8:32). But those who despise the riches of God’s goodness, forbearance, and longsuffering (Rom. 2:4), burying them in the ground and clinging instead to the paltry and transient goods of this world, will ultimately lose everything they have (cf. Matt. 6:19; John 12:25).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:30 outer darkness . . . weeping and gnashing of teeth. See note on 22:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:31 he will sit on his glorious throne. This speaks of the earthly reign of Christ described in Rev. 20:4–6. The judgment described here in Matt. 25:32–46 is different from the great white throne judgment of Rev. 20:11–15. This judgment precedes Christ’s millennial reign, and the subjects seem to be only those who are alive at his coming. This is sometimes referred to as the judgment of the nations, but his verdicts address individuals in the nations, not the nations as a whole (cf. Matt. 25:46).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:32–33 sheep. I.e., believers (10:16; Ps. 79:13; Ezek. 34). They are given the place on “his right”—the place of favor. goats. These represent unbelievers, consigned to the place of dishonor and rejection.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:34 prepared for you. This terminology underscores that their salvation is a gracious gift of God, not something merited by the deeds described in vv. 35–36. Before “the foundation of the world” they were chosen by God and ordained to be holy (Eph. 1:4)—predestined to be conformed to Christ’s image (Rom. 8:29). So the good deeds commended in Matt. 25:35–36 are the fruit, not the root of their salvation. The deeds are not the basis for their entrance into the kingdom, but merely manifestations of God’s grace in their lives. They are the objective criteria for judgment, because they are the evidence of saving faith (cf. James 2:14–26).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:40 one of the least of these my brothers. This refers in particular to other disciples. Some would apply this to national Israel; others to needy people in general. But here Christ is specifically commending “those on his right” (v. 34) for the way they received his emissaries. See note on 18:5.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 25:46 eternal punishment . . . eternal life. The same Greek word is used in both instances. The punishment of the wicked is as never-ending as the bliss of the righteous. The wicked are not given a second chance, nor are they annihilated. The punishment of the wicked dead is described throughout Scripture as “eternal fire” (v. 41); “unquenchable fire” (3:12); “shame and everlasting contempt” (Dan. 12:2); a place where “their worm does not die and the fire is not quenched” (Mark 9:45–49); a place of “torment” and “flame” (Luke 16:23–24); “eternal destruction” (2 Thess. 1:9); a place of torment with “fire and sulfur” where “the smoke of their torment goes up forever and ever” (Rev. 14:10–11); and a “lake of fire and sulfur” where the wicked are “tormented day and night forever and ever” (Rev. 20:10). Here Jesus indicates that the punishment itself is everlasting—not merely the smoke and flames. The wicked are forever subject to the fury and the wrath of God. They consciously suffer shame and contempt and the assaults of an accusing conscience—along with the fiery wrath of an offended deity—for all of eternity. Even hell will acknowledge the perfect justice of God (Ps. 76:10); those who are there will know that their punishment is just and that they alone are to blame (cf. Deut. 32:3–5).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:2 Passover. This was God’s chosen time for Christ to die. He was the antitype to which the Passover lamb had always referred. Christ had always avoided his enemies’ plots to kill him (Luke 4:29–30; John 5:18; 10:39), but now it was his time (see note on Matt. 26:5). The true Lamb of God would take away the sin of the world (John 1:29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:3 Caiaphas. Caiaphas served as high priest from A.D. 18 to 36, an unusually long tenure for anyone in that role. His longevity suggests he had a close relationship with both Rome and the Herodian dynasty. He was son-in-law to his predecessor, Annas (John 18:13; see note on Luke 3:2). He controlled the temple and no doubt personally profited from the corrupt merchandising that was taking place there (see note on Matt. 21:12). His enmity against Jesus seems intensely personal and especially malevolent; every time he appears in Scripture, he is seeking Jesus' destruction.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:5 Not during the feast. The Jewish leaders, who had been eager to kill him for so long, decided to postpone their plot until a more politically opportune time. But they could not; God's chosen time had come (see notes on vv. 2, 18, 54).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:6 Simon the leper. Simon was almost certainly someone whom Jesus had healed of leprosy, for lepers were deemed unclean and therefore not permitted to socialize or even live in cities. See note on Lev. 13:2 for a discussion on leprosy.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:7 an alabaster flask of very expensive ointment. Mark sets the value at "more than three hundred denarii" (see note on Mark 14:5), nearly a year's wages—very costly indeed. Even the expensive flask was broken (Mark 14:3), making the act that much more costly. "Alabaster" was a fine variety of marble, quarried in Egypt, which could be carved into delicate containers for storing costly perfumes. John tells us this woman was Mary, sister of Martha and Lazarus (John 12:3); thus Martha and Mary were evidently serving the meal for Simon the leper. Matthew and Mark mention that she anointed his head. John adds that she anointed his feet and wiped them with her hair. A similar act of worship is related in Luke 7:36–38, but the differences in timing, location, and other details make it clear that the two occasions were different.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:8 they were indignant. John says Judas was the spokesman who voiced the complaint, and that he did it for hypocritical reasons (John 12:4–6). Evidently the other disciples, being undiscerning, were quick to voice sympathy with Judas's protest.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:11 For you always have the poor with you. Jesus certainly was not disparaging ministry to the poor—especially so soon after the lesson of the sheep and goats judgment (cf. 25:35–36). However, he revealed here that there is a higher priority than any other earthly ministry, and that is worship rendered to him. This would be an utter blasphemy for anyone less than God, so yet again he was implicitly affirming his deity (see notes on 8:27; 12:6, 8; 21:16; 22:42, 45).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:12 she has done it to prepare me for burial. This does not necessarily mean that Mary was consciously aware of the significance of her act. It is doubtful that she knew of his approaching death, or at least how close it was. But this was an act of pure worship, her heart having been moved by God to perform a sacrificial and symbolic act, the full significance of which she probably did not know.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:13 in memory of her. This promise was guaranteed by the inclusion of this story in the NT.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:15 thirty pieces of silver. The price of a slave (Ex. 21:32).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:17 the first day of Unleavened Bread. The Passover lambs were killed (Mark 14:12) on 14 Nisan (March/April). That evening, the Passover meal was eaten. The Feast of Unleavened Bread followed immediately after Passover, from 15–21 Nisan. The entire time was often referred to either as “Passover” (Luke 22:1), or as the Feast of Unleavened Bread. Therefore the first day refers to 14 Nisan. See Introduction to John: Interpretive Challenges; see note on John 19:14.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:18 a certain man. Mark 14:13 and Luke 22:10 say they would be able to identify the man because he would be “carrying a jar of water,” a chore normally reserved for women. He was evidently someone they did not know, probably a servant of whoever owned the house with an “upper room,” where the Passover meal was to be eaten (Mark 14:15; Luke 22:12). Jesus had evidently made these arrangements clandestinely, in order to prevent his premature betrayal. Had Judas known ahead of time where the meal was to be eaten, he would surely have alerted the chief priests and elders (see Matt. 26:14–16). But none of these things were to happen until the “time” was “at hand.” All of this reveals how Jesus himself was sovereignly in control of the details of his own crucifixion (see notes on vv. 5, 54).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:20 he reclined. See note on Mark 14:18; cf. John 13:25.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:26 Take, eat; this is my body. Jesus thus transformed the last Passover into the first observance of the Lord’s Supper. He is the central antitype in both ceremonies, being represented symbolically by both the paschal lamb of the Passover and the elements in the communion service. His statement, “this is my body,” could not possibly have been taken in any literal sense by the disciples present that evening. See note on Luke 22:19.

Jesus' Arrest, Trial, and Crucifixion

The path from Jesus' arrest to his crucifixion (part of which is often called the Via Dolorosa, "Way of Sorrows") is difficult to retrace with certainty. According to a possible harmony of the Gospel accounts, after the Passover meal Judas led a contingent of soldiers to Gethsemane to arrest Jesus (1). From there Jesus was led to Annas (location unknown), who sent him to his son-in-law Caiaphas, the high priest (2). The Jewish leaders then appealed to the Roman governor Pilate to have Jesus put to death (3). Luke records that Pilate sent Jesus to Herod Antipas (4), who questioned Jesus but returned him to Pilate without rendering any judgment (5). Pilate then sent Jesus to be crucified at Golgotha (6).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:28 my blood of the covenant. Covenants were ratified with the blood of a sacrifice (Gen. 8:20; 15:9–10). Jesus' words here echo Moses' pronouncement in Ex. 24:8. The blood of the New Covenant is not an animal's blood, but Christ's own blood, shed for the remission of sins. See notes on Jer. 31:31–34; Heb. 8:1–10:18; 8:6.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:29 my Father's kingdom. I.e., the earthly millennial kingdom (see Luke 22:18, 29–30).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:30 when they had sung a hymn. Probably Ps. 118. The Talmud designated Ps. 113–118 as the Hallel (praise psalms) of Egypt. These psalms were sung at Passover (see notes on Ps. 113–118).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:31 fall away. See v. 56. The Greek word is the same word Jesus used in 24:10, describing the falling away and spiritual treachery that would occur in the last days. Here, however, Jesus spoke of something less than full and final apostasy. In a moment of fleshly fear they disowned Christ (26:34), but he prayed that their faith would not fail (Luke 22:32; John 17:9–11), and that prayer was answered. The verse Jesus quotes here is Zech. 13:7 (see note there).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:32 I will go before you to Galilee. See note on 28:7.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:34 before the rooster crows. Mark adds “twice.” The rooster would begin crowing about 3:00 A.M. (cf. Mark 13:35). Though Peter and all the disciples insisted that they would never deny Christ (Matt. 26:33, 35), they were only a few hours away from fulfilling this prophecy (vv. 74–75; Mark 14:66–72).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:36 Gethsemane. Lit., “oil press.” This was a frequent meeting place for Christ and his disciples (John 18:2), just across the Kidron Valley from Jerusalem (John 18:1). A garden of ancient olive trees is there to this day. Judas’s familiarity with Jesus’ patterns enabled him to find Jesus there—even though Christ had not previously announced his intentions.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:38 very sorrowful, even to death. His anguish had nothing to do with fear of men or the physical torments of the cross. He was sorrowful because within hours the full cup of divine fury against sin would be his to drink (see note on v. 39).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:39 this cup. Cf. v. 42. A cup is often the symbol of divine wrath against sin in the OT (Isa. 51:17, 22; Jer. 25:15–17, 27–29; Lam. 4:21–22; Ezek. 23:31–34; Hab. 2:16). The next day Christ would “bear the sins of many” (Heb. 9:28)—and the fullness of divine wrath would fall on him (Isa. 53:10–11; 2 Cor. 5:21). This was the price of the sin he bore, and he paid it in full. His cry of anguish in Matt. 27:46 reflects the extreme bitterness of the cup of wrath he was given. not as I will, but as you will. This implies no conflict between the Persons of the Godhead. Rather, it graphically reveals how Christ in his humanity voluntarily surrendered his will to the will of the Father in all things—precisely so that there would be no conflict between the divine will and his desires. See John 4:34; 6:38; 8:29; Phil. 2:8. See note on John 5:30.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:41 the flesh is weak. The tenderness of this plea is touching. Christ himself was well acquainted with the feeling of human infirmities (Heb. 4:15)—yet without sin. At that very moment he was locked in a struggle against human passions which, while not sinful in themselves, must be subjugated to the divine will if sin was to be avoided. See note on Matt. 26:39.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:47 Judas came, one of the twelve. See v. 14. All four evangelists refer to Judas this way (Mark 14:10, 43; Luke 22:47; John 6:71). Only once (John 20:24) is another disciple so described. The Gospel writers seem to use the expression to underscore the insidiousness of Judas’s crime—especially here, in the midst of the betrayal.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:48–49 See notes on Mark 14:44–45.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:50 Friend. Not the usual Greek word for “friend,” but another word meaning “comrade.”

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:51 one of those. John identifies the swordsman as Peter and the victim as Malchus (John 18:10). Clearly, Peter was not aiming for the ear, but for the head. Only Luke mentions that Jesus healed Malchus’s ear (see note on Luke 22:51).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:52 perish by the sword. Peter’s action was vigilantism. No matter how unjust the arrest of Jesus, Peter had no right to take the law into his own hands in order to stop it. Jesus’ reply was a restatement of the Gen. 9:6 principle: “Whoever sheds the blood of man, by man shall his blood be shed,” an affirmation that capital punishment is an appropriate penalty for murder.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:53 more than twelve legions. A Roman legion was composed of 6,000 soldiers, so this would represent more than 72,000 angels. In 2 Kings 19:35 a single angel killed more than 185,000 men in a single night, so this many angels would make a formidable army. See note on Luke 2:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:54 Scriptures be fulfilled. God himself had foreordained the very minutest details of how Jesus would die (Acts 2:23; 4:27–28). Dying was Christ’s consummate act of submission to the Father’s will (see note on Matt. 26:39). Jesus himself was in absolute control (John 10:17–18). Yet it was not Jesus alone, but everyone around him—his enemies included—who fulfilled precisely the details of the OT prophecies. These events display his divine sovereignty. See notes on Matt. 26:2; 1:22; 5:18; 27:50.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:57 Caiaphas the high priest. See note on v. 3. From John 18:13, we learn that Christ was taken first to Annas (former high priest and father-in-law to Caiaphas). He then was sent bound to Caiaphas’s house (John 18:24). The conspiracy was well planned, so that “the scribes and the elders” (the Sanhedrin, see note on Matt. 26:59) were already “gathered” at Caiaphas’s house and ready to try Jesus. The time was sometime between midnight and the first rooster’s crowing (v. 74). Such a hearing was illegal on several counts: criminal trials were not to be held at night (see note on 27:1); and trials in capital cases could only be held at the temple and only in public. See note on 27:2 for a fuller chronology of the events leading up to the crucifixion.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:59 the whole Council. See note on John 3:1. The great Sanhedrin was the Supreme Court of Israel, consisting of 71 members, presided over by the high priest. They met daily in the temple to hold court, except on the Sabbath and other holy days. Technically, they did not have the power to administer capital punishment (John 18:31), but in the case of Stephen, for example, this was no deterrent to his stoning (cf. Acts 6:12–14; 7:58–60). Roman governors evidently sometimes ignored such incidents as a matter of political expediency. In Jesus’ case, the men who were trying him were the same ones who had conspired against him (cf. John 11:47–50).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:60 they found none. Even though many were willing to perjure themselves, the Sanhedrin could not find a charge that had enough credibility to indict Jesus. Evidently the “false witnesses” could not agree between themselves.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:61 destroy the temple of God. See John 2:19–21. The witnesses’ account was a distortion of Jesus’ meaning. Mark 14:58 gives a fuller account of their testimony.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:63 adjure you. See note on 5:34. Caiaphas was trying to break Jesus’ silence (Matt. 26:62) by placing him under oath. The oath was supposed to make him legally obligated to reply. Jesus’ answer (v. 64) implies acceptance of the oath.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:64 The imagery was taken from Ps. 110:1 and Dan. 7:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:65 the high priest tore his robes. Normally this was an expression of deep grief (2 Kings 19:1; Job 1:20; Jer. 36:24). The high priest was forbidden to tear his clothes (Lev. 10:6; 21:10)—but the Talmud made an exception for high priests who witnessed a blasphemy. But Caiaphas’s supposed grief was as phony as the charge of blasphemy against Jesus; he was gloating over having found something to base his charges on (Matt. 26:67).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:74 he began to invoke a curse. I.e., calling on God as his witness, Peter declared, “I do not know the man,” and pronounced a curse of death on himself at God’s hand if his words were untrue. All four Gospels record Peter’s betrayal. Cf. vv. 31–35.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 26:75 And Peter remembered. Luke 22:61 records that Jesus made eye contact with Peter at this very moment, which must have magnified Peter’s already unbearable sense of shame. “He went out”—evidently departing from Caiaphas’s house—“and wept bitterly.” The true Peter is seen not in his denial but in his repentance. This account reminds us of not only our own weakness, but also the richness of divine grace (see also John 21:15–19).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:1 When morning came. The Sanhedrin waited until daybreak to render their official verdict (cf. 26:66), possibly a token nod to the rule against criminal trials at night (see note on 26:57).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:2 delivered him over to Pilate. Jesus had two trials, one Jewish and religious, the other Roman and secular. Rome reserved the right of execution in capital cases (see note on 26:59), so Jesus had to be handed over to the Roman authorities for execution of the death sentence. Pilate’s headquarters were in Caesarea, on the Mediterranean coast, but he was in Jerusalem for the Passover celebrations, so he oversaw the trial (see note on Mark 15:1). Christ was brought before Pilate (Matt. 27:2–14), then was sent to Herod for yet another hearing (Luke 23:6–12), then returned to Pilate for the final hearing and pronouncing of sentence (Matt. 27:15–26).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:3 changed his mind. Judas felt the sting of his own guilt, but this was not genuine repentance. There is a godly sorrow that leads to repentance, but Judas’s remorse was of a different kind, as demonstrated by his suicide (v. 5). Cf. 2 Cor. 7:10.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:5 hanged himself. See note on Acts 1:18.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:9 spoken by the prophet Jeremiah. Actually the statement paraphrases Zech. 11:12–13. But the Hebrew canon was divided into three sections: Law, Writings, and Prophets (cf. Luke 24:44). Jeremiah came first in the order of prophetic books, so the Prophets were sometimes collectively referred to by his name.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:11 You have said so. These words were probably spoken immediately after the dialogue John 18:34–36 reports.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:25 His blood be on us. The Jews accepted the blame for the execution of Jesus and did not hold the Romans responsible. Cf. 21:38–39.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:26 scourged. The whip used for scourging consisted of several strands of leather attached to a wooden handle. Each strand had a bit of metal or bone attached to the end. The victim was bound to a post by the wrists, high over his head, so that the flesh of the back would be taut. An expert at wielding the scourge could literally tear the flesh from the back, lacerating muscles, and sometimes even exposing the kidneys or other internal organs. Scourging alone was fatal in some cases.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:27 governor’s headquarters. Pilate’s residence in Jerusalem. It was probably located in the Antonia Fortress, adjacent to the northwest corner of the temple. “The soldiers of the governor” were part of a “cohort”—about 600 soldiers—assigned to serve the governor (Pilate) during his stay in Jerusalem.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:28 scarlet robe. Mark 15:17 and John 19:2 say “purple,” suggesting that the robe may have been something between royal purple, and “scarlet,” the closest thing they could find to the traditional garb of royalty. The word for “robe” refers to a military cloak undoubtedly belonging to one of the soldiers.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:29 a reed in his right hand. To imitate a scepter they purposely chose something flimsy-looking.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:30 they spit on him. See Isa. 50:6. struck him on the head. A reed long enough to make a mock scepter would be firm enough to be extremely painful, about like a broom handle. John 19:3 says they hit him with their fists as well.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:31 to crucify him. Crucifixion was a form of punishment that had been passed down to the Romans from the Persians, Phoenicians, and Carthaginians. Roman crucifixion was a lingering doom—by design. Roman executioners had perfected the art of slow torture while keeping the victim alive. Some victims even lingered until they were eaten alive by birds of prey or wild beasts. Most hung on the cross for days before dying of exhaustion, dehydration, traumatic fever, or—most likely—suffocation. When the legs would no longer support the weight of the body, the diaphragm was constricted in a way that made breathing impossible. That is why breaking the legs would hasten death (John 19:31–33), but this was unnecessary in Jesus’ case. The hands were usually nailed through the wrists, and the feet through the instep or the Achilles tendon (sometimes using one nail for both feet). None of these wounds would be fatal, but their pain would become unbearable as the hours dragged on. The most notable feature of crucifixion was the stigma of disgrace that was attached to it (Gal. 3:13; 5:11; Heb. 12:2). One indignity was the humiliation of carrying one’s own cross, which might weigh as much as 200 pounds. Normally a quaternion, four soldiers, would escort the prisoner through the crowds to the place of crucifixion. A placard bearing the indictment would be hung around the person’s neck.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:32 Cyrene. A city in north Africa. Evidently the scourging had so weakened Jesus that he was unable to carry the cross. This is another touching picture of his humanity, beset with all human weaknesses except sin (Heb. 4:15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:33 Place of a Skull. “Golgotha” may have been a skull-shaped hill, or it may have been so named because as a place of crucifixion, it accumulated skulls. None of the Gospels mention a hill.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:34 wine . . . mixed with gall. “Gall” simply refers to something bitter. Mark 15:23 identifies it as myrrh, a narcotic. The Jews had a custom, based on Prov. 31:6, of administering a pain-deadening medication mixed with wine to victims of crucifixion, in order to deaden the pain. Tasting what it was, Christ, though thirsty, “would not drink it,” lest it dull his senses before he completed his work. The lessening of physical pain would probably not have diminished the efficacy of his atoning work (see notes on Matt. 26:38–39). But he needed his full mental faculties for the hours yet to come. It was necessary for him to be awake and fully conscious, for example, to minister to the dying thief (Luke 23:43).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:35 divided his garments. The garments of the victim were the customary spoils of the executioners. John 19:23–24 gives a fuller account. This action was foretold in Ps. 22:18.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:37 the charge. For a reconciliation of the differences between the various accounts of this inscription, see note on Luke 23:38 (cf. Mark 15:26). The fact that the placard was placed “over his head” suggests that this cross was in the familiar shape with an upright protruding above the transom, and not the T-shaped cross that was also sometimes used.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:38 robbers. This word denotes a rebel and brigand who plunders as he steals. Mere thieves were not usually crucified. These were probably cohorts of Barabbas.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:40 destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days. See 26:61. They had missed his point. “He was speaking about the temple of his body” (John 2:21). He would not “come down from the cross,” but it was not because he was powerless to do so (John 10:18). The proof that he was the Son of God came “in three days” (see note on Matt. 12:40), when he returned with “the temple” (i.e., his body) rebuilt.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:42 we will believe in him. See notes on 12:38 and 16:1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:45 from the sixth hour . . . until the ninth hour. From noon until 3:00 P.M. The crucifixion began at 9:00 A.M. (see notes on Mark 15:25; Luke 23:44).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:46 Eli, Eli, lema sabachthani. “Eli” is Hebrew; the rest Aramaic (Mark 15:34 gives the entire wail in Aramaic) This cry is a fulfillment of Ps. 22:1, one of many striking parallels between that psalm and the specific events of the crucifixion (see notes on Ps. 22). Christ at that moment was experiencing the abandonment and despair that resulted from the outpouring of divine wrath on him as sin-bearer (see note on Matt. 26:39).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:50 yielded up his spirit. A voluntary act. See John 10:18. See note on Matt. 26:54.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:51 the curtain of the temple. I.e., the curtain that blocked the entrance to the Most Holy Place (Ex. 26:33; Heb. 9:3). The tearing of the veil signified that the way into God’s presence was now open to all through a new and living way (Heb. 10:19–22). The fact that it tore “from top to bottom” showed that no man had split the veil. God did it.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:52 bodies of the saints . . . were raised. Matthew alone mentions this miracle. Nothing more is said about these people, which would be unlikely if they remained on earth for long. Evidently, these people were given glorified bodies; they appeared “to many” (v. 53), enough to establish the reality of the miracle; and then they no doubt ascended to glory—a kind of foretaste of 1 Thess. 4:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:54 the centurion. See note on 8:5. those . . . with him. These were probably men under his charge. Mark 15:39 says the centurion was the one who uttered the words of confession, but he evidently spoke for his men as well. Their fear speaks of an awareness of their sin, and the word “truly” suggests a certainty and conviction that bespeaks genuine faith. These men represent an answer to Jesus’ prayer in Luke 23:34. Their response contrasts sharply with the mocking taunts of Matt. 27:39–44.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:56 Mary Magdalene. She had been delivered from seven demons (Luke 8:2); the other “Mary” (“wife of Clopas,” John 19:25—a variant of Alphaeus) was the mother of the apostle known as “James the younger” (Mark 15:40; see note on Matt. 10:2). the mother of the sons of Zebedee. Salome (Mark 15:40), mother of James and John. From John 19:26, we learn that Mary, the mother of Jesus, was also present at the cross—possibly standing apart from these three, who were “looking on from a distance” (Matt. 27:55), as if they could not bear to watch his sufferings, but neither could they bear to leave him.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:57 Arimathea. A town about 15–20 miles northwest of Jerusalem. Joseph. Mark 15:43 and Luke 23:50–51 identify him as a member of the Sanhedrin (see note on Matt. 26:59), though Luke says he “had not consented to their decision and action” in condemning Christ. Joseph and Nicodemus (John 19:39), both being prominent Jewish leaders, buried Christ in Joseph’s own “new tomb” (Matt. 27:60), thus fulfilling exactly the prophecy of Isa. 53:9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 27:62 The next day. The Sabbath. after the day of Preparation. This was on Friday.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:1 toward the dawn of the first day of the week. Sabbath officially ended with sundown on Saturday. At that time the women could purchase and prepare spices (Luke 24:1). The event described here occurred the next morning, at dawn on Sunday, the first day of the week. other Mary. The mother of James the younger (see note on Matt. 27:56).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:2 a great earthquake. The second earthquake associated with Christ's death (27:51). This one may have been confined to the immediate area around the grave, when “an angel” supernaturally “rolled back the stone”—not to let Jesus out, for if he could rise from the dead, he would need no help escaping an earthly tomb, but to let the women and the apostles in (28:6).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:4 became like dead men. This suggests that they were not merely paralyzed with fear, but completely unconscious, totally traumatized by what they had seen. The word translated “trembled” has the same root as the word for “earthquake” in v. 2. The sudden appearance of this angel, at the same time the women arrived, was their first clue that anything extraordinary was happening.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:6 Come, see the place where he lay. See note on Luke 24:4 for the order of these events as gleaned from all four Gospels.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:7 there you will see him. See vv. 10, 16; 26:32; John 21:1–14. This does not mean they would not see him until then. He was seen by the apostles several times before they saw him in Galilee (Luke 24:15, 34, 36; John 20:19, 26). But his supreme post-resurrection appearance was in Galilee, where “he appeared to more than five hundred brothers at one time” (1 Cor. 15:6). See note on Matt. 28:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:9 Jesus met them. For a summary of Christ's post-resurrection appearances, see note on Luke 24:34.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:10 my brothers. I.e., the disciples.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:11 told the chief priests. The Jewish leaders' determination to cover up what had occurred reveals the obstinacy of unbelief in the face of evidence (Luke 16:31).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:12 a sufficient sum of money. Lit., “silver” (cf. 26:15). The bribery was necessary because the soldiers' story, if true, could cost them their lives—since they were charged with guard duty under Pilate's personal orders (27:65). The Jewish leaders also promised to cover for the soldiers if the false story they spread leaked back to Pilate (28:14).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:13 while we were asleep. The story was obviously bogus, and not a very good cover-up. They could not possibly know what had happened while they were asleep.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:16 the eleven disciples. This does not mean that only the 11 were present. The fact that some “doubted” (v. 17) strongly suggests that more than the 11 were present. It is likely that Christ arranged this meeting in Galilee because that was where most of his followers were. This seems the most likely location for the massive gathering of disciples Paul describes in 1 Cor. 15:6 (see note on Matt. 28:7).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:17 but some doubted. That simple phrase is one of countless testimonies to the integrity of Scripture. The transparent honesty of a statement like this shows that Matthew was not attempting to exclude or cover up facts that might lessen the perfection of such a glorious moment.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:18 All authority. See 11:27; John 3:35. Absolute sovereign authority—lordship over all—is handed to Christ, “in heaven and on earth.” This is clear proof of his deity. The time of his humiliation was at an end, and God had exalted him above all (Phil. 2:9–11).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:19 therefore. I.e., on the basis of his authority, the disciples were sent to “make disciples of all the nations.” The sweeping scope of their commission is consummate with his unlimited authority. in the name of the Father . . . Son . . . Holy Spirit. The formula is a strong affirmation of trinitarianism.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 28:20 teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. The kind of evangelism called for in this commission does not end with the conversion of the unbeliever. I am with you. There's a touching echo of the beginning of Matthew's Gospel here. Immanuel, which is translated, "God with us" (1:23), remains "with" us "to the end of the age"—i.e., until he returns bodily to judge the world and establish his earthly kingdom.

Introduction to Mark

Title

Mark, for whom this Gospel is named, was a close companion of the apostle Peter and a recurring character in the book of Acts, where he is known as “John whose other name was Mark” (Acts 12:12, 25; 15:37, 39). It was to John Mark’s mother’s home in Jerusalem that Peter went when released from prison (Acts 12:12).

John Mark was a cousin of Barnabas (Col. 4:10), who accompanied Paul and Barnabas on Paul’s first missionary journey (Acts 12:25; 13:5). But he deserted them along the way in Perga and returned to Jerusalem (Acts 13:13). When Barnabas wanted Paul to take John Mark on the second missionary journey, Paul refused. The friction that resulted between Paul and Barnabas led to their separation (Acts 15:38–40).

But John Mark’s earlier vacillation evidently gave way to great strength and maturity, and in time he proved himself even to the apostle Paul. When Paul wrote the Colossians, he instructed them that if John Mark came, they were to welcome him (Col. 4:10). Paul even listed Mark as a fellow worker (Philem. 24). Later, Paul told Timothy to “get Mark and bring him with you, for he is very useful to me for ministry” (2 Tim. 4:11).

John Mark’s restoration to useful ministry may have been, in part, due to the ministry of Peter. Peter’s close relationship with Mark is evident from his description of him as “Mark, my son” (1 Pet. 5:13). Peter, of course, was no stranger to failure himself, and his influence on the younger man was no doubt instrumental in helping him out of the instability of his youth and into the strength and maturity he would need for the work to which God had called him.

Author and Date

Unlike the epistles, the Gospels do not name their authors. The early church Fathers, however, unanimously affirm that Mark wrote this second Gospel. Papias, bishop of Hieropolis, writing about A.D. 140, noted:

And the presbyter [the apostle John] said this: Mark having become the interpreter of Peter, wrote down accurately whatsoever he remembered. It was not, however, in exact order that he related the sayings or deeds of Christ. For he neither heard the Lord nor accompanied him. But afterwards, as I said, he accompanied Peter, who accommodated his instructions to the necessities [of his hearers], but with no intention of giving a regular narrative of the Lord's sayings. Wherefore Mark made no mistake in thus writing some things as he remembered them. For of one thing he took especial care, not to omit anything he had heard, and not to put anything fictitious into the statements. [From the Exposition of the Oracles of the Lord (6)]

Justin Martyr, writing about A.D. 150, referred to the Gospel of Mark as “the memoirs of Peter,” and suggested that Mark committed his Gospel to writing while in Italy. This agrees with the uniform voice of early tradition, which regarded this Gospel as having been written in Rome, for the benefit of Roman Christians. Irenaeus, writing about A.D. 185, called Mark “the disciple and interpreter of Peter,” and recorded that the second Gospel consisted of what Peter preached about Christ. The testimony of the church Fathers differs as to whether this Gospel was written before or after Peter's death (c. A.D. 67–68).

Evangelical scholars have suggested dates for the writing of Mark's Gospel ranging from A.D. 50 to 70. A date before the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple in A.D. 70 is required by the comment of Jesus in Mark 13:2. Luke's Gospel was clearly written before Acts (Acts 1:1–3). The date of the writing of Acts can probably be fixed at about A.D. 63, because that is shortly after the narrative ends (see Introduction to Acts: Author and Date). It is therefore likely, though not certain, that Mark was written at an early date, probably sometime in the 50s.

Background and Setting

Whereas Matthew was written to a Jewish audience, Mark seems to have targeted Roman believers, particularly Gentiles. When employing Aramaic terms, Mark translated them for his readers (3:17; 5:41; 7:11, 34; 10:46; 14:36; 15:22, 34). On the other hand, in some places he used Latin expressions instead of their Greek equivalents (5:9; 6:27; 12:15, 42; 15:16, 39). He also reckoned time according to the Roman system (6:48; 13:35) and carefully explained Jewish customs (7:3–4; 14:12; 15:42). Mark omitted Jewish elements, such as the genealogies found in Matthew and Luke. This Gospel also makes fewer references to the OT, and includes less material that would be of particular interest to Jewish readers—such as that which is critical of the Pharisees and Sadducees (Sadducees are mentioned only once, in 12:18). When mentioning Simon of Cyrene (15:21), Mark identifies him as the father of Rufus, a prominent member of the church at Rome (Rom. 16:13). All of this supports the traditional view that Mark was written for a Gentile audience initially at Rome.

Historical and Theological Themes

Mark presents Jesus as the suffering servant of the Lord (10:45). His focus is on the deeds of Jesus more than his teaching, particularly emphasizing service and sacrifice. Mark omits the lengthy discourses found in the other Gospels, often relating only brief excerpts to give the gist of Jesus' teaching. Mark also omits any account of Jesus' ancestry and birth, beginning where Jesus' public ministry began, with his baptism by John in the wilderness.

Mark demonstrated the humanity of Christ more clearly than any of the other evangelists, emphasizing Christ's human emotions (1:41; 3:5; 6:34; 8:12; 9:36), his human limitations (4:38; 11:12; 13:32), and other small details that highlight the human side of the Son of God (e.g., 7:33–34; 8:12; 9:36; 10:13–16).

Interpretive Challenges

Three significant questions confront the interpreter of Mark: 1) What is the relationship of Mark to Luke and Matthew? (see below, “The Synoptic Problem”); 2) How should one interpret the eschatological passages? (see notes on chs. 4; 13); and 3) Were the last 12 verses of ch. 16 originally part of Mark's Gospel? (see note on 16:9–20).

The Synoptic Problem

Even a cursory reading of Matthew, Mark, and Luke reveals both striking similarities (cf. 2:3–12; Matt. 9:2–8; Luke 5:18–26) and significant differences as each views the life, ministry, and teaching of Jesus. The question of how to explain those similarities and differences is known as the “Synoptic Problem” (syn means “together”; optic means “seeing”).

The modern solution—even among evangelicals—has been to assume that some form of literary dependence exists between the synoptic Gospels. The most commonly accepted theory to explain such an alleged literary dependence is known as the “Two-Source” theory. According to that hypothesis, Mark was the first Gospel written, and Matthew and Luke then used Mark as a source in writing their Gospels. Proponents of this view imagine a non-existent, second source, labeled Q (from the German word Quelle, “source”), and argue that this allegedly is the source of the material in Matthew and Luke that does not appear in Mark. They advance several lines of evidence to support their scenario.

First, most of Mark is paralleled in Matthew and Luke. Since it is much shorter than Matthew and Luke, the latter must be expansions of Mark. Second, the three Gospels follow the same general chronological outline, but when either Matthew or Luke departs from Mark’s chronology, the other agrees with Mark. Put another way, Matthew and Luke do not both depart from Mark’s chronology in the same places. That, it is argued, shows that Matthew and Luke used Mark for their historical framework. Third, in passages common to all three Gospels, Matthew’s and Luke’s wording seldom agrees when it differs from Mark’s. Proponents of the “Two-Source” theory see that as confirmation that Matthew and Luke used Mark’s Gospel as a source.

But those arguments do not prove that Matthew and Luke used Mark’s Gospel as a source. In fact, the weight of evidence is strongly against such a theory:

- 1) The nearly unanimous testimony of the church until the nineteenth century was that Matthew was the first Gospel written. Such an impressive body of evidence cannot be ignored.
- 2) Why would Matthew, an apostle and eyewitness to the events of Christ’s life, depend on Mark (who was not an eyewitness)—even for the account of his own conversion?
- 3) A significant statistical analysis of the synoptic Gospels has revealed that the parallels between them are far less extensive and the differences more significant than is commonly acknowledged. The differences, in particular, argue against literary dependence between the Gospel writers.
- 4) Since the Gospels record actual historical events, it would be surprising if they did not follow the same general historical sequence. For example, the fact that three books on American history all had the Revolutionary War, the Civil War, World War I, World War II, the Vietnam War, and the Gulf War in the same chronological order would not prove that the authors had read each others' books. General agreement in content does not prove literary dependency.

5) The passages in which Matthew and Luke agree against Mark (see argument three in favor of the "Two-Source" theory) amount to about one-sixth of Matthew and one-sixth of Luke. If they used Mark's Gospel as a source, there is no satisfactory explanation for why Matthew and Luke would so often both change Mark's wording in the same way.

6) The "Two-Source" theory cannot account for the important section in Mark's Gospel (6:45–8:26) that Luke omits. That omission suggests Luke had not seen Mark's Gospel when he wrote.

7) There is no historical or manuscript evidence that the Q document ever existed; it is purely a fabrication of modern skepticism and a way to possibly deny the verbal inspiration of the Gospels.

8) Any theory of literary dependence between the Gospel writers overlooks the significance of their personal contacts with each other. Mark and Luke were both companions of Paul (cf. Philem. 24); the early church (including Matthew) met for a time in the home of Mark's mother (Acts 12:12); and Luke could easily have met Matthew during Paul's two-year imprisonment at Caesarea (see note on Acts 27:1). Such contacts make theories of mutual literary dependence unnecessary.

The simplest solution to the Synoptic Problem is that no such problem exists! Because critics cannot prove literary dependence between the Gospel writers, there is no need to explain it. The traditional view that the Gospel writers were inspired by God and wrote independently of each other—except that all three were moved by the same Holy Spirit (2 Pet. 1:21)—remains the only plausible view.

As the reader compares the various viewpoints in the Gospels, it becomes clear how well they harmonize and lead to a more complete picture of the whole event or message. The accounts are not contradictory, but complementary, revealing a fuller understanding when brought together. Apparent difficulties are dealt with in the notes of each Gospel.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO # Mark

John the Baptist Prepares the Way

MARK 1 †The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God. [\[1\]](#)

<sup>2</sup>†As it is written in Isaiah the prophet, [\[2\]](#)

“Behold, I send my messenger before your face, who will prepare your way, <sup>3</sup>the voice of one crying in the wilderness: ‘Prepare [\[3\]](#) the way of the Lord, make his paths straight,’”

<sup>4</sup>†John appeared, baptizing in the wilderness and proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins. <sup>5</sup>†And all the country of Judea and all Jerusalem were going out to him and were being baptized by him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins. <sup>6</sup>†Now John was clothed with camel's hair and wore a leather belt around his waist and ate locusts and wild honey. <sup>7</sup>†And he preached, saying, “After me comes he who is mightier than I, the strap of whose sandals I am not worthy to stoop down and untie. <sup>8</sup>†I have baptized you with water, but he will baptize you with the Holy Spirit.”

The Baptism of Jesus

<sup>9</sup>†In those days Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee and was baptized by John in the Jordan. <sup>10</sup>†And when he came up out of the water, immediately he saw the heavens being torn open and the Spirit descending on him like a dove. <sup>11</sup>†And a voice came from heaven, “You are my beloved Son; [\[4\]](#) with you I am well pleased.”

The Temptation of Jesus

<sup>12</sup>†The Spirit immediately drove him out into the wilderness. <sup>13</sup>†And he was in the wilderness forty days, being tempted by Satan. And he was with the wild animals, and the angels were ministering to him.

Jesus Begins His Ministry

<sup>14</sup>† Now after John was arrested, Jesus came into Galilee, proclaiming the gospel of God, <sup>15</sup>† and saying, “The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand; repent and believe in the gospel.”

Jesus Calls the First Disciples

<sup>16</sup>† Passing alongside the Sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew the brother of Simon casting a net into the sea, for they were fishermen. <sup>17</sup>† And Jesus said to them, “Follow me, and I will make you become fishers of men.” <sup>18</sup>† And immediately they left their nets and followed him. <sup>19</sup>† And going on a little farther, he saw James the son of Zebedee and John his brother, who were in their boat mending the nets. <sup>20</sup>† And immediately he called them, and they left their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired servants and followed him.

Jesus Heals a Man with an Unclean Spirit

<sup>21</sup>† And they went into Capernaum, and immediately on the Sabbath he entered the synagogue and was teaching. <sup>22</sup>† And they were astonished at his teaching, for he taught them as one who had authority, and not as the scribes. <sup>23</sup>† And immediately there was in their synagogue a man with an unclean spirit. And he cried out, <sup>24</sup>† “What have you to do with us, Jesus of Nazareth? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are—the Holy One of God.” <sup>25</sup>† But Jesus rebuked him, saying, “Be silent, and come out of him!” <sup>26</sup>† And the unclean spirit, convulsing him and crying out with a loud voice, came out of him. <sup>27</sup>† And they were all amazed, so that they questioned among themselves, saying, “What is this? A new teaching with authority! He commands even the unclean spirits, and they obey him.” <sup>28</sup>† And at once his fame spread everywhere throughout all the surrounding region of Galilee.

Jesus Heals Many

<sup>29</sup>† And immediately he [\[5\]](#) left the synagogue and entered the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John. <sup>30</sup>† Now Simon's mother-in-law lay ill with a fever, and immediately they told him about her. <sup>31</sup>† And he came and took her by the hand and lifted her up, and the fever left her, and she began to serve them.

<sup>32</sup>† That evening at sundown they brought to him all who were sick or oppressed by demons. <sup>33</sup>† And the whole city was gathered together at the door. <sup>34</sup>† And he healed many who were sick with various diseases, and cast out many demons.

And he would not permit the demons to speak, because they knew him.

Jesus Preaches in Galilee

<sup>35</sup>And rising very early in the morning, while it was still dark, he departed and went out to a desolate place, and there he prayed. <sup>36</sup>†And Simon and those who were with him searched for him, <sup>37</sup>†and they found him and said to him, “Everyone is looking for you.” <sup>38</sup>And he said to them, “Let us go on to the next towns, that I may preach there also, for that is why I came out.” <sup>39</sup>†And he went throughout all Galilee, preaching in their synagogues and casting out demons.

Jesus Cleanses a Leper

<sup>40</sup>††And a leper [6] came to him, imploring him, and kneeling said to him, “If you will, you can make me clean.” <sup>41</sup>†Moved with pity, he stretched out his hand and touched him and said to him, “I will; be clean.” <sup>42</sup>And immediately the leprosy left him, and he was made clean. <sup>43</sup>And Jesus [7] sternly charged him and sent him away at once, <sup>44</sup>†and said to him, “See that you say nothing to anyone, but go, show yourself to the priest and offer for your cleansing what Moses commanded, for a proof to them.” <sup>45</sup>†But he went out and began to talk freely about it, and to spread the news, so that Jesus could no longer openly enter a town, but was out in desolate places, and people were coming to him from every quarter.

Jesus Heals a Paralytic

MARK 2 †And when he returned to Capernaum after some days, it was reported that he was at home. †And many were gathered together, so that there was no more room, not even at the door. And he was preaching the word to them. †And they came, bringing to him a paralytic carried by four men. †And when they could not get near him because of the crowd, they removed the roof above him, and when they had made an opening, they let down the bed on which the paralytic lay. †And when Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic, “Son, your sins are forgiven.” †Now some of the scribes were sitting there, questioning in their hearts, †“Why does this man speak like that? He is blaspheming! Who can forgive sins but God alone?” †And immediately Jesus, perceiving in his spirit that they thus questioned within themselves, said to them, “Why do you question these things in your hearts? †Which is easier, to say to the paralytic, ‘Your sins are forgiven,’ or to say, ‘Rise, take up your bed and walk’? †But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins”—he said to the paralytic— †“I say to you, rise, pick up your bed, and go home.” †And he rose and immediately picked up his bed and went out before them all, so that they were all amazed and glorified God, saying, “We never saw anything like this!”

Jesus Calls Levi

†He went out again beside the sea, and all the crowd was coming to him, and he was teaching them. †And as he passed by, he saw Levi the son of Alphaeus sitting at the tax booth, and he said to him, “Follow me.” And he rose and followed him.

†And as he reclined at table in his house, many tax collectors and sinners were reclining with Jesus and his disciples, for there were many who followed him. †And the scribes of [1] the Pharisees, when they saw that he was eating with sinners and tax collectors, said to his disciples, “Why does he eat [2] with tax collectors and sinners?” †And when Jesus heard it, he said to them, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. I came not to call the righteous, but sinners.”

A Question About Fasting

<sup>18</sup>† Now John's disciples and the Pharisees were fasting. And people came and said to him, “Why do John's disciples and the disciples of the Pharisees fast, but your disciples do not fast?” <sup>19</sup>† And Jesus said to them, “Can the wedding guests fast while the bridegroom is with them? As long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast. <sup>20</sup>† The days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then they will fast in that day. <sup>21</sup>† No one sews a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old garment. If he does, the patch tears away from it, the new from the old, and a worse tear is made. <sup>22</sup>† And no one puts new wine into old wineskins. If he does, the wine will burst the skins—and the wine is destroyed, and so are the skins. But new wine is for fresh wineskins.” [3]

Jesus Is Lord of the Sabbath

<sup>23</sup>† One Sabbath he was going through the grainfields, and as they made their way, his disciples began to pluck heads of grain. <sup>24</sup>† And the Pharisees were saying to him, “Look, why are they doing what is not lawful on the Sabbath?” <sup>25</sup>† And he said to them, “Have you never read what David did, when he was in need and was hungry, he and those who were with him: <sup>26</sup>† how he entered the house of God, in the time of Abiathar the high priest, and ate the bread of the Presence, which it is not lawful for any but the priests to eat, and also gave it to those who were with him?” <sup>27</sup>† And he said to them, “The Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath. <sup>28</sup>† So the Son of Man is lord even of the Sabbath.”

A Man with a Withered Hand

MARK 3 †† Again he entered the synagogue, and a man was there with a withered hand. † And they watched Jesus, [1] to see whether he would heal him on the Sabbath, so that they might accuse him. † And he said to the man with the withered hand, “Come here.” † And he said to them, “Is it lawful on the Sabbath to do good or to do harm, to save life or to kill?” But they were silent. † And he looked around at them with anger, grieved at their hardness of heart, and said to the man, “Stretch out your hand.” He stretched it out, and his hand was restored. † The Pharisees went out and immediately held counsel with the Herodians against him, how to destroy him.

A Great Crowd Follows Jesus

† Jesus withdrew with his disciples to the sea, and a great crowd followed, from Galilee and Judea † and Jerusalem and Idumea and from beyond the Jordan and from around Tyre and Sidon. When the great crowd heard all that he was doing, they came to him. † And he told his disciples to have a boat ready for him because of the crowd, lest they crush him, † for he had healed many, so that all who had diseases pressed around him to touch him. † And whenever the unclean spirits saw him, they fell down before him and cried out, “You are the Son of God.” † And he strictly ordered them not to make him known.

The Twelve Apostles

† And he went up on the mountain and called to him those whom he desired, and they came to him. † And he appointed twelve (whom he also named apostles) so that they might be with him and he might send them out to preach † and have authority to cast out demons. †† He appointed the twelve: Simon (to whom he gave the name Peter); † James the son of Zebedee and John the brother of James (to whom he gave the name Boanerges, that is, Sons of Thunder); † Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddaeus, and Simon the Cananaean, † and Judas Iscariot, who betrayed him.

† Then he went home, and the crowd gathered again, so that they could not even eat. † And when his family heard it, they went out to seize him, for they were saying, “He is out of his mind.”

Blasphemy Against the Holy Spirit

<sup>22</sup>† And the scribes who came down from Jerusalem were saying, “He is possessed by Beelzebul,” and “by the prince of demons he casts out the demons.” <sup>23</sup>† And he called them to him and said to them in parables, “How can Satan cast out Satan? <sup>24</sup>† If a kingdom is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. <sup>25</sup>† And if a house is divided against itself, that house will not be able to stand. <sup>26</sup>† And if Satan has risen up against himself and is divided, he cannot stand, but is coming to an end. <sup>27</sup>† But no one can enter a strong man's house and plunder his goods, unless he first binds the strong man. Then indeed he may plunder his house.

<sup>28</sup>† “Truly, I say to you, all sins will be forgiven the children of man, and whatever blasphemies they utter, <sup>29</sup>† but whoever blasphemes against the Holy Spirit never has forgiveness, but is guilty of an eternal sin” — <sup>30</sup>† for they were saying, “He has an unclean spirit.”

Jesus' Mother and Brothers

<sup>31</sup>† And his mother and his brothers came, and standing outside they sent to him and called him. <sup>32</sup>† And a crowd was sitting around him, and they said to him, “Your mother and your brothers [2] are outside, seeking you.” <sup>33</sup>† And he answered them, “Who are my mother and my brothers?” <sup>34</sup>† And looking about at those who sat around him, he said, “Here are my mother and my brothers! <sup>35</sup>† For whoever does the will of God, he is my brother and sister and mother.”

The Parable of the Sower

MARK 4 †Again he began to teach beside the sea. And a very large crowd gathered about him, so that he got into a boat and sat in it on the sea, and the whole crowd was beside the sea on the land. <sup>2</sup>†And he was teaching them many things in parables, and in his teaching he said to them: <sup>3</sup>†“Listen! A sower went out to sow. <sup>4</sup>†And as he sowed, some seed fell along the path, and the birds came and devoured it. <sup>5</sup>†Other seed fell on rocky ground, where it did not have much soil, and immediately it sprang up, since it had no depth of soil. <sup>6</sup>†And when the sun rose, it was scorched, and since it had no root, it withered away. <sup>7</sup>†Other seed fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked it, and it yielded no grain. <sup>8</sup>†And other seeds fell into good soil and produced grain, growing up and increasing and yielding thirtyfold and sixtyfold and a hundredfold.” <sup>9</sup>†And he said, “He who has ears to hear, let him hear.”

The Purpose of the Parables

<sup>10</sup>And when he was alone, those around him with the twelve asked him about the parables. <sup>11</sup>†And he said to them, “To you has been given the secret of the kingdom of God, but for those outside everything is in parables, <sup>12</sup>†so that “they may indeed see but not perceive, and may indeed hear but not understand, lest they should turn and be forgiven.”

<sup>13</sup>†And he said to them, “Do you not understand this parable? How then will you understand all the parables? <sup>14</sup>††The sower sows the word. <sup>15</sup>†And these are the ones along the path, where the word is sown: when they hear, Satan immediately comes and takes away the word that is sown in them. <sup>16</sup>†And these are the ones sown on rocky ground: the ones who, when they hear the word, immediately receive it with joy. <sup>17</sup>†And they have no root in themselves, but endure for a while; then, when tribulation or persecution arises on account of the word, immediately they fall away. [1] <sup>18</sup>†And others are the ones sown among thorns. They are those who hear the word, <sup>19</sup>†but the cares of the world and the deceitfulness of riches and the desires for other things enter in and choke the word, and it proves unfruitful. <sup>20</sup>†But those that were sown on the good soil are the ones who hear the word and accept it and bear fruit, thirtyfold and sixtyfold and a hundredfold.”

A Lamp Under a Basket

<sup>21</sup>† And he said to them, “Is a lamp brought in to be put under a basket, or under a bed, and not on a stand? <sup>22</sup>† For nothing is hidden except to be made manifest; nor is anything secret except to come to light. <sup>23</sup> If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear.” <sup>24</sup>† And he said to them, “Pay attention to what you hear: with the measure you use, it will be measured to you, and still more will be added to you. <sup>25</sup> For to the one who has, more will be given, and from the one who has not, even what he has will be taken away.”

The Parable of the Seed Growing

<sup>26</sup>†† And he said, “The kingdom of God is as if a man should scatter seed on the ground. <sup>27</sup> He sleeps and rises night and day, and the seed sprouts and grows; he knows not how. <sup>28</sup> The earth produces by itself, first the blade, then the ear, then the full grain in the ear. <sup>29</sup>† But when the grain is ripe, at once he puts in the sickle, because the harvest has come.”

The Parable of the Mustard Seed

<sup>30</sup>† And he said, “With what can we compare the kingdom of God, or what parable shall we use for it? <sup>31</sup>† It is like a grain of mustard seed, which, when sown on the ground, is the smallest of all the seeds on earth, <sup>32</sup>† yet when it is sown it grows up and becomes larger than all the garden plants and puts out large branches, so that the birds of the air can make nests in its shade.”

<sup>33</sup>† With many such parables he spoke the word to them, as they were able to hear it. <sup>34</sup>† He did not speak to them without a parable, but privately to his own disciples he explained everything.

Jesus Calms a Storm

<sup>35</sup>†† On that day, when evening had come, he said to them, “Let us go across to the other side.” <sup>36</sup> And leaving the crowd, they took him with them in the boat, just as he was. And other boats were with him. <sup>37</sup>† And a great windstorm arose, and the waves were breaking into the boat, so that the boat was already filling. <sup>38</sup>† But he was in the stern, asleep on the cushion. And they woke him and said to him, “Teacher, do you not care that we are perishing?” <sup>39</sup>† And he awoke and rebuked the wind and said to the sea, “Peace! Be still!” And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm. <sup>40</sup>He said to them, “Why are you so afraid? Have you still no faith?” <sup>41</sup>† And they were filled with great fear and said to one another, “Who then is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?”

Jesus Heals a Man with a Demon

MARK 5 †They came to the other side of the sea, to the country of the Gerasenes. [1] †And when Jesus [2] had stepped out of the boat, immediately there met him out of the tombs a man with an unclean spirit. †He lived among the tombs. And no one could bind him anymore, not even with a chain, †for he had often been bound with shackles and chains, but he wrenched the chains apart, and he broke the shackles in pieces. No one had the strength to subdue him. †Night and day among the tombs and on the mountains he was always crying out and cutting himself with stones. †And when he saw Jesus from afar, he ran and fell down before him. †And crying out with a loud voice, he said, “What have you to do with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I adjure you by God, do not torment me.” †For he was saying to him, “Come out of the man, you unclean spirit!” †And Jesus asked him, “What is your name?” He replied, “My name is Legion, for we are many.” †And he begged him earnestly not to send them out of the country. †Now a great herd of pigs was feeding there on the hillside, †and they begged him, saying, “Send us to the pigs; let us enter them.” †So he gave them permission. And the unclean spirits came out, and entered the pigs, and the herd, numbering about two thousand, rushed down the steep bank into the sea and were drowned in the sea.

†The herdsmen fled and told it in the city and in the country. And people came to see what it was that had happened. †And they came to Jesus and saw the demon-possessed [3] man, the one who had had the legion, sitting there, clothed and in his right mind, and they were afraid. †And those who had seen it described to them what had happened to the demon-possessed man and to the pigs. †And they began to beg Jesus [4] to depart from their region. †As he was getting into the boat, the man who had been possessed with demons begged him that he might be with him. †And he did not permit him but said to him, “Go home to your friends and tell them how much the Lord has done for you, and how he has had mercy on you.” †And he went away and began to proclaim in the Decapolis how much Jesus had done for him, and everyone marveled.

Jesus Heals a Woman and Jairus's Daughter

†And when Jesus had crossed again in the boat to the other side, a great crowd gathered about him, and he was beside the sea. †Then came one of the rulers of the synagogue, Jairus by name, and seeing him, he fell at his feet †and implored him earnestly, saying, "My little daughter is at the point of death. Come and lay your hands on her, so that she may be made well and live." <sup>24</sup>And he went with him.

And a great crowd followed him and thronged about him. <sup>25</sup>And there was a woman who had had a discharge of blood for twelve years, <sup>26</sup>and who had suffered much under many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and was no better but rather grew worse. <sup>27</sup>She had heard the reports about Jesus and came up behind him in the crowd and touched his garment. <sup>28</sup>For she said, "If I touch even his garments, I will be made well." <sup>29</sup>And immediately the flow of blood dried up, and she felt in her body that she was healed of her disease. <sup>30</sup>And Jesus, perceiving in himself that power had gone out from him, immediately turned about in the crowd and said, "Who touched my garments?" <sup>31</sup>And his disciples said to him, "You see the crowd pressing around you, and yet you say, 'Who touched me?'" <sup>32</sup>And he looked around to see who had done it. <sup>33</sup>But the woman, knowing what had happened to her, came in fear and trembling and fell down before him and told him the whole truth. <sup>34</sup>And he said to her, "Daughter, your faith has made you well; go in peace, and be healed of your disease."

<sup>35</sup>While he was still speaking, there came from the ruler's house some who said, "Your daughter is dead. Why trouble the Teacher any further?" <sup>36</sup>But overhearing [5] what they said, Jesus said to the ruler of the synagogue, "Do not fear, only believe." <sup>37</sup>And he allowed no one to follow him except Peter and James and John the brother of James. <sup>38</sup>They came to the house of the ruler of the synagogue, and Jesus [6] saw a commotion, people weeping and wailing loudly. <sup>39</sup>And when he had entered, he said to them, "Why are you making a commotion and weeping? The child is not dead but sleeping." <sup>40</sup>And they laughed at him. But he put them all outside and took the child's father and mother and those who were with him and went in where the child was. <sup>41</sup>Taking her by the hand he said to her, "Talitha cumi," which means, "Little girl, I say to you, arise." <sup>42</sup>And immediately the girl got up and began walking (for she was twelve years of age), and they were immediately overcome with amazement. <sup>43</sup>And he strictly charged them that no one should know this, and told them to give her something to eat.

Jesus Rejected at Nazareth

MARK 6 †He went away from there and came to his hometown, and his disciples followed him. †And on the Sabbath he began to teach in the synagogue, and many who heard him were astonished, saying, “Where did this man get these things? What is the wisdom given to him? How are such mighty works done by his hands? †Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary and brother of James and Joses and Judas and Simon? And are not his sisters here with us?” And they took offense at him. †And Jesus said to them, “A prophet is not without honor, except in his hometown and among his relatives and in his own household.” †And he could do no mighty work there, except that he laid his hands on a few sick people and healed them. †And he marveled because of their unbelief.

And he went about among the villages teaching.

Jesus Sends Out the Twelve Apostles

†And he called the twelve and began to send them out two by two, and gave them authority over the unclean spirits. †He charged them to take nothing for their journey except a staff—no bread, no bag, no money in their belts— †but to wear sandals and not put on two tunics. [1] †And he said to them, “Whenever you enter a house, stay there until you depart from there. †And if any place will not receive you and they will not listen to you, when you leave, shake off the dust that is on your feet as a testimony against them.” ††So they went out and proclaimed that people should repent. †And they cast out many demons and anointed with oil many who were sick and healed them.

The Death of John the Baptist

†King Herod heard of it, for Jesus' [2] name had become known. Some [3] said, “John the Baptist [4] has been raised from the dead. That is why these miraculous powers are at work in him.” †But others said, “He is Elijah.” And others said, “He is a prophet, like one of the prophets of old.” †But when Herod heard of it, he said, “John, whom I beheaded, has been raised.” †For it was Herod who had sent and seized John and bound him in prison for the sake of Herodias, his brother Philip's wife, because he had married her. †For John had been saying to Herod, “It is not lawful for you to have your brother's wife.” †And Herodias had a grudge against him and wanted to put him to death. But she could not, <sup>20</sup>†for Herod feared John, knowing that he was a righteous and holy man, and he kept him safe. When he heard him, he was greatly perplexed, and yet he heard him gladly.

<sup>21</sup>†But an opportunity came when Herod on his birthday gave a banquet for his nobles and military commanders and the leading men of Galilee. <sup>22</sup>†For when Herodias's daughter came in and danced, she pleased Herod and his guests. And the king said to the girl, “Ask me for whatever you wish, and I will give it to you.” <sup>23</sup>†And he vowed to her, “Whatever you ask me, I will give you, up to half of my kingdom.” <sup>24</sup>And she went out and said to her mother, “For what should I ask?” And she said, “The head of John the Baptist.” <sup>25</sup>And she came in immediately with haste to the king and asked, saying, “I want you to give me at once the head of John the Baptist on a platter.” <sup>26</sup>†And the king was exceedingly sorry, but because of his oaths and his guests he did not want to break his word to her. <sup>27</sup>†And immediately the king sent an executioner with orders to bring John's [5] head. He went and beheaded him in the prison <sup>28</sup>and brought his head on a platter and gave it to the girl, and the girl gave it to her mother. <sup>29</sup>When his disciples heard of it, they came and took his body and laid it in a tomb.

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

<sup>30</sup>The apostles returned to Jesus and told him all that they had done and taught. <sup>31</sup>†And he said to them, “Come away by yourselves to a desolate place and rest a while.” For many were coming and going, and they had no leisure even to eat. <sup>32</sup>†And they went away in the boat to a desolate place by themselves. <sup>33</sup>†Now many saw them going and recognized them, and they ran there on foot from all the towns and got there ahead of them. <sup>34</sup>†When he went ashore he saw a great crowd, and he had compassion on them, because they were like sheep without a shepherd. And he began to teach them many things. <sup>35</sup>And when it grew late, his disciples came to him and said, “This is a desolate place, and the hour is now late. <sup>36</sup>Send them away to go into the surrounding countryside and villages and buy themselves something to eat.” <sup>37</sup>†But he answered them, “You give them something to eat.” And they said to him, “Shall we go and buy two hundred denarii [6] worth of bread and give it to them to eat?” <sup>38</sup>†And he said to them, “How many loaves do you have? Go and see.” And when they had found out, they said, “Five, and two fish.” <sup>39</sup>†Then he commanded them all to sit down in groups on the green grass. <sup>40</sup>†So they sat down in groups, by hundreds and by fifties. <sup>41</sup>†And taking the five loaves and the two fish he looked up to heaven and said a blessing and broke the loaves and gave them to the disciples to set before the people. And he divided the two fish among them all. <sup>42</sup>† And they all ate and were satisfied. <sup>43</sup>† And they took up twelve baskets full of broken pieces and of the fish. <sup>44</sup>† And those who ate the loaves were five thousand men.

Jesus Walks on the Water

<sup>45</sup>† Immediately he made his disciples get into the boat and go before him to the other side, to Bethsaida, while he dismissed the crowd. <sup>46</sup>† And after he had taken leave of them, he went up on the mountain to pray. <sup>47</sup>† And when evening came, the boat was out on the sea, and he was alone on the land. <sup>48</sup>† And he saw that they were making headway painfully, for the wind was against them. And about the fourth watch of the night [7] he came to them, walking on the sea. He meant to pass by them, <sup>49</sup>† but when they saw him walking on the sea they thought it was a ghost, and cried out, <sup>50</sup>† for they all saw him and were terrified. But immediately he spoke to them and said, “Take heart; it is I. Do not be afraid.” <sup>51</sup> And he got into the boat with them, and the wind ceased. And they were utterly astounded, <sup>52</sup>† for they did not understand about the loaves, but their hearts were hardened.

Jesus Heals the Sick in Gennesaret

<sup>53</sup>† When they had crossed over, they came to land at Gennesaret and moored to the shore. <sup>54</sup> And when they got out of the boat, the people immediately recognized him <sup>55</sup> and ran about the whole region and began to bring the sick people on their beds to wherever they heard he was. <sup>56</sup>† And wherever he came, in villages, cities, or countryside, they laid the sick in the marketplaces and implored him that they might touch even the fringe of his garment. And as many as touched it were made well.

Traditions and Commandments

MARK 7 †Now when the Pharisees gathered to him, with some of the scribes who had come from Jerusalem, †they saw that some of his disciples ate with hands that were defiled, that is, unwashed. †(For the Pharisees and all the Jews do not eat unless they wash [1] their hands, holding to the tradition of the elders, †and when they come from the marketplace, they do not eat unless they wash. [2] And there are many other traditions that they observe, such as the washing of cups and pots and copper vessels and dining couches. [3]) †And the Pharisees and the scribes asked him, “Why do your disciples not walk according to the tradition of the elders, but eat with defiled hands?” †And he said to them, “Well did Isaiah prophesy of you hypocrites, as it is written, ““This people honors me with their lips, but their heart is far from me;

†in vain do they worship me, teaching as doctrines the commandments of men.’

†You leave the commandment of God and hold to the tradition of men.”

And he said to them, “You have a fine way of rejecting the commandment of God in order to establish your tradition! †For Moses said, ‘Honor your father and your mother’; and, ‘Whoever reviles father or mother must surely die.’

†But you say, ‘If a man tells his father or his mother, “Whatever you would have gained from me is Corban”’ (that is, given to God) [4]— †then you no longer permit him to do anything for his father or mother, †thus making void the word of God by your tradition that you have handed down. And many such things you do.”

What Defiles a Person

And he called the people to him again and said to them, “Hear me, all of you, and understand: †There is nothing outside a person that by going into him can defile him, but the things that come out of a person are what defile him.” [5]

And when he had entered the house and left the people, his disciples asked him about the parable. †And he said to them, “Then are you also without understanding? Do you not see that whatever goes into a person from outside cannot defile him, †since it enters not his heart but his stomach, and is expelled?” [6] (Thus he declared all foods clean.) †And he said, “What comes out of a person is what defiles him. †For from within, out of the heart of man, come evil thoughts, sexual immorality, theft, murder, adultery, <sup>22</sup>†coveting, wickedness, deceit, sensuality, envy, slander, pride, foolishness. <sup>23</sup>All these evil things come from within, and they defile a person.”

The Syrophenician Woman's Faith

<sup>24</sup>†And from there he arose and went away to the region of Tyre and Sidon. [7] And he entered a house and did not want anyone to know, yet he could not be hidden. <sup>25</sup>†But immediately a woman whose little daughter had an unclean spirit heard of him and came and fell down at his feet. <sup>26</sup>†Now the woman was a Gentile, a Syrophenician by birth. And she begged him to cast the demon out of her daughter. <sup>27</sup>†And he said to her, “Let the children be fed first, for it is not right to take the children's bread and throw it to the dogs.” <sup>28</sup>†But she answered him, “Yes, Lord; yet even the dogs under the table eat the children's crumbs.” <sup>29</sup>And he said to her, “For this statement you may go your way; the demon has left your daughter.” <sup>30</sup>And she went home and found the child lying in bed and the demon gone.

Jesus Heals a Deaf Man

<sup>31</sup>†Then he returned from the region of Tyre and went through Sidon to the Sea of Galilee, in the region of the Decapolis. <sup>32</sup>And they brought to him a man who was deaf and had a speech impediment, and they begged him to lay his hand on him. <sup>33</sup>†And taking him aside from the crowd privately, he put his fingers into his ears, and after spitting touched his tongue. <sup>34</sup>†And looking up to heaven, he sighed and said to him, “Ephphatha,” that is, “Be opened.” <sup>35</sup>And his ears were opened, his tongue was released, and he spoke plainly. <sup>36</sup>†And Jesus [8] charged them to tell no one. But the more he charged them, the more zealously they proclaimed it. <sup>37</sup>And they were astonished beyond measure, saying, “He has done all things well. He even makes the deaf hear and the mute speak.”

Jesus Feeds the Four Thousand

MARK 8 †† In those days, when again a great crowd had gathered, and they had nothing to eat, he called his disciples to him and said to them, <sup>2</sup>† “I have compassion on the crowd, because they have been with me now three days and have nothing to eat. <sup>3</sup>† And if I send them away hungry to their homes, they will faint on the way. And some of them have come from far away.” <sup>4</sup>† And his disciples answered him, “How can one feed these people with bread here in this desolate place?” <sup>5</sup>† And he asked them, “How many loaves do you have?” They said, “Seven.” <sup>6</sup>† And he directed the crowd to sit down on the ground. And he took the seven loaves, and having given thanks, he broke them and gave them to his disciples to set before the people; and they set them before the crowd. <sup>7</sup>† And they had a few small fish. And having blessed them, he said that these also should be set before them. <sup>8</sup>† And they ate and were satisfied. And they took up the broken pieces left over, seven baskets full. <sup>9</sup>† And there were about four thousand people. And he sent them away. <sup>10</sup>† And immediately he got into the boat with his disciples and went to the district of Dalmanutha. [1]

The Pharisees Demand a Sign

<sup>11</sup>† The Pharisees came and began to argue with him, seeking from him a sign from heaven to test him. <sup>12</sup>† And he sighed deeply in his spirit and said, “Why does this generation seek a sign? Truly, I say to you, no sign will be given to this generation.” <sup>13</sup>† And he left them, got into the boat again, and went to the other side.

The Leaven of the Pharisees and Herod

<sup>14</sup>† Now they had forgotten to bring bread, and they had only one loaf with them in the boat. <sup>15</sup>† And he cautioned them, saying, “Watch out; beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the leaven of Herod.” [2] <sup>16</sup>† And they began discussing with one another the fact that they had no bread. <sup>17</sup>† And Jesus, aware of this, said to them, “Why are you discussing the fact that you have no bread? Do you not yet perceive or understand? Are your hearts hardened? <sup>18</sup>† Having eyes do you not see, and having ears do you not hear? And do you not remember? <sup>19</sup>† When I broke the five loaves for the five thousand, how many baskets full of broken pieces did you take up?” They said to him, “Twelve.” <sup>20</sup>† “And the seven for the four thousand, how many baskets full of broken pieces did you take up?” And they said to him, “Seven.” <sup>21</sup>† And he said to them, “Do you not yet understand?”

Jesus Heals a Blind Man at Bethsaida

<sup>22</sup>†† And they came to Bethsaida. And some people brought to him a blind man and begged him to touch him. <sup>23</sup>† And he took the blind man by the hand and led him out of the village, and when he had spit on his eyes and laid his hands on him, he asked him, “Do you see anything?” <sup>24</sup> And he looked up and said, “I see men, but they look like trees, walking.” <sup>25</sup> Then Jesus [3] laid his hands on his eyes again; and he opened his eyes, his sight was restored, and he saw everything clearly. <sup>26</sup>† And he sent him to his home, saying, “Do not even enter the village.”

Peter Confesses Jesus as the Christ

<sup>27</sup>† And Jesus went on with his disciples to the villages of Caesarea Philippi. And on the way he asked his disciples, “Who do people say that I am?” <sup>28</sup>† And they told him, “John the Baptist; and others say, Elijah; and others, one of the prophets.” <sup>29</sup>† And he asked them, “But who do you say that I am?” Peter answered him, “You are the Christ.” <sup>30</sup>† And he strictly charged them to tell no one about him.

Jesus Foretells His Death and Resurrection

<sup>31</sup>†† And he began to teach them that the Son of Man must suffer many things and be rejected by the elders and the chief priests and the scribes and be killed, and after three days rise again. <sup>32</sup>† And he said this plainly. And Peter took him aside and began to rebuke him. <sup>33</sup>† But turning and seeing his disciples, he rebuked Peter and said, “Get behind me, Satan! For you are not setting your mind on the things of God, but on the things of man.”

<sup>34</sup>† And calling the crowd to him with his disciples, he said to them, “If anyone would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. <sup>35</sup>† For whoever would save his life [4] will lose it, but whoever loses his life for my sake and the gospel's will save it. <sup>36</sup>† For what does it profit a man to gain the whole world and forfeit his soul? <sup>37</sup> For what can a man give in return for his soul? <sup>38</sup>† For whoever is ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation, of him will the Son of Man also be ashamed when he comes in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.”

MARK 9 †And he said to them, “Truly, I say to you, there are some standing here who will not taste death until they see the kingdom of God after it has come with power.”

The Transfiguration

2†And after six days Jesus took with him Peter and James and John, and led them up a high mountain by themselves. And he was transfigured before them, 3†and his clothes became radiant, intensely white, as no one [1] on earth could bleach them. 4†And there appeared to them Elijah with Moses, and they were talking with Jesus. 5†And Peter said to Jesus, “Rabbi, [2] it is good that we are here. Let us make three tents, one for you and one for Moses and one for Elijah.” 6For he did not know what to say, for they were terrified. 7†And a cloud overshadowed them, and a voice came out of the cloud, “This is my beloved Son; [3] listen to him.” 8And suddenly, looking around, they no longer saw anyone with them but Jesus only.

9†And as they were coming down the mountain, he charged them to tell no one what they had seen, until the Son of Man had risen from the dead. 10†So they kept the matter to themselves, questioning what this rising from the dead might mean. 11†And they asked him, “Why do the scribes say that first Elijah must come?” 12†And he said to them, “Elijah does come first to restore all things. And how is it written of the Son of Man that he should suffer many things and be treated with contempt? 13†But I tell you that Elijah has come, and they did to him whatever they pleased, as it is written of him.”

Jesus Heals a Boy with an Unclean Spirit

14†And when they came to the disciples, they saw a great crowd around them, and scribes arguing with them. 15And immediately all the crowd, when they saw him, were greatly amazed and ran up to him and greeted him. 16And he asked them, “What are you arguing about with them?” 17†And someone from the crowd answered him, “Teacher, I brought my son to you, for he has a spirit that makes him mute. 18†And whenever it seizes him, it throws him down, and he foams and grinds his teeth and becomes rigid. So I asked your disciples to cast it out, and they were not able.” 19†And he answered them, “O faithless generation, how long am I to be with you? How long am I to bear with you? Bring him to me.” 20And they brought the boy to him. And when the spirit saw him, immediately it convulsed the boy, and he fell on the ground and rolled about, foaming at the mouth. <sup>21</sup>And Jesus asked his father, “How long has this been happening to him?” And he said, “From childhood. <sup>22</sup>†And it has often cast him into fire and into water, to destroy him. But if you can do anything, have compassion on us and help us.” <sup>23</sup>†And Jesus said to him, “‘If you can’! All things are possible for one who believes.” <sup>24</sup>†Immediately the father of the child cried out [4] and said, “I believe; help my unbelief!” <sup>25</sup>†And when Jesus saw that a crowd came running together, he rebuked the unclean spirit, saying to it, “You mute and deaf spirit, I command you, come out of him and never enter him again.” <sup>26</sup>And after crying out and convulsing him terribly, it came out, and the boy was like a corpse, so that most of them said, “He is dead.” <sup>27</sup>But Jesus took him by the hand and lifted him up, and he arose. <sup>28</sup>And when he had entered the house, his disciples asked him privately, “Why could we not cast it out?” <sup>29</sup>†And he said to them, “This kind cannot be driven out by anything but prayer.” [5]

Jesus Again Foretells Death, Resurrection

<sup>30</sup>†They went on from there and passed through Galilee. And he did not want anyone to know, <sup>31</sup>††for he was teaching his disciples, saying to them, “The Son of Man is going to be delivered into the hands of men, and they will kill him. And when he is killed, after three days he will rise.” <sup>32</sup>But they did not understand the saying, and were afraid to ask him.

Who Is the Greatest?

<sup>33</sup>†And they came to Capernaum. And when he was in the house he asked them, “What were you discussing on the way?” <sup>34</sup>†But they kept silent, for on the way they had argued with one another about who was the greatest. <sup>35</sup>†And he sat down and called the twelve. And he said to them, “If anyone would be first, he must be last of all and servant of all.” <sup>36</sup>†And he took a child and put him in the midst of them, and taking him in his arms, he said to them, <sup>37</sup>†“Whoever receives one such child in my name receives me, and whoever receives me, receives not me but him who sent me.”

Anyone Not Against Us Is for Us

<sup>38</sup>†John said to him, “Teacher, we saw someone casting out demons in your name, [6] and we tried to stop him, because he was not following us.” <sup>39</sup>†But Jesus said, “Do not stop him, for no one who does a mighty work in my name will be able soon afterward to speak evil of me. <sup>40</sup>For the one who is not against us is for us. <sup>41</sup>†For truly, I say to you, whoever gives you a cup of water to drink because you belong to Christ will by no means lose his reward.

Temptations to Sin

<sup>42</sup>†“Whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin, [\[7\]](#) it would be better for him if a great millstone were hung around his neck and he were thrown into the sea. <sup>43</sup>†And if your hand causes you to sin, cut it off. It is better for you to enter life crippled than with two hands to go to hell, [\[8\]](#) to the unquenchable fire. [\[9\]](#) <sup>45</sup>And if your foot causes you to sin, cut it off. It is better for you to enter life lame than with two feet to be thrown into hell. <sup>47</sup>†And if your eye causes you to sin, tear it out. It is better for you to enter the kingdom of God with one eye than with two eyes to be thrown into hell, <sup>48</sup>‘where their worm does not die and the fire is not quenched.’ <sup>49</sup>†For everyone will be salted with fire. [\[10\]](#) <sup>50</sup>†Salt is good, but if the salt has lost its saltiness, how will you make it salty again? Have salt in yourselves, and be at peace with one another.”

Teaching About Divorce

MARK 10 †And he left there and went to the region of Judea and beyond the Jordan, and crowds gathered to him again. And again, as was his custom, he taught them.

<sup>10</sup>And in the house the disciples asked him again about this matter. <sup>11</sup>†And he said to them, “Whoever divorces his wife and marries another commits adultery against her, <sup>12</sup>and if she divorces her husband and marries another, she commits adultery.”

Let the Children Come to Me

<sup>13</sup>†And they were bringing children to him that he might touch them, and the disciples rebuked them. <sup>14</sup>†But when Jesus saw it, he was indignant and said to them, “Let the children come to me; do not hinder them, for to such belongs the kingdom of God. <sup>15</sup>†Truly, I say to you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a child shall not enter it.” <sup>16</sup>†And he took them in his arms and blessed them, laying his hands on them.

The Rich Young Man

<sup>17</sup>†And as he was setting out on his journey, a man ran up and knelt before him and asked him, “Good Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?” <sup>18</sup>†And Jesus said to him, “Why do you call me good? No one is good except God alone. <sup>19</sup>†You know the commandments: ‘Do not murder, Do not commit adultery, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Do not defraud, Honor your father and mother.’” <sup>20</sup>†And he said to him, “Teacher, all these I have kept from my youth.”

<sup>21</sup>† And Jesus, looking at him, loved him, and said to him, “You lack one thing: go, sell all that you have and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me.” <sup>22</sup>† Disheartened by the saying, he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.

<sup>23</sup>† And Jesus looked around and said to his disciples, “How difficult it will be for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God!” <sup>24</sup>† And the disciples were amazed at his words. But Jesus said to them again, “Children, how difficult it is [2] to enter the kingdom of God! <sup>25</sup>† It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to enter the kingdom of God.” <sup>26</sup>† And they were exceedingly astonished, and said to him, [3] “Then who can be saved?” <sup>27</sup>† Jesus looked at them and said, “With man it is impossible, but not with God. For all things are possible with God.” <sup>28</sup>† Peter began to say to him, “See, we have left everything and followed you.” <sup>29</sup>† Jesus said, “Truly, I say to you, there is no one who has left house or brothers or sisters or mother or father or children or lands, for my sake and for the gospel, <sup>30</sup>† who will not receive a hundredfold now in this time, houses and brothers and sisters and mothers and children and lands, with persecutions, and in the age to come eternal life. <sup>31</sup>† But many who are first will be last, and the last first.”

Jesus Foretells His Death a Third Time

<sup>32</sup>†† And they were on the road, going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus was walking ahead of them. And they were amazed, and those who followed were afraid. And taking the twelve again, he began to tell them what was to happen to him, <sup>33</sup> saying, “See, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be delivered over to the chief priests and the scribes, and they will condemn him to death and deliver him over to the Gentiles. <sup>34</sup> And they will mock him and spit on him, and flog him and kill him. And after three days he will rise.”

The Request of James and John

<sup>35</sup>†† And James and John, the sons of Zebedee, came up to him and said to him, “Teacher, we want you to do for us whatever we ask of you.” <sup>36</sup> And he said to them, “What do you want me to do for you?” <sup>37</sup>† And they said to him, “Grant us to sit, one at your right hand and one at your left, in your glory.” <sup>38</sup>† Jesus said to them, “You do not know what you are asking. Are you able to drink the cup that I drink, or to be baptized with the baptism with which I am baptized?” <sup>39</sup>† And they said to him, “We are able.” And Jesus said to them, “The cup that I drink you will drink, and with the baptism with which I am baptized, you will be baptized, <sup>40</sup>†but to sit at my right hand or at my left is not mine to grant, but it is for those for whom it has been prepared.” <sup>41</sup>†And when the ten heard it, they began to be indignant at James and John. <sup>42</sup>†And Jesus called them to him and said to them, “You know that those who are considered rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. <sup>43</sup>†But it shall not be so among you. But whoever would be great among you must be your servant, [4] <sup>44</sup>and whoever would be first among you must be slave [5] of all. <sup>45</sup>†For even the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many.”

Jesus Heals Blind Bartimaeus

<sup>46</sup>††And they came to Jericho. And as he was leaving Jericho with his disciples and a great crowd, Bartimaeus, a blind beggar, the son of Timaeus, was sitting by the roadside. <sup>47</sup>†And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to cry out and say, “Jesus, Son of David, have mercy on me!” <sup>48</sup>And many rebuked him, telling him to be silent. But he cried out all the more, “Son of David, have mercy on me!” <sup>49</sup>†And Jesus stopped and said, “Call him.” And they called the blind man, saying to him, “Take heart. Get up; he is calling you.” <sup>50</sup>And throwing off his cloak, he sprang up and came to Jesus. <sup>51</sup>†And Jesus said to him, “What do you want me to do for you?” And the blind man said to him, “Rabbi, let me recover my sight.” <sup>52</sup>†And Jesus said to him, “Go your way; your faith has made you well.” And immediately he recovered his sight and followed him on the way.

The Triumphal Entry

MARK 11 †† Now when they drew near to Jerusalem, to Bethphage and Bethany, at the Mount of Olives, Jesus [1] sent two of his disciples <sup>2</sup>† and said to them, “Go into the village in front of you, and immediately as you enter it you will find a colt tied, on which no one has ever sat. Untie it and bring it. <sup>3</sup>† If anyone says to you, ‘Why are you doing this?’ say, ‘The Lord has need of it and will send it back here immediately.’” <sup>4</sup> And they went away and found a colt tied at a door outside in the street, and they untied it. <sup>5</sup> And some of those standing there said to them, “What are you doing, untying the colt?” <sup>6</sup> And they told them what Jesus had said, and they let them go. <sup>7</sup> And they brought the colt to Jesus and threw their cloaks on it, and he sat on it. <sup>8</sup>† And many spread their cloaks on the road, and others spread leafy branches that they had cut from the fields. <sup>9</sup>† And those who went before and those who followed were shouting, “Hosanna! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord! <sup>10</sup>† Blessed is the coming kingdom of our father David! Hosanna in the highest!”

<sup>11</sup>† And he entered Jerusalem and went into the temple. And when he had looked around at everything, as it was already late, he went out to Bethany with the twelve.

Jesus Curses the Fig Tree

<sup>12</sup>† On the following day, when they came from Bethany, he was hungry. <sup>13</sup>† And seeing in the distance a fig tree in leaf, he went to see if he could find anything on it. When he came to it, he found nothing but leaves, for it was not the season for figs. <sup>14</sup>† And he said to it, “May no one ever eat fruit from you again.” And his disciples heard it.

Jesus Cleanses the Temple

<sup>15</sup>†† And they came to Jerusalem. And he entered the temple and began to drive out those who sold and those who bought in the temple, and he overturned the tables of the money-changers and the seats of those who sold pigeons. <sup>16</sup>† And he would not allow anyone to carry anything through the temple. <sup>17</sup>† And he was teaching them and saying to them, “Is it not written, ‘My house shall be called a house of prayer for all the nations’? But you have made it a den of robbers.” <sup>18</sup>† And the chief priests and the scribes heard it and were seeking a way to destroy him, for they feared him, because all the crowd was astonished at his teaching. <sup>19</sup>† And when evening came they [2] went out of the city.

The Lesson from the Withered Fig Tree

<sup>20</sup>† As they passed by in the morning, they saw the fig tree withered away to its roots. <sup>21</sup>† And Peter remembered and said to him, “Rabbi, look! The fig tree that you cursed has withered.” <sup>22</sup>† And Jesus answered them, “Have faith in God. <sup>23</sup>† Truly, I say to you, whoever says to this mountain, ‘Be taken up and thrown into the sea,’ and does not doubt in his heart, but believes that what he says will come to pass, it will be done for him. <sup>24</sup>† Therefore I tell you, whatever you ask in prayer, believe that you have received [3] it, and it will be yours. <sup>25</sup>† And whenever you stand praying, forgive, if you have anything against anyone, so that your Father also who is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses.” [4]

The Authority of Jesus Challenged

<sup>27</sup>† And they came again to Jerusalem. And as he was walking in the temple, the chief priests and the scribes and the elders came to him, <sup>28</sup>† and they said to him, “By what authority are you doing these things, or who gave you this authority to do them?” <sup>29</sup> Jesus said to them, “I will ask you one question; answer me, and I will tell you by what authority I do these things. <sup>30</sup>† Was the baptism of John from heaven or from man? Answer me.” <sup>31</sup> And they discussed it with one another, saying, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he will say, ‘Why then did you not believe him?’ <sup>32</sup> But shall we say, ‘From man?’”—they were afraid of the people, for they all held that John really was a prophet. <sup>33</sup> So they answered Jesus, “We do not know.” And Jesus said to them, “Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things.”

The Parable of the Tenants

MARK 12 †† And he began to speak to them in parables. “A man planted a vineyard and put a fence around it and dug a pit for the winepress and built a tower, and leased it to tenants and went into another country. <sup>2</sup>† When the season came, he sent a servant [1] to the tenants to get from them some of the fruit of the vineyard. <sup>3</sup>† And they took him and beat him and sent him away empty-handed. <sup>4</sup>† Again he sent to them another servant, and they struck him on the head and treated him shamefully. <sup>5</sup>† And he sent another, and him they killed. And so with many others: some they beat, and some they killed. <sup>6</sup>† He had still one other, a beloved son. Finally he sent him to them, saying, ‘They will respect my son.’ <sup>7</sup>† But those tenants said to one another, ‘This is the heir. Come, let us kill him, and the inheritance will be ours.’ <sup>8</sup>† And they took him and killed him and threw him out of the vineyard. <sup>9</sup>† What will the owner of the vineyard do? He will come and destroy the tenants and give the vineyard to others. <sup>10</sup>†† Have you not read this Scripture: “‘The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone; [2]

<sup>11</sup>† this was the Lord's doing, and it is marvelous in our eyes?’”

<sup>12</sup>† And they were seeking to arrest him but feared the people, for they perceived that he had told the parable against them. So they left him and went away.

Paying Taxes to Caesar

<sup>13</sup>†† And they sent to him some of the Pharisees and some of the Herodians, to trap him in his talk. <sup>14</sup>† And they came and said to him, “Teacher, we know that you are true and do not care about anyone's opinion. For you are not swayed by appearances, [3] but truly teach the way of God. Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar, or not? Should we pay them, or should we not?” <sup>15</sup>† But, knowing their hypocrisy, he said to them, “Why put me to the test? Bring me a denarius [4] and let me look at it.” <sup>16</sup>† And they brought one. And he said to them, “Whose likeness and inscription is this?” They said to him, “Caesar's.” <sup>17</sup>† Jesus said to them, “Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's.” And they marveled at him.

The Sadducees Ask About the Resurrection

<sup>18</sup>† And Sadducees came to him, who say that there is no resurrection. And they asked him a question, saying, <sup>19</sup>†“Teacher, Moses wrote for us that if a man's brother dies and leaves a wife, but leaves no child, the man [5] must take the widow and raise up offspring for his brother. <sup>20</sup>†There were seven brothers; the first took a wife, and when he died left no offspring. <sup>21</sup>†And the second took her, and died, leaving no offspring. And the third likewise. <sup>22</sup>†And the seven left no offspring. Last of all the woman also died. <sup>23</sup>†In the resurrection, when they rise again, whose wife will she be? For the seven had her as wife.”

<sup>24</sup>†Jesus said to them, “Is this not the reason you are wrong, because you know neither the Scriptures nor the power of God? <sup>25</sup>†For when they rise from the dead, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like angels in heaven. <sup>26</sup>†And as for the dead being raised, have you not read in the book of Moses, in the passage about the bush, how God spoke to him, saying, ‘I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob’? <sup>27</sup>†He is not God of the dead, but of the living. You are quite wrong.”

The Great Commandment

<sup>28</sup>†And one of the scribes came up and heard them disputing with one another, and seeing that he answered them well, asked him, “Which commandment is the most important of all?” <sup>29</sup>†Jesus answered, “The most important is, ‘Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one. <sup>30</sup>†And you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind and with all your strength.’ <sup>31</sup>†The second is this: ‘You shall love your neighbor as yourself.’ There is no other commandment greater than these.” <sup>32</sup>†And the scribe said to him, “You are right, Teacher. You have truly said that he is one, and there is no other besides him. <sup>33</sup>†And to love him with all the heart and with all the understanding and with all the strength, and to love one's neighbor as oneself, is much more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.” <sup>34</sup>†And when Jesus saw that he answered wisely, he said to him, “You are not far from the kingdom of God.” And after that no one dared to ask him any more questions.

Whose Son Is the Christ?

<sup>35</sup>†And as Jesus taught in the temple, he said, “How can the scribes say that the Christ is the son of David? <sup>36</sup>†David himself, in the Holy Spirit, declared, “‘The Lord said to my Lord,

Sit at my right hand,

until I put your enemies under your feet.’

<sup>37</sup>†David himself calls him Lord. So how is he his son?” And the great throng heard him gladly.

Beware of the Scribes

<sup>38</sup>†And in his teaching he said, “Beware of the scribes, who like to walk around in long robes and like greetings in the marketplaces <sup>39</sup>†and have the best seats in the synagogues and the places of honor at feasts, <sup>40</sup>†who devour widows' houses and for a pretense make long prayers. They will receive the greater condemnation.”

The Widow's Offering

<sup>41</sup>†And he sat down opposite the treasury and watched the people putting money into the offering box. Many rich people put in large sums. <sup>42</sup>†And a poor widow came and put in two small copper coins, which make a penny. [6] <sup>43</sup>†And he called his disciples to him and said to them, “Truly, I say to you, this poor widow has put in more than all those who are contributing to the offering box. <sup>44</sup>†For they all contributed out of their abundance, but she out of her poverty has put in everything she had, all she had to live on.”

Jesus Foretells Destruction of the Temple

MARK 13 †† And as he came out of the temple, one of his disciples said to him, “Look, Teacher, what wonderful stones and what wonderful buildings!” † And Jesus said to him, “Do you see these great buildings? There will not be left here one stone upon another that will not be thrown down.”

Signs of the Close of the Age

† And as he sat on the Mount of Olives opposite the temple, Peter and James and John and Andrew asked him privately, † “Tell us, when will these things be, and what will be the sign when all these things are about to be accomplished?”

† And Jesus began to say to them, “See that no one leads you astray. † Many will come in my name, saying, ‘I am he!’ and they will lead many astray. † And when you hear of wars and rumors of wars, do not be alarmed. This must take place, but the end is not yet. † For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be earthquakes in various places; there will be famines. These are but the beginning of the birth pains.

† “But be on your guard. For they will deliver you over to councils, and you will be beaten in synagogues, and you will stand before governors and kings for my sake, to bear witness before them. † And the gospel must first be proclaimed to all nations. † And when they bring you to trial and deliver you over, do not be anxious beforehand what you are to say, but say whatever is given you in that hour, for it is not you who speak, but the Holy Spirit. † And brother will deliver brother over to death, and the father his child, and children will rise against parents and have them put to death. † And you will be hated by all for my name's sake. But the one who endures to the end will be saved.

The Abomination of Desolation

† “But when you see the abomination of desolation standing where he ought not to be (let the reader understand), then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains. † Let the one who is on the housetop not go down, nor enter his house, to take anything out, † and let the one who is in the field not turn back to take his cloak. † And alas for women who are pregnant and for those who are nursing infants in those days! † Pray that it may not happen in winter. † For in those days there will be such tribulation as has not been from the beginning of the creation that God created until now, and never will be. <sup>20</sup>†And if the Lord had not cut short the days, no human being would be saved. But for the sake of the elect, whom he chose, he shortened the days. <sup>21</sup>†And then if anyone says to you, ‘Look, here is the Christ!’ or ‘Look, there he is!’ do not believe it. <sup>22</sup>†For false christs and false prophets will arise and perform signs and wonders, to lead astray, if possible, the elect. <sup>23</sup>†But be on guard; I have told you all things beforehand.

The Coming of the Son of Man

<sup>24</sup>†“But in those days, after that tribulation, the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light, <sup>25</sup>†and the stars will be falling from heaven, and the powers in the heavens will be shaken. <sup>26</sup>†And then they will see the Son of Man coming in clouds with great power and glory. <sup>27</sup>†And then he will send out the angels and gather his elect from the four winds, from the ends of the earth to the ends of heaven.

The Lesson of the Fig Tree

<sup>28</sup>†“From the fig tree learn its lesson: as soon as its branch becomes tender and puts out its leaves, you know that summer is near. <sup>29</sup>†So also, when you see these things taking place, you know that he is near, at the very gates. <sup>30</sup>†Truly, I say to you, this generation will not pass away until all these things take place. <sup>31</sup>†Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

No One Knows That Day or Hour

<sup>32</sup>†“But concerning that day or that hour, no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father. <sup>33</sup>†Be on guard, keep awake. [\[1\]](#) For you do not know when the time will come. <sup>34</sup>†It is like a man going on a journey, when he leaves home and puts his servants [\[2\]](#) in charge, each with his work, and commands the doorkeeper to stay awake. <sup>35</sup>†Therefore stay awake—for you do not know when the master of the house will come, in the evening, or at midnight, or when the rooster crows, [\[3\]](#) or in the morning— <sup>36</sup>lest he come suddenly and find you asleep. <sup>37</sup>And what I say to you I say to all: Stay awake.”

The Plot to Kill Jesus

MARK 14 †It was now two days before the Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread. And the chief priests and the scribes were seeking how to arrest him by stealth and kill him, <sup>2</sup>†for they said, “Not during the feast, lest there be an uproar from the people.”

Jesus Anointed at Bethany

<sup>3</sup>†And while he was at Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, [1] as he was reclining at table, a woman came with an alabaster flask of ointment of pure nard, very costly, and she broke the flask and poured it over his head. <sup>4</sup>†There were some who said to themselves indignantly, “Why was the ointment wasted like that? <sup>5</sup>†For this ointment could have been sold for more than three hundred denarii [2] and given to the poor.” And they scolded her. <sup>6</sup>But Jesus said, “Leave her alone. Why do you trouble her? She has done a beautiful thing to me. <sup>7</sup>†For you always have the poor with you, and whenever you want, you can do good for them. But you will not always have me. <sup>8</sup>†She has done what she could; she has anointed my body beforehand for burial. <sup>9</sup>†And truly, I say to you, wherever the gospel is proclaimed in the whole world, what she has done will be told in memory of her.”

Judas to Betray Jesus

<sup>10</sup>†Then Judas Iscariot, who was one of the twelve, went to the chief priests in order to betray him to them. <sup>11</sup>†And when they heard it, they were glad and promised to give him money. And he sought an opportunity to betray him.

The Passover with the Disciples

<sup>12</sup>†And on the first day of Unleavened Bread, when they sacrificed the Passover lamb, his disciples said to him, “Where will you have us go and prepare for you to eat the Passover?” <sup>13</sup>†And he sent two of his disciples and said to them, “Go into the city, and a man carrying a jar of water will meet you. Follow him, <sup>14</sup>†and wherever he enters, say to the master of the house, ‘The Teacher says, Where is my guest room, where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?’ <sup>15</sup>†And he will show you a large upper room furnished and ready; there prepare for us.” <sup>16</sup>And the disciples set out and went to the city and found it just as he had told them, and they prepared the Passover.

<sup>17</sup>† And when it was evening, he came with the twelve. <sup>18</sup>† And as they were reclining at table and eating, Jesus said, “Truly, I say to you, one of you will betray me, one who is eating with me.” <sup>19</sup> They began to be sorrowful and to say to him one after another, “Is it I?” <sup>20</sup>† He said to them, “It is one of the twelve, one who is dipping bread into the dish with me. <sup>21</sup>† For the Son of Man goes as it is written of him, but woe to that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would have been better for that man if he had not been born.”

Institution of the Lord's Supper

<sup>22</sup>†† And as they were eating, he took bread, and after blessing it broke it and gave it to them, and said, “Take; this is my body.” <sup>23</sup>† And he took a cup, and when he had given thanks he gave it to them, and they all drank of it. <sup>24</sup>† And he said to them, “This is my blood of the [3] covenant, which is poured out for many. <sup>25</sup>† Truly, I say to you, I will not drink again of the fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new in the kingdom of God.”

Jesus Foretells Peter's Denial

<sup>26</sup>† And when they had sung a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives. <sup>27</sup>† And Jesus said to them, “You will all fall away, for it is written, ‘I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep will be scattered.’ <sup>28</sup>† But after I am raised up, I will go before you to Galilee.” <sup>29</sup> Peter said to him, “Even though they all fall away, I will not.” <sup>30</sup>† And Jesus said to him, “Truly, I tell you, this very night, before the rooster crows twice, you will deny me three times.” <sup>31</sup> But he said emphatically, “If I must die with you, I will not deny you.” And they all said the same.

Jesus Prays in Gethsemane

<sup>32</sup>† And they went to a place called Gethsemane. And he said to his disciples, “Sit here while I pray.” <sup>33</sup>† And he took with him Peter and James and John, and began to be greatly distressed and troubled. <sup>34</sup>† And he said to them, “My soul is very sorrowful, even to death. Remain here and watch.” [4] <sup>35</sup>† And going a little farther, he fell on the ground and prayed that, if it were possible, the hour might pass from him. <sup>36</sup>† And he said, “Abba, Father, all things are possible for you. Remove this cup from me. Yet not what I will, but what you will.” <sup>37</sup>† And he came and found them sleeping, and he said to Peter, “Simon, are you asleep?”

Could you not watch one hour? <sup>38</sup>† Watch and pray that you may not enter into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.” <sup>39</sup>And again he went away and prayed, saying the same words. <sup>40</sup>And again he came and found them sleeping, for their eyes were very heavy, and they did not know what to answer him. <sup>41</sup>† And he came the third time and said to them, “Are you still sleeping and taking your rest? It is enough; the hour has come. The Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. <sup>42</sup>Rise, let us be going; see, my betrayer is at hand.”

Betrayal and Arrest of Jesus

<sup>43</sup>† And immediately, while he was still speaking, Judas came, one of the twelve, and with him a crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests and the scribes and the elders. <sup>44</sup>† Now the betrayer had given them a sign, saying, “The one I will kiss is the man. Seize him and lead him away under guard.” <sup>45</sup>† And when he came, he went up to him at once and said, “Rabbi!” And he kissed him. <sup>46</sup>And they laid hands on him and seized him. <sup>47</sup>† But one of those who stood by drew his sword and struck the servant [5] of the high priest and cut off his ear. <sup>48</sup>† And Jesus said to them, “Have you come out as against a robber, with swords and clubs to capture me? <sup>49</sup>† Day after day I was with you in the temple teaching, and you did not seize me. But let the Scriptures be fulfilled.” <sup>50</sup>† And they all left him and fled.

A Young Man Flees

Jesus Before the Council

<sup>53</sup>†† And they led Jesus to the high priest. And all the chief priests and the elders and the scribes came together. <sup>54</sup>† And Peter had followed him at a distance, right into the courtyard of the high priest. And he was sitting with the guards and warming himself at the fire. <sup>55</sup>† Now the chief priests and the whole Council [6] were seeking testimony against Jesus to put him to death, but they found none. <sup>56</sup>† For many bore false witness against him, but their testimony did not agree. <sup>57</sup>† And some stood up and bore false witness against him, saying, <sup>58</sup>† “We heard him say, ‘I will destroy this temple that is made with hands, and in three days I will build another, not made with hands.’” <sup>59</sup> Yet even about this their testimony did not agree. <sup>60</sup>† And the high priest stood up in the midst and asked Jesus, “Have you no answer to make? What is it that these men testify against you?” [\[7\]](#) <sup>61</sup>† But he remained silent and made no answer. Again the high priest asked him, “Are you the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?” <sup>62</sup>† And Jesus said, “I am, and you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of Power, and coming with the clouds of heaven.” <sup>63</sup>† And the high priest tore his garments and said, “What further witnesses do we need?” <sup>64</sup>† You have heard his blasphemy. What is your decision?” And they all condemned him as deserving death. <sup>65</sup>† And some began to spit on him and to cover his face and to strike him, saying to him, “Prophecy!” And the guards received him with blows.

Peter Denies Jesus

<sup>66</sup>† And as Peter was below in the courtyard, one of the servant girls of the high priest came, <sup>67</sup>† and seeing Peter warming himself, she looked at him and said, “You also were with the Nazarene, Jesus.” <sup>68</sup>† But he denied it, saying, “I neither know nor understand what you mean.” And he went out into the gateway [\[8\]](#) and the rooster crowed. [\[9\]](#) <sup>69</sup> And the servant girl saw him and began again to say to the bystanders, “This man is one of them.” <sup>70</sup>† But again he denied it. And after a little while the bystanders again said to Peter, “Certainly you are one of them, for you are a Galilean.” <sup>71</sup> But he began to invoke a curse on himself and to swear, “I do not know this man of whom you speak.” <sup>72</sup>† And immediately the rooster crowed a second time. And Peter remembered how Jesus had said to him, “Before the rooster crows twice, you will deny me three times.” And he broke down and wept. [\[10\]](#)

Jesus Delivered to Pilate

MARK 15 †And as soon as it was morning, the chief priests held a consultation with the elders and scribes and the whole Council. And they bound Jesus and led him away and delivered him over to Pilate. <sup>2</sup>†And Pilate asked him, “Are you the King of the Jews?” And he answered him, “You have said so.” <sup>3</sup>And the chief priests accused him of many things. <sup>4</sup>†And Pilate again asked him, “Have you no answer to make? See how many charges they bring against you.” <sup>5</sup>But Jesus made no further answer, so that Pilate was amazed.

Pilate Delivers Jesus to Be Crucified

<sup>6</sup>†Now at the feast he used to release for them one prisoner for whom they asked. <sup>7</sup>†And among the rebels in prison, who had committed murder in the insurrection, there was a man called Barabbas. <sup>8</sup>And the crowd came up and began to ask Pilate to do as he usually did for them. <sup>9</sup>And he answered them, saying, “Do you want me to release for you the King of the Jews?” <sup>10</sup>†For he perceived that it was out of envy that the chief priests had delivered him up. <sup>11</sup>But the chief priests stirred up the crowd to have him release for them Barabbas instead. <sup>12</sup>And Pilate again said to them, “Then what shall I do with the man you call the King of the Jews?” <sup>13</sup>†And they cried out again, “Crucify him.” <sup>14</sup>And Pilate said to them, “Why, what evil has he done?” But they shouted all the more, “Crucify him.” <sup>15</sup>†So Pilate, wishing to satisfy the crowd, released for them Barabbas, and having scourged [\[1\]](#) Jesus, he delivered him to be crucified.

Jesus Is Mocked

<sup>16</sup>†And the soldiers led him away inside the palace (that is, the governor's headquarters), [\[2\]](#) and they called together the whole battalion. [\[3\]](#) <sup>17</sup>†And they clothed him in a purple cloak, and twisting together a crown of thorns, they put it on him. <sup>18</sup>†And they began to salute him, “Hail, King of the Jews!” <sup>19</sup>†And they were striking his head with a reed and spitting on him and kneeling down in homage to him. <sup>20</sup>And when they had mocked him, they stripped him of the purple cloak and put his own clothes on him. And they led him out to crucify him.

The Crucifixion

<sup>21</sup>† And they compelled a passerby, Simon of Cyrene, who was coming in from the country, the father of Alexander and Rufus, to carry his cross. <sup>22</sup>† And they brought him to the place called Golgotha (which means Place of a Skull). <sup>23</sup>† And they offered him wine mixed with myrrh, but he did not take it. <sup>24</sup>† And they crucified him and divided his garments among them, casting lots for them, to decide what each should take. <sup>25</sup>† And it was the third hour [4] when they crucified him. <sup>26</sup>† And the inscription of the charge against him read, “The King of the Jews.” <sup>27</sup>† And with him they crucified two robbers, one on his right and one on his left. [5] <sup>29</sup>† And those who passed by derided him, wagging their heads and saying, “Aha! You who would destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days, <sup>30</sup>save yourself, and come down from the cross!” <sup>31</sup> So also the chief priests with the scribes mocked him to one another, saying, “He saved others; he cannot save himself. <sup>32</sup>† Let the Christ, the King of Israel, come down now from the cross that we may see and believe.” Those who were crucified with him also reviled him.

The Death of Jesus

<sup>33</sup>† And when the sixth hour [6] had come, there was darkness over the whole land until the ninth hour. [7] <sup>34</sup>† And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, “Eloi, Eloi, lema sabachthani?” which means, “My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?” <sup>35</sup>† And some of the bystanders hearing it said, “Behold, he is calling Elijah.” <sup>36</sup>† And someone ran and filled a sponge with sour wine, put it on a reed and gave it to him to drink, saying, “Wait, let us see whether Elijah will come to take him down.” <sup>37</sup>† And Jesus uttered a loud cry and breathed his last. <sup>38</sup>† And the curtain of the temple was torn in two, from top to bottom. <sup>39</sup>† And when the centurion, who stood facing him, saw that in this way he [8] breathed his last, he said, “Truly this man was the Son [9] of God!”

<sup>40</sup>† There were also women looking on from a distance, among whom were Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James the younger and of Joses, and Salome. <sup>41</sup>† When he was in Galilee, they followed him and ministered to him, and there were also many other women who came up with him to Jerusalem.

Jesus Is Buried

<sup>42</sup>† And when evening had come, since it was the day of Preparation, that is, the day before the Sabbath, <sup>43</sup>† Joseph of Arimathea, a respected member of the Council, who was also himself looking for the kingdom of God, took courage and went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. <sup>44</sup>† Pilate was surprised to hear that he should have already died. [\[10\]](#) And summoning the centurion, he asked him whether he was already dead. <sup>45</sup>† And when he learned from the centurion that he was dead, he granted the corpse to Joseph. <sup>46</sup>† And Joseph [\[11\]](#) bought a linen shroud, and taking him down, wrapped him in the linen shroud and laid him in a tomb that had been cut out of the rock. And he rolled a stone against the entrance of the tomb. <sup>47</sup> Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of Joseph saw where he was laid.

The Resurrection

MARK 16 †When the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James and Salome bought spices, so that they might go and anoint him. <sup>2</sup>†And very early on the first day of the week, when the sun had risen, they went to the tomb. <sup>3</sup>†And they were saying to one another, “Who will roll away the stone for us from the entrance of the tomb?” <sup>4</sup>†And looking up, they saw that the stone had been rolled back—it was very large. <sup>5</sup>†And entering the tomb, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, dressed in a white robe, and they were alarmed. <sup>6</sup>†And he said to them, “Do not be alarmed. You seek Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucified. He has risen; he is not here. See the place where they laid him. <sup>7</sup>†But go, tell his disciples and Peter that he is going before you to Galilee. There you will see him, just as he told you.” <sup>8</sup>†And they went out and fled from the tomb, for trembling and astonishment had seized them, and they said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid.

Jesus Appears to Mary Magdalene

<sup>9</sup>††[[Now when he rose early on the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, from whom he had cast out seven demons. <sup>10</sup>She went and told those who had been with him, as they mourned and wept. <sup>11</sup>But when they heard that he was alive and had been seen by her, they would not believe it.

Jesus Appears to Two Disciples

<sup>12</sup>†After these things he appeared in another form to two of them, as they were walking into the country. <sup>13</sup>And they went back and told the rest, but they did not believe them.

The Great Commission

<sup>14</sup>†Afterward he appeared to the eleven themselves as they were reclining at table, and he rebuked them for their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they had not believed those who saw him after he had risen. <sup>15</sup>†And he said to them, “Go into all the world and proclaim the gospel to the whole creation. <sup>16</sup>Whoever believes and is baptized will be saved, but whoever does not believe will be condemned. <sup>17</sup>‡And these signs will accompany those who believe: in my name they will cast out demons; they will speak in new tongues; <sup>18</sup>they will pick up serpents with their hands; and if they drink any deadly poison, it will not hurt them; they will lay their hands on the sick, and they will recover.”

<sup>19</sup>‡So then the Lord Jesus, after he had spoken to them, was taken up into heaven and sat down at the right hand of God. <sup>20</sup>‡And they went out and preached everywhere, while the Lord worked with them and confirmed the message by accompanying signs.]]

A few manuscripts insert additional material after verse 14; one Latin manuscript adds after verse 8 the following: But they reported briefly to Peter and those with him all that they had been told. And after this, Jesus himself sent out by means of them, from east to west, the sacred and imperishable proclamation of eternal salvation. Other manuscripts include this same wording after verse 8, then continue with verses 9-20

Study Notes

MARK—NOTE ON 1:1 The beginning . . . the Son of God. This is best viewed as Mark's title for his Gospel. The historical record of the gospel message began with John the Baptist (cf. Matt. 11:12; Luke 16:16; Acts 1:22; 10:37; 13:24). gospel. The good news about the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ, of which the four Gospels are written records (see Introduction to the Gospels). Jesus Christ. "Jesus" is the Greek form of the Hebrew name Joshua ("the Lord is salvation"); "Christ" ("anointed one") is the Greek equivalent of the Hebrew word Messiah. "Jesus" is the Lord's human name (cf. Matt. 1:21; Luke 1:31); "Christ" signifies his office as ruler of God's coming kingdom (Dan. 9:25–26). Son of God. An affirmation of Jesus' deity, stressing his unique relationship to the Father (cf. Matt. 3:11; 5:7; 9:7; 13:32; 15:39; see note on John 1:34).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:2 it is written. A phrase commonly used in the NT to introduce OT quotes (cf. 7:6; 9:13; 14:21, 27; Matt. 2:5; 4:4, 6–7; Luke 2:23; 3:4; John 6:45; 12:14; Acts 1:20; 7:42; Rom. 3:4; 8:36; 1 Cor. 1:31; 9:9; 2 Cor. 8:15; 9:9; Gal. 3:10; 4:22; Heb. 10:7; 1 Pet. 1:16). in Isaiah the prophet. Mark's quote is actually from two OT passages (Isa. 40:3; Mal. 3:1), which probably explains the reading "the Prophets" found in some manuscripts. The Gospels all introduce John the Baptist's ministry by quoting Isa. 40:3 (cf. Matt. 3:3; Luke 3:4; John 1:23). my messenger. John was the divinely promised messenger, sent to prepare the way for the Messiah. In ancient times, a king's envoys would travel ahead of him, making sure the roads were safe and fit for him to travel on, as well as announcing his arrival.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:4 John. A common Jewish name in NT times, it is the Greek equivalent of the Hebrew name Johanan (cf. 2 Kings 25:23; 1 Chron. 3:15; Jer. 40:8), meaning "the Lord is gracious." John's name was given by the angel Gabriel to his father Zechariah, during his time of priestly service in the temple (Luke 1:13). His mother, Elizabeth, also a descendant of Aaron (Luke 1:5), was a relative of Mary the mother of Jesus (Luke 1:36). As the last OT prophet and the divinely ordained forerunner of the Messiah (see note on Mark 1:2), John was the culmination of OT history and prophecy (Luke 16:16) as well as the beginning of the historical record of the gospel of Jesus Christ. Not surprisingly, Jesus designated John as the greatest man who had lived until his time (Matt. 11:11). baptism. Being the distinctive mark of John's ministry, his baptism differed from the ritual Jewish washings in that it was a one-time act. The Jews performed a similar one-time washing of Gentile proselytes, symbolizing their embracing of the true faith. That Jews would participate in such a rite was a startling admission that they, although members of God's covenant people, needed to come to God through repentance and faith just like Gentiles. in the wilderness. The desolate, arid region between Jerusalem and the Dead Sea (see note on Matt. 3:1). baptism of repentance. A baptism resulting from true repentance. John's ministry was to call Israel to repentance in preparation for the coming of Messiah. Baptism did not produce repentance, but was its result (cf. Matt. 3:7–8). Far more than a mere change of mind or remorse, repentance involves a turning from sin to God (cf. 1 Thess. 1:9), which results in righteous living. Genuine repentance is a work of God in the human heart (Acts 11:18). For a discussion of the nature of repentance, see notes on 2 Cor. 7:9–12. for the forgiveness of sins. John's rite of baptism did not produce forgiveness of sin (see notes on Acts 2:38; 22:16); it was only the outward confession and illustration of the true repentance that results in forgiveness (cf. Luke 24:47; Acts 3:19; 5:31; 2 Cor. 7:10).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:5 all the country of Judea . . . all Jerusalem. After centuries without a prophetic voice in Israel (Malachi had prophesied more than 400 years earlier), John's ministry generated an intense amount of interest. Judea. The southernmost division of Palestine (Samaria and Galilee being the others) in Jesus' day. It extended from about Bethel in the north to Beersheba in the south, and from the Mediterranean Sea in the west to the Dead Sea and Jordan River in the east. Included within Judea was the city of Jerusalem. river Jordan. Palestine's major river, flowing through the Jordan Rift Valley from Lake Hula (drained in modern times), north of the Sea of Galilee, south to the Dead Sea. According to tradition, John began his baptizing ministry at the fords near Jericho. confessing. To confess one's sins, as they were being baptized, is to agree with God about them. John baptized no one who did not confess and repent of his sins.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:6 camel's hair . . . leather belt. The traditional clothes of a wilderness dweller, which were sturdy, but neither fashionable nor comfortable. John's clothing would have reminded his audience of Elijah (cf. 2 Kings 1:8), whom they expected to come before Messiah (Mal. 4:5; cf. Matt. 17:10–13). locusts and wild honey. The OT dietary regulations permitted the eating of "locusts" (Lev. 11:21–22). "Wild honey" could often be found in the wilderness (Deut. 32:13; 1 Sam. 14:25–27). John's austere diet was in keeping with his status as a lifelong Nazirite (cf. Luke 1:15; for Nazirite, see notes on Num. 6:2–13).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:7 preached. Better translated “proclaiming,” John was Jesus’ herald, sent to announce his coming (see note on v. 4). the strap of whose sandals I am not worthy to stoop down and untie. The most menial task a slave could perform. John vividly expressed his humility.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:8 baptize you with the Holy Spirit. This takes place when a person comes to faith in Christ (see notes on Acts 1:5; 8:16–17; 1 Cor. 12:13).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:9 In those days. At some unspecified time during John’s baptizing ministry at the Jordan. Nazareth. An obscure village (not mentioned in the OT, or by Josephus, or in the Talmud) about 70 miles north of Jerusalem, that did not enjoy a favorable reputation (cf. John 1:46). Jesus had apparently been living there before his public appearance to Israel. baptized by John. Over John’s objections (cf. Matt. 3:14), who saw no need for the sinless Lamb of God (John 1:29) to participate in a baptism of repentance (see notes on Mark 1:4–5; for an explanation of why Jesus was baptized, see note on Matt. 3:15).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:10 immediately. In keeping with his fast-paced narrative style (see Introduction to the Gospels), Mark used this adverb more than the other three Gospel writers combined. This first occurrence sets the stage for the audible and visible signs that followed Jesus’ baptism. the Spirit descending on him like a dove. This was most likely symbolic of Jesus’ empowerment for ministry (Isa. 61:1). See note on Matt. 3:16–17.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:11 The Father's pronouncement would have reminded the audience of the messianic prophecies of Ps. 2:7 and Isa. 42:1.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:12 immediately. See note on v. 10. Jesus' temptation came right after his baptism. The Spirit . . . drove him. Compelled by the Spirit, Jesus confronted Satan and took the first step toward overthrowing his evil kingdom (cf. 1 John 3:8). Though God tempts no one (James 1:13), he sometimes sovereignly permits Satan to tempt his people (e.g., Job; Luke 22:31–32). the wilderness. The exact location of Jesus' encounter with Satan is unknown. It most likely would have been the same wilderness where John lived and ministered (see note on Mark 1:4), the desolate region farther south, or the arid Arabian desert across the Jordan.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:13 forty days. Perhaps reminiscent of Israel’s 40 years of wandering in the wilderness (Num. 14:33; 32:13). Matthew and Luke add that Jesus went without food during this time. Moses (twice, Deut. 9:9, 18) and Elijah (1 Kings 19:8) also fasted for that length of time. Satan. From a Hebrew word meaning “adversary.” Since he had no fallen nature, Jesus’ temptation was not an internal emotional or psychological struggle, but an external attack by a personal being. wild animals. A detail unique to Mark’s account, stressing Jesus’ loneliness and complete isolation from other people. angels were ministering to him. Cf. Ps. 91:11–12. The tense of this Greek verb, “to minister,” suggests the angels ministered to Jesus throughout his temptation.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:14 John was arrested. He was incarcerated for rebuking Herod Antipas over his incestuous marriage to his niece, Herodias (see notes on 6:17–27). Jesus came into Galilee. From Judea (Matt. 4:12; Luke 4:13; John 4:3). Mark, along with Matthew and Luke, passes directly from the temptation to the beginning of the Galilean ministry, skipping Jesus’ intervening ministry in Judea (John 2:13–4:4). Galilee was the northernmost region of Palestine, and the most heavily populated. the gospel of God. The good news of salvation both about God and from him (see note on Rom. 1:1; cf. Rom. 15:16; 1 Thess. 2:2, 8, 9; 1 Tim. 1:11; 1 Pet. 4:17).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:15 The time is fulfilled. Not time in a chronological sense, but the time for decisive action on God’s part. With the arrival of the King, a new era in God’s dealings with men had come. See note on Gal. 4:4. the kingdom of God. God’s sovereign rule over the sphere of salvation; at present in the hearts of his people (Luke 17:21), and in the future, in a literal, earthly kingdom (Rev. 20:4–6). at hand. Because the King was present. repent and believe. Repentance (see note on Mark 1:4) and faith (see note on Rom. 1:16) are man’s required responses to God’s gracious offer of salvation (cf. Acts 20:21).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:16 Sea of Galilee. Also known as the Sea of Chinnereth (Num. 34:11), the Lake of Gennesaret (Luke 5:1), and the Sea of Tiberias (John 6:1). A large, freshwater lake about 13 miles long and 7 miles wide, and about 690 feet below sea level (making it the lowest body of fresh water on earth), the Sea of Galilee was home to a thriving fishing industry. Simon and Andrew. The first of two sets of brothers Jesus called to follow him. Like James and John, they were fishermen. Since Andrew had been a follower of John the Baptist (John 1:40), it is possible that Peter had been as well. They had evidently returned to their fishing business after John's arrest (see note on Mark 1:14). They had already met and spent time with Jesus (see note on Matt. 4:18), but were here called to follow him permanently. net. A rope forming a circle about 9 feet in diameter with a net attached. It could be thrown by hand into the water, then hauled in by means of the length of weighted rope attached to it.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:17 Follow me. Used frequently in the Gospels in reference to discipleship (2:14; 8:34; 10:21; Matt. 4:19; 8:22; 9:9; 10:38; 16:24; 19:21; Luke 9:23, 59, 61; 18:22; John 1:43; 10:27; 12:26). fishers of men. Evangelism was the primary purpose for which Jesus called the apostles, and it remains the central mission for his people (cf. Matt. 28:19–20; Acts 1:8).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:18 followed him. I.e., became his permanent disciples (see note on v. 16).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:19 James . . . John. The second set of fishermen brothers called by Jesus (see note on v. 16). Their mother and Jesus' mother may have been sisters (cf. 15:40; Matt. 27:55–56 with John 19:25). If so, they were Jesus' cousins.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:20 hired servants. This indicates that Zebedee's fishing business was a prosperous one and that he was a man of importance (cf. John 18:15).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:21 Capernaum. A prosperous fishing village on the northwest shore of the Sea of Galilee, Capernaum was a more important city than Nazareth; it contained a Roman garrison and was located on a major road. Jesus made the city his headquarters (cf. 2:1) after his rejection at Nazareth (Matt. 4:13; Luke 4:16–31). synagogue. The place where Jewish people gathered for worship ("synagogue" is a transliteration of a Greek word meaning "to gather together"). Synagogues originated in the Babylonian captivity after the 586 B.C. destruction of the temple by Nebuchadnezzar. They served as places of worship and instruction. Jesus frequently taught in the synagogues (cf. Mark 1:39; 3:1; 6:2), as did Paul (cf. Acts 13:5; 14:1; 17:1). teaching. Mark frequently mentions Jesus' teaching ministry (cf. 2:13; 4:1–2; 6:2, 6, 34; 10:1; 11:17; 12:35; 14:49).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:22 authority. Jesus’ authoritative teaching, as the spoken word of God, was in sharp contrast to that of the scribes (experts in the OT Scriptures), who based their authority largely on that of other rabbis. Jesus’ direct, personal, and forceful teaching was so foreign to their experience that those who heard him were “astonished” (cf. Titus 2:15).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:23 man . . . cried out. Satan and his demon hosts opposed Jesus’ work throughout his ministry, culminating in the cross. Jesus always triumphed over their futile efforts (cf. Col. 2:15), convincingly demonstrating his ultimate victory by his resurrection. unclean spirit. I.e., morally impure. The term is used interchangeably in the NT with “demon.” See note on Mark 5:2.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:24 What have you to do with us . . . ? Or, possibly, “Why do you interfere with us?” The demon was acutely aware that he and Jesus belonged to two radically different kingdoms, and thus had nothing in common. That the demon used the plural pronoun “us” indicates he spoke for all the demons.

Nazareth. See note on v. 9. the Holy One of God. Cf. Ps. 16:10; Dan. 9:24; Luke 4:34; Acts 2:27; 3:14; 4:27; Rev. 3:7. Amazingly, the demon affirmed Jesus’ sinlessness and deity—truths which many in Israel denied, and still deny.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:25 Be silent. Jesus wanted no testimony to the truth from the demonic realm to fuel charges that he was in league with Satan (cf. 3:22; Acts 16:16–18).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:27 with authority. See note on v. 22. Jesus had absolute authority in his actions as well as his words (Matt. 28:18).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:29 the house of Simon and Andrew. Originally from Bethsaida (John 1:44), the two brothers had moved to Capernaum when Jesus established his headquarters there (see note on Mark 1:21). James and John. Only Mark mentions their presence at the healing of Peter’s mother-in-law.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:30 Simon’s mother-in-law. Paul also affirmed that Peter was married (1 Cor. 9:5). That his mother-in-law was living with Peter and his wife may indicate that her husband was dead. a fever. That she was too ill to get out of bed, coupled with Luke’s description of her fever as a “high fever” (Luke 4:38), suggests her illness was serious, even life-threatening.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:32 That evening. Marking the close of the Sabbath and the easing of the restrictions associated with it. Specifically, rabbinic law prohibited carrying any burdens (such as stretchers) on the Sabbath. they brought. The report of Jesus' healing of the demon-possessed man in the synagogue and Peter's mother-in-law created a sensation in Capernaum and aroused the hopes of other sufferers.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:34 not permit the demons to speak. See notes on v. 25; 3:11–12. they knew him. The demons' theology is absolutely orthodox (James 2:19); but though they know the truth, they reject it and God, who is its source.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:36 Simon and those who were with him. The first instance in the Gospels of Peter's assuming of leadership. Those with Peter are not revealed, though Andrew, James, and John were likely among them.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:37 Finding Jesus after a diligent search (v. 36), Peter and the others excitedly implored him to return to Capernaum and capitalize on the excitement generated by the previous night's healings.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:39 throughout all Galilee. Mark's terse statement summarizes a preaching tour that must have lasted for weeks, or even months (cf. Matt. 4:23–24).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:40–45 Mark relates one of Jesus' many healings during the Galilean ministry summarized in v. 39. The leper's healing emphasizes Jesus' miraculous power over disease, since leprosy was one of the most dreaded diseases of antiquity.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:40 leper. Lepers were considered ceremonially unclean, and were outcasts from society (Lev. 13:11). While the OT term for leprosy included other skin diseases (see note on Lev. 13:2), this man may have actually had true leprosy (Hansen's Disease), or else his cure would not have created such a sensation (Mark 1:45).

MARK—NOTE ON 1:41 pity. Only Mark records Jesus' emotional reaction to the leper's desperate plight. The Greek word appears only in the synoptic Gospels and (apart from parables) is used only in reference to Jesus. touched him. Unlike rabbis, who avoided lepers lest they become ceremonially defiled, Jesus expressed his compassion with a physical gesture.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:44 say nothing to anyone. The ensuing publicity would hinder Jesus' ability to minister (as in fact happened, cf. v. 45) and divert attention away from his message. Cf. 3:12; 5:43; 7:36; see note on Matt. 8:4. go, show yourself to the priest. The "priest" was the one on duty at the temple. Jesus commanded the healed leper to observe the OT regulations concerning cleansed lepers (Lev. 14:1–32). Until the required offerings had been made, the man remained ceremonially unclean. a proof to them. The priest's acceptance of the man's offering would be public affirmation of his cure and cleansing.

MARK—NOTE ON 1:45 talk freely. Only Mark records the cleansed leper's disobedience, although Luke hints at it (Luke 5:15). no longer openly enter a town. The result of the leper's disobedience was that Jesus could no longer enter a city without being mobbed by those seeking to be cured of diseases. Jesus' ministry of teaching in that area thus came to a halt. desolate places. Jesus kept to the relatively uninhabited regions to allow the excitement over his cure of the leper to die down. Luke also notes that he used his time in the wilderness for prayer (Luke 5:16).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:1 he was at home. This was likely Peter's home, where Jesus had taken up temporary residence (cf. Matt. 4:13).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:2 the word. The good news of the gospel, that salvation is by grace alone, through faith alone, for the forgiveness of sins.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:3 a paralytic. Since he was lying on a bed, the man's paralysis was severe—perhaps he was a quadriplegic.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:4 they removed the roof. Most homes in Israel had flat roofs used for relaxation in the cool of the day and for sleeping on hot nights. And there was usually an external stairway that extended to the roof. Often, as here, the roof was made of slabs of burnt or dried clay that were placed on supporting beams which stretched from wall to wall. The builder then spread a uniform coat of fresh, wet clay over those slabs of hardened clay to serve as a seal against the rain. The paralytic's friends took him up to the top of such a house and dug out the top coat of clay, removing several of the slabs until they made enough room to lower him down into Jesus' presence. the paralytic. See note on v. 3.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:5 Jesus saw their faith. The aggressive, persistent effort of the paralytic's friends was visible evidence of their faith in Christ to heal. Son, your sins are forgiven. Many Jews in that day believed that all disease and affliction was a direct result of one's sins. This paralytic may have believed that as well; thus he would have welcomed forgiveness of his sins before healing. The Greek verb for "are forgiven" refers to sending or driving away (cf. Ps. 103:12; Jer. 31:34; Mic. 7:19). Thus Jesus dismissed the man's sin and freed him from the guilt of it (see note on Matt. 9:2).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:6 the scribes. See note on Matt. 2:4; cf. Mark 1:22.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:7 this man . . . blaspheming. The scribes were correct in saying that only God can forgive sins (cf. Isa. 43:25), but incorrect in saying Jesus blasphemed. They refused to recognize Jesus' power as coming from God, much less that he himself was God.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:8 in his spirit. This can also be translated, "by his spirit." This is not the Holy Spirit, but the omniscient mind of the Savior.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:9 Which is easier . . . ? It is much easier to say, "your sins are forgiven." No human can prove that such a thing actually occurred since it is invisible. Commanding a paralytic to walk would be more difficult to say convincingly, however, because the actions of the paralytic would immediately verify the effect of the command (see note on Matt. 9:5).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:10 But that you may know. Jesus' power to heal the paralytic's physical infirmities proved the veracity of his claim and power to forgive sins. Son of Man. Jesus used this term for himself to emphasize his humiliation (see notes on 14:62; Matt. 8:20). It appears 14 times in Mark (Mark 1:10, 28; 8:31, 38; 9:9, 12, 31; 10:33, 45; 13:26; 14:21, 41, 62).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:14 Levi the son of Alphaeus. One of the Twelve, more commonly known as Matthew (see Introduction to Matthew: Title). tax booth. Matthew was a publican, a tax collector, a despised profession in Palestine because such men were viewed as traitors. Tax collectors were Jews who had bought tax franchises from the Roman government. Any amount they collected over what Rome required they were allowed to keep. Thus many tax collectors became wealthy at the expense of their own people (see notes on Matt. 5:46; 9:9). he rose and followed him. This simple action of Matthew signified his conversion. Because his response was so immediate, it is likely Matthew was already convicted of his sin and recognized his need of forgiveness.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:15 reclined at table. A common posture for eating when guests were present. According to Luke 5:29, this was a feast that Matthew gave in Jesus' honor. tax collectors. There were two categories of tax collectors: 1) gabbai collected general taxes on land and property, and on income, referred to as poll or registration taxes; 2) mokhes collected a wide variety of use taxes, similar to our import duties, business license fees, and toll fees. There were two categories of mokhes: great mokhes hired others to collect taxes for them; small mokhes did their own assessing and collecting. Matthew was a small mokhe. It is likely representatives of both classes attended Matthew's feast. All of them were considered both religious and social outcasts. sinners. A term the Jews used to describe people who had no respect for the Mosaic law or rabbinic traditions, and were therefore the most vile and worthless of people. reclining with. Jesus' willingness to associate with tax collectors and sinners by sharing in the feast with them deeply offended the scribes and Pharisees.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:16 scribes of the Pharisees. This phrase indicates that not all scribes were Pharisees (regarding scribes, see note on Matt. 2:4). Pharisees were a legalistic sect of Jews known for their strict devotion to the ceremonial law (see note on Matt. 3:7).

The Plan of Herod's Temple

MARK—NOTE ON 2:17 I came not to call the righteous. In the parallel passage, Luke 5:32, sinners are called “to repentance.” The repentant person—the one who recognizes he is a sinner and who turns from his sin—is the object of Jesus’ call. The person who is sinful but thinks he is righteous refuses to acknowledge his need to repent of his sin. See notes on Matt. 9:12–13 and John 9:39–41.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:18 John’s disciples. Those followers of John the Baptist who did not transfer their allegiance to Jesus (cf. John 3:30; Acts 19:1–7). At this time John was in prison (Matt. 4:12). Their question indicates they were observing the Pharisaic traditions (cf. Matt. 9:14). the Pharisees. See note on Mark 2:16. The association of John’s disciples with the Pharisees indicates that both groups were disturbed about the problem raised by Jesus’ association with tax collectors and sinners (cf. v. 15). fasting. The twice-a-week fast was a major expression of orthodox Judaism during Jesus’ day (cf. Luke 18:9–14). Yet, the OT prescribed only one fast, and that on the Day of Atonement (Lev. 16:29, 31).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:19 Can the wedding guests fast . . . ? In Jesus’ illustration, the “wedding guests” were the friends the bridegroom selected to carry out the festivities. That certainly was not a time to fast, which was usually associated with mourning or times of great spiritual need. Jesus' point was that the ritual practiced by John's disciples and the Pharisees was out of touch with reality. There was no reason for Jesus' followers to mourn and fast while enjoying the unique reality that he was with them.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:20 taken away from them. This refers to a sudden removal or being snatched away violently—an obvious reference to Jesus' capture and crucifixion. then they will fast. An appropriate time for mourning was to be at the crucifixion of Jesus.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:21–22 Jesus offered two parables to illustrate that his new and internal gospel of repentance from and forgiveness of sin could not be connected to or contained in the old and external traditions of self-righteousness and ritual (see note on Matt. 9:17).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:22 fresh wineskins. Newly made and unused wineskins provided the necessary strength and elasticity to hold up as wine fermented.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:23 grainfields. The roads in first-century Israel were primarily major arteries; so once travelers left those main roads they walked along wide paths that bordered and traversed pastures and grainfields. One Sabbath. “Sabbath” transliterates a Hebrew word that refers to a ceasing of activity or rest. In honor of the day when God rested from his creation of the world (Gen. 2:3), the Lord declared the seventh day of the week to be a special time of rest and remembrance for his people, which he incorporated into the Ten Commandments (see note on Ex. 20:8). But hundreds of years of rabbinical teaching had added numerous unbearable and arbitrary restrictions to God's original requirement, one of which forbade any travel beyond 3,000 feet of one's home (cf. Num. 35:5; Josh. 3:4). pluck heads of grain. Travelers who did not take enough food for their journey were permitted by Mosaic law to pick enough grain to satisfy their hunger (Deut. 23:24–25; see note on Matt. 12:2).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:24 what is not lawful on the Sabbath. Rabbinical tradition had interpreted the rubbing of grain in the hands (cf. Luke 6:1) as a form of threshing and had forbidden it. Reaping for profit on the Sabbath was forbidden by Mosaic law (Ex. 34:21), but that was obviously not the situation here (see note on Matt. 12:2). Actually the Pharisees' charge was itself sinful since they were holding their tradition on a par with God's word (see notes on Matt. 15:2– 9).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:25 he said to them, “Have you never read . . . ?” Jesus’ sarcasm pointed out the main fault of the Pharisees, who claimed to be experts and guardians of Scripture, yet were ignorant of what it actually taught (cf. Rom. 2:17–24). what David did. David and his companions were fleeing for their lives from Saul when they arrived at Nob, where the tabernacle was located at that time. Because they were hungry, they asked for food (cf. 1 Sam. 21:1–6).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:26 in the time of Abiathar the high priest. The phrase “in the time” can mean “during the lifetime.” According to 1 Sam. 21:1, Ahimelech was the priest who gave the bread to David. Abiathar was Ahimelech’s son, who later was the high priest during David’s reign. Since Ahimelech died shortly after this incident (cf. 1 Sam. 22:19–20), it is likely that Mark simply added this designation to identify the well known companion of David who later became the high priest, along with Zadok (2 Sam. 15:35). bread of the Presence. Twelve loaves of unleavened bread (representing the 12 tribes of Israel) were placed on the table in the sanctuary and at the end of the week replaced with fresh ones. The old loaves were to be eaten only by the priests. While it was not normally lawful for David and his companions to eat this consecrated bread, neither did God want them to starve, so nowhere does Scripture condemn them for eating (see note on Matt. 12:4).

MARK—NOTE ON 2:27 The Sabbath was made for man. God instituted the Sabbath to benefit man by giving him a day to rest from his labors and to be a blessing to him. The Pharisees turned it into a burden and made man a slave to their myriad of man-made regulations.

MARK—NOTE ON 2:28 lord even of the Sabbath. Jesus claimed he was greater than the Sabbath, and thus was God. Based on that authority, Jesus could in fact reject the Pharisaic regulations concerning the Sabbath and restore God’s original intention for Sabbath observance to be a blessing not a burden.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:1–6 This is the last of the five conflict episodes which began in 2:1 (2:1–11; 13–17; 18–22; 23–28), and as such it gives a sense of climax to the growing antagonism between Jesus and the Jewish leaders. In this encounter, Jesus gave the Pharisees a living illustration of scriptural Sabbath observance and his sovereign authority over both man and the Sabbath.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:1 synagogue. The Jews' local places of assembly and worship (see note on 1:21). withered hand. This describes a condition of paralysis or deformity from an accident, a disease, or a congenital defect.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:2 accuse. The Pharisees were not open to learning from Jesus, but only looked for an opportunity to charge him with a violation of the Sabbath, an accusation they could bring before the Sanhedrin.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:4 Jesus countered the Pharisees with a question that elevated the issue at hand from a legal to a moral problem. Is it lawful. A reference to the Mosaic law. Jesus was forcing the Pharisees to examine their tradition regarding the Sabbath to see if it was consistent with God's OT law. to do good . . . harm . . . to save . . . kill. Christ used a device common in the Middle East—he framed the issue in terms of clear-cut extremes. The obvious implication is that failure to do good or save a life was wrong and not in keeping with God's original intention for the Sabbath (see notes on 2:27; Matt. 12:10). But they were silent. The Pharisees refused to answer Jesus' question, and by so doing implied that their Sabbath views and practices were false.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:5 anger. Definite displeasure with human sin reveals a healthy, moral nature. Jesus' reaction was consistent with his divine nature and proved that he is the righteous Son of God. This kind of holy indignation with sinful attitudes and practices was to be more fully demonstrated when Jesus cleansed the temple (cf. 11:15–18; Matt. 21:12–13; Luke 19:45–48). their hardness of heart. This phrase refers to an inability to understand because of a rebellious attitude (Ps. 95:8; Heb. 3:8, 15). The Pharisees' hearts were becoming more and more obstinate and unresponsive to the truth (cf. Mark 16:14; Rom. 9:18).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:6 The Pharisees . . . held counsel. They absolutely refused to be persuaded by anything Jesus said and did (cf. John 3:19), but were instead determined to kill him. The Greek word for “held council” includes the notion of carrying out a decision already made—the Pharisees were simply discussing how to implement theirs. Herodians. This secular political party, which took its name from Herod Antipas and was strong in its support for Rome, opposed the Pharisees on nearly every issue, but were willing to join forces with them because both desperately wanted to destroy Jesus. See note on Matt. 22:16.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:8 In spite of his conflicts with the Pharisees, Jesus remained very popular with the ordinary people. Mark is the only Gospel writer who at this point in Jesus' ministry noted that the masses came from all parts of Palestine to see and hear him. Idumea. An area southeast of Judea, mentioned only here in the NT and populated by many Edomites (originally descendants of Esau, see note on Gen. 36:43). By this time it had become mostly Jewish in population and was considered a part of Judea. beyond the Jordan. The region east of the Jordan River, also called Perea, and ruled by Herod Antipas. Its population contained a large number of Jews. Tyre and Sidon. Two Phoenician cities on the Mediterranean coast, north of Galilee. Phoenicia as a whole was often designated by these cities (cf. Jer. 47:4; Joel 3:4; Matt. 11:21; Acts 12:20).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:10 diseases. Lit., “a whip, a lash,” sometimes translated “plagues,” or “scourges.” This metaphorically describes various painful, agonizing, physical ailments and illnesses.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:11 unclean spirits. This refers to demons (see note on 1:23; cf. Luke 4:41). saw him. The tense of the Greek verb means there were many times when demons looked at Jesus and contemplated the truth of his character and identity. You are the Son of God. Cf. Mark 1:24. The demons unhesitatingly affirmed the uniqueness of Jesus' nature, which Mark saw as clear proof of Jesus' deity.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:12 ordered . . . not to make him known. Jesus always rebuked demons for their testimonies about him. He wanted his teaching and actions, not the impure words of demons, to proclaim who he was (see note on 1:25; cf. Acts 16:16–18).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:13 called to him those whom he desired. The Greek verb “called” stresses that Jesus acted in his own sovereign interest when he chose the 12 disciples (cf. John 15:16).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:14 appointed twelve. Christ, by an explicit act of his will, formed a distinct group of 12 men who were among his followers (see note on Matt. 10:1). This new group constituted the foundation of his church (cf. Eph. 2:20).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:15 have authority. This word is sometimes rendered “power.” Along with the main task of preaching, Jesus gave the Twelve the right to expel demons (cf. Luke 9:1).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:16–19 A list of the Twelve (see notes on Matt. 10:2–4).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:16 Peter. From this point on (except in 14:37), Mark uses this name for Simon, though this is not when the designation was first given (cf. John 1:42), nor does it mark the complete replacement of the name Simon (cf. Acts 15:14). The name means “stone,” and describes Peter’s character and activities, namely his position as a foundation rock in the building of the church (cf. Matt. 16:18; Eph. 2:20).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:17 Sons of Thunder. Mark defines the Aramaic term “Boanerges” for his Gentile readers. This name for the two brothers probably referred to their intense, outspoken personalities (cf. 9:38; Luke 9:54).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:18 Thaddaeus. The only name that is not the same in all the NT lists of the Twelve (cf. Matt. 10:2–4; Luke 6:14–16; Acts 1:13). Luke and Acts call him “Judas the son of James,” and John 14:22 refers to him as “Judas (not Iscariot).” the Cananaean. This does not indicate that this Simon was a native of Cana. Rather, the word is derived from the Aramaic that means “to be zealous” and was used for those who were zealous for the law. Luke uses the word transliterated from the Greek term that meant “the Zealot” (Luke 6:15; see note on Matt. 10:4).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:19 Iscariot. This Hebrew term means “man of Kerioth,” as in Kerioth-hezron, south of Hebron (Josh. 15:25).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:20 went home. This refers to Jesus’ return to Capernaum (cf. 2:1).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:21 his family. In Greek, this expression was used in various ways to describe someone’s friends or close associates. In the strictest sense, it meant family, which is probably the best understanding here. seize him. Mark used this same term elsewhere to mean the arrest of a person (6:17; 12:12; 14:1, 44, 46, 51). Jesus’ relatives evidently heard the report of 3:20 and came to Capernaum to restrain him from his many activities and bring him under their care and control, all supposedly for his own good. out of his mind. Jesus’ family could only explain his unconventional lifestyle, with its willingness for others always to impose on him, by saying he was irrational or had lost his mind.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:22 scribes. Jewish scholars, also called lawyers, (mostly Pharisees) who were experts on the law and its application (see note on Matt.

2:4). Beelzebul. Satan (see note on Luke 11:15).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:23 parables. Jesus answered the scribes by making an analogy between well known facts and the truths he expounded (see note on Matt. 13:3).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:26 is coming to an end. An expression used only in Mark which refers to Satan's ultimate doom as head of the demonic world system. See notes on Rev. 20:1–10.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:27 enter a strong man's house and plunder his goods. One must be stronger than Satan in order to enter his domain ("strong man's house"), bind him (restrain his action), and free ("plunder") people ("his goods") from his control. Only Jesus had such power over the devil. Cf. Rom. 16:20 and Heb. 2:14–15.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:28 Truly, I say to you. Mark's first use of this expression, which occurs throughout the Gospels, was employed as a formula that always introduced truthful and authoritative words from Jesus (cf. 6:11; 8:12; 9:1, 41; 10:15, 29; 11:23; 12:43; 13:30; 14:9, 18, 25, 30).

MARK—NOTE ON 3:29 whoever blasphemes . . . never has forgiveness. Whenever someone deliberately and disrespectfully slanders the person and ministry of the Holy Spirit in pointing to the lordship and redemption of Jesus Christ, he completely negates and forfeits any possibility of present or future forgiveness of sins (see note on Matt. 12:31), because he has wholly rejected the only basis of God's salvation.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:31 his mother and his brothers. Jesus' earthly family (see notes on v. 21; Matt. 12:46). The narrative that left off at Mark 3:21 resumes here.

MARK—NOTE ON 3:35 Jesus made a decisive and comprehensive statement on true Christian discipleship. Such discipleship involves a spiritual relationship that transcends the physical family and is open to all who are empowered by the Spirit of God to come to Christ in repentance and faith and enabled to live a life of obedience to God's word.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:1 sat. The typical rabbinical position for teaching; and more practically, Jesus may have sat because of the rocking of the boat in the water.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:2 parables. A common method of teaching in Judaism, which Jesus employed to conceal the truth from unbelievers while explaining it to his disciples (cf. v. 11; see note on Matt. 13:3).

MARK—NOTE ON 4:3–8 This parable depicts the teaching of the gospel throughout the world and the various responses of people to it. Some will reject it; some will accept it for a brief time but then fall away; yet some will believe and will lead others to believe.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:4 along the path. Either a road near a field’s edge or a path that traversed a field, both of which were hard surfaces due to constant foot traffic.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:5 rocky ground. Beds of solid rock, usually limestone, lying under the surface of good soil. They are a little too deep for the plow to reach, and too shallow to allow a plant to reach water and develop a decent root system in the small amount of soil that covers them.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:7 thorns. Tough, thistle-bearing weeds that use up the available space, light, and water that good plants need.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:8 produced . . . a hundredfold. An average ratio of harvested grain to what had been sown was eight to one, with a 10 to one ratio considered exceptional. The yields Jesus refers to are like an unbelievable harvest.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:9 He who has ears to hear, let him hear. On the surface, this is a call for the listener to be attentive and discern the meaning of his analogy. Yet more than human understanding is necessary to interpret the parable—only those who have been redeemed will have the true meaning explained to them by the divine Teacher.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:11 secret . . . parables. A “mystery” in the NT refers to something previously hidden and unknown but revealed in the NT (see notes on 1 Cor. 2:7; Eph. 3:4–6). In context, the subject of the mystery is the kingdom of heaven (see note on Matt. 3:2), which Jesus communicates in the form of parables. Thus the mystery is revealed to those who believe, yet it remains concealed to those who reject Christ and his gospel (see note on Matt. 13:11). but for those outside. Those who are not followers of Christ.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:12 so that. See note on Matt. 13:13. Unlike Matthew, which specifically quotes Isa. 6:9–10, Mark quotes Jesus as giving the substance of what Isaiah wrote in that text. lest they should turn. The implication is that unbelievers do not want to turn from sin (see notes on Matt. 13:3, 13).

MARK—NOTE ON 4:13 all the parables. Understanding the parable of the sower was to be key in the disciples' ability to discern the meaning of Jesus' other parables of the kingdom (vv. 21–34).

MARK—NOTE ON 4:14–20 Jesus' explanation of the parable of the sower, who is in fact Jesus himself (cf. Matt. 13:37) and anyone who proclaims the gospel.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:14 the word. Luke 8:11 says it is the “word of God,” and Matt. 13:19 calls it the “word of the kingdom.” It is the salvation gospel (see note on Matt. 13:19).

MARK—NOTE ON 4:16 receive it with joy. An enthusiastic, emotional, yet superficial response to the gospel that does not take into account the cost involved.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:17 no root. Because the person's heart is hard, like the rocky ground (see note on v. 5), the gospel never takes root in the individual's soul and never transforms his life—there is only a temporary, surface change. tribulation or persecution. Not the routine difficulties and troubles of life, but specifically the suffering, trials, and persecutions that result from one's association with God's word. fall away. The Greek word also means “to cause offense,” from which comes the English word “scandalize.” All those meanings are appropriate since the superficial believer is offended, stumbles, and falls away when his faith is put to the test (cf. John 8:31; 1 John 2:19).

MARK—NOTE ON 4:19 cares of the world. Lit., “the distractions of the age.” A preoccupation with the temporal issues of this present age blinds a person to any serious consideration of the gospel (cf. James 4:4; 1 John 2:15–16). deceitfulness of riches. Not only can money and material possessions not satisfy the desires of the heart or bring the lasting happiness they deceptively promise, but they also blind those who pursue them to eternal, spiritual concerns (1 Tim. 6:9–10).

MARK—NOTE ON 4:20 hear . . . accept . . . bear fruit. Three Greek present participles mark continuing action. Believers, in contrast to unbelievers, hear God's word because God allows them to hear it. They "accept" it—they understand and obey it because God opens their mind and heart and transforms their lives. The result is that they produce spiritual fruit.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:21 lamp. This refers to a very small clay bowl made with a spout to hold a wick and containing a few ounces of oil that served as the fuel. stand. In common homes, this was simply a shelf protruding from the wall. Wealthier homes might have separate, ornate stands (cf. Rev. 1:12).

MARK—NOTE ON 4:22 nothing is hidden . . . made manifest. The purpose in keeping something hidden is so that one day it can be revealed. Jesus' teaching was never intended to be just for an inner circle of followers. It would be the responsibility of the disciples to communicate the gospel of the kingdom to the world at large (cf. Matt. 28:19–20).

MARK—NOTE ON 4:24 the measure you use. The spiritual results, which the disciples realized were to be based on the amount of effort they put forth; they would reap as they had sown. more will be added. The one who has learned spiritual truth and applied it diligently will receive even more truth to faithfully apply.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:26–29 This parable is recorded only by Mark and complements the parable of the sower by explaining in more depth the results of spiritual growth accomplished in good soil.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:26 kingdom of God. See note on 1:15.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:29 puts in the sickle, because the harvest has come. When the grain is ripe, the sower of the seed must harvest the crop. There are two possible interpretations of this unexplained parable. It could be referring to the entire scope of the kingdom, from the time Jesus sowed the gospel message until the final harvest in the future. His disciples would continue the work of presenting the gospel that would eventually yield a harvest. The better interpretation pictures the gospel working in lives. After the gospel is presented, the word of God works in the individual heart, sometimes slowly, until the time when God reaps the harvest in that individual and saves him.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:30–32 This parable of the mustard seed pictures the kingdom of God beginning with a small influence and then becoming worldwide in its scope.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:31 a grain of mustard seed. A reference to the common black mustard plant. The leaves were used as a vegetable and the seed as a condiment. It also had medicinal benefits. smallest of all. The mustard seed is not the smallest of all seeds in existence, but it was in comparison to all the other seeds the Jews sowed in Israel.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:32 birds of the air. While not a tree in the truest sense of the word, the mustard shrub has been known to grow as large as 15 feet high and to have the properties of a tree, such as having branches large enough for birds to nest in. The tree represents the sphere of salvation, which would grow so large that it would provide shelter, protection, and benefit to people (see note on Matt. 13:32). Even unbelievers have been blessed by association with the gospel and the power of God in salvation. Christians have been a benediction to the world. See note on 1 Cor. 7:14.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:33–34 This conclusion to Mark’s account of Jesus’ parables highlights Mark’s recording only representative samples of all the parables Jesus taught.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:34 He did not speak to them without a parable. On that particular day, Jesus spoke to the larger crowd only in parables. This method of teaching left unbelievers with riddles and kept them from being forced to believe or disbelieve him—they could make no decision to follow him since they did not understand what he taught.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:35–41 This account demonstrates Jesus’ unlimited power over the natural world.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:35 the other side. Jesus and his disciples were on the western shore of the Sea of Galilee. To escape the crowds for a brief respite, Jesus wanted to go to the eastern shore, which had no large cities and therefore fewer people.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:37 a great windstorm. Wind is a common occurrence on that lake, about 690 feet below sea level and surrounded by hills. The Greek word can also mean “whirlwind.” In this case, it was a storm so severe that it took on the properties of a hurricane (see note on Matt. 8:24). The disciples, used to being on the lake in the wind, thought this storm would drown them (Mark 4:38).

MARK—NOTE ON 4:38 he was . . . asleep. Jesus was so exhausted from a full day of healing and preaching, even that storm could not wake him up (see note on Matt. 8:24).

MARK—NOTE ON 4:39 Peace! Be still! Lit., “be silent, be muzzled.” Storms normally subside gradually, but when the Creator gave the order, the natural elements of this storm ceased immediately.

MARK—NOTE ON 4:41 they were filled with great fear. This was not fear of being harmed by the storm, but a reverence for the supernatural power Jesus had just displayed. The only thing more terrifying than having a storm outside the boat was having God in the boat! Who then is this . . . ? This statement betrayed the disciples’ wonder at the true identity of Jesus.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:1 the other side of the sea. The eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee (cf. Luke 8:26). the country of the Gerasenes. This word most likely refers to the small town of Gersa (or Kherasa, Kursi; see note on Matt. 8:28), which was located midway on the eastern shore. “Country of ” refers to the general region that included Gersa and was under the jurisdiction of the city of Gadara, which was located some 6 miles southeast of the Sea of Galilee.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:2 out of the tombs a man. Mark mentions only one of the demon-possessed men, who was probably the more prominent of the two (cf. Matt. 8:28). The “tombs”—common dwelling places for the demented of that day—were burial chambers carved out of rock hillsides on the outskirts of town. If the man and his possible companion were Jews, for whom touching dead bodies was a great defilement, living in such an area was an added torment. unclean spirit. This refers to the demon who was controlling the man. Such spirits in themselves were morally filthy and caused much harm for those whom they possessed (see notes on Mark 1:32–34; cf. Luke 4:33, 36; 7:21; 8:2).

MARK—NOTE ON 5:3 no one could bind him. Multiple negatives are used in the Greek text to emphasize the man’s tremendous strength.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:4 shackles and chains. “Shackles” (probably metal or perhaps, in part, cord or rope) were used to restrain the feet and “chains” were metal restraints for the rest of the body.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:5 crying out . . . cutting himself with stones. “Crying out” describes a continual unearthly scream uttered with intense emotion. The “stones” likely were rocks made of flint with sharp, jagged edges.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:7 What have you to do with me . . . ? A common expression of protest (see note on 1:24). Son of the Most High God. The demons knew that Jesus was deity, the God-Man. “Most High God” was an ancient title used by both Jews and Gentiles to identify the one, true, and living God of Israel and distinguish him from all false idol gods (cf. Gen. 14:18–20; Num. 24:16; Deut. 32:8; Ps. 18:13; 21:7; Isa. 14:14; Dan. 3:26; Luke 1:32; Heb. 7:1). I adjure you . . . do not torment me. See note on Matt. 8:29. Mark adds “I adjure you,” which shows the demon tried to have Jesus soften the severity of his inevitable fate. Cf. James 2:19.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:9 What is your name? Most likely, Jesus asked this in view of the demon’s appeal not to be tormented. However, he did not need to know the demon’s name in order to expel him. Rather, Jesus posed the question to bring the reality and complexity of this case into the open. Legion. A Latin term, by then common to Jews and Greeks, that defined a Roman military unit of 6,000 infantrymen. Such a name denotes that the man was controlled by an extremely large number of militant evil spirits, a truth reiterated by the expression “for we are many.”

MARK—NOTE ON 5:10 he begged him earnestly. The demon understood that Jesus had all power over him and addressed him with an intense desire that his request be granted. not to send them out of the country. See note on v. 1. The demons wanted to remain in the same area where they had been exercising their evil powers.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:11 pigs. Pigs were unclean animals to the Jews, so the people tending this herd were either Gentiles or Jews unconcerned about the law (see note on Matt. 8:30).

MARK—NOTE ON 5:13 he gave them permission. According to his sovereign purposes Jesus allowed the demons to enter the pigs and destroy them—the text offers no other explanation (cf. Deut. 29:29; Rom. 9:20). By doing this, Jesus gave the man a graphic, visible, and powerful lesson on the immensity of the evil from which he had been delivered.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:15 sitting. The man’s restful condition was a strong contrast to his former restless, agitated state. in his right mind. He was no longer under the frenzied, screaming control of the demons.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:16 those . . . described . . . the pigs. “Those” may refer to both the Twelve and the men who tended the pigs. They wanted people to know what had happened to the man and the pigs, and the relationship between the two events.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:17 beg Jesus to depart from their region. The residents of the region became frightened and resentful toward Jesus because of what had happened. They may have been concerned about the disruption of their normal routine and the loss of property, and they wanted Jesus and his powers to leave the area so no more such financial losses would occur. More compelling, however, was the reality that they were ungodly people frightened by Christ’s display of spiritual power (see note on Matt. 8:34).

MARK—NOTE ON 5:19 tell them . . . the Lord has done. Jesus was referring to himself as God who controlled both the natural and the supernatural worlds (cf. Luke 8:39).

MARK—NOTE ON 5:20 Decapolis. A league of 10 Greek-influenced (Hellenized) cities east of the Jordan River (see note on Matt. 4:25).

MARK—NOTE ON 5:21 the other side. Jesus and the disciples returned to the northwest shore of the Sea of Galilee.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:22 one of the rulers of the synagogue. These officials presided over the elders of local synagogues. Those elder groups, made up of lay officials, were in charge of arranging the services and overseeing other synagogue affairs.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:25 discharge of blood. Denotes a chronic internal bleeding, perhaps from a tumor or other disease (see note on Matt. 9:20).

MARK—NOTE ON 5:26 suffered much . . . many physicians. In NT times, it was common practice in difficult medical cases for people to consult many different doctors and receive a variety of treatments. The supposed cures were often conflicting, abusive, and many times made the ailment worse, not better. Luke, the physician, in Luke 8:43 suggested the woman was not helped because her condition was incurable.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:28 If I touch even his garments. The woman’s faith in Jesus’ healing powers was so great that she believed even indirect contact with him through his garments (see note on Matt. 9:20) would be enough to produce a cure.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:29 flow of blood. The source of her bleeding, with the analogy being to the origin of a spring.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:30 power had gone out from him. Christ’s “power,” his inherent ability to minister and work supernaturally, proceeded from him under the conscious control of his sovereign will. Who touched my garments? Jesus asked this question, not out of ignorance, but so he might draw the woman out of the crowd and allow her to praise God for what had happened.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:34 your faith has made you well. Jesus’ public statement concerning the woman’s faith (expressed in vv. 28, 33) and its results. The form of the Greek verb translated “has made you well,” which can also be rendered “has made you whole,” indicates that her healing was complete. It is the same Greek word often translated “to save” (see note on Matt. 9:22) and is the normal NT word for saving from sin, which strongly suggests that the woman’s faith also led to spiritual salvation.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:36 only believe. The verb is a command for present, continuous action urging Jairus to maintain the faith he had initially demonstrated in coming to Jesus. Christ knew there was no other proper response to Jairus’s helpless situation, and he was confident of faith’s outcome (cf. Luke 8:50).

MARK—NOTE ON 5:37 Peter and James and John. This is the first time Mark gives special status to these three disciples. Scripture never explains why these men were sometimes allowed to witness things that the other disciples were excluded from (cf. 9:2; 14:33), but the trio did constitute an inner circle within the Twelve. Even the Greek grammar implies this inner grouping by placing their three names under one definite article.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:38 weeping and wailing. In that culture, a sure sign that a death had occurred. Because burial followed soon after death, it was the people’s only opportunity to mourn publicly. The wailing was especially loud and mostly from paid mourners (see note on Matt. 9:23).

MARK—NOTE ON 5:39 is not dead but sleeping. With this figurative expression, Jesus meant that the girl was not dead in the normal sense, because her condition was temporary and would be reversed (see note on Matt. 9:24; cf. John 11:11–14; Acts 7:60; 13:36; 1 Cor. 11:30; 15:6, 18, 20, 51; 1 Thess. 4:13–14).

MARK—NOTE ON 5:40 laughed at him. This could more literally be translated, “laughed him to scorn,” or “were laughing in his face.” They understood Jesus’ words literally and thought they were absurd, so “laughing” most likely refers to repeated bursts of laughter aimed at humiliating the Lord. This reaction, although shallow and irreverent, indicates the people were convinced of the irreversible nature of the girl’s death and underscores the reality of the miracle Jesus was about to do. put them all outside. This was an emphatic, forceful expulsion which showed Christ’s authority and was done because the disbelieving mourners had disqualified themselves from witnessing the girl’s resurrection.

MARK—NOTE ON 5:41 Talitha cumi. Mark is the only Gospel writer who recorded Jesus’ original Aramaic words. “Talitha” is a feminine form of “lamb,” or “youth.” “Cumi” is an imperative meaning “arise.” As in other such instances, Jesus addressed the person of the one being raised, not just the dead body (cf. Luke 7:14; John 11:43).

MARK—NOTE ON 5:43 no one should know this. Knowledge of the miracle could not be completely withheld, but Christ did not want news of it to spread until after he had left the area, because he knew such news might cause his many Jewish opponents in Galilee to seek him out and kill him prematurely. He also wanted to be known for bringing the gospel, not as simply a miracle-worker. Jesus was no doubt concerned that the girl and her parents not be made the center of undue curiosity and sensationalism.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:1 his hometown. Nazareth, Jesus’ hometown (see note on Matt. 2:23). his disciples. This was not a private, family visit for Jesus, but a time for ministry.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:2 Sabbath. See note on 2:23. This implies that no public teaching was done until the Sabbath. teach in the synagogue. See note on 1:21. astonished. The same word as used in 1:22 (see note there; however, here the people’s initial reaction gave way to skepticism and a critical attitude toward Jesus).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:3 carpenter. The people of Nazareth still thought of Jesus as one who carried on his father’s trade (cf. Matt. 13:55) as a craftsman who worked in wood and other hard materials (e.g., stones, bricks). The common earthly position of Jesus and his family caused the townspeople to stumble—they refused to see him as higher than themselves and found it impossible to accept him as the Son of God and Messiah. son of Mary. Only here is Jesus called this. The normal Jewish practice was to identify a son by his father’s (Joseph’s) name. Perhaps that was not done here because Joseph was already dead, or because Christ’s audience was recalling the rumors concerning Jesus’ illegitimate birth (cf. John 8:41; 9:29)—a man was called the son of his mother if his father was unknown—and was purposely insulting him with this title as a reference to illegitimacy. brother of James and Joses and Judas and Simon. See note on Matt. 12:46. These were actual half-brothers of Jesus. “James” was later the leader in the Jerusalem church (cf. Acts 12:17; 15:13; 21:18; 1 Cor. 15:7; Gal. 1:19; 2:9, 12) and wrote the epistle of James. “Judas” (Hebrew name “Judah”) wrote the epistle of Jude. Nothing more is known of the other two. his sisters. Actual half-sisters whose names are never given in the NT. Nothing is known of them, not even if they became believers as the other family members did. they took offense at him. The English term “scandalize” comes from the Greek verb translated “were offended,” which essentially means “to stumble,” or “become ensnared,” and fall into a sin (see note on Mark 4:17). The residents of Nazareth were deeply offended at Jesus’ posturing himself as some great teacher because of his ordinary background, his limited formal education, and his lack of an officially sanctioned religious position.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:4 See note on Matt. 13:57. Jesus called himself a prophet, in accord with one of his roles (cf. Mark 6:15; 8:28; Matt. 21:11, 46; Luke 7:16; 24:19; John 6:14; 7:40; 9:17). own household. His own family (cf. John 7:5; Acts 1:14).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:5 he could do no mighty work there. Cf. Matt. 13:58. This is not to suggest that his power was somehow diminished by their unbelief. It may suggest that because of their unbelief people were not coming to him for healing or miracles the way they did in Capernaum and Jerusalem. Or, more importantly, it may signify that Christ limited his ministry both as an act of mercy, so that the exposure to greater light would not result in a worse hardening that would only subject them to greater condemnation, and a judgment on their unbelief. He had the power to do more miracles, but not the will, because they rejected him. Miracles belonged among those who were ready to believe.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:6 he marveled because of their unbelief. “Marveled” means Jesus was completely astonished and amazed at Nazareth’s reaction to him, his teaching, and his miracles. He was not surprised at the fact of the people’s unbelief, but at how they could reject him while claiming to know all about him. Faith should have been the response in that town in Galilee, the region where Christ did so many miracles and so much teaching. among the villages. The outcome of Jesus’ visit to Nazareth was that he left there and made a teaching tour of other places in Galilee, concluding near where he started (cf. Matt. 9:35).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:7 the twelve. See notes on 3:16–19; Matt. 10:2–4. The 12 disciples were by then a divinely commissioned, recognized group. send them out. The form of this Greek verb indicates that Jesus individually commissioned each pair to go out as his representatives. two by two. This was a prudent practice (cf. Eccles. 4:9–12) employed by Jewish alms collectors, by John the Baptist (Luke 7:19), by Jesus on other occasions (Mark 11:1; 14:13; Luke 10:1), and by the early church (Acts 13:2–3; 15:39–41; 19:22). The practice gave the disciples mutual help and encouragement and met the legal requirement for an authentic testimony (Deut. 19:15). unclean spirits. See notes on Mark 1:23 and 5:2.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:8 staff. The walking stick, a universal companion of travelers in those days, which also provided potential protection from criminals and wild animals. no bag. They were not to carry the usual leather traveling bag or food sack.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:9 to wear sandals. Ordinary footwear consisting of leather or wood soles bound on by straps around the ankle and instep. “Sandals” were necessary protection for the feet in view of the hot, rough terrain of Palestine. not put on two tunics. “Tunics” were standard garments of clothing. Men of comparative wealth would wear two, but Jesus wanted the disciples to identify with common people and travel with just minimum clothing.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:10 The disciples were to carefully select where they stayed (cf. Matt. 10:11), but once there, the sole focus was to be on ministry. Contentment with their first host and his accommodations would be a testimony to others while the disciples ministered (cf. 1 Tim. 6:6).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:11 shake off the dust. A symbolic act that signified complete renunciation of further fellowship with those who rejected them (see note on Matt. 10:14). When the disciples made this gesture, it would show that the people had rejected Jesus and the gospel, and were hence rejected by the disciples and by the Lord.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:12–13 proclaimed . . . cast out many demons. Cf. v. 7. They were heralds of the gospel and had repeated success in expelling evil spirits from people. This demonstrated Christ's power over the supernatural world and confirmed his claim to being God.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:12 repent. See notes on 1:15; Matt. 3:2.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:13 anointed with oil . . . sick. In Jesus' day olive oil was often used medicinally (cf. Luke 10:34). But here it represented the power and presence of the Holy Spirit and was used symbolically in relation to supernatural healing (cf. Isa. 11:2; Zech. 4:1–6; Matt. 25:2–4; Rev. 1:4, 12). As a well-known healing agent, the oil was an appropriate, tangible medium the people could identify with as the disciples ministered to the sick among them.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:14 King Herod heard. See note on Matt. 14:1. The context indicates Herod heard some exciting news centering on Jesus and resulting from the disciples' recent preaching and miracle working in Galilee. John the Baptist. The forerunner of Christ (see notes on Mark 1:4–7; Matt. 3:1, 4, 6).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:15 He is Elijah. This identification of Jesus, which probably had been discussed repeatedly among the Jews, was based on the Jewish expectation that the prophet Elijah would return prior to Messiah's coming (see notes on Mal. 4:5; Matt. 11:14; Luke 1:17). a prophet . . . one of the prophets. Some saw Jesus as the fulfillment of Deut. 18:15, the messianic prophecy that looked to the One who, like Moses, would lead his people. Others were willing to identify Jesus only as a great prophet, or one who was resuming the suspended line of OT prophets. These and the other opinions, although misplaced, show that the people still thought Jesus was special or somehow supernatural.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:16 John . . . has been raised. By this excited, guilt-laden confession, Herod showed that he could not forget the evil he had done in beheading John the Baptist and that his conscience had led him to the eerie fear that John was back from the dead (cf. Matt. 14:1–2; Luke 9:7–9).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:17 John . . . bound him in prison. Herod kept him fettered while imprisoned, probably at Machaerus, near the northeast shore of the Dead Sea. Herod's intention was to protect John from the plots of Herodias (cf. v. 20). Herodias. Herod's niece, the daughter of his half-brother Aristobulus. Philip's. Herod Philip II, another half-brother to Herod Antipas (the Herod in this passage). Therefore, Philip was also an uncle to Herodias (see note on Matt. 14:3).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:18 John had been saying . . . “It is not lawful.” The tense of the Greek verb and Mark's wording imply that John had repeatedly rebuked Herod Antipas in private confrontation that his marriage to Herodias was contrary to Mosaic law (see note on Matt. 14:3; cf. Matt. 3:7–10).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:20 he was greatly perplexed. This indicates that Herod's interaction with John left him in great internal conflict—a moral struggle between his lust for Herodias and the prodding of his guilty conscience.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:21 nobles. This term may also be translated “lords,” or “great ones.” These were men who held high civil offices under Herod. military commanders. High-ranking military officials (Greek, chiliarchs) who each commanded 1,000 men. leading men of Galilee. The key social leaders of the region.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:22 Herodias's daughter. Salome, her daughter by Philip (see note on Matt. 14:6). danced. Refers to a solo dance with highly suggestive hand and body movements, comparable to a modern striptease. It was unusual and almost unprecedented that Salome would have performed in this way before Herod's guests (cf. Est. 1:11–12).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:23 up to half of my kingdom. This was an exaggeration designed to enhance his previous statement of generosity. As a Roman tetrarch, Herod actually had no “kingdom” to give.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:26 because of his oaths. Herod, as a monarch, felt bound because oaths were considered sacred and unbreakable (see notes on Matt. 5:34; 14:9).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:27 executioner. Originally meant spy or scout, but came to describe a staff member of a Roman tribune. They served as couriers and bodyguards as well as executioners. Herod had adopted the custom of surrounding himself with such men.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:31 by yourselves. Jesus' invitation for a retreat into the desert was restricted to the Twelve. He knew they needed rest and privacy after their tiring ministry expedition and the continuing press of the people.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:32 went away in the boat . . . by themselves. The disciples obeyed Jesus' proposal, departing from his headquarters in Capernaum using the same boat as in 5:2.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:33 ran there on foot. The direction (toward the northeast shore of the lake) and speed of the boat, along with the immediate lack of other available boats, caused the crowd to follow by land. got there ahead of them. Contained only in Mark's account, this does not necessarily mean everyone arrived before the boat, because the land distance was probably 8 miles, twice as far as the 4 miles the boat had to travel. Rather, those young and eager in the crowd were able to outrun both the rest and the boat (probably because it encountered no wind or a contrary wind) and actually arrive at the shore before the boat (cf. Matt. 14:13–14; Luke 9:11; John 6:3, 5).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:34 had compassion. See note on Matt. 9:36. sheep without a shepherd. An OT picture (cf. Num. 27:17; 1 Kings 22:17; 2 Chron. 18:16; Ezek. 34:5) used to describe the people as helpless and starving, lacking in spiritual guidance and protection, and exposed to the perils of sin and spiritual destruction.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:37 two hundred denarii. A single denarius (see note on Matt. 22:19) was equivalent to a day's pay for the day laborer (cf. Matt. 20:2). "Two hundred" would therefore equal eight months' wages and be quite beyond the disciples' (or any average person's) means.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:38 loaves. Lit., "bread-cakes," or "rolls."

MARK—NOTE ON 6:39 green grass. This detail indicates it was the spring rainy season, before the hot summer would have turned the grass dry and brown.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:40 by hundreds and by fifties. A symmetrical seating arrangement, possibly 50 semi-circles of 100 people each, with the semi-circles one behind the other in ranks. Such an arrangement was familiar to the Jews during their festivals, and it made food distribution more convenient.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:41 looked up to heaven. A typical prayer posture for Jesus (cf. 7:34; Luke 24:35; John 11:41; 17:1). Heaven was universally regarded as the Father's dwelling place (Matt. 6:9).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:42 all ate and were satisfied. The hunger of everyone in the crowd was completely satisfied (cf. John 6:11).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:43 twelve baskets full. The “baskets,” apparently the same ones used to bring the food, were small wicker containers like the ones the Jews used to carry food.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:44 five thousand men. The Greek word for “men” means strictly males, so the numerical estimate did not include women and children (cf. Matt. 14:21). The women and children were traditionally seated separately from the men for meals. When everyone was added, there could have been at least 20,000.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:45 the boat. See note on v. 32. go before him. The implication is that Jesus was to rejoin the disciples later. Bethsaida. A town on the west side of the Sea of Galilee and south of Capernaum (cf. Matt. 11:21).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:46 the mountain. The entire east side of the Sea of Galilee is mountainous with steep slopes leading up to a plateau. Up one of the slopes was a good place to pray, away from the crowd (cf. John 6:15).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:47 out on the sea. Normally in traveling across the northern end of the lake they would have been within 1 or 2 miles of shore. But on that occasion, the wind had carried the boat several miles south, closer to the center of the lake (cf. Matt. 14:24).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:48 fourth watch. 3:00 A.M. to 6:00 A.M. walking on the sea. The verb's tense depicts a steady progress, unhindered by the waves. meant to pass by them. The more literal rendering, “desired to come alongside of,” indicates Jesus' intention here. He wanted to test the disciples' faith, so he deliberately changed course and came parallel to the boat to see if they would recognize him and his supernatural powers and invite him aboard.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:49 a ghost. An apparition or imaginary creature. The Greek term gives us the English “phantom.” Because of the impossibility of such an act and their fatigue and fear in the stormy conditions, the Twelve, even though each one saw him, did not at first believe the figure was actually Jesus.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:50 Take heart. This command, always linked in the Gospels to a situation of fear and apprehension (cf. 10:49; Matt. 9:2, 22; 14:27; Luke 8:48; John 16:33; Acts 23:11), urged the disciples to have a continuing attitude of courage. it is I. Lit., “I am.” This statement clearly identified the figure as the Lord Jesus, not some phantom. It also echoed the OT self-revelation of God (cf. Ex. 3:14).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:52 did not understand . . . loaves. An explanation of the disciples’ overwhelming astonishment at what had just happened. Because they misunderstood the real significance of that afternoon’s miracle, they could not grasp Jesus’ supernatural character as displayed in his power over the lake. their hearts were hardened. Cf. 8:17. The disciples’ minds were impenetrable, so that they could not perceive what Christ was saying (cf. 4:11–12). This phrase conveys or alludes to rebellion, not just ignorance (see note on 3:5).

MARK—NOTE ON 6:53 Gennesaret. See note on Matt. 14:34.

MARK—NOTE ON 6:56 marketplaces. Open spaces, usually just inside city walls or near city centers, where people congregated for various business and social purposes. Here the term might indicate its original meaning of any place where people generally assembled. The people brought the sick to such locations because Jesus was more likely to pass by. fringe of his garment. See note on 5:28.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:1 Pharisees . . . come from Jerusalem. This delegation of leading representatives of Judaism came from Jerusalem probably at the request of the Galilean Pharisees. scribes. See notes on 3:22 and Matt. 2:4.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:2 defiled. The disciples of Jesus were being accused of eating with hands that had not been ceremonially cleansed, and thus had not been separated from the defilement associated with their having touched anything profane.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:3 wash. This washing had nothing to do with cleaning dirty hands but with a ceremonial rinsing. The ceremony involved someone pouring water out of a jar onto another’s hands, whose fingers must be pointing up. As long as the water dripped off at the wrist, the person could proceed to the next step. He then had water poured over both hands with the fingers pointing down. Then each hand was to be rubbed with the fist of the other hand. tradition of the elders. This body of extrabiblical laws and interpretations of Scripture had in actuality supplanted Scripture as the highest religious authority in Judaism (see note on Matt. 15:2).

MARK—NOTE ON 7:4 marketplace. See note on 6:56.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:5 Why do your disciples not . . . ? The Pharisees and scribes went to the disciples' Master for an explanation of the disciples' allegedly disgraceful conduct. In reality they were accusing Jesus of teaching his disciples to disobey the traditions of the elders. defiled hands. See note on v. 3.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:6 did Isaiah prophesy. Isaiah 29:13 is quoted almost word for word from the Greek translation of the OT (LXX). Isaiah's prophecy perfectly fit the actions of the Pharisees and scribes (see note on Isa. 29:13). hypocrites. Spiritual phonies (see note on Matt. 6:2). They followed the traditions of men because such teaching required only mechanical and thoughtless conformity without a pure heart.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:8 commandment of God . . . tradition of men. Jesus first accused them of abandoning all the commandments contained in God's word. Then he charged them with substituting God's standard with a humanly designed standard. See note on Matt. 15:2.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:10 Moses said. Quoted from Ex. 20:12 (the fifth commandment) and Ex. 21:17. Both refer specifically to the duty of honoring one's parents, which includes treating them with respect, love, reverence, dignity, and assisting them financially. The second quotation indicates how seriously God regards this obligation.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:11 Corban. A Hebrew term meaning "given to God." It refers to any gift or sacrifice of money or goods an individual vowed to dedicate specifically to God. As a result of such dedication, the money or goods could be used only for sacred purposes.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:13 making void the word of God by your tradition. "Making void" means "to deprive of authority" or "to cancel." The "tradition" in question allowed any individual to call all his possessions "Corban" (see note on v. 11). If a son became angry with his parents, he could declare his money and property "Corban." Since Scripture teaches that any vow made to God could not be violated (Num. 30:2), his possessions could not be used for anything but service to God and not as a resource of financial assistance for his parents. But Jesus condemned this practice by showing that the Pharisees and scribes were guilty of canceling out God's word (and his command to honor one's parents) through their tradition.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:16 This verse does not occur in the best manuscripts.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:18 defile him. See note on v. 2.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:19 Since food is merely physical, no one who eats it will defile his heart or inner person, which is spiritual. Physical pollution, no matter how corrupt, cannot cause spiritual or moral pollution. Neither can external ceremonies and rituals cleanse a person spiritually. Thus he declared all foods clean. By overturning the tradition of hand washing, Jesus in effect removed the restrictions regarding dietary laws. This comment by Mark had the advantage of hindsight as he looked back on the event, and was no doubt influenced by Peter's (see Introduction: Author and Date) own experience in Joppa (see note on Acts 10:15).

MARK—NOTE ON 7:20 What comes out of a person. A person's defiled heart is expressed in both what he says and what he does (see note on Matt. 15:11; cf. 12:34–37). defiles. See note on Mark 7:2.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:21 sexual immorality. Lit., illicit sexual activity.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:22 sensuality. Lit., unrestrained, shameless behavior.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:24 Tyre. See note on 3:8. did not want anyone to know. Jesus did not seek a public ministry in the area. It is likely he wanted time to rest from the pressure of the Jewish leaders and an opportunity to further prepare the disciples for his coming crucifixion and their ministry.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:25 unclean spirit. A demon (see note on 1:23; cf. Matt. 15:22).

MARK—NOTE ON 7:26 Gentile. A non-Jew in both her language and religion (see note on Rom. 1:14). Syrophoenician. The region of Phoenicia at that time was part of the province of Syria. Matthew 15:22 adds that she was a descendant of the Canaanites.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:27 first. The illustration Jesus gave was in essence a test of the woman's faith. Jesus' "first" responsibility was to preach the gospel to the children of Israel (cf. Rom. 1:16; 15:8). But that also implied there would come a time when Gentiles would be the recipients of God's blessings. the children's bread and throw it to the dogs. "The children's bread" refers to God's blessings offered to the Jews. This picture indicates that the "dogs" (Gentiles) had a place in the household of God, but not the prominent one (see note on Matt. 15:26). dogs. This reference is to dogs that were kept as pets. Jesus was referring to the Gentiles, but he did not use the derisive term the Jews usually employed for them that described mangy, vicious mongrels.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:28 Yes, Lord. Indicative of the woman's humble faith and worshipful attitude. She knew she was sinful and undeserving of any of God's blessing. Her response was characterized by a complete absence of pride and self-reliance, which Jesus answered by granting her request (vv. 29–30).

MARK—NOTE ON 7:31 returned from the region of Tyre . . . Sidon . . . Sea of Galilee. Jesus traveled 20 miles north from Tyre and passed through Sidon, which was deep into Gentile territory. From there he went east, crossed the Jordan, and traveled south along the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee. Decapolis. See note on 5:20.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:33 put his fingers into his ears. Because the man could not hear, Jesus used his own form of sign language to tell him that he was about to heal the man's deafness. after spitting touched his tongue. Also a form of sign language in which Jesus offered the man hope for a restored speech.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:34 Ephphatha. An Aramaic word that Mark immediately defines.

MARK—NOTE ON 7:36 to tell no one. Although Jesus ministered to Gentiles as the need arose, his intention was not to have a public ministry among them. See note on 1:44.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:1–9 While all four Gospels record the feeding of the 5,000, only Matthew (15:32–38) and Mark record the feeding of the 4,000.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:1 a great crowd. Probably because of the widespread report of Jesus' healing of the deaf and mute man (7:36).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:2 I have compassion. Only here and in the parallel passage (Matt. 15:32) did Jesus use this word of himself. When he fed the 5,000, Jesus expressed “compassion” for the people’s lost spiritual condition (Mark 6:34); here, he expressed “compassion” for people’s physical needs (cf. Matt. 6:8, 32). Jesus could empathize with their hunger, having experienced it himself (Matt. 4:2). been with me now three days. This reflects the crowd’s eagerness to hear Jesus’ teaching and experience his healings (cf. Matt. 15:30). That they were with him for that time before the miraculous feeding distinguishes this event from the earlier feeding of the 5,000, in which the crowd gathered, ate, and dispersed in one day (Matt. 14:14–15, 22–23).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:4 feed . . . bread. Some find the disciples’ question incredible in light of the earlier feeding of the 5,000. But it was consistent with their spiritual dullness and lack of understanding (cf. vv. 14–21; 6:52). in this desolate place. The Decapolis (see note on 5:20) region was not as heavily populated as Galilee.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:5 loaves. Flat cakes of bread which could easily be broken into smaller pieces.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:8 seven baskets full. Not the same baskets mentioned in the feeding of the 5,000 (6:43). Those were small baskets, commonly used by the Jewish people to hold one or two meals when traveling. The word here refers to large baskets (large enough to hold a man, Acts 9:25) used by Gentiles. What was done with the leftover food is not mentioned. It was likely given back to the people to sustain them on their trip home, since the disciples evidently did not take it with them (cf. Mark 8:14).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:9 four thousand. The number of the men only, not including the women and children (Matt. 15:38). This could indicate at least 16,000 people.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:10 Dalmanutha. This location is not mentioned in any secular literature and only mentioned here in the NT. The location is unknown, but clearly in the region near Magdala (cf. Matt. 15:39, Magadan). Recent archaeological work in the area, when the water level of Galilee was at an all-time low, revealed several heretofore unknown anchorages. One small harbor has been found between Magadala and Capernaum, which may be Dalmanutha.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:11 Pharisees. See notes on 2:16 and Matt. 3:7. sign from heaven. The skeptical Pharisees demanded further miraculous proof of Jesus' messianic claims. Not content with the countless miracles he had performed on earth, they demanded some sort of astronomical miracle. Having already given them more than enough proof, Jesus refused to accommodate their spiritual blindness. The supreme sign verifying his claim to be the Son of God and Messiah was to be his resurrection (Matt. 12:39–40).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:13 the other side. To the northeast shore, where Bethsaida (Julias) was located (v. 22).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:15 leaven of the Pharisees and . . . Herod. “Leaven” in the NT is an illustration of influence (see note on Matt. 13:33) and most often symbolizes the evil influence of sin. The “leaven” of the Pharisees included both their false teaching (Matt. 16:12) and their hypocritical behavior (Luke 12:1); the “leaven” of Herod Antipas was his immoral, corrupt conduct (cf. Mark 6:17–29). The Pharisees and the Herodians were allied against Christ (3:6).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:17 Why are you discussing . . . no bread? Jesus' question rebuked the disciples for completely missing his point (see note on v. 15). He was concerned with spiritual truth, not mundane physical matters. hearts hardened. I.e., they were rebellious, spiritually insensitive, and unable to understand spiritual truth (see notes on 3:5; 6:52).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:18–21 Jesus' five questions further rebuked the disciples for their hardness of heart, and also reminded them of his ability to provide anything they might lack.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:21 Do you not yet understand? An appeal based on the questions he had just asked. Matthew's parallel account reveals that the disciples finally understood his point (Matt. 16:12).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:22–26 The second of Jesus' two miracles recorded only in Mark (cf. 7:31–37). It is also the first of two healings of blind men recorded in Mark (cf. 10:46–52).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:22 Bethsaida. See note on 6:45, for the other Bethsaida. This is Bethsaida-Julias, several miles north of the Sea of Galilee and east of the Jordan River.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:23 spit on his eyes. This action and Jesus' touching his eyes with his hands (v. 25) were apparently meant to reassure the blind man (who would naturally depend on his other senses, such as touch) that Jesus would heal his eyes (cf. 7:33; John 9:6).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:26 Do not even enter the village. Jesus led the blind man out of town before healing him (v. 23), probably to avoid publicity and the mob scene that would otherwise result. Unlike others in the past (cf. 1:45; 7:36), he apparently obeyed.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:27 Caesarea Philippi. A city about 25 miles north of Bethsaida near Mount Hermon, not to be confused with the Caesarea located on the Mediterranean coast about 60 miles northwest of Jerusalem.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:28 Elijah. See notes on 6:15; Mal. 4:5; Matt. 11:14; Luke 1:17.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:29 But who do you say that I am? After they reported the prevailing erroneous views about Jesus (v. 28), he asked the disciples to give their own evaluation of who he was. The answer every person gives to this question will determine his or her eternal destiny. You are the Christ. Peter unhesitatingly replied on behalf of the Twelve (cf. Matt. 14:28; 15:15; 17:4; 19:27; 26:33; John 6:68; 13:36), clearly and unequivocally affirming that they believed Jesus to be the Messiah.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:30 tell no one. Jesus' messianic mission cannot be understood apart from the cross, which the disciples did not yet understand (cf. vv. 31–33; 9:30–32). For them to have proclaimed Jesus as Messiah at this point would have only furthered the misunderstanding that the Messiah was to be a political-military deliverer. The fallout was that the Jewish people, desperate to be rid of the yoke of Rome, would seek to make Jesus king by force (John 6:15; cf. Mark 12:12–19).

MARK—NOTE ON 8:31–10:52 In this section, as they traveled to Jerusalem, Jesus prepared the disciples for his death.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:31 Son of Man. See note on 2:10. must suffer many things. Jesus' sufferings and death were inevitable because they were divinely ordained (Acts 2:22–23; 4:27–28), though, humanly speaking, caused by his rejection from the Jewish leaders. See notes on Ps. 118:22; Isa. 53:3; cf. Mark 12:10;

Matt. 21:42. elders. See note on Mark 7:3. chief priests. Members of the Sanhedrin and representatives of the 24 orders of ordinary priests (cf. Luke 1:8). scribes. Experts in the OT law (see note on Matt. 2:4). after three days. In keeping with the sign of Jonah (Matt. 12:40). rise again. Jesus always mentioned his resurrection in connection with his death (cf. Mark 9:31; 10:34; Matt. 16:21; 17:23; 20:19; Luke 9:22; 18:33), making it all the more incomprehensible that the disciples were so slow to understand.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:32 said this plainly. I.e., not in parables or allusions (cf. John 16:29). Peter . . . began to rebuke him. The disciples still could not comprehend a dying Messiah (see note on Mark 8:30). Peter, as usual (see note on v. 29), expressed the thoughts of the rest of the Twelve (cf. v. 33). His brash outburst expressed not only presumption and misunderstanding, but also deep love for Jesus.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:33 Get behind me, Satan! In a startling turnaround, Peter, who had just been praised for being God's spokesman (Matt. 16:17–19), was then condemned as Satan's mouthpiece. Yet Jesus' sacrificial death was God's plan (Acts 2:22–23; 4:27–28) and whoever opposed it was, wittingly or not, advocating Satan's work.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:34 deny himself. No one who is unwilling to deny himself can legitimately claim to be a disciple of Jesus Christ. take up his cross. This reveals the extent of self-denial—to the point of death, if necessary. The extent of desperation on the part of the penitent sinner who is aware he can't save himself reaches the place where nothing is held back (cf. Matt. 19:21–22). and follow me. See notes on Mark 1:17 and Matt. 10:38.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:35 loses his life . . . will save it. This paradoxical saying reveals an important spiritual truth: those who pursue a life of ease, comfort, and acceptance by the world will not find eternal life. On the other hand, those who give up their lives (see note on v. 34) for the sake of Christ and the gospel will find it. Cf. John 12:25.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:36–37 soul. The real person, who will live forever in heaven or hell. To have all that the world has to offer yet not have Christ is to be eternally bankrupt; all the world's goods will not compensate for losing one's soul eternally. See note on Matt. 16:26.

MARK—NOTE ON 8:38 ashamed of me and of my words. Those who reject the demands of discipleship prove themselves to be ashamed of Jesus Christ and the truth he taught, thus not redeemed from sin at all. Son of Man. See note on 2:10. when he comes. Mark's first reference to Jesus' second coming, an event later described in detail in the Olivet Discourse (13:1–37).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:1 Truly, I say to you. A solemn statement appearing only in the Gospels and always spoken by Jesus. It introduces topics of utmost significance (see note on 3:28). not taste death until they see the kingdom. The event Jesus had in mind has been variously interpreted as his resurrection and ascension, the coming of the Spirit at Pentecost, the spread of Christianity, or the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. The most accurate interpretation, however, is to connect Christ's promise with the transfiguration in the context (9:2–8), which provided a foretaste of his second coming glory. That all three synoptic Gospels place this promise immediately before the transfiguration supports this view, as does the fact that “kingdom” can refer to royal splendor.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:2 after six days. Matthew and Mark place the transfiguration “six days” after Jesus' promise (v. 1); Luke, no doubt including the day the promise was made and the day of the transfiguration itself, describes the interval as “about eight days” (Luke 9:28). Peter and James and John. See note on Mark 5:37. As the inner circle of Jesus' disciples, these three were sometimes allowed to witness events that the other disciples were not (cf. 14:33). a high mountain. Most likely Mount Hermon (about 9,200 feet above sea level), the highest mountain in the vicinity of Caesarea Philippi (cf. 8:27). transfigured. From a Greek word meaning “to change in form,” or “to be transformed.” In some inexplicable way, Jesus manifested some of his divine glory to the three disciples (cf. 2 Pet. 1:16).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:3 radiant, intensely white. The divine glory emanating from Jesus made even his clothing radiate brilliant white light. Light is often associated with God's visible presence (cf. Ps. 104:2; Dan. 7:9; 1 Tim. 6:16; Rev. 1:14; 21:23).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:4 Elijah with Moses. Symbolic of the Prophets and the Law, the two great divisions of the OT. The order, “Elijah,” then “Moses,” is unique to Mark (who reverses the order in v. 5). talking with Jesus. The subject was his coming death (Luke 9:31).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:5 Rabbi. Lit., “my master.” A title of esteem and honor given by the Jews to respected teachers. In the NT, it is also used of John the Baptist (John 3:26). Let us make three tents. So as to make the three illustrious figures’ stay permanent. It is also possible that Peter’s suggestion reflected his belief that the millennial kingdom was about to be inaugurated (cf. Zech. 14:16).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:7 a cloud overshadowed them. This is the glory cloud, Shekinah, which throughout the OT was symbolic of God’s presence (see note on Rev. 1:7; cf. Ex. 13:21; 33:18–23; 40:34–35; Num. 9:15; 14:14; Deut. 1:33). a voice came out of the cloud. The Father’s voice from the cloud cut off Peter’s fumbling words (Matt. 17:5; Luke 9:34). This is my beloved Son. The Father repeated the affirmation of his love for the Son first given at Jesus’ baptism (Mark 1:11). The parallel accounts of the transfiguration (Matt. 17:5; Luke 9:35) also record these words, as does Peter (2 Pet. 1:17). listen to him. Jesus, the One to whom the Law and Prophets pointed (cf. Deut. 18:15), is the One whom the disciples are to listen to and obey (cf. Heb. 1:1–2).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:9 charged them to tell no one. See note on 8:30. until the Son of man had risen from the dead. This looks to the time when the true nature of Jesus’ messianic mission became evident to all, that he came to conquer sin and death, not the Romans. Son of Man. See note on 2:10.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:10 questioning what this rising from the dead might mean. Like most of the Jewish people (the Sadducees being notable exceptions), the disciples believed in a future resurrection (cf. John 11:24). What confused them was Jesus’ implication that his own resurrection was imminent, and thus so was his death. The disciples’ confusion provides further evidence that they still did not understand Jesus’ messianic mission (see notes on Mark 9:9; 8:30).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:11 Elijah must come. Cf. 8:28–29. The scribes’ teaching in this case was not based on rabbinical tradition, but on the OT (Mal. 3:1; 4:5). Malachi’s prediction was well known among the Jews of Jesus’ day, and the disciples were no doubt trying to figure out how to harmonize it with the appearance of Elijah they had just witnessed. The scribes and Pharisees also no doubt argued that Jesus could not be the Messiah based on the fact that Elijah had not yet appeared. Confused, the three disciples asked Jesus for his interpretation.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:12 Elijah does come first. Jesus affirmed the correctness of the scribal interpretation of Mal. 3:1 and 4:5, which must have puzzled the disciples even more. Son of Man. See note on Mark 2:10. suffer . . . be treated with contempt. Jesus pointed out that the prophecies about Elijah in no way precluded the suffering and death of Messiah, for that, too, was predicted in the OT (e.g., Ps. 22; 69:20–21; Isa. 53; see note on Rom. 1:2).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:13 Elijah has come. Jesus directly addressed the disciples' question: the prophecies of Elijah's coming had been fulfilled in John the Baptist. Though certainly not a reincarnation of Elijah (cf. John 1:21), John came in the "spirit and power of Elijah," and would have fulfilled prophecies if they had believed (see notes on Matt. 11:14; Luke 1:17). Because they did reject both John the Baptist and Jesus, there will be another who will come in the spirit and power of Elijah before the second coming of Christ (see notes on Matt. 11:14; Rev. 11:5–6). they did to him. The Jewish leaders rejected John the Baptist (Matt. 21:25; Luke 7:33), and Herod killed him (Mark 6:17–29). as it is written of him. No specific OT prophecies predicted that Messiah's forerunner would die. Therefore, this statement is best understood as having been fulfilled typically. The fate intended for Elijah (1 Kings 19:1–2) had befallen the Baptist. See notes on Matt. 11:11–14.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:14 the disciples. The nine who had remained behind.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:17 spirit that makes him mute. The boy had a demonically induced inability to speak, a detail found only in Mark's account.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:18 they were not able. The disciples' failure is surprising, in light of the power granted them by Jesus (3:15; 6:13).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:19 O faithless generation. Cf. Ps. 95:10. The word "generation" indicates that Jesus' exasperation was not merely with the father, or the nine disciples, but also with the unbelieving scribes, who were no doubt gloating over the disciples' failure (cf. Mark 9:14), and with unbelieving Israel in general.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:22 to destroy him. This demon was an especially violent and dangerous one. Open fires and unfenced bodies of water were common in first-century Israel, providing ample opportunity for the demon's attempts to destroy the child. The father's statement added to the pathos of the situation. The boy himself was probably disfigured from burn scars, and possibly further ostracized because of them. His situation also created a hardship for his family, who would have had to watch the boy constantly to protect him from harm.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:23 All things are possible. The issue was not his lack of power but the father's lack of faith. Though Jesus often healed apart from the faith of those involved, here he chose to emphasize the power of faith (cf. Matt. 17:20; Luke 17:6). Jesus healed multitudes, but many, if not most, did not believe in him. Cf. Luke 17:15–19.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:24 I believe; help my unbelief! Admitting the imperfection of his faith, mixed as it was with doubt, the desperate father pleaded with Jesus to help him to have the greater faith the Lord demanded of him.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:25 a crowd came running. Noting the growing crowd, Jesus acted without further delay, perhaps to spare the boy and his anguished father any further embarrassment. Also, the Lord did not perform miracles to satisfy thrill seekers (cf. 8:11; Luke 23:8–9). I command you. Jesus' absolute authority over demons is well attested in the NT (e.g., Mark 1:32–34; 5:1–13; Luke 4:33–35). His healings demonstrated his deity by power over the natural world. His authority over demons demonstrated his deity by power over the supernatural world.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:29 This kind. Some demons are more powerful and obstinate, and thus more resistant to being cast out, than others (cf. Matt. 12:45). See notes on Dan. 10:10–21. anything but prayer. Perhaps overconfident from their earlier successes (cf. Mark 6:13), the disciples became enamored with their own gifts and neglected to draw on divine power.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:30 passed through Galilee. Leaving the region around Caesarea Philippi, Jesus and the disciples began the journey to Jerusalem that would result in his crucifixion several months later. Their immediate destination was Capernaum (v. 33). did not want anyone to know. Jesus continued to seek seclusion so he could prepare the disciples for his death (cf. 7:24).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:31 Son of Man. See note on 2:10.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:31–32 Jesus continued his teaching about his upcoming death and resurrection—a subject the disciples still did not understand (see notes on v. 10; 8:30–33).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:33 Capernaum. See note on 1:21. the house. The use of the definite article suggests this to be the house Jesus habitually stayed in when in Capernaum. Whether it was Peter's house (cf. 1:29) or someone else's is not known.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:34 they kept silent. Convicted and embarrassed, the disciples were speechless. who was the greatest. A dispute possibly triggered by the privilege granted Peter, James, and John to witness the transfiguration. The disciples' quarrel highlights their failure to apply Jesus' explicit teaching on humility (e.g., Matt. 5:3), and the example of his own suffering and death (Mark 9:31–32; 8:30–33). It also prompted them to ask Jesus to settle the issue, which he did—though not as they had expected.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:35 sat down. Rabbis usually sat down to teach (cf. Matt. 15:29; Luke 4:20; 5:3; John 8:2). If anyone would be first. As the disciples undeniably desired (Mark 9:34; cf. 10:35–37). last of all and servant of all. The disciples' concept of greatness and leadership, drawn from their culture, needed to be completely reversed. Not those who lord their position over others are great in God's kingdom, but those who humbly serve others (cf. 10:31, 43–45; Matt. 19:30–20:16; 23:11–12; Luke 13:30; 14:8–11; 18:14; 22:24–27).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:36 a child. The Greek word indicates an infant or toddler. If the house they were in was Peter's (see note on v. 33), this may have been one of his children. The child became in Jesus' masterful teaching an example of believers who have humbled themselves and become like trusting children.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:37 Whoever receives one such child in my name. Not actual children, but true believers—those who have humbled themselves like little children (see note on v. 36).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:38 John said. The only recorded instance in the synoptic Gospels in which he alone speaks. In light of Jesus' rebuke (vv. 35–37), John's conscience troubled him about an earlier incident he had been involved in. It is clear that the unnamed exorcist was not a fraud because he actually was casting out demons. He was apparently a true believer in Jesus; John and the others opposed him because he was not openly and officially allied with Jesus, as they were.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:39–40 Jesus ordered them not to hinder the exorcist, making the logical point that someone sincerely acting in his name would not soon turn against him. There is no neutral ground regarding Jesus Christ; those who are “not against” him are on his side, but by the same token, “whoever is not with me is against me, and whoever does not gather with me scatters” (Matt. 12:30).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:41 you belong to Christ. Jesus considered acts of kindness done to his followers to have been done to him (cf. Matt. 25:37–40). truly, I say to you. See note on Mark 3:28. his reward. That is, his unique place and service in the eternal kingdom.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:42 Whoever causes . . . to sin. The word translated “to sin” lit. means “to cause to fall.” To entice, trap, or lead a believer into sin is a very serious matter. little ones who believe. See note on v. 37. millstone. This refers to a large, upper millstone so heavy that it had to be turned by a donkey (see note on Matt. 18:6). Even such a horrifying death (a Gentile form of execution) is preferable to leading a Christian into sin.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:43 cut it off. See note on Matt. 5:29. Jesus’ words are to be taken figuratively; no amount of self-mutilation can deal with sin, which is an issue of the heart. The Lord is emphasizing the seriousness of sin and the need to do whatever is necessary to deal with it. life. The contrast of “life” with “hell” indicates that Jesus was referring to eternal life. hell. The Greek word refers to the Valley of Hinnom near Jerusalem, a garbage dump where fires constantly burned, furnishing a graphic symbol of eternal torment (see note on Matt. 5:22). the unquenchable fire. See note on Matt. 25:46. That the punishment of hell lasts for eternity is the unmistakable teaching of Scripture (cf. Dan. 12:2; Matt. 25:41; 2 Thess. 1:9; Rev. 14:10–11; 20:10).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:44, 46 The better Greek manuscripts omit these verses, which merely repeat the quote from Isa. 66:24 found in Mark 9:48.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:47 kingdom of God. See note on 1:15.

MARK—NOTE ON 9:49 The meaning of this difficult verse seems to be that believers are purified through suffering and persecution. The link between salt and fire seems to lie in the OT sacrifices, which were accompanied by salt (Lev. 2:13).

MARK—NOTE ON 9:50 Salt is good. Salt was an essential item in first-century Palestine. In a hot climate, without refrigeration, salt was the practical means of preserving food. Have salt in yourselves. The work of the word (Col. 3:16) and the Spirit (Gal. 5:22–23) produces godly character, enabling a person to act as a preservative in society. Cf. Matt. 5:13. be at peace with one another. Cf. Matt. 5:9; Rom. 12:18; 2 Cor. 13:11; 1 Thess. 5:13; James 3:18.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:1 beyond the Jordan. This region was known as Perea. Jesus was to minister there until leaving for Jerusalem shortly before Passion Week (see note on Matt. 19:1). Jordan. See note on Mark 1:5.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:2 Pharisees. See note on 2:16. came . . . test him. The Pharisees hoped to publicly discredit Jesus' ministry. The resulting loss of popularity, they hoped, would make it easier for them to destroy him. Also, Perea (see note on 10:1) was ruled by Herod Antipas—who had imprisoned John the Baptist for his views on divorce and remarriage (6:17–18). The Pharisees no doubt hoped a similar fate would befall Jesus. Is it lawful . . . to divorce? The Pharisees attempted to entrap Jesus with a volatile issue in first-century Judaism: divorce. There were two schools of thought, one allowing divorce for virtually any reason, the other denying divorce except on grounds of adultery (see note on Matt. 19:3). The Pharisees undoubtedly expected Jesus to take one side, in which case he would lose the support of the other faction.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:3 What did Moses command you? Jesus set the proper ground rules for the discussion. The issue was not rabbinical interpretations, but the teaching of Scripture.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:4 allowed. The Mosaic law, as the Pharisees were forced to concede, nowhere commanded divorce. The passage in question, Deut. 24:1–4, recognized the reality of divorce and sought to protect the wife's rights and reputation and also regulated remarriage. certificate of divorce. In this document, the husband was required to state the reason for the divorce, thus protecting the wife's reputation (if she were, in fact, innocent of wrongdoing). It also served as her formal release from the marriage, and affirmed her right to remarry (assuming she was not guilty of immorality). The liberal wing of the Pharisees had misconstrued Deut. 24 to be teaching that divorce was "permitted" for any cause whatsoever (citing as legitimate grounds such trivial events as the wife's ruining dinner or the husband's simply finding a more desirable woman), providing the proper legal paperwork was done. They thus magnified a detail, mentioned merely in passing, into the main emphasis of the passage.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:5 your hardness of heart. See notes on 3:5 and 6:52. This refers to the flagrant, unrepentant pursuit of sexual immorality—divorce was to be a last resort in dealing with such hard-heartedness. The Pharisees mistook God's gracious provision in permitting divorce (under certain circumstances) for his ordaining of it.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:6 from the beginning. Divorce formed no part of God’s original plan for marriage, which was that one man be married to one woman for life (Gen. 2:24). male and female. Lit., “a male and a female,” Adam and Eve. Mark quoted from Gen. 1:27 and 5:2.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:7–8 Jesus took the issue beyond mere rabbinical quibbling over the technicalities of divorce to God’s design for marriage. The passage Christ quotes (Gen. 2:24) presents three reasons for the inviolability of marriage: 1) God created only two humans (see note on Mark 10:6), not a group of males and females who could configure as they pleased or switch partners as it suited them; 2) the word translated “become one” lit. means “to be joined” or “to glue,” thus reflecting the strength of the marriage bond; 3) in God’s eyes a married couple is “one flesh,” forming an indivisible union, manifesting that oneness in a child.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:9 What therefore God has joined together. Jesus added a fourth reason for the inviolability of marriage (see note on vv. 7–8): God ordains marriages and thus they are not to be broken by man.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:11–12 Remarriage after a divorce—except for legitimate biblical grounds—proliferates adultery. The innocent party—one whose spouse has committed prolonged, hard-hearted, unrepentant adultery—may remarry without being guilty of adultery, as may a believer whose unbelieving spouse has chosen to leave the marriage (see note on 1 Cor. 7:15).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:13 children. See note on 9:36. that he might touch them. I.e., lay his hands on them and pray for them (Matt. 19:13). Jewish parents commonly sought the blessing of prominent rabbis for their children.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:14 do not hinder them. Jesus rebuked the disciples for their attempt to prevent the children from seeing him (v. 13). They were not the ones to decide who had access to Jesus (cf. Matt. 15:23). for to such belongs the kingdom of God. Most, if not all, of these children would have been too young to exercise personal faith. Jesus’ words imply that God graciously extends salvation to those too young or too mentally impaired to exercise faith (see note on Matt. 19:14). kingdom of God. See note on Mark 1:15.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:15 Truly, I say to you. See note on 3:28. like a child. With humble, trusting dependence, and the recognition of having achieved nothing of value or virtue.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:16 blessed them. See note on v. 13.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:17 a man. The other synoptic Gospels reveal that he was young (Matt. 19:20), and a “ruler,” probably in the synagogue (Luke 18:18). He was also wealthy (Mark 10:22). what must I do. Steeped in the legalism of his day, the young man naturally thought in terms of some religious deed that would guarantee him eternal life. His lack of understanding about the true nature of salvation, however, does not mean he was insincere. eternal life. More than just eternal existence, it is a different quality of life. Eternal life is in Christ alone (see notes on John 3:15–16; cf. John 10:28; 17:2–3; Rom. 6:23; 1 John 5:11, 13, 20). Those who possess it have “passed from death into life” (John 5:24; 1 John 3:14; cf. Eph. 2:1–3); they have died to sin and are alive to God (Rom. 6:11); they have the very life of Christ in them (2 Cor. 4:11; Gal. 2:20); and enjoy a relationship with Jesus Christ that will never end (John 17:3).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:18 Why do you call me good? Jesus challenged the ruler to think through the implications of ascribing to him the title “good.” Since only God is intrinsically good, was he prepared to acknowledge Jesus’ deity? By this query Jesus did not deny his deity; on the contrary, he affirmed it.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:19 Quoted from Ex. 20:12–16. Do not defraud. This was not the wording of any of the Ten Commandments, and is unique to Mark’s account. It seems to be a paraphrase for the command against coveting.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:20 all these I have kept. His answer was no doubt sincere, but superficial and untrue. He, like Paul (Phil. 3:6), may have been blameless in terms of external actions, but not in terms of internal attitudes and motives (cf. Matt. 5:21–48).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:21 Jesus . . . loved him. I.e., felt great compassion for this sincere truth-seeker who was so hopelessly lost. God does love the unsaved (see notes on Matt. 5:43–48). sell all that you have. Jesus was not making either philanthropy or poverty a requirement for salvation, but exposing the young man’s heart. He was not blameless, as he maintained (Mark 10:20), since he loved his possessions more than his neighbors (cf. Lev. 19:18). More importantly, he refused to obey Christ’s direct command, choosing to serve riches instead of God (Matt. 6:24). The issue was to determine whether he would submit to the lordship of Christ no matter what he asked of him. So, as he would not acknowledge his sin and repent, neither would he submit to the Sovereign Savior. Such unwillingness on both counts kept him from the eternal life he sought. treasure in heaven. Salvation and all its benefits, given by the Father who dwells there, both in this life and the life to come (cf. Matt. 13:44–46).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:22 went away sorrowful. It was purely a worldly disappointment based on the fact that he didn't receive the eternal life he sought because the price of sacrifice was too high. He loved his wealth (cf. 8:36–37).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:23 How difficult . . . for those who have wealth. See note on v. 27. “Difficult” in this context means impossible (cf. v. 25). “Wealth” tends to breed self-sufficiency and a false sense of security, leading those who have it to imagine they do not need divine resources (see Luke 16:13; contrast Luke 19:2; cf. 1 Tim. 6:9, 17–18).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:24 amazed. See note on v. 26.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:25 camel . . . eye of a needle. The Persians expressed impossibility by saying it would be easier to put an elephant through the eye of a needle. This was a Jewish colloquial adaptation of that expression denoting impossibility (the largest animal in Palestine was a camel). Many improbable interpretations have arisen that attempt to soften this phrase, e.g., that “needle” referred to a tiny gate in the Jerusalem city wall that camels could enter only with difficulty (but there is no evidence that such a gate ever existed, and if it had, any sensible camel driver would have simply found a larger gate); or that a copyist's error resulted in kamelos (camel) being substituted for kamilos (a large rope or cable) (but a large rope could no more go through the eye of a needle than a camel could, and it is extremely unlikely that the text of all three synoptic Gospels would have been changed in exactly the same way). Jesus' use of this illustration was to explicitly say that salvation by human effort is impossible; it is wholly by God's grace. The Jews believed that with alms a man purchased salvation (as recorded in the Talmud), so the more wealth one had, the more alms he could give, the more sacrifices and offerings he could offer, thus purchasing redemption. The disciples' question (v. 26) makes it clear that they understood what Jesus meant—that not even the rich could buy salvation. See note on Matt. 19:24.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:26 Then who can be saved? Jesus' teaching ran counter to the prevailing rabbinical teaching, which gave the wealthy a clear advantage for salvation. Jesus' emphatic teaching that even the rich could not be saved by their own efforts left the bewildered disciples wondering what chance the poor stood. See notes on Rom. 3:9–20; Gal. 3:10–13; Phil. 3:4–9.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:27 With man it is impossible, but not with God. It is impossible for anyone to be saved by his own efforts (see note on v. 25) since salvation is entirely a gracious, sovereign work of God. See notes on Rom. 3:21–28; 8:28–30; Gal. 3:6–9; 26–29.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:28 we have left everything. Peter noted that the Twelve had done what the Lord had asked the rich young ruler to do (cf. v. 21) and had come to him on his terms. Would that self-abandoning faith, Peter asked, qualify them for a place in the kingdom?

MARK—NOTE ON 10:29 Truly, I say to you. See note on 3:28.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:30 in this time . . . the age to come. Following Jesus brings rewards in this present age and when Messiah's glorious kingdom comes. with persecutions. Great trials often accompany great blessings (see notes on Rom. 8:17; Phil. 1:29; 2 Tim. 3:12). eternal life. See note on Mark 10:17.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:31 Believers will share equally in the blessings of heaven—a truth illustrated by the parable of Matt. 19:30–20:16 (see notes there).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:32 going up to Jerusalem. From Perea (see note on v. 1), via Jericho (v. 46). This is the first mention of Jerusalem as Jesus' destination. Because of the elevation of Jerusalem (about 2,550 feet above sea level), travelers always spoke of going up to the city, regardless of where in Israel they started. amazed. At Jesus' resolute determination to go to Jerusalem (cf. Luke 9:51) despite the cruel death that awaited him there (cf. Mark 10:32–34). those who followed. The Greek syntax makes it clear that this was a group distinct from the Twelve, probably pilgrims en route to Jerusalem for Passover. They were afraid because they realized something significant was about to happen that they did not understand. the twelve. See note on 3:14.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:32–34 The third and last prediction of his death and resurrection that Jesus made to the Twelve is given (cf. 8:31; 9:31). This is also the most detailed of the three predictions, specifically mentioning that he would be mocked (15:17–20; Luke 23:11, 35–39), scourged (Mark 15:15), and spat upon (14:65; 15:19).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:35–45 This incident reveals yet again the disciples' failure to grasp Jesus' teaching on humility (see notes on 9:34; Matt. 20:21). Ignoring the Lord's repeated instruction that he was going to Jerusalem to die (see note on Mark 10:32–34), the disciples still thought the physical manifestation of the kingdom was about to appear and were busy maneuvering for the places of prominence in it (cf. Matt. 18:1).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:35 James and John, the sons of Zebedee. See note on 1:19. Matthew reveals that their mother accompanied them and spoke first (Matt. 20:20–21), after which James and John reiterated her request. If she was Jesus' aunt, the three undoubtedly hoped to capitalize on the family ties.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:37 sit . . . at your right . . . your left. In the places of highest prominence and honor beside the throne. in your glory. In the glorious majesty of his kingdom (cf. Matt. 20:21).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:38 the cup . . . the baptism. Endure suffering and death as Jesus would (cf. vv. 32–34; see note on Matt. 20:22).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:39 James and John would suffer like their Master (cf. Acts 12:2; Rev. 1:9), but that in itself would not earn them the honors they desired.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:40 not mine to grant. Honors in the kingdom are bestowed not on the basis of selfish ambition, but of divine sovereign will.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:41 the ten . . . began to be indignant. Not righteous indignation, since they, too, had been guilty in the past of such self-serving conduct (9:33–34) and would be so in the future (Luke 22:24). The rest of the disciples resented James and John for their attempt to gain an advantage over the others in pursuing the honor they all wanted.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:42 lord it over them . . . exercise authority. These parallel phrases convey the sense of autocratic, domineering authority.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:43 not be so among you. There is no place in the church for domineering leaders (cf. 9:35; Matt. 23:8–12; 1 Pet. 5:3–6; 3 John 9–10).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:45 Son of Man. See note on 2:10. came not to be served.

Jesus was the supreme example of servant leadership (cf. John 13:13–15). The King of kings and Lord of lords (Rev. 19:16) relinquished his privileges (Phil. 2:5–8) and gave his life as a selfless sacrifice in serving others. ransom for many. See note on Matt. 20:28. “Ransom” refers to the price paid to free a slave or a prisoner; “for” means “in place of.” Christ’s substitutionary death on behalf of those who would put their faith in him is the most glorious, blessed truth in all of Scripture (cf. Rom. 8:1–3; 1 Cor. 6:20; Gal. 3:13; 4:5; Eph. 1:7; Titus 2:14; 1 Pet. 1:18–19). The ransom was not paid to Satan, as some erroneous theories of the atonement teach. Satan is presented in Scripture as a foe to be defeated, not a ruler to be placated. The ransom price was paid to God to satisfy his justice and holy wrath against sin. In paying it, Christ “bore our sins in his body on the tree” (1 Pet. 2:24). See notes on 2 Cor. 5:21.

MARK—NOTE ON 10:46–52 The second of two healings of blind men recorded in Mark (cf. 8:22–26).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:46 Jericho. A city located about 15 miles northeast of Jerusalem and 5 miles from the Jordan River. The route from Perea to Jerusalem passed through it. This is the only recorded visit of Jesus to Jericho. as he was leaving. Mark and Matthew state that the healing took place as Jesus was leaving Jericho, Luke as he was entering the city. Mark and Matthew may be referring to the ancient walled city, just north of the NT city, while Luke refers to NT Jericho. Or Luke’s words may simply mean Jesus was in the vicinity of Jericho when the healing took place. See note on Matt. 20:30. blind beggar. Matthew notes that there were two blind beggars, whereas Mark and Luke focus on the more vocal of them (cf. Matt. 8:28 with Mark 5:2; Luke 8:27). Since they were unable to work, blind people commonly made their living by begging (cf. John 9:8). These men had staked out a good site on the main road to Jerusalem. son of Timaeus. The translation of “Bartimaeus”; the Aramaic prefix “bar” means “son of.”

MARK—NOTE ON 10:47 of Nazareth. See note on 1:9. Son of David. A common messianic title, used as such only in the synoptic Gospels (see note on Matt. 1:1).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:49 Jesus . . . said, “Call him.” Thus implicitly rebuking those trying to silence him (v. 48).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:51 Rabbi. Lit., “Rabboni,” an intensified form of “rabbi”

(see note on 9:5).

MARK—NOTE ON 10:52 your faith has made you well. Lit., “saved you.” Bartimaeus’ physical and spiritual eyes were likely opened at the same time. The outward healing reflected the inner wellness of salvation.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:1–11 This passage, traditionally called Jesus’ triumphal entry (more accurately, it was Jesus’ coronation as the true King), was his last major public appearance before his crucifixion. The importance of this event is indicated by the fact that this is only the second time all four Gospels include the same event (cf. Matt. 21:1–11; Luke 19:29–44; John 12:12–19).

MARK—NOTE ON 11:1 drew near to Jerusalem. A general transition statement marking the end of the narrative in ch. 10. It also indicates the beginning of the final phase of Christ’s three-year ministry. Bethphage. A small town just east of Jerusalem whose name lit., means “house of unripe figs” (see note on Matt. 21:1). Bethany. The hometown of Mary, Martha, and Lazarus (John 11:1) on the eastern slope of the Mount of Olives, 2 miles east of Jerusalem. Mount of Olives. This mountain stood between Bethany and Jerusalem (see note on Matt. 24:3).

MARK—NOTE ON 11:2 the village in front of you. Most likely Bethphage. “In front of you” implies that it was somewhat off the main road. colt. According to usage of this word in Greek papyri (ordinary written documents dating from NT times that were made of papyrus reed), this was most likely a young donkey—a definition also in harmony with other Scripture usage (see note on Matt. 21:5; cf. Gen. 49:11; Judg. 10:4; 12:14; Zech. 9:9). no one has ever sat. The Jews regarded animals that had never been ridden as especially suited for holy purposes (cf. Num. 19:2; Deut. 21:3; 1 Sam. 6:7).

MARK—NOTE ON 11:3 If anyone says to you. Because of its very nature, Jesus anticipated the disciples’ action would be challenged (v. 5). Lord. Even though he does not use “Lord” with this meaning in the rest of his Gospel, Mark was referring to Jesus. In Luke and John this appears often as a name for Jesus. People in the area knew Christ and the disciples well, and the owner would have understood the reference.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:8 spread their cloaks. Such action was part of the ancient practice of welcoming a new king (see note on Matt. 21:8). branches. Palm branches, which symbolized joy and salvation and pictured future royal tribute to Christ (Rev. 7:9). The crowd was greatly excited and filled with praise for the Messiah who taught with such authority, healed the sick, and raised the dead (Lazarus; cf. John 12:12–18).

MARK—NOTE ON 11:9 Hosanna! Originally a Hebrew prayer meaning “save now.” On that occasion it probably served simply as an acclamation of welcome. Blessed is he who comes. See note on Matt. 21:9. This phrase is part (Ps. 118:26) of the Hallel (the Hebrew word for “praise”), comprised of Ps. 113–118, which was sung at all the Jewish religious festivals, most notably at the Passover. “He who comes” was not an OT messianic title, but definitely had come to carry such implications for the Jews (cf. Matt. 11:3; Luke 7:19; John 3:31; 6:14; 11:27; Heb. 10:37).

MARK—NOTE ON 11:10 the coming kingdom of our father David. This tribute, recorded only by Mark, acknowledges Jesus as bringing in the messianic kingdom promised to David’s Son. The crowd paraphrased the quote from Ps. 118:26 (Mark 11:9) in anticipation that Jesus was fulfilling prophecy by bringing in the kingdom.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:11 temple. Not a reference limited to the inner, sacred sanctuary, but the entire area of courts and buildings. looked around at everything. A description distinctive to Mark, quite possibly based on one of Peter’s eyewitness memories. Christ acted as one who had the authority to inspect temple conditions, and his observation missed nothing. he went out to Bethany. Nearby “Bethany” was a relatively safe place to avoid sudden, premature arrest by the Jewish leaders.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:12 the following day. Matthew 21:18 says this was “in the morning,” probably before 6:00 A.M. Bethany. See note on Mark 11:1.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:13 fig tree in leaf. Fig trees were common as a source of food. Three years were required from planting until fruit bearing. After that, a tree could be harvested twice a year, usually yielding much fruit. The figs normally grew with the leaves. This tree had leaves but, strangely, no fruit. That this tree was along the side of the road (cf. Matt. 21:19) implies it was public property. It was also apparently in good soil because its foliage was ahead of season and ahead of the surrounding fig trees. The abundance of leaves held out promise that the tree might also be ahead of schedule with its fruit. not the season for figs. The next normal fig season was in June, more than a month away. This phrase, unique to Mark, emphasizes the unusual nature of this fig tree.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:14 May no one ever eat fruit from you again. Jesus' direct address to the tree personified it and condemned it for not providing what its appearance promised. This incident was not the acting out of the parable of the fig tree (Luke 13:6–9), which was a warning against spiritual fruitlessness. Here, Jesus cursed the tree for its misleading appearance that suggested great productivity without providing it. It should have been full of fruit, but was barren. The fig tree was frequently an OT type of the Jewish nation (Hos. 9:10; Nah. 3:12; Zech. 3:10), and in this instance Jesus used the tree by the road as a divine object lesson concerning Israel's spiritual hypocrisy and fruitlessness (see note on Matt. 21:19; cf. Isa. 5:1–7).

MARK—NOTE ON 11:15–19 See note on Matt. 21:12. Although Jesus had cleansed the temple three years earlier (John 2:14–16), it had become more corrupt and profane than ever and thus he was compelled to again offer clear testimony to God's holiness and to his judgment against spiritual desecration and false religion. Even as God sent his prophets repeatedly throughout the OT to warn his people of their sin and idolatry, Christ never stopped declaring God's will to a rebellious people, no matter how often they rejected it. With this temple cleansing, Jesus showed vividly that he was on a divine mission as the Son of God.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:15 temple. See note on v. 11. The large Court of the Gentiles was the setting for the events that followed. sold and those who bought. Animals were needed by the Jews for their sacrificial temple offerings, and it was more convenient for the worshipers to buy them there rather than bring the animals from a distance and risk that they would not pass the high priest's inspection. The sellers either belonged to the high-priestly hierarchy or paid a large fee to temple authorities for the privilege of selling. Whichever was the case, the high priest's family benefited monetarily. money-changers. They were in the court to exchange Greek and Roman coins for Jewish or Tyrian coins, which pilgrims (every Jewish male 20 and older) had to use for the annual half-shekel payment for temple religious services (see note on Matt. 21:12). A fee as high as 10 or 12 percent was assessed for this exchange service. those who sold pigeons. These birds were so often used for sacrifice that Mark makes separate mention of their sellers. Doves were the normal offering of the poor (Lev. 5:7) and were also required for other purposes (Lev. 12:6; 14:22; 15:14, 29).

MARK—NOTE ON 11:16 not allow anyone to carry anything. Jesus did not want people to continue the practice of using the court as a shortcut through which to carry utensils and containers with merchandise to other parts of Jerusalem because such a practice revealed great irreverence for the temple—and ultimately for God himself.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:17 Jesus defended himself by appealing to Scripture (see note on Matt. 21:13) after his actions had caused a crowd to gather. a house of prayer for all the nations. The true purpose for God’s temple. Only Mark includes “for all the nations” from Isaiah’s text (Isa. 56:7), probably because he was mainly addressing Gentiles. The Court of the Gentiles was the only part of the temple they were permitted to use for prayer and worship of God, and the Jews had frustrated that worship by turning it into a place of greedy business. a den of robbers. Using Jeremiah’s phrase (Jer. 7:11), Jesus described the religious leaders as robbers who found refuge in the temple, comparable to how highwaymen took refuge in caves with other robbers. The temple had become a place where God’s people, instead of being able to worship undisturbed, were extorted and their extortioners were protected.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:18 chief priests and the scribes. Here Mark uses this combination for the first time. These men were among those who comprised the principal leadership in the Sanhedrin (see notes on Matt. 2:4; 26:59). seeking a way to destroy him. See note on Mark 3:6. The leaders had continuing discussions on how to kill Jesus. astonished at his teaching. See note on 1:22.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:19 went out of the city. Jesus’ practice during the first three days of Passion Week was not to leave Jerusalem until sunset, when the crowds dispersed and the city gates were about to be closed.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:20 in the morning. See note on v. 12. withered away to its roots. The tree blight that prevented fruit (v. 14) had spread upward through the tree and killed it. Matthew described the event in a more compact fashion, but his account still allows the same time frame as Mark’s (see note on Matt. 21:19).

MARK—NOTE ON 11:21 Rabbi. See note on 9:5.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:22 Have faith in God. A gentle rebuke for the disciples’ lack of faith in the power of his word. Such faith believes in God’s revealed truth, his power, and seeks to do his will (cf. 1 John 5:14; see note on Matt. 21:21).

MARK—NOTE ON 11:23 this mountain . . . into the sea. This expression was related to a common metaphor of that day, “rooter up of mountains,” which was used in Jewish literature of great rabbis and spiritual leaders who could solve difficult problems and seemingly do the impossible. Obviously, Jesus did not literally uproot mountains; in fact, he refused to do such spectacular miracles for the unbelieving Jewish leaders (see note on Matt. 12:38). Jesus’ point is that if believers sincerely trust in God and truly realize the unlimited power that is available through such faith in him, they will see his mighty powers at work (cf. John 14:13–14; see note on Matt. 21:21).

MARK—NOTE ON 11:24 whatever you ask in prayer. This places no limits on a believer’s prayers, as long as they are according to God’s will and purpose (see note on Matt. 17:20). This therefore means that man’s faith and prayer are not inconsistent with God’s sovereignty. And it is not the believer’s responsibility to figure out how that can be true, but simply to be faithful and obedient to the clear teaching on prayer, as Jesus gives it in this passage. God’s will is being unfolded through all of redemptive history, by means of the prayers of his people—as his saving purpose is coming to pass through the faith of those who hear the gospel and repent. Cf. James 5:16.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:25 stand praying. The traditional Jewish prayer posture (cf. 1 Sam. 1:26; 1 Kings 8:14, 22; Neh. 9:4; Matt. 6:5; Luke 18:11, 13). Kneeling or lying with one’s face on the ground was used during extraordinary circumstances or for extremely urgent requests (cf. 1 Kings 8:54; Ezra 9:5; Dan. 6:10; Matt. 26:39; Acts 7:60). anything against anyone. An all-inclusive statement that includes both sins and simple dislikes, which cause the believer to hold something against another person. “Anyone” incorporates believers and unbelievers. forgive. Jesus states the believer’s ongoing duty to have a forgiving attitude. Successful prayer requires forgiveness as well as faith. See notes on Eph. 4:32.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:26 See notes on Matt. 6:15 and 18:21–34. This is the only occurrence in Mark of “trespasses,” a term that denotes a falling aside or departing from the path of truth and uprightness.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:27 temple. Again this was the Court of the Gentiles; this time more specifically Solomon's porch or the royal porch on the south side of the court (cf. v. 11; John 10:23; Acts 5:12). chief priests. See note on Matt. 2:4. The group that met Jesus might well have included Caiaphas and Annas, who served concurrently for several years (Luke 3:2). Because of the importance of this confrontation, the captain of the temple—the second highest official—may also have been present.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:28 By what authority. The leaders wanted to know what credentials Jesus—an untrained, unrecognized, seemingly self-appointed rabbi—claimed that would authorize him to do what he was doing. They had recovered from the initial shock of the previous day's events, and had become aggressive in demanding an explanation (see note on Matt. 21:23; cf. John 2:18). these things. Primarily a reference to his actions in cleansing the temple. But the undefined, vague nature of this expression leaves open the inclusion of everything Jesus had been doing and teaching during his public ministry.

MARK—NOTE ON 11:30 baptism of John. See notes on 1:4; Matt. 21:25. Jesus put them on the defensive and made their evaluation of John's authority a test case for their evaluation of his own authority. from heaven or from man? Jesus gave the Jewish leaders only those two alternatives in judging the source of John's authority, and by implication, his own authority. Christ was in effect forcing the men to carry out their roles as religious guides for the people and to go on record with an evaluation of both John's and his ministries (see note on Matt. 21:25). Answer me. This challenge by Jesus is only in Mark's account. It implies that the Jews did not have the courage to answer his question honestly.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:1–12 Jesus taught this parable to confront the chief priests and elders and reveal their hypocritical character.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:1 them. The chief priests, scribes, and elders (cf. 11:27). parables. See notes on 4:2, 11. vineyard. A common sight in that region. The hillsides of Palestine were covered with grape vineyards, the backbone of the economy. Here it is a symbol for Israel (cf. Ps. 80:8–16; Isa. 5:1–7; Jer. 2:21). Jesus uses Isa. 5:1–2 as the basis for this imagery (see note on Matt. 21:33). a fence. It may have been a stone wall or a hedge of briars built for protection. pit. Located under the winepress. The grapes were squeezed in the press and the juice ran through a trough into this lower basin, where it could be collected into wineskins or jars. tower. This structure had a threefold purpose: 1) it served as a lookout post; 2) it provided shelter for the workers; and 3) it was used for storage of seed and tools. leased it to tenants. Jesus added to the picture from Isa. 5:1–2. The owner makes an agreement with men he believes are reliable caretakers, who are to pay a certain percentage of the proceeds to him as rent. The rest of the profit belonged to them for their work in cultivating the crop. The “tenants” represent the Jewish leaders.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:2 season. This usually occurred for the first time in the fifth year after the initial planting (cf. Lev. 19:23–25). servant. All the servants, or slaves, in the parable represent the OT prophets.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:6 a beloved son. The son represents Jesus Christ (see note on Matt. 21:37).

MARK—NOTE ON 12:7 the inheritance will be ours. The tenants were greedy; because they wanted the entire harvest and the vineyard for themselves and would stop at nothing to achieve that end, they plotted to kill the owner’s son. Because Jesus had achieved such a following, the Jewish leaders believed the only way to maintain their position and power over the people was to kill him (cf. John 11:48).

MARK—NOTE ON 12:9 destroy the tenants. The owner of the vineyard will execute the tenants, thus serving as a prophecy of the destruction of Jerusalem (A.D. 70) and the nation of Israel. According to Matthew, this verdict was echoed by the chief priests, scribes, and elders (see note on Matt. 21:41). give the vineyard to others. This was fulfilled in the establishment of Christ’s church and its leaders, who were mostly Gentiles.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:10–11 This messianic prophecy is a quotation of Ps. 118:22–23 from the LXX. Jesus continued his teaching in the form of a parable, but here his kingdom is seen as a building instead of a vineyard. The point is that the rejected son and the rejected stone represent Christ.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:10 The stone that the builders rejected. Builders typically rejected stones until they found one perfectly straight in lines that could serve as the cornerstone, which was critical to the symmetry and stability of the building. In Jesus’ metaphor, he himself is the stone the builders (the Jewish religious leaders) rejected (crucified). But the resurrected Christ is the cornerstone (cf. Acts 4:10–12; 1 Pet. 2:6–7; see note on Matt. 21:42).

MARK—NOTE ON 12:12 against them. The chief priests, scribes, and elders were completely aware that Christ was condemning their actions, but it only aroused their hatred, not their repentance.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:13–17 The second of a series of questions that the Jewish religious leaders hoped would trap Jesus into declaring himself an insurrectionist (cf. 11:28). This one concerns the controversial issue of paying taxes to Rome.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:13 Pharisees and some of the Herodians. Matthew indicates that disciples of the Pharisees accompanied the Herodians. The Pharisees may have hoped that Jesus would not recognize them and be caught off-guard by their seemingly sincere question. The Herodians were a political party of Jews who backed Herod Antipas, who in turn was only a puppet of Rome (see note on Matt. 22:16).

MARK—NOTE ON 12:14 not swayed. This speaks of impartiality, or showing no favoritism. While this was flattery on the part of the Pharisees and Herodians, it was nonetheless true that Jesus would not be swayed by a person’s power, prestige, or position. taxes to Caesar. The Greek word for “tax” was borrowed from the Latin word that gives us the English “census.” The Romans counted all the citizens and made each one pay an annual poll tax of one denarius (see note on Matt. 22:17).

MARK—NOTE ON 12:15 hypocrisy. The Pharisees and Herodians, using feigned interest in his teaching, attempted to hide their true intention to trap Jesus. But he perceived their true motives (cf. John 2:25). Why put me to the test? Jesus’ response exposed the true motive of the Pharisees and Herodians and revealed their hypocrisy. denarius. This small silver coin, minted by the Roman emperor, was the equivalent of a day’s wage for a common laborer or soldier (see note on Matt. 22:19).

MARK—NOTE ON 12:16 likeness. On one side of the denarius was likely the image of the current emperor, Tiberius, though at that time it could have also been Augustus, since both coins were in circulation. Tiberius is most likely because the response was “Caesar’s,” indicating the current ruler rather than the past one. inscription. If the coin was minted by Tiberius, it would have read, “Tiberius Caesar Augustus, the son of the Divine Augustus” on one side and “Chief Priest” on the other. See note on Matt. 22:19.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:17 Render to Caesar. The Greek word for “render” means,

“to pay or give back,” which implies a debt. All who lived within the realm of Caesar were obligated to return to him the tax that was owed him. It was not optional. Thus Jesus declared that all citizens are under divine obligation to pay taxes to whatever government is over them (cf. Rom. 13:1–7; 1 Pet. 2:13–17; see note on Matt. 22:21).

MARK—NOTE ON 12:18 Sadducees. The most wealthy, influential, and aristocratic of all the Jewish sects. All the high priests, chief priests, and the majority of the Sanhedrin (see note on Matt. 26:59) were Sadducees. They ignored the oral law, traditions, and scribal laws of the Pharisees, viewing only the Pentateuch as authoritative (see note on Matt. 3:7). who say that there is no resurrection. The most distinctive aspect of the Sadducees’ theology, which they adopted because of their allegiance to the Pentateuch and their belief that Moses did not teach a literal resurrection from the dead. With such a disregard for the future, the Sadducees lived for the moment and whatever profit they could make. Since they controlled the temple businesses, they were extremely upset when Jesus cleansed the temple of the money-changers because he cut into their profits (Mark 11:15–18)—the reason they also wanted to discredit Jesus in front of the people.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:19 The Sadducees were summarizing Deut. 25:5–6, which refers to the custom of a levirate marriage (marriage to a dead husband’s brother). God placed it in the law of Moses to preserve tribal names, families, and inheritances (see note on Matt. 22:24). Moses wrote. The Sadducees appealed to Moses because they were fully aware of Jesus’ high regard for Scripture, and therefore believed he would not contest the validity of the levirate marriage.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:24 the power of God. Their ignorance of the Scriptures extended to their lack of understanding regarding the miracles God performed throughout the OT. Such knowledge would have enabled them to believe in God’s power to raise the dead.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:25 neither marry. Marriage was designed by God for companionship and the perpetuation of the human race on the earth. Jesus was emphasizing the fact that in heaven there will be no exclusive or sexual relationships. Believers will experience an entirely new existence in which they will have perfect spiritual relationships with everyone else. like angels. Believers will be like angels in that they will be spiritual, eternal beings who will not die (cf. 1 Cor. 15:39–44, 48, 49; see note on Matt. 22:30).

MARK—NOTE ON 12:26 book of Moses. The Pentateuch—the first five books of the OT. Jesus appealed to the only Scriptures the Sadducees held as completely authoritative. passage about the bush. A reference to Ex. 3:1–4:17 where God first appeared to Moses at the bush. how God spoke to him, saying, ‘I am.’ By keying on the emphatic present tense of Ex. 3:6, “I am . . . the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob,” Jesus was underscoring the personal and perpetual covenantal relationship God established with the three patriarchs. Even though all three were dead when God spoke to Moses, God was still their God just as much as when they were alive on earth—and more so in that they were experiencing eternal fellowship with him in heaven (see note on Matt. 22:32).

MARK—NOTE ON 12:27 You are quite wrong. Jesus accused the Sadducees of making a complete error in teaching that there is no resurrection.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:28 scribes. See note on 1:22. Which commandment is the most . . . ? The rabbis had determined that there were 613 commandments contained in the Pentateuch, one for each letter of the Ten Commandments. Of the 613 commandments, 248 were seen as affirmative and 365 as negative. Those laws were also divided into heavy and light categories, with the heavy laws being more binding than the light ones. The scribes and rabbis, however, had been unable to agree on which were heavy and which were light. This orientation to the law led the Pharisees to think Jesus had devised his own theory. So the Pharisees asked this particular question to get Jesus to incriminate himself by revealing his unorthodox and unilateral beliefs.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:29 Hear, O Israel. By quoting the first part of the Shema (Deut. 6:4–5), which is Hebrew for “hear,” Jesus confirmed the practice of every pious Jew who recited the entire Shema (Num. 15:37–41; Deut. 6:4–9; 11:13–21) every morning and evening.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:30 love the Lord. Taken from Deut. 10:12; 30:6, Jesus used God’s own word from the Pentateuch to answer the question, indicating the orthodox nature of his theology. See note on Matt. 22:37.

MARK—NOTE ON 12:31 The second. Jesus took the Pharisees’ question one step further by identifying the second greatest commandment because it was critical
